FOR DYSPEPSIA. Ayer's Sarsaparilla Is an effective remedy, as numerous testimonials conclusively prove. "For two years I was a constant sufferer from dyspepsia and liver complaint. I doctored a long time and the medicines prescribed, in nearly every case, only aggravated the disease. An apothecary advised me to use Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I did so, and was cured at a cost of $5. Since that time it has been my family medicine, and sickness has been my family medicine, and sickness has been a stranger to our household. I believe it to be the best medicine on earth."—P. F. MoNuity, Hackman, 29 Summer st., Lowell, Mass.

FOR DEBILITY, Ayer's Sarsaparilla Is a certain cure, when the complaint originates in impoverished blood. "I was a great sufferer from a low condition of the blood and general debility, becoming finally, so reduced that I was unit for work. Nothing that I did for the complaint helped me so much as Ayer's Sarsaparilla, a few bottles of which restored me to health and strength. I take every opportunity to recommend this medicine in similar cases."—C. Evick, 14 E. Mainst., Chillicothe, Ohio.

Courtenay had no earthly intention of hetting when he started, and was, indeed, as he considered, saved from the suggestion of temptation by having no money to speculate with. But the air of Newmarket is heavy with the instinct of bookmaking. The train was of course full of people, whose one thought was the horses, the jockeys and the odds. Outside the station Liloyd met a casual acquaintance, whom he was glad to join for mere companionship sake, in the bustling and not over-polite crowd. Mr. Auderson had the day's racing at his finger ends, and soon Liloyd likewise was armed with a card or "c'rect card of the day's racing," to give its full local dignity of nomenclature. Unfortunately, tôo, Mr. Anderson knew exactly what was going to win the principal race of the day; always a dangerous piece of information to possess, as more often than not special information before a race is apt to be very expensive afterwards. He also had his ideas about the first fixture, in which only five horses had accepted, and four the first fixture, in which only five horses had accepted, and four received before the agent's return, as he received before the agent's his ideas about the first fixture, in which only five horses had accepted, and four received before the agent's return, as the evidently appeared on the board. left by the night train after the bailff "Diamond" Prepared Paint, Courtenay took no part; but he stood by had arrived. when his friend handed in his ten-pound note, and he also saw him receive back bed, and then, as soon as he could, went
