The Beauty of the Flower.

The cultivation and growth of flowers and plants which is fostered and encouraged by the government and the horticultural societies, and adds so much to the appearance and beauty of the town, seems to be very lightly esteemed or appreciated by some element in the community. Last year we made reference to the depredations made upon the flower plots and the wholesale pillage of the beds, in many instances the entire blooms being stolen. We regret to learn that this season the same complaints come to us, the early tulips, pansies and daffodils being swiped before the blossoms are fully developed. It is regrettable that we have in this community those whose sense of right and wrong is so dense that they cannot distinguish even what constitutes crime, and whose appreciation of the beautiful in nature is so small that they can but wantonly destroy. Those who spend time and money to develop a taste for the esthetic do not desire to have recourse to law to protect their property, but if this custom is not stopped a salutary lesson will have to be made to show that the rights of others cannot willfully be trampled upon.

Death at Smiths Falls.

George Gilroy, a native of Smiths Falls and member of one of the oldest and best known families died last Wednesday, aged 62 years. Forty years ago he entered the employ of the Frost & Wood Company as machinist, becoming an expert and foreman in the big works. Some seven or eight years ago he went to Europe in the interests of the firm, visiting Britain, Germany, Russia and the Balkan countries that are now at war. He was a man highly respected, a member of L. O. L. No. 88 and the I. O. O. F., and for twenty-five years was chief engineer of the Rideau Fire Company. His wife and two daughters at home, Stella and Helen, and one son, Dr. L. E. Gilroy, of Vancouver, survive.

Wins Commission on the Field.

Lance Corp. Colin Sinclair, son of Rev. R. C. H. Sinclair, has been given a commission on the field in acknowledgment of distinguished conduct, and is at present in England qualifying for his lieutenantancy. From what we can gather from letters written by his comrades Colin was one of a dozen who went out by night to obtain information of a certain German stronghold. But the officers in charge of the squad were wounded and to Corp. Sinclair fell the duty of getting them and the men back to their own trenches. This he did most successfully, the object of the adventure also being attained. For his clever work the young corporal received a holiday in England. In the battle of Vimy Ridge Colin again distinguished himself, and for his last service received the commission. We congratulate Lieut. Sinclair upon his success.

Memorial Service

Sunday evening last a memorial service was held in St. Andrew's Church in honor of Pte. Harold W. McDiarmid, and Pte. Robt. E. Boreland, two members of the congregation who have fallen on the field of battle. There was a large congregation present, the School Cadets in uniform giving the gathering a military tinge, whilst the pulpit and altar rail were very nicely decorated with flags, crossed guns representing the arms of the fallen heroes. The pastor, Rev. J. J. Monds, preached an appropriate sermon, his theme being "Immortality." The music and hymns were especially selected for the occasion. The choir sang the anthem, "Crossing the Bar." A quintette, Mrs. P. W. Miller, Miss A. Dunfield, Miss F. Brown, Messrs. Beresford and Hale, sang, "Gently, Lord, O Lead Us," and Miss Berryman rendered as a solo, "He Wipes the Tear from every Eye." The seats formerly occupied by the deceased were decorated with wreaths of evergreen. The service was a most impressive one.

Young People's Reunion.

A reunion of the Young People's Societies in the Debating Union, took place last Friday evening in Zion Sunday School room. The president for the coming year, Rev. W. A. Dobson, was called to the platform by the retiring president, Rev. Mr. Newton, and asked to say a few words to the young people. The greater part of the evening was spent in guessing contests prepared by the Methodist, Baptist and Zion young people. Interspersed with these were solos by Miss Helene Allen, Rev. Mr. Newton and Miss Queen Allen, and a reading, Drummond's "De Stove-pipe Hole," by Mr. Newton. At the close of the programme a social hour was spent, and the enjoyable meeting brought to a close by singing the national anthem, and the pronouncement of a benediction.

HOME CIRCLE COLUMN

Pleasant Evening Reveries dedicated to tired Mothers as they Join the Home Circle at Evening Tide.

HER SECRET.

We occasionally meet a woman whose age is as beautiful as the bloom of youth. We wonder how it has come about—what her secret is.

Here are a few of the reasons: She knows how to forget disagreeable things.

She kept her nerves well in hand and inflicted them on no one.

She mastered the art of saying pleasant things.

She did not expect too much from her friends.

She made whatever work came to her congenial.

She retained her illusions and did not believe all the world wicked and unkind.

She relieved the miserable and sympathized with the sorrowful.

She never forgot that kind words and a smile cost nothing, but are priceless treasures to the discouraged.

She did unto others as she could be done by.

She never missed an opportunity to tell her friends and neighbors to subscribe for this paper and impress them that the Home Circle Department alone is worthy many times the subscription price.

Health is the source of beauty, and every rule for beauty is simply a rule for health. A girl cannot have a firm, elastic body, a clear skin, a fine color and bright eyes unless she exercises, sleeps and eats profusely and sufficiently.

All these outward charms appeal to the eye, but how much deeper and more lasting is the impression when there is beauty of character as well. It is not strange how persons who seem plain and unattractive to the casual eye, seen often, become absolutely beautiful to us in their revelation of character.

And how some whom we consider beautiful at first, when better known, seem only ugly and unattractive, because of some defect of character. Character will out. We may try to hide our defects, but it is useless. We may deceive for a time, but ere long we are known and valued for what we really are in spite of all our efforts and pretense.

We always class children, birds and flowers together. And why? Because they should be equally beautiful, innocent and happy. We should never rob childhood of its ideal loveliness. Even old people should be gay, and happy and good; too good to anger eyes and lowering brows, nor turn their resentment to discord by continual fault-finding. Allow them all the freedom consistent with absolute safety. Let them play and be happy, but teach them self-control.

He that is slow to anger is better than the mighty, and he that ruleth his own spirit, is greater than he that taketh a city.

The world grows old, and the stars will cease to illuminate it, and the water

A Sign of Hope.

One of the most hopeful signs of the times occurred in London Monday when a meeting was held for the purpose of promoting the idea of a League of Peace after the war. Viscount Bryce presided and the Archbishop of Canterbury, Lord Hugh Cecil and Gen. Smuts were among those in attendance. Gen. Smuts declared that everything humanly possible should be done to prevent a repetition of the present war and based his hope on a world-wide change of heart. Lord

Appause greeted the declaration of Viscount Bryce against a policy of reprisals and thunderous applause supported the statement of Lord Bruckmaster favoring the inclusion of Germany in a League of Peace. To exclude her, he said, would be to create a league against Germany, a perpetuation of the present conflict and bring the darkness of a night of barbarism instead of the dawn of a better civilization.

The Corp's Fate in Doubt.

It is reported that the Russian Provisional Government's plan for deportation of the deposed Czar and Czarina has been defeated, at least temporarily, by the Council of Workmen and Soldiers' Delegates. The Government had decided, it was said, to banish the former ruler and his consort, together with their son, to England, which country had volunteered an asylum for them.

The reason for the Council's opposition to the banishment of the Royal family has been attributed to its desire to deprive them of a portion of their immense fortunes. Their combined wealth is estimated to total $9,000,000,000, which formerly yielded them a prodigious income.

He Didn't Argue.

"Yes, sir, I fell over the side of the ship, and a shark came along and grabbed me by the leg."

"Good gracious! And what did you do?"

"Let 'im 'ave the leg, o' course. I never argues with sharks."

The will of the late Sir William Van Horne was filed for probate at Montreal. It bequeathed his whole estate, estimated at several millions, to Lady Van Horne, son, daughter and grandson.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

to refresh it, and the mountains to guard it and its long story of sin and shame and glory and triumph will soon turn to ashes; but influences which started in the early home roll on and roll up through all eternity blooming in all the joy, waving in all the triumph, or shrinking back into all the darkness.—Father, mother, which way are you leading your children?

The meanest men in the world are those who have allowed themselves to drift away from their mothers and forget all about them. The best and bravest men in the world are those who have never been so proud as when doing something pleasant for the kind old mother.

Boys are not naturally selfish, and every mother who has not a willing, efficient helper in her boy, is herself to blame, and must not only suffer the consequences of her mistake herself, but the future wife will have them to bear also.

For your own sakes, mothers, and for the future wives of your boys, spare no pains to impress upon them the magnitude of woman's work. After they have been accustomed to helping in all the ways they can about the house, (and there are few things they will not be the better for having learned to do) they will not think housekeeping "just putting around."

We hope all who read this column will endeavor to keep a few flowers in the home. In addition to their beauty and fragrance, they teach neatness and order. The wife and children like to have a clean room, so that the flower, in its purity and grace, may not shame them. And then, too, a poor man likes to feel that he has an ornament in his dwelling similar to that which a rich man chooses as the best embellishment of his drawing-room.

Don't wait till some one is gone from you to tell their virtues. Don't wait until your sister is far away in another land to tell her how helpful, how pretty, or how courteous she is; and don't wait until the weary hands are crossed and the long sleep comes before you make mother know what a beautiful blue are her eyes, how tender her heart, and how dearly you love her. Tell it all now—now, when the walk through life is hard and the sunshine of praise is yearned for to brighten it, and to warm and encourage the pilgrim by the wayside.

Why should you go out to tea and praise your neighbor's muffins, when you have forgotten to tell mother how good hers were? Why should you announce how much Mr. Wilson over the way knows, when you have never entered your little head to whisper quietly to him how much you appreciate his wisdom? You keep your ability to discover faults for the home while the eye that should look for virtues is closed tightly until you go out.

HEALTHY CHILDREN

It is natural for little ones to be kept, and with care every baby can be well. The main thing towards keeping little ones well is to keep their little stomach sweet and their bowels regular. Baby's Own Tablets will do this. Thousands of mothers keep the Tablets in the house as they find them an efficient guard against illness. Concerning them Mrs. Hilaire Desmarais, St. Joseph de Sorel, Que., writes: "I believe Baby's Own Tablets are the best medicine in the world for children. My baby was terribly constipated but the Tablets promptly cured him and now he is a big healthy child." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Enlist at Such a Time?

A mustering officer, in the early days of the war, before England was aroused, says the Chicago News, met on the street of a coast village a strapping fellow about twenty-one years old. The officer hailed him.

"See 'ere, me lad," he said, "are you in good 'ealth?"

"I are," said the youth.

"Are you married?"

"I aren't."

"Are you anyone dependent on you?"

"I 'ave not."

"Then your King and country need you. Why don't you enlist?"

"What?" he said, "With this bloom in 'war goin' on! You must think I am a silly fool!"

THAT TILT.

A Discourse on the Simple Art of Posing Your Hat.

When it comes to placing a hat correctly, or better still, smartly and attractively on the head, the wisest milliner and the best mirror have their limitations as first aid.

The milliners say what the doctors say to their patients who have nervous troubles—that the salvation lies in one's self, not in any outside aid. Practice does not make perfect, nor even skillful in every case. There are women who pick up the art when they are mere infants as though they had brought the knowledge with them from another sphere. There are others, equally intelligent, who do not learn it until they die, and possibly not after that.

The woman who boasts that she drops into her clothes at the ring of a bell and is off to her duties always bears strong evidence of her rapid performance. She may be proud of her facility, but she has no reason for pride in the result.

Well, at least there is this to be said in regard to the fashionable pose: It is the simplest thing that the milliners have demanded in several seasons. That rakish tilt or the succession of tilts that has governed millinery during the last few years was difficult beyond measure to achieve. The genius which we call fopper for want of a real name could do this tilt to perfection, no matter how often it changed, as she could do the latest and most complicated dance step.

When France sent us word that hats would be pliable and without regular form the news was not received with especial delight, for it was thought that the effect would be negligible, too difficult of graceful adjustment over the irregular features of the average American face.

We did not look far enough forward or backward in taking this view, for the hats which France was copying were from the era of picturesque fashions for men. Women's hats were not of any importance then; in truth, there were head coverings that reached from the primitive band that the early fashionables invented to keep the hair out of the eyes, and later the towering head-dress that was built up of everything the wardrobe contained, to judge from the pictures of them that remain.

flower basket being done in original colors. Small buttons, waist fashion, are stitched on as expressive eyes. Please observe that the cuffs match the cap.

Collars of Felt.

A new feature in blouses is felt trimming. Some of the georgette crape models have collars and cuffs of felt attached to the blouse by bits of embroidery in the cross stitch or by French knots. Such blouses are cut low, V neck in front, with the felt collar turning down across the back. Blouses are as often seen with high collars as with low V cut, and there is a way of combining the two in a novel manner. A long, straight piece of chiffon of the same material of which the blouse is made is attached at the neck in the back and is brought around the throat and tied in a bow over the V cut or is crossed in front, with the two embroidered ends hanging over the shoulders in scarf fashion.

Many such novel ideas are to be noted in the blouses and especially the peplum embroidered blouses.

Pleasure In Well Doing.

Pleasure has a way of coming indirectly—where least you look for her and when least you expect her. She lurks in the happiness of work well done. She lingers in the consciousness of honest bookkeeping with life, and she always is to be found in the joy of growth and progress. In all these ways honest pleasure is to be found. This isn't meant to be a dull preachment against anything but work. But it does mean to say that happiness lies in doing and the consciousness of well doing.

Artificial Coloring of Sugar Prohibited by the Government

FOR many years the Canadian Public has been eating Artificially Colored Sugars. Government reports show that some refineries have used Ultramarine Blue to make their granulated sugar look better than it actually is. Others made use of Aniline and Vegetable Dyes to give a brilliant appearance to their soft or yellow sugars.

The use of dyes or coloring matter of any kind is unnecessary in refining Cane Sugar. This is emphasized in a notification sent to all refineries by the Dominion Government prohibiting the coloring of sugar, and in cases where it is found, prosecution proceedings will be entered under the Adulteration of Foods Act.

We Wish the Public to Know that we Have Never Used Coloring Matter in Lantic Pure Cane Sugar and Never Will Lantic Pure Cane Sugar was first put on the market about two years ago. Since that time over 200,000,000 lbs. have been consumed by the Canadian Public, and we are now turning out 750,000 lbs. of Pure Cane Sugar each day.

The reason for this enormous business is not hard to explain. It means that the discriminating consumer has learned by actual use that Lantic Pure Cane Sugar is superior to all others.

Having erected the most modern sugar refinery in the world, costing over $4,000,000, we steadfastly adhered to our original policy of making only absolutely Pure Cane Sugars of highest quality, in which

NO BEETS ARE USED
NO ULTRAMARINE BLUE IS USED
NO ANILINE DYES ARE USED
NO VEGETABLE DYES ARE USED

Look for the Red Ball Trade-mark

To be absolutely certain of getting Lantic Pure Cane Sugar, see that the Red Ball Trade-mark is on every bag or carton. It is our guaranty to you of Canada's Purest Sugar.

Your grocer has Lantic Sugar in stock or will get it for you if you insist.

Growth of the Printing Industry.

Fifty years ago printing and publishing was an infant industry in America. In the total production in the United States, measured in dollars, being but $40,000,000. During the year its volume has increased twenty times, so that now printing and publishing ranks as the third greatest manufacturing industry of the country. It keeps busy one-twentieth of the people engaged in manufacturing, and pays one-thirteenth of the manufacturing wages.

Bee's Double Stomach.

The bee has two distinct stomachs. In the first it stores away the honey it so industriously gathers up from the flowers until such time as it is ready to yield it up, while the other stomach is used simply and solely for digestion purposes. Thus the food and the honey are never mixed. When the bee returns to the hive and is ready to deposit the honey it has gathered it contracts the muscles of the stomach, by which act the honey is ejected through the mouth. As to bee food, it is various in kind, consisting largely of the honey it so patiently makes for others.

No "Poor Land."

"That land of yours was mighty poor when you bought it," a friend of ours remarked to the wide awake owner of a beautiful farm we passed the other day, whereupon the owner delivered himself of a faithful saying and worthy of all acceptance—or mightily nearly so. "You're mistaken," he said. "There's not any poor land when you manage it right." It is a true rule that "there is more in the man than there is in the land."

THE CROP PROSPECT.

Ottawa, May 12.—The first crop report of the present season issued today by the Census and Statistics Office relates to the area and condition of the fall wheat crop, the condition of hay and clover meadows at the end of the winter and the progress of spring seeding, as reported by correspondents at the end of April.

WINTER KILLING AND CONDITION OF FALL WHEAT.

The area estimated to be sown to winter wheat last fall is 813,400 acres, of which 656,500 acres are in Ontario, 105,700 acres in Saskatchewan, 38,000 acres in Alberta, 8,000 acres in Manitoba and 6,200 acres in British Columbia.

HAY AND CLOVER MEADOWS.

Owing to the lateness of the spring this year, it was rather too early on April 30 to judge of the extent to which hay and clover meadows have suffered from the effects of the past winter; but the indications are that something like 9 per cent of the area under these crops has been winter killed.

PROGRESS OF SPRING SEEDING.

For the three Atlantic provinces it was soon to report as to spring seeding. In the other six provinces the spring is reported as being very late, even later than last year, and only about 14 per cent of the total seeding was accomplished on April 30.

AN AMERICAN WOMAN'S PRACTICAL HELP

Many American boys have come over and signed up with the Canadian forces, but so far as the records go Mrs. W. A. A. Kip, Jr., of South Orange, N. J., appears to be the first citizeness of the United States to enlist.

"The spirit of real sacrifice is manifest in this offer," declared S. A. Armstrong, Director of the Military Hospitals Commission, "and the gratitude of the people of Canada cannot be expressed too ardently to Mr. and Mrs. Kip. The Military Hospitals Commission thanks the donors of this beautiful summer home and I am glad to say that our survey of the premises discloses that it is entirely suitable for our needs."

Selected patients from military hospitals in 'C' unit will be sent to Leek Island on the recommendation of the medical officers, who will determine the classification to be given to the place.

Leek Island has been the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Kip for fourteen years. It is about two miles from Gananoque, but as Kingston is the chief hospital centre for this territorial unit of the M. H. C. C. it is likely that the returned soldiers will be conveyed directly from the Limestone City in one of Mrs. Kip's palatial motor launches.

The island is, of course, on the Canadian side of the River St. Lawrence, and has an area of about 100 acres. It is partly wooded, but has about 30 acres under cultivation. The point on which the dwellings are situated is partially cleared, and delightful lawns surround the central residence. There is also a special croquet lawn.

The buildings are of rustic simplicity in design, but lack nothing in comfort and durability. Mrs. Kip has four children and each of these has a special cottage fully equipped with kitchen and bathroom. They are of similar design. The boat house is a two-decked affair and the upper storey has always been bachelors' hall at the island. It is equipped and furnished and capable of accommodating about 20 patients comfortably.

The main building will probably be given over to patients and will hold about 40. The smaller cottages will be used for doctors, officers, nurses, orderlies, and help of all kinds. Mrs. Kip has had one of the cottages built specially for her own needs, and she will occupy this in her chosen capacity of chief of the commissariat.

The dining-room is out-doors on a covered balcony which can be protected from inclement weather by awnings. The kitchen is in a separate building connected with this balcony by a covered serving passage. Mrs. Kip is putting in a new and larger range to feed her 60 soldier guests. On the south front of the house another covered balcony is 75 x 16 feet. The ground floor is really one huge room containing a stone fireplace, countless easy chairs and lounges, a billiard table, a piano, and plenty of room for other games.

"When they heard what we were doing some members of the New York stock exchange said they would agree to furnish the recreation room with every game known to man," says Mrs. Kip. There will be plenty of sport for the boys and opportunity to carry out vocational training work. There is a large workshop in the boat house, and the farm is splendidly equipped. The Kips have a large passenger motor launch, a 35-foot freight launch, a speed boat, a different launch, three sail boats of different types, and a number of row-boats and canoes. There is a lovely bathing beach and toboggan slide.

Captain W. L. Synnott, head of the Commission's Works Department, reports that the buildings are substantial and healthy, always dry and well ventilated. The water supply is pure and plentiful; drainage excellent.

Mrs. Kip, the donor of this hospital de luxe, is a niece of the famous ex-Governor Flower of New York. Her husband is President of the Duratex Company, of New York, and vice-President of the Salt's Textile Company, New York. Their two sons have enlisted in the United States, one in the navy, and one in a special motor transport corps which expects to leave for France at once. A son-in-law has also joined the Republic's fighting forces.

38 per cent in 1915. The provinces most advanced in the seeding of spring wheat are Ontario 28 per cent as compared with 4 per cent last year and 73 per cent in 1915, Alberta 27 per cent compared with 80 per cent and 91 per cent, and British Columbia 20 per cent compared with 66 per cent and 89 per cent. In Saskatchewan only 5 per cent had been seeded of the area to be devoted to spring wheat as against 36 per cent and 94 per cent on the corresponding dates of 1916 and 1915.

Saskatchewan wheat is about three-fourths sown.

Of the 6,000 newspapers and periodicals in Germany and the 3,000 in Austria at the beginning of the war, it is estimated that some 1,100 of the German and 900 of the Austrian have since suspended publication either through inability to obtain paper or because of its prohibitive price.

SPRAYING A READY REMEDY

In This Column the Amateur is Introduced to Insects and Fungus So That He May Know Them by Their First Names.

(By S. C. JOHNSTON, Vegetable Specialist, Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

Garden Foes.

Unfortunately the backyard vegetable grower has some difficulties to overcome. It will not be all pleasure and profit which he must look forward to because there are innumerable insects and fungus diseases which cause much worry and trouble and necessitate the use of extraordinary methods to prevent or control. Most of these troubles may be overcome by spraying the plants with remedies which can be secured from seed stores and other firms handling them.

The following is a list of the more common vegetables and the insects and plant diseases attacking them with remedies or preventives.

ASPARAGUS. Beetles. Blue, black or yellowish colored, about one-half inch long, which appear early in May and feed on the young shoots. Keep the bed closely cut in the spring or allow poultry to run through it. After cutting season is over, spray with arsenate of lead. Encourage the lady bird beetle which destroys many of these insects.

Anthracnose or Pod Spots. Brown or reddish spots on the foliage and pods. Found on low damp ground. Plant only seeds which have no signs of the disease. Pull up and burn diseased plants as they appear.

CABBAGE, CAULIFLOWER, AND BRUSSELS SPROUTS. Root Maggot. A small whitish colored maggot one-quarter of an inch long. Looks something like a grain of wheat, found just below the surface of the ground either close to or on the roots. They eat the roots, causing the plant to drop over. Apply a solution of corrosive sublimate one-half ounce dissolved in five gallons of water, at the rate of half a teaspoonful over each plant once a week for five weeks after they are set out, commencing three or four days after planting.

Cut Worms and White Grubs. Greyish white grubs which work at the surface of the soil cutting off the plants. They may be trapped by spreading a mixture of poison bran over the surface of the soil close to the plants. A pair of bran with sufficient paris green to highly color it, should be moistened with molasses until it crumbles readily in the hand. This moisture should be kept on the ground during the early part of the season.

Worm. A small greenish worm three-quarters of an inch long, which appears in the soil in the season. Dust with pyrethrum or heliobore powder when the plants have headed, or dust with a teaspoonful of paris green mixed with three tablespoonful of flour when young. A piece of burlap may be used for this purpose or an empty can with holes punched in the bottom.

Aphis. Also called louse. Small greyish insects which multiply rapidly. They may appear at any time in the season. Spray forcibly with a solution made from steeping one pound of tobacco refuse in one gallon of water. This solution may be used on all plants on which Aphis are found.

CELERY. Blight. Black spots appear on the foliage followed by wilting of the plant and a soft rot on the stock. Spray each week with a mixture of Bordeaux mixture covering the entire plant.

CUCUMBER. Striped Beetle. Black and yellow striped beetle which feeds ravenously on the tender leaves of the plant in the very early stage of growth. Dust leaves when wet with ashes or air-slaked lime.

Squash Bug. Dark brown beetle which sucks the juice from the plant. Hand pick and destroy. Found on the leaves.

MELONS. Cucumber insects usually attacks and may be destroyed as given above.

ONION. Onion Maggot. A white maggot similar to the cabbage root maggot. No effective means of control. Spread charcoal over the ground or try the corrosive sublimate solution as recommended above.

Blight. A violet color, patches appearing on the leaf of the onion. Some advise spraying with Bordeaux mixture from the time the onion plant is three inches high.

POTATO. Colorado Beetle or Potato Bug. Dust with paris green when the dew is still on the plant, or place a teaspoonful in a watering can of water and pour over the plant. If possible have the plant dusted with paris green before the beetle appears.

Scab. Easily recognized by characteristic roughness of the skin. Immerse the uncut tuber just before planting in a solution of two fluid ounces of formalin with two gallons of water. Dry, cut, and plant.

Blight. Brown spots distributed over the leafy surface, usually found in July. If they are not prevented from growing, the whole plant will be destroyed. Spray once a week for four or five weeks with Bordeaux mixture from July 1st.

RADISH. Root Maggot. Use the same remedies as given for cabbage and onion maggot.

TOMATO. Tomato Worm or Horn Blower. A large worm which rapidly defoliates the plant. Hand pick and destroy. Blight. Black spots appearing on the leaves which spread rapidly and cause the whole plant to die. Keep the plants growing vigorously.

DAIRY AND CREAMERY

PURE BRED COW BEST.

Under Similar Conditions She is More Profitable Than the Grade.

I contend that the pure bred cow on the average will do anything that the grade cow on the average will do—and something more, writes R. E. Hutchinson in the Rural New Yorker.

The average production of the dairy cows of the United States is approximately 175 pounds of fat per annum. On the contrary, the average production of 11,169 pure bred cows tested to Jan. 1, 1916, is 430 pounds fat. Which pulled down the average—the grade cow or the pure bred? The answer is obvious.

The simple fact that it is possible to quote accurate figures in giving the production of pure bred cows is distinctly a recommendation. The above figures are taken from the list of tested cows issued by the Jersey, Guernsey, Ayrshire and Holstein associations.

Sophie's Adora, the cow here pictured, went on test at one day over four years of age, and in the following 365 days produced 4,822 pounds of milk containing 88.6 pounds of butter fat, which amounts to 1,947 pounds of butter, figured on the 88 per cent basis. This record makes her world's champion four-year-old Jersey. Sophie's Adora is owned and was bred at Lowell.

Certainly conditions of feed and care affect production. It is equally certain that the farmer and not the cow is responsible for these conditions, and it is my contention that under similar conditions the pure bred cow will produce more profitably and reproduce more uniform quality in her calves than will the grade.

Probably all of us from personal observation agree that the pure bred sire is desirable at the head of the herd. Have we analyzed the reasons why? He is simply reproducing the qualities of his pure bred forbears in building up the producing ability of the herd. Would a grade bull do the same? Would he impart the same uniformity to one case out of ten?

No dairyman ever got rich in a day. The dairy business demands patience. No dairyman can afford to neglect the building up of his future herd. It is his responsibility to breed better cows with every generation. The grade cow is a handicap in breeding. So many conflicting lines back of her prevent prepotency, and she fails to breed "true to type." Her daughters are just as likely to be inferior as to be superior to her. On the other hand, pure bred stock carefully selected and judiciously bred afford a foundation for improving quality with every generation.

Care of Dairy Bulls.

Judicious management is quite as important as careful feeding in keeping bulls in satisfactory breeding condition. Exercise is a prime essential. If young bulls are placed in paddocks they will usually take sufficient exercise, but this is seldom true of an old bull. A better way to insure sufficient exercise is to lead him a mile or two or even farther every day. This exercise will do more to keep him healthy, vigorous, quick and sure than any other method that can be employed unless he is accustomed to using a treadmill. In this event an hour's exercise on the mill daily will keep him in good form. Any bull that has been carefully fed, not permitted to become overfat, but yet in thrifty, vigorous condition, should breed until he is fifteen or sixteen years old if he has always received sufficient exercise with regularity.—Kimball's Dairy Farmer.

Humoring Cows.

The money-making dairyman learns to know cows—their likes and dislikes, their needs and what is hurtful to them. A cow that gives a large yield is always notional and has many petty whims about the way she wants her feed arranged and the manner in which she wants her milker to treat her. An increase in yield is often secured by humoring these whims.

DAIRY NOTES.

- Successful dairy expansion involves the intelligent systematic grading or building up of a herd, both by selection and breeding. There are few cows which will not stand more quietly during the milking process if they have nothing else to attract their attention. Every cow in the herd should be halter broken. Begin while they are calves. A chill outside or inside is often fatal for a fresh cow. Look out for the March winds. Keep the cows in out of them.

Original Home of Welshmen.

Jutland was probably the original home of our Kymric ancestors, as well as (at a later period) of some so-called Saxon invaders. It was peopled in classical times by the Cimbr, identified by ethnologists with the Cymry, or modern Welshmen. The Germans magnanimously declined to annex Jutland with Schleswig-Holstein. It was then considered a worthless waste of moors, sand dunes and marshes. But the industrious Danes have transformed what one English traveler styled "a forsaken wilderness" into the most prosperous pastoral countries of western Europe.—Westminster Gazette.

Roosevelt to Go to War.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—By a vote of 215 to 178 the House Saturday, after a stormy debate, voted to instruct its conferees on the army bill to restore the Senate amendment to permit Colonel Roosevelt to raise a division for service in France. When the House action on the Roosevelt amendment was reported officially to the Senate, Chairman Chamberlain, without debate, obtained permission to withdraw the report from the Senate and resume conference on the bill. In view of the fact that it carried by a heavy majority, including Democrats, in the Senate, there seemed no doubt that it would become part of the new law providing the great army.

ONTARIO AFFAIRS.

Toronto, May 17.—Democracy for men and women with an opportunity for presenting their views on public questions, was the outstanding characteristic of the Northern Ontario Liberal Conference held in North Bay. A number of important matters of particular interest to the north country were introduced by delegates and debated vigorously.

The appointment of a non-political and independent Food Controller was ably urged by a group of delegates and a resolution to this effect was carried unanimously and enthusiastically.

Bravery and endurance almost superhuman were needed to accomplish what the Italian infantry accomplished. Monte Vodice was pitted with Austrian machine-gun nests in caverns blasted from solid rock, reinforced with steel and concrete.

Advancing from rock to rock, expelling the enemy from trench and cavern, destroying his machine guns, the gray green Italian lines crept up the slope, the War Office says, though hammered by an awful fire from Austrian guns and mortars of all calibres.

Women speakers of front-rank ability are being unearthed at almost every Liberal meeting held these days in Ontario. The latest discovery is Mrs. George S. Souter, President of the Women's Liberal Club of North Bay.

LONDON, May 21.—The Russian armies showed Sunday further signs of a renewal of activity by artillery and mine throwing bombardments at four points along the Russo-German front.

German troops attacked Russian positions on the northern end of the Russian western front east of Kalnoem, but were repulsed, says the official statement issued Sunday by the Russian War Department.

Evidences are multiplying that the most energetic efforts are about to be made to rehabilitate Russia's aggressive fighting force. Minister of War Kerensky announces his intention of maintaining an iron discipline among the troops, lacking since the revolutionary movement.

STOCKHOLM, May 21.—Telegrams from the Jewish societies in Palestine received by the secretarial department of the socialist conference here, say a fresh massacre of Palestine Jews resembling the Armenian massacres, is threatened, and appeals are made to the socialists of all countries.

Fully half of those present at the North Bay banquet were women, some of whom came in from quite distant points in the North.

Sir William Hearst spoke on "The Machinery of Provincial Government" at Convocation Hall. Sir William gave an historical survey of provincial history from the time of the Treaty of Paris and pointed out the distribution of power between Federal and Provincial governments.

Denunciation of war time racing was made by Rev. J. W. Aikens of the Metropolitan Methodist Church, Toronto. "It is a scandalous thing," he said, "that the Ontario government recently issued another license, increasing this sin of gambling."

Mr. Newton Rowell at the North Bay Canadian Club, urged the formation of a war cabinet for the Dominion and union among all sections of the Canadian people.

That Ontario women should have the right to sit in the legislature is one of the planks of the newly formed Ontario Citizens League.

A returned soldier has been appointed Governor of Brantford Jail.

STRONG POINTS TAKEN

Brilliant Italian Victory on Julian Front.

Carried the Heights on Monte Vodice Which Are the Key to the Austrian Position Along the Isonzo—Advance May Bend Enemy's Flank and Force Retreat.

ROME, May 21.—Italian infantry have achieved their most brilliant single success of their big offensive on the Julian front. By a desperate assault, which began Friday morning and did not end until evening, the Italians stormed and held the heights of Hill 652, the dominating peak on Monte Vodice. On Sunday their positions were still further extended. Several cannon were among the booty.

The full importance of this victory may be seen from the official announcement of the War Office that Hill 652 is the key to the Austrian position north of Monte Santo, along the Isonzo. If the peak can be held and the advantage developed the Austrian flank may be bent back and a retirement forced.

The victorious fight for Monte Vodice will stand out in Italian military history. The capture of its top-most peak was the culmination of a struggle of intense fierceness, in which Italian dash was pitted against Austrian stubbornness in defence. It began on Monday, but Saturday's fight completed it.

Every step of the way was most bitterly contested by a foe hiding behind rocks, trees, and in every kind of natural as well as artificial fortress.

The Vodice crest is a saddle-back mountain about two miles long, linking Mount Kuk and Monte Santo. This region is the scene of the most desperate fighting on the whole Italian front, and presents natural difficulties well nigh insuperable which have held up General Cadorna's troops for more than a year.

Rome reports Sunday estimate the total Austrian casualties for the week as nearly 20,000 men, which shows that the Italians are at last getting into their stride after overcoming more natural difficulties than are presented on any other front, even in the Balkans, and it should be remembered that nature's obstructions are far more formidable than any human construction.

It may, the Italian capital is in a fever of enthusiasm such as has not been seen since the country went into war, and all unkind charges of lethargy in the struggle are considered brilliantly refuted.

Russians Are Active. LONDON, May 21.—The Russian armies showed Sunday further signs of a renewal of activity by artillery and mine throwing bombardments at four points along the Russo-German front.

German troops attacked Russian positions on the northern end of the Russian western front east of Kalnoem, but were repulsed, says the official statement issued Sunday by the Russian War Department.

Evidences are multiplying that the most energetic efforts are about to be made to rehabilitate Russia's aggressive fighting force. Minister of War Kerensky announces his intention of maintaining an iron discipline among the troops, lacking since the revolutionary movement.

This move includes the compulsory return of all deserters by May 28, under heavy penalties.

Massacre of Palestine Jews. STOCKHOLM, May 21.—Telegrams from the Jewish societies in Palestine received by the secretarial department of the socialist conference here, say a fresh massacre of Palestine Jews resembling the Armenian massacres, is threatened, and appeals are made to the socialists of all countries.

The messages say the Turkish Government has given orders for the evacuation of Palestine by the Jewish population and that the execution of these measures are being carried out with increasing severity. The orders, it is said, are aimed at the Jews in Judea and Jerusalem, and later in Galilee.

"Anti-tank" Guns Captured. LONDON, May 21.—Germany's war inventors have devised a new form of weapon known as "anti-tank" guns. These cannon are used against the huge armed and armored monsters which the British have been using with such excellent results on the western front.

The "anti-tank" gun is a short-barreled seven-inch weapon, hurling a shell with tremendous power. A number of them have been captured by the British forces on the Arras front.

Premier Lloyd George announced that the Imperial War Council would meet annually.

LAST WEEK was another successful week for our Sales Department. The weather man was kind to us, and we were able to make a great many deliveries. Every one who got their Cars are driving them, and having a great time.

We have a few more Cars we could deliver before the 24th (Victoria Day), and teach the purchaser too. Why now have your Ford (now that you have decided to own one) and enjoy the full season?

The cost of a Ford Touring Car, $517.00 at your door, permits any progressive farmer having one.

You pay less for it than for a span of good driving horses, a carriage and harness.

Then we can arrange to let you have Ford Cars on time payments; only one-third down, ask about the plan. The Ford Car has made motoring possible for the masses, which otherwise would be a rich man's luxury.

Then after we sell you your Ford, we ask you to bring it into our Garage monthly, or oftener, and let us look it over and see that you are getting the pleasure you anticipated.

Order now while deliveries can be made promptly.

Knox Church, Beckwith. Sunday school has opened auspiciously for the summer of 1917, with Mr. Melville Ferguson as superintendent, Mr. Duncan McEwen, as assistant, and Ira McNaughton, as secretary and treasurer; together with a good band of teachers and a large rally of scholars.

The Presbytery of Lanark and Renfrew has confirmed the appointment and Mr. Ferguson purposes attending the great gathering.

The attendance at the services of public worship is increasing every Lord's Day with the favorable weather, and has already reached a higher average for April and May than at any time within the last five or six years.

The sermon last Sabbath was on the place and sacredness of sorrow and suffering in the world, the pastor's text being Psalms 56:8, "Put thou my tears into thy bottle, are they not in thy book?"

He said we learned from this text that sorrow and affliction are very real in human life, and that God is near to his people in such seasons of suffering and care, gathering up their tear drops in his bottle and recording them all in his book.

The sorrow of the world worketh death, but the sorrows of the christian, his death itself, are precious in God's sight and beckons the sufferer to the arms of the sympathizing Jesus.

The countless tear drops of this sad world to-day were being kept in God's bottle and written down in his book.

Rev. J. J. Monds will preach in Knox church next Sabbath, at two o'clock in the afternoon, and Rev. W. A. Dobson, at Franktown, at 2:30 the same day, in order to allow our pastor to preach at Douglas for Rev. Mr. Henry, who is seriously ill, and whose pulpit is being supplied by members of the Presbytery in turn.

John D. Rockefeller has subscribed $5,000,000 to the U.S. liberty loan.

Lord Milner Expresses

Hope of the Imperialists
In Very Striking Words

"A TIME may come—I hope and believe a time must come—when the supreme direction of Imperial affairs will be in the hands of a Government representative of and responsible to the people of all the states of which the Empire is composed." This statement, made by Lord Milner in the course of a recent speech in London, marks a very definite stage in the working out of the great problem of the future government of the British Empire, which has been growing rapidly in importance during the last decade.

For several years prior to 1914 there had been in process of development a tendency on the part of the self-governing Dominions to claim a more direct share in the government of the Empire, and there was also manifested a growing tendency amongst statesmen at home to admit the justice of these claims, and to welcome the prospect of a more comprehensive scheme of government for the Empire. Then came the war, and, for the moment, little more was heard of the question. By a common consent it was left over, as it were, for discussion in the future, and the Dominions rallied to the support of the Empire without a question asked or a whisper of "terms." Since then, however, the logic of events has gradually forced the matter to the fore again. One by one, as the Dominions' ministers visited England, they were invited to take part in the deliberations of the home government, until the policy came to be not only accepted, but taken for granted. Thus the idea of all Imperial Government, such as that indicated by Lord Milner, no longer seemed to be the dream of a visionary, but, on the contrary, very practical and acceptable politics, and when the calling together of the Imperial War Cabinet was announced, it was accepted almost as a matter of course.

It is not, it is true, possible, at this juncture, to discuss profitably the position which is likely to evolve itself, in this connection, after the war; but if the war is proving one thing beyond doubt it is this, that many so-called emergency measures have come to stay; that there will, in fact, be a unanimous desire, on the conclusion of peace, so to adapt them to peace conditions as to render them, in all their essentials, permanent. "And so we are anxious, as far as is humanly possible," Lord Milner declared in another part of the speech already referred to, "to assure ourselves that we are acting, not only in accordance with our own judgment, but also with that of the men who enjoy the confidence of our fellow subjects across the seas. That is the meaning and purpose of the invitation we have addressed to them." It is safe to say that the desire for just this assurance will not vanish with the war; but that it will, if anything, be strengthened, and that measures will be taken to make certain that, through some kind of imperial council, or in some other way, such assurance will always be readily obtainable.

Small Churches.

Many claims for the "smallest church" have been made; but the distinction, such as it is, belongs to that of Culbone, a lonely and secluded parish on the coast of Somerset. The dimensions of Culbone church are thirty-three feet by twelve feet, and it is a complete structure, with chancel, nave, and south porch. On the Western Heights at Dover may be seen the ruins of a church which in some respects is a rival to Culbone. These ruins form no more than a ground-plan, and were unearthed in 1806. They consist of foundations disclosing a western circular narthex, thirty-two feet in diameter, with a chancel twenty-four feet long. Lullington Church, on the River Cuckmere, at the foot of the South Downs, in the neighborhood of Eastbourne and Newhaven, has been called the "smallest church in England"; but, however small it may now be—it measures only some sixteen feet square—it should be said that this is but the fragment of a church. In this competition for smallness Wasdale church, at the head of Wastwater, in Cumberland, makes what is often considered to be a strong claim, says Mr. G. C. Harper in The Guardian. Its measurements are said to be forty-two feet by sixteen feet, but they do not challenge those of Culbone.

Samara tied high Place

Among Important Cities
When World Was Young

THE ancient town of Samara, lying on the Tigris, some hundred miles up the river from Bagdad, enjoys a curious distinction. For about fifty years, in the Ninth Century, it was one of the first cities in the world. Before that time it had hardly even existed, and, after its short-lived greatness, it steadily fell into decay.

It was in the heyday of the power of the Kalifs of Bagdad that the story of Samara began. The reign of the famous Mamun, one of the greatest of the Abbasides, after the Kalif Mansur, had just come to a close, and the succession was sought by one Abu Ishak al Motasim. Motasim, as he has come to be known, had for a long time been preparing himself for this project. Every year he had bought Turkish slaves, and when he accompanied Mamun on his last expedition, he had with him a formidable bodyguard composed of some 3,000 Turks. Backed by this force, he appears to have compelled Mamun to designate him his successor, and the chroniclers record that he wrote, in the name of the Kalif, to the authorities at Bagdad and elsewhere, intimating that he was to be Mamun's successor. His intentions, however, were not greeted with favor by the army, which insisted that Abbas, Mamun's son, should take his father's place. Abbas, however, publicly renounced all claims to the kalifate, and in the end the army, with that rapid change of front so common in those days, accepted Motasim, who hastened to Bagdad and made his public entry into the city as Kalif on September 20th, 833.

The people, apparently, received him well, but the new Kalif was determined to have more than one string to his bow for the purpose of making his position secure. The approval of the army and the people was well in its way, but he had secured the first steps of his progress with the aid of his Turkish bodyguard, and he had every intention of strengthening this arm of his service, rather than doing away with it. One of his first acts, therefore, on coming to Bagdad was to procure officers for his guard, and for this purpose he bought up all the Turkish slaves in Bagdad, who had in any way distinguished themselves, and many of them afterwards became famous. The Turks, however, were unruly and undisciplined, and they not only outraged the good people of Bagdad by their excesses, but scandalized them by the open contempt they displayed for the religious precepts of Islam. At last the people could stand it no longer, and they rose against the guard and slew as many as they could.

Motasim was in a serious difficulty. He dared not act with severity towards the city, so he decided to solve the problem by moving his capital. Proceeding up the Tigris, along much the same course as General Maude's forces have been following during the last few weeks, he came to the little town of Samara, close to the edge of the great Mesopotamian plateau. There he built himself a new residence, changing the name of the place from Samara, which could be interpreted to "Unhappy is he who sees it," to "Sorraman-rah," "Rejoiced is he who sees it." Motasim undertook the building of his new capital with energy, and, within less than ten years, Samara rivaled Bagdad in splendor. Palaces quickly rose on either side of the Tigris, and the minaret of the great mosque which he built was visible for many miles around. Then, Motasim's immediate successors continued to make the city their capital, and great sums were expended on it. Pleasure grounds were laid out on a large scale, and planted with palms from Basra; whilst exotic plants were imported from Syria and Khorassan. Canals were made in all directions, and the desert was transformed into a garden; whilst workmen were collected from every part of the empire, and teakwood, together with marble from Antioch, was imported on a colossal scale. As has been said, however, the days of Samara's greatness were short. Within fifty years the kalifs had returned to Bagdad, and, with the decay of the kalifate, which quickly followed, Samara lost altogether that glory, the shadow of which, at any rate, Bagdad retained so long.

Three Races.

I have heard from several officers home from the front the following story of Sir Douglas Haig's estimate of the ruling qualities of the soldiers of the three home races under his command, says a writer in the Manchester Guardian. It is true that the account comes at third or fourth hand, but I believe that it is generally accepted at the front. Sir Douglas is said to have remarked that whenever a particularly brilliant and rapid piece of work was reported from any part of the line he thought it would be an Irish regiment, and usually it was so. If a remarkable piece of work had been done by men sticking it under tremendous fire, with no artillery help and holding the position against heavy assaults, he concluded that was an English regiment, and usually it was so. But when he was wrong in either case it was usually the Scottish. The Scottish he thought, were not quite so fiery and immediate in their operations as the Irish, but they were more so than the English, and not quite so tenacious in holding on under punishment as the English, but they were more so than the Irish.

Murderous Italy.

In the number of murders Italy leads Europe. In the number of suicides Russia is first.

"I FEEL LIKE A NEW BEING"

"FRUIT-A-LIVES" Brought The Joy Of Health After Two Years' Suffering

MADAM LAPLANTE

35 St. Rose St., Montreal, April 4th. "For over two years I was sick and miserable. I suffered from constant headaches, and had Palpitation of the Heart so badly that I feared I would die. There seemed to be a lump in my stomach and the Constipation was dreadful. I suffered from Pain in the Back and Kidney Disease. I was treated by a physician for a year and a half and he did me no good at all. I tried "Fruit-a-lives" as a last resort. After using three boxes, I was greatly improved and twelve boxes made me well. Now I can work all day and there are no Headaches, no Palpitation, no Heart Trouble, no Constipation, no Pain or Kidney Trouble and I feel like a new being—and it was "Fruit-a-lives" that gave me back my health."

PERILS OF AIR FIGHTING.

Many Lessons Learned by Very Bitter Experience.

In a particularly interesting article on air-warfare in Everybody's, William G. Shepherd shows how hard has been the road blazed by the nations of Europe: "The long, hard road along which the nations in Europe have struggled in learning aerial warfare is not pleasant to view.

"It is a feverish and bloody progress that has been made in flying in Europe. In the laboratory of aerial warfare, during the last thirty-three months, human lives have been spent in experiments like the lives of animals on the vivisectionist's table; but thousands of airmen, testing every new idea, and hundreds of aerial engineers and scientists, madly struggling in their laboratories, have achieved a progress that not a hundred years of peace could have brought about.

"While in peace times we find one Pegoud who shocks the world by taking his life in his hand to prove that an aeroplane can fly upside down, there have been hundreds of grim men in Europe since the war began who have lost their lives showing how aerial warfare ought not to be conducted.

"No one, for instance, knows how many lives have been lost, on all sides in proving that the monoplane was not practicable. In England one day, early in the war, two young men of fine families went up in a monoplane to test its value as a machine for observation purposes. They fell, and both were killed. The next day two young men were sent up to try to find out whether or not the accident of the day before was due to inherent dangers in the one-winged type of aeroplane. They too fell, and both were killed. Wherefore the monoplane was wiped off the British books. No army uses monoplanes today."

WHY Does Your Head Ache?

Headaches, sick or other kinds, don't happen to people whose livers are busy and whose bowels are as regular as a clock.

Thousands of folks who used to have headaches say this is the way they removed the cause:

One pill at bedtime, regularly. Larger dose if there's a suspicion of biliousness or constipation.

DOGS OF THE MIDNIGHT SUN

DOGS are a versatile breed. The bloodhound will never live down his record as a policeman; the Pekinese always suggests his career as a Sunday supplement favorite; the mere mention of a dog serves to evoke memories of the dog of sport; the trained mongrel wags his tail on every vaudeville stage; the Red Cross dogs of the French front bring a lump into the throat of the world round. But after all, save and except the role of "friend" which is what all dogs are born for, there's no trade in dogdom so useful as that of the Northland canine who thinks he's a horse.

We can't go to the open ice of Greenland or the Labrador to see the dan-shaped teams whirling their sleighs along under the aurora. Most of us can't go anywhere north of the disadvised rise to zero. Teams are entered by owners living from California clear to the pole. And every dog who runs in a collar is eligible to compete—husky, malamute, Siberian wolfhound or plain wonderful all-enduring mongrel.

In Alaska and the Yukon, hotels are sleeping places and meals are taken in side-street cafes with Chinese cooks. Last summer the writer travelled the thousand miles from Vancouver to Skagway in the Canadian Pacific Steamer "Princess Charlotte," took train a hundred and ten miles over the old "trail of '98" to Whitehorse and was preparing myself by an excellent dinner to catch the Yukon river boat for Dawson City. I was sitting with my back to the screen door of the little restaurant when I had that odd sensation of "being watched" which comes to everyone with eyes in the nape of his neck.

Turning I saw the biggest silver-greyest, softest furred dog you ever set eyes on. I dropped my knife in amazement.

The restaurant waitress came smiling out with a plate of fish refuse. "Never seen a malamute before?" she asked. "Some dogs, ain't they, and they do say they can live on air. I don't see how the ones in this town always look so fat in summer unless they fish in the rapids."

"Why, yes, you could buy him if you liked. Guess you could just run away with him, and nobody'd bother you. But, of course, you know he'd eat up your own dog when you got him down home. Then he'd jump the tallest fence you could find, and go clean up the neighborhood."

Grey Brother had finished his fish course. His eyes were as yellow as topazes and the fur on top of his head stood up in a silver fluff an inch thick. He was laughing all over with good nature and the idea of such murderous exploits as the waitress suggested seemed impossible.

Down the street came a tangle of bells and a tangle of dogs. In the middle was a team—Jersey, Sport, Blackie and Shep—and surrounding them like sportive comets was an assortment of unattached canine energy sufficient to run a mill. The boy who drove the dogs from his little cart was about thirteen.

"Mush on Mush on" he cried to his team, unmindful of the cameras of the tourists as of the gyrations of his satellites.

Here was Capper—poor old Hardluck Billy Capper—floored again and just when the tide of bad fortune was on the turn; so ran the minor strains of self pity under the brown bowler. A failure once more and through no fault of his own. No, no! Hadn't he been ready to deliver the goods? Hadn't he come all the way down here from Berlin, faithful to his pledge to Louisa, the girl in the Wilhelmstrasse, ready and willing to embark on that important mission of which he was to be told by Dr. Emil Koch? And what happens? Koch turns him into the street like a dog; threatens to have him before the military as a spy if he doesn't make himself scarce. Koch refuses even to admit he'd ever heard of the Wilhelmstrasse. Clever beggar! A jolly keen eye he's got for his own skin; won't take a chance on being betrayed into the hands of the English, even when he ought to see that a chap's honest when he comes and tells a straight story about losing that silly little bit of paper with his working number on it. What difference if he can't produce the ticket when he has the number pat on the tip of his tongue and is willing to risk his own life to give that number to a stranger?

Back upon the old perplexity that had kept Capper's brain on strain ever since the first day aboard La Vendee—who had lifted his ticket, and when was it done? The man recalled, for the hundredth time, his awakening aboard the French liner. What a horror that first morning was, with the ratty little surgeon feeding a fellow aromatic spirits of ammonia like porridge! Capper, in this mood of detached review, saw himself painfully stretching out his arm from his bunk to grasp his stick the very first minute he was alone in the stateroom; the crooked handle comes off under his turning, and the white wisp of paper is stuck in the hollow of the stick. Blank paper!

Safe as safe could be had been that little square of paper Louisa had given him with his expense money, from the day he left Berlin until—when? To be sure, he had treated himself to a little of the grape in Paris and, maybe, in Marseilles, but his brain had been clear every minute. Oh, Capper would have sworn to that! The whole business of the disappearance of his Wilhelmstrasse ticket and the substitution of the blank was simply another low trick the Capper luck had played on him.

CHAPTER VI. A Ferret.

OUT of the ruck of Capper's sad reflections the old persistent call began to make itself heard before ever the train from Ramleh pulled into the Alexandria station. That elusive country of fountains, incense and rose dreams which can only be approached through the neck of a bottle spread itself before him alluringly, inviting him to forgetfulness. And Capper answered the call.

From the railroad station he set his course through narrow villainous streets down to the district on Pharos, where the deep water men of all the world gather to make vivid the nights of Egypt. Behind him was the faithful shadow, Caesar, Dr. Koch's man. The Numidian trailed like a panther, slinking from cover to cover, bending his body as the big cat does to the accommodations of the trail's blinds.

Once Capper found himself in a blind alley, turned and strode out of it just in time to bump heavily into the unsuspected putner. Instantly a hem of the Numidian's cloak was lifted to screen his face, but not before the sharp eyes of the Englishman had seen and recognized it. A tart smile curled the corners of Capper's mouth as he passed on down the bazaar lined street to the Tavern of Thermopylae, at the next corner. So old Koch was taking precautions, eh? Well, Capper; for one could hardly blame him. Who wouldn't under the circumstances?

The Tavern of Thermopylae was built for the Billy Cappers of the world—a place of genial delivry where every man's gold was better than his name and no man asked more than to see the color of the stranger's money.

Capper called for an absinth drip and established himself in a deserted corner of the smoke filled room.

Sip—sip. A soothing numbness came to the tortured nerves. Sip—sip. The clouds of doubt and self pity pressing down on his brain began to shred away. He saw things clearly now. Everything was as sharp and clear as the point of an icicle.

He reviewed with new zest his recent experiences, from the night he met Louisa in the Cafe Riche up to his interview with Dr. Koch. Louisa, that girl with the face of a fine animal and a heart as cold as carved amethyst—why had she been so willing to intercede for Billy Capper with her superiors in the Wilhelmstrasse and procure him a number and a mission to Alexandria? For his information regarding the Anglo-Belgian understanding? But she paid for that. The deal was fairly closed with 300 marks. Did Louisa go further and list him in the Wilhelmstrasse out of the goodness of her heart or for old memory's sake? Capper smiled wryly over his absinth. There was no goodness in Louisa's heart, and the strongest memory she had was how nearly Billy Capper had dragged her down with him in the scandal of the Lord Fisher letters.

How the thin green blood of the wormwood cleared the mind, made it leap to logical reasoning!

Why had Louisa instructed him to leave Marseilles by the steamer touching at Malta when a swifter boat scheduled to go to Alexandria direct was leaving the French port a few hours later? Was it that the girl intended he should get no farther than Malta; that the English there should—

Capper laughed like the philosopher who has just discovered the absolute of life's futility. The ticket—his ticket from the Wilhelmstrasse which Louisa had procured for him; Louisa wanted that for other purposes and used him as the dummy to obtain it. She wanted it before he could arrive at Malta, and she got it before he left Marseilles. Even Louisa the wise had played with out discounting the double "O" on the wheel—fate's percentage in every game. She could not know the Venetian would be warned from lingering at Malta because of the exigency of war and that Billy Capper would reach Alexandria, after all.

He Commanded a Good View of the Gate.

The green logic in the glass carried Capper along with mathematical exactness of deduction. As he sipped his mind became a thing detached and, looking down from somewhere high above earth, reviewed the blundering course of Billy Capper's body from Berlin to Alexandria—the poor deluded body of a dupe. With this certitude of logic came the beginnings of resolve. Vague at first and intangible, then helped by the absinth to focus, was this new determination. Capper nursed it, elaborated on it, took pleasure in forecasting its outcome and viewing himself in the new light of a humble hero. It was near morning, and the Tavern of Thermopylae was well nigh deserted when Capper paid his score and blundered through the early morning crowd of mixed races to his hotel. His legs were quite drunk, but his mind was coldly and acutely sober.

"Very drunk, master," was the report Caesar, the Numidian, delivered to Dr. Koch at the Ramleh villa. The doctor, believing Caesar to be a competent judge, chuckled in his beard. Caesar was called off from the trail.

Across the street from Dr. Koch's home on Queen's terrace was the summer home of a major of fusiliers, whose station was up the Nile. But this summer it was not occupied. The major had hurried his family back to England at the first mutterings of the great war, and he himself had to stick by his regiment up in the doubtful Sudan country. Like Dr. Koch's place, the major's yard was surrounded by a high wall, over which the fronds of big palms and flowered shrubs draped themselves. The nearest villa, aside from the Kochs across the street, was a hundred yards away. At night an arc light, set about thirty feet from Dr. Koch's gate, marked all the road thereabouts with sharp blocks of light and shadow. One lying close atop the wall about the major's yard, screened by the palms and the heavy branches of some night blooming ghost flower, could command a perfect view of Dr. Koch's gateway without being himself visible.

At least, so Billy Capper found it on the night following his visit to the German physician's and his subsequent communion with himself at the Tavern of Thermopylae. Almost with the falling of the dark Capper had stepped off the train at Ramleh station, ferried himself by boat down the canal that passed behind the major's home, after careful reconnoitering, discovered that the tangle of wildwood about the house was not guarded by a watchman and had so achieved his position of vantage on top of the wall directly opposite the gateway of No. 32. He was stretched flat. Through the spaces between the dry fingers of a palm leaf he could command a good view of the gate and of the road on either side. Few pedestrians passed below him, an automobile or two puffed by, but in the main Queen's terrace was deserted and Capper was alone. It was a tedious vigil. Capper had no reliance except his instinct of a spy familiar with spy's work to assure that he would be rewarded for his pains. Some sixth sense in him had prompted him to come, thither, sure in the promise that the night would not be misspent. A clock somewhere off in the odoriferous dark struck the hour twice, and Capper dozed. The hard stone he was lying on cramped him.

The sound of footsteps on the flagged walk aroused momentary interest. He looked out through his screen of green and saw a tall, well knit figure of a man approach the opposite gate, stop and ring the bell. Instantly Capper tingled with the hunting fever of his trade. In the strong light from the arc he could study minutely the face of the man at the gate—smoothly shaven, slightly gaunt and with thin lips above a strong chin. It was a striking face—one easily remembered. The gate opened. Beyond it Capper saw for an instant the white figure of the Numidian he had bumped into at the alley's mouth. The gate closed on both.

Another weary hour for the ferret on the wall; then something happened that was reward enough for cramped muscles and taut nerves. An automobile purred up to the gate. Out of it hopped two men, while a third, slithered over like one drunk, remained on the rear seat of the tonneau. One rang the bell. The two before the gate fidgeted anxiously for it to be opened. Capper paid not so much heed to them as to the half reclining figure in the machine. It was in strong light. Capper saw, with a leap of his heart, that the man in the machine was clothed in the khaki service uniform of the British army—an officer's uniform he judged by the trimness of its fitting, though he could not see the shoulder straps. The unconscious man was bareheaded, and one side of his face was darkened by a broad trickle of blood from the scalp.

When the gate opened there were a few hurried words between the Numidian and the two who had waited. All three united in lifting an inert figure from the car and carrying it quickly through the gate. Consumed with the desire to follow them into the labyrinth of the doctor's yard, yet not daring, Capper remained plastered to the wall.

Captain Woodhouse, sitting in the consultation room with the doctor, heard the front door open and the scuffle of burdened feet in the hall. Dr. Koch hopped nimbly to the folding doors and threw them back. First the Numidian's broad back, then the bent shoulders of two other men, both illly dressed, came into view. Between them they carried the form of a man in officer's khaki. Woodhouse could not check a fluttering of the muscles in his cheeks. This was a surprise to him. The doctor had given no hint of it.

"Good, good!" clucked Koch, indicating that they should lay their burden on the operating chair. "Any trouble?"

"None in the least, Herr Doktor," the larger of the two white men answered. "At the corner of the warehouse near the docks, where it is dark—he was going early to the Princess Mary, and"

Lesson IX.—Second Quarter, For May 27, 1917.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, John xv, 26; xvi, 14. Memory Verses, 12, 13—Golden Text, John xiv, 26—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

Our special topic for today is the work of the Holy Spirit, a full study of which would take us, even if we only noticed the references to Himself, from Gen. 1, 2, to Rev. xxii, 17. As in Gen. 1 and 2, all the work was accomplished by the Spirit of God and the Word of God, for the Spirit moved, and God said, "So it has been ever since and in everything." Our Lord Himself said, "The words that I speak unto you, they are spirit, and they are life" (John vi, 63). At Pentecost the same Holy Spirit who had been working all through the Old Testament period came in a special way and to bear a testimony to a crucified, risen and ascended Christ, a thing He never could have done before, and to gather from all nations a bride for Him, His body, the church, which, being completed and caught up to meet Him in the air (I Thess. iv, 16-18; I Cor. xv, 51, 52), the same Holy Spirit will continue to work according to the eternal purpose of the Father in the Son, through the great tribulation period and the thousands years, and on to the New Earth, when God shall be all in all. How wonderful to be indwelt by such a person and to be permitted to let Him have the right of way and full control in one's life that God may be glorified! In xiv, 16, 17, our Lord called Him another Comforter, one who would be to all believers all that Christ had been to His disciples while personally present with them, and He said that He would dwell in us and never leave us. In xiv, 26, He said that the Comforter would be our teacher and remembrancer, so that, however poor a memory one may have, a believer can always, at least in the things of God, count upon his friend the Comforter. According to I John ii, 27, the anointing which we have received abideth in us, and we need not that any man teach us. In xv, 16, He is again called the Spirit of Truth, as well as the Comforter, and our Lord said, "He shall testify of Me," and ye also shall bear witness. One of the evidences that the Spirit is having His own way in us is that we love to honor Christ and speak of Him, for "to Him give all the prophets witness," and concerning Him Peter and John said, "We cannot but speak the things which we have seen and heard" (Acts iv, 20; x, 43).

In our lesson chapter xvi, 7-15, our Lord said that it was better that He should go and the Spirit come for His special work to convince the world of sin and of righteousness and of judgment. Be careful not to confuse this saying with Acts xxiv, 25, as many do. Note our Lord's comment on this threefold work of the Spirit, that the great sin was unbelief, the great need righteousness, because of His finished work, and that the sure consummation would be the final overthrow of the prince of this world, the devil, who is already a judged and sentenced one awaiting the execution of the sentence (Matt. xxv, 41; Rev. xx, 10). The Spirit will also tell us things as we are able to receive them. Concerning verse 12 Paul also said, "I have fed you with milk and not with meat, for hitherto ye were not able to bear it," and then he gave a reason why (I Cor. iii, 1-4). How we should desire to be able to receive all that the Lord would like to tell us and not be so preoccupied with other thoughts as to hinder Him! He will guide us into all truth and show us things to come, for he wrote the whole book from beginning to end, and He only can interpret His own writings. Verses 14, 15, make us think of Abraham's servant telling of the father's only son, to whom he gave all that he had and for whom the servant was seeking a wife, carrying with him samples of the father's wealth (Gen. xxiv, 10, 34-35).

The whole of this age is but a little while comparatively (xv, 19; xvi, 16-22), and the sufferings of verse 33 of our lesson chapter are said to be but for a moment compared with the exceeding and eternal weight of glory (II Cor. iv, 17, 18). A thousand years are in His sight but as yesterday when it is past and as a watch in the night (Ps. xc, 4). The woman and child of verse 12 take us back to Isa. lxvi, 7, 8, and onward to Rev. xii and the time of His coming again for Israel's new birth. Until then those who stand with Him and for Him must expect the treatment of xv, 18-21; xvi, 1-4, 33. But it will be well worth while, for all sorrow shall be turned into joy. In Him we may always have peace, and the assurance to the overcomer should lift us above all present things (verses 20-33; Rev. iii, 21). His "Be of good cheer," the fourth while in His mortal body (Matt. ix, 2-22; xiv, 27), should lead us to consider His own wonderful peace and joy of which He spoke on that last night as He drew near to Gethsemane and Calvary (xv, 27; xv, 11). Note also that His first "Be of good cheer" was in connection with the forgiveness of sins, for without this we cannot be of good cheer. His second referred to a healed body, for forgiveness makes us sure of a glorified body in due time. His third covered all present perplexing circumstances, and this last was to sustain in real tribulation.

Master Tunnelers.

I asked a very highly-placed English officer his opinion as to the qualities in which the New Zealanders shine, says a correspondent of The London Times. He summed them up by saying that as individual fighters they were equal to any in France. He spoke particularly well of their work on the Somme, which has been described so often that I will not recapitulate it, but he mentioned something of which I had not heard—the New Zealand tunnelling company which was allotted for work in a special area. In tunnelling work they have outwitted the Germans every time. Many of them perfected their skill in the coal and gold mines of New Zealand, and there are well-trained engineers at their head. They can not only out-tunnel the Germans, but there is no case on record in which the Germans have surprised the British troops provided with New Zealand tunnellers. What this means in peace of mind to an army can only be imagined by those who, like myself, have been at points in the line when there was grave anxiety as to whether or not mysterious sounds heard sometimes by microphone, sometimes by the more simple miners' device of placing the head in a bucket of water and listening, are the approach of subterranean Huns. When it is remembered that the population of both the islands of New Zealand is less than that of any large London postal district—it is only a little over a million all told—it will be understood that this live and finely-organized band of Antipodean Crusaders constitutes an offering which is a splendid contrast to the levied masses of unwilling Poles, Czechs, Turks, Ruthenes, Slovaks, and the rest whom Prussia has bullied into her trenches.

Colored Sea Waves.

The blueness of sea-water depends greatly on its saltness. In the tropics the tremendous evaporation induced by the blazing sun causes the water to be much saltier than it is in higher latitudes, or about 30 deg. north and south of the Equator the waters are of an exquisite azure. Beyond these latitudes the blue changes to green, and in the Arctic and Antarctic Oceans the greens are almost as vivid as the tropical blues.

The extraordinary blueness of the Mediterranean has two causes. Few large rivers of fresh water run into this sea, and, moreover, the Mediterranean is virtually landlocked, and exposed to a powerful sun, so that evaporation is rapid. By actual test the waters of the Mediterranean are heavier and contain more salt than those of the Atlantic.

The Yellow Sea of China is usually supposed to owe its color to the flood of muddy water that its great river pours into it. Living organisms are responsible for the peculiar tint.

Occasionally, for some cause yet undiscovered, great areas of the ocean turn to milk-white. In March, 1904, a Japanese merchant vessel, steaming at night between Hongkong and Yokohama, ran into a snow-white sea. It was an expanse of pure snow-white that dazzled the eyes. The phenomenon lasted for six hours.

Polite to Motors.

A bright-eyed little boy in a sailor-suit saluted the occupants of a passing motor-car so quaintly that they stopped to give him sixpence, according to Tit-Bits. "You're very polite, little fellow," the lady motorist said. "Do you salute all the strangers who pass in the same way?" "No, no, ma'am, only motorists," the boy stammered, fidgeting his sixpence nervously. "Father says I've to be polite to them, because motor-cars bring him trade." The lady seemed disappointed. "What is your father's trade, my little man? Does he repair motor-cars?" "No, ma'am; he's an undertaker," was the little fellow's response.

$2,200 FOR THE Y.M.C.A.

Carleton Place Responds Fairly Well to This Noble Cause.

Following the very interesting address given by Lieut. Trivett last Tuesday evening in the town hall, when the great work being done by the Canadian Young Men's Christian Association for our own soldiers in England and France, was fully outlined, and the hardships of our brave boys at the front was vividly pictured by lantern views, a canvass of the town was made by a local committee on Wednesday to raise funds to support this worthy work.

The result of the day's canvass was a subscription of $2,200 in round figures, a very respectable contribution indeed. But as many of the people could not be reached by the limited number of workers in one day it is expected that considerable more will still come in, and the objective aimed at, viz., $2,500, may still be attained.

The lists are at the Bank of Ottawa, and any who have not already done so, and wish to assist in this laudable object, have until the end of the month to hand in their contributions. It is hoped that at least $2,500 be received, which is only a trifle over 50c per capita—a very modest sum in these strenuous days considering the importance of the work being done by the Y.M.C.A.

THE LORD'S DAY.

EDITOR HERALD.

Dear Sir,—At the meeting recently held in Renfrew, the Presbyterian Church Synod for Eastern Ontario and the Province of Quebec made the following deliverance as a contribution to enter the minds of men and affect their judgments upon the matter of the preservation of the sacredness of the Sabbath Day, and the undersigned was charged to attend to giving it as extensive publicity as possible. The text of the Synod's deliverance was as follows:

Whereas serious inroads are being made in the rest of the Sabbath by unnecessary work in connection with war;

Whereas by innumerable experiments it has been shown that men can do more and better work when they labor six days and rest one than when they labor seven days in the week;

The synod of Montreal and Ottawa, while approving of most strenuous efforts being made at the present time to speed up production, is convinced that this end cannot be gained by the secularization of the Lord's Day and urges that Sunday work be avoided as much as possible.

Permit us to add that few things contribute more to true prosperity in every organization of life than a hallowed Sabbath day. Serious readers of the Revelation of God see that Sabbath observance is an essential for permanent success in nations and the larger domain of universal humanity. The Holy Spirit of God, without whom men are adone, is withdrawn from those who desecrate the Sabbath and we appeal to the Christian manhood of this district of Canada in which we are more particularly concerned to let no spirit of panic or unbelief towards God move any one to work on God's holy day. If such work is done we shall be losers rather than gainers by it.

Of late, Mr. Editor, we have met two marked public tributes to the worth of the Scottish stock of past generations in Canada. Your readers need only to be reminded that few features were more outstanding in the lives of these men of integrity, rectitude, conviction and courage than Sabbath observance, and we ask that we go to the source from which they learnt this, namely the Revelation of God, and then act as that Revelation in its largeness instructs us. We are living in a time when, with ache and some emptiness of heart and soul with flowing of tears, we are learning our need of a Higher Power and that power of God who is so great that the nations are to Him as the dust in the balance and a drop of water in a bucket, and part of the process by which we learn this fundamental is by obedience to His commandment upon the Sabbath day. Patriotism and religion, which latter is more than patriotism, write in the call to this, and let each of us act as in God's sight, no matter if some men and some of their organizations do wrong.—JAMES TAYLOR, Braeside.

METHODIST DISTRICT MEETING.

The Annual Meeting of the Perth District was held on the 16th and 17th of May, in the Carleton Place Methodist Church. Perth, Smiths Falls, Merrickville, Almonte, Pakenham, Carleton Place, besides a number of rural charges were represented by 15 clerical and 15 lay delegates.

The first day was taken up by purely ministerial business, and in the evening a public meeting was held, when Rev. Mr. Bates, a returned missionary from Japan, delivered an interesting and exhaustive address on the progress of the work in that land. The Mission was opened some thirty years ago, and now it has developed into a strong native self-supported church, with an excellent college at Tokio for the training of ministers and such other students as desire a superior education.

Revs. Monds, Dobson and Newton brought greetings from their respective churches.

While the Sunday School department showed the results of the war in some depletion of the numbers of the young men, the financial reports indicated gratifying liberality on the part of the people.

In the afternoon of the second day the elections to the various Conference Committees were held, resulting in appointing Revs. Brown and Henderson to the stationing committee, and Messrs. C. J. Taber and R. R. Powell as lay delegates to conference.

The meeting was closed with a vote of thanks to the friends in Carleton Place who had opened their homes to the various delegates.

The meeting then adjourned to assemble in Smiths Falls next year.

SHORTAGE OF SWEDE TURNIP SEED

Swede turnip growers are urged this spring to endeavor to secure and transplant a few sound roots to produce seed for themselves and their neighbours. Owing to the abnormal conditions now prevailing there will likely be very little swede seed for planting in the spring of 1918 unless our Canadian swede turnip growers make provision for their own supplies by growing the seed themselves. Canadian supplies of swede and most other field root and garden seeds formerly came from Europe but this source is now practically cut off. The prospects for home grown seed have been reduced by the present price of swede turnips for food purposes, as it would now take nearly two hundred dollars worth of full grown swede turnips to transplant an acre for seed purposes. This factor has had the unfortunate effect of reducing the area in the eastern provinces that would otherwise have been planted for the production of Swede seeds.

A Rare Stamp.

One of the most interesting stamps the world has produced was recently issued by the Government at Ottawa. It is for use by relatives and friends of Canadian soldiers stationed on the Bahama Islands. The stamp is for special despatch of mail matter from Canada to the Canadian soldiers on the Bahamas. It seems odd that Canadian stamps were not used. This is a philatelic mystery yet to be solved. The stamp employed is the fivepence orange of the Bahama issue of 1903, but surcharged in black, Special Delivery. The picture on the stamp is of "the Queen's Staircase," near Nassau, one of the most beautiful views on these islands. It is understood that only eight hundred were issued; if that is true, the stamp will become one of the war rarities.

PERFECT HEALTH DUE TO THE BLOOD

No Girl or Woman Need be Constantly Ailing and Unhappy.

Nature intended every girl and every woman to be happy, attractive, active and healthy. Yet too many of them find their lives saddened by suffering—nearly always because their blood is to blame. All those unhappy girls and women with colorless cheeks, dull skins and sunken, lusterless eyes, are in this condition because they have not enough blood; red blood in their veins to keep them well and in the charm of health. They suffer from depressing weariness and periodical headaches. Dark lines form under their eyes, their heart palpitates violently after the slightest exertion, and they are often attacked with fainting spells. These are only a few of the miseries of bloodlessness. Nothing can secure girls and women from inevitable decline that follows anaemia except a generous supply of new, rich, red blood, and nothing has ever proved so successful in creating red, good blood as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. Thousands and thousands of girls and women owe their good health and charming complexion to the use of this medicine. Here is one example of its power to cure. Miss Dorina Bastien, St. Jerome, Que., says: "For over a year my health was gradually failing, my blood had seemed almost to have turned to water, my cheeks were pale, my lips bloodless, and the slightest exertion left me breathless. I suffered frequently from severe headaches, my appetite failed, and my friends feared I was going into consumption. I had been doctoring but did not derive any benefit, and finally I had to give up my work and return home. It was at this stage that a friend brought me a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and urged me to try them. By the time the box was used I thought they were helping me, and decided to continue using the pills. I took a half dozen boxes more, when my strength had completely returned, my appetite was restored, my color returned, headaches had disappeared and I was feeling better than I had been for years. I would urge every weak and ailing girl to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial."

These pills are sold by all medicine dealers or may be had by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

$100 Reward, $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Catarrh being greatly influenced by constitutional conditions requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts through the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in the curative powers of Hall's Catarrh Cure that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address: F. J.
