Bravery of a Canadian Lady Recognized.

Britain's Plush Trade Injured by the McKinley Bill.

Dr. Keeley of Drink Cure Fame Sues the London Lancet for Libel.

Keeley vs. the Lancet.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—Dr. Keeley, of drink cure fame, is suing the Lancet for damages for libel.

The Home Rule Bill.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—Regarding the Home Rule Bill the London Chronicles travesty of the result of the negotiations between Mr. Gladstone and the McCarthyites is not deemed worthy of notice by the Irish party. Mr. Dillon's statement that the retention of the whole of the Irish members in the Imperial Parliament is an essential feature of the bill, has acceptance among all of the new Ministerial circle.

The Plush Trade Demoralized.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—A meeting of shareholders of the Bradford manufacturing concern of Sir Titus Saltson & Son (limited), has been called to consider a proposition to wind up the company. The English plush trade in which the company is largely engaged has fallen to about one-tenth of what it was before the McKinley tariff went into effect in the United States.

A Brave Lady.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—Mrs. E. W. Rowley, a Canadian lady living in Cheyn Walk, Chelsea, has been presented with the certificate of the Royal Humane Society for courage and coolness in saving the life of a boy in the River Thames some weeks ago. Mr. and Mrs. Rowley were paddling their canoe below the Cadogan pier when the accident occurred and hastened at once to the boy's rescue. He had sunk twice and was reached only just in time. With admirable coolness Mrs. Rowley seized the lad, and, telling him not to touch the canoe, held his head above water until a boat arrived. The heroine of the occasion is the daughter of ex-Lieutenant-Governor Richards, of British Columbia.

Mr. Morley's Decisive Victory.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—Mr. Morley's return for Newcastle is an immense relief to the Liberals, who have been watching for the result with anxiety. The party never expended money and energies so profusely to secure a local election. Fourteen members of the House of Commons, eight ex-members and fifteen preachers (Episcopal, Catholic, Methodist and Quaker), were in the field daily. The contest became even more exciting when some of the eight-hour adherents of the Labor party joined the ranks of the Unionists. Mr. Morley's repute as a high-minded and honest politician never shone brighter than when he declared that he was ready to risk his seat and his office rather than submit to the demands of the Laborists, which he considered impracticable at the present time.

Mr. Morley's short visit to Dublin has confirmed the Nationalist confidence in him. It soon became known that he had selected as private adviser and probably Under Secretary for Ireland George Fottrell, a man whose influence in Irish affairs has long been recognized by both English and Irish leaders. Mr. Fottrell stands so well with the Nationalists that his reported appointment as Under Secretary was hailed with general delight as the advent of a genuine Irish Administration, sealing the end of the obnoxious Castle domination. The Irish leaders will be satisfied if Mr. Fottrell is appointed.

LONDON, Aug. 27.—The News admits that Mr. Morley has gained a more decisive victory than his most sanguine friend dared hope for.

China Kicking.

LONDON, Aug. 27.—The Berlin correspondent of the Standard says the Chinese envoy is going to St. Petersburg Sunday, and it is rumored that he will demand that Russia withdraw her forces from the Pamirs.

Rejected Honors.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—It is reported Lord Salisbury offered a peerage to Sir Frederick Leighton, president of the Royal Academy, but his brother academicians advised him not to accept it. James Anthony Froude also declined a proferred baronetcy and Alfred Austin, the poet, critic and journalist, declined knighthood.

The Wagner Festival.

LONDON, Aug. 27.—The Wagner festival at Baruth has been notable this year for the marked increase in the number of French visitors. This season 4,000 French lovers of Wagner's music visited Baruth, against 7,000 English and American visitors. The next festival has been fixed for 1894.

The Dahomeyans Fled.

PARIS, Aug. 27.—An official dispatch from Porto Novo states that Col. Doods, in command of the French forces operating against King Behanzin, with a portion of his army, advanced against Sakete. When the Dahomeyans became aware of the advance of the French force they did not remain to give battle to them. The entire fighting force of the Dahomeyans, not only in Sakete, but in all the neighboring country, evacuated the district and fled northward.

Two Hundred Rioters Disabled.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 27.—The recent rioting in the Hughes steel works and colliery near Mariapol originated in the anger caused among the lower classes by the precautions taken against cholera. Two hundred rioters and twenty soldiers were disabled. The crowd sacked the hospital pharmacy. The riot was resumed next morning when a mob of 10,000 terrorized the village, killing several Jews. They burned a village. Then they invaded the factories, destroying everything. The damage amounts to several million roubles.

Shot Himself.

TORONTO, Aug. 27.—Chas. McClelland, the Parkdale builder who was shot and alleged he was attacked by footpads, has confessed that the wound was self-inflicted. He had been out of work for months, his family was starving and he became despondent, hence the rash act. He will probably recover, though he is not out of danger.

THE MINE HORROR.

Rescue of Thirty-nine of the Imprisoned Miners.

The Remainder Supposed to Have Perished.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—At 6 o'clock this evening a rescuing party ascended to the surface bearing with them two men whom they had found near the bottom of the pit. Both the men were badly burned and unconscious. They had evidently inhaled fire and will die. Shortly after these men were brought up the flames from the burning pit ascended and set fire to the structures at the pit head. When the huge tongues of fire were seen leaping up from the pit cries of horror and despair arose from the throng. Many women fainted, while the shrieks of others were heart-rending. When the flames issued from the pit all hope was abandoned. Those who escaped death in the explosion have certainly been suffocated or burned to death. A large number of rescuers are working the Park-slip pit. Many have been hoisted up exhausted. Seven miners found dead have not yet been brought to the surface.

The explosion was felt over an area of ten miles. It caused tremendous falls of earth which completely blocked the galleries. As the workings extend 1,700 yards, it is hoped that some miners who were working at a good distance from the shaft when the explosion occurred will be rescued alive.

Since yesterday noon, when knockings were heard, searchers have perceived no sign of life anywhere. There is little doubt that 141 miners perished. Nearly all were married and had families.

LONDON, Aug. 27—1:30 p.m.—To-day another dispatch was received from Bridgend stating that 39 of the prisoners had been rescued and brought to the pit head. The scene when they reached the surface was indescribable.

It is said some of the imprisoned men were unconscious when found, while others were in a dazed condition.

THE IRON HALL MUDDLE.

Chicago Branches Propose to Keep the Reserve Funds.

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—If the officers of the supreme sitting of the Iron Hall at Indianapolis get their fingers on a cent of the reserve fund of the Chicago branches they will have to be pretty spry. The officers of many of the local lodges are preparing to put a clever scheme into execution which will distribute the money to whom it rightfully belongs—namely, the paying members. Then the president, secretary and cashier will resign, so that when the receivers at Indianapolis come on to pounce upon everything unguarded, there will be nothing for them to seize and no one to hold responsible for the reserve fund. Each of the seventeen lodges and sisterhood branches in Chicago has in its possession a reserve fund ranging from $800 to $1,500.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Justice O'Brien yesterday appointed Geo. E. Gilnes temporary receiver of the property in this State of the supreme sitting of the order of the Iron Hall.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 27.—At 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon Judge Bregy appointed District Attorney George S. Graham receiver of the Iron Hall in this State. The appointment was made under both bills in equity. The judge is himself a member of the order.

MONTPELIER, Vt., Aug. 27.—Proceedings have been begun in the Court of Insolvency for this State against the Supreme Sitting of the Order of the Iron Hall in Vermont and an injunction has been granted. The appointment of a receiver was deferred by the court.

BOSTON, Aug. 27.—The courts of Massachusetts are to be asked to appoint a receiver for that part of the order of the Iron Hall which is within the jurisdiction of Massachusetts courts. The application is to be made in the Supreme Court and it is probable that the papers will be presented in behalf of the members of the Hyde Park branch, the other branches in the State being invited to participate under the one prosecution.

A REPORTED DISASTER.

In Which Eight Persons Were Drowned.

SAGINAW, Mich., Aug. 26.—The steam yacht Wapiti, which left here ten days ago on a pleasure trip, is lost in Georgian Bay. It is said that she went down in a gale to-day near Collingwood, and that eight persons on board were drowned.

The yacht belonged to Isaac Bearinger, of Saginaw, a partner in lumbering of Mr. Sibley, and cost $35,000. Sibley and Bearinger have large pine interests in Michigan and Canada.

Geo. Sherman, cook on board the yacht Wapiti, telegraphed from Collingwood, Ont., to-day: "Yacht wrecked; two of us saved; all the rest drowned."

The yacht had on board H. W. Sibley, his wife, son and daughter and two ladies, Miss M. B. Pond and Miss F. W. Durbin, of Rochester, N. Y. The crew was composed of Capt. Jas. Eldredge and Engineer Walter A. Henry, of this city, Jerome Hare, deck hand, fireman, name unknown, and George Sherman, cook.

The yacht left Mackinaw on the 21st for Georgian Bay and is reported to have gone on the rocks, where it went to pieces.

Mr. Sibley was 45 years old and a son of the late Hiram Sibley, of Rochester.

THE REPORT CONTRADICTED.

COLLINGWOOD, Aug. 27.—The reported loss of the yacht Wapiti of Detroit and the drowning of all but two of her hands is a canard, as she is safe in port. The report is believed to have originated through a message sent by the cook who was discharged here.

Another Steamer Grounded.

SAND BEACH, Mich., Aug. 26.—During a fierce gale the steamer H. D. Coffinberry shifted her boiler yesterday morning off Port Hope, Mich. Steam was let down and she drifted in the trough of the sea and began leaking badly. Sail was made and she was headed for the beach. She grounded two miles south of Port Hope on a stony bottom. It is feared her bottom is pounded out. Part of her crew came ashore in their own boat and the life-saving crew brought the remnant ashore. The Coffinberry was loaded with soft ore. The hull is insured for $25,000. The steamer Uganda, bound down, made an unsuccessful attempt to pick her up outside, but the sea was too heavy to do anything.

The top round of the ladder is an imaginary one. No one has ever reached it yet. Minard's Liniment, Lumberman's Friend

Fall River Tragedy

Miss Lizzie A. Borden's Trial Begins.

Sketches of the Accused and the Crime Charged Against Her.

Damaging Dialogue Between the Prisoner and Her Sister — Court Room Developments—How the Victims Met Their Death.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug. 26.—Not for years has New England witnessed a crime so remarkable in many respects as the mysterious double murder which now causes such intense excitement at Fall River, Mass., and has been the principal topic of discussion in all that section of the country. Andrew J. Borden, a wealthy and prominent citizen of Fall River, and his wife, were found brutally butchered in their home in broad daylight.

TWO MURDERS.

Mr. Borden was found lying on a sofa in the sitting room mutilated as by a hatchet, while Mrs. Borden was found in a chamber above, mutilated in a similar manner. At the time of the discovery of the murder little or no clue could be found, and for several days the mystery surrounding the crime was so deep that the officials did not feel warranted in making any arrest, though suspicion pointed toward John V. Morse, a brother of Mr. Borden's first wife, who had been an inmate of the house at various times.

LIZZIE SUSPECTED.

On the day succeeding the murder the two daughters, Lizzie A. and Emma J. Borden, published a notice offering $5,000 for the discovery of the murderer or murderess. Circumstances soon developed which caused suspicion to rest on the eldest daughter, Lizzie, and she was at once put under surveillance though not arrested. A drug clerk identified her as having come to a certain drug store to purchase poison a few days before and this strengthened suspicion. At the inquest Miss Borden told a straight story of her discovery of the crime. She said she went upstairs after finding the body of her father and saw that of her mother. She thought her mother had fallen in a swoon, but finding that she, too, was murdered, fled down stairs and fainted after giving the alarm.

THE ARREST.

After eight days Lizzie was arrested. A preliminary examination was held, and she was remanded to jail at Taunton to await trial. The discovery of a bloody hatchet in the cellar with hairs sticking upon it seemed to be a clinching piece of evidence against her. It has been ascertained that Mr. Borden was about to make a will, and herein is supposed to lie for the crime. It is said that both the sisters, Lizzie and Emma, had a dislike for Mrs. Borden, their stepmother, and so had John V. Morse. Mr. Borden resented on all possible occasions the attitude of his daughters toward his wife, and his object in making a will could be for nought else than to leave Mrs. Borden in a better financial condition than she would be if he died intestate. Her share of the real estate, if he died without a will, amounting to about $60,000, she would not own, but hold in trust for her daughters, drawing only the interest upon it. At 4 per cent. this real estate would yield her only about $2,400 per year. This would be enough to live on, but could never make her wealthy. Now, it is known that Mrs. Borden, who could not be called a designing woman, did nevertheless tell some of her intimate friends that if Mr. Borden died first she was to be well taken care of.

THE MOTIVE

LIZZIE'S EARLY HISTORY.

As a child Lizzie Borden was of a very sensitive nature, inclined to be non-communicative with new acquaintances, and this characteristic has clung to her all through life. She entered the high school when about 16 years old. The high school, for some reason, was not congenial to her tastes, for she left after completing a little over a year of the prescribed classical course of study. As a scholar she was not remarkable for brilliancy, but she was conscientious in her studies and, with application, always held a good rank in her class. After leaving school she remained at home. She abandoned her music lessons because she could not make progress.

UNDER RELIGIOUS INFLUENCE.

Her father and mother were regular church attendants, and she has been surrounded by Christian home influences. When a young girl she accompanied her parents to Chicago and was there a member of the Sunday school class and punctual in attendance. She was, however, a girl with anything but an enthusiastic idea of her own personal attainments. She thought people were not favorably disposed towards her and that she made a poor impression. About five years ago she began to fraternize with church people and made many friends, who have spoken kindly of her during her present trouble. Six years ago Miss Lizzie became an active participant in church matters. She made a profession of faith and was received into the church. She became an instructor for mill operatives in the Sunday school of the Congregational Church, but her courage gave out with the theretofore untutored boys, and she took a class of girls. She was also engaged with the instruction of Chinese in the Sunday school. Her most successful church work, however, was in connection with the Young Women's Christian Temperance Society.

DAMAGING DIALOGUE.

Since the time of her late arrival in this city Lizzie Borden has been visited daily by Miss Emma, who has been solicitous for her comfort and welfare. Everything that could possibly be suggested to make the prisoner's life at the Central station less tedious Miss Emma thought of and did. It appears that her attorney, Mr. Jennings, has also been a frequent caller at the Central station, and that his interviews with Miss Lizzie have not apparently been as satisfactory as desired. Wishing, as her counsel, to be possessed of information that he did not have, it is understood that he called at the Borden house and had a talk with her sister, Miss Emma. It is asserted that he told Miss Emma the importance of becoming at once acquainted with such facts in the case of which she might have a direct or indirect knowledge as had not yet come to his ears.

WHAT DID EMMA TELL?

It is understood that Miss Emma Borden told Mr. Jennings all that she knew or surmised as to the Borden murder. Becoming possessed of this information Mr. Jennings called at the Central station and asked to see the prisoner. He was shown at once to the matron's room and was allowed the attorney's customary privilege of seeing his client alone. Upon his entrance Mrs. Regan immediately departed, and for a considerable length of time the two were together. Then Mr. Jennings came out and the matron returned to her charge, whom she found more nervous and troubled than previously.

A REVELATION.

Soon after Lizzie's sister was announced. It was then that Mrs. Regan saw signs of increased nervousness in the prisoner's manner. Miss Emma spoke pleasantly, saying: "Well, Lizzie, how do you feel this afternoon?"

To this question her sister made reply: "You gave me away, Emma, did you not?"

Mrs. Regan was instantly alert. Such a remark she never before heard from a prisoner charged with a serious crime.

"No, Lizzie," was Emma's reply, "I only told Mr. Jennings what he ought to know for your defense?"

"That is false. You have given me away and I know it, but remember, I will not give in one inch; never, never! That is all I care to say to you," and with a violent wave of the hand she turned her back upon her sister.

With tears in her eyes and a voice choked with sobs Miss Emma left the room and the accused, overcome with emotion, fell prostrate on the bed.

Mrs. Regan watched the prisoner intently. The significance of the scene she had witnessed was fully realized and the compromising words of the suspected murderess, her unstrung nerves and wretched mental condition were a revelation.

THE TRIAL.

The Second District court-room never before held such a crowd as that which greeted Judge Blaisdell yesterday morning. It was the second date agreed upon for the hearing of Miss Lizzie A. Borden on the charge of killing her father with an axe. Clergymen, physicians and more than 150 women who were not directly connected with the case were in all parts of the room, while inside the rail was an extraordinary crowd of reporters and other newspaper workers. Women occupied more than two-thirds of the seats. Miss Borden's face gave evidence of an extreme strain. She was handed to her seat between her two legal advisers and near a settee on which her sister was seated. The two women sat elbow to elbow. Not a word passed between them.

Medical Examiner Dolan testified to the position of the bodies of the murdered couple when found, and to sending their stomachs to Prof. Wood, of Harvard College for analysis. Dr. Dolan was still on the stand at the close of the day's hearing.

SLIPSHOD METHODS.

The principal things developed by Attorney Adams' long examination was the exposure of the slipshod methods of the police and medical examiner, one of the results of which is the imprisonment of Miss Borden. The principal Government witness made a confession of this fact, allowing that his final search was delayed and that only a partial autopsy was held shortly after the bodies were discovered.

A SHOCKING SPECTACLE.

The official report on Mr. Borden's case says that "the left side of the face and head was cut and smashed by no less than twelve distinct blows by an axe or large hatchet. The report on Mrs. Borden says: "On the left side of the head, over the ear, was a wound two and a half inches long and one-fourth of an inch wide. On the right side of her head were a number of cuts penetrating the brain, so intermingled as to be practically impossible to count."

Miss Lizzie and her attorneys are well pleased with the result of the first day's proceedings. They see nothing which attaches the crime to the house, but see a great deal to show careless and even shiftless methods on the part of the prosecution.

The Trade Outlook.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Dun, Wiman & Co.'s weekly review of trade, says: In all aspects the business situation appears more favorable than a week ago. The failures during the past week were 165 in the United States, and for Canada 15; total 180, as compared with 197 last week. Corresponding week last year 226, or 204 failures in the United States, and 22 in Canada.

Lost Eyesight Restored.

HARRISBURG, N. Y., Aug. 29.—Miss Blanche Watson was made totally blind by a flash of lightning six weeks ago. She had retired for the night when a violent electric storm broke, and one particularly vivid flash left her sightless. Wednesday night she felt a peculiar itching sensation of the eyeballs, and while rubbing them her vision was suddenly restored. The only effect of her singular experience is a slight weakness of the eyes, which requires her to wear dark glasses.

Goods Exempt from Tolls.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 27.—Assistant Secretary Spaulding yesterday informed Hon. E. W. Meddaugh, at Detroit, that goods in transit on a through bill of lading from one American port to another, transported partly by water by American vessels and partly by land through Canada, transhipped either at American or Canadian ports, are not within the prohibition of the President's retaliatory proclamation. On the proof of the arrival of such goods in the United States, as provided in the circular of the department, the assistant secretary says tolls will not be exacted.

Was in Great Peril.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Aug. 27.—The steamer Empress of Japan has arrived from China and Japan. On Aug. 10 fire was caused in the after hold by the fusing of the electric light wires. The vessel was then 800 miles from Yokohama. Without giving an alarm to the passengers the captain put about and steamed full speed for Hakodate, the nearest port, and began fighting the fire through a hole made in the bulkhead. The vessel was in the utmost peril and at one time it was thought she must be abandoned, and the boats were lowered and provisioned for the purpose; but the crew managed to bring the ship to Hakodate, where the flames were extinguished after ten tons of sugar and tea had been consumed. The steamer then resumed her voyage. Among the passengers was Sir Edwin Arnold, who is returning to resume the editorship of the London Telegraph. He brings with him the finished copy of the new Japanese drama he has just written. Before leaving Japan he was decorated by the Emperor with the Order of the Rising Sun, and made a chokunin of the empire of Japan.

The merit of Hood's Sarsaparilla is not accidental, but is the result of careful study and experiment by educated pharmacists.

A WOODSTOCK HEROINE.

Mrs. S. A. Ball Knocks a Burglar Senseless.

After He Fires Four Shots at Her Husband.

WOODSTOCK, Ont., Aug. 27.—At 1 o'clock this morning Alfred S. Ball, barrister-at-law, while quietly reading in the dining room of his residence, was attacked by a burglar, who had come in through an open window, and was shot at four times. Two of the bullets struck him, one on the top of the head and the other in the arm. Mrs. Ball, hearing the disturbance, came to her husband's assistance. She knocked the burglar senseless and afterwards tied him and telephoned for assistance. The burglar is now in jail. Mr. Ball, although not seriously injured, will be confined to his room for several days.

The Cowham Failure.

JACKSON, Mich., Aug. 27.—The creditors of W. F. Cowham came pouring in yesterday. The extent of his liabilities will probably reach $250,000. Already over $195,000 is represented by Jackson legal firms and agents of creditors who have arrived, while thousands of dollars of debts are not yet represented here. Mr. Cowham thinks he can pay in full if given time, but cannot state the value of his assets, which consist of clothing, farm property, etc. Most of the debts are for carriages and wagons. The buggy bills alone are at least $75,000. One writ of attachment was issued yesterday and eleven writs of replevin.

These people say after they had bought the lots they were refused work. Their condition is pitiable. They have had neither bread nor meat for many days, they have no money and subsist almost entirely on green apples.

King Cholera

Effects a Landing on the Shores of England.

Unmistakable Cases of the Malady in Gravesend.

Fears That the Disease May Break Out in London.

A Steamer from Hamburg Sent Back to Sea—London's Water Supply a Source of Danger—Embargo on Travel.

SENT BACK TO SEA.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—To-day the steamer Laura, plying between Hamburg and Lynn-Regis, arrived at Lynn. She was boarded by the Leath officials, who found two cholera suspects on board. The vessel was at once ordered to put back to sea. The health officers positively refused to let a single person land.

FEARS THAT THE DISEASE WILL REACH LONDON.

The officials of the Local Government Board charged to watch the progress of cholera are to-night less confident of the metropolis escaping a visitation of the disease. The Gravesend cases are undoubtedly cases of Asiatic cholera. The medical officers who inspected the steamer Gemma, from which the cholera-stricken passengers were landed, permitted a number of other passengers to proceed to London under the excuse that they had not been in contact with that part of the vessel where the infection showed itself. To assuage alarm the authorities allege that precautions were taken to disinfect the passengers, but this statement, which has only been made since the character of the disease declared itself, is discredited. With cholera at Gravesend, and infected persons probably roaming about in our midst, some outbreak of the disease in London is considered inevitable. The port of London is not properly watched. The sanitary committee has applied for a vast increase of its staff, otherwise it cannot undertake the surveillance of ships entering the Thames from infected continental ports. But no Thames cordon will suffice to shut out the danger of infection. A stream of arrivals from the continent comes via Harwich, Southampton and other ports by train without inspection. Railways and steamship companies, excepting the transatlantic lines, show no intention of suspending their ordinary arrangements. In spite of the setting up of quarantine in foreign ports traffic will continue, making supervision on the Thames almost valueless.

PREPARING FOR AN OUTBREAK.

The authorities expect an outbreak and are preparing to meet it. In the east end, where the last epidemic—that of 1866—killed 16,000 people in a few weeks, the water supply has been tested and found to be of doubtful quality, and changes have been ordered in the filtering apparatus. The people of South London have been warned that their water is a source of danger.

EMBARGO ON TRAVEL.

The North German Lloyd Steamship Company has announced that its vessels will carry no steerage passengers who come from Russia during the epidemic.

Berlin officials deny that the Asiatic cholera is in the city. Orders have been issued to stop the railway traffic with Russia at every point along the frontier of East Prussia, with the exception of Eydtkuhnen and Prostken.

The Brussels Moniteur (official organ) denies that cholera is epidemic in any part of Belgium.

CHOLERA ON THE ELBE ISLANDS.

BERLIN, Aug. 27.—A dispatch from Hamburg says there is no apparent decrease in the cholera in spite of the cool weather. The disease has appeared on the islands in the Elbe. Hundreds of wealthy people have left the city. The dearth of doctors is severely felt. Several nurses have died.

QUICK WORK OF THE DISEASE.

BERLIN, Aug. 27.—A workman on a train was seized by cholera yesterday at Wittenberg and died in a few hours. Twenty-eight new cases of cholera and twelve deaths have been reported in Altona in 24 hours.

ROTTERDAM, Aug. 27.—The steamer Jason, from Hamburg, has arrived at Maassluis, ten miles west of this city, with several cases of Asiatic cholera aboard. Six of the crew are ill with the disease and two are dead.

FORBIDDEN WATERS.

HAMBURG, Aug. 27.—The police have issued orders forbidding the inhabitants of this city to drink water from the Elbe unless it has been previously boiled.

AT WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 27.—The officials of the Government having charge of the quarantine laws of the country are unquestionably concerned over the serious hold the epidemic of cholera has taken in Europe, though they feel fully prepared to cope with it on this side of the water in case it should be necessary.

IN LONDON.

LONDON, Aug. 27.—A Lambeth woman has been admitted to St. Thomas Hospital, supposed to be suffering from Asiatic cholera. The patient was isolated and all her clothes were burned. It has since been announced that the woman is recovering, and that her disease is believed to be English cholera.

THE FIRE RECORD.

MUNCIE, Ind., Aug. 27.—Early this morning the Muncie nail mill was consumed by fire. Loss $100,000, half of which is covered by insurance.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—A fire broke out in the Metropolitan Opera House this morning. The fire started in the rear part, and that portion of the building will probably be a total loss. It is hoped the front part of the entrance will be saved.

ALEX. SINCLAIR'S DEATH.

The Reeve of Lobo Commits Suicide—No Cause Assigned for the Rash Act—A Well-to-Do and Popular Man.

This morning's ADVERTISER announced the death by suicide of Alexander Sinclair, reeve of Lobo township. From what can be learned deceased must have been in a fit of temporary insanity when he committed the rash act. He was doing his usual work in the morning about 8 o'clock, and after that hour he was not seen until his two young sons found him dead in a shed near the barn some hours after. Suspicions were first aroused when he did not come to dinner, and it was thought that he might have gone to his other farm some distance away. This was searched from one end to the other, and no sign of him was found. His sons then went to the shed and were horrified to find their father hanging by the neck and dead. He had thrown a tie-strap over a rafter, slipped a noose around his neck and jumped from a scaffold on which he was standing. The matter of an inquest rests with Dr. MacClaren, coroner.

Deceased was about 48 years old and leaves a wife and four children—two sons and a daughter living at home and one daughter married. They have the sympathy of the community in their sad bereavement. Mr. Sinclair was an old settler in Lobo, and was well known and respected throughout the county. He had many fine personal qualities, and no man was more popular in the township. His friends say that for the past month or so he had taken a melancholy turn of mind and his mental aberration was more particularly noticeable when his business affairs were touched on. Why this should be is a mystery as he was in affluent circumstances and examination shows that he had no financial embarrassment to trouble him. He represented Lobo township on the County Council last year as deputy reeve and this year as reeve. In the township council he was deputy reeve for one year.

ONTARIO'S FRUIT.

Report of the Ontario Bureau of Industry.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 27.—The fruit section of the crop bulletin just issued by the Ontario Bureau of Industry says: The fruit crop on the whole is poor. Berries generally, abundant and of fair quality; cherries, a total failure; peaches, almost a failure; plums, very much below the average; black knot and curculio is killing out peach and cherry trees; pears, abundant crop and good quality all over; grapes, heavy and prospects excellent, though rot and mildew are feared in sections; apples, limited in quantity and inferior in quality, and all kinds of fruit pests and parasites are peculiarly abundant this year. Larger fruits may be arranged in the following order, from best to poorest: Pears, plums, apples, peaches and cherries.

The following estimate of the quantity of apples upon the trees in the different districts of the Province is based upon the replies of the producers from all parts of Ontario. It applies to fall and winter apples only, and does not include the product of town and village orchards:

District.	Total product, barrels.
Lake Erie	[illegible]
Lake Huron	[illegible]
Georgian Bay	[illegible]
West Midland	[illegible]
Lake Ontario	[illegible]
St. Lawrence and Ottawa	[illegible]
East Midland	[illegible]
Northern	5,070
Total	[illegible]

Most of our informants state that on the whole the apple crop of Ontario is less than one-half a full crop, and that owing to spotting the above figures in reality represent too high an estimate of yield.

The Lake Erie counties' yield will be far below the average, the greatest deficiency being in Essex; Kent is considerably better, Elgin and Norfolk fair and Welland very poor. In the Lake Huron counties Huron stands first with a large crop, then Bruce with a good crop, Lambton practically none. Grey promises a very good crop in size.

CONVERSAZIONE.

Hot Climates.

Which is the very hottest region of the globe is disputed warmly sometimes by travelers. The thermometer will not decide, in the sense we refer to, because local conditions have such great influence on our feeling of misery. Those who have been quartered at Aden would not allow that any spot on this upper earth can be more awful than that. But unfortunates who have dwelt in Scinde mock the terrors of Aden. Visitors to Bushire, in the Persian Gulf, talk lightly of Scinde; and Russians assert that there are districts in Central Asia more terrible than all three. One would incline to believe them also, if only it were proved possible to live through a summer in heat more cruel than that of Scinde, for instance. Americans also put in a claim for their Great Desert. One thing is assured—that the famous Sahara does not approach any of those mentioned. In some parts of Scinde necessity taught the inhabitants ages ago to invent an apparatus for cooling their rooms, which we were glad to adopt under the name "windsail."

As for the actual heat in the severest climates persons otherwise trustworthy will give astounding reports. We have heard responsible officers of the old India flotilla avouch that they have seen the glass register 200 degrees in the sun at Bushire. It was a long time ago, however, and there lies their excuse. Perhaps 180 degrees has been recorded for a brief space under peculiar circumstances. But when 160 degrees is passed every fraction becomes horribly perceptible. Ten degrees above this is not uncommon. The coolest place to be found at Shikarpur sometimes has been 140 degrees. But 120 in the shade may be regarded as the temperature of the very hottest climates in the world—when no wind blows. Fancy that as the minimum for 48 hours at a stretch. At Sukkur—the year round, mark!—residents endure a minimum of 97 degrees; happily there are very few whites among them. But this is in a time when no wind blows, and winds are the rule from March to July. There is the Suk, which rises, as scientific persons allege, in the Kachi Desert; but ordinary mortals will not be persuaded that it has its origin in the upper world. All life withers before it. But there is worse. The Bad-i-simoon kills outright everything it encounters; not only that—it burns up tissue and cartilage, so that the limbs can be pulled asunder when the storm has passed by. Of course, it is rare and brief and very narrow in its track. From the roof of his house in Jacobabad an officer watched it sweep by, destroying actually everything it met; but he, 50 yards from the edge, felt only a warmer glow than usual.—[London Standard.

Three Classes of Anarchists.

[From Harper's Weekly.]

The sober fact is that when we look at the Anarchists individually, we can distinguish several classes of them. One class consists of young men with some natural brightness, but little education, who consider themselves too good for steady work, who first started as Socialists, and who then were carried away by the ambition to distinguish themselves by being more radical than the rest, by proposing more violent "remedies" for existing evils, and by running their half-baked theories to more absurd extremes. There are some sincere fanatics among these who will do atrocious things with a certain consciousness of self-sacrifice, and also meet death with composure. But the character of their dementia makes them no less dangerous nor less criminal, either in the eyes of the law or those of common-sense. Another class consists of unthinking brawlers, who have nothing in their heads but a rich vocabulary of catchwords expressing their detestation of the "capital beast," and their eagerness for "revenge." Herr Most is a fair representative of this class. He has the reputation of being personally a coward, but nobody pronounces the bloodthirsty formulas of his creed with greater fluency and a richer affluence of language. There are, however, Anarchists more radical than he, who set him contemptuously down as a "reactionary."

A third class consists of men who, under the guise of avenging the wrongs of the poor or of vindicating the rights of labor, commit any crime that promises to satisfy their needs or suit their tastes. They are well represented by the Frenchman Ravachol, who recently met his fate on the scaffold. They are simply common robbers and assassins. But in the same measure as the other classes of Anarchists use the same means to effect their "social revolution," they will have practically to be treated as belonging to the same category.

Locality an Object.

The Times once contained an advertisement for an assistant "capable of teaching the classics as far as Homer and Virgil." Among the answers received was this delightful specimen:

"Sir,—With reference to the advertisement which was inserted in the Times newspaper a few days since respecting a school assistant, I beg to state that I should be happy to fill that situation; but as most of my friends reside in London, and not knowing how far Homer and Virgil is from town, I beg to state that I should not like to engage to teach classics farther than Hammersmith or Turnham Green, or, at the very utmost distance, farther than Brentford. Awaiting your reply, I am, sir," etc.—[London Tit Bits.

A Cow on the Track.

"I tell you a cow on the track is a pretty serious thing, more serious than most people suspect." The speaker was an old railroad man, and he was recalling reminiscences of far away days. "Many years ago when I was firing on an engine running in the New England States, we received orders one day to take out the passenger train for N——. Things went swimmingly, and we were making fast time when we struck a steep grade running down into a notch. The track was built on a ledge running along the side of a high hill. On one side the cliffs towered perpendicularly 250 feet, and on the other sloped away rapidly about 90 feet to the bottom of the ravine. The track ran partly round the hill, so we couldn't see very far ahead of us at any time. Well, we had a heavy train, and, although we put on brakes as soon as we struck the grade, the speed of the train rapidly increased. When about half way down we saw a cow standing on the track. There was no way of escape, for had it run to one side it would have fallen into the ravine. However, the animal became frightened at the whistle and started to run down the grade between the rails. The situation was critical. If the cowcatcher failed to knock the cow off the track and into the ravine at the first impact there was no power on earth could prevent the train with all its passengers from going over. It was impossible to stop. The situation flashed upon both the engineer and myself in a moment. Only a few seconds would elapse before we should overtake the animal. In an instant I threw off the brakes and the engineer opened the throttle and gave her a full head of steam. The engine jumped forward like a cannon ball, and in a couple of seconds we struck the cow. The force of the impact was sufficient to stagger the engine, but it was also enough to prevent the animal from getting under the wheels. The mass of bruised flesh and bone was thrown out over the ravine, and we were saved. I saw the animal turning somersaults as it fell into the depth below."—[St. Paul Pioneer Press.

A Night in a Barcelona Hotel.

The first night in Barcelona, guided by a Spanish priest, I went to a sort of posada in one of the by-streets, and managed to get a room by paying in advance one peseta, which was rung on the table with an evident suspicion of its genuineness. Having two days' railroad grime upon me, I thought it a comparatively small favor to be allowed to wash my hands. On timidly inquiring of one of the servants, I was led to a little toy tin affair containing water, and was furnished with a towel about large enough to dry the hands of a medium-sized clock. But when I asked for soap, I was stared at in a manner that made me very uncomfortable. I have not asked for soap since in Spain, for I do not wish to lose my life by violence, having voted for slow death by starvation in the cause of American art.

The bill of fare at this hotel was inclosed in a thick frame of wood that weighed about ten pounds, and it was dropped upon the table like a load of bricks in a way that made my teeth rattle. After his Herculean feat the waiter stared calmly at me with a cigarette between his lips, waiting for me to recover myself. Why should lodgers wish to steal the bill of fare? I give it up; I leave the question to philosophers; I have puzzled my brain long enough on this subject.

The supper ended; I went to bed. I have not yet forgot the odor that hung about that bed-room. It made me miserable, suspicious, too, of dread things to come. So I put a six-shooter under my pillow. There was a gas jet in the room. Aha! thought I, here is at least some sign of progress. But in the small hours of the night, arising to investigate something, I put a match to the burner and turned the cock in all directions. The gas had left the premises. And I left them, too, the next morning by the early dawn.—[Correspondence Boston Transcript.

BRANT.

A Paris lad named George Buckley, while climbing up the steep hill on the banks of the Grand River near the park, and when near the top of the hill, slipped and fell a distance of nearly 30 feet. Fortunately he was not seriously hurt.

As Jacob Shuert, St. George, was returning home the other evening he had a very narrow escape from death. While passing a crossing a buggy came rapidly up. The driver did not see Mr. Shuert, and he was knocked down, the horse and vehicle passing over him. He was picked up, placed in a conveyance and taken to his home, where upon examination he was found to be seriously cut and bruised externally and internally. Mr. Shuert being over 75 years of age his condition is looked upon as very serious.

Miss Rebecca Patten, has died at the residence of her father, Hugh Patten, St. George, in the 30th year of her age. The deceased has been an invalid for many years, during which time she has borne her sufferings with patience and fortitude.

On Thursday a Brantford man named Gradwell was rescued from drowning by a citizen named Kerr.

The other morning the residents at the dwelling house of William Sumner, Brantford township, were startled to find Mrs. Sumner dead in her bed, having passed away during the night. The lady retired the night previous apparently as well as usual, enjoying good health. Deceased was considered a healthy woman.

ELGIN.

Mr. Freeland, Houghton township, has been appointed fishery inspector.

A wild steer which was being loaded for shipment at the G. T. R. freight shed in St. Thomas a few days ago broke away, and was found at Mr. Barrett's farm, Yarmouth. Messrs. J. Campbell and R. Small succeeded in capturing the animal Thursday morning and brought it back behind a load of hay. The unruly animal twice upset an empty wagon to which it had been fastened.

Jacob, the 9-year-old son of Henry Mahoney, carpenter, St. Thomas, died Thursday morning. Two years ago the lad was kicked by a half-witted companion and never recovered from the injuries received.

Mrs. Mary Gray, of Fingal, died Thursday morning, aged 73 years. She leaves four sons—Thomas in Chicago, George in Port Stanley, William in St. Thomas, and John in Fingal.

Dr. T. W. Schlenker, graduate of the class of 1891, Toronto University, died Thursday at Ridgetown. He was in his 25th year.

ESSEX.

For some time it has been the custom of the landing waiters at the Windsor ferry to allow merchants to take small parcels through upon their leaving the invoices at the customs office, to be paid some other time. This has caused so much inconvenience that an order has been issued doing away with such a practice.

Chas. VanZandt, for stealing papers at Windsor, will spend 30 days with Sheriff Iler.

An accident to the machinery caused a stoppage of Windsor's electric cars Thursday morning. They were started again at 11 o'clock.

Mrs. Johanna Blantye, aged 94 years, has died at Amherstburg. She had lived there for 30 years.

GREY.

A terrible accident occurred on the farm of Henry Lisk, on the 19th concession of the township of Keppel, about three miles from Wiarton, a few days ago. Mr. Lisk's son George, a lad of some 14 years, was driving a load of grain to the barn when a portion of it fell off and he went with it. His father was at the barn, and noticed the team coming without a driver and with only a portion of the load. He went and stopped them and saw his son walking as if hurt. He went to his assistance and carried him to the barn, and laid him down while he procured water. The lad could not drink and he was taken into the house, when he started to bleed from the nose, ears and mouth, and died instantly. It is supposed that in the fall he ruptured a blood vessel.

Fred Armstrong, Flesherton, caught a peculiar fish in Beaver River, near Kimberley, which measured 26 inches in length and weighed 3½ pounds. It was an ugly looking fellow, and nothing like it had ever been caught in the river before. Consultation of an encyclopedia revealed the fact that it was a ling.

KENT.

A 12-year-old daughter of Wm. Jackson, con. 6, Chatham, was leading a cow to water on Wednesday, when the animal became unmanageable and ran. The rope being wound round her hand the poor girl was dragged round the yard several times, and she is thought to be seriously hurt.

While threshing at B. Gallagher's on Wednesday, Anthony Fobert, of Chatham, met with a misfortune. He was assisting to put the machine in the barn, when the tongue swung round and struck his leg, breaking it at the ankle joint.

Many friends will regret to hear of the death of Miss Savage, sister of Mrs. B. Paine. Deceased, about a year ago, entered Harper's Hospital, Detroit, as a nurse. About a week ago she was taken with an attack of inflammation, and in spite of the utmost skill died on Saturday. The remains were interred at Petrolea.—[Ridgetown Standard.

What might have been a serious accident on the G. T. R., so far as loss of life is concerned, took place near Mr. Brunker's, the other morning. Mr. Cowan's bull and four cows got on the track as the express was passing, and the bull and three of the cows were killed, while the fourth cow had its leg broken. The bull was pitched over 100 feet. The cars were not derailed, and the only injury to the train was the smashing of the cow-catcher.—[Chatham Banner.

Mr. J. G. Pennefeather, ex-collector of Chatham, is visiting his brother-in-law, Supt. Macdonell, of the Northwest Mounted Police, Fort Macleod, N. W. T.

LAMBTON.

Some thief or thieves stole a horse from the premises of John Allingham, lot 20, con. 10, Moore, the other night. The missing nag is a heavily built, dark sorrel horse, 10 years old, thirteen hands high, with a white stripe in the face.

The date of the Bosanquet fair, to be held at Thedford, has been changed to Friday, Oct. 15, so as not to clash with the Forest fair, which will be held on the 6th and 7th of October.

The campers at Kettle Point have returned home.

MIDDLESEX.

About 25 of the members and friends of the Hide Park Excelsior Reading Circle took the excursion on Wednesday to Sarnia. Arriving there they embarked on the Mary and sailed to Algonac, a distance of about 30 miles down the river. Returning they reached Port Huron about 5 o'clock, where, having spent a short time, they took the ferry to Sarnia and returned home, arriving at Hyde Park at 9 o'clock. All who went expressed themselves as having enjoyed a most delightful day.

Landing in Montreal, he came to Hamilton and then walked through the woods to Wardsville, returning by the same route after a time to Palermo, where he married Mary Miles. From there he moved to Aldborough, doing the first day's work on the Graham road. He afterwards removed to the farm a mile west of Newbury, where he lived till a short time before his death. The deceased was an elder in the Presbyterian Church.

It is described as about five and a half by three inches, and is most curiously formed, presenting the appearance of a bunch of macaroni, or of long, thin roots held together by some softer composition.

PERTH.

The first shipment of apples from St. Marys this season was made by E. Cubbon the other day. The apples were sent to Chicago, Illinois.

The death has occurred in Stratford of Mrs. Alex. S. Gourlay. She was married on June 7, 1891, not quite a year and eight months ago, and leaves an infant 11 months old. Deceased was born in the Gore of Downie in 1868 and came to Stratford with her father, Samuel Robb, about six years ago, and has resided there ever since. She was a consistent member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church and was highly respected by all her acquaintances.

WATERLOO.

A serious accident has happened to the wife of H. Krug, of Berlin. She was driving her horse on Frederick street, when the animal took fright and ran away. The lady was thrown violently out, sustaining painful injuries in the face. She was removed to a neighboring house, where medical aid attended her.

The number of tramps visiting Berlin during the past few weeks is in excess of any previous year. At one time there were twelve camped about a mile from the town near the railway track for over a year.

—[BROWNING.

London, Saturday August 27.

THERE are 35 journalists in the new House of Commons, of whom 7 are Conservatives and 28 Liberals. Quite a majority that.

THE Canada Presbyterian reaches the conclusion that "so long as money enables men to do as they please, and millionaires are above the law, there will be constant war between the rich and the poor."

POLITICS by no means absorbs the whole of the British Premier's time. The Grand Old Man has been appointed president of the "Archaic Greece and the East" section of the forthcoming International Congress of Orientalists in London.

TO ENCOURAGE cleanliness, the Montreal authorities exempt baths from taxation. The large majority of water commissoners regard a bath as a luxury. Why? Surely cleanliness is a positive necessity to the maintenance of good health.

IT IS now reported that Sir John Thompson intends to have himself appointed to the Supreme Court Bench soon after Mr. Abbott retires from the position of Conservative leader. There is no doubt that the retirement will take place soon, as the aged leader is in a very bad state of health.

THE London Standard, which is the chief Conservative newspaper in England, denounces protection in good set terms. It calls its advocates "political jackals" and it speaks of the "fœtid marshes of protectionism." No wonder that Sir Charles Tupper has taken a holiday trip, at the expense of the Canadian taxpayer, to the far north of Europe.

THE Hamilton Herald editor lays the flattering unction to his soul that increase of railway lines always means cheaper freight rates. Let him consult the merchants in some city that has more than one line of railway and he may have his eyes opened. Railway managers have a way of getting together and keeping rates up. And no one can blame them, provided their charges are reasonable and they do not discriminate against one place in favor of another.

THERE has been in England an interesting discussion as to the moral superiority of spinsters over matrons, from which it is shown that women who have achieved real greatness in history and shown greatest valor have been as a rule unmarried, the most illustrious examples given being Queen Elizabeth, Charlotte Corday, Joan of Arc, Florence Nightingale and Sister Rose Gertrude. A knowledge of these facts, however, will not prevent the most ambitious maiden of our day from marrying the man of her choice at the earliest opportunity.

THE GIRLS ARE HANDICAPPED.

According to the American census, as analyzed by the Toledo Commercial, there are a million less women in the United States than men. This means that the percentage of maids who have to pine away and die for lack of manly companionship will be considerably lower in the future than in the past. The world is gradually getting righted.—[Kingston Whig.

It may be that the world is gradually getting righted, but in the Dominion, if the indications are not misleading, we need a radical change of conditions or the feminine portion of the population will speedily be very much more numerous than the male. After a great war has carried off the flower of the young manhood of a nation the number of marriages shows a great decrease. Canada, in recent years, has not gone through a disastrous war, but its trade restriction policy has resulted in as great a loss of its young manhood as if the country had been descimated by the armies of an enemy. It is a serious matter for many industrious parents to find so many of the young men of Canada going off to a foreign country to seek that employment which, owing to a short-sighted policy, is denied them at home. In nine cases out of ten these young men settle down and marry the fair daughters of our brethren over the border, while a large portion of the Canadian girls capable of being helpmeets in every sense of the word to men worthy of them are left unmated. Fathers of families have an ever-increasing interest in every legitimate means in their power to prevent a further exodus of our young men and in righting the great wrong now done to the [illegible] women of th[illegible] Canada had [illegible] fair proportion [illegible] own [illegible] kept in Canada [illegible] 800,000 [illegible] than the [illegible] over [illegible] within the [illegible] of manhood now in favor of the United States would be much reduced.

The gain of our neighbors has certainly been a decided loss to the fair maids of Canada.

CANADA'S CHEESE EXPORT.

It is gratifying to know that the export trade in Canadian cheese has been very successful this year. Up to date the exports from the port of Montreal to Great Britain have exceeded $5,000,000 in value, and there is still left the August, September and October product to market. Up to the present time factorymen have experienced no difficulty in selling their goods at remunerative prices, and it remains to be seen if the fall make is taken off their hands as readily as that of the past three months has been. Upon this point there is a great diversity of opinion, some of the Montreal leading men in the trade, according to the Trade Bulletin, "maintaining that a great deal of the buying of late has been more on speculative than consumptive account, and the retail buyers have been pretty well stocked. If this be true, and the retailers in Great Britain have been induced to buy, on an average, say five boxes each over their present requirements, it would mean a tremendous quantity put on one side. If retailers have anticipated their wants to the extent reported, that fact alone will account for the promptness with which the heavy landings in England have of late gone into the hands of retailers; but at the same time this fact has been misleading, as the stock has not gone into immediate consumption, but a large portion of it is being stored for future requirements. On the other hand, it is claimed that owing to the healthy condition of trade in England and the fine weather suitable for outdoor work, the consumption of cheese has been simply phenomenal, and that the amount of stock in the hands of retailers is not as large as many believe. Be this as it may, it is pretty certain that short sales of September cheese have been made at 50s c.i.f. Liverpool, which is considered rather dangerous, when it is taken into account that the factorymen in Canada have sold up closer to the hoops than ever before known at this season of the year. There can be no question that the market in Montreal is easier; but when it comes to actual sales, it is difficult to buy at any material decline in prices. At the beginning of the week 3,000 to 4,000 boxes of French cheese were sold at 9¼ cents to 9⅜ cents, a few bringing a fraction more. The shipments of finest cheese going out by this week's steamers cost 9⅝ cents to 9¾ cents, and some a fraction more. The Liverpool public cable has dropped 6d. Regarding contracts, ten or twelve more factories have been taken this week at 10 cents to 10½ cents for August, September and October makes."

FRAUDULENT PRETENSE.

The ADVERTISER showed the other day, from the experience of Germany, that high tariffs do not make high wages. If such were the case, wages would be higher in Germany and other continental countries than in free trade Great Britain. The contrary is the case, however. British workmen earn more money and work shorter hours than do the workers in any of the so-called "protectionist" countries.

Come nearer home. The United States tariff was increased on many articles from 10 to 40 per cent. in 1890. Since then, it is pointed out by the New York World, the only men who have had an increase in wages are the Pinkertons, but the wholesale condemnation of their use as an armed force will make their employment much less profitable in the future.

Wages were relatively as much higher in both Canada and the United States than in the old world under the old low tariff than under the present "protective" taxes. Wages are relatively higher in North America in non-protected industries than in protected industries compared with old world wages.

If wages depended on tariffs it would be natural to conclude that as we have the same tariff all over the country wages would be uniform from Halifax to Victoria, B. C. We all know that in the Northwest Territories and in British Columbia wages are vastly higher than in the Maritime Provinces, and very considerably higher than the ruling rates here. To further show how absurd the contention is that wages are ruled by tariffs, the Foundrymen's Association of Philadelphia recently compiled a tabulated statement of wages paid in foundries throughout the States, and it was published in the Iron Age. According to this table the average wages of molders vary from $3 50 per day in San Francisco and Oakland, Cal., to $1 60 in Hagerstown, Md. A few of the other averages are: In Pittsburg, $3; Conshohocken, Pa., $2 83⅓; Philadelphia, $2 50; Chester, Pa., $2 40; York, Pa., $2 10; Reading, $2; Allentown, Pa., $1 90; Bloomsburg, Pa., $1 75; Denver, $3 25; New York and Brooklyn, $3; Chicago, $2 75; Charleston, $2 60; Portsmouth, N. H., $2 25; Elmira, N. Y., $2; Wilmington, Del., $1 85. The average wages of coremakers vary from $3 50 in Leadville, Col., and $3 25 in San Francisco, to $1 25 in Elmira and Brockport, N. Y., and Selma, Ala.; of cupola tenders, from $3 50 in Oakland, Cal., to $1 in several southern cities; of shippers, from $2 50 in Leadville, Col., to 75 cents in Athens, Ga.

The organ of the Red Parlor of Canada—the Manufacturer — professes surprise that the ADVERTISER should deny the truthfulness of the contention that high taxes are piled on imports for the purpose of enabling combines to pay their workmen big wages. Let the above proof of the fact that tariffs do not regulate wages be our reply to its criticisms. Wages, we again affirm, are regulated by the demand for labor and its supply, by the cost of living and by the skill, intelligence and productiveness of the workmen; by the ease with which they can leave the factories if the remuneration does not suit them and go upon the land. For these reasons, not because of the imposition of high taxes on imports, Canadian workers are better off than those of Germany.

Now let us ask the Manufacturer a question, and let us have a straightforward answer. Why are the workers of free trade Great Britain better paid, for shorter hours of work, than the workers in any old world country enjoying "protection"?

OLD AGE NOT A BARRIER.

Hon. Edward Blake is said to have expressed only one regret when he was called to enter British public life, and that was that he was not ten years younger. If the distinguished Canadian husbands his resources he is young enough to accomplish much good work before he need throw off the harness. He is not yet 59. People are apt to forget that Gladstone was over 60 before he became Premier of England, that Disraeli was 63 when he first became Prime Minister, and that even Lord Salisbury was 55 when, in 1885, he was first sent for by the Queen to become her chief adviser.

Old age is no bar to political preeminence if a man can keep his policy young. But he must move with the times, or he will be left behind sure. Mr. Gladstone exemplifies this fact most strikingly.

SIZED UP.

The Methodist Magazine takes strong grounds in favor of a plebiscite on the liquor question. It contends that the paternal Government at Ottawa has sent out "a commision to gather evidence which may be manipulated at will." That undoubtedly was the object which Mr. Foster and his time-serving friends had in view, and truth to tell the commission so far is filling the bill in a way that must be highly satisfactory to those who were so very anxious to prevent the people of Canada from giving an unprejudiced vote on the subject.

Notwithstanding the almost prohibitory tariff of the United States large numbers of Canadian lambs continue to be shipped across the border, proof positive that removal of the tariff would be an immense boon to the Canadian farmer.

A delicate point in patent law was illuminated recently by Justice Cave in London, in a suit brought by a manufacturer of souvenir spoons against a rival. Each maker had ornamented his spoons with a representation of Westminster Abbey, and the learned justice decided that there could be no infringement of patent if the abbey was represented or seen from different points of vision.

Thomas Carlyle lies peacefully in the remote churchyard of Ecclefechan—whose only other claim to distinction is that it was once proposed by a Scotch member as the place where the Imperial Parliament should meet, being more central for the United Kingdom than London and less likely to raise rival jealousies—serenly undisturbed by mundane affairs; but it is not difficult to imagine what his language would be could he be brought back in life to the house in Chelsea which he loved so well. Just now he would not find a cool and quiet refuge even in the cellar. His house, it appears, is in the possession of Elizabeth Ann Cottell, who has a mania for cats, dogs, and birds. There are at this moment in the sage's former residence between 20 and 30 cats and dogs running about the dining room, drawing room, garrets, and cellars, with a few parrots and other birds thrown in for variety. The place is, in fact, a regular menagerie. The animals bark and howl, and, according to the sanitary inspector, the place may be regarded as a pretty fair sample of what the Augean stables were before Hercules undertook the task of cleaning them out. For this the lady was summoned to the local police court. The magistrate ordered the nuisance to be abated and the animals cleaned out.

Dr. Lauder Brunton has made a discovery which ought to entitle him to the gratitude of all who live by intellectual labour. It is nothing less than the secret of how to have ideas at will. One night, after a long day's work, this eminent physician was called upon to write an article immediately. He sat down with pen, ink and paper before him, but not a single idea came into his head, not a single word could he write. Lying back, he then soliloquised: "The brain is the same as it was yesterday, and it worked then; why will it not work to-day?" Then it occurred to him that the day before he was not so tired, and that probably the circulation was a little brisker than to-day. He next considered the various experiments on the connection between cerebral circulation and mental activity, and concluded that if the blood would not come to the brain the best thing would be to bring the brain down to the blood. It was at this moment that he was seized with the happy thought of laying his head "flat upon the table. At once his ideas began to flow and his pen to run across the paper." By and by Dr. Brunton thought "I am getting on so well I may sit up now." But it would not do. "The moment," he continues, "that I raised my head, my mind became an utter blank; so I put my head down again flat upon the table, and finished my article in that position."

THE CANAL TROUBLES.

[Hamilton Herald.]

The whole matter may be regarded as one of a series of petty annoyances which the people of both countries have been put to by their politicians.

THE DOCTRINE OF AVERAGES.

[Montreal Herald.]

The Glasgow Mail calculates that only 1 person in 52,000,000 travelers by rail is killed and only 1 in 1,930,935 is injured. This makes a railway carriage the safest place in the world, and anyone who has a presentiment of coming to his death by violence had better keep on traveling. The worst part of the doctrine of averages is that the person caught, be he only one in ever so many millions, is killed just as dead as if the average was only one in a score.

CATTLE AND SHEEP.

The Minister of Agriculture Discusses the Question—High Rates on the Steamship Lines Reduce the Farmers' Profits.

Mr. John Dryden, Minister of Agriculture for Ontario, has been discussing the question of the Anglo-Canadian cattle trade. Of course, since the shipment of Canadian cattle to England closes practically with the close of navigation on the St. Lawrence, the greater portion of this year's shipments are made.

"The results," said the Minister, "have not been altogether satisfactory. Complaints by shippers of the high rates charged by the steamship companies have been louder and more general than for a long time past. We have three lines in the trade—the Allan, the Dominion and the Beaver. An arrangement was reached among these lines by which they agreed to charge the same rates, and I am told that they have been known to demand as much as 70 shillings a head. Now, the American lines would probably not ask more than half that amount anyway, so during the past season the benefit which the Canadian farmer derived through the discrimination in his favor, by which Canadian cattle may be taken alive to any part of the kingdom, while American cattle must be slaughtered at the port of entry, was quite offset by the reduced cost of passage by American lines. I question whether the American did not derive the bigger profit. Within the last few days I notice that one of the Canadian lines has reduced its charge to 30 shillings, which is likely to result in a general reduction, but this will not affect the profits of those who have already sold."

With regard to the quality of cattle shipped, Mr. Dryden said that a great disadvantage to Canadian sales in England arose over the habit of shippers in buying cattle in bulk, as the farmer was thereby discouraged in raising a first-class animal. When the cargo reached England they were sold singly generally. The sooner there was a determination on the part of the Canadian farmer to raise a first-class article for British markets the better it would be for him.

Speaking of the sheep trade, Mr. Dryden said that there was not now a great lot of mutton raised for export, in the central section of Ontario at all events, and this he thought a serious mistake. It would be remembered that for the last few years 100 lambs, or in reality yearlings, had been sent to England to test the market there. Judging from the price received for those which were sold, the net profit on the 100 would be $132, less than if they were sold at the price offered in Canada. They were sold about May last at the highest market price in Britain, and as most farmers in this country sell the lambs in autumn, there is much demand for good mutton in the spring.

BABY FARMING.

An Act That Seems to Have Been Lost Sight Of.

Recent events in connection with a baby farming establishment in this city set Sheriff Mackellar a-hunting among the laws of the land, dead and alive. He found that in the time of James I. an act of Parliament was passed making it legal to put illegitimate children to death. That law was certainly more convenient and perhaps more merciful than the modern way of getting rid of the unfortunates. Of course the law was repealed long ago.

But in 1887 the Legislature of Ontario passed an act, chapter 36, which directs that "it shall not be lawful for any person to retain or receive for hire or reward more than one infant, and in case of twins more than two infants, under the age of 1 year, for the purpose of nursing or maintaining such infants apart from their parents for a longer period than 24 hours, except in a house which has been registered as herein provided."

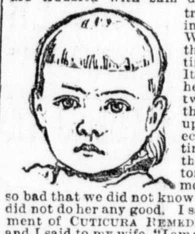

Clause 2 provides that "the municipal council of every local municipalty shall keep a register of the names of persons applying to register for the purposes of this act, and therein shall cause to be registered the name and the house of every person so applying, and the situation of the house; and the council shall, from time to time, make bylaws fixing the number of infants who may be received into any and every house so registered. The registration shall remain in force one year. No fee shall be charged for registration. Every person who receives or retains any infant in contravention to the provisions of this act, shall be guilty of an offense against the act."—[Hamilton Spectator.

ITCHING AND BURNING

Sores All Over Her Body. Suffering Endless. Doctor Useless. Cured in Four Weeks by Cuticura.

Your most valuable CUTICURA REMEDIES have done my little girl so much good that I feel like saying this for the benefit of those who are troubled with skin diseases. She was troubled with itching, burning sores. When I took her to the doctor the first time, he called it the Italian itch, and said he would cure her in two weeks. When the two weeks were up, he called it eczema, and in that time she was worse than before. He doctored her for three months, and she was so bad that we did not know what to do. He did not do her any good. I saw the advertisement of CUTICURA REMEDIES in the paper, and I said to my wife, "I am going to try them." Mind what I say, she was so thick with sores that we had to soak her clothes to take them off. Itch! there was no end of it. She had it all over her body, back, legs, arms, in between her fingers. She did not have it on her head. But after taking your CUTICURA REMEDIES for two weeks the itch stopped, and in four weeks the sores were all gone. I inclose her portrait. I am more than pleased with your CUTICURA REMEDIES, as they speedily cured my daughter, and if anybody asks me about your remedies, I will uphold them wherever I go.

BASEBALL.

ONTARIO DEFEATS CANADA.

A great game of ball was played yesterday afternoon on Tecumseh Park. The opposing teams were picked nines from Canada and Ontario lodges of the National Union. It is said that Ontario can beat all Canada on general principles; at any rate the club bearing the former name succeeded in doing up Canada by a pretty good score. If the Canada men had begun to find the ball earlier in the game, the score might have told a different tale, but it was the sixth inning before they commenced to "get on" to Brother Bell's curves. Some spectators had brought along tin horns, and as their sympathies were with the losing side they succeeded in slightly rattling the Ontarios towards the end by hideous peals. Brother John Paul started to twirl the sphere for the Canadas, while Brother "Bob" Ironside, encased on regulation mask and stomach pad, stood up bravely to receive his lightning delivery. In order to give the Ontarios some show Bro. Paul retired in the third in favor of Bro. Fred Wood. In the sixth the battery was reversed, Bro. Ironside entering the pitcher's box and Bro. Wood going behind the bat. Bro. George Trebilcock, one of the old-timers, did the twirling in the seventh, eighth and ninth, so that the Ontario brethren were given a choice variety. There were some brilliant fielding features. Bro. Flock, who used to be a crack player, showed by the way he covered third base that he only wanted a few years' practice to put him in his old-time form again. Bro. Lawrason at short made several muffs in a manner that gave great promise of future excellence. Bro. Paul distinguished himself in the field equally as well as at pitching, while the second base work of Bro. Graham for the Ontarios reminded one of Shiebeck in his palmiest days. Bro. R. K. Cowan held down third bag for the Ontarios during a part of the game, and his sprinting abilities excited the warmest admiration. Bro. J. C. Trebilcock made a dazzling play by batting one of Bell's twisters against the person of a small boy, who set up a piteous howl. There were other incidents too numerous to mention—errors, for instance. The scorer, Bro. J. L. Fitzgerald, declined to keep account of them. W. Hiscott, of the Alerts, umpired very satisfactorily and was given no "sass." As a result of this remarkable match the poor of the city will be richer by 200 loaves of bread at the expense of Canada Lodge. The following is the score:

THE TURF.

ALL IS NOT GOLD THAT GLITTERS.

The record of the present season demonstrates conclusively that there has been too much speculation and too little attention to the legitimate business of racing. Cleveland, with its $100,000 invested, failed to make a cent this year. It is true the weather was against the meeting, but the money is tied up in the track nevertheless. Buffalo's season has been frightfully disastrous. Rochester, with a track that cost over $100,000, made nothing, and is a probable loser. Detroit, Cincinnati and Sturgis, Mich., failed to clear a dollar, while Grand Rapids is an acknowledged loser. Last year Chicago lost over $4,000, and Lexington, Ky., with its wheel of fortune and tin cup record attachments, cleared but $2,500, receiving $3,500 for the wheel of fortune privilege alone. Nashville, Cambridge City and Hartford were on the losing side last year. The chances are after the results of the last two seasons have been duly considered the 5 per cent. entry will be abolished. There are enough associations that have lost at 10 per cent., and it will not be good policy to break the camel's back with the 5 per cent. straw.—[Cleveland Leader.

Fire Hazard.

Prof. Charles B. Gibson, of Chicago, in his special report to the insurance companies on the "Hazard of Steam Pipes" and upon "Coverings for Steam Pipes," says: "All organic matter, such as hair felt, becomes more or less charred by constant contact with hot steam pipes, even though the temperature be but a little above the boiling point of water; and by steam of 300° F. and above, so thoroughly scorched after a time as to become very fragile and to crumble away rapidly. It is noticeable that the dust formed from this charred material is very combustible and will flash like gunpowder when thrown into the fire. When steam of high temperature is used it is by far the safest to employ a covering wholly incombustible."

This was the first relief she got, and before one bottle was used the benefit she derived from it was beyond our expectation."

Affections once firmly set are generally tenacious, no matter what the object may be. To this fact the success of M. McKay & Co., of this city, is largely due. Those who have tried their Norma cigars never forsake them, and thus the firm retains all their old customers, and by the reputation only of the goods add new ones to the roll. For excellence the Norma at 10 cents is superlative.

THE HOLIDAYS ARE OVER

And the Pupils Are Busy Hunting Up Their Books—The Collegiate Institute Will Have an Influx—A New Science Master.

School opens Monday, and children everywhere are beginning to hunt up their books and get themselves in readiness. Doubtless many are groaning in spirit, anticipating tough problems in arithmetic, involved sentences to be analyzed and events and dates in history to be memorized. The freedom and the varied amusements of vacation will give place to the restraints and the imposed tasks of the school room. These, fortunately, are not without their pleasant aspects. There is a mild and pleasant excitement in school life. The companionship of class-mates is like no other. The wants of the day, the fortunes and successes that make up the sum of a pupil's existence are events which they talk over together, and which they anticipate not without marked satisfaction. Even the teacher does not return to her post always unwillingly.

The addition to the Collegiate Institute has not yet been commenced, but from appearances it will be required before long. F. W. Merchant, principal of the Collegiate Institute, has received many applications from students residing outside of the city, and expects that about 100 of them will be in attendance. The whole number of students, it is expected, will aggregate about 550, and to accommodate these the institute will be pretty well crowded. One extra teacher will be engaged for the entrance pupils, and two if required. The gymnasium will be fitted up at once, and here the boys will enlarge their muscles. W. T. McClement, M.A., of Ingersoll, has been engaged as science master in place of Mr. Lougheed, of Galt, who was unable to secure his release in time from the Board of Education of that town. Mr. McClement is very highly recommended by the high school inspectors and officers of the educational department.

All pupils of both the institute and the public schools who are desirous of attending should be present on the first day to get their places in the forms to which they are promoted.

CATHOLICS BECOME BAPTISTS.

A Notable Event in the Religious History of Quebec.

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 26.—A scene possibly unprecedented in the history of the Province of Quebec took place at Maskinonge yesterday when ten men and one woman were baptized according to the practice of the Baptist Church, being converts from the Roman Catholic Church. This is the outcome of the action taken by a majority of the parishioners a year ago. They asked that a church be erected on their side of the river and a cure be appointed. This was refused, and the dissenters built a chapel where a regular altar was erected and the services of the R. C. Church held minus the cure.

Last November Rev. Mr. Burwash, of the Grand Ligne Mission (Baptist), visited the chapel, and with other Baptist ministers continued to do so, preaching as opportunity offered with the results stated above.

The chapel is now turned into a Baptist church. Yesterday upwards of 200 persons witnessed the ordinance administered. Rev. Mr. Therrien preached a sermon and urged the converts not to be turned back by the sneers of friends or foes. One of those baptized yesterday was Mr. Marchand, 65 years of age, one of the wealthiest men in the district.

A TERRIBLE TROUBLE NOW PREVALENT IN OUR DOMINION!

The medical profession acknowledge that melancholia is a grave disease, especially as it often leads on to self-destruction and insanity. Many eminent physicians have devoted much time and attention to the study of this terrible trouble; and at the present time the subject is being investigated by a few of our leading medical men,

It is generally conceded, that melancholia proceeds from sleeplessness, nerve disorders and depression of spirits. The melancholic man or women is the victim of terrible hallucinations, fearful dreams, and a belief that life is always threatened. It is not uncommon to see melancholiacs attempt suicide and destruction.

Up to the present time no treatment has proved of greater value, or so effectual, as Paine's Celery Compound. The best medical men in our land prescribe Paine's Celery Compound regularly for cases of melancholia, and the grandest results invariably follow. No other remedy is so well adapted to reach the root of this dreaded trouble.

Paine's Celery Compound soon calms the nervous system; it gives strength to the weakened body and brings repose and sweet sleep, which the sufferer needs more than anything else. Thousands of melancholiacs in Canada have been renewed through the agency of Paine's Celery Compound. Men and women who were almost despaired of have been restored to friends perfectly cured. This grand medicine has no equal in the field of disease and suffering. The results achieved yearly far exceed all the efforts of ordinary physicians. It never fails in its glorious work of renewing and building up the weak and broken-down. Reader, if any of your friends are inclined to be melancholic or show any of the symptoms that lead to this dreadful trouble, strongly advise the use of Paine's Celery Compound; when you do this you give golden and precious advice.

Ate a Pear with a Bee on It.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., Aug. 26.—A pear picked up by Samuel Nicemender had a bee on it, and when Nicemender ate it he was stung on the tongue. Lockjaw set in and his life is despaired of.

A man who is blunt in his way may be sharp in his speech.

At the new home for fresh air children at Ridgewood, N. J., the rector of Christ Church of that village was addressing the children. He told them how sin tended to mar all that was good, and held before them the illustration of the blossom in its blight and the young fruit in its disfigurement caused by the worm that seized upon them before they matured. "So sin enters the heart and defiles it," he said. Then, after a moment added: "Now, boys, what is sin?" "Worms?" came back the answer from his juvenile audience.

EAST BUFFALO, N. Y.

EAST BUFFALO, N.Y., Aug. 26.—Cattle—With to-day's receipts and hold-overs there were 20 cars on sale. One load of choice 1,537 pound steers sold for export, at $4 85, and a part of a load of 1,275 pound-steers sold to city butchers at $4 65; butchers' cattle sold from $3 20 to $3, or at full low Wednesday values.

Sheep and Lambs—Eighteen loads offered, including what were yarded late yesterday; demand very light; some of the stock is good quality, but some of it prime and largely composed of the green and half-fat order; very good 77 lb lambs sold at $6, it took extra to get whether lambs to bring $6 75; common and cull stuff, $2 50 to $3 50; Canadas sold at $6 50. There are fair prospects for fat Canada stock. Sheep very dull, choice selling at $4 50 to $4 75 and very best not above $5.

Hogs—The market is about as nearly demoralized as we have had it in a long time; 40 cars on sale; some fed lots of straight corn hogs sold at $5 60 to $5 65; but few were wanted at that price, and $5 50 to $5 55 got some later nearly as good; pently of fair grades would hardly call for a bid above $5 25, while grassers have practically no market values; a few light weights and pigs sold around $5 40 nearly after close selections; fair pigs quotable at about $5; roughs, $3 75 to $4 25; stags, $3 to $3 50.

MONTREAL.

MONTREAL, Aug. 25.—Four hundred head of butchers' cattle, 80 calves and 800 sheep and lambs offered at the East End abattoir to-day. Trade was fairly good, there being an active demand for the best cattle at firm rates; common and inferior stock were lower priced than on Monday, but fully as high as on Thursday. A few of the best animals were sold at from 4½c to 4¾c per lb., with pretty good stock at about 4c per lb; thrifty steers and common dry cows sold at from 3c to 3½c, and lean stock sold down to 2c per lb. The best calves were bought up before reaching the market, and prices of all kind seem to be looking up, common calves selling from $3 to $5 each, and good ones at from $5 to $10. Mutton critters were rather plentiful to-day, but there were not many good ones among them, which helped to keep up the prices of good lambs; other kinds dull and lower. Old sheep, $2 75 to $4 50 each; lambs, $1 75 to $4. Fat hogs rather scarce and prices higher, large packers selling at about 5½c per lb, and small hogs at from 5½c to 5¾c per lb.

—Caretaker Burdick, of Queen's Park, says that a large number of dogs brought there by the dog catchers are diseased and that it is humane to put an end to their lives. One put to death this morning was suffering from mange. A large number of them are in a starved condition.

—The W. C. T. U. will hold a mass meeting at Queen's Park to-morrow (Sunday) at 4 p.m. Rev. Dr. Antliffe, pastor of Dundas Center Church, will deliver an address. The other city pastors who have assisted the ladies during the summer will be present and take part in the services.

—An indignant South London correspondent writes to say that just as a woman who had washed from early morn yesterday had filled her line, two feminine neighbors came along with an axe, cut the rope and let the clothes fall into the dirt. The police court is the proper place in which to ventilate the matter.

—While searching among old civic documents this morning City Clerk Kingston came across the following sentiment scribbled on the back of an ancient bylaw:

Like as a plank of driftwood tossed on a watery main,
Another plank encounters, meets, touches, parts again;
So it is with men forever on life's uncertain sea—
They meet and greet and sever, drifting eternally.

The Dog Catchers' Harvest.

Over 50 canines have thus far been entrapped in the dog catchers' net and imprisoned at Queen's Park. Owners have recovered 29 of them by paying the necessary fees, 8 have been put to death by being shot or poisoned, while 18 canines are now in durance vile, and will be killed shortly if not claimed. They are mostly mongrel curs that are better dead than alive.

Sudden Death of Mrs. James Priddis.

The death occurred very suddenly this afternoon of Mrs. James Priddis. An hour before the sad occurrence she was doing some shopping around the city and was in perfect health apparently. A few minutes after she returned home she dropped dead. Heart failure was doubtless the cause of her demise. Mr. James Priddis is at present in England in the interests of Priddis Bros., of which firm he is a partner. The sad event will be a terrible shock to him. They have no family.

GREAT NEW YORK FIRE.

The Magnificent Metropolitan Opera House in Ruins.

Another Fire Raging at the Corner of Spring and Wooster Streets.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—The Metropolitan Opera House, one of the most magnificent and expensive of modern play houses, occupying the entire block, bounded by Broadway and Seventh avenue, Thirty-ninth and Fortieth streets, was ruined by fire this morning. The Broadway front was saved by the firemen, but fully three-quarters of the structure was made havoc of by the flames. Just where the fire started is yet unknown, but it must have been in the vicinity of the stage, which backs on Seventh avenue. How the flames managed to get such headway without being discovered is also a problem that puzzles Fire Chief Bonner and his men. The special building signal was rung at about 9:30 and in less than a minute later engine No. 27 quartered on west Thirty-seventh street near Seventh avenue was at the opera house. The entire center of the theater was a fiery mass, and as it was apparent that the block would be consumed help was called without delay. Over a dozen steamers quickly responded to this summons, and as it was clear that there was no saving the theater the united efforts of the firemen were exerted to save the Broadway front, in which are located the Bank of New Amsterdam, and Soancheri & Gazzo's restaurant. The former covers Thirty-ninth street corner and the latter the Fortieth street corner. The main entrance to the Metropolitan Opera House was on Broadway, between the bank and restaurant. The firemen succeeded in saving the front, the wind blowing strongly from the east and sweeping the flames back toward Seventh avenue. The offices in the six stories of the front were not touched by the fire, but those of the opera house company which were on Thirty-ninth street side, near Seventh avenue, were badly gutted by fire and deluged by water. There was also an expensive library in this section, which was greatly damaged.

Only one boy is known to have been injured.

Artist Opert arrived just as the fire was discovered, and had the mortification of seeing his valuable work of art burned up. Most of the pictures which he was engaged on were for the World's Fair and the Columbus celebration, which is to take place in this city in October. The scenery for the new plays to be produced in a few days at the Casino and Daly's theatres and Academy of Music was completely destroyed.

During the summer the house has been chiefly used for commencements, and was just used for a ball. The pine flooring had not been removed, and this, once ignited, carried the fire to the main entrance. The interior of the theater had been overhauled and was thoroughly fitted for the opening of the season, which would have taken place in a short time. Before 10 o'clock the roof had been burned through and the flames and smoke shot high into the air. This assisted the firemen materially in saving the Broadway front. Half an hour later, the flames having eaten up everything before them, had literally burned themselves out and the fire was reported under control.

ANOTHER LARGE FIRE.

Another large fire is raging at the corner of Spring and Wooster streets. A large cloak house is said to be on fire.

Other Fires.

BRANTFORD, Aug. 27.—Miss Gertrude Truss, daughter of one of the officials of the institution for the blind, was cooking breakfast when she left the kitchen for a minute to call the other members of the family. Just after her departure the oil stove burst and set the kitchen on fire. The brigade confined the blaze to the latter structure, a wooden addition. Loss about $400, covered by insurance.

SARNIA, Aug. 27.—A fire broke out here yesterday in a one-and-a-half story frame dwelling house in No. 1 ward, facing the London road, and about $300 worth of damage was done before the firemen could extinguish the flames. The building was owned by T. C. Watson and occupied by Charles Millard. The fire originated in the summer kitchen, having caught from the cook stove. The loss is covered by insurance.

Eggs in Britain.

Eggs have been rather quiter in London this week, but supplies being not too great, quotations are unaltered. In Glasgow and Liverpool Canadian are selling at recent currencies. In the former port, complaints come of eggs arriving from the Dominion in rather poor condition, "owing to the extreme heat the other side," and to the heat of the passage. I sent a suggestion in one of my advices as to the ventilation of the cases which might obviate much of this. In connection with the coming trade in limed eggs, which, I understand, Canadians are going in for so extensively, I have to warn my Canadian readers against trusting to the English market for prices, as all trade in this respect last year spelt ruin to those engaged in it. Contracts should be made at a fixed price, delivered in Liverpool or London, and then the shipper will not get bit. Many men here will have no more to do with the limed trade; but there is a good demand for well pickled stock from that splendid disseminating medium, Liverpool, between October and December; and, if arrangements are immediately made, a fair trade awaits Canadian picklers, who would do wisely at the same time to save their limed to be shipped as such, and not mix with fresh, as was done at the close of last season, to the disgust of receivers. The Grocers' Journal has a word to say on this subject in its current issue, and, while speaking very favorably of the prospects for Canadian limed hen fruit, warns shippers not to consign too frequently, and says: "It would be wise in our Canadian friends to build up their new house of commerce slowly, and not send too fast or too much."—[London, Eng., correspondent of the Bulletin.

A Possible Explanation.

Mollie—I wonder why they married. He isn't rich, nor a foreigner; not even an English lord.

Dollie—No; and she hasn't any money, nor been on the stage, nor done anything like that. And her father is only a common American, not even a Knickerbocker. I can't understand it.

Mollie (with a bright thought)—Perhaps—perhaps they were in love!

Politics vs. Science.

There are two subjects which are engrossing the conversational powers of the Dominion at present, and they are both worth discussing. One of them is the political situation and the other is the new discovery of science, the Rigby Waterproof Cloth.

The latter, we think, rather holds the floor, as the ladies are participating. The goods are now on the market in ladies cloth as well as in gentlemen's cloth and garments. bd&w

No one need fear cholera or any summer complaint if they have a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial ready for use. It corrects all looseness of the bowels promptly and causes a healthy and natural action. This is a medicine adapted for the young and old, rich and poor, and is rapidly becoming the most popular medicine for cholera, dysentery, etc., in the market.

The pneumatic tire, by the way, is not a new invention, but a new application of an old one. As long ago as 1820 inflated rubber tires were used on wagons with great success, and it is only to be wondered at that enterprising wheelmen did not use them before.

C. C. RICHARDS & Co.

Gentlemen,—For years I have been troubled with scrofulous sores upon my face. I have spent hundreds of dollars trying to effect a cure without any result. I am happy to say one bottle of MINARD'S LINIMENT entirely cured me and I can heartily recommend it to all as the best medicine in the world.

SHORTHAND!

Typewriting and the Phonograph.

Why Waste your time and money attending an inferior school where shorthand is taught by inexperienced teachers, and where they dare not undertake to procure a situation for you because they cannot qualify you to fill one?

We guarantee a situation to every graduate. We can do this Because Our teachers are professional stenographers. Our typewriters are the latest make, including the celebrated Smith Premier. We have the phonograph, the latest business machine, and we have the confidence of business men and thoroughly understand our business, and do not pretend to teach a dozen different subjects.

This Week We secured for Mr. Alex. Jones, of this city, one of our graduates, the appointment of teacher of shorthand at St. Pius College, Chicago. They heard of us there and were wise in selecting one of our students. We also placed Miss Hodgins, of Lucan, as stenographer for W. H. Kennedy, Esq., barrister-at-law, Watford, and Miss Celia Cain as stenographer for the Grand Trunk Railway Company. Write for terms, etc., to Adam Graeme, of Mossgray.

By Mrs. Oliphant.

"I wonder," said Lilias, "whether our minds are formed, Helen, to suit our fate? I mean that our griefs are made for us, like our dwellings, with an individual fitness in them all. It seems so strange sometimes, as if on one person had fallen the fate which properly belonged to another; yet it must be that we are suited always—our minds with our trials."

"It must be," said the bolder Helen, "for what would be joy to one is nothing to another, Lilias. I think I could fancy what my troubles would be, and yours?"

"Tell me, Helen."

"Calm, grave, quiet sorrows, which will not have the fever of doubt and hope in them, which you will know certainly, and be able to weep silent tears for. Lilias, I think these will be yours; and for me—I do not know—I think strong troubles that I can fight and battle with; unquiet, living griefs that will keep me strained and laboring. Lilias, is it not my foolish fancies that make you sad?"

"No. I do not see the sun just now, that is all," said the pale calm Lilias, shutting the eyes which were again full. "Helen, Helen, let us not say any more."

CHAPTER III.

Concealment, like a worm i' the land.
Preyed on her damask cheek.
—Twelfth Night.

The good Mossgray was pained for the dimness which hung about his adopted child. It was not positive sorrow—it was only a shadowy quietness as of a cloud, and very still and patient was Lilias. She was trying to live in the present only, because the future, when she tried to look upon it, made her heart sick; but it is not in the nature of humanity to do this, and her effort to confine herself to those individual hours, as one by one in their quietness they glided past her, made her only languidly indifferent to them all. For Lilias was alone; the hope in peril was her sole hope; kindly ties of kindred there were none for her, and except the old man, her guardian, to whom she looked with tenderness and reverence as to a father, but who yet was not her father, nor had part in all the associations of the past as members of one family have, she had none in the world but this one—and he!—

Where was he? was it peril or illness, or, painfulest of all, was it change, which produced this agony of silence? She tried to interdict herself from the constant speculation to which she would give no answer, but the yearning wonder and anxiety were too strong for the sorrowful heart; yet she said nothing. She could not blame him, she could not have another fancy that on his truth there lay the faintest suspicion; and with that haze of mild, subdued patience about her, she waited, and when she did think of future time at all, thought of what lay beyond that fated, solemn day, on which tidings might and surely must come, as of some dreamy, unknown chaos, strange and chill, and her life.

"I dinna ken what's come to Miss Lilie," said Mrs. Mense, with a sigh.

"She's ower muckle made o', that's it," responded the saurer Janet.

"Woman, woman!" said the housekeeper, pitteriy, "have ye nae memory o' being ance young yoursel', and maybe having troubles in your ain heart that wadna bear telling? but I needna speak to you."

"Na, I reckon no," said Janet. "Me! I wad just like to hear onybody say that I ever had a trouble a' my born days that mightna hae been visible to the haill world if it likit."

"And that just shows how little ye ken about it," said Mrs. Mense; "if ye ever had a heart ava, it maun hae grown to bane twenty year ago. Are ye gaun to iron thae bits o' laces for the young lady or are ye no? for if ye're no', I'll do't mysel'—"

"The young lady—set her up!" said the housekeeper de facto. "Muckle right she has to the auld Lady Mossgray's guid lace. He'll be gieing her the land next; there's nae faile like auld faile."

"Janet Mense," said the old woman, "ye hae eaten the laird's bread mony a year, and hae suffered ye in the house, for a' your ill tongue, and for a' sae little worth as ye are; but if ye daur to say anither word against Mr. Adam, I'll take ye by the shouthers and put ye forth from this door. I'll do it with my ain hands; sae ye ken."

Janet judged it prudent to sound a retreat. She began to spread the lace upon the table, preparatory to the process of ironing.

"The wife's in a creel," said Robbie Carlyle the fisherman, entering with his basket of flounders, thinly covered with a few grilse. "Wha's she gaun to pit to the door? If it's Effie, I'll hae nae meir dealings wi' ye, Mrs. Mense, for Effie's Jamie Caryl's daughter, and Jamie's my second cousin; sae we'll be to agree again."

"And 'wha'll tire sunest o' that, Robbie, my man?" said the housekeeper.

"Faith, I dinna ken," said the bold fisherman, "there's waur folk nor me, guid wife; and if I missed your custom, ye wad miss my ca', ye ken; for I'm guid company—especially when I bring the cuddie."

"I would like to ken, Robbie Caryl," said Janet, "what the like o' you has to do wi' a cuddie."

"The like o' me? Ye're a sensible woman, Jen, but ye dinna ken a'thing; it's no to be expected. I ken few that does, by mysel', and Mossgray, and the minister; the like o' me! as if I wasna as 'sponsible a man as there is in the parish, and as weel entitled to hae case to my shouthers! There's thristles and dockens enow aboon tidemark to mainteen a dizzen cuddies, and he taks nae cleeding, puir beast; he's cheeper than a wean."

"Eh, Robbie!" said Mrs. Mense, reproachfully, "to even the bits of innocent bairns to a brute beast!"

"He's a very decent beast," said Robbie. "I hae kent mony a waur Christian. The bairns? I hae half a dizzen curly pows o' them, ilk ane a greater sorrow than the tither, and I can tell ye it's Blackie out there that has the maist cause to compleen o' being evened to them. He's a decent, sober, 'sponsible beast, like my ain sel', and the little anes are even-down spirits, never out o' mischief, if it binna when they're tumbled in a tub; and then ane has the fash o' fishing them out again."

"It maun be awful' dangerous for bairns, that weary marsh," said Mrs. Mense, sympathetically.

"Hout, we never fash our heads about it," said the fisherman; "they're a' born to plouter amang saut water; it comes natural; when they do get a fa' the oldest anes can scramble out again, and there's nane o' them ower young to skirl. The wife whiles makes a fyke about it, but nane of them 'll drown. You might maist say they were born in the sea; onyway, the tide was up on the very doorstane the nicht Sandy was born. It was an uncommon high tide; and the weans hae a story that he came in on the tap o' a muckle wave. Little Mary wad maist swear she saw the bit wee bald pow o' him in amang the foam; and the foam's nane o' the clearest, I can tell ye, when the firth's in a roar."

"Wasna Monday nicht uncommon coarse doun-byé?" said Janet. "Did ye hear if there was ony skaith dune, Robbie?"

"Hout, woman, do ye ca' yon coarse?" answered the saltwater man. "Skaith! no, if it werena that auld carless body Willie Tamson that brought in his heavy brute o' a boat ower the nets, and had nigh coupit her forbye driving I kenna how mony stakes out of the shore, and garring us lose a day's kep. The fish are aye maist plentiful when the water's troublsd; puir beasts! they haena muckle variety in their life—I'm thinking they'll like a storm for the sake o' change; onyway, they're aye strong when the firth's champing like an illy-willy horse."

"And are you doing ought weel, Robbie?" said Mrs. Mense.

"No to compleen o'," answered Robbie, "it hauds us gaun, I'm thinking we'll be no that ill this year; the red fish looks weel. See to that grilse; ye'll be needing it for the laird's dinner the day. Did ye ever see a bonnier beast in the water or out o't?"

After considerable bargaining, the grilse was laid aside together with store of flounders.

"For there's nae saying," said Robbie, "when I may be round again, and it's better to hae a wheen ower mony than ower few—that's philosophy—ye can ask the laird. I'm thinking to send Peter mair; he's a muckle callant grown, and I see nae occasion I have, to keep a doug, and bark mysel; if it wasna that it wad be an awfu' loss to the haill countryside—I dinna ken what ye wad a' do, wanting me."

"You've aye a guid word o' yoursel, Robbie Caryl," said Janet.

"There's ne'er a ane kens me as weel, Jen, my woman," retorted the undaunted Robbie, "if it binna the wife; and the wife's gift is mair for finding out folk's faults than their guid qualities; but when I gie ower coming ye'll find it out; see if ye dinna be gieing weary looks ilka market-day for Robbie Caryl and the cuddie."

"We'll wait till that time comes, Robbie," said Mrs. Mense; "but, man, hae ye nae mair news than that?"

"Hearken till her noo," said Robbie, reflectively; "hearken till the gate o' thae women—ne'er a thing but news in the heads o' them. Jen, I'm awa'—hae ye ony message to your joe? I'm the canniest man gaun I ne'er was blackfit at a courtin' yet but it throve; and speaking about marryin'—that's what ye ca' news, I'm thinking? the wives in the toun are thrang on the top o' ane e'en now."

Your Blood

Undoubtedly needs a thorough cleansing this season to expel impurities, keep up the healthtone and prevent disease. You should take Hood's Sarsaparilla, the best blood purifier and system tonic. It is unequaled in positive medicinal merit.

Hood's Pills are purely vegetable, perfectly harmless, effective, but do not cause pain or gripe. Be sure to get Hood's. h

More has been accomplished by those who keep in touch with the sympathies of the people than by those whose eyes and thoughts never reach the ground.

Worms cause feverishness, moaning and restlessness during sleep. Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator is pleasant, sure and effectual. If your druggist has none in stock, get him to procure it for you.

Some people are like the insects we see around the evening lamp; they are vacillating, running first one way then another, and accomplish nothing.

Mr. Job Scales, of Toronto, writes: "A short time ago I was suffering from Kidney Complaint and Dyspepsia, sour stomach and lame back; in fact, I was completely prostrated and suffering intense pain. While in this state a friend recommended me to try a bottle of Northrup and Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. I used one bottle, and the permanent manner in which it has cured and made a new man of me is such that I cannot withhold from the proprietors this expression of my gratitude."

It is not so much what one does as it is the manner of doing it that counts.

Keep Minard's Liniment in the House.

It is sometimes a mistake to clothe a beautiful thought in elegant language, as some take note of the words only, and pay no heed to the thought.

A man's wife should always be the same, especially to her husband; but if she is weak and nervous, and uses Carter's Iron Pills, she cannot be, for they will makes her "feel like a different person," at least so they all say, and their husbands say so too.

Through the influence of the Princess of Monaco, the gambling establishment at Monte Carlo is to be converted into a hospital for consumptives.

WORDS THAT BURN.

DO YOU REMEMBER?

Because we once drove together
In the moonlight over the snow,
With the sharp bells ringing their tinkling chime
So many a year ago.

So now as I hear them jingle,
The winter comes back again,
Though the summer stirs in the heavy trees,
And the wild rose scents the lane.

We gather our furs around us,
Our faces the keen air stings,
And noiseless we fly o'er the snow-hushed world
Almost as if we had wings.

Enough is the joy of mere living,
Enough is the blood's quick thrill;
We are simply happy—I care not why—
We are happy beyond our will.

The trees are with icicles jeweled,
The walls are o'er surfed with snow;
The houses with marble whiteness are roofed,
In their windows the home-lights glow.

And jingling with low sweet clashing
Ring the bells of our good horse goes,
And tossing his head, from his nostrils red
His frosty breath he blows.

And closely you nestle against me,
While around your waist my arm
I have slipped—'tis a bitter bitter cold—
It is only to keep us warm.

We talk, and then we are silent:
And suddenly—you know why—
I stooped—could I help it? You lifted your face—
We kissed—there was nobody nigh.

And no one was ever the wiser,
And no one was ever the worse;
The skies did not fall—as perhaps they ought—
And we heard no paternal curse.

I never told it—did you, dear—
From that day unto this.
But my memory keeps in its inmost recess
Like a perfume that innocent kiss.

I dare say you have forgotten,
'Twas so many a year ago;
Or you may not choose to remember it,
Time may have changed you so.

The world so chills us and kills us,
Perhaps you may scorn to recall
That night with its innocent impulse—
Perhaps you'll deny it all.

But if of that fresh sweet nature
The veriest vestige survive,
You remember that moment's madness
You remember that moonlight drive.

—W. W. Story.

THOUGHTS THAT BREATHE.

Carter's Little Liver Pills must not be confounded with common Cathartic or Purgative Pills as they are extremely unlike them in every respect. One trial will prove the superiority.

Don't be too afraid of playing "second fiddle"; it is not so much the position as the way it is filled that counts.

Among the pains and aches cured with marvelous rapidity with Dr. Thomas Eclectric Oil, is ear ache. The young are especially subject to it, and the desirability of this Oil as a family remedy is enhanced by the fact that it is admirably adapted not only to the above ailment, but also to the hurts, disorders of the bowels, and affections of the throat, in which the young are specially subject.

It is not the comparisons we object to; they are only odious when they present us in an unfavorable light.

Give Holloway's Corn Cure a trial. It removed ten corns from one pair of feet without any pain. What it has done once it will do again.

You may have grand, good thoughts, but if no one profits by them what does it signify?

A LITTLE GIRL'S DANGER.

Mr. Henry Macombe, Leyland St., Blackburn, London, Eng., states that his little girl fell and struck her knee against a curbstone. The knee began to swell, became very painful and terminated in what doctors call "white swelling." She was treated by the best medical men, but grew worse. Finally

EAST BUFFALO, N. Y.

EAST BUFFALO, N.Y., Aug. 26.—Cattle—With to-day's receipts and hold-overs there were 20 cars on sale. One load of choice 1,537 pound steers sold for export, at $4 85, and a part of a load of 1,275 pound-steers sold to city butchers at $4 65; butchers' cattle sold from $3 20 to $3, or at full low Wednesday values.

Sheep and Lambs—Eighteen loads offered, including what were yarded late yesterday; demand very light; some of the stock is good quality, but some of it prime and largely composed of the green and half-fat order; very good 77 lb lambs sold at $6, it took extra western whether lambs to bring $6 75; common and cull stuff, $2 50 to $3 50; Canadas sold at $6 50. There are fair prospects for fat Canada stock. Sheep very dull, choice selling at $4 50 to $4 75 and very best not above $5.

Hogs—The market is about as nearly demoralized as we have had it in a long time; 40 cars on sale; some fed lots of straight corn hogs sold at $5 60 to $5 65; but few were wanted at that price, and $5 50 to $5 55 got some later nearly as good; pently of fair grades would hardly call for a bid above $5 25, while grassers have practically no market values; a few light weights and pigs sold around $5 40 nearly after close selections; fair pigs quotable at about $5; roughs, $3 75 to $4 25; stags, $3 to $3 50.

MONTREAL.

MONTREAL, Aug. 25.—Four hundred head of butchers' cattle, 80 calves and 800 sheep and lambs offered at the East End abattoir to-day. Trade was fairly good, there being an active demand for the best cattle at firm rates; common and inferior stock were lower priced than on Monday, but fully as high as on Thursday. A few of the best animals were sold at from 4¼c to 4½c per lb., with pretty good stock at about 4c per lb; thrifty steers and common dry cows sold at from 3c to 3¼c, and lean stock sold down to 2c per lb. The best calves were bought up before reaching this market, and prices of all kind seem to be looking up, common calves selling from $3 to $5 each, and good ones at from $5 to $10. Mutton critters were rather plentiful to-day, but there were not many good ones among them, which helped to keep up the prices of good lambs; other kinds dull and lower. Old sheep, $2 75 to $4 50 each; lambs, $1 75 to $4. Fat hogs rather scarce and prices higher, large packers selling at about 5½c per lb, and small hogs at from 5⅜c to 5⅝c per lb.

LONDON AND ENVIRONS.

—Dr. Flint, the mesmerist, is in the city.

—Over 1,000 people went to Port to-day to attend the builders' picnic.

—With butter at 25 cents a pound in the market, people ought to know which side of their bread is buttered.

—Street Car Superintendent Smith leaves next week to enjoy his holidays in Toronto and other points.

—Detective Templar has summoned eight witnesses to give evidence at the coroner's inquest on Tuesday evening to enquire into the cause of the death of Geo. Rawlings, who was drowned at Springbank on last Monday night.

—Caretaker Burdick, of Queen's Park, says that a large number of dogs brought there by the dog catchers are diseased and that it is humane to put an end to their lives. One put to death this morning was suffering from mange. A large number of them are in a starved condition.

—The W. C. T. U. will hold a mass meeting at Queen's Park to-morrow (Sunday) at 4 p.m. Rev. Dr. Antliffe, pastor of Dundas Center Church, will deliver an address. The other city pastors who have assisted the ladies during the summer will be present and take part in the services.

—An indignant South London correspondent writes to say that just as a woman who had washed from early morn yesterday had filled her line, two feminine neighbors came along with an axe, cut the rope and let the clothes fall into the dirt. The police court is the proper place in which to ventilate the matter.

—While searching among old civic documents this morning City Clerk Kingston came across the following sentiment scribbled on the back of an ancient bylaw:

Like as a plank of driftwood tossed on a watery main,
Another plank encounters, meets, touches, parts again;
So it is with men forever on life's uncertain sea—
They meet and greet and sever, drifting eternally.

Honors by a London Lady.

Her many friends will be pleased to note the stand taken by Miss Laird, a pupil of the Collegiate Institute, at the Toronto University scholarship examinations. She received first-class honors in mathematics, French, German, English, and history and geography, and takes the first scholarships in mathematics and modern languages.

The Dog Catchers' Harvest.

Over 50 canines have thus far been entrapped in the dog catchers' net and imprisoned at Queen's Park. Owners have recovered 29 of them by paying the necessary fees, 8 have been put to death by being shot or poisoned, while 18 canines are now in durance vile, and will be killed shortly if not claimed. They are mostly mongrel curs that are better dead than alive.

Sudden Death of Mrs. James Priddis.

The death occurred very suddenly this afternoon of Mrs. James Priddis. An hour before the sad occurrence she was doing some shopping around the city and was in perfect health apparently. A few minutes after she returned home she dropped dead. Heart failure was doubtless the cause of her demise. Mr. James Priddis is at present in England in the interests of Priddis Bros., of which firm he is a partner. The sad event will be a terrible shock to him. They have no family.

GREAT NEW YORK FIRE.

The Magnificent Metropolitan Opera House in Ruins.

Another Fire Raging at the Corner of Spring and Wooster Streets.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—The Metropolitan Opera House, one of the most magnificent and expensive of modern play houses, occupying the entire block, bounded by Broadway and Seventh avenue, Thirty-ninth and Fortieth streets, was ruined by fire this morning. The Broadway front was saved by the firemen, but fully three-quarters of the structure was made havoc of by the flames. Just where the fire started is yet unknown, but it must have been in the vicinity of the stage, which backs on Seventh avenue. How the flames managed to get such headway without being discovered is also a problem that puzzles Fire Chief Bonner and his men. The special building signal was rung at about 9:30 and in less than a minute later engine No. 27 quartered on west Thirty-seventh street near Seventh avenue was at the opera house. The entire center of the theater was a fiery mass, and as it was apparent that the block would be consumed help was called without delay. Over a dozen steamers quickly responded to this summons, and as it was clear that there was no saving the theater the united efforts of the firemen were exerted to save the Broadway front, in which are located the Bank of New Amsterdam, and Soancheri & Gazso's restaurant. The former covers Thirty-ninth street corner and the latter the Fortieth street corner. The main entrance to the Metropolitan Opera House was on Broadway, between the bank and restaurant. The firemen succeeded in saving the front, the wind blowing strongly from the east and sweeping the flames back toward Seventh avenue. The offices in the six stories of the front were not touched by the fire, but those of the opera house company which were on Thirty-ninth street side, near Seventh avenue, were badly gutted by fire and deluged by water. There was also an expensive library in this section, which was greatly damaged.

Only one boy is known to have been injured.

Artist Opert arrived just as the fire was discovered, and had the mortification of seeing his valuable work of art burned up. Most of the pictures which he was engaged on were for the World's Fair and the Columbus celebration, which is to take place in this city in October. The scenery for the new plays to be produced in a few days at the Casino and Daly's theatres and Academy of Music was completely destroyed.

During the summer the house has been chiefly used for commencements, and was just used for a ball. The pine flooring had not been removed, and this, once ignited, carried the fire to the main entrance. The interior of the theater had been overhauled and was thoroughly fitted for the opening of the season, which would have taken place in a short time. Before 10 o'clock the roof had been burned through and the flames and smoke shot high into the air. This assisted the firemen materially in saving the Broadway front. Half an hour later, the flames having eaten up everything before them, had literally burned themselves out and the fire was reported under control.

ANOTHER LARGE FIRE.

Another large fire is raging at the corner of Spring and Wooster streets. A large cloak house is said to be on fire.

Other Fires.

BRANTFORD, Aug. 27.—Miss Gertrude Truss, daughter of one of the officials of the institution for the blind, was cooking breakfast when she left the kitchen for a minute to call the other members of the family. Just after her departure the oil stove burst and set the kitchen on fire. The brigade confined the blaze to the latter structure, a wooden addition. Loss about $400, covered by insurance.

SARNIA, Aug. 27.—A fire broke out here yesterday in a one-and-a-half story frame dwelling house in No. 1 ward, facing the London road, and about $300 worth of damage was done before the firemen could extinguish the flames. The building was owned by T. C. Watson and occupied by Charles Millard. The fire originated in the summer kitchen, having caught from the cook stove. The loss is covered by insurance.

Eggs in Britain.

Eggs have been rather quiter in London this week, but supplies being not too great, quotations are unaltered. In Glasgow and Liverpool Canadian are selling at recent currencies. In the former port, complaints come of eggs arriving from the Dominion in rather poor condition, "owing to the extreme heat the other side," and to the heat of the passage. I sent a suggestion in one of my advices as to the ventilation of the cases which might obviate much of this. In connection with the coming trade in limed eggs, which, I understand, Canadians are going in for so extensively, I have to warn my Canadian readers against trusting to the English market for prices, as all trade in this respect last year spelt ruin to those engaged in it. Contracts should be made at a fixed price, delivered in Liverpool or London, and then the shipper will not get bit. Many men here will have no more to do with the limed trade; but there is a good demand for well pickled stock from that splendid disseminating medium, Liverpool, between October and December; and, if arrangements are immediately made, a fair trade awaits Canadian picklers, who would do wisely at the same time to save their limed to be shipped as such, and not mix with fresh, as was done at the close of last season, to the disgust of receivers. The Grocers' Journal has a word to say on this subject in its current issue, and, while speaking very favorably of the prospects for Canadian limed hen fruit, warns shippers not to consign too frequently, and says: "It would be wise in our Canadian friends to build up their new house of commerce slowly, and not send too fast or too much."—[London, Eng., correspondent of the Bulletin.

A Possible Explanation.

Mollie—I wonder why they married. He isn't rich, nor a foreigner; not even an English lord.

Dollie—No; and she hasn't any money, nor been on the stage, nor done anything like that. And her father is only a common American, not even a Knickerbocker. I can't understand it.

Mollie (with a bright thought)—Perhaps—perhaps they were in love!

Politics vs. Science.

There are two subjects which are engrossing the conversational powers of the Dominion at present, and they are both worth discussing. One of them is the political situation and the other is the new discovery of science, the Rigby Waterproof Cloth.

The latter, we think, rather holds the floor, as the ladies are participating. The goods are now on the market in ladies cloth as well as in gentlemen's cloth and garments. bd&w

Man's character often speaks the loudest when his lips are silent.

No one need fear cholera or any summer complaint if they have a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial ready for use. It corrects all looseness of the bowels promptly and causes a healthy and natural action. This is a medicine adapted for the young and old, rich and poor, and is rapidly becoming the most popular medicine for cholera, dysentery, etc., in the market.

The pneumatic tire, by the way, is not a new invention, but a new application of an old one. As long ago as 1820 inflated rubber tires were used on wagons with great success, and it is only to be wondered at that enterprising wheelmen did not use them before.

SHORTHAND!

Typewriting and the Phonograph.

Why Waste your time and money attending an inferior school where shorthand is taught by inexperienced teachers, and where they dare not undertake to procure a situation for you because they cannot qualify you to fill one?

We guarantee a situation to every graduate. We can do this Because Our teachers are professional stenographers. Our typewriters are the latest make, including the celebrated Smith Premier. We have the phonograph, the latest business machine, and we have the confidence of business men and thoroughly understand our business, and do not pretend to teach a dozen different subjects.

This Week We secured for Mr. Alex. Jones, of this city, one of our graduates, the appointment of teacher of shorthand at St. Pius College, Chicago. They heard of us there and were wise in selecting one of our students. We also placed Miss Hodgins, of Lucan, as stenographer for W. H. Adam Graeme, of Mossgray.

By Mrs. Oliphant.

"I wonder," said Lilias, "whether our minds are formed, Helen, to suit our fate? I mean that our griefs are made for us, like our dwellings, with an individual fitness in them all. It seems so strange sometimes, as if on one person had fallen the fate which properly belonged to another; yet it must be that we are suited always—our minds with our trials."

"It must be," said the bolder Helen, "for what would be joy to one is nothing to another, Lilias. I think I could fancy what my troubles would be, and yours?"

"Tell me, Helen."

"Calm, grave, quiet sorrows, which will not have the fever of doubt and hope in them, which you will know certainly, and be able to weep silent tears for. Lilias, I think these will be yours; and for me—I do not know—I think strong troubles that I can fight and battle with; unquiet, living griefs that will keep me strained and laboring. Lilias, is it not my foolish fancies that make you sad?"

"No. I do not see the sun just now, that is all," said the pale calm Lilias, shutting the eyes which were again full. "Helen, Helen, let us not say any more."

CHAPTER III.

Concealment, like a worm i' the land.
Preyed on her damask cheek.
—Twelfth Night.

The good Mossgray was pained for the dimness which hung about his adopted child. It was not positive sorrow—it was only a shadowy quietness as of a cloud, and very still and patient was Lilias. She was trying to live in the present only, because the future, when she tried to look upon it, made her heart sick; but it is not in the nature of humanity to do this, and her effort to confine herself to those individual hours, as one by one in their quietness they glided past her, made her only languidly indifferent to them all. For Lilias was alone; the hope in peril was her sole hope; kindly ties of kindred there were none for her, and except the old man, her guardian, to whom she looked with tenderness and reverence as to a father, but who yet was not her father, nor had part in all the associations of the past as members of one family have, she had none in the world but this one—and he!—

Where was he? was it peril or illness, or, painfulest of all, was it change, which produced this agony of silence? She tried to interdict herself from the constant speculation to which she would give no answer, but the yearning wonder and anxiety were too strong for the sorrowful heart; yet she said nothing. She could not blame him, she could not have another fancy that on his truth there lay the faintest suspicion; and with that haze of mild, subdued patience about her, she waited, and when she did think of future time at all, thought of what lay beyond that fated, solemn day, on which tidings might and surely must come, as of some dreamy, unknown chaos, strange and chill, another life.

"I dinna ken what's come to Miss Lilie," said Mrs. Mense, with a sigh.

"She's ower muckle made o', that's it," responded the scurer Janet.

"Woman, woman!" said the housekeeper, bitterly, "have ye nae memory o' being ance young yoursel', and maybe having troubles in your ain heart that wadna bear telling? but I needna speak to you."

"Na, I reckon no," said Janet. "Me! I wad just like to hear onybody say that I ever had a trouble a' my born days that mightna hae been visible to the haill world if it likit."

"And that just shows how little ye ken about it," said Mrs. Mense; "if ye ever had a heart ava, it maun hae grown to bane twenty year ago. Are ye gaun to iron thae bits o'laces for the young lady or are ye no? for if ye're no', I'll do't mysel'—"

"The young lady—set her up!" said the housekeeper de facto. "Muckle right she has to the auld Lady Mossgray's guid lace. He'll be gieing her the land next; there's nae fuils like auld fuils."

"Janet Mense," said the old woman, "ye hae eaten the laird's bread mony a year, and hae suffered ye in the house, for a' your ill tongue, and for a' sae little worth as ye are; but if ye daur to say anither word against Mr. Adam, I'll take ye by the shouthers and put ye forth from this door. I'll do it with my ain hands; sae ye ken."

Janet judged it prudent to sound a retreat. She began to spread the lace upon the table, preparatory to the process of ironing.

"The wife's in a creel," said Robbie Carlyle the fisherman, entering with his basket of flounders, thinly covered with a few grilse. "Wha's she gaun to pit to the door? If it's Effie, I'll hae nae meir dealings wi' ye, Mrs. Mense, for Effie's Jamie Caryl's daughter, and Jamie's my second cousin; sae we'll be to agree again."

"And "wha'll tire sunest o' that, Robbie, my man?" said the housekeeper.

"Faith, I dinna ken," said the bold fisherman, "there's waur folk nor me, guid wife; and if I missed your custom, ye wad miss my ca', ye ken; for I'm guid company—especially when I bring the cuddie."

"I would like to ken, Robbie Caryl," said Janet, "what the like o' you has to do wi' a cuddie."

"The like o' me? Ye're a sensible woman, Jen, but ye dinna ken a'thing; it's no to be expected. I ken few that does, by mysel', and Mossgray, and the minister; the like o' me! as if I wasna as 'sponsible a man as there is in the parish, and as weel entitled to hae case to my shouthers! There's thristles and dockens enow aboon tidemark to mainteen a dizzen cuddies, and he taks nae cleeding, puir beast; he's cheeper than a wean."

"Eh, Robbie!" said Mrs. Mense, reproachfully, "to even the bits of innocent bairns to a brute beast!"

"He's a very decent beast," said Robbie, "I hae kent mony a waur Christian. The bairns? I hae half a dizzen curly pows o' them, ilk ane a greater sorrow than the tither, and I can tell ye it's Blackie out there that has the maist cause to compleen o' being evened to them. He's a decent, sober, 'sponsible beast, like my ain sel', and the little anes are even-down spirits, never out o' mischief, if it binna when they're tumbled in a tub; and then ane has the fash o' fishing them out again."

"It maun be awful' dangerous for bairns, that weary marsh," said Mrs. Mense, sympathetically.

"Hout, we never fash our heads about it," said the fisherman; "they're a' born to plouter amang saut water; it comes natural; when they do get a fa' the oldest anes can scramble out again, and there's nane o' them ower young to skirl. The wife whiles makes a fyke about it, but nane of them 'll drown. You might maist say they were born in the sea; onyway, the tide was up on the very doorstane the nicht Sandy was born. It was an uncommon high tide; and the weans hae a story that he came in on the tap o' a muckle wave. Little Mary wad maist swear she saw the bit wee beld pow o' him in amang the foam; and the foam's nane o' the clearest, I can tell ye, when the firth's in a roar."

"Wasna Monday nicht uncommon coarse doun-byé?" said Janet. "Did ye hear if there was ony skaith dune, Robbie?"

"Hout, woman, do ye ca' yon coarse?" answered the saltwater man. "Skaith! no, if it werena that auld carless body Willie Tamson that brought in his heavy brute o' a boat ower the nets, and had nigh coupit her forbye driving I kenna how mony stakes out of the shore, and garring us lose a day's kep. The fish are aye maist plentiful when the water's troubled; puir beasts! they haena muckle variety in their life—I'm thinking they'll like a storm for the sake o' change; onyway, they're aye strong when the firth's champing like an illy-willy horse."

"And are you doing ought weel, Robbie?" said Mrs. Mense.

"No to compleen o'," answered Robbie, "it hauds us gaun, I'm thinking we'll be no that ill this year; the red fish looks weel. See to that grilse; ye'll be needing it for the laird's dinner the day. Did ye ever see a bonnier beast in the water or out o't?"

After considerable bargaining, the grilse was laid aside together with store of flounders.

"For there's nae saying," said Robbie, "when I may be round again, and it's better to hae a wheen ower mony than ower few—that's philosophy—ye can ask the laird. I'm thinking to send Peter mair; he's a muckle callant grown, and I see nae occasion I have, to keep a doug, and bark mysel; if it wasna that it wad be an awfu' loss to the haill countryside—I dinna ken what ye wad a' do, wanting me."

"You've aye a guid word o' yoursel, Robbie Caryl," said Janet.

"There's ne'er a ane kens me as weel, Jen, my woman," retorted the undaunted Robbie, "if it binna the wife; and the wife's gift is mair for finding out folk's faults than their guid qualities; but when I gie ower coming ye'll find it out; see if ye dinna be gieing weary looks ilka market-day for Robbie Caryl and the cuddie."

"We'll wait till that time comes, Robbie," said Mrs. Mense; "but, man, hae ye nae mair news than that?"

"Hearken till her noo," said Robbie, reflectively; "hearken till the gate o' thae women—ne'er a thing but news in the heads o' them. Jen, I'm awa'—hae ye ony message to your joe? I'm the canniest man gaun I ne'er was blackfit at a courtin' yet but it throve; and speaking about marryin'—that's what ye ca' news, I'm thinking? the wives in the toun are thrang on the top o' ane e'en now."

Your Blood

Some people are like the insects we see around the evening lamp; they are vacillating, running first one way then another, and accomplish nothing.

Mr. Job Scales, of Toronto, writes: "A short time ago I was suffering from Kidney Complaint and Dyspepsia, sour stomach and lame back; in fact, I was completely prostrated and suffering intense pain. While in this state a friend recommended me to try a bottle of Northrup and Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. I used one bottle, and the permanent manner in which it has cured and made a new man of me is such that I cannot withhold from the proprietors this expression of my gratitude."

It is not so much what one does as it is the manner of doing it that counts.

It is sometimes a mistake to clothe a beautiful thought in elegant language, as some take note of the words only, and pay no heed to the thought.

A man's wife should always be the same, especially to her husband; but if she is weak and nervous, and uses Carter's Iron Pills, she cannot be, for they will makes her "feel like a different person," at least so they all say, and their husbands say so too.

WORDS THAT BURN.

DO YOU REMEMBER?

Because we once drove together
In the moonlight over the snow,
With the sharp bells ringing their tinkling chime
So many a year ago.

So now as I hear them jingle,
The winter comes back again,
Though the summer stirs in the heavy trees,
And the wild rose scents the lane.

We gather our furs around us,
Our faces the keen air stings,
And noiseless we fly o'er the snow-hushed world
Almost as if we had wings.

Enough is the joy of mere living,
Enough is the blood's quick thrill;
We are simply happy—I care not why—
We are happy beyond our will.

The trees are with icicles jeweled,
The walls are o'er surfed with snow;
The houses with marble whiteness are roofed,
In their windows the home-lights glow.

And jingling with low sweet clashing
Ring the bells on our good horse goes,
And tossing his head, from his nostrils red
His frosty breath he blows.

And closely you nestle against me,
While around your waist my arm
I have slipped—'tis a bitter bitter cold—
It is only to keep us warm.

We talk, and then we are silent:
And suddenly—you know why—
I stooped—could I help it? You lifted your face—
We kissed—there was nobody nigh.

And no one was ever the wiser,
And no one was ever the worse;
The skies did not fall—as perhaps they ought—
And we heard no paternal curse.

I never told it—did you, dear—
From that day unto this:
But my memory keeps in its inmost recess
Like a perfume that innocent kiss.

I dare say you have forgotten,
'Twas so many a year ago:
Or you may not choose to remember it,
Time may have changed you so.

The world so chills us and kills us,
Perhaps you may scorn to recall
That night with its innocent impulse—
Perhaps you'll deny it all.

But if of that fresh sweet nature
The veriest vestige survive,
You remember that moment's madness,
You remember that moonlight drive.

A LITTLE GIRL'S DANGER.

Mr. Henry Macombe, Leyland St., Blackburn, London, Eng., states that his little girl fell and struck her knee against a curbstone. The knee began to swell, became very painful and terminated in what doctors call "white swelling." She was treated by the best medical men, but grew worse. Finally was used. The contents of one bottle completely reduced the swelling, killed the pain and cured her.

ST. JACOBS OIL

"ALL RIGHT! ST. JACOBS OIL DID IT."

THE WEATHER.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 26—11 p.m.—The low area has passed out to sea from the middle Atlantic coast, and the center of the Northwest depression has been transferred to Manitoba, while a most important area of high pressure has moved rapidly down over the gulf and St. Lawrence Valley, this latter bringing northeast winds from the lake regions eastward. The weather has been fine and warm over the greater part of Ontario, but rain has fallen near Lake Ontario.

Minimum and maximum temperatures: Victoria, 50°—74°; Calgary, 46°—68°; Edmonton, 40°—54°; Prince Albert, 52°—58°; Qu'Appelle, 50°—64°; Winnipeg, 56°—72°; Toronto, 58°—66°; Montreal, 58°—70°; Quebec, 56°—64°; Halifax, 56°—64°.

TO-DAY'S PROBABILITIES.

TORONTO, Aug. 27—1 a.m.—The indications for the next 24 hours for the lower lakes region (covering the peninsula and as far east as Belleville) are: Fair and moderately warm.

LONDON AND ENVIRONS.

—The Westminster roller rink opens on Monday, with band in attendance.

—Rev. Stuart S. Bates, B.A., pastor of College Street Baptist Church, Toronto, is to preach in Adelaide Street Bapsist Church to-morrow morning.

—Miss Celia Cain, Lucan, has accepted the position of stenographer for the assistant superintendent of the Grand Trunk Railway Company of this city.

—John Connors, Ed. Wilson and Chas. Riley arrested as vagrants we let go by the police magistrate this morning. Two drunks were given their liberty.

—Mr. Logan, night operator at the Grand Trunk station, has been removed from here. His place has been filled by Mr. C. Painter, of London.—[St. Catharines Standard.

—Another immense crowd at the band concert last evening. Everything went merrily, and the venerable "Pay Day on the Old Plantation" was worked off with its old-time effect. Next week will see the last of these enjoyable affairs for this season.

—Sergeant L. C. Lee, of No. 1 Company, R. C. I., this city, has been appointed sergeant instructor to the Governor-General's Footguards at Ottawa. His comrades at the barracks presented him with a purse before leaving, and he was serenaded by the band.

—A West McGillivray correspondent writes: "Mrs. A. Smith and granddaughter, of London West, are renewing old acquaintances here. The old lady was among the first settlers in this locality. She is a sister of the veteran Mr. Geo. Rothbottom, of Lieury."

—Amherstburg Leader: Mr. W. J. C. Harvey, of the Ontario Bank, has forwarded to his brother, Mr. H. de M. Harvey, of the Bank of British North America, London, a handsomely framed photograph in approbation of the large score made by him at the gun shoot there.

—To-night at 8 o'clock the different societies of the city meet in the City Hall to arrange the order of procession and complete other arrangements in connection with the societies' parade to the Western Fair grounds on Monday, Sept. 19. A full attendance is requested.

—Some raise the objection that everything is now sold at so small a margin that they cannot afford to advertise. This is just why they should advertise. Where is the advantage of selling particularly cheap or offering especially great bargains, if people are not made aware of them?

—The press and public were excluded from last night's meeting of the City Council for diplomatic reasons. The all-important question of the London and Port Stanley lease was under consideration, and the several propositions received were given due attention. Ald. Yates, Garratt and Connor were the only absentees.

—D. McLachlan, principal of the Canada Business College, Chatham, with his wife, passed through London Friday on their way home after an eight weeks' trip. They visited the principal cities on the Pacific coast, going by way of the Northern Pacific and returning by way of Banff, Winnipeg and Northern lakes.

—Much sympathy will be felt for the Rev. George G. Ballard in the death, from typhoid fever yesterday, of his oldest daughter, Miss Mary Ballard. She was a scholar of extraordinary attainments, and had a large circle of friends.—[Buffalo Express of yesterday. The many friends of the family in London and neighborhood will regret to hear of their bereavement.

—Rev. Dr. McKay has been wonderfully successful in his work in Formosa. Rev. W. Gauld, who has been just ordained, is to leave very shortly accompanied by Mrs. Gauld, for that place to assist him in his great undertaking. He is a young man of great talents, and is to preach in St. Andrew's and First Presbyterian Churches to-morrow.

—The W. C. T. U. held their weekly meeting yesterday in the schoolroom of the Congregational Church. The meeting was addressed in a very interesting manner by Mrs. Lawrason, a member of the W. C. T. U., of London, Ont., and mother of Mrs. Vivian, of this city. Her report of the progress and work of the union in London was both cheering and stimulating to the society here.—[Winnipeg Tribune.

—Rev A. Grant, of the First Baptist Church, Winnipeg, and formerly pastor of Talbot Street Church, is staying in Toronto for a few days. Mr. Grant will be remembered as the energetic and efficient superintendent of Baptist home missions in Ontario and Quebec from 1884 to 1889. In addition to a busy pastorate, Mr. Grant is editor of the Northwest Baptist, a semi-monthly journal. He is on his way home from the annual convention of the maritime Baptists, held in Bridgeton, N. S.

A Social Reform Movement.

On Monday evening, Aug 29, at Victoria Hall, the public are invited to assist in organizing a local branch of the Boys' and Girls' National Home and Employment Association. This is a great social reform movement in which the people of the United States invite Canada to join. Mr. W. H. Moore, national financial agent, will lay the plans of the association as conducted in the States before the people here that all may understand the most approved method of saving the homeless boys and girls of America and utilizing their time to the State's advantage. "Prevention of crime is better than efforts at cure" is the golden motto of the national association. It is also desired to select delegates Monday evening to the national convention at Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 21.

Suicide.

THE FRUITS OF IT.

Tell-Tale Figures Regarding Tariff Exactions.

What the Canadian Consumer Loses by the Trade Restriction Policy.

To the Editor of the ADVERTISER:

The census bulletin devoted to the exposition of our progress in manufactures during the past ten years shows that the town of Petrolea has the highest record of all Canadian towns and cities as regards output per head, it reaching the figure of $455, though ten years ago it was $496. Petrolea naturally feels somewhat proud of her high standing, and the oil magnates are preparing a grand reception for the Dominion Ministers to show their appreciation of the National Policy, which imposes on American oil a duty which is higher than the price the oil sells for in the States. The duty is eight cents per gallon. This is a good thing for the oil producer, but what is sauce for the goose is not always sauce for the gander, as can be shown. While the Ministers and their friends felicitate one another at the Petrolea demonstration, they might be invited to consider the following:

In glancing through the London Free Press and the Detroit Free Press I find the market price of certain farm products to be as below:

	London.	Detroit.
Wool, per lb	$ 6 to $ 16	$ 33
Hay, per ton	6 00 to 7 00	12 50
Barley, per bu	40 to 45	80
Beans, per bu	90	1 30

A Canadian farmer who sells of these products say 100 pounds of wool in London at 16 cents will get $16. With this he can purchase:

60 gals. oil	$10 00
100 lbs wire nails	6 00
Total	$16 00

Let me quote a few more prices.

	London.	Detroit.
Sugar house molasses, per gal.	$ 25	$ 14
Steel nails, per 100 lbs	2 40	1 75
Wire nails, per 100 per lbs	3 00	1 80
Coal oil, per gal	20	63
Barb wire fencing	4 00	2 50

A Michigan farmer has 100 pounds of wool to sell. In Detroit he gets for it $34. He buys:

200 gals. coal oil at 63c	$13 50
400 lbs wire nails at $1 85	7 20
300 lbs steel nails at $1 75	5 25
50 gals. sugar house molasses	7 00
Total	$32 95

This leaves him with $1 05 cash in his pocket, 150 gallons more oil than the Canadian farmer, 300 pounds more wire nails, 300 pounds steel nails, of which the Canadian gets none, and 50 gallons of molasses, of which the Canadian has none. Those who, in opposing political union, say the American farmer is no better off than the Canadian farmer should examine this one of many possible transactions, which clearly shows that the American gets higher prices for his produce than the Canadian and buys his store goods much cheaper; so that if he be not in better circumstances than the Canadian he must waste his money. Yours truly,

T. M. WHITE.

THE WESTERN FAIR.

The $2,000 Addition to the Prize List Having a Good Effect—The Entries Away in Advance of Last Year —Special Prizes.

The secretary and directors of Canada's favorite exhibition are busy arranging all the final preliminaries for the coming fair. The exhibit promises to be larger and better and more instructive than ever before.

The prizes in the speeding contests have been doubled, and the directors have added $2,000 to the prize list. This step they felt was necessary to further encourage the farmers and breeders, who go to great expense every year to secure their stock and products, as nothing but the finest seed and breeding stock satisfy the present demands. Of the $2,000 the live stock department receives $1,500, the balance being divided among the agricultural, horticultural, dairy interests, &c. The directors' action has had its good effects, the entries in the live stock departments being far ahead of last year at this date. Space is being rapidly taken up in the main building, and intending exhibitors should make their entries by Aug. 31 to secure the amount of space required by them. The chairman and the committee of the main building will go out of the Exhibition grounds on Sept. 1 to allot space to those who have already entered.

A large number of special prizes have been received, and among the donors are the Canadian Clydesdale Association, the American Shropshire and the American Berkshire Associations, the Western Dairymen's Association, the Ontario Creameries Association, the Ontario Bee-Keepers' Association, and several private individuals and firms.

The programme of the special attractions has been issued, and if everything is carried out as stated therein, the patrons of the Fair will have rare entertainment. Everyone in Western Ontario is proud to know that the Western Fair has achieved more than any other association to further the interests of live stock and agriculture, and possesses a rank and superiority which none can but admire.

In the manufacture of tobacco from the leaf, sugar or molasses and rum of some kind are used. In the manufacture of "Myrtle Navy" brand the sugar used is the finest white sugar, known in the trade as granulated. This is a sugar in which there is seldom any adulteration, but to guard against the possibility of it, all sugar used in the factory is submitted to careful tests of its purity. The gum used is the pure gum arabic.

Nothing impure or injurious contaminates the popular antidote for pain, throat and lung remedy and general corrective, Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. It may be used without the slightest apprehension of any other than salutary consequences. Coughs, rheumatism, earache, bruises, cuts and sores succumb to its action.

HOSPITAL SUPPLIES.

The Board of Trustees Award Contracts for the Year—The Number of Patients Under Treatment.

The Hospital Trust met yesterday afternoon and received tenders for the coming year's supplies. Contracts were let as follows:

Milk—James Creighton, Dorchester township.

Fish—James J. Smith.

Ice—A. Stanton's tender was the only one received, and it was referred to Col. Lewis and Dr. Balfour.

Bread—Mrs. S. Ranahan, at 2 cents per pound.

Meat—Thos. H. Connor.

Coal and wood—Thomas J. Walls. Tenders were also received from Messrs. Winnett, Hunt, Mann, Bowman, Stanton and Green, all of whom submitted exactly the same prices for wood and for Hocking Valley, Briar Hill, egg, stove, grate and chestnut coal. The members of the Hospital Trust thought that they had formed a combine. Mr. Walls' prices were as follows: Wood, $5 15 per cord; Hocking Valley coal, $4 70; Briar Hill, $4 85; grate, $6; egg, $6 20; stove, $6 20; chestnut, $6 20.

Groceries—John Lawson. Mr. Lawson gives a discount of 18 per cent. on all groceries except butter and eggs. His prices for these were: Roll butter 21 cents, tub butter 14 cents and eggs 15 cents.

No tenders were received for liquors except that of Scandrett Bros., and it was accepted.

Dr. Balfour reported that there were at present 44 patients in the hospital—19 males, 22 females and 3 children.

John McIntosh, engineer at the hospital, recommended some repairs in his department. E. Leonard & Sons will examine the engine and boiler and report on their condition.

Col. Lewis (chairman), Dr. Balfour (medical superintendent), Mayor Spencer and Messrs. Purdom, Complin and Gilmore were present.

IN GOOD TRIM.

Sir Henry Tyler Inspects the G. T. R. —No Important Changes Contemplated.

MONTREAL, Aug. 26.—Sir Henry Tyler, who has been inspecting the eastern division of the G. T. R., expresses himself as highly satisfied with the condition of the road, and declares the company is in a much better position than for some time. After spending a short time in Montreal Sir Henry Tyler will proceed to inspect the other divisions, and go as far west as Chicago. He will leave for home about the end of September. He states that no important changes are contemplated by the company.

A Great Evil in Baby Feeding.

The great evil in foods such as wheat flour, milk porridge, corn starch, arrowroot and common prepared artificial foods, is in the excess of starch. The starch, which is undigested by the child, undergoes a fermentation in the digestive canal, which give rise to certain irritating acids, and these very frequently give rise to diarrhea.

When the infant is daily fed with Lactated Food, every danger is removed; the child is at once placed on the great highway of health, and cannot be assailed by the numerous troubles which beset infants who do not receive proper and healthy food.

The cross, irritable and peevish baby is made bright and happy; it grows fast; it becomes a child of beauty. Lactated Food can do all this for the mother at a less cost than the common foods, which are utterly condemned by our regular physicians.

Nearing the Day.

In a few days the Toronto Industrial Exhibition will be in full swing, and as Sept. 5 draws near, the day set apart for the opening, public interest in it increases. The entries in every department exceed those of any previous year, and the offices of the association on King street east are crowded all day with exhibitors, necessitating a good deal of night work on the part of the attendants. It is going to be the best Fair ever held in Toronto, and that is saying a good deal. The Northwest, Manitoba and British Columbia will make a grand show, the exhibits from those distant parts of the Dominion being now en their way east. Special excursion rates will be given by all roads, good for several days, and no farmer in Western Canada should miss seeing this great exhibit on. b
