METHODIST CHURCH FROWNS REBUILDING OF ABBREVIATED CLOTHING AND SUMMER RESORT DANCES

"The Clothes Are a Little Too Far From the Ground and No Quite Near Enough To Heaven," Declares Rev. S. Anderson at Methodist Conference—Would Recommend the Young Ladies To Go To Bed.

That the Methodist Church frowns concern, endangering society, reaching upon abbreviated women's clothing, gambling, dancing in colleges, schools and summer resorts, and the stigma attached to illegitimate children, was evidenced by discussions which took place at the general session of the London Methodist Conference in the Askin Street Church this morning. The debate arose during reception of the report of the evangelism and social service department by Rev. A. Murray Stuart.

RELIEF FOR HOMELESS

Refugee Camp and Field Hospital Is Being Estab-

Pueblo, Colo., June 7.-With plans laid for a complete census of destitute families in the flood district, for the establishment of a refugee camp, and for the installation of a complete field hospital, the equipment for which was expected to arrive at any hour, systematization and centralization of relief work in this district began in earnest today. This morning a list of known dead was compiled. It contained 52 names. This may be increased short-ly in view of the thorough searches for dead now being made.

"The civic administrations in the past have been noted for reckless expenditures," declared Ald. Wenige, as the case progressed. "If the city engineer follows out this proposed scheme the city will be repairing the pavement for the next four years. This fight against the street railway has been hanging fire for years now and it is up to this council to carry it through."

"What is the city solicitor's opinion?" queried Ald. Ashton.

At this juncture Ald. Bridge contrived a hearing with the information that he had noticed in other cities paved on each side with crushed gravel between the rails, and the result was satisfactory. Ald. Harley followed with his firm opinion that now was the time for a show-down with the railway. "Let us make a test case of this," he stated. "If we decide not to pave the entire street we are going behind. Take a chance. The bylaw, 916, is very plain. We should go ahead and pave in the cheapest manner, and if the railway company refuses to do its part we can recover."

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT IS NOT POSSIBLE FOR TIME

Victoria, B. C., June 7 .- An Imperial Parliament, formed of representatives from all parts of the British Empire, is a dream impossible of realization at present, but the separate nations which compose the Empire should have representa tives at London to keep in constant touch with the British cabinet, Right Hon. J. W. Lowther, former speaker of the British House of Commons, declared in a speech before the Canadian Club yesterday. Mr. Lowther declared that Britain had absolutely no wish to force any form of any imperial organization on the dominions, nor could she do so, but he felt that a closer legislative union between the mem bers of the Empire in the future was essential.

SET BREAD PRICE

Woodstock. June 7 .- A meeting of the bakers of Brantford, Princeton, Tillson-burg, Ingersoll, Beachville and Woodstock, was held yesterday to discuss the price of bread. For some time past there has been a difference in retail prices, some bakers selling at 10c, while others charged 12c. The result of yesterday's conference was that it was decided that the price of bread manufactured locally would be 12c a loaf. Woodstock, however, consumes a large quantity of bread manufactured in London, Toronto, and other outside centres. At the prisoners are in the Kingston prison now than at any time since the Fenian raids. The penitentiary has more than 700 inmates.

ASSISTANT FOR ARCHITECT.— Toronto, and other outside centres. At the stores handling this bread, it was still selling at 10c a loaf.

SIMCOE TAX RATE SET AT 33 MILLS

New Figure Means Increase of Five Mills Over Last Year.

Simcoe. June 6.-The tax rate was set tonight at 33 mills, on the assumption that the county council rate will remain the same as last year, $2.600. The new rate means an increase of five mills over last year's rate, largely due to increases in teachers' salaries and to sewer construction. A rate of one mill produces $2,500. The assessed value of the town is $2,654,000.

The council turned down the request or a grant of $800 to the Muskoka ds that it would add one-third of mill to the tax rate.

KITCHENER. Ont., June 6.—The Brants won this evening's twilight fixture from the Beaverg by 5 to 1. Two hits, a pass and a sacrifice gave the visitors a lead of two runs, in the first, and in the third, after passing the first two men up. Prangley was derricked, and Matt Kirley finished the game, three hits being made off his delivery, two of which helped to score runs for the Brants. The Beavers bunched three hits off Nonan in the fifth and scored their single counter. Dunn's fielding at second was a feature of the game. In the absence of Umpire O'Hearne, a local official, McAvoy, efficiated and gave good satisfaction. The Score:

TORONTO, June 6 .- (By Canadian Press) .- An indication that an attempt vill be made to unite the Presbyterian General Assembly on a middle ground between immediate organic union with Methodist and Congregational churches and indefinite delay was supplied when the debate on church union was resumed this afternoon. At present there are just two motions, sent on by the special union committee, before the assembly; one calling for consummation of union "as expeditiously as possible," and an amendment providing that no further action be taken without a "clear and unmistakable mandate from the people."

The committee recommended that the assembly be asked to register its mind by voting on these two resolutions, and by motion carried last Friday the assembly agreed to follow that course.

Immediately after the opening this afternoon the moderator was asked whether he would accept another amendment, and he replied that the vote of the assembly on the two resolutions already before them would be regarded as decisive and final. Commissioners questioned the justice of this ruling, and Sir Robert Falconer, convener of the committee, was asked to explain the arpose of the special committee.

Sir Robert said it had been the desire of the committee to avoid having the issue becouded by shy amendments which might be sprung on the spur of the moment on the floor of the assembly, but he thought it would be with the assembly to decide whether it would receive any more amendments were 10. not. If more amendments were to received, said the moderator, i would be necessary to rescind the mo-tion to confine the vote to the two resolutions, but, as a commissioner pointed out, this could not be done without a notice of motion ow what use another motion would be after the assembly had declared for erganic union. Dr. Drummond of Hamon thought that the time for any new amendment would be after the assembly had disposed of the present amendment. Both Sir Robert Falconer and President Murray of Saskatchewan University hought it would be quite proper to re-eive amendments modifying whichever the resolutions the assembly should indorse and the moderator agreed to accept that interpretation of the commit-

Someone had questioned the statement that 500 charges in the west were union charges. The survey, said the speaker, had been made by the superintendent of missions, believed that if the proposal to unite believed that if the proposal to unite should be dropped, all the Presbyterians in these united areas would be permanently lost to the Presbyterian Church. The east and west would be divided, and this would be a serious matter both for the church and for Canada. survey had shown that 58 per cent of the members of the Manitoba union churches were Presbyterians, and 52 morning, when new construction gangs

He would rather see union rejected he would rather see union rejected now than plunge the church into such litterness again. Even if union were indorsed now, perhaps five years would be occupied in getting legislation and making adjustments. That could not be regarded as making undue haste.

Two Conflicting Ideals. Dr. E. Scott of Montreal said two con-ficting ideals had always been found in the church. One stood out against casting out devils except in the orthodox manner, while the other looked to the results rather than to the method and form. Similarly there were coercionists and anti-coercionists. The motion before the assembly proposed to coerce there who were against union and take their church property from them. He in 1912 and 1915 was practically un-clanged, namely, about 113,000, the vote against union increased from 50,000 to 73,000. That had shown growing controls to have arrived at an economic crisis, judging from revela-tions made in the office of Prosecuting-Attorney Voorheis, today.

LONDON'S LEAGUE OF NATIONS. Anyone who took the trouble to study the thousands of school children who attended the picnic at Springbank last week could not fail to have been struck League of Nations. by the variety of types represented among the throng of joyous juveniles, this being due to a large extent to the number of nationalities which now make up the population of any of our large cities. Amongst the little ones who spent a happy day and participated in the various sports one might observe representatives of almost all the great races of mankind, the dark skin of the negro, the bronze of the red Indian, the swarthy complexion of the native of Southern Europe, the familiar cast of countenance of the Semitic peoples, and the peculiar physiognomy of the Mongolian. Europe, Asia, Africa and America were all personified in the crowds of youngsters, and all alike were animated by the spirit of healthy enjoyment that characterized the day. It was a veritable League of Nations of the younger generation. It is a tribute to the teachers of the schools attended by such a cosmopolitan crowd that the pupils are so well disciplined and instructed, for truly it cannot be an easy task to control such a miscellaneous multitude and direct them along the right lines. The assimilation of so many children of foreign origin in a nation is one of the problems that confront our legislators at every turn, and sometimes it is apt to be forgotten that this process of assimilation begins at school, and that the teacher is faced with the task of training these children in the rules of good citizenship, and of trying to inculcate in their young minds those principles which constitute a good foundation in the important work of character building.

The task of making good Canadians of these young foreigners is one which is liable to various interpretations, for opinions are apt to differ as to what reall? makes up a good Canadian. It is impossible to standard ize a type of human being and lay down a hard and fast formula for the manufacture of any particular nationality. All that can be done is to aim at having healthy minds in healthy bodies, and to train these minds and bodies along the lines which are most conducive to their highest and noblest development. It is, therefore, gratifying to find that the children of London are being taken such good care of, and that while their national characteristics are not lost, there are being engrafted on to their natures others which bring out the best that is in friendly critics, as well as hearty supporters. It is them, and render them fit to take their places alongside the best that is in the land.

CANADA'S IDEALS.

Additional interest centered in the conclusion of the fifth session of the thirteenth parliament of Canada from the circumstance that it was the last of its kind at which His Excellency the Duke of Devonshire would preside as governor-general of the Dominion. In the course of his reply to the address from the House, his excellency said: "Today Canada is formally and justly recognized as one of the nations of the world, and while she will work out her own destiny in her own way, she will, I know, ever be faithful to British instltutions, and proud to take her place and share her responsibilities as one of the sister nations which constitute the British Empire."

There is more in these simple words of the governorgeneral than is apparent at first sight. One must read between the lines, as it were, to realize their full significance. Canada's part in the great war fully entitles her to take her place among the nations, but apart from this tribute to Canada's rise among the powers of the world is his excellency's expressed hope-for it is an expression of hope as well as of confidence—that she will ever be faithful to British institutions.

It will be a bad day for Canada when she turns her eyes away from the motherland and seeks her national ideals elsewhere. There undoubtedly exists in this country a tendency to discount British institutions and British ideals and to look upon them not only as a family circle of today. We frequently hear the young point, just recently promoted to long pants, referring to his parents in a patronizing sort of way as "the roll many" and "the old man," and "the old man, a man one Bill Halliwell, able seaman, a man one Bill Halliwell, able seaman, a man of mighty muscle; and as freight an of mighty muscle; and as freight an old mighty muscle; and as freight and one Bill Halliwell, able seaman, a man of mighty muscle; and as freight an old mighty muscle; and as freight and one Bill Halliwell, able seaman, a man of mighty muscle; and as freight and one Bill Halliwell, able seaman, a man of mighty muscle; and as freight and one Bill Halliwell, able seaman, a man of mighty muscle; and as freight and one Bill Halliwell, able seaman, a man of mighty muscle; and as freight and one Bill Halliwell, able seaman, a man of mighty muscle; and as freight and one Bill Halliwell, able seaman, a man of mighty muscle; and as freight and one Bill Halliwell, able seaman, a man of mighty muscle; and as freight and one Bill Halliwell, able seaman, a man of mighty muscle; and as freight and one Bill Halliwell, able seaman, a man of mighty muscle; and as freight and one Bill Halliwell, able seaman, a man of mighty muscle; and as freight and one Bill Halliwell, able seaman, a man of mighty mu being far from up to date, but to consider some of them kid man," and "the old woman," and insinuating in his was such a black outlook after all. own silly fashion that he, the son and heir, is a very smart fellow, indeed, while "the old man" is a bit of

It is to be feared that the term "old country," once used in the spirit of affection, is now frequently employed as a term of is frightfully behind in everything, and that smart young Canada must look elsewhere if she wishes to keep abreast in the march of progress.

There is, however, a great danger that this desire of being considered advanced and up-to-date may be come an obsession, and that all kinds of pernicious rubbish, so long as it can be classed as novel, may be incorporated in the national life. AMENDING THE COVENANT.

This is exactly the opposite of the facts. While it is true that there was much thought given going cannot long be delayed, and in the While it is true that there was much thought given government that will succeed the pres-by men in all Allied countries to the general idea of a League of Nations, notably by President Wilson in America and Lord Hugh Cecil in England, neither Quebec statesmen have done and are doof these men would appear to have had a really detailed plan in mind. The British Foreign Office worked out a rough plan during the war, but the most complete scheme presented was that prepared by Gen. Smuts and published late in 1918.

When the time finally came for dealing with the matter, there was much need for haste, and the committee that had to do with this particular part of the peace treaty naturally turned to the various draft schemes, and utilized them in preparing the final plan. schemes, and utilized them in preparing for neace for a treaty time that we directed more serious at-The world was clamoring for peace, for a treaty that would dispose of all questions at once. Article 10 of the covenant is the one that has been most under fire. It probably had more influence than present social crisis." anything else in keeping the United States out of the league. Nor is the United States alone in its protests. Canada has taken the same attitude, and as a result of the Canadian protest it has been decided to appoint a committee of jurists to decide just what pared the clause means. This is the way it reads at present:

"Article 10-The members of the league undertake to respect and preserve as against external aggression the territorial integrity and existing political independence of all members of the league. In case of any such aggression or in case of any threat or danger of such aggression, the council shall advise upon the means by which this obligation shall be fulfilled." There are two special points to the article that have brought it under special scrutiny. Its wording, in first place, intimates the possibility of any member of the league being drawn into a war to preserve the territory of some other nation, and being drawn in, not by the decision of the general assembly of the league, but by the order of the council, made up of the great powers, together with a few representatives of the smaller powers. Such action might be perfectly right and proper, viewed from the larger humanitarian standpoint, but unquestionably points to a considerable surrender of national autonomy. Succeeding clauses of the covenant deal more particularly with the action to be taken, but must be admitted that there is a vagueness about the whole thing that justifies the protests that have been voiced both in the United States and in Canada. There is need for wide, general education in every country with regard to the covenant and the peace treaty generally, and it is a wise move to provide machinery, as is now being done in Canada, to stir up wide increase in the work of the League of Nations. We do not believe that this new organization should feel itself bound to uphold everything that the league does, nor to seek necessarily to maintain the covenant in its present form. The League of Nations is one of the greatest experiments in history. It needs wise and necessary that its best friends should be as keen to note its mistakes as its most bitter enemies. this way will there be that atmosphere of sincerity and truth given to it that will make it a real agency for

Affairs Depends On Premier's Ability.

QUEBEC, Que., June 6.—By Grattan O'Leary, Staff Correspondent of the Canadian Press, Limited.—With his first parliamentary session as prime minister over, Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighent today is on his way to London, where, for the coming month, he will be called upon to play a not less difficult part on the stage of world affairs. The conference of prime ministers, which opens within the historic precincts of No. 1D Downing street, on June 21, is the first of its kind to be held in the empires history. Differing from the Imperial War Conference, which concerned itself solely with imperial affairs, from the committee on imperial defence, devoted solely to problems of war, and differing also from the imperial sters of the various empire governments, which has no successor in peace, the present conference represents the first attempt to have the Dominions formulate a foreign policy for the empire. This question is the heart and concerned itself present conference represents the first attempt to have the Dominions formulate a foreign policy for the empire.

Called primarily 10 lay the foundation for a greater constitutional gathering to come, the conference of prime ministers over at the genesis to the imperial with the American people.

FOUR CASES ON NON-JURY LIST ARE DISPOSED OF

ST. THOMAS, June 6.-The list of assizes was disposed of today by Mr. WINDSOR MAN CONVICTED cases at the non-jury sittings of the Justice Lennox. There were four on the docket and two were settled on terms of consent. The action of Wallace Baker and Morley King against W. K. Cameron and James Campbell over the probate granted of the last will of Kate Livingstone late of South Dor chester, was disnussed with costs. Two wills were executed, one drawn by the defendant, W. K. Cameron on June 20, 1914, and another, which the plaintiffs say was drawn on March 25, 1915, at the request of the late Miss Livingstone, in which the plaintiffs were named executors. The plaintiffs sued to have the judgment of the surrogate lin as car distributor on the M. C. R. court set aside and the last document admitted to probate, as it was alleged by them that sufficient notice had not been given when the will of 1915 was probated, and that they had no know-edge of the action and judgment unti he plaintiffs' counsel had informed them of the adjudication. E. Meek represented the plaintiffs, and will ap-Cameron, Grant & Cameron actdefendants.

R. E. Menzie, Port Stanley, brought suit against Henry Aldridge, Thedford; Arthur B. Storey and Herschell Goodhue, Port Stanley, the members of the New Enterprise Fish Company and Canadian Fisheries and Storage Company to recover $1,527.81, and interest. The defendants put in a counter claim for a much larger amount, declaring that the plaintiff is a large shareholder in the company and had not paid his share. Judgment was given for the plaintiff for amount claimed. Rinn vs. Abbott.

The action of Rhoda Ann. Rinn, St. Thomas, against Joshua E. Abbott, late of Cleveland, now a merchant on St. Catherine street. St. Thomas, was setled between the parties on terms of consent. The amount of $11,000 was nowled in the sale of store property. stock and fixtures in January last. The plaintiff allyged that a verbal agreement was reached between the parties, with regard to the value of store fix tures, which were valued at $1.200. The defendant, besides asking for a dismissal of the action, also demanded damages to the extent of $5,000 for a lyiolation of the agreement executed and were on the way home.

SARNIA, June 6.—A victory was returned in the poll today on the bylaw to raise $95,000 for waterworks purposes. At the city hall booth a very small proportion of the ratepayers exercised their franchise, and similar reports were received from polling subdivisions in other parts of the city. The figures given out by the polling clerk at 7 o'clock tonight were: 310 for and 197 against the bylaw, a majority of 113.

TORONTO STOCK EXCHANGE.

Toronto, June 7. Practically every stock traded in on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning suffered severely in a general selling movement which developed following the continued liquidation on the New York market. No exceptions were made, and declines ranging from small fractions to 2 points were registered.

Toronto Railway lost 1½ at 74½, and a similar decline occurred in Winnipeg Railway, which sold at 38. Canada Steamships common was 1½ down at 21¾, the preferred issue faring even worse, being 1¾ off at 55¾. Consumers' Gas lost 1 at 67.

Probably the worst selling took place in paper stocks. Spanish River lost 2¼ at 64¾, and Abitibi pursued its downward course, reaching 34½, a loss of 1 point.

to Information Received.

According to an announcement made in the weekly bulletin of the commercial and intelligence service of the department of trade and commerce in Octawa, issued on June 6, a Japanese vice-consul is to be stationed in London, Ontario, Russian front Thursday morning last when Mrs. Catherine Polishok (according to the evidence in police court today), walloped Mrs. Druker of 451 Simcoe street, right heartily about the head with a broom handle.

"I have lived there 14 years, and never fought nobody," declared Mrs. Druker, with a gleam in her eye as she gave evidence before Magistrate Graydon this morning. "Last Thursday morning she (Mrs. Polishok), took a switch and hit me till I was nearly blind. She grabbed me by the face, knocked me down, and said that she would kill me."

Mr. and Mrs. Polishok seemed to enjoy the complainant's story, for they grinned from ear to ear as Mrs. Druker poured out her tale to the magistrate and the sympathetic ears of her counsel, P. H. Retailers in more than a dozen nearby towns are in the habit of calling a certain city wholesaler by Long Distance to order quick delivery of goods.

The wholesaler appreciates their patronage, and in order to save their money has advised them always to call on the Station-to-Station basis. He has instructed his Private Branch Exchange operator that all incoming Long Distance calls are to be switched at once to Mr. Blank, or, in his absence, to Mr. Blanker, both of whom are capable of dealing efficiently with telephone orders.

By a little pre-arrangement between dealer and customer Station-to-Station service can be used on nearly all Long Distance calis!
