Canadian Press Unite in Condemning McAdam's Sentence.

Special to the Daily Nugget. Vancouver, Aug. 2.—The protests of the Canadian press on the injustice of excessive sentence have induced the British Columbia judges to advise immediate liberation of Editor McAdams of the Sandon Paystreak, who is imprisoned for contempt in unwarranted criticism of the bench. It developed in examination that his imprisonment might be for life, as the sentence ordered that he be imprisoned for nine months, and "until such further time until he provide satisfactory bonds that he would not again offend during the period of one year."

KLONDIKE NUGGET.

IMPORTANCE OF PRIMARIES.

Good men have no reason to complain if they permit the functions of leadership to be usurped by undesirable parties. In the coming fight for the Dominion house men will be in evidence and struggling for control whose advancement to positions of authority would be a blot on the fair name of the territory. To prevent such characters from realizing their ambitions it needs that upright men shall band together and stand intact on behalf of decency and good government. There is a noticeable tendency at the present time among men who constitute the solid citizenry of the community to shirk participation in public affairs. They are ready to complain if the wirepuller and professional politician is promoted to power, but too often that very misfortune is brought about through their own negligence and failure to perform their duty.

At the approaching election the man who is in politics for what there is in it will be much in evidence. He will be working day and night while the average citizen who personally wishes to see the best man elected, will be sitting idly by without giving heed to the manner in which matters are conducted.

It is absolutely essential that electors generally should participate in the primaries. If the district meetings at which convention delegates are chosen are properly and fairly conducted, and the voters entitled to take part therein give personal attention to the selection of their representatives, no trouble need be anticipated. In point of fact the primaries are equally as important as the election itself. The individual voter has his opportunity at the primary. He can make his influence felt and recognized there in a way he cannot hope or expect to do after a choice of delegates is made. The primary is the source from which the nominating convention derives its authority and receives its instructions, and just as the primary represents an honest, fair and free expression of public opinion so may it be expected that the convention's work will commend itself to popular approval.

The coming election will have to deal not only with principles, views and opinions, but also with men—and to secure the very best that the community affords, it needs that every voter give strict heed to the work of the primary meetings.

That "mission" to relieve an alleged freight congestion turns out to have been an attempt to secure a printing contract from Governor Ross while the latter was lying stricken and helpless. And yet the Sun has risen up in wrath when Governor Ross' political actions have been criticised in the Nugget. It may be added that the physicians in attendance upon the governor knew their duty and hence the "mission" was a fiasco.

The question must be settled sooner or later whether the territory is to become the property of concessionaires or held as the heritage of individual miners. We opine what the answer of the voters will be when the question is propounded to them.

The series of errors which have been committed by the government during the past 8 months would almost lead one to imagine that this is not an election year. The powers that be seem to have worked strenuously to accomplish their own defeat.

It will be an extremely surprising matter if the people do not improve the first opportunity ever presented to them of declaring their minds in respect to legislative matters affecting this territory.

The proposed celebration on the occasion of the king's coronation should be generally and generously supported.

May be Queen of France.

Paris, July 12.—Lady Newbrough was Miss Grace Carr, of Louisville, Ky. Her sister is Mrs. Samuel Sloan Chauncey, of Brooklyn. Some day, it is possible, but not probable, she may be queen of France. Two things are necessary to that end, a recognition by the French courts of Lord Newbrough's right to the title of Duke of Orleans and head of the house of Bourbon, and, second, a revolution in France that would seat him upon the throne. Col. Carr died and the girls were left in straitened circumstances. Friends took them to Florida, where the rich Dr. Chauncey, of Brooklyn, met and married the elder. He died in a few years and the widow took her sister to Europe. In Egypt the rich Lord Newbrough met the younger and married her on November 7, 1900. Ambassador Choate gave the bride away.

Leaves $120,000.

Chicago, July 19.—The late Archbishop Patrick A. Feehan left an estate of over $120,000 which, under the terms of his last will, drawn May 10th last, is distributed among members of his family and those institutions which for years have been his especial care. The entire estate is in personal property, and over half of it is life insurance, made payable to the state.

It is stated by those cognizant of the personal affairs of the testator that the estate would have been much larger had the Archbishop collected in its entirety the salary of $5,000 a year to which he was entitled from the archdiocese. It is said that for many years he has allowed portions of this salary to remain uncollected, and that the will, which makes no reference to these arrears, cancels them.

The King's Prize

London, July 22.—The first stage of the shooting for the king's prize at Bisley was completed today. Lance-Corporal Cole of the Dorset Regiment, was the winner of the National Rifle Association's medal, bronze, with a score of 103. The best Canadian scores were: Capt. Rennie 97, Capt. Davidson 96, Capt. Mitchell 97, Sergt. Smith 95, Major McRobbie 95, Capt. Jones 94, Private Peddie 94, Sergt. Mortimer 94.

In the shooting for the Kolapore cup, 200 yards, England made the best score, 263. Canada was third with 259. When the 500 yards range shooting for the Kolapore cup was completed Canada assumed the lead with an aggregate of 519. Australia was a close second with 515. Australia eventually won the cup with a score of 770. Canada was second with 757, and England third with 755.

Transient Trader's Case is Expanding

Effort Will be Made to Prove City Bylaw Unworthy Judicial Cognizance.

Hearing of the transient trader case of the city versus Skagerlind, Mayhood & Brown was continued all of yesterday afternoon before Magistrate Wroughton, and when evening came the case might have been said to be only fairly started. Further hearing was postponed until next Thursday.

Mr. Ridley, attorney for the defense, is going into the case on a broad basis and will attempt to show that the bylaw under which the city contends for conviction is outrageous and as such should not be upheld by the courts, and to this end additional witnesses to the number of probably a score will yet be introduced by the prosecution and defense and two or three days may yet be consumed in the completion of the hearing. The only witnesses heard yesterday were two for the prosecution, Dr. Cooke of the Ladue Company, and Stanley Scarce, neither of which thought the license sought to be imposed by the city council on transient traders, $500, too high. Before the case is completed it is possible that all the merchants of Dawson may be before the court as witnesses.

Court Calendar

The territorial court calendar for next week is as follows: Monday—Court of appeals. Tuesday—Perkins vs. Berry, Sherelle vs. Lebac, Nicks vs. Bartlett, Douglas vs. Nida, Condon vs. C. D. Co. Wednesday—Morrison vs. Hebb, Winington vs. Quartz Creek Co., Burns vs. Bonlais, Hoagkin vs. Sechrist. Thursday—Vaillancourt vs. Leroux, Jurene vs. Faulkner, Williams vs. Faulkner. Friday—Chambers, vs. C. D. Co., Chovin vs. Cameron.

Railway Men's Demands

San Francisco, July 19.—Switchmen employed in the Southern Pacific Company's yards in this city and in Oakland have presented to the officials of the company a request for an increase of their wages from $75 a month to the union standard of 25 to 27 cents per hour during the day and 27 to 29 cents during the night. The petition embodying the request contains 200 signatures. It has been presented to Superintendent Palmer by whom it will be laid before the officers of the company.

It is thought that the slight increase asked by the men will be granted. Next month will be the busy season at the freight yards and as switchmen will be indispensable at that time the men believe that the company, aside from all other considerations, will grant the increase in order to avoid any interruption to traffic during the most profitable season the company enjoys.

The machinists of the Southern Pacific system are likewise endeavoring to secure from the company certain concessions which will better their condition. A committee representing the men has been in conference with H. J. Small, general superintendent of motive power, and it is believed that the conference will have the result of causing the company to enter into an agreement with the men to grant the concessions that are asked. The changes desired by the men are: A reduction of the apprenticeship from five to three years and a provision that promotion shall be made upon the basis of ability.

An increase in the number of holidays in the year from four to seven, including Labor day, so as to permit the employes to participate in the demonstrations on that day. A provision that employes who are compelled to work overtime on holidays shall be paid at the rate of a day and a half for one day's work.

A uniform wage scale over all the lines in the company's system. At the present time the machinists in California receive slightly better pay than those on other parts of the system and the employes are desirous of having the scale made uniform. The question of shorter hours and more pay is not touched upon except as it is embodied in these general demands.

OF GENERAL INTEREST.

Halifax, July 21.—Alexander MacKay, 45 years old, a confectioner, committed suicide by tying a stone to his feet and jumping into the sea in the Northwest arm last night. The body was recovered.

Toronto, July 21.—The electricians' strike is settled after a seven weeks' lockout. The minimum wage agreed upon is 25 cents for an eight-hour day. The union is also recognized.

George Walley, 55 years old, shipper for Evans & Sons, wholesale druggists, was found dead in the basement of the warehouse yesterday with blood on his face, apparently from his nose. As this is the second death recently in the warehouse, a young shipper named Green having been discovered in a dying condition on June 7th, apparently from hemorrhage, and as two attempts of an incendiary nature have been made to set the warehouse on fire within the past two months, the police think there may be something more than accident or coincidence behind it all, and are investigating.

Point aux Trembles, Que., July 21.—Larue's saw mill, butter and cheese factory were destroyed by fire on Saturday, loss $15,000. It is reported there is no insurance.

Cornwall, July 21.—Lilly Stacy, 19 years old, employed in the Stormont Mill of the Canada Colored Cotton Goods Company, had her entire scalp torn off tonight. She was fixing her hair preparatory to leaving work, when it was caught in the machinery.

Calgary, Alberta, July 21.—Three or four days ago a man was found on the trail along Nose creek, about 15 miles north of the city, by two boys. The man was without boots and his clothes were in a very bad condition. He was famished and said he had been without food for five days. He was apparently insane, and could not tell his name, but said that he thought he had come from Vancouver, and was on his way to Bowmanville. The Mounted Police went out Saturday and brought the man in. He is in a very bad condition physically.

Winnipeg, July 21.—Winnipeg is crowded with visitors for the summer industrial exhibition. In spite of the increased accommodation of most of the hotels, they were full today with exhibition visitors. This year's crowd, it is thought, will be a record one, and from present indications this idea is a well grounded one. Every train that arrives brings in large crowds, even at this early date. The fair was formally opened this afternoon by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, Sir Daniel McMillan.

New York, July 21.—In order to save the lives of unfortunates who while boating above the falls are caught in the current that runs to the cataract, it is proposed, says a Niagara Falls dispatch to the World, to string a line of buoys extending from the American mainland above Goat Island to a point on the Canadian shore near Chippawa. These may be connected by a wire rope and bear electric lights. A life saving crew is about to be organized and a station built above the upper rapids.

King City, Mo., July 20.—The remains of William York, a wealthy farmer, who disappeared last Monday, were found today in a hog lot three miles from here. The skull and thigh bones were all that remained. Mr. York was 85 years old and feeble. It is supposed he was attacked with heart failure and while prostrate was attacked by hogs.

Jamestown, N. Y., July 21.—Another terrific storm passed over Chautauqua county yesterday and last night, doing great damage to growing crops, delaying traffic on the Erie & Dunkirk, Allegheny Valley, and Pittsburg railroads, and cutting such holes in highways that travel across the country is almost impossible.

May Yohe's Jewels

New York, July 21.—A formal complaint of grand larceny was made against former Capt. Strong, by May Yohe, who visited police headquarters, accompanied by her mother and her lawyer, and there charged Strong, who recently disappeared from his home at Hastings, with the theft of jewels, which she values at $250,000. Her complaint was entered and a general alarm was sent for the arrest of Strong.

Miss Yohe's counsel said that the safes in the Knickerbocker Safe Deposit, where Miss Yohe kept her jewels, were opened today, and it was found that her jewels valued at $250,000 had been removed, nothing of value having been left in the safe but a few trilling trinkets. Pawn tickets, calling for $100,000 worth of the missing gems have been recovered.

Clothing cleaned, pressed, repaired and made to fit.—R. I. GOLDBERG, at Hershberg's.

Overdue in Port.

San Francisco, July 22.—The long overdue French barque Brenn, upon which there has been some speculation—the rate of insurance reaching 35 per cent—is at last in port from Newcastle, England, having arrived with a cargo of 2,975 tons of general merchandise. The Brenn, according to Capt. Brett's report, was off the port ten days, most of the time in a dense fog. She had previously been delayed by adverse winds.

TRIBULATIONS OF TWO STAMPEDERS.

The Mohawk's Revenge

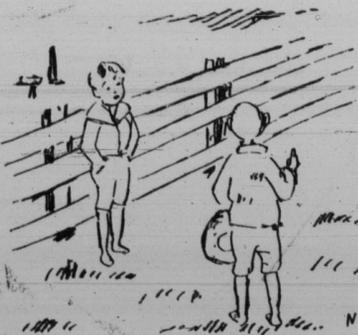

Jim and his chum Tom sat on the fence talking. Tom, the smaller of the two, was an alert, mischievous little fellow, with a merry, freckled face and red hair. He was fond of his friend and entertained a respectful admiration for him, although he would seldom show or admit it. Jim was in decided contrast to Tom. Being a little Indian boy, he displayed in disposition and physique all the characteristics of his race. He was of a dreamy temperament, and delighted in the stories his grandfather so often told him of his ancestors. Tom envied him his Indian birth, and he, too, liked the stories, and was always ready to hear him repeat them. He was now listening intently, but with assumed indifference, to the adventure Jim was relating. The narrative came to an end. "Jim," broke in Tom, abruptly changing the subject, thus giving him the impression his story was unworthy of comment, "what's this talk about you stealing Mrs. Brown's basket of fruit?" Jim jumped down, a frown settling on his face. The accusation had

No. I.—A little dark head bobbing up and down on the Water.

"I never took the fruit!" repeated the angry boy. "Tom," tragically, "that woman has injured me! She'd better be careful! Let her beware of the Mohawk's revenge!" Tom became serious and surveyed his companion with undisguised admiration. The day had been hot and sultry. Over the fields in which lay sheaves of ripened wheat the sun's last red rays were east, tinting them and the entire landscape in a faint red-gold. There was a peaceful stillness in the approaching night. All was quiet save perhaps for the monotonous droning of the never-wearyed crickets, or from the sifny pools along the roadside an occasional croak of a lazy frog mingled with the faint tinkle of the cowbells in the distance.

No. II.—Tom surveyed his companion with undisguised admiration.

troubled him greatly, and he stood digging his bare toes into the sod, silent and disconcerted, then said angrily: "It's a lie! I didn't steal her fruit! My ball fell into her yard. I went after it. When the fruit was missing she said I took it." "Looks bad," tantalized Tom. "I tell you, I didn't touch the stuff!" Tom had not a doubt of his friend's honesty, but he looked unbelieving and glanced carelessly over the landscape, as if for obvious reasons he didn't care to discuss the subject. "Do you dare say I took it?" demanded Jim.

But the beautiful scene was wasted on the unappreciative Jim, who, breaking the stillness with his shrill, tuneless whistle, sauntered lazily down the road toward his chum's house. Reaching the destination, and disdaining the gate, he climbed to the top of the fence surrounding the yard and peering over found poor Tom seated on an old barrel, his head tied up, a woe-begone expression on his face and showing every evidence of his old enemy, the toothache. "Hello, Tom! Gawe for a swim? Ho! ho! Toothache again, eh?" Tom neither moved nor deigned reply, so Jim disappeared, calling:

"Well, so long, baby! I'll go alone." Jim cut his swim short. Without Tom it lacked zest. Later, however, he had reached the zenith of happiness in having been hired by some yachtsmen to take care of their boat while they went ashore.

The yacht was anchored some distance out, and Jim lay on the deck watching the moonlit waters. No other boat was in sight, and apparently no one was moving on land. He seemed alone on that big sheet of water as he lay there weaving romances.

Gradually his mind reverted to Mrs. Brown. Owing to the stigma cast on him he had been snubbed by his companions and he felt it keenly. "If only," he thought, "it was a hundred years ago, and I a great chief, then Mrs. Brown—"

"Helloa!" called some one. Springing up, his sharp eyes searching the water, he discerned a small boat, evidently a canoe, almost hidden in the shadow of a high bank.

"Helloa!" again. There was distress in the cry. As the canoe moved out from the shadows a woman in it called:

"Helloa there, yacht! I have dropped my paddle and am drifting out into the lake!"

Jim knew the voice. It was Mrs. Brown's. No need to have lived a century ago! Here was ample revenge.

Clouds gathering on the horizon indicated an approaching storm. A breeze was blowing off the land. No one from shore could hear her call. No one but they two were on the water.

The canoe drifted, drifting out past the yacht, Jim, standing in the bright moonlight, folded his arms and watched it, as he imagined his fathers would have done, going out, out to destruction.

"Help!" came again and again. Jim stood like a statue. "This," he thought, "is my revenge!"

But there were traits in his character he hadn't counted on. There was a plunge! A splash! A little dark head bobbing up and down on the water, and a small hand grasped the canoe.

"Use that piece of stick beside you to steer, Mrs. Brown, and I'll get you ashore all right," said Jim.

They were not very far out, but he was only a little fellow of ten, and unused to swimming with one hand, and was, moreover, afraid of upsetting the canoe, so he made but slow headway, and the excited woman steered so badly they twice went around in a circle. Seeing this, she forced herself into calmness, and for a time they made better progress.

It was hard on Jim. He was tiring rapidly. Twice he stopped, rested and went bravely on again. But there seemed still a long stretch of water ahead.

On, on! His breath came in labored gasps. How far the shore seemed! Would he never reach it? On again. But his strokes became uncertain. What was the matter with him anyway?

A small boy, with a handkerchief tied around his head, sauntered carelessly down the pier, and stopped short, with the exclamation:

"Gee whiz!" Then he shouted lustily: "Don't be a duffer, Jim! Keep up; I'm coming."

His encouragement not having the desired effect, he yelled:

"Pshaw! You're no good! Bet my jack-knife you'll be drowned!" Spurred by Tom's taunts, Jim made fresh efforts.

Splash! A few strokes and Tom had hold of his exhausted friend. "Here, ma'am," said he, throwing into the canoe an old barrel stave, he had hastily snatched from the wharf. "Paddle with that. I'll land this kid!"

"Who is he?" asked Mrs. Brown, as she, now safely ashore, supported the unconscious Jim.

"He's the boy what you said stole your fruit when he didn't," sobbed Tom, mistaking Jim's faint for death. "He said he'd have a Mohawk's revenge on you for it, and now—he's dead!" "No, not dead," she answered softly, "and he has had his revenge—a noble one!"

A Kentucky Cragedy

It was cold and raining hard when Ellsworth Elliot Montague drove his tired team into the big dooryard in front of his cousin Tom Bowling's country home, fifteen miles southwest of Lexington, Ky.

"Why, how ah yuh, Monty?" said Tom, who had come to the door and stood there with the lamplight making a brilliant background behind him. "It strikes me yuh look wet."

"I'm wet outside, Tom, but I'm mighty dry inside the skin, I tell yuh. I'd like a good stiff drink of Kaintucky dew fust thing, soon as I get th' hosses put up."

"Heah, boy," Tom called to an old negro, "put up Mistah Montague's hosses right away, do you heah? Come right in this minute, you pooh old chap. Sit down thah next th' wood fire. I'll bring you a drink directly."

In five minutes Tom came back from the rear of the house, confusion on his face.

"It's disgraceful, Monty; it's the fuhst time it evah happened in this house, I give you may wuhd," he said.

"What's the mattah, old chap? What's gone wrong?"

"Monty, I'm ashamed to confess it, but theah ain't a drop of liquor in th' house, not a drop."

"No place to get any anywah neah by, I reckon."

"Not neaher than th' old Dutchman's, an' he's twelve miles away."

"Couldn't send a niggah ovah; could you, to tote back a pint? Th' fact is, th' cold's got in my bones an' I can't seem to get wahn nohow."

"Why, certainly, Monty. No trouble at all. I'm only mortified that we haven't got a drop in th' house. Fuhst time it was evah said of a Bowling, I assu' you of that. Heah, you, Andrew Jackson, go tell George Washington to saddle th' spotted pony an' ride ovah to th' old Dutchman's aftah a quart of liquor. Heah's a dollah foh him."

The old negro went out into the yard, and Ellsworth Elliot Montague heaved a sigh of relief.

"Theah," he said, "I feel bettah already. How fah did you say it was?"

"Twelve miles, Monty."

"Good roads?"

"Yes, roads ah good an' smooth. Tuhnpike."

"That pony a fast hoss?"

"Middin' fast, Monty."

"That boy, George Washington, a good ridah?"

"All muh boys ah good ridahs. Don't allow no uteh kind on th' place."

"You don't think he's in any dang'uh of fallin' off?"

"No, I reckon not," laughed Tom. "What's the mattah with you, Monty?"

"Nothin's the mattah. But it seems to me I can jess smell that liquor this minute. I'm powerful cold and chilly, an' thuh fah don't seem to reach th' spot. That boy must be about three miles out by this time?"

"Git up, ne's yellin', git up. Heah's Mistah Tom Bowling sent ovah foh a quart of yuh best liquor in a huhby. Git up—Foh th' Lord's sake, Tom, they ain't any dang'uh of th' old Dutchman's bein' out of liquor, is theh?"

"He's always got a couple of barrels."

"You ah suah about that niggah bein' a good ridah?"

"Yes."

"Don't think thah's any dang'uh of his droppin' th' bottle?"

"Not a bit."

"Th' old Dutchman gets up an'—"

"An' th' niggah boy a good ridah?"

"Fine ridah."

"Say, he must be mighty nigh home. Theah's a noise in the yahd now."

Ellsworth Elliot Montague threw open the door and peered out into the rain.

"Heah, you, George Washington," he cried. "Bring that whisky in heah this minute."

"Boss," came the answer, "I'se hurryin', but I ain't found de bridle yet."—Chicago Tribune.

"No. Th' old Dutchman's got plenty."

"Say, th' boy muss be stahted back by this time?"

"I reckon."

"Fuhst he says to th' old Dutchman, 'Heah's yuah old dollah. Mistah Bowling says foh to keep th' change.' You say th' roads ah good, Tom?"

"Yes."

"Boy ain't liable to drink th' liquor?"

"No, not a bit."

Tit for Tat
Man is so prone to err that he should reflect a little before drawing attention to the mistakes of others. A professor who prided himself on his correct English heard his wife remark:

"I intended to tell Jane to bring a fresh bucket of water."

"You doubtless mean a bucket of fresh water," corrected the professor. "I wish you would pay more attention to your rhetoric."

A few moments later he said: "My dear, that picture would show to better advantage if you were to hang it over the clock."

"Ah," she replied, you doubtless mean if I were to hang it above the clock. If I were to hang it over the clock, we could not tell the time. I

"Yes, I reckon so."

"An' th' spotted pony is a good loper?"

"Might run away with th' niggah boy?"

"No. He's a fuhst-class ridah."

"Say, that boy muss be half way home by this time?"

"Ought to be thah."

CORONATION CELEBRATION

Enthusiastic Assemblage Last Night

Fireworks Ordered by Wire and an Elaborate Program Will be Carried Out.

It required only a couple of stirring newspaper articles to stir the citizens from the apathy into which they had fallen in regard to the proper celebration of the coronation of King Edward, which occurs one week from today, and in response to the call published yesterday evening by Mayor Macaulay nearly 200 subjects of his majesty met last night to discuss the matter and formulate plans for the due observance of an event which happens to the average individual but once in a life time. The meeting was most enthusiastic and it was unanimously decided to follow as near as practicable the ideas set forth in the communication of Mr. Stansfield published in the Nugget of yesterday evening. This will include thanksgiving services at an early hour in all the churches, the services to be as far as possible choral and the interiors to be decorated with flowers and evergreens; children's sports from 9 o'clock until noon; lunch for the children under the superintendence of a committee of ladies; adult sports including aquatic events from 2 to 5; baseball, lacrosse or cricket at the barracks' grounds from 7 to 9 with promenade concert in the barracks square by the police band; fancy costume illuminated parade, masked or otherwise, from 9 to 10; confetti fire from 10 to 11 and also an illumination of the water front by decorated canoes and other craft, the whole to conclude with a half hour's pyrotechnical display and the singing of "God Save the King" by the entire populace. Mayor Macaulay was chosen chairman of the meeting and Dr. J. N. E. Brown secretary. A general committee was named and a call issued for a meeting at Pioneer hall this evening at which the minor details will be arranged. The order for the fireworks was wired to Victoria last night immediately at the conclusion of the meeting. Mayor Macaulay, Colonel MacGregor and Dr. J. N. E. Brown were named as a committee to confer with the ladies as to the decoration and lunch for the children. The following comprise the general committee: Major Wood, E. C. Breaks Shaft at Sea.
Halifax, N. S., July 19.—The American line steamer Belgenland, from Philadelphia for Queenstown and Liverpool, was brought to this port today in town of the Harrison line steamer Scholar. The Belgenland broke her shaft on July 9th, in latitude 40.57 north, longitude 51.07 west. Three days later, in response to signals of distress, she was picked up by the Beholiar, which was on her way from Galveston to Liverpool. The Belgenland has on board 129 first class and 74 second class passengers and all were reported well. The accident caused little excitement. There has been a mutual exchange of compliments between officers and passengers—on the part of the former that those bore themselves so calmly in the face of danger, and on the part of the latter that the coolness of the officers brought the vessel safely through the experience. The Belgenland sailed from Philadelphia July 5th. The fracture of the shaft was in the intermediate section. Examination showed that the vessel's hull had suffered no damage. The engineers made repairs by playing shut-bands over the shaft and the machinery was started. In half an hour the bands broke and the steamer was again helpless. Further efforts to make repairs were fruitless and for the next few days the vessel lay drifting. The passengers behaved in an admirable manner. No rough weather was encountered.

Women Believe in Union Labor
Sacramento, July 19.—The Grand Council of the Young Ladies' Institute, which has been in session in this city during the week, adjourned tonight to meet next year at a place to be designated by the board of directors. The Grand Council took an important stand upon the question of the employment of union labor and adopted a number of resolutions which were incorporated in the constitution. The Grand Council decided that in the future all printing done for the grand and subordinate councils shall bear the union label, that where music is engaged for social purposes none but union musicians shall be employed, and that for all labor to be performed for the grand and subordinate councils none but union men shall be employed unless where it is impossible to do so.

HAS BEEN APPEALED

Watson Concession Case Once More

Taken to the Supreme Court of Canada—Appeal Book Was Filed Yesterday.

Yesterday the counselors for the plaintiffs (appellants), Messrs. Woodworth & Black, filed the appeal book with Clerk of the Court Macdonald in the famous case of Hartley et al against the Watson concession appealing to the supreme court of Canada from the decision rendered here by the territorial court of appeals. The book covers 52 pages of closely typewritten matter and was gotten up by Stenographer Carter of the counselors' office. The case was first heard in the territorial court from which an appeal was taken to the court of appeals and now it is being taken to the supreme court. Should the decision of the higher court still be adverse to the appellants there still remains an appeal to the privy council of England which is the court of last resort. Since its inception the case has attracted much attention here for the reason that the legality of the concession is attacked, it being held by the plaintiffs that any rights that the concessionaires may have possessed were forfeited by reason of their failure to conform with the requirements of their lease. Associated with Hartley in the fight are some thirty or forty other plaintiffs all of whom staked on the concession and made application to record in the gold commissioner's office. They consider their case is just and propose to stand by their opinion as long as there is the remotest chance of winning out.

Slaps Merchant's Face
San Diego, Cal., July 19.—The sensation of the hour is the encounter this afternoon between D. C. Collier, Jr., candidate for the Republican nomination for congress, and Arthur Cosgrove, the former being a prominent attorney and the law partner of Samuel F. Smith, and the latter, a leading business man, a member of the firm of Ballou & Cosgrove, importers and wholesalers of coffee, etc. There has been bad blood between the men. Collier had an idea that Cosgrove had been trying to injure his chances for congressional honors. This afternoon when Cosgrove was coming out of the First National Bank, Collier rode up to the curbing in his automobile and freed his mind, closing his remarks with words which were more forcible than elegant. Cosgrove responded in kind, and then Collier slapped the former's face twice. Without striking back, Cosgrove called on a police officer as a witness and asked him to arrest Collier. No sooner had the officer become seated in the automobile than Collier landed a heavy blow on Cosgrove's chin. Though intended for a knockout blow, it hadn't the requisite force. Cosgrove hired a lawyer and had a warrant issued for Collier's arrest, but later the complaint was withdrawn and the affair adjusted between the parties.

Situation in Hayti
Cape Haytien, Hayti, July 21.—The department of Artibonite has proclaimed Firmin, the former minister of Hayti at Paris, president, and the inhabitants of the arrondissement of St. Michael and the commune of Marmelaide have joined with those of Artibonite with the view of marching on Cape Haytien. General Jean Jumeau, who is supporting M. Firmin, has received at Gonaves, by steamer Valencia from New York, 200 tons of coal and ammunition for the steamer Crete Apierrot. The situation here is alarming. The general opinion is that Gen. Jean Jumeau intends marching on Port au Prince, and that he will send the Crete Apierrot with troops. Port au Prince, Hayti, July 21.—The situation in Hayti has become worse. Gen. Jean Jumeau, who supports the candidacy for the presidency of M. Firmin, is on his way to the capital, and Gen. Salnave, with a considerable force, has started for Cape Haytien in order to attack Gen. Norde, the war minister. The provisional government here is divided into four parts, one Firminist and three anti-Firminist groups, and is without any authority. The population is also divided, and it is generally believed that M. Firmin will not meet with any serious resistance in his advance on the capital.

Farmer's Conference

Run on Vaults

St. Paul, Minn., July 22.—Other railroad presidents, it is now stated, will participate in the rate conference which President Hill, of the Great Northern, and President Melan, of the Northern Pacific, will hold with the farmers and producers of the Pacific states. In a friendly letter Mr. Melan has expressed himself as pleased with the disposition of western farmers and producers to settle the freight rate question in conference with the presidents of the lines. He suggested, however, that at the conference the Oregon Railroad & Navigation Company be also represented, because it is largely concerned in the western grain haul. The western farmers desire freight rate reductions to enable them to move their grain and produce to better advantage. The suggestion was made at a session of their own organization that the questions be taken up at a conference with the presidents of the interested lines. The conference is novel in that it is the first of its kind ever proposed in the Pacific northwest. But one or two conferences, it is said, have ever been held in the western states.

Leaps Sixty Eight Feet
North Yakima, July 19.—To escape arrest, J. Wade, a laborer in the employ of the Washington Irrigation Company, leaped from a bluff sixty-eight feet high and swam the Yakima river, without injuring himself. He had been in the employ of a ditch constructor and received a time check which he presented to the cashier. The latter detected a raise in the amount stated on the check and accused Wade of changing the figures. He denied the accusation and the cashier telephoned for a constable. While this was being done Wade walked away. Constable Willis Douglas and Deputy Chas. F. Bailey gave chase and were about to catch the man. He sprang quickly over the bluff and landed in the river. Swimming to the opposite shore, he bade the officers farewell with a wave of the hand and departed.

Will Ask for Terms.
Wilkesbarre, Pa., July 19.—Although they continue to deny it, the operators are apparently getting their coffers—in shape to resume work despite the fact that the present attitude of the strikers indicates a longer resistance than ever. They have agents among the strikers soliciting them to return to work, and at many of the mines the inside workings are being cleared and put in shape for the first time since the strike began. Any one can see that with a bountiful $1,000,000 strike fund the strikers who have held out so long are not going to return to work. The impression in some quarters is that the operators will first offer a 10 per cent. increase, providing the mine workers leave the union, and if this fails, and the strikers say it undoubtedly will, they will probably apply for arbitration. It may be that then the miners will have nothing to arbitrate, as the operators have said to them: There is now the fullest conviction among the strikers that they will be back to work before the first of September with concessions granted and union recognized. They say that work must come then if the operators want to move any showing in the fall trade.

Jail Breakers Recaptured
San Diego, Cal., July 19.—An apparently reliable report has just been brought to this city from two sources below the line to the effect that two members of the trio of jail breakers from this city had been captured by rurales near Descanso, Lower California. The report states that a man and a woman had been captured and it is likely that they are Hall and Bessie Hall. The same report comes from Tijuana and Euseñada, and a message from Carriso is to the same effect. This would indicate that Brooks, the third fugitive, had struck out by himself. He is thoroughly familiar with the trails and may possibly succeed in escaping.

An Unusual Spectacle.
Guthrie, O. T., July 22.—The unusual spectacle of an Indian divorce case, and so far as known, the only incident of the kind on record, was witnessed in Pawnee when an aged Pawnee Indian plaintiff, Spah Pah Beuer, almost blind, applied for a legal separation from his wife, Maud Beuer. The evidence was taken through interpreters and a divorce was granted by Judge Bainer, of the federal court. The woman was not present in court.

Will Bombard Town
Cape Haytien, July 22.—The local authorities have notified the consular corps that Cape Haytien is to be attacked by land and sea, and that they cannot guarantee the safety of foreigners. The consuls have requested that the French cruiser D'Assak, now at Port au Prince, be sent here, but the French minister there has replied that the situation at Port au Prince does not permit the sending of the cruiser to Cape Haytien. Washington, July 22.—Secretary Moody, in a cablegram today to Commander McCrea, of the gunboat Machias, now at Colon, directed him to proceed with that vessel to Cape Haytien in response to the request of the United States consul there. Orders were also sent to the gunboat Marietta, directing her to proceed to Colon to take the place of the Machias, as soon as she has finished her present work on the Venezuelan coast.

Another Shock
Kingstown, St. Vincent, July 21.—There was another terrific earthquake here at 1:10 o'clock this morning. It was of long duration and was accompanied by a repetition of the phenomena of last Thursday. The shock caused intense excitement among the inhabitants, who fled in their night clothes into the streets and remained out of doors until daylight. Partially demolished buildings are being pulled down for public safety. There was a thunderstorm last night. Today the weather is very squally and the sea is receding. Some people anticipate a tidal wave.

St. Joseph, Mo., July 22.—The Missouri Democratic convention tonight nominated the following ticket: For railroad and warehouse commissioners, long term, J. P. Knott; short term, Jos. P. Rice; superintendent of public instruction, Joseph P. Carrington. The resolutions adopted declare allegiance to the principles of the Kansas City platform, especial stress being placed on the free silver, 16 to 1, plank. The government's Philippine policy is denounced. Drastic legislation is proposed, prohibiting the existence of all trusts and corporations that have a tendency to destroy competition. The platform denounces government by injunction, child labor in factories is condemned, and municipal ownership and direct legislation are approved. United States Senator Cockrell was decided upon for chairman of the state committee. The senator, who is in Washington, was apprised by wire of the wishes of the state leaders, but replied to Gov. Dockery that he would not accept. The message was not accepted as final and the senator was promptly notified that the convention urged him to reconsider his decision. William J. Stone, who will be the Democratic nominee to succeed Senator George Graham Vest in the senate, addressed the convention at 11:30. He presented a telegram from Senator Cockrell, asking for the election of W. A. Rothwell of Moberly, as chairman of the state committee. The convention, acting on the suggestion of ex-Gov. Stone, unanimously nominated Mr. Rothwell.

LOOKS LIKE MURDER

Another Body Found in the Yukon

There is a probability that the list of Yukon murders has been augmented in the not very remote past, another added to the list of crimes of which this country has been the scene since the greed for gold induced men to leave their homes and come to this far-off northland.

A body picked up in the Yukon river by a log rafter named Paul Forrest was brought to the city yesterday evening. It was found some distance above Ogilvie in a slough into which Forrest's raft had been carried by a contrary current. Forrest, on seeing the body, tied up his raft and dragged the remains on it from the water. He sent word to the police at Ogilvie of his find and they in turn notified their superiors at Dawson.

Inspector Jarvis and Surgeon Madore of the Selkirk post were instructed to repair to the place of the discovery, which they did, bringing the body on to Ogilvie where a brief examination was made, but enough to arouse a suspicion that a murder had been committed. It was therefore decided to bring the body on to Dawson which was done, arriving here yesterday evening.

The body has evidently been in the water some time, possibly three months or longer; in fact, from its decomposed appearance it may have gone into the river through the ice sometime last winter.

The most suspicious feature discovered in the brief examination made at Ogilvie was the fact that a cord is tied around the left wrist and one around the left ankle, each cord or rope being of quarter-inch size and about 30 inches long. Money to the amount of $10.15 was found on the body. The body was taken to the barracks morgue last night.

This morning a coroner's jury was empanelled which has been in session since. Owing to the decomposed condition of the body the process of close examination for wounds is necessarily slow. At two o'clock this afternoon nothing had been found by which the identity of the body could be established. The examination will be a thorough one, requiring perhaps several days to complete, and if another murder has been committed the fact will be established.

The body is evidently that of a medium sized man but as yet no exact idea can be formed as to probable age.

Ever since the finding of Bouthillette's body and the learning of his having left Whitehorse in company with four other men, there is said to be grounds for a belief among the police that three of the five men were killed instead of one, and on that theory a most careful and systematic search is being conducted by the police on the river the entire distance between Dawson and Five Fingers.

The Yukon is remarkable for giving up its dead and the police are equally remarkable for ferreting out clues, and the two together render it next to impossible for the perpetrators of these river murders to escape detection.

CHURCH NOTICES.

Methodist Church—The regular quarterly sacramental service will be held in the morning. Pastor's subject, "A Personal Sacrifice for Sin." Evening subject, "Make the Most of Yourself." Special music with Mr. J. A. Boyle at the organ. Mrs. R. P. Ritchie will sing at the evening service tomorrow during the offertory, "The Earth is the Lord's," by Schencker.

St. Andrew's Church—The following special music will be rendered at tomorrow evening's service at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church: Messrs. Friemuth and Searelle will play Raff's Cavatina, a duet for violin and organ, and the choir will sing Schilling's anthem, entitled "Softly Now the Light of Day," with soprano and contralto solos.

Entertainment Last Night. A noteworthy entertainment was given at the St. Andrew's church last night. The occasion was in the nature of a farewell to the old officers of the Salvation Army and a welcome to the new ones who have just arrived in Dawson.

The auditorium of the church was comfortably filled by an audience all of whom thoroughly enjoyed the splendid program which was rendered.

The Salvation Army has accomplished a vast amount of good work in Dawson a fact of which the citizens of the town generally are strongly appreciative. The program of the evening was as follows:

Selection, organ.....Selected Mr. Searelle.

Address.....Rev. Dr. Grant.

Solo—"The Better Land".....F. H. Cowen

Address.....Mrs. Dr. Thompson.

Address.....Rev. W. H. Barraclough.

Reading—"So Flows the Yukon".....Miss E. Coleman.

Address.....Adjutant J. Barr.

Solo—"Now I Lay Me Down to Sleep".....Stanley

Address.....Mrs. Boyes.

Address.....Adj. G. Kenway.

Solo—"Daddy".....Behrend

Address.....Mr. McLeod.

Congregation.....

By His counsels guide uphold you.

With His sheep securely fold you,

God be with you till we meet again."

CONTRACT UNSIGNED

Water Company Unable to Agree

With the City Council as to the Terms of the Three Year's Contract.

Closing the contract for the installation of the new water system the Dawson Water and Power Company proposed to put in for the use of the city for the annual fee of $15,000 is still hanging fire and no one seems to know how the matter is going to culminate. Mr. Matheson met the members of the council in the office of the city engineer Thursday afternoon but after wrangling for a considerable length of time they were no farther advanced than they were at the beginning. The main difficulty appears to be as to the nature of the contract the mayor will sign and Mr. Matheson accept. At the meeting referred to there was a contract on hand drawn up by City Solicitor Donaghy, but there were provisions in it the manager of the water company did not like and others that he wished inserted were left out, and he would not accept it. The position taken by the council in the matter is this: The contract runs for three years and as it is scarcely probable that the personnel of the council in 1905 will be the same as it is now the present members do not wish to make a deal that their successors in office can find fault with. They insist they wish nothing that is not just but desire to protect the city in all manner possible. On the other hand Mr. Matheson is a shrewd business man and is not looking for the worst of it. The system will involve an outlay of $100,000 and he naturally wants as much protection for his investment as the city does for its taxpayers.

In the meantime the summer is passing and unless the equipment has already been ordered (and it is said Mr. Matheson has reported it has been) there are grave doubts of its arriving before the close of navigation. The pumps, engines and boilers are massive affairs, to say nothing of the miles of piping that will be required, and the forwarding and transferring of such freight can not be expedited as can a crate of hams or a few sacks of flour. If the water system is to be put in this season no time should be lost in coming to an agreement.

To Race Tonight

Tonight Sandy Frew of Dawson and Constable Wright of Grand Forks will run a 100-yard footrace at the latter place. The race will take place at 8 o'clock on Woodburn avenue, the principal thoroughfare of the burg and considerable money will change hands on the result. Both are fast men and the friends of each are backing their favorite for their entire pokes.

Result of a Protest in South Dawson

A Test of Electric Light Pumps Shows Them to be Unequal for Protection.

The resolution which was passed at the last meeting of the city council in reference to the taking out of commission of No. 3 fire engine located at South Dawson has been rescinded and matters in that connection will stand as they are at present, at least for the time being. The change in the decision of the council has been brought about by an investigation of the fire fighting qualities of the pump and equipment it was proposed to use in lieu of the engine, the property of the Dawson Electric Light and Power Company. The day following the passage of the resolution referred to the citizens of South Dawson held an indignation meeting at which a strong protest was registered against the proposed action of the council, it being declared that such action would leave that portion of the city virtually without any protection whatever from fire. The meeting appointed a committee consisting of Dr. Alfred Thompson and Mr. J. Langlois Bell who were instructed to wait on the council and do their utmost to have the resolution reconsidered. The committee met the fire, water and light committee by appointment and after stating their objections in as forcible manner as possible it was decided to defer action until the merits of the Electric Light Company's equipment could be tested. Both committees repaired to the plant of the company Wednesday forenoon and the test was made to the complete satisfaction of all concerned. Mr. Williams, manager of the company, was very frank in regard to the power of his pumps and did not hesitate to tell the gentlemen that they would not do what was expected of them. Investigation proved his statements to be correct. The equipment was found to be wholly inadequate to afford any measure of fire protection and the fire committee of the council decided then and there to not make the proposed change. The stream thrown by the pump was small and of little force, scarcely more than sufficient to carry it across the street, and it could be operated but a short time until a stop would have to be made in order to fill the boilers.

When the matter first came up in the council the change was proposed as a matter of economy, the saving which would be effected amounting to about $500 a month. It was said that the Electric Light Company had offered the use of their equipment to the city gratis in case of fire and the protection it would afford would be ample for the entire district. The citizens and the property owners thought different with the result just stated. It would now be interesting to know which member of the council it was who first proposed the change.

Dutton Held Over

Thos. Dutton, the negro accused of stealing a gold watch and chain at the Klondike City hotel, was this morning held over to the territorial court for trial. Dutton introduced some evidence in his own behalf but it in nowise changed the phase of the case against him.

James Smith, another negro charged with stealing oats, was remanded for hearing until Monday.

Charge Was Dismissed.

Jack Crowley and Herbert Cameron were yesterday afternoon dismissed on the charge of stealing three cords of wood from Andrew Robel on Hunker creek. From the testimony of numerous witnesses it was apparent that the wood was appropriated through mistake and civil action should have been taken to recover its value, which was placed at $30.

Cut His Wife's Throat.

Halifax, July 21.—Six weeks ago Geo. W. Cooke, 45 years old, was married to Lydia Arnold, 42 years of age. Tonight he cut off her head with a razor. Cooke and his wife had been living with the latter's sister. At 6:30 this morning the latter heard her sister scream and rushing up to the room found her sister lying on the floor with her throat cut from ear to ear. She ran to the nearest police station and an officer was sent up, who found Cooke lying on the bed under which his murdered wife's body partially lay. The man was actually lying in his wife's blood. Cooke submitted to arrest without resistance, and told the officer that he had "finished her," and had cut her throat with the razor. Cooke is an old soldier.
