Of all the poisons taken into the blood, the germs and pus contributed by diseased gums (Pyorrhea) are the most destructive to the human system. If every red blood cell is forced to fight against numbers of germs to the cell, the blood cannot attend to the building up of the body, and if allowed to continue the system is bound to break down and eventually you are an invalid. Kidney, stomach, heart trouble, rheumatism and many other diseases are brought on by diseased gums and teeth.

A Tip to Hubby—

Bet you never thought of it, but isn't it just a wee bit selfish to sit there in your big chair, your feet upon the fender, pipe-dreaming, while that little housekeeper of yours works over a sink full of messy pots and pans or finishing up the day's odds and ends? Have a heart, help her keep those rosy cheeks of hers. Be a real sport, step into Stewart's Fancy Bakery and ask for a loaf of Stewart's Homemade Bread, it's the best. Also Xmas Cakes, Mince Pies, Ladies' Fingers, Pastry Shells, Oyster Pattie Shells, etc. Take it home and tell her to quit baking. If it's anything fancy in the baking line Stewart's have it.

The Romance of a Marriage.

CHAPTER V.

Bob stares, so calm and cool as the speaker's voice and manner.

"Hope you had a good time of it?"

"Yes," says Bob. "Oh, yes! Not much in my line, though."

Silence again, during which Bob stares with a pardonable curiosity at Paula. Is he to do all the talking? What has come to her? Usually her tongue runs nineteen to the dozen.

"I don't know whether you have a pipe after breakfast?" he says, getting up. "I always do. Paula, where did you put the tobacco?"

Paula gets up and fetches the dog-head tobacco-jar, but still without a word.

"I'll have a cigarette, thanks," says Sir Herrick, and he takes out a case on which is balanced the Powis arms. "No use offering you one, if you go in for a pipe."

"No, thanks; no use to me," says Bob. "Now I'll show you my flies. Paula, will you get me my fly-book? It's in the left-hand pocket of my shooting-jacket. No it isn't, though; it's in my fishing-basket."

Paula glides out, and then, outside, draws a long breath.

Sir Herrick Powis! The last of the Powises! What on earth must he think of her? In her thought. Then, with the fly-book in her hand, she stands outside the door and recalls Bob's words of the preceding night.

A gambler, a spendthrift, wild and bad. Oh! impossible, with that quiet face, that frank smile! At any rate, Bob has kept his word; he has made him welcome. But, then, Bob would make the greatest outcast on earth welcome, if he came at meal-times. Bob's hospitality is Arabian.

She goes in quietly with the fly-book. They are sitting opposite each other in the two easy-chairs, Bob puffing at his pipe, Sir Herrick smoking his cigarette; and as she enters she hears Bob's laugh, and she sees by his face that Sir Herrick—the gambler and the spendthrift, the everything that is bad—has won Bob's heart.

"Oh, here's the book," he says. "Thanks. Now I'll show you the proper fly. Paula, take hold of this line. That's the fly; they can't withstand that. Here, take it; I've got plenty more. We'll go and try the mill-pond directly."

The door opens and May appears.

"Mr. Jackson, sir, about the calf."

Bob rises at once, as if Sir Herrick were nobody.

"All right, tell him I'm coming. Excuse me, will you? A man on business," and off he goes, with his pipe in his mouth.

Paula stands with the fishing-line in her hand, and looks round meditating flight, if she can find some excuse; but before she can invent one, Sir Herrick rieg.

"Miss Paula," he says, flinging his cigarette in the grate, "I'm afraid you are offended!"

"Offended?" says Paula.

"Yes, I know you have good reason to be so. It was awfully cool cheek of mine last night. I'm very sorry. It was done on the spur of the moment; and, after all, there wasn't much harm, was there?"

"You mean the dance?" says Paula, with downcast eyes.

"Yes, the dance," he says in such a tone that Paula feels an irresistible inclination to laugh. "It was all my fault," he says. "I ought not to have done it, but—well, with a pause—it was an awfully jolly dance."

At this Paula's effort breaks down, and she laughs, a low, rippling laugh.

"I don't think you are very penitent," she says.

Then he laughs, and his eyes, resting on her face, laugh with his lips.

"Not a bit," he says; "and if you aren't, what does it matter? But you were right about your brother. He is a brick!"

"Isn't he?" says Paula, quickly.

A word in praise of Bob is the way to reach her heart.

"He is," he repeats, "a perfect brick. And—looking round the room—" what a delightful room this is! I'm glad I came to Hampden."

"Are you?" says Paula.

"Yes, very, very glad," he says, and he comes nearer to her, looking down at her—she is only a head taller. "I shall stay as long as I can. Don't trouble with that line, Miss Paula; give it to me," and he takes hold of it gently; but Paula has managed to get it wound round her white, shapely fingers, and as he endeavours to release it, his fingers get entangled with hers.

"What a mess it is in!" he says.

"Oh, never mind," says Paula, and she tries to get rid of the cord, for the touch of his hands has called up a strange sensation, which is as embarrassing as it is strange. "It doesn't matter. It is only—an old line."

"One moment," he says in a low voice, and he bends over her hands.

"There!"

Paula whips her hands behind her as Bob enters.

"I'm very sorry, Sir Herrick," he says, "but I'm afraid I can't go with you this morning. A man has come over on business, and I'll have to go with him. It's Jackson, Paula, and he says there are some pigs at Wolf-den Market. I shall have to go and see them."

"Doesn't matter in the slightest," says Sir Herrick, walking up to him. "Any other day will do."

"But this is just the morning for fishing," says Bob, regretfully, "just the morning."

Then a brilliant idea strikes him.

"Here, Paula," he says, cheerfully, "you go with Sir Herrick, and show him that place just below the mill pool."

"Oh, I couldn't trouble Miss Paula," says Sir Herrick; but his eyes brighten as they rest on her downcast face.

Bob laughs.

"Oh, it's no trouble. She can throw a fly as well as I can—pretty nearly—and she knows all the best places."

For Little Tots on Chilly Mornings.

Don't you, Paula?"

"Yes," Paula murmurs in confusion.

"Let her go with you," says Bob, all forgetful of the character he had given his guest. "She'll put you on the proper spots. Mind, Paula, the end of the mill pool, just in the shallows."

"But," says Sir Herrick, remonstrating, "Miss Paula may not care—"

Bob cuts in with a short laugh.

"There's nothing she'd like better, Sir Herrick. Get your hat on, Paula."

And Paula, after a moment's hesitation, dutifully obeys.

After all, what else can she do, unless she should be downright mulish?

CHAPTER VI.

Of course it is not the proper thing for a young lady to accompany a young gentleman, alone, after the first few moments of introduction; especially if she has also been guilty of the indiscretion of waiting with him on a gravel path the preceding evening, without any introduction at all. But what can Paula do?

Bob, who knows about as much of the conveniences and etiquette generally as a bull knows of crochet-work, and who looks upon Paula as little better than a child—who is wont, indeed, on occasions to call her "the kid"—has simply issued his orders, and she can scarcely turn round with a blank refusal, or explain that Bob's suggestion is shocking.

Sir Herrick could help her if he likes, and he does mutter something about "troubling Miss Estcourt, and taking up her time;" but Bob cuts him short with a laugh.

"Oh, Paula," he says, with all a brother's indifference. "It's no trouble to her; she'll enjoy it; her time's her own. You can take my rod, if you like," he says to her, graciously, and adds, for Sir Herrick's information, "she throws a very decent fly."

Paula gets her hat and Bob's lightest rod, and when she comes down finds Sir Herrick standing under the verandah with his rod in his hand.

He greets her with the smile that seems almost familiar to her now.

"The ladies are gracious to me," he says. "Are you really coming, Miss Paula? Don't, if you'd rather not. I'll accept any excuse, I assure you."

"I haven't got one ready," says Paula. "Besides, Bob's word is law—when my sister Alice is not about. I think I'd better go."

"I breathe again," he says. "I thought you would back out of it."

"This way," says Paula, with a laugh.

He lights a cigarette and slings his fishing-basket on his shoulders, then he lays hands on her rod.

"I'll carry that," he says, gently, and Paula relinquishes it.

They go down the winding path and across the meadows, and presently the brawls of the river, as it tumbles over the stones, smites upon their ears. Paula is very quiet, and Sir Herrick smokes in respectful silence. There is an air of attentive respect with which he opens gates for her and assists her over stiles, that is not lost upon Paula.

But given a lovely morning in June, and two young people of different sexes walking across meadows fresh with the breath of summer, and silence is rather difficult to maintain.

"And you go in for fly-fishing?" he says.

Paula colours as if he had accused her of a crime.

"I learnt it of Bob," she says, apologetically.

"A rattling good thing to learn," he says. "I only know one woman who could do it; and I often wondered why it didn't come into fashion with ladies; just the sport they could use to perfection. Wants a light hand and a keen eye, and those are just what women have. What a lovely morning! Ah, this is beautiful!"

And he stops short as they reach the river, and looks round.

It is a perfect little picture: the bright, blue sky above, just flecked here and there with white, fleecy clouds, the trees clad in their summer greenery, the silver steam bubbling over the smooth stones and boulders.

"Beautiful!" he says, drawing a long breath. "Jove! how happy you must be."

"Happy?" says Paula, with a smile.

"Yes, I suppose we are happy. Better put our rods up here."

He takes her rod and fits it for her, and follows suit with his own. Then he hands her his fly-book. It is a serviceable one of time-stained leather; but Paula notices that it is emblazoned with the Powis crest—two hawks with outstretched wings.

"You had better choose the fly," he says.

Paula nods and opens the book, and her dark brows come together thoughtfully, as she turns over the leaves.

He stands looking, not at the book, but at her; stands looking with the light of admiration in his eyes; there is so much of youthful beauty in the face as it is bent over the book that he wishes—as many a man wishes—that he had the power of transferring it to paper or canvas.

"That's the fly," she says, looking up suddenly, and very narrowly escaping his direct gaze.

"I'll put one on each line," he says, rather quickly, for her glorious eyes, in their intent look, startle him.

"There! Now you shall have the first throw."

"No," says Paula, firmly; you shall. You are the visitor, you know," and she laughs.

He is too well-bred to argue, and stepping to the edge of the stream, throws the fly lightly on the water, and Paula stands a little way back watching him.

There is a cloud over the sun just at the moment; a most favourable time in which to ensnare the silvery trout; but they rise before him, he does not succeed, and Paula smiles.

Not as if he saw her, he turns his head.

"You are laughing at me," he says. "I won't throw another cast until you have!" and he steps back with a smile and a shake of the head.

A Spectacular Finish.

10,000 people witnessed a wrestling match at New York between Zbyzsko and Stecher. After 1½ hours' wrestling Stecher seemed to have his knees curled around the Pole's lower ribs, but Zbyzsko rose to his feet, hitting his rival on his shoulders, and hurled him bodily through the air, the Westerner landing like a cat on his feet.

The men had wrestled 2 hours 24 minutes without any sign of result, when the mighty Pole once more lifted his opponent high in the air and was whirling him around, trying to make him dizzy, with the possibility of securing a fall by the flying route. But Stecher was evidently doing some thinking during his involuntarily merry-go-round ride, for, as he went to the floor, he was on the giant's head like a cat, pinning him down with a head, scissors and arm lock.

It was all done so quickly that few spectators had realized what happened. The Pole, himself dizzy from his revolutions, could offer only feeble resistance as the deadly combination of holds closed on him. His shoulders neared the canvas and then stuck there.

All About It There.

A mutual friend of mine told me a good story recently concerning the new Ambassador.

It appears that soon after his father bought Cliveden, his stately ne-near Maidenhead, there occurred a flood in the Thames Valley.

Lord Astor (he was plain Mr. Astor then) was in America at the time, and being wishful to know if the beautiful grounds at Cliveden had suffered any damage, he cabled to his eldest son in England:

"Send particulars of flood."

Now it chanced that Mr. Astor junior was away in Scotland at the time, and had heard nothing of the Thames inundation, which, as a matter of fact, was not very serious.

He could make neither head nor tail of the cablegram, so eventually thinking it must be some new kind of joke on his dad's part, he cabled back:

"Look in the Book of Genesis."

THE SPECTRE OF FAMINE.

Central Europe Faces Starvation -- Bolsheviks Capture More Towns
-- Weekly Cross Atlantic Aerial Service Proposed -- Prussians Will Not be Tolerant -- Planetary Conjunction Did Not Affect Earth.

CENTRAL EUROPE'S DESPERATE POSITION.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17. Starvation faces from fifteen to twenty million persons in Central Europe outside Germany, unless some quick means can be discovered for their assistance. Herbert Hoover, former Food Administrator, said today in a formal statement. Unless relief is quickly furnished he predicted a breakdown of stable government in the countries affected and the creation of another cesspool like Russia. To meet the situation Mr. Hoover proposes that the great surplus of wheat and flour held by the grain corporation be sold on credit to Poland, Finland, Austria and other nations of Central Europe.

TRANS-ATLANTIC AIR SERVICE CONTEMPLATED.

LONDON, Dec. 17. A weekly airship service is contemplated by a combination of aviation firms which are credited with the intention of acquiring the R-34 and sister ship the R-39. These are being altered to meet passenger and cargo requirements.

REDS CAPTURE KIEV.

LONDON, Dec. 17. The capture of Kiev and the occupation of Kupiansk, southeast of Kharkov, are claimed in a Bolshevik statement received from Moscow by wireless.

NO NEED TO WORRY.

CHICAGO, Dec. 17. The conjunction of the Planets may possibly have some slight effect upon the weather, but no serious disturbances can possibly result, said Professor Moulton of the University of Chicago.

OLD WORLD STILL MOVING.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17. Astonishment was expressed by the superstitious when the earth did not come to an end to-day. The ominous position of the planets had been well press-agented and some astrologers versed in witchcraft had maintained that at the precise moment when the Solar system formed itself into a straight line with Neptune, Saturn, Jupiter, Mars, Venus, and Mercury on one side of the sun and Uranus on the other something awful would happen to the earth.

CLEMENCEAU'S CONDITION SATISFACTORY.

PARIS, Dec. 17. The condition of Premier Clemenceau was reported to be satisfactory this morning. His physicians, however, ordered him to remain at home for several days.

MAY COLLECT DUTIES IN GOLD.

PARIS, Dec. 17. German claims in connection with the statement of the Peace Terms were again before the Supreme Council to-day. In dealing with these the Councilors reached a unanimous agreement to permit the Germans to collect their Customs duties in gold.

HAD ST. PIERRE RUM ABOARD.

HALIFAX, Dec. 17. The Western Union Cable tug, Robert C. Clowry, which was raided last night after her arrival from St. Pierre, Miquelon, by Local Temperance Act Officials and police officers who found a large quantity of liquor on the boat, was this morning seized by the Customs Department.

MANCHESTER HERO IN TROUBLE.

HALIFAX, Dec. 17. The Steamer Hochelaga sailed from Halifax shortly before noon to the assistance of the Manchester Hero.

SHOOT THEM!

BERLIN, Dec. 17. Dr. K. W. Heine, Minister of the Interior, declared in the Prussian National Assembly. We must reckon with the possibility of a revolution rising this winter. We know how to deal with them.

AMERICANS CAN NOW HAVE THEIR GOODS.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17. Great Britain is prepared now to release American owned goods seized during the war upon the establishment of their American ownership at the time the goods were shipped, the State Department was advised to-day by the British Foreign Office.

GOVERNMENTS ACT ILLEGAL.

LONDON, Dec. 17. The Government was declared by Justice Sir John Sankey of the King's Bench Division to-day to possess no power to prohibit the importation of certain goods, and that, therefore, its proclamation to this effect was invalid and illegal. The judgment is considered one of the most important ever rendered against the Government. The case in which the decision was given concerned the importation of Pyrogalic Acid from the United States, the acid having been seized on its arrival.

DOESN'T WANT MUCH.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Dec. 17. If the successful promotion of a world title fight between Jack Dempsey and Georges Carpentier realizes $1,000,000 Dempsey will demand $500,000, Jack Kearns his manager said here to-day.

THE NEWSPAPER SHORTAGE.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Dec. 17. Every newspaper in the country was called upon to-day by the House Post Office Committee to reduce its consumption of newspaper print by ten per cent. for a period of six months in an effort to relieve the present serious shortage which the Committee has been told threatened the destruction of a number of small papers.

CANADA SUSPENDS POSTAL ORDERS TO THE STATES.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Dec. 17. Because of the extreme fluctuations in the prevailing quotation for New York exchange, Canada has suspended temporarily the issue of money orders on the United States, the Post Office department announced to-day. The department was advised that the suspension was "for a short period until conditions became somewhat more stable."

MIND STILL OPEN.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17. President Wilson's mind is still open on the question of returning the railroads to private control, Secy. Tumulty to-day told a delegation representing Union Labor and some farmers organizations which called at the White House to present a letter asking the Executive to delay return of the roads for two years. This was the first authoritative expression on the subject which had come from Administration quarters since the President informed Congress last May he planned to relinquish Federal control by January 1st.

FRENCH CONSULATE DESTROYED.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 17. The French Consulate here was destroyed by fire to-day.

DON'T WANT THE JOB.

MONTEVIDEO, Dec. 17. Reports emanating from Mexico City yesterday that the Uruguayan Government would offer its services as a mediator in the difficulties between the United States and Mexico over the case

Mexican Manners.

Children kiss the hands of their parents.

The bridegroom purchases the bride's trousseau.

Gentlemen speak first when passing lady acquaintances in the street.

The sofa is the seat of honour, and a guest waits to be invited to occupy it.

When a Mexican speaks to you of his home he refers to it as "your house."

Men and women in the same social circle call each other by their Christian names.

When friends pass each other in the street without stopping they say "Adios" (Good-bye).

Even the younger children of the family are dressed in mourning upon the death of a relative.

Young ladies never receive calls from young men, and are not escorted to entertainments by them.

KEEPING TRACK CLEAR.—During last night's snow storm, the Superintendent of the Street Railway had all his staff employed keeping the track clear. The plough and sweeper were sent out immediately it was seen that the fall was likely to continue, and aided by gangs of men at places where the snow was deepest the desired result was obtained. This morning all the snow fighting apparatus was continued in use and the service was maintained uninteruptedly.

Model School Prize Giving.

The Christmas Exercises of the Model School, Synod Building, were held in the Synod Hall last night. Dr. W. W. Blackall occupied the chair, and there were also present His Lordship the Bishop of Newfoundland, Rev. Canon Bolt and Jeeves and the Rev. J. Brinton. A delightful programme of songs, recitations, dances and drill preceded the prize-giving and demonstrated the training of the children received in this admirable branch in the work of the Model School. If the aim that Miss Purchase and her assistants had in view was to surpass any previous efforts, they certainly succeeded. The entertainment finished, the prizes were distributed by Dr. Blackall, and a very enjoyable evening closed with short speeches by the Bishop, Dr. Blackall, Canon Bolt and Canon Jeeves and the singing of the National Anthem. The programme and prize list were as follows:—

PROGRAMME.

"Primus" Total Wreck.

A message, via Bell Isle, to Messrs. Hickman & Co. last evening informed them that their schooner Primus, which was loading fish at St. Anthony, for J. and F. Moore, was a total wreck. The schooner was a splendid vessel of 170 tons nett, and was commanded by Capt. Pelly, who with his crew landed safely.

St. Andrew's Sale of Work.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of St. Andrew's Association held a most successful sale of work in the Association Club Rooms last evening. The ladies in charge had a very busy time disposing of the various stocks of fancy work, home made dainties, sweets, etc. The sale was opened at 3.30 p.m. by Mrs. John Browning and the tables were presided over by the following:—

FANCY WORK.—Mrs. R. G. Ross, Mrs. J. Irvine, Miss B. Langmead.
PLAIN WORK.—Mrs. J. Forbes, Mrs. C. Henderson, Mrs. D. McIntosh, Miss A. McFarlane.

CANDY.—Miss A. McKinley, Miss E. McFarlane, Miss Nell McKinley.
PANTRY STALL.—Mrs. T. Curran, Mrs. D. McFarlane, Mrs. A. Brown.

TEA TABLE.—Mrs. H. Crawford, Mrs. H. J. Taylor, Mrs. R. G. Ash, Mrs. D. Nicholson, Misses Robertson, Miss J. Wilson.

An impromptu dance, in which nearly all present participated, concluded a very pleasant evening.

Acknowledgment.

Shipping Casualties.

The schooner Gondola, Nathan Gillingham master, which left here early in October for Battle Hr., there taking aboard 1700 qts of fish, had gone ashore at Fleur-de-Lys and filled with water. This intelligence was received yesterday by Mr. P. H. Cowan.

A message received yesterday stated that the schooner New Vancouver, Lemuel Kearley master, had drifted from Samson's Island and become a total wreck on Cottle's Island. The crew were saved.

Removing Snowfall.

The snow shovelling brigade was very much in evidence this morning, and along both sides of Water Street the merry clink of steel on concrete—as the workers, armed with shovel and scraper, cleared off the white covering—was heard. The Council carts were on hand to remove the piles thrown up, and to such good effect did the shovellers work that the sidewalks were cleared in the forenoon.

North Sydney, Dec. 15.—Officers from the revenue cutter Restless yesterday visited and searched the S. S. Pro Patria and discovered two full gallon jugs of liquor, which it is alleged were being smuggled from St. Pierre into Canada. Ottawa was wired for instructions, and meanwhile it is stated the Pro Patria will remain in port. The vessel only arrived there Saturday morning, after a thrilling seventy-two hour struggle with the great gale.

The Failure of the Tyre Guarantee

The only outstanding and unalterable fact about the definite mileage guarantee is that it must be paid for even by the careful driver who does not need it—like yourself.

The Good Year Service Station Dealers know this well as you tyre users should know it.

The cost of such a guarantee, like every other cost of production and marketing, is included in the selling price of the tyre.

Thus the presence of such a guarantee in a tyre of normal price can mean only that some other quality has been slighted or sacrificed.

If you drive with reasonable care, almost any standard make of tyre will deliver you mileage above the average-guaranteed figure.

The premium you pay for the guarantee does you no good at all, and by paying it you deny yourself such additional mileage as uncompromised quality could give.

It is only the reckless driver—the man abusive of his tyres—who can expect to profit regularly from the definite mileage guarantee.

It is wise to remember that you are paying for his neglect and helping to buy his tyres the next time you are offered such a guarantee as an inducement to purchase.

THE PRIVILEGE OF LIVING

What a wonderful thing it must be to live on a height and look down upon everyone!

I know a woman who has this exalted experience. In the course of my acquaintance with her I do not know how many times I have heard her express a sense of disdain for this or that class or individual.

Here are a few instances:

She looks down upon the business woman, both as individuals and as a class. She never met a business woman, she says, who was not pushing, bold. Earning their living changes something in their characters (I hardly need add that she is not a business woman.)

THE PRIVILEGE OF LOOKING DOWN

What a wonderful thing it must be to live on a height and look down upon everyone!

I know a woman who has this exalted experience. In the course of my acquaintance with her I do not know how many times I have heard her express a sense of disdain for this or that class or individual.

Here are a few instances:

She looks down upon the business woman, both as individuals and as a class. She never met a business woman, she says, who was not pushing, bold. Earning their living changes something in their characters (I hardly need add that she is not a business woman.)

She objects to college women because, with their awakened minds, they accept nothing on faith, but are always questioning about things and asking, and that is "so tiresome." (Need I add that she herself is not a college woman?)

So Tiresome!

She objects to the people in the summer colony at the beach to which she goes every year because they are such social climbers and have no criterions of value besides money. (She herself has not a great deal of money.)

She never runs up against Annoying Exceptions to Her Rules.

She has a prejudice against all members of a certain race because they are always "so cheap and common in their ways. They may make money, but they are fundamentally common. You know nothing can change that. No, I never met a single exception. (It is another part of this lady's great luck that she never seems to run up against the annoying exceptions that are always upsetting the average person's most treasured prejudices.)

She dislikes westerners because they are so rough, southerners because they think their part of the country is the only part that counts (whereas, as a matter of fact the only part that counts is a certain small strip of country from which her family came.)

She SHOULD Enjoy it, But Stay—

Such are the prejudices and dislikes and fastidiousness from which she builds that wonderful hill of superiority on which she sits and enjoys the privilege of looking down on the rest of the world. "Stay, Stay, She should enjoy it. It should be a privilege. But is it?"

Queer, but now I come to think of the lady who sits alone on that eminence is one of the most discontented and unhappy women I know.

CHRISTMAS.

When Christmas comes I'd like to be Old Santa Claus and travel far To all my friends, and trim a tree For them no matter where they are. I'd like to give my heart full swing To shape its wishes into deeds And do for everyone the thing His happiness most sorely needs.

When Christmas comes I'd like to fill The lives of all with joy and peace; I'd like to give my heart full swing And quickly make their sufferings cease. I'd like to smooth the troubled brow Of every trace of inward care And press the furrows out somehow And leave but love and laughter there.

I'd like to help the youth to climb And bring the sailor home from sea, To write in deeds this feeble rhyme And be the man I'd like to be. Had I the power for just one night The wants of others to attend, I'd change all grief into delight And carry peace to every friend.

But since I have no magic gift To change what is of grief or care Or from their weary hearts to lift The weight of woe which may be there, I can but pray that God above Shall guard my friends from day to day And bless them with his boundless love And keep them safe along life's way.

Wedding Bells.

A very quiet but pretty wedding took place at St. Thomas's Church, Pushthrough, on Nov. 15th. The contracting parties were Miss H. Jane Russell of Pushthrough, and Mr. Robert Roberts, mill-owner of Bay D'Espoir. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. N. G. Vivian, Rector of Pushthrough Parish, in the presence of a large congregation. The bride, who was given away by her uncle, wore a dress of navy blue silk with hat to match. She received many useful presents from her numerous friends. Mr. and Mrs. Roberts left by ship, Dove for Gaultois, en route to their future home Bay D'Espoir. We wish Mr. and Mrs. Roberts bon voyage over life's tangled sea.

THE SPENDTHRIFT.

W. H. MASON.

I'm a blithe and reckless spender, trotting with a gilded band, and I blow my legal tender with a free and lavish hand. Not a stiver, not a copper, do I save for days to come; and some day I'll be a pauper, sloshing homeless through a stum. Off I see the cautious fellow salting little dollars down, while I'm painting red and yellow streaks around the giddy town; he'll be paying heavy taxes to support me, when I dwell, with the other battle-axes, in the poorhouse in the dell. All the people who are saving must support me when I'm old, when with totter bums I'm raving over lost and wasted gold; when I've soaked my watch and brooches, and my hat and fountain pen, and I'm sitting swatting roaches in the poorhouse in the glen. People tell me I am crazy not to salt some coin away; but that threat seems vague and hazy, treating of the rainy day. For the present day is sunny, there's no dampness in the breeze, and I'm busy burning money that is growing on the trees. Youth's the time for gay carousals; I'll conduct the merry war, till I'm chasing rats and mouses in the poorhouse on the tor.

Fads and Fashions.

Raffia embroidery is employed on many cloths and straws.

Many of the new daytime dresses are of the redingote type.

Many checked and novelty cloths are used for riding habits.

One smart little dress features a small shoulder cape collar.

The new 1920 sweaters are far brighter than those of 1919.

The evening gown shows a skirt hanging almost to the floor.

Yellow broadcloth and nutria fur combine most satisfactorily.

Children's tailored frocks are of checked and plaid ginghams.

Flare or bell sleeves are very pronounced among silk dresses.

White wool basket cloth is excellent for the all-around wrap.

The newest waists show a generous blousing at the waistline.

Monkey fur is still a favorite trimming, especially for suits.

Flat round stones are used as trimming on afternoon frocks.

Eton suits of an extraordinary originality are favored for Spring.

Some of the winter suits have rather long coats and short narrow skirts.

A blouse of plaited white satin is trimmed with bands of grey-blue velvet.

Red and capucine red predominate in the gay little turbans so much in fashion.

A coat of bottle green velour is trimmed with narrow bands of krummer fur.

One of the most charming velvets is double faced, and gowns of it use the under side as trimming.

One little frock has a skirt composed entirely of long strands of chenille. Black satin formed the underslip.

Do Crowds Warm Themselves?

(From the New York Times.)

Reports as to the efficacy of "natural heat" as a substitute for the kind called "artificial" in keeping at a tolerable temperature the morning and evening crowds in our public conveyances, cannot be expected to be definite and conclusive after a single day of trial. Nobody was frozen to death, we know, and the travellers took their new experience with the patience that characterizes a population long since won't to treat as inevitable the many discomforts of urban journeyings. One more discomfort increased the total inappreciably and the aggregate growing remained about the same as it always is—more humorous than resentful. The "natural heat" theory somewhat inadequately explains the selection of the morning and evening "rush hours" as those in which to effect the highly desirable saving of coal. The transportation companies do not hate their passengers, even though the latter are getting more than they pay for. On the contrary, they are regarded with the degree and sort of affection always felt for a source of income, always felt for a source of income, and it is not at all remarkable, in existing conditions, that opportunities to cut expenditures are seized with eagerness by corporations whose accounts have the settled habit of balancing on the wrong side of the ledger.

When you want something in a hurry for tea, go to ELLIS—Head Cheese, Ox Tongue, Boiled Ham, Cooked Corned Beef, Bologna Sausage.

Preparedness!! The Xmas Slogan.

A good beginning makes a good ending to Xmas Shopping—shop early.

Days are flying as they always do when the Xmas Season comes around, and when there are so many preparations to make Xmas Eve will be here before you know it.

Fancy Goods are most largely demanded as Xmas Gifts, and in our Fancy Goods Dept., early in the shopping season, you can surely find a suitable gift for every one on your list. How about the following articles? They are only a few chosen at random from our stock.

Holiday Suggestions.

Our showing of Christmas Footwear is indeed a very attractive display. We have something just right for every foot in the family and prices always as low as Good Quality will allow.

What could make a more acceptable Christmas Remembrance for the older members of the family than a pair of our COMFORT SHOES, a pair of WARM SLIPPERS, or a pair of GOOD WINTER RUBBERS or ARCTICS? What would please the younger members of the family more than a pair of STYLISH BOOTS, SHOES, PUMPS, or DRESS SLIPPERS, a pair of LEGGINGS or RUBBER BOOTS for the boy or girl? Remember baby too with a pair of our cunning little SLIPPERS, BOOTEES or MOCCASINS.

One Hundred Men On An Island.

(From the Chicago Herald and Examiner.)

Put one hundred men on an island where fish is a staple article of sustenance. Twenty-five of the men catch fish. Twenty-five others ban the fish. Twenty-five cook a fish. Twenty-five hunt fruit and vegetables. The entire company eats but this is gathered and prepared. So long as everybody works there plenty. All hands are happy. Ten of the allotted fish catchers by catching fish. Ten more dry and hide part of the fish they catch. Five continue to catch fish, but work only part of the day at it. Fewer fish go into the community kitchen. But the same number of men insist upon having the same amount of fish to eat as they had before. The fifty men who formerly cleaned and cooked the fish have less to do owing to the undersupply of fish. But they continue to demand food. Gradually greater burdens are laid upon the fruit and vegetable hunters. These insist upon a larger share of fish in return for their larger efforts in gathering fruit and vegetables. It is denied them and soon twenty of the twenty-five quit gathering fruit and vegetables. But the entire one hundred men continue to insist upon their right to eat. The daily food supply gradually shrinks. The man with two fish demands three bananas in exchange for one of them. The man with two bananas refuses to part with one for fewer than three fish. Finally, the ten men remaining at work quit in disgust. Everybody continues to eat. The hidden fish are brought to light and consumed. Comes a day when there is no food of any kind. Everybody on the island blames everybody else. What would seem to be the solution? Exactly! We thought you would guess it. For we repeat that you can't eat, buy, sell, steal, give away, hoard, wear, use, play with or gamble with WHAT ISN'T.

Barbara McDonald Wreck.

SAILORS HAD AWFUL EXPERIENCE—TERRIBLE HARDSHIP AND SUFFERING.

The survivors of the Nova Scotian vessel Barbara McDonald, arrived in the city yesterday afternoon and put up at the Seaman's Institute. They are: Mate Joshua Whittle, Able Seaman Robert Emberley, Steven H. Pike, Cook Yorston, and J. A. McDonald, owner.

They tell a story of awful hardship and suffering. Launched less than a month ago the ill-fated schooner left Cardigan, P. E. I., on the fourth of her maiden trip. Meeting fair weather until Wednesday last the run down was pleasant enough. On this day, however, a S. E. wind, which increased during the day and reached the proportions of a hurricane by sundown, was struck, and by early morning on Thursday the gale was so terrific that all sail had to be hauled down and the ship let run before the wind. While assisting at this work the captain, who was a man of about sixty five, was caught by a heavy stern sea and carried overboard into the darkness. He was never seen again. The canvas successfully tied up, the ship was headed to sea and for fifty-two hours was driven before the storm under bare poles. Then the gale abated enough for them to turn back towards land. On their return trip she struck Blackhead Point, three miles this side of Cape Pine, when in a dense fog. It was too rough to lower a boat, and the men had to stand by until daylight next day. The decks were being swept and boats and every other movable article were carried away. The crew huddled on the lee side, and for six hours they clung onto the hull. On Sunday early morning about three o'clock, a great sea carried them ashore on an almost perpendicular cliff of about three hundred feet in height. Bruised and sore they were from long contact with the waves, the seamen started to climb this, and after something like five hours they reached the top. They by now hear the sound of Cape Pine fog-alarm, and finding their way there were kindly treated; by the keeper, Walking from there they reached Trepassey and took the train for here. The members of the crew state that they have never seen worse weather or storm. The Barbara McDonald carried a load of produce for George Neal. The hull was partly covered by insurance, while the cargo was fully covered.

RUNA REACHES HORTA.
Reported about the S. S. Runa, from New York port, long overdue, has reached the Azores, having been driven off by recent hurricanes and forced to take for shelter in the Western Rumor was confirmed by the message received by the here from Messrs. Bowring, York: "S. S. Runa struck a N. E. gizzard 550 miles off. Had to be carried ashore washed overboard. Deck cargo washed overboard and ship's woodwork had to be kept from going when coal ran out. The bunkers will be repaired before the ship resumes her voyage. She left New York 11 days ago. This port and some consignees of goods coming by the ship will be disappointed, as the non-arrival of the Runa in time for the festive season means considerable loss to dealers.

MINA REACHES HORTA.
Reported about town to-day
S. S. Runa, from New York
port, long overdue, has reached Horta, having been driven off by recent hurricanes and forced for shelter in the Western Islands.
The rumor was confirmed by the message received by the
from Messrs. Bowring, Port: "S. S. Runa struck a N.
ward south of Cape Race and carried 550 miles off. Had to the Azores; lost one man Deck cargo washed overboard and ship considerably damaged.
The ship had to be
to keep fires going when coal ran out.
The crew will be made immediately and the bunkers will be repaired before the ship resumes her She left New York 11 days ago and some consignees goods coming by the ship will be disappointed as the non-arrival of the ship for the festive season will mean considerable loss to deal-

THE TIDAL WAVE!

The tidal wave has not yet come although some people have been talking about it for the past week or more. We still have the 21st to know whether our is to be cut short, in the meantime however you can buy Golden Tea, and the tidal wave of opinion in favor of this detailed tea is growing higher and higher every day.

Astonished at

Gains in Weight
Remarkable Results From Taking Tanlac is Big Surprise to Newfoundlanders.

The one feature that stands out more prominently than any other, perhaps, in connection with the inroduction of Tanlac in Newfoundland is the very large number of men and women who have reported an astonishingly rapid increase in weight
as a result of its use.
Only a short time ago G. M. Barris, of 9 Barnes Place, St. John's, reported a gain of twelve pounds by the use of four bottles of Tanlac.
Shortly after this Mrs. A. Churchill, residing at 12 Chapel street, reported that she had gained ten pounds on only two bottles.

One of the latest to realize the remarkable reconstructive powers of the medicine is Jonah Chafe, of 237 Water Street West, who called at Connors' drug store November 20th and besides reporting a gain of twenty-three pounds, stated that the medicine had relieved him of a case of rheumatism from which he had suffered for nearly five years.
"I have actually gained twenty-three pounds," said Mr. Chafe, "but I am not surprised at this wonderful increase in weight, for I have been eating like a bear and picking up rapidly ever since I finished my first bottle of Tanlac. I have also gotten rid of a case of rheumatism in my knees, hips and shoulders, which began troubling me four and a half years ago, and had gotten to be so bad that for several months before I began taking Tanlac I couldn't do a lick of work. Sometimes I would have such sudden and severe attacks of pain that I could hardly stand it.
For four years I was with the British Navy as gunner's mate, and many a time I was in such agony that I just felt like jumping in the sea and ending the suffering I had to endure from that rheumatism. Since last August, that is until Tanlac straightened me out, the pain in my knees was so severe I could not stand to bend them, and for weeks at a time I couldn't move my shoulders without just sur-fering torture. My head often ached fit to burst. I always had a very bad taste in my mouth, and I could not eat anything but what caused a heavy feeling like a lead in the pit of my stomach and gave me indigestion the worst kind.
"My normal weight is one hundred and twenty-five pounds, but I had dropped to only one hundred and two and was still losing. But Tanlac has put me right back to where I was before the rheumatism started on me, for now I balance the scales at one hundred and twenty-five pounds, my old weight, and the rheumatism is entirely gone. I had gotten so nervous that I was all the time fidgeting around. I would lie awake, tossing and rolling, night after night, never getting a wink of sleep, but now my nerves are perfectly calm and I rarely ever wake up the whole night long. My friends all know how Tanlac has helped me, and I want everybody to know the facts. I am just like a man made new."

Tanlac is sold in St. John's by M.
Connors, under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative, in Harbor Buffet, by Thomas Wakeley & Sons, in Placentia, by James Murphy & Son; and in Topsail, by J. K.
Bursell.—adv.

Watch Germany.

The warning of General Foch will bear repetition to-day, in view of certain incidents reported in the foreign despatches, showing that German propagandists and terrorists continue their activities, which have not ceased since the signing of the armistice over a year ago, and the acceptance of the Peace Treaty in June past. Foch said in an interview at Paris, "Germany will start war again, when she is able to do so. The spirit of Germany is not dead: it will re-awaken." The civilized world, therefore, must be on guard. Germany's ambitions have not been crushed: they have been merely checked for a time, and will blossom forth again, when the season is ripe. The action of the Peace Conference Council in making so many modifications in the Treaty, at the instance of Germany, is regarded only by that country as a sign of weakness, and an encouragement to make other demands. Really it looks as though Germany won the war and not the Allies.

Dr. John Bates Clark, Professor of Political Economy at Columbia University, and head of the Division of Economics and History of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, says that another world war is lurking on the horizon. Here are his exact words: "Over the entire future there seems to hang the shadow of another world war that is possible and even probable. It will be modern in its fighting instruments, but prehistoric in its practices. It will be bloodier than the war which has bled the nations white. Before the Peace Treaty has been ratified there have been signs that the giant is beginning to make some preparations for the rising. Do we realise under what a vast inducement to renew war Germany finds herself? If this view of the German attitude and purpose is true or half true, it means the necessity for a very strong league of Western nations as the sole hope for peace with freedom."

Let us ask ourselves if there is any hope for such a league? Obviously the four Western nations to form this league are Great Britain, France, Italy and Belgium, with a possibility of the entrance of the Scandinavian countries and perhaps Spain and Portugal. Even should these join in, the burden would still have to be borne by the four first named nations, which would have to become the policemen of Europe, and maintain armaments on land and sea sufficiently strong to keep the peace. Eastern Europe is in a seethe of unrest. Russia is in chaos, and grave danger of a mighty conflict, breaking out at any moment is imminent. Germany is boastfully acclaiming her war leaders, and her people do not realise that their armies have been vanquished. Internal Germany did not have, or was not given, as it should have been, an opportunity to view the victorious armies of the Allies, marching in endless columns through their towns. The might of the conqueror was not exhibited to them, consequently they continue to have faith in "Deutschland uber alles," and are behind their rulers in every demand made for modifications in the Peace Treaty. Occurrences in Germany point to a growing sentiment in favor of the restoration of the Hohenzollerns. This, if nothing else, should be an amplification of the warning of Foch.

Labor Goes With Opposition.

William Linegar to Represent Workmen in Bye-Election in St. John's West—Other Opposition Candidate not yet Selected.

The working committee of the Workingmen's Political Party met last night in the L.S.P.U. Hall, some 100 members being present. Great enthusiasm was manifest and every man seemed to be deeply interested in and concerned with the fortunes of the Workingmen's Party. Mr. William Linegar, Leader of the Workingmen's Political Party in the late General Election, reported on the meeting which had taken place the previous night between the special deputation appointed by the Working Committee and Sir M. P. Cashin, Leader of the Opposition. The report was to the effect that Sir Michael was prepared to take one workingmen's candidate but could not take two.

Big Meeting at Bay Roberts.

From private sources we learn that Mr. A. W. Piccott held a highly successful political meeting at Bay Roberts last night. Mr. C. E. Russell was Chairman, and many popular manifestations were shown the chief speaker. This meeting opens the Opposition campaign against Hon. Arthur Barnes, the new Minister of Education, who has to seek reelection by the district.

Hidden Treasure Discovered.

For centuries hidden treasure has been found in Newfoundland in the most unexpected and unlikely places, and has often been the subject for romance from the pens of our local writers. Another such lucky find occurred on Tuesday evening last, as the electrical and other workers were employed in fitting up the house adjoining that of Mr. Hagerty, Queen's Street, in the West End of the city. This house was formerly occupied by the late Mr. Patrick Hagerty, cabinet-maker. While the men were removing the ceiling they came across several receptacles containing money in silver to the amount of eleven hundred dollars, and it is needless to say that they were very much surprised. How long this amount had been lying there will forever remain a mystery, but as it evidently belonged to the Hagerty family it was handed over to them, and thus they have secured a handsome and welcome Christmas Box. It may be that further particulars may be brought forth in the course of events, as to the name of the party who secreted the money in the improvised savings bank, and we shall be then in a position to give our readers full details of the mystery of the latest Hidden Treasure.

In the matter of the Insolvency of Hugh W. Martin, of Hickman's Harbour, General Dealer.
Mr. C. E. Hunt for petitioning creditor calls I. W. Martin, who is examined by him. Cross-examined by Mr. L. E. Emerson for certain creditors; further cross-examined by J. A. Winter, E. S. Pinnent and John Higgins for other creditors; further cross-examined by Gibbs, K. C. Solicitor for alleged insolvent.
It is ordered that I. W. Martin be declared insolvent, and that Rt. Hon. Sir William Lloyd, K.C., be appointed trustee of the estate of insolvent. Further ordered that the costs of petitioning creditor and attaching creditor be paid out of estate.
Mr. L. E. Emerson asks for adjournment in order that charges of fraud be preferred against insolvent. It is ordered that further hearing be adjourned till to-day at 11 a.m.
The liabilities of the insolvent were sworn at $67,800.00 and his assets at $28,350.00.

A Newfoundland's Work.

JOHN VINCENT, BRILLIANT YOUNG TERRA NOVAN, STARS IN FAMOUS AMERICAN PUBLICATION.
A late number of the Architectural Review, of New York, contains many pages of the masterly work of the brilliant young Newfoundland artist, John Vincent. Having been presented with a copy of this famous American publication, we were enabled to examine the many drawings by our clever countryman, and were more than pleased to find there some very interesting topographical sketches of the fishing phases of Newfoundland national life. These, which were drawn from life from different vantage points on the Waterfront, are strikingly realistic and true to life, for the very atmosphere of the subject has been cleverly reproduced, and, as the Review says, "Mr. Vincent always makes any figures he introduces into his drawings seem part of the scene, so much so in fact that they provide the desired suggestion of human life and give the scale while they do not attract attention to themselves." Besides many splendid reproductions of drawings made by Mr. Vincent originally on stone or copper, there are eight full-page drawings on India-tint paper, these being of famous cathedrals, churches and buildings.

An accompanying article in the same issue gives warm praise to the work of Mr. Vincent, and it is evident that this clever Newfoundland holds an important place in the Art world of America.

Mr. Vincent was educated at the Methodist College before leaving Newfoundland, but since that has studied in Europe and the New World. He has travelled extensively, and is thus all the more enabled to produce good work. He is married to a Newfoundland girl, and at present is the special architectural artist for Warren and Wetmore, of New York.
If you miss the production of "CONN THE SHAUGHRAUN" at the Casino Theatre on Christmas afternoon and night, you'll regret it.—dec18,li

"Ring the Bell" for the Xmas Gift Season!

"COMFORT DAY" IN OUR STORE.

There's a deal of knowledge of human nature needed in this matter of selecting Xmas Gifts for men. December's going to be a cold month. Little use giving him something that he cannot wear till the roses bloom. You want your gift to please and be appreciated right then and there on the "Big Day".

"COMFORT"—that's the word that means a lot of pleasant imaginings for HIM. A gift of Warm Wool Socks striking him first thing on Xmas morning, looking so warm and Christmassy-like, when we lay them out for you in one of our Holy Boxes, is the straightest way to his heart.

And talking about comfort has brought a shopful of "Woolly" suggestions uppermost—Sweater Coats, Wool Vests, Underwear, Wool Gloves, and we can't just keep from prosing still about our cosy Silk Scarves—there's a King Gift! He may have a wool one already, but he has never worn anything like what we have in Real Silk. Come into our Store—there's a warm welcome waiting for you. Get the "feel" of them. Nothing but Real Silk has that soft, crushing feel. See all the patterns—sixty-seven of the most Christmassy-like colour combinations that ever made a surprise gift for a man's stocking, and you'll no longer wonder what we mean by "KEARNEY FIRST"

A DUET!—A Pair of Silk Sox and a Silk Muffler packed in one of our large patterned boxes, singing the song of Xmas in perfect colour harmony. What about it?

LONDON GOSSIP.

LONDON, Nov. 22, 1919.

KING GEORGE GOES SHOOTING.

Although the King admires all healthy open-air sports, and takes a keen interest in them, riding, fishing, and shooting are almost the only ones which he practises himself. He does not seem ever to have become keen about driving a motor himself. The gun is the greatest attraction of all for him, and now that he has no State visitors in London or interesting native missions (like that of the Basutos a day or two ago) to receive, he is off for a few days' shooting with Viscount Iveagh on that peer's Suffolk estates at Elvedon Hall. The papers suggest that soon after the King's return he will give a State reception to King Albert.

MONEY FLOWED INTO LONDON.

The Motor Show has closed, and there is now a little room in London. Hotels in Bloomsbury and elsewhere can find space for the traveller at two or three days' notice. That, however, will not last for long, because Christmas shopping and festivities are soon going to draw great numbers to town. The stationers' windows are dressed already with Christmas cards and diaries, and the pastry-cooks with plum puddings. In another week or so Regent Street and Oxford Street will start their yuletide displays, and women will come in from all over the country for a round of shopping and the theatres. England is full of money, and London is gathering in a great deal of it, part to the coffers of stockbrokers and company promoters in the city and almost as much to the hotels, shops, and theatres of the West End. The consequence is that theatres are at a premium. The rents of City and West End offices are rising steadily, and life in town grows harder daily for quiet people with fixed incomes.

DISCIPLINE BY LOVE.

Appropos of the discussion on the cruelty of discipline (which sprang up out of the publication of Stephen Graham's book, "A Private in the Guards"), an officer recently demobilised gives an illustration of how certain cadets were "broken in" during disciplinary course. It was the weekly scrubbing-down process. The fully-fledged officer likes to forget the day when, under disciplinary sergeant's watchful eye, he essayed the fatigue of scrubbing down the billet stairs. On one occasion when the task did not quite reach the sergeant's lofty standard, that worthy gentleman hawled, "You fellows think you are going to be officers, and you can't swab down your own steps!" adding in more gentle tone, but with growing warmth, as he entered further into his theme, "We've tried love, we've tried persuasion, and now we'll try force." So saying, he emphasised his remarks by scraping his boots on the much cleaner staircase.

AN AMAZING ELECTION.

The papers all over the world will have been full of the results of the French, Belgian and Italian General Elections, but here is a piece of news that cannot have obtained very wide currency. M. Take Jonescu, the Rumanian statesman, sends me some startling figures concerning the results of the elections to the Rumanian Chamber, which ended on November 6th. These elections were held by the present military Government (virtually a dictatorship) under martial law, all political propaganda being prohibited. As a protest against what they deemed to be unconstitutional methods M. Take Jonescu and General Averescu, who were joined for the occasion by the Socialists, appealed to their respective followers either to abstain from voting or else—since such abstention is punishable by a fine of $100 in Rumania—to cancel their ballot papers! M. Venizelos, it may be recalled, adopted a similar procedure in 1915 against King Constantine's unconstitutional procedure. Anyhow, out of an electorate of 1,300,000 over 54.5 per cent. either abstained or spoiled their papers, and of the remaining 45.5 per cent. who actually voted only about 15 per cent. voted for M. Bratianu and the Liberal Party, and about 3 per cent. for M. Marghilan and the pro-Germans, the balance of 28 per cent. going to a number of small groups or to independent candidates of no particular standing. As a result, the Liberals in a Chamber representing only 45 per cent. of the electorate, find themselves in a minority with but 102 out of 243 seats, and none of the new and smaller parties is capable of forming a Government. I believe there is no precedent for such an electoral "mess" in modern history. The King will have to come to the rescue, but how, save by ordering fresh elections at an early date, it is difficult to see. Fortunately, Rumania's domestic chaos will not affect the Inter-Allied diplomacy, since the present Foreign Minister, M. Mieu, has had the courage to declare that he will sign the Peace Treaty with Austria, although he hoped to obtain some friendly modifications of the minorities clause on points of detail.

THE BIGGEST BIBLE.

The idea of having a world-wide publicity campaign to popularise the Bible should surely have sprung from the mind of an American. It was, however, suggested by William Henry Fry, grandson of Elizabeth Fry, and it was part of his scheme to prepare an enormous Bible which is to tour the whole of this country, Canada, and the United States, and then pass to new fields for propaganda. The book still in the making, now on view in the showrooms of the Oxford University Press, is the largest Bible, and probably the largest book, in the world. Magnificently bound in crimson morocco, the cover emblazoned with the Royal Arms and the arms of all the counties in England, it lies on a blue velvet platform beneath a canopy of Union Jacks. The cover measures 5 feet by 3½ feet, and the weight is three-quarters of a ton, for within the covers lie a hundred and seventy-five sheets of stout paper boards on which already hundreds of slips have been pasted. The extraordinary intention is that every one of the twelve thousand texts from Genesis to Revelation shall be written, by hand and signed by individual Christians "as a testimonial of their faith." One visitor who went armed with a Concordance and very anxious to see who had selected for his testimonial, "Now these are the generations of Ishmael," or "All men are liars," or "And they smote all the souls, there was not any left to breathe," was disappointed. For one thing, the cover is too heavy to lift for such an idle reason; and, for another, only two thousand texts so far are written in.

AN APOSTLE OF FEMININE ATHLETICISM.

"Capitaine de Corvette," or, as we should say, Lieutenant-Commander Georges Hebert, of the French Navy, was before the war famed as an all-round athlete and lecturer on physical training. He served with the glorious French Naval Division at Ypres, and was so badly wounded that he will remain more or less of an invalid for life. But, nothing daunted by his wounds, the gallant commander has started an athletic crusade for the women and girls of France. It is for their benefit that he has founded a new school of athletics which holds its sittings during the winter in Paris and near Trouville during the summer. He has also published a volume of some 600 pages on "Feminine Beauty and Muscle," elaborating his creed and methods. The latter he describes as "natural," inasmuch as they entail no apparatus, but might be summed up as the eight natural exercises—every one of them of practical use. Commander Hebert will accept no pupil who will not practise them all, as he considers that perfect all-round development is only possible by this complete natural training. The eight exercises in question comprises walking, running, jumping, climbing, lifting (weights), throwing (the javelin, hammer, and discus), swimming, and wrestling. Greek dances, however, have been added as a happy afterthought as a synthetic exercise. Commander Hebert's school is a great success, although a little exacting from the standpoint of the merely fashionable amateur.

WORK FOR WOMEN.

The dismissal of thousands of women who have been employed in Government offices, and the threatened early disbandment of thousands more, are creating a deal of feeling among those interested in the feminine cause. An attempt is being made here to prejudice the case by describing them all as "flappers," which the plain intent to suggest that they are incapable as workers; but this is a gross libel on the majority, who during the war rendered very effective service to the State. The situation created by the Government's decision is precisely that which was contemplated as probable at the beginning of the war, but was then avoided by the unexpectedly prompt readiness of women generally to fill the places left vacant by men. Perhaps the Queen Mary's Work for Women Fund, amounting to $325,000, might be used now. No account has recently appeared of its disposal.

From All Quarters.

A woman's foot should equal in length one-seventh of her height.

Eighteen and seven-tenths per cent. of the French officers mobilized during the war, were killed or died of wounds. Sixteen per cent. of the rank and file died through similar causes.

While using the telephone at Akron, O., a young lady fainted and fell forward, throwing her weight upon the receiver cord, which was partially wrapped around her neck. She strangled to death.

A 50-year-old man found wandering on the waterfront at Oakland, California, dressed in rags, was so near starvation that he died shortly after. He had a bank book showing deposits of $3,000.

According to the Swiss sanitary department, the statistics of the influenza epidemic last year show that 22,639 persons died. More than 18,000 of the deaths occurred in cases where there were pulmonary complications.

Chairman Payne announced at Washington recently, that strikes had cost the Shipping Board $37,000,000 since January 1. The estimates included marine and harbor strikes on the Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf Coasts and did not include the coal strike.

According to English papers, Mrs. Betsy Arnold, aged 117, of Bryngwyn, Monmouthshire, Wales, who danced at the recent celebrations there, also smokes a pipe and drinks an occasional glass of whiskey. Her husband, who is many years her junior, declares that she will outlive him. "Mrs. Metusalem will put me in my grave and live by doing some more after I am gone," the husband laughingly declares. "She is a wonder. She has worked hard all her life, and there is not a lax bone in her body. She also likes to have a good time and smokes strong tobacco in her pipe, that would make a youngster curl up like a shaying."

My Grand-ma.

My Grand-ma knows a lot of things
That she can do for boys—
She knows just how to mend their clothes,
And how to mend their toys.
If any of my playthings break,
She takes her "handy glue"
And sticks them so that they will be Almost as good as new.
And when I get my trousers torn
She never says, "Too bad!"
She fixes them, with pleasant words,
A way that makes me glad.
One day she took a piece of dough
And made a dog for me,

And baked it so it was as nice
As any dog could be.
He stood up straight on all his legs,
His nose and ears were black;
His funny little tail was brown,
And curled up on his back.
I put him on the parlor shelf
To keep him for a show—
And Grand-ma whistles to him there,
And calls him "Our Fi-Do."

reported as marrying a couple and kissing the bridegroom.

Man of Gold, "Fettered Lives," Old Favourites and the fact that they have now rallied once more under the management of their old Manager, Mr. T. M. White, will be an attraction in itself. "Conn the Shaughraun" is in five acts, and there are many scenic novelties, so that with music between the acts, some fine old standard songs, orchestral numbers, and a jig by the old favourite, Mr. Frank Walsh, an interesting and attractive programme is promised.

Cored apples may be filled with almost any kind of fruit and baked. The rough ends of the sirloin steak make excellent hamburger steak. Baking powder should be the last ingredient added to the cake mixture. Too much cocoa is not good for the children; it is inclined to cause biliousness. A good egg scramble is made by adding beaten eggs to a stewpanful of fried onions.

Sympathy.

Is the way hard and thorny, oh brother?
Do tempests heat, and adverse winds blow?
And are you spent, and broken at nightfall?
You with each morn you rise and ward go?
Brother, I know, I know!
I, too, have journeyed so.

Is your heart mad with longing, my sister?
Are all great passions in your breast aglow?
Does the white wonder of your soul blind you,
And are you torn with rapture from our showing this week?
Every wanted tone, plain and fancy mixtures, in broad spread Scarves for "Him." Reg. $1.40. Xmas Sale Price ... $1.25

Is the road filled with snares quicksand, pilgrim?
Do pitfalls lie where roses seem to grow?
And have you sometimes stumbled in the darkness,
And are you bruised and scarred many a blow?
Pilgrim, I know, I know!
I, too, have stumbled so.

Do you send out rebellious cry, question,
As mocking hours pass silently slow?
Does your insistent "wherefore" be no answer?
While stars wax pale with watch and drop low?
I, too, have questioned so,
But now, I know, I know!
To toil, to strive, to err, to cry grow.
To love through all—this is the way to know.
—Ella Wheeler Wilton
