CHAPTER LI
"STRANGE THAT I STILL LOVE HER."

Oh, what may man within him hide, Though angel on the outward side? SHAKESPEARE.

By noon the next day the last equipage, containing the last batch of distinguished guests, had dashed down the avenue and away upon the road to London.

All is strangely quiet and still, with somewhat the appearance of a theater a quarter of an hour after the performance, for, as the lord and master of the new Hall is expected to follow his guests before sunset, the troop of servants are already hard at work covering the satin furniture of the bedrooms and closing shutters and jalousies.

Up in his own room sits Captain Dartmouth, leaning back in his easy-chair, buried in a fit of reverie and meditation, his dark, cunning eyes fixed with a stern, absorbed gaze upon the Turkish carpet. He is going over again in his mind the scene of last night; he is recalling every word of his strange story, every look and gesture of the beautiful woman who told it.

"By heavens!" he muses, biting at the long ends of his dark, carefully-trained mustache, and covering his eyes with his long, white, snowy hands, "I can scarcely persuade myself that I have not been dreaming! Oh, no, no; it's all truth; Lucille could not tell an untruth! Strange, that I still love her! I, Reginald Dartmouth, still love the woman who owns to a birth of shame and an early life of vagabondage! Nay, more; I have consented—pledged myself to assist her in avenging the ruin of a frail sister; pledged myself to trace her betrayer through the labyrinth of years, and

Healthy, Happy Boys and Girls

IS your child healthy? Is he or she up to standard weight, of good color, with plenty of rich, red blood to nourish the growing tissues?

For children who are thin, pale, anaemic, under weight, nervous, restless, sleepless, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is of the greatest benefit imaginable.

Being mild and gentle in action, and yet wonderfully potent as a restorative, it soon makes the blood rich and builds up the feeble nerves.

The captain, accepting the answer as a negative to his question, nodded curtly a dismissal, and the secretary noiselessly withdrew.

Two hours later, with a flourish of whips and a thundering of hoofs, the lord and master of the Dale was being borne from his palace in the country to his other palace in town, and the new Hall seemed still and deserted, indeed, for the crowd of servants had gone up before or with him, and only the housekeeper and John Stanfield, the secretary, remained.

No sooner had the dust raised by the departing equipage dispersed than the quiet figure of the latter, watching from the window, suddenly underwent a transformation.

As if freed from a spell it lost its bent and weird look, and with a cry of relief, threw up its arms toward heaven, straightened its back, and, removing the dark spectacles that hid the beautiful eyes, exclaimed, in a voice strangely different from the husky one that had spoken a few hours before:

"And now, until to-morrow, I am free, free to dig deeper into this mystery, free to search further and work harder for you, dear, dear Laury. Oh, I think I should go mad—nay, I am sure I should, beneath all this load of mystification and crime, if it were not that I know it all tends to wrong him—he who risked his life twice—nay, thrice—for me and thought me to love! Oh, Hugh! Oh, Laury! How I long to see you! I know—my heart tells me—you are not dead; my heart tells me that I shall see you once more. Can I hope dare I pray, that when I do I may meet you and lay at your dear feet the inheritance this villain has robbed you of. There, there; let me be quiet. John Stanfield again, if I am going to lose my presence of mind in this way. Let me think what he would do if placed in my position. Good, brave, wise Laury, would work, act—not sit down and give way like this. Now for another look at the picture. I may find something up there, perhaps, that will help me. Who knows? At least it will give me courage and comfort to gaze upon the semblance even of his sweet face."

So saying the secretary replaced the spectacles, and, resuming the old attitude of careworn and abstracted taciturnity, traversed the corridors and made his way to the old, neglected rooms above.

The dust had gathered again upon the places from which he had unconsciously removed it during the night he had made the discovery of the picture, and he noticed this with a feeling of relief, for the old, deserted room seemed sacred to him, judging by the way in which he paused at every turn and tenderly touched the articles within it—and the portrait of Hugh Darrell more sacred still, for after gazing at it with eyes unimpeded by spectacles, but dim with fast-running tears, the youth leaped upon the chair that stood beneath it, and, with a low cry of passionate love, pressed his full lips against the cold, lifeless ones on the canvas.

From this attitude he was suddenly startled by the sound of voices that seemed to proceed from beneath the window.

Jumping noiselessly from the chair, the youth stole to the casement and cautiously looked down. But the old masonry projecting over the lower windows prevented him from seeing anything immediately below.

WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

How Lydia E. Finkham's Vegetable Compound Relieves the Ailments of Change of Life.

"During Change of Life I had hot flashes, dizzy spells and every month I was wild with misery. I had a constant dull pain, and would always feel tired. I suffered in this way for five or six years and was treated by a physician and took different remedies without benefit. Lydia E. Finkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended to me and I took it, and I believe I would never have been well if it had not been for the Vegetable Compound and Lydia E. Finkham's Sanative Wash. I am recommending your medicine to all women ailing as I was, for I think it will carry them safely through the Change of Life, and relieve the ailments that come at that period."—Mrs. ALEXIE C. NANGLE, Galatin, Ill.

Women who suffer from nervousness, "heat flashes," backache, headaches, and "the blues," should try this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Finkham's Vegetable Compound, and if complications exist write the Lydia E. Finkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The result of their 40 years' experience in such cases is at your service.

low him, and, after waiting until the voices had spoken again, he left the room, and running lightly down the silent and deserted stairs, made his way round to the back, and, concealing himself behind the laurels, peered out.

Scarcely had he done so than two figures—one of a woman and the other of a man—made their way cautiously to within a half-dozen yards of the spot where he lay hidden, and the lady, who was dressed in black, said, tremulously, pointing to a clump of trees and shrubs:

"That is the spot. Look carefully and you will see even from here traces of the old masonry."

The gentleman followed the direction of her finger with his eyes, and then turned and looked toward the terrace.

The unseen watcher almost uttered a cry of astonishment, as the lady turned and looked toward the terrace, disclosing the features of Rebecca Goodman. The man was Sir Charles Anderson.

The one at feud with Reginald Dartmouth, and the least likely person in the world to be within the boundary of his estate; the other his close friend, who was supposed by all to be at that moment on the road to London.

What was the meaning of it? "Hi! They were speaking again."

"Did you say that he came from the terrace here and walked toward the old well?"

"Yes, I can swear it."

"And that you saw a folded paper within the bosom of his coat? And—what was that? Something moved among those shrubberies?"

"Let us go—I would not have come if you had not so persuaded me. Come, Charlie, you see the spot. For Heaven's sake do not let us be seen here!"

Yielding to her entreaties, Sir Charles, who seemed fascinated by the spot and looked bewildered and troubled beyond description, took her hand upon his arm and both walked away.

But they had been seen and heard likewise; for, almost before they were out of sight, the slim figure pushed aside the laurels, and, looking after them with pale, startled face, murmured:

"So there are others on the trail!"

CHAPTER LII
A MOMENT OF PERFECT BLISS.

Her valiant courage and undaunted spirit. More than in woman commonly is seen.—SHAKESPEARE.

"Dear Sir:—According to your instructions, which were to the effect that I was to communicate with you if so be a certain party came to hand, I lose no time in so doing. And beg to say that if you will come down to where I had the honor of seeing you, you will hear some news. With best respects, yours,
JOHN TOVEY.

"I rite this because Joe is blisey." This humorous epistle was directed to "Mr. John Stanfield, Esq., post-office, Duke Street, Hyde Park," and had been lying there two days when Captain Dartmouth's quiet secretary called for it.

A SALE

That will not disappoint.

The reason of this Sale is the turning of a lot of this season's goods of passing fashion and some of which we have an overstock into.

Hard Cash.
YOU WANT GOODS AT LOW PRICES WE WANT HARD CASH. THIS IS YOUR OPPORTUNITY.

We are not going to give you a line of talk that as philanthropists we are out merely to reduce the height of the H. C. of L. and going to cut prices in halves; we figure you are too intelligent to believe stuff like that, or would think we had certainly been juggling you on previous prices. First we start with

LADIES' & CHILDREN'S STRAW HATS.
Off these we are taking
25 Per Cent. Discount.

Our prices for Hats are notoriously low, and with this discount and the styles considered we know greatly increased buying will make a busy department busier.

We next consider
LADIES' BLOUSES.

We find a very classy lot of Ladies' Canadian made White Voile Blouses have not moved fast enough. They range in price from $5.50 to $7.50. Though the market was high and we did not like buying at these prices, we thought style and cut worth consideration. Now we think you will find them most tempting by our allowance of

from the above.
We have also picked upon a lot of

LADIES' GEORGETTE CREPE BLOUSES
in beautiful designs and shades, and have marked them down from $17.50 to $12.50 each. This represents less than cost price.

LADIES' SILK DRESSES.
We have some priced very reasonably at $30.00, $33.00 and $35.00 each, but we are making a reduction in these prices of 25 Per Cent.

We do this as we are informed that with some of them the skirts are a bit tight.

LADIES' WHITE COSTUME SKIRTS.
Canadian styles, English materials. Sale Prices only

$3.90, $4.00, $4.50 and $5.00.
This summer is certainly a fine one, so you had better secure a couple of these beautiful Washable Skirts and get in accord with it.

LADIES' ENVELOPE CHEMISES (or TEDDIES).
We have quite a stock of these in White and Pink Lawns and Imitation Silks. They are big sellers in America but have not yet started to sell so largely here. We think taking 25 Per Cent. off may help.

In order to make things more interesting we are making

A Reduction of Ten Per Cent. on Some Staple Lines of Ladies' Ready-to-wear.

This includes all our large and cheaply priced stocks of Ladies' Cambric and Lawn Underskirts, Knickers, Camisoles and Nightdresses.

Ladies' Costumes and Costume Skirts.
Ladies' Raglans, Shower Coats and Navy Spring Coats
Ladies' Cotton, Poplin and Serge, etc., Dresses.
Ladies' Kimonos, Wrappers and Cotton House Dresses.
Ladies' Blouses of all kinds—not previously mentioned.
Ladies' Silk and Wool Sweater Coats.

LADIES' COTTON and LISLE SUMMER GLOVES.

We are in a position to offer these at prices no higher than those of 1918-1919. We quote Ladies' White and Grey Gloves, with dome fasteners, at price only 40c. pair.

LADIES' WHITE and BLACK COTTON HOSE, only 29c. pair.

You will also find we have some other extra good values in Ladies' White and Black Cotton and Lisle Hose, while they last.

We Know Our Prices on Goods Advertised Are the Lowest You Can Procure, as they are below the cost of doing business, but our desire to change goods into cash IS YOUR OPPORTUNITY.

N.B.—Sale Discounts are for Cash Purchases only.

GERMANY GETTING DOWN TO BUSINESS.

LONDON, July 22. Premier Lloyd George in the Commons yesterday said, "We have proof that the Germans have grappled with the problems of indemnity and are making a real effort to deal with it."

He also asserted that Great Britain and France would supply means to organize and equip three hundred thousand volunteers Poland has just raised.

HEAVY FIGHTING GOING ON.

WARSAW, July 22. The heaviest fighting experienced on the southern front is under way. The Bolsheviks brought the battle onto Polish soil for the first time.

STATESMEN IMPRESSED.

LONDON, July 22. Writing to the Opposition candidate in the Norfolk bye-election, Premier Lloyd George says, "While many cities strive to blame the government for the social and economic hardships which we suffer inevitably as the result of war-time conditions, statesmen and people of other lands are impressed and regard with increasing wonder the firm and stable character of British commerce and its prodigious recovery after so long a period of trial and suffering."

READY FOR THE CONTEST.

SANDY HOOK, July 22. Shamrock IV, slipped out of the drydock to-night and is ready to race again tomorrow for America's Cup. Meanwhile the crew of the Resolute put in the day making things ship shape aboard their craft and also are prepared to give battle. With the tally now standing two to one in favor of the challenger, the Resolute must win the next contest if the hundred guinea cup is not to travel back overseas in custody of the Royal Ulster Yacht Club.

POLISH CAPITAL MENACED.

WARSAW, July 22. The menace to the Polish capital is becoming serious through the defeat of the left wing of the Polish army. Since the attacks of the Bolsheviks against Vilna on July 14th the Polish left, or northern wing, has been compelled to hasten its retreat and the Bolsheviks have been following it with a daily advance averaging fifteen miles. In three weeks the Poles have retired from the Beresna River to Nieman, a distance of more than two hundred miles, and the distance between the Nieman and the Vistula, which flows through Warsaw, is less than that, being about one hundred and fifty.

Diana Encounters Berg.

FISHERY CONDITIONS IN THE STRAITS.

(Western Star.)

With her nose somewhat disfigured from contact with an iceberg, the S.S. Diana, Capt. Norman, reached port at 5.30 p.m. on Monday. The ship was on her way coming up the Straits last Thursday during a thick fog when she ran into a huge iceberg between Henley Harbor and St. Peter's Island. The ship was going at less than three-quarter speed at the time. So dense was the fog that the berg could not be seen until the ship was within a few feet of it. The engines were reversed and the helm swung around in an effort to clear the great floating mountain, but there wasn't room and an impact occurred as the ship was swinging off. Her bowsprit, figure head and other head gear were carried away, but the hull of the ship suffered little or no damage, due to the bowsprit taking the force of the impact. Ice bergs are numerous in the Straits, and no sooner had she cleared from her first when another loomed through the fog close by and the ship had to pass between the two. They were monster bergs, reaching higher than the ship's spars, in fact the tops of the peak's could not be seen, they being capped with fog. The ship reports little or no cod between Battle Harbor and Red Bay, but at Bonne Esperance, Whitley, Buckle, and others are getting all the fish they can handle, and there is also good fishing westward from there. Cod is very scarce on Newfoundland side of Straits, thought to be due to prevailing southwest winds. At a few places along the coast, however, fishermen get a little when bait can be procured and weather is suitable for getting on the grounds, but bait is very scarce and there are gales of wind almost continually. It was not known when the Diana arrived here whether she would make another trip north before the service is taken up by one of the steamers recently purchased in Canada.

McMurdo's Store News.

FRIDAY, July 22. Myol is a refined liquid petroleum of the utmost purity and careful preparation, tasteless, colorless, and odorless, with sufficient "body" and viscosity to be most effective for the purpose, and is recommended in cases of constipation and sluggish bowels as a lubricant and in effect laxative. Its action is purely mechanical, it is not absorbed into the system, and the objections made (often with some reason) to ordinary laxative remedies, do not here apply. The manufacturers of this product claim that they have evolved the perfect thing of the kind, and that Myol stands in all that goes to make perfection in such a product, head and shoulders over anything else in the market. Commissioners Petitioned to Reconsider.

The City Commissioners held the regular weekly meeting last evening. A largely signed petition from the members of the Board of Trade and business people was presented asking Messrs. Gosling, Morris, Ayre and Vinnicombe, who had recently tendered their resignation as Councillors, to reconsider their decision and remain in office for the coming year. The petition expressed high approval of the splendid services they had rendered the city. The four commissioners will meet at 12 o'clock on Saturday to discuss the matter.

Firemen Called Out.

Yesterday afternoon the Central and West End Fire Companies were called to the Railway Station by 'phone message. A slight fire of unknown origin having occurred in the Reid Garage. The services of the firemen were not needed however, as the blaze was put out by employees before they arrived. Practically no damage was done the place.

Fishery Reports.

From Hant's Hr. to Salvage Point the catch of codfish is 600 qts., for 24 traps and 20 boats. The outlook for the trap fishery is reported to be very poor but hook and liners may secure a saving voyage. Strong weather with S.W. winds has hampered operations. Caplin is being obtained from New Melbourne for bait. Local trap fishermen did well again yesterday, and in the present spurt continues for another week or so good voyages are assured.

Never a corn on millions of feet nowadays

Do you know that millions of people who use Blue-jay keep entirely free from corns?

If a corn appears it is ended by a touch. A Blue-jay plaster or a drop of liquid Blue-jay is applied.

The corn pain stops. Soon the whole corn loosens and comes out.

The method is scientific. It is gentle, easy, sure. Old-time harsh treatments are supplanted by it with everyone who knows it.

It is made by a world-famed laboratory, which every physician respects.

It is now applied to some 20 million corns a year. You can see that corn troubles are fast disappearing.

Then why pare corns and keep them?

Why use methods which are out-of-date?

Try this new-day method. See what it does to one corn. You will never forget its quick and gentle action. Your druggist sells Blue-jay.

The Land Under the Sea.

At the captain's table on an Atlantic liner a young lady inquired how far the ship was from the nearest land.

Several of the passengers guessed off-hand about eight hundred miles. The captain, however, turned the question over to a quiet gentleman, who looked at his watch and at a chart and then amazed his hearers by answering, "Just about seventy yards."

"The land I speak of is just thirty-six fathoms beneath this ship," continued the expert oceanographer. "It is the summit of the Laura Ethel Mountain, which is 20,000 feet above the lowest level of the Atlantic basin. If it were some two hundred feet higher, or the sea were two hundred feet lower, you would call it an island."

In effect, the Atlantic is a huge continent boasting a superficial area of 25,000,000 square miles. It is 9,000 miles long and 2,700 miles broad. The depth of the water that covers it is by no means so considerable as people used to imagine. Oceanography as a science may be said to date only from about 1850, but—thanks chiefly to the labors of the cable laying and cable repairing ships—knowledge of the configuration of the bed of the ocean grows greater every year.

The Laura Ethel Mountain, discovered in 1878, is the uppermost peak of one of the most celebrated of the submarine elevations in the Atlantic. Mount Chaucer, at the eastward of it, was revealed to oceanographers in 1880. Sainthill, which is westward of both, has the honor to be the first mountain discovered in the Atlantic. It became known in 1832.

Prior to the laying of the first Atlantic cable, Lieutenant Maury, United States Navy, made it known that a wide plateau exists beneath the ocean, running from Ireland to Newfoundland. It seemed so admirably suited to the purpose of cable laying that he modestly called it Telegraphic Plateau, but in most charts it bears the discoverer's name.

The location of "Davy Jones's Locker" might be said to have been established with the discovery of Sainthill. It has been estimated that at the base of this eminence the relics of not fewer than 7,000 wrecks lie scattered. Or one can ascribe that gruesome distinction to the Faraday Hills, discovered in 1833, and lying between Mount Chaucer and Laura Ethel Mountain. These hills are noted among oceanographers for the amount of wreckage of which they are the monument.

There are cavernous depths, of course, in the Atlantic, as well as majestic heights. Four miles and a half may be taken to be the greatest. The average is probably about two miles. Heights and depths alike are merely hidden land, which may some day be exposed by the mighty workings of nature.

Meantime comparatively few changes occur. Beneath the ocean there are no frosts, no lightnings, no glaciers, no meteorological agents at work. If it were not for the eddies and the destruction and accumulation of animal life, these Atlantic hills and vales might rest as immutable as the peaks and craters of the moon, where there is no atmosphere to cause decay.

Too Much.

Here is the latest story told by Sir Robert Horn, President of the Board of Trade. A dour Scot had been paying attentions to a girl for ten years. At last one day, when walking by the side of Lock Lomond, he abruptly popped the question. She accepted him with alacrity.

Then they walked on in silence for four or five miles. Finally she said, "Jock, hae ye naething more to say?" "Na, Jenny," he replied; "I fear I hae said too much already!"

Human Immunity.

Some years ago a Spaniard named Godinez created a considerable sensation by offering to subject himself to the electric chair at Sing-Sing prison, where criminals are electrocuted. This was refused; but he proved later that he was able to stand a charge far higher than the 7,000 volts used in the American prison for the purpose of electrocution.

On the stage, he stood between two electrodes, and permitted a constant stream of lightning to pass through his body without suffering from any harmful result.

There was a man in Leicester who could do much the same sort of thing. He could handle parts of a dynamo that would make the average man jump out of his boots.

Safe From Snakes and Bees.

This man, who came from Lancashire, used his gifts as a healer.

There are people who cannot feel pain. A man called Lipscombe sued a railway company for damages, alleging that, owing to injury to his spine received in a collision, he had become insensible to pain. A surgeon applied a white-hot cauterizer to his bare arm. The man did not flinch, though the odor of burnt flesh filled the court. It was definitely proved that he was not malingering.

A boy called Claud Bristow, who was born in Kansas, has a strange power over snakes. No snakes can be induced to bite or harm him. He will handle a newly-caught rattlesnake. He is now travelling with a show as a snake-charmer.

The famous naturalist of Selborne, Gilbert White, describes a boy who was similarly immune to bee-stings. He would sit before a hive, rap on it with his fingers, and catch the bees as they came out. No bee ever stung him.

Lightning and Trees.

(From the Westminster Gazette.)
I see, by the way that at Chertsey, during Saturday's storm a man was killed by lightning while sheltering under a tree, and at Eitham another man was struck under similar conditions. Fatalities of this nature could be avoided if people exercised a little care in selecting shelter during thunderstorms when trees are the only available shelter. Oaks, poplars, and elms are most liable to attract lightning coming to earth, and these trees should be avoided. The safest are pine, birch, chestnut, and walnut. Trees standing by themselves are always dangerous, as also is the highest of a group of trees. There is little danger in sheltering in a wood. If the smallest trees are utilized, for if a flash of lightning strikes any trees in a wood it will select the tallest, even though the tree happens to be one of the comparatively safe species.

From Altar to Arctic.

Mr. Elkins, the wealthy young American who recently took his bride for a honeymoon "as near the North Pole as he can comfortably get," is by no means the first bridegroom who has spent his "month of honey" in this chilly environment.

A few years ago Mr. Max Fieleschmann, a Chicago millionaire, at his bride's request, took her straight from the altar to the arctic wastes, where they spent, on their own evidence, "delightful" months, hunting seals, reindeer, and polar bears, two of which fell to the bride's own gun. Mrs. Fieleschmann's honeymoon wardrobe, we are told, consisted of an assortment of sheepskin dresses, lined with leather.

Less chilly, but no less adventurous, was the honeymoon journey of Major Powell-Cotton, who took his bride on a long and hazardous journey through Africa, spending many months in the heart of the Ituri Forest, hunting the okapi and making friends of the savage pigmies, who had never before even seen a white woman.

But the most daring and adventurous of all recorded honeymoons was that of Captain Andrews, an American sailor, and his bride, who started to cross the Atlantic in a "cockle-shell" twelve feet long, and were never seen again.

Like Horse Racing.

Yacht racing in some respects is a lot like horse racing. "Touts" visit the tracks to see the thoroughbreds work out. They watch, they time, they figure and they dope the performances but they are never sure. It might be a stable boy in the saddle who was holding in the animal. There might be twenty pounds of weight in the saddle-flaps. Ten pounds taken off one entry and loaded on another can change a whole challenge.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

DO YOU DO IT THIS WAY?

RUTH CAMERON

Five years ago the head editor of a large magazine was talking to a friend of mine about his assistants, of whom he had three at the time and of whom he had at least a dozen in the course of his work on that magazine.

Couldn't Read Copy But—

"H," he said, naming one of them, "is one of the poorest copy readers in the country, but I wouldn't give him up for half a dozen perfect copy readers."

"Why?" he was asked.

"Because he is the only man I ever had who would make up his mind about a story without referring his decision to me," he said.

That, as I said, was five years ago. Recently my friend was telling me about the assistant of whom the editor spoke and with whom he himself had just come into contact. The former assistant is now the editor of one of the largest and wealthiest magazines in the whole country.

Could Trust His Own Judgment.

Think of it—a rise like that in five years! Of course he had other good qualities of which we do not happen to know; but there is no question that the one of which his chief spoke, had much to do with his rapid rise. He could make up his mind. He was not afraid to trust his own judgment.

There is no better habit that any young man or woman in business can cultivate than the habit of accepting responsibility.

The man who is afraid to make up his mind, even on minor matters, without his chief's D.K., may never get fired but he won't often get raised either.

(Besides which, if he bothers his chief too often and at the wrong time, he may also get fired.)

A Symptom and a Cause.

The habit of indecision is both one of the symptoms and the cause of an unhealthy mental condition. If you find that you have a nervous dread of deciding any question, that you try to get others to decide for you or to make circumstances decide, that is the time to get after both your physical and your mental health and see what can be done to improve them.

Of course I do not mean that to make important decisions rashly is a good thing either in business or private life. The thing to do is to think things over clearly and fully, and then, without waiting for the issues to get confused by too much mulling over them, to make the best decision one can and be ready to stand by one's judgment.

King's Curio Collection.

Probably few of the thousands who visit Windsor Castle every year have seen the museum, near the Equerries' entrance, in which King George treasures his private collection of curios, ranging from war relics to walking-sticks.

Here you see memories of every campaign of recent years, including King Theodore's cap and gold seal, presented to Queen Victoria at the conclusion of the Abyssinian War; the scarlet saddle, edged with gold, captured from the late Amser of Afghanistan; and the crimson banner of Wad Bishara, which fell into Lord Kitchener's hands at Firket.

Here, too, is to be seen a wonderful collection of old china, consisting of 10,000 pieces, and valued at £150,000.

One, a beautiful dessert-service of Sevres ware alone represents a value of £30,000, while a breakfast-service given to George III, on his birthday in 1816 by his daughters, is worth £10,000.

Feather Cloaks Worth £10,000.

Among the furniture are the writing-desk given by Henry VIII, to Anne Boleyn on their wedding-day; and a Venetian chair, used by the Doges, and dated 1670.

There is also a solid gold silver table of the same period.

The King's collection of feather cloaks is valued at £10,000. They are composed of gold, black, and crimson feathers from the wings of a now extinct species of parrot, and were given to George IV, by the king of the Sandwich Islands in 1824.

Not far away may be found the collection of walkingsticks King Edward inherited from his mother, numbering 137 in all, many of them of great value. One, purchased at the Culloden sale in 1897, is carved to represent

Wise Men Say—

That prosperity helps some men to forget their friends.

That envy provides the mud that failure throws at success.

That our greatest glory is not in never falling, but in rising every time we fall.

That thinking over our own faults makes us talk less about those of other people.

That the best of us may at some time fall in the mud, but no one need stay there.

That until you learn that work is your best friend, not your worst enemy, you will never go far—except downhill.

THE SUMMER RESORT.

WILEY MASON

All the folks I see around, chasing by me day by day, are on sport and pleasure bound, all they have to do is play. Tree's a graft that men call toll, and some men are said to work, one as tiller of the soil, one as blacksmith, one as clerk; I have heard of honest sweat, but I know not what it is; play is here the only bet, and the autos round me whiz. I have heard of girls who stitch through the weary sweatshop day, but I'm with the idle rich, and such things seem far away. Is there trouble anywhere? Are there cupboards bare and lean? Here one thing is causing care—it's the dearth of gasoline. Oh, I loaf upon the beach, when the night rack's rolling brown, and evicted tenants serech, doubtless, in some burning town. And I see the fogs ascend, hiding crags and tors and cairns; and some far-off mothers bend over sick and walling babies. Is there trouble on the land? Is there trouble on the sea? Such things don't, you understand, come within a mile of me. For I'm one who has the price, and I watch the seabirds reel, drinking near beer off the ice, eating pie at every meal.

KNOWLEDGE.

There is much in life that I do not know. And much that I may not understand. But my heart grows warm at a boy's hello. And I'm glad to walk with him, hand in hand. College? I missed it in bygone days. I haven't the right to a high degree. But I learned a lot along childhood's ways. That is very useful to-day to me. I know the boy and I know his games. I know the things that he likes to do. His favorite food and his favorite drink. And his favorite brand of mischief, too. I cannot tell him of ancient Greece, Or of Caesar's victories date by date. But the sort of knowledge which now he seeks I can rattle off at a steady rate. I can tell him the ways of the fox and bear. I can show him the places where pickeral swim. In all that he likes I can have a share. And I know enough to be pal with him.

Household Notes.

Oatmeal macaroons are made with sponge cake batter, thickened with rolled oats and dropped on baking tins.

Kumquats are excellent fruit or stewed with prunes, and make a delicious salad.

Sprinkle a few drops of oil of lavender through your bookcases to prevent mold.

When canning plums or strawberries, strain the surplus juice and boil for jelly.

Equal quantities of sweet oil and lime water mixed is a splendid remedy for burns.

Pickles should be prepared in granite or porcelain-lined kettles with wooden spoons.

Beans should always be soaked in water overnight before being par-boiled for baking.

Add a pint of clear coffee and a small piece of spermaceti to starch for dark calicoes.

Do not shell fresh peas until just before cooking. Wash in cold water and drain quickly.

The Labrador Fishery

Though reports from Labrador, sent the Marine and Fisheries Department by wireless, and those brought along by s.s. Sagona, are not encouraging, it is too soon yet to make any predictions whatever as to the eventual result of the voyage. In the first place crews were late in getting on the coast, and the same cause hindering their early departure is now responsible for the hampering of fishing operations. That is, ice. It is not unusual for ice to jam the coast from Battle Harbor, North up to this. Other years have seen the presence of the Arctic menace until well on in July, so that the present ice all along the coast in scattered bodies, must not be regarded as affecting operations, so seriously that a blank will be drawn. There is yet ample time to kill a voyage, and though because of ice conditions the time is cut much shorter, there is nothing to show that fish will not run so soon as some strong off shore winds drive the pans and growlers out to sea. That which has happened before will recur again.

The effect, however, which yesterday's wireless bulletins, which are later than the Sagona's report, must not be minimized, nor overlooked, but they should not be permitted to develop a feeling of despondency or despair on the part of those who are directly interested in the Labrador voyage. The first reports year by year, after the crews get down, have been more or less of the nature of the present ones. It takes some little time for the freighters to get settled away after landing, and by the time the steamer makes the return trip south, very little twine is in the water, and hook and liners, while waiting for bait to strike, are using the jigger, which at the beginning, do not yield any great returns. With ice blocking the coasts and aground in shallow waters, the fish are kept off, and thus caplin cannot make a landing, and cod, consequently remain away from their haunts. When the ice does move off, both caplin and cod strike and it is during the schooling of the former that the traps get the big hauls.

The floating fishermen, making for the far North suffer by far the greater from the ice handicap, as the season "way up" is so brief that they can only get about two and a half months of fishing, and delays in getting along are not by any means welcomed, it being to the advantage of the salt fishermen to make their destination as quickly as possible, and work night and day in securing a load. Sometimes it means going from place to place according as the fish move, to achieve this, but skippers and crews being well acquainted with the changing conditions are ever eager and the prosecution of the voyage is carried on with the greatest cheerfulness. One gratifying feature of the Sagona's report was that, notwithstanding the prevalence of ice, a large number of schooners were reaching North, and conditions were favorable. The lateness in getting along this season, will, however, cut short the time, as only about eight weeks remain for the floaters going right up the coast, to kill their trips, all of them leaving the higher latitudes and coming south when the snows of mid September begin to fly. On the whole then there is no reason why the prospects should be regarded as unfavorable. There is plenty of time to turn the trick, and as the Labrador men do not work under an eight hour day system, once the fish strikes there will be no let up until the voyage is under sail.

Official Visit

Supreme President S.O.E., B.S. The Executives of Lodges Dudley and Empire, Sons of England Benevolent Society, are making arrangements for the reception of the Supreme President of the Order, Bro. T. H. Carter, who will arrive in St. John's by S. S. Sable I. on Monday next for the purpose of paying an official visit to the Newfoundland Lodges under his jurisdiction. Following the landing of Bro. Carter, an excursion will be made to Harbor Grace where "Diamond Jubilee" Lodge will be visited. On return to St. John's, sessions of both city Lodges will be held, and on Wednesday evening covers will be laid for a grand banquet in honor of the distinguished guest. The members of the Society expect much pleasure and profit from this official visitation.

Orphans Entertained at Bowling Park.

Yesterday the children of the Methodist Orphanage were entertained at Bowling Park—this being the first of a series of outings provided by Sir John Crooble before leaving for England, the arrangements being left in the capable hands of Mr. Gus Lester. The little girls were motored to the park and served with ice-cream, after which they were taken to the beautiful lake, where they spent an enjoyable time boating under the kind care of Mr. Canning. At 5.30 a ball rang out announcing tea and the children hastened to the bungalow, where a sumptuous repast was provided by the hostess, Mrs. Bendell. At 8 o'clock the motor came to carry the little ones home, but before leaving they were given lemonade and a bag of candy. They arrived home, tired and happy, after a most enjoyable day. The officers wish to thank all who helped make the day a pleasant one for the orphan girls.

Latest From the Victorian.

The Marconi Company, by wireless telegraph, received a communication from R.M.S. To-morrow morning experiments with Signal Hill will be made.

Shaping Up.

Last evening conditions on the Lake were ideal for practice, and the racing crews were not negligent in putting in an appearance. Many volunteers were on the bank and all expressed themselves pleased with the shaping up of the various contestants. Some of the crews will, however, have to make better time than last nights, if they have any ambition to win.

The Commission.

The Commission to enquire into the Woodford affidavit charges held a session this forenoon when Hon. M. P. Gibbs took the stand and told of his connection with the affair. He said Mr. Woodford was not correct in stating that he saw Mr. Gibbs at 5 o'clock on St. Patrick's Day. He asked Woodford to resign and drafted the form for him. Premier Squires in a conversation on the 18th March told Woodford that he would have as good a chance of getting the position as anybody else if he were out of politics. Premier Squires never authorized him (Gibbs) to make any promises either directly or indirectly. On the 19th March Woodford asked Gibbs to endorse a note which he refused to do.

Hon. Mr. Gibbs also stated that Woodford never mentioned anything about the affidavit to him. The evidence disclosed nothing new and the session adjourned till Monday, when Mr. Gibbs will be re-called and cross examined.

A Company were on fatigue duty under Reg. Sergt. Major Williams. The officers' mess held a conference at 9 p.m. the Mess president in the chair, to discuss camp arrangements. So far 84 lads have signed on for the ten days' outing at Topsail, which for 28 years has been the scene of happy hours—not alone by active members of the Battalion to-day, but many old comrades of the past scattered through the various

These lads have laid down their lives on Flinders Fields. The Battalion parades in full for camp on Monday night at 8 p.m. Every lad must bring his kit bag to the Armoury Monday night. He provides himself with one pair blankets, one extra shirt, one pair extra boots, an extra suit of underwear, two pairs socks, knife, fork, spoon, mug and plate, also boot polish, hair brush and comb, tooth brush and paste with swaggar cape. All camp fees must be paid on Monday, which is a dollar and fifty cents as a donation towards the cost of food. Lads will parade on Wednesday, July 28th, at 10 a.m. and march to Topsail under the command of Lieut.-Colonel Goodridge, C.L.B. O.C., returning on Friday, August 6th.

Last night Rev. E. H. Fletcher met the delegates of the various football teams and arranged the fixtures for the Church of England Orphanage Garden Party at Shannon Munn Farm. The preliminary games will be played off next Thursday evening immediately after the baseball match. The C.L.B. Athletic Association are holding their outdoor sports on the 1st day of September at St. George's Field and cups and medals have been cabled for by the Brigade from their head-quarters.

The camp pioneer squad goes to Topsail under Lieut. Fred Reid with the first motor truck load of supplies on Monday morning. Sergt. Cook Roberts and Corporal Cook Harry Butler, as usual will be camp cooks, and this fact alone will guarantee good "chef" service and Colour Sergt. Clifford Earle will act as caterer to the N.C.O.'s and W.O.'s Mess. Major Raley, M.C., will be Camp Commandant, Lieut. Fred Reid, Transport Officer both ways. It is expected that officers and squads from Wabana, Bay Roberts, Heart's Content, Trinity East and Bonavista will be present to associate with their comrades in St. John's in this glorious holiday. It is hoped to arrange a big concert and camp fire sing song one night, and the annual camp dance with a sports day to be conducted by the Athletic Association, for which a small admission fee will be charged. The band will also likely give a band concert in the camp grounds one evening to assist in raising funds towards the cost of the outing. The C.L.B. lads are still "carrying on" after 28 years activity and we hope will have fine weather and enjoy another annual camp on the "old camp grounds."—C.

A Pleasant Surprise.
On Monday afternoon an agreeable surprise awaited Miss Florrie Way at Mrs. A. Diamond's country residence, Killbride, when, on returning to the bungalow after a walk around the grounds, a number of friends greeted her with a "tubful" of gifts, which were enthusiastically suited to delight the heart of one who is about to enter the "matrimonial order." Tea was served on the lawn and a pleasant evening of games, etc., enjoyed by the young people.

A Giant Cod.
One day last week Noble Netley fished a monster codfish in Humber Arm, off Curling. The big fish towed the boat a considerable distance and it was necessary to hook it with the second figger to get it on board the boat. It weighed 90 pounds un-dressed and was purchased by Mr. James Parsons of the Tourist Hotel.—Western Star.

Flew North Sea.
Major Gran, who it will be remembered was at Harbor Grace last year with the Handley Page Aviators, has recently repeated his North Sea flight, his latest flying time from London to Christiansia, a distance of 750 miles, being nine hours. Major Gran was the first airman to fly across the North Sea; the feat being accomplished in 1914. The successful flier is the Anglo-Norwegian explorer and airman, who after serving in the Flying Corps during the war, had an air honeymoon last summer.

ST. JOHN'S WOMAN WAS ON VERGE OF DESPAIR

Says She Has Gained 22 Pounds By Taking Tanlac And Is Well And Happy After Suffering Eight Years.

"I have not only gained twenty-two pounds in weight by taking Tanlac, but am now a well and happy woman for the first time in eight years," declared Mrs. Mark Day, 20 Coronation St., St. John's.

"I was in such a weak and run-down condition that I was in perfect misery all the time. My digestion was so upset that anything like solid food gave me intense pains in the pit of my stomach and I ate so little on this account, I nearly starved to death and fell off until I only weighed a hundred and thirteen pounds. I became so weak that I was unable to do my housework and just felt tired all the time. I kept going from bad to worse and winter before last was in bed for months unable even to feed myself. I constantly had headaches that almost drove me distracted, and became so nervous that any unusual noise made me feel like screaming out. I had special treatment and tried all kinds of medicines, but nothing did me any good and I had despaired of ever getting well.

"I would like to thank the people who told me about their experience with Tanlac in the papers, because that was how I heard about it. I never dreamt that any medicine could do what it has done for me. My digestion is now so good that I can eat anything I want and never suffer from pain or gas afterwards, and have gained so much in weight that I have had to let out all my clothes. The color has come back into my cheeks, and in fact, my whole system has been benefited, and I'm like a different woman. I am so grateful for what Tanlac has done for me that I feel I must pass the word along to all who suffer as I did, and tell them what a grand medicine it is."

Tanlac is sold in St. John's by M. Connors; by Reg. Sullivan, Pouch Cove; Sound Island Store, Sound Island; Dennis Flynn, Avondale; J. J. O'Brien, Cape Broyle; J. W. Smith, Baine Harbor; W. A. Burdock, Belleoram; John Morey, Fermeuse; Mrs. Jos. Quinn, Renewa.—adv

Trinity, Past and Present

Permit me to thank "Trinitarian" for his kind words of appreciation of my efforts to make Trinity more fully known to the outside world, and to keep Trinitarians abroad informed of the doings of their native town. I know how he feels about it, and what pleasure an occasional column of references give him, for during my forty years in Canada, such references were very dear to me. I am sorry that I cannot undertake to provide a weekly report. We are not changeless nor resourceful enough to supply the proper material for such, and any attempt on my part to do it regularly would, I fear, be dubbed a weekly contribution rather than a weekly one. So long, however, as I remain in Trinity, I shall do my best to mix its historic past, with its interesting present, and probable future as faithfully and as often as I can.

In our early Latin we were familiar with the translation "All Gaul is divided into four parts." In our early English we were taught, all Trinity is divided into three parts, and hence, the reason why it was called Trinity. Those three parts are, the Harbour, the South West Arm, and the North West Arm. Just where the waters of the Harbour end, and those of the North West Arm begin is not quite clear; but I have always supposed that the line of division is from Walters' Point to the point north of Freshwater. The Harbour extends from Hog's Nose to the line I have mentioned. Goose Cove and the water way to Dunfield are parts of the South West Arm, and Gott's Cove, Rosey Cove, etc., are parts of the North West Arm.

The water in every part of the Harbour is deep, except that southern part of it known as the Mussel Bed. Although H.M. Ship Lily once spent a summer in the South West Arm, and H.M. Ship Snap spent a winter in the North West Arm, yet the official anchorage for the warships is that part of the Harbour off Mr. Hussey's premises, and so marked on the Admiralty charts. When the British or French men of war paid their annual visit to Trinity years ago, they usually anchored there, though I have occasionally seen a British man of war anchored midway between the Government wharves of Trinity and Trinity East.

A good many changes have come to the water front of the Harbour, but none so great as those which have come to the South West part of it, where the fine premises of Slade, and Slade and Kelson once stood. Where fifty years ago a row of the finest stores, shops and offices outlined and occupied the water front, and the agent's dwelling house, surrounded by a beautiful garden, graced the background, to-day not a vestige of it remains, and the land upon which it all stood has been divided up into lots and sold to private individuals.

The extensiveness and the methods of the business carried on there fifty years ago, are fresh in the memory of some of our people to-day, whilst the same methods, etc., by which it was carried on fifty years before that, have been given to the public twice within the last few years, by the publication of William Kelson's letters—once in the Trinity Enterprise, by Rev. W. J. Lockyer, and again in the Evening Telegram by Mr. H. F. Shortis. The material in the make-up of those stores, shops, etc., now form parts of buildings—private and public—in different parts of the district, and could they speak they would tell of doings—tragic and otherwise—that have never been given to the public.

In those days when rum was bought by the puncheon, and drunk by the quart, by men, who even in their sober senses had but low ideas of moral ethics, and who held human life very cheap, the dark alleyways of those premises were the scenes of many a foul deed. The details of some of those deeds were carried to the grave, by those who often snuffed out a life without a thought or care for anything, other than the accomplishment of their designs, and the hope that the action might never be traced to its source. The records of burials in the old registers of St. Paul's Church, Trinity, are but the heavy head-lines of records of tragedies, many of the details of which have never been written.

Running through the accounts of those tragedies, like the red thread in a warship's cables, is one thing—the one thing that had most to do with the tragedies, and that one thing is—rum. True, life in our midst to-day is more commonplace than it was then, and some people, sometimes thoughtlessly and regretfully refer to those days as: "The good old times."

In spite, however, of the absence of some persons and things that we would like to bring back again—in the new day that has dawned upon us, we have much to thank God for, and one is the absence of the licensed public houses of years ago, with their slimy trail of degradation and sin.

In Judge Prowse's history of Newfoundland, he records the capture of Trinity by the French in 1762, and the recapture of it by the British in September of the same year. I looked up the church registers of that year, hoping to find some direct or indirect reference to it. There is none, however, and the fact that the entries of baptisms, marriages, and burials were made in about the same regularity and numbers as they had been made in other years, suggests that the possession by the French did not affect the place very seriously. This conclusion has been strengthened by the evidence of a friend, to the effect that when he was a boy his grandmother often told him that she had heard the old people say, that the only dire mischief the French did at this time, was to saw in two a vessel that was being built in the dock.

There are not many references to Trinity in Judge Prowse's history. The first one is in 1588, and is in connection with one Richard Whitbourne. It is as follows: "The young sailor in the beautiful land locked harbour of Trinity, amidst all the hurry and bustle of the shore fishery, first saw the 'natural inhabitants,' as he calls the Beothics or Red Indians." He says: "They are few in number, a rude and savage people, having neither knowledge of God, nor living under any kind of civil government." Whilst in Trinity, Mr. Whitbourne says: "We killed great store of fish, deer, bears, seals, otters, and such like, with abundance of sea fowl."

There are no records that I know of which deal with definite religious ministrations to the people of Trinity till 1763. Then, in the register of Baptisms of St. Paul's Church, Trinity, the first entry is as follows: "September 7th, 1763: Baptised a child of Benjamin and Ann Tavernor, named Patience." This entry was made by James Clifford, Parish Clerk. (Judge Prowse says: "Up to 1703 there were no religious ministrations outside of St. John's.") Thus the names Clifford and Tavernor are the oldest in Trinity to-day, and the present Churches of Trinity, and the Tavernors of Trinity, are the lineal descendants of the same.

The name Tavernor is also perpetuated by the headland known as Tavernor's Point. This is one of the places that is now deserted, and a few potato patches mark the spot that once was the abode of several prosperous families. That curved part of the water front, too—with Tavernor's Point and Tibbs' Point as its extremities,—though still the abode of four families, has undergone a series of changes, and to-day it is but the ghost of its former self. This part of Trinity was and is known as "Around the Point." The Walters, the Crooks, the Tavernors, the Thornes, the Diddams, the Jeffries, and the Curtises have all passed away. Sammy Tibbs, and Jimmy Thorne, and Nannie Curtis, have left no successors in quaintness of character, other than in Pickwick Papers, and other of Dickens' Works. Descendants of some of those old families are filling honourable positions in St. John's, and other parts of the bigger world. They have no cause to be ashamed either of their parentage or their place of birth. When they come back some day to spend a week-end or a summer vacation, they will find us, in some respects neither better nor worse—but in many ways, decidedly different.

The following guests are registered at Garland Hotel: Mrs. Furlong, Robert Furlong, Marion Furlong, Joyce Furlong, of St. John's; Hon. D. Ryan, Mrs. Ryan, Marguerite Ryan; Arthur Boutilier, representing Acadia Engines; Thomas Jenkins, Mrs. Jenkins, Theo. Gardner, St. John's; Rev. George Maidment, Bonne Bay.

Mr. and Mrs. Hefferton and child, of St. John's, are spending a vacation with Mrs. Hefferton's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. DeGrish.

Mrs. (Capt.) Davidson left on Tuesday for St. John's, en route to Japan.

Mr. Walter Toope, of Ireland's Eye, who has been a transient citizen for some months, has bought the house and property of Thomas DeGrish, and has moved his family into it. He will now be a permanent citizen, and we welcome him as such.

Miss Jones, sister of Rev. Dr. Jones, of St. Thomas's Church, was passenger by s.s. Prospero from Pogo, and spent a few days in Trinity. Miss Jones has been engaged in Social Service Work for several years, and at present she is the Superintendent of an Institution for girls and young women in Providence, R.I. Those who had the privilege of meeting Miss Jones have recognized her strength of character and sanctified common sense.

To-day's Messages.

EXPORT ONLY BY PERMISSION.

OTTAWA, July 22.
The prohibition of export of coal from Atlantic, St. Lawrence River and Gulf Ports of Canada, except to United States of to Newfoundland, unless otherwise permitted, and in accordance with regulations to be promulgated by the Board, is provided for in a brief order of the Board issued late to-day. This order which is signed by Hon. F. B. Carvell, Chief Commissioner, will become effective on and after the first day of August. It was issued subsequent to the holding of a couple of private sittings of the Board, at which special consideration was given to matters arising out of a prospective fuel shortage in the light of information gained by Commissioners Carvell and McLean in their conference at Washington with members of United States Inter-State Commerce Board.

RUSSIA MUST BE GOOD.

MONTREAL, July 22.
The Montreal Star to-night published the following cable from London: "After weeks of conferences with Gregory Krassin, over Soviet Russia's proposals to grant concessions to the rest of the world, in return for the re-establishment of trade relations, after a bitter international debate, in which Great Britain's stand very nearly precipitated a break between herself and her ally, France, and after arriving at a point where an almost immediate resumption of commerce might have been expected, the deal is off. It was given out authoritatively to-day that all trade negotiations with Russia have been definitely ended for the present, and that Russia can look for no more conferences until she has absolutely put a stop to her army campaigns against Poland. Great Britain to-day sent a decisive, categorical message to the Moscow Government which left no room for evasion. It told the Russians simply but firmly that they need not send any more trade delegates to London with any expectations of a hearing. It expressed amazement at the continued offensive of the Soviet, and carried an unmistakable hint that Russia must give up her aggressiveness in exchange for equitable treatment from Great Britain."

GIN FOR ONTARIO.

MONTREAL, July 22.
S. S. Scandinavian, which arrived here to-day from Antwerp and Southampton, carried twenty-two thousand cases of gin for Montreal dealers, who intend shipping the bulk of it to Ontario.

THE PRINCE AS A RANCHER.

MONTREAL, July 22.
Live stock for the Prince of Wales' ranch in Alberta arrived in Montreal on S. S. Montcalm to-day at noon. The shipment consists of eight fillies, eleven Dartmoor ponies, eleven colts and two pens of Suffolk chickens. These animals and fowls are being shipped to the West to-night on a special car, in which running water and electricity have been installed. They are in charge of the foreman of the ranch. It is stated that a number of cows will be sent from England in October.

KING PRAISES FORESTERS.

LONDON, July 22.
King George received the members of the British Empire Forestry Association, including Messrs. Leavett, Granger and Bedard of Canada, and said in part, "During the war I came in contact with many Foresters from overseas, including the Canadian Forestry Corps, working in my Windsor woods. I know how valuable were the services they rendered to the Home country that it has been enabled thus early to join hands with the foresters of other parts of the Empire."

WILL IT LAST?

HONOLULU, July 22.
Negotiations have been completed between Japan and Asiatic Russia regarding the creation of a buffer state in Siberia, a government memorandum issued in Tokio to-day announced, according to Tokio cables received here. Asiatic Russia has agreed to procure peace, to maintain friendly relations with Japan and abolish communes, while Japan has agreed to withdraw her troops from the buffer territory and European Bolshevik armies are to be barred from this territory, the memorandum was quoted as saying.

KILLED BY LIGHTNING.

LITTLE NECK, N.Y., July 22.
A lightning bolt, which struck their home here during to-day, killed Jennie and Richard Stevenski, nine and two years of age respectively. The children were in the kitchen. Their mother, who was in another part of the house, was not injured.

RIOTS END IN BLOODSHED.

Lovers' Lot.

Do you like the idea of "cosy corners for caressing couples?" The rector of a church in New York has made his church very popular by offering the room behind it as a "lovers' loft."

Young couples who come to his church, and would like to have a chance to talk and hold each other's hands before or after the service, may retire to this room, and if they talk in undertones they won't be heard by any of the other couples in the room, because it is big and spacious, with sofas and palms and screens, which give the effect of seclusion.

FROM AN OLD FRIEND OF THE GAME.

Halifax, 16th July, 1920. Many thanks for your kindly remembrance in the shape of a Season Ticket to the Baseball games at St. John's, and I hope that before the end of the season I may have the opportunity of using it.

I am glad to note that the press is giving encouragement to the game by devoting considerable space to it and hope that the younger boys are becoming interested, as it is only through them that the game can hope to flourish.

I note there was a "tempest in the pot" and that the Umpires felt themselves ill-used by Harvey Thomas. I should have thought that our old friend the Umpire-in-Chief with his 7 years' experience behind him would not have taken the matter seriously; and taking into consideration the size of our friend H.T., would have been able to have looked over his head without realizing that he was there.

I would like you to puzzle over the following knotty problem turning over this letter and reading the answer:—

Base-runner on third starts for home, coacher running alongside him asks for a loan of $10.00. Umpire declares runner out. Why? Umpire declares runner out. Why? Umpire declares runner out. Why?

Answer:—Under the rules, if the base-runner from third is "touched" by the coacher, the Umpire may declare him out.

With best regards to all. Yours very truly, A MONTGOMERIE.

TO A FIVE SPOT.

Crinkle, crinkle, little bill, Goodness gracious, you look ill; Are you losing all your power! You look weaker every hour.

Now that prices are so high, I'm so tired that I could die; I just circulate all day, No one dares put me away.

When the evening board is set, With the fruit of father's sweat; My small voice is hushed and still— I am in the butcher's till.

And no matter where I go, People disregard me so; I don't seem to count for much, Amongst the profiteers and such.

Bill, take heart, your luck may change, I'll admit the times are strange; Though you're weak I love you still, Crinkle, crinkle, little bill.

LEAGUE FOOTBALL.—The football match last evening between the C.E.I. and Collegians was fairly well attended. A good exhibition was given, the C.E.I. defeating the Collegians by 3 goals to 1. Mr. Fred Brien acted as referee.

SATURDAY'S CUP RACES.

Time Limit Saved Shamrock--No Contest Decision.

Sandy Hook, July 18.—Yesterday's near race was run under conditions ideal in every particular except for absence of a stiff breeze.

A bright sun shone down on the glassy surface of the Atlantic from a sky almost devoid of clouds. The great armada of pleasure craft rode leisurely at rest, their brass work and varnish glistening in the sun and their flags and pennants flapping idly in the still air when the contenders came out from behind the Horseshoe at Sandy Hook for the start. A little fleet of airplanes and one lone, silver-sided navy blimp dived overhead. Shamrock—towed by a tug—led Resolute to the starting point at Ambrose channel lightship. So still was the air that Shamrock IV had to call on her tug for air an hour after she had been cast off, and a few minutes before noon, when the race was scheduled to start the committee ordered a postponement. At 1.20 a breeze came in from the southwest and the committee hoisted the preliminary signal and ordered a beat southwest against the wind for the first leg, a reach, west-by-south for the second, and a run home before the wind, northeast-one-half-east, for the finish.

Captain Adams, of Resolute, again appeared to have out-manoeuvred Captain William P. Burton, of Shamrock IV, in the manoeuvres at the start and got Resolute off in the coveted weather berth nine seconds ahead of the challenger. The defender began a steady gain on Shamrock IV almost immediately, as the two sloops headed out to sea on a long port tack.

Declared No Contest.

Resolute steadily outpointed Shamrock IV, edging into the wind while her rival fell further and further to leeward. When Resolute made her first tack to starboard, after traveling about nine miles, and Shamrock IV followed her around, it was seen that Resolute had gained an advantage of nearly a mile. Enthusiasm ran high among the thousands of spectators, crawling along behind the racers in craft of every size from tiny power boats to sea-going steam yachts and passenger steamers.

Shamrock spurred ahead then, and was almost up with Resolute as they neared the first stake. But Captain Burton was caught in a calm and was not able to round the bobbing buoy until thirty-six minutes later. By this time Resolute, heading directly into the sun, was so far away that she looked like a gaunt black spar, rising at a slight angle from the shimmering sea.

The spectator craft broke formation here, many of the boats putting on speed to overtake the scurrying Resolute, while a few lingered behind to watch Shamrock's effort to overcome the long lead.

Shamrock rewarded the lingerers by putting on more speed and cutting the lead down by about two miles. She was still far astern, however, when Resolute made the second stake, about five miles off Long Branch, N. J., and broke out her balloon jib for the run home.

But it had become obvious that she could not make the remaining ten miles within the allotted time, and the spectator craft, including the airplanes and blimp, began turning their noses homeward. A few minutes later, the committee boat hoisted the "no race" signal, and the yachts were taken in tow for the run back to the Hook.

Resolute Led From Start.

Resolute led from the start, just as she led on Thursday up to the time her accident put her out of commission in that race. Furthermore she held together, and it was the wind yesterday which cracked.

The wind was very light, but Resolute, as she did on Thursday soon began to beat to windward while Shamrock fell off. In half an hour it was clearly seen that the challenger was no match for the defender in going to windward in light air.

The first leg was very slow with Resolute drawing away constantly until a mile from the mark. Then the wind gave Shamrock a lift so that she drew up until she was only 100 yards to leeward of the defender. For a few minutes the race became exciting. In fact, it looked as if Shamrock might go through Resolute's weather. Then came a remarkable piece of wind chicanery. Both yachts tacked to starboard, three quarters of a mile from the mark, but although Shamrock was scarcely a biscuit toss away, it passed over her entirely, and left her practically becalmed. Resolute nearly fetched the mark on that starboard tack and wore round it with another short hitch going quite fast. A mile away Shamrock lay flapping helplessly in the long swell.

Five times Burton sought to coax the green yacht up to the mark and each time she shied like a horse at the hurdle. He tried her with three jibs and two headsails, but the fickle breeze and head tide drove her back each time. In the sixth try she reached it nearly half an hour after Resolute.

The Second Leg.

The second leg was planned to be a reach, but Resolute, cut ahead, found it a close fetch, and finally it turned into the second heat of the day. Resolute was the first to be headed off and soon started on a long beat up to the second mark. This shift with the lightening breeze settled the event for the day so far as the race was concerned, for there was no hope of a finish.

Far astern Shamrock with still a whiff of air from the southeast drew up until she was within two miles of Resolute where she too began tacking up the breeze.

The time limit expired at 7.45 day-light time, and at 7 o'clock Resolute reached the second mark with 10 miles to go in 45 minutes. She sailed for a few miles under balloon jib top-sail and then signalled for a tow line and started for her moorings in the Sandy Hook Horseshoe.

Shamrock reached the mark half an hour later and her tug immediately took her in tow.

The yachts will meet again on Tuesday over another triangular course.

At a meeting of the C. of E. Educational Committee held in the College Hall last night it was announced that during the past two days, subscriptions due from last year's drive had been collected to the amount of $3,869. A considerable amount especially from the outports is yet to come in and is expected within a few days. During the evening addresses were given by Rev. Canon Bolt, Hon. W. B. Grieve, and Mr. Brian Dunfield, the Hon. Secretary.

Eight Girls Burned to Death.

A terrible fire, involving the loss of eight lives, all girls, and severe injuries to many others, was brought about by quite a simple cause in the "Danger Zone" of the City of London, on the evening of July 23, 1912. One of the boys employed on the premises of a firm of Christmas card manufacturers in Moor Lane, was with another boy, packing up celluloid cards in paper packets, when some lighted sealing-wax fell on the paper. There was a flare, and the boy attempted to throw the parcel out of the window, but the heat was too great, and the parcel fell and ignited some more celluloid articles. The works were on the top floor, and the flames spread with amazing rapidity so that the girls found escape by the stairs impossible. Panic-stricken, a number fled to the roof, where they were confronted with the well formed by a block of buildings. The flames were gaining on them, and some, with their clothes ablaze, leaped wildly into the air and fell through the glass roof of the ground floor 60 feet below. The agonised watchers across the "well" thrust out a plank and two girls, badly injured, got across in safety, but the third, with all her clothes well alight, was too far gone when she set her foot on the plank, and dropped back into the flames behind her. In half an hour the whole shocking business was over, and the dead were being carried away in the canteen wagon. The firemen were by this time actually in the room where the fire had started.

Not Her Hubby.

A married couple were looking at a shop window. A handsome tailor-made dress took the lady's fancy, and she left her husband's side to examine it more closely. Then she went back to where he had been standing and took his arm.

"You never look at anything I want you to look at," she exclaimed. "I don't care how I dress. You don't love me now. Why, you haven't kissed me for three weeks."

"Indeed, I am sorry; it is not my fault but my misfortune," said the man.

Turning round she looked at him and gave a shriek. She had taken the arm of the wrong man!

With the Rod.

(Western Star.)

The Robinson party, two brothers, have been "having good fishing on Upper Humber."

H. R. Bristol caught his first salmon at Little Falls on the way up Upper Humber, on Wednesday.

Reports from the Codroy Valley state that salmon are appearing in the pools of Little River and prospects are bright for some good fishing.

Dr. Pratt, of Binghamton, N.Y., who was fishing on Upper Humber, caught several grilse and one 12 pound salmon. He returned home on Monday of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Northrop went to Serpentine River on Tuesday by the George L. via Brooms Bottom, in company with J. R. Whitaker, of the Grand Lake Bungalow. They expect to spend ten days on the trip.

H. G. Chestnut and son, and Mr. Hollowell, who were fishing at Hawke's Bay, came to Curling by the Diana. They went up the Humber yesterday. They report good sign of salmon in the rivers of Hawke's Bay, but the fish would not take the fly.

Dr. Clinton B. Parker, who was fishing at Big Falls, Upper Humber, came down on Thursday, after having some of the best fishing he had ever experienced. During the last four days the salmon was numerous and grilse became a nuisance. The last day he landed four grilse and a ten pound salmon. He caught in all forty-five fish, the heaviest being 45 pounds.

Obituary.

There passed peacefully away, on Tuesday morning, after a long illness, fortified by the rites of Holy Church, a respected resident of the Torbay Road in the person of Catherine O'Leary, relict of the late Peter O'Leary. Deceased who was a daughter of the late John and Mary Brennan, was in her 63rd year and is survived by one brother and three sisters and leaves three sons, Pat, Richard, and Philip, and three daughters, Margaret, married in Montreal, Kittie, of the Royal Stores, and Bilde, at home to mourn the loss of a kind and loving mother. Interment took place at Mt. Carmel Cemetery yesterday afternoon. May she rest in peace.

Glencoe's Passengers.

The following outward passengers left Placentia by the Glencoe: M. Hollett, Mrs. Sweden, W. C. Hunter, A. Redway, W. Duddy, T. Kavanagh, Rev. C. Howse, wife and six children, Mrs. Crow and child, M. Holwell, Mrs. C. Parsons and child, Mr. and Mrs. Keeping, Miss L. Parsons, Miss A. Raymond, B. Martin, A. C. Duley, A. Sellars, M. McGrath, W. J. Crumney, S. R. Munn.

A Few Dont's For New Coxswains.

Don't get excited at the stakes. Be in a Happy-Go-Lucky sort of way.

Don't hold the toggle rope in the left hand, if the tide is southerly. Hold in the right; always watch the wind for this.

Don't allow your crew to shift the oars when waiting for the start, if the judges tell you to go back or come ahead. Let No. 5 and No. 6 do it. Many a bad start was made by all oars dabbling.

Don't let go your fog line carelessly when the gun goes. Give it a flick from the boat, so as it won't get tangled in your yoke ropes and whip off your rudder. It could easily happen.

Don't shift about in your seat during a race; it may throw the stroke out and worse than all one may catch water. Very little action of the body will do this with the stroke.

Don't watch any boat but your own during a race. Many a good crew lost by a coxswain not observant and running too close on his buoy, and then having to cut east to make his turn, and of course a bad one and two lengths are lost easily.

Don't tell the bow side to pull when turning the buoy until you have your boat half turned with the rudder, and then lean up well on the stroke side to keep the boat on even keel.

Don't tell your crew to quicken the stroke after turning the buoy, even if they are behind. Make them open out long and hard, and you will do better.

Don't spur your men at the C.C.C. Boat House, if you have a hard race; do it just west of the Band Stand of the little point; six hard strokes there will give you a lead and do the trick.

Don't come ashore and boast of your victory and the crews you beat. They are all good men and contributed to the day's sport, and may have better luck the next time.

Brick's Tasteless makes you eat. Try a bottle and prove it for yourself.—apr28

Bedrooms & Beds
 There's nothing more important to the bedroom than the Bed itself, is there? From the point of usefulness or ornament it ranks first. Does your Bed suit your taste? Does it harmonize with your room? Does it give you the sleep-comfort you need? No? Well, then it's time to discard it and get another, quick.
 We are showing All-Brass, Brass and Enamel, and All-Enamel Beds in all sizes and very fine designs. Each and all of which Beds can be fitted with Springs and Wool or Felt Mattresses if desired.
