mighty God for the mercies He has been pleased to bestow upon this Colony during the past year, and to rejoice because of our National blessings;
AND WHEREAS Sunday, the Eleventh day of November, instant, being Armistice Day, would be an appropriate occasion for the said
Thanksgiving;
I do, therefore, by this my Proclamation, order and direct that Sunday, the Eleventh day of November, instant, shall be observed, throughout this Colony, as a Day of Thanksgiving, as aforesaid.
And I do further order and direct that Monday, the Twelfth day of November, instant, shall be set apart and observed, throughout the Colony, as a Day of Rest and a Public and Bank
Holiday, of which all persons concerned are hereby required to take due notice and govern themselves accordingly.
Given under my Hand and Seal at the Government House, St. John's, this 5th day of November, A.D.
1923.
By His Excellency's Command,
W. W. HALFYARD,
Colonial Secretary.

Under False Colors

OR

Lord Somerton's Ally.

CHAPTER XXVI

"I have heard it before," admitted Elsie, "and my surprise was caused by Miss Cleveland's relationship to you, Mr. Grant."

He smiled in a peculiar way, and suddenly adopted a businesslike tone. "Miss Sterne, I believe that I have your complaint already pretty well defined; but I warn you that I am powerless to help you, even if I desired to do so, without the complete accord of Lord Somerton."

"I do not wish to discuss Lord Somerton," Elsie replied, haughtily. "I have not come here with any such intention. I am here to learn as much as you are able to tell me about myself and my father. The papers he left for my perusal have been stolen, and I am led to believe that therein was some kind of a confession."

"Quite so," interrupted the lawyer, his eyelids fluttering slightly. "My dear young lady, what will it profit you to hear unpleasant truths? Why not be content?"

"Sir!" There was wrath in Elsie's voice, and in her eyes. "Do you not see that it is impossible for me to live under this cloud of horrible mystery? I ask for the truth, not for insinuations which only add to my doubt and grief?"

Mr. Grant drummed his fingers on the table, saying, sharply: "You shall not accuse me of making insinuations, and if the plain truth is unpalatable, I will not bear the blame."

He rose to his feet and paced the floor.

"Miss Sterne," he went on, after clearing his throat, "your conduct since Sir John left for India has in no wise recommended itself to me. You see, although Mr. Vallance reluctantly revealed certain things, he could not hide the fact that you were lost to all sense of decorum, and even common dignity, by making the lady

In whom your father had sufficient confidence to intrust her with the management of his household affairs, by making this lady appear ridiculous in the eyes of the servants. You openly flirted—"

"I will not listen to you, Mr. Grant," Elsie cried, her face deathly white. "You are cowardly and insulting! How dare you? How?"

She broke down, and choked back the rising sob.

Mr. Grant shrugged his shoulders and waved one of his long white hands.

"Pray do not become hysterical. I have no wish for my clerks to hear one word of this shameful business. You have forced me into plain speaking, and now that I have gone so far, nerve yourself to hear what has to be told to you—if not by me, by others who will have no consideration for your feelings whatever. I return to the point where you interrupted me, and repeat that it was improper to listen to the nonsense of Mr. Collin Ersacilffe, at least before the young man had been approved by your guardians—your friends. You are so young, so inexperienced, and know so little of life and its pitfalls that there is no great sin in being flattered by such a man as Collin Ersacilffe. He may have written his nonsense—"

"Mr. Grant, what do you know of Collin Ersacilffe?" demanded Elsie, with flaming eyes.

"What do I know of him?" he repeated with asperity. "I know that he has made a fool of himself, and of you! I know that Collin Ersacilffe is betrothed to my stepdaughter, Miss Adaline Cleveland, and that they are devotedly attached to each other. I also know that even if that were not the case, he is so far removed from you as the poles; there is that between you that would make you—even you—shrink from him in horror. He has acted meanly; he has acted in a cowardly manner toward you; but this could hardly have occurred had you not given him encouragement, had you not been flattered by words which you ought to have known were meaningless."

The sharp, incisive tones of the lawyer ceased for a minute, and he bent upon the shivering girl a penetrating glance. It seemed that his steely-blue eyes were like cold shafts in her heart, and she covered before the unmerciful lashing of his tongue.

"Was all this true? Could her here—could the king of her dreams—be but of the veriest clay? Then she recalled Collin's many strange speeches, and a dread chill struck through and through her heart.

"For the moment we will drop Mr. Ersacilffe," the lawyer went on, a little more gently. "I am sorry for you, deeply sorry. You are young, and impressionable. You are a spoiled child of fortune; and of all the sins that Sir John is guilty of, the greatest is the wrong that he has done to you, his only child."

"Kindly keep to the thread of your subject, sir," Elsie said, her face flushing with anger. "I will not hear one word against my father, and warn you that you will have to answer to him for all that you say to me."

Mr. Grant smiled pityingly.

"I do not think so," he replied; "I do not think so, Miss Sterne. Sir John is an outlaw, and will die abroad. He murdered his brother-in-law in cold blood more than twenty years since, in the presence of a man to whom he has regularly paid hush-money. He murdered Noel Campbell's father; and can you wonder that the young barister was determined to bring him to justice when he learned the facts of the case—through me? Sir John has gone to India to try and buy the denial of the man who saw him commit the crime; to close his lips at any cost; but he will fall, for James Castlemore is in England. He is here at my bidding—mine and that of Noel Campbell!"

Elsie made no sound, but the awful words rang in her ears like the knell of doom.

"Therefore, Sir John will never return. Even if his health improves, he dare not. He may content himself in a measure by being revenged upon Castlemore. The man was guilty of treasonable practices in India during the war. He sold men, munition and the lives of his countrymen to the native princes. He is unquestionably a great scoundrel, this Castlemore; but that does not lessen the awful nature of Sir John's crime. He became too confident in his own security—too confident in his power over Castlemore,

The Best Cough Syrup is Home-made.

Here's an easy way to save 25, and yet have the best cough remedy you ever tried.

You've probably heard of this well-known plan of making cough syrup at home. But have you ever used it? When you do, you will understand why thousands of families, the world over, feel that they could hardly keep house without it. It's simple and cheap, but the way it takes hold of a cough will quickly earn it a permanent place in your home.

Into a 16-oz. bottle, pour 3/4 ounce of Finex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill up the bottle. Or, if desired, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, never spoils, and gives you 16 ounces of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for $2.50.

It is a really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy conquers a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every air passage, loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough, breaks the mucus, breaks the membranes, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat ticks, looseness of throat, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.

Finex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations for throat and chest ailments. To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Finex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Finex Co., Toronto, Ont.

and paid no attention to the man's increasing demands. His secret was then sold to your cousin, sold for a much higher sum than your father would pay for it to remain a secret. The result is, his ruin and your disgrace."

She did not speak, and he looked at her half-pityingly. She crouched back in her chair, white and helpless, shocked by the magnitude of the blow.

"Miss Sterne," said the lawyer, presently, "this has been to me the most unpleasant duty, and at such a time I deeply regret that you should have alienated the affections of your best friends. I mean Lady Helena Freeman and the poor, dead rector, Mr. Vallance. It was the burden of this secret that helped to bring upon him the nervous prostration that ended in his death. Even in the midst of this trouble you have one friend—one whose ambition it is to be more than friend—you have one to whom you may turn with all confidence, for advice; I refer to Lord Somerton. Looking at the matter dispassionately, it is marvelous that a man so high in the social circle should still be willing to marry you, and only proves how much he cares for you—how sincere is the love that he offers to you."

The Life of a Home

A healthy, happy, contented wife is the life and joy of the home and the greatest inspiration a man can have, yet how many homes in America are brighted by the ill-health and sufferings of the wife and mother. It may be headache, headaches, the tortures of a displacement or some other ailment peculiar to her sex, which makes her irritable, despondent, and her whole life a burden. Every woman in this condition should rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made from roots and herbs to restore her to health and happiness, for statistics prove that it benefits 98 out of every 100 women who try it.

Italy's Recovery Due to Mussolini

Leader is Described as Outstanding Man in Europe To-day.

Mussolini is the outstanding man in Europe to-day, and one of the greatest men Italy ever produced. This is the contention of the people of Italy who have lifted him above the crowds and made him the standard bearer of their country, according to John M. Di Silvestro, Grand Master of the Old Sons of Italy, an Italian organization on this continent with over 300,000 members and 1,400 lodges.

Mr. Silvestro, who is a member of the Philadelphia Bar, is in Montreal to open a new lodge here. He spoke of conditions in Italy and the progress of the movement of which he is the head in this country.

Country's Recovery.

Regarding Italy, he said, it was the first country in Europe to-day. No other came out of the war and made such steps of recovery as did Italy. He attributed this remarkable development in the life of the nation to the extraordinary foresight and ability of Mussolini and the Fascism.

"The Fascists is no danger to Europe. Instead of being a weakness or threatening movement, it is Europe's bulwark. It is anti-Bolshevik. Its spirit can be adopted by every country with civilized ideals in the world. It can be adopted by the United States and by Canada."

Mr. Silvestro knows Mussolini. He met him during his recent visit to Italy. He compared this stalwart son of the hills to Riazant, the famous Roman tribune, immortalized by Bulwer Lytton in his famous novel. Both Riazant and Mussolini were inspired by the perilous condition of their country; both cherished the hopes of restoring the ancient and magnificent glories of Rome—Mussolini in a modern progressive age—a bloodless revolution. Riazant preached a great crusade against the Bolshevists and intrigues politicians of his time. Both succeeded well, Riazant six centuries ago, Mussolini to-day.

Realist Bolshevism.

Regarding Mussolini and his party he said: "He was the only man in Europe who stood up against the dangers of Bolshevism." He adhered to the law of God and the law of civilization while the others were anti-Catholic. He respects all religions. He has improved Italy's relations with the Vatican, and in the recent political revolution in his country he did the only thing that could be done, as to Greece and the recent trouble he upheld the honor of Italy—and her

German Chides Entente in Preface of Dictionary

Leipzig, Nov. 2.—Germany never ceases to disclaim loudly all responsibility for the beginning of the great war. In the theatre, in the pulpit, in the press and in the political forum Germany proclaims her innocence with an insistence which never seems to wane.

Foreigners are much impressed by the unanimity with which Germans of all classes take the same text and preach the same homily. The arguments bob up in most unexpected connections. But it remained for F. W. Eitner, the editor of a new commercial English-German dictionary which has just been issued in Leipzig, to find the most unique medium for a lecture to members of the Entente. The preface to this book, designed primarily for sale to English-speaking persons, opens:

"As long as the statesmen of the Entente pretend to believe in Germany's 'guilt,' they are not likely to consider a revision of the Versailles Treaty (if treaty it may be called); and as long as this dictate—the most cruel, cowardly, and silly crime ever perpetrated—is not revised, all talk about, and thought of reconstruction, normal business relations, and all that sort of thing, is of course, so much nonsense. No fear Americans will ever rescind their word of honor pledged by President Wilson; but some day or other and somehow or other, there will be a revision (no man in his senses can doubt it), and Germany, once more, will come to the fore. Until then honest business men will have to muddle on, I suppose, doing 'business as usual.'"

Weather Service to be Extended

BRITISH AND U.S. BUREAUS WILL CO-OPERATE IN FORECASTS.

Washington, Oct. 9.—Arrangements are being perfected through an agreement between the U.S. Weather Bureau and the British meteorological service, by which weather forecasts for the western part of the North Atlantic ocean will shortly be possible. Weather observations now taken on British ships in the eastern Atlantic are to be forwarded by radio daily to the central office of the Weather Bureau here and used in connection with those already received from American vessels in range of American shore stations. Reports received by the French meteorological service from vessels at sea are already radioted to Washington every night from the Eiffel Tower.

For a number of years, weather observations from a number of selected American stations have been cabled nightly to the French meteorological office. These are now being sent from the Navy Radio Station at Annapolis and under the terms of the arrangement with the British authorities will include observations picked up from British ships near the American coast. Reports so received in Paris are broadcasted from there for all European meteorological services.

Forecasts for ships sailing out of North Atlantic ports on the usual overseas routes have been made for a number of years for as far as the Grand Banks. Under the new arrangement it is expected soon to be possible to publish daily forecasts for the whole North Atlantic west of longitude 60, including the steamer

HINGES ON FRANCE.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 6. Availability of United States cooperation in the European crisis apparently hinged to-night upon detailed explanations of the Poincare restrictions on proposed expert inquiry into the reparations tangle. Up to this, it was learned authoritatively, the Washington Government has not been able to find out exactly what the French Premier had in mind in proposing to confine the inquiry to Germany's "present" capacity to make reparations payments.

FRENCH EXPLANATION FORTHWARD.
PARIS, Nov. 6. The French Foreign Office this evening sent Washington a long cablegram which fully outlined the French viewpoint which has already been given to Secretary of State Hughes on the reparations problem.

BELGIUM NOT LOST HOPE.
BRUSSELS, Nov. 6. A semi-official denial was issued this evening of a rupture between the French and Belgian governments over the appointments of the proposed Experts Commission on German reparations and Rhineland Republic. Further, it was declared, there was no question of agreement between Great Britain, Italy and Belgium, but "there exists upon the question of the meeting of an Experts Commission a similarity of opinion between the three governments, and it is of capital importance for Europe to have the United States participate in a solution of the reparations problem."

OVER FORTY DEAD IN MINING DISASTER.
CHARLESTON, W. Virginia, Nov. 6. Twelve bodies have been taken from the shaft of the Raleigh Wyoming Coal Company at Glen Rogers, Wyoming County, where an explosion occurred this morning, and little hope with but it is admitted in Brussels that the question now lies between Washington and Paris.

THOUSAND SHOPS WRECKED IN BERLIN.
BERLIN, Nov. 6. In food riots in several sections of Berlin more than a thousand shops have been wrecked and pillaged and more than a hundred persons injured by sabre cuts. One man died of wounds. Owing to the anti-semitic character of the riots, the police forbade a proposed meeting of anti-Jewish organizations to-night. The activity of the police to-day prevented excesses attaining the scale of yesterday, but this evening again the city was given over to unruly elements. Looting of shops was proceeding in all parts of Berlin without serious clashes with the police.

ROME, Nov. 6. Sir Eric Drummond, Secretary-General of the League of Nations, who was received yesterday by Premier Mussolini, said to-day to representatives of the Italian foreign

NEW LIQUOR LAW FOR ALBERTA IN DECEMBER.
EDMONTON, Alta., Nov. 5. It is expected that the Government will decide upon a December session of the Legislature to deal with the problem of enacting a law to regulate the Government control of the sale of liquor in accordance with the verdict of the people in yesterday's referendum.

SAYS ONTARIO WOULD VOTE THE SAME WAY.
TORONTO, Nov. 6. It shows that the West is now thinking sanely on the liquor question, and if Ontario gets a chance it will do the same by a greater proportional majority, declared J. A. McCausland, M.L.A., a prominent advocate of Government control to-day, discussing the result of the Alberta referendum.

SASKATCHEWAN NEXT.
REGINA, Nov. 6. A petition asking for a referendum on the liquor question as it affects Saskatchewan, will be presented to the Government early next week, it was announced to-day by officials of the Saskatchewan Moderation League. According to the same source the petition will carry approximately eighty thousand signatures.

MONTREAL, Nov. 5. Nitro glycerine used by bandits against the safes in the offices of Charles Clear Company, wholesale grocers, and the Italian Consulate in the same building, resulted in a fire that chased the miscreants away empty handed and gutted the building causing two hundred thousand dollars damage. Two firemen were injured while fighting the blaze.

DARING ROBBERS.
SPENCER, Ind., Nov. 5. A band of robbers isolated this town early to-day by cutting all telegraphic and telephone communication, then robbed two banks and escaped in four automobiles. They are thought to have taken away fifteen thousand dollars.

An Interesting Fact.

An honest and thorough test was made in Canada to prove that RAMSAY'S PINNACLE WHITE was superior to Pure White Lead.
A mixture of 100 lbs. of RAMSAY'S PINNACLE WHITE and 5 gallons of Boiled Linseed Oil was matched against a mixture of 100 lbs. of Pure White Lead and 4 gallons Boiled Linseed Oil.
NOTE:—RAMSAY'S PINNACLE WHITE stood 1 gallon more Linseed Oil, therefore more economical for painting.
A wood surface was painted with a heavy black line in the centre, then two coats of RAMSAY'S PINNACLE WHITE was applied, the black line was completely hidden.
A like wood surface and black line was covered with four coats of the Pure White Lead, and the black line was still noticeable.
NOTE:—RAMSAY'S PINNACLE WHITE only took two coats to hide the black line, the same amount of paint in each case was used.
THE RESULT:—RAMSAY'S PINNACLE WHITE is superior to Pure White Lead because it takes 25 p.c. more oil and spreads with a greater hiding power a much larger surface, it stays white much longer.
There is nothing better made for painting Churches, Schools, Houses, etc.

DELIGHTFUL AND ELUSIVE.

The odor of Three Flowers found in this Face Powder has been called delightful and elusive. No face powder can charm the fastidious woman like Three Flowers. It is prepared of the finest materials and is sufficiently fine to adhere to the skin. The correct shade you wish can be obtained, and you will surely love to use this delicately prepared toilet preparation.

In Autumn your face needs particular care and in no surer manner can you take care of your face than by using Three Flowers Face Powder every day. At

O'MARA'S DRUG STORES.

Almost all the things have the trimmings placed at the back. A scalloped gown of brocade is trimmed with beaded ribbon. The checker necktie is not becoming to the very round face. The charming versions of the fur coats are being shown.

C. L. B. Cadets

Avon Battalion of the 1st Nfld. Regiment Church Lads' Brigade Cadets last night was again making history. It was the occasion of the visit to headquarters of the "Brigade grand old gentleman" Sir Joseph Outerbridge, to present his fourth Outerbridge Shield, as a prize for section competition for character, discipline and drill. Sir Joseph was accompanied by Lady Outerbridge, Major Leonard Outerbridge, D.S.O., formerly of the C.E.F., and Mrs. Outerbridge. Our distinguished guests were received by His Lordship, Rt. Rev. Bishop White, Regimental Chaplain, and Lt. Col. Walter Rendell, C.B.S., Officer Commanding, and Rev. J. Brinton, Battalion Chaplain. The Battalion paraded at 7.45 p.m. Prayers were read as usual, the Battalion Chaplain officiating. The Battalion was drawn up in column of Companies for inspection. The Lieut.-Colonel commanding then invited Lt. Col. Outerbridge to inspect the Regiment. A Company, under Acting Capt. Hayward, F Company under Capt. P. B. Rendell; C. Company under Captain House and K. Company under Rev. and Captain Pike. The recruits under Corporal House; Brass Band under Capt. A. Morris; and Quartermaster's Department under Lieut. Moty. The various officers were introduced to Sir Joseph as well as the youngest V.C. in the Empire's Army Sergeant Thos. Ricketta, V.C., to whom Sir Joseph gave a very hearty welcome with both hands. Many of the bandmen are still on duty who served under the Brigade's first Colonel, and who were delighted beyond measure to greet their "Old Chief." After the inspection Major H. A. Outerbridge, M.B.E., second in command, took command of the Battalion, and put them through rifle exercises.

Capt. Len Stick then took over the command, and put the Cadets through the physical drill with arms, accompanied by the Band. All ranks acquitted themselves well, though many were just emerging from the recruit stage. Afterwards the Company Commanders drilled their Companies, doing independent marching. Then came the event of the evening. The Regiment was drawn up in three sides of a hollow square. A table in the center, draped with the Brigade colors, "Yellow and Blue" contained the three previous shields given to the Brigade by Lt. Col. Outerbridge: the first bearing the date of January 1901, and on that shield, engraved on the miniature, is the name of Lance Corporal Walter Rendell, Section No. 1 C. Company, who in 1905 was one of the crackerjack N.C.O.'s of his day, when he led his section to victory—as he did the troops afterwards in Gallipoli and in France for his King. He now leads the C.L.B. Cadets as their Lieut.-Col. with 100 p.c. efficiency. A good example for all ranks to follow. Like boy, like man. Col. Rendell then asked Sir Joseph Outerbridge to present the Shield and to say a few words to the lads of his old Regiment. Sir Joseph addressed the Battalion in that delightful manner of speaking, for which he is famous. He said that over twenty-two years ago, making the presentation of his first shield, he had no idea that he would live to be spared to see three shields own out, and to present a fourth. He was always interested in the Brigade work, for it is one of the most useful organizations in Newfoundland, creating a healthy atmosphere, encouraging good citizenship and training boys in honesty, industry, and discipline. After he finished the Brigade tendered him an ovation and three hearty cheers. Lieut.-Col. Walter F. Rendell made an excellent address in reply to the Brigade's first Colonel, and thanked him on behalf of all ranks for his interest in the Regiment over so many years, his financial support and personal interest always in the welfare of the C.L.B. The General Salute being given, the ceremony was over. Long live our old Colonel, is the sincerest wish of all ranks at Headquarters. He leaves Nov. 10th with Lady Outerbridge for Bermuda.

The Officers' Card Party, Oct. 29th, was a great success, thanks to Capt. Stick, and the entrance fees netted nearly eighty dollars. The officers were glad to welcome the members of the C.E.I. and sister services and, hope they will come again as guests of the Mess another time.

The Ladies' Auxiliary met Monday afternoon in the gymnasium. Lieut. Col. Walter Rendell was present and expressed his appreciation of the help given during the year. Mrs. Tasker Cook, wife of His Honor the Mayor of St. John's, Hon. Tasker Cook, was unanimously elected President. Mrs. W. H. Hynes is the new Secretary-Treasurer. The ladies arranged to cater for the Annual "At Home" in the Grand Hall on next Thursday night, when a concert with refreshments, supper and dance will be held. Next Sunday, Nov. 11th, is St. Mary's Day, and the Brigade Birthday; services will be at St. Mary's at 8 a.m. and 2.30 p.m.

All ranks were glad to see many visitors to the Armoury last night to see the ceremony of the presentation of the Shield. They noticed among others Mr. James J. Maher, the Chairman of the Catholic Cadet Committee; Mr. and Mrs. Will Canning; and Mr. L. J. Samson of Fild College; Messrs. E. M. LeMessurier, Thomas Hayward. The Brigade is always glad to welcome visitors and friends, to see the boys at work.

A Lively Show at the Crescent.

James Bradshaw Recites "Flanders Field."
This is being conducted in appropriation to Remembrance Day which will be celebrated on Sunday next. Don't miss this extra item at the Crescent to-night.

The daring plot of a beautiful young actress to prove to a doubtful play-writer that she can act is the theme of "The First Woman," in which Mildred Harris, free from her triumphs in recent stupendous productions wins new honors at the Crescent Theatre where this lightning fast picture is entertaining capacity audiences at every showing. An original twist that is a positive surprise finish that is a positive wallop. Supporting Miss Harris, who gives a brilliant performance as the famous young star of the New York stage, is Percy Marmont and a splendid cast. "The First Woman" is a story of stage folk with all the glitter and glamour of the gay set that keeps life moving on Broadway. "The Copper Beeches," one of the famous tales of Sherlock Holmes was also screened last night. This week's story is even more interesting than the preceding ones.

Robert Shields, English Baritone continues to please his audience by his masterful renditions of popular and classy numbers.
On Friday night another big Amateur Contest will be staged when some new contestants will make their appearance. Already quite a number of names have been handed in, but there is still room for a few more.

Hundreds of Gem smokers have said to us, from time to time—"Why don't you pack Gems like your other cigarettes?"

To meet the wish of the many Gem Smokers we shall from now on pack Gems, wrapped in tissue, lined foil, in the regular "Slide and Shell" package. This will insure the cigarettes retaining their shape and freshness at all times, and will also prevent them becoming loose in the pocket.

We can't make the cigarettes any better, it's impossible, so we have made a BETTER PACKAGE for the best cigarettes. Positively none better—Yes—and now we're DOUBLY positive there are none better.

Ask for Gems in the new package.

Complete Change of Programme at Star Movie To-Day

The popular Star has for to-night a complete change of program—this theatre always catering to their patrons, change three times weekly—and in it handsome Bryant Washburn will be featured in a story of most unusual heart interest, each situation being filled with interest from beginning to end. This picture is entitled "The Amateur Devil" and is produced in six parts, whilst the semi-final episode of that exciting serial "The Oregon Trail" will be screened. To-night, Mr. Tesori will sing "Because" and Fawcette will be seen in the blue and gray doll dance. As will be seen from the ad., those two talented artists will on Friday night treat the theatrical going people as well as all lovers of the trapshoot art, to a ball room exhibition of fox trotting. For this Miss Fawcette will select the music to which she and Professor Rivers danced in New York City last year, at the National Teachers Association of America, and for which she was awarded first prize. Professor Rivers was the originator of all the steps, naturally, selected the best dancing partner he could obtain, and this was our Fawcette. This will, no doubt, prove the biggest hit of her engagement, and no doubt all lovers of dancing will, without fail, attend, as it will give them the opportunity of learning the latest in this delightful exercise and art.

Remember the night—Friday next. It is unnecessary to say the place—the popular Star of course—where the week-end's big show is at every Friday and Saturday, and the admission is only 20 cents.

Miss Fraser Recites at Nickel To-Night

In conjunction with the annual Poppy Day, arrangements have been made by Miss Kathleen Fraser will recite to-night the poem "In Flanders Fields the Poppies Grow." Miss Fraser is a well known local elocutionist and her work in the various local theatricals have made a name for her as an accomplished actress. Miss Fraser is ever ready to help out a worthy cause, and what could be more worthy than that of the Great War Veterans Association of Nfld. Do not fail to hear this rare treat at the Nickel Theatre to-night.

Apart from this you will be able to see the greatest of all productions namely "Quincy Adams Sawyer." This picture is one of unusualness from a motion picture standpoint as it contains all the elements that make it a super-production.

To-morrow there will be an entire change of programme consisting of a great Metro picture featuring Alice Lake in "Over the Wire," and Charlie Chaplin the prince of comedians in "His New Job."

A quantity of ermine trimming is used on coats, suits and hats.

Constipation Banished

A druggist says: "For nearly thirty years I have recommended the Extract of Roots, known as Kather Seigel's Curative Syrup, for eradicating and permanently relieving constipation and indigestion. It is an old reliable remedy that never fails to do the work." 30 drops thrice daily. Get the Genuine. 50c. and $1.00 bottles.

Wedding Bells.

On Oct. 29th, at St. Joseph's Parish, by the Rev. Fr. Pippy, Mamie, the youngest daughter of Mary and the late Wm. Weil, was united in holy bonds of matrimony to Richard Pittman. The bride, who looked charming, wore a fawn costume with hat to match and was attended by Mrs. Edward Kennedy, who also looked charming in a navy costume with fox fur and hat to match, while Mr. Edward Kennedy ably supported the groom. After the ceremony the happy couple motored to the home of the bride's parents, Quill Vid, where a sumptuous supper was partaken of, only the immediate friends of the bride and groom being present. Their many friends wish them joy and happiness and long years of wedded bliss.

A Poor Return

Louisville Courier-Journal:—England, the only country to refund its debt, now feels the burden of the huge instalments. Unemployment is widespread. The pinch of diminished industry is felt everywhere on the British Isles. Though the pound sterling has been stabilised, the important markets of Russia and Germany are closed to English goods or open only to a doubtful credit basis. Instead of reciprocity to the first nation to arrange the payment of its war debts, the United States erected a tariff wall to counter further the marketing of English goods.

Mount Cashel Band a Good Attraction

AT THE MAJESTIC THEATRE LAST NIGHT.
The talented group of youthful musicians known as the Mount Cashel Band, under the direction of A. R. Bulley, were again present at the Majestic last night and their music was a source of pleasure to their hearers. During the selections the boys sang several choruses and their splendid voices blended with perfect harmony. It is the intention of the management to have them play for the balance of the week.

"The children coming home from school. Locked in at the open door." Among the most beautiful scenes in the latest William Fox production, "The Village Blacksmith," based on Longfellow's immortal poem, are the ones which are illustrative of the above lines of the famous poet's song. If isn't a far cry to the days of our boyhood and girlhood. Some can easily remember the days when we, too, stopped at the door of the blacksmith shop and watched the smithy at work. How we were fascinated by the sparks which flew from the anvil as the blacksmith struck blow after blow upon the white hot iron! Those were the priceless days of our childhood days.

Protection or Free Trade?

Premier Baldwin by his recent speeches has shown a tendency to lean towards protection, and he has gone so far as to give to the Dominions a preferential tariff on a limited number of their products. In England the suggestion of protection is the signal for the establishment of two opposing camps. Britain's supremacy as a manufacturing country has been built up on a policy of Free Trade, and the "Free Breakfast Table" cry has always succeeded in rallying the people to its advocates. America on the other hand attributes her commercial success and the prosperity of her people to the tariff wall which she has erected.

The views expressed on the subject by the Morning Post are as follows:

"Almost all our industries are reduced to such a state that they are inclined to welcome Protection as the only hope of salvation. Many of them are clamoring not merely for a reasonable tariff, but for prohibition, and no nonsense about it. Agriculture is only a little more hard hit than the rest of our industries. We are fallen into such an emergency that an all-round protective system would be welcomed by most if not all of the solid interests of the country, and by the mass of the population which lives by those interests. If our statement were to adopt such a system they could so adjust its incidence as to give substantial Preference to all our Dominions."

On the other hand the Daily Mirror considers that the party rash enough to introduce such a policy in an election campaign would commit political suicide. It says: "No policy that may raise the price of food in this country has the faintest chance of getting applied here. We hope the Government are in no doubt about the reception such a policy would get. Our industries are in a state of such a panic that they would welcome any such measure. Recent rumours about taxes on wheat and meat, as a form of Imperial Preference, have already caused an outcry that Downing-street, the Imperial Conference and our agents from overseas will do well to ponder. This protest will show that all food-taxing plans are politically impossible, as well as socially undesirable. Duties on primary foodstuffs would not be tolerated by our people at any time—less than ever at this time, when the allotment of the weekly budget is a daily and hourly anxiety in thousands of hard-working homes. Any Government contending with a preferential scheme involving higher food prices would get voters at the next election."

Typically English

For some unaccountable reason the authorities in London decided that this year the Service at the Cenotaph on Armistice Day should not be held. At once popular indignation was aroused and strong objection taken to the proposal to hold the service in the Abbey instead. The Cabinet in consequence of the widespread and outspoken disapproval of their plans capitulated, the service will take place as usual, and the English public are happy.

The attitude of the people over this incident is typical of the Britisher. He is the most law abiding citizen in the world; he has the greatest regard for authority; he respects private rights; he will fight if need be against the greatest odds and under any conditions; he may grumble perhaps, under a gradually increasing burden of taxation, and he will grimly carry on. But let a Government interfere with what he considers are his privileges, or trespass upon his time honoured traditions, and at once his submissiveness is gone and he is fully aroused. Then woe betide the Government or any other authority that tries to override his wishes!

There is something very estimable in this display of public spirit. It makes faddist legislation impossible, it keeps public opinion paramount, and it springs from their inherent love of sport. "Play the game" is the golden rule, and they insist that it shall govern their actions in everything.

Greetings to Mr. Lloyd George

The following message was sent by his Excellency the Governor November 5th:—

"To Lloyd George, R.M.S. 'Majestic' My Ministers and people of Newfoundland desire me to convey to you best wishes and appreciation of our services to the Empire. ALLARDYCE, Government House, St. John's, Nfld."

The following message has been received by his Excellency the Governor:—

"To Governor Allardyce, St. John's, Nfld., Radio from S.S. 'Majestic' via Louisburg. Nov. 6th, 1923.

Thanks for message of good wishes and appreciation from Ministers and people of Newfoundland. In passing their great Island am thinking with glow of pride as citizens of the Empire of noble Newfoundland's contribution to sacrifice and triumph in world war.

(Sgd.) LLOYD GEORGE."

EX-SERVICE MEN PERFORM MERITORIOUS WORK.

A remark that is frequently heard is that very little is known about the ex-Service man who is unemployed with the attendant hardship. The answer to this query is found in the report of the G.W.V.A. Relief Fund Committee, which Committee has been functioning for the past three years assisting ex-Service men, widows, orphans and dependents with the whole within the greatest discretion. This was made possible by the color of the aggregates used. The finish of the front of the building is unlike that of any other in the city.

Teddy Meany, the boy wonder, will recite "In Flanders' Fields."

The Thanksgiving Proclamation

In connection with the Proclamation issued by His Excellency the Governor and published in to-day's papers we understand that the Heads of the Churches, the Board of Trade and the Importers' Association were all consulted regarding a National Thanksgiving Day. Some Church authorities pointed out that the element of Thanksgiving to God did not have a very large place in the observance of such days. It was accordingly arranged that the Sunday nearest Armistice Day would be observed in respect of the Thanksgiving Services, while the following Monday would be the holiday for rejoicing. The Church authorities gave their approval of this plan provided that all were agreed so that it should be a National Thanksgiving Day.

The National Memorial

Messrs Pearce and Churchill, contractors putting in the base of the National Memorial, are making great headway with the work. The concrete foundations to ground level have been laid and yesterday work on the superstructure was begun. The plans for the pedestal arrived by the Sackem but the work of laying the concrete core of the monument will not be started until next spring.

Pupils Will Hold Dance

Arrangements are being made by the students of Bishop Feild College and their friends to hold a dance in Spencer College Hall on Monday evening, Nov. 12th. The proceeds will be devoted to the fund to provide a Recreation Ground for the College. A big rally is anticipated and provision is being made accordingly.

Trepassey Train Delayed

Grand Jury Summoned

The grand jury has been summoned to appear at to-morrow's sitting of the Supreme Court. The jury will probably consider the two bills of indictment for murder the one in which Anthony Hawco of Harbor Main is charged and the other in that of Laura Fyde of Carbonear. Should the trial in these cases be found the trials will begin during the criminal term which starts Nov. 15th. Amongst the cases to come up this term is one in reference to a man named Rice of Twillingate, who is charged under the offences against the Person's Act. A principal crown witness in this case is the man's daughter.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

DOMINION PREMIERS CONSIDER IMPERIAL FEDERATION IMPOSSIBLE.

LONDON, Nov. 7. Discussing Imperial relations Premier W. L. Mackenzie King told a distinguished gathering at dinner last night given by the Overseas League in honor of the Dominion Premiers that in process of time with the elimination of distances, the elected representatives of all the people of the Empire might be seen in the Empire's capital, but Imperial federation was not within the scope of practical politics. In Mr. King's opinion the most enduring system of Imperial relations was that of community of free nations with full rights and privileges. Premier Bruce of Australia agreed with Mr. King. He thought the Imperial federation idea had died long ago.

TWENTY-SEVEN DEAD IN WYOMING MINE.

GLEN ROGERS, West Virginia, Nov. 6. The little mining camp of Glen Rogers sorrows over the deaths yesterday of twenty-seven of its citizens, victims of the gas explosion in one entry of the Raleigh Wyoming Coal Co. Mine.

U.S. ELECTIONS DO NOT ALTER RELATIONS OF PARTIES.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6. Yesterday's elections throughout the United States gave little indication of any departure from the regular party alignments. There were few issues bearing on the next Presidential campaign and in few instances was voting followed by more than State-wide interest only. An election to fill the vacancy in the Federal Senate occurred in Vermont where Peter H. Dale, Republican, gained a seat by an overwhelming majority. In the Congressional election in this State a Republican was returned. Vermont is traditionally Republican. In the Congressional elections in New York State the four seats contested divided, Republicans two, Democrats two. In New York State the fight centered about the Democratic attempt to gain control of the Assembly will retain its Republican complexion.

Dive to Death

FAMOUS GLIDER'S FATE—HORRIFIED CROWDS.

(Glasgow Weekly Herald, Oct. 20.) The successful light-powered aeroplane competitions, which were being held all last week at Lympne, were marred on Saturday, the last day of the meeting, by a tragedy that horrified the great watching crowd. M. Maneyrol, the daring French pilot, was descending perfectly from a great height. The graceful operation delighted the thousands of spectators. Admiration, however, was speedily changed to amazement, and then to horror. For the tiny plane had dropped to within 100 feet from the ground when both wings flew up, broken and crumpled, and the machine dived nose first into the ground. For a moment the crowd was struck dumb with horror. Then a dash was made to the wreckage. The pilot was found to be just alive, and he died in a few minutes.

SELECT COMMITTEE MEETING.

The Select Committee in connection with the West Indies Service Bill met yesterday afternoon. Messrs. Eric Bowring and A. B. Hickman were present and submitted their views on the matter.

SEBASTAPOL FOR LABRADOR.

S.E. Sebastopol is taking freight at Bowring's Bros premises to-day for points as far as Cook's Bay. The Sebastopol replaces the Benet this trip and is expected to get away some time to-morrow.

NO BAIT OBTAINABLE.

Owing to bait being unobtainable the fishery in Ferrysland District has been abandoned for the season. The fishery was abandoned to Caplin Bay, inceptively amounts to 9,005 qtls. Some codfish is still to be had on the grounds.

TRAIN NOTES.

Tuesday's west bound express arrived at Bishop's Falls on time. There is no report of the express leaving Port aux Basques on account wire trouble. The Carbonear train arrived on time. The Trepassey train went out at 11.30.

Report of Proceedings of the Juvenile Court

The report of the proceedings of the Juvenile Court for the past 18 months having been forwarded to the Hon. Geo. Shea, Acting Prime Minister for presentation before the Governor in Council. We have secured a copy for publication, but for obvious reasons have omitted details. The information is therefore given from the report of the Probation Officer which is as follows:—

St. John's, July 28th, 1923.
To His Honor Judge Morris.

Sir,—I respectfully report for your information the number of Juvenile offenders brought and tried before the Juvenile Court from July 1922 to this date, being one hundred and seventy-nine. I attach hereto to the name and age of each offender and the offence charged, the number of convictions and the finding of the Court in each case.

In addition to those offenders brought and tried before the Juvenile Court, I respectfully state that 147 offenders were reported to me and acting on your instructions, I have visited and relieved in different ways some two hundred and four children under sixteen years of age. Some fifty-four of these have been relieved by getting after their fathers and making them go to work and seeing that they spend their wages in getting food for their children; fourteen of the fathers have been summoned before Court for not supporting their children. Two children have been sent to hospital for treatment and two sent to the orphanage. One child, who was adopted in the city, was sent back to his parents in Trinity Bay owing to ill-treatment. A girl of twelve years of age, whose mother is dead, was given in care of her aunt and her father to sign bonds for her support. The remaining are children whose fathers are sick and unable to work and orphaned, and in each case I have helped them with food and coal, which I have secured from different sources, principally the Commissioner of Public Charities. Also two girls, soon to become mothers and who have no friends to help them, have been sent to the Rescue Home on Cook Street.

I have the honour to be, Sir,
Your obedient servant,
(Sgd.) STEPHEN NOSEWORTHY,
Probation Officer.

The following is the reply of the Rev. Canon Bolt, President of the Social Service Council:—
Diocesan Synod of Newfoundland,
St. John's, Nfld., July 30th., 1923.

Dear Judge Morris,—Thank you for your letter of the 28th inst., and for the accompanying Report of the Probation Officer for the past year, both of which communications I have read with much interest.

It would appear from the report that of the cases reported about 68% are for the first offence, 74% for the second and 17% are cases where the offenders have been before Court from three to eleven times. In this third class 15%, two boys have been up, in the one case eight times for "larceny," which if not checked in young children will undoubtedly grow to large proportions. As regards "skating and skating," of which there are twenty-two cases, I should be inclined to regard these as venial offences as compared with the other charges. Perhaps my sympathy with the children, who have so few opportunities for enjoyment, makes me say this. In view of the large percentage of first offences, it would seem that the Act has a deterrent effect.

Another drawback is that we have no funds at our disposal to meet urgent and needy cases. Those of us who are responsible for the passing of the Act, are aware of this drawback, but in drawing up the Bill we were advised that it was not an opportune time for getting through a measure which would involve any expenditure. We therefore, on the principle that half a loaf is better than no bread, submitted the Act in its present form, but experience has proved that the Act can only be very imperfectly administered, unless the Judge trying the cases has some fund at his disposal. Such a fund might be in charge of the Department of the Poor Commissioner or of the Colonial Secretary, preferably. I think the latter. How best to start and maintain a Reformatory is a matter which has occupied many minds for a long time. It is a question which cannot be further postponed, and for which some solution must be found soon. If the Government and the public would combine in this endeavour, I think it would be possible to procure and maintain such an institution. May I also add that as President of the Social Service Council I deeply appreciate the help you give us in the preparation of the Bill, and your uniform kindness in discussing its operation. The hearing of these cases in private in your court is a step in the right direction, and the patient attention you have given to those cases must have taken up a good deal of your time.

I desire also to point out that our Probation Officer, by virtue of his office, is able to induce parents to do their duty by their children without having recourse to the law, and to deal with cases which do not strictly come under the Act by reminding parents of their duty to one another and their obligations to their children. This attempt to uplift a section of the Community, which is unable to help itself, is one well worthy of our sympathy and co-operation of all our citizens. I return herewith the Probation Officer's Report.

Very sincerely yours,
(Sgd.) GEO. H. BOLT,
President Social Service Council.

Editor Evening Telegram

Dear Sir,—It is absolutely necessary to be very careful in choosing men to fill judicial positions, and more especially in an outpost, where Magistrates have sometimes to fill the roles of Judge, Jury and Prosecutor, at the same time, hence the position calls for a man of more than average ability and education. This country can get on better with poor and impartial laws administered by men of integrity or merit, than with good laws poorly administered by unfit officials. The office of Magistrate in an outpost is looked upon as a very important position, and in order that the public may have confidence in its occupant, it is essential that he should be a man of good education, but also a person of high integrity and stability with pride on all occasions when it becomes necessary to perform any public function graciously and respectfully. I believe we possess in the recent appointee to the Magistracy of Placentia a man who measures well up to the requirements of the post.

He is a man of great natural ability, having a liberal education, wide experience of men and things, from his long sojourn in Canadian and American cities, coupled with an irreproachable character for sobriety, stability, and common sense—principles which admirably fit him to occupy the Magistracy of the Ancient Capital. I congratulate in the first place, the ex-magistrate who, whatever his faults may be, is not slow to recognize true worth in another, for his strongly recommending Mr. Sennott as his successor to an important position, who was primarily instrumental in securing the position for the late appointee. I congratulate the Government, the Members for the District, on their wise and excellent selection from amongst the many eligible applicants for the position. I congratulate the talented Deputy Minister Summers, whose forensic ability and sound judgment is justly recognized and appreciated in judicial matters, for his keen discernment, and a legal acumen in at once seeing in applicant Sennott a man admirably fitted to dispense justice; and one who would do honor to the judiciary, and lastly I congratulate the people of Placentia on their good luck in having secured such excellent material for the Magistracy chair, the occupant of which the people well know, is highly appreciated by the present as well as the former pastors, who, on several occasions, took special pains to show their appreciation and respect for this worthy gentleman. We feel confident now, that the liquor traffic which has been demoralizing our people for some time, will now cease, and that the advent of Magistrate Sennott will see the beginning of the end of illicit trade.

Yours truly,
WELLWISHER,
Placentia, Nov. 1st, 1923.

Lloyd George is Frank to French

Raising of Technicalities Strongly Denounced With Outlook Hopeful.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—(United Press)—Every effort should be made by the United States and Great Britain to accommodate the French viewpoint, providing France is not raising technicalities to defeat the proposal, David Lloyd George declared to-day, after study of dispatches telling of France's conditional acceptance of Prime Minister Baldwin's proposal.

"If it is a question of merely letting French officials save their faces I think most assuredly it should be done," said Lloyd George. "If, however, technicalities are to be raised against the plan, that is more difficult. Any man who raises technicalities to defeat this plan is not fit to deal with great international questions."

Lloyd George said the French position, as reported in meagre dispatches available to him, was that the economic commission to be set up to determine German capacity to pay should be under the Reparations Commission.

"What difference does that make?" he asked. "If France wants it stated that the impartial commission of economic experts is functioning under the Reparations Commission, what of that? That is nothing that ought to defeat this plan. I cannot, of course, express an opinion on the French position more definitely until I have full details.

"But the whole development constitutes in my mind a very hopeful turn in the situation. It is a great opportunity—perhaps the only opportunity to get a settlement. That is why I say that nobody should stand on technicalities. Anything that can be done to help France act ought to be done. A settlement is what we want, what the world wants, and nobody should permit trifles to stand in the way of it."

Automatic Travel

PLAN THAT WILL REVOLUTIONIZE COUNTRY'S RAIL SERVICE—SPEEDING UP THE TRAINS.

Something like a revolution in the railway system of the country will be brought about when proposals which the four great railway groups have been considering are carried into effect.

A general speeding up of trains and a more economical working of the lines, are the main objectives.

Increasing use of mechanical and automatic appliances will play a large part in the railway service of the future.

Automatic signalling is to be extensively adopted, and a new automatic system of indication installed. Their schemes are:—
Standardisation of wagons.
More powerful locomotives and longer trains.
Self-shutting carriage doors.
Improved method for the issue and cancellation of tickets.
Electric luggage trolleys and conveyors in place of porters.

These and other innovations will be carried out gradually, but the result will be that the railways will be far more economically and efficiently worked.

The introduction of new labour-saving and safety devices will mean big reductions in the railway rates, and the general adoption of a policy of standardisation in place of the old competitive methods will mean a large saving of money.

Under a spreading chestnut tree
The village smithy stands;
The smith, a mighty man is he,
With large and sinewy hands;
And the muscles of his brawny arms
Are strong as iron bands.

His hair is crisp, and black and long,
His face is like the tan;
His brow is wet with honest sweat,
He earns what'er he can,
And looks the whole world in the face,
For he owes not any man.

Week in, week out, from morn till night,
You can hear his bellows blow;
You can hear him swing his heavy sledge,
With measured beat and slow,
Like a sexton ringing the village bell,
When the evening sun is low.

And children coming home from school
Look in at the open door,
They love to see the flaming forge,
And hear the bellows roar,
And catch the burning sparks that fly
Like chaff from a threshing floor.

He goes on Sunday to the church,
And sits among his boys,
He hears the parson pray and preach,
He hears his daughter's voice,
Singing in the village choir,
And it makes his heart rejoice.

It sounds to him like his mother's voice,
Singing in Paradise!
He needs must think of her once more,
How in the grave she lies,
And with a hard, rough hand he wipes
A tear out of his eyes.

Telling-rejoicing-sorrowing,
Onward through life he goes,
Each morning sees some task begun,
Each evening sees it close;
Something attempted, something done,
Has earned a night's repose.

Thanks, thanks, to thee, my worthy friend,
For the lesson thou hast taught!
Thus at the flaming forge of life
Our fortunes must be wrought;
Thus on its sounding anvil shaped
Each burning deed and thought.

Amazing Story of Five Escapes

AT ONTARIO PEN. KINGSTON.—As a result of the official investigation now being conducted by Brigadier-Gen. Hughes, Superintendent of Penitentiaries, into the escape of the five convicts from the penitentiary, only one of whom, McMillen, was recaptured, some amazing revelations are coming to light. It was developed that the convicts, when they made their escape, had a complete diagram in their possession of the roads over which they were to travel once they obtained possession of an automobile, together with exact directions where they were to "ditch" their car and how to proceed into Bell's Swamp, where they finally disappeared.

Wrote Letter to Chief. It was also revealed that, once he was safely away and sheltered by his friends, Ryan, the most daring and dangerous of the four convicts, actually wrote a letter to Chief Keeper Walsh, whom he attacked with a pitchfork on the day of his escape, apologizing for the necessity he (Ryan) was under in committing this assault and then giving the amazing information that if any one was under the impression that the farmers in this district had no hearts or sympathy, that person might as well disabuse his mind of any such notion, inasmuch as no fewer than three farmers in the district had helped him and his three comrades after the escape.

Farmer Confesses. At the hearing in the penitentiary yesterday, John Swift, a resident of the Glenburne district, well over 70 years of age, admitted he had given four men food during the day following the escape of the convicts, having discovered them in the hayloft of his barn when he went to hunt for eggs. He did not notify the authorities and in fact did not say anything to anyone about it until served with a subpoena on Wednesday night to appear at the hearing. Then, he said, he consulted some of his neighbours, and they advised him to make a clean breast of the whole thing. When shown the photograph of Ryan he recognized him as one of the four men in the loft.

Escape Prearranged. The escape was a carefully prearranged one, the investigation has brought out, and the convicts and some of their friends were well supplied with money. An automobile, together with a box of clothes were in waiting for them beyond Bell's Swamp (which covers an area of 125 acres) and they made their final getaway in this automobile in the early morning following their free meals in Swift's hayloft.

All told, $20,000 is reported to have been made available to assure that the convicts would not be recaptured. On Tuesday 17 witnesses were examined at the penitentiary; Thursday 10 were examined; and there are yet to be traced some 20 or 25, including a number of Kingston people.

Swift's Wife Overcome. One of the pathetic developments following the information obtained from Mr. Swift at the investigation is that his wife, who has been infirm for many years, and totally blind for over a year, was so severely shocked when she heard that her husband was in some way implicated that she suffered a stroke at a neighbour's home Thursday night. Her condition during the night was very bad and a doctor and a priest were in attendance. Yesterday she was somewhat improved and the danger of death seemed to be removed for the time.

FEELING OTHER PEOPLE'S FEELINGS.

How could anyone feel everybody's when they played the mechanical piano or when the kids got to shouting on the tennis court, or things of that sort that I wouldn't have noticed a bit if I'd been alone! and I really minded it more than if it had been something I minded myself. If you know what I mean."

Sympathetic Discomfort.

I once undertook to drive a friend who had been ill home from the hospital. I knew that she must be driven very carefully as she had had a serious operation, and any undue jolting would be painful to her. I was simply exhausted when that drive was over! For though I drove more carefully than I ever drove in my life, some jolts were inevitable and all the time I was despatching every little unevenness and suffering acutely when they could not be avoided, as if it were I that had just had the operation. In fact, if my friend told the truth, I suffered more by entering into her feelings than she did herself for she did not mind the drive and was not exhausted by it.

Sometimes We Intrude.

Husbands and wives sometimes become abnormally sensitive to each other's feelings and enter into them to a morbid extent. Of course a high degree of sympathy and understanding between married folks, a fine attunement to each other's moods is desirable but there is a point beyond which such sensitiveness becomes a discomfort for the one who feels it and even an embarrassment and an intrusion.

Spelled Her Vacation.

When I didn't feel other people's up all the time," she told me, "I tried enough to have to feel all without feeling theirs, too. That's what I'm always doing. It spelled my vacation this year. When I went with Prue and she and her noise disturbed her and our happened to be in a noisy part of the Well, I never notice notes but I could feel Prue being nervous and it made me nervous. I got so I noticed every little and felt uncomfortable about would feel her curling up inside

The Bug Problem Simplified

We are all agreed that the many 'bugs' in the garden take most of the fun and more of the profit out of the raising of crops. The big caterpillars whose work can be seen are easily traced and killed with arsenic poisons. The little green 'worms,' white flies, leaf hoppers, colored aphids, and other sucking bugs are more numerous and more deadly. Many are the smelly liquids and powders of soaps, oils, nicotine, hellebore, and other deadly compounds that must be sprayed on. Some stain the foliage or fruit, or are unsafe on plants used as food. New compounds have appeared on the market recently that are not unpleasant or dangerous, but they are none too effective, and expensive for large areas.

Since soap kills most of these small insects by suffocating them, any soap is useful. The difficulty is to get a solution sufficiently strong to make a thick suds and free from acids and alkalis that would injure vegetation. The soap powders dissolve readily and one that will not injure silks and woolens should not hurt green vegetation.

Of the powdered soaps I have tried Lux with great success. One-half a package in two gallons of warm water, well dissolved, fills my sprayer and does the trick. I have used it on currant worms, on roses for aphids and hopper, on house plants for scales and white fly (dip the tops into the suds and rinse), and on tent caterpillars in the west. In all cases the bugs kick a little and become defunct. I am looking for more worms, as cabbage worm and cucumber beetle. Mine shall be bugless garden this year. As in all contact poisons, you must hit the bug with the soap or he escapes. Neither youngest leaf nor flower petal is injured, and a clean sweet odor lingers over the roses and currants. Try Lux and report.

A BLUNDERER'S PLEA. I do not ask for wealth or fame. Though golf is still my favorite game I do not ask unerring skill And always victory's happy thrill. I only ask that I may be A little better pleased with me.

When I invest a little cash, Why must I always purchase trash? While others gaily drive along, Why must my choice of roads be wrong? I don't mind losing when I play, But hate to toss the game away.

Why must I with the setting sun Regret some foolish thing I've done? Why must I backward turn to see Some wretched opportunity? What hurts far more than loss of pelf Is that I brought it on myself.

Great wealth and fame I do not ask, Grant me the wisdom for my task. A blunderer's grief, when all is done, Comes from the thoughts he might have won. I'll lose and smile, if I can be, A little better pleased with me.

Where Burglars Are Obliging

The "Crook" Who Took Himself to Prison—And Other Good Stories From India.

The Indian native is often an extraordinary childlike person, and he astonishes the European by his simplicity.

An Englishman, walking along a road in Southern India, one day, met a native carrying a constable's turban and sword, and with a large bundle on his head.

"What are you doing with that turban and sword?" he asked.

"They are the constables," replied the native. "I am the prisoner and he is taking me to the lock-up."

"Where is the constable?"

"He has stepped behind for a bit in the village over yonder. He will be coming along soon."

"What is the bundle on your head?" demanded the Englishman.

"Oh, that is the stolen property!" answered the native.

That is one of the stories told by Mr. A. Butterworth in "The Southlands of Siva." Here are some more:

A district magistrate was appointed to a new post. On the morning of his departure he received the following letter:

"God save our District Magistrate!" "Honoured Sir, I beg you to accept as kindly gifts in departing 5 pomegranates, fruits, 5 oranges, 2 dozen walnuts and one bottle hair-lotion. The latter is restorative to hair and invaluable after much toil to weak brains."

A letter the author received from a native on Christmas is quoted in the book:

"Many happy returns of the season await you! May thorns of care never beset your path! May peace be an inmate of your bosom and rapture a frequent visitor of your soul. May the bloodhounds of misfortune never track your steps nor the screech-owl of sorrow alarm your dwelling! May enjoyment tell your hours and pleasures number your days! Blessed be he that blesses you and cursed be he that curses you!"

It is not the natives, however, who provide all the humour in India. Mr. Butterworth tells some good stories about white men.

A subaltern had undertaken a short journey on duty and put in a bill for travelling expenses, which was not permissible as the journey had not exceeded five miles.

He received an "Objection Memo" from a Colonial Bird asking for his reasons for the claim as the journey was not five miles "as the crow flies."

"I did not go as the crow flies," came the reply. "I went on a horse. I am not a Bird."

On another occasion a young Assistant Commissioner had been roundly slated in a report made by a visiting commissioner, who had written that "this young man seems to be a past-master in doing nothing."

The report was sent to the young man for his explanation.

Against the above remark he wrote: "Far be it from me to dispute the opinion of an expert in the art."

When Lord Kitchener was Commander-in-Chief in India he revised the whole system of military finance.

When it was all over, a man who had had a good deal to do with the revising said laughingly to Kitchener that he thought he ought to be given a military honour.

Kitchener who did not like the man, replied: "So I will gladly. I will give you a military funeral."

Health and Comfort in the Home.

Many a chill can be avoided by the wise use of heating with ever-ready gas stoves. An inset gas fire can easily be installed in any ordinary coal grate, and will provide the necessary warmth at any time.

Gas Fires make no work. There is no coal to carry upstairs, and no ashes to be cleared away. They are ideal for use in daintily appointed rooms. There is no smoke or dust. They also ventilate the room. Enquiries solicited.

Animal Showers From the Sky

AERIAL "PLAGUES" OF RATS AND FROGS.

Considerable interest has been aroused by the discovery of vast swarms of flies which have infested the English Channel in the neighbourhood of Deal and the Goodwin Sands. Millions of these insects were found crawling over the hard sand and great black patches of dead flies could be seen floating on the water.

Similar "plagues" have happened previously. One case in particular was during a heavy snow storm in Russia in 1827, when the snow was accompanied by a large number of black insects about an inch and a quarter in length, and with feet which enabled them to crawl into the snow.

Some years ago in France a shower of frogs descended near Toulouse, and so great was the "downfall" that a carriage containing an eyewitness of the affair killed thousands in its passage along one of the roads.

Instances of fish descending inland in showers are numerous. In 1838, at Foddery, in Scotland, a farmer, walking on his land, saw a great portion of the ground covered with herrings, each three to four inches in length. About two years later, in the island of Islay, in Argyllshire, after a day or so of heavy rain, the inhabitants were surprised to find swarms of herrings strewn over the fields, some perfectly fresh.

On another occasion fish were carried from the Firth of Forth to Loch Leven, a distance of eight to ten miles, and at Wick, in Caithness, a large quantity of fish were found lying scattered in a garden about half a mile from the seashore.

How can one account for these strange happenings? There is a suspicion that winds, whirlwinds, and waterspouts are the chief sources of their production. Waterspouts are not unknown at Foddery, and the shower of fish at Loch Leven occurred after a day of heavy rain. The herring fall at Loch Leven happened at the time when a strong gale was blowing from the Firth of Forth.

Sucked up by the Wind. Just before the shower of frogs at Toulouse it was noticed that a heavy cloud appeared on the horizon.

Each case of these "plagues" is probably due, wholly or in part, to the fact that wind, having a tendency to become circular or rotary, sucks up any small, light objects, carrying them for a time, and then depositing them when the force of the wind is abated. An example of this occurred in Norway some years ago, when a colony of rats, migrating from the high to the low regions, were overtaken by a strong wind and, being caught up, were carried to a valley where they fell as a rat shower!

Probably the flies in the Channel were migrating to a warmer country, when, running into a strong wind, some were carried back to land again and others were killed by the wind and fell on to the water.

Moscow Girl Judge

SENDS 25 TO DEATH WITHOUT REGRET.

Moscow, Nov. 1.—Citizensess Anna Gluzman, the twenty-three-year-old Presiding Judge of the Moscow District Court, who a few days ago sent seven men to their death for robbery, informed the Associated Press correspondent to-day that she had imposed the death penalty on about twenty-five persons since February, and had not lost a moment's sleep or been troubled by her conscience because of them.

Asked how as a woman she felt when doomed men were shot, she replied that the question of individual lives could have no consideration when crimes against the safety of the state and the public were involved. She had to administer justice according to the law of evidence, though she tried to temper her decisions with mercy when possible.

With a cigarette held firmly between tight lips and the fire of an enthusiast in her brown eyes, the girl Judge spoke of her court experiences. She is slim and short, not at all pretty; her brown, wavy hair is bobbed and parted on the side like a man's; her jaw is stern. Dressed as she was to-day, Citizensess Gluzman might have posed for the representation of what sometimes is imagined as a typical woman Communist.

A pleasant smile saved her from positive ugliness, but there was no hint of feminine finery in her rough high boots, black skirt, blue denim-workman's blouse buttoned high at the neck and an old brown sweater which she wore. Her only ornament was the red enamelled badge of the Communist Party.

"Since February I have tried eight or ten capital cases, mostly banditry and theft of public property," she said. She paused a moment to consider when asked how many persons she had sentenced to death, and answered: "I think about twenty-five since February." These included one woman convicted of assisting a gang of robbers.

"No, I have never seen an execution," she continued. "Sometimes the law requires the Presiding Judge to attend these, but always I have been busy at other things at the time and detailed some one else."

Anna Gluzman is not married; she lives alone in a little room without pets.

Health and Comfort for Workers

In a climate like ours, workers must be warmly clad—not necessarily with heavy, cumbersome garments—but with STANFIELD'S UNDERWEAR, which keeps the cold out and the warmth in.
