

BRITISH AMERICAN COMMERCIAL COLLEGE. PRIZE PENMANSHIP! Superior Advantages Offered!

The attention of young men looking forward to mercantile life is earnestly requested to the internal arrangements of this College, which afford every possible advantage and facility for acquiring a thorough practical knowledge of business life and business habits.

One of the direct means of attaining and holding this high position has been the constant and varied selection of the thoroughly competent, conscientious and energetic teachers in each department. In the Writing Department the First Prizes for Business Penmanship are awarded to us as at the Provincial Exhibitions of 1863, 1864, and 1867, the only occasions on which we competed.

The time required to complete the full course varies considerably according to the attendance, attention and ability of each student. Young men, however, are earnestly cautioned against the injurious practice of hurrying through the course from the mistaken idea that they will thus be gainers by the saving of money in the item of board.

For penmanship, circulars, &c., address MUGROVE & WRIGHT, Toronto, 6th Dec. 1867.

Amongst the Roses. Last night as the carriage whizzed along Through the silent star-roofed city.

Half of pleasure and half of pity, Of pleasure, for two sweet girls were there, And as chance sometimes disposes I sat twist the pair—(one dark—(one fair) Like a thorn between two roses.

Two poets of many tongues and climes Upon all sweet themes have written, But here and there through the golden rhymes One sees where a blight has smitten; And oft we note on the stanzas end How the pathos wild discloses That all pleasures are tinged with pain, my friend— Just "a thorn between two roses."

A VILLANOUS DEED.—During the night of Thursday last week, says the Fergus Record, some dastardly wretch, having gained an entrance to Stewart's photograph rooms, scratched his two lenses with a diamond, and mixed certain of his chemicals. The same mean trick was done at Miller's room on the same night. The lenses thus almost irretrievably injured are valued at from $50 to $75 in each case. We hope the perpetrator of an action so utterly atrocious and mean may be discovered and brought to severe punishment.

PROSPERITY OF SEAFORTH.—Seaforth, five years ago, contained about three hundred souls, it now boasts of a population of 1,500, with every evidence of a continued and steady increase.

The quantity of grain actually sent away from that station during the last year summed up 350,000 bushels, and of pork and butter 1,100 tons—representing a money value of not less than $202,000.

The Presbyterians are erecting a large brick church at a cost of about ten thousand dollars, which, when finished, will add much to the appearance of the village.

ARREST OF A HORSE THIEF.—The Berlin Telegraph relates the particulars of the arrest of a horse thief, who is individualized by the complimentary sobriquet of "Drunken Louis." He stole a horse some place near Linwood, traded him in Hawkville for another—getting boot, drunk the boot, sold the horse he had traded for, invested the proceeds in the ardent, and had a high old time. The constable caught him near Listowel, and he does not deny his guilt.

Goderich Salt is only to be had at John A. Wood's.

"CHRISTMAS CHEER" AT THE GUELPH GROCERY STORES.

The Christmas week puts the best phase upon business that it is capable of assuming in any particular locality, and the shops don their most gaudy attire, and look their best as the festive occasion approaches. People expect to treat themselves to indulgences, and indulgences are set before them in a most tempting way. We imagine—perhaps it may be only imagination—that the town is not so lively, nor business so brisk as it was during the corresponding week of last year.

This is what we say when we speak in general terms, for were we to particularize, and give each person's own report of himself, we would find their opinions concerning business as different as mountain tourists, when one descending into the valley will meet another going up to whom he will complain of the heat, while the latter in his turn will grumble about the cold. We should find men murmuring about dullness—we should find those individuals (the most difficult to find and the most happy) who are satisfied and no more, and we should find the sanguine-tempered who are agreeably bothered with customers and profits.—However these things may be, whether people have resolved to deny themselves gastric luxuries or not, we know that the Grocers' stores in Guelph are heavily stocked with everything that any epicure might demand, with which his Christmas feast should be prepared.

As Mr. James Murphy observes for himself, and as we helped him to observe yesterday, he is "battling alone," like a hero, with the trade of Upper Wyndham street. We have looked in upon this interesting warrior and found him well supplied with many groceries, and more liquor of the best brands, and telling him to persist in being courageous we left him, assured that the patronage of the public would reward his valor.

Mr. Rutherford has a full supply of groceries, and in his own person gives the amplest testimony of the excellence of their quality. It must be good faith in customers when they see a man improving on the same kind of edibles he recommends to them. Mr. Hugh Walker has on hand, in addition to the usual amount and variety of groceries, a very large quantity of sardines, oysters, and other shell fish, besides fruits of many kinds, and the very best of liquors.

Mr. Meredith's window is a sort of epitome of his store, and is well worth observation. Nothing in his line is wanting inside, and if a happy Christmas be contingent on good cheer, a great many people can procure the biggest part of the cheer from Mr. Meredith. Mr. John A. Wood's capabilities in the way of groceries are well known, and it would be almost superfluous for us to say that he is as well prepared as ever to suit his patrons in the quality and price of the goods he offers.

Gentlemen with moustaches will see china cups to their advantage by calling upon him. Mr. Lewis is going to resign the field of retail, and as far as groceries are concerned betake himself wholly to jobbing. We, as well as the other retail dealers, will wish him success in his venture.

The Co-operative Store presents to the public the inducements of a large and varied stock of articles at very reasonable prices. The Messrs. Hadden are not a whit behind their neighbors, but are fully prepared to fill all orders with which those bent on the enjoyment of good things may favour them. Mr. George Wilkinson presents a very extensive and very varied bill of fare. His groceries are fresh and good, and if extensive oyster suppers, or repasts at which sardines are indispensable, he has them on hand to any amount at reasonable rates.

The fire had no injurious effect upon Mr. Masse's retail business in Day's Block. He knows his numerous customers and is known of them, and his name is a sufficient guarantee that while he has a store he will have it well stocked with the choicest productions of the sugar plantations, tea, and other fields, and we have heard the contents of the cellar rapturously applauded. Messrs. E. Carroll & Co. have entered with spirit into business, and done what was most necessary.

A splendid stock that must needs prove attractive to housekeepers, and the prices of the various articles which can scarcely be murmured at by the most economical purchaser. Mr. M. J. Doran's store does not show his goods to advantage, but if people will be pleased to step inside they will wonder at seeing so much crowded into such little space.

Irishmen as well as others can eat good things when they get them, and Mr. Doran, at his end of the Town, like Mr. Murphy at the opposite, is amply provided with luxuries to eat, and has also numerous things in the way of drink, which he is dispensing at moderate rates. Messrs McGill & Co., as usual, have a capital stock of everything required—both in liquids and solids. Mr. Robert Burns, Northumberland street, has also made ample preparation for his increasing trade and those in his end of the Town will be fully supplied with all that the season can afford.

FANCY GOODS. "The sports of children satisfy the child," sang Goldsmith, but inventive as youthful ingenuity is in drawing from within itself the means of amusement it often requires external aid. We know of no place where such assistance can be so easily procured as at Mr. Shewan's. He has reared his Christmas tree, and the "little things that are great to little minds" are heaped together in gaudy and attractive profusion. It is seldom except in a wholesale house, that so many material "nothings" designed to afford gratification to children are found together. Prices and qualities are such as will suit the rich, the poor, and those in moderate circumstances, for toys of innumerable descriptions can be bought, from a jack-in-the-box up to the big wax doll with its bright eyes that seems almost asking you to speak to it. Mr. Shewan has besides a large stock of new books, handsomely bound, and most appropriate for Christmas presents to those of a literary turn of mind.

Mrs. Robinson, of the Dominion Store, has a large stock of goods, consisting of albums, dolls, fancy baskets and fancy pipes, beads, &c. She is well supplied with everything in the fancy goods line.

price for the first subject was "Diarrhoea's Curiosities of Literature," won by Kenneth Maclean; the prize for Classics, a copy of Shakespeare's works, was taken by John Goldie, and Ephraim Stevenson distanced his rivals and carried home "1001 Gems," by Mackay, which was the reward of superiority in history.

The pupils presented Mr. Chas. Walker, second teacher, with an address, and a writing desk (furnished) and an album, as a token of their esteem, previous to his retirement from the position he has long filled with honor to himself and advantage to the youth under his tuition. The value of the gifts was about $21. Mr. Walker made a touching and appropriate reply to these expressions of youthful good feeling.

The late Terrible Accident on the Lake Shore Railroad.

We condense the following particulars of the shocking accident on the Lake Shore Railroad, on Wednesday, from the Buffalo Express of yesterday:— Just as the train reached the bridge, the rear car was jerked from the track, and ran nearly across the bridge. An instant more and it would have reached the bank, but just as the edge it toppled over on the left side and went with a fearful crash, end foremost, down the ice covered slope, forty feet at least to the first flat below.

It is easy to imagine the frightful wreck to which the car was reduced by its terrible descent. All, or nearly all of its passengers, of course, were precipitated into a mangled struggling mass at the lower end of the car, buried under a heap of ruins, and even the slightest injured if any there were, were unable to extricate or help themselves. The horror of the situation was sufficient without that which instantly became added by the igniting of the splintered wreck from the overturned stoves. A moment, as one of the three sole survivors describes it, and the whole was wrapped in flames. The dry wood of the car burned like a heap of kindling—and it was little more.

Who can attempt to depict the unimaginable horror of the scene. Nearly fifty human beings being roasted either in death or in the pangs of dying from horrible wounds, or in the full vigor of life but in an extricable position—admitted to the flames without the hope of rescue! The shrieks, the groans the imprecations—let those who heard them forget this side of eternity if they can.

How many the flames devoured in this car cannot be told with certainty. It was well filled with passengers, probably, says one of the survivors, not less than fifty; and only three are known to have escaped.

It was some moments before any one could reach the scene to attempt assistance. The second car in the train—admitted to the flames without the hope of rescue—had plunged over the opposite side of the embankment, falling a less height, but suffering almost a complete wreck and its few uninjured passengers had enough to occupy their attention. The train, which had run some distance before being stopped, was backed to the scene as speedily as possible, and those on board set to work with promptitude and energy. But the steep and ice-covered slope to the car most horribly situated was not easily descended, and when helping hands reached it, they were without weapons for fighting the flames or for breaking into the wreck.

As soon, of course, as they could be summoned, the people of Angola and nearer inhabitants ran to the spot, and it was not long before many buckets were employed in pouring water upon the burning wreck; but a raging fire is not to be overcome with buckets, and those desperately laboring at the wreck had to suffer the unspeakable anguish of seeing their efforts made utterly in vain. The hideous, remorseless flames cracked on; the shrieks died into moans, and the silence more terrible, as the fall of death drew over the scene. Except one little fragment of the side of the car, nothing but a heap of smoking cinders was left for those gathered round to search into with sickened hearts.

How many of the bodies within were utterly burned up to a handful of undistinguishable cinder, it is impossible to tell nor can it be known in all cases probably for many days who they were. Only as distant friends enquire for missing ones likely to have been upon the train, can the terrible list of mortality be made up.

The car next the rear one was that with which the disaster originated, but its fate was less terrible than the fate of the car following. The head-long plunge of the latter threw it over but not till the bridge had been passed, and it made its descent on the opposite or right side of the embankment, where the height was not more than twenty-five feet. The crash was only less awful than that already described. It was not followed by the more frightful calamity of the fire. Twice the car was kindled by the coals from the broken stove, but the passengers were in a less helpless situation and the flames were extinguished, only one man being killed by the fall of the car.

The Buffalo Courier says:—"A young man from St. Catherine's was taken from the rear car in a dreadful state. His legs were flayed, and his breast and stomach were badly roasted. He was alive at last accounts, but their was little hope of his recovery."

EXAMINATION OF THE GRAMMAR SCHOOL.—The half-yearly examination of the pupils attending the Guelph Grammar School took place yesterday. They were put through a most rigid ordeal, and acquitted themselves admirably; their pertinent answers proving that the "root of the matter" was in them. The fairness of the examination gave the satisfaction, as it was plain that the masters made it their chief object to inculcate principles, the main, the only basis on which a sound education can be built, for from principles fully understood theories can be deduced ad libitum. The visitors were but few, yet more we believe than are usually in attendance on such occasions. Mr. Cuthbert generously presented three volumes as prizes for the greatest proficiency in Mathematics, in Classics, and in General History. The prize for the first subject was "Diarrhoea's Curiosities of Literature," won by Kenneth Maclean; the prize for Classics, a copy of Shakespeare's works, was taken by John Goldie, and Ephraim Stevenson distanced his rivals and carried home "1001 Gems," by Mackay, which was the reward of superiority in history.

The Clerkenwell Affair. FURTHER ARRESTS.

THE CORONER'S INQUEST. Verdict of Murder against Timothy Desmond & Jerry Allen.

Proposed Suspension of the Habeas Corpus Act.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE. London, Dec. 20.—Four men, who gave their names as English, Mulvaney, W. Desmond, and O'Keefe, were arrested in this city, last night, on suspicion of having been connected with the recent Fenian outrages. The alarm caused by the outrages here continues. The magistrates are still swearing in special constables. The guards around the prisons have been strengthened, and the warehouses in the city are carefully watched during the night. Troops were suddenly ordered to Portsmouth to-day, and left on a special train. The coroner's inquest on the bodies of those killed by the explosion at Clerkenwell prison was concluded this evening. The jury rendered a verdict charging Timothy Desmond and Jerry Allen, who were arrested on the 13th, with the crime of murder, in having caused the explosion which resulted in the deaths of the deceased. The prisoners, English, Mulvaney, O'Keefe and W. Desmond, who were arrested last night, were brought before the justices for examination to-day. The testimony so far elicited goes to show that they had something to do with the Clerkenwell explosion.—They were remanded to gaol for further examination.

London, Dec. 20.—A great fire is raging in Newcastle-on-Tyne.

Paris, Dec. 20.—It is reported that the Emperor has proposed to Belgium, Holland and Switzerland that they join France in a Customs union. Belgium is said to have declined the proposition, on the ground that she had already concluded a military and commercial alliance with Prussia.

London, Dec. 20.—In view of the recent outrages committed or attempted by the Fenians in this country, and to prevent, by summary measures, their repetition, the Cabinet has determined to ask Parliament to suspend the privilege of the writ of Habeas Corpus in England.

London, Dec. 20th.—The Times of this morning has a leading editorial article on American matters. It is mainly devoted to decrying the finances of the U. S., and the plans of the Secretary of the Treasury.

Paris, Dec. 20.—The Monitor of this city publishes later details of the recent battles on the Parana. It seems, according to the Monitor, that Lopez, the Paraguayan general, by neglect and inactivity, not only lost the results of his real victory, but was turned on by his vanquished enemy and badly beaten. The loss of the Paraguayans was very heavy.

American Despatches. Schenctady, 20.—Considerable excitement exists in the town of Glenview on account of an outrage committed by a negro on the person of a married white woman named Mrs. Brown. The negro fled, and has not been arrested.

New York, 20.—Mr. J. Weir, editor of the Brooklyn Times, died suddenly last night.

New York, 21.—The Herald's Havana telegram says losses sustained by earthquake at Antigua amount to £100,000 sterling. Intelligence has been received from Melbourne, dated 1st Nov., that a gold nugget weighing 500 ounces had been found in Sandhurst. The abolition of the Constitution was possible. The Governor asks for £500,000 sterling, and will then dissolve the Chambers. Miners were flocking to the new diggings.—The United States gunboat Shamout is at Aspinwall. About 1500 miles north of Cartagena the Shamout lost her foremast and three men. Advice from Panama to the 12th state that President Prado had gained a victory at Arequipa, and the city was completely surrounded by his division on the west and Gen. Bustamante on the east. Prado demanded the surrender of the city within three days. If refused, he would take decisive measures. The revolution in the North had been checked. The Chilean Minister to Peru had asked to be relieved. Gen. Mosquera arrived at Panama on the 7th en route for Peru, accompanied by Gen. Estrada and 100 men. Intelligence from Terotula to the 13th represent the people suffering greater privation than those of St. Thomas. The dead remain unburied, and pestilence could only be averted by burning the corpses.

DEATH OF DR. OSGILVIE.—The death is announced of Dr. John Osgilvie, author of the "Imperial Dictionary," and other educational works of merit. Dr. Osgilvie was a native of Banffshire, and, after finishing his University course, devoted himself for some time to teaching. He was for upwards of thirty years mathematical master in Gordon's Hospital, from which position he retired some seven or eight years ago. Since then he has devoted himself principally to the work of a lexicographer. His principal work is the "Imperial Dictionary," a work of considerable merit. Dr. Osgilvie was a quiet, unostentatious, scholarly man, and was highly esteemed by all with whom he came in contact.

MUNICIPAL NOMINATIONS.

The nomination of candidates for the Mayoralty, for the offices of Reeve, and Deputy Reeve, and for the four vacant Councillors' seats, will take place on Monday next. The nominations for the four first mentioned offices will be made in the Court House, beginning at 10 o'clock a. m. The candidates for the position of Councillors will be nominated at 12 o'clock noon, at the following places—for the North Ward, in the Court House; for the East Ward, in the Town Hall; for the South Ward, in the School-house; and for the West Ward, in the Senior Girls' School-house. The retiring Councillors are: In the North Ward, Mr Harvey; East Ward, Mr Sayers; South Ward, Mr Hefernan; West Ward, Mr Galbraith.

THE MARKET TO-DAY.—There was a very large outside market to-day, which in view of Christmas was unusually well supplied with all kinds of poultry from the big well fed turkey and goose down to the plump spring chicken. Prices for fat turkeys and geese ranged from 50 cents each to $1 according to size and quality. A large quantity of apples were also sold. Meat of all kinds was in plentiful supply—indeed there was no lack of everything good wherewith to furnish the Christmas tables.

FEARS FOR THE FUTURE.—In the discussion on the Bill to prevent unlawful drilling, etc., which was read a second time in the House on Wednesday night, the Hon. Mr. McGee again appeared in his favorite character of an "alarmist." He said he believed this to be a very critical period, and he should be sorry to see the country lulled into a false security. In his humble opinion, the next six months would be the most critical six months through which Canada had ever passed. He based this opinion partly on the fact that next year was the Presidential year, when influences would naturally be at work, dangerous to the peace, especially of our border districts.

PROBABLE RECONSTRUCTION.—There are reports in Ottawa that the Ministry will be reconstructed before the re-assembling of Parliament. It is especially weak in the Senate. Hon. Mr. Kenny, Receiver-General, has gone to Halifax. Mr. Archibald and Mr. Chapin still continue without seats. This places the Government in an embarrassing position, which will not much longer be tolerated, as it is now six months since the Government was organized.

ROME.—Notwithstanding the determined attitude of the French Government on the Roman question, the Italian Prime Minister Menabrea adheres to the opinion that Italy, in the course of time, will secure the annexation of Rome by moral force. Popular feeling in Italy runs clearly in another direction, and it is a significant fact that Rattazzi, the late Prime Minister, openly identifies himself on this question with the National party.

COAL OIL LAMPS. The Finest Assortment ever seen, at MR. HORSMAN'S.

THE MINNESOTA AND LAKE SUPERIOR RAILWAY.—Arrangements have been made which promise an early construction of the projected railroad from St. Paul to the western extremity of Lake Superior, distance 150 miles, in a nearly direct line. According to present calculations, seventy-five miles will be completed next year, and the whole by the end of 1869. The people of Minnesota reasonably attach much importance to this enterprise, as tending to complete the railway system of the State by connecting the great channels of trade which follow the direction of the St. Lawrence.

CLOSE OF PARLIAMENT.—The Government announced yesterday that His Excellency would come down to-day at 11 o'clock, and give the Royal assent to the Bills which had passed Parliament, and that Parliament would then adjourn till the 5th of March next. Although Parliament will stand adjourned till the 12th of March, of course, on the advice of Ministers, it may be called earlier or prorogued to a later period.

THE CUNARD LINE.—The Cunard steamers have been withdrawn from the Boston route. The new contract of the Company has relieved it of the necessity of sending its ships to that city, and it does not choose to send them there, because, as Sir E. Cunard says, in a letter which was published by the New York papers, freight cannot be had on as good terms as at New York. The Cunard vessels will cease, also, to call at Halifax; but their place will be supplied by the Inman line.

SERIOUSLY ILL.—The Hon. W. P. Howland is lying seriously ill at his residence in Toronto, from congestion of the liver, and abscess under the arm. He has been laid up for some days.

THE EARTHQUAKE.—The late earthquake seems to have extended from Port Hope, in the West; to Three Rivers and Sackville, N. B., in the east, and as far south as Rome, New York.

To the farmer, mc chanican & laborer: Spend your hard earned money where you can get the most General Groceries for the holidays at the lowest prices. This is at Geo. Wilkinson's, Wyndham-st., Guelph.

Parliament of Canada.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.

Ottawa, Dec. 20. Sir J. A. Macdonald stated that Government, before the adjournment of the House, would allow all the items on the paper, except the first and ninth, to stand over till March. The first was the third reading of the Bill respecting banks, and the ninth was certain resolutions respecting the rates of postage in Canada and Government Savings Banks. It was expected the House would get through with these resolutions and the Bill founded upon them in time to enable His Excellency to come down at 11 to-morrow and give the Royal assent to the measures which had passed Parliament. All the Bills relating to the organization of the departments would stand over till Parliament again met.

The Postal Bill was then brought up, and amended to-day so that in addition to petitions, the votes and proceedings and other papers printed by order of the Legislature of the several Provinces will go free. The deposits in the Post Office Savings Banks will be liable to seizure. When the seventh resolution, respecting postage on newspapers, came up, Mr. Chamberlain moved that it be not concurred in. He thought that revenue derived from newspaper postage was over estimated. The postage on newspapers sent from offices of publication would not amount during the coming year to more than $60,000.

Sir John A. Macdonald said the resolutions proposed distinct relief to all the Provinces; to Ontario and Quebec a reduction in the rate of both letters and papers, and to the Maritime Provinces on letters. It was necessary also that the Post Office Department should as far as possible be self sustaining. If this source of revenue was removed, it would be impossible for that department to grant facilities in way of opening up new post offices which the progress of the country demanded. Of course, people would like to get their papers free of postage; but Government had in this instance, in the interest of public service, to resist popular feeling.

Mr. McKenzie moved that the 2nd resolution be not now concurred in, but that its further consideration be postponed till the 12th of March next.

The amendment was then negatived. Yeas, 23; Nays, 40.

Mr. Bodwell moved that the Bill be referred back to the Committee in order that the 7th section be struck out and the following substituted—that newspapers printed and published in Canada and sent to regular subscribers in Canada be mailed free.

The motion was then put, when upon a division there appeared—Yeas, 23; Nays 36.

The remainder of the resolutions were concurred in without division. On motion of Sir John A. Macdonald the Bill for the Regulation of the Postal Service, from the Senate, was read a second time and referred to Committee of the Whole, with the resolutions, which were reported with amendments.

THE POSTAL BILL.—The Montreal Daily News says: We have reason to believe that an omission in the Postal Bill is about to be rectified. So long ago as August, 1865, the Post Office Department had in contemplation to allow the transmission by book post, of partly written and partly printed documents, such as Insurance policies, legal writs, commissions, &c. In England this practice has obtained for many years, and it is a fact that such documents can now be sent across the Atlantic at much lower rates than are incurred in transmitting them from Montreal to the next post office. It seems extraordinary that while the framers of the new Postal Bill provided for the cheap transit of seeds, cuttings and bulbous roots," in the mail bags, the interests of Insurance Companies and of the legal profession have been altogether overlooked. We are glad to learn, however, there is a chance of a clause being added to the Bill providing that partly written and partly printed papers shall be sent at the reduced book rates—a provision so obviously reasonable and necessary that the wonder is how it could have escaped the notice of the framers of the Bill.

THE COAL OIL at MR. HORSMAN'S is decidedly the Purest and Best that has ever been sold in Town.—Only 15 Cents per Gallon.

THE ALABAMA CLAIMS.—Speaking upon this vexed question the New York Herald says:—Lord Stanley insists upon it that the late so-called Confederate States were entitled to the belligerent rights of a separate nationality, and here he stands. Mr. Seward insists that said States were nothing more than a league of insurgents and that they had no shadow of right to any belligerent rights under the law of nations, and there he stands. What, then, is to be done? Clearly, the only alternative left our government is to cut the Gordian knot in the simple Jacksonian ultimatum of indemnity or reprisals—the cash or the Canadas.

A Splendid Assortment of Electro-Plate Ware at HORSMAN'S—Very Cheap.

DIED OF COLD.—The Milton Champion says:—On Thursday evening last a poor woman, who was tramping on Dundas Street, was found dead near Mr. William Perkins'. She had called at Mr. Perkins' a few minutes before, and was very civil in her behavior although she had purchased some whiskey at Munn's Corner a short time before. She had apparently fallen over the fence into the road and perished from the intense cold. Dr. Buck held an inquest on the body and found a letter addressed to Mary Ann Speck, and a pin cushion marked A. S. She was a medium sized woman, and her hair was red.

FROZEN TO DEATH.—The cold night of Wednesday, the 11th inst, every person will remember. In the course of his sojourn with us old King Winter generally claims several victims, and on that night he seized at least one, for the Whitty Chronicle tells of a woman who was found in that frozen condition.

AMERICAN WATCH

THE American Watch Company of Waltham, Mass., being determined to place their several grades of Watches at prices within the reach of all parties, and to effectually shut out all Swiss counterfeit Watches, have decided from this date to supply their Watches in the Dominion of Canada at the net Gold value of American Currency. The Company by thus paying all duty, costs and charges on their Watches into Canada, will supply to the people of the Dominion the Cheapest Watches in the World.

The Watches are of all grades, from the finest Gold Watch made, adapted to any climate from the Tropics to the Poles, at a price to suit the wealthy connoisseur or for presentation, to the Cheap Silver Lever, strong and serviceable, regulated to minutes; suitable to the Mechanic and Farmer, and quite as low in price as any moderate quality Swiss Watch. Our grades of Extra Heavy Cased Watches for Railway Engineers and Lumbermen deserve particular attention in Canada, as nothing can equal them for the purpose. Our leading Watches in 18 Carat Gold Cases for Ladies and Private Gentlemen, at medium prices, will also be found very desirable.

We are frequently asked why we don't advertise prices. We reply that as we only supply the trade and as our Watches are now kept by most respectable houses, the public can rely on being served at a fair advantage on the Manufacturer's List. Our trade marks are AMERICAN WATCH CO., APPROVED TRACY & CO., P. S. BASTLEY, WM. ELLERY, HOME WATCH CO. Guaranteed in all cases.

The Maiden's Choice

On THE LAIRD OF BIRKENCLEUCH.

A Tale of the Covenanters.

CHAPTER I.—ADVENTURES ON THE MOOR.

Twilight had fallen, and the crescent moon dimly lighted a wild and solitary region...

The travellers were a youth and a maiden, whose personal appearance could scarcely be made out in the grey and misty light...

His companion, who sat upon a pillow behind him, was a young girl, whose features could not be discerned at all...

"Is anything the matter Hugh?" asked his companion in a sweet voice, though with somewhat of an anxious tone.

"Some one is on the moor in front of us," he replied. "Hark! it is the voice of singing."

And as he spoke, the evening stillness of the moorland was broken by some one singing in a not unmelodious voice, a verse of a popular Border ballad.

"I had rather it had been a psalm," remarked the youth dubiously. "We had thus been sure that the company we are likely to meet with would prove friendly."

"Heaven forbid that it should be any of the rough lawless soldiers," said the maiden in tremulous accents.

"That is just what I am somewhat afraid of," rejoined the other. "From the report we received at Muirkirk of the license they are taking in that district, we may be apprehensive of an encounter with them in this lonely place."

"True, but their hoofs would make little sound on the soft grassy path; though certainly their accoutrements would clank loudly as they proceeded. I am anxious only for your sake, Marion. To me they would be tempted to do little harm, but to you they might be rude, and I, alas! am not the best champion you could have for your defence."

"See, yonder is a dark moving object on the height," said the maiden, in an eager and suppressed tone.

"The road in front went over the top of an abrupt heathery knoll, and on the crest of this height they saw clearly defined against the bright western sky the figure of a man on horseback, jogging leisurely forward, and began to descend the slope towards them, but the view they obtained during these few moments was sufficient to reassure the hearts of both."

turned Jamie, "for they are harryin' and rampagin' in a' directions, and there's a' use o' his officers I ken would like weel tae see the harryin' o' Birkenclench. Ye ken him, Miss Marion, and sae does Maister M'Kail."

"Who is it, Jamie?" asked both his listeners in a breath.

"Oh, deed, wad I be Charlie Allan. Him and his company o' troopers are quartered down at Sanghar, and nae hollid wretches are no in a' Turner's army. If a' tales be true, there's naebody ken better than you, Miss Marion, hoo he wad like tae see his revenge got on the young laird o' Birkenclench."

"I believe you are right in that," said M'Kail. "But unprincipled as I believe Allan to be, he would never be so ungrateful as to harm Mr. Gordon, to whom he is so much indebted."

"Weel, I wish ye may find it eae, but my opinion is that he's no tae be trusted, and I jealousy that he has a cause o' anger that mak's a'ne like him sick at naething. But I'm nae a' joggin'." Gaid nicht w' ye baith, and I hope ye'll get safe owre the muir. Hup, wab, Dick, my man; ye and me has tae gang tae Muirkirk the night."

No saying, Jamie brought his stick gently down on the neck of his pony, and as it fell ed away at its wonted leisurely pace, the even-tempered cadger struck again into a verse of his favourite border ballad.

"Oh, and Charlie Allan has become a persecuting trooper," remarked M'Kail, as he and his fair companion continued their way. "It might have been otherwise though, Marion, if you had made choice of him instead of Walter Elliot. Your influence over him might have prevented this sad result."

"Surely, Hugh, you do not blame me for the choice I made?" said Marion Gordon, in a tone of wounded surprise. "Would you have had me prefer Charlie to Walter?"

Certainly not, my dear cousin. Your choice is an excellent one, and such as all your friends most cordially approve. Walter Elliot is a brave manly youth, who, I am sure, will prove himself worthy of the training your father gave him, and Allan is wholly the reverse. But a maiden's heart is often wayward in its choice, and it might have been that your love had fixed itself on the unworthy object."

"Oh no, Hugh," returned Marion, very decidedly. "I could never have loved Charlie Allan. I always thought him selfish and heartless, and no more like Walter than—"
