ATTACKS ON "K." HELP RECRUITING

Northcliffe Press' Action Has Opposite Effect to That Intended.

STATEMENT IN COMMONS
Member Remarks That Same Papers Refused to Publish Appeal for Men.

[Canadian Press.]
London, June 7.—All the new ministers of the coalition cabinet appeared on the front bench in the House of Commons this afternoon. Premier Asquith and the new Secretary for the Colonies, A. Bonar Law, and others were cheered by the whole House when they arose to answer questions.

Premier Asquith announced that the response to Field Marshal Earl Kitchener's appeal for 300,000 recruits had been satisfactory.

A full announcement of the Government's policy regarding recruiting would be made later, the Premier said in response to questions whether conscription would be introduced.

Welcoming Italy.
Alluding to the intervention of Italy, Mr. Asquith said: "During half a century there has been a shadow of discord between the two nations. We regard her as one of the custodians of the free traditions of Europe. We grasp the hand of Italy and welcome her gallant sailors and soldiers as fellow comrades in the struggle on which the liberty of the world depends."

Attack a Boomerang.
Frederick G. Kellaway, Liberal member for Bedford, asked "whether the Government has the power of stopping the mischievous campaign of a group of newspapers which endeavored to prevent men from joining the army by refusing to publish Lord Kitchener's appeal for more men, and violently attacking its conditions, and whether the Government was aware that these attacks came from the same source as did the recent attacks on Lord Kitchener?"

Harold I. Tennant, parliamentary under-secretary for war, replied: "The action of these journals has stimulated the response to Lord Kitchener's appeal. It is believed the men required will be rapidly available."

Mr. Tennant's answer was greeted with cheers.

ITALIAN WOMEN WILL HELP WORK IN FIELDS
Societies Being Formed to Look After Children During Day.

[Canadian Press.]
Rome, June 7.—A number of wealthy or well-to-do Italian women are at present engaged in organizing local societies throughout the kingdom to care for the children of the lower classes in the daytime, in order that their mothers, or other women in their families, might be free to work in the fields or in factories in the place of men who are at the front.

BULLYING BY BECK NOT WANTED IN THIS CITY

The citizens of London gave their answer to Big Bully Beck at the last municipal election, when they voted against the man who stood for his policies.

The organ of Beck in London—the organ which fought for Beck and Glaubitz and the whole crowd—cried out in spread eagle headlines, "A VOTE FOR GRAHAM IS A VOTE FOR BECK."

The reply of the citizens of London was to defeat Graham by the largest majority recorded against a mayoralty candidate in many years. WHEN THEY DEFEATED GRAHAM THEY DEFEATED BECK, JUST AS THEY DEFEATED GLAUBITZ AND THOSE WHO STOOD BEHIND HIM.

The citizens of London know that Beck has given this city some service—he has given it by shoving everyone else out of his way. No scheme of improvement has been allowed unless Beck could have a finger in it to snatch out the plum of public favor.

HE HAS TRIED TO MAKE LONDON A ONE-MAN TOWN. ONLY HIS CLIQUE HAS BEEN ALLOWED TO EXIST IN LONDON, BUT THE INFLUENCE OF THAT CLIQUE HAS BEEN ON THE WANE SINCE THE LAST MUNICIPAL ELECTION.

The city of London has spoken its mind on the Beck brand of Boss-ism and Bully-ism.

Beck stood to hold Glaubitz in the city of London. His name appeared on the petition circulated in the interests of the late general manager of the utilities, who is now "resting" in the United States. That was another matter on which Beck was given a definite answer.

YOUNG LONDONER PRISONER OF WAR SERGT. DUGUID IS PRISONER OF WAR

Londoner With 48th Highlanders Writes From Gottingen.
MAY RECEIVE PARCELS Regulations Regarding Letters Much More Strict He Advises.

Sergeant George D. Duguid, of the 48th Highlanders, and formerly of 240 Street, is a prisoner in Gottingen, Hanover, Germany. A card to his mother, Mrs. E. R. Duguid, written on April 26, reached this city only on Friday. Sergeant Duguid was formerly employed by the McClary Company in this city, and about four years ago was promoted to head shipper for the firm in Toronto. It is said that he is in the 48th Highlanders when war was declared.

The card from the German prison barracks reads: Prisoner at Gottingen, April 26, 1915. Sergeant George D. Duguid, Prisoner of War, Barracks 62a, Gottingen, Hanover, Germany. Dear Mother.—The above is my address for the next month at least. I was captured the other day, and I am being treated well so far. We are allowed to write four cards and two letters a month; we are allowed to receive all parcels, but not too many letters, and all have to be censored. I can't throw a racket without a scratch, but a lot of our boys were knocked out. (Signed) GEORGE.

First Word Received.
For some time before the foregoing card was written, no word had been heard of Sergt. Duguid. Telegrams to the militia department at Ottawa were answered with the message that no official word had been received there. The council was presumably taken as Langemarck. He was well known in London, having lived here all his life before going to Toronto.

CHIEF CONSTABLE OF COUNTY NEEDS AUTO FOR WORK
County Council Will Decide Matter at Present Session.
Among the questions to be dealt with by the county council which commenced its June session at 2 o'clock this afternoon, was the matter of purchasing an automobile for the High County Constable, Ben Waterworth.

It is claimed that crime in the county could be reduced, and the work of the constabulary made more efficient if an automobile were always at the disposal of the officers.

BRITISH AIRMEN BLOW ZEPPELIN ALL TO PIECES

AIRSHIP SHEDS BURNED

Other Aviators Drop Bombs, Destroying Building and Perhaps Machine.

BLOWN TO PIECES.

[Canadian Press.]
London, June 7.—3 p.m.—The admiralty announced today that a Zeppelin had been blown to pieces over Belgium by British airmen.

The statement follows: "This morning at 2:30 a.m. an attack was made on the airship shed at Evere, north of Brussels, by Flight Lieut. J. P. Wilson, R. N., and J. S. Mills, R. N. Bombs were dropped and the shed was observed to be in flames. "It is not known whether a Zeppelin was inside, but the flames reached a great height, coming out from both sides of the shed. Both pilots returned safely."

"At 3 this morning, Flight Sub-Lieut. R. A. J. Warneford, R. N., attacked a Zeppelin in the air, between Ghent and Brussels. At 6,000 feet he dropped six bombs, and the airship exploded, fell to the ground and burned for a considerable time.

"The force of the explosion caused the monoplane to turn upside down. The pilot succeeded in righting the machine, but he had to make a forced landing in the enemy's country. However, he was able to restart his machine, and returned safely to the aerodrome."

THRILLING ESCAPE.
[Special Cable to The Advertiser.]
Paris, France, June 7.—The destruction of a Zeppelin between Ghent and Bruges, followed one of the most thrilling air battles the world has ever known. The British airmen shot upward to a height of six thousand feet and hurled six bombs at the great dirigible, which zig-zagged in flight to escape attack. Scarcely a second after the last bomb went shooting down, a terrific explosion rent the airship. It crumpled in the centre and darted towards the earth.

Biplane Turned Over.
The force of the explosion caused the British biplane to turn completely over. For nearly a minute the aviator struggled desperately, while his machine slid rapidly towards earth. By an almost superhuman effort he regained control of his levers and righted the biplane less than 200 feet from the ground.

Antoined Enemy.
The rapidity of his escape, however, carried the biplane to earth with a rough jar. The landing place was beneath the German lines. The mechanician sprang out, "cranked" the propeller, and the biplane was off before the astonished Germans in a neighboring field could get range with their guns.

The aviators who bombarded the Zeppelin shed north of Brussels returned safely, the admiralty announced.

WASHINGTON HAS RUMORS OF PEACE Stories Apparently Originate in Interested International Banking Houses.

NOTE STILL HELD BACK
Ready for Dispatch, But Awaits Word From President Wilson.

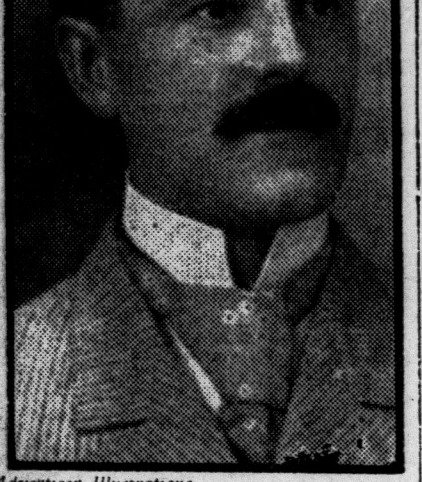

[Special to The Advertiser.]
[By John Edwin Nevill.]
Washington, June 7.—While President Wilson's note to Berlin remained unopened, indefinite rumors of possible moves that might end the European struggle circulated through Washington diplomatic circles today.

They were so intangible that it was impossible to locate their authorship. The rumors apparently had their origin in the offices of the international banking houses, which are naturally interested in the restoration of early peace.

The note itself was once more back in President Wilson's hands. It was stated that the President was highly displeased over the wholesale speculation over its contents.

ITALIANS ADVANCE ON 40-MILE FRONT

Stretches Across Isonzo River From Caporetto to the Seacoast.

HARD FIGHTING BEGINNING

Austrian Resistance Gets Stronger and Italians More Determined.

[Canadian Press.]
Udine, Italy, June 7.—A general Italian advance is taking place today across the Isonzo River from Caporetto to the sea, a distance of about forty miles. The movement is one of importance and hard fighting is taking place at Gradisca and in the vicinity of the town.

The Italian authorities are drawing tighter the screen of secrecy as to the Italian operations. Nevertheless, it may be said that masses of Italian troops have been concentrated on the roads from Cormons, Patmanova and Cervignano.

The resistance of the Austrians is daily becoming stronger. This Italian staff officers declare, has had the effect of making their men more determined.

Tolmino, on the east side of the Isonzo, is one of the Italian objectives.

AUSTRIAN STORIES OF PRZEMYSL CAPTURE Claim They Took 7,000 Prisoners and Many Guns.

[Canadian Press.]
Berlin, June 7.—Via London, June 7.—Special dispatches received in Berlin from the Austrian army headquarters give certain details of the capture of Przemyśl by the Austrians. The Russian garrison had been given orders to hold Przemyśl to the last man, but they were overwhelmed by the terrific artillery fire of the Germans and the Austrians.

Everything indicates that the Teutonic allies are beginning the sixth week of their Galician campaign with a promising outlook. The Russians have lost their line on the river San, and they appear also about to lose their positions on the River Dniestr. These same advices indicate further that the Russians to the east and northeast of Czernowitz already have begun to retreat.

PAVE SIDE STREETS.—It is expected that resolutions will be put through the council at meeting this evening for the immediate start of the concrete pavements for the side streets in South London. These side streets, which include the completion of Tecumseh avenue from Marley Place to Ridout street, Briscoe street from Ridout to Wortley road, Edward street from Bruce to Elmwood, and Gerard and Belgrade avenues from Grand avenue to Duchess avenue, have already been authorized.

CANADIANS FACE TERRIBLE FIRE AS IF OUT ON PARADE
Go Into Attack With Steadiness That Compels Admiration of British Soldiers—No Better Example Possible.

[Special Cable to The Advertiser.]
London, June 6.—"It gives us great courage to know that we have such a man to rely on," writes Corporal O'Brien, of the Coldstream Guards, speaking of the Canadians. "Only the other day," he says, "they went into attack just as if they were drilling in Hyde Park. I never saw anything like it, each man keeping about two paces interval, going at a walking pace with dozens of maxims turned on them, besides field artillery guns and the whole of the German rifle fire, for about a mile in front of them. In fact, no better example could be shown by any regiment under the British flag."

SEVERE ARTILLERY FIGHT

Enemy's Attacks on Sugar Refinery and Labyrinth All Repulsed.

[Canadian Press.]
Paris, June 7.—2:40 p.m.—The French war office this afternoon gave out the following statement on the progress of hostilities:

"In the sector to the north of Arras last night was marked by an engagement of artillery of extreme severity, particularly in the vicinity of Lorette, of Ablain, of the 'cabanet Rouge' near Souchez, of the 'Labyrinth' and of Ecurie.

"The enemy in this same sector delivered two counter-attacks, each of which failed completely. One was against the sugar refinery of Souchez, which was checked by the fire of our artillery, while the other was against the northern part of the 'Labyrinth' which was driven back by our infantry."

More Progress.
"On the other hand our forces have made further progress. "Particularly did we gain ground one kilometre (two-thirds of a mile) east of the Chapel of Lorette, and in the central part of the work called 'the Labyrinth,' we advanced about 100 yards.

"This morning at 5 o'clock we delivered an attack near Hebuterne against the positions of the enemy located in the neighborhood of the 'Touffant' farm. Here we occupied along a front of 1,200 yards two successive lines of trenches; made some prisoners, and captured some machine guns.

Counter-Attacks Failed.
"To the north of the Aisne, not far from Moulin-Sous-Touvent, the counter-attacks on the part of the enemy yesterday continued throughout the entire night.

In this very intense fighting we have retained our gains, at the same time keeping possession of our position. About one kilometre of the two lines of trenches captured by us from the enemy during the day.

The endeavor to bombard Verdun, reported the day before yesterday, has not since been repeated.

There is nothing to report from the remainder of the front."

BERLIN'S VERSION.
Berlin, June 7.—Via London, 3:20 p.m.—The war office issued the following statement today: "Western theatre of war: The French renewed their attacks on the southern slope of Lorette Hill during the afternoon and evening of yesterday. Their attacks broke down completely under our fire. Further attempts to make an attack during the night were stopped at the outset.

"The enemy attacked unsuccessfully this morning southeast of Hebuterne, east of Doullens. The battle has not yet come to a conclusion. A French attack extending over the large front at Moulin-Sous-Touvent, northeast of Soissons, was for the greater part repulsed immediately. In only one place did the attack reach our outer trenches, for possession of which fighting continued.

Alleges Burning Fluid.
"Our position at Vauquois was attacked yesterday. Notwithstanding the employment of what he thought were harmless and edible morsels, he had gathered. His little granddaughter, the only member of them, was affected slightly.

Mr. Jackson was seized with violent cramps early today, and when given whiskey as a stimulant, vomited a quantity of the morsels he had eaten yesterday. His condition became so serious that Dr. A. B. Pingel was called. The medical man found his patient in a condition of collapse and quite pulseless. He had turned almost black and exhibited all the symptoms of ptomaine poisoning in its worst form. Dr. Pingel at once administered restorative but was unable early this afternoon to pronounce Mr. Jackson out of danger. He declared, however, that he had seen dead if treatment had been delayed an hour more.

There was no doubt, he said, that the poisoning was attributable to the morsels, and he declared that the case was one of the worst of its kind he had seen. The little girl who had complained of pains after eating them, he thought, must have eaten only a very small quantity as her symptoms though similar to those apparent in her grandfather's were very slight.

BRITISH FORCES GAIN BRILLIANT SUCCESS IN LANDING TROOPS ON BANKS OF THE TRIGIS

Sir Percy Cox Leads Them to Amara, Far From Main Lines of Battle—Anglo-Indian Army Captures Gunboat, Guns and Prisoners.

[Canadian Press.]
London, June 7.—Following the capture of the Russian position at Przemysl, the Germans apparently have sent heavy reinforcements to the western line, where there are distinct signs of a resumption of the offensive on the part of the invaders.

Nevertheless, the French report a slow and uninterrupted advance in the sector north of Arras, and important gains north of the Aisne. According to a French official report, French troops, after a very effective bombardment at a point east of Tracy-Le-Mont and north of the River Aisne, carried two successive lines of trenches on a front of one kilometre, together with several German works.

Brilliant British Victory.
This morning the British public was informed that their forces have won a brilliant success at a point far from the main lines of battle on the continent. Sir Percy Cox, at the head of a strong naval and military force, has gained a foothold at Amara, on the Tigris River, half way from the head of the Persian Gulf to the city of Baghdad. During the past few days the Anglo-Indian army operating in this region has captured a number of prisoners, as well as guns and ammunition, and have taken a gunboat, steamers and steam barges, which is so demoralized that it is doubtful if it will be able to offer serious resistance to a further British advance in Mesopotamia.

The only naval activity of the week-end was the engagement at the entrance of the Gulf of Riga. In the Baltic, which, according to Petrograd, resulted in the sinking of several German transports and one large unnamed vessel, with the Russians losing one auxiliary ship.

Details of this sea encounter are meagre, but it is surmised in London that a majority of the German vessels concentrated at Kiel came out into the Baltic. It is quite clear, however, that no battle was in any sense decisive. It is expected in London that the Germans will renew their efforts to land troops on the Baltic coast of Russia.

Political Move.
In the east, the Austro-German advance is continuing, with Eastern Galicia figuring prominently as the objective. This move is regarded in London as a political, the idea of the Germans and Austrians being to exert an influence upon Roumania.

Petrograd announces a Russian success along the River Pruth, near Kooma, where the Austro-Germans are said to have been forced back across the river. Petrograd says also that the Russian line of defense must be pushed on account of the use of poison-gases by the Germans. The reason for this is that these works, technically correct under the ordinary conditions of warfare, become death traps when exposed to this new engine of hostility.

The fighting along the central section of the river Isonzo has developed a series of fierce engagements with the Italians finding stronger opposition than they hitherto have met, the Austrians being formidably entrenched.

EXPERT FALLS VICTIM TO POISONOUS MUSHROOMS

Kent Street Man in Precarious Condition After Eating Them.
The difficulty of distinguishing between the edible and poisonous varieties of mushrooms and morels was exemplified by what may yet be the fatal experience of Charles Jackson, of Kent street. Although recognized as an authority on these fungi, he is now in a critical condition and may die as the result of eating what he thought were harmless and edible morsels which he had gathered. His little granddaughter, the only member of them, was affected slightly.

Mr. Jackson was seized with violent cramps early today, and when given whiskey as a stimulant, vomited a quantity of the morsels he had eaten yesterday. His condition became so serious that Dr. A. B. Pingel was called. The medical man found his patient in a condition of collapse and quite pulseless. He had turned almost black and exhibited all the symptoms of ptomaine poisoning in its worst form. Dr. Pingel at once administered restorative but was unable early this afternoon to pronounce Mr. Jackson out of danger. He declared, however, that he had seen dead if treatment had been delayed an hour more.

There was no doubt, he said, that the poisoning was attributable to the morsels, and he declared that the case was one of the worst of its kind he had seen. The little girl who had complained of pains after eating them, he thought, must have eaten only a very small quantity as her symptoms though similar to those apparent in her grandfather's were very slight.

SUBMARINES GET BRITISH STEAMERS IN RAID ON 'BRITAIN'

Sunlight and Star of the West Sunk—Both Crews Landed.
[Canadian Press.]
London, June 7.—The British bark Sunlight, of Liverpool, 1,298 net tons, has been sunk by a German submarine. The captain and crew of the bark arrived at Queenstown today. They say that they were given time to take their boats before the vessel was sunk by shell fire from the submarine. The Sunlight left Macoris, Santo Domingo, May 1 for the port of Liverpool. The bark was sunk by a German submarine. The crew escaped, and has been landed at Peterhead.

ANOTHER GONE.
London, June 7.—A dispatch received here from Aberdeen says the British steamer Star of the West has been sunk by a German submarine. A trawler brought the crew into Aberdeen.

LOVE OF JUSTICE SENT THE BRITONS TO BELGIUM'S AID

Rev. Dr. Flanders Tells of Country's Most "Powerful Allies."

GENIUS OF ANGLO-SAXON

Indomitable Will of Englishman Stands Against Might of Foe.

"Our Greatest Allies" was the subject of an impressive sermon preached by Rev. Dr. C. R. Flanders, at the evening service in the First Methodist Church yesterday. "Our greatest allies," he said, "are not France, Russia, Belgium and Italy, although these are great, but those forces which have worked ever for the advantage of our great nation, and which, in a crisis like this with which the empire is faced today, fight with us."

Speaking from the text, Judges, v. 26—"They fought from heaven, the stars in their courses fought against Sisera," he reminded his hearers that Israel, in its struggle against the oppression of Sisera, was aided by a number of phenomena of nature to which Deborah, in her song, referred as "the stars in their courses."

And so about the heroism of the British Empire were many stars which in their courses fought to bring about the overthrow of our enemies. These phenomena, he said, were of different forms, and Dr. Flanders divided them into three separate classes, the first of which he described as the heaven-born genius of the Anglo-Saxon race, representing the characteristics which peculiarly fitted that race for conquest.

Among these characteristics was an indomitable will. An Englishman never knew when he was beaten, which accounted for the result of the battle of Waterloo, where the "thin red line" was beaten in white again, but without being aware of the fact.

British Sense of Justice. Another characteristic of Britons was a keen sense of justice. The indomitable will alone produced a race of barbarians, such as the Germans were proving themselves to be. That a sense of justice was a necessary part of the British nation, Dr. Flanders said, was proved by the very fact of Britain's participation in the war. It was her sense of justice which made her go to the assistance of Belgium.

A kind nature also was a British characteristic. It was a noticeable fact that the Germans, when they found themselves unable longer to continue a defence, never hesitated to surrender to the British, the reason being that they knew that as prisoners of war they were sure of kind and considerate treatment.

High National Ideals. The second set of forces referred to by the speaker were the heaven-born ideals of the British nation. The prevailing British ideal of democracy was one of the most powerful fighting for the success of Britain in the present war. The soldiers of Britain were not fighting at the will of a few military autocrats, but for themselves and the institutions of freedom.

The ideal and spirit of chivalry was another factor which was making Britain a successful nation. The interference of Britain in the war in Europe was perhaps the most notable of the kind in the history of warfare. She interfered in defence of the weak against the strong, of the right against the wrong. She, the nation of white spirit similar to that which inspired the Crusaders, Britain, of all countries, was the outstanding exponent of chivalry today.

Inspiration of Past. Britain's inspiring past also had a great deal to do with the bravery with which her soldiers and sailors were fighting. That the past was the present was as true as that the child is father of the man. It was the inspiration of heroic deeds of the past which caused Canadians never before trained for war and not directly endangered by the conflict, to become veritable dogs in leash. The spirit of the present war was won by the spirit of the battles of Balaklava and Waterloo. Britain had no greater ally this side of heaven than her glorious past.

"The Comrade in White." But the third and greatest force fighting for Britain was the God of Israel. Dr. Flanders referred to the fact that stories had been told of soldiers having professed to have seen a figure dressed in white moving in front of their ranks, and which they had designated their "comrade in white." This, of course, was a myth, but it was a suggestion of the actuality, for God was fighting for the right against the wrong, for the oppressed against the oppressor, and for the weak against the strong. With him on our side we could not fail to achieve victory.

Eczema Was Cured Twelve Years Ago

Dr. Chase's Ointment Proved To Be a Permanent Cure.

The old idea of eczema being a disease of the blood has been pretty well exploded by the record of cures made by Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Some doctors still advise internal treatment, but the results are slow and uncertain, and too often a lamentable failure. With Dr. Chase's Ointment it is different. You apply the ointment to the sore parts. It cleanses the sores and soon sets up the healing process. In a few days you can see with your own eyes the wonderful change that is taking place and are encouraged to keep up the treatment until the cure is complete, and the sores replaced by smooth, natural skin.

It is wise to look after your general health, keep the bowels regular and the blood rich, but you can depend on Dr. Chase's Ointment to cure the eczema if you will do your part and apply it regularly.

Mr. W. H. Roberts, Charlottetown, P.E.I., writes: "I can recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment to anyone suffering from itching skin disease. I had

THOUSANDS THROUG CITY PARK TO HEAR BENEFIT CONCERT

Marconi Club Band Scores Hit With Vast Crowd.

Thousands thronged Victoria Park Sunday night when the first outdoor band concert of the season was given by the Marconi Club Italian band, under the leadership of Prof. Pasquale Venuta. The concert was in aid of the Red Cross Society of this city, and was held under the auspices of the Daughters of the Empire. Prof. Venuta and the members of the band gave their services free, and also a considerable sum of money was taken in collections at the gates of the park.

Almost every number in the musical program was repeatedly applauded for encore. The Miserere selection from Il Trovatore was given a tremendous applause. "Tipperary" received great applause, and also a special number, a military march arranged by Prof. Venuta, called "The Disembarkation of the Canadian Soldiers in France," in which cornet solos from a distant part of the grounds were introduced.

Mayor H. A. Stevenson, in a speech from the grandstand, explained the great need for musical instruments and supplies for the British and allied armies, which the Red Cross Society is working to supply.

Before he came to Canada, had been leader of bands on several British battleships, one of them the Monmouth, which has been sunk. The music of the band is similar to those of the officers in the Italian Bersaglieri regiments.

The program follows:
"The March of the Belgians," by Donati; "Belgium Serenade," solo cornet, by Longo; "Mazurka—solo cornet, by Mariani; "Giovanna D'Arco—overture, with solo cornet, clarinet and violin, by Verdi; "Sul Mare—waltz, by Barba; "Trovatore—Miserere selection, with solo cornet, baritone trombone, by Verdi; "Disembarkation of the Canadian Soldiers in France," military march by P. Venuta; "Pout-Pouri, Boccaccio, selections, by Suppe; "L'Amor Tradito—miserere selection, by Marchetti; "Red Cross, military march by P. Venuta; Solos by the following were included in the selections: E. Cruciani, cornet; A. Mancini, clarinet; T. Moretti, baritone; G. Cecchini, trombone; D. Cortese, flute.

WOODMEN ATTEND MEMORIAL SERVICE FOR DEAD MEMBERS

City Camp Parade to Egerston Street Baptist Church.

The combined camps of the Woodmen of the World of this city marched to Egerston Street Baptist Church yesterday afternoon and heard a special address by Rev. W. C. Riddiford. The day was spent by the Woodmen in order for memorial services for dead brothers and in the course of his address Rev. Mr. Riddiford referred to the fact that the Woodmen of the World are a religious organization, and that in the lives of Jesus and Joseph. He urged the necessity of purity in the lives of all and complimented the members upon their high moral principles as are contained in the Woodmen's ritual as a foundation for their work.

"To point out the innumerable benefits of a good fraternal society and the great work it can do in helping members in distress and their wives. The speaker, Mr. Riddiford pointed out the meanness of greed and urged all members never to repeat any mean things they heard about another.

BUY "MADE IN CANADA" FIRST, NOW, ALWAYS

A man who entered a downtown store the other day to make a purchase, asked the salesman where the goods were made. "In Canada," he was told. "All right," he said, "but I like to ask and make sure about everything I buy. I absolutely refuse to purchase anything manufactured in Germany or Austria."

The salesman, realizing that this probably was a pretty general sentiment, and with the knowledge that his employer had a considerable quantity of German-made goods in stock, which he had purchased before the war, attempted to argue the point with the customer. He urged that it was rather hard luck for the dealer, who had laid in a large stock of articles made in Germany before the outbreak of the war, to have them left on his hands.

"By refusing to buy such goods," he said, "you are not hurting Germany, since the transaction was completed many months ago, so far as that country was concerned, but you are injuring a Canadian tradesman."

"That may be all right," was the reply, "and I do not doubt your firm's bona fide, but it is almost certain that German-made goods are being smuggled into America, and I am not going to take any chances. Besides, the dealer who bought from a German or Austrian firm even before the war has himself to blame for his present misfortune, to some extent. It was his own fault, then as now to patronize the home industries, and the war has simply driven that fact home."

HURLED FROM BUGGY WHEN HORSE BOLTS

John Taylor, of lot 23, con. 1, London Township, was rendered unconscious when he was hurled from a buggy, the result of his horse taking fright and bolting near Mount Pleasant Cemetery, Saturday afternoon. He was taken to his home, and Dr. Ross, of Hyde Park, attended him. His injuries are not serious.

APPRECIATE "SMOKES"

Vivian Reeve Receives Many Acknowledgments From Soldiers.

Postcards from five Canadian soldiers at the front were received Saturday by Vivian Reeve, 700 Wellington street, conveying thanks to those who contributed to the "cigarette fund" which Mr. Reeve organized some time ago with the object of supplying smoking material to the boys who are fighting the empire's battles in France and Belgium.

The name of the donor was enclosed with each pack of tobacco or cigarettes, and the recipients have addressed their thanks to these individuals, addressing their postcards to Mr. Reeve, because his was the only address given.

The "smokes" were purchased from a London, England, firm who sent them direct to the soldiers, accompanied by postcards already addressed to the Good Samaritans in Canada, and bearing on the address side the picture of a Tommy sitting on a packing case, smoking a cigarette which, from the smile on his face, he is enjoying thoroughly. "Underneath the picture are printed the words: 'Are we downhearted?' Below this, one of the grateful soldiers has written, 'Not by a sight.'"

The names of the boys is couched in every case in very brief form, and the cards are all dated May 16. The writers of them were: Armorer, Corporal J. Blagg, of the 14th Battalion, M.M.R.; A. E. Scott, P. Swift, G. S. Lajoie and J. E. Whitton, whose rank and battalion are not given.

LEGAL QUERIES

QUESTION—When A and B purchased adjoining farms, the line fence was built of barbed wire. They agreed to divide the fence, each taking half of it. If A's animals are injured on A's half, is A liable for damages?
ANSWER—No.

KAISER AND SATAN BLAZE NATIONALITY MATES

Both Believe in Autocratic Authority Over People, Says
Rev. J. B. Silcox.

MAN ONLY IS SACRED

First Congregational Pastor
Certain Progress Will Not Turn Back.

In his sermon last night in the First Congregational Church, Rev. J. B. Silcox argued that Christianity was responsible for modern democracy. Christianity from the beginning appealed to the people. It taught the equality of all men when it emphasized that God was no respecter of persons. It taught the social order there is no recognition in the republic of God," he said. "One is your Master, and all ye are brethren, is democratic in spirit and tendency. Christianity is a great leveller, and it levels up and not down. The democracy of the Gospel forbids us to call any man or race of men common or unclean. The religion of the Bible insists on the inherent sacredness of every soul in the sight of God.

"We talk about the sacredness of churches and ordinances, forgetting that the only thing on this broad earth that possesses any inherent sacredness is man. This doctrine of the sacredness of man is fundamental to good citizenship. To elevate the social order there is needed a deeper reverence for man. The Bible never belittles man. Systems of theology have, but the Bible never belittles man. The Bible puts honor on humanity, by teaching that man was originally made in the image of God, and is dear to God.

"The old dynasties and governments of the world were built on the worthlessness of the common people. Today commerce talks about the vested interests of property. Christianity talks about the sacred interests of the people. That is a poor political economy which adds wealth to a community but does not augment the manhood and womanhood of the nation.

"A nation's prosperity is to be measured not by the opulence of the few who live in palaces, but by the condition of the many who live in humble homes. The palaces and temples of antiquity rose on the degradation of the masses. The democracy of the Pharisees, the Nebuchadnezzars, the Caesars put no value on the individual man.

No Place for Democracy. "The Kaiser stands for absolute monarchism. He and Bismarck together had no place for social democracy. They are bitter opponents of popular government. Germany has never had a free press nor a free government. The supremacy of militarism and monarchism as represented by the Kaiser means a return to the dark ages. Great Britain is the only democratic nation on earth today. All the colonies she has planted are today free democracies of self-governing people.

The Kaiser and the Sultan are well mated. They both believe in autocratic authority. Magna Charta, which came into birth seven hundred years ago, is based on and grew out of the Christian conception of man as made in the image of God and redeemed by the Son of God. Britons have paid too high a price for free democratic institutions to give them up and how to militarism and monarchism. The Hohenzollern and Hapsburg dynasties will be swept away, and a free democracy of intelligent self-governing citizens will redeem these lands from the despotism that now seeks to dominate the whole world. The dial of progress will not turn back."

PTE. FRY DIED A HERO SAVING OTHERS' LIVES

Ran Horses That Threatened Children to Side of Road.

Writing from Shorecliffe under date of May 19, Pte. R. W. Fry, of the 3rd Battalion, Royal Canadian Mounted Police, tells of the death of Pte. Wesley G. Fry, of the C.A.S.C. "Pte. Wesley G. Fry," he writes, "died a hero, although he never saw the firing line. He gave his life that two women and several little children might live. He was walking along the roadside, when a team of horses attached to a load of hay became frightened and dashed down the road toward where a number of little children were playing. Two women made a dash to rescue the youngsters, but stood, paralyzed with fear, holding the hands of the children. Pte. Fry saw the danger and without a thought for himself, made a dive for the horses, and succeeded in turning the horses round and running them to the side of the road. Fry, however, was swung off his feet, and fell under the wheels of the heavy wagon, which passed over him. He died three hours later."

He was promoted to the rank of sergeant for his gallant act, and was given a military funeral by his comrades.

RICHMOND STREET FIRE GUTS FRAME SHOPS

Fire which broke out on Saturday evening in the paint shop of Botley & Slade at 507 Richmond street, quickly destroyed the building and gutted the adjoining premises, which were the property of ex-Alderman Stephen O'Meara, who had a small insurance. The loss will be about $20,000. The fire started in the paint shop. The advertiser that the cause of the blaze was undoubtedly spontaneous combustion in the paint and oils in the shop of Botley & Slade. The old frame structures were as dry as tinder and the flames licked them up in a few minutes.

A dozen people sent in alarms when the flames suddenly shot through the roof in the rear of Botley & Slade. The brigade made a record run, so far as the fire that before a line of hose could be laid Botley & Slade's shop had collapsed and L. Pich's was doomed. Thousands of sparks fell on half a dozen old barns in the rear and set them on fire and for a time it looked as though the loss would be heavy. Fire Chief Atkinson, however, and his men worked so effectively that the frame structures of A. Lattalo, only ten feet from a fierce blaze did not catch fire. The roofs of the barns were soon drenched and in half an hour the blaze was under control. The roof of Hunter's big livery barn also took fire but was soon put out.

Large Crowd Collected. A crowd of about 10,000 collected in a few minutes attracted by the glare of the fire. Among them were many soldiers who lent the fire department valuable aid in moving the lines of hose. The shop of N. Eusebi, Modern Shoe Repair, was only saved by a fireman. His stock of shoes was somewhat damaged by water.

Mr. O'Meara stated to the Advertiser that he had not decided whether he would rebuild.

Fearful Loss of Harp. During the progress of an Italian woman, greatly excited, ran to and fro screaming incoherently and the firemen at first thought someone was in the building. When they came to find out however, afterwards, she was urged to save a harp that was upstairs and which she valued highly. No harm was done to her premises.

FARMERS ELECT OFFICERS

The annual meeting of the East Middlesex Agricultural Association was held on Saturday in the office of J. B. White, Middlesex representative of the Ontario Department of Agriculture and the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Hugh Black, Dorchester; vice-president, W. Pack, Lambton; secretary-treasurer, James Wheaton, Thorndale.

It was decided to hold institute meetings during next winter at the following places: Thorndale, Harrietsville, Wilson Grove, Hird, Welburn, Cramp-ton, Salem and Hyde Park.

BANKS MAY ISSUE CHECK WITH STAMP ALREADY AFFIXED

Customers Would Pay Two Cents for Each Form.

The general public, according to local bank managers, has quickly adapted itself to the new banking conditions involved by the necessity of placing a war stamp on each check. They report that in very few instances indeed are checks presented for payment without the stamp.

A. D. McLean, manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, stated, that, although in occasional instances checks were not so stamped, the omission in every case was almost certainly only an oversight. He pointed out that if the drawer of a check failed to put a war stamp on it the payee had the privilege of remedying the omission, and said that almost invariably checks were stamped before they reached the bank.

He went on to say that, if it became apparent that the war tax was to continue for any considerable period, the banks probably would issue checks already embossed with a war stamp, paying the Government the cost of the stamp and charging customers two cents for each check issued to them.

AUTO TURNS TURTLE; LONDONERS ESCAPE

Four Londoners, three of them women, narrowly escaped death or serious injury, when an auto in which they were riding turned turtle into a five-foot ditch at the side of the Port Stanley road just outside of St. Stanley early last night. The steering rod on the car broke, and the auto became uncontrollable. The car was being driven by a London traveler.

None of the occupants of the car were badly injured, although two of them were considerably shocked and shaken up. The three women in the car were saved from probable death or serious injury by the fact that the car was propped up by the overturned auto, and prevented it from crushing them. They were able to crawl out from under the machine, which was badly smashed.

JAPANESE EMPEROR APPROVES TREATIES

House Rejects Lack of Confidence Vote Against Minister.

Tokio, Japan, June 7.—The Emperor and the privy council gave approval today to the new treaties with China, negotiated as a result of the concessions made by China in accepting Japan's ultimatum. The treaties will be ratified tomorrow.

The House of Representatives rejected, 130 to 222, the resolution introduced by the Opposition on Saturday, expressing lack of confidence in the cabinet Kanetake Oura, minister of the interior. M. Oura denied the charge that he had received a present of 1,000 yen ($400) at the time of the March election, from a candidate for membership in the House. The Opposition then introduced another resolution against the cabinet, alleging interference in the recent general election.

COULD NOT GO TEN STEPS FOR THE PAIN IN HIS KIDNEYS.

When you get a pain in the back you may rest assured that it comes from derangement of the kidneys, for were there not something wrong with the kidneys the back should be strong and well.

Doan's Kidney Pills regulate the kidneys. There is no further excuse for any kidney trouble to exist. What more needs to be said? While Doan's Kidney Pills are not a "balm for every ill," they are a "balm for every ill" that has its origin in the kidneys. They are a positive, never-failing remedy for every disease that has its origin in the kidneys. They are a positive, never-failing remedy for every disease that has its origin in the kidneys.

Mr. Adelard Cleroux, Eganville, Ont., writes: "I was troubled with my kidneys for four years. They were so bad at times I could not go ten steps for the pain they caused me. A doctor could not do me any good. A friend advised me to use Doan's Kidney Pills. I bought five boxes, and now I have been cured for over three years. I will recommend them to whoever may be suffering from kidney trouble."

CONFERENCE TELLS HIGHER BODY ITS ACTION WAS WISE

General Conference Censured
for Not Giving Franchise to Women.

LONDON PASTORS OBJECT
Liquor Evil and Temperance Discussed by Several Speakers.

[By Staff Reporter.]
St. Marys, June 7.—The refusal of the general conference of the Methodist Church to allow women equal privileges with men in church council bodies was censured by the London Conference members this morning, when, by a vote of 84 to 65, the body in session here decided that the higher council of the church did wrong in not giving women
the franchise.

The question was brought up by the report of the social service and evangelism committee, which was read. This had to do principally with the suffrage question and temperance.

The liquor traffic was roundly condemned in the report, and increased restriction in the trade urged by the committee in the government. That the bars in the Niagara district were closed during the war was highly praised, and the hope was held out that they would continue to remain shut forever. "The Empire's cruellest foe is the bar," read the report. It was worse than the German army and the other enemies Britain was battling with at the present time.

Object to Censure.
Several of the ministerial and lay delegates were of the opinion that the general conference should not come in for restricture because its members had refused suffrage to the women. Rev. W.
H. Harvey and Rev. D. N. McDonald, both of London, were among those who opposed having the London conference pass any resolution censuring the general conference. They thought such a reflection on the general conference was unwarranted, but the majority decided otherwise.

Rev. George Jackson, Walkerville, created great enthusiasm when he arose and made a stirring appeal for the rights of women in the church. Discussion on the report will be held this afternoon.

Above Politics.
Rev. John A. Ayers, one of the license commissioners recently appointed by the Ontario Government, and W. S. Dingman, another of the commissioners, were present at this morning's session and addressed the conference members.
"The commission is above politics,"
said Mr. Ayers, "and is tied in no way.
Politicians cannot influence its work,
and I know that the commission will
work hard and do my utmost to further
the cause of temperance."

"I am a firm believer in spiritual, mental, and muscular Christianity," said W. S. Dingman, stating that the disposition of the Government was to interfere with the commission in any way.
"The commission is above politics,"
said Mr. Ayers, "and is tied in no way.
Politicians cannot influence its work,
and I know that the commission will
the cause of temperance."

Asked as to how long the commission was appointed for, and when its activities ceased, he stated that this was a matter wholly in the hands and at the pleasure of the Government.

A telegram from Kingsville Methodist was read which stated that they were highly pleased at having the conference meet there next year.

Expected C. T. A. to Carry.
Rev. W. J. Smith, of the department of social service and evangelism of the Methodist Church, Toronto, addressed the conference on the evils of the liquor traffic, and referred to the coming vote in Perth County on the Canadian temperance act. He was positive it would carry, and enlarged on the fact that,
although 15 years ago it was impossible to enforce the act, such was not the case now.

The report of the Sunday school committee showed that 5,238 scholars were attending Sunday school, and 5,338 teachers were teaching them. Those taking teachers' courses numbered 564.
That only one-quarter of the scholars were attending Sunday school was lamented, and more attention to work of temperance in the Sunday schools was urged in the committee's report.

The sustentation fund committee's clause in its report that only $150 be devoted to helping pay the salary of a minister on poor circuits was passed,
although much discussion was engendered before the resolution finally went through. The church property committee brought in several recommendations which were passed.

SYNOD NEXT WEEK

Huron Diocesan Meeting Begins Here
on Tuesday.

The Synod of Huron will meet next week in London, beginning Tuesday, June 15. A large number of the ministers of Huron College are expected to take advantage of the occasion to revisit their Alma Mater. Many have already signified their intention of staying at the college, which is always glad, as far as accommodations permit,
to make arrangements for their visit.
The ordination of this year's class takes place next Sunday.

RESTARTS IN GERMANY

Hebrew-Owned Paper Calls on Government to End Attack.

London, June 7.—The Exchange Telegraph Company has received a despatch from Berlin, by way of Amsterdam, stating that the Berliner Tagblatt declares that the German anti-semitic organs are starting a new campaign to prevent Hebrews from becoming officers in the army
after the war.

The Tagblatt, which is owned by a Hebrew, is urging the Government to stop the attacks on Hebrews, insomuch as Hebrews are "dying gloriously
on the fields of battle."

WINDSOR MESSAGE REACHES OTTAWA AFTER 23 HOURS

Relay Cyclists Make Average Speed of 17 Miles an Hour.

ONE RIDER LOSES WAY
Another Lies Unconscious By Road For Half An Hour.

[Canadian Press.]
OTTAWA, June 6.—The relay motorcycle race that started from Windsor Ont., Saturday morning at 6 o'clock, finished here at 12:28 Sunday morning.
S. W. Sylva bringing the message given to the riders by the mayor of Windsor to Gen. Sam Hughes, minister of militia, on the last lap of the journey from Kingston to Ottawa. Sylva, who belonged to Smith's Falls, went to Kingston and picked up the message there.
The representative of the second team arrived at 2:08 Sunday morning.
Taking the distance from Windsor as 540 miles, the average speed made was a shade under seventeen miles an hour.
Sylva made about 23 miles an hour between Kingston and Ottawa, but would have been able to do better than that had he not lost his way, which delayed him for some time.

ONE RIDER UNCONSCIOUS.
TORONTO, June 6.—One hour and 42 minutes later, the dispatch by motorcycle relays from the mayor of Windsor to Major-General Hughes at Ottawa arrived at the city. The rider, who was minutes was lost between Windsor and London, owing to Kerr, of London, and A. McColl, of Stratford. Of the three who rushed into Toronto, T. Smith alone arrived, after lying unconscious on the Dundas road for nearly half an hour. He missed only two minutes of his schedule time. He was received by the mayor and a number of citizens at the Parliament Buildings. A troop composed of Frank Morris, Frank Ryan and W. Edwards took the message and rushed it east.

LIEUT. W. C. BUTLER MADE SPEECH AT OXFORD

"Rather Make Charge on German Trench," He Writes Home.

TO TOUR OXFORDSHIRE
Convalescent London Officer Will Speak in Interests of Recruiting.

Though still prevented from re-entering active service by the wound he received in the battle of Langemarck, Lieut.
W. C. Butler, of the 1st Battalion, C.
E. F., is doing splendid service.
Letters just received by his parents relate that while he was staying at Eynham Hall, Witney, Oxon, which is the property of Lady Evelyn Mason, he addressed a number of Oxford University Officers' Convalescent Camp recruits.
"We had to make speeches and criticize the manoeuvres. Can you imagine me making a speech to the professors of Oxford University?" he writes.

"I think I would rather make a charge on a German trench," he says.
Eynham Hall is one of the finest mansions in the county. Butler, who was wounded at the battle of Langemarck, has been in the hospital since he was wounded, and is now recovering.

SPIES WITH PIGEONS CAUGHT IN BRITAIN

Woman Aided in Detection and Was Rewarded.

An interesting and hitherto unpublished story of spy detection in the old land is contained in a letter received by a London lady from a friend in England.

The letter says in part:
"I am going to tell you of one of the things that don't get into the papers.
This is quite true, and happened to a cousin of a lady I know slightly. This lady was a few weeks ago coming from Bath to London. She got into a carriage of a train in which were two men already seated. When the train started she saw that these men were very German-looking and spoke in a guttural way. So feeling disgusted, and not wishing to get into conversation with them, she took up her book and, leaving her back in her corner, pretended to go to sleep."

"After a while, the men, feeling sure she was asleep, took a basket from under the seat and opened it. Out of a corner of my eye she saw that the men saw them let a couple of pigeons from the window! Carriers of course! And with a message!"

"She, of course, did not dare to speak,
but instead of coming on to London, she got out at Reading, a large place midway, and notified immediately the station police. She had clearly written down the number of the carriage, without being seen. This she gave to the police, with the result that upon the arrival of the train at London, the police from Scotland Yard were awaiting the two men, who were promptly arrested."

The lady had given her name and address, and thought the matter finished.
She did not know that the police had telephoned through to have the men stopped, but about a week after she received a letter from the war office, thanking her for her presence of mind and promptitude, and inclosing a check for £120, and saying that the men were two most dangerous spies, and the police had been on their track for some time. Wasn't that splendid?"

TWO LONDON VETERAN N.C.O.'S IN 33RD COMPANY

Left—Quartermaster-Sergeant C. Kendall. Right—Sergeant J. H. Thwaites. These two non-commissioned officers of D—London—company of the 33rd Battalion, which is under Capt. W. N. Ashplant, late city engineer, are serving for this city when the 33rd was being organized, served three years in the Sherwood Foresters in the old land. Sergt. Thwaites is a veteran of many years' service, and wears both King's and Queen's South African ribbons, as well as the "Black Mountain" ribbon of 1885. This medal is one that only a few of the Indian service veterans now in camp here possess. It is 28 years ago that the sergeant first donned the King's uniform, and he put in 17 years' service with the colors, without counting his present enlistment in the Canadian forces.

BERLIN REPORTS SINKING OF THE RUSSIAN CRUISER AMUR

Berlin, June 7.—By Wireless to Sey-ville.—The following statement was given out here officially today:
"A German submarine on June 4 sank the Russian cruiser Amur, of the second-class, near a Baltic port."

Attacks on England.
On the night of June 4-5, German airships attacked the coast of England, the naval port of Harwich (in Essex, England) and the harbor establishment at Harwich. They were conspicuously successful. Many bombs were dropped, and there was a large number of explosions. One pa-ticularly violent explosion was that of a gas tank, or oil tank, which was hit.
Bombs were dropped on the railroad depot.

"German airships were shot at vigilantly by guns on land and on ships.
They were not hit, and returned safely."

CITY PURCHASES MOTOR FIRE TRUCK

Agrees to Buy La France Machine at $7,850

BECK ASKS APPROVAL
Wants Sanction for L. and P.
S. R. Track-Laying on Street.

At a meeting of the board of control
today Mayor H. A. Stevenson signed $7,850 worth of five per cent three-year city of London debentures. Half of this amount is for Amelius Jarvis & Co., of Toronto, and the rest for Bolter, Mosser & Williamson, of Chicago.

The board accepted the tender of the La France Fire Engine Company, of Toronto, for a new motor combination fire truck at $7,850. The truck will be used for the old horse-drawn vehicle which the city has been trying to sell for some time.

The tender of the Standard Paving Company for new brick pavements on Ridout and Waterloo streets, at $2.29 per yard, was purchased.

Sir Adam Beck appeared before the board and asked its approval of plans he presented for the laying of tracks for the London and Port Stanley railway. He said, would commence this afternoon. He stated that he expected that the London and Port Stanley line will open about July 1, and that the engines will be brought over from Connaught shortly. He stated that the management has already booked many excursions for the summer and while short of cars, would have no difficulty in securing some from the M. C. R.

Objections citizens might make regarding the laying of tracks in front of their property in the city, he stated,
would be dealt with by the railway commissioners when they meet here.

Laid Over Again.
The matter of rebuilding the combination fire truck, which was laid over some time ago, was left over.

A request from the Trades and Labor Council that on Dominion Day a mill band play in Victoria Park was referred to the finance committee.

Petitions against the proposed pavement on Wharmie, presented by W.
Kaiser and others, were insufficiently signed and were filed.

The latter Day Saints congregation was given permission to use the East End Hall while its church is being renovated.

KNOW BRITAIN'S VIEWS
Japan and China Well Aware, Says
Lord Robert Cecil.

London, June 7.—Lord Robert Cecil, Unionist member of Parliament for the north division of Hertfordshire, and recently appointed parliamentary undersecretary for foreign affairs, made his first appearance in the House of Commons as spokesman for the foreign office today. Replying to the question put by Sir William James Ball, Unionist member for Hammersmith, whether Great Britain had sent to China and Japan a note similar to the note on the China-Japan treaty, Lord Robert said:
"Both the Japanese and Chinese Governments are aware of the views of his majesty's Government on the subject."

ANTI-UNION DUTY EAGER FOR PRICE

Movement.

[Canadian Press.]
Kingston, June 7.—Church union was vigorously discussed by the Presbyterian assembly today. The party for the continuance of the Presbyterian church in Canada made a determined effort to have a true declaration until after the war.

Principal Forrest, of Halifax, presented the financial report for the eastern section, and the whole of our funds are in a very healthy condition.
We come before you with the full amount of our funds, and a very deparment of our church in spite of the war.

College Fund Lease.
Donations to the college fund were slightly below the required amount. The total income last year was $152,472.75,
an increase over 1911-12 of $12,560.47,
and an increase over 1912-13 of $2,569.43.
There was considerable discussion regarding the proper time to close the books, showing expenditures and receipts. Dr. A. S. Grant asserted that the board of trustees was not attending to its own business when suggesting a change in the system.

Repairs.
J. D. MacDonald expressed surprise that Dr. Grant should speak as he had.
He assured the assembly that the trustees were quite capable of attending to their business as was Dr. Grant.

Queen's University alumni will hold their annual association dinner tonight.
It is said that the assembly will complete its business on Friday.

It was decided that all departments expending or receiving money close their books December 31.

Rev. Dr. Clark, of Montreal, took up the union committee report left unfinished at previous session. He asserted that union had been going on on the church. There was no such thing as attempting to force union on the church. We are asking that the voice of the people be heard. Is it right that a party should be formed in this church to fight for a definite policy? he asked. He claimed that it was not right, and that he took up the true argument in detail.

No Missionary Opposed.
Dr. Clark concluded by saying that there was no missionary in the church who was opposed to union.

Dr. Thomas Sedgwick, Tatamau-gouche, N. S., presented a minority report. The members of the assembly were sent to the Methodist Conference Montreal College Alumni dinner will be held tonight.

Dr. R. G. McLeod, of Barrie, will speak for the minority at the next session.

ROTARY CLUB HEARS A SPLENDID ADDRESS

A. E. Silverwood Opens Some Phases of Produce Business.

One of the most interesting addresses
the members of the Rotary Club heard was given today by A. E. Silver-wood, head of Silverwood's Limited, in which he discussed the produce and cold storage business.

The speaker told, in convincing fashion, how under-production had caused eggs and butter to be imported,
and that butter from New Zealand
at 10 cents was a limit price for eggs.
The importation of eggs was increasing.
The speaker said that the produce business was beginning to affect the Ontario produce man. For instance, it was related that there was a plant in Edmonton capable of producing one million pounds of butter.

The members were interested in knowing that the Silverwood plant had a capacity to produce five per cent of dairy, and was now producing 5,000 pounds daily.

Mr. Silverwood said that both the present and former Governments have planned and subsidized the cold storage plants, and that as a result food products were not wasted, being harvested at the season of plenty and stored for the public at seasons of scarcity. He held that cold storage kept food pure and insured to the public an even price.
The old-time methods of pickling eggs were decried.

While Bert Wilkinson was passing the Harrison House Wm. Noxley punched him on the nose with his fist, and when he was taken to the hospital, he was told that he was guilty of assault,
and he was taxed $5 and costs.

Mrs. Mary May and Mrs. Brooks were brought over to keep the peace on each other's property.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

Death of Mrs. Graydon.
Mrs. Margaret Graydon, second wife of late ex-Mayor Simpson H. Graydon, died this morning at her home, 572
Dundas street.

For several years Mrs. Graydon had been failing in health, from paralysis,
although she had never suffered a paralytic stroke. The funeral will be held at private residence, 572 Dundas street, on Saturday at 2 o'clock. Surviving are five sons and two daughters: N. P. and
A. H. Marshall, of the law firm of Graydon & Simpson, Hackett, of Chicago; G. W. of this city; Miss S. O. Graydon, of this city; Mrs. R. W. Toulman, of Brooklyn, N. Y.

The late Mrs. Graydon was about 75 years old. She was born in Ireland.

Funeral of Mrs. Baker.
The funeral of Mrs. Mary Bertha Baker, 59 Elmwood avenue, who died on Saturday morning, will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock to Woodland Cemetery. Surviving are her husband, one son and one daughter.
Services will be conducted at the family residence at 2:30 o'clock.

Little Girl Dies.
Helen Marjorie Barnes, six-months-old daughter of John Frederick Barnes, 87 Trafalgar street, died on Sunday.
The funeral will be held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock to Woodland Cemetery. Surviving are her mother, Mrs. Barnes, and her father, Mr. Barnes,
of All Saints' Anglican Church.

GALT AND NEW DUNDEE.
GALT, June 5.—In one of the closest and hardest-fought football matches witnessed here this summer, New Dundee, Saturday afternoon, played the Galt City team to a tie, 1 to 1, in league game.

The district is by no means decided yet, and all the teams are putting up a good fight. The GOVERNMENT ACCEPTS 1,000 BEDS FROM LAVAL

Difficulty Expected in Getting Enough Doctors for Hospital.

[Canadian Press.]
Ottawa, June 7.—The government has accepted Laval's offer of one thousand beds for hospitals for wounded soldiers. But as over seven hundred men have been sent abroad to base and field hospitals, there is some doubt as to whether the number required to equip the Canadian military hospital can be secured.

CONVENTION TO OPEN

Middlesex P. Lambton Baptists to Meet at Forest.

The forty-second annual meeting of the Middlesex and Lambton Association of Baptist Churches will open tomorrow in the Baptist Church at Forest, with ministers and laymen of the denomination from all parts of the two counties in attendance.

The sessions will proceed for three days and will commence with a com-

Rev. P. W. Philpott, of Harrison, will be the principal speaker.

In connection with the meeting a concert will be given at 8 o'clock, when the women's circles and bands, which will meet on each of the three days. A number of London pastors and laymen will give addresses, among them J. E.

petty cases.

Fred (Sticks) Halley, allowed to go on Saturday on a promise that he would immediately leave the city, failed to keep his word, and was retained for three months he will occupy a place in the county jail.

The case against Lillian Gordon and Ethel Lilley, charged with disorderly conduct, was enlarged for another week owing to the absence from court of some of the witnesses.

William Hogg took on a cargo of his

News of Men in Training For Great War

IMPRESSIVE "MARCH PAST" FOLLOWS CHURCH PARADE

Five Units Pass Colonel Shannon in Review Order.

There was an impressive march past of all units of the Canadian Expeditionary forces now in London, following the church parade on Carling's Heights Sunday morning. Close to 3,000 men were in line as they passed in review before Col. L. W. Shannon, D.O.C., and the members of the camp and divisional headquarters staff.

The massed bands of the 7th Fusiliers and the 24th Battalion, C. E. F., were part of the ceremony, the Fusiliers playing the march past for the Divisional Cavalry, the 7th Regiment, Mounted Rifles and the 23rd Battalion, Infantry.

The band of the 24th played the march past for the 24th and for the C. Section, No. 2 Field Ambulance Depot. The march past was in the order named.

Not many civilians had the opportunity of witnessing the "march past," but those who did were more than impressed with the showing made by the men. Naturally in view of the number of men away on leave of absence and pass the regiment and the 24th Battalion, D.O.C., but nevertheless all made an exceptionally good showing.

As the units swung by in columns of platoons, they showed the results of training and discipline and made a blood-stirring spectacle. It was one of the first times that the entire strength of the local units has been paraded together.

HEARD "LAST POST" SOUNDED AT GREAT MEMORIAL SERVICE

Relative of London Woman Writes of Solemn Service to Fallen Canadians in Old London Cathedral.

The Canadian Gazette of May 29 contains a most interesting word picture of the memorial service to fallen Canadians held in St. Paul's Cathedral, London, on May 19, written by Mrs. George McLaren Brown, of Hamilton. Mrs. McLaren Brown, who was Miss Crerar, of Hamilton, prior to her marriage, is a sister-in-law of Mrs. Ernest Smith, of this city, and honorary secretary of the Canadian War Contingent Association in England.

At the memorial service, two London officers, Dr. George Hale and Major Gordon Ingram, were present, being sent up from Shorncliffe camp as official representatives of the 18th Battalion.

Mrs. Brown describes the solemn service as follows:

I sat beneath the great dome of St. Paul's, and all about me gathered the people who had come to do homage to Canada's dead. Statestmen, men of high place, admirals of the fleet, generals of division, soldiers from the field, royal ladies, sisters of mercy and women and girls from the factories and the shops—they came, an endless throng, to pay their tribute to the fallen Canadians in the flush and vigor of health had come from their camps; and from the hospitals, with shattered bodies and crippled limbs, came the wounded and the broken.

Fathers, whose hopes lay buried in the grave; mothers, whose only sons had been taken; brides, whose lives had been broken; and all about me gathered the people who had come to do homage to Canada's dead. Statestmen, men of high place, admirals of the fleet, generals of division, soldiers from the field, royal ladies, sisters of mercy and women and girls from the factories and the shops—they came, an endless throng, to pay their tribute to the fallen Canadians in the flush and vigor of health had come from their camps; and from the hospitals, with shattered bodies and crippled limbs, came the wounded and the broken.

The glorious music rose and fell, and rose again, as if it would say: "Honor the brave, chant for the dead! Exalt them who pass to their reward! Exalt them who are remembered, and in the great and the humble, the strong and the weak, the bereaved and the anxious and the distressed, in that solemn hour stood side by side as members of one great family, sharing a common feast to each other, to their country and to their King.

The music faltered, hushed and died, and the solemn ritual began. Glory of music and beauty of words, homage of people and tribute of King! How shall these comfort us?—for they, our beloved, are dead. They are gone, in the fullness of their strength, and their hopes and their dreams are lying in the dust. For them the promise of the years is not, and in all the days to come we shall know no more.

"He that believeth in Me, though he were dead, yet shall he live." Oh, stricken father, lift up your head! The son of your youth has passed beyond our mortal vision, yet still he lives; he presses forward the banner of his Lord.

The Silent Gravel. But our hearts are heavy. In the morning and in the night they are tortured and cry out, remembering how, though our love stretched out its arms it could not reach nor succor, as, in blood and agony, they, the brave, went from the light and sweetness of life to the silence of their lonely graves.

"Though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I fear not with me."

Take comfort, poor widowed girl and desolate mother. They were not left alone. Love, greater than yours, upheld them, and around them was the everlasting mercy.

Sorrow multiplies on sorrow! Today and tomorrow the weight of our woe increases, and the earth groans with our anguish. We remember the land across the sea where, even to the borders of another sea, they weep with us for those who will not come again. And to what end? To what end do we bear the burden that presses upon us? For what avail our valor and glory and conquest if these our sons are slain?

"Blest are the departed who in the Lord are sleeping. They rest from their labors and their sorrows do follow them."

Oh, sorrowing souls, look up! Not alone for valor and glory, for country and King were the lives laid down. It is the battle of Christ we fight! That his message of mercy and love might be proclaimed, and that we, who of old were gallant ones, endured and agonized and died! Rise up! With streaming eyes but steadfast hearts, rise up, and leave these things behind, and in their Father's gracious keeping.

The Last Post. Through the vast cathedral poured the sonorous measures of the Dead March. Wave upon wave it soared to the distant arches and echoed about the tombs of the mighty dead. The piercing call of the "Last Post" shrilled out, and in the pause we seemed hear the cry came back: "Yea, we are here, we, whose lives are around you! We, who of old fought and died that you who came after might enter into your heritage. Sons of our sons, keep faith. Surely they thrill, the spirits of the departed, when we lifted up our voices and hailed you: "O Canada! land of our birth, young mother of brave men. And surely they rejoiced, the glorious company of soldiers, saints and martyrs, as we sang anew our fathers' song, our battle cry of old: "For Christ and King."

Oh, men of Canada, true descendants of the race which bred you, well have you proved your right to sing that song. The sacred love of altar and of throne flames in your hearts as it flames in the fathers before you. And against it the legions of fear and torment and death hurl their deadly bolts. Behind rampart, your people stand and look forward unafraid. For they know that the faith and the faithfulness of the fathers, and the faithfulness of the sons, and all that they cherish and hold dear, are safe in your hands.

OVER 200 SOLDIERS MARCH TO ST. PETER'S CORPUS CHRISTI SUNDAY

Procession is Led by Bishop Fallon—Advice For Soldiers Going to Front.

Two hundred and fifty soldiers in training here attended the special services held yesterday in St. Peter's Cathedral in observance of Corpus Christi Sunday. The services are held annually in honor of the Blessed Sacrament of the Altar.

The procession in the church and outside was led by Bishop Fallon, the deacons and sub-deacons, carrying the Blessed Sacrament, under a canopy. The first communion children, the societies and sodalities of the church participated, and the soldiers present lined up and also took part.

Rev. Father Hardy made a short address, and was in charge of the general service. Bishop Fallon delivered a special address to the soldiers, in which he thanked them for attending. Reminding them that many of them might never return from the services they were about to render their country, he pointed out to them that religion was the one thing that would enable them to bear up and be brave under the trials and difficulties they would have to face.

For Christ and King. Oh, men of Canada, true descendants of the race which bred you, well have you proved your right to sing that song. The sacred love of altar and of throne flames in your hearts as it flames in the fathers before you. And against it the legions of fear and torment and death hurl their deadly bolts. Behind rampart, your people stand and look forward unafraid. For they know that the faith and the faithfulness of the fathers, and the faithfulness of the sons, and all that they cherish and hold dear, are safe in your hands.

GOSSIP OF THE CAMP

Although the oiling of Oxford street past the camp grounds has been authorized by the civil authorities, nothing has been done yet, and the men are still complaining of the dust. Autoists by the hundreds are using the thoroughfare now that the camp is on, and the dust that is blown over on the "lines" is by no means relished.

Members of the detached guard company of the 7th Regiment are now wearing "T's" on the collar badges to distinguish them from the other members of their corps.

The gravel roadway on Elizabeth street from the Ordnance Stores to the Barracks is nearing completion, and the members of the Ordnance Corps are as a consequence delighted.

Lieut. N. A. Fairhead, of the A. C., supply officer for the camp, has been indisposed for several days.

Sergt. Woodhouse, of the 24th, in charge of the military police of that battalion, has returned from his home in Stratford, where he was on leave.

The weather is getting too warm for football, and as a consequence the baseball fans and the cricket devotees among the men are coming prominently into the fore once more.

Ice cream cone vendors are plying a great trade these warm days. Three and four wagons line the Oxford street from daily at noon and dispose of countless head-queens through the wire mesh of the fence. The cones seem to vie with green onions as the most popular refreshment of the overseas service men.

Sunday was so nice a day that the majority of the men could not take advantage of the day-off liberties and went downtown or visited friends in the city. The camp had a somewhat deserted appearance during the major part of the afternoon.

W. A. Ross, who has charge of the religious and social end of the Military Police, gave an interesting address on "The Life of David Livingstone" in the Y. tent last night. It was illustrated with some 40 or 50 lantern slides. The usual Sunday evening service was conducted.

Sergt. D. Jackson, of the 23rd, who was taken to Victoria Hospital as a result of a fall at the Y. M. C. A. swimming pool on Saturday, was reported to be in good shape today. His head was badly cut.

Major J. D. McCrimmon, of the 23rd, is field officer of the day.

Sunday's camp order contained the information that no further Saturday afternoon parades will be held until further orders are issued on the subject by Col. L. W. Shannon, camp commandant.

Capt. H. D. Peacock, chaplain of the 23rd, is out of the city. He will likely return tomorrow.

Examinations in the field officers and captains' classes of the provisional school are now in progress. The new courses will start Wednesday.

Private of 33rd Anxious Over Fate of "Triumph" Sailor. On H. M. S. Triumph, one of the British ships blown up in the Dardanelles recently, was Fred. Carrae, A.B., brother of Pte. R. Carrae, of a Company, 33rd Battalion. Pte. Carrae has had no word from his brother since he left China on the ship several months ago. It is not known whether or not his brother was amongst the number who were drowned when the ship went down. A number were saved.

Pte. Carrae before he enlisted in the 33rd Battalion, lived at 108 Briscoe street. His brother, who has been in the royal navy for a number of years, has his home in England.

VICTORY IS NEAR DARDANELLES SAYS CHURCHILL

Former First Lord of Admiralty Defends Operations There.

SPEAKS TO CONSTITUENTS

Declares Whole Nation Must Be Organized to Insure Victory.

[Canadian Press.]

DUNDEE, Scotland, June 6.—Winston Spencer Churchill, formerly first lord of the admiralty, who is chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster in the coalition cabinet, arrived yesterday at Dundee, where he represents the House of Commons. He was received enthusiastically at a meeting of his constituents. He told them that he did not come to make explanations or to indulge in reproaches or recriminations, for the only thing he cared about was the war, and that he was sure that the nation was successful on the enemies of Great Britain.

"For five years I have borne heavy responsibility, being, according to the time-honored language of my patent, responsible to the crown and Parliament for the conduct of the admiralty," Mr. Churchill said. "When I say 'responsible,' I was responsible in the sense that I would have to bear the blame for everything that occurred. These years have comprised the most important period of our naval history; a period of preparation for war, a period of vigilance and mobilization."

"I have done my best. The archives at the admiralty will show the part played in all the great transactions that have taken place. To them I look for my defence."

Terrible Dangers Over.

"I look also to the general naval situation. The terrible dangers at the beginning of the war are over. The seas have been swept clear. Everything is in better order. We have taken the measure of our foe, and have only to go forward with confidence."

Mr. Churchill added there were two statements he wished to make about the operations at the Dardanelles. Heavy losses must be expected on land and at sea. The employment there was composed of a surplus of warships after all other needs had been provided for.

"Those who suppose Earl Kitchener embarked on those operations without thoroughly and carefully considering every requirement in relation to the army in France and Flanders are not only mistaken, but are presumptuous," he continued.

"In looking at our losses fairly and squarely, we must not forget the prize for which we are contending. Victory is near."

"The forces within a few miles of a victory such as this war has not seen; a victory which, when it comes, will make amends for all."

Mr. Churchill said that he thought the newspapers should attack responsible leaders of the nation at home or in the field, or publish anything to make the nation feel that there were any criticism, it should be in Parliament. That was a matter of self-preservation.

"What does a nation expect of the new cabinet?" he asked. "I will answer that in one word—action. That is the demand; that is the need. Action, not hesitation, not discussion or agitation. The duty lies upon the Government to declare what should be done, to propose it to Parliament, and stand or fall by the result."

Compulsory Service, If Needed. Declaring that if it is not possible to win the war without taking men by compulsion, he would support such a measure, Mr. Churchill said: "I do not believe it will be found necessary, and am sure it is unnecessary now. On the contrary, the only places which will never lack volunteers are the bloody battlefields in France and Flanders. No nation has ever at any time in history found such a spirit of sacrifice; it is widespread, almost universal, in the masses of the people."

The question of service for home defence, to keep the fighting men abroad properly maintained, seemed to him to stand on a different footing.

"We are confronted with a foe who would, with the slightest scruple, exterminate every man, woman and child by any method open to him, with as little scruple as a gardener would hang and burn a wasp's nest," said Mr. Churchill. "The whole nation must be organized and mobilized to secure a victory which will bring lasting peace."

ST. THOMAS CADET SHOT DEAD BY FRIEND

Frederick Hardy Killed in Accident with Companion.

[Special to The Advertiser.] ST. THOMAS, June 6.—Frederick Cecil, 12 years of age, the son of Frederick Hardy, a pressman, employed at the Municipal Work, was accidentally shot and killed here late Saturday afternoon. The Hardy lad, with several other companions, was playing in the vicinity of the old "horseshoe" Kettle Creek. They had a 22 calibre rifle with them, and one of them took the firearm in his hands and tried to adjust some part of it, when the rifle discharged. The bullet entered young Hardy's head at the back, rendering him unconscious. He died a few hours afterwards in the hospital.

The unfortunate boy was the bugle major of the Holy Angels Cadet Corp, and on Victoria Day he was the prize at the military exercises held at Pinafore Park; one for bugling, and the other for drumming. He lived at 87 Hiawatha street.

Though it is the general impression that the affair was an accident, an inquest will probably be held.

LONDON MINISTER TO LECTURE

INGERSOLL, June 6.—Rev. H. H. Bingham, of London, will speak in the Baptist Church, on Monday evening, and his address will be on "The Crisis," is anticipated with keen interest.

GARDEN PARTY AT EDEN GROVE

EDEN GROVE, June 6.—The garden party held here on Mr. Wm. Alexander's lawn, by the Eden Grove Football Club, in aid of Red Cross purposes was a decided success. Over seventy-five dollars were realized, which, after necessary expenses are paid, will make a tidy sum to hand over to the committee in charge.

OAT STALK 21 INCHES PLUCKED IN OXFORD

[Special to The Advertiser.] WOODSTOCK, June 6.—A sample of oat stalk, grown on the farm of Charles Millar, of the Third Concession, was exhibited Saturday morning in this city, and was the subject of keen interest by many of the country farmers who viewed it. The stalk, which was taken out of Mr. Millar's field of grain in one foot nine inches high, and Mr. Millar claims that there are many more in his field fully as good as the one shown. The crop outlook in his district, Mr. Millar declared to be excellent.

KITCHENER APPROVED.

The German press which waxed gleeful over what it termed the downfall of Kitchener, must have been chastened by the conferring on the war secretary of the Order of the Garter by King George. This honor, which hitherto has been confined almost exclusively to royalty, was, no doubt, conferred on Kitchener with the object of notifying the enemy in particular and the world in general that the British monarch and the British people have supreme confidence in the great warrior and are behind him to the limit. There is something stupendous and superhuman in the way Kitchener has in a few months time organized, developed, trained and placed on the firing line a mighty volunteer army that has proved itself the equal of any of the conscription forces engaged in the conflict. The attempt of a notorious yellow press to oust him has been resented, not only in the United Kingdom, but all over the empire. And nowhere more so than in Canada has Kitchener's worth been recognized. When war broke over us last August, catching us unprepared to an extent that made a terrible peril, next to the navy, it was to Kitchener we looked for salvation. And to use Mr. Asquith's striking phrase, he has delivered the goods. Conferring on him the highest distinction in the gift of the King has the heartiest approval of every Canadian. It means that he is still to mould and direct the British armies, and we willingly turn the thousands of our splendid fighters into his hands.

A GOOD START.

THE new British coalition Government has made an excellent start. If it keeps it up it will quickly have the support of some partisan elements that believe Unionist and Liberal cannot mix. As was expected, the dynamic Lloyd George plunged into his job of minister of munitions with the enthusiasm and energy that marks all his endeavors. Above all others in the Cabinet, he possesses personal magnetism, and those working with him will catch something of his fiery activity. Better still, he will be able to get the most out of those who are engaged in the actual production of war munitions. Not in many generations has one man done so much for the masses of the United Kingdom as has the little Welsh lawyer. Probably no other public man so completely holds the confidence of the workers of the British Isles. His strong appeal at Manchester for the workmen of England to come to the rescue of the Empire is certain to bring the best results.

Winston Churchill, too, has hit the right note in his first public statement since the coalition Government was formed. Parts of his speech savor of the eritic, which is perhaps not to be wondered at. To be compelled to surrender the leadership of the right arm of the nation must have been a bitter pill for the man who has been largely responsible for its splendid efficiency. His reference to his services in this connection are pardonable. Remembering how well the navy was prepared when the crisis came, and the manner in which it has performed since, Britishers are ready to forgive Mr. Churchill much more than he has been charged with. But if he feels humiliated or bitter, he shows by his address at Dundee that all of that has been laid aside as far as the Cabinet is concerned, a Cabinet which contains so many naturally antagonistic elements. When he asserts that the new Government must not hesitate or discuss, but act, he is, of course, speaking as a member of that Government. Therefore, the Empire will feel heartened and encouraged to learn that the prosecution to a victorious issue of the war, and that alone, will engage the new British ministry. The new Government has only got fairly launched, it is true, but there are signs that it will pull together to the end.

DR. ROBERT MACGREGOR.

EFFORTS are being made for the pardon of Dr. Robert Macgregor. There will be a sincere prayer for their success from everyone in this city, and wherever any of the members of his family are known. Dr. Macgregor is a native of this city. His father, Mr. A. S. Macgregor, is one of the most respected men in London. He is the oldest elder in St. Andrew's Church, and possesses the confidence and esteem not only of the congregation of St. Andrew's Church, but of representative Presbyterians from coast to coast throughout Canada. He has attended many assemblies in all parts of the Dominion, and in this well known and respected. Macgregor passed his early this city, and until he obtained the degree at the Western. He was well liked by young companions and Dr. Macgregor was a feeling of amazement was regarded as in-should even be read as they were received during the trial, and his honorable acquittal was looked for. The evidence did not furnish any proof of guilt. The judge's charge was favorable, and on what evidence the jury based their verdict is a mystery. It is unfortunate that at the appeal, owing to illness, Dr. Macgregor's counsel was unable to be present. The appeal book disclosed facts which convincingly established his right to an acquittal, and probably had his counsel been able to be present he would then have been acquitted.

He has been useful even since his conviction, and has won the gratitude and respect of the prison inmates and officials.

The board of pardons and the governor of Michigan will make no mistake if they let Dr. Robert Macgregor go free, and remove as far as now possible every reproach against him. His friends here and the friends of his father and family will rejoice when that act of justice is accomplished.

The citizens of London, without exception, believe Dr. Robert Macgregor to be entirely innocent, and sympathize with him in the suffering he has unjustly endured. His faithful wife and family share that sympathy to the full.

IF THE STATES WENT TO WAR.

UPON Germany's reply to the note which Secretary Bryan is to place in Von Jagow's hands within a few hours will depend one of the greatest events of the war—whether the United States is to unsheathe the sword, either figuratively or literally, in behalf of the Allies and civilization, or whether Germany is to cease her indiscriminate submarine slaughter of non-combatants. President Wilson has taken a stand from which he cannot withdraw, and he has the American nation at his back.

If Germany's reply is such as to drive the United States into active warfare, Germany's doom will be sealed so much the sooner. The States is not a fighting nation, but her navy ranks third among the great navies of the world, standing next to those of Britain and Germany. While the British navy is engaged in watchful waiting, Uncle Sam's fleets could be used effectively, acting as convoys and transports, or even assisting Italy in bottling up Austria, or helping in the operations against Turkey. In any of these capacities it would render invaluable service, while there is always a possibility that Von Tirpitz may attempt a rash dash out of the Kiel Canal, in which case Uncle Sam's battleships could help in a speedy extermination of the enemy.

For land fighting the United States is not so well prepared. The National Security League, of which Joseph H. Choate is president, recently stated that the mobile troops of the country number but 30,000. It must not be forgotten, however, that the military strength of the States lies in the National Guard, state organizations, which give each enlisted man three years' training. How ready these are to respond to the call may be gauged by their patriotic promptness at the time of the Spanish-American war.

A German writer has attempted to bolster the hopes of the Fatherland in event of friction with Washington, by saying that there are thirty millions of Germans and fourteen and a half millions of Austrians and Hungarians in the States, who might be depended upon to throw their influence in with Germany, either by causing a political upheaval when opportunity offered, or by organizing a civil war. As to the latter, this writer reckoned without a knowledge of the wholeheartedness of the workers of free America. There is little evidence of unrest among the Germans in Canada. There is likely to be less in the States. If there were prospects of German-Americans throwing in their lot with the Fatherland it is quite evident that Count Von Bernstorff would not be so solicitous over the outcome of the Lusitania tragedy.

The facts speak contrary to the views of this German writer. There are some three millions of German-born people in the United States. The leader of thought among them is the publisher of the New York Staats-Zeitung, who wrote recently: "There has never been but one flag under which the German-American has fought. There never can be but one flag under which he will ever fight. And that flag is the Stars and Stripes." The president of the Deutscher Kriegerbund von Nord Amerika, whose membership of 20,000 consists of sons of German war veterans, said: "In the event that war should be declared between the United States and Germany, a thing which I do not look for, we will find German-Americans to a man enlisting under the Stars and Stripes and fighting against the Fatherland." Many other instances of this kind have appeared. Probably the feeling of German-Americans is well represented by the case of a Missouri judge, who announced after the Lusitania murder that he would read no newspapers during the war. As German-born, he was pro-German, but if it came to a choice between the slaughter of women and children and adherence to American civilization, he preferred the latter.

It is a question, however, whether the States would be called upon to send her flag to Europe. At present it would appear that Britain and her allies need guns and ammunition, rather than men. In supplying these Uncle Sam could be of unlimited service. While definite figures, for obvious reasons, are not available, it is estimated that at present the factories of the States are supplying less than one-twentieth of one per cent of the artillery ammunition used in the war, and one-eighth of one per cent of the cartridges. In case of necessity the factories of the republic could produce many times this quantity, and war would mean necessity.

The greatest effect of all, however, which the United States could produce would probably be the influence her act would have on other neutral countries. As the most important of the neutral countries, her example throughout the war has been followed consistently by the lesser states. It is a safe assumption that if Washington threw her weight into the scales against Prussia, the kingdoms of the Baltic and of the Balkans will get off the fence, if not to fight, at least to sneer. What ever German influence may exist there at present will be thoroughly broken. For, with virtually the whole world against it, the German military bragart will soon be tottering.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

He may bend it badly in spots, but the Kaiser can never break that ring of iron.

Lloyd George's first move to get those badly-needed shells was to shell the indifference of his countrymen.

If the Allies had munitions in the same ratio they have men and money, the war would be over by the dog days.

Little San Marino has declared war on Germany. Those bantam nations of Europe are showing the courage of giants.

The Toledo Blade says that a brain-storm and a gun are a bad combination. Glaring examples are Harry Thaw and the Kaiser.

Now that Italy has gone to war with Germany and Austria, a highway of trade between the three nations has been closed and the Teutons will suffer from it the most.

No wiser move could have been made than the appointment of Lloyd George as minister of munitions. To his appeal for greater production of war material the workmen of England will respond as they would to no other.

TEN MINUTES With the Short-Story Writers

THE GOLDEN BALL OF THE ARGONAUTS.

[By Charles E. Van Loan.]

Old Tom Carson, the proprietor of the Golden Eagle Hotel, stretched himself and arose from his nap behind the cigar-counter. The bus from the afternoon train drew up at the door, and the arrivals marched solemnly across the threshold.

"Not even a fresh drummer!" sighed Mr. Carson, who was a thrifty soul. "Looks like bad night." A few persons of no importance signed timidly, and were hurried away in the wake of Casey, head porter, bellboy and assistant porter. Last of all came a withered little man, staggering under the weight of a large, old-fashioned carpet-sack valise. As he reached for the pen, Mr. Carson noticed that the stranger's right hand was strangely twisted and the joints of his fingers much enlarged.

Many years behind a desk in a country hotel had taught Tom Carson the trick of reading a signature upside down. The little old man wrote laboriously. He was right. It was right. The newcomer stopped to cross a "u" the proprietor snorted and bent over the register. Then he turned and looked around and studied the signature.

"Marcus Tilletback!" he ejaculated. "Say! If you ain't little Mark Tilletback, shortstop of the old Argonaut team, who are you?"

The little old man had picked up his carpet-sack. It dropped with a crash. "If I ain't him I ain't nobody!" he said simply. "But who is it that remembers the Argonauts?"

Tom Carson reached across the narrow counter and seized the old man by the shoulders, rocking him back and forth to emphasize his words.

"Why, you old rascal! Don't you recognize Tom Carson, who played ball with you at the Eureka?"

"Seen! As you give me this broken finger," said the old man, exhibiting a crooked digit, "I oughtn't to forget you entirely!"

The faithful Casey returned in time to see the old men slapping shoulders and exploding in shrill cackles of laughter.

"Somethin' doin' this evening?" said that wise youth. "The old boy never warmed up that before!"

"Just think!" panted Carson. "After all these years! You ain't met me in New York State! Come on over here—I got a million questions to ask ye!"

Casey hovered near, his eye on the ball.

"I'll take care of that," said Carson. "Now, then, you old mushrat, what you been doin' with yourself all these years? I never expected to see one of them Argonauts again! Mark, I've talked myself black in the face tryin' to tell these farmers around Collinsville what kind of ballplayers California turned out in the early days. Honest, these yaps won't believe that we played a tournament for a gold ball. They say a ball of solid gold, that size, would cost too much money, an' no town would put it up. They didn't know San Francisco had in the sixties, did they? That was some town—eh, Mark?"

"Yes, indeed," said the aged Tilletback. "I've traveled. Nothing but since I left there, but I ain't never seen none to compare with it, no way."

"An' the men?" said Carson enthusiastically. "What a rip-roarin' bunch them Argonauts was! No softpillows for them! They was ballplayers, they was! Where did they all go to?"

along you then. Did you melt it up, or what?"

"No," said Tilletback slowly. "It was never melted up, or anything like that."

"But—" snorted Carson. "I'm tellin' you, Tom," said the old man gently. "You see, the ball belonged to the whole team, an' the majority was to rule. Some of 'em was for cuttin' it up an' givin' each man his part to spend as he pleased, an' then again there was some of us couldn't stand to see the ball destroyed. I was one of them. After the war was over there was only three of us left—Tim Gleason an' Archie Patterson an' me. Tim was crazier than ever to get his share—wanted a third of the ball, but Archie wouldn't have it cut up, an' neither would I. We kept it in a safe-deposit vault, an' once a year we'd have a little dinner, an' Archie'd put it on the table. Tim went down south somewhere on business, an' the fever got him. After that there was only Archie an' me, an' Archie died a few months ago—just slipped off suddenly."

Old Tom Carson put his hands on the arms of his chair and leaned forward eagerly.

"The ball!" he whispered. "What did you do with it? Did you sell it, or cut it up, or what?"

Marcus Tilletback dropped one knotted hand on the carpet and wagged the Golden Eagle. "You got it here?" said the eye-dentical gold ball, Tom. Carson rose and laid eager hands on the carpet-bag.

"Come on into my office," he said.

An hour later, over the cigars, Carson made a proposition.

"See here, Mark, you say you ain't got any folks except those nephews of yours, that you ain't got no wife or babies. What's the matter with your stayin' here a-while and makin' one a suit? We could give you a good time together, an' I'd let you have No. 10—that's the room with a bath—an' make you the cheapest comedian in the country. You could live cheaper anywhere, Mark, an' it'd be a pleasure just to have you round the place. How 'bout it?"

The old ballplayer was deeply touched by this magnanimous proposition, and said that he would think about it. A little later the young reporter for the Morning Bee, dropping in to get some material for his "Visiting Strangers" column, was buttonholed by Mr. Carson and led into the inner office, where he shook Mr. Tilletback by the hand, viewed the golden ball, and went away with his head whirling.

The publication of that article marked the beginning of the era of Marcus Tilletback and his golden ball.

The old ballplayer was the star attraction of the town. Farmers drove thirty miles to see him; drummers invited him to dinner; Mr. Tilletback, fully realized his position as a public idol. He insisted that his friends should have the best of everything, and he had a bill of a first-class dinner, the third lower drawer. He used to take it out and look at it occasionally. It never grew stale, though. Joe went about his work with his nose in the air.

One morning the old man did not leave his room. He said he was not feeling very well. The next day Tom Carson sent for the doctor, who came, made a careful examination, and then stepped out into the hall, where Carson was waiting.

"Why, no," said the man of medicine; "nothing special the matter with him. He walked all the sort of thing, you know. You've got to expect it at his time of life. He may live a week, or a month, or a year—it just depends. The old fellow runs down, my dear sir, and there comes a War Time in Russ City.

[London Daily News.]

Odesa reminds one of the great American cities, with their perpendicular streets and their tram lines cutting one another at right angles. It was right. It was right. The vehicle plunged into black darkness as it drew near the harbor. Not a single light in that quarter. The single outline of the theater was hardly discernible as it rose against the starlit sky. The streets were absolutely deserted and the silence canopy. As the vehicle reached the esplanade, and the driver groped his way towards the entrance to the hotel, the fresh breeze announced the proximity of the sea.

The Turks have appeared twice in the offing, with the intention of bombarding the town. The first time the inhabitants were awakened about 3 o'clock in the morning. Some damage was done, and a French steamer was sunk. The second time the Medjidieh came in broad daylight and ran around on a sandbank some distance from the harbor after striking a mine. It had not fired a single shot.

It was a perfect summer's morning when I ascended the terrace to get a good view of the magnificent roadstead. A tug is slowly entering port with two heavy barges laden with precious booty: fine German cannons, taken from the Turkish cruiser cruised out of yonder.

It appears that the Russian admiral was staying at the hotel on the Esplanade, and was drinking a cup of coffee when the warship warned him of the second visit of the Turkish squadron. He seized his glasses and went on to the balcony. The weather was clear. Only one enemy vessel was visible. "Why, the poor creature has stuck in the mud!" cried the admiral. "It does not move. It has settled down by the head without sinking."

Two or three units were dispatched to the assistance of the Turkish crew. The vessel was deserted. Nothing but a fowl had been left behind to tell the tale. The Medjidieh's consort had taken off the crew and hurried away at top speed.

Such is the story of this comical adventure as it was told me by the head porter of the hotel.

The last of the Medjidieh I had to take a motor car and drive some twenty miles along the road skirting the shore to the west of Odesa, towards the mouth of the Dniester. At last I made out some tunnels rising from the wreck—the hull had gradually disappeared under the huge vessel settled down more and more on her side—around which little flotilla was busily engaged in the task of taking away everything of value.

It is declared that at the time of the first Turkish attack many Germans were caught signalling with lanterns from their windows. A decree of expulsion has now made it clean sweep of them. There were nearly 30,000 subjects of the Kaiser still resident in the city after the outbreak of the war, for it must be time when it stops. Keep him cheerful, and see that he has everything he wants. Has he—any relations?"

"Carson shook his head.

"Ah! Quite so." The doctor had seen the ball. The best of everything, doc," said Carson, anxiously. "He's a friend of mine, an' I'm responsible."

"I shall give him every attention," said the doctor.

For three weeks the old man lingered. One evening, just at dusk, he sent for Carson.

"No use trying to fool me any more, Tom," said the old man wearily. His voice trailed away into silence, and his thin cheeks were white against the pillow. "It's getting dark," panted the old man. "Have to call the game soon! Tom, do you think they score all our errors?"

"Don't talk about it, Mark," said Carson. "You'll outlive a dozen younger men."

The old head moved slightly from side to side.

"No use," he panted. "No use! Tom, when I'm gone there's something I want you to do for me—something about the ball. Are you listening, Tom?"

Carson gripped the edge of the bed until his knuckles were white.

"Yes, Mark," said Carson. "The little old man closed his eyes. For a long time there was no sound in the room. The doctor, who had been seated on the bedside, picked up the limp wrist, and watched the dying man's face as he counted. Then he turned to Carson.

"Tom, come you there!" The eyes were open again, and the lips were barely moving. I want you to know—that—"

A quiver passed through the shrunken frame; the dying eyes opened wide. The little old man half raised himself in bed. Stretching out his left arm, with palm down, he gazed earnestly at Carson before him, he cried in a clear, ringing voice:

"How is it, umpire? Safe?" The doctor eased the old man back among the pillows, bent over him for a few seconds, and then straightened up, nodding at Tom Carson. The short, stout Argonaut had gone to join his team.

It was a very impressive funeral. The business houses closed their doors, and the town attended in a body. The Collinsville baseball club sent a floral pillow, on which appeared in violet letters: "He Has Made His Last Home Run."

The day after the funeral Tom Carson took the morning train for New York. He carried a new valise. That afternoon he stood in the back room of a manufacturing jeweler's establishment.

"Whew!" whistled the proprietor. "Quite a ball, ain't it? What? Solid—gold? Of course, as a matter of form I'll give you a chair, sir."

The jeweler held the ball between his knees; a tiny drill whirled for a few seconds, and then, with a sharp click, drops into the hole. Then his eyes met Carson's.

"Did you buy this?" he asked pointedly.

"No," said Carson, shifting uneasily. "I took it for a debt."

"Hm-m-m-m!" said the jeweler, as with his thumb he wiped away a greenish froth which had bubbled to the surface.

"Well," said he cheerfully. "I've seen many a gold brick in my time, but this is the first round one I ever—hello! What's the matter with you?"

When the evening bus unloaded its passengers at the Golden Eagle that night Tom Carson was among them. He walked like a very old man. As he passed his mail box two letters caught his eye. One was from the doctor; the other was from the undertaker. Mr. Carson passed into his private office and locked the door behind him.

borne in mind that Odesa was the centre of German trade in Russia. The Government of Kherson, in which Odesa is situated, has been colonized by Germans, and all the land belongs to them. Now, after enjoying the hospitality of their enemies for nine months of the war, they have been shown the door.

In Odesa, as at Petrograd, these faithful subjects of the Kaiser had for years past carried on a vigorous propaganda in behalf of the "Flottenverein" (Navy League), which, as everyone knows, publishes a review devoted to the development of the German fleet. Often they would see their Russian business friends and acquaintances for a couple of rubles in support of the review. A great number of Russian merchants thus unwittingly allowed themselves to be enrolled, simply because they did not like to refuse a few shillings to a colleague in aid of what they were assured was a good work. Your Russian is free with his money, and in many cases the giver had not even the wit to fear for what object his subscription was solicited.

The war came, and matters suddenly took a tragical turn. The police seized the lists of subscribers to the "Flottenverein." A number of honorable architects, engineers, merchants and the like suddenly found themselves charged with high treason, and are now expiating their imprudent generosity in Siberia.

Russia and the Dardanelles. The war is intensifying at Odesa for the operations in the Dardanelles and the conquest of Constantinople, or Tarrabad, as the Russians here would faintly have named. One morning I had the honor to be received by the governor-general of the place. His excellency is a man of some 50 years, lean and bronzed, with grey moustache and flashing black eyes. He was wearing the grey-brown uniform with the red and black ribbons of the Order of Vladimir, and his appearance conveyed an impression of distinction and energy. He was working in a big hall at the end of an immense table, which would comfortably seat a hundred guests at dinner. As he courteously rose to hand me a chair his first words were:

"Well, monsieur, what news do you bring us? How are things going in the Dardanelles? For us Russians, you must understand, that is the most absorbing campaign of the whole war."

These words are a faithful reflection of the public opinion of the country. At Odesa, as at Petrograd, everyone is repeating, "We must have Constantinople!" That is the topic of conversation. Nothing else counts. One would imagine it to be a question of life and death. It is easy to understand this frame of mind in Odesa, for the whole life of the port is centred in the exportation of wheat. Free passage is necessary to enable the millions of sacks of grain to reach all the ports of Europe.

Corn, corn, nothing but corn. Nothing else matters in this busy city. Little fluff will kill me with its eternal corn." said a poor poet to me.

"The Boots that stand the Test"

Our duty to the public

Our conception of it, and how we fulfill it in our Shoes.

A GREAT corporation like this, with an honoured name and an established reputation, owes a duty to the public.

It is our duty to retain the Confidence of every dealer who handles our Shoes, and of every man, woman and child who wears them.

To do this demands unceasing vigilance in every department of our three huge plants.

We must see that every Shoe bearing the "Ames Holden" or "McCready" name, is so well made that it will be certain to give perfect satisfaction.

We must select leather with expert care and wise discrimination, buying the best, but also buying with such sound judgment that the finished Shoes may be sold at reasonable prices.

We must manufacture on a scale so large that economies in the cost of production may be secured.

We must do the best that is known today, and search for better tomorrow.

This is our duty to our dealers as well as to our dealers' customers. The fact that we are the largest and oldest shoe manufacturers in Canada, is the best proof that we are doing our duty and that we enjoy the confidence of both dealer and wearer.

Aphis on House Plants.

Dear Miss Grey,—As I always read your page, I too, am coming to you for help. I wish to know what to do with Spanish Iris that failed to blossom indoors and also freckles and how to get rid of aphis on house plants. Have tried (patent preparation), but they appear again after a time. I am going to send you two recipes—one for white cookies, the other for dark. I have used these recipes for twenty years and found them good. Could anyone send me the song of "Little Bessie"? Hoping to see this in print, I remain

AN INTERESTED READER.

Ans.—For the aphis, I can only suggest keep on with the treatment, going over the plants each week. Tobacco water is effective, also placing under tap with good pressure, will clear the pests. Perseverance is about the only thing to completely rid the plants of them. Spanish Iris are supposed to be hardy, and will last some time if planted in good soil in sunny spot in garden. They are not satisfactory as pot plants. Sink pots with freckles in garden and let them mature; then try again in good soil in the house next winter. All potted bulbs should be placed in dark a few weeks to make good roots.

THE ADVERTISER'S MAIL-BOX.

Ans.—I wonder, if the water in which you washed the rug was not too hot, or perhaps it was dried too near the fire. While drying, it is a good plan to keep pulling and rubbing the skin side, to prevent this stiffness. Would some of our many "mother" readers come to the rescue and tell this reader how she may soften the skin.

Answers for Fatty's Chum.

Ans.—1. Let the one girl sit upon the lap of her girl chum.

2. Make other arrangements beforehand with a number of girls, then if he asks to be your escort, you can tell him that you are already provided with one. A few repetitions of this and he will surely take the hint.

3. Yes, open the box and ask him to have some.

4. Her action certainly seemed rather impolite, but that is no reason for you to follow suit. Treat her courteously, as you have always done.

5. It will be alright for the one gentleman to assist both ladies out. But should advise your securing a second horse and rig and so avoid all these confusions.

An Old Song.

Dear Miss Grey,—Could you please get me the song entitled "The Stone That Keeps Rolling Will Gather No Moss."

You will oblige me. Thanking you in advance. LISTONVILLE READER.

Ans.—Am glad to have this old song re-published for you.

"Our Emblem Dear."

Dear Miss Grey,—Will you kindly favor me with a reply to the following questions through your columns?

1. Why was the "Maple Leaf" chosen the emblem of Canada?

2. What date effective?

3. By whom?

Thanking you in advance. AN ADMIRER OF YOUR COLUMN.

Ans.—The "Maple Leaf" was chosen, from what I can learn, because it was believed to be from one of the finest trees in Canada, and typical of the splendid forest growth in the Dominion.

As early as 1836 the maple leaf was adopted as the French-Canadian emblem at a festival of St. Jean Baptiste. It was placed on the coinage of New Brunswick early in the century, and a whole maple tree was shown on the coinage of Prince Edward Island before Confederation. After the union of the provinces in Confederation in March, 1867, the maple leaf was placed upon the arms of Quebec and Ontario, and since that time has been officially recognized as the emblem of Canada.

Wine and Washing.

Dear Miss Grey,—Kindly answer the following: (1) A recipe for rhubarb wine. (One with spices.) (2) What will take rust from hooks and eyes out of a white skirt? (Cotton.) (3) A washing fluid and how to use it. And oblige me, please. NORA.

Ans.—1. Four pounds rhubarb stalks cut fine; pour on one gallon boiling water; add one pound brown sugar; let stand covered 24 hours. If desired a little cinnamon, allspice, and cloves, bruised finely, may be added with the sugar. Strain and let work a few days before bottling.

2. Have you tried salts of lemon? Moisten the spot, cover with the salts, and place in the sun for ten minutes, then wash in clear water twice, hang on the line in the air and sun. Some prefer salt and lemon juice; in this case, wet with the juice, sprinkle with salt and place in the sun.

3. "Matron," one of our readers, sent us her method of washing, some time ago, and I am very glad to reproduce it for your benefit. Another reader wrote a few weeks ago, stating that she had found it very helpful: "dissolve one can of lye in about 1 quart of soft water, and add one ounce each of borax, crystal ammonia, and salts of tartar, when all is dissolved fill up with more soft water to make a gallon; take one cupful of fluid with one-half bar good laundry soap to a boiler of water, put white clothes in boiler with soap and fluid while water is cold, bring to boil, and boil about twenty minutes and either the next day, or add a pail of cold water to that in boiler before putting in next lot. After boiling, the clothes will require a little rubbing in real suds place and rinsing and bluing. They will be lovely and white. It doesn't fade the colored clothes, with ordinary care, but do not use the water too hot and don't boil them, but the dirt will wash out very easily by soaking a few minutes in some of the suds."

Rides in His Auto.

Dear Miss Grey,—Do you think it is proper for me to go for auto rides with a married man? I have known him quite a while, and do not like him but enjoy the rides immensely. I can see no harm in it but my mother is afraid people may talk. Please give me your invaluable advice. Hoping to get an answer soon, I remain, your truly, WINNIE.

Ans.—I certainly think you had better hear to mother's advice and your own evident inward qualms upon the subject. Of course the rides are harmless, and I am sure you enjoy them, but why not have a girl friend or the gentleman's wife or daughter accompany you? Seems to me your safer course will be to refuse the rides after this, frankly stating why. If the man demands to know why it is never wise to give a girl a chance for gossip. With the arrival of the "jittery" here, you need not be destitute of an auto ride!

To Pronounce Casually.

Dear Miss Grey,—To settle a dispute, kindly tell me which is the correct way to pronounce "casualty?"

Ans.—The most approved dictionary pronounces it "cash-u-ally" with the emphasis on the first syllable. Do not pronounce it "cas-u-ally" as some do, as this way is obsolete, not even "cash-u-ity," as this, too, is wrong.

Garibaldi Maid Is No Revolutionist, But She's Right Up to Date

By Betty Brown

The Garibaldi Maid has heard Italy's Garibaldi gown, and it promises to become as popular as the Garibaldi red flannel waistcoats were in 1860, when Garibaldi was leading the revolution in Italy.

The new Garibaldi gown is in red and black; the waist is red Georgette crepe with close fitting sleeves, and bands of black tulle. The skirt is black with a red band and wristband. The full skirt of the modest design is banded with tulle edged with the red crepe.

OLD SONGS and POEMS

THE STONE THAT KEEPS ROLLING

GATHERS NO MOSS.
I'm off to Wisconsin a journey to go. For to double my fortune as other folks do.

For here I must labor each day in the field. For the winter cometh what the summer doth yield.

So now let us go; now, don't let us stay. For I long to be happy, I long to be gay.

Oh, husband, I've noticed with a very sad heart. You've this time neglected your plow and your cart.

Your horses, sheep, cattle, at random do run. And your new Sunday jacket goes every day on.

So stick to your farm, and you'll suffer no loss. For I long to be happy, I long to be gay.

Now, wife, let us go; now, don't let us stay. For I long to be happy, I long to be gay.

Why you some rich lady, and who knows but I may be some state's governor before we shall die?

So now let us go; now, don't let us stay. For I long to be happy, I long to be gay.

Oh, husband, remember that land is to clear. Which will cost you labor for many a year.

And your horses, sheep, cattle, will all be to buy. And when you get settled you'll be ready to die.

So stick to the farm, and you'll suffer no loss. For the stone that keeps rolling gathers no moss.

During the month of May to date 1-15 cases of supplies and three motor ambulances have been shipped by the Canadian Red Cross Society from Montreal and 115 cases have been sent from Halifax. These supplies were carried to England by the Magician, Chetorian, Milwaukee and Graciano. From September 1 to March 31 no less than 4-26 cases were sent, and from March 31 to May 14 the cases shipped amounted to 3,156. It will be seen that there has been a very considerable increase in the supplies shipped during the last six. Of this number 644 cases were for the No. 4 General Hospital and 100 cases for the Canadian War Contingent Association.

I.O.D.E. GARDEN PARTY DELIGHTFUL AFFAIR

Dr. Robinson's Grounds Scene of Pleasant Patriotic Function On Saturday.

Delightful June weather, fair maidens in pretty gowns, a goodly sprinkling of men, some gallant in khaki, others in tennis togs, attractively decorated booths, and sweet music all combined to render the garden party of the Sir John Carling Chapter, I. O. D. E., on the beautiful grounds of Dr. Robinson's home, a most happy scene on Saturday afternoon. The function given by this energetic branch of the order in London was in aid of soldiers' comforts, and proved a most successful and profitable affair.

The Committee.

Miss Barbara Brown, as regent of the chapter, was general convener, and spared no efforts to have arrangements complete. Several booths, with patriotic decorations, did a flourishing business during the afternoon. The committees were as follows: Afternoon tea, Miss Ruth Burke (convener), Misses Dorothy Mitchell, Dorothy Mulken and Janet Duxbury; tennis, Miss Ruth Robinson (convener), Misses Helen Reid and Helen Pope; candy committee, Miss Helen Moore (convener), Misses Gwinneth Cox and Mona Wilson. Many visitors called at the "gypsy" tent, where an interesting time was spent with Miss Irwin.

Several sets of mixed doubles were played off during the afternoon, the courts being in ideal trim, and the weather perfect for tennis. During the afternoon music was furnished by the Asylum Orchestra.

WELL-KNOWN SPEAKERS ADDRESS INSTITUTES

Blir Ladies Hear Department Speakers Last Week—Komoka On June 12.

The Blir Women's Institute met at the home of Miss Hattie Hodgins on Monday last. The meeting was largely attended and proved a great success, there being two public speakers who were Mrs. Laura Rose Stephen, of Huntington, and Miss Florence Present, of Blenheim. Mrs. Stephen gave a splendid talk on "Woman's Part on the Dairy Farm," which delighted her hearers. Miss Present gave an interesting talk on "Practical Patriotism for Women."

The next meeting of the institute will be announced later.

The Komoka Woman's Institute will hold its summer meeting in the town hall on Saturday afternoon, June 12, at 2:30. Mrs. Laura Rose Stephen will address the ladies. Her subject will be, "My Country, My District, My Home." Music, solos and readings will be rendered. The roll call will be answered by a patriotic sentiment.

Refreshments will be served by the girls of the institute at the close of the meeting.

A good attendance is requested.

EXTRA BASE HITS IN NINTH GAVE GUELPH FINAL GAME

London Tied Score in Eighth, Only to Lose Exciting Battle in Final Chapter—Hammond Weakened in Seventh When London Was Ahead.

THREE-CUSHION drive to deep left followed by a two-base smash in the same direction in the ninth inning of Saturday's game at Tecumseh Park gave Guelph a 6 to 5 verdict over London in a contest that to the seventh inning had all the earmarks of a victory for the Reisingers. It was O'Brien's triple and Isaac's double that decided it. London had come through with a rally in the eighth and scored two runs, tying the score. The first two men up in Guelph's half of the concluding paragraph settled it. The locals were only able to get a man as far as second base in the half. Cy Reidy and "Doc" Reisinger being unable to come through with the hit needed to again tie the score.

Passes Helped Leafs. It was an exciting battle and only for a streak of London's base line in the seventh inning, the Leafs would have come within striking distance of winning it. Hammond was pitching under difficulties, anyway, and had been doing very little with his delivery. "Doc" was merely getting the ball up to the plate. His old time sign was lacking because of the strain on his arm. He was getting a run with which to enter the lucky seventh. The first two men up in Guelph's half of the concluding paragraph settled it. The locals were only able to get a man as far as second base in the half. Cy Reidy and "Doc" Reisinger being unable to come through with the hit needed to again tie the score.

London Tied it in Eighth. It was a bad inning and it left London two runs to the rear. Bobby Auld had not been much of a pitcher in the seventh, though "Doc" Reisinger, who had been holding down first base this time and making a mighty good job of it too, went on the hill in the eighth to replace Hammond. The eighth inning produced no hits for either team. The ninth inning produced a home run for Guelph and a double for London, when the crowd came to bat in its half. The score of three to two in the half. The score of three to two in the half. The score of three to two in the half.

INTERNATIONAL LEAGUE. Sunday Baseball. JERSEY CITY, June 6.—Jersey City beat Newark today, 9 to 6. The Skeeters virtually pulled the game out of the fire when they started a furious rally in the fifth inning and scored five runs, evening the score. Verbut, who had replaced Ring then held the Indians scoreless, while the Jerseys added two more runs in the sixth and another in the eighth.

Lacrosse Players Will Practice Each Night This Week

Team Must Present Strong Front to Beat St. Marys Saturday.

The London lacrosse team will hold practices at Tecumseh Park each evening of this week in preparation for the opening game against St. Marys in this city on Saturday. Manager Statters wants every player in the city to turn out and take in the workouts. There is plenty of good material for a strong team, but the boys will have to turn out to practice before they will be picked for the lineup. The players that do not attend the practices will stand a poor chance of playing in any of the games.

CITY SOCCER LEAGUE CUP WON BY "C" COMPANY

C Company of the 33rd Battalion won the King Edward trophy, emblematic of the championship of the City Soccer League on Saturday when the Jibral Club defeated their regular scheduled game to them, and played an exhibition game instead. The contest was won by C Company by the score of 6 to 3. Following the game, the cup was presented to the battalion team by officials of the City Soccer League. Capt. P. Cowell, president of the team, made the acknowledgment.

GALT MAPLE LEAFS BEAT PRESTON IN SNAPPY GAME

PRESTON, June 5.—In a Waterloo County Amateur baseball game, the locals again came out on the wrong side of the score. The opposing team, the Galt Maple Leafs, were the classiest bunch of ball-players we have seen in this year. Every man is full of ginger and they are in the game all the time. The locals made a rally in the ninth and scored 2 runs and had a man on second and third when the side was retired. Each team used two twirlers. The score was 6 to 3 in favor of the visitors. Batteries—Galt—Cornwall, Kerr and Oliver. Preston—Moyer, Kinzel and Bowman. Umpire—Ruppel, of Elmira.

ASYLUM CRICKET TEAM OPENED SEASON WITH WIN

Defeat Stratford Club By 36 Runs With Only Seven Wickets Down—Godman's Bowling a Feature.

The Asylum cricketers opened their season Saturday by playing Stratford on the Asylum pitch. Stratford batted first and scored 84 before their last wicket fell. A. Mankielow, late of Hamilton C. C., played nicely for his 38. The Asylum started badly, losing two wickets for a few runs, but Atkins, 28, and Godman, 38, not only batted well for their runs, and Marshall's steady batting helped also to win the game for the home team, by 120 to 48. C. Godman's bowling was very deadly, getting 7 wickets for 31 runs.

HEAVY HITTING ENABLED CHICAGO TO BEAT N. Y.

Zimmerman and Brenahan Had Home Runs—Cardinals Beat Phillies—Braves Beat Reds in Tenth. CHICAGO, June 6.—Chicago's heavy hitting defeated New York today, 8 to 6. Terreau and Schauer were easy, Chicago making thirteen hits, while New York made only seven. Zimmerman and Brenahan had home runs. Cardinals beat Phillies—Braves beat Reds in Tenth.

MANHATTANS WON FIRST BUT SECOND WAS A TIE

Orioles and Ontarios Played Five Innings To A Tie—Flint's Wildness Was Costly. The Manhattans defeated the Forest City, 13 to 10, and the Ontarios and the Orioles played a tie game in the interclub league at Springfield Park on Saturday afternoon. The first game was exciting, the Manhattans scoring 9 runs in the ninth inning.

"WILD BILL" DONOVAN FAILED TO STOP TIGERS

New York Manager Enters Box Himself, But Is Forced Out in Seventh. DETROIT, June 6.—"Wild Bill" Donovan, for years the idol of Detroit fans, tried today to show his New York club the way to victory against the Tigers, who hit hard for the seventh inning he pitched and Detroit won 6 to 4.

JOE DUNN'S MUFF PAVED WAY FOR HAMS TO WIN

HAMILTON, June 6.—Dunn's error in the fifth, when he muffed a fly ball, was the man who started the opening in Brantford's game here on Saturday that Hamilton took advantage of and marched through to a 7 to 6 victory. Score: Brantford 7, Hamilton 6. R.H.E. Brantford..... 200 301 000—4 8 5 Hamilton..... 000 070 000—7 8 4 Cristall and Pembroke.

Reisinger Gets Twirler Alex. Graham From Leafs

Knotty Lee Lends Him Former Toronto Pitcher Until Others Come—London Manager is Hot Foot After Play-ers to Strengthen His Team.

Following Saturday's defeat at Tecumseh Park, Manager Reisinger, of the London team, set about in earnest to strengthen the local line-up and get the club on a par with the other teams in the league. The club in its present state is in a badly crippled condition. Outside of Reisinger, none of the pitchers are fit to work. Hammond's arm is practically dead and Dillinger has his arm in a sling as the result of two large boils. Morgan has been sent home to Detroit to recuperate, not having recovered from his recent illness. LaBate is not in shape, either, although he is in better condition than the others. Club Feels Hock's Loss. Hock's accident was a sad blow to the club especially at this time. The Delaware lad was putting up a great game at first base and was hitting nicely. Darr, on the other hand, is a displaced thumb, and Whitcraft is playing with a split finger that is causing him all kinds of trouble.

OTTAWA WON A COUPLE FROM STEWART'S SAINTS

Swamped Them On Saturday, But Sunday's Game Was a Pitchers' Battle With Ross Taking the Honors. OTTAWA, June 6.—Ottawa defeated St. Thomas 12 to 5, Saturday, and came back again today with a 2 to 1 victory at Dupuis Park. Hull, Ross had the Saints shut out until the ninth, and would not have been scored upon but for Smith's error. It was his fourth consecutive win. The Saints were outplayed in both games. Score: Ottawa 12, St. Thomas 5. R.H.E. Ottawa..... 000 000 030—12 5 3 St. Thomas..... 000 000 000—2 1 1 Howick, Wilkinson and Harris; Ne-vitt; Roberts. Sunday Game. R.H.E. HAS LOST AN EYE AND SERIOUSLY ILL.

[Special to The Advertiser.] WOODSTOCK, June 6.—Included in the list of casualties issued today by the casualty bureau at Ottawa appears the name of Private Warren Douglas Hildred, son of Thomas Hildred of this city, who is reported as being seriously ill. Previous to this report, Pte. Hildred, who enlisted at Winnipeg, with his brother John Walker Hildred, in the Princess Patricia's, had been reported wounded in the battle of Langemarck, and a cheery letter was received from him during the course of the past week, in which he declared that he had lost an eye, and that as he was unfit for further service, he expected to be home in a month or so, to his parents, in preparation for today's bad news. No word has yet been received from his brother, John Walker Hildred, who was officially reported missing in a recent casualty list.

THORNDALE BROTHERS HELD PRISONERS.

[Special to The Advertiser.] THORNDALE, June 6.—Mrs. Leonard Salter received a card yesterday from her husband, Sergeant Leonard Salter, of the 3rd Battalion, who was reported missing, along with his brother Oscar, about three weeks ago.

PTE. HARRY MUNN LOSES HIS LEFT LEG.

[Special to The Advertiser.] WOODSTOCK, June 6.—It was learned in this city today that Pte. Harry Munn, a former member of the 22nd Regiment, who enlisted in the first contingent, and who was every day being reported as being fighting around Langemarck, underwent an operation at Colchester Hospital, England, it being found necessary to amputate the left leg. The report stated that Pte. Munn was recovering nicely.

ST. THOMAS ACTOR WRITES HE'S WOUNDED.

[Special to The Advertiser.] ST. THOMAS, June 6.—James Conley, of the new Talbot Hotel, is in receipt of a letter from Pte. K. Charles Morse, dated from "Somewhere in France," stating that he had been wounded and had been admitted to the hospital at the base. The card was dated May 22. Pte. Morse's name has not been mentioned as yet by any of the official lists issued by the war office at Ottawa. Charles Morse was a member of the "Somewhere in France" theatre. He promptly resigned, and returned to his home town, St. Thomas, where he enlisted with the first contingent. He is a son of the late Isaac

Morse, a former mayor of this city.

BULLET THROUGH BRAIN INGERSOLL MAN LIVES.

[Special to The Advertiser.] INGERSOLL, June 6.—Additional particulars of the wounds received some time ago by Lance-Corporal Broun from who went to the front from this town, has just been received from the wounded soldier. He wrote from a hospital in England and says: "I have had a hard tussle but now am able to get up in a chair for an hour, which makes a nice change after being in bed for fifteen weeks. I received a skull wound. The bullet went through to the brain. I underwent two operations and had the bullet, a bone and some brain tissue removed. I was unconscious for nine days. My speech is coming back gradually as well as the use of my arm. I can move the fingers a little bit, but I have to have a splint on to keep the wrist up, as I have no strength in the arm to hold it up." The letter was received by Mrs. Baret, of the Oxford House where Broun was employed before going to the front.

PRIVATE FRED KETT A HARRISTON MAN.

[Special to The Advertiser.] HARRISTON, June 6.—The report from St. Catharines yesterday, intimating that Private Fred Kett had been wounded, refers no doubt to Pte. Fred Kett, a Harriston boy, who joined the 10th Field Battery at St. Catharines. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Kett, of this town, who have besides Fred, three other sons among the Canadian troops. Two of them were in the battle of Langemarck and for a time were reported missing, but have since turned up all right and are again on the firing line.

Suppose We Pared This Goodyear Fortified Tire

Suppose we pared the Goodyear All-Weather Tread. There still would be a full-built tire left. For this famous tread is double-thick, and the "carcass" beneath is made extra-strong to support it.

That's what men mean when they tell you that Goodyears are built in perfect balance. For what is the good of a heavy tread that you have to discard when the tire beneath gives out prematurely? This fault, in many rival tires, is avoided in Goodyear construction.

Goodyears Rule Because—

Five vital features have put these tires on top in four short years. But these five features we control. And no rival has them:

Goodyear's All-Weather Tread—now double-thick, with deep-cut, close-set, sharp-edged blocks. They grip where average tires slip. They minimize punctures and multiply mileage.

Goodyear's No-Rim-Cut Feature—that fortifies against rim-cutting in the best way science has discovered. This patented method, though widely copied, has never been equaled.

Goodyear's "On-Air" Cure—that protects against blowouts. We give each tire this second cure on bags of air. The air, super-heated, expands and "irons out" any wrinkle the fabric may contain.

No other tire maker goes to this expense. So wrinkled fabric in rival tires causes blowouts. Goodyear's Rubber Rivets—hundreds of them vulcanized between the tread and "carcass." The exclusive use of this method cost $50,000. It reduces loose tread risk by 60 per cent.

Goodyear's Braided Wire Tape—six flat bands of 126 braided piano wires in the beads of Goodyear tires. They make it impossible to force the tire from the rim.

Prices Reduced

Yet despite these extra features—despite the war tax on every particle of raw material that goes into Goodyear Fortified Tires—

On February 15th we made a radical price reduction.

This was our third in less than two years, saving the user, in all, an average of 37 per cent.

This saving is due to the amazing demand for Goodyear tires that multiplied our output and cut our factory cost per tire. Last year alone men bought in Canada as many Goodyear tires as there were cars in the Dominion.

vate John Lavender, of Galt, age 19, was hurled twenty feet in the air and badly wounded, and is now a patient in one of the London hospitals, and is reported to be doing very well. This news came in a letter from a relative in the old country. Private Lavender was born in England, but had been in Galt three years. He enlisted with the 25th Regiment here. A brother, Charles Lavender, lives here, while his father lives in Victoria, B. C. Another brother of Private John Lavender, Bert Lavender, was killed in action on May 14. He enlisted at Belleville, but was also a former resident of Galt.

LIEUT. ROSS, OF EMBRO, MAY LOSE LEFT LEG.

[Special to The Advertiser.] EMBRO, June 6.—D. R. Ross received a letter yesterday from his son, Lieut. James Gordon Ross, machine gun officer of the Fifth Royal Highlanders, of Montreal, who was wounded a few days ago. Lieut. Ross states that he is in the hospital at Boulogne, with his left leg badly shattered by shrapnel. The leg may have to be amputated, he writes, and he fears that his wounds will keep him out of the fighting for good. It is thought that he will be invalided home shortly. Lieut. Ross is one of three brothers who are officers with the Canadian forces at the front. All are Zorra boys and Canadian-born.

AUSTRIAN ARRESTED AS MURDER SUSPECT IN FORD CITY CASE

Taken After Chase—Clothing Blood-stained—Rode Stolen Wheel.

[Special to The Advertiser.] WINDSOR, June 6.—After a chase which extended all through the county and covered one hundred miles of road, provincial constables Nash and Smith, of Montreal, who were in the city yesterday took into custody Michael Kuski, an Austrian, whom they believe is the man that killed Felix Maline in Ford City, last Tuesday morning. Kuski's clothing was found to be blood-stained and he had in his possession, when arrested, a bicycle, stolen last Tuesday morning from a house a short distance from where Maline's bruised and battered body was found. The prisoner will be arraigned tomorrow for preliminary examination.

It's the Little Girls They Want, Not Boys

Londoners Who Adopt Children Select "Sunshine Rays" and Pass Up Masculine Terrors—Good Homes for Parentless Waifs.

Londoners who are adopting babies want little girls in their homes. Boys are less eagerly sought for. This is shown by the reports of the Children's Aid Society, which cares for homeless youngsters and those whose parents are unable or unwilling to bring up their own children.

The preference for girls rather than boys, even those only two and three years old, is marked. There are a number of homes in London who are waiting their turn for a girl baby, and they are mostly excellent homes, with persons of good breeding and of refinement and education. They want a girl to brighten the house. A boy, they believe, would make the home just a little too bright when he is the same of the age known as the "terror." The kind of people who would adopt a child are those who want it more as a companion, a sunshine ray, and a little helper, than as an heir to their fortunes and property. Thus, the home officials say, they pick a girl.

In spite of the higher cost of living, many more children have been adopted in the city this year than last. At present there are only eight or nine children at the home, while this time last year the number was over 20.

JITNEYS CROWDED ON TRIP TO SPRINGBANK

Everything But Aeroplanes Used to Combat Heat of Sunday.

London awoke this morning still gasping from the oppressive heat, and the outlook for the day was not bright. A gloomy one. The only hope for those who have not straw hats and a skin impervious to the sun's burning, is a rainstorm.

Sunday was the warmest day with the exception of one this year. The thermometer registered 83 degrees in the comparatively shady places in the afternoon. In the full rays of the sun, the mercury sped high up into the 90's. Even yesterday's heat was less severe than on April 26, when the degrees were registered at the Government observatory.

No Aeroplanes in Use.

Straw hats and the thinnest of clothing were worn, fans and handkerchiefs wielded to make heat waves less heated; motorcycles, autos, canoes, rowboats, bicycles, and almost every kind of conveyance except aeroplanes were used by Londoners to get out into the country.

Small boys pestered countless country constables by swimming in the river, all around the city, and sometimes too close to the banks, according to law. In the evening a band concert in Victoria Park was attended by almost a record number of people in the history of the public concerts in the park.

Jitneys to Springbank. Hundreds of people "jitneyed" to Springbank, and all of the city's main roads to the open country were swarming with autos and conveyances of all kinds, all day long.

ITALY HAS GREAT ZEPPELIN DESTROYER

Enormous Flying Machine Really Three-in-One—Carries Huge Weight.

Rome, May 25.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press).—An aeroplane "destroyer," designed for attacking dirigible airships, has been perfected in Italian Government workshops during the past few months. It is an enormous machine, with three separate engines and with a total energy of 250-horsepower. The aeroplane combines the tractor and pusher type of machines—that is, those which are drawn along by an air screw in front, and those which are pushed by an air screw behind.

It consists, in fact, of two ordinary biplanes, placed side by side, and far enough apart so that there is room between them for the propeller of a third engine, with the two main bodies has its own engine and tractor screw in front, so that it looks at first like two ordinary tractor biplanes flying hand in hand. On the section of wing, which joins the two bodies is placed the bodywork of an ordinary pusher biplane, with the engine and propeller behind. In this way the body projects well forward in front of the screws of the other two engines, and can carry a gun of considerable size, and have a clear field of fire forwards, backwards and on both sides, without danger of hitting its own screw or wings.

The tail ends of the two bodies are joined together by a very large tail, stretched from one to the other, so that actually all parts of the machine are in proportion. The big machine is capable of lifting a huge cargo of bombs, and is strong enough to be certain to destroy a Zeppelin if it hit it, and even capable of doing serious damage to a battleship.

WIDGES MAKE FEARSOME MEALS FOR SUBS IN LINE

CAPTURED FOE'S HORSES

Huron College Man Given Promotion for Work in Great Battle.

Pte. Francis L. Lewin, who recently sent home a German helmet, has been promoted to the rank of corporal at the front, in recognition of the work he did in the Ypres engagement, during which he captured some German horses and a quantity of their equipment, according to a letter received here.

"The Canadians' work around Ypres," writes Corp. Lewin, "was not without results, for around the fields and in the trenches thousands of German dead were scattered, victims of the deadly Canadian fire. After this battle, which will make the Germans long remember the Canadians, we found many trenches filled with the enemy's dead."

A Wordless Story. "Around our trenches the grass is all bleached as the result of our projectiles missed our vessels and they are driven off by our artillery."

"The enemy repeated the manoeuvre

Corp. Lewin adds that the body of a man who was resting twenty miles back from the firing line, "it was while thus engaged I met Roy Campbell, Sergt. Simmons and a fellow named Burton, a former London, Ont., policeman. They are all well."

"Ypres since the big engagement is deserted," stated the corporal, "and with every person gone and leaving their all behind them, the soldiers are now living on the fat of the land. I aided in the killing of seven pigs and other stock, which were taken and served brought joy to many of our men."

A Big Task Ahead. In closing, Corp. Lewin warns the soldiers in Canada to fight faithfully and prepare for a strenuous time, for he said: "Once they get to the firing line and into action they will find their work cut out for them."

Corp. Lewin was a student at Huron College before enlisting. His wife and family reside on concession 4, London Township.

POLICE BIG WINNER IN CHINESE GAME

Court Collects $61 After Raid by Sergeants.

If your Chinese, laundryman was late today, blame it on Sergt. Robert Birrell and Thomas Louisa for raiding the gambling den of the Chinese in the city.

"Ypres since the big engagement is deserted," stated the corporal, "and with every person gone and leaving their all behind them, the soldiers are now living on the fat of the land. I aided in the killing of seven pigs and other stock, which were taken and served brought joy to many of our men."

"The method of production of rifles is so planned that every year the number of rifles manufactured is proportionate to the number of reservists liberated from active service. The life of a rifle in active service is fixed at twelve years, after which period it is replaced by a new one, so that in reality every Russian reservist of the 1st and 2nd class has his rifle ready in case of mobilization."

In regard to territorial forces, which are used only for internal service, there are in the military depots new model rifles which have passed out of active service, and weapons of the old model, the so-called "Bertha" rifles, still considered a wonderful weapon, especially for defensive purposes.

"As to shells and other kinds of ammunition, there is a noteworthy method of production. In raw materials, including copper and other metals, Russia is so well supplied that it could furnish the whole of the engaged armies. The capacity of the Russian factories is increased in such a manner that it must be noted that all the Russian factories producing any kind of metal work were, from the moment of mobilization, transformed into armament factories, and they are fully engaged in this work. Russia, being free of blockade, and possessing splendid communication facilities, is able without difficulty to get from those countries material of any kind she wants."

PRISONER IN BELGIUM

Embryo Friends Receive Word From Pte. Mooney, Reported Missing.

[Special Correspondence.] Embryo, June 7.—Philip McArthur has been a card from Pte. Ross Mooney, 13th Battalion, who has been reported missing, saying he is a prisoner in Belgium, having been taken by the arm. His friends were afraid Pte. Mooney had been killed.

Pte. Ross has received letters from his two sons, Lieut. James and Major Robert. The latter merely says he is well, but the former has been badly wounded between the knee and the ankle, and was in hospital at Boulogne. He expected, when writing, to be soon sent to an English hospital.

DEATH OF A CHILD

Wingham, June 7.—Polla Pilon, eight-year-old daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Pilon, died at 10:15 a.m. on Saturday evening, after an illness of about ten days. She will be greatly missed around the home, as she was a bright and cheerful child. Besides her parents, she is survived by three little sisters, Marie, Katherine and Vivian. The body was interred in the family plot in Wingham cemetery.

Dr. J. P. Kennedy was obliged to refuse two patients at the general hospital here, as the institution is at present full up. It was expected that before now a new wing would be built as the doctor had explained to the public at different times how badly it was needed, many patients from outside places coming here for treatment and operations. It is hoped that a wing will be added before winter sets in as it is badly needed.

ARDENT FREE TRADER.

Dauphin, Man., June 7.—Robert Cruise, nominated Liberal candidate for the Commons in Dauphin constituency, declared the next election would be fought on the free trade question. He wished to go on record as an ardent free trader.

GERMANY AUSTRIA, FRANCE AND RUSSIA LOSE VESSELS

Muscovites and Germans Have Transports Sunk—Austrian Warship Rams One of Her Own Destroyers and French Mine-Layer Goes Down.

[Canadian Press.] Rome, June 7.—Via Paris.—A dispatch to the Messaggero from Venice says:

"During the bombardment of Pola by an Italian dirigible balloon May 30, the Austrian warships anchored at the arsenal moved into positions where they could avoid danger. While doing so the battleship Erzherzog Franz Ferdinand, in backing, crashed into a destroyer, tearing a hole in the side of the smaller craft. The destroyer quickly sank. The propellers and rudder of the battleship were damaged."

NOTICE SIDES LOSE. London, June 7.—A semi-official statement issued at Petrograd, says a Russian dispatch, states that the Russian transport Yenisei has been sunk in the Baltic Sea by a German submarine, while Russian mines and submarines have sunk three German steamers without result.

"Reports from observation posts and from our submarines watching the coast reveal activity by the enemy near our coast, especially the approach of a large German submarine, preceded by torpedo boats, approached the entrance to the gulf on the third, but withdrew on perceiving our fleet."

Second Attempt Failed. "Shortly afterwards the enemy sent out hydro-aeroplanes which attacked our ships. These hydro-aeroplanes were preceded without result, for projectiles missed our vessels and they are driven off by our artillery."

"The enemy repeated the manoeuvre on the fourth, but again was frustrated by our submarines. At the same time, the Baltic Sea, our transport Yenisei was attacked by German submarines and sunk, 32 men being saved."

"Reports dated the sixth seem to establish that the enemy steameders were sunk by mines placed in the route of the enemy and by the attack of our submarines."

GERMAN TRANSPORT SUNK. London, June 7.—The naval engagement at the entrance to the Gulf of Riga resulted in the sinking of several German transports and one large vessel, according to the Times. The Russians lost one auxiliary ship.

It is surmised, the correspondent says, that a majority of the German ships hitherto concentrated at Kiel came out into the Baltic, but the headquarters apparently were not engaged.

believed in Petrograd that the Germans will repeat their attempt to land troops on the Russian coast.

MINE LAYER LOST. Paris, June 7.—The ministry of marine has given out an official announcement reading as follows: "The French mine layer Casablanc has struck a mine at the entrance of the Gulf of Riga, and is now being picked up by a British torpedo boat destroyer. It is possible that other submarines may have been taken prisoners by the Turks."

MR. WARREN THOMSON ARRIVES IN LONDON

Say Loss Will Be $40,000, Covered by Insurance. Warren Thomson, owner of the London Knitting Company, who arrived today from Toronto, stated to The Advertiser that his loss will be $40,000. He had a large stock of cotton and wool in the building and $20,000 worth of machinery. The building is owned by Meakin & Co., of Hamilton, and their loss will be fully $10,000. Mr. Thomson's loss is fully covered by insurance, the principal policies being held in the British-American company.

Mr. Thomson stated to The Advertiser that what he learns what the owners of the building will do, he cannot say anything in regard to starting the business again, but he expects to equip a new plant. He had a lease of the premises.

Mr. Thomson stated that the origin of the fire was a complete mystery.

GERMAN PAPER HINTS THAT ROOSEVELT MADE TREATY WITH BRITAIN

Goes On To Accuse Wilson of Holding To "Unconditional Agreements."

London, June 7.—The Daily News
this morning states that the Vos-sche Zeitung recently published, in the form of correspondence from an American residing in Berlin, a suggestion that the course of the United States Government in the present crisis might be due to the existence of a secret treaty, concluded with Great Britain by a predecessor of President Wilson, and that it was not difficult to guess who that predecessor was.

The writer in the Vosche Zeitung
says:

"Roosevelt is suspected of having become the henchman of Britain in order to get out of the Anglo-American dispute over the Panama Canal."

"If this be so, then it is legitimate to infer that Roosevelt fought for re-election as president in opposition to Taft with the object of bringing America round to the side of Russia, Britain and France in the present war."

"Should Wilson, in addition to his wonderful views on the nature of neutrality, continue to stick to anti-constitutional agreements, then he would become doubly responsible and American citizens will know how to reply to his breach of the constitution by means of the ballot box."

Six Hours Battle Reported In the Baltic Sea.

LONDON, June 7.—1:48 a.m.—In a dispatch from Copenhagen the Daily Telegraph's correspondent
says:

"It is reported from Stockholm that a naval battle occurred Saturday night near Gotland. For six hours a violent cannonade was heard from a southeasterly direction, and for a long time from twenty to thirty shots were heard a minute."

The Russian official statement on Sunday said a strong German fleet appeared in the Middle Baltic and exchanged shots with the Russian fleet near the Gulf of Riga.

AUSTRIANS FEAR RUSSIAN "COME-BACK"

Press Warns People Not to Overestimate Przemysl Success.

London, June 7.—A Reuter dispatch
from Zurich says that the Austrian papers received there sound a note of warning against overestimating the importance of the Austro-German victory in Galicia.

A war correspondent of the Zeitung says that the fall of Przemysl does not mean a decision in the great battle in Eastern Galicia, but is only an important part of it.

"The Russians," adds the correspondent, "have proved themselves stubborn fighters, and they also have large reserves of fresh troops. Gen. Linington's army still has tremendous obstacles to overcome in an advance to the Dniester."

The military expert of the Neue Freie Presse, Vienna, says: "The losses in Russia have sustained during the war are enormous, but their reserves are enormous."

He recalls how, after previous defeats,
the Russians resumed the offensive.

MAXWELL D. FRASER
FORMER LONDONER
KILLED IN FRANCE

Nephew of M. D. Fraser Was Major in Strathcona Horse.

M. D. Fraser, barrister, has received word that his nephew, Major Maxwell D. Fraser, of the Strathcona Horse, a former resident of this city, has been killed in action.

Major Fraser was the son of the late
Dr. J. M. Fraser, who resided at 116
York street, now occupied by Dr. D.
H. Hogg. Educated in the Colborne and King street schools, he later entered a local bank, which position he occupied for a number of years. On being transferred from here to Chamberlain, he entered the 24th Regiment
there and with the rank of sergeant he was delegated to the coronation as one of the 24th representatives. Afterward Major Fraser moved to Mexico, where he stayed for some time.
Prior to the outbreak of war he took part in a commission in the 10th Cavalry Rifles, to which city he had moved. When Britain declared war, Major Fraser offered his services, and on being accepted he left for the front with the Strathcona Horse.

IS CROCKER LAND MERELY A MIRAGE?

MacMillan, Explorer, Reports That Supposed Territory Does Not Exist.

New York, June 7.—Whether or not Crocker Land, which Rear-Admiral Robert E. Peary believed he saw at a distance when in the Arctic regions
north of the western part of the American continent, is a myth, an illusion and a mirage, was the subject of discussion among scientists today. The argument arose over a letter from Donald MacMillan, now in the Arctic region at the head of an expedition sent there to ascertain whether Crocker Land really exists. In a letter to the New York Tribune Mr. MacMillan said that Crocker Land does not exist, but that from the heights of Cape Thomas Hubbard, and for several days in the Polar Sea, there was every appearance of an immense tract of land with hills and snow-capped peaks in the northwest. They marched toward it, Mr.
MacMillan reported it shifted its location and eventually disappeared.

No Land There.
Dr. Henry E. Osborn, president of the American Museum of Natural History,
one of the institutions which supported the MacMillan expedition, was quoted today as saying: "It seems to have been demonstrated clearly that there is no land there." Dr. Osborn said that Rear-Admiral Peary did not claim to have actually discovered the land, but that from the data he furnished in regard to the probability of its being there it seemed quite likely that he was right.

"The night information was received that enemy reinforcements were advancing from the direction of Madoos toward Kricha. Thereupon Lieut.-Gen.
Birdwood arranged to attack the trenches in front of Quinn's Post at 10 p.m., which was successfully carried out, and the captured trenches held throughout the night. The Turks' casualties were very heavy."

"At 6:30 a.m. the enemy heavily counter-attacked and by means of heavy bombs forced our men out of the most forward trench, though we still held communication trenches made during the night."

"The result of these operations is that we have made an advance of 500 yards,
are now consolidating our new positions and strengthening the lines."

OFFICIAL PRAISE FOR FINE ITALIAN TROOPS

In Bad Land and Weather They Have Proved Heroic.

[Canadian Press.]
Rome, via Paris, June 7.—An official note was issued last night commending the Italian troops for the spirit they are displaying in the campaign. The text of the note follows:

"Along the whole vast front the fighting qualities of our troops show themselves more strongly each day. There are no difficulties, whether of terrain or climate, military or tactical, which they are not able to surmount."

All Reliable.
"The classes, which had already seen war service in Libya as well as those who are now under fire for the first time,
are well in hand, steady, disciplined, sturdy and absolutely reliable. The King's approval is never lacking where deeds of bravery are done or suffering is courageously endured or risks are bravely taken. Recently one of the principal generals brought to the attention of the troops in his orders the King's praises, saying:

"The King desires to express his high appreciation of the exemplary bravery and unshakable perseverance shown by his troops, notwithstanding the continual bad weather on an exceptionally difficult and dangerous terrain, against an enemy long prepared and strongly intended, in this first difficult test, brilliantly sustained."

"We have seen among us on the front
the sacred and revered person of the King; our wounds have been treated with the greatest care; our brave men now receive his praises. Let us all answer:
"Long live the King! with a stronger will and a surer conviction of victory!"

Italy Orders Pola Amphitheatre To Be Spared From Bombs.

Venice, June 6.—Via Paris, June 7.—
The Italian military authorities have issued instructions to ships and aircraft to spare from injury the remains of the famous Roman amphitheatre at Pola, the Austrian naval base on the eastern side of the Adriatic.

The Italian claim that this terrain
is being used by the Austrians for military purposes. Nevertheless they purpose to spare it.

SEVEN DROWNED AT

Chicago, Ill., June 7.—Seven deaths
by drowning were the toll of Chicago yesterday, the first Sunday of the present heat wave, according to reports to the police today. Thousands of persons sought relief from the heat by swimming and boating.
The maximum temperature was 88.

TORONTO YOUTH DROWNED.

TORONTO, June 6.—Frederick Brown, 114 Poisson avenue, was drowned this afternoon in the Humber. He was paddling with three boy companions when the craft upset. A fleet of boats and canoes were there to rescue. Brown's companions were saved, but he sank before help arrived.

CONFESSES SENDING LETTER.

NEW YORK, June 6.—Frederick
A. Stillwagon, a Long Island fish dealer, was held in $10,000 bail yesterday for sending a letter to a threatening charge of having sent a threatening letter to the Cunard Steamship Company, demanding $20,000 upon penalty of blowing up one of their ships. District Attorney Perkins said that Stillwagon had confessed authorship of the letter. Mrs. Still-wagon, the mother of ten children, told a harrowing tale of the family's misfortunes, and attributed her husband's alleged act to his troubles.

British Take Trenches on 3-Mile Front—General Hamilton Orders General Attack Which Is Brilliantly Carried Out Across Peninsula.

[Canadian Press.]
LONDON, June 6.—8 p.m.—Official announcement was made tonight that the British troops at the Dardanelles, as a result of their new offensive movement last week, captured two lines of Turkish trenches along a three-mile front. The statement follows:

"On the night of June 3-4 the Turks, having heavily bombarded a small fort in front of the extreme right French position, which previously had been captured, launched an infantry attack against it, which was repulsed with heavy losses to the enemy. At the same time the Turks set fire to scrub in front of the left centre of the position occupied by the British division and attacked, but met with no success."

GENERAL ATTACK ORDERED.
"On the morning of the fourth of June Sir Ian Hamilton ordered a general attack on the Turkish trenches in the southern area of the Gallipoli Peninsula, preceded by a heavy bombardment by all guns, assisted by battleships, cruisers and destroyers."

"At a given signal the troops rushed forward with the bayonet. They were immediately successful all along the line except in one spot where the heavy wire entanglement was not destroyed by the bombardment."

"Indian troops on our extreme left made a magnificent advance. They captured two lines of trenches, but owing to the fact that the troops on their right were hung up by this wire entanglement they were obliged to retire to their original line. The regular division made good progress on the left centre, capturing a strong redoubt and two lines of trenches beyond it, about 500 yards in advance of their original line."

BRILLIANT WORK OF CENTRE.
"The territorial division on our centre did brilliantly, advancing 600 yards and capturing three lines of trenches, but, though the advanced captured trench was held all day and half of the ensuing night, they had to be ordered back in the morning to the second captured line, as both their flanks were exposed."

"The naval division on our right centre captured a redoubt and a formidable line of trenches constructed in three tiers 300 yards to their front, but they, too, had to be ordered back, owing to the heavy enfilading fire."

"The French second division advanced with great gallantry and elat. They took for the fourth time that deadly redoubt they call 'Le Haricot,' but unfortunately the Turks developed heavy counter-attacks through prepared communication trenches and under cover of an accurate shell fire were able to recapture it."

"On the French extreme right the French captured a strong line of trenches, which, though heavily counter-attacked twice during the night, they still occupy."

CAPTURE 400 PRISONERS.
"We captured 400 prisoners, including ten officers. Amongst the prisoners were five Germans, the remains of a volunteer machine gun detachment from the Goeben (the Turkish cruiser Sultan Selim). Their officer was killed and the machine gun was destroyed."

"During the night information was received that enemy reinforcements were advancing from the direction of Madoos toward Kricha. Thereupon Lieut.-Gen.
Birdwood arranged to attack the trenches in front of Quinn's Post at 10 p.m., which was successfully carried out, and the captured trenches held throughout
the night. The Turks' casualties were very heavy."

"At 6:30 a.m. the enemy heavily counter-attacked and by means of heavy
bombs forced our men out of the most forward trench, though we still held communication trenches made during the night."

which includes two lines of trenches along a front of nearly three miles. We are now consolidating our new positions and strengthening the lines."

ROME CELEBRATES CONSTITUTION DAY

People Serenade Royalty, and Prince Calls For Cheers For Forces.

Rome, June 6.—Via Paris, June 7.— Constitution Day was celebrated with intense enthusiasm by all classes of the population. A great parade which was formed this evening included in its ranks soldiers, priests, students and private citizens of all ages and conditions.

The procession marched to the Quirinale, the royal residence, where the bands struck up the National Anthem.
The Italian colors were hoisted on a balcony, upon which appeared Queen Mother Margherita, Crown Prince Humbert, the princesses of the ruling family, and the Duke of Genoa.

The representatives of royalty bowed again, and again, in response to tumuluous cheers. After they had retired to the palace, the cheering continued.
Then the little crown prince came back,
and, waving his sailor cap, called for cheers for the Italian army and nav-y.

Chicago, June 7.—Angelo Lun-ardi, a leper, who has been isolated in Highland Park, a suburb, for several months, has been spirited away by friends, and has been learned today,
and that several ministers will be replaced. It was said that Leon Bourgeois, former premier, will have a seat
in the new cabinet and that Victor
Gauguin, minister of marine, and
Louis J. Malvy, minister of the interior,
are among the present incumbents who
will resign.

Amsterdam, via London, June 7.—The Paris correspondent of the Telegraph states that there are persistent rumors in that city that a reconstruction of the French cabinet will take place shortly,
and that several ministers will be replaced. It is reported that Leon Bourgeois, former premier, will have a seat
in the new cabinet and that Victor
Gauguin, minister of marine, and
Louis J. Malvy, minister of the interior,
are among the present incumbents who
will resign.

LIBAU NO FORTRESS

Russians Demolished Forts and Removed All of Value.

London, June 7.—A Reuter dispatch
from Petrograd says: "Statements appearing in German newspapers to the effect that Libau (on the Baltic Sea) is a fortress and naval base are denied here. It is stated that in 1910 Libau was abandoned as a fortress, that its forts were completely dismantled, and that it is now an open seaport."

"The Italian claim that this terrain
is being used by the Austrians for military purposes. Nevertheless they purpose to spare it."

WE NEVER SACRIFICE QUALITY FOR PRICE.

That is why you very seldom see an advertisement of ours making extravagant claims of great price reductions.
Every merchant must make a certain amount of profit or he cannot remain in business. We are no exception to the rule and we cannot sell goods for less than we pay for them and remain in business. But we can guarantee to give you nothing but good shoes. The Cook shoe store has been established in London for a great many years and has built up a wonderful business by giving honest values, by having the right styles at the right time and by treating his customers with the utmost courtesy and sincerity. When we advertise a shoe at any price from 10s to 40s you may rest assured that the shoe is worth the price asked and that we would not sell it for anything less and we would not propose for the buying public than something shoddy at a reduction of a few cents?

If you do come in and let our expert fitters sell you your next pair of shoes,
we know you'll come back again.

British Army Lost 20,900 Men During Week

Casualty Lists Are Heaviest For Any Week During the War.

LONDON, June 7.—3:09 a.m.—The casualty lists for the week-end are the heaviest issued since the war began.
They include 30 officers and 5,620 men.
Of whom 1,674 were killed. This brings the total British losses during the last week to 900 officers and 20,000 men.

ITALIANS OUT DALMATIA OFF FROM MAINLAND

Destroy Lookout Stations on Islands—Troops Move Onward.

ROME, via London, June 6.—8:40 p.m.
—The following official statement was issued by the war office today:

"Naval detachments yesterday cut the cables uniting the continent to the islands of the Dalmatian archipelago.
All the lighthouse and lookout stations of the islands were destroyed. The railway between Cattaro and Ragusa was bombarded and seriously damaged.
The same day a group of our destroyers, which were unsuccessfully attacked by Austrian aeroplanes, again bombarded Montenegro, and sank several sailing craft laden with merchandise. Large vessels supporting the destroyers cruised in the same waters without seeing the enemy."

Last night's official statement said:
"Minor operations of our troops continue all along the entire frontier from Stevio to the sea."

"On the plateau Lavaronne and Folgaria the superiority of our artillery in the bombardments of Austrian positions is becoming more and more manifest. Our infantry, thus effectively supported, is established more firmly on the conquered ground."

"Movements of masses of troops for concentration purposes continue everywhere in the most orderly manner."

AUSTRIANS MAKE DASH FROM INTERMENT CAMP

One Dying and Another Seriously Injured As Result of Attempt to Escape.

BRANDON, Man., June 6.—Andrew Crapko, an eighteen-year-old Austrian,
is in the general hospital, having been killed in life and death, and a compatriot Mike Butryn, aged 22, is also in the hospital with an injury to his back,
as the result of a well-planned attempt to escape from the interment camp at the Winter Fair Arena, between 9 and 10 o'clock last night. Another Austrian got clear away.

The Austrians had surreptitiously cut a hole through the floor into a boiler-room underneath and tried to escape that way.
