ALLIES MAY BE FORCED TO MAKE WAR ON BOLSHEVIKI IN ORDER TO SAVE POLAND

Lloyd George Tells Parliament That Situation Is Extremely Critical and That Allied Soldiers May Soon Be Sent To Aid of Polish Forces—Labor Party Strongly Criticizes Government For Failing To Take Measures To Prevent Poles From Attacking Russian Reds in First Place—Germany May Find Opening To Embarrass Entente.

London, July 23.—The British public is disturbed by the possibility confronting it that the Allies may be compelled to enter another European war to save Poland. This position was made plain by Premier Lloyd George's speech in the House of Commons Wednesday, and all the newspapers are speculating upon it.

Heretofore the impression has been that Britain's part if Poland were faced with invasion by the Bolsheviki, as it now appears to be faced, would be limited to furnishing munitions. Mr. Lloyd George's statement that Great Britain is bound to give every assistance in her power to save Poland and that he may be compelled to "place the whole position before Parliament," however, is interpreted to mean much more than that.

Labor Party Opposes.

Virtually the only opposition to the premier—although it is important opposition—comes from the Labor party. That party criticizes the premier for advocating strong measures to stop the war when the Bolsheviki are winning, arguing that he "should have used his power to prevent Poland waging war against the Bolsheviki.

This new crisis is unpopular, even if, as appears, it is unescapable, judging from the tone of the newspapers, mainly because it may involve the expenditure of more lives, and because the country had come, according to general belief, about to the limit of bearable taxation, the chief political issues recently having been a growing and organized demand for the reduction of the Government's expenditures.

Papers which have been consistently distrustful of the Germans foresee that the military party of Germany not only would find in such a case an excuse for further delaying reduction of the Reichswehr and disbandment of the civil guard, but would secure a direct line of communication with Russia and make itself master of the Bolshevik organization and Russia herself.

MOTHER WAITS IN VAIN FOR NEWS OF SON

All Efforts To Find Home Address of Harry Lewis Fail.

WAS OVERSEAS 3 YEARS

Authorities Are Trying To Trace Him Through Militia.

Somewhere in Illinois, on a quiet farm, 20 miles from a large town or city, a mother waits for news from her hero son, who served three years in the 16th Battalion of the United States army overseas, and after the war left her to return to railroading in Canada. Last August her boy came back to her, and went away again, promising to return for Christmas, but somehow he did not go back home at Christmas.

One day at his boarding-house someone commented on his cuff links, a pair of gold ones with a little floral engraving.

"If anything should ever happen to me, I want these cuff links sent back to my mother," he said.

But no one knows where to send the cuff links to the little mother of Harry Lewis, who was accidentally killed in the Grand Trunk yards on Wednesday afternoon. The casket, covered with the floral tributes of his fellow-railroadmen, his body lies yet in Logan's funeral parlors, while efforts are still being made to find his relatives and ascertain where they wish interment to be made.

On the advice of G. R. Taggart, American consul here, Detective Egelton Thursday night wired military headquarters at Washington, asking where the 16th Battalion was demobilized, and whether from the battalion records the veteran's next-of-kin could be located.

He Never Wrote.

"You never write home to your folks," Harry," said Mrs. Heatherley, 439 English street, wife of another railroadman, with whom Lewis boarded, last Thursday morning.

"I'll walk in and give them a surprise one of these days," answered Lewis.

"But you ought to write to them."

Ottawa, July 23.—(Canadian Press).—It was definitely stated at the department of labor today that the report of the board of conciliation that inquired into the demands of C. P. R. telegraphers is now in the hands of the minister of labor.

The $5 was turned into the "conscience fund" of the company.

RESOLUTE IS LEADING IN TODAY'S RACE

American Defender Gets Away First in Fourth Event.

LIGHT WIND PREVAILS

U. S. Racer Rounds First Mark Nearly Two Minutes Ahead of Challenger.

Resolute led at first mark 1 minute 48 seconds, official time.

At 3:20 the yachts were within two miles of the second turn, with the Resolute leading by half a mile.

Sandy Hook, July 23.—Resolute, defending the America's Cup dashed first across the line today at the start of the fourth international yacht race, which she must win to prevent Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock IV from capturing the priceless pewter trophy.

Shamrock crossed about half a minute behind the defender.

With the blowing of the preparatory signal, the two sloops stood away to southward in the light breeze, and when the warning signal was sounded at 12:55, they were 300 yards to windward of the lightship.

Then they came about and reached for the line with booms to starboard, but not sufficient air to permit any smart jockeying for the start.

The yachts reached fast to eastward of the committee boat, and then along the line. They had to kill off time and stood away again to the northward.

Wind Was Light.

Wearing ship they again stood down the line from west to east. Resolute planted herself well in on the Shamrock's weather quarter. The starting signal was blown at 1 o'clock, and Resolute crossed at 1.01.33 official time, with the green sloop 23 seconds behind her.

At 1:50, when nearly down to the highlands, Shamrock had picked up with the aid of a small baby jib topsail, and was doing better in the breeze, which had dropped back to 6 knots. Apparently the skippers did not find the wind they expected along the Jersey shore, but they had the advantage of the tide and kept on turning in towards Seabright. Shamrock cut down some of her rival's lead on the tack inshore, but at 1:55 the United States sloop was still quite a piece to weather. At 1:55 the breeze hauled directly south, giving the boats still more of a beat. At that time the official press boat following the racers reported that they were off the south end of the highlands, about 2 miles from the beat, sailing about on even terms, with Resolute half a mile to windward and therefore that much nearer the turning mark.

At 2 o'clock the yachts had reached that point off the coast where last Wednesday, they began a series of short tacks, but this time Resolute had a lead nearly twice as great as that of Wednesday.

At 2:05 Shamrock came about and headed offshore.

Resolute crossed Shamrock's bow at 2.07, and then came about on the starboard tack, planted squarely on the challenger's quarter.

Offshore the wind seemed brisker, and the yachts took on speed, their lee rails awash.

At 2:14 it looked as if Resolute might be able to fetch the first mark. Shamrock was behind and to leeward.

On the tack off-shore, Captain Burton again employed the old English trick of sailing along under started sheets for the purpose of forereaching his rival, but it was doubtful if Shamrock footed any faster than Resolute, which certainly was standing up closer in the eye of the wind.

WILL DISCUSS SUBWAY PLANS

Rectory and Waterloo Street Crossings To Be Considered Tonight.

Subways for Rectory and Waterloo streets will be discussed tonight by a special committee of the city council, of which Ald. Cameron Wilson is chairman. Reports on the project will be submitted by the G. T. R. engineering department and by City Engineer Brazier. Mr. Brazier just completed the final details of his report today. His plans will also include an overhead bridge for Egerton street.

Provision of a subway at Rectory street is expected to be a fairly easy matter, but the Waterloo street proposal presents a more difficult problem. There is a wide stretch of G. T. R. tracks here, and in addition to the difficulty presented by this fact there is the London and Port Stanley track a few hundred feet south. If a subway is built under the G. T. R. tracks it will open almost directly onto the track of the city line. This, it is claimed, would be more dangerous than a level crossing. If the subway is to be extended beneath the L. and P. S. R. track, however, it will be a very long one and will be expensive.

The overhead bridge at Egerton street would be merely for pedestrians. It is claimed that under present conditions at this crossing many workmen are delayed in reaching the factories, and that everything could be remedied easily by this simple means.

Another suggestion of the committee was that Thames street be paved so that more traffic would be diverted to that street and through the subway already existing there. Both the street and the subway are very narrow and the city engineer advised against increasing the traffic, particularly as it would throw an additional burden on the Ridout street bridge, which is in a weakened condition.

MORE THAN A MILLION DOLLARS WORTH OF LONDON PROPERTY IS CHANGING HANDS MONTHLY

Transactions Are Almost Entirely in Residential Real Estate —Comparison of Prices Shows Big Jump in Values.

More than a million dollars' worth of property is changing hands each month in London, according to an official report on property transfers issued from the office of Assessment Commissioner Grant today. This is based on the records of April and May. The sudden increase in the sale of property threw the department far behind in its work. For that reason no official report is available yet on the sales made in June.

SMALL HOUSES IN DEMAND.

Assessor Harry Bennett, who compiled the figures, stated that the sales were confined almost entirely to small residential property.

"I do not think there are a dozen vacant lots in all the property that has changed hands," he said. "There are very few big deals, either. The difficulty in renting houses seems to have led many people to purchase property who never considered it before."

PRICES ARE HIGH.

The sales in April numbered 366, for which $955,832 was paid. The assessment on these was $674,851. In April, 1918, there were only 73 sales, representing a cash value of $96,921, and an assessment of $71,483. In the same month of 1916 the sales numbered 78, for a consideration of $121,078, and an assessment of $95,305. In April, 1904, there were 91 sales, representing $83,638 cash, and an assessment of $65,670.

MAY HOLDS THE RECORD.

May was the record month so far this year, with 398 pieces of property changing hands, for which $1,056,008 was paid. In May, 1918, there were 91 transfers, for which $136,220 was paid, and on which the assessment was $104,780. In May, 1916, the transfers numbered 84, for a total consideration of $113,286, and an assessment of $83,830. In May, 1904, 79 pieces of property were sold for $111,813. They were assessed for $95,693.

CALLS ON CONGRESS TO REFUSE RECOGNITION OF "IRISH REPUBLIC"

Providence, R. I., July 23.—(By the Canadian Press).—Mrs. Paul Fitzsimmons, formerly Mrs. French Vanderbilt, has sent to other members of the Newport smart set a letter asking co-operation in influencing members of the United States Congress to vote against recognition of the "Irish Republic." She implores them all to "bring pressure to bear in these months before election to fight this menace."

In a letter to be sent to congressmen, she says: "I request that you vote against any legislation pertaining to the recognition of the so-called republic of Ireland, thereby proving that your patriotism and loyalty to the best interests of our country are above any other consideration."

WANT TO PURCHASE LOTS FROM CITY

Contractors Are Negotiating For Property At Pine Lawn.

Efforts to secure a number of building lots owned by the city in connection with the Pine Lawn development are being made by a large firm of contractors and builders, it was learned today. The housing commission purchased the Honsiger homestead, near the Hamilton road and commenced its development as a building site. The possibilities of development have been realized by the builders, and they are willing to make the city an offer for a large section of the property.

"There is no possibility of any of the property being sold for some time," Commissioner R. H. Hessel said when interviewed in regard to the report. "We intend to erect a good many houses out there, but whether we will require all the lots I do not know. Of course, we have always intended to sell a lot to anyone who will build a house on it, whether they borrow the money from the commission or not, as that would aid the development of the property, and I see no objection to selling a number of lots if the buyer will erect houses immediately.

"The property has not been subdivided long enough for us to determine the cost of the individual lots yet. If we sell them we should do so at a profit so that we will be able to meet the overhead expenses in conection with the housing work being carried on out there."

'Sun Kissed' Monograms Latest Fad On Beach

Atlantic City, N. J., July 23.—"Sun-kissed monograms" are Milady's newest fad here. The method is simple and the effect striking. A pair of plump shoulders, a few strips of designed courtplaster and a penknife or pocket scissors do the trick. The sun tans the exposed skin, leaving that under the strips white and gleaming when the plaster is removed. Such a monogram can be seen for long distances. And, of course, decorative skill needn't be confined to monograms.

LAD'S FOOT CUT OFF BY MOWER

Three-Year-Old Eddie Hawkins of London Township Will Recover.

While playing in front of a large mower at Cedar Grove farm, just outside of the city limits, Edward Hawkins, the 3-year-old son of Rev. Marshall Hawkins, had his left leg cut off just above the ankle. The lad was rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital, and although suffering greatly from shock, he is reported as having a good chance for recovery.

SUES FOR $2,000

Arthur Shaw Takes Action Against Joseph Wilkinson.

Acting for Arthur Shaw of this city, G. N. Weekes issued a writ in the supreme court here this afternoon against Joseph Wilkinson, Victoria street resident, for $2,000 damages. Wilkinson struck Shaw over the head with a hoe last May during an altercation over a dog fight, and was fined $250 in police court last Saturday on a charge of assault occasioning bodily harm as a result of the row. Shaw spent several weeks in St. Joseph's Hospital following the asault, and his recovery was regarded as miraculous by the physician in attendance.

YOUNG WOMAN IS KILLED IN ELEVATOR ACCIDENT

Toronto, July 23.—As the result of an elevator accident this morning at the offices of the Canadian General Electric Company, Miss Marie Bennett, 94 Baldwin avenue, was almost instantly killed.

Doubt exists as to the exact cause of the accident. Sergt. Guthrie, who handled the case, gave his version of the accident. "The elevator was at the basement, and the girl having been down there was going to the elevator. The elevator had started, but the door was not closed. The girl made an attempt to get in and did so. She was not in far enough, however, and her head struck the first floor. She dropped from the first floor to the basement."

TEN KILLED, 100 ARE INJURED IN BELFAST RIOTS

Shooting Is Renewed This Morning in Kashmir Street Area.

MACHINE GUNS USED

Troops Open Fire When the Rioters Get Beyond Control.

Belfast, July 23.—Shooting was renewed this morning in the Kashmir street area, where bitter fighting occurred last night in clashes between Unionists and Sinn Feiners, with military intervention. Early in the renewal of hostilities in this district one man was reported wounded by a shot that passed through the window of his home.

It was definitely stated this morning that ten persons were killed in last night's hostilities.

SINN FEIN SNIPERS FIRE ON SOLDIERS AND POLICE IN BELFAST

Belfast, July 23.—Firing continued in the early hours of this morning, the soldiers being compelled to use machine guns against the rioters.

In the Falls Road district the Sinn Feiners were sniping soldiers and police from roofs and windows of houses. The troops returned the fire. It is stated that the wounded persons in last night's fighting total more than one hundred. Thirty arrests were made.

Three Unionists were shot dead by Sinn Feln snipers and another man's head was blown off. A man helping to carry the body of one of the dead men into a house was shot dead.

The disorders which started Wednesday after some Sinn Feln workers in a shipyard were attacked, were renewed at frequent intervals yesterday. Throughout the afternoon, the military were engaged on Falls Road in erecting barbed-wire entanglements across the fronts of shops wrecked in Wednesday night's disturbances and posting large detachments of troops at certain of the danger spots.

Disorder broke out at 8:30 last night on one of the roads leading into the city. Troops were hurried to the scene and fired on the mob, wounding many who were removed to hospitals or their homes. The crowd reformed quickly, but were charged by the troops and dispersed at 9:30. Reinforcements arrived on the scene, and there was a final burst of firing. Ambulances hurried to the spot from every quarter of the city, followed by fire brigades, in the belief that the casualty list would be heavy.

POLICE AND SOLDIERS WRECK SINN FEINERS' HALL AT BALLINGSLOE

London, July 23.—About 2 o'clock this morning Caltra, near Ballingsloe, Ireland, was visited by police and military, who wrecked many houses in the town, including the Sinn Fein hall, which was burned to cries of "Up Tuam!" according to a message from the Press Association's correspondent in Ballingsloe today. There was much shooting, but no loss of life is reported.

The slogan, "Up Tuam!" evidently refers to Sunday night's incident when Tuam was sacked, the sacking being charged against the police as a reprisal for the murder of two constables by the mob.

WOMAN'S BODY FOUND IN TRUNK THAT WAS SENT FROM DETROIT

Discovery Is Made Among Unclaimed Baggage in N. Y. Depot.

INVESTIGATION ASKED

No Marks of Violence On Nude Body, Declare the Express Officials.

New York, July 23.—The body of a nude woman, jammed in a trunk, was found today by employees of the American Railway Express Company among the unclaimed baggage in the company's East Forty-fourth street warehouse. The trunk had been received here from Detroit on June 17.

Believing that the trunk contained perishable merchandise, one of the express men opened it, and found the woman's body. The body had been jammed into the trunk, and the clothes apparently had been thrown in afterwards.

There were no marks of violence on the body, express company employees said. The police immediately took possession of the trunk and its contents for investigation.

The trunk was shipped through the American Railway Express Company to this city by a man giving the name of "A. A. Tieturn," of 105 Harper street, Detroit, according to the records accompanying the baggage, the police say. It was addressed to "James Douglas, New York City," they declare.

Express company officials said that they had held the trunk at the depot baggage-room for several days, but when it was unclaimed they had sent it to the storeroom.

The police said they will immediately request the Detroit police to locate the man mentioned in the record as the sender of the trunk.

The body, which had been covered over with feminine wearing apparel of good material, had been crammed into the trunk, which is 2½ feet high and 3 feet long. The trunk, which was bound with a clothesline, was so crowded by its contents that it bulged at the side.

The woman was apparently 25 to 30 years of age, the police say, and weighed about 130 pounds, had blue eyes, and had been fairly good looking. Two upper teeth of her left jaw slightly protruded, but this is believed to be a natural deformity.

The woman was a brunette, the police say. Her body, which had been jammed into the trunk with her head thrown back and her knees crowded closely against her chin, was wrapped in newspapers and a long piece of cloth. The newspapers were all Detroit editions of June 9 and 10.

The body, the police said, was badly mutilated, apparently having been slashed with a knife.

GT. BRITAIN MUST GAIN CONTROL IN IRELAND, ALTHOUGH IT MAY MEAN SACRIFICE OF MANY LIVES

Sir Hamar Greenwood, Chief Secretary of Ireland, in Address Before British Parliament, Calls For More Drastic Measures To Meet the Reign of Murder Now Prevailing—Predicts Situation Will Become Much Worse and Appeals To All To Support British Government in Any Action It May Take.

London, July 23.—"I regret having to say that Parliament and the Kingdom must brace itself to face a bitter period in Irish history, as there will be a determined effort to establish an Irish republic by means of murder and intimidation," declared Sir Hamar Greenwood, chief secretary for Ireland, in the course of a debate on Irish affairs in the Commons yesterday. He appealed to all parties and creeds to support the Government, predicting the situation would become still worse than at present.

"There never was a time," he added, "when the Irish executive, the British cabinet and the House of Commons were more desirous of settling this age-long Irish question, and we welcome representations from every quarter as to the best method for solution."

For the present, Sir Hamar said, he would have to ask the House to pass certain legislative measures to meet the situation, among them one to create a tribunal superseding civil courts, which had failed to function during the recent assizes, and another empowering the lord lieutenant of Ireland to establish a tribunal to deal quickly with all criminal offences committed in Ireland.

The government, Sir Hamar also announced, had introduced a criminal injuries bill, which would enable it to intercept every grant from the exchequer to any person or authority in Ireland, which was acting illegally, and he assured the House that the action of every council or other public authority in Ireland was being examined into, and that most drastic action would be taken to maintain the authority of the crown.

Carson's Declaration.

"Pending those measures," the secretary asserted, "any decision of a Sinn Fein court or any transfer of title under such decision is illegal and will be upset as soon as possible." Sir Edward Carson, the Ulster Unionist, after declaring that "in three-quarters of Ireland the British Government has been entirely beaten," said: "There are only two courses open for solution—either surrender to the Irish republic, or organization of forces to insure the Government is not beaten again."

The Unionist leader asserted that what he had done in Ulster in the past he would do again. "If I had not done my part," he stated, "Ulster would today be ground down under the heels of murderous assassins, who are now making Ireland infamous in the eyes of the world."

LLOYD GEORGE DECLARES CRIME IN IRELAND MUST BE STOPPED

London, July 23. — Premier Lloyd George told a deputation of the parliamentary committee of the Trades Union Congress yesterday that he was as anxious as any man to see the Irish question settled on a basis acceptable to the majority of the Irish people. The premier discussed with the men for an hour and a half the outcome of the special trades union congress called early in July to consider labor's attitude on the Irish question.

Mr. Lloyd George declared the Government was not afraid to accept a truce, but that it could not permit overt outrages and murders. It was prepared to go a long way toward letting Ireland manage her own affairs if the necessary assurance was forthcoming, he said.

The premier suggested that labor could use its influence to secure a settlement.

FRENCH TROOPS BEGIN MARCH ON ANCIENT CITY OF DAMASCUS; KING FEISAL DISREGARDS ULTIMATUM

Beirut, Syria, July 23.—French troops, in view of the failure of King Feisal of Syria to begin execution of the ultimatum terms, have begun a march on Damascus. They have encountered no opposition, and are proceeding toward Aleppo.

SHIRT IS A DREAM, BUT THE BILL IS REAL NIGHTMARE

New York, July 23.—To be the well-dressed man today, if you're going in for out-of-door clothes, you must wear green hose with yellow clocks, an orange shirt, a henna scarf and carry a purple handkerchief. Said handkerchief is such a gorgeous affair you feel you ought to pin it on with a safety pin to avoid loss. These were the styles shown at the National Association of Merchant Tailors' convention. They still calla shirt a shirt, but the name is about all that is left of that particular garment as it was formerly known. Today it is a dream, a creation, anything but an old-time shirt. When the bill comes it is a nightmare.

Corpse Contains Lots of Spirits; Mourners Weep

Greenwich, Conn., July 23.—There was a real "kick" in a "corpse" found by prohibition agents today in a hearse passing through Seymour, a suburb. The agents, undaunted by the figure of a man clothed in clerical robes seated beside the driver, halted the hearse and pulled out the coffin. They found the coffin filled with spirits—yes, 500 gallons of spirits. The driver and clerical assistant were arrested. The "mourners" showed uncontrolled grief.

The Morning Post fund for Gen. Dyer now reached $60,000, including $2,000 from Calcutta.

CYCLONE HITS WEST; 2 KILLED, SCORE INJURED, LOSS $200,000

Heaviest Loss Was Suffered Around Alameda, Sask.

TWO MILES IN WIDTH

Rain That Accompanied the Severe Wind Will Benefit Crops.

Toronto, July 23.—A special dispatch to the Toronto Star from Regina says:

For weeks Saskatchewan has been praying for rain. Yesterday it came in cyclonic proportions, swept the province from west to east, carried with it death to at least two people, injury to over a score, and caused property damage estimated at $200,000. The full casualty list and damage toll is far from complete, as in its course the storm put many of the rural telephones out of commission.

Following the storm the crop throughout the province is now assured.

The heaviest damage has been caused in southern districts. In Alameda five people have been injured, nine barns and a schoolhouse blown to matchwood, and damage estimated at $100,000 caused. The cyclone, which extended several miles in length, was two miles wide. It struck the town late in the afternoon and lasted for 30 minutes. So great was the velocity of the gale that a threshing outfit was carried 200 yards, the schoolhouse wrecked, and carried 400 yards.

Diamond Production of South Africa

In 1912, 5,071,882 carats were mined at a value of £10,061,489, while in 1918, 2,537,360 carats mined sold for £7,114,867. Less than half the production sold for almost as much money. But in 1919 only 2,588,017 carats mined sold for £11,734,495, an actual increase of 62 per cent value in one year. Safety first idea is to buy perfect diamonds from J. A. Nash, "My Jeweler." His store is 206 Dundas street, "where you will eventually buy." b

20,000 AMERICANS STUDY IN FRANCE

Twenty-Five States Are Represented.

PARIS, July 22. — More than 2,000 American students, representing 25 States, are attending French universities this year, according to the latest report from the American University Union, whose headquarters in Paris are the gathering place of university graduates arriving from all parts of the United States.

Strange to say, Americans studying here have little interest in either the scientific or the legal branches. Sixty of the sixty-four attending the University of Paris are registered in the faculty of letters, and other schools attract only four of the overseas students. Of course, there is some research work of an independent nature always being carried out without registering in any school of the university. This may account for the apparent lack of interest in the French scientific courses.

The universities of Strasbourg, Montpelier and Toulouse and the School of Protestant Theology at Bordeaux also are establishing American colonies. The only phase of university work in which Americans are not represented is the famous Ecole des Chartres of the Sorbonne, where thousands of ancient manuscripts are daily perused in the hope that new light will be shed on the vague historical quarrels.

In this connection professors remark that American interest is undeveloped in this line of work because America has not such a collection, although the more likely reason is that patience is not generally recognized as a virtue overseas.

JIMMY PIPE HAS DISPLACED STOGIE AT THE CITY HALL

High Price of Havanas Is Blamed For Situation By Mayor.

With indications of surpassing the recent "overall" fad, a new, popular movement is now sweeping over the very heart of the city. Usually the ranks of officialdom are the last to succumb to anything in the way of an innovation, but this time they are in the vanguard.

Led by no less a person than his worship the mayor, practically every smoker in the city offices has deserted the five-cent stogie for the soothing jimmy pipe. Smoke producers which have not seen daylight for years have been resurrected, and brand-new ones have been purchased by those who were not fortunate enough to have acquired one in the early days of their smoking career.

Perhaps it is incorrect to say that the mayor led the movement, for it was in every sense a popular uprising. The pipes appeared in all departments simultaneously, although there had been no pre-arranged plans. But it was in the mayor's office that an Advertiser reporter first noticed the innovation. While not desiring to be quoted officially the city's chief magistrate indicated that it was the prevailing high price of clear havanas, which had brought about his conversion.

Reverses Procedure.

"Most people smoke pipes in the winter and cigars in the summer, but I am reversing the procedure," he admitted. "I am finding it a good deal more economical, too."

"Does not the cost of the numerous matches required for one pipeful of tobacco counterbalance any saving that may be effected by changing from the cigar diet?" asked the reporter who had been trained to look at important public movements of this kind from all angles.

"I dare say it would if it was figured out on a sound cost basis, but it is still possible to borrow matches while it is now practically impossible to borrow cigars," he replied.

City Clerk Also.

The reporter's investigation next led him into City Clerk Baker's office.

He found that gentleman puffing contentedly at the curved stem of French briar, and apparently enjoying it. He advanced the same reasons as the mayor for the change. Still further delving revealed the fact that City Engineer Brazier is another convert to the movement, while Wilfrid Smith, one of the city clerk's assistants turned up at the housing commission meeting last night, a nose-warmer clutched in his teeth.

The movement is still going strong, but the prophets who are in real close touch with the situation predict that all those participating in it will return eventually to their old loves.

HEAVY BUDGET OF HARDWARE ADVANCES

Discussing the market situation Hardware and Metal says:

A heavy budget of advances has again been made on the price of many hardware commodities. Few have hopes for a reserval of this condition in the near future, the tendency still being for higher prices. Washing machines and wringers have sharply advanced by a revision of the list prices. Coal tar, ash sifters, rifles and shotguns, grindstones, screw drivers, floor wax, wrought nipples and couplings, paint and varnish brushes, carpet sweepers, saw vises, rubber belting, toboggans, smokeless powder, axle grease, steel cable, chemical closets and chemicals, dash lanterns, power horse clippers and parts, Canada plates, galvanized and black sheets, paper bags, toilet paper, finished nuts and set screws, builders' hardware, copper clout nails, trolley barn door hangers, brass butts, clay picks, mattocks and grub hoes, cross bars, carpenters' bars, cotton wrapping twine and tub stands all have higher quotations.

Little relief has been offered the great scarcity of raw materials, great difficulty being experienced in securing freight cars. In many localities shippers are required to procure a permit for each car and are required to load the car the same day as received or else the car is passed to someone else on the waiting list.

Business is quiet, although jobbers are well satisfied with the volume accorded them for this season of the year, which is the in-between period. Summer lines are still moving well. Collections are very satisfactory.

NO POSSIBILITY OF RAILWAY BOARD BEING CALLED IN

As Long As Gas Company Operates Plant, Says Ald. Seabrook.

"There is not the slightest possibility of the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board being asked to operate the City Gas Company as long as the company continues to supply gas," Ald. E. R. Seabrook, acting mayor, said today. "I don't think it would be possible to call in the board to run a company that is keeping its business going no matter what prices they charge. If an injunction is issued to prevent them collecting the higher prices, and they state that they will no longer operate the plant, then there would be occasion for calling the board, but until that time I don't think it could be done."

A similar opinion was expressed by Ald. G. B. Drake. "Unless the plant shuts down I don't see how we can call on the railway board," he said.

LOCAL NEWS

—Rev. H. H. Bingham, B.A., of Calgary, former pastor of Talbot Street Baptist Church, this city, will be in his old pulpit on Sunday, both morning and evening.

LAD IS FOUND.—Gerald Mantel, 14-year-old son of Stephen Mantel, 3 Guelph street, who disappeared from his home on July 2, has been located working on a farm near London.

DEDICATION.—The new Memorial Hall, in course of erection in connection with St. Mary's Church, Walkerville, of which Rev. W. H. Battersby is rector, will be dedicated to the service of the Anglican Church on Sunday, September 5, by Ven. J. B. Richardson, archdeacon of London.

STREETS DARK—Downtown streets took on a wartime appearance last night, recalling the days when all outside electrical display was forbidden in order to conserve power for munition making. The condition last night was due to the blowing out of a fuse on the downtown circuits, which prevented the lighting of all the ornamental street lights.

WAS HAND-HEWED. — Workmen razing a building on Dundas street, near Talbot street, this morning removed a solid oak beam eighteen inches square in good condition. The beam, which has been in place about 50 years, was hewed by hand and is very valuable at the present high cost of oak. A second massive beam of oak slightly rotted will be removed in the near future.

TRADE IS QUIET.—London reports to Bradstreet's that the retail trade is fairly active, but the wholesale trade is draggy, particularly in some drygoods lines and boots and shoes. Excellent supplies of fruit and vegetables are coming to market. Harvesting is going ahead at a good pace in the neighboring sections. Local women are buying city of London bonds in large numbers, ranging in amounts from $100 to $5,000. Fifty per cent of the sales of the present issue have been made to women, who are said to be shrewd investors and familiar with all the details. Citizens are dissatisfied with the street car service and the cars. No money, however, will be spent on improvements to the system until the wage scale reaches a minimum of 53 cents an hour.

ARM BROKEN.

Kenneth Smith, 153 Waterloo street, suffered a fractured arm when he was struck by a bicycle which his chum was riding on the Pipe Line road on Thursday afternoon. Both boys were out for a ride, when Smith's bicycle turned at the bottom of the hill, thus putting him in front of his chum's bicycle. He was taken to his home by a passing autoist.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

HAS SISTER HERE.

Mrs. George Goodall, aged 92, who died at Paris, Ont., was for many years a resident of Galt. She was a member of the Presbyterian Church, and until advancing years prevented, had taken an active interest in church work. Left to mourn her demise are two sons, Thomas of Paris and James of San Francisco, and two daughters, Mrs. J. Lowe of Hamilton and Mrs. N. Broughton of Paris; two brothers and a sister also survive, George of Findaley, Man.; James of Galt, and Mrs. William Simkins of London.

MANY REFINERIES BELIEVE SUGAR HAS REACHED THE PEAK

Tea Market Is Showing Firmness in All Grades.

The following comment on the market situation as regards foodstuffs appears in the Canadian Grocer this week:

The feature of the markets this week is the large advance registered on sugar. This advance is due to the fact that refineries are now working on high price raws, and some refiners are of the opinion that the peak prices have now been reached. The market for general commodities continue to rule with a firm undertone. Some lines have advanced, while others show indications for advancing. Business in both wholesale and retail circles is reported comparatively quiet.

Toronto.—The feature of the markets this week is the advance of $3 per cwt. registered on sugar. The raw sugar market was considerably easier during the past week, and exports from Cuba have greatly increased, showing a tonnage far in excess of any one week during the past year. Molasses market is strong, and manufacturers are urging customers to buy now and avoid the inconvenience of freight congestion which will probably be manifest later on owing to car shortage. Aunt Jemima pancake and buckwheat flour has advanced. It has been intimated that corn flakes are due for an advance. The spice market generally has developed a weak tone. Peppers, cloves, allspice, coriander and caraway seeds have declined 2 to 5 cents per pound. Pure mustard is up 5 cents per pound. Cigars have advanced, also confectionery, ice cream, salt, cigarette papers, kitchen bouquet and sweet pickles.

The tea market is showing a firmer tone on low and high grades. Sockeye salmon is quoted higher. Dried fruits are quiet, with lower quotations on currants. Shelled nuts continue in an unsettled condition. The rice market is easy. Vegetables and fruits are plentiful and quotations are lower.

Fresh meats are steady. Butter and eggs are firm and quotations are higher. Lard and shortening are easier and quotations have receded.

CITIZENS ARE PAYING UP TAXES RAPIDLY

Indications Are That Second Installment Will Be In Early.

City Treasurer James S. Bell has commenced collection of $200,000 more taxes, representing the second installment of the million and a half dollars to be paid into the city treasury this year. The final day for collection of this installment is August 15, but indications are that most of it will be in the bank long before that time.

The first installment fell due on July 2, which was considerably earlier than usual. In spite of this it was promptly paid. Many citizens paid all three installment at once. This has greatly reduced the amount of money to be collected this time.

Expenditures have more than kept pace with city income. All the money collected last month has been spent in the repayment of loans. The city council Monday night will negotiate a further loan with which to carry on business until the second installment of taxes has been collected.

Dog and statute labor taxes are helping to fill the city treasury. Little trouble has been experienced in the collection of these so far, although official notice has been given that police court action will be taken in cases where prompt payment is not made.

FIRST WORK STARTS ON SCHOOL BUILDING

The first official indication that the public school building program is under way was given today when a building permit was taken out for minor repairs to the South Colborne street school. An expenditure of $3,330 is involved for the building of a small addition and lavatories. It is expected that this will be followed immediately by permits for the work at Ealing and Knollwood schools which will aid considerably in bringing up the building figures for the month.

The total has now reached $104,580. Seventy-four permits have been issued. M. McKenzie was granted a permit today for a one and a half story brick veneer dwelling on Hall street to cost $4,100.

PASSPORTS ARE BEING REFUSED

Russians Who Want To Go Home Cannot Secure Passage.

Russians in the city just now are likely to stay here for some time. The General Steamship Agency at New York has notified F. B. Clark that passports are not to be issued to Russians while while their country is in the present Bolshevik condition. Many Russians within the last few week have requested passage home, and it has been a difficult task to explain to them that for the time being they cannot return. The applications for passage to Russia have dropped off during the last week, an interpreter having been secured to tell the Russians the reason they cannot return.

London will be invaded shortly by a number of Syrians who have booked passage to this city. Passenger traffic between England and Canada has been unusually heavy during the last month. Very few passports for Ireland have been obtained lately. Probably the Sinn Feiners have something to do with the scarcity of visitors to the Emerald Isle. A number of Italians have booked passage for home during the last month, but just as many are coming to this country.

PROHIBITIONISTS TO ELECT NEW OFFICERS AT MEETING TONIGHT

Organization Is Getting Ready For the Referendum in October.

The second meeting of the London Prohibition Society will be held this evening in the Y. M. C. A. at 8 o'clock. The nominating committee, which was appointed at the first meeting will present their report. This evening's program includes the election of officers for the association.

At the last meeting about fifty members, representatives from the various organizations of the city interested in temperance, were present, and a lively discussion as to the best way in which to launch a campaign, took place.

It is the object of the association to launch a whirlwind campaign similar to that of last year, to secure a solid vote against interprovincial shipment of intoxicating liquor. The members of the association are confident that they will win a victory for temperance if the campaign is begun immediately. All the clergy of the city are taking an active part in the campaign.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

DESIRES MORE SCHOOLS.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

After noting the large number of prospective Collegiate students as reported in the entrance examination results published on Saturday, it seems almost imperative that the whole question of Collegiate accommodation be thoroughly agitated, so that we may not make a fatal mistake in this most important matter.

At this season, unfortunately, the public mind is most apathetic. Mothers' clubs and other organizations are disbanded, while a decision involving the future of thousands of our coming citizens is being formed.

In these unsettled times never was education more needed. The problems of today call for trained minds and clear thinking. Give us more schools. The conditions in London demand it.

Transition from public school to Collegiate Institute is a critical period, occurring at an age when boys and girls should receive the benefit of all the wisdom available. To herd them all together—thousands of them, possibly—in one common school, like a flock of sheep, is surely not in the best interests of the pupils.

The distance from school is prohibitive to a large number who live in remote residential districts. Those who do brave the rigors of our winter mornings and find themselves a few seconds late are punished by a half hour's detention after four.

The trustees should provide schools reasonably convenient. I heartily agree with the valuable opinion of our former principal, Inspector Rogers, that one overgrown, cumbrous Collegiate Institute would be a sad mistake.

With the new laws requiring compulsory school attendance up to the age of 17, there must be provision for largely-increased accommodation.

It is the evident desire of our minister of education for Ontario, Hon. R. H. Grant, to make higher education more general, and more attractive. Surely the first step in this direction is to place the means within the reach of larger numbers by distributing more schools in our growing cities.

The cost is of secondary consideration. The need should be met promptly.

Let us hear from others on this matter.

(MRS.) ANNIE MOIR.

LOCAL DENTISTS MAY ATTEND CONVENTION

London dentists likely will attend the convention of the Canadian Dental Association to be held in Ottawa August 17, 18, 19 and 20. No official organization of the dentists exists here, and any who attend the conference will do so as individuals, and not as representatives of the local dentistry profession as a whole. It is possible also that some Londoners will take a part in the clinics. Dr. Clyde Davis, Dr. Kirke and Dr. Seccombe of Toronto will be among the speakers. Dean Webster of Toronto University; Dean Thornton of McGill, and the deans of several other universities, will be present also.

Londoners who go to this convention may travel still further and attend the convention of the American Dental Association, to be held in Boston, commencing August 23.

This organization, in sending out literature regarding the convention, gives a novel explanation of the origin of name of the city in which the convention is to be held. It declares that Boston was named after an English city of that name, and that the English town was named for a very corpulent cavalry officer whom it was necessary to "boost on" his steed, as he could not mount without help. This title stuck to him, and in time became shortened to "boost on or Boston."

RAIN HELPING GRAIN, BUT RETARDING CORN

Agricultural Expert Says Wet Will Not Hurt Potatoes.

In the opinion of R. A. Finn, district agricultural representative here, the recent continued rains are holding up the growth of corn throughout Western Ontario. Cut hay is also being affected by the wet weather, he asserts, the farmers being unable to bring it into the barns in a damp condition, and its quality deteriorates lying in the field.

On the other hand, farmers are delaying further cutting of hay in hopes of dry weather, and consequently the hay grows to a greater length, thus increasing the quantity and counteracting the deficiency of this fodder due to the spoiled quantities as cut.

The rains will cause a greater production of grain, according to Mr. Finn, who states that with cool, wet weather the heads of the grain will fill out wonderfully, thus insuring a greater harvest. When asked if the continued showers would cause the potatoes to rot in the ground, Mr. Finn said, "Potatoes do not rot in the ground because of dampness."

Viewing the weather from every angle, the farmer, according to the district agricultural representative, has little cause for complaint, because the setbacks in cut hay and corn crops are counterbalanced by a greater grain production and more hay per acre.

ONLY ONE DRUNK BEFORE MAGISTRATE

There was a dearth of talent on the police court program today, only one unfortunate gracing the prisoners' box, for which privilege he was charged $10 and costs. When asked if he was drunk on Wellington, near Horton, last night, he replied: "I have nothing to say at all, as I do not recall anything."

"It's too bad that a respectable-looking man like you should be up here," remarked Magistrate A. H. M. Graydon, in imposing a fine.

Because they broke the motor vehicle act, Clifford Penfound, John E. Taylor were assessed $5 and costs for a similar offence. Overstepping a city bylaw caused W. R. Brown and a two-spot to party company also.

A local juvenile, charged with housebreaking at the expense of two South London residents, was remanded to jail for one week by the court.

EVEN FLAX PULLING COSTS MORE MONEY

Indians from the reserves in London district are leaving in large numbers for the flax fields and will commence pulling. Even flax-pulling has not escaped the high cost of living, and owners this season have to pay the Indians $15 per acre, as compared with only $11 last year. At that help is not too plentiful in some sections.

There will be one of the largest crops of flax this year ever harvested in the London district. Growers are watching with no small interest the development of flax-pulling machines, and many expect that the time is coming when hand-pulling will be practically a thing of the past.

MOTHER WAITS

continued Mrs. Heatherley. "If anything happened to you, we wouldn't know where to find them."

"Oh, I'm not so unlucky as all that," he replied.

Intended to Return.

Lewis had intended returning to visit his people in the near future, and had expressed intention of motoring back, although it would be a long trip, he added. He owned a motor car, which he had left at home for his mother to use, when he came over to Canada to work. He came to London last April from Toronto, where he had worked for some time on the Grand Trunk. For some unknown reason, thought to have been nothing more than some dissatisfaction arising in his employment by the same company in Toronto, Lewis worked for the Grand Trunk here under the name of Harry Smith.

Tuesday evening, the night before his death, he told his fiancee, Miss Edna Haskett, daughter of Walter Haskett, a London township farmer, that his right name was Lewis.

"I want you to know my right name; so do not introduce me to your friends as Mr. Smith any more," he said.

Cannot Remember.

Miss Haskett, who boards at 410 Dufferin avenue, is home with her relatives at present, but since his death has been unable to recollect him ever telling her the name of the town near which his relatives now reside. He talked much of his brothers, his mother and father, and his "kid sister," as he called her, a little girl of 11 years.

He has three or four brothers, all grown up, it is understood, and one of them is living in Kansas City. Some time in the fall he and his fiancee had planned to be married. They had talked of it a great deal, as sweethearts do, but had not just got to definitely fixing the date. Harry thought of going home first, and bringing back his motor car. He hadn't known about the Canadian girl he was going to meet, and a fellow who hasn't a girl can get along without a car. So he left it with his mother, who would be very happy to have him come back for it. And then this Christmas he would take somebody home with him. He had commented several times about not going home last Christmas. They were long Christmases that he had been absent during the war, and it seemed too bad to have spent another one away from home.

From Southern Ohio.

Lewis was born in Southern Ohio. One day Miss Marjorie, Mr. Heatherley's little daughter was singing, "Where the Beautiful Ohio Rolls."

"Sing that again for me, Marjorie," he said. "It makes me think of home, I was born near that river."

He often talked of Cincinnati, and it is thought that he had lived there for some time. Subsequently, his parents, sister and unmarried brothers removed to Illinois. They were living in the country and there was a good-sized town or city about 20 miles away. But no one in London remembers having heard him mention the name of the Illinois town, nor speak of any Illinois towns in particular, which would give a clue to his relatives' address. He spoke of railroading in the United States, as if he had spent considerable time at this vocation before joining the army.

Failing to hear from his relatives within another day or so, his body will be placed in a vault temporarily, so that it may be sent later to Illinois or Ohio for burial should his parents, when found, desire it.

CHOPPING MILL BURST.

Ripley, July 23.—Allan Wyld, while assisting his brother, Charles, at his chopping mill here, had a narrow escape from instant death, when a spike went through the chopper. The top of the machine flew in all directions, and one struck young Wyld, tearing away his kneecap. He was taken to Kincardine hospital.

ACTION FOR DAMAGES WAS DISMISSED

Judge Macbeth Gives Decision in Case of Mellin vs. Tanton.

County Judge Talbot Macbeth, who presided over the June sessions here, has announced several decisions relative to cases heard in that court, and upon which he reserved judgment at the time. The action of George Mellin, a local street railway employee, against Harold Tanton, telegraph operator of this city for $350 damages, was dismissed with no order for costs, along with a counter-claim preferred by Tanton for damages.

The suit arose over a collision between autos owned by both parties at Clarence street and Queen's avenue on the night of November, 19, 1919, and both Tanton and Mellin alleged negligence on the part of the other. Much contradictory evidence was heard in court regarding to smash, which damaged both cars considerably, and this fact no doubt had a bearing on the judge's decision.

Dismissed With Costs.

A second case dismissed with costs was that of Lillie McGougan against Archibald Malcolm and Angus McGougan of Thamesford, as executors of the estate of Hugh McGougan, deceased for $520, with interest, loaned to Hugh McGougan. Defendants claimed that the money paid to Hugh McGougan was his own, which plaintiff denied.

In the case of Mary B. Hyslop of this city, suing Wilbur Venton, a local salesman, for the possession of a piano to damages in lieu of same, the judge directs defendant to deliver the piano to plaintiff or to whom she may send for it, and defendant is ordered to pay costs of the action. Mrs. Hyslop gave the piano to defendant's wife as a wedding present, and claimed same on her death. Venton, in his defence, claimed that piano, as a part of his wife's estate, was inherited by himself and infant.

Thomas H. Janes, suing Harry Evans for $300 and interest, is allowed $175, with costs fixed at $65. Both parties are of this city, and the amount involved was money for a house on Tecumseh avenue, purchased by defendant from plaintiff, and fixed by both parties as a balance due from May, 1915.

WILL GET OVERTIME.

Trainmen on the C. P. R. will benefit by an arrangement with the company whereby they will receive time and one-half pay for overtime instead of straight time, as in the past. The new order will go into effect immediately. As the new schedule is to date back to January 1, considerable back pay will be drawn by the men.

G. T. R. OFFICIALS HERE.

President Howard G. Kelly of the G. T. R., General-Manager H. E. Whittenberger of the western lines of the G. T. R., passed through this city en route to Detroit at noon today. Neither would say anything regarding the award made recently in Chicago. Mr. Whittenberger said that nothing had been received by the officials of the railroad regarding the matter.

WILL PICNIC TOMORROW.

Between 2,000 and 3,000 people are expected to attend the local car shops picnic, which is to be held in Port Stanley on Saturday. The official time of departure for the crowds will be 10:30 o'clock in the morning. A long list of sports will be begun immediately after the arrival at the grounds.

One of the features of the outing will be a ball game between the Fort Erie baseball team and the local G. T. R. team. As the Fort Erie team is one of the fastest amateur organizations in Ontario, a fast game is expected.

HIT BY LIGHTNING.

Lightning struck the fuse box on the telegraph lines at the G. T. R. station in Hyde Park at 9:30 o'clock this morning. All wires west of the city were put out of commission until linemen from London repaired the damage.

JUMPED THE TRACKS.

While being backed into the "Hole" west of Richmond street, G. T. R. passenger coach 2062 jumped the track at 11 o'clock this morning. Although the auxiliary was called to the scene the lines in the west end yards were partially blocked for two hours. The car jumped the track again at Wellington street while being taken to the car-shops a little after 1 o'clock. A loose wheel was reported to have caused the accidents.

Cochrane, July 23.—Heavy shipments of fish from Prince Rupert to New York, routed over the T. and N. O. Railway, have been passing through here lately, and on two days no fewer than sixteen refrigerator cars went on to the American commercial metropolis from the Pacific coast.

FRENCH FARMS ARE TILLED TO UTMOST LIMIT

Minister of Agriculture Says Peasants Are Restoring Nation's Riches.

PARIS, July 22.—"Of all European countries, France can brag that she has the hardest working rural population, which gives her the greatest hopes of prompt economic re-establishment," said W. R. Ricard, minister of agriculture, in an exclusive interview with the Sun and New York Herald, today.

"Moreover, the development of the agricultural interests of the country is recognized as the first duty by the Government. Farming with machinery, for instance, was little known in France before the war, but now the Government has strongly stimulated it by subventions, with the result that today there are thousands of American and French made farming machines working in various regions of France."

In discussing France's rural progress M. Ricard expressed confidence that the Government's help would be appreciated by farmers and people generally, particularly in view of the fact that the initiative legislation was backed by more than half the members of the Chamber of Deputies, all political parties aiming to make easier the purchase of small land holdings by agricultural workers, with priority to one-time soldiers and special advantages to men with large families.

Efforts to Increase Production.

"The ministry of Agriculture is doing everything possible to give farmers the necessary means for the exploitation of agricultural tracts and to spread the principles of farm science among the country masses," M. Ricard said. "We have been able to establish regular collaboration between the Administration and agricultural associations. France is now seeking to increase rapidly her production, and all indications are that the superhuman efforts made in this direction have not been in vain.

"With their old-time energy and tenacity the French peasants are now on the right road to rebuild the riches of France which were destroyed in the war."

M. Ricard said that it should be remembered that France was the only nation of Western Europe where agriculture remained the greatest national industry, which produced all necessary foodstuffs for her well being and exported a surplus of butter, eggs, wines, fruit and vegetables, while even animals were sent by her to all parts of the world for breeding purposes and for food.

Also he called attention to the fact that during the war the French army was composed principally of farmers, a million of whom gave up their lives, while another million were disabled, thus creating a loss which will leave its effect on generations to come.

"But the French farmer won the war," he said, "and he now feels that it is his duty to win peace, and he will do it. The results shown already are encouraging, for the seeding this year of wheat, barley, rye and oats covers nearly 20,000,000 acres. Increases in acreage have been obtained even in the devastated regions, where with the smallest amount of funds for the work and workers often lacking shelter more than 1,000,000 acres have been replanted in food products, principally cereals, this year.

"It is impossible to predict what the wheat harvest will be, but if the sun will only favor us we will get at least 20,000,000 hundredweight more than we got last year, while the oat crop promises to be sufficient to enable us to meet all our needs."

He said that there was some difficulty regarding the fertilizer shortage, but that receipts of nitrogenous elements are showing an increase over what they were before the war, while the United States was absorbing the surplus of potash crop builders from the deposits of Alsace. Also, he said, arrangements have been made to draw on the rich deposits in the vicinity of Tunis, Algeria, which promise to exceed pre-war production.

Restoration of Cattle.

"Reserve cattle and farmyard animals are being restored gradually, although the Germans proceeded very systematically in this particular work of destruction," he said. "To be sure, the Versailles treaty imposes restitution of these animals as a principle to which Germany must live up to, but reparations are meagre and slow as compared with the immensity of the damage the Germans did. Although 1,900,000 disappeared from France, the Germans have given back only 50,000 head, notwithstanding the fact that Germany today has a larger reserve stock of such animals than has France.

"Americans generally do not realize the fine quality of the best grades of French cattle. They are being sought by breeders in all parts of the world, and we are trying to improve these breeds by the establishment of breeding registers."

M. Ricard gave interesting figures regarding the French sugar output, which fell from 700,000 tons in 1913 to 150,000 tons last year, the Germans having razed more than 70 per cent of the French sugar factories.

"It is astonishing that agricultural production in France could have been maintained at this level under the terrible circumstances of the war," he said. "Americans who have visited the ruined regions have caught glimpses of the truth. An American told me recently that the thing which impressed him most was that during the war, although labor was lacking everywhere, the old men, women and children of France, with unrivalled efforts, succeeded in cultivating the soil better than was ever attempted across the Atlantic. This is why we face the future with confidence."

TINY CASTLES REALLY HOMES

Californian Builds Miniature Residences, and Lives in Them With Mother.

ALHAMBRA, Calif., July 22. — Life isn't all sunshine and flowers and joy, and even the orange-scented Pasadena-Alhambra community of Southern California, where the multi-millionaires of other states and climes have their homes. The eyes are perchance offended and the esthetic sensibilities shocked by a certain group of medieval-looking structures set in the very heart of the clustered estates and mansions of the rich—and set to stay.

These are the semi-miniature castles of Alex McLean, whose hobby is their building and whose activity is alarming to his neighbors. He has been at it 16 years, and he isn't through yet, though he has two architectural freaks already. In their way they are among the most remarkable houses ever put up in America. Both stand on an Alhambra city lot. In one of them the owner and his mother occupy the smallest living-rooms in the world.

Got Castle Idea.

Originally Mr. McLean, an expert woodworker, set out to rear an ordinary dwelling, but barely had begun when he was obsessed with the castle idea and could not shake it off. The result was that after 13 years' toil he had completed a three-story all-frame structure of about 30 rooms, with numerous round and square turrets, porticos, gables and other strange fixin's. It is about 25x35 feet and 27 feet high, but so arranged that a person more than five feet tall must stoop to enter any of the many doorways or walk in the tiny coops within. A very small elevator, operated by hand, lifts one to the top floor if the climb be too arduous. All the material, he says, cost him less than $500. And he called it Diamond Castle—as appears on the main tower—for no other reason than that he desired a striking, simple name.

In this queer place the builder and his mother lived the while he was applying the finishing touches through all the years. Then it appalled Mr. McLean with its waste of space. Rambling about in the dozens of palatial 6x6 apartments involved the loss of too many steps, and he couldn't endure the echoing vacancy in the long and sinuous hallways two feet wide and winding stairs up which a man who lately had partaken of a square meal could not force himself.

Builds Second.

Accordingly three years later, he began fabricating a new castle adjoining the old, which he now is completing. It is simpler in design, contracted in size, and perhaps better suited to his modest needs. More plaster was employed in its construction, and it is more impressive. He aimed to make it a modified replica of the celebrated Rochester keep—and he succeeded admirably as to modifications. It contains 16 rooms, but they are smaller than those in the Diamond Castle! Mr. McLean named it Tiree for the Isle of Tiree, off the west coast of Scotland, where his father was born. The name stands out above the steel-barred entrance.

The interior of Tiree Castle might delight a pigmy. The rooms are cabinet-like, comparable with the spaces in a cupboard. The reception hall is three by four and a half feet; kitchen, fully equipped and in daily use, four by five and a half feet, and there are countless nooks in the most unexpected places, wee bedrooms, rest rooms and a library.

There even is a photograph studio three by four feet and four feet high, with a dark room and space for camera adjoining. The whole is completely furnished with miniature furniture made by the owner in his shop, also within the castle walls, and supplied with every necessary appliance. Only the kitchen stove is of normal size, though the smallest made.

There are fireplaces barely large enough to contain small oil lamps, and chimney mantels thirteen inches high and two feet wide, exquisitely finished.

Mr. McLean's bedroom and living-room combined, in which he passes most of his idle hours, undoubtedly is without a counterpart. It is five feet long, three and three-quarters feet high. It could be lost in the most cramped steamer cabin. The bed occupies slightly less than two feet of its width. Shallow recesses built in the walls give the occupant space to stretch in when lying. At the side is a shelf for a clock, another for his toilet articles, and a locker for his valuables. Built in above the foot of the bed is a wardrobe in which he keeps all his apparel—and though usually shabby, he comes out in style on occasions.

Easy to Shave.

When the lord of the castle awakens in the morning he reaches up a few inches, pulls a bit of a sliding door, and has at his command a tumbler and a pitcher of air-cooled water. He draws another slide and has a can of water all ready for heating on the oil stove within six inches of his couch, his razor, cup and brush. Five minutes later he shaves by rising slightly and looking into the mirror always handy just above and before his head. Should he feel chilly during the night he lights an oil heater without so much as turning.

Many hundreds of persons from all parts of the globe go to see these odd buildings, particularly during the tourist season. Frequently those who have been there before inveigle one or more of their fat friends thither and start them up or down the narrow stairways or through innocent appearing doorways patterned for contortionists only to tackle, and then watch the fun. A woman once stuck in the spiral stairway, and it was feared part of Tiree Castle would have to be razed to free her, but she finally wiggled out. Mr. McLean never will forget some of her pointed remarks. He shies every time an extremely large lady tries to cross his threshold, but always is polite and admits anybody who can enter.

WAR TAUGHT PARIS WORTH OF COMEDY

PARIS, July 22.—The day of heavy tragedies on the stage has passed, according to critics who witnessed "try-outs" for the Conservatory prizes last week. There was only a mere handful of competitors.

This probably is not of least interest in the post-war reaction, as the decline in tragic thespianism was attributed by the judges of the competition to the fact that French talent responded almost to a man in the war and turned their attention toward comedy while entertaining the poilus in the trenches.

When they returned to the stage they found that the public wanted amusement, and that sombre gestures were reflected in box office receipts.

When the poilus adopted the new order of things, even the dramatic professors found it more profitable than ever before to open schools which taught the lighter art.

On the other hand, the suffering of French women during the war affected them indelibly, with the result that there has been a steady falling off of capable comediennes, while women who are ambitious to succeed Sarah Bernhardt are numerous.

INVESTIGATION WILL PROCEED, DECLARES MAYOR OF SANDWICH

WINDSOR, July 22.—Criticizing the attitude of the Rev. J. O. L. Spracklin, pastor of the Sandwich Methodist Church, in carrying his charges to the department of Attorney-General Raney at Toronto, where a conference was held today, which also included representatives of the Ontario License Commission and J. G. Flavelle, chairman of that body, Mayor Donnelly of Sandwich declared definitely tonight that the investigation would go forward as demanded of the town council by the "fighting parson" and his supporters.

Not in Sympathy.

"I have been mayor of this town a good many years, and I believe even my enemies will say I have a clean record," said his worship. "None of the members of the police committee is in sympathy with roadhouses or with the disorderly conduct in our town. The Sandwich police have made more arrests than any other department along the border. What we did resent was the attitude of the pastor that we were wrong and knew we were wrong, but just refused to admit it."

In the meantime ten operatives of the Ontario License Commission are in the border district co-operating with the local authorities in their attempt to curb the illicit traffic in liquor and more men will be sent here if reinforcements are found necessary.

Less Liquor Arrives.

It was learned today that the shipments of whiskey into Windsor from Montreal, which, until a few weeks ago aggregated 2,000 cases a week, have been reduced to a total of 200 cases. The keen vigilance being maintained to battle the rum runners has had an immediate effect. Prices quoted by "liquor merchants" last night took a big jump and today were still on the increase. Until recently the general figure prevailing was $65 a case in American money. They are now asking $85 and $100.

Well in Hand.

Advices received here today from Toronto declared the provincial authorities are satisfied that the situation along the border is now well in hand.

Just what will result from the conference of Rev. J. O. L. Spracklin with Attorney-General Raney, License Commissioner Flavelle and members of their respective departments today, is not known.

Why Have "Millbanks" Become So Popular?

Because every introduction leads to lasting friendship. It is a case of "love at first smoking."

One smoker offers "MILLBANKS" to a friend. The friend is delighted with these mild, fragrant Virginia Cigarettes and buys a package for himself. This is happening many times a day in every section of Canada. The reason is easy to find.

GRAND TRUNK PICNIC DRAWS HUNDREDS TO PARK ON THURSDAY

Ball Game Is Exciting Feature of Employees' Annual Outing.

O'LEARY IS UMPIRE

Howling Mob Does Not Affect His Decisions—Baby Show Good.

Armed with many gallons of ice cream and lemonade, bunches of bananas and boxes of candy, over 300 members of the G. T. R. Forest City Lodge, No. 240, Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, and their friends invaded Springbank Park on Thursday afternoon. A long program of races and other sports, creating a round of merriment until late in the evening, made the picnic one of the most successful of the year, and the most successful in the history of the organization.

Much of the comedy of the day was crowded into a ball game played between the yardmen and the trainmen, and much of that comedy centred around the umpiring of Michael O'Leary, a self-appointed official, who stuck to his guns despite several attempts made on his life. The good work of Policeman Lorne Hay, who hovered always on the side lines, undoubtedly saved O'Leary from serious injury when he allowed sentiment to interefere a little too much with his decisions.

Trainmen Win.

In spite of awful treatment at the hands of the "umps" the trainmen were reported to have won by a score of 2 to 1. The official scorer was too loyal to his friends to give out the real score. Burrows and Lane were the batteries for the yardmen, while Kelly and Andrews worked for the yardmen. A home run by Doherty was the feature of the game, at least that is what he claims. Doherty also helped with the umpiring.

The baby show was also a feature of the day. Baby Jean, the daughter of Mrs. Harry Bradford, won the prize. Baby Margaret, the daughter of Mrs. Lorne Hay, was second, while Mrs. George Turner's baby won third. The judging was undertaken first by three judges, one of whom was protected by a baseball mask, but even then it was considered too risky and the decision was left to the popular vote of the crowd.

Before dark the ladies' auxiliary were given a committee consolation guessing contest. The idea was perhaps all right, but the committee was rather unfortunate in choosing their subject. The ladies were asked to guess the date of birth of Michael O'Leary. When somebody said the twelfth of July it broke up the picnic. Things might have been worse, however, for someone guessed 1816 as the year of his birth.

The committee in charge of the picnic was composed of M. O'Leary, chairman; T. Kelly, H. T. Bradford, A. McCallum, W. H. Northey, D. R. McHarg, secretary.

COMMISSION SEEKS TO OBTAIN FOOT OF LAND FOR NEW SITE

Offered To Buy Strip On Hamilton Road For Housing Purposes.

OFFER TURNED DOWN

Solicitor Commences Expropriation Proceedings—Appeal Is Made To Toronto Authorities.

Expropriation proceedings to obtain a one-foot strip of land have been commenced by the Housing Commission. G. N. Weekes, solicitor for the commission, reported that he had been unable to negotiate the sale of a small strip of property owned by J. Walter Gage, which is necessary to extend Madison street in connection with the Pine Lawn development on the Hamilton road. The property is at the south end of Madison avenue as at present constituted. Application was made some months ago to J. A. Ellis, director of municipal affairs, to exappropriate the land, but nothing was done as it was hoped that further negotiations might make this step unnecessary. As soon as the approval of Mr. Ellis is given the Commission will act.

Mr. Weekes reported that other property had been purchased from Robena A. Walker and James H. McLean necessary for the extension of Madison avenue. The commission paid at the rate of $800 an acre for a 26½-foot strip. They gave 33 feet of land and the commission gave six and a half feet of its property, making provision for the sixty and a half feet thoroughfare.

Loan Exhausted.

The Provincial Housing Commission reported that the first loan of $400,000 to the city had been exhausted and that the commission's expenditures now amounted to $475,000. Chairman E. R. Dennis will interview the commission to have the surplus amount paid from the second loan of $400,000 which was made to the city. This was at a higher rate of interest.

It was decided to get definite information on the possibility of insuring the lives of purchasers of houses. In the event of their death the insurance would pay the remainder of the amount due on the house and the commission would not be faced with the necessity of evicting families who could no longer maintain their payments. Proposals of this kind submitted to the commission by insurance companies will be submitted to each purchaser of a house to adopt at his own option.

Twenty Occupied.

More than twenty houses erected by the housing commission are already occupied. Fifty-five are nearing completion, and will be ready for occupancy this year, and it is planned to build at least 30 more.

Two policies have been followed. Under one the commission has erected houses with the intention of selling them when completed. With the other the money has been merely loaned to the applicant for a house, who obtained the services of his own architect and builder, and had the house erected, according to his own plans.

Eleven Occupied.

Thirty-seven houses, for which loans of this character have been made or are under consideration for the commission. Eleven of them are occupied. Eight require only painting to complete them, while six need plastering and painting. The foundations of seven more have been built and excavations have been made for two more.

Nine houses on Beatrice street have been completed under the direct supervision of the commission. On Garfield avenue seventeen houses are being built on contract by J. G. Wilson & Sons, while on the Pine Lawn survey, off the Hamilton road, Hayman & Willis have twelve houses under way for the commission. It is planned to build 42 houses on this site. Definite figures on the amount of money involved are not available yet, but it is believed to be at least half a million dollars.

Fair Progress.

Other building in the city is making fair progress, a total of $96,530 having been reached on 69 contracts. This makes a total of $921,635 for the year. J. W. Scott has been granted a permit to build a one-story brick dwelling at 41 Elmwood avenue to cost $4,000. The housing commission has taken out a permit to build a one-story brick veneer dwelling for G. T. E. Martin on Duchess avenue, to cost $4,035. A. M. Piper designed it, and it will be built by Joseph Sotroff. G. A. Harris will build a one-story brick veneer house on Emery street, costing $3,300.

NURSES CONFER WITH D. S. C. R.

Sisters Who Resigned From Speedwell Military Hospital Present Their Case.

Yesterday afternoon a number of the nurses who were on the nursing staff at Speedwell Military Hospital, Guelph, the all of whom resigned several weeks ago as a protest against conditions they alleged existed in the institution, attended a conference at the local D. S. C. R. offices, presided over by Capt. McQuay of Ottawa and Dr. N. B. Alexander. Accompanying the nurses was Col. W. G. Coles, retiring president of the G. W. V. A., who presented their side of the case before the D. S. C. R. officials. The causes of the trouble at the hospital were gone into, and while nothing definite resulted, it is understood that headquarters at Ottawa will report shortly its view of the hearing.

Deploring the publicity the case has been given from unauthoritative sources, the nurses are reserving statements until a final report is made, as they were instructed to from the start, and to which stand they have adhered.

BUILDERS ARE NOT INTERESTED IN STRIKE

Directors of the Builders' Exchange at a meeting on Thursday afternoon were of the opinion that unjust reference had been made to their organization in connection with the strike of the hodcarriers. They stated that the exchange had not a line regarding the hodcarriers on their books, as the only business they had with either party in the dispute was to allow the Mason Contractors' Association to meet in their rooms.

Some of the members of the latter association belong to the exchange, they admit. However, as far as the exchange is concerned, it has had nothing whatsoever to do with the strike, they say, because there are several classes of businessmen who are disinterested as far as the hodcarriers' strike is concerned and who are members of the exchange.

NO STREET LIGHTS DURING MOON TIME, MANAGER'S ORDER

Council Minutes Reveal Conditions in London in Good Old Days.

There are a good many people in London whose memory goes back as far as the era of the oldtime carbon lamps which once decorated the street corners, but it is only the real oldtimers who can remember the days, or rather nights, when the main thoroughfares were lit by 77 flickering gas lamps.

Such a state of affairs did exist once as proved by the minutes of council meetings in those bygone days, around 1864 or 1865. On entering into an agreement with the city council at that time Ed. Glackmeyer, manager for the company, submitted a number of suggestions, which if considered today would bring forth a howl of protest from the people who demand street lamps of a radiance almost equalling the sun's.

Mr. Glackmeyer suggested that 77 lamps be installed along the chief streets, and that those be lighted on an average 293 nights a year, omitting six nights every month during moon time, as follows: Four nights before the full moon; one night at full moon, and one night after it. On the second night following the full moon the lights would be lit for two hours, (and on each night following the time would be increased by an hour until on the sixth night they burned for seven hours. After that time the manager became reckless and suggested that the lights burn all night until the horns of the new moon appeared in the sky, when the conservation measures became effective again. On the average the lights were to be lit half an hour after sunset and not to be extinguished until an hour and a half before sunrise. In making out such a schedule time had to be allowed for the lamplighter to make the circuit of the 77 lamps with his little ladder and torch. This required about half an hour.

ALLEGE THAT METERS WERE TAMPERED WITH

Tampering with hydro-electric meters has resulted in information being laid against two Londoners, who will likely appear in police court Monday. An investigation was conducted here by the Dominion Government meter inspection department. At two residences evidence was found that the meters had been fixed so that they would not register correctly the amount of electrical energy consumed, the investigators claim.

AT LOEW'S.

"Old Lady 31," showing at Loew's the last half of the week, furnishes a touch of youthful romance among grandfathers and grandmothers. It shows they are just the same as young people in many ways. The picture is released through the Loew-Metro Picture Film Company.

Emma Dunn plays the leading female role to perfection. Throughout the whole play she takes the role of an elderly lady to such a fine showing that one would take her as being so. Miss Dunn is supported by Henry Harmon. Both deserve special mention.

A quaint, old-fashioned cottage in California served as the setting for the scenes. The story begins with Angie (Emma Dunn) and her venerable husband being forced to leave their comfortable home because of his shares in a mine being invalid. All the household effects were sold and they were forced to seek the Old Ladies' Home. Her husband had made arrangements to go to the Old Man's Farm, but when they came to say good-by, probably for ever, he decided to accept an invitation to stay with his wife and 30 old women. The happenings that follow in the house are most amusing. The fact that he was only one against thirty becomes too much for him, so he consents to a plan of two other men to beat it out of the house "for a good time." He is away from the house for some time, but the monotony of his being away from Angie is too much for him and he returns to the Old Ladies' Home. The night of his return a telegram comes to his wife, but she does not open it till the next morning when she wipes the tears of joy from her eyes after finding her husband. The telegram falls to the floor, but Angie picks it up and the good tidings that their mining shares are worth $10,000 are read. They return to their old home, buy it and all the furniture and live happy ever afterwards.

Gilbert and Saul, playing a violin and an accordion, respectively, have some real good music offerings, both high-class and ragtime. Morgan and Gray keep the audience in an uproar from start to finish with their wit. Brown and Simons present high-class singing and a comical skit, which deserves special mention.

A Hank Mann comedy "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," which provides much laughter for the audience and Loew's Pictorial, completes the bill, which will be repeated today and tomorrow, both afternoon and evening.

AT THE ALLEN.

Tyrone Power, the great English actor, is playing the leading role in "The Great Shadow," showing at Allen's Theatre the last half of this week. The play is a story of Russian intrigue in the labor unions on the American continent and depicts what happens when they succeed in calling a general strike. The solution of capital and labor disputes is also demonstrated. Tyrone Power is given every advantage in this huge and spectacular production to display his talent.

With Tyrone Power plays beautiful Dorothy Bernard. All the thrilling visits to the secret meeting place of the Bolshevist, the holdup and the general strike are vividly portrayed. A lovely little romance runs through the story, with Dorothy Bernard as the heroine. It is seldom that stars the equal of Dorothy Bernard and Tyrone Power play in the same film.

Five members from the Trades and Labor Council viewed the film and considered it one of the finest from an educational standpoint. "It shows fairly both sides of the trouble between labor and capital," said one member. The members indorsed the film as being one that should be shown in the interest of organized labor.

A two-reel comedy "Behind the Scenes," starring Charlie Chaplin, is really one of Charlie's funniest comedies and gives one an idea of the various characters who apply for positions as actors and actresses. This is a real "blue" disperser. Allen's News Weekly and "Book of Nature" completes the program. The overture played by the orchestra "The Hungarian Rhapsody, No. 2," by Liszt, is a rare musical treat for London music lovers. This bill will be repeated today and on Saturday.

AT THE PATRICIA.

The vigorous realities of elemental life in the timber lands of the north country are vividly pictured in "King Spruce," showing at the Patricia Theatre the last half of this week.

The story is gripping in plot and is tense with dramatic situations, one of the most exciting being the great fight between two rival parties of lumberjacks. The horrors of fire in the forests and the desperate measures of the fighters are shown with breathtaking naturalness. The scenes depicting the felling of big trees and the transportation of the timber by chute and rapid are well handled and interesting in their newness.

Mitchell Lewis, who played the lead, has evidently specialized in the portrayal of the rugged and forceful role of hero, who, endowed with great physical strength and moral courage, fights his way to success against giant odds. As Dwight Wade, the schoolmaster and lumberjack, who masters men and situations with equal vigor, he was popular with the audience, and equalled his success in the role of the Canadian halfbreed in Rex Beach's great drama, "The Barrier."

The introduction of a strong love interest further enhances the story, and altogether "King Spruce" should prove a drawing attraction for the rest of the week.

The bill is completed by an exciting episode of "The Lost City," and an amusing farce called "In Room 202," dealing with the marital mix-ups for which the brick-like biscuits of a brand-new bride may be responsible.

The program will be repeated today and Saturday.

AT PORT STANLEY BEACH.

With a high-class film program, featuring June Caprice in a delightful comedy, "In Walked Mary," and with good music and idyllic surroundings, it was no wonder that the free movies at "Port" drew thousands to the boardwalk theatre Thursday evening. Moonlight and music, and the gentle splashing of the waves behind the screen, blended to add a still softer lustre to the romance of a charming story of the old southland, youth and chivalry. It is a well-dramatized story of love unrecognized, of love deceived, of new love awakened and faithful love rewarded. With its scenes partly set in New York smart society, and partly in old Virginia, he picture offers ample diversity of color and is intensely interesting from beginning to end.

Mary walked into Dick's New York home at a very awkward time, while he was entertaining his masculine friends at a farewell party previous to his expected marriage. Dick had to use one of them very roughly in forcibly explaining the situation, and then he turned Mary over to his false and fickle fiance. Mary shielded the other woman as long as she could, and suffered in doing so. But in the end Dick discovered the truth himself and hurried back to Virginia.

An entertaining light comedy, and a reel of news features are included in the program.

LEGAL QUERIES

J. A. MacKENZIE.—I sold to the miller a quantity of wheat last fall. He says he gave me the Canadian wheat board particiation certificate. I think he did, but so far I cannot find it. I asked him if he could give me a duplicate. He said he thought he could not. What proceedings should I take to recover the amount, about 100 bushels sold, which would be $40.

Ans.—Consult a lawyer.

ANXIOUS.—If I lent a baby buggy to a person and that person gives it to a neighbor and tells her it belonged to her and the neighbor could have it, and they fixed up the buggy in the meantime, I wanted it back for my baby, and this person denied at first that she gave it away, am I bound to pay this neighbor what she paid out on buggy to get it repaired? WHY NOT A STRIKE AGAINST INCREASES?

And still the financial experts prophesy an early turn to lower prices, with railway wages and rates about to climb in the United States and our precious Board of Commerce raising the price of sugar several cents again. The living cost in Canada, reported at Ottawa, is the highest ever for the past month. How long is this thing going to be blamed on the war? The increase in the last six months beats all records. And remember, living costs were going up rapidly before the war ever was.

Strikes and higher wages may perhaps not be so much the cause of rising prices as vice versa, but one thing is clear, that they do not help to bring prices down, but contribute something to higher costs. Mr. Tom Moore and other labor leaders have lately been emphasizing this obvious point and insisting that strikes should henceforth aim not so much at higher wages as at lower prices. It is curious that the workman in any other trade should sit by complacently and acquiesce while railway workers jack up their pay and therewith the railway rates as well. Is it not his cue to counterstrike against a move that threatens to fleece the whole citizen body in the interest of one trade and one body of owners who may make higher wages a pretext for yet higher profits; or at least strike against an attempt of the railway owners to take the increase of wages out in higher rates on traffic? If workmen endure this or approve it, they practically make themselves a party to a general strike, not in the interest of the mass, but against the public weal, all to fatten the pocketbooks of railway workers and owners at the expense of the laboring community.

HIS UMPS.

There is one hard-working laborer in our midst who is even more neglected than the school teacher, more long enduring than ministers, more abused than the politician. He is one whom no one ever praises. His hours of labor are so short that he cannot possibly strike for less, but his work is like the sojourn of the three Hebrew children in the burning, fiery furnace. No one was ever more "roasted."

He is the baseball umpire, the man in the iron mask. He is not old, he is not young. He hardly has a face, except to be punched now and then, or gashed by an empty beer-bottle; half the time he is covered with his cage; you note only his voice. He seems like a shadow in the game, an abstraction, a personification of Judgment. You never hear of an umpire retiring or dying. He hardly exists palpably enough to be said ever to vanish. No doubt he eats, drinks (in moderation) and sleeps, but to the public he only appears, in a shadowy fashion and speaks the words of fate. To the mind of any bleacherite he simply can't see at all. He only speaks.

Never he receives a presentation, an ovation or a write-up. There is no interest taken in his private life. Probably he draws a salary, but whoever heard of an umpires' strike? The glorious fellowship of the arbiters, if such there be, either never wants more or gets it by just a nod. Perhaps, like the fates, they are serene above blame or want, and never miss the praise that is not bestowed.

LONDON'S BANKS.

Evidence of Sound Prosperity and Progress.

There is no more certain evidence of the sound prosperity and progress of London than in its banks. Where banks are prosperous the community is sure to be. The banks are at the bottom, they are the foundation of true business prosperity, and in this view of it, it is well that every few years they should put their heads together and size up the whole situation. Of course this should be wisely done.

London a few years ago had a few banks. The Bank of Montreal, the Merchants Bank, the Bank of British North America, the Federal Bank, the Molsons Bank and the Bank of Commerce. Subsequently came the Bank of Toronto, the Imperial Bank, the Dominion Bank, the Home Bank, the Royal Bank and the Standard Bank and these added many offices.

Originally the banks clustered around the post office and customs house. They were all fine buildings, especially the Merchants Bank. They are beginning to add to London's best architecture. The Bank of Commerce and the Royal Bank are first class. The market branch of the Bank of Montreal is very neat. The Bank of Toronto is a creditable building and the new office of the Bank of Montreal on the corner of Dundas and Wellington streets promises to be a gem. When bankers build good buildings like these, buildings substantial and pleasant to look at, they show their faith in the city in which they erect them, and add to the satisfaction of life. Good buildings are themselves an education and a means of constant pleasure.

The conclusion to be drawn from it all is that London's business foundation is being securely laid and constantly enlarged and strengthened. There could be no better assurance of London's future than the growth of its banks, and London's growth means the growth of Western Ontario.

HYDRO RADIALS.

[Letter of A. T. Drummond, LL.D.]

The Financial Post publishes a letter sent to the attorney-general a few days ago dealing with hydro-electric development. It is from A. T. Drummond, LL.D., who has taken an active interest in the question.

He points out that development for light, heat and power for farm and manufacturing purposes is very desirable. He thinks these interests vastly more important for our prosperity than hydro radials, and that the expansion of these in Ontario will absorb all the power in this province for some years to come.

He says the Ontario Government can readily estimate how these roads would, if built, entail a cost of between $150,000,000 and $250,000,000. Mr. Drummond shows that electric railways in the United States did not pay even before the end of the war. "The commission would find it impossible at any price to float with New York bankers bonds for these projected roads unless with the direct guarantee of the Ontario Government to provide the interest and principal."

After this he points out the danger and injury of defalcation to the municipality and country should it occur. The following is a significant sentence: "Every Canadian banker knows that the Ontario Government's guarantee alone will float their bonds, and that in the event of deficits that the Government will have to meet them, as the municipalities, in most—perhaps all—cases repudiate responsibility, and allege that they were led into the loss through the representations of the Government's hydro-electric commission, which alone owns, built, operates, and entirely controls these railways."

The letter is such a good contribution to this most important question that we publish it in two parts. It supports the position taken by the Ontario Government. The first thing always to do is ascertain the facts. Neither the Government nor the people yet know the facts:

The first portion of Mr. Drummond's letter is as follows:

"Many arguments against the acquisition of the lines have been placed before the cabinet. In a letter addressed to the attorney-general a few days ago, A. T. Drummond, LL.D., who has taken an active interest in this question, summarized them as follows:

"'(1) Development of hydro-electric power for light, heat and farm and manufacturers' purposes is to be encouraged, provided that the capital per horsepower developed is kept within definite limits. No comparative investigation into both the capital and operating cost of the commission with those of the large private companies has ever been made by the Legislature, and its need is suggestive.

"'(2) The industrial expansion in Ontario has been, during and since the war, and still continues, so large that all the hydro-electric power to be developed during the next few years will be needed for our manufacturing plants, which, with the increasing requirements of the export trade, added to those of the home trade, are growing largely both in size and number. Their needs are vastly more important for our prosperity than electric railway lines which are not a necessity, and will only give accommodation to local travel and local freight, and in nearly every case would be directly competitive with the existing steam lines.

"'(3) Except in the rare districts densely populated and where pleasure travel can be secured from the large cities, interurban electric railways, although built at a moderate cost per mile, have in the past failed to pay (see Canadian railway statistics annually published at Ottawa), and thus the enormous estimated cost of these projected hydro-electric railways—from three to five times what the steam lines in Ontario originally cost—will have the additional heavy load to bear annually of several millions of dollars of interest and sinking fund, and of the always needed renewals year by year.

"'(4) Many hundreds of miles of railway lines have been surveyed by the hydro-electric commission in all parts of Eastern and Southwestern Ontario—the early estimate was for 1,600 miles of intended road—the latest railways brought before the people for a vote being set down as costing about $134,000, $192,000 and $195,000 per mile, respectively. The Ontario Government can readily estimate how these roads would, if built, entail a cost of between $150,000,000 and $250,000,000, and can, by laying them out on the map of Ontario, see that in most cases they will be directly competitive with the steam roads—in one case paralleling three other railways, and in another case two, and that sometimes they will be built into districts where the population is thin, and the prospects of traffic, to a railway expert, poor.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

There seems no final way of stopping the border rum traffic except by the prohibition of manufacture and importation in Ontario. The referendum will direct our various Governments, by decisive voice of the people, to carry out this measure.

CANADA'S NEW PARTY.

[Springfield Republican.]

The national party in Canada is the old Conservative party with a graft of Liberal-Unionists. Just now it does not appear to be in a strong position in the country, though it had a safe majority in parliament. With the formation throughout Western Canada and Ontario of new class parties—chiefly labor and the farmers—a new political habit of thought is gaining the ascendancy. A new party which aims vaguely at national welfare, but which has not shown itself able to combat the high cost of living and other causes of discontent, is at a disadvantage in comparison with energetic new organizations holding out the immediate promise of immediate economic or other advantages to a group.

THE MIDDLE TEMPLE MURDER

A Detective Story by J. S. Fletcher.

Copyright 1920, Fred A. Knopf.
Copyright, 1920, by the Public Ledger Company.

Spargo made no answer. They entered the office, to be shown into a room where were already assembled Mr. Myerst, a gentleman who turned out to be the chairman of the company, and the officials of whom Rathbury had spoken. And in another moment Spargo heard the chairman explaining that the company possessed duplicate keys to all safes, and that the proper authorization having been received from the proper authorities, those present would now proceed to the safe recently tenanted by the late John Marbury, and take from it the property which he himself had deposited there, a small leather box, which they would afterward bring to that room and cause to be opened in each other's presence.

It seemed to Spargo that there was an unending unlocking of bolts and bars before he and his fellow-processionists came to the safe so recently rented by the late John Marbury, now undoubtedly deceased. And at first sight of it he saw that it was so small an affair that it seemed ludicrous to imagine that it could contain anything of any importance. In fact, it looked to be no more than a plain wooden locker, one among many in a small strong room; it reminded Spargo irresistibly of the locker in which, in his school days, he had kept his personal belongings and the jam tarts, sausage rolls and hardbake smuggled in from the tuck shop. Marbury's name had been newly painted upon it; the paint was scarcely dry. But when the wooden door—the front door, as it were, of this temple of mystery—had been solemnly opened by the chairman, a formidable door of steel was revealed, and expectation still leaped in the bosoms of the beholders.

"The duplicate key, Mr. Myerst, if you please," commanded the chairman. "The duplicate key."

Myerst, who was fully as solemn as his principal, produced a curious-looking key; the chairman lifted his hand as if he were about to christen a battleship; the steel door swung slowly back. And there, in a two-foot square cavity, lay the leather box.

It struck Spargo as they filed back to the secretary's room that the procession became more funereal-like than ever. First walked the chairman, abreast with the high official who had brought the necessary authorization from the all-powerful quarter; then came Myerst, carrying the box; followed two other gentlemen, both legal lights, charged with watching official and police interests; Rathbury and Spargo brought up the rear. He whispered something of his notions to the detective; Rathbury nodded a comprehensive understanding.

"Let's hope we're going to see something," he said.

In the secretary's room a man waited who touched his forelock respectfully as the heads of the procession entered.

Myerst set the box on the table; the man made a musical jingle of keys; the other members of the procession gathered around.

"As we naturally possess no key to this box," announced the chairman in grave tones, "it becomes our duty to employ professional assistance in opening it. Jobson"

He waved a hand, and the man of the keys stepped forward with alacrity. He examined the lock of the box with a knowing eye; it was easy to see that he was anxious to fall upon it. While he considered matters, Spargo looked at the box. It was pretty much what it had been described to him as being; a small, square box of old cowhide, very strongly made, much worn and tarnished, fitted with a handle projecting from the lid, and having the appearance of having been hidden away somewhere for many a long day.

There was a click, a spring; Jobson stepped back.

"That's it, if you please, sir," he said.

The chairman motioned to the high official.

"If you would be good enough to open the box, sir," he said. "Our duty is now concluded."

As the high official laid his hand on the lid the other men gathered around with craning necks and expectant eyes. The lid was lifted; somebody sighed deeply. And Spargo pushed his own head and eyes nearer.

The box was empty!

Empty, as anything that can be empty is empty, thought Spargo; there was literally nothing in it. They were all staring into the interior of a plain, time-worn little receptacle, lined with old-fashioned chintz stuff, such as our Mid-Victorian forefathers were familiar with, and containing—nothing!

"God bless my soul!" exclaimed the chairman. "This is—dear me!—why, there is nothing in the box!"

"That," remarked the high official, drily, "appears to be obvious."

The chairman looked at the secretary.

"I understood the box was valuable, Mr. Myerst," he said, with the half-injured air of a man who considers himself to have been robbed of an exceptionally fine treat.

"Valuable!"

Myerst coughed.

"I can only repeat what I have already said, Sir Benjamin," he answered. "The—er—late Mr. Marbury spoke of the deposit as being of great value to him; he never permitted it out of his hand until he placed it in the safe. He appeared to regard it as of the greatest value."

"But we understood from the evidence of Mr. Criedir, given to the Watchman newspaper, that it was full of papers and—and other articles," said the chairman. "Criedir saw papers in it about an hour before it was brought here."

Myerst spread out his hands.

"I can only repeat what I have said, Sir Benjamin," he answered. "I know nothing more."

"But why should a man deposit an empty box?" began the chairman. "I——"

The high official interposed.

"That the box is empty is certain," he observed. "Did you ever handle it yourself Mr. Myerst?"

Myerst smiled in a superior fashion.

"I have already observed, sir, that from the time the deceased entered this room until the moment he placed the box in the safe which he rented, the box was never out of his hands," he replied.

Then there was silence. At last the high official turned to the chairman.

"Very well," he said. "We've made the inquiry. Rathbury, take the box away with you and lock it up at the Yard.

Spargo went out with Rathbury and the box; and saw excellent, if mystifying, material for the article which had already become the daily feature of his paper.

CHAPTER XI.

Mr. Aylmore Is Questioned.

It seemed to Spargo as he sat listening to the proceedings at the adjourned inquest next day that the whole story of what was now world-famous as the Middle Temple murder case was being reiterated before him for the thousandth time. There was not a detail of the story with which he had not become familiar to fullness. The first proceedings before the coroner had been of a merely formal nature; these were thorough and exhaustive; the representative of the crown and twelve good men and true of the city of London were there to hear and to find out and to arrive at a conclusion as to how the man known as John Marbury came by his death. And although he knew all about it, Spargo found himself tabulating the evidence in a professional manner, and noting how each successive witness contributed, as it were, a chapter to the story. The story itself ran quite easily, naturally, consecutively—you could make it in sections. And Spargo, sitting merely to listen, made them:

First—The Temple porter and Constable Driscoll proved the finding of the body.

Second—The police surgeon testified as to the cause of death; the man had been struck down from behind by a blow, a terrible blow, from some heavy instrument, and had died immediately.

Third—The police and the mortuary officials proved that when the body was examined nothing was found on the body but the now famous scrap of grey paper.

Fourth—Rathbury proved that by means of the dead man's new, fashionable cloth cap, bought at Fiskie's well-known shop in the West End, he had traced Marbury to the Anglo-Orient Hotel in the Waterloo district.

Fifth—Mr. and Mrs. Walters gave evidence of the arrival of Marbury at the Anglo-Orient Hotel, and of his doings while he was in and about there.

Sixth—The purser of the S. S. Wambarino proved that Marbury sailed from Melbourne to Southampton on that ship, excited no remark, behaved himself like any other well-regulated passenger, and left the Wambarino at Southampton early in the morning of what was to be the last day of his life in just the ordinary manner.

To Be Continued.

RAINS TODAY IN FLANDERS.

[Eleanor Cochran Reed in New York Times.]

'Tis sweet to lie and listen to the rain
Swish through the trees.
A thousand thousand leaves
Wake like a harp beneath the swift, sure touch,
The silver fingers of the falling rain.
How like a song it sounds,
Some high sweet litany,
With notes unnumbered as the endless leaves!
A thousand tones stirred from a thousand strings,
All blended in the singing of the rain.
Ah, after the wild thunder and the storm,
The burst of lightning and the forked flame,
The roaring torrent and the crashing sky,
'Tis sweet to lie and listen to the rain!

How strangely near seems boyhood's far-off day,
Now that I lie here dead, a nation's man
Full grown!
How strangely real comes back the boy I was,
How closely press his old forgotten dreams!
Can you not see him leave the rain-drenched world
To vanish up the musty attic stairs?
There, sprawled for hours upon the dusty floor,
He filled his soul with old, forgotten tales,
Of lore of bloody combat, stirring deeds
Of knights who fought the monsters of the world.
At last the endless music of the rain
Falling upon the roof—a magic song—
Swept all his senses like a pleasant drug,
Till, with his head soft-pillowed on his arm,
He slept—forgetting all the tales of blood,
Even so I rest it now upon my arm,
Giving myself to pleasant dreams—with all
The bloody strife forgot.
So sweet it is
To lie and listen to the falling rain!

A SURE SIGN.

[Kingston Whig.]

When chickens come home to roost, mother knows the movie shows are out.

THE SPARK FROM HEAVEN.

[Charles Twining.]

Give me that thought; So may I live my while,
The cheap viscissitudes of life disdain,
And little reck me what is great and small!
The thought that does such healing power contain
As I may need, whatever hap befall;
The thought that can beguile
My spirit, bear it on from day to day
Unfettered as the breeze that stirs at morn,
As eagle out above the vast upborne—
Sure-voyaged as the planet on its way.

HIS CUE.

[Buffalo Express]

"When are you going to invest in a new suit of clothes?"

"Not till the dogs start barking at me."

THE ONE TO TELL.

[Yonker's Statesman.]

"You've got indigestion; that's what's the matter with you," said the doctor.

"Oh, that's what it is, then?" inquired the patient.

"That's it. You've been eating a lot of meat, I suppose?"

"I have; yes."

"Well, now you're paying for it."

"Would you mind telling my butcher that, doctor?"

QUITE LIKELY.

[Woodstock Sentinel-Review.]

The new Canadian organization which calls itself the "Self-Determination for Ireland League of Canada," has too long a name. People cannot be expected to remember all that; but perhaps no harm will come from forgetting it.

CHIVALRY IN ARKANSAS.

[Chicago News.]

People who go to the movies—and that includes nearly everybody—should be interested in the following advertisement in the Wayne (Ark.) Progress:

"If the lady who stuck her gum on my seat at the movies last night will call she may have the gum. If the gum won't come off, she can have the pants, too."

FOUR-LEAF CLOVER.

[Ella Higginson.]

I know a place where the sun is like gold,
And the cherry blossoms burst with snow;
And underneath is the loveliest nook,
Where the four-leaf clovers grow.

One leaf is for hope and one is for faith,
And one is for love, you know.
And God put another in for luck:
If you search, you will find where they grow.

But you must have hope and you must have faith,
You must love and be strong—and so,
If you work, if you wait, you will find the place
Where the four-leaf clovers grow.

HIS MISTAKE.

Magistrate (to prisoner)—You say that when you broke into the shop you took a package of goods of little value and left the till, which was full of money, untouched. How was that?

Prisoner—Don't you reproach me for that mistake. My wife has already abused me enough for being such a fool.

DAWN IN A GARDEN.

[Herbert Harper in Reedy's Mirror.]

The border of my garden shows
Glorious with lilies tall and white.
And that dark beauty of a rose,
Red—with a hint of night.
And as I watch their buds unclose
Touched by the magic of the light,
Lo! suddenly my garden grows
To far horizons out of sight;
Tumults invade its still repose,
Here, side by side, sworn comrades fight
Who fought of old as foes.

French fleur-de-lys and English rose,
Those ancient banners sway and gleam:
The Maid of France before them goes,
Mailed knights and bowmen pass between.
This morning from my garden close
Dead armies marching have I seen.

SPEED.

An American was boasting to an Irishman about the fastness of American trains.

"Why, Pat," said the American, "we run our trains so fast in America that the telegraph poles look like a continuous fence."

"Do they now?" said Pat. "Well, sir, I was wan day on a train in Ireland, and as we passed first a field of turnips, then wan of carrots, then wan of cabbage, and then a large pond of water, we were goin' that fast I thought it was broth!"

THE THINGS WORTH WHILE.

Some'times I get t' thinkin'
An' it kind o' seems to me
Th' things worth while in this ol' world
Jest simmers down t' three.

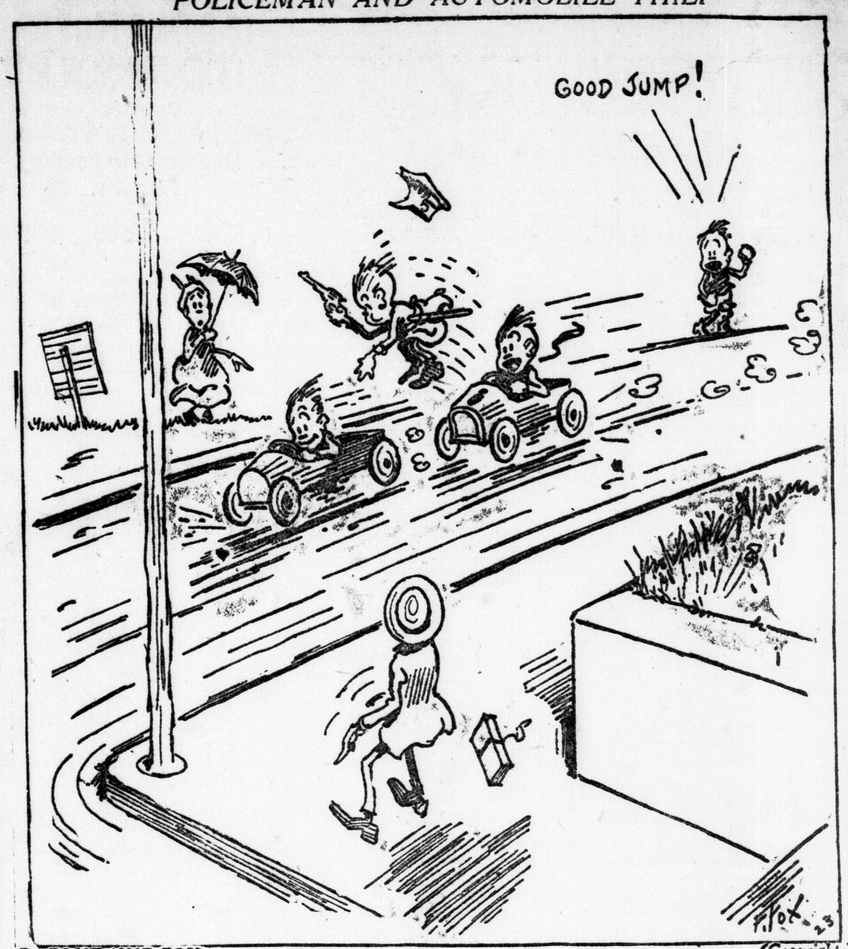

A lovin' heart's th' first thing,
An' th' sweetest part o' life
Is when you come at end o' day
To kiddies, home, an' wife.

Th' appetite fer hard work
An' fer trudgin' to'rds th' goal—
That's second in my little plan
Fer happiness o' soul.

An' last a smilin' count'nance
Jest to chase away the blues
An' paint on other peoples' souls
Them shinin' rainbow hues.

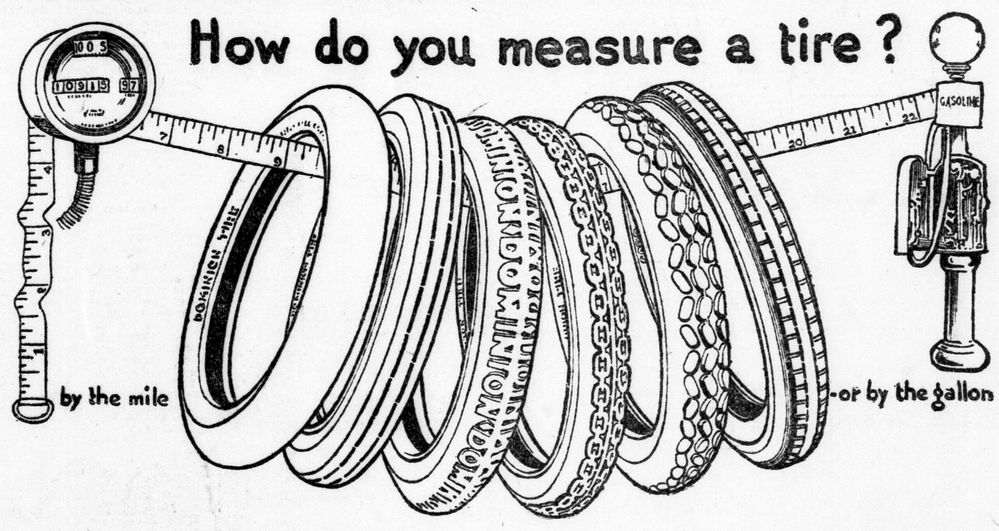

If you'd make life worth livin'
Try these big things worth while;
They're three (I'll sum 'em up ag'in)
Jest love an' work an' smile.

Mrs. Lorne N. Marlatt and small son Ronald of New York are visiting Mrs. Isaac Marlatt, 38 Wortley road.

Miss Pauline Dudley, supervisor in the accounting department of the board of commerce, Ottawa, is spending her vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Dudley, Thornton avenue.

The engagement is announced of Miss Enid M. Lawton of Philadelphia, Pa., to Mr. Walt H. Arthur, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. James Arthur, Lorne avenue, the marriage to take place quietly in Palo Alto, Cal., on July 29.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Parker of Watford celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on Wednesday evening. An interesting feature of the celebration was the fact that their marriage of 50 years ago took place in the house next to that which they at present occupy on Erie street. Mr. Parker was born in Wiltshire, England, and came to Canada at the age of 11. Fifteen years later he was married to Miss Ann Clark of Warwick, Seven children and twenty-one grandchildren were present, and many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Parker also gathered to offer congratulations and good wishes.

JOHNSON—BYRAM.

Miss Kathleen Byram of Toronto, formerly a teacher in the Aylmer High School, on Tuesday, July 20, became the bride of Mr. Guy Johnson, also a former teacher in the same school, and a member of the Canadian Flying Corps during the latter part of the war.

WALL—ROLOSON.

A quiet wedding took place on Monday, July 19, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Roloson, Aylmer, when Miss Sarah Taylor, who for many years has made her home with Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Eaton, became the bride of Mr. Melburne V. Wall of Aylmer, Mr. Dunlop officiating.

DALTON—RITCHIE.

On Thursday morning, July 20, a quiet ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's mother, Tilbury, when Mabel Isabel, youngest daughter of the late Alexander Ritchie and Mrs. Ritchie, became the bride of Wilbur J. Dalton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dalton of Kingsville. The Rev. J. P. McQuarrie officiated. Only the immediate relatives of the bride and groom were present. Mr. and Mrs. Dalton left later in the day on a motor trip to Niagara Falls and other points east. Upon their return they will reside at 15 Randolph avenue, Sandwich, where they will be at home after September 1.

TALKS ON HEALTH

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D., Noted Physician and Author.

A Safe Vacation—Specific Wound Infections.

The prevention of ordinary wound infection (septicemia or "blood poisoning") described in our last conference, brought the victim up to the interesting point at which we sagely suggested that he consult a physician. It always makes some readers angry when that old gag is pulled here. However, when a wound begins to pain or feel uncomfortable, it certainly is advisable to see a doctor about it, because there is no telling whether the discomfort is merely that produced by unintelligent dressing or the incipient stage of wound infection.

This common "blood poisoning" or septicemia manifests itself at any time after the occurrence of a wound, and is usually announced by increasing discomfort about the wound—tension, aching, burning, throbbing—and also some swelling about the wound. The lymph nodes connected with the lymph channels draining the wound area become enlarged and sore—"kernels" in the armpit, the groin or elsewhere. Perhaps small reddish or dusky lines are seen running up the arm or leg along the lymphatic channels. The victim feels a little chilly, probably has a headache or general aches—so that somebody is sure to imagine he is "taking cold." All these are danger signals which call for immediate surgical attention. But the poisoning is INVARIABLY produced by invading germs, not by rust, dyes, verdigris or any ordinary irritant.

Once in a while the germs happen to be tetanus bacilli (lockjaw germs). Especially is this likely when the wound is sustained in or about a barn or barnyard or a garden where manure is distributed; for the tetanus bacillus is a normal inhabitant of the intestine of domestic animals and is commonly present in the soil and dust of barnyard, barns and gardens. Lockjaw infection manifests itself from four to twelve or more days after the slight wound, by an increasing nervous tension, a feeling as though coming down with a "sore throat," but not necessarily any marked changes of the wound itself, though the injured part usually feels "tired" or aches. If a dose of anti-tetanic serum is administered shortly after the wound is sustained, as should be done in the treatment of all suspicious wounds in hot weather, lockjaw will not occur.

Another specific wound infection sometimes suffered on vacation is rabies. The bite of any animal may possibly infect the victim with rabies ("hydrophobia"). The animal may show no indications of being "mad"; and the season may be winter or summer. If the animal can be caught, confined and kept under the observation of a veterinary for two weeks, by the end of that period the veterinary can assure the victim that the animal did not have rabies. This is much more satisfactory to a sane person than shooting the animal and spending the next few weeks worrying over eventualities. Nowadays any physician anywhere may, if necessary, administer the anti-rabic serum to the patient in his own home, so that no expensive journeys are any longer required.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS, Infected Tonsils and Headaches.

Would infected tonsils, from which pus can be pressed by the doctor, be likely to cause a chronic headache for which no other apparent cause is discoverable? Would removal of such tonsils be advisable, in the hope of curing the headache, the patient suffering no other evident ill effect? The tonsils are scarcely visible, that is, they are embedded and not enlarged. The patient is a woman, aged 33 years. (F. J.)

ANSWER—A considerable number of cases of chronic headache are so produced, and cured by removal of the tonsils.

Blackheads.

Will you please give a treatment for blackheads? (R. W.)

ANSWER—After a prolonged bath of hot water containing a tablespoonful of boric acid in the quart, dry the skin and express the blackheads by gentle pressure between the fingers covered with a clean towel. Then apply this lotion over night, repeating the treatment every night for a week and resting for a week:

Sublimed sulphur	4 drams
Alcohol	4 drams
Glycerin	6 drams
Compound tincture of lavender	4 drams
Camphor water	6 drams

Yeast Is Not a Cure-All.

I have heard that yeast is an excellent remedy to take. Please tell me how to take it. (M. G. A.)

ANSWER—Don't take it too seriously. Yeast is a good food, containing vitmins, rich in protein ,and readily digestible. It is helpful in the treatment of some conditions. You fail to mention what condition you purpose to treat with yeast.

WHAT'S IN A NAME

MELINDA.

Though not generally listed in English nomenclature and regarded rather as a product of the Southern States, Melinda has in reality an interesting history dating back to Spanish ballad lore. In that remote era, she was undoubtedly Melisenda, and first appeared as the name of the wife of Don Gayferos, who was taken captive by the Moors on the occasion of the feats that were represented by the puppet shows in which Don Quixote took an unfortunately lively interest.

Another Melisenda was the Princess Melisenda, who carried the uneasy crown of Jerusalem to the House of Anjou. It was a most natural step to eliminate the over-abundance of syllables and contract the name to our present-day euphonious Melinda. For some inexplicable reason, it caught the fancy of the south, and its popularity there is still unquestioned.

The opal is Melinda's talismanic stone. It is the most mysterious and fascinating of all gems, and is believed to bestow upon its wearer the charm which comes from brilliancy, restlessness and ever-changing moods. It will prove for Melinda a talisman against sorrow. Monday is her lucky day, and 1 her lucky number.

CLEANING WHITE STRAW.

This is the year when we are making things do, but nobody can wear a soiled white straw with any self-respect, and sending it to the cleaner costs almost as much as a new one. Therefore an easy way to clean it at home is a welcome bit of information.

Lay the hat on a clean paper, brush off as much dust as you can with a hat brush, and squeeze the juice of a lemon on the straw, cleaning with a clean cloth and more lemon juice, as much as is necessary to remove all dirt. Sometimes with a rough straw, you will need to use a nail brush to get into all the tiny crevices. The lemon juice must not be allowed to touch any ribbon or other trimmings, as it will take out the color at once.

The hat may then be dried in the sun in a very few minutes. Men's straw hats are especially easy to clean this way, and certainly need it once or twice during the season, especially if they are worn where soft coal is used.

The lemon juice bleaches the straw, and stiffens it, making it seem as good as new.

The best of men and the most earnest workers will make enough mistakes to make them humble. Thank God for mistakes, and take courage. Don't give up on account of mistakes.—Dwight L. Moody.

Query—Re Divorce and Marriage.

Dear Miss Grey,—I have often thought of writing, but didn't have enough of courage. I take great pleasure in your page, and get a lot of good help.

Now for one question, which I won't like to know. Can a person that has been married in the States and divorced get married? I have heard they cannot. DOT.

Ans.—No, not here.

A Visit From Irish Paddy.

Dear Miss Grey,—Faith and oi've been intindin' to call on you for weeks, but, Och! wid wan thing and another I'd kape putting it off. Here I am at last, and shure it's not a nice body like you would afther be slimming the dure in the face of an ould Irish body like mesilf. To be shure, it isn't.

As I was sitting down wid The Advertiser in me hand just getting ready to read, our ould dog came around the house wid two of the dearest little turkeys sitting on his back. Oi laughed till my soides were sore, but the ould dog looked so embarrassed.

I saw where Mrs. Hopeful offered to give away rose bushes. Would you please forward the inclosed letter? Also is there any of the readers who take the Woman's Home Companion and could let me have the May and June copies, finishing the story of Jane McRae. If any of the readers have old magazines they would lend I would gladly pay the postage as I'm a regular bookworm.

I see where several are asking for correspondents. Now, if anyone would care to write to an Irish lassie, I'd surely be glad to answer you on whatever topic you write, even if it's nonsense.

Och, now, Miss Grey, I put my bundle down by the dure, and just wait a minute and Oi'll get out without you getting up. I'll leave my address wid Miss Grey.

IRISH PADDY FROM LIMERICK.

Ans.—Your letter has been forwarded to Mrs. Hopeful, Paddy, and we enjoyed your breezy visit very much.

Jennie Wren's Recipes.

As I am a reader of The Advertiser, and always enjoy the Mail-Box, I am sending in two very good recipes. At this season they may be a help to some of the readers.

Raspberry Cake.

One egg, ¾ cup of preserved raspberries, ½ cup of sugar, ½ cup of baking syrup, ½ cup of butter, ½ cup of sour milk, 1 teaspoon of baking powder, 1 teaspoon of soda, spices to suit. Put any filling you wish between the layers.

Bean Pickles.

One-half peck butter beans, boil for about two hours in small lengths, salt as for table use. Dressing for beans: 1½ pints of vinegar, 1½ pounds sugar, ½ cup mustard, ½ cup flour, 1 tablespoon celery seed, 1 tablespoon tumeric powder. Boil dressing and stir while boiling. When it thickens stir the beans through once, so as not to break them up. Let the mustard, flour and turmeric be mixed to a paste in the vinegar. Seal in jars.

With best wishes to Miss Grey and the readers of the page.

JENNIE WREN.

Veranda Chats.

I have been reading your column for some time, and have been very much interested, besides gaining some useful information. Please find inclosed 10 cents for hospital fund. Please send me the stocking-foot pattern.

MISS CALIFORNIA.

Ans.—Thank you very much, Miss California, for hospital dime and your expressed appreciation.

We are very much interested in your daily page in The Advertiser, and have used quite a number of valuable recipes contributed by the different Pageites. Inclosed please find a mite for the children's fund, and will you be kind enough to send me your famous stocking-foot pattern, for which I inclose stamped envelope?

MRS. S., KOMOKA.

Ans.—Thank you for hospital contribution. Pleased to mail pattern to you.

Nice Crisp Pickles.

Dear Miss Grey,—I have been an interested but silent reader of your page for some time, as I am an invalid, and have been confined to my bed for the past five years. I have never written you before. But like all the rest I have come for help.

I would like the stocking-foot pattern, if I may have it. Please find inclosed 10 cents for S. C. H., and may the dear children find help in the hospital, is the wish of one who is afflicted herself. Please find stamped and self-addressed envelope inclosed. I see where someone was asking for a good pickle recipe, I am sending you one that we have used for years, and find it good; also they keep well and are always nice and crisp.

Pickle Recipe—Put in a three-gallon crock one gallon cider vinegar, one cup salt, two cups granulated sugar, one-third cup whole cloves, one-third cup mustard, two tablespoon turmeric, one teaspoon red pepper; mix all together. Drop in your pickles. Stir every day for a week then bottle them. I gather my cucumbers as they get ready and put them in until crock is full. You may add onions, cauliflower and beans if you wish. If I don't want to make so many I just half it. Hoping I have not written too much, I will sign myself GRANDMOTHER NO. 3.

Ans.—Thank you for dime and splendid recipe, Grandmother No. 3. It was very kind of you to take the trouble to copy your method. We are sorry you are a shut-in, but glad you enjoy the Mail-Box chats and that you joined our circle.

THE PERFORMING DOGS. Part Ten.

Now, perhaps you have thought all along that Ching the chow dog from China was just a lazy old dog without much spirit. Well, to tell the truth, that's just what the other dogs had thought, for Ching had not shown much spirit. He had just followed orders without a word of complaint. Probably that was because Ching was such a wise old dog, for he knew that Dandy's quick brains were much better at making plans than his own. But Ching would not stand for everything. He stood up for his own rights, and this is how it happened:

"I wish we could find a home for Ching," Dandy said the day after Tibby had been left behind. "He must be feeling uncomfortable."

"Ching should go back to China," said little Mimso, knowingly. "He's a foreign dog."

"Indeed I'll do nothing of the sort!" Old Ching said this in such a gruff voice, the other dogs stopped still in their tracks with surprise. "I never came from China in the first place. My great, great, great grandfather did, but most likely your great, great, great grandfather came from China, too."

"Well, of all things," was all little Mimso could say, she was so indignant, but for fear there would be a quarrel, old Dandy interfered.

"Ching can do as he likes, he says. I have heard it said that my ancestors away back lived in Boston, but you don't find me going back there, nor is Roderick here going back to Belgium, where his father and mother came from. This is a free country and a dog can do as it likes."

"Unless it has a master to make it do otherwise," corrected Mimso. She was always ready for an argument.

"What kind of a home do you want?" Dandy asked Ching.

"You'll know when I come to it," snapped the other old dog, now thoroughly out of patience and quite disagreeable. If he was going to act like that the other dogs thought they would be glad to get rid of him soon. It did not seem they would, for Ching had no ambitions to be a pet and seemed too lazy for anything else; but they did not know Ching.

Just about this time they reached a point from where they could hear strange bleating sounds. Amid those sounds was the sound of fierce barking. None of the dogs had heard these sounds before except Ching, and somehow he knew what they meant. Like a shot from a gun he was off toward the uproar. Of course, the other three dogs would not desert a pal in the time of action, but they were so taken by surprise at his sudden energy they stopped still for a minute, then when Ching's bark was added to the other one, they bounded forward, too.

What a sight they saw when they landed at a field full of sheep a little way up the road. There was Ching struggling with a big mongrel dog, while at their feet lay a dead sheep. What a thrashing Ching gave that dog. Before it was over the owner of the sheep came, and when he saw Ching going for the mongrel dog he knew what had happened. Ching did not let go of the other dog until it was thoroughly beaten, and then it limped painfully away.

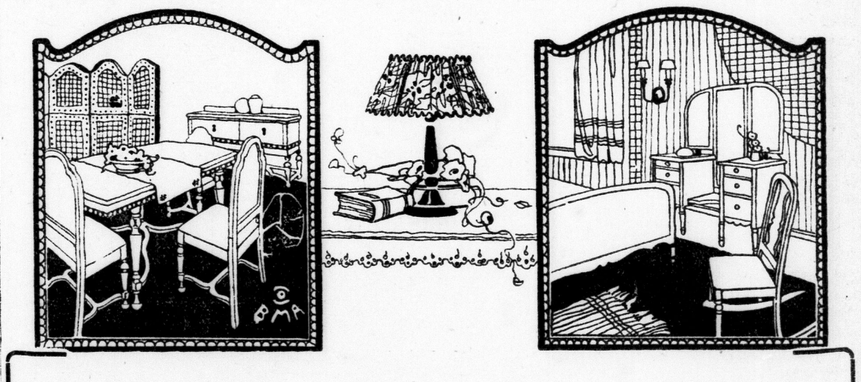

"Good old dog," cried the farmer who owned the sheep, as he patted Ching on the head; and Ching licked his own chops with pleasure, for he had enjoyed his fight. "You can stay here and guard these sheep if you want to."

The three dogs standing out in the road could hardly believe their ears and eyes. To think that the dog they had thought was lazy had done such good work. Then Dandy remembered that Ching had been trained to guard sheep before Biggs bought him. They did not wait to say good-bye to Ching. They knew he had found the home he needed.

Now, if only Roderick and Mimso could find the masters they had been stolen from!

To Be Continued.

BRANTFORD, July 22.—The Halligans of Flint, with their boss, Tom Halligan, watching them, scored a victory here tonight over the Red Sox, 5 to 3. "King" Brady's two errors in the sixth gave the Vehics the break when two runs were scored, enough to win for the visitors. WALKS COSTLY.

HAMILTON, July 22.—Richardson's liberality was responsible for Hamilton's victory over Saginaw in the first of the three-game series today. The visiting pitcher walked three batsmen, and each scored. The Tigers were outhit, but they brought their heavy artillery into action immediately on top of the passes handed out by Richardson.

Schwartje, formerly with Saginaw, held his former teammates in check in every inning but the third, when they got three hits and two runs. Purcell's one-hand catch was the feature. The score:

BEAVERS SNEAK UP.

KITCHENER, July 22.—The Beavers came from behind and won from the Custers this afternoon by a score of 2 to 1. It was the snappiest game of the season being featured by spectacular fielding by Beatty, Morgan and Hooker, and no less than five fast double plays. Sharp only allowed three scattered hits, while Winters was hit for six singles and a double. He hit Kyle with the ball, when the bases were filled after the score had been tied and forced in the winning run.

Umpire Rhue officiated, and many of his decisions were questioned and most unsatisfactory. The score:

WOLVES BLANKED 7-0 BY THOMAS, BUT SWING OUT 10 HITS

Tribe Turned Eleven Swats Into Runs in Bunches.

KUHN BIG SWATTER

Franklin, New Ump, Appears At Last Moment To Work Game, and Is Good.

Ad. Thomas applied the snowy to the Wolves yesterday 7 to 0, though they gathered ten hits in all off his delivery. London garnered eleven, but if it was rather a featureless exhibition, it exhibited clearly hits are hits and runs are runs. The Bay City knocks came, but either came when two were gone or about to go, or smart work around the London infield caused a large casualty list on the bags.

Thomas only had two strikeouts, while Whaley managed to make four of the Tribe look deceived. In fact, had Whaley used a little more time on one Bill Kuhn he would have just about turned in a Reik, but in the third he guessed wrong, and the big first sacker nipped him for a double, which scored a run, and later came in as a counter, and again in the very next inning when Kuhn faced him he had forgotten his alarm clock and was nicked for a triple this time, which swept two runners across the plate. He hit Kuhn along about the seventh and Will was brought in that time, making in all a quartet of runs the big fellow had a hand in.

When the game was just about to start no umps had appeared and Scout St. John had volunteered to act again. However, there was a commotion gatewards and Mr. Franklin of the Western Hemisphere, small of stature and grey of hair, strode into the arena and announced his intention of umpiring the Mint League game, he believed to be scheduled, within the space of a few moments. With his credentials in one hand he had the game in the other before the fact was realized. And he kept the game right there, right through.

Start in Third.

The Tecs got to Whaley for a hit in the first and two in the second before anything started. They kept pace with the inning by getting three in the third, which brought over three counters. Shay was safe at first through Newman's error and Calbert doubled. Kuhn followed with a two-ply knock, which scored Shay, but caught Calbert at third as it was relayed in from the right garden. Witry and Crichlow both laid down fielder's choices, the latter scoring Kuhn. Pittenger laid won a choice, too, right at McHale and he picked on Witry coming into his station. Dowling banged a single out to left, scoring Crichlow, but was caught on a peg at second. In the very next frame Thomas was safe on a grounder to second, but was caught on Kennedy's fielder's choice. Shay beat a grounder to second and Calbert whiffed. Then came Kuhn's three-bagger, scoring the two runners. Witry walked, but Crichlow was out on a grounder to third. The Londoners went out in one, two, three order in the fifth and sixth, but in the seventh when Kunh was hit and Witry was safe on Summer's miscue, and both had been advanced by Crichlow's sacrifice, Pittenger came through with a single to left, scoring both of them. He was caught when he attempted to pilfer second and Dowling flied out.

The fifth and ninth were the only frames in which the Wolves showed their molars. Stumpf, the first man up, popped out and Summers, who had singled through second, was caught there when he went down on Wray's single to right. Then McHale and Groddick both singled, filling the sacks. Whaley, however, popped out to Dowling and they smiled again. In the last chorus, with two gone, Summers and Wray both singled to right. McHale was on through Pittenger's error, but Groddick was forced to lift one and Bill Dowling drank the pop.

SARNIA A.A. AND LACROSSE CLUB END THEIR DISPUTE

SARNIA, July 22.—Tonight the Sarnia Lacrosse Club joined forces with the Sarnia Athletic Club, ending the breach that has existed between these two clubs for some time past. The Athletic Club will finance the club through to the finish of the season. This will mean that S. A. C. membership tickets will admit members to the scheduled lacrosse matches in the future.

All games of the Lacrosse Club, which will retain its present personnel of officers to run the affairs of the club with a vice-president on the S. A. C. executive, will be played at Bayview Park as in the past. The Athletic Club's first work in connection with the club will be to put the park in shape for playing purposes for lacrosse, football and rugby, all these being transferred to the driving park until such times as the Athletic Park can be put in shape to allow these games to be played there.

PLAYERS INSIST ON KNOTTY'S RETURN, AND PEPPERY ONE DOES

BRANTFORD, July 22.—Knotty Lee is back at the helm of the Red Sox, and worries of fans and management have disappeared. Knotty came back to town to arrange for removal of his belongings, and was waited on by the team almost without exception. They asked him to come back, and five of them declared they, too, would quit unless he resumed the helm. As a result of this, plus the urging of the management and the general feeling of the fans, Knotty buried his feelings over a recent incident on the field, took over his uniform and was back on the bench in tonight's game.

Dr. Frank Stone of Burlington, Wis., is doing the starting on the Western Canada Circuit.

FLORENCE AND HOME RINKS WIN SARNIA BOWLING HONORS

Barge's Rink Beat St. Thomas Four by Lucky Shot in An Extra End.

SARNIA, July 22.—Close and exciting finishes marked the close of the sixth annual bowling tournament of the Sarnia Lawn Bowling Club at the local greens, a fitting climax to a day that brought some great games out during the four rounds of the elimination events for the two trophies.

George's Sarnia rink carried off the James C. Barr Trophy from S. Goldsmith's St. Thomas rink, by a lucky shot in the extra end by somethng like an inch. It was one of the closest finishes of the whole day's sport.

Dr. Kelly's Florence rink won out from the Detroit four captained by J. A. Horrocks, 13 to 8, in one of the finest games of the tournament. Both rinks were tied, 8 all, at the tenth end for the Club Trophy, but in the next two Dr. Kelly drew away from the Americans. An interested gallery of eliminated bowlers watched the finish in the two events.

Stratford and St. Thomas To Meet in Group Finals

WOODSTOCK, July 22.—The championship of No. 2 Senior W. F. A. will be decided here tomorrow afternoon, when Stratford and St. Thomas soccer teams play. The district was a three-cornered tie when the schedule was finished, with London G. T. R. as the third team. St. Thomas and London played another tie game, and were ordered to play off Saturday. London refused and threatened to carry a protest to the O. F. A. The committee then ordered Stratford and St. Thomas to fight it out in the finals.

Collingwood Driving Club is offering $1,025 in purses for a one-day meeting to be held on August 7.

Teddy Grattan now carries a label of 2:09¼, another 2:10 pacer for his sire, Grattan Royal, 2:06¼.

Big Cities Soccer League Is Proposed At Hamilton

BRANTFORD, July 22.—The Hamilton proposal for a new soccer league, including Toronto, Brantford, Hamilton and Niagara Falls, meets with hearty approval from Manager Tom Anderson of the Brantford United team, who feels that such a league would result in a higher class of soccer, with stiffer competition and with keener attractions to the fans. He believes that the United club will support the proposed league.

Shamrock's New Topmast Brings Cut in the Time Allowance

Handicap Back To 6 Minutes and 40 Seconds, Subject To Re-measurement — If the Shamrock Wins, U. S. Will Challenge At Once.

SANDY HOOK, N. J., July 22.—Shamrock IV., challenger for the America's Cup, will enter tomorrow's race against Resolute, the defender, with a new topmast and a new topsail, the regatta committee of the New York Yacht Club announced tonight. After Shamrock's skipper had notified the committee of this change he requested a remeasurement of her sail area, but the official measurer was unable to reach the Lipton craft's moorings in time to do the work tonight.

The committee announced, however, that tomorrow's race would be run on the basis of a time allowance of six minutes and forty seconds for Resolute, subject to any change that may result for a remeasurement of Shamrock's topsail. This was the original allowance, but it was later increased to seven minutes and one second, when Shamrock put in and used a larger club topsail. Shamrock's canvas will be remeasured after the race tomorrow, and if the contest is at all close the winner may not be known until several hours after the yachts have crossed the finish line.

Signs of Weakness.

The new topmast of the challenger was reported to be much stronger than the old one, which showed signs of weakness, according to yacht club officials.

The special weather forecast for the Sandy Hook race course tomorrow was announced by the weather bureau in New York late tonight as follows:

"Partly cloudy; possibly somewhat unsettled, with gentle winds; mostly southerly."

Actually the Fourth.

Tomorrow's race, actually the fourth, as the second had to be reraced because of a dropping wind which failed to drive the yatchs across the finish line within the six-hour time limit—will be over a three-sided course, starting and ending as usual from the Ambrose Channel Lightship. The equilateral triangle of ten miles to a leg will be plotted just before the start, when the race committee observes direction of the wind.

It was reported here tonight that in the event that Shamrock IV. won the America's Cup, either tomorrow or Saturday, the New York Yacht Club would place a challenge in the hands of the representative of the Royal Ulster Yacht Club for a race next year, and that the United States club would challenge with a 116-foot schooner. W. L. Gardiner, the designer, is said to have been commissioned to draw plans for the schooner if the America's Cup is lost to Sir Thomas Lipton.

MANUFACTURERS' BALL

The London Bolt and Hinge took the London Hosiery into camp last night in a Manufacturers' League fixture by the score of 6 to 1. Clinton for the London Bolt did some good box work, allowing only 3 hits and having 8 strikeouts. The score:

KALAMAZOO CARD.

Kalamazoo, Mich., July 23.—Three events for pacers were on the card for the last day of racing on the mile track in the Grand Circuit meeting here.

The 2:06 pace for the Burdick Hotel purse of $2,000 was the feature contest on today's program. Red Lancelot, winner of the opening stakes, Symbol S. Forrest and other speedy horses were entered for the tilt. Another contest which attracted a good field and much interest was the three-year-old pace for the Michigan Railway purse of $1,000. The 2:12 trot, open, was first on today's program, and the 2:16 pace, open, wound up the mile contests.

CANADA'S GREATEST ATHLETES SAILING ON SATURDAY TO TAKE PART IN THE OLYMPIC GAMES

Toronto, July 23.—By the Canadian Press.—In connection with the sailing tomorrow from Montreal on the steamship Melita of Canada's crack runners, cyclists, boxers, jumpers, weight-throwers, etc., picked to wear the maple leaf at the Olympic world championship games at Antwerp, Belgium, it is interesting to recall that this is the third contingent of Canadian Olympic candidates to leave for the big show at Antwerp, the hockeyists and the trapshooters having formed the two advance guards. Tomorrow's contingent will be the main body, so to speak, and will be under the athletic management of Walter R. Knox of Orillia, Ont., the champion all-around athlete, who is in a class by himself as an athletic coach and performer. The team will be under the general management of James G. Merrick, chairman of the Canadian Olympic committee, and Norton H. Crow, secretary of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada.

The fourth section of the Canadian team will sail on August 7 on the Minnedosa and will consist of four swimmers, one wrestler and two honorary running coaches.

On August 13 the fifth and final section of the Canadian team, consisting of a coxswain, four-oared crew and a single sculler, accompanied by a running coach in charge, will leave Canada.

Earl J. Thomson of Prince Albert, Sask., is the particular star of the Canadian team. He is the world's record-holder in the 120-yard hurdles, 14 2-5 seconds. In addition he is a good broad jumper and an all-around athlete, and if in condition should establish an Olympic record.

Smoke is a new runner and defeated his field decisively in the Ontario trials. He is a full-blooded Ojibway Indian from Peterboro. Dellow won the Canadian marathon trials, and is a runner of very great experience.

Norman Webster, Harold Bonsall, William Taylor, Herbert MacDonald and Harry Martin, all of Toronto, will cover all the cycling, track and road race events. These five riders made an exceptional performance in their 100-mile trial, all of them beating the Canadian record and approaching the world's record for that distance. Not 50 yards separated the five riders at the end of the race.

In the boxing events Canada will be strongly represented, in addition to McDiarmid of Vancouver, in the heavy class, Harry Turner of Montreal will box in the 112-pound class, Walter Newton of Toronto, 126, and also Billy C. Rankin of Edmonton, who was second choice in this class. Clarence Newton, brother of Walter, will fight in the 135 class. Albert Schneider, an exceptionally finished boxer, will contest the 147 class, Corp. A. Prudholme of London, of the Princess Patricias, and M. H. Herscovitch of Montreal, who fought the most spectacular contest in the trials, will be both in the 160 and 175 clases.

John Cameron of Vancouver is a sterling all-around athlete. He will engage in the decathlon and hammer.

Archie McDiarmid, also of Vancouver, is Canada's only entry in the walkers.

John McEachern of Winnipeg is looked upon to have a chance in the 16-pound shot.

Alex. Ponton of Toronto and Cecil Coaffee of Winnipeg will run in the 100 and 200 metre races and the relay races. Both Ponton and Coaffee have done 10 seconds for 100 yards, and are looked upon to improve.

Edward Lawrence of Montreal will run in the 5,000 and 10,000 metre and in the cross-country race. He has been successful in winning many middle-distance races in Eastern Canada.

Thomas Town of Brandon, an exceptionally fine runner, will run in the 1,500, 5,000 and 10,000 metre races.

James Dellow and Arthur Scholes, both of Toronto, and Albert Smoke, are Canada's marathon entries.

STECHER DEFEATS GARDINI.

Revere, Mass., July 23.—Joe Stecher successfully defended his title to the world's wrestling championship here last night when he defeated Ronato Gardini, the Italian champion. The fall was made in 1 hour, 35 minutes, 4 seconds, by a body scissors and arm lock.

ROUTE CHANGED.

Antwerp, July 23.—The Olympic committee has changed the route of the Marathon race. It was originally planned to start it near Brussels and finish at the stadium, but it has now been arranged to have both the start and the finish at the stadium with the turning point at Poteaudon, on the Antwerp-Brussels road. This road is a paved highway with dirt or cinder paths on either side.

GAMES STOPPED BY RAIN SHOULD GO INTO AVERAGES

Baseball Writers Changed Some Rules, But Didn't Go Far Enough.

BY ERNEST J. LANIGAN.

When the committee of experts appointed by the Baseball Writers' Association of America last winter revised the scoring rules and saw to it that protested games, when thrown out, should still go in the playing records, and that batters breaking up games in the ninth or extra innings with balls driven out of the lot should get credit for homers, even if only singles were necessary to decide the issue, they made a hit with the able athletes, but they would have made even a greater one if they had continued their labors just a trifle more and taken into consideration the fact that one Jupiter Pluvius might do good or do damage to an earnest performer.

The players, a good many of them, still are of the opinion that whatever they do in games that are curtailed by rain should go into the official archives, and already this year there have been three instances of the Storm King getting busy and wiping out completed and incompleted innings. All these instances have been in the junior league. Ten runs have been scored that the players will get no credit for, and the same number of hits have been made.

Hit for Walk.

In the American League a batter gets credit for batting in a run when he draws a pass when the bases are loaded, and four Yanks, one of them George Herman Ruth, have gone to first under these conditions in incompleted innings—and won't get any credit for having done so.

Close followers of the pastime, when the scoring rules were changed, so that the home team could win in the ninth or an extra inning by more than a one-run margin, averred that the new rule wouldn't be used more than twice during a campaign, and with the season half over there has only been one instance of this kind—in Cincinnati last Sunday, with Jacob Ellsworth Daubert as the beneficiary.

Business was no brisker on the Class AA circuits than it was on the big-time wheels. In the afternoon game of July 5, between Buffalo and Akron, the score was tied when George Lasoy Wiltse's Bisons took their tenth turn at the bat. Richard Carlton Hoblitzel's Numatics not having tallied in their portion of the extra round. Buffalo got two men on, and then Joe Sargent, third baseman, smote the ball out of the lot, winning the game by a score of 5 to 2, instead of 3 to 2.

Now for the games that have gone into the discard because of the Storm King. The White Sox and Browns started to play in Chicago on April 20, and they had to desist in the last portion of the third, not because Jupiter Pluvius was using his moist delivery, but because he had provided a curtain of impenetrable fog. Urban Faber and Allan Sothoron were the pitchers in this game, and the Sox right hander had it on the Brown northpaw on the basis of 1 to 0 when Brick Owens temporarily (or, as it turned out, permanently) called time.

The Sox had scored in the second inning on Sothoron's two-base wild throw on Ted Jourdan and Ray Schalk's drive for half the circuit. They had the bases loaded and none defunct when the game was stopped.

Faber, in this fray, was well on his way to a record in assists, for he had five in three innings, three being grouped in the third. Admirers of George Harold Sisler probably are just as glad this game went into the discard, since Sis was up once and grounded out to Weaver. Add one time at bat to the Michigan Marvel's 1920 record and you have it absolutely.

Players who lost hits through this game being stopped were Joe Gedeon, Kenneth Williams, and Harry Liebold, who singled, and Ray Schalk and George Weaver, who doubled.

Ray Schalk batted in a run in this game, Ted Jourdan scored a run, Eddie Collins drew two passes and Bill Jacobson struck out once.

Robbery Here.

On June 10, the Yankees, playing in Detroit, scored five runs in the ninth for the loss of two men and all these runs went into the discard and some other things with them, since play, stopped, never was resumed. Bodie and Lewis thus were cheated out of singles; Ruth, Pratt, Lewis, Mays and Hannah out of runs, and Bodie, Hannah, Ruth and Pipp out of runs batted in. The last four named Yanks all drew passes with the bases full from Frank Okrie, Ruth walking twice in this frame.

The Babe is due to set a new record this year in complimentaries, so when all the returns are in give him two more walks and you'll have the proper number of his free tickets first.

In Detroit, on June 20, the Nationals made four runs in the sixth and had only two men out when play was called, and the score reverted to what it was when the inning started. Judge, Rice and Roth singled in this inning (or portion of inning), Gharrity, Shaw, Rice and Judge scored, Judge, Milan, Rice and Roth batted in runs and O'Neill and Shanks struck out.

There will undoubtedly be some more games played in the majors this year in which the Storm King will get in some fiendish work, and it is among the possibilities that he may decide the batting championship of one of the big organizations.

He couldn't if the scoring rules were changed a bit more.

CANCELLATION OF LICENSES OF RIVER CRAFT MAY RESULT

Investigation of Rum Running At Border Reveals Serious Danger.

WINDSOR, July 22.—Collector of Customs Montreuil today declared action had been taken following a thorough investigation of activities of rum runners on the river, and evidence was now being prepared for the department at Ottawa, which would probably result in the cancellation of licenses of several tugs and other crafts now operating on the river.

The great danger from the use of these boats for smuggling liquor across to Detroit, he said, was in their running at high speed in the darkness without lights. As these vessels were built for speed and with great power, in the event of a collision with a ferry or pleasure excursion boat the results would be disastrous and many lives would be lost.

"I don't intend to wait for any such calamity," Collector Montreuil declared tonight, "and that is why I am taking action right now."

Most of the tugs engaged in the traffic are operating from the riverfront in the westerly section of Windsor, he said.

SEE HUGE RUSH OF IMMIGRANTS TOWARD CANADA

Soldiers' Settlement Officials Predict Biggest Trek in Years.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

OTTAWA, July 22.—A highly-optimistic report regarding the possibilities of heavy immigration from the United Kingdom to Canada is brought back by W. E. Scott and Russell Wilson, who, for the past six months, have been overseas in the selection of immigrants under the plan of the soldiers' settlement board.

Messrs. Scott and Wilson declare that Canada is looked upon oversea as a land of promise, and that demand for berths to the Dominion far exceeds the transportation facilities available. In fact, they declare that Canada is in for the biggest immigration rush which she has had for many years past.

As a direct result of their efforts on behalf of the settlement board, 600 carefully selected settlers will be added to farming communities of the Dominion. All have seen active service, and all are considered fit for agricultural pursuits. Each man is required to have a capital of at least $1,000, and transportation is paid by the imperial authorities. The majority are of the officer class.

Many of them have capital far in excess of the minimum required, and sufficient to establish them on substantial farms or ranches.

PRISONER ESCAPES BY JUMPING FROM AUTO AT OWEN SOUND

George E. Hutton Makes Daring and Successful Dash For Liberty.

OWEN SOUND, July 22.—While being taken to the county jail yesterday, George E. Hutton escaped from Deputy Chief John Thompson, and has not yet been caught. Hutton is a young man, 20 years of age, who has already served two jail terms for housebreaking served theft. He answered a similar charge yesterday with regard to the Creeper & Griffin robbery a week ago, and was remanded to jail for a week. While on his way there he leaped from the automobile and showed his heels to such good effect that he has not yet been found.

TROOPS SHOOT IRISH RIOTERS; THREE KILLED

Fully a Dozen Wounded, Some Seriously, As Result of Firing.

DEBATE IN COMMONS

Some Heat Felt When O'Connor Hurls Grave Charge At Carson.

BELFAST, July 22.—Brother Michael Morgan, a Redemptorist, was shot dead tonight in Clonard Monastery, Falls road, during the course of a serious engagement between rioters and troops. Two others were killed, William Downey and William Godfrey.

The belief is held that Brother Morgan was the victim of stray bullets. Late this evening there was a renewed outbreak of rioting on Kashmir road, one of the most dangerous districts. The attacks against the military were of a formidable character, and many were injured by stones and other missiles.

The rioters grew increasingly menacing, and after a warning the troops fired, with the result that three persons were killed and fully a dozen were wounded, some of them seriously.

Shot Through Lung.

Jones Conn was shot through the lung and was operated upon immediately at the hospital.

There was serious rioting at Bainbridge, the home of Col. Smyth, who was assassinated a few days ago. The offices of a news agency were set afire, petrol being obtained for this purpose from passing automobiles, and destroyed.

A majority of the employees of the Bainbridge factories today demanded the expulsion of the Sinn Fein workers, the management in each case being obliged to close down the works.

Nine Are Killed.

Up to about 11 o'clock tonight nine persons had been killed in the rioting and scores were wounded. The firing was renewed at 10:30 in the neighborhood of Clonard Monastery.

Earlier in the evening a spirit dealer in the Ballymacarrett district, believing that a mob was about to attack his premises, fired a number of shots and wounded four civilians. He was seized and beaten and eventually sent to the hospital.

Albert Macauley was shot dead by soldiers in Cromac Square.

RAID COAST STATION.

CORK, July 22.—Armed raiders early this morning attacked the coast guard station near Kinsale, and after an hour's siege forced their way into the station and overpowered the marines on guard. The raiders made their escape with ten rifles and ammunition. One raider is reported to have been killed. The military has been dispatched to the scene.

This was the second time this station was successfully raided within three weeks.

TRAINS NOT MOVING.

DUBLIN, July 22.—The railway situation at Kingsbridge is reported unimproved. All trains, including the Curragh race trains were held up today as a consequence of attempts by the police to travel.

CORK, July 22.—Two young men were shot dead last night near Mitchelstown, County Cork, in an encounter with soldiers.

REFERS TO MANNIX.

LONDON, July 22. — David Lloyd George, the prime minister, today told the House of Commons that the Government was fully aware that Archbishop Mannix of Australia had been "delivering exceedingly mischievous speeches."

The premier's announcement came in reply to a question by Sir Frederick W. Young, coalition Unionist for the Swindon district of Wiltshire, and formerly a member of the South Australian Parliament. Sir Frederick again had asked what the Government proposed to do regarding Archbishop Mannix's projected visit to Ireland. Mr. Lloyd George said the matter was being considered.

CARSON CREATED EXTREMIST PARTY, DECLARES O'CONNOR

LONDON, July 22.—Important measures for dealing with disorders in Ireland were announced in behalf of the Government in the House of Commons today by Sir Hamar Greenwood, chief secretary for Ireland, in the course of a debate on Irish affairs, which occasionaly developed considerable heat.

Moving a reduction in the salaries of the chief secretary's department for the purpose of calling attention to the Government's Irish policy, T. P. O'Connor declared that nobody had done more than Sir Edward Carson, the Ulster Unionist leader, to create an extremist party in Ireland, and he suggested that it was the Ulster movement which turned the vacillating mind of Germany in favor of war.

Sir Edward, interrupting the speaker, characterized this as "an unmitigated lie."

Mr. O'Connor's motion was defeated by a vote of 181 to 49.

In the course of the debate James Henry Thomas, Laborite member and general secretary of the National Union of Railwaymen, declared that the Government could obtain peace in Ireland immediately by establishing home rule there.

GASOLINE TORCH BURSTS TWO MEN SEVERELY BURNED

RAILWAY BOARD PLACES BAN ON COAL EXPORTS

Expected Effort To Conserve Fuel Supply Announced by Carvell.

OTTAWA, July 22.—(By Canadian Press.)—Prohibition of the export of coal from the Atlantic, St. Lawrence River and Gulf ports of Canada except to the United States or to Newfoundland, unless otherwise permitted and in accordance with regulations to be promulgated by the board, is provided for in a brief order of the railway board issued late this afternoon. The order, which is signed by Hon. F. B. Carvell, chief commissioner, will become effective on and after the first day of August.

Other steps looking to the conservation of the fuel supply are being considered by the board, and special efforts are being made, in conjunction with the United States authorities to increase the movement of coal from the mines to Canada, it being recognized that the threatened shortage is to a very large degree a matter of transportation rather than actual dearth of the black diamonds.

INCREASES IN RATES.

WASHINGTON, D.C., July 22.—To provide the additional revenues necessary to meet the $600,000,000 increase in wages awarded by the railway labor board, the railroads of the United States today proposed to the Interstate Commerce Commission that passenger rates be advanced 20 per cent and freights 9.13 per cent in addition to the 27.06 per cent previously requested. They also proposed that a surcharge of 50 per cent be made on Pullman fares; that excess baggage rates be increased 20 per cent, and that milk tariffs be increased to the same level as freight rates.

Should the increases proposed today and those previously asked for be granted in full existing freight rates would be advanced 36.9 per cent, and the country's freight bill would be increased by $1,355,370,675. The total which would be added to the passenger revenue under the railway executives' plan would be $233,827,982 anually. Pullman charges would go up $43,639,334 a year, the revenue on milk would be increased $8,662,089, and excess baggage charges would be advanced to $1,420,995.

The plan presented by the railroad executives disclosed that they have estimated the wage award at approximately $626,000,000 instead of the $600,000,000 figured by the labor board.

Alfred P. Thom, general counsel of the Association of Railway Executives, explained that the $26,000,000 additional was figured on the basis of overtime allowance provided in the award.

WERE POLICE TOO HASTY?

Defendants in Liquor Case Claim Deal Was Not Consummated.

WINDSOR, July 22.—A unique angle developed in the hearing in Windsor police court today against Fred Chappus and Henry Drouillard, charged with infractions of the Ontario temperance act, that necessitated a delay in decision in Chappus' case and sentence in Drouillard's.

Recently Chappus arranged for the purchase of 66 cases of whiskey from Drouillard, the goods to be delivered under cover of darkness. While the transfer of the liquor was being made from the owner to the buyer the police assumed the role of middlemen and seized the shipment. Chappus now claims he is not guilty of purchasing liquor illegally, in that the deal did not reach consummation. Magistrate Miers reserved judgment until tomorrow to ponder over this perplexing phase of the act.

Why Cox and Harding Will Make League Chief Issue

Both candidates on the Democratic ticket declare that they will make their chief fight on the league of nations issue. Replying, Senator Harding says that since "the president demands a campaign on this issue," since "the Democratic platform makes the issue paramount," and since "the Democratic candidates unqualifiedly acquiesce," then "the Republican party and candidates gladly accept the challenge." Although the candidates have thus joined issue over the league of nations, there are independent publicists who agree that many citizens will vote their party ticket quite irrespective of what Governor Cox and Senator Harding may say about the league, and instead of the coming election being a great national referendum on the league of nations, it will be, in the opinion of The Lowell Courier-Citizen, "simply on which party is to be trusted—the Democrats after their prolonged exhibition of their quality or the Republicans after their prolonged absence," which may have made the heart grow fonder."

The leading article in THE LITERARY DIGEST this week, July 24, throws many sidelights upon the reasons why the candidates are pushing the league of nations to the front as a dominant issue, and it will be highly interesting and instructive reading to the American voter just now.

CANADA'S CASE AT GENOA CONFERENCE OF SHIPPING MEN

Questions of Inland Waterways and Fishing Industry Were Held Over.

THOMAS ROBB'S VIEWS

Absence of U. S. Representative Was Prejudicial to Canadian Interests.

London, July 23.—Canada's case as it was presented to the International Seamen's conference at Genoa last week was outlined to your correspondent today by Thomas Robb, secretary of the Shipping Federation, Montreal, who represented the shipowners and general shipping interests of the Dominion at the conference. Mr. Robb expressed the opinion that the inability of the conference to come to any practical agreement regarding the question of hours by no means implied that the discussions were fruitless, inasmuch as it succeeded in arriving at an agreement on a draft of conventions relating to the minimum age for employment in ships and for securing a seaman's right to compensation in case of his ship being lost, and the conference also adopted important recommendations in regard to the drawing up of an international code for seamen, for provision of insurance against unemployment, and other questions directly affecting the daily life of the seafaring community.

So far as Canada was concerned the absence of any United States representatives was felt especially to be a serious defect. When the question arose as to how far workers employed in the fishing industry and inland waterways should be included in the conference, Mr. Robb, addressing the conference, pointed out that Canada and the United States have large lakes which form adjacent boundaries to the two nations. "These lakes," he said, "are navigated by United States and Canadian vessels, and it is most essential in view of the fact that these matters only concern the United States and Canada, that they should be dealt with by these two countries. Before any action is taken by the conference I think we should hear from our United States friends; therefore, I most strongly protest against any recommendation being made from this conference."

Mr. Robb added that his colleague, Mr. Desbarats, deputy minister of the department of naval service, explained to the conference that there are two different laws in Canada, one for the great lakes and rivers, and another for small ones, besides the law for coast traffic. "If Canada is obliged to have three or four laws for inland navigation, it will be still more difficult to agree on one rule for inland navigation for the whole world," was the argument of Mr. Desbarats. Mr. T. Gauthier, delegate for the Canadian seamen, pointed out that Canada used in inland navigation vessels as large as 12,000 tons, to which he contended, the same rules should be applied as to ships for ocean navigation, and he believed the same rules should be applied to vessels below 2,000 tons; otherwise it would be impossible to find seamen willing to go on board the latter if they did not enjoy the same privileges as men on larger vessels.

As regards the fishing industry, the proposition discussed was how far should the workers employed in this industry be included in the decisions of the conference. On this matter, as also on that of inland waterways, the conference eventually decided that control should be vested in the permanent international labor office at Geneva, any proposals that office may have to suggest to be submitted at the next conference.

MEDITATED PLANS, LEADERSHIP AND COMRADESHIP NEEDED

Captain Johnston McAdam's Stirring Appeal At Unveiling Ceremony.

SOLDIERS' MEMORIAL

Oil Springs Pays Honor To Memory of Its Brave Men.

OIL SPRINGS, July 22.—In the presence of a large assemblage the soldiers' monument in Memorial Square was dedicated today to the memory of twelve soldiers of the village and vicinity who fell in the war.

Memorial medals were presented by Brig.-Gen. Panet of London to the survivors of the 28 men who went from the village to the front, and to the next of kin of the twelve who made the final sacrifice.

Addresses were delivered by Messrs. F. F. Pardee, M. P., J. E. Armstrong, M. P., J. N. Webster, M. P. P., the warden of Lambton, ex-Mayor Stirret of Petrolea, and others.

Three Necessities.

The unveiling was performed by Capt. Johnston MacAdams of Sarnia, formerly bombing officer of the Third Infantry Brigade, whose dedication address took the form of a brief reference to the true character of the Canadian private soldier, which he said was obscured by the soldierly silence maintained by the disciplined men, while others of less merit or experience maintained no such reticence. He spoke with regret of certain features of the army which are lacking in civilian life: "Three things the Canadian corps furnished us which civilian life must furnish or fail: Meditated plans and policies known to all; leadership based on unselfishness, of which bravery in war was but a form, and comradeship common to all."

Appeal to Citizens.

Mr. Pardee made a broad and telling appeal based on the sacrifices of the war, urging the alignment of good citizenship on the side of constituted authority, which at no time required strengthening more than in the present time of reconstruction. He expressed his pride in the noble memorial that had been erected, at a cost large indeed for the small municipality, and the deepest sympathy that so many had fallen in the field.

The monument is a handsome monolith of grey granite, bearing a life-size statue representing young Canadian manhood, bearing in its hand a broken shackle. The following are the names inscribed:

Oil Springs.

Private John Wilson, Somme.
Sergeant H. C. Willoughby, Somme.
Private Harry Robertson, Courcelette.

SAYS PENITENTIARY RUINS MEN'S HEALTH

TORONTO, July 22.—Mayor Church has forwarded to Sir Henry Drayton an appeal for reformed methods of handling prisoners in Kingston Penitentiary. He stated that he was in hopes that the Union Government would take up this matter in a big way.

The mayor's letter says in part:

"The reason I write is that we have a great many of our own citizens in this institution, who go down there in good health and come back with their health ruined for life, owing to the methods in use there.

"They are human beings, and I think you will agree with me that the housing in this and other similar institutions is deplorable. If there was a scarcity of land in Canada there might be some object for it.

"I also object to youths of 16 and 17 being sent to this institution."

Canadian Railroad Workers to Seek More Pay at Once

TORONTO, July 22.—Representatives of the railroad brotherhoods in this country will immediately ask the Railway Association of Canada to open negotiations with them on behalf of the 200,000 railroad workers with the recent wage award affecting United States railways as a basis of negotiation, according to a statement credited in an interview here to P. J. Flannery, general organizer for Canada of the international brotherhood of freight handlers and station employees. Mr. Flannery said he believed the award would be accepted by the Canadian railways.

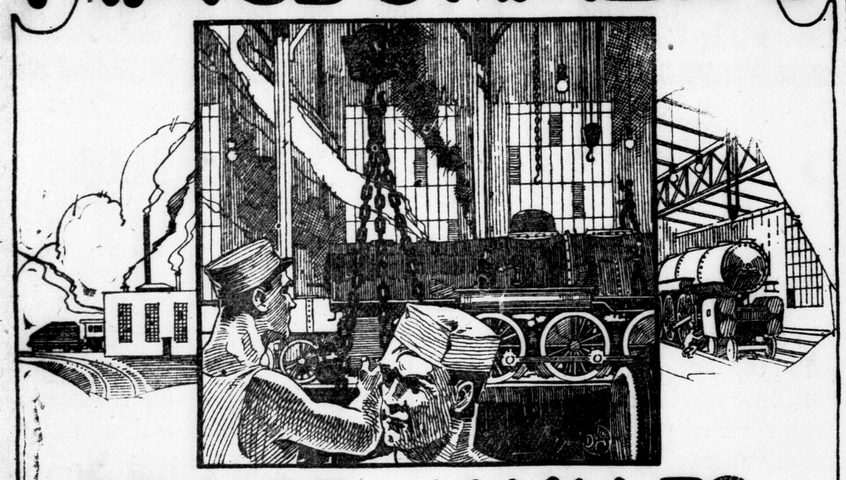

HAD SEEN SOME SERVICE.

WINDSOR, July 22.—Damaged to the extent of $700, and its mileage indicator showing it had travelled 700 miles within the past week since it was stolen, the wrecked car of Magistrate Miers of Windsor, was today recovered in a broken-down condition on Moy avenue by the local police. An inventory of damage showed the flywheel broken, body strained, tires ripped, torn and punctured, front axle and fenders badly bent, and innumerable other scars testifying to rough usage. The police have no clue to the identity of the thieves.

LEWIS IS NAME.

For a "Great" Vacation

try the Great Lakes Trip by Canadian Pacific Steamer

FOR when the mercury is playing around in the upper eighties, and you wish Henry Ford would invent a self-refrigerating collar, do you ever stop to remember that the temperature of Lake Superior never rises above 40 degrees? What if you don't spare the time for a long holiday? The Canadian Pacific Railway's Clyde-built steamships make a five-day trip from Port McNicoll to Fort William and back, during which you can be as cool as an Eskimo and as comfortable as a clubman.

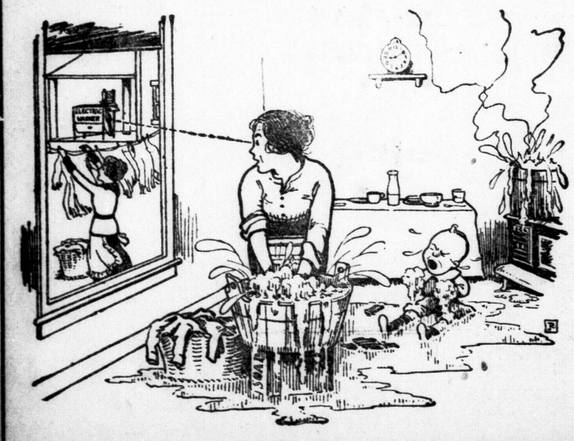

Roomy cabins, the best of chefs—oh, those broiled Lake Superior whitefish!—tea on deck under the lazy awnings—seagulls against the long, northern sunset—and a breeze from a thousand miles of clean pine woods, on duty twenty-four hours in the day.

Then—if you find you've got more time than you counted on—how about a week on the Nipigon River, forty miles from Fort William, with guides, canoes, and camp fires and white water under the moon—and more speckled trout than you know what to do with?

How do you get there? That's easy. Phone, write, or see any Canadian Pacific Ticket Agent; or

VOLENTINE FREE AT LAST TO WED SCHOOL DAY GIRL

Chicago Court Annuls "Kidnap Marriage."

Chicago, July 22.—Daniel Volintine, Aurora's "poor little rich boy," who was left $1,000,000 when he was 14, and found himself an unwilling husband at eighteen, is at last free to marry the sweetheart of his high school days, Miss Mildred Wessner.

Judge Adam A. C. Cliffe in the Kane County Circuit Court at Geneva yesterday, granted his plea for an annulment of his marriage to Nora Udstad Volintine. The latter is said to have withdrawn her opposition following a settlement of approximately $10,000.

Volintine, who is now 23 years old, told Judge Cliffe he was attending the Northwestern Military Academy at Lake Geneva, Wis., when, on October 27, 1915, J. Bruce Amell, now assistant state's attorney of Kane County, and Dr. Eugene Pritchard, the Volintine family physician, appeared at the school and told him he would have to marry Miss Udstad. A warrant had been taken out for his arrest, he said they told him, and his life would be in peril if he did not wed.

Girl Joins Party.

He said he was brought to Chicago in an automobile, and that Miss Udstad joined the party here. They then drove to Crown Point, Ind., where, he says, Amell told him he would have to swear he was 21 years old in obtaining a license. The marriage was performed, and young Volintine went back to school.

Four months later a baby girl was born to Mrs. Nora Volintine. Young Volintine denied parentage and produced Gustave Anderson, of Grand Rapids, Mich., who admitted he was the child's father. Mrs. Volintine then obtained alimony of $80 a month.

When America entered the war young Volintine went into the army, and was studying aviation when the armistice was signed. During his absence, Mrs. Ammon Wessner and her daughter, Mildred, occupied his home in Aurora. When he returned from the army he had a new home constructed.

Wife Sues for $50,000.

In the meantime the court had reduced Mrs. Volintine's alimony from $80 to $60 a month. She filed suit for $50,000 damages against Miss Wessner, and the latter was ordered to come into court and explain who purchased automobiles, diamonds and fine clothes for her.

"Mildred and I have been sweethearts for years," Volintine said. "Now I hope we will be married before long."

"Our engagement never has been broken," said Miss Wessner, who is now 22. "We were engaged long before Dan was forced into this elopement with this other girl. We became engaged December 23, 1914."

"Dan has always called me 'muzzy,'" Mrs. Wessner stated. "He really had no home, you know, when he came back from the war, and he came to live with us until his new home was finished."

How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Relieves the Ailments of Change of Life.

"During Change of Life I had hot flashes, dizzy spells and every month I was wild with misery I had a constant dull pain, and would always feel tired. I suffered in this way for five or six years and was treated by a physician and took different remedies without benefit. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended to me and I took it, and I believe I would never have been well if it had not been for the Vegetable Compound and Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I am recommending your medicine to all women ailing as I was, for I think it will carry them safely through the Change of Life, and relieve the ailments that come at that period."—Mrs. ALEXIE C. KICKING HORSE KNOCKS LID OFF MURDER CASKET

Then Widow Admits She "Executed" Spouse.

PARIS, Juuly 22. — The historic old Norman town of Bayeux, where William the Conqueror came from, has just witnessed the third act of a tragedy as dramatic as any of its storied past.

Fifteen years ago the Golden Lion tavern was kept by a couple named Huchez. The man was about 35 years old, considerably younger than his wife, and his good looks and reportedly errant heart had given rise to no small amount of scandal. In the fall of 1905 he disappeared—he had run away to America, it was whispered, and not alone.

Wife Glad He's Gone.

In reply to inquiries—Mme. Huchez was not a woman to encourage curiosity—the wife declared, "He's gone, and it's good riddance. I don't care where he's gone to, but I guess he won't trouble any more."

As it happened, I visited the Golden Lion at the beginning of 1906. I remember a very pretty waitress there, and remember, too, how the local worthies with nods and winks alternately at her and the sombre figure of Mme. Huchez behind the pay desk, conveyed the story of the innkeeper's flight and its supposed reasons.

A few months afterward Mme. Huchez sold the inn and opened a small cafe in Bayeux. She stayed there until a year or two before the war, when she retired to a life of modest independence at Grenoble.

That was the first act of the tragedy. The second act is short and gruesome. A few weeks ago a restive horse was stamping impatiently in a straw heap at one end of the Golden Lion stable. Suddenly his foot went through the ground, and a half hour later a hostler found him with his hoof firmly fixed in the splintered top of a wooden trunk.

Buried Treasure—Perhaps.

"Buried treasure!" was the word that flashed through the inn, and soon there was a curious group thrilled with the joyous anticipation of watching the hostler and his mate digging furiously in a gloomy corner.

A big, square trunk was brought to light, and a sharp jerk of the pickaxe wrenched off the cover. The crowd that had pressed forward shrank back in horror—huddled in shredded clothing lay the skeleton of a man. The mystery of where Huchez had gone was a mystery no longer.

The police investigation showed the innkeeper had been murdered by a knife thrust.

The examining magistrate from Paris was not slow in developing a theory—everything pointed to Mme. Huchez as her husband's murderer.

That ends the second act. The third is stranger still.

A dignified, white-haired old woman stopped yesterday at a small cafe near Bayeux station and asked for the office of the examining magistrate from Paris. Arrived there, she announced herself as Mme. Huchez. She told the officials she had come from Grenoble to explain about her husband's death.

"I killed him," she said quietly. "He was rough, drunken and unfaithful. Then I put his body in a trunk, and buried it in the cellar with the help of a male domestic. The latter took no part in the killing. He asked no questions and I told him nothing."

When the magistrate recovered from stupefaction, he gasped:

"Do you feel no remorse?"

"Why should I?" said the madame. "He deserved it."

Then she returned to the station to await the return train to Grenoble. For, by the French statute of limitations, she cannot be prosecuted for a crime committed fifteen years ago.

SHOOT TO TEST FLYING PLANES

Camp Perry To Have World's First Gun Matches Aloft in August.

Detroit, July 22.—Possibilities of the aeroplane as never before tested out in this country will be demonstrated by the United States Army Air Service in the competitive aerial shooting match to be held in August at Camp Perry, Ohio. In the evolutions and stunts, Detroit-made aircraft engines will compete with those of other factories in this country and with crack engines made by Germany in the last year of the war.

The event will be the world's first competitive aerial shooting match, it was announced Sunday by the air service. It will demonstrate the value of the service in national defence and tend to broaden commercial possibilities of air travel.

Varied Ground Exhibit.

The ground exhibit will, it is announced, comprise aerial photography, including a photographic map of the reservation; aircraft guns, and all different types of aeroplanes "on the line." These aeroplanes will be fully equipped with regulation equipment, and will be marked with placards indicating the type of plane, its mission, its armament, its speed performance, and so forth.

One plane will be equipped with eight machine guns, the only one of its kind so equipped, and is a veritable flying arsenal.

Future wars will be decided in the air or by the perfection and superiority of aerial equipment. Here one can see the synchronizing gears that allow a machine gun to be fired out through the revolving propeller of an aeroplane in flight and also the sights that are used in connection with these guns and those that are used in accurately dropping huge bombs from the air. Bombs weighing as much as 1,100 pounds, or over half a ton, filled with T. N. T., can be dropped from great heights with deadly precision by the use of sights now being perfected. Wireless telephone and telegraph will be exhibited and demonstrated.

An exhibit and demonstration of the rocking nacelle used in the ground schools during the training of pilots and observers for the army air service will be given. It is rumored that possibly a Ruggles Orientator may be equipped with a machine gun and mounted on a derrick tower and entries made for live shooting from this for eligible observers. Among the ground exhibits will be the automatic cannon. This will be mounted on the nose of a well-known aeroplane. This cannon is one of the most remarkable achievements of aircraft armament and is capable of firing 120 one-pound shells per minute.

Thrilling Aerial Exhibit.

The aerial exhibit will be the most thrilling to most of those in attendance, and it will include aerial acrobatics, competitive flights, closed course air races, wireless control of aeroplane formations and gunnery both from the ground and from the air. A specially-equipped German Fokker D-7 aeroplane will be used in some of the wireless demonstrations. This plane was captured by the army air service during the war. Aerial manoeuvres will be executed and there will be sham combat in the air during which all the tricks known to aviation will be demonstrated, including how to escape when cornered and how to fake, and then obtain the control of an adversary and shoot him to earth.

The aerial shooting contest is to be the biggest feature. In this event firing at targets from rocking nacelles on the ground will permit close inspection by the spectators. The actual fire from planes in the air will be directed against ground objects, silhouette targets and moving objectives. There will be deflection practice against towed targets. As a final episode, a grand attack will be staged in full tactical formation.

JOHN H. PACKER, well-known electrical engineer, of Liberty, Mo., who says that to look at him today no one would ever take him to be the same man he was before Tanlac restored his health. Has gained forty-four pounds.

"For two years previous to the time I began taking Tanlac, I lived principally on a raw-egg diet. During this time I was laid up in the hospital for five months and practically no hope was held out for my recovery. I don't suppose any man had a worse case of stomach trouble than I did; in fact, they said I could not live.

"Tanlac did not seem to help me much at first, and I had almost made up my mind to give it up, but if I had given it up it would have been the mistake of my life. I stuck to it for a fair test and am thankful that I did, for after finishing my fourth bottle, my appetite was better and I noticed myself improving.

"This encouraged me to keep on taking it and in two months I was able to eat a good square meal and digest it as good as anybody. Then it wasn't long until I got so I could go back to my work, and at the time I had finished my last bottle, I found I had actually gained forty-four pounds in weight.

"To look at me today no one would ever take me to be the same man I was when I began taking Tanlac."

The above remarkable statement was made recently by John H. Packer, well-known electrical engineer of Liberty, Missouri.

Tanlac is sold in London by Standard Drug, Limited, and by an established agency in every town.

SAGE TEA KEEPS YOUR HAIR DARK

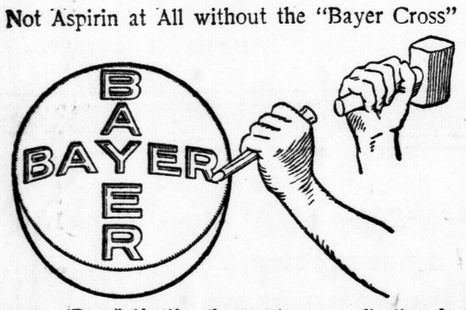

When Mixed With Sulphur It Brings Back Its Beautiful Lustre at Once.

Grey hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns grey and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred-fold.

Don't stay grey! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully, besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the grey hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored, and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.

LENROOT MAKES PLEA FOR IMMEDIATE ACTION ON DEEP WATERWAYS

Wisconsin Senator Tells Tidewater Congress That United States Should Move Within This Year—Hundreds of Canadians Attend Sessions At Detroit.

DETROIT, July 22.—The United States Congress should act within the coming year to provide a deep water route from the Atlantic to the Great Lakes as a means of developing the commerce and industry of the Middle West, Senator L. Lenroot of Wisconsin told the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Tidewater Congress here tonight. Hundreds of visitors from Canada are in attendance at the congress.

"When the project comes before Congress," Senator Lenroot declared, "congressmen who fail to support it need not expect help from the Middle West on projects that vitally affect their sections of the country. The time has come when the West must ask reciprocity on the part of the East. Development of the St. Lawrence River is more important to the prosperity of the United States as a whole than was the building of the Panama Canal. The West demands a route to the sea, and this demand is just and necessary to the future."

Indorsed Project.

Albert Krell, Cincinnati, president of the Central Inland Waterways Association, indorsed the project as in line with the purpose of his organization, which seeks to connect the navigable rivers of the United States with the Great Lakes by barge canals and thus provide a complete waterway system from the Gulf of Mexico to the Atlantic. Statistics intended to prove the feasibility of the proposed waterway were presented by R. C. MacIlwee, director of the United States Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce. He declared congestion at the port of New York would be largely overcome by such a waterway.

Avoid Breakdown.

Speaking before the congress late today John W. Thomas, Chicago banker, said thousands of businessmen in the United States did not know they were suffering from a breakdown in the transportation system, which adequate water routes would avert.

Thirty states are represented at the tidewater congress, which seeks to obtain necessary action by the United States Government and to have work on the improvement of the St. Lawrence route begun in 1921.

At tomorrow' sessions United States Senator Poindexter will present the views of the Pacific coast, while Major-General Lansing H. Beach, chief of engineers of the United States army, will lay statistics on transportation before the congress. J. W. Shorthill, Omaha, Neb., will speak for the farmers.

MICHIGAN SENATOR URGES MORE INTEREST

DETROIT, Mich., July 22. — (By Canadian Press.)—Senator Charles E. Townsend of Michigan was the chief speaker of the morning session and delivered a masterly address.

"Some years ago I had the hope which seemed to many at that time that I might be the one to strike the spark which would awaken the two great English-speaking nations to the importance of this question. I had the honor to receive the unanimous vote of the United States Congress to cooperate with Canada in thoroughly investigating all sides of the question. As a result, the international joint commission is now at work gathering evidence from all standpoints, to be presented to all those who are interested.

"Those who are interested should include every citizen of the United States and Canada. Many have not given sufficient thought to the matter, but interest has gradually been aroused, until today the ocean-going traffic to all parts of the world is a question of vital importance.

"The international joint commission is now working, and not much longer is the soul of progress and genius going to be compelled to possess itself in patience with modern conditions, with choked railway conditions, with the cost of transportation equalling 25 per cent of the value of the goods to be transported, with the shortage of coal and the generally bad conditions.

Demanding Water Routes.

"The people are now demanding that some use be made of the vast waterways on whose bosom might be rocking the products which are now going to waste for lack of transportation facilities. They are demanding the development of the power which would release 7,000,000 tons of coal annually, which is now needed to keep our industries running.

"If I possessed the resources of these two countries I would not wait one year, or one month, before I had engaged the brains capable of releasing the transportation possibilities of these great waterways and giving the people the comfort which comes from the greatest heating and power plant in the world.

"The only organized opposition to the project has come from New York, but even that opposition is rapidly changing to support. The people there are awakening to the fact that it is the Northeastern States which will be most benefitted by the development of our vast resources of power. It is said that transportation of hydro-electric power is not practical for distances over 350 miles, but such a radius takes in New York and all the New England States.

Unable To Run.

"Even after the war ended, the Government found itself unable to run the railways efficiently, and now that the railways are back in the hands of the railwaymen, who are concededly the most efficient men in the country, they cannot deliver the goods which are entrusted to their roads. Even with the St. Lawrence system developed, and with the railways all running at 100 per cent efficiency, we would still have inadequate transportation facilities.

"Transportation business has always come with the development of transportation facilities. The electric roads, built directly alongside the steam road, did not hurt the steam roads.

"Whether or not the development of the waterways will injure the steam roads is beside the question. The general welfare is the matter to be considered, and I do not believe that the railways are waging any organized resistance to the plan.

"It is easy to see the reason for the opposition from Montreal. They are looking to a larger Montreal, but I would not be sorry if we did not have to pay such a tribute to a remote eastern city in the way of extra transportation charges. Our two countries are not as much concerned in building up metropoli as in furnishing the necessities of life to the great bulk of the people as cheaply as possible.

Another Plea Made.

"Montreal's other plea is that the plan is not practical, but expert engineers of both the United States and Canada have told up that it is practical. But, even if we should find that the plan is a failure, and that the power development would not pay for the expense incurred, the cost of the project to both countries would be only a fraction of the money already expended by the United States on the New York harbor, which is closed by congestion occasionally quite as effectively as the frost could ever close up the St. Lawrence system.

"This proposition should be proceeded with without undue delay. Commerce demands it, industry needs the power which will be developed. These great lakes are the common property of two great nations, one in thought, one in heart, and one in ideals. If, at the present time, there is any jealousy between them, this scheme will be the means of wiping it out."

WEST DEMANDS IT, KEYNOTE OF ADDRESS

DETROIT, July 22.—(Canadian Press)—"The West demands it," was the keynote of a stirring address delivered to the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Tidewater Congress at the monster dinner in the Board of Commerce tonight by Senator Irvine L. Lenroot of Wisconsin.

"The objections made by men purporting to represent the State of New York are so puerile that they would be amusing if they did not involve so serious a matter.

"The fact is that the whole opposition from New York grows out of a narrow-minded provincialism unworthy of the great metropolis of America.

"Another of their objections is as weak. It is that, in case of war with England this deep waterway would admit her dreadnoughts into the Great Lakes, and that our cities upon the lakes could be easily destroyed by them. Fortunately for us this matter has already been investigated by the United States Government. I quote from the report by the board of engineers of the war department in 1918:

Completely Obstructed.

"Such passages could be quickly and completely obstructed by the destruction of the locks in these canals by shell fire, notably on Canadian St. Lawrence River canals, where all locks are within 7,000 feet of the United States main river shore and some not over a half mile therefrom.

"So, if there were the slightest foundation for the theory that this ocean waterway might admit the British navy into our lakes and thus become a menace to us in case we ever get into trouble with Great Britain, our own war department shows conclusively that every one of those locks and canals could be destroyed by shell fire from the American side without the slightest difficulty.

"But, aside from this, I wish to take this opportunity of saying, because it bears upon the question, that our course in any legislation should not be guided by any theory that the United States and Great Britain shall hereafter become involved in war between themselves. If we are to think such is a probability we may as well recognize at the very outset that civilization is gone and the world destroyed as far as we or our descendants shall have any interest in it whatever.

Not Valid Objection.

"New York has not offered one single valid objection to this project, and the whole ground of their opposition is that they wish the West to pay an unnecessary toll for the passage of all her commerce through New York and other Atlantic ports."

In an illustrated address bearing on the technical side of the question, R. S. Macelwee, director of the United States bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, Washington, showed by facts and figures that success for the project was foreordained.

"The ocean ships are willing to go 37 miles along the Manchester ship canal," he declared, "to reach the one city of Manchester, to and from which port they carry some 5,000,000 tons of cargo annually, but along our Great Lakes we have a dozen Manchesters. The Kiel Canal is 67 miles long, and it was not built to allow the ships to reach a port which would be otherwise inaccessible. It was built to cut off only about 400 miles on the trip."

With a series of slides he demonstrated the total inadequacy of the New York harbor and showed the audience how the harbors must be prepared to provide proper docking facilities for the ships which would come.

Albert Krell, president of the Central Inland Waterways Association and chairman of the Waterways Committee of the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce, also was a speaker.

Born of Waterways.

Stirring in the extreme was the address of welcome delivered by C. H. Campbell, president of the Detroit Board of Commerce, who acted as chairman of the morning session. He sketched the history of Detroit, showing that the city, in years past, had been born of waterways, and that its fate was inevitably linked up with the traffic over the Great Lakes waterways.

"We are not alone," he declared. "We are one of a host of units, cities, states and provinces in the countries whose territory lies within reach of the lakes waterways, and whose interests are indissolubly bound up with ours. What we desire for ourselves, we also desire for them. The prosperity which we now enjoy and hope in the future to enjoy in even greater measure is not and must not be for ourselves only. Unless our neighbors on both sides of the border share it to the full, it will be neither real nor lasting. Selfish interest alone might be considered by some sufficient to spur us to the greatest possible effort in urging on the development of our water communication, but the truest self-interest never overlooks neighborhood, and the wider the neighborhood the greater and more firmly fixed our real interests become. The benefits to accrue to the million people of Detroit can only be realized by granting the same benefits to the thirty or forty or fifty millions who inhabit all the territory which is directly or indirectly affected by your project. This is the spirit in which the people of Detroit enter into this conference, and welcome your presence here, and it is in that spirit, as we all know, that your deliberations will be conducted.

Caught Full Vision.

"There may be—indeed, there no doubt are, those who have not yet caught the full vision of your plans. As soon as the project of a lakes-to-ocean highway became the subject of serious consideration, the question of its effect on the great Atlantic seaports, and the existing lines of communication between the lake regions and those ports was inevitably raised, and from more than one quarter there has come the complaint that the effect of the proposed waterway would be an injurious competition with the established places of export, and to impair their prosperity by taking away from them an important part of their trade. That a genuine fear of such consequence has existed cannot be doubted, and that it cannot be ignored is equally indubitable. I know, however, that there is in this congress no doubt, no purpose, to injure any purpose of our land, to diminish in any way the prosperity or the importance of any of our great seaports or their communications."

SALVATION ARMY TO ASSIST PRODUCTION OF FOOD IN CEYLON

General Booth, At Toronto, Tells of Plans For Work.

TORONTO, July 22.—General Bramwell Booth of London, England, world commander of the Salvation Army, who has just concluded an extensive tour of New Zealand and Australia, stopped off in Toronto for three hours this afternoon on his way to New York, whence he will sail for England. The general intends to return to Canada next October and his brief visit here today was not in any sense official.

General Booth was accompanied by Commissioner David Lamb, international secretary; Commissioner Lawley, Commissioner Theodore Kitching, private secretary, and Adjutant Bernard Booth, the general's eldest son.

As a result of General Booth's tour in the Antipodes it has been decided to assist in the production of food in Ceylon, and arrangements have been made for the Salvation Army to take over a large tract of land for this purpose. In response to the general's appeals for Salvation Army missionaries between 200 and 300 officers have volunteered for duty in Japan, China, Ceyon, Java, India and South Africa.

This is General Booth's second visit to Canada, his first visit having been in 1913. When he comes back next fall he will hold meetings in Montreal, Toronto and Winnipeg.

BRITISH INFLICT MANY CASUALTIES ON ARABS

LONDON, July 22.—The war office announced this evening that the Indian garrison besieged at Romaeika, Mesopotamia, was relieved last Tuesday after a relief column of Monday had defeated an Arab force of 2,000. Many casualties were inflicted on the Arabs.

Winston Spencer Churchill, the British secretary of state for war, announced in the House of Commons today that large reinforcements had been ordered from India to Mesopotamia to cope with the Arab revolt there. Mr. Churchill added that the British garrison at Romaeika was holding out, and was being supplied by aircraft.

ACIDS IN STOMACH MAKE FOOD SOUR

CAUSE INDIGESTION

"Experience has taught me that most people who complain of stomach trouble and indigestion possess stomachs that are perfectly healthy and normal," says a well-known authority. The real trouble, which causes all the sourness, gas and pain, is excessive acid in the stomach. This acid irritates the delicate stomach lining, sours and ferments the food before the point of digestion is reached.

Artificial digestents are not needed in such cases. They give only temporary relief, do not correct the cause and often do great harm. A better plan, if you suffer after eating, is to drink a glass of hot Magnesia water made from a teaspoonful or four tablets of pure Bisurated Magnesia which can be obtained from any reliable druggist. This instantly neutralizes the acid, sweetens the stomach and your meal digests naturally without pain. Try this for a few weeks and see if your stomach does not feel one hundred per cent better.—Advt.

No one can blame the retailer for trying to "unload," if he has a lot of undesirable stock or a heavier stock than he should have.

He has to deal through middlemen, sell what someone else makes and take what he orders when it is ready. If his stock doesn't move he is up against it.

FARMER-LABOR GROUP AGREES ON NOMINATIONS

Parties Reach Understanding Regarding Placing Candidates.

Morrison Issues Statement About Method of Picking Candidates.

TORONTO, July 22.—An understanding between the United Farmers of Ontario and the Independent Labor Party on the question of putting candidates in the field was arrived at in this city on Monday at a joint conference, according to an official statement issued tonight by J. J. Morrison, secretary of the United Farmers of Ontario. The statement is embodied in a resolution that was passed at the meeting in question, and is as follows:

"Whereas agriculture and labor are by common economic and educational interests being drawn more and more closely together, and whereas by reason of legislation enacted in the Provincial Houses of Parliament and laws made at the Dominion House at Ottawa affecting their interests very closely, they have been led to unite their forces for political action, and whereas they aim at promoting the greatest degree of freedom in the choice of representatives consistent with effective effort, therefore it is desirable that in the selection of candidates in constituencies, which are urban and rural the delegates to make the selection be chosen from the two parties, and that the proportion of delegates sent by each be decided at a conference of the local executive within the riding."

ELECTRIC SERVICE RATES ADVANCED 34 PER CENT IN WINDSOR

Customers of S., W. and A. Company Power Plant Are Notified.

COST OF COAL CAUSE

Plant Now Under Control of Hydro-Electric Commission.

WINDSOR, July 22.—An advance in the power rates of 34 per cent to the 2,500 users subscribing for service from the Sandwich, Windsor and Amherstburg Railway Company plant recently acquired by the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission, coincident with the purchase of the street railway system, was announced today by Oliver M. Perry, general manager of the Windsor hydro-electric system. The increase, however, is only of a temporary nature and will remain in effect only until such time as the Chippewa Creek development of provincial commision is completed after which the consumers will be switched to the provincial hydro lines. Increased cost of coal from which the electrical energy is generated, is given as the reason for boosting the schedule of rates.

SASKATCHEWAN GETS MILLION-DOLLAR RAIN; CROP NOW ASSURED

REGINA, Sask., July 22.—Saskatchewan's "million-dollar rain" came today, and the crop throughout the province is now assured. From wide-flung parts of the province reports have been received of heavy rainfall, with consequent beneficial results to the crops. In many districts where the hot sun of the last two weeks was burning up the crops the situation has been eased by yesterday's downpour and yields running from feed up to 30 bushels are looked for.

TENDERS FOR NEW HOTEL AT WINDSOR SKY HIGH

WINDSOR, July 22.—"Sky high" like the New Prince Edward Hotel, were all the bids from contractors figuring on the work, which were opened at a meeting of local men interested in the project with the officials of the United Hotels Company from Toronto and New York today.

Tenders submitted and opened at today's session practically all exceeded the original estimates to a considerable degree, but although no contracts were let, as was intended, Frank A. Dudley, president of the United Hotels Company, declared this would be done next Monday.

George H. O'Neill, general manager of the Canadian interests of the company, said that after looking over the situation here he was convinced nothing was so badly required as a modern, well-equipped hotel, and that as soon as possible the construction work would commence, probably on August 1st.

The building, he said, would be erected originally with nine stories, 250 rooms, cafeteria, dining-room and assembly hall of sufficient size to accommodate 700 delegates to convention. The plans provide for an extension of three stories and 100 additional rooms as soon as required.

MILITARY HONORS.

WINDSOR, July 22.—Full military honors will be accorded the remains of Thomas Ford, first contingent veteran, whose mangled body was found this week on the Grand Trunk tracks between Windsor and Tecumseh, when the funeral is held from Walkerville to Windsor Grove Cemetery, Saturday afternoon. Deceased, who is a native of Scotland, had been in Canada but a few weeks when war broke out, and he enlisted immediately. Coroner Poisson of Tecumseh conducted an inquest tonight.

CLAIM TIME ALLOWANCE.

WINDSOR, July 22.—Admitting guilt to two charges of selling liquor, 128 cases in one instance and 60 in the other, Fred Rocheleau and Dennis Rocheleau, through their counsel, in Windsor police court today claimed immunity from conviction because of the sale having been made over three months ago. This circumstances, they claim, under statutes, places them within the law.

LITTLE LOUDER, PLEASE

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., July 22.—Experts from the Marconi Wireless Company who are here conducting experiments in long distance telephonic communication announced today that yesterday they heard messages from the Cheimsford station near London, more than 2,000 miles distant.

They said that they recognized the voice of Captain Round, the expert in charge and identified several words, but failed to pick up any connected sentence.

SHEEP-RAISING.

Sheep raising is perhaps the oldest of all industries, for it was practiced even before agriculture. Wool is a product of cultivation or domestication, for there are no wild animals which closely resemble the wool-bearing sheep. Floyd W. Parsons, in the Saturday Evening Post, says that with the discovery that cloth could be made from wool came an effort to improve the fleece by selection and breeding. The early Romans were most successful in this pursuit, and their endeavors along this line resulted in developing a fleece of great fineness. After the conquest of the Iberian Peninsula, Roman sheep were introduced into Spain, where they so greatly improved the native flocks that even during Roman supremacy Spanish wool led the world's markets, a prestige held for many centuries.

CANADA TO SPEND FIVE MILLIONS UNDER FEDERAL ROAD GRANT

Three Millions From Dominion Treasury For Highway Improvement.

[Special To The Advertiser.]

OTTAWA, July 22.—During the first year in which the federal highway scheme is in force five millions will be expended on road improvements throughout the Dominion. Three millions will be contributed from the federal treasury and two million by the provinces.

While the Dominion Government undertakes to spend a maximum of $20,000,000, the demand for grants has not been heavy so far because this is the first year of operation, and the provinces have not yet had an opportunity to prepare their plans.

No Longer May Girls Clad In Scant Attire Dance Gaily Behind Footlights In France

Paris, July 17.—Nudity on the French stage never will be permitted again. This fact has been adduced in the senate when M. de Lamarzelle interpolated M. Steeg, minister of the interior, and M. Lhopiteau, guardian of the seats, on questions of public decency.

M. de Lamarzelle was supported by Senator du Morbihan and by Hugues le Roux, personal friend of Col. House and President Wilson. They demanded the stage be cleansed of suggestive lines and costumes, theatrical billposters censored, movie films regulated and "peep shows" inspected by the police.

When M. de Lamarzelle thundered forth that French prestige suffered seriously from the pornographic displays at certain theatres and music halls, and that tourists would leave France with lowered opinion of the French people because of what they had seen in amusement places, he was greeted with rounds of applause.

"France has not been saved from disaster in the great war to be delivered up to the minority of pornography purveyors that you stigmatize," shouted Hugues le Roux, and another burst of cheers greeted that remark.

Certain French managers have been becoming more and more licentious in their productions, said M. de Lamarzelle. He called attention to the suggestive titles of plays, such as "The Bedroom of the Ingenues," produced recently at the notorious Concert Mayol, and the new revue there entitled "The Convent of Caresses."

"Love Gone Mad," at the Folies Bergere, and other titles were mentioned as too suggestive by the senator.

He also scored the bill posters displayed by certain theatres. Most of these posters represent scantily-clad women, some of them in daring postures, and bear slangy, suggestive phrases.

Then M. de Lamarzelle attacked some of the scenes now being presented in Paris theatres. He said certain managers were following a systematic scheme in reducing the costumes of actresses more and more with each new production.

Finally he demanded:

"Are we going to permit the nude again on the French stage?"

The senators replied with a volley of "Noes" from all sides, and effectively settled that point.

UNION HEADS DECIDE TO ACCEPT BOARD'S AWARD UNDER PROTEST

Executive Conference of All Sixteen Unions Except Telegraphers Announces Decision — Railways Announce Estimated Increase in Rates.

CHICAGO, July 22.—Acceptance under protest of the United States Railway Labor Board's wage award was decided upon at an executive conference here tonight by all of the sixteen recognized unions except one, it was announced following the meeting by Timothy Shea, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen.

The one exception was the Order of Railway Telegraphers, which referred the proposition to its membership, together with a strike proposal.

ADRIANOPLE IS REPORTED ON FIRE

Constantinople, July 22.—Aeroplanes which flew over Adrianople today reported that the city was burning.

LATE LOCAL ITEMS

NO SETTLEMENT.—Up to this afternoon no sign of a settlement of the hodcarriers' strike was in sight, although negotiations are still being attempted by the local industrial council. The strikers are anxious for an arbitration, but the contractors so far have declined advances. The strikers, while ready to consider a compromise, have so far managed to maintain practically unbroken ranks. "We came out in a body and we will go back in a body," keynote expression of a speaker, concurred in by all at one of their recent meetings.

WILL INVESTIGATE.—Observance of the city bylaw which requires the payment of union rates of wages on all work done by the city will be taken up by Chairman E. R. Dennis of the housing commission, with several contractors whom the building trades council allege have been breaking the bylaw. In a letter to the commission they stated that some of the men employed by the contractors were working nine hours a day and were not being paid overtime, as required in union wage scales. Mr. Dennis was authorized by the commission to investigate the matter.

ISSUES EXECUTION.—Arthur E. Morley, who was awarded $800 damages against Albert Lewis in the county court here last March for alienation of his wife's affections today through G. N. Weekes, his solicitor, issued an execution against Lewis for the above amount. When the decision was announced last March defendant gave notice of appeal, but never submitted any evidence on the case. The judge has given an order to plaintiff permitting him to proceed for judgment with the resultant execution. C. W. Scandrett acted for Lewis and both parties are Londoners.

MYSTERY OF LOST BRITISH BATTALION IS SOLVED AT LAST

Skeletons of Members of Fifth Norfolks Are Found.

FOUGHT TO LAST

Charged Into Dense Forest in Gallipoli and Never Returned.

London, July 23.—One of the mysteries of the war, the fate of part of a battalion of an English territorial regiment, the Fifth Norfolks, in the fighting at Suvla Bay, Gallipoli, has at last been solved. Sir Ian Hamilton, in his dispatch on the fighting round Anafarta on August 12, 1915, referred to the fate of the battalion as a very mysterious thing. On the night of the attack they found themselves less strenuously opposed than the rest of the brigade, and under Col. Sir H. Beauchamp, the men eagerly pressed forward. Some were wounded or exhausted and found their way back to camp.

"But the colonel with 16 officers and 250 men," continued Hamilton's dispatch, "still kept pushing on, driving the enemy before them. Amongst these ardent souls was part of a fine company enlisted from the King's Sandringham estates. Nothing more was ever seen or heard of any of them. They charged into the forest and were lost to sight and sound. Not one of them ever came back."

The forest into which the battalion gallantly charged was never retaken by British troops. A few men who fell into the hands of the Turks, it was afterwards found, had fallen out of the attack earlier and not a man of Colonel Beauchamp's force was made prisoner.

Rev. C. S. Edwards has just returned from a visit to the peninsula on graves registration work. He says that on going over Anafarta plain he found the skeletons of the men of the 4th and 5th Norfolks, the 5th Suffolks and the 4th Hampshires over a mile in front of what was afterwards the first line trench. Apparently the battalions had advanced in perfect order, and to all appearances had been caught by machine-gun fire. One man had taken cover behind a stone, and a large pile of empty cartridge cases round his skeleton showed he had defended himself to the last. Just behind the Norfolk front line Mr. Edwards came across the remains of about fifty men, who had fallen in a grim hand-to-hand struggle. Touching each other lay the bodies of Britons and Turks, the heads of the latter facing seawards and those of the attackers towards their adversaries' lines.

VICE-CHAIRMAN OF RAILWAY BOARD HERE

A. P. Ingram, vice-chairman of the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board, was in the city for a short time today in connection with routine street railway business. No further information was given out concerning the past month's operation by the board, it being stated again that it would not be made public until the meeting of No. 1 committee of the council next Wednesday.

One slight change has been put in effect. Normal cars now stop on Wortley road at the junction of that street with Elmwood avenue. They formerly stopped after they made the turn. This resulted in several collisions with automobiles coming from the south, which were not expecting the sudden stop made by the cars.

The possibility of a skip stop system on Richmond street, because of the short distance between the streets, has been discussed, but no action has been decided yet.

Sergt. Prudhomme to Compete in Olympic Boxing Contests.

Sergt. Arthur Prudholme of the Princess Patricia Regiment stationed here, middle and light heavyweight champion of Canada, leaves London tonight for Antwerp, where he will participate in Olympic boxing contests. This afternoon he was presented with a check for $100 on behalf of the sergeants' mess of his regiment, while the officers also presented him with $100. Many of his soldier friends will gather at the station tonight to wish him good luck on his mission to Belgium.

OPERATOR OF STILL PAY $500 FINES EASILY

Still With Capacity of Three Gallons Found by Police.

WINDSOR, July 22.—In spite of the flood of liquor with which the border has been deluged, some few men are attempting to emulate the example of Hiram Walker but on a smaller and illegal scale. Robert Bell and D. Girardin were convicted in Windsor police court today on the complaint of County Constable Peters of Chatham of operating an illicit still with a three-gallon capacity. They were fined $500 and costs each with the alternative of spending nine months in the Burwash reformatory.

Business had apparently been good, for they paid readily. The still exhibited in court consisted of a large sized copper tank in which the "mash" was boiled, and big coils of copper pipe.

Sudden Attack of Diphtheria Causes The Death of Child

Toronto, July 23.—Screams of her 15-year-old daughter Dorothy attracted the attention of Mrs. Fred Kirkman, and rushing upstairs the mother snatched the girl from a bed, where she was lying, just as the child expired, choked to death. A doctor who was immediately summoned pronounced death due to diphtheria. The only symptoms of the disease had appeared this morning when the girl had complained of a sore throat.

WILLIAM K. VANDERBILT DIES IN FRENCH CAPITAL

Paris, July 22.—Wm. K. Vanderbilt, the American financier, died here today of heart trouble and complications. Mr. Vanderbilt, who was an ardent racing enthusiast and sportsman, became suddenly ill while attending the races at Auteuil on April 15.

CHARLES RAY IN NEW PICTURES.

Some months ago Rob Wagner, famous movie writer for the Saturday Evening Post, submitted a story to Charles Ray. The star was enthusiastic over it and commissioned Mr. Wagner to prepare it for the screen. Added to that was an order for another story. The first, named "Smudge," has been purchased by one of the leading national magazines. The second will also appear as a story when it is produced. Joseph de Grasse will direct both.

KAISER FIGHTS FOR HIS RICHES

Hohenzollerns in Struggle With Reichstag; William Great Landlord.

BERLIN, July 22. — The Hohenzollerns are fighting the Reichstag for possession of all property they have acquired on top of all their private estates.

Documents in the possession of members of the Socialist party show that Wilhelm, while he was on the throne, was a financier. Among the ventures which helped him to amass his colossal fortune was the cornering of all the apartment houses in the best quarters of Berlin.

Tipped the Sultan.

So successful was he as a landlord that he "gave the tip" to Sultan Abdul Hamid, who, following his lead, became the owner of the property in Pera and also in Salonica, where are the whole of the chief residential quarters of wealthy Europeans.

Not only was the Kaiser one of the chief shareholders in the Hamburg-American Line, but he was also interested in most of the ventures of Herr Ballin, the merchant prince of Hamburg. His revenue from the Krupp armament works at Essen must have been stupendous, and Berliners are demanding to know what has been done with the money.

It is alleged that the Kaiser invested enormously in America through his confidential agents, and had huge holdings in the same way in Canada.

What has aggravated opinion against him is that, while he was known to have a fortune of at least £10,000,000, and second only to that of the Romanoff family, he was living extravagantly at the expense of the state, maintaining at least 100 well-known castles scattered around his dominions. These were seldom visited, but in each was a retinue prepared to minister to his wants if he should visit the neighborhood.

Upkeep Expensive.

The accounts for the upkeep of these and other unnecessary palaces are said to be proving a shock to those who are investigating the state papers.

For all his splendor, the documents also intensify the feeling of the people against the kaiser for his notorious personal meanness.

An illustration of this trait was the fact that the guests chambers of his palaces were ill-equipped with modern comforts.

On one occasion, when King Leopold of the Belgians was to review the regiment of which he was colonel-in-chief, an iron bath was stuck in an ante-room next his bedroom, and, on the advice of the kaiser, an ordinary lamp was placed beneath one end to heat the water.

When the Belgian monarch leaped out of bed and jumped into the bath it was so hot that his shrieks rang through the corridors.

Ultimately, wrapped in a blanket, the colonel-in-chief, instead of riding at the head of his regiment, reviewed it from a window in the corridor.

COX TO DISCUSS LEAGUE, AND NOT LIQUOR ISSUE

Leaves Booze For Fight For Congress Seats.

DAYTON, Ohio, July 22.—The league of nations issue, not the question of "rigid" or "liberal" enforcement of the eighteenth amendment, and the Volstead act, will occupy the foreground in the appeals of Gov. James M. Cox, Democratic nominee for president, to the people during the national campaign.

Gov. Cox has made this perfectly clear to friends who have discussed the subject with him since his nomination. The silence of both the Democratic and Republican national platforms upon the question of prohibition enforcement and the definite and divergent stand on the league covenant issue in those two documents, Gov. Cox regards as ample justification for the course he intends to pursue.

New Liquor Law Up to Congress.

"In regard to the platform adopted at San Francisco as a promissory note given by the Democratic party to the American people," said Gov. Cox, "I will make my fight, and shape my administration, if elected, in full and unreserved recognition of that fact. The people of Ohio, I believe, know that what I have contended for and tried to do as governor of this state will be an index of what I would contend for and try to do in another sphere of public responsibility."

Gov. Cox regards the congressional elections this fall as the proper forum through which to carry the fight for a liberalization of the Volstead act, in line with the traditional Democratic doctrine of sovereign state rights, to the people.

Cox's Reservations.

Gov. Cox in his forthcoming visit to the White House, will urge President Wilson to back him in two proposed reservations to the League of Nations covenant.

The first provides that the United States enter the League of Nations with the distinct understanding of all other members that the American Congress alone shall say when this country shall enter a war. The second is definite stipulation that all members of the league agree that its main and virtually sole purpose shall be the prevention of wars.

Cox has been giving the issue careful consideration the last few weeks, and expects to make a statement outlining his views after the conferences with the president and other leading Democrats.

Considers It a "Compromise."

Those close to the nominee say he believes his reservations will meet the opposition of those opposing the present wording of the league covenant, but not impair the "integrity" of the Versailles pact. They point out his views are a compromise between those who stand pat for the treaty as it is and those who oppose the league, but claim they favor an effective international tribunal to end wars.

Cox said today that he believes he and the president will have little difficulty in reaching an agreement.

The first reservation of Cox, his close friends say, covers the long dispute over Article X. His views leave all questions as to whether the United States shall by force protect the political integrity of other nations up to congress.

No reply has been sent yet by Cox to the demand of Richmond P. Hobson and the Anti-Saloon League for a declaration against modifying the Volstead law, but the governor received this telegram from Rhodes Browne, Columbus, Ga.:

"Take my advice and tell Hobson to go to h——"

GIRL COURTED BY 'PHONE CHANGES MIND AT ALTAR

Deadwood, S. D., July 21.—Two telephone operators fell in love with their voices over the wire. The young man worked here for the Nebraska Telephone Company, the young woman at Crawford, Neb.

After many days of attending to official business, the young man attended to some of his own, courted his lady fair, wooed and won her.

It was arranged for her to come to Deadwood for the wedding ceremony.

Neither had ever seen the other, but that was a mere detail. However, at a meeting, that detail proved the rock that wrecked their plans, for the young lady went home, a trifle downcast, on the next train, unwed.

BRYAN TO 'AID' COX AS HE DID PARKER

Commoner's Offer To Help Nominee 'As He Did Parker' Causes No Cheering.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—William J. Bryan, extra dry, will support James M. Cox, Democratic nominee for the presidency, the same way he supported Alton B. Parker in 1904.

This word was received here today. Mr. Cox, with his presumably wet leanings, and his followers do not know just how to accept this promise of support or just what it means. When Bryan gave his "support" to Parker the latter carried virtually nothing outside the solid South.

The Bryan pronouncement is regarded here as nothing more than a prelude to dry propaganda as a portion of the campaign of the Democratic party. Cox on his record thus far is looked upon generally as being tolerant of a more liberal interpretation of the Volstead law than has been the case since the law became effective.

When it suits the purpose of Bryan and the Anti-Saloon League, lately his employer, to make their dry demands for an out and out proposition Cox will be in a tighter box than he is right now. The Hobson telegram and Bryan's intolerance of anything but the absolute declaration against alcohol are counted upon here to force the Democratic nominee to a positive stand touching this issue.

It is realized that the question of alcoholic beverages cannot be dodged altogether in this campaign. Cox is supposed to be in such a strategic position that he can satisfy both wets and drys that he represents them. The Hobson demand that he put himself squarely on record is expected to embarrass him to a great extent. Democratic leaders here regard it as particularly unfortunate that Cox should have this vital question put under his nose for decision thus early in the campaign.

Only in the Democratic party does there exist the hard and fast line of cleavage between wets and drys. The greatest danger of a split there on this question is evident. Coupled with the apparent differences between the Administration and the Cox camp on campaign questions, it will prove a surprise if between now and November there is not a serious and, from a Democratic standpoint, ominous parting of the ways.

BRISK DEMAND FOR OATS AT $3.80 TO $3.90 PER HUNDRED

Saturday's Market Expected To Be the Largest of the Season.

Wet weather kept most farmers at home today, and there was a very small attendance at the market. Oats were in demand. Prices were easier, sales being made at $3.80 to $3.90 per cwt., and $1.29 to $1.32 per bushel.

Eight loads of new hay were offered at from $27 to $28 per ton. No more old hay is expected this year.

Cherries brought from $1.50 to $1.65 per 11-quart basket. Large quantities are expected on Saturday.

No other change in the prices of fruits and vegetables were made. The market on Saturday is expected to be the largest fruit and vegetable market this year. Officials say that the rain of today should make vegetables very plentiful.

Butter and eggs are in good demand and prices are unchanged.

Live hogs, fat sows and dressed hogs are scarce and in good demand.

No changes in the prices of hides were recorded.

GRAIN.

Chicago, July 23.—Opening: Corn—September, $1 53⅝; December, $1 39.

Oats—September, 77⅛c; December, 75⅞c.

Winnipeg, July 23.—October oats opened ¼c to ½c lower at 90¾@90½c, and December ½c to ⅝c lower at 84½@84⅜c.

Chicago, July 23.—Unfavorable weather in the Northwest States gave an upward tendency today to the wheat market. Opening prices, which varied from unchanged figures to ½c higher, with December at $2 59 and March at $2 63½, were followed by a moderate general advance.

Corn developed strength, owing to continued buying on the part of a big elevator company that has of late been conspicuous as a purchaser. After opening ⅝c off to ½c advance, with September at $1 53⅝@1 54¼, fluctuated nervously, but scored substantial gains.

Oats went up with corn. The market opened unchanged to ½c lower; September, 77⅛@77¼c, sagged a little more, and then rose well above yesterday's finish.

TORONTO STOCK EXCHANGE.

Toronto, July 23.—Pulp and paper stocks sprang into prominence again on the exchange this morning, several advances being recorded. With the exception of Brazilian, the other issues on the list were traded in very little, and price changes were mainly fractional.

Spanish River preferred was bid upwards rapidly after the opening, at 128½. It reached 134½ when a wave of profit-taking brought about a recession to 133¼. The common stock advanced a large fraction. Riordon apparently is being tightly held, and in a few sales this morning registered a 6-point gain from last night's close at 209. Brompton and Abitibi recovered the losses sustained in the past few days.

Over 500 shares of Brazilian were traded in between 42½ and 41¾, with the close at 42. Among the investment issues, Bank of Hamilton was very strong, 15 shares selling for 180, a gain of several points after the recent decline, in which the stock sold for 173.

WALL STREET.

New York, July 23—Wall Street, 10:30 a.m.—Despite the optimistic view of the leaders of industry, prices were again very mixed at the opening of today's stock market. On the constructive side the feature was Houston Oil, in which a 2-point initial advance was soon extended almost to 5 points. Other oils were steady to firm, excepting Royal Dutch, which declined 2 points. Rails hardened slightly, but the general run of industrial specialties, including sugars, textiles, rubbers and leathers, continued reactionary, losses ranging from large fractions to 1 point. Foreign exchange rates on London, Paris and Berlin, was extremely weak, reflecting latest developments in Central Europe.

1:30 p.m.—Representative stocks canceled most of their gains at midday, when the shorts exerted further pressure against leather, motor and steel issues. Extreme declines of 1 to 3½ points were made by Hide and Leather preferred, Central Leather, Endicott-Johnston, Studebaker, Pierce-Arrow, Chandler, Crucible and Baldwin.

EARLY MORNING BLAZE DRIVES INMATES FROM FARM HOUSE IN SCANT ATTIRE

Home of Alex. McLean, Plympton, Totally Destroyed—Only Piano Saved.

Camlachie, July 22.—The home of Alex. McLean, 10th Line, Plympton, was completely destroyed by fire at an early hour this morning. When the neighbors were aroused by a general telephone call, and able to reach the scene of the fire, it had made such progress that nothing could be saved except the piano. The family all made their escape in scanty apparel, and saving nothing but what they actually had on. The cause of the fire is unknown. There is little insurance, so the loss will be very heavy, as the house was a splendid brick structure.

Fattening Mash

Separate the young cockerels from the pullets and they both will do better. Feed the cockerels and old hens you intend to market Morgan's Fattening Mash and watch them increase in weight. The price is $4.50 per 100 pounds.

Lay Food

After the young pullets are four or five months old change their feed from Growing Mash to Lay Food and start them laying while the old hens are molting. This is the system to always have fresh eggs. The price of Lay is $4.00 Phone us; we deliver.

LONDON TO LOSE MANY CHURCHES

Storm of Protests Evoked by Proposal To Raze Historic Old Edifices.

[BY MAYNARD EVANS].

LONDON, July 21.—"Sir, let us walk down Fleet street and inspect the sacred edifices which a vandal and irreligious generation proposes to devote to destruction."

Thus Dr. Johnson might have spoken had he been alive today.

For the bishop of London's commission, of which Lord Hugh Cecil is the leading member, has recommended that 19 of the 47 churches in that world-famous square mile known as "the City," should be torn down. And London is filled with a deep and somewhat helpless grief.

London Heavy With History.

It is a poignant spectacle, this spectacle, of London grieving for its doomed churches. For London, to a degree which no American can understand is heavy with history. London is not a mere world capital. It is not a mere metropolis, with taxis and traffic policemen.

London is a body of tradition, formed by the slow accretions of centuries. Memories of the eleventh, the twelfth, the thirteenth centuries, ennoble its stones. It is a body of custom, in which the fourteenth century intrudes its kindly sights and sounds upon the harsher, swifter, noisier customs of an age of underground railways. If there were no city of 7,000,000 people in this low-lying Thames valley, there would still be the hovering traditions which make up the real London, to make holy these fog-ridden lowlands.

Of all the monuments about which its ancient memories cluster, London's churches are the most sacred. And of all the churches in the metropolitan area, the city churches are most vocal in their memories of the past. For the city is the oldest section of London. In the raw towns of the American west, the city would be known as the "Old Town."

London's Financial Section.

The city is London's financial section. It is to London what Lower Manhattan is to the metroplis of New York. That's tangled maze of crooked, crowded streets which converge where the Bank of England, the Royal Exchange, and the Mansion House meet, is to London what the corner of Wall and Broad streets is to New York. Lombard street is to London what Wall street is to New York.

There was a time when the city was peopled by fat tradesmen who lived upstairs over their shops, who slept in the pitch and pine tar odors of their ships' chandlery businesses, their sugar, rum, cotton and timber stores. But those days are long past. Land is too valuable today for anybody to reside in the city. The world leaders of finance who operate in the city today live miles away. You would as soon expect to find J. P. Morgan living upstairs over the banking house of J. P. Morgan & Co., in Wall street, as to find Mr. Lloyd—if there is such a person today—living upstairs over Lloyd's Register of Shipping in Fenchurch street, Threadneedle street, Cheapside, Poultry, Throgmorton street, Leadenhall street, King William street, Liverpool street—these are all exclusively office streets today. These are boiling maelstroms of traffic today—except between Saturday noon and Monday morning, when they are as empty as Wall street on a winter Sunday. Nobody lives in the city today, except the janitors who take care of the office buildings.

The result is that the city churches which were filled every Sunday a mere century ago, are now empty. Two, three, four or five persons today attend Sunday services in each of them, where formerly 200, 300 or 400 attended. Today you could assemble the Sunday audiences of all 47 of them into any one of them, and then have room for an extra hundred or so.

Sites Extremely Valuable.

Their usefulness as churches is gone. The most powerful financial groups in the world (always excepting the new prestige which the war has brought to New York), are willing to pay fabulous prices for the sites they occupy. For land in the city commands higher prices than land anywhere else in the world (always excepting the lower end of Manhattan Island). The Bishop of London's commission has estimated that $7,000,000 can be obtained for the sites of the nineteen churches which it has doomed. And the Church of England is poor.

The commission has gone farther and laid down the lines on which the church might completely reorganize its city work to suit modern conditions. It proposes the division of the city into four quarters, to be named after Bishops Gate, Aldersgate, Black Friars and the Tower, in each of which one church building is to be set aside for the holding of the usual week-day and Sunday services.

Of the 28 churches which it proposes to leave out of the city's 47, it would have certain week-day services held in 14 other churches beside the four to be made into parish churches. It would use the remaining 10 of the 28 churches for specific ecclesiastical purposes. In other words, it would carry on the church's work in the city at a total cost of $80,000, enabling the church to divert $120,000 of the $200,000 which the present 47 city benefices realize, to poorer and needier parts of the metropolitan area.

NEW CHICAGO BRIDGE.

Ten thousand tons of steel, Chicago's new boulevard link bridge, settled into place recently, and for the ninth time in 117 years north and south Chicago were connected by a direct lake front route. The north pier of the new bridge rests almost on the spot where John Kinzie moored his canoe beneath a willow tree. Three hundred feet away, across the river, the south pier rises from the place where the other terminus of Kinzie's first river link was located beneath the log stockade of Fort Dearborn.

The records of the Chicago Historical Society picture eight previous river links on the same site. John Kinzie's birch bark canoe, plying between his home, then the only habitation north of the river, and Fort Dearborn, was the first. The fort was established in 1803 by Thomas Jefferson to protect the new frontier of the Northwest Territory. A few years later the early settlers and soldiers at the fort established a rope ferry. A flat-bottomed scow attached to a rope running from bank to bank was drawn across the river by hand. Later a floating bridge, hinged to the bank, was installed, but in 1852 while being drawn in to permit a ship to pass it swamped and several persons were drowned. The settlers returned to the rope ferry, which functioned well for four years. September 18, 1856, 30 persons were crossing the river in the scow when a ship sailed up and fouled the ferry line. Fifteen of the 30 were drowned.

TO GET WORLD'S BUYERS TOGETHER.

Some Parisians are designing to have the greatest trade building in the world in their city. The proposed structure will have a greater floor space than any other building of the character, and it is hoped to get under this roof the leading representatives of every line of trade in the world, and to get the largest buyers to congregate here on certain occasions.

"HUMORESQUE," A NEW ONE.

The only criticism, if it can be called such, of "Humoresque," the big picture of New York East Side life, which has been one of the greatest hits of the year, is that it has a happy ending. Frank Borzage, who directed the picture, answers this by making a frank admission that the filmed story was given a pleasant denouement as a concession to popular demand. Ninety per cent of all audiences will have nothing else, he declares.
