The Francophobes Again.

The Ottawa Citizen, which has been fanning the embers of race prejudice since the Dundonald episode, resurrects the old bogey of French domination, which we thought had been buried by the saner counsels of the Conservative party. It warns the people of Quebec that they are inviting a day of reckoning by continuing to vote for Laurier and the Liberal Government. The "solidity of their allegiance" is imputed to the Government with "an insolence of office" that "grates upon the people of the other provinces," irrespective of political leanings. The Citizen professes to tender this advice in a friendly spirit, but it shows the cloven hoof when it says the use of the word "foreigner" by Sir Wilfrid Laurier has "nearly rung the knell of Quebec domination in this country."

Mischief-maker of this kind entitles Quebec to say that she has taught Ontario a lesson in toleration. She has given the Dominion a statesman who has done more than any Canadian, living or dead, to promote national unity; and yet there are those in Ontario who are striving constantly to undo his work. We do not hear this race cry in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Manitoba, or any of the other English-speaking provinces and territories. They send to Parliament a majority in support of a French-Canadian Premier. Ontario alone is the stamping-ground of the breed of politicians who appeal to the basest sentiments of the electorate by maligning Jean Baptiste. He was a brother-Canadian and a good fellow so long as he lined up behind Sir John Macdonald, but as a follower of Laurier he is represented as cherishing Napoleonic designs against British liberties in this country.

A solid phalanx of Liberals from Quebec was a fortunate thing for this country in 1896, when it was rent by discussions of creed, now happily composed. The cry of French domination was raised after that campaign by the men who had angled for a solid French vote. In the election of 1900 they clothed Mr. Tarte with the properties of this ogre and succeeded in bamboozling a portion of the electorate. It was expected that Mr. Borden's leadership had put an end to this mischief. Probably it would be unfair to hold him responsible for the conduct of the Francophobes in the Ontario wing of his party, but he ought to rid himself of the suspicion of being willing to profit by foul means. This heaping of calumny upon Quebec is not the way to break up the solid Liberal contingent, since the French-Canadian will be apt, and with good cause, to identify the enemies of his race with the members of the Conservative party, a most deplorable condition of affairs for which the responsibility would not rest upon the Liberals.

The Liberals can defy their opponents to point to a single administrative act which supports the charge of Quebec domination. According to the Quebec leader of the Conservative party, Mr. Monk, Sir Wilfrid Laurier has been guilty of depressing French-Canadian influence in his Cabinet. Quebec, says Mr. Monk, has received less than justice from the hands of the Premier in his anxiety to placate the English-speaking provinces. Sir Wilfrid is continually exposed to this rear fire from a section of the Quebec Blues, who denounce him as an enemy of his race and religion. His record is one that makes a fervent appeal to the generous and tolerant instincts of the people of Ontario. No Canadian statesman has fought a harder and harder fight against intolerance. The manner in which his compatriots rallied to him in his final and decisive combat is a rebuke to those in Ontario who would stir up against him the lowest dregs of prejudice and set race against race.

The Interswitching Arrangement.

Mr. Hyman has done a good stroke of business for the city by his successful exercise of moral suasion on the Grand Trunk Railway Company in the matter of interswitching. The other roads have perhaps more to gain by the arrangement than the Grand Trunk. The latter handles the greater part of the freight traffic and many factories and distributing houses have grown up around its tracks, which were laid many years before a competitor entered the field. The Grand Trunk, however, has put the interests of the city above its own in this case and has consented to forego some of its advantages. It has not only agreed to the exchange of freight cars with other roads, but has arranged for the interswitching at its own expense by purchasing the necessary strip of land to connect its tracks with those of the C. P. R. Its outlay for this purpose has been about $12,000, so that it has earned the right to control the switching operations.

The interswitching service will be a great benefit to many of the large shippers, who load cars at their doors. In addition, it will make the city a more desirable center of industry, by enabling it to take the fullest advantage of its unrivaled transportation facilities. London is connected with four railway systems. The C. P. R., the G. T. R., the M. C. R., and the Pere Marquette, for shipping purposes, and is practically a lake port through its ownership of the Port Stanley line. An interswitching arrangement into the city roads and with a lake harbor, will be a strong card in the hand of the industrialists.

Making Mischief.

The outcry of the militarists in this country is having an unwelcome effect in the United States. The following from the Washington Post is a sample of the comment they are inviting in the American press:

"We have no hope that our cousins will stop making themselves unhappy and ridiculous with silly talk of malicious designs on our part toward them until manifest destiny gets in its work. They ought to know that we desire perpetual peace; that we have no aims inimical to their territorial integrity, and that they cannot prosper to such an extent as to excite our envy, no matter how fast they push ahead. And they ought to know that it is nonsense for them to prepare for resisting invasion from the United States. But they do not."

Canadians are being exposed to ridicule and misrepresentation of this kind because of the clamor of a few alarmists who take their tune from Lord Dundonald. The Toronto News, among others, published, a panicky article, designed to convey the impression that American troops were being concentrated at strategic points along the border in consequence with a plan for the invasion of Canada. This is the sort of thing the jingoes across the line will seize upon to stir up bad blood. It is very fortunate for the friendship of the two countries that Lord Dundonald's sensational report was not given to the public, and that prudent counsels at Ottawa interposed between him and his ostentatious military schemes. So far, we have managed to considerably improve the defensive strength of the country without making a noise and arousing the suspicions of our neighbors, but the militarists are doing their best, or worst, to frustrate this policy.

Bryan also has discovered that it is much easier to become a hero than to remain one in the United States.

The flaunt our military plans in the face of the United States is like going duck-hunting with a brass band.

Alberta is suffering from dry weather. It is a pity it cannot swap with this Province.

Hurrah for Scholes! Toronto has turned out all the great Canadian cransmen, and there will be no disposition to cry hogwash.

Marshall Oyama has left Tokio for the seat of war, but he has not given out that he will sign the treaty of peace at St. Petersburg.

British immigrants to Canada in the year ending June 30, numbered 59,915, or 9,000 more than in the previous twelve months. It's a case where Canada's gain is not Britain's loss.

A grim diplomatic joke is the Sultan's promise to give earnest consideration to the British note, addressed to all the powers, protesting against Belgian atrocities in the Congo.

The temper of the British House of Commons must be fierce indeed, when it refuses the Premier a hearing. The camel's back must be almost broken under the load of the present Government.

"School's Out!"

[W. D. Nesbitt.]
"School is out; now go and play."
There is an untold sum
On the blackboard. Who could stay
On the happy news had come?
What will deeper pleasure give
Than to see the open door?
Shows where a half-written word
Ended, when the teacher said:
All the joy in what he heard.
"School is out!"—when we have turned Page by page the book we live,
With our lessons still unlearned,
What will deeper pleasure give
Than to see the open door?
"Close the book and fret no more!"
School is out; now go and play?

Pointed Paragraphs.

[Chicago News.]
Many a woman's ill health is due to her imagination.
If the bride has seven gowns the honeymoon is sure to last a week.
If a man is sensitive he should keep his nose out of other people's business.
When an American heiress is looking for a title she does her shopping in Europe.
Many a candidate who runs for office discovers that his opponent has a walk-over.

Remember the Stamp.

[Washington Star.]
"You say he has a visionary and impractical nature?"
"Yes," answered the girl who is employed in the postoffice. "He is one of those people who write 'Rush' on an envelope instead of putting on a special delivery stamp."

Reminder of Wall Street.

[Yonkers Statesman.]
Mrs. Banker—Oh, come out to the barnyard, William, and see the farmer watering his stock!
Mr. Banker—No, I'll stay here in the country to forget business.

London's Odd Delicacies.

[Philadelphia Public Ledger.]
London, like New York, is cosmopolitan, but it is doubtful whether in any city in the world there is such a market for peculiar foreign delicacies. Of course, they have mangoes from the West Indies, custard apples from Madeira, beans from France and other beautiful fruits from all over the world, but turn to another shop. Here are kangaroo tails for a new departure in soup hanging in the butcher's windows as naturally as a leg of lamb. Snails, too, are very pleasing to London palates, and still more remarkable, the Chinese taste for bird's nest soup is gaining headway in England. Then, too, there is an interesting display of Indian delicacies, like the "curries," Borneo fish, and the Burmese condiment called Balchunga, which is made from shrimps. There is the rice of the Malay archipelago.

breast and eels to tempt the epicure. There is the famous soy from Japan, most popular of the sauces, and cumquets, which are small sweet oranges preserved by the Chinese.

Memory's Lane.

[Agnes Lockhart Hughes, in Boston Transcript.]
I know a lane, where the briar rose Leaves over the old stone wall,
And the scented leaves from an apple tree
Like tinted sea shells fall.
There's a rustic, too, 'twixt the winding lane
And the meadow with blossoms white;
Blossoms of daisies spilled by the moon
From her silver boat one night,
Here comforters open their blue eyes wide,
And poppies flit with the sun;
While all of the grasses are glittering with gems
That fairies from dewdrops have spun.
Ah, yes! there's a brook—'t'ripples and smiles,
Past bushes where the blue gentian peeps;
But the song that it sings to the violet,
I've not.
She sleeps in her little heart keeps.
Oh, this is the lane that memory paints,
Where love's fairest blossom grew.
For down by the stile I met a maid
With eyes like the dewdrops of blue,
Her cheeks were flushed with the pink of the rose.
Her hair was the poppy's red,
And sunbeams were playing at hide and seek
'Midst the curls on her golden head.
Lightly she tripped through the meadow sweet,
And softly the breeze kissed her brow;
Then she laughed—and her laugh was the song of the brook.
'Tis Methinks I can hear it now.
But alas! for the passing of summer dreams,
We met and we parted for aye;
Now I walk alone—here in memory's lane—
While she sails on the world's highway.

A Coal Proposition.

[Exchange.]
The first railway in Iceland probably will be begun soon by an English company recently formed for the purpose of working the sulphur mines at Thesistarkyri in the north of Ireland. The mines are about seventeen miles from Huavik, the nearest harbor, to which the proposed railway will run.

Lessons.

[Philadelphia Bulletin.]
"Teach me to love!"—thus sang the dove Before their wedding day.
"Dear, show me how to keep my vow,
To hold my heart away."

But when they wed, her song, 'tis said,
A new direction took.
Her dirge now is "Teach me how To keep a lady cool."

The Touch of Human Nature.

[Chicago Journal.]
Judge (to old offender)—Have you anything to say?
"Only this, your honor. It comforts me to know that one wise man on the bench can undo the mischief of the wrought by twelve idiots in the jury-box."

No Use for Them There.

[Chicago Tribune.]
"Where are your good manners, sir?" demanded the austere woman, who was clinging to the strap.
"Left 'em at home, ma'am," said the hardened villain in the seat.
"Hain't got nothin' with me but jest the ordinary street car manners."

A Tribute to Canada.

[New York Tribune.]
Canada's wheat crop this year promises to exceed that of 1903 by about 20,000,000 bushels. The increase, and with no abatement likely in succeeding years, it is easy to be seen what a formidable wheat-producing and exporting country the great Canadian Northwest has become, and is becoming. It could now, if need be, feed the mother country all by itself, leaving the United States out of the question, though it is not likely to be drawn on to that extent. But the territory which is the source of the greatest grain-producing regions in the whole story of the world, old or new, and it will have its share in determining the course of the future of the world.
Since the education committee of the London County Council started the correspondence plan between the London schools and distant parts of the empire, 1,330 children have been communicating with Canada, Australia, South Africa.

The Check Rein.

[Goldwin Smith, in the Farmers' Sun.]
There was a fine show of horses, especially of draughts, and of harness, on Dominion Day. Unhappily there was also a considerable show of check-reins. When will this barbaric device disappear? Check-reins, or at least, are given for its continuance.
It is alleged that in racing the checkrein throws a horse into the right attitude and helps his breath. For an horse is not a racer, and to all horses the check-rein is a torture. The idea that the horse should be stumbling from stumbling by having our faces tied to our backs and being prevented from reaching where we are treading. The real reason is a falsehood of appearance. The same one, hogging the mane and poll and tail, for which also some sycophants reason. The horse should be given, but which seems now to be happily going out. It is a pity that the horse cannot hold a man-show and give prizes to the men for their riding.
ment to their beasts. It would be as good for the men as for the horses. A horse kindly treated lasts longer and is worth a good deal more. The promoters of the show and the drivers deserve public thanks, as does the Humane Society, for its encouragement of humane and intelligent management of the horse, a docile creature too often made imbecile, as well as miserable, by man.

COMPLETE TREATMENT

For Torturing, Disfiguring Humours,
From Pimples to Scrofula,
From Infancy to Age.

The agonizing itching and burning of the skin, as in eczema; the frightful scaling, as in psoriasis; the loss of hair and crusting of the scalp, as in scalled head; the facial disfigurement, as in pimples and ringworm; the awful suffering of infants, and anxiety of wor-nout parents, as in milk crust, tetter and salt rheum—all demand a remedy of almost superhuman virtues to successfully cope with them. That Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Pills are such standards proven beyond all doubt. No statement is made regarding them that is not justified by the strongest evidence. The purity and sweetness, the power to afford immediate relief, the certainty of speedy and permanent cure, the absolute safety and great economy have made them the standard skin cures and humour remedies of the civilized world.

Complete treatment for every humour, consisting of Cuticura Soap to cleanse the skin, Cuticura Ointment to heal the skin, and Cuticura Resolvent Pills to cool and cleanse the blood may now be often sufficient to cure the most torturing, disfiguring, itching, burning and scaly humours, eczemas, rashes and indolent sores from infancy to age, when all else fails.

The authorities of both countries regard the situation as very serious.

READ RIOT ACT TO SYDNEY MOB

Arrival of the Halifax Troops Has Good Effect.

NO FURTHER TROUBLE EXPECTED

Employees Going to Work Turned Back Until Outsiders Arrived—What Men Say.

Sydney, N. S., July 6.—The special train carrying the Sixty-third Rifle, 100 local men, and the Sixty-sixth Fusiliers, also 100 strong, under command of Lieut.-Col. Irving, arrived from Halifax at 10:30 o'clock this morning. The men were taken to different hotels, where luncheon was served them, after which they marched to the plant of the Dominion Iron and Steel Company. Here Stipendiary Magistrate Mossey read the riot act, and the various entrances dispersed good-naturedly. There was no trouble nor any inclination on the part of the rioters to make any disturbance, a handful alone being present at each gate.

Major Crowe, who has been in command of the troops since they were called out on Monday, gave over the command of the entire force on the plant to Lieut.-Col. Irving. Lieut. Col. Curran has charge of the ordnance department of the D. O. C.

The total strength of militiamen now on duty is 200, there being 100 local men. Until the hour of the arrival of the Halifax contingent the strikers continued their interference with employees several being turned back. It was noticed that in several instances men who insisted on going through were permitted to take the law in their own hands; that while they might have a right to try and persuade a man from going they had no right to assault a man.

The men say that so far as they are concerned the presence of military men is a matter of indifference, but that they will remain out just the same.

Hundreds of people crowded the station to witness the arrival of the Halifax militia. The military will now likely perform the streets, so as to insure perfect order. The strikers gave three cheers, first for the Sixty-third and then for the Sixty-sixth. The militiamen probably expected to find a gang of hoodlums, armed with clubs and sticks and other weapons, but instead they found a number of peaceable citizens, giving vent to their feelings by shouting hearty cheers for the soldier lads.

MILLIA BEIEGIED.
Cape Breton militia are now practically besieged in the steel works, and the strikers prevented provisions and water being taken for them today.

As a result tug boats had to be employed to convey the necessary supplies to the steel workers' piers.

A Big Parade.
In connection with the strike there took place last night one of the biggest local demonstrations ever seen in this province, when some 1,500 men, many of them armed with clubs and sticks, marched through the streets and held a mass meeting. On the platform were Grand Secretary, Mr. J. W. A. W. Chase, Fraser, Grand Treasurer, Nicholson, and officers of the grand council and lodge officers. The parade was a success, and the men were well pleased with the result.

Gregory, of the marine department, received the following telegram from the telegraph operator in connection with the accident: "Grindstone, West Magdalen Islands.—During the night the German steamer Elizabeth, loaded with deals, from Miramichi to Ireland, came ashore on Etang Dunord sand bar. She is making no water; will probably get off if weather permits."

PRESTON AND DUNDONALD

Former's Letter On Ex-G. O. C. To Be Investigated by Gov't.

Ottawa, July 6.—The question of preferential tariffs being confined to goods imported via Canadian ports was up in the House for discussion this morning. Mr. Borden inquired if legislation was to be introduced on the subject. In reply Sir William Mulock said the question would be considered by the Government, and answered some questions.

Quiet at Sydney.
Sydney, C. B., July 7.—Everything is quiet this morning. The strikers offered no resistance to those who wished to enter the gates of the steel works, but they refused to let them go. It is reported that the strikers will not return to work until they are paid for two days longer, when the strike is not settled, the former will give in.

Train Hosts a Man.
New York, July 7.—The Merchants' Express, bound from Boston to New York, struck a man in Mount Vernon last night and hurled him into the air. The train was stopped and some of the crew ran back to the supposed dead man, but did not find him.

Several persons who witnessed the accident said that the man was thrown straight upward and landed on the engine. He struck first, fell on his back, and then on his head. He was not injured, and was taken to the hospital.

CAUGHT IN THE ACT

British Ship Cheltenham Carrying Railway Supplies For Japanese.

London, July 7.—The Times insurance correspondent says that the Vladivostok squadron on its latest raid made a genuine capture of a British steamer carrying contraband from Otaru to Fusan. The news was conveyed in the following grimly humorous private telegram:

"Vladivostok, July 5.—Cheltenham arrived yesterday."

There is hardly any disputing the legitimacy of the capture. The Cheltenham was taking railway sleepers to Korea, material which has been declared contraband. This capture is the first heavy loss suffered in the marine insurance market here in respect to war risk insurance. The Cheltenham was insured against risks of capture for £40,000, at a premium of £1 per cent for six months from March last. A considerable sum was insured on freight. Although the loss amounts to nearly £20,000. The other British steamer which was in danger from the Vladivostok was the Nagasaki on July 4.

Train in the Ditch

Ottawa, July 7.—The C. P. R. mix-train, which left Ottawa at 7:20 yesterday morning, was ditched by a half mile above Kazabazua yesterday afternoon. By some unknown cause the engine and the first two loaded cars, by the force of the jolting, left the track. Fortunately, no one was hurt, the engineer and fireman being able to get the train down without incident. The amount of the damage will not be known until the engine is lifted from its mud bed.

SPLENDID FIGHT BY JAP OUTPOST

Fought Off Heavy Attack Until Relief Force Appeared.

BATTLE IN PASS HAND-TO-HAND

Russian Cavalry and Artillery Defeat and Pursue the Enemy at Ta Tche Kiao.

Tokio, July 6, 11 a.m.—Supplemental dispatches indicate that the fight at Mo Tien Lien Pass, on July 4, was a desperate hand-to-hand affair. A majority of the Japanese injured were wounded by bayonets. The Russians surrounded the outposts of the Japanese, who fought until relief came. The Russians left 53 dead and 40 wounded. The Japanese left 19 killed and 38 wounded. It is believed that the Russians sustained greater losses during the pursuit than in action.

General Kuroki's headquarters in the field, via Fusan, July 6.—On July 4, two battalions of Russians attempted to break through the Japanese outposts at the northern entrance of Mo Tien Pass. Before daylight they surrounded an outpost of 40 men at the foot of a hill, and charged the trench above. A bloody encounter with bayonets, lasting a quarter of an hour, ensued. The Russians attacked the trench three times, but were driven up the hill by Japanese reinforcements, leaving many dead and wounded. An observer saw 50 lying in front of the trench.

Kuroki's Report

London, July 7.—The Tokyo correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, in a dispatch dated July 6, gives General Kuroki's textual account of the fight near Mo Tien Pass already reported in the Associated Press dispatches. General Kuroki's account is as follows: "At 4 o'clock on the morning of July 4, a few Russians approached near our pickets posted one and a half miles northwest of Mo Tien Pass. They were followed immediately by one company which attacked. Then from the northern heights the enemy brought down another company, thus surrounding us."

The picket commander dispatched his main force towards the southern hill, retaining only a small force. The enemy were fiercely engaged in a close encounter with the enemy, and forced a passage through the Russian line, while our outpost, which had been the first alarmed, attacked the enemy's flank. A desperate bayonet fight ensued, which resulted in the capture of the enemy's main force. The enemy was immediately repulsed. Our total casualties were 19 killed and 38 wounded. The enemy's casualties were 19 killed and 40 wounded. The enemy was still greater loss while being pursued."

St. Petersburg, July 6.—The Petrovsky Liako published a dispatch from Liao Yang, July 6, that an engagement had occurred at Ta Tche Kiao, during which Russian cavalry, under General Shermansoff, supported by a battery of horse artillery, destroyed a Japanese force from the heights in face of a heavy machine gun fire. The Russians, it is added, pursued the Japanese, and inflicted heavy loss upon them.

Remarkable Heroism Exhibited at Tenement Fire in Boston.

Boston, July 7.—A dozen children were rescued from a burning North end tenement house by Patrolman John Hanrahan and John Cronin, a resident of the vicinity. When all the children had been taken out Cronin started to go up to the third story to rescue a cripple, John Ciccolo, by name, but the police would not let him on account of the danger. Ciccolo jumped from a window to escape the flames, and received injuries which, it is said, will probably cause his death. Two babies, thrown from the windows by their parents, were caught safely by policemen.

PASSING OF "CART WHEELS"

The American Silver Dollar Will Soon Have Disappeared.

Washington, July 7.—A statement attributed to the director of the mint, George T. Roberts, to the effect that "there will never be any more silver dollar coined in this country," has caused unusual interest in the financial world, and the interview sent out from the mint has been widely quoted in financial circles. The director of the mint is in Alaska, but inquiry among his associates here shows that he is rather skeptical as to his having made such a sweeping statement. One of the officials said:

"It is undoubtedly a fact that the supply of silver bullion that was purchased under the Sherman law is exhausted, and there is no present prospect of any more new silver dollars being turned out by the Government. Indeed, this possibility would seem to depend only on the election of a 16 to 1 congress. Altogether the bullion purchased under the Sherman law amounted to 188,000,000 ounces, or $220,000,000 of this all has been used up except 90,000,000 ounces of bullion, which is being held for subsidiary coinage."

In this connection the belief is expressed in financial circles that at the day of the silver dollar is gone. At the present rate at which the old coins are being called in the original supply of silver "cart wheels" is expected to be rapidly diminished, and a silver dollar will become a rarity; in fact, it has already reached that point in business transactions in Alaska, and other cities of the east. Whether Congress will see fit to renew the supply before all silver dollars disappear is, of course, a matter of which the mint officials are unable to speak.

The depth of water is nearly sixty fathoms, and the report says that no discomfort is experienced by the bell crew. The management of the company express confidence in their ability to recover all the valuables that went down with the ship, and say they may possibly raise her. The weather is favorable to salvage operations. The wreck lies a quarter of a mile off the southeastern end of Douglas Island, not far from the famous Treadwell mines.
