The village waterworks system lost two hydraulic pumping engines in the big flood two weeks ago. The machines were carried down the stream and a diligent search failed to reveal their whereabouts. Two new engines had to be purchased from the manufacturers in New York and they arrived on Tuesday and will be installed at once, so that the system will soon be in good shape again.

Mrs. Chas. Widmeyer, wife of the reeve of Neustadt, passed away on Monday morning. She had been ill with influenza, and during the flood, when the westerly section of the village was threatened with destruction, she contracted more cold, which finally caused her death. Deceased was about fifty-three years of age, and was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Adam Weltz of Carrick. Her husband and one son survive her. The funeral takes place on Wednesday afternoon at Neustadt.

A section of the 10th concession of Culross, opposite Michael Rettinger's farm, presents a very peculiar appearance. The water rushed across the road at this point washing out holes ten feet deep, but leaving a lot of small sections of the roadway standing like sentinels viewing the havoc.

The Carrick Council has been unable to find any method of letting off the large body of water that has accumulated on the 6th concession. It is now estimated that the water standing on the roadway is about five feet deep, and it is getting higher each week.

The recent flood did a great deal more damage than was at first reported and among those who will suffer a heavy financial loss is Mr. John Mittleholz, proprietor of the Saugeen Valley Mills at Otter Creek. The mill pond is badly damaged, and it will require the expenditure of a good many hundred dollars to make complete repairs.

This comedy of youth replete with wit and humor, which was ably staged by the members of the Formosa Dramatic Club, and had such popular demand for reproduction will be played at St. Mary's Hall, Formosa, on Friday, April 19th, at 8.15 p. m. Admission 25c. The play is one of those delightfully refreshing comedies in which the romance of youth and adventure are given an added impetus of sly humor of the type which poor Irish girl living in New York, who is made an heiress by the death of her uncle, and is called to England to be reared by an aristocratic aunt, Chichestre. She finds it difficult to acquaint herself with the surroundings, but finally by her roughish ways wins her way into the heart of a worthy Englishman named Jerry, also winning the audience, making it a night of joy and laughter.

Now that the waters of the Saugeen River have receded almost back to normal a check up of the damage done by the flood at Walkerton reveals the fact that the losses are even greater and more numerous than at first thought. The damage at the power dam of the Walkerton Electric Light and Power Company has been found to be extensive and of a serious nature. During the high water a break in the retaining wall occurred and, with this beginning, the main dam was soon undermined and a large section of it collapsed. Engineer W. H. Grove states that it will require at least two months to make the necessary repairs and the expenditure entailed will be in excess of $15,000. In the meantime Walkerton, Mildmay, Formosa, Port Elgin, Southampton and several villages along the transmission line are being supplied with electric light and power from the Diesel engine which was recently installed by the Foshay Company at Southampton. If this huge generating engine had not been installed these places would be in darkness, as the dam is in such a condition that no power can be developed.

Mrs. Christina Schwehr, who has been making her home with her son, Joseph H. Schwehr, on the 7th concession of Carrick, passed away on Monday evening. She had reached the age of 87 years, and her death was due to her advanced age. Mrs. Schwehr was born in Wellington County, on February 8, 1842. After her marriage to Herman Schwehr, she lived on a farm near Elmira for about thirteen years. Forty-seven years ago she and her husband came to Carrick, settling on the farm now owned by her son, Jos. H. Schwehr. Her husband died six years later, and Mrs. Schwehr and her sons remained on the farm until 1902, when she retired to Formosa. Her health failing two years ago, she went to live with her son on the old homestead. Deceased was a woman who made many friends by her pleasant disposition, was a fine Christian character, and ceased was deeply devoted to her family. She is survived by six sons and three daughters:—Fred and Leo of Southampton, N. D., Joseph H. of Carrick, Robert of Feirtwood, N. D., William of Valley City, N. D., Edward of Bellfield, N. D., Minnie (Mrs. J. J. Klopper) of Bellfield, N. D., and sisters M. Paladia and M. Winnifred of St. Joseph's Convent, Toronto. Three children predeceased her. The funeral will take place on Thursday morning of this week to the Formosa R. C. Cemetery.

Registry Fees Increased: Fees for registration of deeds, discharges of mortgages and several other documents have been increased recently. The recording fee for deeds has been increased from $2 to $2.50, and discharges of mortgages would have been increased from $1.00 to $1.50. This increase has been accepted with better grace if the Ontario Legislature had abolished the Land Transfer Tax which is both unfair and burdensome.

Trouble in Locating Gravel: Paul Bergman & Co., after erecting their boarding houses on Henry Hossfeld's farm on the 10th concession, are a little dubious over the possibility of obtaining an adequate supply of gravel at that location, out a number of other gravel pits along the highway, and it is possible that the contractors may move their headquarters to another location before commencing work on the road.

Well Finished Cattle: Louis Schefter delivered twenty-one head of exceptionally choice cattle on Tuesday to Stanley Darling. The bunch averaged over 1200 lbs., and their splendid appearance was an evidence that the seller has few superiors in this section as a successful feeder. The profit from feeding these cattle was not very high this year, but they were finished so well that they commanded the very top current prices.

The marriage of Mr. George Illerbrunn, of the Waterloo Fire Dept., of the late Mr. and Mrs. B. Illerbrunn of Deemerton, to Miss Mary Schneider, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Peter Schneider of Deemerton, took place on Monday morning, April 15th, at St. Mary's Church, Kitchener, at 7 o'clock. The bride was attended by her cousin, Miss Mary Stroeder of Kitchener, while the groom was attended by his nephew, Martin B. Fox of Guelph. Rev. Father Hiesperger performed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Illerbrunn left on the early train for a honeymoon trip to the groom's farm at Mayor, Sask., where they will remain for three months. Upon their return Mr. Illerbrunn will resume his duties with the Waterloo Fire Dept. and they will reside in Waterloo. The young couple's many friends here extend best wishes.

Literary Meeting Thursday Night: The program for Thursday evening's literary meeting to be held in the town hall, will be an exceptionally interesting one. The Society has been successful in rounding up a galaxy of talent for this concluding session of the season. The debate on the subject "Resolved that the world is a better place to live in to-day than it was fifty years ago," promises to be keenly contested. The affirmative will be taken by Dr. Weiler and Miss M. Bennlager, and the negative by Mr. Ira McIntosh and Miss Mary Kieffer. The remainder of the program will be comprised of vocal and instrumental numbers, orchestra selections, readings, monologues, etc. Let every person come out and attend this session. Admission 10c for adults and 5c for children. Good seating accommodation.

Chas. H. Pletsch has made arrangements to move to Toronto this week, having leased a house on Penn-broke street in that city. He will continue his agency for stocks and bonds, and will operate largely in this territory.

Mrs. Nicholas Kreitz is offering her fine property on Absalom Street, Mildmay for sale. There are two acres of land, 1 1/2 story brick veneer house, good stable and garden. An ideal home for a retired farmer, and the price is reasonable. Apply to Mrs. Kreitz or at this office.

Mr. W. G. Helwig has negotiated a transaction for the sale of his fine residence on Elora street to Mr. F. W. Schwalm of Hamilton. This is one of the most desirable homes in Mildmay, and Mr. Schwalm is to be congratulated upon securing it. The purchaser will move to Mildmay about the first of August. Mr. Helwig, we understand, will reside in the rooms over his store.

We learn that Mr. E. Witter is formulating definite plans for rebuilding his mill dam at the upper end of the town. It is estimated that the total cost of the repairs will exceed $5000, so Mr. Witter's loss will be seen to be very heavy. The roadway across the front of the dam is owned by the village, but the municipality is liable only for the maintenance of the travelled surface of the roadway.

"Cayley asked us to bring a letter along," Bill explained to Angela Norbury. "Here you are."

"You will tell him, won't you, how dreadfully sorry I am about—about what has happened? It seems so hopeless to say anything; so hopeless even to believe it. If it is true that we've heard."

Bill repeated the outline of the events of yesterday.

"Yes. . . And Mr. Ablett hasn't been found yet?"

"No."

She shook her head in distress. "It still seems to have happened to somebody else; somebody we didn't know at all." Then, with a sudden grave smile which included both of them, "But you must come and have some tea."

"It's awfully recent of you," said Bill awkwardly, "but we—"

"You will, won't you?" she said to Antony.

"Thank you very much."

Mrs. Norbury was delighted to see them, as she always was to see any man in her house who came up to the necessary standard of eligibility. When her life work was completed, and summed up in those beautiful words: "A marriage has been arranged, and will shortly take place, between Angela, daughter of the late John Norbury . . ." then she would utter a grateful Nunc dimittis and depart in peace—to a better world, if Heaven insisted, but preferably to her new son-in-law's more dignified establishment.

But it was not as "eligibles" that the visitors from the Red House were received with such eagerness today.

YOU CAN'T DYE with Good Intentions

You can get results—after a fashion—with any old dye; but to do work you are proud of takes real anilines. That's why we put them in Diamond Dyes. They contain from three to five times more than other dyes on the market! Cost more to make? Surely. But you get them for the same price as other dyes.

Next time you want to dye, try them. See how easy it is to use them. Then compare the results. Note the absence of that re-dyed look; of streaking or spotting. See that they take none of the life out of the cloth. Observe how the colors keep their brilliance through wear and washing. Your dealer will refund your money if you don't agree Diamond Dyes are better dyes.

The white package of Diamond Dyes is the original "all-purpose" dye for any and every kind of material. It will dye or tint silk, wool, cotton, linen, rayon or any mixture of materials. The blue package is a special dye, for silk or wool only. With it you can dye your valuable articles of silk or wool with results equal to the finest professional work. Remember this when you buy. The blue package dyes silk or wool only. The white package will dye every kind of goods, including silk and wool. Your dealer has both packages.

Antony explained that he had not seen Mr. Ablett.

"Of course, yes, I was forgetting. But, believe me, Mr. Gillingham, you can trust a woman's intuition in these matters."

Antony said that he was sure of this.

"Think of my feelings as a mother?"

Antony was thinking of Miss Norbury's feelings as a daughter, and wondering if she guessed that her affairs were now being discussed with a stranger. Mark engaged, or about to be engaged! Had that any bearing on the events of yesterday? What, for instance, would Mrs. Norbury have thought of brother Robert, that family skeleton? Was this another reason for wanting brother Robert out of the way?

"I never liked him, never!"

"Never liked—?" said Antony, bewildered.

"That cousin of his—Mr. Cayley." "How did Miss Norbury get on with him?" Antony asked cautiously.

"There was nothing in that at all," said Miss Norbury's mother emphatically. "Nothing. I would say so to anybody."

"Oh, I beg your pardon. I never meant—"

"Nothing. I can say that for dear Angela with perfect confidence. Whether he had advanced—?" She broke off with a shrug of her plump shoulders.

Antony waited eagerly.

"Naturally they met. Possibly he might have—I don't know. But my duty as a mother was clear, Mr. Gillingham."

Mr. Gillingham made an encouraging noise.

"I told him quite frankly that—how shall I put it?—that he was trespassing. Tactfully, of course. But frankly."

"You mean," said Antony, trying to speak calmly, "that you told him that

"Think of my feelings as a mother."

—Mr. Ablett and your daughter—?"

Mrs. Norbury nodded several times. "Exactly, Mr. Gillingham. I had my duty as a mother."

"There must have been a certain awkwardness about the next meeting," suggested Antony.

"Naturally, he has not been here since. No doubt, they would have been bound to meet up at the Red House sooner or later."

"Oh, this was only quite lately?"

"Last week, Mr. Gillingham. I spoke just in time."

"Ah!" said Antony, under his breath. He had been waiting for it. He would have liked now to have gone away, so that he might have thought over the new situation by himself. But Mrs. Norbury was still talking.

"Girls are so foolish, Mr. Gillingham," she was saying. "It is fortunate that they have mothers to guide them. It was so obvious to me from the beginning that dear Mr. Ablett was just the husband for my little girl. You never knew him?"

Antony said again that he had not seen Mr. Ablett.

"Such a gentleman. So nice-looking in his artistic way. A regular Velasquez—I should say Van Dyck. Angela would have it that she could never marry a man with a beard. As if that mattered, when—?" She broke off, and Antony finished her sentence for her.

"The Red House is certainly charming," he said.

"Charming. Quite charming."

She gave a deep sigh. Antony was about to snatch the opportunity of leaving, when Mrs. Norbury began again.

"And then there's this scapegrace brother of his. He was perfectly frank with me, Mr. Gillingham. He told me of his brother, and I told him that I was quite certain it would make no difference to my daughter's feelings for him. . . After all, the brother was in Australia."

"When was this? Yesterday?" Antony felt that, if Mark had only mentioned it after his brother's announcement of a personal call at the Red House, this perfect frankness had a good deal of wisdom behind it.

"It couldn't have been yesterday, Mr. Gillingham. Yesterday—" she shrugged, and shook her head.

"I thought, perhaps he had been down here in the morning."

"Oh, no! There is such a thing, Mr. Gillingham, as being too devoted a lover. Not in the morning, I. We both agreed that dear Angela—Oh, no. No; the day before yesterday, when he happened to drop in about tea-time."

It occurred to Antony that Mrs. Norbury had come a long way from her opening statement that Mark and Miss Norbury were practically engaged. She was now admitting that dear Angela had not to be rushed, that dear Angela had, indeed, no heart for the match at all.

"The day before yesterday. As it happened, dear Angela was out. Not that it mattered. He was driving to Middleton. He hardly had time for a cup of tea, so that even if she had been in—"

Antony nodded absently. This was something new. Why did Mark go to Middleton the day before yesterday? But, after all, why shouldn't he? A hundred reasons unconnected with the death of Robert might have taken him there.

He got up to go. He wanted to be alone—alone, at least, with Bill. Mrs. Norbury had given him many things to think over, but the great outstanding fact which had emerged was this: that Cayley had reason to hate Mark. Mrs. Norbury had given him that reason. To hate? Well, to be jealous, anyhow. But that was enough.

"You see," he said to Bill, as they walked back, "you know that Cayley is perishing himself and risking himself over this business, and that must be for one of two reasons. Either to save Mark or to endanger him. That is to say, he is either whole-heartedly for him or whole-heartedly against him. Well, now we know that he is against him, don't we?"

They had come to the gate into the last field which divided them from the road.

"Jolly little place, isn't it?" said Bill.

"Very. But rather mysterious. Isn't there a drive, or a road or anything?"

"Oh, there's a cart-track, but motor-cars can't come any nearer than the road"—he turned round and pointed—"up there. So the week-end millionaire people don't take it. At least, they'd have to build a road and a garage and all the rest of it, if they did."

"I see," said Antony carelessly, and they turned round and continued their walk up the road. But later on he remembered this casual conversation at the gate, and saw the importance of it.

What was it which Cayley was going to hide in that pond that night? Antony thought that he knew now. It was Mark's body.

Ceylon Taking Steps to Stop Child Slavery

Government Introduces Measure to Prevent the Cruelty Existing at Present

Colombo, Ceylon.—H. E. Newnham, Mayor of Colombo, addressing the annual general meeting of the Friend-in-Need Society on Tuesday, referred to the "ghastly cases of cruelty to children in Ceylon and the system of trafficking in children, amounting to slavery," and added that undoubtedly some of these little slaves were well treated but world-wide public opinion had definitely refused to tolerate anything in the nature of slavery. He cited the abolition of a similar system in Hong Kong a few years ago as the result of public agitation, and "it is time that the remnants of such a system in Ceylon should be abolished by the force of the public conscience."

Mr. Newnham described 13 cases of the grossest cruelty to child-servants in the Ceylon courts last year. The average age of the victims was eight years. He emphasized the slender chances there were of detecting cases of cruelty. The Mayor then gratified his audience by saying that the Colonial Secretary had authorized him to state that the Ceylon Government was taking immediate action in the matter. A bill has already been drafted to regulate the employment of children as domestic servants.

The Mayor concluded by saying: "The country should not rest until it has removed the reproach at present darkening the social system."

The Ceylon Daily News points out that no provision exists for the education of these children. L. Machae, Director of Education, has added a clause to the revised education code withholding grants in whole or in part from schools providing differential treatment for the children of the depressed classes.

How Gloria Swanson, the famous cinema star, recently scored over the big guns of the moving picture industry at Hollywood makes an amusing story. Dressing herself up in old-fashioned clothes, and wearing a wig of grey hair over her own glorious locks she went the round of the studios begging for work as a super. Marvellous to relate, she was turned down everywhere, and some of the men to whom she applied so far forgot their good manners as to make game of her. But the laugh was on her side in the end, for the whole business was a carefully thought-out publicity stunt. Next day the American newspapers were telling their amused readers how Hollywood's film-casting directors had unwittingly refused a super's job—at a super's wage—to one of the highest-paid film actresses in the world.

King's Birthday Plans Announced

Prince of Wales to Take Salute at Trooping of Colors

London.—The official celebration of the King's birthday will take place this year on His Majesty's birthday, June 3. The principal celebration in London will be the time-honored trooping of the colors on the Horse Guards Parade, where the Prince of Wales will take the salute, it being unlikely that His Majesty can be present himself. The birthday honors list will be published the same day.

It seems certain that no arrangements have even been discussed yet for a national thanksgiving for His Majesty's recovery, though gossip has been busy on the subject. The King is not yet officially pronounced convalescent. St. Paul's Cathedral is mentioned as the place where the principal celebration might be held; with Their Majesties in attendance. The cathedral, however, is still in the hands of restorers and less than half of the structure is in use.

If the King's complete recovery is announced early in the summer it might be possible to have an open-air service on the steps of St. Paul's, similar to the great event marking the diamond jubilee of Queen Victoria.

Fitzmaurice to Try Refueling on Atlantic

New York.—Col. James C. Fitzmaurice, co-pilot of the transatlantic airplane Bremen, has just announced a scheme for a new transatlantic airplane flight in which aerial refueling will be attempted. Colonel Fitzmaurice came here to act as technical adviser for a new airport which is to be built on Long Island. The arrangements for the transatlantic flight he said, are not definitely completed, but he expects that it will be made between Potsdam, Germany, and New York.

Coeducation Held 'National Calamity'

British Schoolmasters Oppose Women Teachers for Boy's Classes

London.—Feminizing of boys in the mixed departments of British elementary schools constitutes "nothing short of a national calamity" according to a resolution passed unanimously by the National Association of Schoolmasters at its concluding conference at Leicester.

The association declared that the appointment of a head mistress meant ultimately a wholly feminine staff and resolved "fully to sustain any member who, on advice of the instruction executive, refused to serve under a head mistress consequent upon the reorganization of the elementary school."

Another resolution was passed urging that it is no tin the best interests of education that women teachers should be employed at boys' schools, or that women students should be trained in schools for boys. These resolutions followed a debate in which it was argued that the smallness of remuneration offered to teachers was responsible for the fact that members fitted for this vocation adopted other occupations.

The association, which passed these resolutions, is one formed after the war, when some thousand of masters broke away from the National Union of Teachers on the issue of equal pay for men and women.

'Big Navy' Propaganda

Canada's Right To Speak at Geneva

The Status of Britain's Dominions Made Clear

One fact which has been made clear by the recent session of the League of Nations at Geneva is that Canada and every British Dominion has a definite and independent function in that body. Despite the conditions under which this country entered the League and the World Court there still remains in the minds of some European statesmen the erroneous idea that Great Britain is the spokesman for the whole Empire.

Several episodes during the last session brought this subject to the fore and in such a way as to make the position of the Dominions abundantly clear. One of these had reference to the World Court when exception was taken by several European delegates to a British Dominion being separately represented even if the question dealt with was of paramount importance to that Dominion.

Such a contention is absolutely contrary to the whole basis of Dominion inclusion in the League and the World Court and the British delegate, Sir Cecil Hurst, replied very forcibly with the statement that even if an English judge was on the court the Dominions would have the right of representation should it be dealing with a question which directly affected their interests.

Neither Canada nor any of the self-governing Dominions have ever recognized the right of the Motherland delegates to vote or speak for them and the sooner this is clearly understood by all member states of the League the sooner will progress be made in matters affecting our interests.

Canadians are heart and soul behind the general idea and ideals for the maintenance of world peace of the League but they will never be satisfied to take any position of inferiority in its councils or relegate their vital interests to any one but their national representatives.

Appropriation For Air-Mails $800,000

Total Appearing in Main Estimates Considerably Cut Down

Ottawa.—The appropriation for air-mail services appearing in the main estimates this year is not as much as was figured on in the suggested vote. The total now is $800,000. As a result the cost will be cut in proportion to the loss.

Meanwhile it is planned that, while maintaining the services already in operation in the east, they will be extended on the prairies with a daily service between Winnipeg, Regina, Calgary and Edmonton.

The Lethbridge Board of Trade has asked for a survey of a route to the Pacific through the Crow's Nest Pass rather than going to the coast from Edmonton.

The National Defense Department already knows the relative routes but there is no need for an early decision because an air-mail service to the Pacific coast is out of the question this year," asserted a high official of the Postoffice Department.

Indian Princes Affirm Faith in British Crown

Maintenance of Connection Within Empire Declared to Be Essential

Calcutta.—The Chamber of Princes at Delhi has passed a resolution affirming their faith in the value of the British connection in any constitution that may be framed for the future administration of India and the States.

Baron Irwin, the Viceroy, described the resolution as the most important ever discussed by the Chamber of Princes, and on which reflected the view, not only of those present, but of the entire order of princes.

The Maharaja of Patiala moved the resolution, which read: "While adhering to their policy of non-intervention in the affairs of British India and repeating their assurances of sympathy with its continued political progress, the princes and chiefs composing this Chamber, in view of the recent pronouncements of a section of British and Indian politicians indicative of a drift toward complete independence, desire to place on record that, in the light of mutual obligations arising from their treaties and engagements with the British Crown, they cannot assent to any proposals having for their object the adjustment of equitable relations between Indian States and British India, unless such proposals proceed upon the initial basis of the British connection."

Multitude of interests Their ties with British India were close, added the Maharaja, and they were linked to it politically, historically, and economically. They, therefore, regarded it as their duty to give suitable and timely expression of deep concern that the developments in Indian politics should not be such as would create an insurmountable obstacle in the way of closer relations between British India and Indian India, or inconsistent with the due discharge of their mutual treaty obligations with the British Crown; for in India, taken as a whole, their interest was of a magnitude only second to those of British India.

"We feel we are entitled to an adequate voice in the shaping of the ultimate policy of the whole country. It is our profound conviction that in the best interests of India herself British connections should be maintained.

Greater and More Prosperous "We believe that India will be a greater and more prosperous land as a Federation of Autonomous States and Provinces within the Empire than she will be outside the Empire."

Other sentiments voiced by the princes on the occasion were as follows: The Maharaja of Kashmir: "British India and the Indian States will find greater opportunity of mutual service under the Crown than under any scheme of political partnership." Maharaja of Kapurthala: "Britain's good will and assistance were needed not only to attain (India's) freedom, but to maintain it." Maharaja of Alwar: "We all wish British India to achieve her goal in a short time, and as a united India we can march forward with respective obligations to the crown."

British Capital for Canada

Ottawa Journal (Cons.): Canada welcomes American capital, or any other capital, and will always treat it fairly; but next to control of Canadian enterprises by Canadians the best thing that can happen is to keep control of what we have within the British family. That is one kind of Empire preference about which there should be unanimity.

Canadian Money in New York

Toronto Star (Lib.): The amount of Canadian money in New York is exceptionally large at this time. Much of the money that the Canadian banks are said to have there is not their own money, but is money that Canadian clients have asked them to put out in the United States call market or money that has been supplied by United States depositors in the Canadian branch banks across the line.

Public Health

In public health the discoveries of science have opened a new era. Many sections of our country and many groups of our citizens suffer from diseases the eradication of which are mere matters of administration and moderate expenditure. Public health service should be as fully organized and as universally incorporated into our governmental system as is public education. The returns are a thousandfold in economic benefits, and infinitely more in reduction of suffering and promotion of human happiness. HERBERT HOOVER.

"What do you do with the things you cook?" asked the doctor. "We send them to the neighbors." "Dear little woman," he returned, kissing her. "Always thinking of your husband's practice."

If a man is known by the company he keeps shouldn't a company be known by the men it keeps?

Numerous men have been noticed and many killed on the lots bordering the river on Elora street. Evidently the flood on Saturday chased them out of their nesting ground.—Teeswater News.

Port Elgin residents have opened a new gymnasium and apparently are very proud of their new acquisition in the town. They have a membership of ninety in the association and classes are held four evenings a week with a competent instructor in charge.

The ladder of life is full of splinters—which we realize when we start to slide.

Premier Ferguson said several years ago that when he reached the age of sixty years he intended retiring from politics. During the last session when the Liberal leader, Mr. Sinclair, endeavored to "draw" him he made no denial other than evasive replies. It is known, however, that Mr. McGrath, chairman of the Provincial Hydro-Electric Commission, is desirous of giving up his post and the name of Mr. Ferguson is associated with the position. Mr. Ferguson is, indeed, a forceful personality and would make an ideal head for that important body.

WIT AND HUMOR

Nice for the Hens
A richly attired lady sat talking to a friend.
"Yes," she said, "since Henry's uncle died we have a nice country house, a couple of cars, cows, pigs, and—"
"That must be charming," broke in the other. "You can have all the fresh eggs you want every day."
"Oh, well," drawled the first speaker. "Of course, the hens can lay if they like to, but in our position it isn't at all necessary."

Exposed at Last
"I am satisfied on one thing at last; I found where my husband spends his evenings," remarked Mrs. Gadabout.
"You don't say, how did you find out?" questioned the excited Mrs. Gossip.
"I stayed at home one evening last week and found him there," answered the satisfied lady.

After getting a shine, the young Scotch student threw a fit upon remembering that the shoes belonged to his room-mate.

He Knew the Difference
"I speak four languages," boasted the doorman of a hotel in Rome to an American guest, "Italian, French, English and American."
"But English and American are the same," protested the guest.
"Not at all," replied the man, "if an Englishman should come up now I should talk like this: Oh, I say, want extraordinary shocks? want wags rrs having! I dare say there'll be a bit of it ahead." But when you came up I was just getting ready to say: 'For the love of Mike! Some day, huh? it? Guess this is the second floor, all right."

Breathlessly the commuter aid to the grocery-clerk, "Quick, a dozen eggs, sack of flour, pound of butter, and a quart of milk; I have to make a train." Quite likely he was a magician.

Just Plain Bluff
Governor Johnson of Oklahoma was discussing a legislative difficulty in an interview in Oklahoma City. "Bluff," he said, "and like most bluffs it came too late."
"It reminds me of the fish man. A lady looked at his pile of dry, dingy fish, and snuffed a little and said: "Are these fish fresh?"

"Fresh, lady?" he said "Fresh?"
"And he gave one of the dingiest of the lot a whack with his fist and growled: "Hey, lay 'em there, can't ye?"

The Attorney conducting the cross examination had grown disgusted with the evasive answers of the witness.
"Answer my question yes or no," he admonished.
"Your question can't be answered yes or no," replied the witness.
"Any question can be answered yes or no," expostulated the lawyer.
"Ask one and I'll prove it," The witness replied. "Have you quit beating your wife?"

Business in the Home
Cohen and his family sat down to dinner on Sunday. To his three little boys Cohen said: "Now, children, which of you would want it a nickel instead of meat for your dinner?"

Each of the three decided in favor of the cash settlement, so Mrs. Cohen put the nickel away. Then she brought in the pie and put it on the table.
"Now, my children," inquired Cohen, "how many of you want a nickel's worth of pie?"

Pat Scores Again
The other day we read that a holdup man had dropped his revolver and it had smashed to pieces; it was made of glass. This reminded us of the story of the hard-up Irishman who procured a pistol and took it to the road.
"Your money or your life," he demanded of the first traveller he met. Seeing that Pat was green, the man replied: "I'll tell you what to do—I'll give you all my money for that pistol." "All right," said the amateur highwayman, and receiving the money he handed over his weapon. "Now," said the traveller, "hand back that money or I'll blow your brains out." "Blaze away, me hearty," said Pat, "divil a bit of powder is there in it."

One day about noon Jones called a friend and said: "I understand that Brown was at your house last night and not in A-1 condition."
"You are right," admitted the friend. "He was here, and very much intoxicated."
"Terrible, terrible!" ejaculated Jones. "By the way, was I there too?"

STRAY BULLET PIERCED BOY'S LEG

While stepping across a small stream in a field adjoining his father's farm on his way to school on Tuesday morning, Edward, 7-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Mungo Murdoch of the Goderich Road, south, felt a sting in his right leg above the knee, and thinking that he had been bitten by a snake he called his sister, who was accompanying him, and together the children hurried back home where on examining his leg the parents found two small holes. Fearing also that he had been struck by a snake a local doctor was summoned, who for a time, was somewhat puzzled by the wound as the holes seemed too far apart for a snake bite. In answer to a question as to whether he had heard a noise about the time he felt the sting, the boy said that he had. On later making enquiries in the neighborhood Mr. Murdoch learned that a couple of young lads had been shooting with a 22-rifle at a post about the time his boy was wounded, and there is no doubt but that it was a stray bullet that struck the lad in the side of his leg, going through the soft flesh. Parents are again warning against allowing their young sons the use of firearms. Port Elgin Times

MARKETING POTATOES AND TURNIPS

Potato growers of Dufferin are trying the experiment of grading their potatoes to secure a better than the twenty-five cents a bag now being offered. They will put only one kind of potato into a bag and keep those that will grade No. 1 by themselves and label them. People will pay the price if they are certain they are getting the quality and this applies to potatoes as much as it does to anything else. It is also suggested that, in future, the farmers of a district could confine their varieties to one or two or the standard kinds. The same suggestion has been made to the turnip growers of the Fergus district, as a carload of turnips made up of a dozen or more varieties can hardly be sold in the markets across the border.—Fergus News-Record.

POINTERS ON SAFETY

The original safety man must have been the chap who kicked a banana peel into the gutter.
Use more backbone and less wishbone in safety work.
Poor safety records should at least help the blind to see.
Where is the man who profits more on the compensation roll than on the pay roll?

He who tries to work and nurse a grouch at the same time does neither very well.

Kincaid's tax rate for this year will be 64 mills on the dollar.
We ordinarily think of a millionaire as a man who has accumulated at least a million dollars. This is not the case, however. In the United States, a real millionaire must have an annual income of at least $1,000,000, otherwise he does not deserve that rating. At the end of 1927 it was estimated that there were between 275 and 300 genuine millionaires in the U. S.
The time has come the motorist said, to speak of many things: of miles per gallon and batteries new; of four-wheel brakes and models too; of piston rings and instalment plans; of real automobiles and old tin cans; and six and eights and trimmer lines; of traffic laws and police court fines. But the more he talks the more his clear, he'll drive his old wagon another year.
Sir Henry Thornton told delegates to the Good Roads Convention this spring that busses are not interfering with railway traffic let rather helping it. This is news to the average man who watches the busses plugging through the towns every day loaded to capacity, no doubt carrying many of the passengers which trains used to carry. And when one observes the numerous trucks hauling freight he is apt to wonder how such freight was hauled before the advent of trucks.

TRIED TO SET FIRE TO HOUSE OF REFUGE

Thursday last a pathetic scene was enacted before the magistrate, when a feeble old inmate of the County House of Refuge answered to a charge of attempting to set fire to the home. Quite evidently of unsound mind, the aged man stated that he merely wanted to see a discarded match, and piling waste paper at the bottom of a wooden ventilator shaft, started the blazing crackling flame, and gave the alarm. What might have been a terrible holocaust was narrowly averted. The infirm perpetrator was given a weak in the county jail for observation purposes. The lighter side of this case was presented when the old man, questioned as to dates, devoted for a Liberal M. P.—Goderich Star.

Lloyd Dunbar, aged 25, of Ethel, was fatally injured about 5 o'clock Friday afternoon, on his father's farm, when a board he was ripping on a portable saw splintered, gashing his throat terribly and fracturing his jaw in two places. The young man was rushed to the Lister hospital, where he died five hours later. Dunbar had cut partly through a long board when it split suddenly, one end hitting him directly in the face and the other firing 25 yards away, striking a barn. The jagged edges of the wood pierced his neck and little hope was held for his recovery.

What has become of the old-fashioned girl who saw her boy friends only on Wednesday and Sunday.

A farm journal says that those who were engulfed in the stock market when the recent crack came will be in a position to sympathize with those who bought stockers and feeders at a big price last fall. Any kind of a stock market seems to be desperately uncertain.

BOY CHOKES TO DEATH

The sincere sympathy of their many friends will be extended to Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Playford in the death of their youngest son, aged four years, who accidentally choked to death on Sunday night. The little fellow was eating some peas, when in some manner some became lodged in his throat and before anything could be done to dislodge them he had choked to death. The family resides about three quarters of a mile west from the county line running to Hepworth and Clavering. It is understood that the parents were in Owen Sound at the time but some of the older children were in charge.—Warton Echo.

PURCHASER CANNOT CHANGE MIND

After buying an article at a farm auction, the purchaser cannot change his mind. It is not take and pay for it. This, in effect, was the ruling of Judge Thompson in Division Court at Whitby the other day. Edgar Sorry sued Chris. Yakely for the price of a potato digger which had been sold by auction to Yakely at the sale of a farmer named Thompson. The auctioneer "knocked down" the digger to Yakely for $40. It was revealed later that he digger originally belonged to Storry, not Thompson, the former having a quantity of goods in the sale including the potato digger. Yakely never took the article off the place and Storry asked for judgment for the sale price of $40. Yakely held that the digger was not a good one, but His Honor held that such sales were held without warranty being given and gave judgment in full. On the witness stand the auctioneer said this was his first sale in 27 years that had been challenged.

THEY SAY — WHAT DO THEY SAY? — LET THEM SAY

The human tongue has long been regarded as an unruly member and a great mischief-maker. It is but recently that newspapers reported the death of two young women—driven to suicide by the wagging, slandering tongues of neighbors. One case was in British Columbia where the mean talk of school trustees drove the youthful lady teacher to take her own life. The other story was from Owen Sound where a busy-body neighbor told a young wife that her husband went to see other women. This woman took poison. Of course these women did not act wisely. We are living in a world with a great variety of people and there is no effective way of preventing mean people from saying mean things. A great deal can be said, and a great deal of mischief done without giving ground for a slander action which is the only way the law

BARN BURNED DOWN

During the Friday afternoon storm the barn on the farm of Mr. Alf. Holland, South Line, about four miles from town, was struck by a bolt of lightning, took fire and was burned to the ground.

Mr. Holland was in the house at the time but his son, Albert, was standing in the doorway of the barn when the bolt struck. The young man was knocked unconscious. Mr. Holland, on hearing the crash, rushed to the barn and when he reached it his son was just recovering from the shock.

All the stock was removed from the barn with the exception of two cows which were burned with the building. Another cow later died from the effects of the fire. A quantity of feed and grain and some implements were also consumed and Mr. Holland's loss is a serious one.—Kincardine Review-Reporter.

APRIL ENCHANTMENT

April taps so lightly
On the window-pane
With the fairy lances
Of the silver rain,
Some enchantment surely
Mut be hers to wield,
She has brought such changes
To the barren field!
She has worked such magic
In the leafless wood
Waking buds to answer
To her joyous mood,
None can doubt her forces
Or her touch deny,
While such wonders flower
In the earth and sky,
April calls but faintly
Through the silver mist,
But man's spirit hastens
To the happy tryst!

MUST STILL CARE FOR PARENTS

The Old Age Pension Act has now become a law in Ontario, but before it can be brought into operation, regulations must be framed regarding the various matters with which the Act deals. It is not expected that this law supersedes the Dependent Parents Act of 1921, by which children in adequate financial circumstances, are required to contribute to the support of their dependent parents. If there are any children so unfilial in Ontario, as to try to evade their responsibilities in this regard, they are likely to get a rude jolt, when the Pensions Act is proclaimed by the Lieutenant-Governor. The pension scheme, as The Echo understands it, is supplementary to any other act in the statutes dealing with like matters, and is applicable only to those who might be eligible for commitment to Homes for the Aged, if they are not being cared for through the kindness of children or friends, or by a sympathetic municipality.—Amherstburg Echo.

Sunday School Lesson

April 21. Lesson III—Comfort for God's People—Isaiah 40: 1-11. Golden Text—As one whom his mother comforteth, so will I comfort you.—Isaiah 66: 13.

ANALYSIS
I. THE MESSAGE OF COMFORT, vs. 1, 2.
II. THE VOICE, vs. 3-8.
III. THE GOOD TIDINGS, vs. 9-11.

INTRODUCTION—With this chapter we begin the reading of the second part of the book of Isaiah, now commonly called Second Isaiah. It will be noticed: (1) that while in the first part of the book the Assyrian empire and its invading armies are everywhere present, here Assyria is mentioned only once, and then, with Egypt, as an oppressor of times past (ch. 52: 4); and (2) that the prophet appears to be addressing messages of comfort and of hope to people who have been long in exile in Babylon, and predicts both the overthrow of that empire, whose period of great power followed that of Assyria, and lasted from about B.C. 604 to 538 (47: 1-9; 48: 20), and also the return of the exiles to their own ruined and devastated land.

It will also be noticed that the prophet mentions Cyrus the Great, king of Persia, who conquered Babylon in B.C. 538, and who permitted the captive Jews to return to their own country, as having already been raised up, and as having already, for some time, proceeded upon his career of victory (41: 2, "the righteous man"; 44: 28; 45: 1-5; 45: 11; 48: 14). This fact would seem to fix the date of this section of the book of Isaiah, or at least of chs. 40 to 49, shortly before the fall of Babylon, or within the four or five preceding years. The people to whom he addressed himself, and to whom he brings his message of comfort, are the Jewish exiles in Babylon, despairing after long years of captivity of ever seeing their home land again.

It will greatly help in the understanding of the Lesson if the whole of chs. 40 to 49 be read.

I. THE MESSAGE OF COMFORT, vs. 1, 2.

The prophet hears the divine voice calling upon him and his fellow prophets to bear a message of comfort and of hope to his captive people, to Jerusalem in exile. The word warfare means literally a period, or term of service, and should be translated ("Job 7: 1) here the same Hebrew word which is translated "appointed time". The reference here is to the period of exile which now is to be ended. Her Jeremiah and Ezekiel, declared she had been sent into exile, is now pardoned. She has received an ample sufficient punishment for all her sins. Such seems to be the meaning here of the word double. Compare Jer. 16: 18 and Rev. 18: 6.)

II. THE VOICE, vs. 3-8.

The company of the prophets now hear the divine voice bidding them prepare the way for the coming of the Lord to deliver the captives and to lead them back to their own land. The language is highly figurative, and regards the prophets as pioneers preparing the road for the coming of a king. The dramatic form of speech throughout the prophecy is very effective. The same words with slight variations are used of the preaching of John the Baptist, Matt. 3: 3, etc. The aged people for whom the prophet speaks will see and acknowledge the power and the goodness of Jehovah. (Compare ch. 52: 10 and Psalm 98: 1-3.)

And one said (v. 6), probably one of the company of the prophets who voices the hopelessness of them all. They have no faith, or courage, to bear such a message of hope. Fifty years or more of exile, since the first deportation of captives in 597 (2 Kings 24: 10-16), had passed. The older people had died in Babylon, the younger had grown old, a new generation was growing up, born in Babylon.

In the wilderness prepare ye the way of the Lord, Make level in the desert a highway for our God; Set every valley be filled up, And every mountain and hill be made low; Let the uneven be made smooth, And the ridges a plain.

The deliverance of the Jewish captives in Babylon, following the capture of that city by Cyrus (45: 13), will be so notable an event that all the world will see and acknowledge the power and the goodness of Jehovah. (Compare ch. 52: 10 and Psalm 98: 1-3.)

And one said (v. 6), probably one of the company of the prophets who voices the hopelessness of them all. They have no faith, or courage, to bear such a message of hope. Fifty years or more of exile, since the first deportation of captives in 597 (2 Kings 24: 10-16), had passed. The older people had died in Babylon, the younger had grown old, a new generation was growing up, born in Babylon.

Missing No Chance For Popularity

HERE IS LLOYD GEORGE STARTING SOMETHING
In this case it was the football match in which Wales and Scotland vied for supremacy and a trophy. The fighting Welshman kicked off the ball that started the championship game.

The generations of men, like the withering grass and fading flower, scorched by the breath of God's wrath, were passing away. There was no hope, vs. 6, 7.

The voice replies, v. 8. It is that the generations pass like the grass that withers, and the flower that fades, but the word of our God shall stand for ever. That word of promise spoken by the prophets at the beginning of the exile, stands, and will surely be fulfilled (see Jer. 23: 5-8; 30: 10-24; Ezek. 36: 17-24).

III. THE GOOD TIDINGS, vs. 9-11.

In vivid, dramatic style the prophet now calls upon Jerusalem to shout the good news from the mountain-top to the other desolate cities of Judah, that the exiles are returning home. Very beautifully he pictures the Lord as a good shepherd bringing home his flock, dealing gently with the weak, and bearing the little ones in his bosom. For a similar picture see 49: 9-10 and Ezek. 34: 12-16.

Mining Market Sound for Future

Temporary Recession in Many Issues Will Give Opportunity to Investors to Profit by Good News

NORANDA STRONG

BY LLOYD J. MOORE
Member Standard Stock and Mining Exchange

Reversals overtook the entire Canadian mining list during the final week of March. Sharp declines were registered all across the list. There was a fairly substantial recovery before the Easter holiday, but indications were present that the selling movement was not entirely finished. There were some exceptional opportunities for securing stocks at bargain prices. Noranda dipped below $47 and Nickel went to $17.75 on March 26th, when call money commanded 20 per cent. in New York. The liquidation of mining stocks was caused primarily by the disastrous break which took place in New York. International Nickel was one of the principal sufferers, but although the decline in this stock was sharper than in most of the others, it was not greatly out of line. Much distress selling took place. This involved a great many people, since the stock is very widely held in Canada. The New York selling had every appearance of including heavy short sales augmenting the already large New York interest on the short side that has been known to exist.

Nickel recovered vigorously to $52 before the end of the week, but was again subject to further selling on Easter Monday in New York while the Canadian exchanges were closed. The sponsors of Nickel are quite as emphatic concerning its merits for a long hold as they were in more buoyant markets of January and February. Its market course has been more or less in line with the general trend of New York stocks. From the Canadian angle at least, it was vulnerable because of the large amount of stock held on thin margins.

Noranda Meeting
One of the most interesting developments of the week was the annual meeting of Noranda Mines, at which President J. Y. Murdoch gave much data of a favorable character concerning recent operations at the Horns property. It was announced that diamond-drilling data shows the continuance of ore to a depth of 1,500 feet. The management is conservatively estimating a production of 2,000 tons from two reverberatory smelting units toward the latter part of the year. It is expected unofficially, however, that the production will be about 2,500 tons a day. Full advantage is being taken of the present high price of copper. The highest quotations available are being obtained for the current production of metal. The results of exploration and development work since the beginning of this year have been highly encouraging. Occurrences of sulphide below the $75-foot level are shown to be of very large dimensions containing much highly profitable ore. Mr. Murdoch was unable to give any further figures of new ore placed in sight beyond saying that the work thus far this year had shown up more ore than would be handled by the smelter during the entire twelve months. Last year's work showed $9 of ore placed in sight for each $1 put through the smelter. In other words—the additions of new ore amounted to $52,000,000 and gross production was approximately $6,000,000. As has been indicated in these columns in previous articles the Horns smelter is performing much beyond expectations.

The shareholders were informed that only a small portion of the possibilities of the property has yet been explored and the officials are confident that ore will be found at much greater depth than have been investigated up to the present.

The shareholders approved the by-law to issue one new share for each thirty held at $45 per share.

Sherritt-Gordon
Among the other stocks that recovered readily from the selling pressure of the past week, none was more impressive than Sherritt-Gordon. This stock rebounded from its low of $7.10 to a high of $8.75 before the close of the week. On numerous occasions recently Sherritt stock has seemed scarce and remarkably good buying power has been noticed. Upon the completion of construction of the railway line to the property probably by September the development of the mine will enter a new phase. It has been practically decided that the Hudson Bay smelter will be located adjacent to the lime deposits about twenty miles from the Flin Flon and not far distant from Cranberry Portage. This smelter will treat concentrates from both properties according to present indications. It seemed like unnecessary duplication to have two smelters in Northern Manitoba. Both Hudson Bay and Sherritt-Gordon should benefit substantially from the co-operative arrangement. Both properties are developing well. Current prices of copper should swell the probable profits of each and especially of Sherritt-Gordon, which has a higher copper content in its ore. It is difficult to predict the metal markets far ahead. The price of around 24½ cents for copper recently entirely too high to be reasonable. The demand and supply situation points to the continuance of comparatively high prices. An average of around 17 cents a pound over a long period would enable the new Canadian producers to earn very handsome profits. Such an estimate price appears to be very conservative.

Copper Refinery Promised
An announcement of far-reaching importance was made by Premier Ferguson in the Ontario Legislature that a copper refinery would be built by International Nickel-Consolidated Smelters and Ventures, Ltd., in the Sudbury district. The probability that Sherritt-Gordon and Hudson Bay blister copper will be treated at the refinery. It will have a capacity of 10,000 tons a month and will cost approximately $4,000,000. It will treat Flood blister copper as soon as the mine comes into production. At the same time it is interesting to note that President J. Y. Murdoch has affirmed Noranda's intention of building its own refinery at some site to be decided, probably on the Lower S. Lawrence. The Noranda enterprise has British Metals Corporation and Nichols Copper Company associated with it.

Don't forget, Mr. Moore answers any questions on mines and mining investments. Address, L. J. Moore & Co., 10 Jordan Street, Toronto.

"My twelve-year-old girl," writes Mrs. Robert Devitt of Brougham, Ontario, "became so pale, so ill and nervous that we had to take her out of school. I tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for her and she gained in weight and strength. She is now the picture of health."

The Waste of Words

Victoria Colonist (Conn.): There is more time lost in the world today by the expenditure of words than in any other way. It is the perennial curse which lies on action. It is the waste of time, of strength and of money. When politicians realize that defensive tactics through the channels of verbiage only denote weakness in themselves, and when they come to that faint they will have made a step on the road to statesmanship. Even in a democratic age men are elected to office for some purpose other than that of quibbling and quarrelling with their political opponents.

Manitoba Taking Her Place

Manitoba is now experiencing a period of intensive mining development. Copper, gold, silver, lead, zinc and other metallic products have been mined, and exceptional opportunities exist for the prospector and mining company.

New Leprosy Remedy Asserted to Be Sure

Afflicted Natives Rush Joyously for Treatment, Says London Story

London.—A message of hope for the hundreds of thousands suffering from leprosy appears in the annual report of the British Empire Leprosy Relief Association.

The report asserts that leprosy can be cured, and confidently predicts that with adequate public support the association can rid the British Empire of the disease within a generation.

"This wonderful ideal," as the Prince of Wales has called it, is already being worked out, particularly in East and West Africa and India, where the great mass of British lepers exist.

A method of attacking the disease by means of injections has been widely tested with remarkable results, and the association is actively sending out supplies of drugs and chemicals to missionaries and others throughout the affected areas.

Half a million doses have been sent out already.

News of the new treatment and cures has spread far and wide amongst the sufferers.

Instead of hiding themselves and concealing the disease, they are now voluntarily coming forward for treatment. This was unknown ten years ago.

Some of the dispensaries and treatment huts are so overwhelmed with lepers demanding injections that the doctors and their helpers have to turn hundreds away.

A nurse in Northern Tanganyika has written home: The leper clinic up here is in its early stages, but it is very hopeful. We have patients attending from different tribes, and it is the first time up here in this very primitive isolated hill district that anyone has come forward for treatment acknowledging himself a leper. It is great to see the hope in their faces now . . .

The report mentions a recent ruler in India who was a leper for many years. A chief in Uganda now has hope of recovery. Another chief in Nyasaland who has suffered for years is on the way to health.

Buy Empire Goods

Hamilton Spectator (Ind. Cons.): "There are many reasons for increasing our purchases from the United Kingdom," recently declared Mr. H. B. Henwood, of the Bank of Toronto, referring to the work of the Empire Marketing Board and the excessive volume of purchases from the United States; "the very least we can do is to divert most of our possible foreign purchases to British Empire goods." That is a policy which ought to commend itself to all patriotic Canadians, and especially to the governing authorities. "Buy Empire goods" is more than a mere slogan; it would be of no worth if it remained only that. It should be a fixed principle with Canadian shoppers, whether in a large or a small way.

The North-west Passage

Manitoba Free Press (Lib.): As the means of communication between Great Britain and the Far East the Hudson Bay route is incomparably the shortest route. It cuts the distance of 16,000 miles by the Suez, and of 11,000 miles by San Francisco, to 8,000 miles by Prince Rupert. Canadians are not building the Hudson Bay Railway for purposes of war, and hope that it will never be war which will demonstrate its greatest benefits. But they have to yield to Captain Munro when he insists that the possibilities by this route (as a line of communications) for the British Empire are immense, and are only to be compared with the advent of the Suez and Panama canals, with this exception that it is all within the British Empire."

Epitaph on a Dog

A ball a bone, a worried shoe.

—Nancy Byrd Turner in "Our Dumb Animal."

We're not going to get snooty about the Einstein theory, because if there's nothing else to be said in its favor, at least no one has written a theme for it.

And the Dog Was Saved

A dog was swimming across the Connecticut River, when one of the Hartford-New York steamboats was bearing down close to the dog who was then about midway of the channel. Had the steamer continued at the speed she was then making it would have been impossible for the dog to have gotten across the channel. Either he would have been struck by the steamer or else he would have been sucked down by the under-tow and, undoubtedly, have met his death in that way, for the channel was extremely narrow there.

I was standing on the upper deck talking with the captain, Captain Bacon. He espied the dog before I did and called my attention to it. He immediately gave orders to slow down the steamer and also to swerve her as far as possible, which could be but slightly, away from the dog. And, of course, the dog's life was saved.

This was fifteen or more years ago, but the incident is one that I shall never forget. And I am sure that many others who saw it will never forget it either.

Whenever I see a ruthless, careless automobile driver showing no mercy whatever to a cat, a dog or a chicken that happens to get in his way, this incident comes back to me with special clearness. And what is the checking of the speed of an automobile compared with the slowing down of a large steamer? Would that there could be a Captain Bacon at every automobile wheel!—Ernest Warren Brockway in "Our Dumb Animals"

Old Age Pensions

La Presse (Ind.): The Province of Quebec is not behind in this sphere of philanthropy. Our many charitable and friendly institutions are evidence that this is so. But the Old Age Pensions law which is now occupying public attention assumes a different aspect in the sense that it binds the provinces to a contract, the terms of which are dictated by the federal power and deprive them of their entire liberty of action. We cannot blame the Provincial Government, therefore, for looking twice before it signs the agreement.

Aviators Down in Australian Bush

Plight of Southern Cross Fliers Regarded as Hopeless

Sydney, N.S.W.—Friends of the missing Southern Cross aviators Wednesday hoped and prayed for a fortunate circumstance in the almost certain hopelessness of their plight. Only extreme good fortune, most thought, could result in the rescue of Capt. Charles Kingsford-Smith, his pilot, Charles T. Ulm, and the two with them, who Sunday flashed a mysterious message to the world and disappeared somewhere east of Wyndham, Western Australia.

In that message, which they ended with their characteristic "Charrio," they told of falling motors on their plane and a heavy rainstorm which obscured the ground from their view. They gave their position as "about one hundred miles east of Wyndham"—and then sank into the vastness of the Australian bush, peopled by wild uncivilized savages, some of them cannibalistic pygmies.

The Empire and the Air

United Empire (London): Sir Samuel Hoare, the Minister for Air, says that he gets a little tired of complaints that others are doing so much better in the air than Great Britain. "You might think we had no Air Force at all and that British aviation scarcely existed." Such critics obviously know nothing of the facts. Sir Samuel promises that when the two British airships are flying next year the Empire will see how great has been British progress.

CARLSRUHE

The farmers here have started to cultivate on the land about two weeks ago, but so far have made slow progress, owing to the heavy rains and wet weather of the past. They are looking for more sunshine and favorable weather in the near future. Fall wheat, too, is not looking very favorable, though one sees a good field now and again, but the majority is below the average.

Nearly every one around here went to Neustadt, Walkerton and Mildmay to view the destruction caused by floods last week. Some of our farmers with rivers and creeks running through their farms suffered heavily as many of the bridges and fences were swept away, which means extra work and expenditure.

We notice that many bridges and culverts were damaged by washouts and some were even swept away, which will give the Council extra work to look after. In doing so, we hope the officials will be more economizing than they have been in the past, by letting contracts and looking after such work so that the expenses won't be higher than the actual work done. There were many complaints in the past as such time being put in.

Mr. N. Hoffarth left for Kitchener on Monday to spend a short time with friends and relatives.

Mr. John Vath and Joseph Himmelspach of Hanover visited at Mr. Peter Girodat's on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Himmelspach visited relatives in Mildmay last week.

head more than the number received one week ago. Packers were bidding 25c per cwt. lower on all butcher grades and shippers were holding off for steady prices. Trading was quiet throughout the morning and at 2 o'clock half of the offering was still unsold. All sales were made at prices steady with the close of last week.

Odd lots of heavy steers were weighed out at from $10 to $10.40 a cwt. Choice handyweight steers brought from $9.75 to $10 per cwt., with some sales recorded at $10.25 a cwt. Lowest sales on butcher steers were made at $8.75 per cwt. There were a few choice heifers cleared at from $9.85 to $10 a cwt.

Butcher cows were steady at from $7.50 to $8.25 a cwt., with an odd animal bringing $8.50 a cwt. Good light bulls sold at from $7.50 to $8.25 a cwt., with bolognas ranging from $6.50 to $7 per cwt. Baby heaves were a shade stronger, and sales were made at from $10 to $12 a cwt.

An increased demand was evident for stockers and feeders and they had to be purchased from the butcher supply. Good feeders were sold at from $9 to $9.50 a cwt.

The calf run was fairly heavy and the quality as a whole was poor. Prices held steady at last week's decline. The choice of the offering were taken at from $14 to $15 a cwt. Medium quality calves sold at from $10 to $13.50 a cwt., and the common ranged from $8 to $9.50 a cwt.

The supply of lambs was again small and spring lambs sold at from $13 to $16 each. One load of yearlings brought $15.25 a cwt. and some heavier ones sold at $15 a cwt. Sheep were steady at from $8 to $9 a cwt.

Prices were not settled on the hog market, but were at least a quarter lower per cwt. Packers were bidding $12.75 for selects weighed off car, and shippers were asking $13 per cwt. Bids were $1 lower, f.o.b. for selects.

BRANT CARRIES POWER BY-LAW

Ratepayers of Brant Township, by a vote of 297 to 44 on Tuesday granted the Walkerton Electric Light and Power Company permission to erect poles and string wire within the township and gave the company a franchise to supply power to community contiguous to its lines for a period of 30 years. The franchise is to be renewed or extended on presenting a bylaw to the voters such as was submitted today.

Very little interest was taken in the matter, as demonstrated by the fact that only 341 out of 1600 eligible voters cast their ballots. Today's vote means extension of Tuesday, July 2nd.

the grip which the Foshay interests, subsidiaries of a gigantic American power trust, has upon Bruce County. For more than a year now representatives of the foreign power barons have been conducting a campaign for private ownership in this territory. Several small companies were brought up very quietly. The Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission had not submitted their bylaws to the people until the Foshay interests had become established. In only one case has hydro won, and that was in Southampton, after a vigorous campaign in which members of the Ontario Cabinet, as well as members of the Hydro Commission, participated on the public platform.

While tulips and other spring bulbs are showing through the ground, owners of hens would make life more pleasant for their neighbors by shutting up their feathered scratchers.

An important decision was recently given out by Mr. Justice Wright at Ottawa when he awarded damages of six hundred dollars against the police department of that city when a police car responding to an emergency call struck an Ottawa citizen's car and damaged it. In making his award, Justice Wright said: "It is a mistaken impression that police officers can disregard traffic signals and the public safety, while on duty."
