Lieut. Watts is a son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Allan Watts, New York, and grandson of Mrs. Alfred Watts, Brant Avenue, this city.

Before enlisting, he was on the staff of the Bank of Nova Scotia in this city. His many excellent qualities made for him a large circle of friends who will sincerely hope that there may yet be news that he is safe.

Previously reported wounded, Pte. Chas. McKie of Paris is now known to have lost his life upon the field of battle, according to the information contained in the official casualty list this morning.

Pte. McKie was born and bred in the township of South Dumfries, having resided in or near Paris all his life. Previous to his enlistment he was employed in the sweater department of Penman's Mills.

Pte. Thomas Coxall, another Paris man of the 84th battalion, is reported this morning as killed in action. Born in England, he came to this country some years ago, and took up his residence on Elm street, Paris, being employed in the same department of the Penman Mills as Pte. McKie.

THE SHADOW OF BROKEN HEATH

When the shadow of poor health begins to fade and friends look serious, then is the time you should remember that thousands just as hopeless have been cured and restored to the sunshine of health by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills actually make new rich blood which brings a glow of health to anaemic cheeks; cures indigestion, headaches and backaches, drives out the stinging pains of rheumatism and neuralgia, strengthens the nerves and relieves as no other medicine can do the aches and pains from which womenfolk alone suffer. In any emergency of poor health give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial and they will not disappoint you. Here is a case that will bring hope to many a weary sufferer. Mrs. E. C. Taylor, Ascot avenue, Toronto, says: "A few years ago I was so run down with anaemia that I was scarcely able to get about or do anything. My hair had turned white, my appetite was poor, and I was constantly troubled with headaches, dizzy spells and general disorientation. I had heard of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, I had heard of this medicine often, but had not used it, so I determined to give it a trial. I certainly got a pleasant surprise, for after using two boxes I could feel an improvement in my condition. Continuing the use of these pills I began to regain my health, the headaches and dizzy spells were disappearing, and I began to gain in weight. People began enquiring what I was taking and I was not slow to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills the credit. I took the pills for less than two months, and completely regained my old time health and strength. I hope my experience may convince some doubting persons as to the great merits of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, as I certainly have cause to be a firm champion of them."

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THE SHADOW OF BROKEN HEATH

When the shadow of poor health begins to fade and friends look serious, then is the time you should remember that thousands just as hopeless have been cured and restored to the sunshine of health by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills actually make new rich blood which brings a glow of health to anaemic cheeks; cures indigestion, headaches and backaches, drives out the stinging pains of rheumatism and neuralgia, strengthens the nerves and relieves as no other medicine can do the aches and pains from which womenfolk alone suffer. In any emergency of poor health give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial and they will not disappoint you. Here is a case that will bring hope to many a weary sufferer. Mrs. E. C. Taylor, Ascot avenue, Toronto, says: "A few years ago I was so run down with anaemia that I was scarcely able to get about or do anything. My hair had turned white, my appetite was poor, and I was constantly troubled with headaches, dizzy spells and general disorientation. I had heard of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, I had heard of this medicine often, but had not used it, so I determined to give it a trial. I certainly got a pleasant surprise, for after using two boxes I could feel an improvement in my condition. Continuing the use of these pills I began to regain my health, the headaches and dizzy spells were disappearing, and I began to gain in weight. People began enquiring what I was taking and I was not slow to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills the credit. I took the pills for less than two months, and completely regained my old time health and strength. I hope my experience may convince some doubting persons as to the great merits of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, as I certainly have cause to be a firm champion of them."

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THE SITUATION

The Russo-Romanian forces have met with success in Transylvania, and have taken some strong positions in addition to successfully withstanding some strong attacks on the part of Falkenhayn's troops. The latter, however, are still pressing the offensive without any sign of abatement. In the Vial valley, the Rumanians have been forced to retire, and they have also fallen back south of Kronstadt. Meanwhile, the Allies are sending all aid possible. In this regard, 128 French aeroplanes have arrived to aid in the reconnaissance work, and five British machines have reached there after flying three hundred miles. Hitherto the Rumanians have been practically without these valuable aids in modern warfare.

On the Verdun front the French are still throwing off the violent counter attack of the Huns, and proceeding steadily with their latest design—the capture of Fort Vaux, the last great stronghold held by the enemy north of Verdun. They are advancing on the place, both from the west and the south.

As recorded in last night's Courier, the foe made a daring attempt on the British channel route by sending ten torpedo boat destroyers into that area, the net system having prevented the use of submarines. The attack was a failure, and is not likely to be repeated.

Bad weather is impeding the Somme operations.

It is announced that marvelous work has been done in the British dockyards with regard to new Dreadnaughts, and that they will mount 18-inch guns.

Conscription has caused a split in the Australian Cabinet, and three members have resigned. The people vote to-day on the referendum for compulsory service and the indications are that it will carry.

THE PROMISES OF SIR THOS. WHITE MORE THAN FULFILLED

Once again the budget estimate of the Minister of Finance has been exceeded in the actual receipts of revenue from all sources. In other words the arrangements made by Sir Thomas White are working out so well that at the end of five months the treasury is better off than the Minister himself felt justified in promising.

Every taxpayer is interested in this situation, because it means that Canada is becoming financially stronger and better able to carry the burden of the war, great as that burden undoubtedly is.

Expert financing has so nicely adjusted this burden that the Canadian people have perhaps imperfectly realized the magnitude of the effort that is being made and the cost which it entails. Through all the difficult period that has passed, despite the business disorganization at the beginning of the war, and the heavy strain that has been made upon the national exchequer, the financial fabric has retained its buoyancy. Canadian credit is as high as ever it was, and Canada is able to give to the cause of the Allies an ever increasing support.

Two things are being done.

The Government, while securing an abnormal revenue for war purposes, has made sweeping reductions in both ordinary and capital expenditures for other purposes. Look at the figures. In five months the revenue has been $84,000,000 as compared with $60,000,000 in the corresponding period of last year. While this greatly increased revenue has been coming in the Government has rigidly adhered to its policy, laid down when the war began, of proceeding with no new public undertakings not already under contract or not indispensably necessary. In carrying out this policy there has been a saving of two millions in the five month period on ordinary public works account, besides a reduction of half a million in public works capital expenditure. On railways and canals, the largest item of federal expenditure there has been a saving of no less than $2,000,000.

And the outlook promises still better.

ter things. Assuming that the revenue increases will be maintained until the end of the fiscal year—and there is no reason to expect the contrary—the Government will be in a position, after paying all ordinary and capital expenditures, to cut down the principle of war expenditure by from forty to fifty million dollars. That will mean less to be borrowed and less to be paid for in annual interest charges. It is a splendid statement. Under no conceivable circumstances could the financial situation in so critical period, be better.

POLITICS IN RECRUITING

There has been quite a lot of talk of political favoritism in connection with getting Canadian troops for the front and sending them there. A lot of the stories float savor more of Hun yarns than anything else, and an outsider would imagine that sinister influences were at work on behalf of the enemy.

The amount of party favoritism can well be judged locally by what has occurred here. Liberals, equally with Conservatives, have been considered simply on the basis of their fitness for service, and this, without doubt is true of other places.

Recently the Hamilton Recruiting League passed a resolution declaring that the regulations recently approved by Order-in-Council at Ottawa, did not meet requirements, and that after two years of war there was no well organized plan to provide the 500,000 Canadians promised.

The Hamilton Herald (Independent), in referring to the matter says: "It is perhaps merely a coincidence but it is rather unfortunate that the members of the Hamilton Recruiting League who have been and still are the most active and vociferous and vitriolic in their criticism of the Borden government on account of its alleged apathy in the matter of recruiting, are gentlemen who are known as political opponents of the government. That their criticism would be attributed to their partisan bias is natural and was inevitable; and this charge has been brought against them.

The action taken by the league on Tuesday evening we cannot but regard as ungenerous, imprudent and in some particulars childish. The government's national service scheme embraces some useful features, and if the plan as outlined is intelligently and vigorously administered, we believe it will result in a marked stimulus to recruiting. But the Hamilton Recruiting League condemned the whole program, and apparently did it without any real effort to consider it.

It is indeed a most unfortunate thing that in this Empire crisis some men would apparently rather take a whack at the Government than anything else.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

There is dirty weather on the Somme front in addition to a dirty foe.

Tableware is going up in price. Food at present prices refuses to be served up on any cheap stuff.

The marriage fee in New York has been cut down from $5 to $3. That ought to be some inducement for those devotees of Cupid, who also suffer from cupidity.

It is up to every Brantfordite to do his or her duty during British Red Cross week in this city, commencing on Monday and ending with Friday and Saturday, Nov. 3rd and 4th.

Brantford Township has added $500 to the $7,000 already voted by the County Council for Red Cross purposes and the $2,000 of Paris for those devotees of Cupid, who also suffer from cupidity.

The Toronto Globe says that the Ottawa Government is responsible for the high cost of living. The war, of course has nothing to do with the matter in the opinion of that sapient organ.

Buffalo Express:—The appeal which Sir Robert Borden has made for more enlistments doubtless will be responded to in a satisfactory manner. Canada has already raised 370,000 men, which is a remarkable enlistment, considering its population. This is nearly as big as any army that Napoleon ever had in a single body, and Napoleon had a much larger population to draw from.

EVEN CROSS, SICK CHILDREN LOVE SYRUP OF FIGS

Don't scold your fretful, peevish child. See its tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with sour waste.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, indigestion, diarrhoea, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul waste, the sour bile and fermenting food passes out of the bowels and you have a well and playful child again. Children love this harmless "fruit laxative," and mothers can rest easy after giving it, because it never fails to make their little "insides" clean and sweet.

Keep it handy, Mother! A little given to-day saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which gives directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Remember there are counterfeiters sold here, so surely look and see that yours is made by the "California Syrup Company." Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.

WHEN YOU WAKE UP DRINK GLASS OF HOT WATER

Wash the poisons and toxins from system before putting more food into stomach.

Says inside-bathing makes anyone look and feel clean, sweet and refreshed.

Wash yourself on the inside before breakfast like you do on the outside. This is vastly more important because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing illness, while the bowel pores do. For every ounce of food and drink taken into the stomach, nearly an ounce of waste material must be carried out of the body. If this waste material is not eliminated day by day it quickly ferments and generates poisons, gases and toxins which are absorbed or sucked into the blood stream through lymph ducts which should suck only nourishment to sustain the body.

A splendid health measure is to drink, before breakfast each day, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, which is a harmless way to wash these poisons, gases and toxins from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels; thus cleaning, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate costs but very little at the drug store but is sufficient to make anyone an enthusiast on inside-bathing. Men and women who are accustomed to wake up with a dull, aching head or have furred tongue, bad taste, nasty breath, swollen complexion, others who have bilious attacks, acid stomach or constipation are assured of pronounced improvement in both health and appearance shortly.

FIRE IN STORE

An alarm was turned in this morning about two o'clock to the firemen from 57 Duke street. Upon their arrival they found that a blaze had originated in the rear of a small store and had worked its way up through the woodwork to the upper story and attic of an adjacent dwelling. The fire had gained great headway, and two lines of hose were laid, and after an hour and a half's effort, the firemen were successful in subduing the flames. In view of the circumstances, the loss sustained will be remarkably light. As yet, the firemen are in ignorance as to the cause of the conflagration.

CADETS' CONCERT

Before an audience which taxed to the utmost the capacity of Victoria Hall, the public school cadets of the city last evening presented an entertainment of the most successful character. Seldom, if ever before, in the history of Victoria Hall, did that building accommodate a larger or more enthusiastic gathering than that then present. A high class program of dances, drills, patriotic songs, recitations and pantomimes. The sold medal w-n by Master Hugh Sisson in the shooting competition for the Strathcona shield was also presented.

A List of the Clever People Who Took Part

There was a large audience in attendance at the Opera House last night when the first performance was given, under the auspices of Brant Chapter, I. O. E. of "The Metaphysical White Cat."

The King and Queen of the land of the Kingdom called Beautiful have three sons. Two of these sons quarrel as to who shall inherit the Kingdom. The King and Queen overhearing their dispute, summon court and councillors, who decide to send all three forth into the world to seek wisdom and understanding. Upon their return it is decided to send them forth again to seek a princess who will help them to rule wisely and well. Prince Jacko, the hero, who is sent south, comes to the enchanted forest, where he meets the Greatest Thing in the World, (true love).

The cast called for a very large number of performers as follows:—The King, Mr. Arthur Harp; the Queen, Mrs. Geo. Watt (their three sons) Prince Adolphus, Mr. W. Mr. Arthur Harp and Mrs. George Watt, as King and Queen respectively, both took the parts excellently. Miss Jean Paterson made a most attractive Prince Jacko, and showed genuine acting ability. Miss Reville made a very striking Prince Claudius and Mr. W. Kelly as Prince Adolphus was excellent. Miss Violet Dean as the Fairy godmother, rendered her somewhat lengthy lines with excellent enunciation. Mr. Watson took the role of "Grouch" and as always, did a fine piece of work, while little Fern Thompson as Eavesdropper charmed everyone with her dainty and artistic performance. Miss Fraser and Mrs. E. Browning as Princess Varsavanna and Mrs. Drummond, Princess Varsavanna, were most attractive.

The other characters were also all taken without a sign of amateurishness. The little cats, the gnomes, the fairies, and the wood nymphs all added to the exceedingly picturesque presentation, and the last named under the direction of Miss Mitchell and Mrs. P. C. Keene was the accompanist, and Miss Marjorie Jones the violinist. Both did ably.

A feature was the attendance of the 215th band, who rendered several numbers in fine style. The bandmaster went to be heartily congratulated on the efficient condition to which he has brought the organization.

The Montessori Method of Interest to Mothers

A Summary of What the System Teaches and the Ends it is Sought to Attain.

Dr. Jennie B. Merrill, Supervisor of Kindergartens and Primary work in New York for 35 years says:

Every teacher must study all systems and remake them, adapting them to their own and the children's individuality. The Montessori Method is scientific because its principles are life principles and it co-relates with the grades that follow. One of the objections to the higher grades have to some of the primary methods in, they have to eliminate some of the practices and exercises the children cannot put in use in the higher grades. It is not only necessary for a child to work on an exercise, but he must learn to do it without making mistakes, this rule holds good not only throughout his school life but his whole life.

Dr. Montessori says his children work intensively rather than extensively and the stimuli must not only arouse activity it must also direct it. "The blackboard is a splendid medium of expression and concentration. The children work at it for twenty minutes at a time. At first their attempts are very crude. They never give up trying to make something, and as Dr. Montessori says, "when you have solved the problem of controlling the attention of the child, you have solved the entire problem of his education."

The first thing to conquer is the passive attention in the child. The old education made for a receptive personality, the modern conception is an active personality, reflective and associative.

For example, Dr. Montessori tells of one little girl of 3 who was working with the cylindrical insets, took them out and put them back 50 times. Yet most people think the little child has no stability of attention.

Some children can concentrate at once. Others fly from one object to another, but gradually I see them concentrate. In some children this is later developing than in others. Then again a stimulus which causes a child of 3 to repeat an act 50 times in success, may cause another child of 6 to repeat the act only 10 times. The child of 6 is capable of far greater attention than the child of 3 is and is able to repeat an act in which he is interested 200 times.

What have we done to help the child develop? Any teacher can dissipate the intellect of his pupil by directing it for him, but concentration can only be attained by the child himself. By this statement, I take it—Dr.

Montessori does not mean that the teacher is never to suggest, for it is necessary for the teacher to organize intellectual work for him.

The child overcomes himself and us too and reaches the goal with his inner forces of development and maturity lead. For instance, to repeat the primitive sounds of the child makes, is to detain him at length, in the formative period, a period full of difficulties. So often we hear a child trying to say words or talk, instead of enunciating the word slowly and clearly for him, we repeat his baby talk and that is a hindrance. You will hear some parents say their children never talked baby talk. The reason for this is, the parents did not talk baby talk to them, but from the first spoke correctly. Dr. Montessori has written four little booklets, the gist of her lectures given last year in California before the National Education Association. In the one on the "Imagination of the Little Child" she says: "The artistic production of the imagination 'is based on truth.' How often when you are telling stories to children they ask in it a true story? The stories should be based on real life, nature, history, biography, astronomy and founded on fact.

When the race was in its infancy training was not by any foresight for the future, but by the demand of the moment, as shown by the instinct of protection. But here is the great step in advance made by Dr. Montessori, in preparing the child, not only for the moment, the present, but all along his developing years.

It is an interesting fact that men who train animals use the following method. For a few weeks or a month after he has received a new dog, monkey, or whatever animal it may be, he makes no effort to train it. He watches it with a pad of paper and a pencil in his hand. He plays with it and takes notes. He records every natural spontaneous act of the animal, that might serve as the basis of a trick. Dr. Montessori, in her book on the Method asks us to observe the child. Note what he likes to do best, what is the most natural, encourage and work along this bent. We cannot train either children or animals without knowing their instincts and using them in process. Some children have an instinct for music, some for number, some for drawing, etc.

There are three important principles in Education we must observe. 1. The necessity of working in the direction of instinctive development. 2. To make discipline unchangeable. To be forever told what to do gets on the nerves of even the lower animals. So we need not be surprised when we find children rebellious, when being constantly told what to do, or, as some put it, ordered around or bossed about.

We train an animal to form fixed habits. Our training we feel is successful if he follows these habits blindly, but the child is a totally different organism. 3. We must give him such training that he will be able to react in new and appropriate ways to novel situations, to make judgments for himself and to defend them. The being able to react in new ways to novel situations, to make judgments for himself and to defend them is just what has made our Canadian soldiers famous in the present war, the being able to take the initiative and meet emergencies.

The best solution for the right kind of discipline is to so divide things that in some matters the child has almost entire responsibility and may work unmolested. For instance let him have charge of the toy closet, a garden, bed, or feed the dog. While in other matters he will be exposed to suggestion and may seek advice without feeling bound to follow it, and in still others he will be trained to absolute obedience. It is so easy to err in either direction. Too much natural education is as bad as too much blind obedience. It is the sporting chance that fascinates. Lead the child to regard prompt compliance with your request as a sort of free drill.

Lesson V.—Fourth Quarter. For Oct. 29, 1916.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Acts xxvii, 13-28. Memory Verses, 22-24—Golden Text, Ps. xxxvii, 5—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

Now Paul is off to Rome and has been delivered from his enemies in Jerusalem who so persistently sought his life. But the devil is sometimes permitted to rage on the sea as well as on the land, and Paul has more troubles ahead, but we shall see God glorified in all. Then there are so many "handfuls of purpose" to cheer us along the way (Ruth ii, 16) and lighten our journey. I hope he enjoyed the sea voyages, for to me they are so restful, and even storms are magnificently grand if one can keep a quiet mind and body. He had at least one good companion with whom he could have good fellowship on the voyage, Aristarchus of Thessalonica, who was afterward a fellow prisoner with him at Rome (verse 2 and Col. iv, 10).

At Sidon, where the ship called, Paul was given liberty to go to his friends and refresh himself (verse 3), and this must have been a good haulful and much appreciated. They changed ships at Myra, in Lycia, some distance south east of Ephesus, where they found a ship from Alexandria bound for Italy. They reached Crete safely, but, not realizing that Paul's advice to winter there and thinking that they had a favorable wind, they set sail. I shall never forget one of the most enjoyable sea trips of my life from Port Said, in Egypt, to Brindisi, in Italy, in 1897.

After some months of tropical heat in China and India and the sail up the Red sea, which the captain thought must have been doing in the summer months ever since 1857. How great have been my privileges! To Him be all the glory. Pardon this digression and give Paul and Crete the credit of it. The tempestuous wind and the being exceedingly tossed (verses 14, 18, 20) did not come my way on the Mediterranean, but I have known something of it on other seas and been kept in peace.

This was certainly a great storm that this ship fell into, for neither sun nor stars were seen for many days, and all hope of surviving the storm was given up (verse 26). We think of the works of the Lord and His wonders in the deep and at their wits' end and how He can make the storm a calm or in some other way deliver (Ps. cvii, 23-30). After many days and nights of this great storm Paul had a visitor from heaven, an angel of God, either the Lord Himself, as in xxiii, 11, or one of His faithful messengers, as in xx, 7, 9, with a word of good cheer for him and for all on board. Oh, these wonderful angels who excel in strength, who delight to do His bidding, who can run and return like lightning! (1's. ciii, 20, 21; Ezek. i, 14.) They have no fear and seem to have all power. Just think of this one faithful angel in the midst of this great storm and the one man on board of all the 276 whom he specially wanted (verse 37).

It should comfort us to know that such friends as these are ever ministering unto us (Heb. i, 14). The next day after this visit of the angel Paul was able to comfort all on board. How much even one person may do to help others if he is in touch with God! Paul was able to assure them that there would be no loss of life, not a hair of their heads harmed, and to encourage them to eat something, for they had eaten little or nothing for fourteen days (verses 22, 33-35). He took bread and gave thanks to God in the presence of them all and began to eat. Then they all did eat and were of good cheer. Note Paul's message concerning the angel visitor. "The angel of God, whose I am and whom I serve" (verse 23), and may the last seven words be ours always from the heart. He certainly believed for him self what he wrote to the Corinthians "Ye are not your own, for ye are bought with a price" (1 Cor. vi, 19, 20) If even a man lived it out he did, and knowing what it meant to serve the Lord with all humility of mind, he could urge others to serve the Living and True God (Acts xx, 19; 1 Thess. ii, 10). Then his words of strength and cheer to all these people were so grand, with every prospect, humanly speaking, of going down with the ship, and no reason for thinking otherwise but the message of the angel, he said so boldly, "Wherefore, sirs, be of good cheer, for I believe God that it shall be even as it was told me" (verse 25) And so it came to pass, and they escaped all safe to land (verse 44). We think of Abraham, who considered not himself nor Sarah, but was fully persuaded that what God had promised he was able to perform (Rom. iv, 19, 21) For twenty-one years the motto of my little monthly, Kingdom Tidings, has been "Abraham believed God. I believe God," and though the contrast between these two men of God and the work represented by this little monthly is very great, yet the principle is the same, and the words have been a great help to me.

Chiropractic Questions and Answers

WHAT IS CHIROPRACTIC?

Chiropractic is a scientific method of adjusting the cause of disease without drugs or instruments, based on a correct knowledge of the anatomy of the human body, and especially the nervous system.

WHAT IS A SUBLUXATION?

A subluxation is when two articulating surfaces have lost their proper relation to each other to a less extent than a dislocation or luxation.

WHAT IS AN ADJUSTMENT?

An adjustment is the re-establishing of co-ordination (health) between brain cell and tissue cell by a concussion of forces scientifically applied by hand for the elimination of the cause of disease.

See These Two Nerves?

The illustration here is designed to make it clear to those not educated in such things. When the nerves leave the backbone they must have room to work in. Note the upper nerve under the magnifying glass as it emerges from the spine. It is big, vigorous and healthy because it has plenty of room. Then note the nerve below—it is small and thin because the bone above it overlaps the bone below, as you can see. This pinches the nerve, cuts off its power or reduces it, and causes disease in whatever organ it supplies. The Chiropractor adjusts the bones back to their proper place, gives the nerve proper room and then nature steps in and does the curing. It is simple, but it is getting results in thousands of cases.

GREAT ACHIEVEMENT OF TANKS DUE LARGELY TO THEIR CREWS

New British Armored Cars are Latest and Most Wonderful Fruit of Present War—Some of Their Exploits

London, Oct. 28.—The "worship of the tanks" is getting a bit overdone. The peans of the uninformed grow louder and louder, and it would seem only incidentally that it is taken into account that the great battle in which they first appeared was won by men and not by machine. Some persons are talking and writing as if the "tanks" had won the war, while Mr. Lloyd George himself has warned everybody not to expect too much from them.

It is recalled in the Daily Express that at the beginning of the war mysterious references were made in the newspapers to a wonderful high explosive with which the French were going to blast the Prussians from the face of the earth. Its merits were discussed in messes, in ward-rooms at sea and at clubs and in drawing-rooms at home.

"We are," the Express says, "in spite of the war, a simple nation. We believed the yarns. We went even further and enlarged upon them, until a new surprise was launched on the top of us which completely eclipsed the old one.

There have been many surprises in the shape of invention, but of all the inventions which have borne fruit and prospered, the new mystery cars are the greatest. What are they like, these great, formidable, steel-clad monsters? Of what calibre are these tanks which override trenches and trees and dugouts and shell craters? Are they merely the mechanical perfections of the human brain, or in truth real devils that can put a battery of guns out of action, charge a prisoners' cage and enfilade a trench in one fell swoop?

"The Tank" in Action. The Prussian cannot tell you. Of a surety he must have thought some form of Satanic incarnation had broken loose when he saw the great mammoth-like "huses" rolling toward him in the cold, grey morning, menacing and ugly, utterly heedless of barbed wire and shell holes, plunging over mine craters, spitting fire and smoke as they came.

"They are wonderful cars, these tanks," Whose was the clever brain that thought them out and perfected them? Where and by whom were they made? The stories about them are almost as miraculous as the cars themselves. Here are a few "real truths" which have been circulated about them: "They carry a crew of 400 men. "They have 12-inch guns. "Their speed is 30 miles per hour, and "

"They were made by Swedes in Japan." "Whatever the tanks may be, whether fish, flesh, or good red herring, they are marvelously efficient. They are a real surprise, and, what is more, an effective one.

TEND TO PROMOTE PERMANENT PEACE

Dr. Margaret Gordon, Toronto Strongly Favors Somme Pictures.

Included among those who enthusiastically praise "The Battle of the Somme," official motion pictures, and who believe that their presentation to future generations will have a marked tendency to promote fraternal and permanent peace, is Dr. Margaret Gordon, 76 Spadina avenue, Toronto, head of the peace and arbitration committee of the Toronto council of women.

Dr. Gordon, whose committee is in obedience until the conclusion of the conflict has seen the official films, which will be publicly exhibited at the Regent theatre.

Dr. Gordon, who is an organizer and convener of the committee, has worked in the interests of pacifism for a long time. After she had seen the pictures, she immediately declared that the quickest and most effective way to end war was the placing of the real facts of warfare before the people with the stern realism for which these pictures are noted.

"The sooner the people see the real horrors of war, declared Dr. Gordon, "the sooner we will have peace and lasting peace. The Somme pictures certainly show the real horrors of armed conflict and are so graphic that they cannot but help to have a great effect upon those who view them. The public by all means should see the films."

Lloyd George, the most conspicuous figure in the British Empire, who is now holding the portfolio of secretary of state for war, expressed the same sentiments. He was unable to be present when the films were shown in England at the Scala theatre, but forwarded the following message.

"The Battle of the Somme" furious and desperate as it has been, is a first and most important phase of what is an historical struggle, unique in its scope and world-wide significance.

"I am convinced that when you have seen this wonderful picture, every heart will beat higher in sympathy with its cause and purpose which is no other than that every one of us at home and those abroad are doing and suffering for us, and shall see what our men at the front are doing and suffering for us, and how their achievements have been possible by the sacrifices at home.

Duty to See Pictures. Be up and doing also. See that this picture which is in itself an epic of self-sacrifice and gallantry reaches everyone. Herald the deeds of our brave men to the ends of the earth. This is your duty.

"Ladies, I feel that no word is necessary to urge upon you the importance of the picture in the whole ardor and strength of your invaluable aid. Mothers, wives, sisters and affianced ones, your hearts will beat, your voices will speak, in honor and glory of the living and the dead. You are great and powerful. This is your mission."

People sit spell bound, gripped with wonder and awe as the world drama of life and death on the banks of the Somme is reproduced, life-like and real, stirring the emotions and quickening the pulse.

It is actually the greatest and most remarkable living motion picture yet produced. As a dramatic representation, the production is complete. The films are divided into five sections, one thousand feet of film in each part.

Offensive Begins. The spectator sees a division waiting to move forward on June 30, and scenes at Bray indicate the Buffs and the Bedford's, the Suffolks and a battalion of the Royal Welsh Fusiliers moving up on the evening before the attack.

Fine Tribute Paid to Lt.-Col. Brooks and Staff

In Connection With the Leaving of Another Draft From Canadian Mounted Rifles.

(Hamilton Spectator) Stirling scenes were witnessed at the Mounted Rifles Barracks when the draft of 250 men and five officers proceeded on their journey overseas. Keen enthusiasm went hand in hand with regret. Enthusiasm on the part of those who counted themselves luck in being selected to be nearer the firing line, and regret on the part of those left behind that their earnest desires to be in the front rank must be a little longer delayed.

The scenes in the fitting hall where the whole regiment with their colonel and officers had the mid-day meal together, was such that will be a splendid memory to all. The splendid spirit of comradeship was the prominent note, and the redemption accorded Colonel Brooks on his rising to address the men threatened to raise the roof. He said that he was sure that every man would do credit to the regiment, and remembering the splendid deeds already accomplished by the men of Canada, they would do their utmost by ready obedience to make the path of duty a means of splendid service.

He impressed on them the importance of discipline, rapid fire and saluting. Major Gordon Smith, Major Patterson, Major Ball, Captain Hall, Captain Pugsley, Captain Bentham, Captain Sparks, Captain Taylor, Lieutenants Chambers, Duncan and Ryan also spoke.

A pleasant surprise was sprung on the chaplain, to whom Col. Brooks, on behalf of the staff presented a silver mounted riding crop. Captain Pugsley returned thanks.

Prior to leaving the men assembled in the recreation room where the chaplain gave a short address and gave every man a Testament and collection of prayers. Songs were provided through F. J. Howell by the children of the school, and cigarettes by the members of St. Cecilia chapter, Daughters of the Empire.

On the march to entrain at Stuart street station, the boys were met by the band of the 13th regiment, a compliment greatly appreciated. Final farewells were said, and the train pulled out at 4.20 p.m. amid loud cheering.

Proud Record. The Mounted Rifles have a record of which any regiment would be proud. Organized Oct. 20, 1915, the various squadrons, recruited from Brantford, Kingston, London, Toronto and Hamilton, came to Hamilton barracks as a unit in December, 1915, with a strength of 700. Since that time much has been accomplished nearly 1,400 men, passing through its ranks. This is a high tribute to the splendid organizing abilities of Colonel Brooks and the efficient staff who so loyally support him. In addition to a strenuous course of training, recruiting efforts were not relaxed, and the results are shown by the fact that during the past five months six drafts have been sent overseas, composed of 900 men, forming a continuous chain between Hamilton and the firing line. Major Stroud had charge of recruiting at Kingston and has been very successful; Major Ball at London, and Sgt. Robins and Corp. Wagstaffe have carried out recruiting efforts in Hamilton in a tactful and successful manner. In addition, a recruiting committee composed of Col. Brooks, Major Gordon Smith, Capt. Hall and the Chaplain, Capt. Pugsley, are constantly making direct appeals from the public platform. Capt. Rev. Geo. Pugsley is well known in this respect for his earnest and direct appeals. Once again the work has to be tackled to bring the regiment up to full strength. The county of Wentworth will be asked to provide a Wentworth troop, and this should appeal to the young men of the rural districts. The Recruiting League has already given full facilities at the various meetings to further this object. A large number of horses are in use and in the course of a week or so every man will have the equitation course. The slogan of the regiment, "A quick passage overseas," is certainly being fully verified, and many young men to whom the call of empire appeals, will rally around Colonel Brooks and his boys of the Mounted Rifles, the only cavalry corps now recruiting in Canada.

NOTED FORGER OF INTERNATIONAL FAME DEAD IN NEW YORK CITY

Charles Becker, One of the World's Cleverest Penmen Cashes His Checks After 25 Years' Reformation

New York, Oct. 28.—Charles Becker, once known to the police of large cities on both sides of the Atlantic as one of the cleverest forgers the world ever saw, is dead, at his little home in the seclusion of East New York. For 25 years the man who had an international reputation as the chief of counterfeiters had led the life of a reformed man.

Becker was born in Germany, learned the engraver's trade and came to America while still a young man. George Engles and George Wilkes, well known counterfeiters, learned of his skill, and he became associated with them.

His police record began in 1872, when he was implicated in the robbery of the Third National Bank of Baltimore. He fled to Europe with "Little Joe" Elliott, there met Jos. Chapman, Ivan Sicovitch, and others, and formulated a plan by which he and his partners began to flood Turkey with cleverly forged sight drafts.

Finally they were arrested and sentenced to three years and six months in the prison at Smyrna, Turkey. Becker, Elliott and Sicovitch escaped and made their way to London, where they lived in the house of Chapman, presided over by Mrs. Chapman. One day Mrs. Chapman was found dead, her money and jewelry missing. Sicovitch, who was suspected of the murder, fled to America and, in 1876, Becker and Elliott followed.

Becker, Elliott and Clement Herling were arrested in New York in 1877 for a $64,000 forgery on the Union Trust Company. Becker tutored State's evidence and Elliott was convicted.

With Engles, Becker was arrested in January of 1881 on suspicion of being involved with Wilkes and others, under arrest in Italy, of floating large quantities of forged paper in Europe. They were eventually discharged.

Later in the same year Becker was arrested, with Nathan Marks, charged with counterfeiting 1,000-franc notes of the Bank of France. He was convicted and sentenced to six years and six months in the King's County Penitentiary.

After his release Becker gave up his old life and went to live with his wife at a house in Bradford street. Later he went into the saloon business, but did not succeed. His last employment was as a race track guard.

During his "retirement" Becker won many wagers from friends that he could imitate their signatures to checks so that the checks would be cashed without question.

SISTERS THREE

Well, Keeper, we may as well be getting back. There is not much more to be said to a lady in that frame of mind. We will go home and I will think things over. I wonder what Jim Kildare will be like when he comes back, and whether he is the kind of person one would ask questions of or take advice from? My own impression is that Morwenna Gull wants watching pretty closely. Well, there is one good thing done—she cannot prove about those ruins any more, and I don't if her pride will let her approach Gaston's Keep by any other way."

But though they talked about him bay on the homeward tack Morwenna's words came back to her again and again, and though there was some to see her now, she felt the crimson rise again in her face.

"What a fool I am!" she cried aloud. "I shall begin to blush next when Jim Kildare is talked about."

But though they talked about him all that evening, Gipsy never once blushed or even thought of doing such a thing.

Chapter XXX.

When the boat approached the sun bathed rocks there were two figures pacing the rocky terrace of Sunrise Reef overlooking the bay. Allardyce felt her heart beating fast. It was like a dream that is merging into reality—a dazzling reality—almost confusing in its wonder and delight. Her delicate face was glowing with an inward light. A soft, shy happiness lighted her dreamy eyes. She knew that to-day there were two to welcome her as she brought her boat alongside the landing-stage. The hand that gripped hers to help her out was a hand of iron, and the strength which lightly swung her to their own level—for the tide was low to-day—was as the strength of a young athlete.

"Allardyce, this is my boy Jim—come to thank you for all you have done."

Allardyce raised her eyes. She had to raise them a long way, for the son was taller than his father, though from the clear, steadfast blue eyes there gleamed the same sort of look which the girl surprised in the General's when she had charmed him into a happier mood.

Brave, blue eyes they were, with sea-lights in them, set in a handsome face, which once, she was sure, had been a very merry one—perhaps almost too carelessly merry, but which had grown more grave, more steadfast during these years of an ordeal terrible to think of. It was a face like his father's, but also like the mother, whose portrait hung upon the study wall, with straight strong features, a little worn and hollow, but finely modelled and with much of masculine beauty in their outline; thick level brows and bright brown hair close-cropped, which looked as though it would wave if ever suffered to grow long enough; a short upper lip with an upward curl in a smile that was quite irresistible.

Allardyce found herself smiling back while Jim held both her hands in his and said in a voice not altogether free from the tremor of emotion.

"There are things which a fellow has no words in which to frame his thanks, and this is one of them."

Allardyce turned to the General and was folded in his arms.

"My dear child, my very dear child, then I shall have to do this, and thinking for the pair of us. And if you are the little witch you often seem to be, and can read what is written on my heart, you will know without any words what I am feeling to-day."

"Ah, please, don't say any more. If anybody is to be thanked it is Miss Willoughby."

"My dear children," said the General, as he held in one hand that of his son and took in the other the slender fingers of Allardyce, "we are deeply thankful for the mercies which have befallen us by Providence; deeply thankful that my boy is once again a free man, with no stain upon his character, and that you, Miss Allardyce, were the instrument, under Providence, to bring about this release."

Allardyce bent her head; Jim bowed his. For a few tense moments the three stood thus together. Their hands dropped and the General led the way upwards to the rocky terrace the girl knew so well. There Jim had been brought out; it was laid for breakfast. Already the old soldier servant, his eyes brimming with happiness, his movements quickened by the joy in his heart, was bringing out hot rolls, coffee, and covered dishes. Allardyce had been watched for. Her early visit had been stipulated for. There were many eagerly waiting to welcome the wanderer home, but Allardyce was to be the first.

"I don't apologise for our all fresco arrangements," said Jim as she exclaimed in delight. "You will understand how I feel about walls and doors. I want to be every moment of every moment in the wind and the sunshine—free to go where I will, and with the smile of the sea in my eyes."

"I know, I know," cried Allardyce. "That is how I felt in London; you had more than a year of it. I thought I knew at the end just how a prisoner must feel."

Jim's face was suddenly grave, save that the eyes were eagerly bright, the vivid blue being almost startling deep.

"The young attractive face grew eager."

"There is a truth in it," he said, "and from time to time one is able to feel it. I think perhaps if it were not so one would go mad. When you get your letters—letters that help join in the service; or somebody comes to see you and breaks the isolation—well, in a way you feel it more sometimes, but it does you good. You know that there are things to live for and that—well, the time will pass somehow. And when you get out in the open—by Jove, that's an experience one doesn't forget! Not in the prison yard, but out in the quarries, with the sky wide above you, and a cool in your hand to put your strength into—that's good—that's fine! You are your own man again then! And every day gone is one day off! That begins to help you along tremendously, especially after a bit. A life sentence must be unpeppable; but a few years—and just the hope always of something turning up—"

"And knowing that you were innocent—that you were bearing it all for a friend! The girl's eyes shone as she turned them on him, and Jim's bronzed face blushed.

"Oh, please, don't make a sort of

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" Brought The Joy Of Health After Two Years' Suffering

MADAM LAPLANTE
85 St. Rose St., Montreal, April 4th.
"For over two years I was sick and miserable. I suffered from constant Headaches, and had Pulpitation of the Heart so badly that I feared I would die. There seemed to be a lump in my stomach and the Constipation was dreadful. I suffered from Pain in the Back and Kidney Disease.

I was treated by a physician for a year and a half and he did me no good at all. I tried 'Fruit-a-tives' as a last resort. After using three boxes, I was greatly improved and twelve boxes made me well. Now I can work all day and there are no Headaches, no Pulpitation, no Heart Trouble, no Constipation, no Pain or Kidney Trouble and I feel like a new being—and it was 'Fruit-a-tives' that gave me back my health."

hero of me! I was so sure that something was going to happen sooner or later—that Willoughby would manage it all when he heard, that it was only a case of waiting a few weeks and I'd be free again, that I didn't bother much about my defence. Willoughby had been an awfully good friend to me. He'd done me no end of good turns. I'd been in and out of his quarters, messed with the regiment—everything you can think of. I just couldn't say it was his doing. But I knew he'd find out a way. He had his sister, and she had influential friends. They were well connected and could work the oracle somehow. So I wasn't much bothered at the first, except that it stopped me going out with the irregulars; and of course a convict's life isn't exactly a bed of roses! Still, it was an experience. I thought I would write a novel when I got out. I amused myself by making up a lot of stuff."

He paused, half laughing, and then glancing sideways at his father, a look of loving understanding and confidence passing between them which Allardyce delighted to see.

"It was his coming to see me that upset me a bit; it was such a blow to him. And he brought me the news that Willoughby was dead; and that staggered me a bit. But I thought that when his papers came home—so one way or another I got through the first year without altogether losing hope. After that I did go through rather a bad bit. But, luckily for me, I've Irish blood in my veins, and no Paddy ever says die, though he may feel downer than his own boots. All the Paddy in me rose fighting! So long as you've something to fight you're never lost. I fought all the boys one by one, and the sky at sunset, and the girl drew her breath with a quick intake—the sight of the sea and the coast from here was so beautiful and so grand.

"They looked over the sea, and then suddenly at one another, and Allardyce felt such a keen rush of emotion rise up within her that the tears hung upon her lashes before she was aware. And he saw them. He read their meaning, and he reverently possessed himself of one of her slender hands which was pressed against the rock over which they leaned by placing his own brown, well-shaped, but toll-hardened one about it. She thrilled at the touch and heeb peace.

"Although I have no words of thanks," he said, "yet my heart is simply singing and bursting with gratitude and joy. I think I need not tell you that."

"All our hearts are very joyful to-day." The soft voice trembled a little, for the girl's heart was full to overflowing.

"I know—know! I feel it everywhere in everything! And just as we stand together here—you and I—I want to say something to you that I shall perhaps say to nobody else except my father. I want to tell you that I see now that I wanted some discipline in my life. I had had too little. It was not any fault of my father. I went to school and college and all that, but I got along too easily everywhere; and I wanted

Advertisers are Meeting

By Courier Leased Wire.
Toronto, Oct. 27.—The annual meeting of the Association of Canadian Advertisers was held here today. A strong sentiment was expressed by the members against advertising in publications offering premiums. It was pointed out by some of the members that it was not unlikely that the price of newspapers would have to be increased, one cent falls being advanced to two cents owing to the great increased cost of publication. It was contended that at present 75 per cent of the cost of production was born by the advertiser, which was an unfair proportion.

L. R. Greene of Hamilton, was elected president, G. E. Morrow, of Montreal vice-president and J. R. Kirkpatrick, Toronto, treasurer.

All Must Have Certificates

By Courier Leased Wire.
Toronto, Oct. 27.—Until further notice, all children under 16 years of age, coming from the province of Ontario to the city of Toronto, must have a medical certificate signed within 24 hours of their departure to prove that they are in good health and have not been exposed to infantile paralysis. The order was issued at the parliament buildings this morning, and is signed by Dr. McCulloch, secretary of the provincial board of health. The railway companies are being notified, and a medical health officer is being sent from Cornwall to Montreal to make the necessary arrangements to put the order into immediate effect.

Fans Paid For Missiles

Which They Then Proceeded to Hurt at the Umpire

If the story that Empire "Red" Held, of the Pacific Coast League, took away with him from Salt Lake City is to be believed, then one doesn't have to be a minor to make money out of crushed rock in the Mormon city. Held got in bad with the fans in a recent series in Salt Lake, and several near riots were staged with the umpire as the storm center.

According to Held, the irate fans, having exhausted pop bottles, cashed and ordinary missiles meant for the unpopular umpire, supplied themselves with rocks, which were sold by peanut vendors to the ball park patrons at five cents a throw, so to speak.

The peanut vendors did a rushing business, and all the pebbles they could gather found a ready sale.

Held says it's a wonder he wasn't killed, for the showers of stones that greeted him were well aimed, and he had to keep on the jump. The umpire also, says that the newspapers of Salt Lake encouraged the fans in their lawlessness, and the police authorities winked their eyes at the assaults. Umpire "Kitty" Brashear, who worked with Held, admits the newspapers were largely to blame, but does not confirm the story of the peanut boys peddling rocks.

Brashear did have an incident to relate that matches the rock-peddling story. "Everybody seemed to harbor a delusion that the umpires had been instructed to favor Los Angeles," said he. "One man wrote in to a paper and suggested that the Salt Lake club use substitutes against Vernon in an effort to assist that team to overtake the Angels. He signed himself 'Yours for Clean Sport.'"

SAVE YOUR HAIR! HAIR GETS THICK, WAVY, BEAUTIFUL

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scurf.

There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair-roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast. A little Danderine to-night—now—any time—will surely save your hair.

Get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and after the first application your hair will take on that life, lustre and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and fluffy and have the appearance of abundance, an incomparable gloss and softness; but what will please you most will be after just a few weeks' use, when you will actually see a lot of fine, downy hair—new hair—growing all over the scalp.

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.

Americans May Direct Plot

By Courier Leased Wire.
Washington, Oct. 27.—Government officials hoped today that publication of Secretary of War Baker's statement that his department had received word another Mexican bandit attack on the American border has been planned by enemies of the administration would have the effect of causing abandonment of the plot. Commanders of United States forces received warning, however, and were expected to take extra precautions against attack which the war department's information indicated was to occur before election day. The department of justice was investigating the reports in an effort to prosecute any persons who may be directing the plot from the American side of the border. Eliseo Arratondo, Mexican ambassador designate, said similar reports reaching him two weeks ago indicated American advocates of intervention in Mexico were assistant Mexican bandits in planning the plot.

Health Officer Hassler, of San Francisco, forbid street car conductors holding their fingers when making out transfer tickets. Says practice is unsanitary.
Sir Thomas White addressed Halifax Board of Trade on the necessity of the people conserving their savings, noting that over $1,730,000 daily is being spent in Canada on war business.

French Praised For Bravery

By Courier Leased Wire.
Paris, Oct. 27.—General Nivelle, the French commander at Verdun, has addressed the following proclamation to General Mangin and the officers and men of his command who participated in the recent French advance north of that city.
Officers and men of General Mangin's group:
"In four hours by a magnificent assault you wrested at one blow from a powerful enemy, ground northeast of Verdun bristling with obstacles and fortifications, which he took eight months to tear from us, bit by bit at the cost of desperate efforts and considerable sacrifices. You have added fresh and splendid glory to the flags of the enemy of Verdun. In the name of that army I thank you. You have deserved well of your country."

Rolling Stones
"If you see anything you like, grab it."

That is the pleasant philosophy of the which guides Buck Ryder and Dave Fulton in their rather hazardous existence. Day after day, more of a theorist than Buck, who though an amiable chap and most likeable, is willing to go to extremes in carrying out his scheme of things which Dave does not approve.

So when Buck persuades his friend to pose as Jerry Braden for the purpose of winning the hand and fortune of Norma Nozka, according to her uncle's will, Dave thoroughly dislikes the idea of deceiving the girl and is only held steadfast in his purpose by Dave's continuous urging.

Since Dave in this case is Owen Moore and Norma is Marguerite Courtot, and it all happens in the Famous Players' Film Company's adaptation of Edgar Selwyn's celebrated comedy-drama, "Rolling Stones," it will be revealingly interesting. It will be revealed at the Brant Theatre next week, where this Paramount picture will be the feature attraction.

"Rolling Stones" is a delightful mixture of comedy and thrilling melodrama, and contains several of the most interesting comic characters. There is Mrs. Branigan, the czarina of the boarding house and her very humble and unwillingly her husband. Then there is the real Jerry Braden and his frantically excited wife who does not like the idea of her coming to the wicked city of "Claw" and who finally decides to follow him to town. Place all these in the same boarding house with Norma, Buck and Dave and you will be perfectly justified in expecting something to happen. It does with breathless speed that keeps one laughing, thrilling, from start to finish.

Among those whom Director Del Henderson has gathered in support of Miss Courtot and Mr. Moore are Denman Maley, Alan Hale and Ida Fitzhugh.

This is one of the first releases made by the pioneer producers after the formation of the Famous Players-Lasky combination.

"Somebody"
When the eccentric professor in the farce comedy, "Somebody," which is to be seen here next week at the Grand, shouts, "Eureka! I've got it! I've found it!" in the first act and when interrogated with "What?" he answers, "The secret of a lifetime—the invention of the 'finess'!" right at that moment, complications begin and a whole lot of them are evolved, for the old professor is proclaiming that he has discovered the Elixir of Youth—the moving cause of all the mirth of times, and situations in this play of such hilarious tendencies. It is a good, clean, wholesome laugh-getter, and several characters will be interestingly interpreted by the very clever actress, Grace Merritt, who will be seen as the daughter of the aged discoverer of the Elixir of Youth, assisted by Caroly Hayward, Gertrude Johnson, Celeste Leslie, Dorothy Gray, Don MacMillan, Sterling Chiseldine, Homer Hume, Sam, Black and William Moore, among others.

Mary Pickford, probably the most popular star in the world of motion picture-dom to-day, will appear at the Brant theatre next week in her latest feature vehicle "Hulda From Holland." In the course of her career, Miss Pickford has appeared in an infinite variety of roles, and she here takes the part of a Dutch maiden on as good effect as ever before.

The Clifton sisters present a classic special scenery, while the five Juglers and Normans bear the reputation of being the fastest club manipulators in their profession.

Owen Moore and Marguerite Courtot will appear in "Rolling Stones," the instalment of "The Iron Claw" will be shown, while Grace and Ernie Fessenden will appear in a scene for "The Kiss" in which she is co-starred with Owen Moore by the Famous Players, for the "Paramount Program." Robert B. Vignola made Miss Courtot climb a tree in a dainty silk dress in her efforts to escape from Moore after he had kissed her. Then, after she had climbed out of the reach of everybody, the little star got panicky and refused to come down. As a result, the rest of the action was held up for an hour while various members of the company scoured the surrounding country for a ladder.

The recent spell of balmy weather brought a wall of protest from Pauline Frederick when the beautiful Famous Players star was summoned from her country home in Mountain Lake to begin work on her next Paramount picture. Miss Frederick complained that the summer had gone and that it was really winter to waste those few early October days expressly intended for play.

But her director was obdurate and the exquisite creature who ensnares men into doing her slightest wish on the screen, returned to the studio at the best of her unimpressable and very business-like director.

Louise Huff is never going to do it again—never. She is playing Lola Pratt in the Famous Players adaptation of Booth Tarkington's "Seventeen" in which she is co-starring with Jack Pickford for the Paramount Program. It will be remembered that Lola is the toy dog companion in Floppy, the toy dog to whom she incessantly talks baby talk. Miss Huff was so delighted with the little dog that was used for the role of Floppy that she decided to take him home with her one night. But as luck would have it, the little fellow slipped out of her sight, while she was taking him for a constitutional and completely disappeared. Poor Miss Huff was in a panic if the dog was not found, every scene which had been taken during the last three weeks would have been ruined as the dog of the picture rushed into tears and began to sob out her story. The bluecoat, being susceptible to feminine charms, proceeded to institute a search and the little runaway was eventually discovered curled up in a baby carriage about fifty feet from Miss Huff's home. After this, Floppy will remain in the studio.

There was considerable excitement in a fashionable boarding school just outside of New York the other day when two big motor cars filled with humanity and camera tripods, drew up upon the steps of the building. The occupants proceeded to stage several scenes before the camera. It was Margaret Clark, Director J. Searle Dawley and the members of the "Miss George Washington" company preparing a new Famous Players subject for the Paramount program.

The adroit press agent is one who creates news or having news thrust upon him, proceeds to share it with the largest possible part of the public. Unfortunately, the press agent so frequently is forced to resort to the "creation" of news that he is known in some circles as a plain, unvarnished liar. With what envy gentlemen of the press consider Margaret Clark when she appears upon the screen in "Miss George Washington," the story of a girl who could not tell the truth, which is her next Famous Players production for the Paramount Program. For five long reels does the delightful Miss Clark fabricate, prevaricate, evade, fib and just plain lie. It was suggested by one heartless wretch that the picture be renamed "The Press Agent's Paradise, or One Good Lie Deserves Another."

"Ain't it funny what a difference just a few miles make," if one may be permitted to take liberties with a well known song title. It was only a few weeks ago that Mae Murray, newly arrived in New York from means of identification. Hulda alone in New York with three little children and not a soul that she knows!

But the brave little girl finds a counsellor and friend in the keeper of a boarding house with whom she finds temporary employment. The injury to Uncle Peter is almost as serious a blow to President Walton of the New Central Railway for he has been trying to force a right of way through the obstinate old man's farm and, now when he has only three more days in which to bring matters to a head, Uncle Peter has suddenly disappeared.

Hulda, meanwhile, has interested an Italian organ grinder by her eccentric dances and while rehearsing, she falls through a skylight, arriving very unceremoniously in the studio of young Walton, the son of the railway man. The unconventional meeting results in a deep friendship between the girl and when the elder Walton hits upon the scheme of using his son as a means of reaching the old man through his furtherance, the boy goes much further than his parent had outlined.

"Hulda From Holland" was directed by John B. O'Brien and several support of Miss Pickford are given by Frank Losee, John Bowers, Russell Bassett, Charles Vernon, and Little Haral Hollacher.

NOTES OF THE MOVIES

One frequently uses the expression that someone is "up a tree," meaning that he is in a predicament. Marguerite Courtot was "up a tree" and in a predicament to boot the other day during the taking of a scene for "The Kiss" in which she is co-starred with Owen Moore by the Famous Players, for the "Paramount Program." Robert B. Vignola made Miss Courtot climb a tree in a dainty silk dress in her efforts to escape from Moore after he had kissed her. Then, after she had climbed out of the reach of everybody, the little star got panicky and refused to come down. As a result, the rest of the action was held up for an hour while various members of the company scoured the surrounding country for a ladder.

PURE RICH BLOOD PREVENTS DISEASE

Bad blood—that is, blood that is impure or impoverished, thin and pale,—is responsible for more ailments than anything else.

It affects every organ and function. In some cases it causes catarrh; in others, dyspepsia; in others, rheumatism; and in still others, weak, languid feelings and nervous troubles.

It is responsible for run-down conditions, and is the most common cause of disease.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is the greatest purifier and enricher of the blood the world has ever known. It has been wonderfully successful in removing scrofula and other humors, increasing the red-blood corpuscles, and building up the whole system. Get it today.

FRENCH Germany CONSCRIPTION IS DEFEAT Note Taken in Australia For Ge Military Service London, Oct. 30.—Only half votes cast in Saturday's ballot Australia on the question of compulsory military service have been far counted, says a dispatch Reuter's Melbourne correspondent limited at noon on Sunday. The election is that a total of 2,000 votes will be found to have polled. Additional returns from West tralia, adds the correspondent, reduced the majority for the opponents of conscription to 75,000. An interview with a well-known Australian authority, published the Observer, attributes the number of anti-conscription votes Australia to the alienation of large Irish vote by the failure of Home Rule negotiations and to syndicalist views of industrial organizations.
