Daughter of Gen. Robt. E. Lee Arrested

For Violating Rule of Washington Electric Car Line Company.

al to the Daily Nugget. Washington, June 22 .- Miss Marv Curtie Lee, daughter of General Robt. E. Lee, was arrested at Alexandria. Va., charged with violating the law which provides for the separation of white and colored passengers on the Washington, Alexandria & Mt. Vernon electric railway. Miss Lee boarded a car at Washington, D. C., and without realizing it took a seat in the portion reserved for colored people. Being comfortably seated and encumbered with many parcels, she refused to move forward when sked by the conductor.

The Nugget hails this condition of affairs as a forerunner of the greater WANTED-By competent woman, and more prosperous era for the country which this paper has so steadfastly predicted.

In nearly all municipalities of any size or importance it is made one of the duties of the city clerk or other officer to keep a record of all buildings erected or improvements made. This is accomplished by the issuance of a building permit which must be secured before construction on any building to cost more than an established minimum be begun. The ermit usually contains the size of the building to be erected and the approximate cost thereof. The value of such information for statistical and other purposes is at once apparent. A record thus kept would furnish a basis for valuations which would be of great assistance to the ax aspessor and which for the information of intending investors would be of great service. We suggest to the city council the adoption of some such system with the additional suggestion that as an innovatian in matters governmental the permits be issued without charge.

Inspect the Service

Among the passengers on the Lavelle Young leaving Saturday evening for lower river points was Major Maxfield, paymaster on General Randall's stall, who has been detailed to Alaska on special duty looking after the signal service. Major Maxfield will stop at all the lower river stations between Eagle and Nome ure for its space and in justification wherever the telegraph line touches, wherever the telegraph line touches, its circulation five times that of any their paper published between Juneau barracks, Washington, late in the fall via St. Michael. Drowns in Kettle River

Grand Forks, B. C., June 12. -John Sucksmith, a saw mill owner of this city, was drowned yesterday evening in the Kettle river, seven miles below here. His two companions, John A. Keogh, his manager, and A. Wicks, had a narrow scape from meeting the same fate. Wicks clung to the upturned boat until rescued, and Keogh, after a desperate struggle in the icy waters, reached shore in an exhausted condition. The body of Mr. Sucksmith has not yet been recovered.

The trio left the city in the afternoon, in search of a raft of logs which had broken loose further up the stream. At a point six miles below the intention of overtaking the fugitive boom. Next season will witness a revolution in freight traffic on the lower river, a change that will reduce fates very materially and also lessen the time between St. Michael and Dawson several days. That which is to produce the effect so greatly desired is the substitution of crude petrola eum for fuel instead of wood upon all the steamers of the Northern Commercial fleet. Manager E. A. Mizner is recently in receipt of a letter from the head office of his company in San Francisco to the effect that a four years' contract has been entered into between the N. C. Co. and one of the large oil syndicates of California by which the latter agrees to furnish all the crude oil necessary for the entire fleet laying it down in St. Michael for $1.25 a barrel. Immense storage tanks will be erected at St. Michael from which the oil will be distributed to the various stations along the river by one of the company's steamers together with an oil barge specially. fitted up for the purpose. Of these stations there will be six in number, the last one being at Eagle which will be of capacity larger than usual to enable boats to take on sufficient fuel to reach Dawson and return. The tanks will be in close proximity to the landings and fitted with pipe lines so that in taking on a cargo all that will be necessary will be to connect a hose with the storage tank on the steamer and open the gate, the tank filling by gravity and the entire operation requiring but 12 minutes. At the close of the present rying their supply of fuel and such burners as are required under the boilers. By an ingenious arrangement the latter will be so constructthe city they took a row boat with few moments time the grates can be rearranged for the consumption of cost alone a tremendous saving will be effected. The basis of comparison on the outside is that two barrels of one cord of wood, and in Alaska and the Yukon it will be ever account of the inferior quality of the wood as compared with that found in California. But even at that comparison the cost of fuel under the new system will be equivalent to only $2.50 a cord as against $8 to $10, the present price of wood. Another gain will be in lessening the time between St. Michael and Dawson. It will be necessary to stop but six times for fuel and the majority of such delays will be at ports where there will be freight to be discharged, the taking on of fuel simultaneous with the unloading of the cargo effecting an additional saving of time. More cargo space will be available by the use of oil, a less number of deckhands will be required, and, in fact, the advantages to be gained are of unusual consequence. Where 12 days are required to make a trip up from St. Michael now, such boats as the Hannah, Sarah and Susie will in the future make the run in eight days. One of the smaller steamers will be employed constantly in distributing the oil to the stations and the entire fleet, even to the boats on the Kovukuk and the tugs about St. Michael, will go on an oil burning basis.

"The lessening of the time," said Manager Mizner, "between St. Michael and here and the tremendous saving in the cost of fuel will enable us next year to do something in the way of rates that may well be described as unprecedented."

Heney to Build Road

From an old resident of Valdes who has just returned from the States we learn that the projectors of the Alaskan Gulf and Yukon railroad have given a contract to Mg. Heney for the building of the road, the terms of which authorize him to proceed with the work just as soon as a favorable report is received from the mines. The company have engaged four experts who will arrive here next month and proceed to the property on which they are to pass judgment. They would come sooner but desire to give the men now employed on the mines an opportunity to open the property sufficient to investigate the same.

If these men find the proposition to be what it is reported to be then we can look for busy times here for there will be plenty of money forthcoming. In an interview with Mr. Heney, our correspondent learned that he is inclined to favor Valden as the terminal for the road. - Valdes
