"Flowers of the Valley,"

MABEL HOWARD,
OF THE LYRIC.

CHAPTER XVII.
A MINIATURE PAGANINI.

But where? That was the question! She made her way into the Strand and mingled in the stream that flowed westward, and she went. Each moment she felt more than before how like she was to the feather in the rive!

She began, too, to feel the truth of the proverb: "There is safety in numbers." Even if Mr. Barrington or Lord Clarence should discover that she had ridden to London in the carrier's cart, it would be difficult for them to trace her in this multitude. But every individual of the throng in which she moved had some abiding place and home, and as yet she had none!

At first she thought of going to a hotel, but she shrank from the idea. To gain a little quietude, for the noise of the traffic was bewildering to her, she went into a confectioner's and got a cup of milk and a biscuit, and over this she sat and pondered. She had read of heroines who had been cast adrift in London, and they had invariably met with some accident, which introduced them to the rescuing hero and all had eventually ended happily for both. But she was not a heroine in a novel, and there was no likelihood of any such happy chance for her.

At last she rose and paid for her milk and biscuit and went out into the Strand again, having arrived at no decision whatever. From the Strand she walked to St. James' Park and there she sat down, her bag beside her. Her eyes fixed wearily and perplexedly upon the green trees, which recalled, in every leaf, the dear woods of Knighton which she had left forever! Before her passed the nursemaids with their children, the tall gardeners in attendance; strollers in pairs, and arm in arm; and now and again they glanced at the quiet figure sitting so motionless and inert. Presently a young lad came along the gravel path. She looked at him as absent as she had looked at the other passers-by, but for some reason her eyes settled upon him, and she watched him with something like attention. He was a pretty boy, with long, fair hair that fell upon his collar; in one hand he carried a violin case and in the other a stick upon which he leaned, and Iris saw that he was lame. His face was very pale and wore the look which denotes suffering and the pain-borne hero.

As he came nearer he raised his eyes from the ground, upon which they had been bent, and Iris was struck by their beautiful, translucent blue. He limped along so slowly that she had plenty of time to regard him, and when he reached the seat upon which she sat, he glanced at it wistfully, but seeing that it was partly occupied, was going on with a timid smile, when Iris, obeying an impulse, drew her dress closer and moved further toward the end.

It was so plain an invitation that the boy stopped, and flushing vividly, drew near and seated himself, but at a respectful distance from Iris.

Looking down at him, she was surprised to see that what she had taken for a child of ten or twelve was a lad of sixteen or seventeen; she saw also that he was poorly clad, and that his face was pinched and wasted, and the small hands thin and drawn. Leaning back against the seat, he sat, his fingers clasped on the violin case, his eyes half closed, and Iris could hear the long-drawn breaths of weariness and weakness.

He was so small and weak-looking that Iris' heart felt drawn toward him, and in her gentlest voice she said: "Have you walked far?"

The lad started, flushed, and turned his blue eyes upon her with a faint wonder and gratitude that she should speak to him.

"Yes, miss," he replied; "I have walked rather far."
"You look tired," said Iris, compassionately.

"I am tired, I think," he admitted, timidly. "It is hot in the streets, and I thought I would walk as far as the park and see the trees," and he looked round wearily; "they always do me good, if I feel ever so bad."

"I understand," said Iris, softly. "Is that a violin you have there?"

His eyes lit up, and he patted the case with a gesture of affection difficult to describe.

"Yes, yes; this is my violin," he said, in a brighter voice. "Do you play it?"

Iris shook her head.

"But you—you are fond of music, miss?" he asked, with a wistful eagerness.

Iris smiled.

"There are very few people who are not, are there?" she said.

He nodded once or twice.

"I suppose there are not, thank Heaven! I thought you were fond of music," he added, almost to himself.

Iris smiled again.

"Why did you think that?" she said, more for the sake of keeping him talking, for her loneliness was telling upon her and creating an aching desire for some human companionship, and the soft, low voice of the crippled lad fell like music itself on her ear.

His pale face flushed, and he glanced up at her deprecatingly.

"I—I don't know. It was your face, I suppose, miss," he answered, meekly. "I think I can always tell."

"You must be very clever!—you are so young," she was going to say, but stopped.

"I, clever?" he echoed, with a smile, and he shook his head. "No, miss; I can do nothing but play my violin."
"Most people cannot do that," said Iris, encouragingly.

"Because they don't try," he said, simply.

he looked at her and then from side to side.

"I—I don't know," he answered in a vaguely troubled voice. "Because you made room for me, and—and have spoken so kindly, miss. I—I beg your pardon."

He was meekly limping off, when Iris rose and laid her hand on the violin case.

"Let me carry this for you a little way," she said; "you are still tired."

"Oh, no, no!" he remonstrated; but Iris took it out of his hand—it did not require anything more than the gentlest force—and walked beside him. When they reached the park gates, he stopped and held out his hand for the case.

"I mustn't take you any farther out of your way, miss," he said. "Thank you very much for all your kindness!"

"You have not taken me out of my way," said Iris, and she added mechanically, "I have no way!"

The lad looked at her with faint wonder.

"Are you a stranger here, miss?" he said, timidly.

"Yes," replied Iris. "What place is this?" for they had crossed the road and entered a long, quiet street.

"This is Markham street, and that is Oxford street. Where do you want to go, miss?" and he stopped again and looked at her anxiously.

"Your friends, miss?" he suggested, humbly.

Iris' lips quivered.

"I have no friends," she said, smiling bravely.

His wonder grew, and he looked up at the beautiful face which had worn so gentle an aspect toward him with wistful eagerness.

"No friends—and you a lady?"

"It is quite true; I have no friends, no place to go to in this great, big city," said Iris, trying to speak cheerfully, as one would to a child. "Do you know London very well, I dare say!—do you know of any place where I could get lodgings?"

She put the question as timidly as he himself could have done, and for the moment the poor, crippled boy and the lady seemed to have exchanged places.

He shook his head.

"Not fit for such a poor, miss?" he said; "I only know poor places—"

"It is a poor place I want," said Iris. "But let us walk on, it is a shame to keep you standing so long. Do you live far from here?"

"No," he said; "in the next street, miss."

"Well, then," said Iris, "you must let me carry your violin case home for you."

He offered no remonstrances now, but walked on, his blue eyes bent thoughtfully to the ground.

Presently they entered a small, quiet street with a "blind" end to it, and he stopped at one of the houses and looked at Iris uncertainly.

"This is where I live, miss," he said, hesitatingly. "It is a poor place—"

"It is very quiet," said Iris, with a sigh, for small and grim as the street was, it looked quiet and respectable, and it seemed in her outcast condition a very haven of refuge!

"Life Despaired Of."

38, De Burch Street, Cardiff, South Wales. 30/3/20.

To "VIROL," LTD., Gentlemen.

I have much pleasure in forwarding a photo of my son. He was so small at birth and such a weakling that his life was despaired of. He was tried with several of the widely advertised foods but rapidly went almost to a skeleton, limp and hardly any life in him.

In a very few days after trying him with Virol an immediate change for the better was apparent, and he is now a plump, happy, strong child without a blemish, and is always taken to be quite a year old.

He is a splendid example of the truth of the claims you advertise for "Virol." Please make any use you like of this testimonial.

Yours very sincerely,
(Sgd.) Mrs. F. FIRKS.

Her View of It.

For several minutes the young man did not speak. His heart was too full. It was enough for him to know that this glorious creature loved him; that she had promised to share his fate.

With a new and delightful sense of ownership he feasted his eyes once more upon her beauty, and as he realised that henceforth it would be his privilege to provide for her welfare and happiness, he could have almost wept with joy.

His good fortune seemed incredible. Finally he whispered tenderly:—
"How did it ever happen, darling, that such a bright, shining angel as yourself fell in love with a dull, stupid fellow like me?"

"Godness knows," she murmured absently. "I must have a screw loose somewhere."

IF I WERE SENDING MY BOY AWAY.

If I were sending my boy away To live and labor where strangers are, I should hold him close till the time to go.

Telling him things which he ought to know, I should whisper counsel and caution wise, Hinting of dangers which might arise, And tell him the things I have learned from life.

Of his bitter pain and its cruel strife And the sore temptations which men beset, And then add this: "Boy, don't forget When your strength gives out and your hope grows dim, Your father will help if you'll come to him."

If I were sending a boy away, I should hold him close on the parting day, And give him my trust, through thick and thin, I should tell him I counted on him to keep his word at whatever cost, To play the man though his fight be lost.

But beyond all that I should whisper low: "If trouble comes, let your father know; Come to him, son, as you used to do When you were little—he'll see you through."

I am trusting you in a distant land, You trust your father to understand, "Trust me wherever you chance to be, Know there is nothing to hide from me."

Tell me all your tale of woe, Never, whatever your plight may be, Think it something to hide from me; Come to me first in your hour of need, Come though you know that my heart will bleed!

Boy, when the shadows of trouble fall, Come to your father first of all. Minard's Linctament Relieves Neuralgia

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

KITES AND BIG BOYS.

Out in the vacant lot that we are still lucky enough to have next door (some time, by the way, I am going to write an essay on the pasting of the vacant lot with a tribute to the vacant lot which was the scene of so many of our childhood adventures) two boys ran up and down all one wonderful windy Saturday afternoon this fall, flying their kites.

I sat at my window and watched them whenever I lifted my eyes from my work.

Why I Loved to Watch Them.

First, because it always makes something in me thrill to see a kite mount up. Secondly, because—although I have called them boys because I could see right through into the hearts of them—and knew that at heart they still were the most beloved boyish kind of boys—outside they really were grown-up men.

Both of them were husbands of new neighbors of mine. I don't know them very well, but after watching them fly those kites I know I would like to know them. For nothing pleases me more than to see a grown-up who can still find joy in the joys of childhood, and who, even more wonderful, has the courage to do it.

Afterwards I was told that both those men made their kites on scientific principles and that they were trying to outdo each other in flying them.

Exercised Other Than Automobile Muscles.

I'll wager that no automobile party with all the excitement of a dinner at some road house, garnished with stolen drinks (is it not the small boy in the man finding more joy in stolen fruit than he ever would in the free kind, that is causing the prohibition agents the most trouble?) would have given those grown-up youngsters as many thrills as they get in the making and the flying of those kites.

And think of the good it did them to be out in the air all the afternoon, to exercise some muscles besides those that manage the brakes and the gear shifts, and to relax to the simple childishness of that pastime.

I told you before that I had wanted a kite all through my youth and never had one and that I was going to have one some day, didn't I?

Well, I haven't got it yet but I still intend to. Someone who knew my longing did give me a box kite and I tried to fly that, but the donor insisted on showing me how so strenuously that I never got a chance at it until it caught in a tree and broke.

What Would You Put On Your Christmas List?

But anyhow, I didn't want a box kite. I wanted the kind of kites they had when I was a child. It never quite satisfies one of those unfulfilled longings to be given the sort of thing people have now. You want just what you used to want even if the present style is better.

I think I shall put it on my Christmas list!

I wonder if a good many grown-ups would not put a toy or two on their Christmas lists if they told the way-down-in-the-bottom-of-their-hearts truth. What do you think?

Liver Pains

Pains under the shoulder blades tell of liver derangements. Other indications are yellow complexion, indigestion, constipation, biliousness and bilious headaches.

The quickest way to arouse the liver to healthful action is by use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Continued use will insure lasting relief, correct the whole digestive system and purify the blood.

Mrs. Wm. Barten, Haasover, Ont., writes: "For some time I suffered from liver trouble. There was a hard bearing-down feeling in my back which I could not get rid of. Some one advised me to try Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I did so, and found them excellent. The digging feeling in my back disappeared and I felt much benefited generally. I have great confidence in Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and always keep them on hand for general use."

France Will Not Endanger Herself.

Briand Outlines Position He Will Adopt--Irish Republicans Awaiting Ulster's Decision--Disorder at Political Meeting in Quebec Province--Gloucester Designer Planning New Cup Challenger.

FRANCE'S POSITION OUTLINED BY BRIAND.
NEW YORK, Nov. 7. France is ready to join every endeavor to avert new wars, provided she has nothing to fear for her own security, said Premier Briand on arrival today to attend the Washington Conference. Defining France's general policies, Briand said the French Government obligations to the League of Nations do not preclude France from joining other powers, inside or outside the League, in limiting armaments or settling other international questions. French interests concerning land armaments, and their strength is conditioned by Germany and the payment or non payment of reparations. Restrictions of naval armaments offer no difficulty to France, as her navy is already below any formula likely to be adopted. French policy favors equal commercial opportunities in China.

THE CONFERENCE CONTINUES.
LONDON, Nov. 7. The Sinn Fein delegation here are awaiting confidently, they say, the result of conferences between Lloyd George and Sir James Craig, Ulster Premier, which were continued today. Mount Fitzalan, Lord Lieutenant, was called in today and many Irish leaders, as well as British Unionists, are being consulted. The Premier refused to answer a question in the House today asking assurance that Ulster would not be coerced or pressed to surrender anything given it under the Home Rule Act. Sinn Fein leaders say their proposals are liberal to Ulster, and that they hope for an amicable settlement. It is understood that Premier Lloyd George is trying to induce Craig to meet De Valera.

SURELY A CANARD.
BELFAST, Nov. 7. Raiding a place in Kent Street, police reported the discovery of a Republican prison in which a young man was awaiting execution. Three armed men, acting as guards, were arrested.

MEIGHEN'S COOL REPLY.
THREE RIVERS, Nov. 7. For the first time in the election campaign Premier Meighen was subjected to interruption, which became so loud and insistent that he was forced at intervals to stop speaking. The larger part of the audience resented the interruption and loudly cheered the Premier when his voice was drowned by the uproar of the armories. The Premier, however, refrused to curtail his speech, and at one point remarked that "whether the intelligence of this city prevails, or the noise prevails, my duty is simply to lay public questions of the day before you. I have sponsored policies not popular to Three Rivers, but not of enmity to the French race."

WHERE NOISE IS ARGUMENT.
MONTREAL, Nov. 7. Hon. Andre Fauteux, Solicitor-General in the Meighen Government, was forced to abandon an attempt to make his maiden speech by a storm of cat-calls, cowbells and auto klaxons at St. Henri College Hall, where he appeared in support of the Government candidate for the Westmount-St. Henri Division. The meeting broke up cheering for the Liberal candidate.

HOW MUCH IN WAR TIME?
PRESCOTT, Nov. 7. Speaking here Mr. Crerar, Farmer Party Leader, said the farmers were only receiving seventy-five cents per bushel net for wheat, and livestock was only saleable at unprofitable prices.

GERMANY'S FINANCES.
BERLIN, Nov. 7. Financial newspapers attribute the depreciation of the mark, 303 of which to-day were worth one American dollar, to the unlimited output of paper money consequent on increase of the floating debt. Germany's floating debt is $18 billion marks and the funded debt 78 billion marks. The Finance Minister to-day forecasted the regular budget for the current year of 115 billions and an extraordinary budget of 68 billions, with a probable revenue of 72 billions, leaving a deficit of 110 billions, which is to be made up by loans. Vorwaerts calls on the Government to take the situation in hand and prevent Germany sharing the fate of Austria.

PRAYERS FOR CONFERENCE.
LONDON, Nov. 7. Conforming to the appeal of the Archbishop of Canterbury, prayers were offered in Anglican churches yesterday for divine blessings on the Washington Conference.

SOME SMALL RELIEF.
LONDON, Nov. 7. Great Britain and the Dominions have been carrying forty per cent. of the expense of the League of Nations but, under the new allocation, Britain and the Dominions will pay 24 per cent.

NEARING EVEREST'S SUMMIT.
LONDON, Nov. 7. The British expedition sent to attempt to reach the summit of Mount Everest, the highest peak in the world, accomplished the task set for it this year. Sir Francis Younghusband told the Royal Geographical Society tonight. Bullock and Mallory reached a point six thousand feet from the summit and reported a further way up seemed reasonably practical.

MILK STRIKE UNSETTLED.
NEW YORK, Nov. 7. Health Commissioner Copeland failed today to effect a settlement of the Milk strike, the employers standing firm for the open shop.

PURITAN PLANS NEAR COMPLETION.
GLOUCESTER, Nov. 7. Designer Burgess will complete plans of the proposed schooner Puritan, which Gloucester expects to enter in the International Fishermen's Race next year, this week, and the building contract has been awarded to J. James of Essex, who built the Espananto, which is understood that a revision of the deed of the Halifax Herald Cup will be made and that the Mayflower of Boston may be a contestant next year.

CAUSED MUCH DAMAGE.
OTTAWA, Nov. 7. Big wind travelling over Eastern Ontario and Quebec last Friday night, caused much damage, estimated at $250,000, to the Bell Telephone Company. It will require two months to establish the normal service.

Do not allow bread sponge to set too long or it will sour and be unwholesome.

NEURASTHENIA—NERVE STARVATION

A Disease of the Overworked—Special advice or what to do.

Many a man is broken down and discouraged without having any actual disease in his organs and tissues.—he has lost his grip, feels weak and nervous and everything looks dark. He is suffering from the great American disease—Neurasthenia or nerve starvation, due to overwork, worry, continual hurry and nervous strain. The longer this continues the more certainly will it end in real disease of his organs, his nerves or his mind.

Such a man should live on the simple foods, eat plenty of cooked fruit and green vegetables, sleep nine hours at night if he can, an hour in the afternoon and feed his starving nerves and weak thin blood, with a good nerve tonic.

Nuxated Iron may therefore be said to be a real nerve and blood food since it supplies the principal ingredients demanded by your nerves and blood to give you strength, energy, force and endurance. It often increases the bodily and mental vigor of weak, worn-out, down hearted, and nervous folks in two weeks' time. Your money will be refunded by the manufacturers if it does not produce perfectly satisfactory results. For sale by all druggists.

Soldier's Funeral.

NEW-AMERICAN HERO INTERRED.
The interment of Corporal John T. Kennedy, 8th Machine Gun Battalion, American Expeditionary Force, took place at St. George's this afternoon. The funeral was conducted with full military honours by the G.W.V.A. Comrades at that town. A large gathering followed the funeral cortege yesterday from Harvey's to the Railway Station. The casket was draped with the Union Jack and the Stars and Stripes, together with floral tributes from Comrades of the G.W.V.A., St. John's and Harbor Grace, also from Hon. Dr. Barnes, M.H.A. Amongst the mourners were Mr. Andrew Kennedy, G.W.V.A. representative, U.S. Consul Benedict, Vice Consul Hartnett, Hon. Dr. Barnes, and many veterans. The late Corporal Kennedy was the son of Mr. Andrew Kennedy, of Harvey's, who is listed at New York shortly after America's entry in the War. His brother Alex enlisted with the Naval Reserve and saw considerable service overseas and on his return he was allocated to the "Kyle" as gunner.

The father of the dead soldier arrived in town from St. George on Saturday night and accompanies the remains home together with Corporal Moseley, A.E.F., who escorted the body from New York.

Dyed Her Stockings and Skirt to Match

Every "Diamond Dyes" package tells how to dye or tint any worn, faded garment or drapery a new rich color that will not streak, spot, fade or run. Perfect home dyeing is guaranteed with Diamond Dyes even if you have never dyed before. Just tell your druggist whether the material you wish to dye is wool or silk, or whether it is linen, cotton, or mixed goods. For fifty-one years millions of women have been using "Diamond Dyes" to add years of wear to their old, shabby waists, skirts, dresses, coats, sweaters, stockings, draperies, hangings, everything!

PRELIMINARY HEARING BEGUN.

The preliminary hearing of the charge of larceny preferred against Capt. Parsons and crew of the schr. Rogo, was begun yesterday afternoon in the Magistrate's Court before Judge Morris. One witness, Sergt. Gardner, was examined, after which adjournment was taken until Thursday next.

Law Students' Dinner.

MOOT CLUB HOLDS DEBATE.

The first dinner of the new Law Students' Moot Club was held last night at Wood's and the success that attended it augurs well for the future prosperity of the club. Preparatory to the dinner a legal debate was held on a case which had been submitted for study some time previously. Mr. W. Skinner acted as Counsel for the plaintiff, and Mr. J. Devine represented the defendant. Mr. W. J. Higgins, K.C., acted as Judge. His kindness was greatly appreciated, and his lucid explanation of the points of law involved were of great benefit to the students. When later, at the dinner, he asked that he should be placed on the club's waiting list as the first K.C. to apply for admission, he was loudly cheered. The guest of honor at the dinner was Mr. J. O'Neill Conroy, who was recently admitted a solicitor. The other guests were Mr. W. J. Higgins, K.C., M.H.A., Mr. T. P. Halley, Mr. E. Leo Carter and Mr. A. B. Perlin, of the Telegram. An excellent dinner was partaken of and the toast list was then proceeded with under the Chairmanship of the President, Mr. A. G. M. King, B.A. The evening was enlivened with songs by Messrs. H. P. Carter, T. P. Halley and E. Leo Carter, and a recitation by Mr. J. G. Muir. The toast list was as follows:

The King—Prop. Chairman; "God Save the King."
Guest of Honor—Prop. Chairman; Resp. J. O'Neill Conroy.

The New Judge—Prop. J. G. Muir; Resp. W. J. Higgins, K.C.
Our Guests—Prop. J. Devine; Resp. E. Leo Carter.

The Moot Club—Prop. T. P. Halley; Resp. H. Garland.
The Press—Prop. R. S. Furlong; Resp. A. B. Perlin.

The Chairman—Prop. H. P. Carter; Resp. Chairman.
The National Anthem brought a most enjoyable evening to a close.

The Stamps of Newfoundland.

A REVIEW.

An authoritative handbook on the postal issues of Newfoundland has at last made its appearance, and the Silver-Wylie-Jewett Co. of Beverly, Mass., reserve the heartiest commendation upon having published it. My copy was received through the courtesy of Mr. Frank Willis, who has been waiting for a long time. The book is divided into two parts. The first contains a detailed history of our earlier issues and also, though in not so great detail, an account of the later issues to 1919. This part was written by Mr. B. W. H. Poole whose name is well known in all corners of the philatelic world. The second part contains a very careful account of the issues from 1897 to 1920 and is by Mr. Harvey E. Huber whose name was previously unknown to me. Mr. Huber seems to have given a considerable amount of time and trouble to the study of our stamps and he is in a position to even quote from official documents and private letters in support of some of his statements. In the chapter on the Guy stamps, two very noticeable flaws in an "issue of errors" are omitted. In an article published in the Telegram some time ago, I drew attention to both of these. In the one, in one stamp on each of the sheets which contains the "NFW" error, the "E" in the word "James" under the portrait reads, through a flaw, "R." In the six cent, in one stamp in the bottom row of occasional sheets, the upper dot in the scroll to the left of the portrait is missing. Both of these varieties are interesting to the specialist. I think also, that when so much was said about the "Caribou" issue, a little more space might have been devoted to discussing the many varieties in the lower values. Of the one, two and three cent there are innumerable varieties of printing, shade and paper. The double impression of the five cent is also worthy of note. But apart from these minor details which I have mentioned, the article is as near perfection

Our Book Review.

"THE FIRST FIVE HUNDRED."
In our issue of Saturday last we referred to a History of the Royal Newfoundland Regiment, which has been written by Mr. Richard Cramm of this city, and which has just been put on the market. To-day we are able to give a more lengthy review.

The book is divided into two parts. Part I is a history of the Regiment sub-divided into five chapters, which are headed as follows: Chapter I, "From St. John's through Gallipoli"; Chapter II, "1916 in France"; Chapter III, "From Guendecourt through Monchy-le-Freux"; Chapter IV, "Three Important Engagements in the latter Part of 1917"; Chapter V, "The Closing Year of the War." Each chapter gives a full description of the engagements in which our Regiment took part coming within the period reviewed by the chapter, and is well illustrated both from a historic and an artistic standpoint. Each chapter contains also one or two maps which show clearly the various sections in which the Newfoundland Regiment fought. The history is written in a style that makes it absorbingly interesting from start to finish, while sticking closely to the facts, and gives numerous accounts of individual heroism and achievements.

Part II is confined entirely to the "First Five Hundred" or "Blue Puttees," and is planned in a unique and attractive manner. At the beginning of this part are photographic cuts of the officers who left Newfoundland with the first contingent. A group of four is artistically arranged on each page, and on the opposite page the military records are given. The others are arranged so that three photographs where the photographs were obtainable, and three military records are given on each page. This presents a splendid appearance, and cannot fail to meet with a big welcome from families who had some one with the first contingent.

The volume is strongly and appropriately bound, and presents a neat and attractive appearance. The printing is on highly glazed, art paper so that the photographs come out in splendid shape. Mr. Cramm's book is a splendid contribution to Newfoundland literature, and is the most valuable book that could be placed in the hands of a Newfoundland boy or girl.

'The Blindness of Virtue'
A Real Sensation; Casino Theatre To-Night.

The Gladys Klark Players delighted their many admirers last night as they reproduced that very successful play "The Confession" which was so well received when previously played a short time ago. Miss Gladys Klark and her talented associates gave splendid interpretations of their respective roles. To-night's play is "The Blindness of Virtue."

At last we are waking up to questions of sex education and Hygiene; plans are now being made to introduce this vital subject into the public schools, as was recommended by Dr. Elliott quite recently, and the time is not far distant when young people who are approaching maturity will be given healthy instruction in the so-called mystery of sex. It is an actual fact that in nine out of every ten homes, the custom to frown upon any discussion of the problem will no longer be possible. With the subject taken up in the public schools, parents will have to recognize its importance. Of course strong propaganda will be necessary to bring the great mass of people to a true realization of its importance, but on every hand evidence of this propaganda. One of the strongest sermons against the fallacy that ignorance is the strength of virtue is "The Blindness of Virtue," a new play from the pen of Cosmo Hamilton, an English writer. In an entertaining way Mr. Hamilton makes a plea for the education of the young people in the mysteries of sex. He shows that result from the failure of the mother to speak to her daughter because of a prudish sense of delicacy that most people mistake for modesty, and Hamilton attacks it fearlessly yet without grossness.

Lumberman Says He Does the Work of Two Men Now

Bay Side Resident Has Gotten Rid Of Stomach Trouble—Eats Anything Now.

"We Bay Side people have as much reason to be grateful to Tanlac as the people of Halifax have," said Dan Dauphines, well-known lumberman at Bay Side, N.S., while on a recent visit to Halifax.

"I had stomach trouble of the worst sort and got cheated out of many a square meal because I just dreaded to eat, knowing the misery I would have to go through with afterwards. I did not dare to touch fresh beef, pork or fat of any kind."

"I was getting worse right along and it was lucky for me that I got special music which has not as yet been heard at the dances and the full Cadet Band will render it in their well known style. Elaborate arrangements are under way for the decorating of the hall, a feature of which will be the suspension of inflated balloons from the ceiling which are to be released to the tuneful strains of "I'm Forever Blowing Bubbles." Armistice Night at the C. C. C. Hall.

What promises to excel all other functions of a similar nature held by the G.W.V.A. will take place on Armistice Night, Nov. 11th, in the C.C.C. Hall. The night is being celebrated by the G.W.V.A. and their friends holding their annual dance under circumstances which promise a very happy time being spent. Capt. Bulley has very kindly obtained some special music which has not as yet been heard at the dances and the full Cadet Band will render it in their well known style. Lured by Women.

The Pas de Calais Assize Court had before it a case of murder, the victim being an Englishman named Richard Fielding, captain of a London barque. It was stated that on arriving at Calais with his ship, Fielding met two women, a widow named Pett, who kept a small public-house in Calais, and her servant. He accompanied them to the Casino and returned to the public-house, where the two women, it is alleged, attempted to rob him. Fielding resisted, whereupon the widow struck him on the back of the head with some sort of instrument with such force that he fell unconscious. The two women then threw him out of the window into the street, where the body was subsequently found. The servant, after arrest, confessed to the crime, but the widow strenuously denied having any share in it. The Public Prosecutor demanded the death penalty for the widow, and said he would accept a plea of mitigating circumstances for the servant.

The Hickman Cargoes and Coaker Allegations.

MR. MORINE'S TRENCHANT REPLY.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir—Up from the North—Port Union, to wit—has come another editorial blast from Boss Coaker, (would you call him "the uncrowned King" according to his own confession?) The Advocate's lead article on Saturday was written or inspired by him. It is as his very own work that I propose to answer it. I personally am one of the subjects mentioned by him, but my reply upon his remarks in this connection will not be many, for they are not directed at me, but at others, planned to (1) that I with others, planned to (2) that I drafted a misleading guarantee given by Hickman, to the Codfish Exportation Board; (3) that I changed me with aiming to destroy the Board; (4) because I hated him; (5) because I had no other way to drive the Colony into Confederation through the destruction created by defeating his scheme (7) for making it progressive.

The "Pratt" referred to is the very capable Secretary-Treasurer of the Hickman Co. Ltd. and, of course, I had nothing whatever to do with his very timely visit to Italy last year; but not, in fact, know he was going, as for the letters from the A. E. Hickman Co. quoted by Mr. Coaker, relating to the cargoes of the "Florence" and "Roy Bruce," I can truthfully say that I never saw them or heard of them until I read them in the paper. I am now replying to. As for my 1919 defeat, it may not be believed, but it is true, nevertheless, that it has caused me one thought of annoyance against Mr. Coaker. It was the defeat of war, not the first defeat. I had suffered, and I went down with too many of my colleagues to feel at all ashamed. There are defeats more honorable than victories, and Mr. Coaker knows better than anyone else that there were incidents in the campaign which he had more reason to feel proud than I had for not winning. I admit that there have been many occasions during the sessions of the Assembly since 1919, when I would have been pleased to be in my old seat, but I am consoled frequently by the assurance of many colleagues that they value me. I sometimes think that even Mr. Coaker I could make it lively and entertaining, if I sat in opposition, were he and I once sat together.

WHAT INDEED!

The charge that I schemed to make the Colony desolate, to promote Confederation, is so foolish, and the malicious motive for making it so obvious, that nobody should be deceived by it. Apparently, there are people capable of accepting as true any absurdhood Mr. Coaker or his agents may tell, and so perforce I make reply. And firstly, what value would a desolate Colony be to Canada? Poor Newfoundland might be well-to-do, but poverty-stricken, and in Canada does not want her. And secondly, my active advocacy of Confederation was a matter of many years before Mr. Coaker induced me to return from Canada in 1912, gave up his seat in Bonavista to me in 1914, urged me not to resign from the Assembly when I went to Canada in 1916, and in the winter of 1919 offered not to oppose my election as an Independent. If he thus favored me because he thought I was a Confederate? When, in 1919, he asked me to take charge of the Labrador Boundary case in the Colony against Canada, did he not give me good faith to the Colony?

When, in 1916, he discussed Confederation in Ottawa, and was negotiating about the matter with Sir W. D. Reid, was it me, or Mr. Collishaw, he conferred with, and if, as the truth is, he and I never once discussed the subject during the almost four years I was Counsel for the F.P.U., how does he explain my silence if I were an ardent agent of Confederation? The truth is, Mr. Coaker is as much a Confederate as I am, but less to be trusted, and he only makes these insinuations about me because he thinks that amongst his followers there are some ignorant enough and foolish enough to believe any lie he tells or insinuates.

THE HICKMAN CARGOES.

And now, as to Mr. A. E. Hickman's conduct in the shipment of two cargoes of fish to Italy, in 1920, without the consent of the Codfish Exportation Board, and the sale thereof for a price lower than the Regulations fixed. The A. E. Hickman Company owned the cargoes, and they were ready for market in October, but the Regulations had killed the sale of our fish in Italy, and these cargoes were unsaleable elsewhere. The Board (Mr. Coaker, that is) would not permit the cargoes being cleared unless a pledge were given, and Mr. Hickman promised that if the vessels were allowed to clear for Malaga (for orders), "our Spanish agents, Hawes & Co. would be instructed not to send the vessels beyond Spain without the consent of the Board." They were allowed to clear, went to Malaga, and from thence to Italy, where the cargoes were sold below Regulation rates. It has not been shown that Hawes & Co. were not instructed as promised, and hence, no proof has been offered that the promise as made was broken, but Mr. Coaker will argue that the spirit of the promise was that the cargoes should not be sent to Italy without the consent of the Board, and that this was violated. No legal right existed to require such a promise. The Board had no legal existence; it was an imposition, a fraud, and its members were conscious of their usurpation of power. The fact that Chairman Coaker was a member of the Government, and as such could and would illegally influence the Customs department not to grant clearances, was undue pressure, which the so-called Board exercised to extort promises from exporters. One who wanted his fish shipped had to promise the Board something it had no right to require—had to appease Coaker, that is—or apply to the Supreme Court for Mandamus, a long and expensive process. The A. E. Hickman Co. elected to pursue the former course, and Shipman & Co. the latter. And right here let me say, as proof that I did not advise the giving of the Hickman promise, that it was I who got a Mandamus for Shipman & Co., and was well paid for it, while, of course, the Hickman promise profited me nothing. Legal procedure is much the more satisfactory way for me.

ILLEGAL ASSUMPTION OF POWER.

Mr. Coaker illegally assumed and exercised power. Mr. Hickman, to preserve his property, may have violated the spirit of a promise made to evade that illegal authority. A mere point of ethics arises—did the end justify the means? And Mr. Coaker's nice sense of honour is wounded, he would have the public believe, because Mr. Hickman was so false to his word! The man who takes an official salary for work here, yet sues at Port Union, attending to Company work, has indeed a nice sense of honour. So, too, has the man who sold his Company's fish—for the "President Coaker's" Cargo—to the Colony—and so, too, has the man who manipulated the salt transaction, and a host of similar affairs too fresh in the public mind to need recalling. Mr. Coaker challenges comparison with Mr. Hickman by the very nature of his attacks. Both men are 100% Newfoundlanders, native born and home trained. Both have obvious prominence, one as a Politician, the other as a Merchant, and both have been successful, so far. Mr. Coaker maintains advertising agencies, to blow his horn right lustily, but Mr. Hickman, pursuing the quiet tenor of his way, to-day occupies a position of public confidence to which Mr. Coaker can no longer aspire. Hickman is at the head of a business of his own, made by his own almost unaided effort, which in variety and extent is unequalled here, and he is widely regarded as in the very front rank of our capable, industrious, enterprising merchants, while Coaker is regarded by all sound economists as a menace to the commercial stability of the Colony, a communistic agitator, destined soon to pass into the discard of exploded experiments. Mr. Coaker supported Mr. Hickman's first candidature for Bay de Verde, sat with him in opposition and in the Lloyd Government, once very urgently pressed Mr. Hickman to join with him in F.P.U. Projects, and now assails him merely because he cannot make use of him.

REGULATIONS WERE ABANDONED

But now to the more serious subject of Coaker's latest attack—the effect of Hickman's sending cargoes into Italy. Coaker says (1) it led directly to the repeal of the Regulations, and (2) the repeal broke the price of fish abroad. Rules which had no legal existence cannot properly be said to be repealed; the Regulations were never law, only an imposition; consequently, they were abandoned, not repealed. Their abandonment did not cause the slump in prices, because the slump went before, and the conditions of the market were so bad that even the most abased Coaker man amongst the exporters had to admit the damage done by the Regulations, and consent to throwing them overboard, to salvage the wreck, if possible.

Yours truly,

ALFRED B. MORINE.
Nov. 8th, 1921.

WHY THE ABANDONMENT?

But, finally, if the Regulations enforced meant prosperity, and abandoned meant destitution; if Coaker were convinced of their value, and of the hardship which would follow their abandonment; if he knew they were opposed for political reasons only—and all these things he now professes—why did he abandon them? He had the power to maintain them. He has the power to restore them. At least, he has this power unless he has been deposed by his colleagues in the Government. If he has been deposed, it is because they disagree with him, and none are now so poor as to do him reverence. He is not only an "uncrowned King," but the deposed Boss, as much without a throne as Carl of Hungary. And the men who have deposed him, and placed Sir Richard Squires in his place, are the Union men elected under his banner in the 1915 election. Report says that he will be deposed by them also as President of the Union at the approaching Convention, unless, indeed, he deposes them instead.

Notre Dame Council K. of C. Installation.

Mr. Cyril J. Cahill, State Deputy of the Knights of Columbus, accompanied by his warden, Mr. T. F. Armstrong, returned from a visit to Grand Falls by yesterday's express, where they had gone to install the newly-elected officers of Notre Dame Council, No. 2953, Knights of Columbus. The officers were installed as follows:

- Chaplain—Rev. W. P. Finn, P.P.
- Grand Knight—A. G. Duggan.
- Deputy Grand Knight—Jas. Murphy
- Chancellor—P. J. Griffin.
- Recorder—Ignatius Slaughter.
- Fin. Secy.—Daniel J. Clatney.
- Treasurer—John MacKenzie.
- Lecturer—Patrick A. Edwards.
- Advocate—Archibald Bennett.
- Warden—Daniel Bird.
- Trustees—Gregory Kelly, James Edwards, Wm. J. Goss.
- Inside Guard—J. L. Kelly.
- Outside Guards—Frank Gunn and John Burke.

ONE CARGO SOLD TWICE.

Coaker says that fish could have been sold in Greece for 75¢, "had the Regulations been enforced." But the truth is that one cargo was sold twice—to the Greek Government—and the sale prevented from fulfillment by enforcing the Regulations, for the price was below the fixed rate, and, eventually, the owners lost nearly $30,000 on the one cargo. The massing of cargoes at Malaga unsold, which was permitted by the Codfish Exportation Board, advertised to every buying country in the Mediterranean that they had only to await the inevitable day when "sell or throw overboard" would be the watchword.

STRANGLING TRADE.

I have before me the proof of an instance in which a certain merchant was offered $11.50 per qt. at Halifax, but was forbidden by Coaker to sell for less than $12.00. Later, this fish (valued $20,000) was shipped to Portugal, kept waiting there for an outright sale, and the proceeds received by the owner amounted to $1,300, or less than one tenth the value. The loss of over $18,000 in this one case is directly due to Coaker. The sad experience of Penny, of Rames, in re this same cargo, is already widely known.

Personal.

An Expensive Gift.

The steamer Lobelia, Capt. Cyrus Taylor, arrived here on Monday from Labrador, with passengers for this and neighboring places. The Lobelia is a large ship, the man-of-war that was presented to the Government as a gift from the British authorities. Whatever may be said of the ship for general purposes, nothing can be said against her as a passenger carrier to and from Labrador, if the second deck was freed from its fittings and the whole space fixed up for accommodation. There were over five hundred passengers on her and still there was room and comfort as far as comfort can be given. Her speed was slow due to the use of only one boiler, but it was fully as good as that of many of the boats that have been engaged in the service. It may be said that she is too large to be used successfully on the coast, her draught preventing her from entering the harbors. The passengers must land in boats all along the coast, and the extra distance that has to be gone over owing to the Lobelia anchoring further off than other steamers, is not a vital matter when other conditions are taken into account.—Hr. Grace Standard.

How fine cooks make cream soups to-day

Let Your Grocer Be Your Milkman

After eating a rich cream soup somewhere, do you sigh and say to yourself "if I could only afford to use real cream, I could serve soup like that, too!"

The chances are that the soup you would like to duplicate was not made with cream at all. For many fine cooks have learned a culinary secret that makes of cream soups a banquet dish at every day cost.

The secret is—make them with Libby's Evaporated Milk.

For twenty years Libby has worked to give a finer and richer milk to consumers. Their plans were far-reaching. First they sought out the finest pasture lands in America. There they encouraged the breeding of splendid milk herds and the use of all the appliances and practices of scientific dairying. And there they established their milk condenseries so equipped as to assure absolute purity and cleanliness.

At those condenseries the whole milk from the fine herds, with the cream left in, is canned for you. Half the moisture is taken from it by evaporation. Nothing is added to it. So you have in this milk just the rich, pure product of the finest cows, but with twice the food value, twice the butter fat, of ordinary milk.

This milk makes cream soups so smooth, so rich, so mellow that they taste like the soups made by extravagant cooks.

Used in coffee, this milk gives a creamy richness at half the cost of cream.

Try it in your favorite recipe where cream or milk is called for.

Your grocer has it or can get it for you.

Are you stepping on the brake or the accelerator?

The food you eat does make a difference. Heavy, starchy foods often slow down body and mind—often steal the energy that belongs to the day's work. Grape-Nuts is a go-ahead food. It contains the perfected nourishment of Nature's best grains. It includes all those elements needed to nourish body and brain. It is easy to digest. It gives energy without taking energy.

How about your breakfast or lunch—does it give, or take?

Grape-Nuts is sweet, crisp, delightful to the taste, and is an ideal source of power for a busy and difficult day.

AFTER THE CUBAN MARKET.

Now that Norway has been debarred from sending her fish to Portugal, because of the prohibitory tariff placed on Norwegian products by the former country in retaliation of the cutting out of importations of Portuguese wines, the Norwegians, with commendable—yet threatening—enterprise are turning their attention to possible and profitable markets on this side of the Atlantic, and have already marked down Cuba as their own. For many years the Nova Scotia codfish industry exploited Cuba and practically owned that source of demand, a big trade being done between the Province and the Island in the days when it was owned by Spain, a trade not suffering much shrinkage through the changing forms of administration since 1899. Already the Norwegians have begun to underquyte Nova Scotian exporters in the Antilles, South and Central American countries, and unless efforts are at once made to cope with the situation, and to compete with the Norwegian product in cure and make, the market in which Nova Scotia had a monopoly for the past five years will be in danger of passing from that province. Fish experts have been sent out from Norway with explicit instructions to capture the Cuban trade at any cost, lower prices being the inducement, the Norwegian Government backing them in their negotiations. The kernel of the whole matter appears to be the difference in the quality of the Norwegian and Nova Scotian article. The former people, as is well known, pay careful attention to their fish and think no trouble too great in producing a grade of No. 1 for export, particularly white nape, which appeal to the Cuban and other Latin American consumers as being a more attractive and edible article than the black-naped Nova Scotian dried cod. It is not possible—and yet why not—for Newfoundland to enter this market at the moment, yet had this one only been watched in the year of "white napes" a profitable and lasting connection may have ensued. In any case there should be some benefit accrue to Newfoundland, for if the Norwegians are shut out of Portugal, they will not be in competition with our fish, and the demand for and consumption of Newfoundland stocks should go up by leaps and bounds. Hitherto Norway placed an equal quantity with us, if not more, in Portuguese ports. The debarring of this in future should be of incalculable advantage, but care should be taken that our cargoes should be No. 1 and carefully culled. We have by no means a monopoly of any market, and it behoves us to ship prime fish if we expect a prime price, no matter to what country.

Fishermen Dissatisfied.

The fishermen home from Labrador express themselves as being dissatisfied with the price paid them for their fish shipped on the coast. The general price is four dollars and fifty cents a quintal for good, well-cured fish. They say that with four at $18 a barrel and salt at $5 a hoghead, and the prices of other requirements at equally high rates, the business does not pay them. They hold too, that they are in a helpless position when the fish has been made. They have the fish, and it must be shipped as they have no way by which their catch could be brought home. They are by force of circumstances, compelled to dispose of their fish to the exporter, who has a steamer or a schooner waiting for cargo. To hold their fish would be to increase the cost on account of the freight home, and so they put off their fish at the price offered by the merchant, and at times without any arrangement as to the price to be paid.—Hr. Grace Standard.

Memorial Service at S. A. Barracks.

On Sunday night at No. 3 S. A. Barracks there was held the Memorial Service of the late and lamented soldier and comrade John Churchill. Long before opening of the service the little hall was packed to its utmost capacity and many at the door could not gain entrance. The service, which was a most solemn and very impressive one, was conducted by the Young People's Secretary, Staff Capt. Tilley, assisted by Mrs. Tilley, Ensign and Mrs. Carter, Adjutant Goodland of Dildo and local officers and soldiers of No. 4 Corps. After the regular opening of the service had been gone through the Staff Capt. called on a number of speakers, some of whom belonged to outside Corps, and his parents and brothers. Each one paid a glowing tribute in their remarks to the life of their departed brother, which went to show the esteem in which he was held. Probably the most touching scene was when the youngest brother of the deceased was called to speak. He burst into tears when relating how grieved he was, as at the time of his dear brother's passing he was out of town and had to walk 8 miles through the country to ascertain if it was true. This seemed to move the whole congregation to tears, all feeling so very keenly for him. Staff Capt. Tilley then read the Scriptures, basing his remarks upon the visions of John the Divine from the Revelations, and for half an hour turned the congregation's thoughts towards the celestial city and the preparing and living for the same. In the prayer meeting several young people decided to lead the better life and follow in the footsteps of the loving master. At 10.30 the service was brought to a close.—Com.

Truckmen's Union.

MAKE IMPORTANT DECISION.
As a result of last night's special meeting of the Truckmen's Union, Mr. Charles Lester who operates about 120 horses has been expelled and Peter Joy, another member, was fined $50 and the Union decided to continue the summer schedule which came to a close on Nov. 1st. The winter schedule calls for 8 barrels of flour and 3 casks of fish per load. It appears that Joy was working at a West End premises from where also Mr. Lester was carting coal. This firm did not agree with the winter schedule and so informed the carters. Joy not wishing to lose his work continued hauling the summer loads of 4 casks of fish to which the Union took exception. Other Union members however called off the premises by the delegate, but Joy continued to work, being assisted by a returned soldier who had several horses working on the upper premises. This soldier was refused admittance to the Union on several occasions but nevertheless the Union men continued to work with him. Mr. Lester, who was engaged in carting coal, over which there was no dispute, did not withdraw his horses. At last night's meeting the matter was fully discussed and the decision as stated was arrived at. It was also agreed that special contracts for the carting of coal, pig iron, lumber and sand could be made by Union men. To-day the Union horses are carting the summer loads and everything appears to be moving smoothly, but there is a suspicion that more trouble will arise out of the Union's decision.

Personal.

Mr. E. H. Rennie, Canadian Government Lightkeeper at Cape Ray, recently left for Montreal where he will consult an oculist. Mr. Rennie has suffered from defective eyesight for a number of years, but hopes that it will be completely restored before returning home.
Mr. M. L. Parrell, who has been in the General Hospital for some weeks, undergoing special treatment, came out of that institution yesterday. He speaks in the highest terms of the attention received during his stay.

A New Coal Company.

The prospectus of the Little River Coal Mining Co., Ltd., Newfoundland, is appearing in some Canadian papers. The Company is capitalized at $250,000 in 500,000 shares of ten dollars each. The property is situated at Little River, 15 miles north of Port aux Basques, and contains 3 square miles. Shipment either by rail or water is promised. "The water is 60 feet deep and only 600 feet from the shaft." It is claimed that "the quality is as good, and the assay shows a better quality than either Cape Breton or Crow's Nest Coal." The shares carry an 8 per cent. accumulative dividend and are non-assessable. Six claims are known to be taken out at Little River by Messrs. N. Bruce and S. H. Butt of St. George's. It is not known if this is the property referred to in the prospectus.

Lighthouse Destroyed.

A message from La Scie to the Deputy Minister of Customs, dated Oct. 28th, was received to-day and is as follows: "Heavy N.E. gale, fifteen empty gasoline drums picked up. Reported that lighthouse at eastern entrance of this port is totally destroyed." A later message confirms the destruction of the lighthouse, but adds that the lighting apparatus was saved by the keeper.

Schooner Off Rocks.

Mr. T. H. Carter received a message this morning stating that the Danish Schr. Fulton, which went ashore on Harbor Rock Pogo, has been successfully floated off and was now lying, undamaged at the wharf of Earle & Sons. The Fulton was proceeding from Catalina to load the cargo of the Schr. Bastian when she met with the mishap.

Postmistress Charged.

At Marytown recently an enquiry was held by Magistrate Avery, respecting a shortage of funds due to the General Post Office, St. John's, by the Postmistress, who admitted having appropriated money received at that office to her own use. The amount involved is large.

Train Notes.

Sunday's outgoing express arrived at Port aux Basques on time yesterday. The Carboner local arrived on time. The Trepassay local arrived on time. Dull weather prevails along the line this morning. It was snowing a little in places. The temperature ranged between 30-58 degrees.

MANOA ARRIVES.—S.S. Manoa, with a general cargo from Montreal and Charlottetown, arrived in port this morning. The ship brought only two passengers, Mrs. Massey and child. The ship sails again on Thursday night or early Friday morning.

Estimating the Damage.

STORM RAVAGES IN TWILLINGATE.
Capt. T. Bonia is at present in Conception Bay attempting to form an estimate of the damage done by the big storm of October 28th. This is the second time Capt. Bonia has gone to various districts on the same errand during the past week. His list is being engaged in looking for suitable sites for a new road, which will be far enough from the sea to prevent it from receiving damage in any heavy gale. He has already selected favourable sites for some parts of the district. Capt. Bonia, as the Telegram was told by Minister of Public Works, Jennings, estimates the damage done by the storm in Hr. Grace district to be about $20,000. Mr. Jennings, referring to the district of Twillingate, of which he is senior representative, said that ravages there still being awaited. The places had so far reported besides Twillingate proper. These were King's Point, Little Bay Islands and Salt Pond. All of these districts suffered little from the effects of the storm. At Twillingate Arm, however, a considerable amount of damage was done, and several shacks and huts were destroyed. One man, John Phillips, lost 125 quintals of fish, whilst Joseph Anthony of Seldom lost everything he possessed except his house. In Bonavista stores as old as 80 years, were destroyed, and the sea went over the roads, damaging them considerably. At Mock Beggar, the sea entered houses, and rose to the level of the stoves, causing the owners to leave their dwellings and go farther back. In Twillingate, where the land was so much higher, houses and stores would not be exposed to so much danger, "where there was a loss of fish," said Mr. Jennings, "the people will be directly affected, but where gear and boats were destroyed, the full effect will not be felt until the reopening of fishing operations." A general relief scheme will be adopted by the Government, who are hampered at present by the lack of full reports. It is unlikely that motor boats will be replaced next year and there will have to be a return to the old dories and skiffs, which will naturally mean a considerable reduction in the catch.

Colinet Road Progressing.

Badger Road Nearing Completion.
The work on the road between Colinet and Placentia is rapidly progressing and the men who are employed on it are giving entire satisfaction. It is highly probable that before long the road will be completely rebuilt. The work is being done under private contract. Under the supervision of Mr. Graham, progress on the Badger Road, where men are engaged in working out supplies, is excellent and it is expected that the road will be completed by the 15th of the present month. Men are now working on the Western end of the Bonne Bay—Deer Lake road under the supervision of Mr. Spencer. Here again the surplus supplies are given in payment for labor. This road cannot possibly be completed this year.

His Excellency the Governor has received a cablegram from the Right Honourable the Secretary of State for the Colonies, intimating that His Majesty the King has expressed the wish that on Armistice Day, November 11, there shall be a complete suspension of all normal business throughout the British Empire during the two minutes' silence, commencing at 11 a.m.

His Excellency and Ministers, feeling sure that the people of this ancient and loyal Colony desire to perpetuate the memory of our great deliverance and of those who laid down their lives to achieve it, direct that such observance shall take place throughout this Colony, and that at 11 a.m. on Friday next, the 11th instant, all normal activities shall be suspended for the space of two minutes, during which time all thoughts will be concentrated in reverent remembrance of the Glorious Dead.

In St. John's the Gun at Cabot Tower will be fired at the hour above named.

For the two minutes as above trains will be stopped on the railways, traffic on the streets, ships at sea (as far as possible) and work suspended everywhere, in schools, shops, mines, factories, etc. During the two minutes there should be complete silence.

His Excellency the Governor and Ministers believe that all will gladly interrupt their business and pleasure, whatever it may be, and unite in this simple service of silence and remembrance.

Special Prayers for Washington Conference.

London, Nov. 5. (Associated Press)—The following prayers were sanctioned by the Archbishops of Canterbury and York for Sunday, November 6, the last Sunday before the Washington Conference on Limitation of Armaments, and on suitable other occasions during the Conference:

"Almighty God, from whom all thoughts of truth and peace proceed, kindle, we pray Thee, in the hearts of all men the true love of peace, and guide with Thy pure and peaceable wisdom those who take counsel for the nations of the earth; that in tranquillity Thy kingdom may go forward, till the earth is filled with the knowledge of Thy love; through Jesus Christ our Lord, Amen."

"O, Almighty God, who canst bring good out of evil, and makest even the wrath of man to turn to Thy praise; teach Thy children to live together in charity and peace; and grant we beseech Thee, that the nations of the world may henceforth be united in a firm fellowship for the promotion of Thy glory and the good of all mankind; through Jesus Christ our Lord, Amen."

"God, the physician of men and nations, the restorer of the years that have been destroyed, look upon the distractions of the world, and be pleased to complete the work of Thy healing hand. Draw all men unto Thee and one to another by the hands of Thy love. Make Thy Church one, and fill it with Thy Spirit, that by Thy power it may unite the world in a sacred brotherhood of nations, wherein justice, mercy and faith, truth and freedom may flourish, and Thou mayest be ever glorified; through Jesus Christ our Lord, Amen."

Wanted Lobster for His Last Meal.

CAEN, France. (Associated Press)—Men condemned to death, it has become a custom in France, may eat or drink what they like for their last meal. Most of them ask for rum and a cigarette. The prosecutor of the republic was amazed when a few days ago, a condemned assassin refused them and, in response to a request as to what he desired, said: "I should like to have a 'homard a l'Americaine.' The 'American lobster' or the 'lobster done in the American fashion' as it appears on the menus of the best establishments, requires a few hours' stomach in order to digest it. "Can't I get you something instead," asked one of the guards, "a sardine or some other kind of fish." "American lobster or nothing," demanded the man about to die. "I have always adored American lobster, but I have never been able to eat it without suffering from indigestion for hours afterward."

Fast Railway Time.

LONDON. (Associated Press)—What is said to be the longest non-stop railway run in the world, of the Cornish-Riveria express from Paddington station, London, to Plymouth—a distance of 228 1/2 miles—has been accelerated by a quarter of an hour, thus reverting to the pre-war time of four hours and seven minutes. This time is sometimes beaten by the ocean mail special trains from Plymouth to Paddington, which have made the journey in four hours. The express passes through 68 stations.

Destruction at Tilt Cove.

DAMAGE ESTIMATED AT $15,000. Damage to wharves at Tilt Cove, as a result of the big gale, is estimated at nearly $15,000. This news was conveyed in a telegram received from that place last night by Mr. R. E. Rendell, of C. F. Bennett & Co., Ltd. There is no public wharf at Tilt Cove, so those destroyed probably belong to the Cape Copper Co., the mining company which was formerly operating in the district. Full particulars of the damage done at Tilt Cove should be received shortly.

Fine News for Bad Sailors.

A wonderful contrivance called the Sperry gyroscope has been invented to beat the waves, and it seems that at last we have a cure for seasickness! When liners are fitted with gyroscopes it will be possible for a passenger to carry a cup of tea along the deck in a storm without giving an imitation of a music-hall contortionist. Most of the biggest shipping companies are considering gyroscopes, and the first large boat to be fitted with one is the American liner Huron.

Keeps an Even Keel. The gyroscope stabilizer consists of two rotating wheels thirteen feet in diameter and weighing forty-five tons each, which are placed in the engine-room of the ship. The gyroscope is driven by an electric motor, and, apart from its other advantages, is a fuel saver. The effect of the apparatus is to oppose the motion of each successive wave, so that the ship kept travelling evenly.

Mr. Sperry, the inventor of the gyroscope, became prominent during the war in connection with the gyroscopes compasses supplied to the Allied fleets.

He Took the Hint.

The late Rev. Dr. Pulford, an eminent Congregational divine, used to tell the following "beadle" story. He had promised to preach in a strange pulpit for two consecutive Sundays. The first Sunday he asked the beadle to put a glass of water beside the Bible in the pulpit. In the vestry after the service he playfully remarked, "It might have been whiskey and water for all the congregation could tell." The beadle was silent. Next Sunday the preacher was horrified to find that the glass did contain spirits. Glancing down at the beadle he noted a meaning smile, and discovered beside the glass a slip of paper, neatly inscribed, "I've took the hint, sir."

Wings Tiled Like Roofs.

If your fingers touch the wing of a moth or butterfly, soft dust is left on them, and a bald patch appears on the insect's wing. This dust, when examined under a microscope, is found to consist of thousands of tiny scales. These scales give the colour to the butterfly's wing, which without them is as transparent as that of a wasp or a bluebottle. They are laid on the wing in much the same way as the slates of a roof. But in spite of their exquisite shape and colouring, they are so tiny that the scales on the wings of a single butterfly would outnumber all the slates on the roofs of the houses of a good-sized town.

When you consider that each must be arranged according to its colour, in order to give the wonderful patterns that the wing displays, you will obtain some idea of the wonders of the workmanship of a butterfly's wing.

Large Rudders Picked Up.

ARE THERE OTHER MARINE DISASTERS?

Letters received by business people from Fogo confirm the reports already published about the destruction caused by the storm. The storm broke at 6 a.m. Friday and lasted until late Saturday night, during which time Seldom was completely wiped out of fishing property. "Only one or two fishing boats are left, the fishermen are ruined, and if they cannot get assistance, not only will it be a bad winter for them, but they will not be able to prosecute the voyage next year," writes a well known business man. The letter says that Wild Cove, close to Seldom, suffered irreparable loss. At Indian Island only one motor boat is left, the rest with stages and flukes having been swept away. Quite a lot of wreckage is being picked up, including in which are two large rudders, the writer assuming that these belong, no doubt, to foreign going vessels.

Ruined by Storm.

GREAT DAMAGE AT CONCEPTION. Several people suffered severe losses from the devastation caused by the storm in Conception Harbour and neighbouring settlements. In some cases men were completely ruined, losing all they possessed. Capt. Cole, who arrived in town last night from Conception Harbour, said that everybody who had any property along the sea coast, lost it all. Stages, wharves and stores were washed away with their contents. Very little fish was lost. John Cole of Back Cove and Maurice Mahoney of Conception Harbour, in particular, lost all their fishing gear and everything else they possessed. Few motor boats were lost, but a large number of skiffs and dories were destroyed.

The Storm at Baine Hr.

A correspondent from Baine Harbour, P.E., writing under date of Nov. 3rd says that the recent storm did considerable damage in that section, and particular destruction was wrought in Burnt Island. One man named Dee lost a vessel he had built last winter. She drove ashore on Hay Island and was practically smashed up. Another resident named Hoban had his boat driven to sea, and he has not since heard of her. She was last seen by S.S. Glencoe off Morley's Point. The boat was three years old. Another boat, 4 years old, belonging to P. Pevey, with 90 quintals of fish, his fall's voyage, on board, drove on Harbor Rock and was dashed to pieces.

Road de Luxe Arbitration.

The arbitration over the amounts due to the owners of property through which the so called "road de luxe" was built, takes place to-morrow. The arbitration committee consists of Mr. W. B. Jennings, Minister of Public Works, Mr. E. Furlong, and Mr. A. Gledhill. Up to the present, the report of the committee of enquiry, consisting of Mayor Morris, and Auditor General Berteau, into the building of the road, has not been received by the Minister of Public Works.

The Brigade Journal.

The C. L. B. Cadets Brigade Week Journal appeared to-day and is an excellent little compilation. It is a programme of the various events which will take place on Brigade Week, which celebrates the thirtieth anniversary of the C. L. B. in Newfoundland, and has, further, a history of the Brigade and a considerable amount of other interesting matter. The Journal contains in all twenty-six pages, free from the advertisements, which generally mar bootlets of its nature. The Journal should be in the hands of all those interested in Brigade work in the island.

Charged With Larceny.

A boy was charged before Judge Morris this morning with stealing various articles from the C.L.B. Armoury. He pleaded guilty and was remanded. With some other boys, the accused had hidden in the Armoury until it had been closed for the night, and had then broken into the Quartermaster's department, from which he took a quantity of kit. The other culprits will be arrested.

MY COLUMN

(By the CUB-EDITOR.)
SALES OF WORK.

During my meteoric journalistic career I have frequently found it necessary to attend what is known as a "Sale of Work." I can say without exaggeration, that Daniel's stay in the lion's den was a joke to my sufferings at the many sales of work I have attended, and the worst of it is that the more often I go, the worse I feel. You know how nice it is to be taken with a fit of sneezing in Church. If you multiply that feeling a few million times you will obtain the strain of mind of a man at a sale of work. I will remember the first time I went through it. I remember in the same way that so many people recall a terrible nightmare or a serious illness. I walked quite bravely as far as the door of the hall in which the strain of being held. But, when I saw what I had to face, my courage deserted me. It was only by a severe effort of will that I prevented myself from taking to my heels. Desperately plucking up my courage, I entered the hall and apparently from the moment of my entrance I had become the cynosure of all eyes. Not that I am possessed of any attractiveness. I freely admit that I am not (Quite veracious—Editor.) The reason for this sudden attention was that I was the only man of the masculine ipped, looked at. The blood rushed to my face, my confused senses I seemed to be surrounded by a mass of chattering women. People who probably knew me, spoke to me. I uttered some inane reply. Then, recovering slightly, I made a sudden dash for the door. As soon as I was about 100 yards or so from the awful place, I stopped and wiped my brow. Said the editor next morning, "Did you cover that sale of Work?" In a tone which allowed of no misunderstanding, I replied, "I did." Sales of work! Ugh!!!

RIMES OF THE TIMES.

WHAT A LIFE!
With big worries this life is exceedingly life.
And some make matters worse by possessing a wife.
So the best thing of all is to ignore the call
Of the home and just set up a Bachelor's Hall.

But this world is so queer that I candidly fear
That marriage we'll all in the face have to stare.
For we can't keep away from that dread wedding day
If single, a poll tax we all have to pay.

FUN FOR ALL.

THEIR RULERS.—American: "In the United States of America, sir, we elect all our rulers."
Britisher: "Except your wives!"

SOMETHING DOING.—First Salesgirl—"That man I just sold a five-pound box of candy to said it was for his wife."
Second Ditto—"Is he newly married?"
First—"Either that or he's done something."—Boston Transcript.

TOO MANY TOOTERS.—Motorist (pulling up)—"What's the matter, didn't you hear me blow my horn?"
Pedestrian—"Yes, but there's so much hay fever about, I don't think it was an automobile."—Boston Transcript.

THE HUMANITARIAN.—"I use this horrible shriek horn on my automobile for humane reasons," explained Lieut. Husted. "If I can paralyze a pedestrian with fear, he will stand still and I am less likely to run over him."—The Arklight.

ENOUGH IS ENOUGH.—Soloist Sunday Morning—Mrs. N. McE.—will sing at the First Congregational church Sunday morning the offertory solo, "A Thousand Ways," by Harness. F. W. W. will be heard in the Mendelssohn aria, "It is Enough."—From a news item in the Tacoma Ledger.

THEY GO TOGETHER.—"The rapidly increasing divorce rate," remarked the wit, "indicates that America is indeed becoming the land of the free."
"Yes," replied his prosaic friend, "but the continual marriage rate suggests that it is still the home of the brave."—The American Legion Weekly.

NO SUPERFICIAL SORROW.—She was a rather elderly woman of dusky hue of the kind who looks upon all members of the white race in a friendly, confidential way. And she was arrayed in deepest mourning from head to foot. Also the look upon her face was entirely in keeping with her melancholy array. It certainly seemed that she was dressed up within the last inch of her mournful feelings. But such, alas, was not the case. For lately she had been before the counter of the haberdashery—the underwear counter. And this is the conversation that ensued:
"Honey," she addressed the young woman clerk, "is you got any black underwear?"

"No, 'auntie," replied the salesgirl, "but I have some very nice white ones. Won't they do?"
"No, honey," replied the woman with just a touch of sorrow. "No, they don't do. When I mourn, I mourn; clean down to de skin."—El Paso Times.

Poll Tax and Returned Veterans

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir.—Will you kindly accept the courtesy of publishing the following correspondence to and from Mayor, Mr. I. C. Morris, in connection with the Poll Tax as affecting ex-service men.
Yours very truly,
G. J. WHITTY,
Dominion Secretary.

(COPY)
October 22, 1921.
I. C. Morris, Esq.,
Chairman, City Commission.
Sir.—The Executive of the G.W.V.A. desires to bring to the attention of your Commissioners, the following facts in connection with the tax known as the Poll Tax, which was recently levied by them:

1. Ex-Service men who were overseas during the War, had no opportunity, nor income sufficient to allow them to accrue the money necessary to marry.
2. Many of them are disabled through wounds which prevented their marrying.
3. Due to trade depression many ex-service men have been unemployed for lengthy periods and have had but the wherewithal to live.
4. Pensioners who are in receipt of meagre pensions, and who are unable, by reason of their inability, from pursuing their war avocations, cannot possibly marry and it is equally true that they cannot pay this tax, however small.

Having in view cases such as the foregoing, and realizing the financial obligations of the City Commission, the G.W.V.A. Executive respectfully asks your consideration of the following motion passed by them on October 21st:
"That it is desirable that all ex-service men, viz: Sailors, Soldiers and Foresters, who are liable for payment of the Poll Tax, be exempt from the same, as from period of demobilization, January 1st, 1919 to December 31st, 1924. Proof of exemption to be on the production of discharge certificate, copy of which is attached."

We bring these matters to your attention in the hope that they will receive the consideration which they deserve.
Yours very truly,
G. J. WHITTY,
Dominion Secretary.

November 1st, 1921.
G. Whitty, Esq., Secretary,
G.W.V.A.

Dear Sir.—We have your esteemed communication in reference to the Poll Tax, and we thank you for the same.
We beg to say that the Charter does not give us any powers in the matter implied; but we are making enquiries from our Solicitor—Mr. Carter, and we also intend interviewing the Premier about this matter, and if anything can be done for the benefit of our returned men, we shall deem it a favour and an honour, as well as a duty, to do so.

Yours sincerely,
I. C. MORRIS, Mayor.

"A Pleasure To Take"

our Cough and Cold Cure, because it is composed of pure and harmless drugs.

No cough remedy has ever been discovered that will cure every cough, but we think we have one that comes a little nearer to doing it than most of them. We have prepared it for years, it has been tried in all manner of cases and given satisfaction. We ask you to remember and try this:

Because it is safe.
Because it is most certain to cure.
Because it is pleasant to take.
Because it is equally good for children or adults.

Regatta Winners Decorated.

The medals won by the Amateur and War Veterans' crews at the Regatta held in August last, were presented to the winners on Monday night last at the Firemen's Hall, says the Harbor Grace Standard of Oct. 26.

Some of the regatta committee were present, and the gathering was pleasant satisfactory. Mr. John Tapp, the first director of the Fire Brigade, presented the medals to the winners, and in doing so took occasion to give some of his experience at the regatta, covering a period of over forty-five ### years, during which he took an active part in the sport.

He advised the winners of this year's medals to keep up their interest in the races and, all manly sport, not for the prizes alone, but to show by their participation in it that sport was well worth the energy expended for itself. He was pleased to present and to bestow the medals. He wished the medalists every success in their future efforts with the oar. The chairman of the committee, added a few words, and complimented the winners on their success this season, and asked them to keep up a lively interest in the regatta. The medals are neat and well worth keeping. The gold ones are in the shape of a shield with a raised panel on the front. The silver medals are spade shaped, and are an improvement on the Maltese kind hitherto used for aquatic prizes. Both sets bear the winners' names and the contest for which the prizes were given, with the year of the contest. Several of the winners who were unable to be present owing to absence from town and illness, will receive their medals from the secretary, Mr. M. F. Stapleton. The recipients of the medals showed their appreciation of Mr. Tapp's good wishes, and heartily applauded him. The meeting was most enjoyable.

Sea Surgery.

A MID-OCEAN OPERATION.

On the arrival of the Aberdeen surgeon at Cape Town the surgeon gave an interesting account of a difficult operation performed at sea. When the vessel was five days out from London, Mr. Mason, the ship's barber, consulted the medical officer, Dr. William M'Mullan, who immediately diagnosed his complaint as appendicitis in one of its most dangerous forms. Dr. R. E. Wetfall, of the hospital, was called on for consultation, and it was decided that an immediate operation was necessary to save the patient's life. The captain gave orders for the vessel to be stopped, and the operation was successfully accomplished in the ship's hospital, and on arrival at Cape Mr. Mason was sufficiently recovered to be allowed to leave the bed.

Peace Hath Her Revels

HAMBURG. (Associated Press.) Plans are now afoot to convert Hamburg, the dismantled German fleet into an international watering place and a center for regattas and sports. A company with large capital is organizing a scheme which will include extensive beach improvements and establish regular transportation routes between Hamburg and Bremen. It is expected that the enterprise will appease the dissatisfaction of the landers and put an end to the secession movement.

Sawing Through a Baby

BOY'S MAD PRANK. Stuffed cries coming from an upstairs house caused Mrs. Brown, of Adams street, to run to the spot. There she found her two young sons engaged in sawing through a box in which they had placed their baby sister. Snatching the saw from the hands of the alarmed mother, she quickly rescued the baby. Fortunately it was unharmed, though the saw had cut through the clothing. The boys had seen a performance at a local playhouse the previous night in which a woman was locked in a box which is then sawed through without harm to the woman. Mrs. Brown dealt with them in a manner which will cause them to remember the incident for a long time to come.

The Great War.

NEW PIECE OF INFORMATION. Sir William Noble, president of the Burns Club of London, proposing "Imperial Forces" at the Burns Federation dinner in Dunfermline last week spoke, from personal association with the Navy at Rosyth during the war, of the admirable services rendered by the Navy. Claiming credit for the telegraph service of which he is the engineer-in-chief, he imparted a piece of information, which, he said, had not been disclosed. On the night the war was declared, he said, a cable ship left Dover under sealed orders, and by breakfast time the next day she returned to Dover, having every German cable in the sea (he heard). Ten hours after the declaration of war the Germans could not send a telegram outside of their own kingdom (he heard, he said, and applauded).

Savages With Tails.

Do men with tails exist in the known world? The late Captain Lambert, a distinguished American explorer, declares that such people do exist. He has just returned from ten years in unknown parts of Borneo where he says that he found several members of savage tribes with stumps of tails. "These people," says Lambert, "are evidently the result of inter-marriage with a completely tailed race, because, according to statements by headmen of the tribes, these children with vestige of a tail appear from time to time. They do not consider their appendages as a disgrace; nevertheless, they are extremely sensitive about them, and had difficulty in persuading them to allow me to examine them."

Your Hair Has Muscles

While the expression "hair standing on end" is merely a figure of speech, the fact remains that this is one of the involuntary effects of sudden terror. Such reaction cannot be controlled except by a prolonged effort of the will, for they are the natural way in which certain muscles of the body act under certain influences. Each individual hair has a tiny muscle at its root, which, in the ordinary way, keeps the hair lying flat on the head or in whatever position we have trained it to grow. The sensation of fright transmits a message to the brain to these muscles, and they pull tight, causing a feeling on the scalp as if the hairs were standing bolt upright. In the case of short-haired animals the hairs will rise at the slightest provocation—a provision of Nature which enables them to appear larger than they really are, and thus frighten their enemies.

Sir Oliver Lodge on Seeing It Through.

"The possibilities of existence are infinite," writes Sir Oliver Lodge in the Fortnightly Review. "What they can be at moments we already dimly realize. We have all had instants of insight bordering on ecstasy. Why should these be so few and fragmentary? They show what is possible. The possible may be made actual. And when Saints tell us of the mystery of Deity, and of the Beatific Vision, surely something of what is here suggested must be meant. Not something for which we have no imagination nor any trace of experience, but something to which we only attain at our very highest moments, and then only for a brief instant."

"Deity may, nay must, involve more than we can even conceive—human experiences are sadly hampered by our animal ancestry and manifold shortcomings—but that it rises to the highest of our conceptions this it will become to us more and more real. The value and worthwhileness of existence cannot be over-estimated. The very pains and sufferings of this present life are a witness to the grandeur of that for which it is a preparation."

"Those who arraign the Deity for allowing human sufferings little realize what the future has in store. Many lofty souls must have already risen to the conception" and to the experience; only they are beyond our ken. Existence is surely as large and magnificent now as it will ever be in the future; the universe is going concern. Existence, yes, magnificent enough; but not our individual existence—not yet! The realities are all there, it is we who must attain to them. We can only do so by biding our time. There is no short cut, there is no hurrying the eternal process. Our spirits must work out their appointed destiny; and the period spent in a material body is a valuable and helpful contribution to the progress of the soul."

"That is why we must see it through; suffering pain if it must be, loss and suffering and bereavement if they come; secure that the end will justify all the labour and travail which precedes it."

ADHERING TO A PRINCIPLE.

Since the inception of this firm it has been its principle to offer you only goods that conform to the standard of the best your money can buy, no matter what the price.

French Representatives at Washington.

THE PERSONNEL OF THE DELEGATION.

(Associated Press Service)
Arthide Briand, Premier of France, who heads the French delegation to the Washington Conference on the Limitation of Armaments, is 59 years old. He was once a socialist leader and helped to guide the destinies of France during the most critical periods of the great war. He was born at Nantes, the big industrial city at the mouth of the Loire, and has served, respectively, as Minister of the Interior, Minister of Justice, Minister of Foreign Affairs, President of the Allied Supreme Council, a member of the War Council and four times as premier of France. He has been called "an intellectual colossus" as well as a political dictator and few men have wielded such great influence in French public life. Briand first became a world figure in the Chamber of Deputies as the author of the law providing for separation of church and state in 1904 and for his victory over syndicalism when, by placing the railroads under military law, he called all the workers to the colors and broke the great strike of 1910. He accepted and enforced the principle that "the interests of the whole nation are supreme and must and shall outweigh the interests of any class, section or body."

Rene Viviani, former Premier, the second member of the French delegation, was also at one time a socialist leader. He has served as cabinet Minister in several portfolios. He is at present chairman of the League of Nations' Commission to Limit International Armaments. M. Viviani is no stranger to America. He has visited this country on two occasions, once in 1917 when he came as a member of the French War Mission with General Joffre and again in the spring of 1921 when he was voted the freedom of New York City and visited Colonel Roosevelt's grave. He is 59 years old and was born in Algiers. Educated in Paris, a lawyer, he was elected to parliament in 1893 and served for many years in that body until Clemenceau appointed him a member of his cabinet. He is famous as an orator.

Jean Adrien Antoine Jules Jusserand, has represented France as Ambassador in Washington for 18 years and is the dean of the diplomatic corps. He is 66 years old and has been in public life more than 45 years. He was President Wilson's guest on the liner George Washington when Mr. Wilson sailed for the Paris Peace Conference. His wife is an American; her maiden name was Elsie Richards. Ambassador Jusserand entered the French Foreign Office in 1876. He has been Counselor to the French embassy in London and Minister to Denmark. He is a Grand Officer of the Legion of Honor and a member of several British and American philosophical, historical and literary bodies. He has written a number of books including "Americans of the Past and Present."

Albert Sarraut, French senator and Minister of the Colonies, former Minister of Public Instruction, Governor General of Indo-China and deputy for the Department of Aude, is 49 years old. In the Chamber of Deputies in 1906, Mr. Sarraut struck Deputy Pughes-Conti during debate on the Dreyfus restoration bill. A duel resulted and Sarraut was dangerously wounded by a sword thrust in the right breast. He served in the French army in the world war as a second lieutenant and later he was made pre-consul of Indo-China. When officially opening a native fair at Hanoi an attempt was made to assassinate him. He was shot and seriously wounded. M. Sarraut, early in the present year, drafted the plans for French administration of the Cameroons and Togoland in Africa. Recently he toured French possessions in Africa after requesting the Chamber of Deputies to appropriate 250,000,000 francs for irrigation of the French Sudan.

The staff personnel of the French delegation includes: Chief Military Adviser, Marshal Ferdinand Foch; Chief Naval Adviser, Vice Admiral Grassat, head of the French Naval General Staff; General Secretary to the Foreign Office, General Philippe Berthelot; Maurice Casenave, Director General of French interests in the United States; Major General Baut, Chief of Staff of the French army; Count Charles de Chambrun, former Counselor of French embassy in Washington; M. Leger, for the past four years First Secretary of Legation and Charge d'Affaires at Peking, China; General Pierre-Henri Desticker, chief-of-staff and aid to Marshal Foch; Admiral Debon; M. Fromageot; M. Kammerer; M. Cheverson; M. Duchesne; M. Girard; Captain l'Hopital and Lamoury and Lieutenant de Soederan. In addition there are a score of more secretaries and clerks.
