

New Series Chalmers Six

A Solid year of engineering effort by the new Chalmers organization has brought the New Series Chalmers Six to a remarkably high state of performance perfection.

At $2400, and in the present market, the sound investment value of the Chalmers Six is strikingly plain.

Lord Cecil's Dilemma

The Picnic Woodall Forest

CHAPTER VII

After dinner the gentlemen smoked the usual post-prandial cigar, and the ladies retired to discuss the question of making the remainder of the evening thoroughly sociable.

An hour later they met in one of the large reception-rooms, and Sir Charles found himself face to face with Lady Gladys. He had not spoken to her yet. In his bitterness of heart he had avoided her, but now he stands, trembling with some emotion that for the moment completely masters him. What is that which he reads in her misty, reproachful eyes? Is he dreaming, or mad? Can she be a perfect mistress of the art of coquetry, or—?

She placed her hand in his saying, softly:

"I am pleased to see you, Sir Charles."

"And I," he stammered, "and I am glad to be here, Lady Gladys."

They looked into each other's eyes, and both knew that they had met their fate, for weal or woe.

"I thought that you did not wish to speak to me," she said, her face glowing. "You have not attempted to approach me!"

He had no reply, but stood for a few moments like a man in a dream. The words that Lord Cecil had uttered to his mother rang in his ears. "I proposed to her yesterday, and she accepted me!" He could not believe it now. He would ask Lady Gladys point-blank, by and by. He forgot his own dreadful secret; he forgot the curse that was upon his house, and he replied:

"I cannot deny it, Lady Gladys. I will tell you why some day."

"You have made me curious, Sir lovely. The moonlight is upon every thing. The world is like a poet's conception of fairyland!"

He left her, and she saw him go out on to the lawn. He was waiting for Gladys, and Lady Marcia wondered what he had to tell her beautiful niece.

CHAPTER VIII

Through the windows of the brilliantly lighted reception-room, Sir Charles could see all that was going on as he paced the lawn. Lord Cecil was talking to Lady Craythorne and her daughters, and waiting impatiently for Lady Gladys Howard. Now and then Ada Craythorne cast an expectant glance toward the doorway. She fondly believed that her beauty and captivated Sir Charles Hastings.

While the young baronet was studiously evading her, she was momentarily expecting him at her side.

The Earl of Swinford and Lady Marcia left the room, and Lord Cecil rose impatiently to his feet. He could not very well leave the Craythornes until the vicar came to his relief, and the vicar was adjusting a wrap about the head of Mrs. Nixey, a youthful widow that few men could withstand.

"Flossie, darling," exclaimed Lady Craythorne. "These serene summer nights are treacherous. Do not go out with Lord Cecil unless you are much cooler than I am."

After a speech of this kind what could Lord Cecil do but await the pleasure of Miss Flossie Craythorne. She looked somewhat shyly at him, for she was a timid, retiring girl.

She was fair, while Ada was dark; she was smaller, weaker, and the two differed as night differs from day. Flossie was two years older than Ada, and Lady Craythorne feared that Lord Stanhope was her last suitable chance.

"Do you prefer to remain indoors, Lady Craythorne?" asked Lord Cecil. "The night is lovely. I like to smoke a cigar in the moonlight."

"And I adore the odor of tobacco in the open air," confessed Flossie.

"Then run away, you children," smiled her mother, indulgently. "Ada and I will join you in a few minutes." At that moment Ada saw the glint of a white satin dress on the lawn, and two figures crossed a broad belt of bright moonlight. The wearer of the white dress was Lady Gladys, and her companion was Sir Charles Hastings.

"Come," she said to her mother. "We are the last in the house!" Her eyes glowed with disappointment and rage. Sir Charles had evidently misused her. So far she had never regarded the earl's daughter as a possible rival.

They followed close upon the heels of Lord Cecil and Flossie, and were just in time to see Sir Charles Hastings and Lady Gladys disappearing into what was known as the White Lady's Walls. It consisted of a perfect maze of turns and twists, and in the center there was a beautiful bower of lilac, clematis, jasmine, and roses.

"Something to tell her?" repeated Lady Marcia.

"Yes," he replied. "The moon is

WE'RE GETTING ON.

Some of them point it out to me—Sin and shame where it shouldn't be. Hurt and pain on a little cheek. Strong men driving their bargains cold. Struggling only to have and hold. And they say: "You're fed and you sleep all night."

And you tell yourself that the world's all right."

It's hard to answer the cynic's sneer, Because it is true there is sin down here.

It's true some suffer and some go wrong And the weak must bow to the brutal strong. And it's also plain and it's also true There is plenty of work for the brave to do:

But some of the wrong men here have gone. And the signs are clear that we're getting on.

God takes time when He shapes a man, And ages are only a moment's span, And thousands live, as they think, in vain, Suffering poverty, grief and pain. Yet surer and surer along the way We see the dawn of a better day And a kinder world to dwell upon, For the signs are clear that we're getting on.

Not by one man nor a single age Can we change the record of history's page. Not by one day nor a single year Can we change the current of life down here.

There are sin and shame for us all to view, And selfish deeds which the people do, But the wrongs are being righted, one by one, And slowly, but surely, we're getting on.

A Sea Yarn With Thrills.

TARANTULA SLAYS MAN EATING SHARK—ANOTHER STORY FROM NEW YORK.

New York, June 18.—A tarantula killed the leader of a pack of man-eating sharks! Believe it or not, the sailors aboard the United Fruit steamship Tivives, which arrived from the canal zone to-day, will take off jackets and fight anybody who says it is not true.

When the vessel left Jamaica last Saturday, seventeen whales, coming from all parts of the ocean, mobilized at that port and swam with the ship for a whole day. The next morning, Sunday, the whales met a school of sharks, fourteen well-managed sharks, the leader of which ruled his followers through intimidation. He said something to them and they deployed to starboard and to port and attacked the whales from the rear. The whales fled, leaving two of their number dead on the sea of battle!

Some of the passengers got nervous when the sharks insisted on staying forward, while the captain was aft, and took some old canvas, some black and white paint, and drew the figure of a man on it. Then it was filled with a lot of banana stems and topped off with a perfectly nice tarantula, which when they "sawed him up" it got even wilder than the leader of the sharks.

Then they threw the dummy overboard. The shark leader grabbed it and ripped it from stem to stem, liberating the tarantula which by this time was cross-eyed with anger. When he saw the shark he thought he was responsible for his being sewed up. He jumped on that shark venomously, savagely, with all his feet. The water was soon red with the shark's gore and the weak flapping of his flippers soon showed that he had flopped.

The sailors did not say what happened to the tarantula. It is thought that he's looking for the other thirteen sharks.

Big Salvage Undertaking

ENGLISH EXPERTS DOUBT SUCCESS.

LONDON, (ASSOCIATED PRESS)—The statement cabled from New York that an American Salvage Co. were going to try to raise the Lusitania has aroused keen interest here. But most of those who speak with authority about lifting ships from the bottom of the sea are sceptical as to the Lusitania ever being floated. Sir Frederick Young is strongly of the opinion that it will never be done. He has charge of the Admiralty Salvage section during the war, and brought into port nearly 500 ships that had become torpedoed and a considerable number had been sunk. No one knows more about raising sunken ships.

Maritime Co.

TRANSFERRED ASSETS TO NEW ORGANIZATION.

At a special general meeting of the Maritime Motion Picture Company held on Wednesday afternoon last it was decided unanimously to transfer the assets of the company to a new company, which will be known as the Canadian Maritime Motion Picture Company, Limited. The meeting was large one, shareholders from many towns and cities being present in person. The opposition which had developed into an application to the supreme court for an injunction to prevent the proposed transfer was wholly dissipated by the judgment of Mr. Justice Ritchie who refused to grant the restraining order. The resolution to form the new company was adopted unanimously and enthusiastically.

When the company was formed originally its charter granted to the company the right to manufacture films only and did not provide for the distribution of them. The charter of the new corporation will include much wider powers and will permit the company to carry on the different branches of the industry through which a picture must pass before it reaches the exhibitor.

The final arrangement for the organization of the new concern which will take over all the assets and liabilities of the original company are now being completed. Transfers of stock will be made on a favorable basis, all holders of the old stock will receive a greater amount of stock of the new concern in exchange for it. Sydney Post, June 10.

Obituary.

MR. JAMES O'NEILL.

(H. F. SHORTIS.)

Superintendent P. J. O'Neill of the Newfoundland Constabulary received a cable yesterday morning from Jersey City, announcing the death of his father-in-law, Mr. James O'Neill, which sad event occurred a few hours previous. James O'Neill was born in Bay de Verde sixty-nine years ago, and was the son of Mr. John O'Neill, one of those sturdy, industrious and successful Irishmen, who came to our shores in the first decade of the past century, and who conducted a large fishing business both at Bay de Verde and Labrador. He also prosecuted the seal-fishing, and in his young days I always viewed with delight his tidy and beautiful little schooner the Native Lass and other schooners in which he was interested. He was indeed one of those hardy and energetic pioneer planters who helped to build up Newfoundland. After leaving school, the deceased served his apprenticeship at Harbor Grace with that famous skilled artisan, Mr. John Mitchell, who worked for ten years in London, England, and who had certainly no superior in his business on this side of the Atlantic. When that magnificent monument of ecclesiastical architecture, the Roman Catholic Cathedral of Immaculate Conception, Harbor Grace, was in course of construction, Mr. Mitchell was selected as the one best qualified to perform the decorating portion of the wood-work, and the magnificent pillars which surrounded the dome, were put out of hand by Mr. Mitchell's foreman, the talented artisan, John J. Callahan, of the firm of Callahan and Glass, who lately passed to his reward. In all the artistic work performed in connection with the Cathedral Mr. Callahan was ably assisted by Mr. James O'Neill. In his intercourse with men through his business he proved himself a man of honor and integrity, sparing no pains in order that he might give the best value possible to the work in hand. Many examples of his handwork in St. John's, Harbor Grace and elsewhere are pointed to as standing memorials of the man who hated all shoddy work, and who steadfastly refused to slight any part of his contract, even though so doing would result in loss of money to himself. He was a man of whom it might be said that he had no enemies, but that all were his friends. He was a man who was widely and deservedly popular, and a great reason for his popularity lay in the intensely human character of the man—human in the absence of all pretence and pretension—human in his manful desire to take part whether of work or play—human, above all, in his humanity to man. After leaving Harbor Grace, he settled in St. John's, where he worked for some years, and twenty-five years ago he emigrated to the United States, where he conducted a large and successful business in Jersey City, N.Y., as a contractor. About two years ago he visited his Native Land, and although it was evident that his health was somewhat impaired, he continued his business until a short time ago, when it was thought prudent to send for his son (Rev. T. D. O'Neill of the Cathedral Harbor Grace) and his daughter, Mrs. P. J. O'Neill of St. John's, who were at his bedside to the last, as were also his devoted wife and two sons who resided with him. Thus surrounded by his loving and devoted family, fortified by all the rites of the Catholic Church, an example of resignation and patient faith in the designs of Divine Providence, he passed to his reward far from the land he loved so well. He leaves to mourn the widow (nee Miss March, sister of Rev. Dr. March, Bishop of Harbor Grace), two sons who resided with him, Rev. T. D. O'Neill of Harbor Grace, one daughter, Mrs. P.

J. O'Neill of this city, one brother, Mr. Edward O'Neill, cooper of the West End, two sisters, Mrs. (Capt.) James L. Keefe of Harbor Grace and Mrs. (Capt.) John Turner of St. John's. The well known planters, Daniel, Michael and James O'Neill of Bay de Verde are nephews; there are also many relatives and numerous friends to whom the Telegram extends its sincere sympathy in their bereavement. Eternal rest give unto him, O Lord, and let perpetual light shine upon him. Requiescat in pace.

practical use as an international language; for all purposes of speech or writing; in addition to that it has remarkable qualities which give it value as an educational means. It is valuable as a help in the correct use of the mother tongue; that is seen in an improved pronunciation of the national language, a better choice of words, a more precise knowledge of the meaning of words, and a better understanding of grammatical principles.

Little Ship With Big Record.

Which is the smallest ship that crosses the Atlantic? Well, she has recently arrived in the Thames after a very stormy voyage. Before this trip she had made her usual journey up the Labrador Coast, for upon this ship depend the lives of several small communities.

When I crossed in her (in order to arrive early in Labrador for purposes of shooting) she lay for eight days within sight of the coast of Ireland, and took in all five weeks and two thousand odd miles that separate London from Hopedale. She often takes longer, for it is rare that on her outward journey that she is not beset by the ice she approaches the Labrador coast.

Her captain, one of the finest seafarers of our time, has spent many years of his life in taking cargo after cargo up the most dangerous coast in the world.

Sometimes for days Captain Jackson will find his way "by smell," as they say, through the fogs and up the narrows and channels, or "tickles," of that most rocky coast. He is far safer indeed if he trusts to his own instinct than if he uses what charts there are.

When I was on board, he was steaming for once by the chart, and the consequence was he struck a hidden reef and carried away a great part of the forefoot of his vessel.

And can there be any finer work than this which is carried out by Captain Jackson and his able lieutenant, the mate Mr. Bush?

On him alone depends the life of six settlements. If he fails to come, there would be hard days upon the coast.

Labrador is only approachable during the four months of the year; after that it is cut off from the world. Did the Harmony fail to arrive, what a tragedy! But the Harmony, for all her small size, has never failed to arrive these many years.

Fair weather or foul—and how foul it can be in Labrador only those who have experienced it know, with its snow and ice, and eight-day gales—she fights her way through, and one morning in July, or August, or September, according as the station is north or south, there is a fusillade of gun shots mixed with the cries of the Eskimo whose keen eyes have seen from some promontory what may fairly be termed "The Ship of Life"—H.E.P.

CHARMING NEW GOWN WITH YOUTHFUL LINES.

3910. This style will readily appeal to the woman of slender lines. It is simple in construction and altogether comfortable. This is a good style for plain and figured foulard, for the new Paisley material combined with tulle or pongee, also gingham and linen. The Bolero is worn over a matching slip. It features the new full skirt.

The Pattern is cut in 6 Sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. The 38 inch size requires 3 1/2 yards for the slip of 44 inch material and 2 1/2 yards for 40 inch material for the Bolero. The width at the foot is 2 1/2 yards.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 15 cents in silver or stamps.

A Dainty Frock.

Pattern 3401 was used to make this frock. It is cut in 4 Sizes: 6, 8, 10, 12 years. A 10 year size will require 4 1/2 yards of 27 inch material.

THE RIGHT SUIT FOR THE 'LITTLE MAN.'

3923. The straight trousers in this suit will readily appeal to every little boy. This suit may be attractively developed in wool or woollen materials. Poplin is good for the vest, and corduroy or serge for the trousers. One could combine checked gingham and chambray, or use cotton cloth in two colors.

The Pattern is cut in 4 Sizes: 3, 4, 5 and 6 years. A 4 year size requires 2 1/2 yards of 27 inch material. The vest and cuffs of contrasting material requires 3/4 yard.

POPULAR SUIT FOR THE 'BIG BOY.'

3676. Here is a very practical model, one that will please the boy who wants comfort and smart lines. Tweed, corduroy, or serge could be used for this suit. It is also good for khaki and denim.

The Pattern is cut in 4 Sizes: 6, 8, 10, and 12 years. A 10 year size requires 3 1/2 yards of 27 inch material.

As here shown, embroidered foulards was used. Taffeta, charmeuse, crepe, crepe de chine, organdie and satin are also attractive.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 15 cents in silver or stamps.

A NEW AND ATTRACTIVE GOWN.

Pattern 3498 is here depicted. It is cut in 7 Sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust measure. A 38 inch size will require 3 1/2 yards of 40 inch material for the dress and 2 1/2 yards of 27 inch material for the slump.

Serge, duvetyn, tricotelette, chiffon, crepe, crepe de chine, satin and linen are attractive for this design. Braided bands of embroidery would be pleasing for decoration. One could have a pretty dress in this style of serge and satin. The width of the skirt at the foot is about 2 yards.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 15c. in silver or in stamps.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 15 cents in silver or stamps.

A POPULAR STYLE FOR A BOY'S SUIT.

Pattern 3676 is here illustrated. It is cut in 5 Sizes: 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. A 12 year size requires 3 1/2 yards of 27 inch material.

Madras, seersucker, cambric, silk, flannel, percale, and khaki could be used for this design.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 15 cents in silver or stamps.

Manuels Star Association

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.
A special meeting of the Star of the Sea Association of Manuels was held on Sunday evening last for the purpose of conducting the annual election of officers which was carried out under the form recently adopted by the parent society at St. John's. Mr. J. T. Martin, President of the city organization, supervised the election, and he was assisted by Secretary W. F. Graham and Treasurer Thomas Kelly. The balloting under the new form was very keen and the election resulted as follows:

Hon. President—Dr. Chisholm.
President—Mr. Arthur Duff.
Vice-President—Mr. Geo. Craig.
Treasurer—Mr. George Mercer.
Secretary—Mr. J. Moore.
Ass't. Secy.—Mr. W. Dawe.
Auditor—Mr. Thos. Fairrell.
Grand Marshal—Mr. James Ads.
After the election was over the Spiritual Director, Rev. Fr. Kelly addressed the Association on duties of members. Messrs. J. T. Martin, W. F. Graham and T. Kelly also gave short addresses on the Society's work in Newfoundland.

Legislative Council.

MONDAY, June 19th.
The House met at 4 p.m. and after a session of two hours cleaned up all the outstanding business pending to adjournment until October next. The suspension of the rules facilitated the despatch of business. The committee stage of the Income Tax Act brought forth very little debate. At the previous session several sections of the Bill were criticised but the explanations offered by the leader of the Government being satisfactory the objections were withdrawn. Before the bill was read the third time Hon. W. J. Ellis brought the matter of fire insurance premiums and the high rates being charged locally to the attention of the House. He had understood that some twenty years ago reductions in the rates were promised should the hazard be lessened by better water service. Since then the City of St. John's has spent upwards of $450,000. Improving the water supply and besides, the fire department had been brought up to date by the addition of motor trucks and other equipment. Hon. Mr. Ellis suggested that insurance companies would contribute more directly to the revenue by a stamp tax than by the income tax as proposed by the bill.

Mr. Patrick McGrath, in supporting the position, said the matter of being promised cheaper rates was a pleasant anticipation not realized, and had its simile in the promises of the prohibitionists that there would be no need for the Penitentiary, Poor House or Police. In view of the greatly improved water service, and the efficiency of the fire department, Sir Patrick thought it was strange that no reductions in fire insurance rates were made. He said he had been informed that the ordinary risk was covered in Halifax for about 50 cents in $100.

Following the third reading of the Bill, "An Act to amend the Revenue Act, 1906," was put through all its stages.

In the committee stage of the Bill "An Act to amend the Sales Tax Act, 1921," Hon. F. McNamara suggested that as a matter of encouragement to farmers Nitrate of Soda should not be subject to the Sales Tax. His plea on behalf of the farmers brought forth a promise from the Minister of Agriculture and Mines that the matter would be brought to the attention of the Government and at the next session the tax would be removed.

The passing of the Bill entitled "An Act to amend the St. John's Municipal Council Act, 1921," brought forth some lengthy debate. Sir Patrick McGrath said he regretted the Government had found it necessary to take part of the Parade Ground upon which to erect the Normal School. Over one-third of the area had been encroached upon within the past 20 years, and when the Normal School was given a proper setting very little would be left as a breathing space for children. Sir Patrick said he had no objection to the Normal School but he thought other sites could be obtained and he suggested erecting the building on the vacant plot west of the Inspector General's official residence.

Hon. Dr. Campbell explained that as one of a committee he had conferred with the Council on the matter of securing the site on the Parade Ground. The Government had found that to purchase a site elsewhere would cost a large sum which could not be spared out of the amount allocated.

Hon. W. J. Ellis supported the idea of building a Normal School, but he took the same view as Sir Patrick McGrath, and thought a site should be found elsewhere and not where it would spoil a recreation ground.

Hon. T. Cook, in giving his views of the matter said that he had pointed out to the Minister of Education the desirability of getting another site. When the Government decided to take the land for a Normal School it left the Council with Hobson's choice, said Mr. Cook.

The Supply Bill was introduced and passed through all its stages, after which the House adjourned until 10.30 a.m. Tuesday.

Noble Sentiments.

(Acadian Recorder.)
Few monarchs in the history of the world have ever given expression to nobler sentiments than those uttered by King George when visiting the war graves of Belgium and France last month. The utterance of His Majesty is a kindly message indeed, the message of one whose heart beats in sympathy with the heart of his people; whose sincere desire is the establishment of peace and righteousness upon the earth and whose trust is in the Lord. Standing in the shadow of the Cross of Sacrifice in the Cemetery at Torlinchun, in France, where slept 3,040 British soldiers, the King said: "I have many times asked myself whether there can be more potent advocates of peace on earth through the house of Lords on Friday, says the Glasgow Weekly Herald of June 3, in which John Percy, a Glasgow printing-machine hand, brought an action against the Corporation to recover £500 damages for injury alleged to have been suffered by him in consequence of his being given into custody by Corporation tramway officials in connection with a dispute as to a penny fare.

Litigation Over a Penny.

Judgement was delivered in the House of Lords on Friday, says the Glasgow Weekly Herald of June 3, in which John Percy, a Glasgow printing-machine hand, brought an action against the Corporation to recover £500 damages for injury alleged to have been suffered by him in consequence of his being given into custody by Corporation tramway officials in connection with a dispute as to a penny fare.

The Lord Ordinary held that there was an issue to be tried, but the Court of Session, upon appeal by the Corporation, dismissed his action, so he appealed to the House of Lords, where on Friday their Lordships allowed the man's appeal, being in opinion that he is entitled to have his claim against the Corporation tried by jury.

Wedding Bells.

KNIGHT-CRAMMOND.
The wedding of Miss Nellie Louise, daughter of Mrs. Edwin Knight to Mr. Lester Robert Crammond, Manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia at Grand Bank, took place at the residence of the bride's parents, Atlantic Avenue on Saturday last. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. H. E. Fairbairn in the presence of the immediate relatives of the bride. The bride was given away by her father and was attended by Miss Florence Pratt, while her niece, Miss Annie White, acted as flower girl. The groom was supported by Mr. Alex. Knight. After the reception, the happy couple motored to Donovan's from where they took the express on Sunday for an extended tour in Canada. The bride was the recipient of many valuable presents. The Telegram extends its congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Crammond.

Vaudeville and Revue.

MANHATTAN CO.'S BIG SHOW.

Vaudeville and revue, comedy and pathos, that was the acceptable mixture served up by the Manhattan Musical Comedy Company at the Casino last night. Moreover, for once among a capacity audience, there was not one whose taste failed to permit the dish to be relished. Every member of the troupe had something to do, and it is rarely that a local audience has seen such a display of individual talent. The opening numbers were contributed by members of the chorus who had been previously given little opportunity to display their versatility and the rounds of applause which greeted Misses Helen Violette, Charlotte La Rose, Daisy Ford, Mary and Marybeth Cox was proof sufficient that they should have been given a similar chance before. Mr. Henry White was heard to great advantage in some splendid songs and Miss Geraldine Edgar rendered delightful selections on the violin. Miss Thropp was very amusing as the deserted wife in the "Christy Cure." Mr. Liddy's fine tenor voice was greatly appreciated and Miss Oswald sang some delightful songs in her charming soprano. Billy Clifton and Relda Rennie were absurdly funny in their sketch "Wrecked," and Miss Torrey's interpretation of the "Incense Dance" held her audience fascinated with her staccato and graceful motion. Teddy Wilde's "Dress Rehearsal" was a scream from start to finish. The show will be repeated to-night and is well worth seeing, and all the young men who take their best girls along to-night should find expression for the sentiment contained in the lines below, which would doubtless have been written by Omar the Tentmaker, had prohibition been the vogue in his day.

Advertising Brings Trade.

This morning a Telegram reporter was shown thru the sample rooms of Gerald S. Doyle, where a great display of many well known articles is to be seen. The familiar packages of many highly advertised products, such as Dr. Chase's Medicines, Scott's Emulsion, Life Savers, Sloan's Liniment, Ivory Soap, Pro Fly Lac Tie Brushes etc., seemed like old friends, waiting there to meet you. Despite much depression in general trade circles, Mr. Doyle has not only carried on his business "as usual," but has increased it many fold. As Mr. Doyle himself, is known from one end of Newfoundland to the other, so are the goods he handles familiar to householders all over the country. He has been a persistent and consistent advertiser. Personally he has made a big outlay in advertising his goods and the firms of world-wide fame which he represents have spent millions in making their products known to the public.
Mr. Doyle is best known in Newfoundland, perhaps, as the agent for Dr. Chase's goods and while these are still his leading lines, he seems to have got hold of most of the best classes of goods with which one meets with from time to time. His sample rooms are a revelation in excellent wares. He has become the direct agent for many of the larger manufacturers of toilet and other articles and because of this direct agency he is in a position to give the trade and ultimately the people, better values than they have ever before been able to get in these particular goods. Mr. Doyle has recently had to enlarge his sample rooms and office space and increase his staff, and while those who know of his indefatigable enthusiasm in his work ascribe a large measure of his success to his own efforts, he himself, is strong in the affirmation that this success is largely due to advertising.

In the Realms of Sport.

What promises to be one of the best games for the season is on the card for to-night when the Saints and B.I.S. meet in the fifth game of the fixtures. Until the final stage of the series the Saints was the only team last year that succeeded in finding the net against the champs. That's why it is that the Two Year Kings with fear and trepidation face their old-time antagonists, and should the weather hold fine it is thought the game will attract an even larger gate than did the clash between the Felladians and Irish. A little heat, please, Old Sol, to dry up the ground. To-night's line-ups are:

B.I.S.—Goal, J. Phelan; backs, Power and Higgins; halves, Rawlins, Brien and Constantine; forwards, F. Phelan, K. Phelan, Callahan, R. Halley, Burke.

Saints—Goal, Burns; backs, Barnes and Tait; halves, Elton, Foster and Brown; forwards, Young, G. Elton, Sawyers, Clouston and McNeill. The referee will be George Hunt.

On the morning of July 1st there will be another doubleheader in aid of the new Kilbride Church, and the winners will be presented with a handsome silver one year cup presented by the Pastor, Rev. F. John Rawlins, —himself an athlete of note, and an ardent fan of all branches.

On the Thursday evening of July 20th the Wanderers and Lions, and the B.I.S. and Cubs, will clash in another doubleheader in aid of Mount Cashel. The baseball game at the Garden Party has always been one of the attractions, and this year will prove the exception.

By the way it is interesting to note that the footballers have for the grabbing this season not less than 14 sets of medals in the various sports and games, so that most of the boys' lady friends are going to have some very classy hat pins this Fall. Put your trophies in girls. The baseballers will have four silver trophies and a set of medals for their share.

Evidently our Canadian cousins have not the happy faculty of settling protests as speedily as our sport controllers. About four months ago the Sussex hockey team protested a game played with the Charlottetown Abergwaits on February 22nd in the play-off for the hockey championship of New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island. It was only a week ago that a decision was handed down and the protest sustained. The protest arose over the permitting by the referee of two Charlottetown players who were in the penalty box at the end of the regular game to take their places on the ice at the commencement of the over-time play without completing the balance of their penalty period before resuming their places in the line-up. The question arises now, who are the 1922 champions?

Having squared off their indebtedness with the Football League, the baseballers have floated a sweep-stake in order to augment their sadly depleted funds. His a cash drawing and will take place next month. There are three prizes, $300, 100 and 50; and as the tickets are only a dime we feel sure that sport enthusiasts will give the sweep the generous support it deserves. Thank you, fans!

THE CHAMP.

I sing you the song of the greatest of rags.
The King in the Kingdom of Scrap.
Who meets every comer with nonchalant joy
And plays a tattoo on his map;
Who never has faltered within the roped ring.
Nor yearned for the sound of the song.

But fighting two-handed has stood by his guns,
And ended each round going strong.
Great Sullivan withered before his fierce drives,
And Corbett succumbed to his might.
Fitzsimmons was battered in blood to the dust,
While Jeffries just blew in the fight;
Jack Johnson was only wet clay in his hands.

Big Jess and the rest of the crew
Were just little children when mixing with him
And "has-beens" when he would come through.

From the Guards' football circles comes this story. Kindness forbids us to mention names. A well known player who rather starred in their last appearance was waxing enthusiastic about one of his fellow mates to a cute fuffly young thing. "He'll be our best man soon." She fell on his neck—and now he's looking for a ring, likewise a house. Ain't it awful!

The Baseball League held a special meeting yesterday forenoon to draw up the preliminaries for the various garden parties. On Thursday morning there will be a doubleheader for the stay-in-towns, commencing at 10.30 when the Wanderers and Cubs and Red Lions and B.I.S. will come to grips in aid of the Church of England Orphanage. This winners will play off on the day of the Garden Party for the Bowring Challenge Cup and the handsome medals presented by the

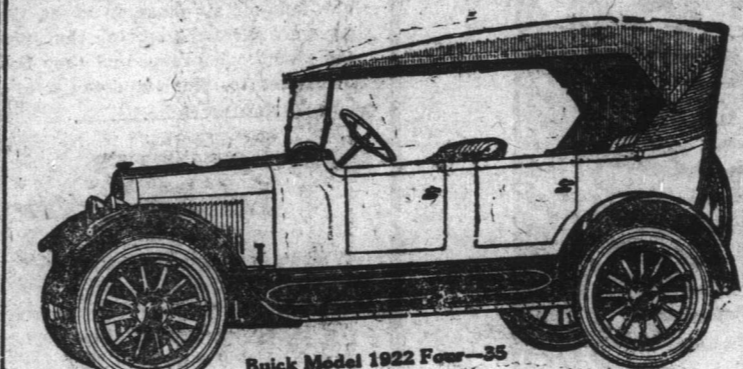

The new teacher was having a bad time of it. The class was very dull—or pretended to be—and seemed incapable of answering the easiest questions.

"What is a person called who steals?" asked the teacher persuasively.

"There was no answer.

"Now, Herbert," said the teacher, "suppose I was to put my hand in your pocket and take out a penny, what would you call me?"

"A blooming conjurer," replied Herbert, with conviction.

When Better Cars are Built, Buick will Build Them.

One need only look at the 1922 Buick Models running in St. John's to see why they offer such exceptional outstanding values.

An improved silent, powerful, and reliable Buick engine, with everlasting in-built serviceability, combined with high class body work finished in the Buick Canadian Factories, make the Buick Six and Buick Four cylinder models, cars that owners are proud of—incomparably comfortable and distinctly the 1922 leaders.

Won't you give us the pleasure of asking for a demonstration?

We have on hand models in a beautiful weather-proof Grey, also Black.

Hérons Use a Lure in Fishing.

The heron is an exceedingly grave and serious bird given to standing in a contemptative attitude by the water side, a model of calm respectability. In appearance when flying with his long legs streaming behind is responsible to the stories of witches flying through the air on broomsticks. It is thought by many that the heron has an oil which it uses to attract fish especially eels. There is also a theory that herons emit a phosphorescent light from the bare spot on their breasts, perhaps from the oily, clammy substance clinging to the knobs of down, which attracts fish at night. The blue powder found in the feathers of the blue heron may have some connection with this curious jure. So successful are these solemn looking poachers that this spring some of the fishing clubs are seeking permission considerable expense.

'The Famous Three'

Ward's
ORANGE-CRUSH
LEMON-CRUSH
and
LIME-CRUSH

EVERYBODY'S got a "Crush" on Ward's "Crushes". They're the most popular crushed fruit drinks in the world, and the very best ever sold in the City.

Their delicious fragrance and flavor is a visible proof of the fact that their basis is pure fresh fruit juices, nothing else can equal it. Their sparkling coolness and refreshing wholesomeness makes them delightful and perfectly safe beverages for all occasions.

Keep a few bottles on the ice, and make a point of NEVER being without some of one, or all, of these pleasing and satisfying thirst-quenchers in the house.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 31st, is "Bulldog" Day. There are 10 money prizes and 20 cases of "Crushes" for some lucky folks to be won on that date. Save your stoppers until then, and see if you're one of the lucky ones.

Wearly Willie's Paradise.

A MECCA FOR TRAMPS AND IDLEERS.

LONDON. (Associated Press) — A man can derive a larger income in popular by accepting relief than he can be working, so generous are the contributions of the Poplar Guardians. Full information as to the methods of the Guardians in relieving poverty in their borough, shows greater extravagance than had been suspected. An East End firm wrote to the Guardians "Our employees who live in Poplar have pointed out that they can get more money by being unemployed than by working for us. As we have no wish to prevent them getting as much as possible, we propose to dismiss them so that they can take advantage of your relief."

That the firm did not exaggerate prevailing conditions is shown by other testimony. A man and wife were granted £2. 10s a week to relieve their poverty when the earnings of four single daughters brought the family income up to £7. 5s a week. So generous were the Guardians in disbursing the money of the taxpayers that they granted one deputation from the unemployed a higher scale of relief than had been asked for. In their own defense the Guardians simply state, in effect, that they were elected to help the poor people of the borough, and they have no excuses to offer for doing it.

Many Poets Have Left Big Fortunes.

"What does your husband do?" a new acquaintance asked the wife of a moderately successful verse maker. "Why, he is a poet!" the wife replied, obviously surprised that anyone should not be aware of her husband's fame. "Oh, yes, I know he is," the new acquaintance assured her. "But I mean, what does he do for a living?" That little passage is fairly illustrative of the popular idea about the earnings of poets, who traditionally are associated with crusts and garrets. It would not be difficult to point out several modern verse manufacturers, not to say poets, who dine very well, thank you, and the same was the case in many instances in earlier days.

Winburne left an estate valued at more than $1,000,000, which was practically removed from the poverty-stricken class. Tennyson left £7,208 English pounds, or more than $250,000, and the continuing income from his works provided a very handsome annuity for Lady Tennyson. Robert Browning left personal property in England valued at $90,000. Browning's will was in his own handwriting, and one of the witnesses was "A. Tennyson."

Matthew Arnold's estate amounted to more than $40,000. His will, also in his own handwriting, was one of the shortest ever to come under probate. It said: "I leave everything of which I die, possessed, to my wife, Frances Lucy."

No Refreshments Between Acts.

VIENNA.—Because of a pest of rats and mice, the authorities have prohibited both actors and audience from bringing food into the State Opera House and the State Theatre. Enormous damage is said to have been done to the rodents thus attracted, not only to the wardrobes, but the upholstery as well, having been irreparably injured.

MAMMOTH RADIO STATION FOR AUSTRALIA.

MELBOURNE. (Associated Press.)—The preliminary work of establishing the mammoth Australian Radio Station for direct communication with Great Britain has been begun. The substations for overseas traffic will be about three times as powerful as any European station to-day. It will take two years before the central and feeder stations are completed. As a normal performance the chief station will be able to speak direct over 12,000 miles for the greater part of any working day. Receiving and sending stations to correspond will be built in Canada during the same period. The plant for the main station will be imported from England, but the plant for the feeder stations will be manufactured in Australia, one for each of the states. The combined cost of all these stations will be about $5,000,000. The main station will consist of a transmitter and receiver terminal 30 miles apart, the latter including 24 towers each 500 feet high spread over a square mile. The wireless rates will be one-third less than the present cable rates to Europe.

Rival Bidders.

The clergyman's eloquence may have been at fault, but he felt annoyed to find that an old gentleman fell asleep during the sermon on two consecutive Sundays. After service on the second Sunday, he told the boy who accompanied the sleeper that he wished to speak to him in the vestry. "My boy," said the minister, when they were together, "who is that elderly gentleman who accompanies you to church?" "Grandpa," was the reply. "Well," said the clergyman, "if you will keep him awake during my sermon, I'll give you sixpence a week." The boy fell in with the arrangement, and for the next two weeks the old gentleman listened attentively to the sermon. The third week, however, found him soundly asleep. The vexed clergyman sent for the boy, and said: "I am very angry with you. Didn't I promise you sixpence a week to keep him awake?" "Yes," replied the boy, "but grandpa now gives me a shilling not to disturb him."

Britain's Hold Over Sudan.

IRRITATES EGYPTIANS.

CAIRO, EGYPT. (Associated Press) —He who holds the Sudan controls Egypt; hence all of Egypt is vitally interested to-day in the reports from London that Great Britain is considering the establishment of a protectorate in this territory. "Egypt without the Sudan is a tomb for its people," says one newspaper, and explains that control of the Sudan is absolutely necessary to the economic development and life of Egypt. Without the Sudan Egypt's independence, recently granted by Great Britain, would be a farce. The London rumors carry the detail that Great Britain contemplates the declaration of a Sultanate separate from Egypt under one of the sons of the Mahdi as its ruler, the whole under British protection with a system of government similar to a British dominion. The Egyptian people will resist, the newspapers declare, even to the extent of force. They are voicing their determination to regard Egypt and the Sudan as one inseparable. With Great Britain in the Sudan, the products of the country will be exported by way of Berber and Suakin, and with her hands on the sources of the Nile Great Britain could render the lower reaches of the river, so vital to Egypt, fertile or infertile at will.

THE CHEERY GUESTS.

I have uncles, I have cousins, I have nieces, and in couples and in dozens they come gadding to my door; just to visit for a season, just to make themselves at home; and you here behold the reason for the furrows on my dome. Yet with gaudy smiles I greet them, as they come in ranks and rows, when I'd really like to beat them with a length of garden hose. For they bore me with their chatter, and they talk in voices strong, of the things that do not matter, of the things that don't belong. If there is a theme or topic that's a weariness to me, they'll discuss it loud and squeaky, till I wring my hands and flee. But I lack the nerve to cast them when they journey to my gate; with a cordial smile I see them crying "Welcome" to each skate. Oh, I like to have my nieces come and drink a dish of tea, but they shouldn't bring valises and big wardrobe trunks to me. I can stand a decent number, and my welcome will not fail, if they eat and drink and slumber and depart before they're stale.

Lost Treasure Located.

THREE HUNDRED YEARS AT BOT. TOM.
Penetanguishene, Ont., June 14.—Buried beneath the waters of the River Wye for more than three hundred years, the long lost treasure box of the Jesuit Mission to Huronia has been located by the needle of a magnet diving rod. It lies beneath twenty feet of water and mud, and divers are now starting to raise it. Just what the box will show when it is brought to light is at present a matter of conjecture, but the needle shows that it contains gold in great quantity.

This finding further is verified by the records of the Society of Jesus, which show that one of the seven big boxes brought into New France in the year 1650 and laboriously carried to Fort Sainte Marie by canoe, was lost and never recovered. An examination of the records indicates that the box probably contains the altar candleabra and the pay-checks of the black-robed missionaries into the wilderness of Huronia. If this be so, the value of the treasure will be enormous, as the vestments were the present of the Court of France and were of solid gold. So far as is known, they were sent into the wilderness and disappeared.

SIDE TALKS.

By Ruth Cameron.

CRITICISM VERSUS FAULT-FINDING.

A woman I know says that her husband is always finding fault with her. Her husband says he is simply criticizing her for her own good. "Isn't it better than to be bothered by them all the time they mean something serious to me?"

"Oh, yes," she says, "I want you to tell me about them but there is a difference between telling a person things to help them and finding fault with them."

"You're always making silly distinctions like that," he says, "you know I only do it for your sake." Now one day I happened to be in sport, she wasn't going to let me know how much she minded. "I know I am," she said, "I mustn't do it again."

And after that I knew which of them was right in the controversy as to criticism and fault-finding.

Try to Hurt.
 Criticism and fault-finding are a whole world apart, not in their substance but in their spirit. One may say the same things in two ways and in two spirits, one of which makes them criticism and the other, fault-finding.

Fault-finding is just what the word itself says, a seeking of faults. And when it finds them it flings them in the face of the possessor in an irritable, derisive, deliberately wounding way. The fault-finder nearly always claims that he does it for the good of the object. Tommy-rot! He does it for the relief of his own irritability.

Try to Help.
 Criticism in the best sense, is an effort to help the individual criticised to get rid of faults that hamper his development and would trouble him deeply if he could know how they looked to others.

No family life is complete unless the members of the family are able to give and take this kind of criticism. And none is truly happy where the members have the habit of fault-finding.

You're a Slight.
 His wife who had been sewing immediately laid her work aside to put back on the table the supper that had been delayed. As she did so the telephone rang and a little frown of annoyance passed over her face at the interruption. Her husband saw it and immediately mocked her in an exaggerated and derisive way. "If you know how you looked when you frown like that," he said crossly, "I'll bet you'd never do it again. You're a slight. Go look in the mirror."

Rice is good cooked in milk and served in maple syrup.

Auto Accidents.

Automobiles have killed three children in Cape Breton within a week. Such a tragic toll cannot but raise a presumption of negligence, which may not be rebutted by claims that the "rules of the road" were observed in all cases, or that there was no convenient place for the little ones to play other than on the highway or the public street.

The rules of the road, like all other rules, regulations and laws, are made to govern the conduct of adults—or at least of persons of responsible intelligence—with reference to one another. The tooting of an automobile horn gives no one the moral right to continue at speed along a road where irresponsible tots are at play. The only safe and proper course in such cases, is to slow up or stop long enough to ensure against accident.

Speeding in the city or any of the towns can only be described as a criminal recklessness in any case. In Sydney the menace of the speed foot has become even greater than it was a year ago. The number of inexperienced and irresponsible motorists has increased. It is admitted that the police force of this city is relatively light in number and that it has more than enough to do quite apart from keeping the auto traffic under surveillance. But whatever police work has to be neglected, that of curbing the speed fool should be scrupulously performed, for the matter involved is nothing less than the protection of men, women, and children against the peril of injury which, as the evidence at hand proves, may result in fatalities. A few examples made, at the beginning of the season, of reckless or ignorant motorists, will make the work of the traffic cop progressively lighter as the summer advances.

Equally important is it that parents should as far as possible, keep their children off the streets and the public highways at this season of the year. To do this in Sydney, with its death of parks and recreation grounds, is particularly difficult, but it is the only way of safety. Children of tender age should not be allowed even to cross the streets in the motor season, unless accompanied by those who are able to look after them. There is not a street in this city, or for that matter in any Cape Breton town, which is a safe playground for young children during the summer months. Where parents refuse to recognize and be governed by these obvious facts, the case becomes one calling for the intervention of the officers of the law.

Gold Under Fossils.

In Alaska the bones, and often the entire bodies, of extinct animals, such as the mammoth, the mastodon, the reindeer and the bison, are found most abundantly in the layers of soil directly above the gold-bearing gravels. So intimate is this association between fossil animal remains and the auriferous deposits that many explorers who have visited Alaska say that the fossils serve the prospectors as indexes of the metallic richness of the soil.

In ancient times both the gold and the bones and bodies of the animals were deposited at the bottom of valleys by the action of rivers and smaller streams, many of which have now disappeared. Consequently, the appearance of fossils is an almost certain indication that gold will be found in the neighborhood, the cabins of many miners are ornamented with huge tusks and antlers, unearthed in the diggings.

A Lucky Young Woman.
 The luckiest girl in England to-day is Miss Gwendoline Thomas, of Liverpool, who drew Captain Cuttle in the Calcutta Sweepstake. It is true that, being a wise woman, she sold half her ticket beforehand for a substantial sum; but even so her other half brought her about £68,000.

The romance of such good fortune, coming to a girl who has been earning her living as a clerk in an insurance office, transcends the most daring flights of fiction. It is enough to turn anybody's head, but from what we read of the calm manner in which Miss Thomas received the news she seems to be as sensible as she is fortunate. No doubt she will be inundated with advice as to what to do with her money, but she is probably, as she says, "well able to look after herself."

Most people have had their pet dreams of what they would do if they suddenly became rich, and perhaps Miss Thomas is no exception to this rule. But Miss Thomas will soon find that riches bring with them their own complexities, and that what seemed so simple in imagination is not always so simple in real life. But this is only a general reflection, and it does not affect the main point, which is that Miss Thomas has had a wonderful stroke of luck, on which everyone will congratulate her.—Daily Mail.

Making Trains Safe.

MECHANICS WHO PREVENT RAILWAY ACCIDENTS.
 The public does not realize the important part played by when examining in making our railways the safest in the world.

At large stations these mechanics may be seen tapping the wheels of carriages and wagons with their long-handled hammers. They are all trained fitters. Their duties comprise chiefly inspection of the wheels, axle-boxes, springs, and brakes.

One of the most usual occurrences which delay the examiner in his tour of inspection is an overheated axle.

The Danger Card.
 Other defects for which the man with the hammer looks are bent axles, defective brakes, and faulty couplings. In the case of a bent axle, there must be no attempt to straighten it at once. The wheels must be taken off and sent to the repair shop. There the axles are heated before being straightened.

When the wheel examiner finds anything wrong, he takes two cards from his pocket, enters thereon the necessary particulars, and fixes them to both sides of the carriage or wagon. He must also report the matter to the guard.

These cards are of two sorts. One, a red card, bears the words "Not to go," and indicates of course, that the carriage must be left behind.

The other card is green, on one side and white on the other. The green side bears the words "For repair," and must be addressed to the nearest repair station. This means that the repairs cannot be done locally, but that it will be safe for the carriage or wagon to travel to where the work can be done.

Finding Faults.
 The white side of the card gives the information "Defective brake," which shows that the vehicle is unfit to travel.

The wagons of colliery proprietors and coal merchants, and the vehicles of other companies, must be examined and passed by the wheel examiner before they are permitted to travel over the line they represent.

A bent bearing, a snapped coupling, a bent axle—any of these faults might cause considerable loss of life. The fact that accidents from such causes are so unusual is a tribute to the vigilance and efficiency of the man with the hammer.

It's Flavor that Makes the Meal!

And the sauces that the Libby chefs have adapted for you give flavor to the simplest dishes.

It may be eggs, or macaroni, or a cheap cut of meat—an unusual and delicious sauce will make it something you eat with delight and remember with pleasure—because of its flavor.

LIBBY'S CATCHUP and CHILI SAUCE are made from red, ripe tomatoes, grown in the fertile soil of Kent County, Ontario, picked when they are mellowed by the sunshine of long summer days, then rushed to the nearby Libby kitchen.

Here in sunny rooms the tomatoes are cooked with fragrant spices, onions, sugar and the best vinegar—cooked for hours until all the flavors are blended through and through.

Now the sauce is ready to give an appetizing relish to your steaks and chops, or a new piquancy to the meat gravy you serve with your roasts.

Your grocer has, or can get you, Libby's Catchup or Chili Sauce. Use it with your cold meat teas and note how quickly the second helping is necessary.

The delightful flavor of Libby's Beans is due largely to the wonderful Sauce prepared by the skilled chefs. Have you tried them?

Airplanes Combat Locusts.
 BAKU, Soviet Republic of Azerbaijan.—Forty airplanes equipped with poisonous gas bombs will be used to fight the swarms of locusts which are descending upon the crops of this district. The insects came from Persia. The bombs will be dropped into the swamps and other breeding places; upon exploding they will diffuse suffocating gases. The experiment will cost the Moscow government 9,000,000 Soviet rubles, or as a local humorist has said, one ruble for each locust.

Mrs. A. A. V. Halterman writes of Dr. F. G. Kinsman's Heart Tablets, etc.:

COULD NOT GO ACROSS ROOM, BUT NOW ABLE TO WALK SIX MILES.

I cannot express to you my thanks for your Heart Tablets as I had given up all hope of ever getting well. I had heart trouble for fifteen years and would have had spells so that I would have to sit up for five or six weeks at a time, only getting two hours' rest out of forty-eight. I had smothering spells and would have to be fanned for hours at a time, and the pain at my heart was so severe that I would think that every minute would be my last. My heart would beat so fast that I could not count the beats, and would then stop altogether and my breath would become so short that I would sink away in fainting spells. Many different physicians treated me, and one specialist stated that I had the worst affected heart of any he had ever treated and that it was impossible for me to be cured. I was not able to walk across my room on account of my heart, but am now able to go six miles on one walk. I was not expected to live by any of my friends, and they now all ask me: "What did you take to cure yourself?" I am looking well, and my heart never troubles me and it has been six years since I took the Tablets. My son was taken with the grip and was not able to work for five weeks. His heart troubled him so I advised the use of your Heart Tablets, and in three days he was well and has not since lost a day's work. I shall do all I can to recommend your medicine.

Above Heart Tablets are sold at $1.00 per box at all Drug Stores, or write to P. O. Box 312, St. John's for further information.
