THIS MORNING'S DESPATCHES BY TELEGRAPH

Troubles in Spain.

Monument to Earl Mayo.

The Geneva Conference.

The "Times" on the Question.

Paris, April 12.—The Council of Revision have annulled the sentence pronounced against Blanqui and given him a new trial.

Madrid, April 12.—An armed band of Republicans have appeared at Vendell. A party of Carlists 2,500 men stopped a train on a railway and plundered the goods and passengers, but did not molest the passengers. They also cut the telegraph wires, and communication with Barcelona is interrupted. Gov. Gerona telegraphed that troops are operating against the insurgents in that province, but the result is as yet unknown.

The iron workers in the city of Barcelona have struck work.

The landed proprietors of Provi have organized parties to pursue the marauders who infest the country—fights have already taken place with robbers and men have been killed on both sides.

Official reports from Catalonia say troops are active along the frontier. When lands of Carlists appear troops are immediately sent in pursuit, and in quiet districts where there is danger of rising, flying columns scour the country. Returns of re-elections are nearly all in the hands of the Government. The ministerial list stands ministerialist-13, opposition 121.

Paris, April 12.—Hon. Caleb Cushing, Counsel of the United States before the tribunal of arbitration, has gone to Geneva to present the American counter case.

London, April 12.—A steamer from South America reports that the Emperor and Empress of Brazil reached Bahia on the 27th inst.

London, April 12.—Dr. Evans, of Paris, writes to the Standard contradicting the statements of American papers that the Emperor Napoleon owned the estate on Broadway, New York, recently purchased by the Western Union Telegraph Company. The Doctor says the property belonged exclusively to himself and that Napoleon never had any interest or ownership in it whatever.

It is reported that Russia contemplates raising a new loan of ten million pounds sterling.

A meeting was held in Dublin last night to take preliminary steps for raising a monument to the memory of the late Earl Mayo.

A fight occurred last Sunday in the streets of Rome between the Pontifical Guard and citizens; one soldier was killed and two wounded. It is reported that Antonelli had sent a memorial to foreign powers on the outrage, but the report is denied.

London, April 12.—An official report of an engagement in the Central Department announces the killing of the Cuban General Eduardo Agramonte as a positive fact.

London, April 12.—The Times indicates that the English Government will do at least some things on Monday. It assumes that the counter case will be exchanged, and apprehends that the American Government will interpret this as indicating an intention on the part of the British Government to continue the arbitration and relinquish its opposition to indirect claims.

The Times reports that the significance of presentation of the counter case should therefore be well weighed. The Government is bound to take care that the Americans understand that the counter case is presented because the arbitration might at once lapse, and because there is another opportunity which the American Cabinet may repair the error in their case. The treaty provides that two months after the exchange of the counter cases written arguments shall be presented to the tribunal at that State. England may, and must, retire from the arbitration unless she acquiesces in the American renunciation of its claims for consequential damages. The British Government is bound to give the American Government notice of such purpose and to notify the arbitrators that the counter case is now presented without prejudice to the argument, and that the authority of the arbitrators does not extend to the consideration of consequential damages.

Burglars Again at Work.

SEVERAL STORES ENTERED ON FRIDAY NIGHT.

We have again to record a series of burglaries, committed in town on Friday night or Saturday morning. The hardware store of Messrs J. M. Bond & Co., was entered through an opening in the back store. Having gained an access to the place they lifted the bar which kept the back door of the main store fast, and thereby gained an entrance. Proceeding down stairs they rummaged all the drawers in the office, and got a little loose cash which was kept in one of them. They also took several knives in the store, a few small steel rules, and a couple of iron callipers. Nothing else is missed, though there were a number of valuable electroplated articles, knives and forks &c. in the glass case, which they could easily have taken. From thence they proceeded to the Alma Block, and here they tried every store. They gained access to Mr. H. Metcalf's saddlery store through the getting in the rear, but so far he has missed nothing in his place. They next tried Mr. A. O. Bucham's dry goods store, but failed to get in. They then tried the crockery store of Messrs R. Rao & Co., ransacked all the drawers in the desks, but as far as known have not taken anything except a few pocket knives. The next attempt was made on Mr. John A. Wood's store, but after lifting the grate, and breaking a pane of the outer cellar window, they found that there was an inner window which they could not open, and so they gave it up. They were however more successful in getting into Mr. Berry's confectionery store. They broke in the side cellar door, took a considerable quantity of lard and some boxes of cigars. These are the only things missed. They tried all the drawers in the office, but failed to get any money.

There is no doubt that these burglaries have been committed by an organized gang, whether belonging to Guelph or not remains to be seen. We are of opinion that they are strangers, who after having made a raid left as quickly as they came. We notice that several burglaries were committed in Berlin on the preceding night, and are inclined to think that those committed here are by the same parties.

Something ought to be done to have a thorough system of night-watching instituted in town. Our present means of watching are wholly inefficient, and it behooves the Council to take steps for organizing a thorough system of night-watching at once.

The Lake Superior Silver Mining Region.

A letter from Fort Washington, gives some interesting particulars of the country about Fort Washington, Ont., from which we take the following:

In the country round Black Bay, Neepigon Bay and other localities, during the season the woods were filled with explorers, rich discoveries were made, and hundreds of locations entered; this season will witness a rush to the woods, and to mining operations during the season. I cannot say much in detail. The country is new, its geological features puzzle scientists, and confuse some of the most experienced miners in the Western States, but all is being gradually resolved; and it is now generally believed that there are three mineral-bearing veins, bearing generally S. E. and N. W., one on the line of the Silver Lake, one on the line of the Shuniah Beck and Algoma mines; and a third on the ridge which has north of Thunder Bay, crossing the Neepigon Bay, and St. Ignace Island, farther eastward. From these principal ranges are many shoots or feeders, occasioned by volcanic action all of which are mineral bearing, and exhibit evidence of upheaval and dislocation. In the ranges the existence of Copper, Zinc Silver and Lead, has been definitely ascertained by explorers during the past season. In fact the whole country for a distance of 100 miles west of Neepigon Bay, extending back thirty of fifty miles is full of mineral. As regards the silver deposits they usually occur in combination with lead, small results at the surface increasing as the vein is worked.

The Theory of Earthquakes.

The fact that earthquakes occur most frequently along sea-coasts has given rise to a theory that they are caused by a sudden shifting of an equilibrium which has been destroyed by the immense amount of soil carried off the sea by rivers. This was originally advanced by Sir John Herschel; but there are difficulties about it, aside from its requiring the melted nucleus for a basis. Humboldt demonstrated that many mountain chains—among them the Andes—were solid before they were up raised; and that consequently in upheaval their strata would leave arched spaces and caverns, which being subsequently enlarged by springs filtering through them and undermining the supports of the strata, would afford space for a fall of the masses above them. This might account for most earthquakes near mountains. There is also an electrical theory which explains earthquakes by declaring that it is not the earth that quakes, but the people and structures upon it, and that these are buffeted about by electric currents. Strange to say, there are Californians who experienced the shocks of 1868, and are inclined to adopt this belief. It is fortunate for this country that great earthquakes here are fewer than the theories that propose to explain them.

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS.

The Circulation of THE MERCURY is guaranteed to be three times more than that of any paper published in Guelph, or in the County.

Thanksgiving Day.

His Worship the Mayor has issued a proclamation, asking all good citizens to observe Monday as a day of thanksgiving for the recovery of the Prince of Wales. In accordance therewith, no paper will be issued from this office.

The County Seat.

The Fergus News Record is agitating for the removal of the County seat to that village. We were always in the belief that the embryo city of Kinettes was destined to be the future capital of this County; but as the Record says it must be Fergus, so of course it will have to be. Ambitious citizens of Guelph had better pull up stakes at once, and remove to that clachan.

Central Exhibition Printing.

The Editor of the Elora Observer is after the Directors of the Central Exhibition with a sharp stick for not awarding the Printing to him, his tender being the lowest. We know no more about the matter than does the Editor of the Observer. We sent in our tender along with other Printers, had no conversation on the subject with any Director, or any member of the Printing Committee, was not present at their meeting when the tenders were opened and decided on, did not know what transpired there, or to whom the contract had been awarded, till the Secretary informed us next day that the tender from the Mercury Office had been accepted. This is all we know about the matter. At the subsequent meeting of the Directors we were asked to publish the tenders sent in, with the reason given by the Directors for accepting our tender, which we did. Had there been any decision of favouritism on their part, it is not likely they would have made the tenders public. Besides, they tacked on the proviso to their notice this year—which we infer was also sent to the Observer—that they were not bound to accept the lowest tender. We give this explanation in justice to ourselves, as it might be supposed from the tenor of the Observer's article that we had influenced the Directors in some way or other, and that they were guilty of favouritism in giving the contract to us. We are satisfied they are quite innocent of any such imputation. They like too well to make a close bargain to be influenced in any such way. Had they not supposed that the interests of the Association would be better served by deciding as they have done, we have little doubt they would have sent their printing to Timbuctoo if they could have gained anything by it.

EDITORIAL NEWS.

The South Huron Conservatives have nominated Mr. Thomas Greenway, Reeve of Stephen, as their candidate.

It is reported that the Hon. Francis Johnson, Recorder of Rupert's Land will be appointed Gov. Archibald's successor.

Mr. Disraeli has given notice that he should interrogate the Government as to what course it intended to take with regard to the meeting of the Board of Arbitration at Geneva.

The Bank of Montreal has received a supply of new silver coin of various denominations—fives, tens, and twenty-five cent pieces—which they will supply to the public in sums to suit them.

The County Attorneyship of York, so long vacant, has been filled by the appointment of Mr. B. M. Wells (law partner of Mr. Angus Morrison), and Mr. T. H. Bull has been appointed Clerk of the Peace for the same County.

For the first time in the history of the world, England takes her place second in the list of indebted nations. Recent European events have placed France at the head of the list, with an indebtedness so great that the total amount has not yet been fixed with certainty.

The Dominion Government has made an arrangement recently with the Allan Steamship Company for the passage of emigrants from Great Britain to this country at the rate of £4 5s sterling a head. This is a great reduction, and will enable a much larger number of persons to come to Canada this season than was anticipated.

It is believed in well-informed circles that the Government have not yet decided upon what course they will take with reference to the Treaty. Mitchell, for one, is not very careful to conceal his strong disapproval of it. As no correspondence will be brought down until the address is passed, there will be no discussion of the Treaty in the debate upon the address, except in a general way. It is reported that the estimates will be laid on the table at an early day, and that the Government will strive to make this session a short one.

We understand that the Rev. Dr. Norman McLeod, of Glasgow, the popular editor of Good Words, has made arrangements for visiting Canada in the course of the summer. Dr. M. is expected to arrive about the end of August, and will be accompanied by his wife and two children.

essor of Natural Philosophy in the University of Glasgow, whose name has become celebrated in connection with the laying of the Atlantic Telegraph Cable. We have no doubt that both of these distinguished visitors will receive a cordial welcome from the people of Canada.

Dominion Parliament.

Mr. Nathan, Victoria, B. C., moved the Address in reply to the speech from the Throne. The Address was as usual a mere echo of the speech.

Mr. Edmund Carter, member for Frontenac, read the address.

Mr. Mackenzie made a long and able speech in which he challenged the pretext set forth for delaying the meeting of the House. He then alluded to Mr. Mitchell's late promise to deepen Lake St. Peter as a matter not mentioned in the Speech, and declared they must go to Ministers' outside utterances to find what was their policy. Mr. Howe's late lecture then came in for a scathing criticism. Mr. Mackenzie utterly condemned the supposition that, if we were undeclared the United States would act like a race of barbarous savages and attack us, although protesting he was no Republican, and deprecating the course pursued towards us by the Americans, he had too much confidence in their sense of justice and good faith to anticipate any aggression on their part. He did not think Canada had a right to expect the British tax-payer to keep up a standing army in the Dominion. He next turned his attention to Mr. McDougall, and alluded to the strange coincidence of that gentleman and a late colleague, who two years ago he had called "a traitor," being found on the same platform. After alluding to the Washington Treaty and the claim set up by New Brunswick, he referred to the conduct of Lieut. Governor Archibald in very severe terms. He wanted to know what was the Government scheme for improving the canals; and, returning to the subject of the treaty, he pointed to an exhaustive discussion being necessary when the papers were before the House. Amid loud cheers he concluded by expressing his regret that Mr. Howe and the Government had conspired to shake public confidence in the institutions of the country.

Sir F. Hincks replied to Mr. Mackenzie, and he was followed by Mr. Holton and Mr. McDougall. The address was then passed.

From Mr. Holton called attention to a remark of the Minister of Finance that they would hear from other members of the Government before the debate closed. They certainly had a right to expect some explanation from at least one member of the Cabinet on the constitutional question as to whether a Minister of the Crown was responsible for all his public acts to that House. He (Mr. Holton) contended that the Premier, on being appointed to the Joint High Commission, solely because he was Premier of Canada, and therefore supposed to represent a majority of this House, could not divest himself of responsibility to that House. At any rate they should hear from the Premier what were his opinions on that important matter.

Sir John A. Macdonald said it was highly inexpedient in the public interest and not to the advantage of the House to discuss at the present time the question raised by the hon. gentleman with respect to the responsibility of the Government. As a matter of course they were responsible to the House for all they did as a Government; every individual member of the Government was responsible for their acts as a Government. With regard to his own position as one of the Joint High Commission, whether the fact of his being a member of the Government gave him a two-fold responsibility, that was a question he declined to discuss just now. He did not think it could be discussed now with any fairness to himself or justice to the subject. The whole course of the Government with regard to the Treaty, and incidentally the course of himself as one of the Joint High Commission, he laid before the House, and then he would be quite ready to discuss the matter to the fullest extent, and it was due to the House that it should be discussed.

Grant's Prospects.

The Boston Journal, commenting on the significance of the Republican victories in New Hampshire and Connecticut, says:— "The people have decreed the continuance of the Republican party in power. It is true the Republican majority in both of the States under consideration is not large, but then it is sufficient. It is easy enough to point out how a change of one vote in each school district or town would have reversed the result; but that has nothing to do with it. When in a heavy vote, as in New Hampshire, or a light vote, as in Connecticut, also in ordinary votes, as in the great majority of municipal elections held this spring, you find an absolute uniformity of result; you have as clear an intimation of the public will as our institutions admit of. The presumption is, that if there were felt to be any danger of the defeated party's succeeding, its rival would come out in still stronger force, or even enough of its own men would prove wanting to prevent a triumph which at heart they do not wish, but which ordinarily prefer to see accomplished through the usual agencies. Hence, really intelligent men of the Democratic party know to-day that they are beaten in the Presidential battle, just as well as if they had seen the votes of the States counted on the morning after the election.

This forecast, derived from the developments of the first quarter of the Presidential year, includes the whole story. The line and cry that has been raised about Republican dissatisfaction with President Grant has been a mere interjection from Washington; otherwise they would have known nothing about it. It expresses no vital sentiment, no real thought of Republican masses. But for the utterance of a few Senators and the echo of a few erratic organs, the Philadelphia Convention would have met and re-nominated President Grant as a matter of course. It is not meant that everybody in the party has been perfectly satisfied—that would be a Utopian state of things that never existed—but the substantial unanimity on this point is as complete as ever dictated any previous Presidential nomination; and that is saying enough. It is impossible to say what new elements may be introduced into the coming campaign, or what new turn may be given to the present drift of events; but this is the aspect of things now before the people. Whatever is done at Cincinnati, may change names and modify the forms of political action, but can hardly vary forces, and certainly cannot effect results.

A firm in Dundas has engaged several engineers in Hamilton to go to Manitoba to take charge of the running powers of steamers, which are to be placed on the waters of that Province this summer. An impetus will be given to commerce in that region which will go far to establish excellent travel at an early date.

HELEN MOIR

OR—
LOVE AND HONOUR.
A TALE OF THE CLYDE.
CHAPTER XXVI.
ENTRAPPED.

"Well, my child, what news?" asked David Bridgenorth of Helen, as, after a rush to the gate to the gate to meet the postman, she rejoined him in the arbour in the garden, where they had both been seated.

"No letter from Hermann yet," she answered with a sigh. "It is only a packet from Edwin to Mrs. Allerton. It bears the London post-mark, so that he has not yet left England."

"In England still, and it is nearly a week since he left us? Why don't you try thus? Surely the attractions of London cannot have sufficient power over him to delay his journey."

"Is London so very attractive, then?" asked Helen.

"To many," he replied, "to very many it is, but I did not find it so. Ah, me! London is associated in my memory with horror and dismay, with pain and suffering indescribable, with all that is most terrible and agonising in the dark sorrow of my life. I should shudder to see it again."

"My poor, dear father! your life has indeed been a suffering one," said Helen, in accents tender and compassionate, as she laid her head in loving gentleness on his bosom. "But the worst is past now," she whisperingly added. "The black cloud of the past can never be dispelled, but the gloom has become less dense, has it not? Have you not experienced something of the Divine promise, 'At evening time it shall be light?'"

"My darling, yes," responded her father, as he pressed a warm kiss upon her brow. "Happiness has come to me when I never looked—never hoped for it. But with that happiness a deep sore pain is mingled."

"Youngers Edinboro' Ale."

"Ay, my child, pain for the sorrow and suffering I have brought upon you. Had you never known me, or heard more of me, than what you heard in childhood, the greatest sorrow of your life would never have come."

"Father, dear father! speak not thus," exclaimed Helen, with great earnestness.

"I must, for it is true. I have come between you and the sweetest joys of your life. When I think of it, I bitterly repent that ever I left Australia, for then all this would have been avoided."

"Ah! but in that case you would never have known that you had a daughter; I should not have known that my father lived."

"What of that? You would have been the wife of Hermann, and known only happiness. Ah, Helen! it seems as if the evil consequences of my crime were to follow me to the end, and abide after I am gone with those whom I love."

Helen had not words to meet this wall of self-reproach. She could only cling closely to him, and caress him with the tenderest affection. It was a dark and desolate path on which they were treading; no ray of light could come through its gloom; no word of real comfort could be spoken by the one to the other. There was light and comfort at hand for them, and the darkness of the night was about to be turned into the brightness of morning.

As they sat in silence, a footstep was heard on the gravelled path leading to the arbour, and, looking up, they saw Mrs. Allerton approaching, with a bright glad smile on her face, and an open letter in her hand—a letter consisting of several closely-written sheets.

"Good news; oh, such good news!" she joyously exclaimed.

BREAKFAST—EPPE'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL and COMFORTING.—By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which will save us many heavy doctor bills.—Civil Service Gazette. Made simply with boiling water or milk. Each packet is labeled "James Epps & Co., Homeopathic Chemists, London." Also, makers of Epps's Milky Cocoa (Cocoa and Condensed Milk).

PURE BRED CATTLE.—The London Free Press says: "The exportation of pure bred cattle to the United States is becoming of more and more importance to this Province. Of late, several large shipments have been made. The last has been one of ten pure bred bulls from the herds of Messrs. Miller, Bell, Whitson and Major, of Duffin's Creek, for Denver, Colorado."
