Y. M. C. A.—A special meeting of the members of the above Association is called for this evening. There are to be no literary exercises, but business of importance is to be considered, and it is hoped every member, as far as possible, will attend. Meeting at 8 o'clock.

SNOW FLY.—Last Saturday a great feat in blacksmithing was performed by two sturdy Vulcans in Erin township. They made One Hundred Horseshoes in Seven Hours. The quickest time made during the performance was six shoes in fifteen minutes, and a dozen in 35 minutes. Who can beat this, especially in such hot weather? They must have realized powerfully the words of the song—
"His brows are wet with honest sweat."

FATAL ACCIDENT.—We learn from a party who came up from Dundas to-day that a young man by the name of Hayden was killed near that station some time last night by a train. It appears that the unfortunate young man, who was an idiot, had escaped from home during the evening and wandered along the track, and had either lain down and went to sleep or had not sense enough to leave the track when the train came along. The body was conveyed to the station at Dundas, where an inquest is to be held.

Interim Sessions.
THE QUEEN VS. RICHARD JOICE.—This was an action tried before Hon. Judge Macdonald, brought by Hannah Taylor, 16 years of age, against Richard Joice for assault with intent to commit rape. Both parties reside in Luther. The prisoner was convicted of Common Assault, and fined $20 and one month's imprisonment. Mr. Peterson appeared for the Crown, and Mr. Macdonald for prisoner.

The Village of Palmerston.
This is one of the most thriving villages on the W. G. & B. R. The original extension to Kincairdine, via Listowel, Rossmore, Wexham and Lockwood, starts from this point, which will therefore be one of the most important stations on the W. G. & B. R. The village is pleasantly situated in the township of Wallace, county of Perth, and the township of Minto, county of Wellington, the latter part, however, being in the township of Wallace. It is distant from Stratford, forty miles; from Guelph forty-two miles; from Southampton, fifty-nine miles, and from Kincairdine, sixty-seven miles.

The surrounding country is a good agricultural one, and although for some time settled, there are still large quantities of timber in the neighborhood. The Great Western Railway have commodious engine sheds, tank, turn-table, &c., here. The repair shops for the W. G. & B. branch will also be located here. Palmerston has already among its industries a steam stove and shingle factory. There are two churches—the Canada Presbyterian and the Wesleyan Methodist, and it is expected that a Church of England will be erected during the summer.—London Herald.

Great Discovery of Gold.
ONE HUNDRED MILLIONS OF DOLLARS PAID FOR A SINGLE PROPERTY.
(From the Buenos Ayres News, May 17).
A scientific German being convinced that the northern provinces of the Argentine Republic must be rich in minerals, some time since came out from Europe for the purpose of making a personal survey of the most likely localities, and in Elieja his discovery what gives every promise of proving one of the richest mines in the world. The site happened to be on Government land, which was at once bought for a mere trifle; and so make assurance doubly sure the adjoining three leagues were also purchased. The next step was to send a full power of attorney to Buenos Ayres, and a provisional transfer file has been drawn up in the office of the well-known Escribano Don J. V. Cabral for the sale of two leagues of this in favor of Messrs. E. Madero and E. Castro, for the round sum of one hundred million currency, quarter cash, and the rest at short dates, with the condition that the seller guarantees, on a moderate outlay, a return of $2,000,000 patacons daily. Engineers have already gone up to survey property and report upon it. The remaining two leagues will not at present be offered in this market.

The Directors of the Northern Colonization Railway met at Montreal on Wednesday, and accepted the tender of Messrs. D. Macdonald and H. Abbott, contractors, for the sum of $4,200,000, exclusive of extra works, rating at $29,750 per mile, exclusive of bridges and equipment. It is expected the railway will be open for traffic by October, 1875.

A man named M. Curran, fireman on the steamer Hibernian, fell from the gangway of the vessel on Tuesday, at Montreal, and was drowned.

Hon. George Brown called on Wednesday by the Algeria from New York for Liverpool, having health as well as business in view. He expects to return early in September.

Madrid, July 23.—A meeting attended by all the members of the Cabinet, and a large number of the majority of the Cortes, was held last evening at the War Office to discuss what measures could be adopted to secure the overthrow of the insurrectionary movements in the country and restore order. New Haven, Conn., July 23.—At the trial of Glione, the Italian padrone, before the City Court to-day, four boys testified that they had been in this country twenty-one months, and had been kept in the Crosby street den, in New York, until brought to New Haven seven weeks ago. They were beaten and kicked unless they brought in a prescribed sum of money every night, and were told by Glione to steal if they could. The Court held that Glione is guilty of imprisoning free persons, and requires him to furnish bonds for $4,000 for his appearance before a jury in October. Failing to furnish bonds, Glione was committed to the County jail. The boys will be taken care of by the city authorities until October.

Cincinnati, July 23.—Yesterday Marshall Boggs, of Greenfield, O., attempted to serve a writ of ejectment on one Johnson, who assaulted and inflicted two terrible cuts on Boggs with an axe. ## The East End Nuisance.

MAGISTERIAL INVESTIGATION.

William Gordon was summoned by the Health Inspector at the Police Court this (Thursday) morning before Mr. Saunders, for unlawfully maintaining a quantity of hogs and cattle and feeding them with distillery slops, on Mr. David Allan's distillery premises near the Grand Trunk Bridge, causing accumulations of muck and filth, and "divers noxious smells," thereby creating a public nuisance. Mr. Oliver appeared for defendant, and took certain preliminary objections, which the magistrate overruled.

The first witness was Mr. David Allan, who said that he leased the premises in question to Mr. Gordon. The previous tenant was Mr. Hood. The distillery had been in operation since 1835, and the premises had been used for cattle feeding the same time. The slop yard was about two acres in extent. There was occasionally a noxious smell, but he did not think it was injurious to public health—at any rate it had not affected him. It came chiefly from the pig dung. He had been at great expense in erecting a large tank of water for cleaning the place. The premises had been kept clean lately. Some little smell was unavoidable especially in hot weather, but the people around there mostly kept pigs, and were used to the smell, so that they would not mind the smell so much unless they worked their feelings up to that effect. He was not responsible under his lease for the condition of the slop yard.

Mr. Stevens, Health Inspector, stated that he inspected the yard within the time stated in the information. There were a good many pigs, but few cattle. The tanks which received the manure from the pigs and cattle contained a large quantity of filth, which appeared to have been some time, judging from the crust which had formed on the top. Under the platform there were other accumulations, apparently from the pigs and of long standing. There were two dead young pigs lying in the yard, one of them in a very putrid condition, and there was also the skeleton of a somewhat beast lying in the yard with the sinews still clinging to the bones, although the flesh had been eaten away. The yard generally was in a clean state, with the exceptions he had mentioned. The filth was leaking into the river from the tanks and the platform. There was a very bad smell indeed. He had received many complaints on the subject.

In cross-examination the Inspector said it was possible for one of the dead pigs to have been lodged there by the overflowing of the river, but he did not think this was the case. The complaints came both from the vicinity of the piggery in other parts of the town. He did not know whether Mr. Charles Coffee or others in the vicinity kept pigs, but their premises did not create any nuisance. When I last saw the yard there was not so much filth as on a previous occasion; they appeared to have been cleaned out; there was still a bad smell, though not so bad as there was before. Did not Mr. Gordon take away the nuisance; did not know where to find Mr. Gordon, and believed he was aware of the nuisance.

Charles Coffee, who lives in the neighbourhood of the slop yard, said that there was a very bad and disagreeable smell arising from it; he was of opinion that it would be injurious to the health of his family, and that it was a public nuisance. The smell prevented the proper enjoyment of his property by himself and his family.

Cross-examined—Mr. Gordon seemed to have manifested a good deal of desire and effort to keep the premises clean, but witness thought it was almost impossible to prevent a nuisance under the circumstances. Witness kept a cow, but not a pig, and there was no nuisance on his own premises. He had lived there six years but had had no sickness in his family which could be attributed to the distillery.

Wm. Edward Martin, another resident in the neighbourhood of the distillery, who had to cross the New-street bridge every day to his work, also testified to the bad smell arising from the piggery. He had property near by and considered that the enjoyment of his property was affected by the smell, as it came all through the house when the wind was in certain directions. In cross-examination could not say that his health had suffered.

Mr. Councillor Coffee testified as to the noxious smell, which he thought had been worse than usual this month. One evening in the week before last his family had to go into the house and shut the doors and windows on account of the bad smell proceeding from the piggery. He had seen a man scraping filth into the river from the yard, and this man said there were 500 pigs in the yard. Witness' family had not had ill health since going to live near the distillery.

Dr. Tuck stated that he attended two cases of continued fever of a typhoid type, which were clearly traceable to the smell arising from the piggery, and he found it necessary to remove the patients away from its influence before they could recover. He considered the smell very noxious, and also noxious under certain circumstances, although not absolutely poisonous. He had perceived the smell as far north as the Eramosa Bridge. In cross-examination he stated that the patients in question recovered as soon as they were removed. The air in the vicinity was undoubtedly injurious to health under certain conditions, especially where there was any tendency to cholera. It would tend to prevent the recovery of patients, as pure air was absolutely necessary in such cases.

Mr. Oliver for the defence said that the only witnesses he had to call were those who would testify that every endeavor had been used to keep the place properly cleaned, and he asked that his worship simply make an order that the nuisance be abated.

The Magistrate said that such evidence was of no use. He had no power to make such an order; he could only inflict a fine; but if he were fully satisfied that the nuisance was really to be abated, he was willing to impose a nominal penalty. Otherwise a substantial fine must be inflicted. His own opinion was that the nuisance was a most intolerable one, which should be put down with the strongest arm of the law. There was only one way to abate it, and this was by shutting up the piggery altogether. No doubt it would be a serious loss to Mr. Allan, who was a prominent and respected citizen, and to whom the town owed

Local and Other Items.

A COMPANY has been formed at Wingham, with a capital of $20,000, for the manufacture of furniture.

A CHILD was run over by a team at Holland Landing on Wednesday, and died in two hours after the accident.

THE St. Thomas Town Council has appointed a health officer, in view of a possible visit from the cholera.

A YOUNG MAN NAMED Hanford left $100 in his pants' pocket at his boarding house, London, on Wednesday, and when he returned it was gone, so also was one of the boarders.

ROBBERY IN TILSONBURG.—The drug store of Messrs. Gayler & Thompson, at Tilsonburg, was robbed of $452 by a young man employed in the store on Thursday. The thief was arrested and the money recovered.

FORT GARRY, July 23.—Lord Gordon's case closed yesterday. Judge Betourney committed all the prisoners for trial at the next October assizes. Application for bail was made to-day before Judge McKeagney, but decision was reserved until to-morrow.

SUICIDE IN THOROLD.—A man named Alexander Phair, living in Thorold village, committed suicide on Monday night, by taking sixteen drachms of laudanum. Deceased was a cooper by trade, about 50 years of age, very highly connected, and highly esteemed. He had been married twice and leaves a wife and several young children. He had lately lost all his property by misfortune.

A FINE FIGHT.—Two bands of gypsies met in the outskirts of Elmira last week, and engaged in a most bloody hand-to-hand battle. The weapons used were whips, stones, clubs, etc. The battle continued with great fierceness for several hours. When some policemen arrived on the ground to arrest them they had dried their tears and pretended that nothing serious had happened. But the bruised heads, black eyes, and other evidences of brutality were too visible. No arrests were made, but the belligerents were cautioned against a renewal of the fray.—London Advertiser.

A NIAGARA PARK.—In alluding to the proposition to make the Adirondac region a great public park, the N. Y. Evening Post advocates a similar plan with regard to the Falls of Niagara, not alone for the sake of preserving the natural beauties of the place, but more especially for the protection of the public from the numerous extortionists now surrounding the place. It is proposed that the New Dominion and the State of New York enter into some sort of an arrangement for buying out or putting out the swarms of vendors that infest the Falls, and throwing the place open to visitors at reasonable rates.

A PRACTICAL SUGGESTION.—What sense is there in throwing out old boots, hats, and other worn-out articles of clothing into dust-heaps and elsewhere when they would serve the purposes of fuel? Many other things are also thrown out to breed a stench when they might as well be consumed. A correspondent says:—"In these times, when fuel is scarce and dear, it may be of importance to know that a very large quantity is carried away by the scavenger carts. My wife has adopted the plan of burning in the stove all potato peelings and other refuse vegetable matter. Her plan is to strain the water off, then when dry put it in the stove. Nothing has to be taken away but ashes. We have none of those nasty smells around our house which so many complain of." Bones burn better even than coal, and may also be utilized in the manner he has suggested.—Toronto Sun.

A NOLLE DOE.—A few days since Mrs. Joshua Hewitt, living near Hamilton, left her little boy, aged about six years, in the yard, where he was amusing himself with a dog. After she had been some time upstairs, she heard the dog creating a great disturbance below, barking and scratching at the door leading to the stairs. Apprehending that something was wrong, she ran down stairs and opened the door. With almost human sagacity the dog gave a bark of delight and ran to an open well in the yard. Seeing no signs of the child, the frightened mother ran to the well, which was fortunately filled nearly to the top with water, and discovered her child in time to match him from the water just as he was sinking beneath the surface. When rescued, the child was insensible, but restorative being applied, consciousness returned. The dog meanwhile manifested his joy by capping about the room, jumping upon the couch where the infant was lying and giving expression to its delight and affection, licking the face and form of the little one which it had saved from a watery grave.—Stratford Herald.

The funeral of Dr. Howson at Toronto, on Wednesday, was large, and attended by the various lodges of Free Masons, Odd Fellows and Orangemen of the city—orders of which deceased was an active member. He was also an ex-Alderman and prominent citizen.

much of its present prosperity; at the same time Mr. Allan could not be allowed to carry on his business to the injury of even the most humble resident of the town. He asked how soon the pigs could be removed?

Mr. Gordon replied that he wanted five weeks to do it in. His Worship could not grant any such time. Cholera was starting in the face not far distant, and if it were to visit Guelph, five weeks would be enough to cause most fatal results. He was sorry for Mr. Allan, but loss of property could not be compared with loss of life.

The case was then adjourned until Saturday, in order that Mr. Gordon might arrange with the Health Inspector as to the time in which the nuisance was to be abated.

Look on this Picture and then on That.

"I stand here to justify the course the Government have taken in this matter, both (Sir Hugh Allan and by God's help I believe I can do so satisfactorily. I know that the charge is a foul calumny. The Government say it is not. On behalf of every member of it, I can tell the hon. To Sir John A. Macdonald, Toronto: Draw me for neither by thought, word, deed, or action, have the Government done anything of which they can be ashamed."—John A. Macdonald in the House of Commons, May 7th, 1873.

INSURANCE IN BRANTFORD.—Brantford people are complaining that the rates of insurance, which were lowered when the Waterous system was established, have again been raised and are at least 50 per cent. more than they were five years ago. The Expositor of Tuesday discusses the question in a lengthy and well written article, in which it points out how the town stands in relation to the matter, and invites discussion. A memorial was addressed to the Underwriters' Association from the property holders of the town, but the reply which has been received appears to avoid the actual issue, and makes a plausible excuse for the imposition of the present high rates. While it does not refer at all to the fact that there have been no losses of any extent in the town since the establishment of waterworks, it points out certain dangerous features in the state of the buildings—verandahs to stores, amongst others, and alludes to the absence of an efficient paid fire brigade. The Expositor thinks entire compliance with the demand of the Underwriters' Association to be out of question, and proceeds to discuss measures of relief. Mutual Companies are spoken of for small risks, but are inadequate for large ones; and the way a certain citizen got over the difficulty is related thus:—"In the immediate vicinity of my store are four hydrants. I consider it therefore morally certain that a fire cannot get very far advanced in the premises, and I keep my buildings and stock insured only for an amount which would cover damage from water." This last alternative gives a pretty good idea of how secure the Brantfordians feel now that they have got the Waterous waterworks.

HUMORS OF THE TELEGRAPH.—Not long since a countryman came into a telegraph office in Bangor, Maine, with a message, and asked that it be sent immediately. The operator took the message as usual, but his instrument in communication with its destination, ticked off the signals upon the key, and then, according to the rule of the office, hung the message-paper on the hook with others that had been previously sent, that at night they might all be filed for presentation. The man lounged around some time, evidently unsatisfied. "At last," says the narrator of the incident, "his patience was exhausted, and he belched out, 'Ain't you going to send that dispatch?' The operator politely informed him that he had sent it. 'No, yer ain't,' replied the indignant man; 'there it is now on the hook.' So far as an exact use of language was concerned, the man was right. Still more ludicrous mistakes sometimes occur. Thus the German papers reported that at Carlsruhe, toward the close of the late war, an aged mother came to the telegraph office carrying a dish full of sauerkraut, which she desired to have telegraphed to Rastadt. Her son must receive the kraut by Sunday. The operator could not convince her that the telegraph was not capable of such a performance. "How could so many soldiers have been sent to France by telegraph?" she asked, and finally departed grumbling. Almost every operator meets with equally amusing instances. One recently related the following incident: "A gentleman came to my office to send a message, and after writing it, wait-d, as people often do at small offices, to see it sent. I called 'Office,' and the operator at the other end of the line came to the key and said, 'Busy-wait-a minute.' So I leaned back in my chair to wait, when the gentleman said, 'Have you sent it?' I said, 'No; they say they are busy—to wait a minute;'

whereupon he said, looking surprised, 'Why, I didn't hear them,' and then added, brightening up, as if he had thought of the reason, 'but I'm a little deaf in one ear.' I think I managed to keep a straight face till he left, but it was hard work."—Harper's Magazine for August.

Lieutenant-Governor Archibald was sworn into office at Halifax, at noon on Wednesday.

Not a few cases are reported in Toronto of cholera, though none as yet have proved fatal.

WHAT THEN?
An old man crowned with honors nobly earned. Once asked a youth what end in life he sought. The hopeful boy said, "I would first be learned. I would know all that all the schools ever taught." The old man gravely shook his head: "And when you've learned all this, what then?" he said. "Then," said the boy, with all the warmth of youth, "I'd be a lawyer, learned and eloquent; Appearing always on the side of truth, My mind would grow, as thus 'twas early bent." The old man sadly shook his head: "And when you've done all this, what then?" he said. "I will be famous," said the hopeful boy: "Clients will pour upon me fees and briefs; 'Twill be my pleasing task to bring back joy To houses and hearts near crasped with darkest griefs." But still the old man shook his head: "And when all this is gained, what then?" he said. "And then I will be rich, and in old age I will withdraw from all this legal strife; Known in retirement as an honored sage, I'll pass the evening of an honored life." Gravely again the old man shook his head: "And when you've done, all this, what then?" he said. "And then—why then I know that I must die. My body then must die, but not my fame; Surrounded by the fallen great I'll lie, And far posterity shall know my name." Sadly the old man shook his head: "And after this what then?" he said. "And then—then?" but ceased the boy to speak. His eyes, abashed, fell downward to the sod. A silent tear dropped on each burning cheek; The old man pointed silently to God, Laid his hand silently upon the drooping head. "Remember, there's a place beyond," he said.

CHAPTER XXIX.
JIM HAS FARTHER DANGER AND EXCITING ADVENTURES.

Having at length succeeded in this, he gazed wondrously round to note his position. On either side lay the dark line of the forest in utter solitude, and between rolled the river with exceeding swiftness, carrying him on with a smooth gliding motion, which imparted a strangely exhilarating sensation. The motion was one altogether new to him; its singular smoothness he had never experienced—indeed so steady was it that but for the speed with which he passed the objects on the bank, and the passage of air in his face, he could hardly have believed he was moving at all.

But it was as delightful as it was strange. To sit there at perfect ease, and be at the same time sensible of rapid motion, was a joy-producing feeling, and it was with positive exultation that Jim gazed from side to side on the rushing woods and up at the midnight sky. Had his position been satisfactory otherwise, his state would have been one of keen enjoyment, but he was altogether surrounded by mystery and uncertainty. He knew not whether he was being carried—perhaps into regions of unpeopled solitude, where he must starve of hunger, and that was by no means a fate to which the smoothness and velocity of his travelling had power to reconcile him.

Jim had, therefore, feelings of uneasiness mingling with his sensations of rapture, and he began to think what he should now do. It appeared advisable to get to the other side of the river and land there. At the place to which he had reached the river had become much narrower; but he speedily became aware that the current had now acquired such force as to make it impossible for him to make for either side. He was wholly in its power, and must go wherever it chose to carry him.

"Oh, well, if I can't I can't," was Jim's philosophic reflection. "Tain't no use striving against wot's impossible, but this is about the queerest go ever I knew—sailing at railway speed down a river in the heart of an unknown American forest, and doing it, too, as smooth as if I was flying in the air. Blow me, if it ain't the most extraordinary thing ever was, and how it's to end I can't think. I wonder wot that noise can be. Wotever it is I'm a-nearing it."

The noise which had become the subject of Jim's wonder was the same sound he had heard in the distance, when lying at the camp waiting for his Indian mother to fall asleep. It was now coming to his ear with far greater distinctness, showing that as he said, he was "nearing it," yes, for some minutes past it had grown louder with alarming quickness, and was now filling the night with a resounding roar.

All at once the truth concerning it flashed on Jim's mind: he was going down the rapids, and there was a "fall" below.

He started up in paralysed dismay. To all appearance death was before him, for the canoe was now floating downwards with appalling rapidity and the roar was every moment growing more deafening.

"Merciful heaven! I am lost now," he grasped. "I'm to be drowned and dashed to pieces both at once!"

Instinctively he laid down the paddle and grasped both sides of the canoe, for the swiftness was such that he knew the catastrophe was at hand. The spray from the fall came up against his face—he was dizzy, bewildered, breathless. One collected effort he tried to make to utter a prayer for mercy; then he felt himself whirled into space, the crashing of a thousand thunders smote upon his ear, the horrid feeling of a flying decent was present for a moment; then all was darkness and nothingness to Jim's unconscious spirit.

HAWAIIAN WOMEN.—In the girls' schools you will see an occasional pretty face, but fewer than I expected to see; and to my notion the Hawaiian girl is rarely very attractive. Among the middle-aged women, however, you often meet with fine heads and large expressive features. The women have not unfrequently a majesty of carriage and a tragic intensity of features and expression which are quite remarkable. Their loose dresses give grace as well as dignity to their movements; and whoever invented it for them deserves more credit than he has received. It is a little startling at first to see women walking about in what, to our perverted tastes, look like calico or black stuff night gowns; but the dress grows on you as you become accustomed to it; it lends itself readily to bright or nomenclature; it is eminently fit for the climate; and a stately Hawaiian dame, marching through the street, in black holoku—as the dress is called—with a long neckpiece, or le, of bright scarlet or brilliant yellow flowers, bare and untrammelled feet, and flowing hair, compares very favourably with a high-heeled, wasp-waisted, absurdly bonneted, fashionable white lady.—Harper's Magazine for August.

This is indeed a book for every man. Thousands have been taught by this work the true way to health and happiness. The Compound Elixir of Phosphates and Calisaya prepared by you I have been for two years using LARGELY in my practice, and I assure you that in my judgment there is no preparation of its kind that can compare with it where it is applicable. With feeble, nervous women, of whom we have so many, and in cases convalescing from prostrating diseases I should hardly know how to get along without it. In Dyspepsia it acts like a charm—in fact in any of the long list of exhaustive diseases it is THE REMEDY.

LOCALS.
The excitement in town last night was great when the bulletin board at Anderson's bookstore announced the score between the Maple Leaf and the Ottawa nine. Some people felt so good at the news that they were seen to come and look two or three times that their eyes hadn't deceived them. Several small boys were heard to say, "they must've been hearing 'em wrong, 'and we think they did. Our report says there was a tremendous crowd present at the game, and the excitement became almost unbearable on the part of the Ottawas when their favorites were repeatedly blanked by our boys, their only runs being tallied on the second and eighth innings. We hope now that the nine have made short work of the Eastern champions they will see the brush lavishly during the remainder of their tour, and, besides, to a great extent, the roar they received at Kingston on Monday, Time, 11.40m. It is acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most reliable preparation ever introduced for the relief and cure of all Lung complaints, and is offered to the public, sanctioned by the experience of over forty years. When resorted to in season it seldom fails to effect a speedy cure in the most severe cases of Coughs, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza, Asthma, Colds, Sore Throat, Pains or Soreness in the Chest and Side, Liver Complaint, Bleeding at the Lungs, &c. Wistar's Balsam does not dry up a Cough, and leave the cause behind, as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs, and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint.

So rare a chance of securing cheap goods seldom occurring, the public should avail themselves of making and saving money. Quotations of prices being no real criterion of cheapness, an inspection of goods is essential.
Cuttings will be sold at the Genuine Cost—and are exempted from the 10 per cent. reduction.
