The bride, who was given away by her brother, Mr. Russell Clark, was daintily attired in white embroidered voile and carried a boquet of white chrysanthemums and ferns. After the usual congratulations had been received, the party repaired to the dining room where a dainty wedding dinner was served. The many beautiful and useful presents testify to the high esteem in which the young couple are held. #### A WONDERFUL DISCOVERY

An eminent scientist, the other day, gave his opinion that the most wonderful discovery of recent years was the discovery of Zam-Buk. Just think! As soon as a single thin layer of Zam-Buk is applied to a wound or a sore, such injury is insured against blood poison! Not one species of microbe has been found that Zam-Buk does not kill!

is applied to a sore, or a cut, or to skin disease, it stops the smarting. skin disease, it stops the smarting. That is why children are such friends of Zam-Buk. They care nothing for the science of the thing. All they know is that Zam-Buk stops their pain. Mothers should never forget this.

Again. As soon as Zam-Buk is applied to a wound or to a diseased part, the cells beneath the skin's surface are so stimulated that new healthy tissue is quickly formed. This forming of fresh healthy tissue from below is Zam-Buk's secret of healing. The tissue thus formed is worked up to the surface and literally casts off the diseased tissue above it. This is why Zam-Buk cures are permanent. Only the other day Mr. Marsh, of 101 Delorimier Ave., Montreal, called upon the Zam-Buk Company and told them that for over twentyley years. upon the Zam-Buk Company and told them that for over twenty-five years he had been a martyr to eczema. His hands were at one time so covered with sores that he had to sleep in gloves. Four years ago Zam-Buk was introduced to him, and in a few months it cured him. To-day—over three years after his cure of a disease he had for twenty-five years—he is still cured, and has had no trace of any return of the eczema!

MASTERY OF RULES NEEDED.

Grounding In the Elements an Important Point For the Beginner-To Become Expert One Must Combine Theory With Technical Skill.

Women players of golf, especially beginners, are inclined to swing the club so far around that they are thrown off their balance and the club swings the woman instead of the woman the club, says a writer in the Outlook. This fault can be corrected by keeping a tight grip on the club at all times during the swing, as it is the loosened hold that allows the head of the club to drop too near the ground. In the drive, which requires the fullest swing of any of the strokes except perhaps the brassie shot, the shaft of the club at the top of the swing should not go beyond the hori-There is another point that women players, even experienced ones, are apt to neglect, and that is the rules of the game. There have been many matches in which players have been disqualified through the unconscious disregard or breaking of some rule. A book of general rules can be purchased at any place where golf clubs are sold, and the local or ground rules of each club are printed on the score cards of that club, so there is no excuse for any one being in a state of ignorance.

If there is any short cut to learning golf it is through careful study of the reasons for everything. Once the principles of the strokes are mastered a few months of regular and intelligent practice will make any ablebodied woman a fair player, but years of practice without scientific knowledge of the game will bring very uncertain results. A woman who seriously desires to become a really good player must curb her desire to go out and whack the ball along. Before she ever makes a complete round of the links she should study the peculiarities of each club, how to stand when using it, how to address the ball with it, how to swing it and what to expect of the ball once the stroke is made. After she has mastered these essentials and practiced with each club separately at suitable locations on the links she may piece

Women are rather inclined to walk up to the ball and hit it without taking the time to arrange themselves properly. After all, only a fraction of a minute is required to find the best possible position, and the habit once acquired becomes practically automatic.

From a passage in "Dio Cassius" there is reason to think that the upper part only was formed of those noble metals or that they were perhaps plated out of thin slips. When Boniface, Marquis of Tuscany, one of the richest princes of his time, went to Beatrix, about the year 1038, his whole train was so magnificently decorated that his horses were shod with silver. There are a lot of people in this town where cannot afford to be sick. Perhaps none of you feel that you can, but certainly some of you can't, for as soon as you are sick, your wages stop and worry and debts begin to pile up. The sensible thing for you to do, as soon as you feel run-down and worn out, no matter what the cause, is to take something just as quick as you can to build up strength and health. Make yourself more comfortable and provide against serious sickness.

We don't believe there is any other medicine made that will do as much towards saving your health and thus helping you save your money as Rexall Olive Oil Emulsion. It is a medicine that gets right at the trouble and relieves it by toning the nerves, enriching the blood, and giving new strength and health to the whole body. It doesn't do this by means of alcohol or habit-forming drugs, because it contains none. Its strength and healthgiving power is due to pure Olive Oil and the Hypophosphites, long endorsed by successful physicians, the one for its food value, the other for its tonic value. Here, for the first time, they are combined, and the result is a real nerve, blood and bodybuilding medicine—a real strengthener that we are proud to tell you about. You don't need to hesitate in using it, because if it doesn't do all we say it will and satisfy you in every way, it will cost you nothing. If it doesn't make you strong and well again, come back and get your money. It will be given to you without word or question. Berlin, Germany Nov. 10.—An official communication issued to-day by the Argonne, the enemy keeps attacking violently, but without result. On the height to of the Meuse and to the east of Verdun we have captured some trenches.

Nov. 9.—Beyond the fact that the allied Prench, British and Belgian forces are taking the offensive, little has been made public regarding the operations in Belgium and Northern France. The French official communication says that the Germans are particularly active in the region of Ypres, but that they have achieved nothing, and that everywhere else on the Alies have made rather notable progress in gaining the Vregny plateau, on which they had not previously been able to gain a foothold. In the eastern field of the war the Russians have succeeded in driving back the rear guards of the Austrian.

Toronto, Nov. 10.—Receipts on the Union stockyards were 86 cars, containing 1,171 cattle, 134 calves, 1,116 hogs and 1,151 sheep and lambs. Trade was very dull and prices generally were easier on practically all grades of cattle. Heavy steers in particular were affected, there being scarcely any demand for the five or six loads offering. Cows, bulls, canners and stuff of that variety were again in good demand, but anything else found but a very indifferent market. The probable effect on the market of the embargo now in force is causing some anxiety among the trade, but as yet the effect is not particularly marked either one way or the other.

ST. VITUS DANCE

Another Severe Case Cured Through the Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

St. Vitus dance is a common form of nervous trouble, which affects not only young children but men and women as well. The only cure lies in plenty of pure blood, because good blood is the life food of the nerves. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure the most severe cases of St. Vitus dance, because they actually make the rich, red blood that feeds and restores the starving, shattered nerves. St. Vitus dance, because they actually make the rich, red blood that feeds and restores the starving, shattered nerves. This has been proved in hundreds of cases, among them that of Mrs. John Duncan, London, Ont., who says: "About a year ago I found myself becoming very nervous. At the outset I did not pay much attention to it as I thought the trouble would pass away. In this I was disappointed, for I soon tound myself rapidly growing worse. My right arm and leg began to jerk and twitch all the time, even when I was in bed, and I found great difficulty in walking or doing any work. Finally the trouble affected my speech and it was with difficulty I made myself understood. Of course I was doctoring for the trouble, but was not being helped, and finally the doctor wanted me to go to the hospital for treatment. This I did not care to do, and it was at this stage that I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. By the time I had used four boxes I felt much better, and in a short time longer I was quite well and strong. My neighbors look upon my cure as quite wonderful, and Indeed I think it is, and shall always be grateful for what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills did for me."

P. H. Bartlett (London) and W. E. Fitzgerald (Watford) for plaintiff. R. I. Towers (Sarnia) for defendant. Action to set aside deed and agreement and for damages for malicious prosecution, arrest and detention. Judgment: The plaintiff is not entitled to a declaration of ownership of the land, nor to the incidental rights and moneys claimed. There will be judgment dismissing the action as to this portion of the claim. It is admitted that plaintiff is entitled to damages for malicious prosecution, arrest and detention unless defendants can escape by reason of the arrest being made beyond the territorial jurisdiction of the magistrate. I do not see that defendants can ask to profit by the circumstance that the warrant was illegally or irregularly executed. They had no jurisdiction for their act. I assess the damages at $300, and allow plaintiff $55 on the three small terms claimed by him. There will be judgment for plaintiff for $335, with costs, according to the tariff of this court.

HER

It Was Discovered After the Wedding

By MARK TRAVERS ********

It was 11 o'clock at night. Hack staff entered his living room and, throwing himself into his chair, sat gloomily thinking. He had just come from Mildred Thorne's. He had pro posed to her and had been refused.

His refusal was a more bitter disappointment to him because he had expected an acceptance. There had been a good deal of backing and filling on Mildred's part, but that is not unusual in courtships. Hackstaff had noticed that if he met one of her balkings by a balking on his own part she had come round very quickly. But all the while Mildred was listening to the dictates of her heart. Her mother was telling her that if she married Hackstaff she would prove herself a fool.

Mrs. Thorne was an old woman. She had accumulated some funds by saving-no one knew how much. She and her daughter lived in the house on the hill where Mildred had been born and lived very plainly. They owned the place and raised on it all they ate. Consequently their expenses were confined to what they wore, and they seldom bought any new clothes.

Mildred knew a great deal about her mother and her mother's affairs that the world did not know. She knew that her mother was a miser; not only that she was a miser, but that she was in constant terror lest she should lose her savings. Her husband had been unlucky as an investor, and his wife had no confidence in ever getting back any funds that were put out at interest.

But Hackstaff knew nothing of all this. He was a young farmer much interested in putting his farm on a paying basis. His was not the haphazard way of the uneducated farmer. He had taken a course at an agricultural college and when he put seed into the ground, barring effects of weather, knew exactly what it would produce. He was aware that Mildred was obliged to live economically and supposed that this was because she had very little to live on, which, since there was no income except what the place produced, was true. Hackstaff lived alone. If he could have won Mildred Thorne the world would have looked very bright to him for he had wife, and, having set his heart on her, he would be satisfied with no one else. He sat on the night of his proposal brooding over his disappointment and thinking of the dull, lonely life before him. Mildred had accompanied him to the door and bidden him adieu there. She seemed to share his disappointment or, at least, to sympathize with him in it. He had not gone far from the house when he heard Hector, the watchdog she always let loose before going to bed, bark. Then all was everything to make a home except a

At 1 o'clock in the morning Hack-staff still sat brooding. He did not go to bed because he had no desire for sleep. Suddenly there was a ring on the telephone bell that sounded at that time of night when all else was still like an alarm. Wondering who could be calling him at such an hour, he sprang to the instrument and took down the receiver. Shrieks and the bark of a dog "Great heavens! That was Hector's bark!" It had been the last sound he had heard from the Thorne place after his departure, and there was no mis-taking it for Hector's. The shrieks, the barking, the sounds of a scuffle receded as though to another room. Hackstaff called, but received no answer. The only sound he heard was the ticking of a clock. Out into the night shot the young farmer, descended the declivity into the valley between his house and the Thornes' and ran up the hill. He found the front door open, but all was dark within. Climbing the stairs three steps at a time, he stood in the upper hall and listened, for he could see nothing. He always carried a box of matches in his pocket and, striking one of them, opened a door. Mildred was lying on the floor. The light of the match glimmering before her eyes roused her, and, seeing Hackstaff bending over her, for an instant she seemed to be trying to collect her faculties; then she grasped Hackstaff's wrist with a frantic grip, and the flame of the match went out.

"There are matches on the bureau." she said, endeavoring to regain something of her equanimity.
"Are you hurt?" asked Hackstaff,

"I think not. I must have fainted."

Lighting another match, he lit a candle standing on the bureau. By this time Mildred was on her feet, but she seemed unable for a time to collect her faculties. Hackstaff begged her to tell him what had occurred, but she made no reply.

Then came the muffled moan of a dog. Hackstaff was sure it was Hector's bark. It served to recall to Mil-dred what had happened. She attempted to brenk away from Hack-staff, but he held her.

"Tell me what to do," he said, "and I will do it. You are not in a condi-

"Let me go," she said hysterically. He released her, and she staggered to her mother's room, Hackstaff following with the candle. Opening the door, Mildred found her mother in bed bleed-ing from several wounds. Hector, who had been shut up with her, was licking them.

A few words was all the explanation accorded Hackstaff at the time. A man had effected an entrance into the house. Crossing the yard, he had evidently been too quick for Hector, but the dog had followed him into the Mildred, hearing her mother scream, had gone to her and, taking in the situation, had grasped the telephone receiver and had only time to call Hackstaff's number when the man pulled her away. Then followed the shrieks, the barking of the dog Hackstaff had heard as the burglar dragged Mildred from the instrument, threw her into her room and shut the door, Hector had defended her, but the man had succeeded in shutting him up in the room with Mrs. Thorne.

Hector was of the hound breed and keen of scent. Hackstaff was anxious to follow the burglar, and after neigh bors had been called he left in pursuit led by Hector and armed with a revolver Mildred gave him. The dog quickly took the scent, and the two pushed out into the night on an errand of vengeance.

Hector kept his nose to the ground without barking. There was no water in which the robber could lose the scent, and if there had been it is doubtful if he would have used it, for he had not much reason to suspect that he would be so quickly followed, and he had shut the dog in the room with his victim.

Hackstaff felt so deeply the outrage that he thought little of a meeting with a man who was doubtless armed and would shoot to kill. On went Hector with his nose to the ground, and on went Hackstaff some twenty yards behind him. This pursuit had continued for some time and day was breaking when Hackstaff heard in a thicket ahead a simultaneous growl of the dog and the cry of a man. Running forward, he saw by the dim light a man on the ground and the dog at his throat.

Cocking his revolver. Hackstaff pushward and saw that the man had evidently been taken unawares by the dog. He had lain down to rest or to sleep perhaps, and Hector had him at a disadvantage. So fierce was Hector's attack that his enemy had all he could do to resist his grip and no time to draw a weapon. He gasped to Hackstaff to call the dog off, and Hackstaff, covering him with his revolver, did so. Then, directing him to put his hands above his head, he disarmed him and, ordering him to rise, began the march homeward.

Hackstaff, after persuading Hector to let go his victim's throat, being absorbed in the man, thought little about the dog. Presently Hector came trotting along with a little cotton bag in his mouth. Hackstaff took it and put it in his pocket.

Drawing the burglar to a road, Hackstaff waited till a farmer driving a team came along, then put his prison on the wagon and took him to the jail at the county seat, where he was lock-ed up. Then Hackstaff set out to the Thornes'. He found a crowd about the house and learned that Mrs. Thorne had been mortally wounded. Since Mildred was attended by friends, he did not disturb her, going at once to his own home. Mrs. Thorne died the next day, as much from shock as from wounds. It was not till the day after the funeral that Hackstaff went to see Mildred. She told him that in her refusal of him she had been influenced by the fact that her mother needed her, and she did not believe that she would be happy or make him happy so long as her mother lived. She was ready to marry him, but he must take her with no dowry except the place in which she lived, which was of little value, She had supposed that her mother had some money hidden away, but nothing had been found.

Hackstaff gladly accepted this withdrawal of her answer to his proposi-tion, and since Mildred was now entirely alone an early marriage was arranged. The burglar was tried, but since there was no evidence forthcoming except the scent of a dog that he was the man who had committed the murder the jury refused to convict him. But he was a hardened criminal and was wanted for an. offense, for which he suffered.

A short time after the marriage of Hackstaff and Mildred Thorne the husband one day put on the coat he had worn on the night of the murder. Putting his hand into a pocket, he drew forth a little bag.

"I wonder where that came from," he said, looking at it curiously.

"What's in it?" asked his wife. Thursting his hand in the bag, he drew forth a number of diamon Then he remembered Hector's trotting beside him with the bag in his mouth while he was engaged with the pris-

It turned out that the diamonds had been taken from Mrs. Thorne on the night of the murder, and they proved to be worth $30,000.

The robber had thrown them away when captured. How he knew they were in the house and Mildred did not know of it is a story in itself. After all, Mildred's dowry was satisfactory to herself and her husband. As for Hector, he lived from that time forward the life of a prince of dogs. His mistress insisted upon having him with her night and day. Since her husband was not with her in the daytime she relied upon the dog for protection. What induced Hector to pick up the bag the robber threw away is hard to determine. It was certainly a case of rare canine intelligence.

Pretty Window Pictures From Flowers, Ferns and Leaves.

ANYBODY CAN MAKE THEM.

Materials Are Inexpensive, and With a Little Taste and Skill Charming Decerative Souvenirs of Woodland Walks May Thus Be Made.

When you are out walking you often find beautiful leaves, ferns or delicate flowers that you wish you could keep. There is a way to do this that requires no special skill.

Smooth out each tiny leaflet of a fern so that its shape will be perfect. Press it between newspapers and change them daily for the first few

The materials that you will need to make transparencies are a sheet of Japanese paper, either gray or brown or a dull shade of green, a jar of paste and a pair of scissors.

After your fern is pressed you must decide upon the shape of the picture that you wish. For an oblong, which is perhaps the best, cut two pieces of the Japanese paper of the same size, large enough to cover the fern and leave a quarter of an inch margin around the our sides. Paste the fern lightly to one of these pieces of Japanese paper, being careful to make it lie perfectly flat and smooth. It is a good plan to use very little paste, just enough to make the fern stick fast to the paper. On top of the fern is placed the second piece of Japanese paper, which is glued to the first piece of paper around the outer edge. Here you have your picture ready to be framed.

The next point to be decided is what color frame you will use. Perhaps you will decide on a dull gray, finding that it blends in very well with the delicate, tender green of the young fern. Again you cut two equal oblongs of the colored paper about two inches wider and longer than the oblongs of the Japanese paper. Cut out the centers of these oblongs, and the space thus made must be a quarter of an inch smaller, both in width and length, than the picture. You will notice that when you lay the frame on top of the picture it will cover the extra quarter of an inch of Japanese paper, or, in other words, the frame will overlap the picture a quarter of an inch. Paste the frame firmly to the picture around this center opening and then, turning the picture over, paste down the second piece of colored paper in the same way, so that your picture will be framed exactly alike on both sides.

Now, after the outer edges of the frame have been glued together the picture will be complete. By adding a bit of gray ribbon by which to hang it up your transparency is ready to be hung in the window.

You can make all sorts of transparencies, of all shapes and sizes, using dainty, delicately colored flowers or thin feathery grasses or some little leaves—anything, in fact, that is flat and can be pasted between the two pieces of transparent Japanese paper. Often ferns with just one gayly colored flower will make a beautiful trans-

A POSITIVE CURE FOR RHEUMATISM

Hundreds of People Have Found "Fruit-a-tives" Their Only Help

Superintendent of Sunday School in Toronto Tells How He Cured Himself of Chronic Rheumatism After Suffering for Years.

55 DOVERCOURT ROAD, Oct., 1st. 1913.

"For a long time, I have thought of writing you regarding what I term a most remarkable cure effected by your remedy "Fruit-a-tives". I suffered from Rheumatism, especially in my hands. I have spent a lot of money without any good results. I have taken "Fruit-a-tives" for 18 months now, and am pleased to tell you that I am cured. All the enlargement has not left my hands and perhans never will, but the hands and perhaps never will, but the soreness is all gone and I can do any kind of work. I have gained 35 pounds in 18 months".

Rheumatism is no longer the dreaded disease it once was. Rheumatism is no longer one of the "incurable diseases". "Fruit-a-tives" has proved its marvellous powers over Rheu-matism, Sciatica, Lumbago—in fact, over all such diseases which arise from some derangement of stomach, bowels, kidneys or skin.

"Fruit-a-tives" is sold by all dealers at 50c, a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c. or sent postpaid on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

They styled their city the metropolis of the north, and certainly they had some metropolitan prices. Bread twenty-five cents a loaf and other things equally high. But already they are beginning to cut. One fellow was offering three loaves for fifty cents.

A government ferry conveys passengers and freight across the river either way propelled by the current. Our stay here was short, we crossed in the evening and went up the river about fifteen miles passing the mouth of the North Hart at the ferry and the Smoky a mile up. We camped at the foot of the hill and as it rained heavy during the night we had difficulty getting up the hill next morning. We pushed behind and blocked the wheels quite frequently to let the horses rest. But we got up without any mishap. As the country north of the Peace is level prairie the trail was good and we just journeyed on and "nightly pitched our moving tent a day's march nearer home." There is a fascination about the trail that is hard to account for. After the first night I undressed and got into bed just as I would at home and although it rained several times the little tent kept us perfectly dry.

This is certainly a beautiful country. A great level plain, some places there is too much brush but the poplar is needed for five-wood The willows are a nuisance. soil is very black as deep as they usually plough. The subsoil, is clay. This has been a very good season. There was plenty of rain. The crops are good and are harvested without frost. Although several times we were very much afraid the whole season's work would be destroyed, but the Chinooks saved the situation.

No frost till September. There are a few respectable looking houses but the most of them are little log shacks with mud roofs, a door in the end and a window in the side. There are very few women in the country. In fact there is no accommodation for women in the little shacks. But the men seem cheerful and every one expects there will be a railway station on his quarter that will develop into a city. The bulk of the crop is oats. There Thanking you for valuable space, I remain, Yours respectfully, PETER ANDERSON, Dunvegan, Alberta.

The Horse

It has been figured out that the life of a horse in the present war is ten days, and horses are being used in hundreds of thousands. This loss of horseflesh is going to have its effect in raising the already high war; horses that will never return, and which, if they did return, would, in many cases, find their occupation gone: For while their disappearance will raise the price of horse flesh, it will also result in the adoption by many farmers of engines to take their place. Much is written on "Husbands," but "Wives, love love your wives," but "Wives, love your husbonds" would be a relief. Sometimes we read, "Perhaps she is longing for the kiss of long ago.' Yes, and perhaps he is longing for the sweet smile, pleasant voice, tidy appearance, neat form, and eyes of his courting days, whom he wooed, and won her to be the companion of a lifetime. Would you, in your position as sweetheart, have met him in the parlor as he sees you to-day-with dress awry, hair bloused, eyes red and swollen, simpering, pouting, fretting? A thousand times, no. You would have given your dress an extra shake, stuck a few more pins here and there, smoothed your hair, cleared the frown from your countenance, and with a stylish stop have entered, with angelic goodness beaming from every point.

BELGIAN RELIEF

Copy of Correspondence Between the Warden of Lambton and the Consul General of Belgium in Canada

Petrolea, Ont., Oct. 27th, 1914. Mr. Maurice Goor, Consul General of Belgium in Car Ottawa.

Dear sir,—

It affords me much pleasure to forward the enclosed cheques for $2000.00 from the County Council of the County of Lambton and $217.00 from the members of the County Council, as a contribution to the relief work for the victims of the war in Belgium.

Permit me to add that our people desire to express their deep sympathy for the brave Belgians who have shown to the world that they are prepared to hon-orably keep their pledged bond and de-fend it with their blood and treasure, and that we are glad to know that the Sons of Canada will soon be fighting side by side with your countrymen and will continue in the battle line until the vandals are driven from your land and forced to recompense your people as much as it is possible for the treacherous, unwarranted invasion of your country and the trail of blood, devastation and atrocities they have left behind them.8

Yours very truly, C. O. FAIRBANK, Warden Lambton County.

Ottawa, Oct. 29th, 1914. C. O. FAIRBANK, Esq., Petrolea, Ont.

Dear sir,—

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 27th inst, enclosing cheques for $2,00.00 from the County Council of the County of Lambton and $217.00 from the members of the County Council as a contribution to the County Council, as a contribution to the relief work for the victims of the war in Belgium.

May I request you to kindly tender to the members of the Council the express-ion of my deep sense of gratitude for this important donation. The eloquent evi-dence it affords of the sympathy of the people of your county with my distressed fellow-countrymen will be profoundly appreciated by the Belgian nation. Believe me, with thankfulness,

Yours very truly,

GIRL'S PLUSH HAT.

It is no easy matter to find millinery that will combine the two essentials in children's headgear. These are sim-plicity and beauty. A successful example is illustrated here. It is a green plush hat for fall wear, with trimming of pink velvet roses and green picot edged ribbon. The ribbon is smartly arranged in three flat bows of equal size placed obliquely on the hat.

Keeping Tomatoes Fresh.

Tomatoes picked when just ripe and firm and attached to the stems are said to keep indefinitely with little loss of freshness if covered with brine made by dissolving a teacupful of salt in a gallon of pure, fresh water. Place them in an earthen vessel. A mixture of water and vinegar will also keep them fresh for a long time.

Matching Pincushions. Lovely silk pincushions in various shades to match the color scheme of the rooms for which they are intended, covered with gold net and much trimmed with lace and tiny silk roses, are durable, in spite of their daintines for the gold net protects the silk and hides the many pin pricks.

Golf Balls.

The first golf balls were made of ntanned bull's hide, two rounds, forming the ends, another the middle. These pieces were softened, shaped and firmly sewed togther, a small hole being left through which feathers could later be stuffed—a difficult process accomplished with the old of a stell rod the aid of a steel rod.

He Nearly Did. When Napoleon was a youth of ten while at the military school at Brienne he wrote to his mother in Corsi-ca, "With Homer in my pocket and my sword by my side I hope to carve my way through the world."

The Adjutant Bird.

It is stated that the adjutant, or marabou, a tall bird of India, of the stork species, will swallow a hare or a cat whole. It stands five feet high, and the expanse of the wings is nearly fifteen feet.

Testing Eggs.

A simple way to test eggs is said to be to make a brine by dissolving two ounces of salt in one pint of water. Place the eggs in this. An egg laid the same day will sink to the bottom an egg laid the previous day will not sink quite to the bottom. An egg three days old will float just under the surface, and an older egg will float on or above the surface.

Keeping Hair Ribbons Smooth. To keep children's hair ribbons from mussing cut a piece of cardboard six inches long and four inches wide. Roll the ribbons on this every night after removing them from the hair. This will save frequent pressing.

Baby's Own Tablets are an absolute cure for childhood constipation. They never fail to regulate the bowels and sweeten the stomach, and unlike castor oil, their action is mild and they are pleasant to take. Concerning them Mrs. G. The Tablets are surely the best remedy I know of for little ones as they quickly banished all signs of constipation and colic. I would use no other medicine for baby."
