The Foreman of the Jury Speaks on the Cartoons.

imprisonment of Mr. John T. Hawke, editor of the Moncton Transcript, for writing and publishing certain severe strictures upon a decision of the Supreme Court of this province, has attracted widespread public attention and unqualified public condemnation of the mode of trial. The facts of this cause célèbre are briefly these:—A date for the trial of the liberal petition for Westmorland County, to unseat Mr. Josiah Wood, M. P., was originally agreed upon satisfactorily to all parties. Afterwards Judge Fraser changed the date to Nov. 8, notwithstanding that the liberal petitioner objected on the ground that such a late date by the operation of the six months limit might invalidate the petition. Judge Fraser ruled that it would not: and insisted upon the later date. The conservative counsel then appealed, to the Supreme Court, though the Judge had power to correct the error by fixing a date anew, yet ruled the petition out on the ground that the date selected was outside the six months limit. Judge Fraser also reversed his own decision by deciding with the majority. Mr. Hawke voiced the indignation of his friends by denouncing the incident as a miscarriage of justice, and used some severe reflections. He was charged with contempt of court, and in a four or five hours' address, without any counsel to assist, pleaded his own cause before the court. And both the bench and the bar passed the highest encomiums upon the manner as well as the matter of the address from a layman's standpoint. We mention this because some journals are striving to represent that Mr. Hawke's prominence is entirely due to mere accident unsupported by ability. The result of the whole proceedings is Mr. Hawke's imprisonment for two months, and his further imprisonment till $200 fine be paid. Mr. Hawke throughout has demanded "A TRIAL BY JURY," and we as the Supreme Court of Appeal on behalf of public opinion have overridden the decision of the Supreme Court of New Brunswick and granted him that mode of trial. The verdict in his favor is given in our leading cartoon. The issue now is not whether Mr. Hawke's strictures were deserved and justifiable, but whether or not the mode of trial under which he is punished is not unfair and unjust, inasmuch as his accusers were his judges and there is no right of appeal. The verdict of the JURY is that it was not a fair mode of trial and that the defendant should be discharged, as his imprisonment is, under all the circumstances, a dangerous infringement upon the liberty of the press.

* * * Sir Charles Tupper in his budget speech this year gave a glowing account of the financial standing of Canada. It (Canada) was now in such a good position that any amount of money could be borrowed at 3½ per cent. interest. He eulogized the present government's economical use of the public money. At no time in the history of Canada had it been so cheaply and so satisfactorily conducted. He admitted that this government (of which he was a member) had added largely to the public expenditure and debt of the Dominion, but the money expended was to the advantage of this great and glorious country. Public works were conducted on a lavish scale, railway and steamship subsidies were granted without stint, and now, said he, all we have to do is to raise another loan of say $25,000,000 to help pay the interest on former loans and the present public works.

* * * It is no wonder that the Dominion Treasury is in such an emaciated condition. Not to be wondered at when taxes are largely increased. Too many subsidies are granted to useless railway companies. Too many "fake" railway companies in Canada who run the road on nothing but the subsidy. Too many members of Parliament who vote for their own pockets and the country afterward.

* * * Mr. John V. Ellis strongly opposed the Chignecto Ship Railway bill. Mr. Ellis is an adept at opposing everything proposed by the government. If a true Liberal is "guaged" as one who always votes with the Liberals through thick and thin, Mr. Ellis must be a true Liberal.

He Keeps His Word.

"My dear," said a young and fashionable Austin lady to her old-fashioned husband. "I hope you are not going to talk at dinner before all the company about how you went barefoot when you were a boy. Every time we have company you shock people by talking about your bare feet when you were a boy."

"My dear, I'll not mention my bare feet."

He kept his promise. He did not say a word about his bare feet but he talked long and eloquently about his having been obliged to walk backwards out of church on one occasion, owing to the dilapidated condition of his unmentionables consequence on his indigent condition.

Rev. Whangdoodle Baxter on Lying.

Berlubbed Awjience :-- De subjec' of dis ebening's discourse am lyin'.

Lyin' am not confined to any pertickerler race or color--dars white lies and black lies.

De Bible says all men am liars. Dis am gospel troof, but dar should hab been an amyendment to de effect dat de wood men should include de wimmen.

De lawyers am sorted scary about usin' de troof. De words lawyer and liar sounds about de same. I heered about a lawyer who said dat his mouf had nebber uttered a lie. He proberbly talked fru his nose.

Sin has many tools, but de lie am de handle what fits 'em all. Speakin' ob lies, Bruder Opie Read, ob de Arkansaw Trabeller, says dat de reason troof am becomin' skursser and skursser ebery yeah am de fac' dat a great deal ob troof has been withdrawn from circelashun ob late.

We reads dat troof am stranger dan fieshun. Praps de reason dat troof am stranger dan fieshun am bekase we ain't so well erquainted wid troof as we be wid fieshun.

Hit often happens dat de parents am ter blame fer de lyin' habits ob de childruns. When you has made a boy berlieve dat swallerin an apple seed will start a tree ter grownin' behinp his little west, you has taked de fust step to make a Neli Perkins outen him.

Some folks can't help lyin. I has got a deah fren who exaggerates so much dat de only time in his life when he spoke widin bounds was when he was in de county jail fer stealin a hoss he said he nebber seed.

Carl Pretzel, who am a good judge ob lyin', he says dat troof crushed to yarf may rise agin, but hit will be in de arternoon, arter de day's work am done.

Man ain't de cnly liar in de univarse. De man who tacked up ober his gas meter, "Troof am mighty but don't prevail heah," knowed what he was talkin' about. De gas meter don't hab ter take off his hat ter Tom Ochiltree. Dars one sure sign ob a liar. When a man nebber says nussin wi'lout offerin' ter bet, you may be shuah dat he ain't erkustonied ter habin' his word takin' without dispute. Texas Sittings.

TRANSMUTATION.

When Edwin and fair Angeline
Were lovers and engaged,
If she attempted any work
He straight became enraged.
He ran to do her small commands,
And placed the kids upon her hands.

But now that Angeline is wed
Her cares are far from light,
And Edwin's love has grown so cold
That things are diff'rent quite.
In idleness around he stands,
And leaves "the kids" upon her

NO ONE ANY WISER.

There was a deep student of some sort of lore,
(I cannot just say what they term it)
So much interrupted by leisurely friends,
That he longed for the life of a hermit.
So he left his loved work for a number of days,
And the home he no more could abide in,
Determined to search in unusual ways,
Till he found a snug nook he could hide in,

He found it! 'Twas down a great avenue's length,
'Twas up a long lane—with a turning,
'Twas 'round a queer corner, and four stories high,
A snug situation for learning.
"How lucky!" he cried as he moved in his l.

"Sweet solitude! dearly I prize her,
Here hard I can study alone by myself,
And no one be any the wiser."

Mrs. George Archibald.

What We are Coming To.

Scene: the interior of a fashionable female employment office. A lady enters and asks meekly: "Have you any ladies who would accept of a position now?"

Mistress of Office (haughtily): Did you wish a cook-lady, a nurse-lady, an ordinary servant-lady, a wash-lady, or scrub-lady? "A cook-lady, if you please."

"Well, I have but one cook-lady now. Send your carriage to No. 16, B—Street, and she may come and speak to you about it if your references are perfectly satisfactory."

"Do you think she would consent to see me in person if I were to call?"

"No; not to-day. She is engaged with her dressmaker, and she has a reception from four until six this afternoon. Her receptions are always on Fridays. You would have to take your dinner down town that day. She would need your parlors and dining-room."

"I shouldn't mind that. What are her terms?"

"Twenty-five dollars a week, with a second-lady and a maid for herself, and a suit of three rooms."

"I think I'll take her if she will only come."

The Gossips Say That

The judges were severe in the case of John T. Hawke now incarcerated in Fredericton jail. Public opinion is with him.

The JURY's choice, John A. Chesley as commissioner, has been ratified, and Portland feels safe, knowing its future is so well provided for.

Portland should provide a gymnasium for its police force, or rather for some of the unfortunates who are manipulated by the gentle peace-makers.

Now that the labor Commission is about through its labors, the members of it feel they would like to open up another constituency. Big pay and little labor.

* * *

St. John will have another evening paper to be called the Evening Gazette. John A. Bowes has returned from New York, after making arrangements for press, type, etc.

A tailor is now the only "member of the Press" who may "go over" a judge on the outside with a hot iron, without any fears of being imprisoned for "contempt of court."

"Progress," the new paper, looks very fine; it contains lots of news on all the leading topics of the day. This paper should "catch on" with the people of St. John, who generally know a good thing when they see it. The JURY wishes "Progress" a healthy future.

* * *

C. N. Skinner is a conundrum. He is on neither side just yet. All important party questions calling for a division of the house renders Mr. Skinner invisible. He will probably fill a vacancy on the police force when he comes back, as he has all the invisible qualifications necessary to a position of that kind.

His Predicament.

The desperate struggles and flounderings by which some endeavour to get out of their embarrassment are amusing enough.

We remember to have been much delighted the first time we heard the history of the wooing of a noble lord, now no more, narrated. His lordship was a man of talent and enterprise, of stainless pedigree and a fair rent roll; but the veriest slave of bashfulness. Like all quiet and timid men, he was very susceptible and very constant as long as he was in the habit of seeing the object of his affection daily.

He chanced at the beginning of an Edinburgh winter to lose his heart to Miss——, and as their families were on habits of intimacy he had frequent opportunities of seeing her.

He gazed and sighed incessantly—a very Dumbeldikes, but that he had a large allowance of brain; he followed her everywhere, he felt jealous, uncomfortable, savage if she looked even civilly at another; and yet, notwithstanding his stoutest resolutions, notwithstanding the encouragement afforded him by the lady—a woman of sense, who saw what his lordship would be at, esteemed his character, was superior to girlish affection, and made every advance consistent with womanly delicacy—the winter was fast fading into spring and he had not yet got his mouth opened.

Mamma at last lost all patience, and one day, when his lordship was taking his usual lounge in the drawing-room, silent, or uttering an occasional monosyllable, the good lady abruptly left the room, and locked the pair in alone.

When his lordship, on assaying to take his leave discovered the predicament in which he stood, a desperate fit of resolution seized him.

Miss——sat bending assiduously over her needle, a deep blush on her cheek. His lordship advanced towards her, but, losing heart by the way, passed on in silence to the other end of the room. He returned to the charge, but again without effect. At last, nerving himself like one about to spring into a powder mine, he stopped short before her.

"Miss——, will you marry me?"

"With the greatest of pleasure, my lord," was the answer, given in a low, somewhat timid, but unfaltering voice, while a deeper crimson suffused the face of the speaker.

"You have the advantage of me," said the old merchant, blandly. "You will have to get someone to identify you."

"Identify me? Why, I am your son, just back from college."

"May be," answered the old gentleman, "but my son did not look like a fool, wear a monkeytail coat, tight trousers, and toothpick shoes, nor did he suck cane handles. When my wife returns from her visit to my sister in the country, you may present your claims to her, and if she decides that you are our offspring, I shall be happy to bid you an affectionate good-bye on your return to college."

One For Him.—Rustic Dame (who has never before seen a bicycle, to Cockney bicyclist who has dismounted for the purpose of asking the way): "We don't want nowt groinding today, mester."

To Subscribers.

Owing to the system adopted by the JURY proprietors of delivering the paper and collecting the sum of five cents each issue, it is important that subscribers should have the money ready to pay the carrier on delivery of each paper. Any subscriber having his paper delivered to his residence will please inform some member of the family to this effect.

"Mr. Silverstone, I vant you to write a very sharp letter to dot Gilhooly."

"Wat for a letter shall I write, Misher Schaumburg?"

"You must write one ob dose caustic letters, but at de same time I don't vant to insult him so much dot he dakes away his gusdom our store from."

Mr. Silverstone wrote the letter, but it was not satisfactory to Schaumburg, who tore it up and threw it in the waste basket. He then proceeded to write a letter himself, and the following is a correct copy of the document

AUSTIN, TEXAS, Dec. 10, 1887.

There once lived in one of the suburbs of St. John, N. B., an old gentleman who had a very reprehensible habit of gossiping rather freely about his neighbors. One day he was making some severe remarks about some one, when one of his auditors asked, "Say, Mr. B., who is it, anyway, that you're talking about?" "Well," was the reply, "I don't like to mention any names, but his initials are Bill Henderson!" The cat cleared the bag with all four feet that time.

"Why, Jawdey, what do you mean? What makes you think that?"

"Well, you know," and here his voice sank to a low, tremulous, telephone sputter, "Ananias is the father of 'Lize.'" (Ring returned.)

Their Admission-tickets first---Bridget : "Miss, there's two ladies wants to see you."

Miss : "I hope you asked them into the drawing-room?"
Bridget : "No, miss : I thought I'd better bring you the tickets first."

Judge : "You were detected in the act of stealing your neighbour's silk handerchief at the theatre! What have you to say in your defence?"

Prisoner : "It is a very curious story. They were playing a most affecting piece ; each of the spectators felt himself overpowered, and pulled out a handkerchief. With me, it was just the reverse. I pulled out a handkerchief, and then felt myself overpowered."

Jones, who is rather a tippler, for some time has been taking all his beverages with the aid of a straw. When one of his friends asked the reason, he replied : "It is only because I have solemnly promised my wife that I would never again let my lips touch a glass of liquor."

"The car is full of alumni," whispered Miss Beckonstreet to her friend from the West, as they both journeyed Cambridgeward in the horse car.

"Yes" said the Chicago girl, "and how it chokes one up, don't it? I wonder they don't open the ventilators." --Boston Bulletin.

The great Duke of Wellington once lost the services of a good chef for no other reason than that he was careless regarding the quality of his meals. "I cannot stay vit him," said the wounded artist. "I cook him a dinner fit for the king ; he say nothing ! I go out, and leave ze dinner to ze stupid cook-maid--again he say nothing!"
