Commissioner in Halifax Session

Hear of Imperial Oil Council

Master Plasterer Blames Unrest on "The Men We Sent to Ottawa to Protect Us, Protecting the Packers and Cold Storage Men"

Halifax, N. S., June 4.—When the industrial relations commission met here this morning evidence was taken on the council set up by the Imperial Oil Company for the settlement of differences with its staff of 800 men. Albert Cady, an employee, said the men chose representatives on the council, while an equal number represented the company, meetings were held each month and machinery existed for calling emergency meetings. The men were quite satisfied by the council.

C. A. Lucas, another employee, said one of the first things the council did was to consider the high cost of living problem. The council would take the high cost of commodities pressed more unfairly on the poorer paid men and the salaries of this class of employes were raised. The scheme was working very satisfactorily, but it had to be remembered that it was fresh and therefore virtually untried.

Answering Commissioner Moore, the witness said there was no union representation on the council. Commissioner Moore—"And would the extension of this scheme, in your opinion be a satisfactory substitute for trade unions?" The witness—"Yes, and I have had a lot of experience in union matters over here and in England."

Commissioner Moore asked another witness, M. M. Waddell, who decided a point on which the men and the company's representatives were deadlocked. The witness said the deadlock rested with the superintendent of the plant. He thought so far as the men were concerned, the council operated the same as a union. The company offered no opposition to its men joining a union if they wanted it.

High Living Cost. Clarence C. Rice, a master plasterer, blamed unrest on "the men we sent to Ottawa to protect us, protecting the packers and cold storage men." He said that had gone past the stage where they could be starved. They were going to kick. He thought the present wage system had failed and would have to be changed. The witness complained about the price of fish caught off the Nova Scotia coast. He said the fishermen get four cents a pound and it was retailed at fifteen cents a pound. If one tried to deal direct with fishermen he charged more than the fish monger. It was the same with the farmers. The remedy was the establishment of food docks on a co-operative basis under government supervision.

Mr. Craig, an electrician, said most of working classes could not afford a whole house, but doubled up. He did not think

VOCATIONAL TRAINING

Provincial Board Held Meeting Here Today—Matter of Legislation

The provincial board on vocational education met this morning in the government rooms, Prince William street. There were present, Fred Magner, chairman; George Maxwell, Rev. F. Tessler, R. P. Stevens, E. P. Bradt, Dr. W. S. Carter and Fletcher Peacock.

Plans for the organization of the Woodstock school were first considered and the following were appointed to the Woodstock vocational committee, the first in the province—Warden Fleming, W. S. Sutton, M.P.P., and Daniel Stewart. E. W. Mait and F. C. Squidre were appointed by the Woodstock school board, and the county council will appoint two. The recommendation that E. A. Raymond be appointed director of the school and teacher in the agricultural department, was confirmed.

It was decided to open a summer school of home economics in Fredericton July 3 till August 1, for the training of home economic teachers for vocational schools. One expert will be brought from New Hampshire and one from Massachusetts to take part in the instruction.

It was decided to pay the tuition and traveling expenses of three teachers who might wish to take a year's course of preparation for vocational teaching in New Brunswick, these courses to be taken in approved institutions in the States.

Dr. Carter, Principal Bridges of Fredericton, E. P. Bradt and F. Peacock were appointed a committee to outline optional high school courses in commercial work, home economics, industrial work and agriculture, for pupils of high school age.

The matter of organizing public opinion to influence the legislation about to be passed at Ottawa in such a way as to give the smaller provinces special help for vocational training was discussed at length and a committee appointed to endeavor to get the three maritime provinces to act together, and the secretary was instructed to write to the New Brunswick members of parliament. The suggestion was that each province be given $25,000 and the balance distributed according to population. It was pointed out that a precedent for this had been established by the agricultural instruction act of 1912.

Secretary Peacock was given permission to attend a meeting of state directors of vocational education in New York in July. There would be any unrest if men could live decently.

Even Airplanes Used—King and Queen, Prince of Wales and Princess Mary There—Thirteen Staters in English Classic

London, June 4.—Derby Day, the world's greatest popular sporting event, has returned after leaving a blank on the British calendar for four years. With the early morning the population began a progress toward Epsom Downs, comparable with the migration of the tribes of Israel. "This isn't a crowd; it is a nation," said a French writer of Derby Day. "It is today's victory Derby, as it is called, because the high water mark, there will be 300,000 within sight of the race track. The people are travelling in trains, buses, four-wheeled delivery wagons, motor cars, on horse back, a-foot and as a sign of the new era, by airplane. Aviators have booked 100 passengers who are going to Epsom Downs, although the machines are forbidden to fly within two miles of the course. Thousands camped last night near the race course in tents, and caterers have stored tons of provisions, including more than 100,000 bottles of beer. The spectacle at the race course lacked nothing of the pre-war color today, and had a strong tinge of the old. King George, Queen Mary, with the Prince of Wales and Princess Mary drove from the station in landaus. All the familiar figures, from the Earl of Londale, the Dean of English sportsmen, wearing his silk hat, to book-makers from all parts of the kingdom were present. The only element lacking is an uncertainty about the big race. There will be fourteen starters. Andrew Black's Panther has long been considered a sure thing, although Sir Walter Gilbert's Whiskey Magnate will be a strong contender. Major Richard Astor's Bugchan has been rated as a possibility. There has been much interest in Al Jones, an English sportsman, wearing his hat, to start the race in landaus. I JUST DIDN'T SAVE

That is why I am here. That is why the others are here. In my younger days I made plenty of money. But it was a case of 'easy come, easy go'. If I had only formed the habit of putting something away out of my earnings I would be comfortable and independent today.

A pathetic story this, told in bitterness by an inmate of a home for dependent poor—a man, old and penniless because of a bad beginning in life.

It is a story of wilful neglect and disregard for the future. In its main essentials it is the story of a vast number of men—men thoughtless and short-sighted—men who blindly refuse to consider to-morrow seriously.

All about us we see these men. The evening of their lives is a time of drudgery, if not of humiliation. They pay a heavy price for the folly of a wasted youth.

HAMPTON WINS IN SCHOOL SPORT SERIES

In an exciting track meet held yesterday between Rothersey, Kingston and Hampton Consolidated Schools, on the Rothersey Collegiate School athletic grounds, Hampton was victorious over Rothersey and Kingston.

Last year Lieutenant Governor Pugsley offered a cup to one of the three consolidated schools, which was victorious in field sports three years. In the meet last year, Hampton took the cup and they were again winners yesterday.

Large crowds from the three places attended. The sports began at 2 p. m. The judges were, J. H. A. L. Fairweather, Charles Coster and Sergeant Dew, with G. Heywood, starter. The boys all did well and it could be easily seen that each team was out to win. The following were the entries and the results:

100 yards dash, seniors: Sterritt, Kingston, 1st, 13 sec.; McCreedy, Hampton, 2nd; M. Angevine, Hampton, 3rd.

High jump, Juniors: Crandall, Hampton, 1st, 4-9/16; Flewelling, Kingston, 2nd, 4-1/2; Coleman, Hampton, 3rd.

High jump, senior: Sterritt, Kingston, 1st, 4-9/16; Flewelling, Kingston, 2nd, 4-1/2; Coleman, Hampton, 3rd.

Broad jump, midlets: Ross, Hampton, 1st, 13-10; D. Cooper, Hampton, 2nd; Green, Rothersey, 3rd.

Hardles, senior: Sterritt, Kingston, 17 seconds; Crandall, Hampton; Green, Rothersey.

Pole vault, Junior: Crandall, Hampton, 6-6; McPherson, Hampton; Patterson, Hampton.

Broad jump, senior: Sterritt, Kingston, 18-1; Flewelling, Kingston; J. Angevine, Hampton.

75 yard dash, Junior: M. Angevine, Hampton; Crandall and Patterson, Hampton.

Pole vault, senior: Patterson, Hampton, 8-1; Monteith, Rothersey; Crandall, Hampton.

Ball throw, Junior: Patterson, Hampton, 240 feet; McPherson and Crandall, Hampton.

Ball throw, senior: Patterson, 258 feet; Flewelling, Kingston; Lawrence, Hampton.

60 yard dash, midlets: Ross, Hampton 1st; D. Cooper, Hampton; Green, Rothersey.

220 yard dash, senior: Sterritt, Kingston, 29 1/4 seconds; Monteith, Rothersey; Flewelling, Kingston.

100 yard dash, Junior: M. Angevine, Hampton, 19 1/2 seconds; B. DeLong and Crandall, Hampton.

Broad jump, Junior: Patterson, Hampton, 15-10; B. DeLong and McPherson, Hampton.

Half mile, senior: Sterritt, Kingston, 2 minutes and 40 seconds; Chipman, Hampton; V. DeLong, Hampton.

The score was as follows: Hampton, 92; Kingston, 82; and Rothersey, 13. Among the features of the day was the excellent work of Sterritt of Kingston, who took first in every event he was entered, also the work of Monteith in the senior pole vault, who had only recently recovered from an attack of a gripe, but stayed through it all. For the most part the Rothersey lads were smaller than either Kingston or Hampton, but they showed good form.

The track meet for the cup next year will be held on the Kingston grounds, and it is looked forward to with interest, for if Hampton is successful next year the cup will stay in H. C. S.

Schermerborn Will Also Allow Mrs. Lydig to Buy Any Part of Berkshire Property

New York June 4.—The will of Frederick Augustus Schermerborn, who died suddenly on March 20 last at a dinner given in his honor by the board of governors of the Union Club, of which he was retiring president, was admitted to probate in the surrogate's court.

In the will, which was executed in 1906, Mr. Schermerborn bequeathed all his property in Lenox, Lee, and Washington Mass., to Mrs. Hannah M. Lydig, widow of David Lydig, who died in October, 1917. Mrs. Lydig lives at 83 East Seventy-ninth street and has a home at Lenox.

The bequest of Mrs. Lydig concluded with the following words: "To my life-long and dearest friend, Hannah M. Lydig, I bequeath $200,000."

thorne Lydig, the wife of David Lydig, I bequeath $200,000." After the death of Mr. Lydig, Mr. Schermerborn concluded that the responsibility for maintaining the property would be too much for Mrs. Lydig, and he revoked the property clause, and in a codicil executed in 1918 he gave Mrs. Lydig in lieu of the property a $200,000 bequest. The contents of the will supported the report from Lenox that but for his death Mr. Schermerborn would have married his old friend.

The property reverts to the residuary estate, but Mrs. Lydig is accorded the privilege of purchasing any parcel at will at reasonable terms. The residuary estate said to run into millions of dollars, is created as a trust fund for the benefit of Mrs. Ellen S. Achmuty, widow of Colonel Richard T. "If I Could Only Get Rid of These Headaches"

"GOODNESS knows, I have tried enough treatments for it. I think I have used nearly all the tablets and wafers and powders there are at the drug store.

"And what is the result? I am getting more rundown all the time, and the headaches are worse than ever.

"Of course, they help at the time, save me a little suffering, but I have the headaches now oftener than ever before, and my nervous system has all gone to pieces.

"The doctor says my blood is thin, and that I do not get the nourishment from my food that is required to feed the nerve cells and keep up the vitality of the system.

"I have been reading about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and this letter from Mrs. F. G. Simmons, 42 Curtis street, Brantford, Ont., seems to about describe my case.

"I am tired of taking medicines for temporary relief, and am going to see if Dr. Chase's Nerve Food will not build me up and make a complete cure."

This is Mrs. Simmons' letter:

Mrs. F. G. Simmons, 42 Curtis street, Brantford, Ont., writes: "For about eight years I suffered from anaemia. My circulation was poor, my gums and lips were pale, and my hands and feet were always cold. I was nervous and unable to sleep well. I had frequent headaches, seemed restless and easily worried or irritated. There was a buzzing sound in my ears. Indigestion was also one of my complaints, and I often was attacked by weak spells. As nothing seemed to improve my condition, I went to a doctor, who told me I was anemic, and that the climate of this country did not agree with me. But as I did not get any better I decided to try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, which I had heard a great deal about. After the first box I felt brighter and my headaches completely disappeared. I continued using the Nerve Food for quite a while, and now I feel better than I have since I came from Scotland eight years ago. I am quite well now, and cheerfully and gratefully recommend Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to people suffering as I did before I used this splendid medicine."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.75, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates Co., Limited, Toronto. The portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., the famous Receipt Book author, are on every box.

there is, in the form of the intestinal canal, a wonderful laboratory, within which are manufactured the very materials which are vitally necessary to sustain life, and also violent poisons which directly and indirectly cause disease and death.

Food waste, if allowed to accumulate, stagnates and gives rise to poisonous matter. This, if allowed to be absorbed into the blood, produces 90% of the disease that attacks mankind, from a transient neuralgia to a permanent hardening of the arteries.

Bright's disease, liver trouble, heart enlargement, high blood pressure, skin affections, rheumatism, insomnia, nervous exhaustion, mental affections, all may be caused by such self-poisoning, the warning of which is obstinate or habitual constipation.

Nor is it safe or sufficient to take castor oil, pills, salts, mineral waters, etc., in the effort to force the bowels to move. Not only will the constipation grow worse with the continuance of such remedies, but the dose must be constantly increased with an ever-weakening effect.

But Nujol acts differently—and successfully. Nujol is not a drug—does not act like any drug.

Nujol brings about thorough and natural bowel evacuation, at regular intervals, because it helps Nature to restore and to maintain the proper mechanism by which body waste is removed and its stagnation prevented.

Nujol overcomes constipation by removing its causes. Get a bottle of Nujol from your druggist today and send coupon for free booklet—"Thirty Feet of Danger."

Warning: Nujol is sold only in sealed bottles bearing the Nujol Trade Mark. Insist on Nujol. You may suffer from substitutes.

THE DOCTRINE OF DESPAIR

The philosopher of the Chatham World is moved out of his accustomed serenity by a deep concern for the peace of mind of the editor of the Times-Star. The latter has betrayed impatience that social conditions in St. John should be such that a feeble-minded girl of sixteen had as her only home a dirty little tenement of four rooms where five men and three women were one night found drinking together and acting in a disorderly manner.

WANTED—GENERAL MAID, Mrs. John C. Belyea. Telephone Rothsay 48. 102-6-4

THE indictment, in its wording, is a curious document. It is the identical form used in England in similar cases before the War of the Revolution. It recites that the barkentine was an American ship, owned by the Barkentine Puako Company of California. On April 27, 1918, it sailed from Victoria, B. C., for Cape Town. During the voyage, it continues, the vessel was "out of the jurisdiction of any particular state of the United States, and within the admiralty and maritime jurisdiction of the United States," and as the defendants subsequently were found in the southern district of New York, they must be tried here.

Here follows the history of the crime, as told in Count 2, in the wording of the ancient law of the Anglo-Saxons: Adolph Cornelius Pedersen, then and there being the second mate of said vessel, did unlawfully, feloniously, wilfully, maliciously, deliberately, premeditatedly, and with malice aforethought, kill Axel Hansen, a human being, late able-bodied seaman and member of the crew of the said vessel, by the means and in the manner and form hereinafter set forth, that is to say: The defendants, on divers days from May 4, 1918, to Aug. 6, 1918, on said vessel, did unlawfully, feloniously, wilfully, maliciously, deliberately, premeditatedly, and with malice aforethought, intend to effect the death of said Axel Hansen, did beat and wound Axel Hansen, and without justifiable cause did imprison Axel Hansen and did withhold from Hansen suitable food and nourishment, and did inflict upon him cruel and inhuman punishment, by reason whereof Axel Hansen, on Aug. 6, 1918, was in extreme sickness, suffering great pain and anguish, and was in extreme weakness of mind and body.

On Aug. 6, 1918, the defendants, with intent as aforesaid, well knowing the condition of the said Axel Hansen, as aforesaid, did threaten and with their hands, sticks, beat, wound and bruise the said Axel Hansen in and upon the head, breast, belly, back, sides and other parts of the body, whereupon the present beating was pursued by them, did, by reason of such pursuit, cast and throw himself into the ocean on the high seas.

Axel Hansen was in the water of the ocean, near the stern of said vessel, and was crying for help, and was struggling to be rescued, and in attempting to rescue himself did grasp and cling to the log line attached to the stern of said vessel, and with the ability and the duty to rescue and save Axel Hansen from the sea, did omit and refuse to render aid, help, and assistance to Axel Hansen, and did, with force and arms, prevent the rescuing, aiding, helping, and assisting of Hansen, and increase the speed of said vessel so that said Hansen was forced to let go his grasp of said log line and did leave Hansen in the ocean, without sustenance or support, by means of which, as aforesaid, Axel Hansen did drown and die.

The case will be tried before Judge Hough of the Circuit Court of Appeals, who will sit in the criminal branch of the district court. Assistant United States District-Attorney Ben A. Matthews will be in charge of the prosecution. Every member of the crew of the Puako who it has been possible to find will be called as a witness.

Men's Suits That Have the Right Style Swing

No matter how fine the materials, how good the workmanship, if the modelling is wrong the suit is a flat failure. No one wants to wear a suit that is conspicuous because of its glaring style faults.

Not every designer can design a stylish suit. Good designers are scarce. That's why apparel that has the right style swing is received so cordially. 20th Century, Brant and our other high class clothes are in this popular distinctive class—see them.

PRICES OF BEEF TO BE LOWER SOON

Chicago Packers Announce That Conditions Point to an Early Reduction

Chicago, May 31—A decrease in the price of beef is "immediately at hand," according to a statement issued by the bureau of public relations, American Meat Packers' Association.

"Despite the fact that beef already is cheaper than pork, poultry and cuttins, it probably will decline further within the next few days," said the statement.

"There are several reasons. Cheap grass-fed cattle, which hitherto have not been plentiful, are now moving to market. Exports of beef from the United States have practically ceased. It may reach the consumer. The reason is obvious. A few days in the fact that appreciable time elapses between arrival of cheaper steers at markets and the appearance of beef from those steers on the consumers' tables. For a hand, it is thought that the consumption of beef will be greatly increased."

Douglas avenue and Coburg street churches on Monday held the first of their united services which are to be continued throughout June.

Was Pulled Through THE TRYING TIME IN A WOMAN'S LIFE

Mrs. H. Membrum, 825 Seaton street, Toronto, Ont., writes:—"I have used Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and found them to be of great benefit to me. In fact, I consider they saved my life, and I have told many of my neighbors about them."

Two years ago last November I was in poor health. The doctor said it was change of life, as I was over forty years old, and that I would have to be very careful of myself. Shortly after that I received an awful shock that nearly killed me. The doctor my husband sent for said I would soon be all right, and sent up some medicine, but it only seemed to increase the trouble. I was then taken to the hospital. The doctors examined me, but could not understand my case.

Then they sent for a specialist, as they began to think it was my mind. When the specialist came he was baffled. For I answered his questions all right. Every day I was getting weaker, and when my husband came he could see that I was going, as I could read his thoughts, but said nothing.

Next day a friend came with a cab and took me to their home. They got a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I started taking them and began to get better, and at the end of two weeks I could walk around the room. I am now well and able to do my own work.

AT CITY HALL WANT SERVICE ON VALLEY RAILWAY

Some Wages Matters—A Returned Soldier's Application; Indian-town Square

The question of the wages to the men working on the stone crushers came up again at the city council meeting this morning, but was once more held over, as Commissioner Jones had received a similar request for increase from some of the men employed in the water and sewerage department. The request came in the form of a letter from the Teamsters' and Chauffeurs' Union, asking that increases be granted on the following scale: Single team drivers, $18 a week; double team drivers $20; chauffeurs, $21; helpers, $17, and stablemen, $8 a day. Commissioner Jones said that the difficulty was to determine just what men came under these gradings and the duties of each would have to be defined more clearly. At the present time, although ordinary chauffeurs were not receiving the scale demanded, the department was paying master mechanics, who could both drive and repair cars, $18 a day. It was decided to refer the matter to Commissioners Fisher and Jones for a joint report.

Soldier's Application
Sgt. Edward Harned, one of the original members of the 26th Battalion, who recently returned to the city from overseas, has applied to the city council this morning for fishing privileges at the end of the new breakwater and the McLeod area. Commissioner Bullock said that the act interfered with the council granting this right, although he regretted that they were unable to do so. The matter was left in Mr. Fisher's hands to deal with.

Permission was granted the N. B. Telephone Company to erect an electric sign outside their premises in Prince William street.

The matter of the sale of a lot of land in Crown street to J. V. Carter, taken up at Monday's committee meeting, was referred back to the commissioner of public lands as there was some question of the definition of the line of Crown street at this point.

Commissioner Bullock remarked that there had been some comment recently on the condition of the square at the foot of Indian town and he asked Commissioner Fisher what had been done. He replied that the square was being fixed up, and considering the amount of work of this nature that had to be carried out in the city this spring, the square was in fairly good shape.

A renewal of the lease of a lot of land in Lancaster to Sarah Jane Stevens, executrix of the estate of J. Wesley Stevens, was granted. The lease is to run for seven years at an annual rental of $22.50.

NOTABLE WEEK OF GRAND OPERA

Imperial Providing Great Treat
For Music Lovers

MUSIC OF VERY HIGH ORDER

Il Trovatore on Opening Night,
Martha a Glorious Success Last Evening—Soloists and Chorus of Outstanding Merit

St. John is reveling in a feast of song. At the Imperial the courses are being served and delighted throngs by their plaudits give testimony to the merits of the offerings.

Grand opera is such a rarity with us in these days that anything in that line would carry a strong appeal but the Boston English Opera Company is providing such glorious things that the city music lovers are in ecstasies. We have had two nights of it now and we are beginning to regret that there will be an end to this week, with its so distinctive characteristics. The company came with the heralded news that they were a fine musical organization, their chorus balanced and well trained, their soloists far above the ordinary. We can fully endorse all this and much could be added.

A very large audience greeted them on Monday night when Verdi's Il Trovatore was sung; not so many were present last night to hear Martha—but the holiday allurement of the open and the country jaunts on such a fine day naturally affected the attendance at the indoor attractions. But it is safe to say that when Martha is next offered it will be a different story.

The Opening Night

Il Trovatore was a superb performance. Everybody was on the tip-toe of expectation. The grand overture by a very excellent orchestra proved a tempting preliminary and then, as the curtain was raised followed a series of delightful numbers. May Barton was outstanding as the Gypsy mother. Her voice is magnificent and her acting intense. Hazel Eden as Leonora, proved most convincing, her fine soprano voice being heard to special advantage in the tower scene in the last act.

Possessing a very fine tenor voice and singing with sweetness and clearness of diction Joseph Sheehan became at once a favorite in the role of the troubadour, Manrico. His Misereere duet with Miss Eden was one of the evening's most popular items. As Count Di Luna, Stanley Deacon made a splendid impression. He has a most pleasing baritone voice which afforded the audience much pleasure. Others in the cast who aided towards the success of the piece were Ethel Tamminga, Harold Gies and Thos. Curtin.

The scenic features were capably arranged and the camping scene wherein was given the famous evil chorus was particularly appealing. This chorus and other chorus numbers throughout were heartily applauded.

Martha.

Last night's production of Martha carried the audience by storm. It was more popular even than Il Trovatore. Lighter in touch, Flotow's melodious opera was most appealing and it was sung most artistically. It is replete with scintillating numbers, glorious solos, captivating duets, trios and quartettes and in the wonderful finale of the third act supplying a chorus that sent the curtain up and down in response to ringing compelling encores.

It introduced several new soloists. Mr. Northway was good as Sir Tristram and Mr. Goltra as the sheriff.

Flora Folsom sang the score of Martha. Her voice is in marked contrast to that of Miss Eden—a light, liquid quality, beautifully sweet and of power. Her art is of high order and her acting of the part very taking. "The Last Rose of Summer" was sung with fine expression. Elaine De Selten, contralto, gave the performance a lilted tone. Her voice is of different quality to that of Miss Barton, not so great one would say, but as Nancy it would be hard to find a better. Hers was really delightful work.

Joseph Sheehan shone again in the tenor part. Even better than on Monday, some of his solo work was superb. He won an ovation for his number in the Richmond forest scene and time and again was encoored.

Stanley Deacon can own a St. John audience at any time after his work last night as Plunkett. His baritone is of marked resonance and of high quality and his personality most winning. When he took that sustained note in the forest scene the house was his. Miss Folsom, Miss De Selten, Mr. Sheehan and Mr. Deacon in quartettes gave a great treat but the spinning wheel number received too little recognition from the audience. Briefly put, Martha was a glorious success in every way. Truly these are great days for music lovers here.

WAS WELL PRESENTED

"Within the Law" was repeated on Monday evening by the Irish Literary and Benevolent Society Dramatic Club in the Opera House before a large audience and was an admirable presentation. Miss Vera King handled the leading role with success and Miss Loyola Duffy gave a performance that could hardly be surpassed by a professional actress. She has an ease of manner and charm which won the audience throughout.

Others in the cast were Miss Edna O'Leary, P. A. Coholan, Munnell O'Neill, P. Morris, J. W. F. Gale, J. R. McCloskey, P. E. O'Donnell, A. Dolan, G. C. Hanson, Miss Evelyn George, A. Co-dine, P. J. Joyce, W. J. O'Leary, Miss Vera George, A. Dolan and Geo. Stafford. The choruses were Mrs. M. T. Morris, Mrs. Julia George, Mrs. Jos. Hennebery, Mrs. J. E. McCloskey, Mrs. J. McGivern, and Mrs. P. A. Coholan.

High Cost of Living, Low Wages and Poor Housing Spoken of—Statement by Trades and Labor Representatives—J. F. Gregory a Witness

Information regarding industrial relations in the city as presented to the royal commission at its session here yesterday afternoon was startling contrasted. The employers were, for the most part, of the opinion that there was no unrest, yet they all said living was very high and that some employees were not receiving a living wage. The employees and their representatives had a different tale to tell, none of them being particularly contented with his lot. Many prominent employers, representatives of the Trades and Labor Council and employees of all trades were heard by the commission and scathingly cross-questioned. The commission was late arriving in the city and only one session was held, in the afternoon in the board of trade rooms. The session lasted something over four hours and was largely attended. The members of the commission were able to leave on the night train for Halifax where they will have further hearings today and tomorrow.

The commission, some clap trap of a fad is held up as a panacea for the cure of poverty. An honest politician is a person of the stone age. Moral laws are broken as if there were to be no death or judgment. The church is passing for the moving picture house. The old time family no longer exists. Boarding and lodging houses take the place of the old-fashioned homes. A general upheaval has taken place in society, and brings with it unrest. Government Contracts Courtesy Bay. Two hundred laborers employed, "foreigners"; 25c. per hour paid; no extra wage paid for Sunday or overtime; 11 and 12 hours worked; no Sunday observed; laborers have drivers over them; this is the worst of the public dumps of Canada; no citizen or returned soldier need apply; the politicians and foreigners receive all the benefit from the money spent on these dumps. The Trades and Labor Council has taken up the matter with the minister of public works and failed to get any satisfaction. We would ask that this contract be investigated. No organized labor permitted on this dump.

Atlantic Sugar Refiners. Five hundred hands employed. "foreigners"; 11 and 12 hour shifts worked; no extra wage paid for overtime or Sunday; 80c. per hour crude labor; no returned soldiers wanted here; no organized labor employed; the factory has a large government contract. Factories—Female Labor. Cotton mills are not organized, and small wage is paid; conditions are bad. Breweries not organized; conditions bad. Candy factory; conditions very bad; small wages $3.50 per week is paid young girls; not organized. Paper box factory—Wages $3.50 per week; conditions bad; not organized. Biscuit factory—$3.50 per week; conditions bad; not organized. Iron foundries—Conditions are bad; small girls work as core makers for $3.50 per week; not organized. Male Workers. Lumber factories—Small wages are paid and all rates with no standard; not organized. Lumber mills—No standard wage is paid as the men are not organized. Fish Canning Factories. This industry would stand a thorough investigation. We are given to understand that married men with families are working for $7.00 per week in the North Shore of our province in the lobster factories. The conditions under which they work is industrial slavery, and a menace to the freedom of our province. Truck stores and shanties are owned by the industries. No organization permitted. Recommendations. That all foreigners be dismissed from public works and returned soldiers and citizens be employed. That an eight-hour day be made law throughout Canada. A minimum wage law be made throughout Canada for male and female workers. That an old age pension be established. That Canada provide better housing for the people, and slum life be done away with. That all subsidies to steamship lines be abolished, and an embargo be placed on the export of food products until such time as living becomes normal in Canada. That foreign labor be barred from entry into Canada, unless those taking up farms, and signing an agreement to continue at such work. 1,000 Unemployed.

Questioned Mr. Melvin said that there were between 4,500 and 5,000 members of labor organizations in the city. Opposition to organization by the employers was found in some cases, but not in the cigar factories. Loughshoremen and civil employees were all thoroughly organized. He did not approve of work councils, thinking that the laborer should be able to go through the books of the firm. His statement as to the pay of the 25 cents per hour received by government employees was disputed by the commission, it being stated that from $5 to 40 cents was now being paid. Mr. Melvin also said that few of the workmen in the city owned their own homes. There was much unemployment in the city both in skilled and unskilled labor. The total number out of employment he placed at 1,500 and said that it was always greater in the summer than in the winter owing to the port work closing, and that a large number were returned soldiers. The majority of them wished to work not to rest on discharge pay. Mr. Melvin, when asked regarding the length of the building season here, said it was confined to the summer months. Housing conditions were very poor and poverty considerable and rent high, very little building having been done in the last few years. He considered the wages in St. John were in comparison with those in the rest of the Dominion. That of his own trade as wire-drawer in the Maritime Mill Works, he said, was from $4 to $5 for a nine-hour day. He did piece-work and received on an average $8.50. He gave the prices of food in St. John to show that the cost of living was high and told the commission that many women were employed in the city at very low wages, some waitresses receiving only $5.00 and working till 11 or 12 o'clock at night four nights a week. He said there was no minimum wage scale in St. John, but he was in favor of its establishment by the Dominion government. He said wages had not gone up in proportion to the cost of living in the city though they were 10 per cent. more now than in 1918, and that there was more poverty now, which he believed would be relieved by higher wages. He had no personal knowledge of a returned soldier being refused employment and did not know as to the scarcity of farm labor. The chairman said that in Moncton farmlabor was scarce, but that the unemployed were not willing to go to farms. W. K. Ganong. W. K. Ganong, manager of the Corona candy factory, was the next to give his views. He said he employed 150 hands, of whom three-fifths were girls, that he had taken on some returned soldiers and each week engaged a few more girls. Last year he employed 160 and could increase his staff to 250. He thought there would be no difficulty in getting help. There had been no strikes in his factory and wages had been raised voluntarily, though the company had not yet paid a dividend. The lowest wages he paid men was from $12 to $15 per week which, he admitted, was not a living wage. The minimum wage of $5 which he paid to women, he said, was fixed at that figure because of the amount of candy that the beginners ate and that those who learned in his employ for more than two or three weeks were given an increase. Skilled girls averaged $10 per week and the highest paid girls were receiving $18. The hours of work were, he said eight hours daily for the women and six for the men. He had at least three-quarters of the girls lived at home. Mr. Ganong said it had been reckoned that $25,000 worth of candy was consumed by the help in the St. Stephen candy factory. He said he had never considered the establishment of an industrial council and that he believed there was comparatively little labor unrest in the city though the shortage of houses and the high cost of living were causing some discontent. He thought an embargo on the export of food commodities would make the cost of living higher.

James Christie, of the Christie Wood Working Company, was heard after Mr. Ganong, and said he employed between sixty and seventy people constantly, and found skilled labor scarce while unskilled labor was plentiful, unemployment being chiefly in this class of labor. Replying to a question he said there was very little unrest among his employes or generally throughout the city. His men were not organized and were receiving fifty-four and fifty-two and a half cents per hour for skilled labor and forty cents per hour for unskilled. He said skilled mechanics in the building trade received higher wages than his skilled mechanics, but the building trade lasted only six or seven months and though some did winter port work others depended on their summer earnings for an income. The $15 to $17 which he paid, he admitted was not a living wage for married men but said competition prevented his increasing it. He thought an industrial board would help solve this difficulty to a limited extent, and said his men were greatly interested in the welfare of the business, and had removed safety appliances recommended by the inspector, saying they interfered with work. Having said housing conditions were poor, he was asked if he thought modern houses were of a higher standard than old ones, and he said they were. He estimated the cost of a lot in the vicinity of the city at from $400 to $800 and the cost of erecting a house of six rooms at $3,000.

Mr. Christie said he was in favor of old age pensions but that the worker would pay for them in the end. Questioned as to his views on an eight-hour day, he said it would shorten the output of his business and that Canada could not expect to compete on an equal basis with the old country if she had an eight-day while a nine-hour day was used there. He stated that the introduction of improved machinery had not placed much help and had increased production. He did not consider that the improved machinery brought greater fatigue as it was not hard labor to feed his machines and extra help was put on if needed. He said an eight-hour day would force him to import more doors and that he would get them from Canada though Boston offered better prices. He did not think the cheaper rates for doors in the west was due to Chinese labor but rather to the proximity of the raw material. C. H. Stevens, cigar maker in the employ of J. Kemp, was called upon next and said the factory in which he worked was the only one of its kind in the province and had between twenty-five and twenty-eight hands. He thought there was considerable industrial unrest in the city, wages low and factory conditions deplorable. The female labor situation, he said, was specially bad, and many girls earned so little in their nine or ten and a half hour day that they had to do night work besides. In referring to the charges made against the Courtney Bay works for not employing soldiers, he said he knew of an instance of a soldier being discharged without cause. He favored the minimum wage especially for females, and said that there was a large number of teamsters in the city who were working for from $10 to $14 a week for a nine to ten and a half day week. The presence of great unrest was easily proved, in his opinion, and was due to low wages and excessive cost of living. It first made itself felt about six months ago. He thought government legislation doing away with profitters and an eight-hour day was also needed to quiet the unrest. Question, Mr. Stevens said the eight-hour day was already in use for builders, typographers and cigarmakers in the city.

Housing Bad.

P. C. Sharkey, representing the Trades and Labor Council, gave his profession as wharfinger, and gave as what he regarded the chief cause of unrest, the high cost of living; the fact that workmen believe this is due to profiteering hours of work, and speeding up of machinery. Asked what a stevedore's wages were, he said sixty cents per hour averaging $2 to $2.50 per week for the year round. He also spoke of the poor housing conditions and the prevalence of poverty especially amongst those who were too proud to speak of it.

Lack Representation.
J. P. Murphy, of the James Pender Company Limited, mill manufacturer, said he was a machinist by trade and that he considered the government was not properly representative of the people. It was said that ninety-five per cent of the children of St. John belonged to the working class and the school board had no representative on the school board. He knew many children of sixteen that were competent to do the work of a man. The commission asked if some of the extra money did not go to interest on shop investment.

knowing the actual state of the market. He said further that labor should receive the benefit of the speeding up of machinery to lessen the taxes of the working classes. He did not think more employment had been given through the speeding up of machinery but that labor had been congregated around the suggested government embargo on food-stuffs as likely to improve industrial unrest and it was pointed out to him that this would probably close the winter port and would be resented by the farmers. He then admitted that it was more essential to limit the profits of the middleman than of the producer and that the present machinery of the unions was able to cope with all industrial unrest. He thought better feeling could be established between employers and employees if representatives of the men, were chosen by the union rather than by the men and that the embargo on the situation had hindered it, the natural tendency of labor being to organize. He declared the antipathy to labor organization to be very strong in St. John.

Work Uncertain.
J. A. Grant, general contractor of the firm of Grant & Horne, was the next to present the employer's side to the commission. He said he employed about 300 men and purchased one-third of his building materials locally. Asked what his men were unskilled and though it had been hard to get men during the war, at the present time he favored the present considerable unemployment both of skilled and unskilled labor. He himself employed 200 men but lacked construction because of the uncertainty of the times. The men which he paid were, from forty-five to sixty-five cents for skilled labor, according to the man's ability and production and from forty to forty-five cents for unskilled, and he also said that there was no unrest amongst his men with respect to his always personal communications.

Mr. Grant said much labor unrest was caused by the fear of unemployment. He thought in St. John the cost of living was lower than those in Montreal or Toronto, and favored the wage commission though he did not advocate unemployment insurance. He declared himself emphatically in favor of the present pension and sick insurance with state care of the child's health and recommended the adjustment of wages according to the cost of living. He said that the basic rate could be fixed by joint agreement between the trade unions and the industrial committee in negotiating disputes but that unorganized labor and men outside the unions should have the same opportunities and should be considered equally with union men and favored by the men having always found them reasonable. He, however, said that the men found in the investigation of the high cost of living and suggested boycotting and cutting of rates.

Men Are Incited.
J. D. Palmer, of the John Palmer Company, shoe manufacturers, Frederick, spoke on behalf of the employers saying that his employees averaged 145 of which fifty were women, the lowest wages he paid to boys and young men were from $12 to $15 per week for unskilled labor and his skilled labor ranged from $20 to $30. He considered unrest to be due to the high cost of living and to the spreading of incorrect information tending to excite and intensify this unrest by some of the newspapers. He brought with him a clipping in which boot manufacturers were described as making a profit of thirty per cent whereas five per cent would be reckoned a very good profit. He said his trade was in Frederick, Md., and that the advance in the price of boots and shoes was mainly due to rise in price of material. He said that the increased price of labor effected the boot trade to so great an extent. Describing labor conditions in Frederick, Mr. Palmer said there was plenty of work and no unrest and that though there was a security of houses, the value of the goods of good variety. The commission stated that in Montreal between sixty and sixty-five per cent of the working people owned their own houses.

Mr. Palmer said he was opposed to collective bargaining and that better arranged by the employer and employee individually. He thought that labor unrest was to be found in greater production and not in reduction of hours; that industrial education should be inaugurated for the boys and girls and that the school age should be raised from this age being undesirable. He was asked if he was aware of the fact that some of the extra money ever finished these courses.

labor he could get and did not think there was much unemployment and that capital was as unretentive as labor. In his own business he had to speculate a year ahead and he did not mind increasing wages if there was a chance of getting it back in increased prices. Asked what his employees would do if he was forced to close down he said he could not be responsible for them. He showed that in lumbering, fishing and like industries the eight hour day was imposed owing to the nature of the work and the exigencies of the season. He also said he considered a day of longer hours more remunerative for other work and the nature and severity of the work. He considered the wage he was paying his unskilled men $3.50 for the week and $40 for the month in the year a fair one; favored old age pensions and spoke well of the operation of the workmen's compensation act. He did not consider full time indemnity on time lost should be given, though admitting

STOMACH TROUBLE
It Neutralizes Stomach Acidity, Prevents Food Fermentation, Sour, Gassy Stomach and Acid Indigestion.
Doubtless if you are a sufferer from indigestion you have either tried peppermint, bismuth, soda, charcoal, drugs and various digestive aids, and you know these things will not cure, some troubling in some cases do not even give relief. But before giving up hope and deciding you are a chronic dyspeptic just try the effect of a little bisulphate of magnesia—not the ordinary commercial carbonate, citrate, oxide or milk, but the pure bisulphate of magnesia which you can obtain from practically any druggist in either powder or tablet form. Take a teaspoonful of the powder or two compressed tablets with a little water after your next meal, and see what a difference this makes. It will instantly neutralize the dangerous, harmful acid in the stomach which now makes your food to ferment and sour, making gas, flatulence, heartburn and the bladder or heavy, lumpy feeling that seems to follow most everything you eat. You will find that provided you take a little bisulphate of magnesia immediately after a meal, you can eat almost anything and enjoy the food to the full. Moreover, the continued use of the bisulphate of magnesia can injure the skin, does not dry away long, and there are any symptoms of acid indigestion.

Weak, Sickly Folks
Regain Health Quickly
By New Remedy!

A BLOOD FOOD NOW MANUFACTURED THAT ACCOMPLISHES MARVELS.
Lots of people that were thin and miserable for years have recently been restored by this simple treatment. All you have to do is take two little chocolate-caramel tablets with a sip of water at the close of each meal. The tablets, which, by the way, are called "Ferezzone," are in reality a perfect food for the blood. They contain exactly those elements your blood lacks when it becomes thin, weak, and unhealthy. This is just the time to use Ferezzone; it excites splendid appetite, gives digestion, and supplies nourishment for all weak organs. At once you feel buoyant and strong. Nutritious blood courses through veins, supplies strength, makes you tingle with animation and ambition. No more aching joints. No more that tired languor. You feel like doing things because Ferezzone completely restores the healthfulness and comfort of a house, most materially, but unless a dwelling possesses each of the three foregoing, it cannot be regarded as properly habitable. The dryness of a house depends mainly upon two things: First, its construction, relating principally to its foundations and walls, and secondly, its drainage, which, in towns, depends chiefly upon what we know as plumbing and sewerage. As respects the first, the meaning will be made plain by saying that it is the water and moisture that come up into a house rather than the water that may come down through a leaky roof, that constitutes the greatest menace. The latter, had as it is, in its very nature intermittent, partial, that is, in spots, and above all, is obvious. Because it can be so easily seen it can be guarded against, and the repair of a leaking roof is a simple and inexpensive task when compared with that of making a badly constructed house proof against ground moisture. It will be readily seen, therefore, that the hygienic qualities of a house very largely depend upon its foundations. The very site counts for a good deal. If it be naturally wet or damp, it should be carefully drained before a stone or brick of the foundation is laid. If it be located in a saucer-shaped depression, merely a gutter practically impossible, it should be abandoned as a house site and devoted to some other purpose. These remarks may seem trite and commonplace but the writer has seen scores of houses, comparatively new, and otherwise of very good construction, situated precisely in the centre of such a depression, and has seen important many times, of course in vain, to propose an easy and ready remedy. Indeed, in towns, especially, where the water table is high, the house against the ground water seems to be the last to be thought of, in many instances the walls of a house should be laid with concrete, well fronted with asphalt, so as to render it impervious to moisture, and the foundation walls, well below the level of the surrounding ground, should be provided with a carefully laid damp-proof layer. This damp-proof layer should be composed of material absolutely impervious to water, such as asphalt, bitumen, or prepared glass. Another such layer should be placed in the foundation walls a foot or so above the ground level. All ordinary stone, brick walls, and wood, of course, readily conducts water upward by reason of their porous qualities, and this moisture, if unobstructed, will reach the very top of the house walls. In many instances it will not be obvious, but it nevertheless is present, and the menace to health from dampness is in rough proportion to the quantity present. It is well known that an ordinary brick will absorb and retain a very considerable amount of water and if we multiply this amount several thousands of times some notion of the quantity of water that can ordinarily be held by the walls of an ordinary house will be had. These precautions are the first and fundamental ones against dampness in houses. The others concern the plumbing and the sewerage. The first is that the sewer pipes should be as for instance in a small self-contained house, intended only for one family, or for a menage house, one or two, they should be absolutely perfect in construction, and the complete conveyance of liquid, without leakage, is concerned. And from the menace to health from sewer gas, which will not be obvious, but it nevertheless is present, and the danger created by it has the same evil effect as dampness in houses from any other cause.

Old age pensions were also favored by Mr. Sugrue who said the money now spent on charitable organizations would pay for the pensions. He thought state aid might supplement the pensions to a considerable extent. F. W. Thompson, a fruit farm worker, spoke of the need of more freedom of the press and against suppression of the press on economic and social issues essential to the workingman's understanding of his position. A. A. Searle, a commission traveller in business for himself, said the present social system was entirely wrong and proposed that the factory which he had worked classes be given a place in the government. A. A. Searle, unemployed and recently discharged from the St. John Iron Works, said he considered his discharge was due to his attempt to organize the workers in that factory which he had accomplished. He said that an increase of ten per cent granted last August made the present wages in the factory fifty cents for skilled labor and thirty to thirty-five for unskilled for a nine hour day.

AN ENEMY OF WOMANHOOD
The complexion, digestion and almost the complete personality of a woman are her great enemies, as they cause bad complexion, dark circles under the eyes, headache, backache, nervousness, sleeplessness, dragging-down pains and the blues, and often totally unfit for her duties. The great American remedy for such conditions is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which has been restoring the generations of alluring women to health, and may be relied upon with perfect confidence.

UNITED STATES
KEEPS ENEMY SHIPS
All enemy ships seized and interned in the United States when on the side of the Allies will remain in the possession of this country, according to information communicated by President Wilson to officials in Washington. This means that the content of the delegates from this country to the Peace Conference has finally prevailed over the proposal of those from Great Britain. The latter urged that all of the seized vessels be pooled and distributed among the nations associated against Germany on the basis of tonnage lost through attacks by enemy submarines, while the Americans insisted that giving the German ships to this country would be but a fair recognition of its services in the war, and that the vessels were needed as a part of the merchant marine sought to be developed here. They certainly will constitute a welcome addition to our resources for overseas transportation, comprising, as they do, a total of over 700,000 tons. Of course, their value represents but a small fraction of the expense to this country was put in the course of its participation in the struggle. The announcement has been made simultaneously by the United States last year will be restored to Holland in the latter's ports probably within ninety days, with the exception of two which are being used as transports.—Bradstreet's.

Public Health; HOUSING NOTES

(N. B. Department of Health.)
No more important question exists in public health work than housing, in severe climates like our own, where so large an amount of time must be spent within doors because of the weather, it assumes its largest proportions. In warm or tropical climates the situation is quite different. In places so situated a great portion of family life is spent out of doors, and the problems of public health in such countries, although no less formidable than in our own, make on aspects differing greatly from those with which we are confronted. It is not difficult to indicate the essential or minimum qualities which a dwelling should possess in order that it be fairly habitable and not a menace to the health of its inmates. The qualities can be reduced to but three. In the order of their importance they are: (1) Dryness. (2) Sufficient light. (3) Sufficient space. A very large number of other qualities, of wide variety, will add to the healthfulness and comfort of a house, most materially, but unless a dwelling possesses each of the three foregoing, it cannot be regarded as properly habitable. The dryness of a house depends mainly upon two things: First, its construction, relating principally to its foundations and walls, and secondly, its drainage, which, in towns, depends chiefly upon what we know as plumbing and sewerage. As respects the first, the meaning will be made plain by saying that it is the water and moisture that come up into a house rather than the water that may come down through a leaky roof, that constitutes the greatest menace. The latter, had as it is, in its very nature intermittent, partial, that is, in spots, and above all, is obvious. Because it can be so easily seen it can be guarded against, and the repair of a leaking roof is a simple and inexpensive task when compared with that of making a badly constructed house proof against ground moisture. It will be readily seen, therefore, that the hygienic qualities of a house very largely depend upon its foundations. The very site counts for a good deal. If it be naturally wet or damp, it should be carefully drained before a stone or brick of the foundation is laid. If it be located in a saucer-shaped depression, merely a gutter practically impossible, it should be abandoned as a house site and devoted to some other purpose. These remarks may seem trite and commonplace but the writer has seen scores of houses, comparatively new, and otherwise of very good construction, situated precisely in the centre of such a depression, and has seen important many times, of course in vain, to propose an easy and ready remedy. Indeed, in towns, especially, where the water table is high, the house against the ground water seems to be the last to be thought of, in many instances the walls of a house should be laid with concrete, well fronted with asphalt, so as to render it impervious to moisture, and the foundation walls, well below the level of the surrounding ground, should be provided with a carefully laid damp-proof layer. This damp-proof layer should be composed of material absolutely impervious to water, such as asphalt, bitumen, or prepared glass. Another such layer should be placed in the foundation walls a foot or so above the ground level. All ordinary stone, brick walls, and wood, of course, readily conducts water upward by reason of their porous qualities, and this moisture, if unobstructed, will reach the very top of the house walls. In many instances it will not be obvious, but it nevertheless is present, and the menace to health from dampness is in rough proportion to the quantity present. It is well known that an ordinary brick will absorb and retain a very considerable amount of water and if we multiply this amount several thousands of times some notion of the quantity of water that can ordinarily be held by the walls of an ordinary house will be had. These precautions are the first and fundamental ones against dampness in houses. The others concern the plumbing and the sewerage. The first is that the sewer pipes should be as for instance in a small self-contained house, intended only for one family, or for a menage house, one or two, they should be absolutely perfect in construction, and the complete conveyance of liquid, without leakage, is concerned. And from the menace to health from sewer gas, which will not be obvious, but it nevertheless is present, and the danger created by it has the same evil effect as dampness in houses from any other cause.

Specks Floating Before His Eyes
When specks start to float before the eyes, when everything turns black for a few seconds and you feel as if you were going to faint, you may rest assured that your liver is not working properly. The essential thing to do in all cases where the liver is slow, lazy or torpid, is to stir it up by the use of a medicine that will clear away all the waste and poisonous matter from the system, and prevent as well as cure all the troubles arising from this accumulated mass which has collected in the system. Keep the bowels open by using Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills and you will have no liver trouble of any kind. They will clear away all the waste and effete matter which has collected and make the liver active and working properly. Mr. John R. Morrison, Grand River Falls, N. S., writes: "Several months ago I was troubled with a sour stomach, and had specks floating before my eyes. I took five vials of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills which cured and cleared my blood before any length of time. I told my friends about it and they got some, and they, too, find themselves different since they took them. I recommend your pills very highly." of early potatoes, the sprouts of which were nearly two inches long, were set back some time by the frost. They will not be a total loss, however, as there were only some of the plants above ground and in the case of those which were already up other sprouts from the same root are still to come. The frost nevertheless will occasion considerable delay.

Marr, also a member of the district and who for seven years has, with much credit, been the field secretary in the province of Alberta for the Canadian Bible Society, addressed the district. He was given a very cordial greeting by the district, and in his address he spoke of the great promise of the west, his lure for the east, and the big place the Bible Society ought to have in the after-war period. He will return west.

One minister of the district died during the year, Rev. G. M. Campbell, D. D. A fitting tribute to the late Dr. Campbell was read by Rev. H. A. Goodwin. This memorial was recommended to be presented to the conference for the official records.

There have been five superannuated or two circuits, because of this increased allowance, were much below the standard. Two circuits, Silver Falls and Apohqui, were recommended to the consideration of the sustentation fund for grants.

A decision on the readjustment of circuits called out remarks on the want of wisdom in the unpromising policy of maintaining church work that could be carried on as well with a less expenditure of men and money. Fewer churches and union of small congregations is a Christian policy.

Rev. J. B. Gough was elected to represent the district on the conference stationing committee, and Rev. N. McLaughlin was elected alternate.

The laymen of the district elected the following delegates to the N. B. and P. E. I. conference to be convened in Sackville next week. Chief Justice McKeown, Frank Merrill, J. A. Kennedy, A. J. HIGH PRICES OF PAINTS
MAKES PAINTING LOOK

The high cost of white lead and paint is making painting a serious problem for a number of residents this season. With the boys coming home and the holidays about to break upon us with their visitors, it will mean a lot if the old homes look their best.

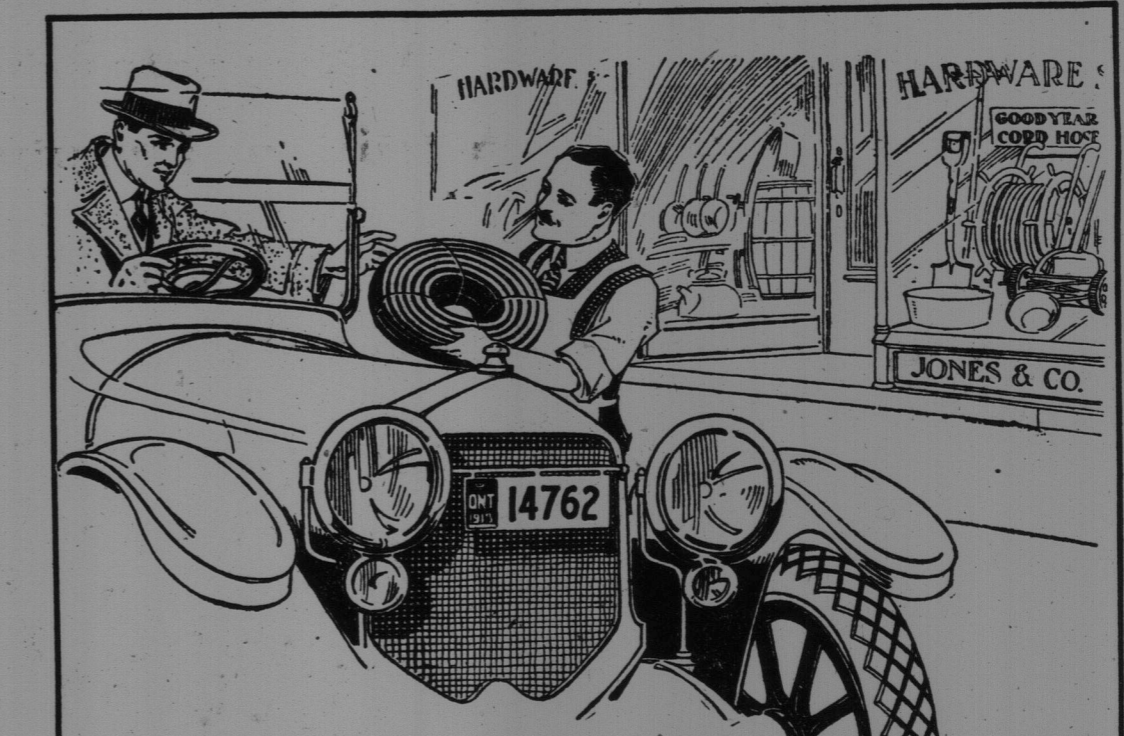

What is more depressing than a faded, washed-out looking house? The inside of a home can be made so much brighter by the application of a little paint that it seems a great pity if the work has to be neglected, just because that "little paint" costs more than a whole lot of paint would have cost a few years ago.

There is a way, though, to cut the cost of painting in half. In inside painting especially, the grease that accumulates on the woodwork has required more than one coat to cover it up. If that grease was removed the paint would go on smoothly, and one coat would be sufficient to give a clean, bright finish to the woodwork. A thorough wash with a solution of water in which Snowflake Ammonia has been dissolved will remove grease from all surfaces that are to be painted or varnished, giving a much finer finish to the work and requiring much less paint. The same can be applied to outside painting. The Snowflake Ammonia wash will remove the dirt with less difficulty than the grease. Snowflake can be obtained from all grocers.—Advt.

G. W. V. A. TO HAVE BAND.

At the meeting of the G. W. V. A. on Tuesday evening, several matters of importance were discussed and a number of committees were formed, including an employment committee, whose duty it is to ascertain what labor vacancies there are and to see that St. John men fill them. A publicity committee and a committee, whose object it is to organize a G. W. V. A. band, were also formed. It was decided that he G. W. V. A. should form a guard of honor for the 44th Battalion, with Major William Vassie, M.C., in command and Sergeant Frame, secretary of the G. W. V. A., as marshal. The association also endorsed the resolution passed by the Fort William branch, requesting action on the part of the government, with reference to an investigation into the high cost of living. Joseph McNamara, physical director of the Y. M. C. I., was present at the meeting and his suggestion that the G. W. V. A. co-operate with the Y. M. C. I. in their sports yesterday, was heartily approved and it was resolved to adopt it.

L. R. Ross left last evening for Montreal, where today he will attend the wedding of his daughter, Miss Audrey, who is to become the bride of Captain James Dickenson of Windsor (Ont.). They will make their future home in Windsor. Many St. John friends will extend congratulations.

HEAD OF I. W. W. IS TAKEN AFTER FIGHT

Police Discover in Buffalo School of Instruction in Making and Using Bombs.

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 3—Robert Johnson, president of the I. W. W. organization here, and internationally known as a radical agitator, was arrested after a fight with detectives and agents of the Department of Justice, in a downtown office building this noon. Johnson opened fire on the detectives with a revolver, when they opened the door of the I. W. W. headquarters on the third floor of the building with a key taken from a suspect arrested in connection with the bomb explosions here last night. Several bullets passed through the clothes of the detectives, but no one was injured. Johnson was overpowered and taken to police headquarters. A quantity of anarchistic literature was found in his office.

Police Make Find.
 Buffalo, N. Y., June 3—A school for instruction in the manufacture and use of bombs has been discovered here, the Buffalo police believe. No arrests have been made, but a number of drawings, alleged to be designs of internal machines, have been seized.

Police Chief Higgins said today as a result of the inquiry by detectives and Department of Justice agents guards have been placed at Mayor Buck's residence and extra detectives and police have been detailed to the City Hall.

URGENT CALL TO PRAYER.

To all Methodist ministers and congregations: Every Canadian citizen must regard with serious misgivings the fact that industrial unrest apparently tends to pass over into conflict. The decision of our general conference requires us as a church to advocate industrial peace only in so far as it is based on improved social organization. But this movement for improved social organization is based on spiritual ideals, and in consequence it is most important that the whole situation be taken up into the life of prayer and interpreted in terms of prayer.

Therefore this request is sent to every minister of our church (similar requests being issued in other communions) that the yearning for industrial harmony, based on social justice, be given full expression in the worship of each congregation at the earliest possible opportunity. Trusting that the offering of collective prayer in all our congregations may further unify of thought and action.

Yours faithfully,
 T. ALBERT MOORE,
 Secty Genl. Conference.

It starts with the selection of Coal at the mine. The quality from all mines varies, some being good, others indifferent or very poor. At a cost of thousands of dollars and careful investigation, we have learned the best and most reliable sources of supply; and with this knowledge our Service begins.

Again, we place at your command, a large stock, comprising all sizes of Coal, at all seasons of the year. True, we can serve you more cheaply in summer than in winter, but, think of the convenience of our all-the-year-round Service.

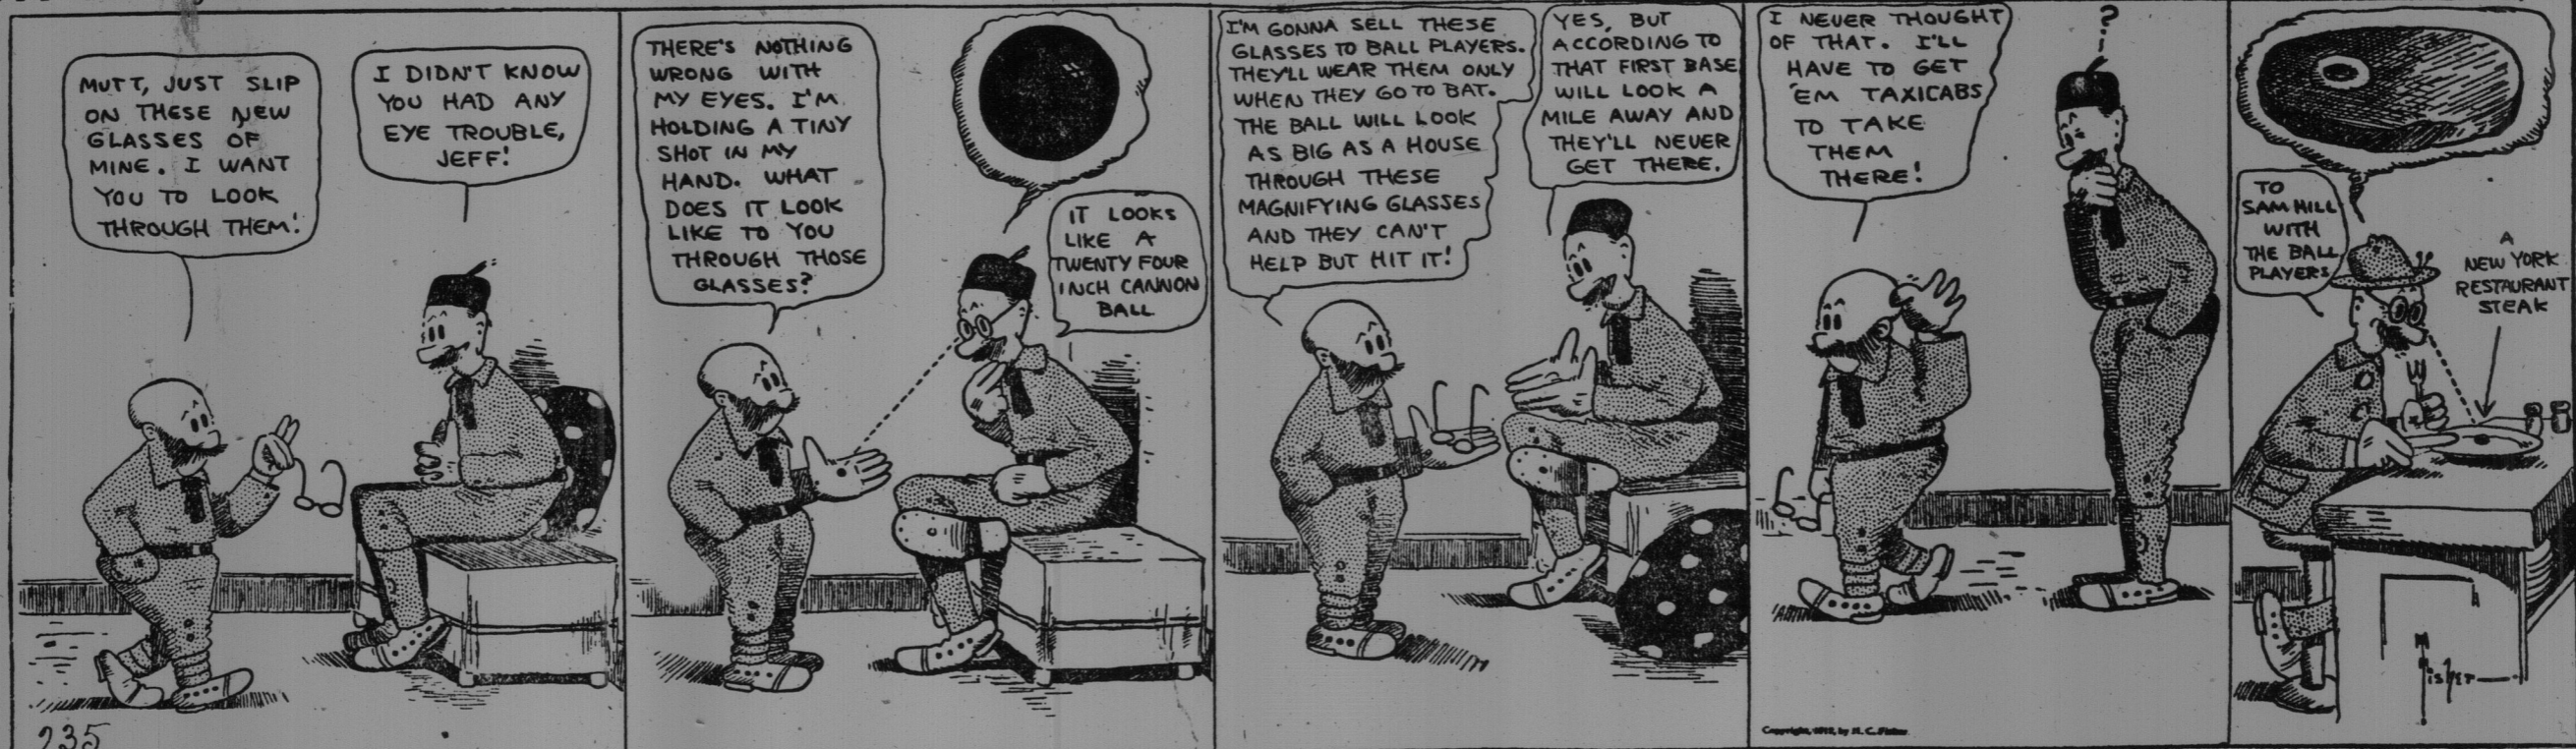

Our facilities for taking the "raw" Coal, as it comes from vessels or cars, and screening out the slack and dust, so detrimental to a good fire, and giving it to you in absolutely the best condition, is another part of our Service.

Sidelights On Sport

Alexander has at last hit his stride and won his first game of the season on Monday when he shut out Pittsburgh. He will in all probability continue pitching good ball until the close of the season. The Giants increased their lead in the championship race Monday by winning a double-header. They dropped their third game of the series with the Phillies yesterday when Schupp was driven from the box. Chicago is working hard to close in on the first division teams in the National League and will in all probability be a strong contender. They are now winning a large percentage of their games. Detroit is ahead in the series with the White Sox and has given the leaders their first setback. The pitching staff of the Tigers are working better and the team is winning from the leading clubs. Toronto has dropped into second place in the International League race as a result of dropping a game to Binghamton on Monday. Baltimore is now out in front by a small margin.

The sports at Moosepath Park yesterday attracted a large crowd. Echo Todd won the free-for-all and Baron A. the match race. The various athletic events were well contested and show that there is talent in this city if it was properly developed. P. Ryan and Joe McNamara are proving factors in reviving sport. Tuff fans throughout the province are anxiously awaiting the opening of the circuit on July 1. Some good fast racing is anticipated as the best horses in the country are entered. The interscholastic championship athletic meet is to take place at Robbsey College on Saturday and is being awaited with interest not only by the local high school boys and girls, but by many citizens. High school should make a good showing this year, despite the fact that they are handicapped by the loss of two of their best men. Tom Longboat is back in Toronto and says he is ready to appear on the track again. He would receive a grand ovation if he ever appears in his spiked shoes again for he has proven himself a good fighter as well as a runner.

LOTTIE AXWORTHY PURCHASED BY NOVA SCOTIA HORSEMAN Said to be One of the Handsomest Trotters in the World (Glace Bay Gazette.) One of the best bred and handsomest trotting mares in the world is now owned by William Curry, King Edward street, who during a visit recently to the Merrill Stock Farm in Danvers, Mass., bought the mare, Lottie Axworthy, at a price that is a record one for Nova Scotia horsemen. Lottie Axworthy is now in Mr. Curry's stables. She is a handsome bay mare, standing 15.3 hands, and a glance through her pedigree shows that she is "bred in the purple." Sired by the wonderful young sire Morgan Axworthy 47489, 217, sire of 35, including Cum Laude (3), 2:09 1/2, Millard Castle 2:09 1/4, Eloise B. Merrill, proprietor of the Merrill Stock Farm, said that Lottie Axworthy was one of the fastest, best bred and handsomest trotters in the world. "I have been selling good race horses for the past thirty years," said Mr. Merrill, "and have sold more trotters and pacers that have made good at the races and taken past records than any man living or dead. RELATION OF BRITAIN TO DOMINIONS

Lord Milner Believes British Empire May Yet Form a Permanent Association of Great Powers Under a Single Head

Manchester, England, June 2.—Lord Milner, secretary of state for the colonies, delivered two speeches on the relations of the mother country with the self-governing dominions and the Empire's industrial wealth, at Manchester recently. The first was on the occasion of a luncheon given by the Manchester branch of the Royal Colonial Institute. The relations of the self-governing dominions with the mother country had, said Lord Milner, for years past been undergoing a great transformation, which was now almost complete. The almost boundless potentialities of the Empire's future growth filled him with something like awe. In this war the dominions had played a big part as any but the greatest powers. They were entitled to look forward to a future in which they themselves would be great powers. Yet they desired—and this was the country's unparalleled good fortune—to remain within the Empire. If the desire was fulfilled the world would see for the first time a permanent association of a number of great powers under a single head. It would be, and it was already in fact, a League of Nations, whether or not it was embraced in a greater league, and it possessed a moral unity which that greater league, if it came into existence, had still to acquire. For the ties which bound together the members of the British League of Nations were no work of artifice; they were a natural growth, the work of time. The Anomalous Colonial Office. This was the position in fact, but the realities of the case were somewhat obscured by antiquated forms. The dominions were in no sense under the Colonial Office, which was simply the channel through which the real parties who were the governments of the dominions and the government of the United Kingdom, transacted their business. In ordinary circumstances that arrangement worked very well, but it was certainly anomalous that a department which really governed Nigeria and Hong-Kong, should concern itself with the dominions, which they did not pretend to govern at all. When the time came, as it must come very soon, for the relations of their government departments to be overhauled and their work rearranged on some logical basis, this and many other anachronisms would disappear. In the meantime one great and far-reaching change had taken place in the undivided constitution of the empire. He referred to the presence of the dominion prime ministers in the Imperial War Cabinet. The War Cabinet would come to an end with the end of the war, but he sincerely hoped that the practice of dominion ministers sitting side by side with British ministers to deal with all matters which were of common concern to the United Kingdom and the dominions would never come to an end. The present arrangement, though created to meet an emergency, had been an unqualified success. It was founded on a true basis and corresponded to the actual realities of the case. The complaint of the dominions that they had no share in the conduct of the policy of the empire was justified. The Imperial War Cabinet was a device to meet the complaint, and it served its purpose. The share which the dominion ministers had taken in the direction of the war policy had been a real share and every one who wished to see the continuance of the British League of Nations must desire that the dominions should continue to have a real share in peace in the conduct of matters which affected them as much as Great Britain, such as foreign policy, defense, inter-imperial trade, and communications. Must Act as One Power. No amount of affection and good will between the several states would enable the British Empire to exercise its proper influence in the world—and it was a beneficent and a pacific influence—unless they maintained the means of planning and of acting together as one power. On the other hand, it was equally true that no machinery whatsoever, no cabinet, nor council, nor conference, could avail unless they preserved the moral unity of the empire. They must cultivate what he had ventured to call the wider patriotism, the sense of their common citizenship in this superstate, by every means in their power. They must strive to strengthen and to multiply those invisible but all-powerful bonds. It was from this point of view, continued Lord Milner, that, speaking for himself he attached so much importance to the question of imperial preference. The word preference awakened the memory of old political controversies which, in the course of time, grew exceedingly tiresome. He wished they could bury those old controversies and look at the question from a wider point of view. It has been too much discussed," Lord Milner proceeded, "as if it was merely a question of tariffs. It is common ground that every part of the Empire should decide for itself to have as much or as little tariff as it pleases; but in my opinion it is only right and natural that your tariff should fall more lightly upon Empire goods than upon foreign goods. That is the view taken by the dominions and that is the view taken by every country in the world which has overseas possessions, including, more especially, the United States. But if there were no such thing as a tariff the principle of preference would still hold good, for the idea at the root of it is that we are a family, a family of nations, and that in all our policy and dealings the interest of a family should come first. I maintain that it is not necessary that because an Englishman believes, as I myself believe, from the bottom of my heart, in fair dealing between nations and in essential solidarity of all human interests, he should therefore go in for a waxy internationalism and pretend to care as much about the welfare of Paraguay and Bolivia as he does about the welfare of Canada, South Africa, Australia and New Zealand."

PURITY - QUALITY - ECONOMY With the increased cost of labor and materials due to war conditions, it is not reasonable to suppose that a really first class baking powder can be made and sold at the old prices. Rather than sacrifice the quality of MAGIC BAKING POWDER we found it necessary to make slight increases in price during the war period. Even though Magic Baking Powder may cost a few cents more than the ordinary kinds it is still by far the most economical baking powder on the market to-day when purity, strength and leavening qualities are taken into consideration.
