To Victory Bond Holders

Victory Bonds have never sold so high as at the present time. Many who hold Victory Bonds would improve their investment position by taking advantage of these high prices and reinvesting in non-taxable Provincial Government and Municipal Bonds. Victory Bonds are subject to local taxation.

These bonds are quoted:

1923.....5 1/2.....100.60	1924.....5 1/2.....100.90
1927.....5 1/2.....102.70	1933.....5 1/2.....106.30
1934.....5 1/2.....103.00	1937.....5 1/2.....108.30

Enquiries will receive prompt attention. Better write at once as these prices are very high and may go off any day.

Miss Hildred DeLong is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norris L. DeLong of Centreville, her father being a well known hardware merchant. She is 19 years of age and is justly and truly entitled to be known as "Miss Carleton" by virtue of the pluck, courage and industry which placed her in the lead over the other contestants. All girls of Carleton were invited to compete. Three accepted the task. One of them scored highest—and she is "MISS CARLETON"!

It must not be forgotten that the other two girls were close runners-up and that all three are today the best of friends.

Contest Which Closed Yesterday Showed Miss Hildred DeLong the Safe Winner—Other Girls Highly Pleased With Cash Awards

The big "MISS CARLETON" Contest conducted by The Observer during the past four weeks came to a close at sharp 1 o'clock yesterday. The winner of the first prize, a trip to the chief Canadian cities and Niagara, went to Miss Hildred DeLong of Centreville who secured 1,214,658 points. Miss Fernie McGoldrick of Hartland came second with 997,537 points. Mrs. Fred Gray, who began work in the contest a week after the others had started secured third place with 479,290 points.

The work of checking the lists began at 1 o'clock and announcement was made of the winner at 11.20 last evening. There were present the three contestants, Col. Kennedy, representing Miss DeLong; G. W. Montgomery, representing Miss McGoldrick; B. W. Laskey as scrutineer and referee, and the president and secretary-treasurer of The Observer Newspapers, Ltd. At 6 p. m. the session adjourned and were guests of The Observer Ltd. at Hotel Carleton for supper. In all, ten hours and twenty minutes was consumed in checking over the lists, notwithstanding the hard fought nature of the contest wherein each of the three were doing her utmost to secure advantage over her opponents. The most cordial good nature reigned throughout the session yesterday afternoon and evening. When President Stevens announced Miss DeLong the winner of the first prize the other two contestants showed the good stuff they were made of when they immediately began vigorous applause of congratulations. Mr. Stevens spoke briefly of the work that all had done and of various advantages and handicaps that existed. Taken all together, the efforts of the girls were very nearly equal, but the prizes were awarded in accordance with the figures which are shown above.

Miss DeLong proved herself a modest winner and Miss McGoldrick and Mrs. Gray distinguished themselves by the grace with which they lost.

No definite announcement of secondary prizes had been given, but at the close of his remarks Mr. Stevens presented Miss McGoldrick with a $100 bill and Mrs. Gray with $75.

The contest lasted over a period of four weeks and two days. At the commencement the circulation of the paper was 2050 each week. As the result of new subscriptions gained in the four weeks the circulation of The Observer has been boosted to more than 2750 which is the largest circulation ever obtained by any newspaper north of Fredericton. Valuable features of this circulation is its concentration in the district embraced between Woodstock and Grand Falls. In this territory no other publication has so large a circulation, and The Observer is very sure that its circulation in the territory mentioned is greater than the combined circulation of its three competitors.

The Observer thanks every one who assisted the three contestants. It also informs those busybodies always present to attempt to make trouble, that some of them can scarcely realize how very close they came to making trouble for themselves.

It will take weeks to get all of the new subscriptions set in type, entered up on the filing cards and papers going smoothly. Not nearly enough of this week's issue was printed to supply everyone of the new subscribers with a copy, but it is certain that matters will be straightened out with all possible speed.

The winners have expressed themselves to The Observer in the notes below:

MR. STEVENS:

I wish to express my entire satisfaction in the manner in which the "MISS CARLETON" Contest was carried out. Of course as winner, I could not have any complaint. I was present with the other contestants during the time of checking the list and know that all was fair. Mr. Laskey as referee was in my judgment altogether fair.

HILDRED L. DeLONG

Yours very truly,

MR. STEVENS:

I sincerely wish to express my appreciation of the manner in which you carried out the "MISS CARLETON" Contest. I must say I am perfectly satisfied and I hope the others who have worked so heroically are as well pleased. Allow me also to thank those who assisted me.

Yours very truly,

FATAL FIRE AT VAN BUREN

Five Lives are Lost When Boarding House Burned on Tuesday

One of the most shocking fires we have had in this north country visited Van Buren, Maine, on Tuesday morning about two o'clock. The scene of the fire was the boarding house situated close to the B. & A. railroad station and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Madore and their seven children, and a number of boarders.

The occupants of the house had no warning of fire until the whole interior of the building was a mass of flames, and it resulted in five people losing their lives.

The names of those who were the victims are as follows, Mrs. Delphis Boychard and her two children, aged four years and eighteen months respectively. Mrs. Boychard accompanied by her children were on their way to St. Quintin for a visit, and only arrived at the boarding house the evening previous. Another one who was burned to death was a man named McCarty, who had been staying in the house for two or three weeks previous to the fire, his first name is not known, and THE OBSERVER was not able to find out his home address, as he was a particularly reticent man. His age is variously estimated at between thirty-five and forty-five. Mr. Madore, the proprietor, was badly burned and being trapped by the fire jumped from the second storey window, and died early Tuesday afternoon from the result of injuries and burns.

Names of the Injured Residents of Grand Falls

Two others injured in the fire were Paul Parent and Miss Mary Anne Rioux, who arrived there from a nearby point on Monday night, and who intended taking the train on Tuesday morning for their homes. They were removed to the Hammond House and given every attention and care. On Tuesday night a representative of THE OBSERVER was told that they were in no danger and were resting comfortably. The cause of the fire is a complete mystery, although the house was heated with stoves. The fire was confined to the interior of the house, and the walls are still standing. The fire did not spread to any other place. Much sympathy goes out to the relatives of the victims and everything possible was done to help in the tragedy which threw a gloom over the whole town. The damage is estimated roughly at $7000 and this is believed fully covered by insurance.

 EAST FLORENCEVILLE

What every complexion needs

Once every day your skin should be gently but thoroughly cleansed of all accumulations of dirt, perspiration, cold cream, rouge and powder.

Every tiny pore must be freed from clogging accumulations, so that the network of minute glands can do their necessary work. If you fail to cleanse the skin daily it will get sluggish and inactive, lifeless and sallow. Blackheads will develop, the filled up pores will enlarge into unattractive coarseness and dirt infections, irritation and pimples will result.

For this cleansing you must use a mild soap. Palmolive is made from Palm and Olive oils. For thousands of years these rare oils have been used by famous beauties. They were highly prized by Cleopatra.

Today these oils are blended to produce the most famous of all modern soaps—Palmolive. It produces a profuse creamy lather which is as smooth as a lotion. It penetrates every tiny pore and removes every trace of dirt, oil and cosmetics, leaving the skin wonderfully smooth, fresh and rosy!

You can buy Palmolive Soap at all first-class Dealers.

Palm and olive oils—nothing else—give nature's green color to Palmolive Soap.

BRISTOL SCHOOLS PAST AND PRESENT

School was held in private houses for some little time after the burning of the third school building. Charles Rogers taught a school in his own house on the Glassville road. This building stood on land now owned by George Curtis, near the Upper Dam for the four miles. Later Miss Kate Bubar taught in this school room. Another of the old time teachers was Thomas Anderson. A school was taught by Miss Kate Bubar after this in a dwelling owned at the time by James Boyer. This house is still standing at present the property of E. Drier.

Fifty years ago the discipline in Miss Bubar's school was excellent as may be proven by the following amusing incident told by one of her pupils:

The school was in session in an upper room of the house when a hen vaulted up stairs on a fine warm day and finding a nice basket of shavings, set to work to make her nest therein, and laid regularly every day unmolested by the very, very, good children.

The fourth school house was built after the passing of the Free School Act. This house was enlarged twice, frequently repaired and improved, kept well painted and in uninterrupted use for over thirty years, maintaining two departments for twenty-seven years and later three departments. SLANDER

(By G. H. H. Nase)

"Only the base believe what the base utter." Bellor.

One of the most insidious forms of unadulterated iniquity, is gossip. Gossip is usually allied with other easy virtues and invariably springs from polluted sources, aggravated by the craving, minus the opportunity, to commit acts contrary to the laws of society.

Numerous incentives might be attributed to this leathome form of mental aberration, but the three most potent are envy, malice and ignorance. Anyone afflicted with these three plagues and a well-greased tongue, can wound more hearts and blast more hopes than the greatest scourge that ever took place in the world's history.

Slander is inspired frequently by one being prevented from consummating the highest thought in their rotten minds—prostitution and invariably has some other "ulterior" motive. It wages war against common decency and it goes to the highest bidder if they are willing to pay the price. It is bartered in exchange for trivial favours, both to the blind and the seeing who stagger under its morbid influence until the light bursts in—if it ever does—and they stand aghast at the havoc they have wrought; friends alienated, brother set against brother, sister against sister, husbands and wives against each other and children against their parents. The evil still goes on unchecked, the ghoulis of today harvesting where, yesterday, the carrions spread their foul and filthy trail.

To see people branded with almost every infamy, waiting their all too short and anxious years in a vain and abortive effort to injure someone with whom they are travelling the short and tortuous path to eternity, is extremely sad. Evil begets evil, and he who sees into whose mind evil thoughts are constantly, penetrating and perpetually generating are of the evil possibly the lowest; for evil thoughts ultimately drift to evil actions.

All gossips and slanderers are branded, be they men or women; and if they think they are covering up their tracks, they are living in a fool's paradise. They bear the impress of their treachery stamped indelibly in their features or in their actions.

Pussy-footing, smacking, spying, hypocrisy, lying, backbiting and suspicion, are all serpents from the same illegitimate brood. Behind each one of these manifold tendencies lies a motive, and the motive is the lowest that can be instilled into the human heart. If some boasts the power of speech, they would possess all these attributes. Given the motive, it is easy to produce the character.

In all communities there are unsophisticated and credulous people, who swallow slander, hook and line and sinker, reverting to an old motto, "Where there's smoke, there's fire." Where there's hatred, there's malice, too; and so the proverbs are often mixed, the one substituted where the other is implied. It may be quite true there is often smoke, but there is not always the fire of infamy that blackguards are on the lookout for.

Every community has its broadcasting station and every station has some purpose to serve. Whispers are shouted from the house-tops, and mountains are made where there were only molehills.

People given to this form of lebase-ment are, without exception, mental weaklings, degenerates, or just non-entities imbued with a sense of their own importance, striving without let or hindrance to serve their own unprincipled ends. Some are fortunate—if one might use such a term in connection with characters of this kind—in making their own rotten lives, lives which are a veritable disgrace and a constant menace to any neighborhood and any society. No matter how much we may dislike such people, there is nothing to exult in. It is deplorably sad. "Be sure your sin will find you out" is just as true today as it was nineteen hundred years ago; a precept that men in their blindness fail utterly to take to heart.

The hot rank breath of gossip, like some violent poison, gnaws into the "vitals" and "sears" everything with which it comes in contact, with a venom for which there is no antidote. It has wrecked kingdoms and caused devastating wars, wrecking it cruelty to the innocent. This constant ridiculing and damning everybody and everything is nothing but a depraved habit and an infallible symptom of a disordered mind and an ill-regulated life. We have a herculean task to keep our own dooryard clean, let alone raking over somebody else's dirt. They who give credence are as a par with those who utter it, for birds of a feather are always seen in flocks. Some are so impregnated with the spirit of evil or with dirty, licentious thoughts that they see evil in everything they see or hear. They cannot possibly conceive in their non-existent minds how things should be that are, if a man or a woman steps aside from the beaten path which these pseudo-arbiters of social conduct have hewn out in their slit-like minds, they fall irretrievably. In fact their careers are an end; they are finished. It is laughable and at the same time disgusting.

There is little hope for those saturated in this form of debauchery, but chickens always come home to roost, and in the closing days of their lives when the past is over and done with, the words uttered so thoughtlessly and with such vindictive savagery, will have gone too far and sunk too deep to be recalled, and remorse to the bitter dregs will be their sole reward. If such people could only realize what they are missing in life—and life, after all, with its ups and downs, even for the most miserable, has its ray of sunshine and its need of compensation—the days would be shorter and the nights sweeter. Roses would take the place of thistles and life would have a real purpose and an abiding peace where now everything hinders and sleep is dressed and futile.

Life, at its best, is a grind from the cradle to the grave, and the man or woman who takes its victories and its defeats with humility and courage, are the ones who get the most out of it. The greatest business in the world and the one that is the least crowded is "Minding one's own business." It may be a grinding task for "meddlesome Mattys" and inquisitive male-nuisances, but it pays big dividends. It wins respect and confidence in the place of mistrust and disgust.

We are just over the threshold of the New Year and God alone knows what affliction or what blessing may be our destiny. Let us resolve to lead cleaner lives, to stop our ears and shut our mouths when whatever spirit may prompt us to speak harshly, unjustly or untruthfully. Let us "Ring out the false and ring in the true."

There are greater things to be done in our everyday life than our fellow-men; greater and more humane legislation to be cut into our tablets of law if we are striving for a country that is mighty and which God will make mightier yet. To her statesman and lawgivers; to her manhood and womanhood, is entrusted a great responsibility, and much shall be required of them, for each individual's actions whether they are on the throne or in the mart, leaves its impress on the annals of the nation. Whether our emolument be great, our fame lasting, or whether we have but an eye to simple duty, it is given us to fashion and weave the warp and woof in the loom of nationhood into a beautiful texture. Each day, if it comes fresh from the hands of the Creator brings us to another milestone on the journey to eternity, to be wrought with sacrifice and noble deeds or wrecked with avarice and misuse. What are we weaving and what shall the web be? In the weaving let us not forget that—

We rise by the things that are under our feet, By what we have mastered of greed and gain; By the pride deposited and the passion slain. And the vanquished ills that we hourly meet.

ON TO GRAND FALLS

Seldom has any proposal submitted to the Legislature of this Province met with so favorable reception as that of yesterday relating to the development of Grand Falls. The reason is plain. The development of Manuash power and the knowledge that the current from Grand Falls can be transmitted if necessary 350 miles to serve the needs of the people and that also that it can be linked up with half a dozen or more smaller to run around and intersect the Express with transmission lines, has seized the imagination of the people and given them a vision of the incalculable benefits to be derived from cheap light and power. They do not expect the work to be done all at once but they want a beginning made as will ensure continuous development. Hon. E. A. Smith, chairman of the New Brunswick Electric Power Commission expresses the view that there is already in sight a sufficient market to warrant the beginning of work at Grand Falls. The Opposition may be expected to urge that the Government proceed with caution and the mouthpieces of the New Brunswick Power Company which opposes public ownership and would have to see the prospects of corporation profits vanish, will have much to say about the folly of a province embarking upon such a policy; but it is only necessary to point to Ontario and to the best of cheap light and power for provincial development and they are answered. The people of the northern part of the province have the full sympathy of those of the southern part in this campaign. Every citizen of New Brunswick is a shareholder in this great enterprise of power at cost, and stands to benefit by the early prosecution of the policy. What it will mean in the development of pulp and paper mills and other large as well as numerous small industries cannot easily be over-estimated, or what it will mean to the farmer and the householder. We have been losing population instead of retaining it. Industrial development will help to stop that, and also to give the farmer a better market. With courageous leadership the province is on the eve of great development and the Government while it must proceed with due regard to the financial aspect of the case will have the province at its back in carrying vigorously forward the policy adopted in 1920.—St. John Times.

PROROGATION IS EXPECTED BY SATURDAY

Fredericton, N. B., April 8.—The result of the unexpected conclusion of the debate on the budget Friday afternoon will be that the Legislature will probably be able to complete the business of the session and reach prorogation by next Saturday. Premier Veniot said Saturday. "If that is not done," he added, "we will have to remain here over the week-end and complete the business on Monday, April 16. I am very hopeful however of reaching prorogation by next Saturday. The government legislation is virtually all before the house now."

Premier Veniot, however, forecasted introduction of a bill which would increase the borrowing power of the New Brunswick Power Commission so as to permit of a start being made on the development of the Grand Falls on the St. John River if the reports which are made to the Government during recess indicate the advisability of proceeding. To what extent the borrowing power will be increased was not stated, but the Premier said it would be in the way of an interim vote so the preliminary work would not have to be held up.

Toronto Lady Says Stomach Trouble Caused Colic—Gives Tanlac Full Credit For Recovery

"I don't believe I'd be alive today to tell of my recovery if I hadn't taken Tanlac treatment when I did. I feel so thankful that if I could I would go from house to house and tell everybody about this wonderful medicine. This is the grateful statement made the other day by Mrs. Josephine Brathwaite, 13 Bright St., Toronto, Ont.

"Seven years ago my health began to decline, and I think that if I had only had Tanlac then what a world of suffering I would have missed. Broth and toast was about all I dared eat, gas and pains in my stomach after a most nearly set me wild, and I would scream with agony. I grew thin as a rail and at times became so weak and dizzy I actually fell in my tracks.

"But since taking Tanlac I now enjoy splendid health. My appetite is wonderful. I haven't a sign of my old troubles, and have gained seventeen pounds. Tanlac has been an untold blessing to me, and I will always praise it."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 35-million bottles sold.

A Word for the Under-Privileged Boy

THE Rotary Club of Montreal, like its sister organizations throughout the continent, is an efficient and effective organization working for the good of the community in which it exists. It has particularly devoted its attention to work among the class of boys that fall under the term "under-privileged." In every great city there are thousands of such lads facing life under grievous handicaps imposed by poverty, or by the more dreadful combination of poverty and such physical or moral surroundings as would be a menace to the strongest.

The task of brightening the lives of these lads and of giving them a fair chance to become good citizens is a grateful one, and the Rotary Club of Montreal has done a splendid work in this connection. It has interested itself in a very practical way in the Boys Home at Shawbridge in the Laurentian Mountains, and has done a great deal for boys throughout the city and district.

The Shawbridge Boys Home is the particular care of E. W. Beatty, President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, who is also president of the Home. He has always taken a great interest in the under-privileged boy, and it was natural, when the Rotary Clubs held their convention in Montreal recently, that he should be asked to address them on that phase of their work.

"Perhaps the saddest thing in the world," said Mr. Beatty, "is the sub-normal boy, or one whose standard of health is low, and no work is greater or more inspiring than that which helps to place the handicapped boy where he can face the world on fairly equal terms with the more fortunate."

Mr. Beatty went on to quote an eminent English educationalist who, although not prejudiced against parents as a class, stated with truth that many parents are not appreciative of the problems of their children, and not being capable of grasping with their difficulties, do not supply the inspiration that tends to make them the kind of citizens they should grow up to be.

Frederick F. Jalbert, who lived at the first settlement from St. Basil, was found dead in his home on Tuesday morning. Some few months ago Mr. Jalbert, accompanied by his wife, went on an extended visit to the United States where their grown-up children are living, but the deceased did not like it there, and came back to his home, leaving Mrs. Jalbert behind. Since he came home he has been living by himself. A couple of weeks ago he told some of his neighbors that he thought he would pay a visit to some friends in St. Jacques, and as for several days they did not see him around, or any smoke from the chimneys, they naturally presumed that he was making the proposed visit. On Tuesday morning they investigated, and found him in his home dead. Coroner Levite Cyr, accompanied by Dr. Martin, went to the house on Tuesday afternoon, and held a preliminary inquest and post mortem examination and they found that he had been dead for perhaps more than a week and that he died from natural causes. The deceased was about fifty-five years of age.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL ITEMS

Johnnie Walker and Edna Murphy in "Extra, Extra" on Tuesday night were the chief figures in a charming little comedy-drama dealing with the manifold uses that a reporter has to adopt to get necessary news and get it first. The fourteenth episode of "Bride 13" was also shown. Saturday evening gave us a Goldwyn special, "Brothers Under the Skin," dealing with two husbands, one head of a concern at $30,000 per year, the other, one of his shipping clerks at $40 per week. By a strange coincidence, both men had wives of a nervous type, who insisted on spending the funds of the household faster than they could be brought in. Both husbands responded to the Mr. Henpeck style through four reels, when they discovered the cause man style, which converted the wives into tractable and submissive ones pronto. Norman Kerry and Claire Windsor played the rich pair while Pat O'Malley and Helen Chadwick were more than delightful as Mr. and Mrs. Shipping Clerk. Two reels of Pathé Specials were also shown. On Saturday, the 14, Jack Holt will be shown in a famous Lesky production, "Call of the North" and on Tuesday, the "Light of the Desert" will be shown, featuring Shirley Mason. These pictures will be supplemented on each occasion by comedies.

We have finished with the Fresh Fish, but still have them Salt and Smoked as well as Ham and Bacon, Bread and Cheese, and everything necessary for a lunch or a meal; and was about to say everything else from a needle to an anchor, but failed to find the anchor, except a picture on a pool of thread and it was patented. Next to that would be a Marriage License and even that an anchor is losing its hold, so had to give it up and pass on to another subject.

There were six words left out of my ad last week. I will not state why, but will pay one dollar a word for each of the six to the first person who may send me a copy of the ad, with the six words in their proper place.
