VOLUNTEER SONG.

Air—Red White and Blue.

Yes, we are all lads of devotion,
For our Queen and our country we'll fight,
Let our foes stir our breasts with emotion,
They'll find we'll protect home and right.
They'll find we are all lads of mettle,
If war with its danger appear,
If the Queen has a grievance to settle,
Then call out our brave Volunteers.

CHORUS.

Then call out our brave Volunteers,
Then call out our brave Volunteers,
If the Queen has a grievance to settle,
Then call out our brave Volunteers.

If foes should invade us, we'll never Allow them to stay on our land,
But prove ourselves Britons for ever,
And firm on the battle field stand.
Our Queen and our country we'll cherish,
And the flag that our Britain reveres,
These three we'll defend or we'll perish,
And all die like true Volunteers.

CHORUS—And all die, &c.

Our flag has braved many a battle,
Our forefathers fought it to save,
And though the land cannons may rattle,
We'll prove ourselves loyal and brave.
As the flag of old England floats o'er us,
For our Queen we'll give three hearty cheers,
No matter what foes are before us,
We'll prove ourselves true Volunteers.
CHORUS—We'll prove, &c.

THE FORTUNATE ACCIDENT.

(Concluded.)

George Robinson! I exclaimed, with emotion, as the old gentleman had finished his narration, and was bathed in tears. "Did he belong to—near—?"
The very same, replied Mr. Bennett, looking on me with an eye of inquiring interest.
Well, then, said I, George is my old class-fellow and intimate friend. I have not heard from him, indeed, since his mother's death, which took place at the very time when I was preparing to leave the country; but his sister's address is in my possession. The last letter I received from him was dated from his university, and as she understood I was then about to proceed to the Continent, it contained a handsome memento of her gratitude for a service once rendered to her brother. Here I took from my breast an elegant silver medal, which I showed him. It bore the following inscription:—

PRESENTED BY

HARRIET ROBINSON

TO

Mr. ROBINSON

As a Memorial of her lasting gratitude

For saving her Brother's life

At the imminent danger of his own,

May 18

Mr. Bennett was just returning me the medal, when we observed Amelia coming into the garden, accompanied by the lady of the house. We soon joined them, when I was introduced to Amelia as intimate friend of Mr.
Robinson's. A ray of hope instantaneously lighted up her formerly expressive and intellectual countenance, and she received me with unknown warmth and cordiality. At the father's request, I accompanied them home that evening. Their residence was a few miles from Florence, on the very line of road where I had so frequently met them. After this I visited them almost daily; and although, when Mr. Robinson was spoken of, hope and fear seemed alternately to prevail in the bosom of Amelia, yet it was very evident that her mind had been considerably relieved. In the meantime, I wrote to Miss Robinson, making inquiry after her brother, but week after week was disappointed of an answer. I was much puzzled to account for this, and on my return from visiting Mr. Bennett one evening, having carefully thrown the reins on my horse's manes, was musing as to the measures I should next adopt for discovering Mr. Robinson, when, on a sudden, from some cause which I never knew, my horse reared, and in a few seconds horse and rider were thrown over a dangerous precipice of considerable depth.
That moment my recollection left me. On recovering, I found myself in bed, but not in my own apartment, and an elderly matron sitting near me, reading. On attempting to move, I discovered that my head and left arm were bandaged. She had observed my motion, and, rising up, to my surprise addressed me
in the following manner:—

"You are a very brave man, and I am glad you are safe. I have been very anxious about you, and I am glad to hear that you are well.
I have been very anxious about you, and I am glad to hear that you are well. I have been

A winter supply of paper is required—Will some of our subscribers assist by paying up without delay. The amounts will materially aid us.

"Britain among the Nations."
In our last issue we announced, "that the first of a course of Lectures in aid of the building fund of the Methodist Church," would be delivered on Wednesday Evening, 9th inst., by the Rev. ROBERT WILSON, subject—"Britain among the Nations."

The Lecturer occupied an hour and a quarter in delivery, and was given ex-tem-pore. The language was choice, glowing with fervid eloquence, and frequently elicited loud bursts of applause. Having taken notes, we will endeavor to give a brief outline for the benefit of those who were not present, and trust the Rev. Lecturer will excuse any omissions, as he spoke rapidly. Upon rising the Lecturer, in brief, but appropriate terms, regarded his theme as one upon which anyone might grow eloquent, and give utterance to thoughts that breathe, and to words that burn, and devoutly recognized in "Britain's glorious past and still more glorious present, the guiding Providence of God." He then proceeded to speak of the position of the British Empire, in territorial possession and the possession of those resources which constitute the bone and sinew of the life-blood of a nation. Our vast Colonial possessions were named, and the peculiar excellencies of each specially noted. British North America receiving special attention, and the confident belief expressed, that the day was at hand when petty provincial jealousies would cease, hostile tariffs swept away and her vast undeveloped resources of forest, field, mine and river, turned to good account—her people would stand before the world before the proud title of British-Americans, the rivals of our Republican neighbors, and the favored child of the Mother of Nations.

The mightiest Empires of antiquity were nothing when compared with this, the flag of which waved over an eighth of the world's area, and nearly every fourth individual child of man.

In speaking of the commercial greatness, mechanical genius, and manufacturing capabilities of the mother country, and the gratifying fact stated that, notwithstanding the fear of Sir Wm. Armstrong and others that the war annual drain upon the coal fields of England would exhaust the supply, and involve the forfeiture of her mercantile greatness; yet recent scientific investigation has clearly demonstrated all such fears were groundless. He next noted that Britain was the strongest power in the world, regarding the extent of her strength her insular position, the union of the kindred, her colonial dependencies, her army and her navy, on which he dwelt at considerable length. The union of these rival nations was regarded as of the first importance to themselves and to the world; and notwithstanding the efforts of a few fire-eating Fenians, the great majority of the intelligent Irish people were loyal to the throne of Victoria, and regarded their political connexion with Great Britain, as a blessing and not a curse.

Of the importance of the Colonies in a commercial and military point of view, he thought too much could not be said, and considered as traitorous the conduct of those who advocated the dismemberment of the Empire. What Great Britain was before she had Colonies, she would be again after she had lost them, consequently for her sake, for our sake, and for the sake of the world, our object ought to be to rally round the grand old flag, and loyally co-operate with the Mother Country in her efforts to perpetuate and strengthen the ties uniting us together.

As the son of a soldier, we need not wonder that the lecturer felt proud of the British soldier, and patriotically alluded to Marlborough, Clive, Wolfe, Wellington, Hawke and others, whose heroic deeds are preserved in the memories of a grateful and appreciating people, and enshrined in immortal verse;—while the Navy was described as "that unconquered fleet so long the terror and the admiration of the world." "And this," said the Lecturer, "is the Nation which our American cousins are going to whip some morning before breakfast, and a shameful ragged half starved Fenians are going to humiliate and destroy."

Ever we were aware of it he had us in Toronto, considering the case of the condemned Fenians, and although convinced that they rightly deserved to die, yet thought "we were strong enough to be magnanimous," and related an anecdote of Queen Elizabeth who in reply to a craven hearted gent's appeal for mercy, told him that "she was descended from the Lion, and did not prey upon rats, mice, and such small vermin."

He next dwelt upon the liberty enjoyed by the British people, as safer, surer, and more reliable than that of any other people in the world. The constitution of Britain and America were compared, and the superiority of the former clearly established. The departmental system rendering the Cabinet directly responsible to the people, and not as in the States, to the President; gave the representatives of the people power to dismiss their Majesty's advisers at any hour; while the President could snap his fingers and laugh them to scorn. D'Aubigne's remark "that the British talked not about liberty, because they possessed it," was loudly applauded, and the memorable words of Curran, on the impartiality, humanity, and sublime majesty of British Law, were cheered.

Of the intelligence of the British people, the lecturer gave it as his opinion, that in this respect also they stood unrivalled. He spoke of the proverbial intelligence of Scotchmen in the South and West, of the numbers attending the ordinary schools in England and Wales, the thousands in her colleges, the importance of her Press, the character of her periodicals, the ability of her writers, and the sterling qualities of her works, being the proof adduced.—Shakespeare, Milton, Watts, Wesley, Stephenson, Watt, Livingstone, Clive, Macaulay and others, considered without equals in the various departments of literature.

The Christianity of her people was claimed to be the purest and most effective. Their respect for law, reverence for the Sabbath, benevolent institutions, missionary enterprises, and great moral power were all alluded to.

In closing, Britain's future was spoken of, and the confident belief expressed, that notwithstanding the wishes of many, the fear of others, and the opinion of Macaulay, that her glory was not to decline, but when the end of time would arrive, the British flag would be found waving in the wind.

We regret that it is not in our power, to do more than give the foregoing brief summary of this eloquent lecture. At the close a complimentary vote of thanks was given to the Rev. gentleman, and a general desire expressed that he would repeat it ere the winter closed. The National Anthem was sung, and three cheers were given for the Queen, after which the assembly dispersed, both edited and gratified.

INSPECTION.—On Saturday last, Lt. Col. Mansell, Adj. Genl. inspected Capt. Stevenson's Rifle Company. The full complement of men was not present, owing to several of them being engaged at their avocations out of town. The company was put through a number of evolutions by Capt. Stevenson and Lieut. Polleys. The Adjutant General addressed the men at some length, and expressed his pleasure at their proficiency, and tendered some excellent advice with reference to attention to drill, care of arms, &c.

The last Royal Gazette contains the correspondence between the late Lieut. Governor and his Council, upon the removal of the Railway Chairman and Commissioners. These documents have been so fully and ably commented upon by our contemporaries that there is really nothing to add. It is plain that the Council championed His Excellency, who is admitted to be a clever logician, but met his match in his advisers.

THE METEORIC SHOWER was witnessed by several persons last night. A few minutes after eleven the first and most brilliant was seen, and until half past one, one hundred and twenty-seven had shot from the sky. Their course was from the east to the west.

EVENING SCHOOL.—Mr. Mulligan, teacher of the Catholic School, it will be noticed, is about opening an Evening School, for the benefit of youths whose avocations prevent their attending day schools. The success which has attended his labors as a Teacher of the school over which he presides, is a sufficient guarantee of his qualification for the extra duty he has undertaken.

The Royal Gazette of Wednesday was rather a valuable number of that exceedingly interesting journal. It contained quite a number of minor appointments by Government, including the Sheriff of Kent, Mr. Raymond, and a Clerk of the Peace for Colchester County, Mr. W. M. Cornell, (son of a member of the Government,) in the room of Mr. John C. Winslow, the proprietor of an Opposition newspaper organ. There is also a large number of Militia appointments. Besides this, we have the Correspondence between the late Lieutenant Governor and his Executive Council in the matter of the Railway appointments;

it embraces nine communications in all, the last having been written by Mr. Gordon after being relieved of his duties here.

PATISH SCHOOL, ST. ANDREWS, 8th Nov. 1866.

Which day a number of the inhabitants of St. Andrews and neighborhood interested in the resuscitation of the St. Andrews Society of this Town, held a meeting in the Parish School, on the evening of Thursday 8th Nov. at 8 o'clock.

Sheriff Paul was called to the chair, and Rev. J. Home was asked to act as Secretary. INTER ALIA.—It was moved, seconded and unanimously resolved,—"That this meeting being deeply sensible of the various benefits, both of a national and social nature, resulting from the formation of St. Andrews Societies in America, and desirous of the resuscitation of the St. Andrews Society of this Town, by the election of office-bearers, and adoption of such other measures as, in the opinion of this meeting, will conduce to its efficient organization."

As it was found to be impossible to obtain a copy of the By-laws of the old Society, Col. Gray submitted a code of By-laws to the meeting, when it was moved, seconded and unanimously resolved, that Col. Gray and Messrs. J. Campbell, J. R. Bradford, C. F. Clinch, D. Johnston and G. F. Campbell be appointed a committee to examine and report on said Laws at a meeting to be held on Tuesday the 20th inst.

It was moved, seconded and unanimously resolved, that there should be a public dinner on St. Andrews Day, and that Col. Gray, and Messrs. C. Kennedy, J. G. N. McCurdy, W. Morrison and J. Bradford be appointed a committee to make arrangements for the Dinner. A cordial vote of thanks having been given to the learned Sheriff, the meeting separated. JOHN HOME, Secretary.

DESTITUTION IN GASPE.

[From the Montreal Gazette.]

By reliable recent accounts from Gaspe, it would appear there is urgent call for immediate steps being taken to save, perhaps, at least one hundred families from starvation there this coming winter and relief will require to be at hand before the close of navigation. The fishing between Gaspe-Basin and Cape Chat, nearly 200 miles, has been pretty nearly a failure, this season not only for cod but the fall herring and mackerel fishing, upon which the people mainly depended to supply the winter's provisions, have also failed. The merchants there intended to import but a small stock of provisions, as the fishermen had not half paid up advances. The information received is to the effect that, unless a merciful Providence interfere, and relief in some form be obtained, starvation is sure to come. The Methodist minister, Rev. Mr. Tallman, was engaged in getting up a petition to the Governor and Council to send some breadstuffs before the navigation closes to save large numbers from almost certain starvation. That this is a labor of love may clearly be inferred from the fact that nineteen volunteers of the destitute are Roman Catholics. We hear of the destitute in the usual English branches, and will commence on Monday evening, the 13th inst. at 7 o'clock, in his school room. Particular attention will be paid to Bookkeeping and Penmanship. For terms &c. please apply to JAMES F. MULLIGAN, Teacher.

THE ELECTRIC TELEGRAPH.—Mr. George Guishank, speaking of the part of which Mr. Wheatstone took in the discovery and introduction of the electric telegraph, writes:—"I beg you will allow me to state that the discovery arose, I believe, from the circumstance of Mr. Wheatstone, when first appointed lecturer at King's College, having seven miles of wire in the lower part of that building which abuts upon the river Thames for the purpose of measuring the speed of lightning or the electric current, and upon one occasion when explaining his experiments to me he said:—'I intend one day to lay some of this wire across the top of the Thames, and to carry it up to the top of the shot tower on the other side, and so make signals; and this I believe, the first idea or suggestion of a submarine telegraph. We are also indebted to Mr. Wheatstone for the electric bell, for long before this telegraph came before the public, in explaining the machinery to me, he said, as it is possible that one party might be asleep at one end of the wire, he had so arranged the working that the first touch should ring a bell at the other end, even if thousands of miles apart.'"

THE BOWELS OF THE EARTH.—It is a curious fact connected with deep mining that from the hours of twelve at night till three in the morning the disturbing influence in the bowels of the earth obtains increased activity. At that time it is observed by miners that waterfalls from the places during the day. The volume of the water is perceptibly increased the atmosphere is charged with gases which often prevent the lights from burning and small particles of earth and rock are observed to fall from the tops of the drives. Whether this phenomenon is to be attributed to the diurnal motion of the earth or other causes, it is worthy the attention of the curious. [Geological Advertiser.]

The Indians are again reported to be committing outrages on the Plains. Their hostility to the settlers may be expected to continue so long as the present iniquitous Indian Agent system is tolerated by the Federal Government. The tribes of the British territory are fully as fierce and numerous; but they are fairly treated, not robbed and defrauded by the Federal Government, and therefore live on terms of amity with the whites. Warren Hastings undoubtedly deserved impeachment for his exactions but they were in magnitude and atrocity before the spoliation and rascality of the Federal Indian Agents.

"THE MASONIC MIRROR" made its third appearance this month. It contains matter of interest to the Craft everywhere throughout the Province. With this number the committee that hitherto had it in charge cease to assume responsibility. All liability in the matter of its publication in future will be borne by Bro. E. Willis.

The members of the London Swimming Club had a swimming match in the Lambeth Baths the other day, in which a silver cup awarded for the best leaps over hurdles floating on the water; an egg-diving contest was won by a diver who fished up thirteen eggs from the bottom; and gold and silver medals were awarded to men who succeeded in performing other difficult feats.

Rev. William T. Wilkins was ordained a minister of the Church of Scotland at Woodstock on Wednesday. Rev. Dr. Donald, assisted by Rev. Messrs. Ross and Kidd, performed the solemn ceremony.
