New York and Chicago.

the local populace and their communications with head centers. The exceedingly mean and hostile spirit which prevails in Skaguay towards everything Canadian and British is said to be largely due to the piotting of this local center. The recent insuits to the British flag, culminating in the actual tearing of it down by a mob on one occasion, as well as certain well-carried-out plots to bring Canadian officials into disgrace, are all traceable to the same gang. The informants aver positively that the report is not all fake and buncombe, that watchful officials of the government know it is not, and that the country now and always stands in

BURGLAR'S TRAGIC FATE

His Dead Body Found Among the Debris Caused in " Blowing " a Safe.

Hutchinson, Kansas, Nov. 20 .- The safe of the Missouri Pacific Railway depot here was blown by robbers yesterday. Afterward a man, believed to have been one of the robbers, was found dead with a bullet hole through his head. The supposition is that the dead man was stunned by the explosion, and the others, thinking he was too badly crippled to get away, shot him. The money left in the safe was all found under the debris. by means of a glass globe containing carp. The globe recently was placed on a stand and set on the sunny side of the house, where it was left all day, while Mr. and Mrs. Lake went on a visit. When they returned there were holes burned in the side of the house. The fish were again placed in the open air Sunday, and a few hours later a neighbor passing the house gave the alarm of fire. Clouds of smoke came from the side of the house. Upon examination it was found that the sun's rays struck the globe in such a manner as to get a focus on the side of the house, setting it on fire in three Something That Should be Rubbed.

A Comparsion. When you think of putting money in the bank, do you speak of the expense? Of course not, but at the same time you raise the question of expense when considering a life insurance policy. There is absolutely no expense in connection with an "Imperial Endowment Policy" as issued by the Imperial Life Assurance Company of Canada, Toronto, and it offers more advantages to the investor than a bank. You make an annual deposit, and at the end of the Endowment Period you withdraw those deposits improved at compound interest, or you can withdraw your account any time after three years. In addition to this, under an "Imperial Endowment Policy," the company will pay the full face value of the policy immediately on receipt of proof of your death. Compare the advantages a bank can offer with the advantages you secure under this form of policy, and which will you decide upon? If you wish to look into the plans of the Imperial Ola Cream...

A Popular Cure for Chapped Hands, Chafing, Sunburn, Frosted Face, Salt Rheum and Tender Face After Shaving.

OLA CREAM is a scientific skin food and a most agreeable preparation for the prompt cure of any roughness of the skin. Unlike Glycerine, Cold Cream, etc., it does not irritate the skin, but soothes, softens and heals.

The peculiar advantages of OLA CREAM consist of its being entirely absorbed at once, leaving no external evidence of its having been used.

It is entirely harmless, and safe to use on the youngest babe or the most delicate skin. Its power of healing is due to the fact that it becomes absorbed and is assimilated with the fatty layers, fibres and tissues, building them up and giving action to the muscles and tone to the nerves.

The Auditorium was all too small night to attend the piano competition for the Barron gold medal and the Heintzman scholarship of $50, open to gramme was: graduates of the London Conservatory | Piano duet-"Fourth Spanish Dance" of Music. The three competitors, Mr. Charles Marsh, A.L.C.M., of South London; Miss Isabel McLennan, A. L. C.M., of Laurier, and Miss Irene Armstrong, of Lucknow, were all pupils of Mr. Barron, the principal of the conservatory. The competition had to be postponed from June last, owing to the illness and death of Miss Mc-Lennan's mother, a circumstance which proved an enormous handicap to that popular and clever young musician. Each competitor played two numbers. Mr. Marsh played Liszt's "Rhapsodie Hongreise, No. 6," and the Liszt—Reve-King Rhapsodie Hongreise, No. 2." Miss McLennan gave artistic interpretations of the March from "Tannhauser" (Wagner-Liszt), and the "Rigoletto Fantasie" (Verdiamerical from "Rigoletto Fantasie" (Verdiamerical from "Rigoletto Fantasie" (Verdiamerical from "Rigoletto Fantasie" (Verdiamerical from the following from the first followin from "Tannhauser" (Wagner-Liszt), and the "Rigoletto Fantasie" (Verdi-Liszt). With the ancients the arts had formed the very essence of their religion, but in this age of commerce, invention and science the practical side of education had been allowed to predominate and the aesthetic was ne-glected. It gave him all the more pleasure, said Mr. Merchant, that the institution in which Mr. Marsh had excelled was a local one, one which was a credit and pride to the city and an influence for culture all through the western portion of the province. Mr. Merchant's prophecy was doubtless well-founded, and Mr. Marsh has by no means gained the last of his musical triumphs. In addition to the competition, there was an artistic programme of vocal and instrumental numbers rendered by conservatory pupils. Of these, Miss Blackburn, Miss Huntley and Mr. Weir were pupils of Mr. Barron. Miss Magee was a pupil of Miss K. Moore, and Messrs. Spence and Barter were pupils of Miss Belle Brown. Those assisting the choir were: Mr. W. A. sisting the choir were: Mr. W. A. Bleuthner, at the plano; Miss Mabel Webbe, who contributed two exacting violin numbers in a way that delighted the audience; Miss E. Walker, who, on the illness of Miss Fox, kindly consented to take her place on short no-tice, and Mr. J. C. Lockhart, who, as his principal number, sang Loewe's famous ballad, "The Clock," a fine song, and one of a class that could be heard oftener with advantage. Among the members of the choir taking part were Miss R. Taylor, who is fast becoming a favorite; Miss Elsie Green, who won her audience from the start, and Miss Lucy Southam. "FROM SCOTLAND YARD."

A play teeming with sensational episodes, with thrilling climaxes, and with comedy element, is "From Scotland lard," which will be next Saturday's attraction at the New Grand. Originally produced in London, England, the people of that city grew enthusiastic over it. The press went so far as to manimously pronounce it the aeme of this class of drama.

AT THE GRAND TOMORROW. The sale of seats and boxes for the engagement of the Marguerita Comic Opera Company in "The Prin-cess Chic," at the New Grand, opened yesterday morning and a bumper house is assured. Miss Sylva is to be here tomorrow evening. One of the most popular vocal numbers in "The Princess Chic" is a solo for the leading basso, entitled "War is a Bountiful Jade." The solo is accompanied by the entire strength of the male chorus of the company, each of the twenty-odd men being equipped with a hammer and an anvil, with which they are supposed to be mending their broadswords. It is unusual for a male chorus to receive an encore, but in this case, it is said

Concerning the veteran's remarkable creation of the role of Lachlan Campbell in the beautiful play made from Ian Maclaren's stories, Mr. Wil-liam Winter in the New York Tribune said: "This impersonation transcends anything of its class that the present day has known. The performance is one that everybody should see. It adorns the theater. It vindicates the use of the drama. It is an honor to human nature, and it will prove of great public benefit coming as it does in a time when such blessings as a pure play and a great actor are grievously needed." The production, with Mr. Stoddart and the entire New York cast intact, appear at the New Grand next Monday evening.

Centenary of a Notable Newspaper

The New York Post celebrated its centenary on the 16th inst. by issuing a fine commemorative number. When a newspaper lives one hundred years, or forty, or fifty, it means that it must have had hidden springs of power unknown to the unreflecting. The New York Post has pandered neither to the mob nor to the "machine." It has stood up for what it believed to be right, regardless of momentary popularity or unpopularity. Yet it has lived one hundred years; bidding fair, like the poet's brook, to "go on forever." Among its great editors was William Cullen Bryant, the poet who stood for the maintenance in journalism of high moral and literary ideals-ideals which have not been lowered by his successors. The New York Evening Post may not have the "greatest circulation in the world," but as a paper influencing greatly those who influence others, it is probably today the most influential newspaper in the United States, and therefore one of the most influential papers in the English tongue.

The occasion, as we have said, has been marked by a very notable centenary number, and by a spontaneous banquet to the editor and his staff, which was attended by many prominent and brainy people of all shades of

The deserved tribute to our New York contemporary and the notable success it has achieved signify that the power of principle and personality in connection with the press is by no means a thing of the past, as some have thoughtlessly supposed, and that these elements are, rather, as powerful as at any former time in making any true or enduring editorial or journalistic, as apart from a mere countingroom, success, which latter, fortunately, is not incompatible with the

The Advertiser congratulates William Cullen Bryant's newspaper on so handsomely attaining and so smartly celebrating its centennial.

Robert Tannahill.

St. Andrew's Day is approaching, when Scottish songs and poetry will give pleasure and profit to many who annually join in the celebration of that day. So great is the love of Scotchmen for Burns, that they forget the lesser poets, good though many of the latter are. Last year, on the approach of St. Andrew's day, we referred to Allan Ramsay, and a few references to Robert Tannahill will not be out of place.

Robert Tannahill was born in 1774, in Paisley, and became a weaver. His education was not extensive, but he was a diligent student and reader. When about 26 years of age he spent two years in Lancashire, returning home in time to receive his father's dying blessing. Not long after that he wrote to a friend that he and his brother Hugh, and his aged mother were all that were left of nine who seven years before sat at the same table. He was very strongly attached to his mother, who survived him by thirteen years.

He appears never to have had a walking. He tells of an incident that pleased him greatly, when he was taking one of his customary walks. He heard the voice of a country girl singing in the adjoining field, a song of

'We'll meet beside the dusky glen, on

This incident was more pleasing to him than any other evidence of his popularity he had ever received. He must have possessed a nature too sensitive and a body too weak to contend against the obstacles which came in his way. He became despondent. Among the first of his publications were some songs contributed to Thompson's Select Melodies. He was very fond of Irish airs, and tried to procure them for his songs. He later prepared a new edition of his poems for the press, and sent the manuscript to the publisher, who was unable to take it because he had more work on his hands than he could accomplish. He took it so much to heart that his reason forsook him, and he committed suicide by drowning.

"There are several reasons," Mr. Warman, in a recent interview vinced him that it would be impossible with an Advertiser representative, to return to reportorial headquarters why I like to have my home in this peaceful Canadian city. First, and above all, it is the home of my wife's will use it as material for another girlhood. She is happier here than romance. All space permits me to tell anywhere else, and there is nothing so conducive to a man's happiness as a contented wife. The climate affords four seasons, and I like a change. Again, it is but a short journey to New York, Ottawa and Chicago-it is really only a jump to the border."

The spot on which Mr. Warman has set up his household gods is one well known to Londoners, in the northern part of the city. Opposite the old Becher estate he has built him a house, wide, roomy, and full of sunshine, with an attractive study.

"No little room so warm and bright, Wherein to read, wherein to write."

This is the secret of all Mr. Warman's power; he holds the mirror up to nature; while his imitators can only surmise. Mr. Kipling has written a rather popular story of three engines talking together in an engine house, at which the flesh and blood engineer frankly swears It is the artless criticism of the man of occupation, on the ama-

To describe the pitfalls which beset the modern author, and which Mr. Warman has so successfully evaded, I cannot do better than quote from an article on the "Glittering Style," which appeared recently in Littell's Living Age. It says:

'Among the first and last difficulties of literary art, are these-to describe things as they are, to know what one feels, and to express that feeling plainly. "Not only does the engineer take his own life in his hands, but he has the thought of the lives of his hundreds of passengers on his soul. Mr. Cy Warman, the globe trotter, panion on either side of him. The engineer faces death and danger alone

Mr. Warman does not look in the look as if he loved to bestow a favor. So I attacked him in his most vulnerwithout the story of his life. What he had to relate was so interesting that perhaps some day Mr. Warman is that he was born on a farm, at Greenup, Illinois; worked his way up as an apprentice in the shops of the Denver and Rio Grande Railway; became a fireman, then an engineer-the crowning happiness of all! Only those who have lived a life of action can appreciate how, to this day, Cy Warman looks back with a sigh of regret to those happy days when he guided his engine through the mountain passes of the Great Divide, in far Col-

A Providential Snowstorm.

But a snowstorm changed the face of Cy Warman's destiny. Caught in a great drift, and "bucking" snow all day with his engine, he contracted sciatic rheumatism, as a result of the long exposure, and was forced to give servatory, not built for rare exotics, up railroading and go in search of out for certain hardy young plants in health. "About the saddest thing in diminutive trousers; it is the winter my life," said Mr. Warman, looking playground of Masters Dana, Bryan rather wistfully at the beautiful picand Robert; the first named for his ture of the Rocky Mountains hanging father's dear friend, the late celebrat- over his desk, where the Denver and ed editor of the New York Sun, Rio Grande railway winds its way

"Those are the hills," he said, rising to point them out, "that I wrote some verse about, which Julian Ralph has

'God was good to make the mountains, the valleys and the hills, Put the rose upon the cactus, The ripple on the rills.'

"Well, it was decreed that I was not to be an engineer; so I gave up the old route, and went into journalism. My pub-lishers, principally McClure's and Scribner's, have been considerate and just, while the critics have been, on the whole, appreciative and cordial."

Mr. Warman's Day's Work.

While Mr. Warman would probably be the first to admit that "all writing comes by the grace of God." he believes also that nothing is achieved without steady work. Like Edward Everett Hale, he works best in morning hours, beginning as early as 7 o'clock, and is systematic in not allowing the day to get the start of him-2,000 words is an average morning's work; and he strongly resembles one of his own enines when he gets steam up, rushing straight through with a piece ork, and never slowing up till it is finished. What he has written he rarely revises. His great story, "A Thousand Miles in a Night," which won for him much fame, was dictated in a few minutes, standing in his overalls, and covered with soot, as he jumped off his engine, the morning he reached Chicago. This famous ride took the palm over all competitors. Some rash individual had ridden to Albany, in a night, and thought he had made a good thing of it, and so did McClure's, ull Warman, an actual engineer, came along, and offered to ride to Chicago, on the front of an engine, a thousand miles in a night. Mr. McClure caught at the suggestion. "A thousand miles in a night! That sounds well-but can you do it?" was the next question.
"Try me," came the prompt response; and next day Cy Warman was all over New York begging an engine. But he found it well-nigh impossible to secure one. The World's Fair was on at the time, and everyone was afraid he would he killed Finally H. This was the first real railway story ever published in America. Since then hundreds of imitators have sprung up; but the original writer of stories from the front of an engine is Mr. Cy Warman, now a citizen and ratepayer of London, Ontario.

A great shouting outside the study was heard just here, and Mr. Warman smilingly drew aside the curtains, to show me three sturdy, rosy-cheeked tumbling about in the snow, and clad in small blue overalls, like dimin-

"Who are they?" I asked, with much interest, watching three rosy cherubs in overalls, vigorously engaged in "bucking the snow."

"The sons of Sweet Marie," answered Mr. Warman, with a twinkle in his eye. "Every daisy in the dell, Knows my secret, knows it well, Yet I dare not tell he added. "She cares little for society, but devotes herself entirely to her home and children." Mrs Warman it may interest some of the readers of The Advertiser to know, was educated at the Sacred Heart Convent, and has been very powerful, no doubt, in influencing her celebrated husband to settle perman-ently in the home of her girlhood. "God has been very good to us in London, and made us to love our home. We shall live here all the days of our life, if he so sees fit," said Mr. Warman reverently. All Londoners will reciprocate his words in cordial assent. trusting that he may long remain in our midst, a satisfied citizen of Londen, and that his pleasant literary labors may continue to bring him as much pleasure as is derived by his tens of thousands of appreciative and grateful readers.

Much of Mr. Warman's work pears first in the magazines; but his books are all published by the Scribners and Appletons, of New York. Mr. Warman has several new literary undertakings nearly ready for publication, including a book of stories and a volume of poems. Among Mr. Warman's many personal friends are President Roosevelt. Julian Ralph, Mr. Robert Barr and prominent literary people.

Endorses Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound After Following Its Record I

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM: -Health is the greatest boon bestowed on humanity and therefore anything that can restore lost health is a blessing. I consider Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a blessing to State and Nation. It cures her mothers and daughters and makes them well and strong.

Practicing Physician and Lecturer. "For fifteen years I have noted the effect of your Vegetable Compound in curing special diseases of women.

"I know of nothing superior for ovarian trouble, barrenness, and it has prevented hundreds of dangerous operations where physicians claimed it was the only chance to get well. Ulceration and inflammation of the word has been cured in two or three weeks through its use, and as I find it purely an herbal remedy, I unhesitatingly give it my highest endorsement. -Fraternally yours, Dr. P. Doherty Fire Demonstrated Uselessness o Present System.

Clinton, Nov. 20.—The fire which partially destroyed the Doherty Organ Factory Saturday night, is the second which has visited the works in about four years, and the damage done emphasizes the town's need of better protection, for without a doubt, had the brigade been able to start work when summoned the loss would not have It was a hard task for the team to move the engine over the bad road, and progress was slow, while the hose was repeatedly stuck, being pulled by volunteers, and it was some time before the fire-fighters reached the scene. Then the check valve or engine blew out, and valuable time was lost in running from store to store to procure another. During this the organ company, who have inex-haustible water supply and a pump capable of throwing 600 gallons per minute, was doing splendid service and there were many willing hands to handle the hose. with her place in society, she determined to submit herself to competent physicians for a final determination of her real sex. As a result of their verdict Miss Herriman determined to change her garb and assume the place which rightly belongs to her. Attorneys Han-cock, Hogan and Devine were consulted, and a course of action which will culminate in a few days in the appli-cation for a change of name was determined on.

Miss Herriman chooses the name Horace Hartson Herriman, the two first names being those of her ma-ternal grandfather. With her brother, Wm. C. Herriman, she will manage the Herriman estate, which includes property in this city worth $500,000.

MR. CANN'S LETTER

An Exeter Man Who Expresses His Opinions Freely in the Local hewspaper.

Exeter, Nov. 18 .- (Special) .- Lorne Cann, a laundry man of this town, has sent a letter to the Advocate stating that Dodd's Kidney Pills changed him from a sickly, delicate, run-down man to a strong, hearty and robust one. Nothing could be plainer than the statement made by Mr. Cann. He says he was in such a terribly rundown condition that the least exertion would leave him tired and breathless. He tried many medicines, and was under physicians' treatment for over three months, but got no better. Finally he tried Dodd's Kidney Pills and the results of the first box were so encouraging that he continued the stronger than he has been for years.

SIR CAMPBELL BANNERMAN

Attributes the War to the Jameson Raid.

Analogies from American Civil War-Good Feeling Toward Lord Roberts.

London, Nov. 20 .- Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman strongly attacked the government's war policy last night, The Jameson raid was, he argued, the main determining cause of the war, and if the Liberals had been in power that raid would not have accurred. Unless the government changed the methods in South Africa the Dutch in all British colonies would become permanently and violently alienated. That was the great peril of the hour. The Liberal leader's decided anti-war attitude is regarded by supporters of the government as justifying Lord Salisbury's taunt that England is the only country in which during a great war eminent men write and speak publicly as if they belonged to the CIVIL WAR. Mr. Charles Francis Adams' address on the analogies between Gen. Lee's surrender, ending the American civil war, and the guerilla warfare in South Africa, reprinted by The Times from New York Tribune, is attracting much attention, and supplies the government press with an effective answer to Sir William Harcourt's recent letters in justification of the Boer tactics. The cabinet meeting yesterday has given rise to fresh rumors of dissension over the financial policy. explanations are authoritative. of the strongest wills in the cabinet, that of Mr. Chamberlain and Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, are pitted against each other. This has happened before, and a modus vivendi has been arranged. Old Tories would hardly know where they were if Mr. Chamberlain were to succeed Sir Michael Hicks-Beach.

ANALOGIES FROM AMERICAN

LORD ROBERTS' RECEPTION. Lord Roberts' reception at the Horse Guards was well attended yesterday, and he was heartily cheered by the crowd outside. There was no evidence that Great Britain had anof Dreyfus affair in the Buller episode. Courtesies and compliments were exchanged, and good feeling prevailed. Military officers have not Gen. Buller's downfall, since the removal was Mr. Brodrick's act, sanctioned with reluctance by the King. LORD STRATHCONA'S RETURN. The high commissioner for Canada is expected today by the Oceanic. Mr.

J. G. Colmer, secretary of the Canadian office, will meet him at Liverpool. Mr. Henry White, first secretary of the United States Embassy in London, with his wife and daughter, to Hatfield to spend several days with Lord Salisbury. A DAILY NEWS' EXPOSURE. The Daily News endeavors to show that the government's monthly returns, which purport to give an accurate record of the deaths in South African camps, are unreliable. An examination of the blue book has, it is said, resulted in the disclosure that the deaths not accounted for in the three monthly returns which it is possible to compare with the tables in the blue book amount to 1,500.

LOAN OF 265,000,000 FRANCS. Paris, Nov. 20 .- The chamber of deputies yesterday continued the dis-cussion of the bill authorizing a loan of 265,000,000 francs in 3 per cent perpetual rentes, to reimburse the treasury for its outlay in connection with the Chinese expedition and the in-demnification of French sufferers in Waldeck-Rousseau, the M. premier, made a forcible speech, de-fending the policy of France in protecting French missionaries in China. The government's scheme is expected to pass practically unchanged.

the South Shore line and Montreal.

An important rearrangement of the Grand Trunk services in connection

LARGE INCREASE IN RAILWAY EARNINGS

South Shore-Grand Trunk Difficulty Settled -Important Rearrangement of G. T. R. Service.

It is reported at Winnipeg that the Grand Trunk is forming an alliance with the Canadian Northern and a couple of American roads, with the object of obtaining a share of the Manitoba grain trade.

Governor Rogers, of Washington is considering the advisability of calling an extra session of the legislature to take action to prevent the control of the Northern Pacific and Great Northern Railways by the Northern Securities Company. The gross earnings of 105 railroads of the United States for the month of October, as compiled by the finan-with the Delaware and Hudson Company between Montreal and New York is to be made forthwith. The changes are, it is understood, to be of a farreaching character, and will amount to such a consolidation of the joint services as will enable the companies concerned to run through trains from the Canadian metropolis to the Empire City of the United States, of the quality and speed of the international Limited, the Grand Trunk's fast express to Chicago. It is an open secret that the competition for the traffic between Montreal and New York is now remarkably keen. Montrealers have now the choice of three through routes, and on each the trains are of a high standard of excellence. The New York Central, the Delaware and Hudson and the Rutland are each and all putting forth their best efforts to secure the traffic.

of October, as compiled by the financial Chronicle, reach the sum of $77,583,000, an increase of $8,232,000, or nearly 12 per cent. The gain, in gross earnings of a hundred roads for the ten months to Nov. 1, is $58,273,000, with the total of $624,640,000.

The South Shore-Grand Trunk difficulty has been adjusted. Trackage arrangements were completed Monday giving the South Shore Railway entrance over the G. T. R. tracks to the Bonaventure station, Montreal. Beginning at once South Shore trains will be run solid between stations on Siberia is over eighteen times as great.

THERE IS DANGER in neglecting a cold. Many who have died of consumption dated their troubles from exposure, followed by a cold which settled on their lungs, and in a short time they were beyond the skill of the best physician. FOR SOUTH AFRICA

Probability of a Third Canadian Contingent Being Raised.

Return of Sir Wilfrid to the Capital-The Matter of Sending More Canadian Troops Discussed by the Cabinet.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 20. - Sir Wilfrid Laurier returned to the city last evening and was at his office today. A meeting of the cabinet is called for 2:30 troops to South Africa will come up years. He had lived in for consideration. There is but one opinion on this matter, and that is, to send all the men that Great Britain may require. SIX HUNDRED MOUNTED MEN. As already said, the contingent, if Britain accepts it, will be mounted infantry, probably 600 men in all. Already the name of Col. Evans, in command of the mounted infantry at Winnipeg, is put forward as the one to go in command.

THE COMMANDER. Major Boulanger of Quebec will no doubt be one of the officers, as he has seen service already and was one of the first to volunteer in this instance. However, there are any number of good TO START BY JAN. 1. The department of militia will be able to have the contingent on its way by should an order be given for organizing it. Just what part Canada

Andrew Thompson's planing and sawmill at Strathroy was completely destroyed by fire early Monday morning. The loss will be considerable. About ten hands will be thrown out of employment. It is understood that Mr. Thompson intends rebuilding at once.

The Southern Loan and Savings Company made a proposition to the Southwestern Farmers' and Mechanics' Saving and Loan Society to consider the question of the union of the two institutions, but the respective boards could not agree on a satisfactory basis of amalgamation, consequently the South-western will at once appoint a successor to their late lamented manager, W. A GRATIFYING COMPLIMENT. The entire front page of the current number of the Canadian Music and Trades Journal, of Toronto, is taken up with an excellent half-tone reproduction of the well-known features of H. Ruthven McDonald, former choir leader of the Wellington Street Methodist Church. The accompanying notice says:

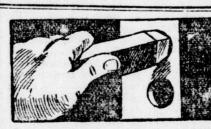

"We take great pleasure in presenting to our readers Mr. H. Ruthven McDonald, concert baritone, whose pleasing countenance graces our front page. Mr. McDonald has lately come to Toronto from London, Ont., where he made an enviable name for himself and where he established the famous McDonald Male Quartet, of which he is still director, they filling dates all over Ontario. As leader of Cook's Presbyterian Church choir, Toronto, Mr. McDonald has brought it into much favor with church-goers, weeding out all the bad singers and replacing them with competent vocalists. He is in much demand as a concert singer and has almost more dates than he can conveniently fill. His voice is one of great depth and power, his low notes being rich and full, while his upper register has almost the quality of the tenor, so wide is his range. But it is songs of the sea and other selections of that character that Mr. McDonald excels."

There was not a dull moment from start to finish, and the ified enjoyment that always attends the suppers of this company. was an attendance of about 50, and all acquitted themselves like men at the bountifully-spread tables. A toast list, introduced by Major Hayes, with all the regulation toasts, including "The King," "Our Country," "Canadian Militia," and "The Regiment," was duly honored. Speeches were made by Sergt.-Major Milligan, Drill-Sergt. Price, O. R. C. Shillington, Sergts. Erskine, Robson, Lieut. Taylor and Major Hayes. Songs were sung by members of the company, and by a quartet from the city, composed of S. Friendship, Miner, Collins and Grant, in fine style. A toast of special significance was made on behalf of the privates of the company by Pte. Newton, testifying to the good feeling of the men, to Drill Instructor Price, whose reply was well The absence, through sickness, of the color-sergeant of the company, J. Jacobs, was much regretted. The company arrived back in the city at about 2 o'clock. The committee in charge of the arrangements, Sergt. Erskine, Corp. McDonell, Ptes. Hayes, Lee and Newton, are to be congratulated, and the company score another successful supper.

INDIVIDUALISTS

They Were Plain Anarchists Before th Murder of the President.

[Boston Transcript.]

Boston anarchists are not the same as they were a few months ago. Several changes have occurred in their camp since the assassination of the president, partly because of their own diplomacy, and it is asserted by all who were questioned on the subject that they are not holding any meetings. When they occupy themselves at all with the principles in the creed it is merely to read or to think, and they may have to do more thinking than reading in the near future if the postoffice department carries out its new policy of imposing prohibitory conditions for the distribution of anarchistic publications through the mails.

Another change has become noticeable in Boston. There is not so much enthusiasm over the name "anarchism" as there used to be. Some of the socalled philosophical anarchists say that this word has become soiled by constant association, in the public mind, with the idea of violence and rashness, and does no longer represent the movement. It should, therefore, be dropped. "Individualism" has been suggested as a substitute, and meets with favor among a certain class, but it is objectionable to communists, who believe in a different form of "government. Neither does it appeal with any great force to the minds of the Russian and Polish Jews who call themselves anarchists. These three factions, however, are not likely to consult each other in the choice of a new name, as they never held exactly the same views, and are now drawing finer lines than ever. It would not be surprising to find communists and individualists pooling issues, although theoretically they are two opposing factions who are brought together merely by a common desire to reduce the power of the government, but both of them claim to be uncompromisingly opposed to the plain anarchists. The latter would overthrow the government by measures which are too revolutionary to receive an outspoken sanction from any of Having taken this turn the anarchist movement in Boston may lose its identity in the public mind, but go on with unabated vigor along a different course local interests splitting on internal disagreements.

HUNTRESS REPENTS

Lady Florence Dixie Now Writing About the Cruelty of Hunting.

Women do not seem likely to encroach on at least one of man's pleasures, that of hunting. The most celebrated shot among English women has abandoned hunting entirely and published a pamphlet on "The Horrors of Sport."

She knows what she is talking about. Her husband was an ardent hunter, but she was such an enthusiast that his shooting preserves did not satisfy her, and she would rent a Scottish moor or deer forest for her own use. She was called by her friends the female Nimrod, and her house was full of trophies of her skill. Now she has taken up her pen to decry the old weapon, the gun. Lady Florence Dixie is this reformed Nimrod. She has killed lions in Africa, gazelles in Arabia, bears in the Rockes. With her brother, Lord James Douglas, she took a journey through Patagonia. A good many years ago another brother, Lord Francis Douglas, lost his life in the Alps. This intrepid woman later climbed the very peak in whose ascent he was killed. She says that have done "a tithe of the hunting I have done at home and in foreign lands"; so that her renunciation of the sport seems to mean that here, at any rate, women are not going to contest with men for privileges. She

"Many a keen sportsman will acknowledge that a feeling of self-re-proach has at times come over him as he has stood by the dying victim of his skill. I know that it has confronted me many and many a time. I have bent over my fallen game and seen the beautiful eyes grow dim. I have ended with a sharp, yet merciful knife, the dying sufferings of creatures that had never harmed me. I, too, have witnessed the angry, defiant glare of the wild beast's fading sight as death deprived him of the power to wreak his vengeance on the human being that had taken his free life. The memory of those scenes brings no pleasure t my mind. On the contrary, it haunts with a cruel reproach, and I fain would that I had never done deeds of skill-and cruelty."

DODOOOOOOOOO THE WORLD

The utter despairing hopelessness of Eisic's manner struck home to Rosa's very heart. She embraced her warmly.

"I do wish it," she said, "though it is a most eccentric thing to do, and if Eldred knew it he would be shocked, and if my father knew it he would be shocked, and if my father knew it he would be shocked. Still, they are both away, and they can't be shocked; and I feel most horribly dull, and so do you. We have only associated with good, respectable, most genteel and honorable people all this week. Elsie obeyed. She went to her room and dressed in a fine black cashmere, with a bunch of golden daffodils at her throat. Rosa went in all the pomp of myrtle satin, with brocade of the same.

Soon the young ladies were seated in the carriage behind the grays and bowling along towards London.

It was a hot, still night, with a large, alm moon, and many stars in the sky. Elsie tried to rouse herself and to talk. "How lively this road is! How late the shops keep open! Be le followed them into the drawing goom. She had once obtained a peep into Captain Bracegirdle's salon in the Bouleward St. Michel, when it was crowded with excited gamesters; but all these had been of the nobler sex. Now there was a fair sprinkling of lady guests in the long room, which had three windows, and ran the length of the house. the length of the house.

numerous brackets covered with the same color, fringed with gold; convex mirrors, plaques, china; dessert plates suspended on wires against the walls, suspended on wires against the walls, and gas chandeliers, where the gas blaz-ed through rose-colored globes. There were five little card tables, at each of which sat a party of four playing pap. A glance at these showed what manner of men they were. Many of the faces were pale and anxious, others were flushed with excitement; one or two were despairing, gloomy-eyed, with nervous, twitching lips. Around two or three of the men there was an air of fashionable life. Laughter there was, as there often is during the game of nap.

Elsie recognized Captain Bracegirdle playing, and evidently winning largely. He wore a spotless shirt-front, and a rich hothouse flower in his button-hole. How and can positively say that it has comhothouse flower in his button-hole. How handsome he was! His complexion, red and white, and clear as a waxen face in a perfumer's window. How bland, and gracious, and smiling he was! How coelly and superbly he put the gold pieces which he won into his pocket!

He was playing with a very pale, very dark, very thin young man, who looked ill, and who evidently did not thoroughly comprehend the mysteries of the game of Napoleon. There were two loud men at the same table, who understood much the same table, who understood much better, and who did not lose their money nearly so fast.

"That is Lord Gretna," said Pauline, in a whisper to Rosa, "second son of the Marquis of Aberdovey, very rich, though only a second son; he has such great mining property in his own right—a Welsh title, you know. He is in a decline."

"Is he married?" asked Rosa, pertly. Pauline bit her lip and shook her head.
"That." said Pauline, "is my dear father. Papa, I need not tell you who this is."

this is."
There was something singular in the manner in which the captain started to his feet and held out his hand to the heiress. Rosa saw his blue eyes sparkle and flash, and his strong white hand grasped his plump brown one in a loverlike fashion.

"Miss Stanly can only stay an hour."

Not alone the advantage of greatest stocks—though they are no inconsiderable feature; not alone fashion freshness and fashion security, both essentials to perfect service; but our reading of the title of leadership demands matchlessly best qualities at prices that are borne down to the lowest reasonable point - not occasionally, not spasmodically - but ALWAYS. Tomorrow's offerings give a conspicuous demonstration of Grafton's Leadership and the profitableness of it to our great army of patrons. They are bargains of genuineness.

Both Mr. Dickinson and the Bulgarian foreign office decline to confirm or deny this

PROCEDURE OF THE HOUSE OF

COMMONS. It is understood that the British Government intends to propose a reform of the procedure of parliament to overcome obstruction. The scheme will propose that the house assemble at 2:30 p.m., instead of 4; that government business be taken first; that an adjournment from 7:30 until 9 be taken for dinner; that questions then be taken up and ordinary business be carried on until midnight. Under the existing system questions form the first business of the House of Commons, and give rise to much obstruc-tions. It will also be proposed that the estimates be first considered by a strong committee representing all sections of the house in whose proceedings the duration of speeches would be limited, and that the existing cumbrous method of taking divisions be superseded by self-registering vote pended for a month with increasing punishment for renewed offenses, and offenders would be compelled to apolo-

A "HEROE'S" TONIC

For soldier or civilian South American Nervine proves itself the greatest of system toners, nerve healers and blood cleansers.

A battle-scarred veteran just home from the war in South Africa, who was all run down and weak, the aftermath of that dread veidt fever, says: "I found South American Nervine a remarkable medicine and heartily recommend it to everybody in need of a good tonic." It's a grand remedy for all "run down" people. One bottle gives great relief. A few bottles never fail to cure. For sale by C. McCallum & Co.

After the ela- members, is evidence of the great popularity of the order, and the confidence of the members of its perpetuity. To get together a class of 240 young men for initiation at one time who could successfully pass a rigid examination for insurance, is no small task, and much credit is due the members of the Toronto district for the very excellent work performed. The district is one of the most important in the jurisdiction; it has twentyis of sturdy Canadian stock and exfive lodges-twenty in the city, and cellent family. She is an active memfive outside the limits-comprising a membership of nearly 6,000, composed of men of all professions and trades-Toronto district is naturally looked upon by the outlying districts as the guiding star in the firmament of the A. Died Because of Ignorance. This is what Col. Hadley, the noted New York evangelist, says he nearly did. But a six weeks' visit to the Battle Creek Sanitarium left him cured of what his doctor said was angina pec-toris, with a history of diabetes and nervous prostration brought on from overwork. This was accomplished by means of common-sense methods which included a right diet. Thousands of people all over the world can testify to the life-saving qualities of the foods served upon the tables of this famous Sanitarium, Granose Flakes, Granose Biscuits and Granola, and the great substitute for tea and coffee, Caramel Gereal, have become household words The reason why these foods do such grape-sugar, by our process, which as nearly as possible takes the place of the natural digestive organs when they are in their most perfect working orthe stomach, remains a moment longer than the proper time before it assimilates, thus supplying the very best quality of blood for building up the entire system. They are also free from any artificial sweetening. Caramel Cereal takes care of the nerves. Be sure you try this great life food drink with Granose. by Battle Creek Sanitarium

EXPORTATION OF GAS BARRED Toronto, Nov. 20 .- The case of the Ontario Government vs. the Windson Interior Construction and Improvement Company, Frank Byrne and the Natural Gas Company of Windsor came up yesterday before Justice Falconbridge, An injunction was secured by the gov ernment some time ago restraining the defendants from exporting natural gas to Detroit, and that the disobeyed it. On the defendants promising to obey the injunction in the interim the case was laid over for a

Don't.

Don't think because you have taken many remedies in vain that your case is incurable. You have not taken Hood's Sarsaparilla, It has cured many seemingly hopeless cases of scrofula, catarra, rheumatism, kidney complaint, dyspepsia and general deblitty—many cases that may have been worse than yours.

What this great medicine has done for others it can do for you.
