Declares the Prophet Is His Legitimate Son.

AND REFERS TO THE RECORDS

The Resemblance Between the Two Is Said To Be Very Striking.

Chicago, Oct. 31.—A dispatch from Essex, Iowa, says: John Murray Dowie, who was killed by the attack made upon him by his son, John Alexander Dowie, says: "The statement that I am not the father of John Alexander Dowie is the greatest myth ever uttered by the mouth of man. It is scandalous that my son should repudiate me after I have done so much for him. He is my son and was born in lawful wedlock. No one can deny it. The records may be had at the great register offices, Princess street, Edinburgh, Scotland. I have always lived a quiet, peaceable Christian life and it breaks my heart to have this trouble come toward the end."

The association will have as its object the dealing with the labor problem in all phases of the industry. The cities from San Francisco to New York, including several in Canada, were present at the convention, and at the concluding session the adoption of the plan of carrying on and extending the work of the organization was completed. A convention of the association will be held in Indianapolis next February. The manner of assessing and affiliating the many associations in the organization took up the most of the time of the delegates at today's session. It was decided that all members of the association shall pay an initiation fee of $25 to $100, and members shall pay dues at the rate of 50 cents per annum per employing member, the amount of no case to be less than $10 nor greater than $200 per annum. Resolutions were then adopted. They refer to strained relations between employer and employee and demand ample protection for all seeking to earn a livelihood, and continue in part: "In carrying on a firm and uncompromising contest with the abuses of unions as now constituted, and conducted at the same time acknowledging the free right of workmen to combine, and willing that the combination when rightly constituted and conducted may prove highly useful, we earnestly desire to act, and believe we are acting in the true interests of workmen themselves." Mr. Parry, who is president of the National Manufacturers' Association, was then elected head of the organization, there being no opposition to him or to other officers elected.

F FALSE CONFESSION

Remarkable Statement by a Morpeth County Farmer.

Ridgetown, Ont., Oct. 30.—Wesley J. Simpson, the Morpeth farmer, who was committed on a charge preferred by his wife that he administered powdered glass to her, and whose sworn confession of the crime was produced at the trial, declares emphatically that the charge is utterly groundless, and is due to the peculiar hallucinations of his wife, to which he appended his name to the extraordinary document. Simpson says the trouble between them commenced at Orillia fully six years ago, when during the illness of his wife he named Stella Hayes worked for them about a month. One day the girl brought a jar of fruit to the table to serve. Mrs. Simpson noticed that the glass jar was cracked, and ordered the girl to throw it out, saying the broken glass might get into the fruit and make it dangerous to eat. Simpson declares that since that time, perhaps owing to the peculiar nature of her illness, his wife has from time to time accused him of giving her broken glass, declaring that Stella Hayes has been following them about keeping up an undue intimacy with him.

Constable Conn. of Morpeth was engaged by Mrs. Simpson to look for Stella Hayes, whom she declared to be prowling around the house making signals to her husband. Conn. who was furnished with a minute description of Stella, the clothes she was wearing, etc., searched the neighborhood for trace of such a person, but in vain.

Alleged American-Canadian Ring Said to Have "Boosted" Price of Harvesting Machinery.

Melbourne, Oct. 30.—The royal commission of six protectionists and six free traders, lately appointed to consider a proposal to establish iron works by the aid of state bonuses, is evenly divided regarding the practicability or advisability of the scheme. Two protectionists have been issued. The free traders do not believe that bonuses will permanently establish the industry, or that they are commercially necessary. They say that Canada's export duties in connection with the payment of bonuses is discouraging. The protectionists favor the proposal. They recommend that it be adopted if the Government be empowered to purchase the industry after a certain period. They accuse Canadian and American manufacturers of harvesting machinery of extortion, alleging that prior to the imposition of the Federal tariff duties on harvesting machinery in Australia under $300, owing to the operations of the American-Canadian ring.

WHAT CARNEGIE THINKS

He Says Canada Had No Case in Boundary Dispute.

New York, Oct. 31.—Andrew Carnegie, who with his wife and daughter, returned from Europe yesterday, believes that the collapse of the United States Shipbuilding Company was not without good results. He said, concerning the future: "It is a good thing to squeeze the water out of some stocks. The standard securities are as good as even." Of the Alaska boundary decision he said: "It cannot be called a victory for this country, because the other side had a very poor case. I am satisfied that Lord Alverstone could not have decided differently. I hope the outcome of this will get the Anglo-Celtic race well together. We ought not to go on a divided race. Canada should merge—no, Canada should annex the United States and Scotland. England and France had done for England what they have accomplished for the United States in this matter. It is very regrettable that they would have met with the greatest reception in the harbor that you can imagine. The country would have opened its heart to them."

FOOTBALL TEAM IN BAD WRECK

Players of Purdue College Killed On Big Four Road.

TWELVE BODIES RECOVERED

And It Is Feared Many More Are in the Debris—How the Accident Occurred.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 31.—The Big Four train, carrying the members of the football team of Purdue University from Lafayette was wrecked near Riverside Park today. Several players are seriously and perhaps fatally hurt. The team was scheduled to play with the Indiana State University this afternoon. Twelve dead bodies have been taken from the wreck.

Besides the twelve bodies that have been recovered, there are still others in the wreck. The accident was due to a cut of cars running down at the switch at the gravel pit at Eighteenth street. The engineer of the students' special saw the cars approaching and jumped from his engine. The first coach was cut in two and the engine was thrown on its side. The second coach, occupied by the Purdue Band, was telescoped. The first coach was crushed to splinters, the second telescoped and thrown down an embankment fifteen feet high while the third coach was thrown across the track. There is confusion as to what caused the accident, each engineer insisting that he had the track and did not know of the other train. A deep cut prevented a clear view of the track. The crash of the first two coaches in which were many of the players and substitutes. The engine, two coal cars and two coaches were crushed into a confused mass of wreckage. Under this pile of debris were fifty or more students of the university.

The uninjured in the rear coaches hurried to the aid of the victims. The work of pulling out the dead and injured was continued by the students and passengers, including many girls from Lafayette, until surgical help arrived. Then hospitals and surgeons' offices were telephoned for and physicians began rushing up in automobiles and carriages. Ambulances were hurried to the wreck. A large force continued tearing away the debris and removing bodies.

DURAND LIKED BY THE SPANISH

And His Promotion to Washington Should Please the United States.

London, Oct. 31.—The Times correspondent at Madrid says that any word given to Spanish sympathies by the promotion of Sir Henry Mortimer Durand as British ambassador at Washington will be short-lived, and that ultimately Spain will feel gratified at the idea that Sir Henry's stay in Madrid has imbued him with the friendliest feeling for Spain. Moreover, says the Times' correspondent, the relations of the United States and Spain have reached an extremely cordial stage, thanks in a large degree to the presence of Sir Henry's old colleague at Teter, Persia. Sir Henry's stay in Madrid has had the effect of bringing about a great change in the anti-English feelings that prevailed when he was appointed. These facts, it is added, are an earnest of his success at his new post. He has long been a convinced partisan of the Anglo-Saxon entente, and it is no exaggeration to say that the dream of the dream of his life has become ambassador at Washington. It would be impossible, concludes the correspondent, to find a British diplomat with stronger American sympathies.

AMERICA'S CHANCE

Astonishing Statement by a New York Correspondent.

London, Oct. 31.—An astonishing message comes to the Manchester Guardian today from its New York correspondent, who is supposed to be in close touch with official quarters at Washington. The dispatch says: "It is recognized among American public men that Canada's bitterness over the Alaskan award presents an opportunity for American statesmanship and adds: 'This might seek first to ingratiate itself with Canada by offering favorable terms of trade, and later press for advantages of political union. A majority of Americans always expect Canada to apply for annexation sooner or later. Many think recent events give a distinct flip to the movement of the continental union. The greatest obstacle is short-sighted American protectionists.'"

COMPARES FAVORABLY WITH HAMILTON AND TORONTO

A Glance at the Expenditures of the Forest City and the Other Places Named—School Accounts, Taxes and Tax Rates Also Looked Into.

In a couple of months the people of London will be called upon to again select a mayor and board of aldermen to conduct their business for another year. As has been the practice for so many years, it is altogether likely that the majority of people will go to the polls and vote old aldermen out and new blood in without knowing exactly why they are doing.

There are almost 300 people who are ready to agree that the city is badly managed by its aldermen and officials, but there are few people who go to the trouble of going through the annual reports and seeing for themselves just where their money goes.

For some years London's tax rate has been rather high and some people have been prone to murmur at city expenditures. Comparisons are drawn and figures for other places are sometimes quoted—frequently of places which have no right to be referred to in comparison with London.

In the Province of Ontario there are but two cities which are really in London's class. Hamilton and Ottawa. Hamilton and Ottawa, Toronto is too large to attempt to compare its expenditures and receipts with London's, and the other four—St. Thomas, Woodstock, Brantford, Windsor and other places are too small. London, though not so large as Hamilton or Ottawa, ranks in their class. Consequently comparisons with those places are of interest.

The figures below which are taken from the official reports of London, Hamilton and Ottawa, go to show that London's administration appears to be along proper lines, if the expenditures in Hamilton and Ottawa are to be taken as a criterion.

LONDON'S ADMINISTRATION. The receipts of the city of London during 1902 from all sources amounted to $501,024.22. Of this sum $291,546.54 was tax money, and $212,596.90 was from the Lake Erie and Detroit River Railway for the lease of the L. and P. S. R.

The New Armouries Will Be a Splendid Addition to London's Public Buildings

The above cut shows the magnificent new armouries which are being erected at the corner of Dundas and Waterloo streets in this city, and which when completed will be the home of the militia of the city, as well as the headquarters of the Twenty-sixth Middlesex Light Infantry.

The structure, which is built of red pressed brick with white stone trimmings, is a splendid addition to the public buildings of London. It has a frontage of 233 feet on Dundas street, and 122 feet on Waterloo street. From the foundation to the apex of the highest gable is 64 feet, and from the foundation to the top of the turrets the distance is 50 feet.

The erection of the armouries was begun on April 1 last, Sullivan & Langdon, of Kingston, being the contractors and the contract price being $100,000. The specifications make it imperative to have the building completed by December, 1904, but Mr. Sullivan told The Advertiser yesterday that it would be completed by July 1, 1904, six months ahead of time.

On the building there are at work now 12 stonecutters and 25 bricklayers, but at times from 40 to 65 men all told were employed. In the building 1,250,000 brick were used. All the rough stone was obtained from St. Marys, and the Limestone from Bedford, Indiana. The steel used for girders was obtained in Montreal.

In the hall there will be a floor space of 187 feet by 82 feet, without a post or pillar, the roof being held up by fourteen steel trusses. Sullivan & Langdon also built the armouries in Windsor and Kingston, the former at a cost of $50,000 and the latter $80,000.

GAMES AND PASTIMES IN FAVOR ON HALLOWE'EN

Suggestions for the Small Boy and Girl, for the Bachelor and the Maid—A Night When Goblins Walk and Witchcraft Is Rife.

Hallowe'en once again in London! Hallowe'en, with its crackle of nuts, its big red apples, its make-believe goblins and its merry pranks, has come once again, as it always does, with the last day of October. From a festival once surrounded by elaborate ancient rites and sacred observances, All Hallowe've has happily come to mean a time when the small boy indulges in innumerable mad and merry pranks, from tying up the doorknob to hobbling for apples, and when bachelors and maids test all the magic rites and mystic symbols of this momentous night to discover what their fate will be.

It is the night when fairies dance, witches ride and ghosts walk, strange dreams foretell prosperity or adversity, and when lovers' dreams and divination are most potent. Even in this cradle and advanced twentieth century the same omens and tokens of the Hallowe've of yore are tested and the very up-to-date young college woman is quite ready with the rest to fling aside dignity and learning and play at all the familiar tricks and charms and fast again little primitive thrills of terror course up and down her back as the hour grows ghostly.

But let it be remembered that there is a limit to everything, and that the boy who gets too gay tonight is liable to pay a visit to Judge Love to explain the why and the wherefore of his Hallowe'ven jokes, and mayhap be compelled to satisfy the ire of the court by being severely beaten by a shingle in a rear room of the police station. So beware, little boy, and keep off your neighbor's grass!

WITCHERIES OF THE EVE. On Hallowe'ven, nuts and apples are, and have always been, popular means for telling fortunes. In early English days nuts were used so much that the 31st of October was dubbed "Nut-Crack Night." "Bobby Burns," in his poem of Hallowe'ven, tells how:

The auld wife's well-hoordit nuts Are round and round divided, And many lads' and lassies' fates Are there that night revealed. Some kinde, courtly, side by side, And burn together trimly; Some stark and grim, side by side, And jump out-owre the chimney Fu' high that night.

The charm referred to is one of the oldest of the spells, "tried and true." For testing the constancy of one's sweetheart, two nuts are placed about three inches apart on the bars of the grate or on the stove, one being for the fair suitor, the other for her sweetheart's heart. If his jump or crack, he is fickle, but if both nuts cuddle up to each other and burn brightly, side by side, the man and maid will marry and be happy ever after.

Sometimes three nuts are used, one representing the girl, the other the rival suitors. The nut of the latter two which burns longer and the most quickly betokens the more constant love.

TESTS WITH APPLES. Among the traditional and always popular charms and spells of Hallowe'ven are the tests with apples. Who has not, with a half-mocking, half-fearing, eaten an apple before a mirror on the stroke of 12, to see her lover's face in the glass? Still boys rejoice in such merry games as attempting to take a bite out of an apple suspended by a string from the ceiling without touching it with the hand or foot; for apples in a tub of water, for what urchin minds the possible ducking if he gets the apples?

But charms with apples are many. One of the most popular is to peel an apple carefully, moving from stem to blossom end, and keeping the paring unbroken, uttering never a word of the sweetheart. Then in solemn silence, whilst the paring three times around the head, merrily repeating, Apple sweet or apple sour, Spell his name upon the floor; If the letters there I see, Then I know a true love; If you break, my heart will, too, For I'll know my love's not true.

The paring, if good fortune smile upon you, will show the initial of your future husband's name. VERDICT IN SEEDS. Take the seeds of this same apple and name two for sweethearts; put them on the eyelids; the one that sticks on the longest shows who will be the truer. Fair maids, however, are not above giving a sly little wink, which makes the less of the seed, and so fate is cheated! As a test of friendship two seeds are named for different friends and stuck on the palms of the hands, the one being tossed over the left shoulder, the seed that remains indicating the steadfast friend. The verdict is also reached by placing a seed on each eyelid and winking very hard.

But the omens with apple seeds are many, most of them having to do, of course, with deciding one's matrimonial fate. Have some girl name an apple, not telling it, and count the seeds: "1, I love; 2, she loves; 3, I love I say; 4, I love with all my heart; 5, I cast away; 6, he loves; 7, she loves; 8, both love; 9, he (or she) comes; 10, for she (or he) marries; 11, he courts; 12, they marry; 13, they part; 14, die of broken heart." The time charm has been "This year, next year, sometime, never." The house count: "Big house, little house, hotel, barn." "Silk, satin, calico, The wedding trip, some see in a rag, 'coach, wagon, wheelbarrow, chaise, steamer, balloon, boat, railway, automobile."

TO FIND DISPOSITION. If you want to determine the disposition of your sweetheart, this can be easily discovered by tasting apple seeds, which have been previously dampened and each one dipped into a separate flavoring. The moisture will help the splices, etc., to cling to the seeds, giving them a variety of flavors. Those dipped in liquids, should, of course, be dry. When the seeds have been prepared, take each in a bit of white, pink, or pale blue tissue paper. Pass the seeds among the guests. If the seed you pick out tastes of pepper prepare for a hot and fiery future partner; if of vinegar, expect a sour and cross-tempered mate; a seed which has been dipped in lemon juice, signifies that your life companion will never be dull and uninteresting; cinnamon means liveliness, buoyancy and good cheer; a seed of fennel and kindness; molasses, loving but stupid; lemon, refreshing and interesting.

FACE IN THE GLASS. If you take a candle, go alone in a dark room at midnight and eat an apple before a looking-glass, the face of your future husband will appear over your shoulder and you can see his reflection in the glass. So they say. Another way to get a view of your husband or wife is to take a candle on Hallowe'ven with a glass of water, in which a small silver of wood has been placed, and burn brightly, side by side, the man and maid will marry and be happy ever after.

Sometimes three nuts are used, one representing the girl, the other the rival suitors. The nut of the latter two which burns longer and the most quickly betokens the more constant love.

THE EXAMINATION OF MR. WALLACE

Transactions of Defunct Atlas Loan Made Public.

STRONG CRITICISM BY JUDGE He Calls Marginal Speculation a Pure Gamble—Claims Total of Half Million.

Toronto, Oct. 31.—The examination of A. E. Wallace, president and manager of the Atlas Loan Company, before the master-in-ordinary, at Osgoode Hall has been made public. The examination for discovery was for the purpose of providing information to the liquidators, the National Trust Company, to help them to wind up the company's affairs.

Mr. Wallace, being asked as to the policy of the company in regard to investments, said that a bylaw provided that four-fifths of the invested funds and assets should be secured upon real estate. This bylaw remained unaltered to the date of the winding up. In 1898 the firm purchased stocks and bonds through Ames & Co. to the amount of $42,656. In 1899 the purchases amounted to $97,426.50. The total in 1900 was $25,922.23. In 1901 the total was $1,025,096.83, and this latter amount did not include the assets of the Twix City syndicate, which should properly have been included. The analysis of the 1899 business with Ames & Co. showed that of the $42,656, the Atlas Company had actual investments by the Atlas Company, and the balance, $79,221, represented speculative transactions between the Atlas and Ames & Co.—that is, stocks bought on margin—a proceeding that his honor characterized as a pure gamble.

In 1900, of the $25,922.23 of dealings between the Atlas Loan and Ames & Co., $16,249.73 represented the actual solid purchases of securities, and the balance, $9,672.50, were actual investments by the Atlas Company, and the balance, $79,221, represented speculative transactions between the Atlas and Ames & Co.—that is, stocks bought on margin—a proceeding that his honor characterized as a pure gamble.

Summarized the dealings between the Atlas Loan Company and Ames & Co. for the years 1898, 1899 and 1900 show that there was in investment buying, a total of $77,101.23. The balance of the transactions in these three years amounted to $98,843.50, and were speculative or margin transactions.

In explaining why the Atlas Loan Company came to be in such intimate associations and alliance with Ames & Co. during 1901, Mr. Wallace stated that it could be traced to "our" relationship with the firm in the Twix City syndicate.

The Atlas Loan subscribed for 1,000 shares of the Metropolitan Bank at $200, on the suggestion of Mr. Ames, transferring a credit balance in the savings department of Ames & Co. in the purchase. At this time the Metropolitan Bank stock had no market value. It was just being organized. The Atlas Company through Mr. Ames, dealt in these American stocks—Southern Pacific, and Lake Superior Consolidated, Twin City, Hocking Valley, Union Pacific, Kanawa and Michigan and Sloss company. Mr. Ames was head of an incorporated company, "The Home and Foreign Securities," which conducted the negotiations. The Atlas Company also dealt in Dominion Steel through the same agency.

The examination of Mr. Wallace covered all the Atlas Company's dealings with almost everyone, and particularly with Rowley, the defaulting manager of the Eigin Loan Company. Ames & Co., and the Metropolitan Bank. Mr. Wallace admitted that there was a "speculative account" in Ames & Co.'s office for each of the directors of the Atlas.

Asked if he kept any books of his own personal transactions, Mr. Wallace replied, "Not one, and I never did have."

There are in all 1,018 claims of depositors for a total of half a million dollars. Of these $41 are "admitted" for in all about $200,000. Of the balance 13 for $23,000 are disputed, 54 for $50,000 are held pending settlement of indebtedness of depositors, on notes or shares, and 104 for $86,000 are "reserve fund deposits." Of the 1,018 depositors, over 600 are residents of St. Thomas. The other 400 are to be found as far east as Halifax, as far west as McLeod, N. W. T., and south as far as Sacramento, Cal.

MAD MULLAH'S FINISH

The Troops of Three Nations Have Him Cornered.

Rome, Oct. 31.—News from Somaliland shows that the Mad Mullah has few prospects for victory. Italy, co-operating with Great Britain, has ordered a gunboat and cruises, and reinforced its Red Sea squadron, to re-attempt what he made to annihilate his forces. At the same time, Emperor Menelik of Abyssinia has been urged to expedite the attack of his troops on Mullah's forces, thus catching him between two fires.

THE DISASTER AT DEAN LAKE

A Survivor Tells How Mrs. Booth-Tucker Met Her Death.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 31.—Miss Beatrice Milan of this city, who was in the wreck on the Saginaw Railway at Dean Lake, Kan., in which Mrs. Booth-Tucker was killed, arrived in Detroit Thursday night with the remains of her sister, Julia Agatha Milan, who died in Los Angeles, Cal. Miss Milan is confined at her home suffering from bruises.

"At the time the crash came," she says, "I was kneeling at the side of my berth, saying the Lord's Prayer, when a lurch came and then the most awful crash imaginable. I will never know how I got out of the car. The first thing I remembered was being out in the darkness, with everything like death. After the crash all was silent and dark. Then I heard a piercing scream and then another. It was like the cry of lost souls in some unknown world. Later I learned that the screams were those of Mrs. Booth-Tucker, who was in the car ahead of the one I was in."

"I scrambled to my feet and made my way toward the place from which the screams appeared to come. It was very dark and I stumbled and fell. My wrists were bleeding and my back pained me frightfully, but I kept on. Then lights from lanterns began to glimmer through the darkness, and the forms of men hurried to and fro. The screams still continued. I believe they could be heard half a mile. I found myself standing by the side of the debris of the wrecked car in which Mrs. Booth-Tucker was killed."

"Soon men dragged forth the form of that sweet woman. I looked down into her face as they brought her forth screaming. It was frightfully mutilated. Her nose was crushed to her face, her eyes were black and filled with blood, and a huge wound extended from the bridge of her nose over her forehead to the back of her head. My God! I can see the face of that poor woman, and she was so kind to me, too, when she found that I was on a sad journey home with the body of my dead sister. She died within half an hour after the wreck. I was with her when she died. She did not speak a word. After they laid her in the little ware-room by the side of the track she ceased her screaming, but she continued to moan pitifully until she died."

BRITAIN MAY TAKE A HAND GIRLS HELP IN COLLEGE SCRAP

In Settling the Difficulties Between Russia and Japan. Women Students at Butler College Mix It Up With the Men Students.

London, Oct. 31.—The Morning Post today says it understands that Japan is by no means prepared to acquiesce in the suggestion that she give Russia a free hand in Manchuria in exchange for a Japanese free hand in Korea. The reason given, says the Morning Post, is that Korean independence has already been secured by convention, while Manchuria was restored to China by Japan at the institution of European powers.

Paris, Oct. 31.—The Gaulois this morning affirms that French diplomatic proposals, at Count Lamsdorf's request, to exercise co-jointly with Great Britain, a firm, though friendly pressure on the Japanese Government, for the purpose of obtaining a speedy and amicable settlement of the difference between Japan and Russia. The Gaulois further says that M. Lamsdorf, in exchange for M. Delcasse's promise of support in the Balkan question has undertaken that Russia shall morally support France in negotiations concerning questions pending in Africa. The paper finally declares, though under reserve, that the two ministers have discussed a certain plan concerning Abyssinia, in the carrying out of which Italy, France and England will teach play an active part.

Indianapolis, Oct. 31.—President Butler, standing outside their head, ordered the students to their classes, the class going ringingly, young women students freely mingling in the excited throng and the sophomores and freshmen surging through the corridors and rolling down the long stairway. Down they went, and Butler College, and which took place after chapel service Thursday morning. The freshmen class, 60 strong, had marched into chapel wearing their red streamers of '07. As soon as chapel exercises were over the freshmen, with their stinky president at their head, filed out and lined up in readiness for the sophomores. They had not long to wait. A sophomore clutched at the colors and in an instant the sophomores was a mass of struggling students. The sophomores in the rear rushed a phalanx of the scrappers to the stairway. Down they went over and over, to the foot of the stairs.

The girl students mingled freely in the "scrap," and their screams echoed throughout the building. President Butler and other members of the faculty vainly tried to get the classes parted. Finally the janitor and his assistants succeeded in scattering the participants, but the fight was kept up here and there by small groups of students.

SAMUEL PARKS FOUND GUILTY

Notorious New York Labor Leader Convicted on Extortion Charge.

New York, Oct. 30.—For the second time within two months Samuel J. Parks, walking delegate of House-Smiths and Bridgemen's Union, Local No. 2, was convicted of the crime of extortion in the court of general sessions this afternoon. It took the jury just twelve minutes, during which they took two ballots, to agree on the guilty verdict. Parks, who this time was accused of extorting $500 from the Tiffany studios, a local firm of contractors, under threat of keeping them from continuing their work on buildings.

It was shown that Parks had obtained $500 from the Tiffany firm as an "entertainment fee" last January, when the house-smiths and bridgemen were on strike on three of the Tiffany contracts in this city. Parks claimed that the entire transaction was a business deal which, instead of being a crime, afforded considerable business advantages to the firm which paid the money. During the trial Judge Newburger declined to accept certificates certifying to the poor condition of Parks' family, and the jury had an excellent defense, although he had very weak grounds to stand upon, while Mr. Rand, on behalf of the people, placed Parks in a very unenviable light, both to the public and his fellow labor unionists, in his summing up to the jury. In his charge Judge Newburger said that it made no difference what disposition Parks made of the money after he had obtained it from the representatives of the Tiffany firm if, in the belief of the jury, he had obtained it under a threat, direct or implied, as that fact would constitute extortion.

MAD YOUTH TURNS HOUSE INTO FORT

Stands at Bay With a Hatchet—Crazed by Loss of Money Saved to Wed.

New York, Oct. 31.—George Beyers, of No. 1018 Stebbins avenue, was sent to the insane pavilion at Bellevue Hospital yesterday on complaint of his father, Alexander Beyers, for examination as to his sanity. It required the efforts of four policemen to break into his stronghold and capture him.

Beyers' father says that the young man has been mentally upset for five years. He attributes it to the fact that his son lost $800 in a building and loan concern at that time. Young Beyers was engaged to be married and had saved the money to purchase household furniture. When he went to the concern to draw his money he found that it had failed and that his savings were gone.

The loss of the money led to the breaking of his engagement, and soon afterward, according to his father, the young man's mind became affected. For several years his affliction was in a mild form, but recently he grew worse and had to be watched all the time. The young man fancied that he was a healer of the Dowie type. For several years he has refused to have his hair cut, and also let his beard grow, saying that it gave him his strength.

While the family was at breakfast yesterday morning young Beyers got a hatchet and entering the dining-room announced that it was necessary for him to make a "blood sacrifice." The family fled from the house in terror, and the father hurried to the Morrisania police station. Four policemen found that young Beyers had used the furniture to barricade the doors and turn the house into a fort. They finally succeeded in breaking in at one door and entering the house. He kept them at bay for nearly half an hour with his hatchet. He was taken to the Morrisania station, and later arraigned before Magistrate Zeller, in the Morrisania court.

The captain took advantage of this reference to Mr. Jeffrey to ask where that gentleman was. The young lady did not seem eager to reply, but when pressed, answered, though somewhat mechanically, that it was impossible for her to say where he had many friends with any one of whom he might be enjoying a social evening.

"But it is far past midnight now," remarked the captain, "is he in the habit of remaining out late?" "Sometimes," she faintly admitted. "Two or three times since his marriage he has been out all night."

Were there other causes for the young bride's evident disappointment and misery besides the one intimated? There certainly was some excuse for thinking so. Possibly some one of us may have shown his doubts in this regard, for the woman before us suddenly broke forth with this vehement assertion: "Mr. Jeffrey was a loving husband to me. A very loving husband," she emphasized. "Then, suddenly, he departed, she added, "I have never known a better man."

Some hidden anguish in this cry, some self-consciousness, she suggested, was a possibility which I was glad to see ignored by the captain in his next question. "When did you see your sister last?" he asked. "The day after she left her husband's house?"

"Alas!" she murmured. "Then seeing that a more direct answer was expected, she hesitated a moment, and then, with an appearance of effort as possible, "I was at home and I heard her go out. But I had no idea that it was for any purpose other than to join some social gathering."

"Dressed this way?" "The captain pointed to the floor and the woman before us suddenly broke forth with this vehement assertion: "Mr. Jeffrey was a loving husband to me. A very loving husband," she emphasized.

"Her watch? Is it on her breast and it's gone. It hung just—just where—" "Wait!" cried one of the men who had been peering about the floor. "Is this her watch?"

He held aloft a small object blazing with jewels. "Yes," she gasped, trying to take it. "It must have slipped from her as she fell," remarked the latter, after a cursory examination of the glittering trinket. "The hands stood at which she attached it to her dress must have been insecurely fastened."

"Yes, Why do you ask? Is it—" "Look!" He held it up with the face toward us. "The hands stood at which she attached it to her dress must have been insecurely fastened."

LENGTH OF SERVICE, RATHER THAN CLASS OF OCCUPATION

Salaries On French Roads Are Fixed by the Former.

Engineers Must Have Every Rule Within Instant Recall.

From a recently published report it appears that the total number of employees on the French railways was as follows: Managers and clerks, 3,076; traffic department, 116,227; locomotive and rolling stock, 74,248; road and buildings, 75,117, making a total of 288,728, of whom 26,754 were women. The salaries of the officials and workmen do not rule high, and are regulated more by the time the man has been in the employ of the company than by the kind of work he is called upon to perform, except, of course, in the case of skilled artisans. Moreover, salaries vary greatly, not only on different railroads, but often on the same line.

The driver of a locomotive earns on an average £7 5s per month, and his "reward" for saving coal, etc., usually amount to £2 18s. Stokers receive about £5 per month, with £1 2s 6d as extras. A foreman in the workshops earns as much as £10 per month, an ordinary workman £4, and an apprentice £2 18s.

Of the 17,273 men working on the principal roads, 8,651 receive from £2 18s to £3 18s a month; 2,253 from £2 18s to £4 7s 7 1/2d; 7,529 from £4 7s 7 1/2d to £6 9s to £7 3s; 2,680 from £7 3s to £8 14s; 1,899 from £8 14s to £10 15s; 2,171 from £10 15s to £14 10s, and 267 receive more than £14 10s—that is to say, 56 per cent of the men receive from £3 7s to £5 6s per month, and 84 per cent of the whole never get from £2 18s to £6 8s per month.

The men work, on an average, twenty-eight and one-half days per month, and from seven to twelve hours a day. Nearly 15 per cent of the men are lodged.

Officials who operate the fast trains recently put on between New York city and west from New York. Each set covers the work of one engineer, who drives his train until another engineer, with a fresh set of rules, and presumably, a fresh memory, relieves him. In other words, eight men, the average number of locomotive engineers who drive a train between New York and Chicago, must keep constantly in mind nearly 6,000 different rules, in order that patrons of these trains may travel without risking their lives. What this means to the public, in twenty-four hours' ride on one of these trains, can be judged from the following list of what an engineer on a certain 16-mile run has to watch, while his locomotive is going at 60 miles an hour:

AN ALARMING LIST. Five hundred "cross-over" switch-lights, to learn whether they are red or white. Fifteen "interlocking" switch-lights, to learn whether they are red, or white. Seven "non-interlocking" switch-lights, to know whether they are red or white. Three "non-interlocking" switch-lights, to know whether they are red or green. Semaphore arms at 25 way stations, for possible red lights. Four hundred highway crossings, to know whether trains happen to meet between stations, the train which is the most behind time will back to the next station, unless it shall have already passed over two-thirds of the distance between stations, in which case the other train will back up. The decision of the conductor of the train which is nearest to a difference of opinion. When both trains are equally behind time, train nearest the turnout will back up.

CONDUCTORS WILL GET PROMPTLY and in a forbearing spirit when they differ under such circumstances, never defaulting the trains on the road. When one party insists, the other will give way and report afterward the circumstances of the case.

INCREASES MILEAGE. Engines Can Run Better With Pure Water—Experiments Show. Since the installation of water-purifying plants the Pittsburg and Lake Erie and Fort Wayne Railroads have been preparing statistics which show that the mileage of the engines is greater and that they will go a longer time between stops for water. The Lake Erie has suffered so much from the lack of good water that during the past eight months it has practically established purifying plants all over its system. The results have also been most gratifying. The Fort Wayne also has several plants throughout Ohio, and more are being built further west. Recently the large plant of the Lake Erie at McKee's Rocks became impaired, and the breakdown necessitated the using of water direct from the Ohio River. While the change from pure water to bad was not disastrous, it was so different and affected the locomotive so materially as to cause a noticeable falling off in train mileage. The new bridge constructed by the Illinois Central over the Big Muddy River, north of Carbondale, Ill., is one of the largest concrete bridges in the world. It is composed of three double-track concrete bridges, each 140 feet in length, and the entire structure consumes 12,000 yards of concrete. The bridge is said to have many advantages over those built of steel, inasmuch as it eliminates danger from accidents. The expense, however, is greater than those of steel bridges, the construction of which the Illinois Central is discarding, believing that the use of concrete and wood is more advantageous, besides being more conducive to the safety of trains and travelers.

DOWIE WANTS CHEAP RATES. Second Elijah Applies for Reduced Fares for His Hrs. The fall inspection of the New York Central system is now under way. Prof. Dudley is making his inspection in his dynamograph car, which has delicate instruments recording the depressions at rail joints and the exact state of the track. Records are made of both passenger tracks and then comparisons are drawn.

OLD TIME DISPATCHING. Some Rules in Force Before the Days of Telegraphing. According to the Telegraph Age, a New York railway official has dug up a relic of train dispatching before the days of telegraphing. The following are some of the time card rules: "Freight trains will in all cases wait for passenger trains and for milk trains and be kept entirely out of fore, interchangeable, and passenger train, unless on positive information received from it. The rate of speed is fourteen miles per hour for freight trains and not at liberty to make up for delays by increasing the speed beyond this rate. The freight train which is behind time will move at a walk when it approaches the road time of a coming freight train and until the train has passed. Although the parties in charge of both trains will be responsible for any kind of neglect or want of caution, it will be more particularly the duty of the train which is behind time on the lookout, from twenty minutes before the time and point where it should meet the approaching freight train, unless it passes it, and to keep the train ahead with a red flag or red lantern, as the case may be, some distance before approaching curves, until the approaching freight train has been met.

MAGNIFICENT SCENERY OF THE NORTHWEST

Described by C. W. Schulte, Who Has Returned

From an Extended Trip—Beauty of the Alps Does Not Compare With the Rugged Grandeur of American Mountains—West is Flourishing.

Charles W. Schulte, president of the First National Bank and Union Savings Bank and Trust Company, has just returned from a six weeks' pleasure trip through the Northwest. Mr. Schulte reports that the excursion was one of the most delightful he has ever taken and was extremely beneficial to his health as well. He was accompanied on the tour by his wife. "The scenery of Switzerland does not compare with the wild and rugged beauty to be seen along the route of the Canadian Pacific," he remarked to a reporter for the Scimitar yesterday afternoon. "I have traveled among the Alps in the little European republic, and was much impressed by the imposing scenery to be found there. Books of travel teem with enthusiastic descriptions of the grandeur of that mountain range, and I believed when in Switzerland that I was viewing the grandest scenery in the world. My trip to the Northwest disillusioned me, however, and I am now an ardent champion of America's title to supremacy in the line of the beautiful and picturesque in nature."

"The appalling gorges, the clear streams and skies, and the wonderful colorings of the mountains, make of the scenery along the Canadian Pacific a bewildering glamor of Nature's beauties, that, to my mind, cannot be equaled elsewhere in the world. From the Memphis Evening Scimitar, Sept. 30, 1903.

Paying the Bartender.

"Men have different ways of tendering payment for what they get in saloons," said an old bartender, "and it is sometimes very amusing to see just how the men act who come into my place to get a drink. No two men will act just alike when it comes to the matter of paying for what they get in a saloon, or in any other place, for that matter. The differences are very striking sometimes. Here is one man who will enter the saloon with his money in his hand. He is ready to pay before he gets what he wants. Sometimes he will have the exact change in his hand. Again, he will have all the money he has with him in his hand. Frequently it is enough to buy the whole saloon. Sometimes a fellow will rush in and throw his money down on the counter. It's a amount this thrown down is not always just the price of the drink. It is as a rule more than the amount necessary to satisfy the bar-keeper. I know some men who come into the saloon regularly four or five times a day, and who know the price of every drink which we make, and who will persist in throwing all kinds of money on the counter when they come to get the same thing they take day in and day out. 'How much do I owe you?' they will ask as they scatter the money, and the bar-keeper, a consumer of the purpose of making trouble for the bartender. They do it simply because they are in the habit of doing so, and for no other reason in the world. But I was thinking more particularly about the differences which we observe in the way different men handle their money when they offer to pay for what they get in the saloon. Some men will pay for their drink, and some pay afterward, and whisper it not in Gath—some men do not pay at all. The number of men who do not pay when you come to think it over, and I guess we see about as much of the whims as any other class of men."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

TO REPLACE CARS. Device On the Market Which Is Fast Finding Favor. An interesting device in the form of rollers is just being put upon the market by Chicago firm. Several features will be recognized as of importance. The rollers are only 30 inches long and 10 inches in width at its wide end. The weight of the largest size made is 200 pounds per set. Not only is the inclined surface so disposed as to make gradual inclination in both directions to raise the rail, but the width and shape of the rails which are will upon the rollers in any position, without regard to the amount of skew with reference to the track. The rollers are known as "ties" by the men who are in position upon the ties by spurs upon each side of the back, and no rollers are placed with reference to the rail. Both sides are alike. The rollers are stationary in position, and it is said that when in position it must put the wheels on the track, and the strength of the largest locomotive built. The material is cast steel. The rollers are in use in the yards of several large roads and are meeting with the approval of the yardmasters and men.

HOW THE BACHELOR MAIDS GET THE MOST OUT OF LIFE

Which Would You Rather Be, the Bachelor Man or Maid?—Their Careers Contrasted—Man Looks the Happier When Good Fortune at Last Arrives.

Which bachelor would you rather be—the bachelor man or the bachelor maid? Maybe you would rather not be a bachelor at all. In that case you are barred out of the discussion. If you, monsieur, have just been scanning trays of diamond solitaires or dining and drinking your farewell to single blessedness, you won't be interested in the economics of the single man. You have other economics to look after. If you, mademoiselle, are counting your feet after the linen shaver or exchanging cut glass rose bowls, you don't care how much it costs your fancy free sister to remain fancy free. It is for the bachelors of both sexes to decide—which gets the more comfort and enjoyment out of life for the same amount of money.

HE DOES NOT MIND. He probably will get an artistic wall paper at that price and the chair is likely to be black walnut upholstered in peacock blue plush; but the man doesn't care. He can get the $1 a week extra that the gas costs, too, for he doesn't need a fire to dress and go to bed by, and the rest of the time he's asleep. But when it comes to the question of table the inner man sits up and takes notice. A $9 table means the actual living—that is, mere board and lodging—come to at least half of his income; yet the bachelor's breakfast costs 25 cents. The table is apt to be furnished with poor cuts of meat, with cheap fruits and vegetables. The Sunday chicken smokes in disguise, into the latter end of the week. The inner man protests. Restaurants are better. It is at the cheap, business man's restaurant that the genuine economist solves his problem best. He eats meals three times a day. He allows himself dessert at dinner, but not at lunch. He drinks coffee. Breakfast costs 25 cents, lunch 15 and dinner 25. The $15 girl, on the other hand, pays more for her room and less for her board. She is at home more of the time, she says. As a matter of fact, she is not thinking so much of her own comfort, for she is too self-denying in the matter of that, as she is thinking of the appearance her home will make. There will be callers. If possible, she secures a room in some house where the privileges of the parlor is included, or she clubs with three other girls and takes a $10 apartment in pleasant location. Her share in this apartment will cost $2.50 a week, and it has to be furnished in the beginning. She will make a list of things she needs, somebody can rummage at home for old bits of furniture that busy hands can re-cover. Occasionally savings may be added to the furnishing from time to time.

SKIMPERS ON MEALS. "You may as well have a decent comfortable room—board costs a little," she says. "Can you be satisfied with a $5 table?" "Five dollars?" she exclaimed. "Two and a half is all my food averages." "There's a little lunch around the corner," she explained. "Meat and potatoes are 15 cents and that's all anybody wants for dinner. For lunch I take a sandwich or a coral, sometimes tea or coffee, and this is only 10 or 15 cents. We get our own breakfast. "And what does that breakfast consist of?" "Coffee and toast. Sometimes we give ourselves a treat and have eggs. When we do that we save by boiling the eggs in the coffee so that the gas bill won't rise." This is close economy, but many a girl on that income does get her own breakfast. Plenty of her are fed on $2.50. Over against that place the man's figure—$25. Her $6 for room and board stands opposite his—7.

HE WALKS TOO. In case these bachelors live at a distance from their work there will be 60 cents a week invested in car fare. Distances being equal, the man will be more likely to save this amount, or part of it, than the woman, for walking is easier for him in bad weather. In laundry, however, she has the advantage. She washes out of her own wash tubs, dozens of small articles and sometimes large ones. It is easy as washing your face," she says. Not to him. It is one of those infinite feminine mysteries. He can't wash her, and she can't wash him. There are a hundred little things that she can do for herself where he stands helpless. She shampoos and manicures herself, while he pays 15 or 25 cents every few weeks to have his hair cut. He needs and cleans his pressed button clothes; he pays sometimes $1.50 a month to have his kept in order. He occasionally, he must confess, will save money where he won't. He probably smokes; if not a constant smoker one package of 25-cent cigs will keep his pipe busy for a week. He wants his own drinks and he wants to buy the other fellow's occasionally. He must buy a few "beers" a day, or he may pay for several cocktails, which makes the price of drinking sorrow, say from 10 to 20 or 25 cents a day. The girl on $15 will drink herself ice cream sodas and the other things she will count on somebody else paying for them. On the occasional holiday trips or to the theater his expenses are double and hers are none at all.

THE DREAFFUL EXTRAS. Allowing each 75 cents a week for the countless small sundries, such as postage stamps and telephones, the man's weekly expenses foot up to $12 and the girl's to $8, in round numbers. On what is left they must dress and pay the occasional large bills that arise—dentist's bills, Christmas gifts, journey. The girl has $1 more than he to dress on, and, if she is a genius with the needle, she can look well on less than she. She can make her shirt waists and collars and hats. Perhaps the odds for a pretty silk waist or a fluffy gown come among her Christmas presents, and she puts in several evenings each year, herself, ready for a splurge. Nobody ever gives him a dress suit. He must reform his habits where full dress is de rigor, if he means to save closely. He must restrict himself to dinner and luncheon, and he must have the dinner coat, provided he has it, with the trousers of his ordinary dress or dress suit and she will have a far greater variety. If she would only remove her heels from the room, she could have all the square meals she needs. If she does this, she is far better off on her $15 than he is. She dresses better, she lives in a better room, she can accept being pressed by obligations; sometimes she has a bank book. She is a very contented young woman, while he is annoyed all the time by his inability to spend as he sees other men around him.

AS her salaries increase the same rule holds good. At $25 he could get a dress suit, which brings upon him still more embarrassment in the wish to use it more. The girl at $25 is boarding, ready for a better house, where more dress is required, but she still uses her own needle, and makes and boards her own clothes. At $50 she is not obliged to live in a better house. His dress has ceased to cost more, for once with a complete outfit he has had a complete wardrobe. He has attempted the social stunt in a small way by this time. He is joining a club—exclusive amount fabulously and the income is small. "But," says a student of human nature, "if you are a girl and you are a bachelor maid? Isn't it the girl who is fretful and restless and fault-finding? Isn't it the man who spends joyfully if he is spending and the living brought pleasure? Isn't it true that woman, a cheerful heroism, and a cheerful heroism, if it comes to bearing up under prosperity?" Sarah Comstock, in the Washington Star.

HE CUTS IT OUT. But the $15 man sweeps all the luxuries of life off the board if he determines to pay his way. He has to eat. This is one of the needs that goes with being a man. Eating is a secondary consideration with the girl who economizes. What she must have is a chiffon parasol. The man says: "I won't wear a rented dress suit. I never did such a thing while the old man paid the bills. Even if I did, I couldn't keep up. I can't be invited all the time when I can't invite. I've got to cut it out." The girl says: "I can take that old silk parasol and clean it with gasoline and ruffle it myself with chiffon; and there's that white neck ribbon that I can clean and press and use for the handle's trimming. Organizes are cheap, and I can make my own. There's no reason why I can't spend Sunday at the Alkens' country home. The man always himself sympathetically on the shoulder and says: "Of course, you can't pay less than 75 cents a day for your meals, old chap." The girl, when she has footed what the yards of chiffon will come to and reflected on how much a dresser the organandy will be with velvet ribbon tumbling, says: "I can just as well do without breakfast for awhile as I can do without the breakfast habit, anyway." A man is willing to do with something very modest in the way of a room. He is never in it much. Even when he cannot afford to go at a swift pace, he contrives to find some way

FLOWERS ENDOWED WITH ANIMAL LIFE

Probably in some respects the most surprising result of late entomological exploration is the discovery of semi-blissful orchidaceous flowers endowed with animal life and voracious carnivorous appetites that seize and inconspicuously devour insect vegetarians which, allured by their form and color, incautiously alight upon them. These flower insects belong to the curious family Mantode, of which we have a well-known member in our Southern States, Phymatodes entomialis, commonly called "praying mantis," though in the first part of the name was "praying" and "mantis" instead of an "a," it would be far more appropriate, since no known insect is more bloodthirsty and destructive of smaller and weaker insects than the praying mantis. Its form is characteristic of any circumstances be used in walking and are no more properly termed legs than the little claws of the praying mantis wings of birds. They, in fact, the natural weapons of the insect and the used for nothing else than fighting and capturing prey.

A MASQUERADE. An insect discovered by Wood Mason masquerades sometimes as a pink and at others as a white orchid. The whole flower is indistinguishable to the eye from that of a resplendent pink color, and both in color and form perfectly imitates the flower of an orchid. In fact, it is only anterior of an orchidaceous blossom, the labellum, often of a very curious shape, is represented by the abdomen of the insect, which is actually the femur of the two pairs of posterior limbs, to greatly expanded, flattened and shaped in such manner as to represent the remaining petals of the flower. An allied species, exactly resembling a pink orchid, is mentioned by Dr. Wallace, as the authority of Sir Charles Dillk, a link, crosses Java's specialty is alluring and capturing butterflies. The expected guest having arrived, the seeming feast spread out before him, he greedily seizes and devours him. Prof. Kurz, while at Pegu, in lower Burma, saw what he supposed to be the rather rare insect, which he could have all the square meals he needs. If she does this, she is far better off on her $15 than he is. She dresses better, she lives in a better room, she can accept being pressed by obligations; sometimes she has a bank book. She is a very contented young woman, while he is annoyed all the time by his inability to spend as he sees other men around him.

EAT WHAT AND WHEN YOU LIKE. Do you ever yearn for the days of your youth when every meal was a joy in itself and you ate with appetite and satisfaction, and without a thought of pains and aches to follow? Are you eating patent foods in fear and trembling and hoping almost daily for a color and appetite not pay for your meal with suffering? Are you troubled with Sour Stomach and Heartburn and depression and the aches and pains of Indigestion and Dyspepsia? If you are not you're either a happy exception to the general rule or you have been using DODD'S DYSPEPSIA TABLETS. Why? Just listen to the experience of Isaac Jenkins, of 116 Dundas street, Toronto. He says: "I was troubled with Sour Stomach and Heartburn for a year and could get no relief. I would have Heartburn and Sour Stomach and could never touch any rich food. I had only used half a box of DODD'S DYSPEPSIA TABLETS when I was cured. You can eat what you like when you like if you carry a few of DODD'S DYSPEPSIA TABLETS in your pocket and take one after eating." Partnership. I entered in a firm today, and since Mr. Blank's death, mine is the work, mine to pay, for I'm the Co., you know. But still I love the darling boss, whose eyes are brown as wine, whose charming dimples sink and toss whenever Mirth gives sign. She bosses me around, I know; but then, I love her voice. When she may lead, there shall I go—indeed, I have no choice. Long may the shingle hang outside, and may the window never slip. The contract reads, whatever betide, together we shall share. All thought of life round her revolves, for she will disappear ere death dissolves. God send long years, ere death dissolves This tender partnership. —Lippincott's Magazine.

AND END TO BILIOUS HEADACHE. Biliousness, which is caused by excessive bile in the stomach, has a marked effect upon the nerves, and often manifests itself by severe headaches. This is the most distressing headache one can have. There are headaches from cold, from fever, and from other causes, but the most excruciating of all is the bilious headache. Parlee's Vegetable Pills will cure it—sure it almost immediately. It will disappear as soon as the Pills operate. There is nothing surer in the treatment of bilious headache.

LONG AND BRILLIANT LINE OF HUMORISTS

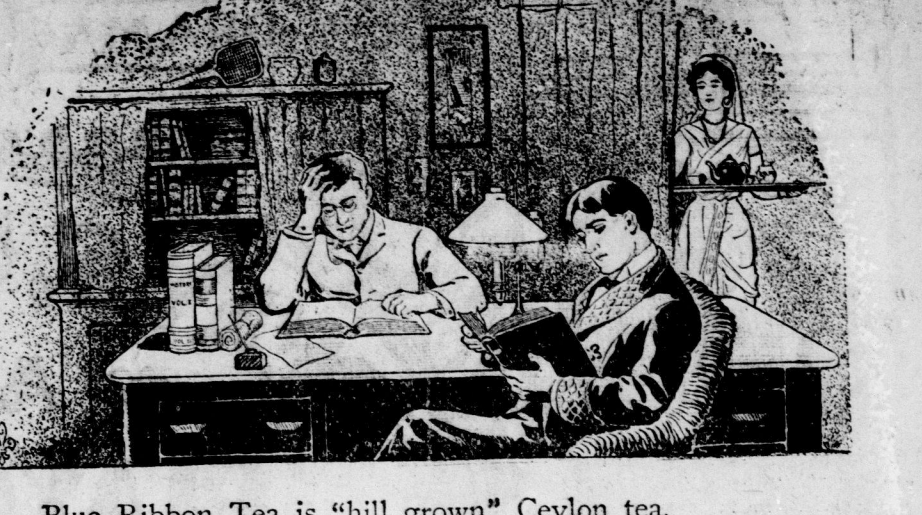

English humor is considered rather heavy. It reaches its best in Dean Paul, whose grotesque utterances combine a rare sense of the absurd and incongruous with great kindness of heart and a vein of real German sentimentality. Spain's great humorist is Cervantes, whose "Don Quixote" is a masterpiece of satire, combined with genuine pathos and good-natured humor. This country has been rich in that sort of humor where the exaggeration is worthy to stand by the side of the Micawbers and Mr. Pickwick. These writers are all adepts in that sort of humor where the exaggeration of the ridiculous is controlled by the finest feeling.

THE BIRTHPLACE OF CHARLES DICKENS. The birthplace of Charles Dickens, 287 Commercial road, Landport, near the Portsmouth dockyard, where his father was a clerk, and in which the author spent the earlier part of his life, has been sold at auction at Portsmouth, and bought in for $3,255 by the mayor, representing the city of Portsmouth. There was a large attendance at the sale, which was followed by speeches of congratulation to the municipality of Portsmouth on its action, to which the mayor responded. It was announced that a Dickens museum would probably be established in the house. The house itself is of an old-fashioned type, and possesses only seven rooms. John Dickens, a clerk in the navy pay office, rented this house from a Mr. Pearce, of Portsea, in the early part of the last century, and there his second son, Charles, first saw the light on Feb. 7, 1812. In his account of the master's infancy, in his "Life of Dickens," Forster wrote: "He has often told me that he remembered the small front garden at Portsea, from which he was taken away when he was two years old, and where, watched by a nurse through a love kitchen window, he once wrote the gravel walk, he trotted about with something to eat and his little sister with him. He was carried from the garden Gate day, and saw the soldiers exercise, and I perfectly recollect that on our being at Portsmouth together, while he was writing "Nicholas Nickleby," he recognized the exact shape of the military parade seen by him as a very infant, on the same spot, a quarter of a century ago."

HOW TO TREAT PAINFUL CORNS. Night and morning apply Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. It acts like magic. Kills the pain, cures the corn, does it without pain, quickly and surely. LEAD PENCILS WITHOUT LEAD

How These Handy Little Things Are Put Together.

The So-Called Lead Is Clay Mixed With Graphite—Cedar Comes From Florida.

Do you know there is no lead in a lead pencil? The name lead pencil is a misnomer made correct by custom.

The so-called leads of a pencil are really a mixture of graphite and clay. Graphite is a wood derived from the Green meaning "to write."

At the outlet of Lake George into Lake Champlain the Dixon Company has a large mill for making graphite of Ticonderoga perfect for use in pencil making.

The graphite and clay is mixed by machinery, after which the mass is run through filter presses in a way to take out the greater part of the water and make the mass like dough.

The cedar which is the wood used for pencils, is a name given to several evergreen trees of the pine family, and the wood is used for its durability and fragrant odor.

First we have the slab of wood as it is shipped from Florida—this slab is passed under a rotary cutter, which planes the surface perfectly flat and smooth.

These slabs are then placed in a press, and when perfectly dry are taken out and passed twice under a rotary cutter, first on one side, rounding one half of the pencil, and then on the other, finishing the rounding of the whole pencil and separating one from the other at the same time.

These single pencils are then passed through other machines which polish, varnish, stamp and put them in cases, ready for delivery to the trade.

All kinds of sizes are made—thick and thin, long and short, round pencils, hexagonal, triangular, flat, oval, tapered and parallel pencils, as well as old shapes.

The grade or hardness of the lead of the pencil is indicated by the letters that appear on the pencils. Of the ordinary pencils there are eight grades, the softest of which is marked 8.

Of artists' and draftsmen's pencils there are eleven grades, beginning with V. V. S. very, very soft, and ending with V. V. H. very, very hard.

"Do you know what a barometer is?" queried his father. "Yes, we had a lesson about barometers last week. It is an instrument used to indicate probable changes in the weather."

"Well," continued Mr. Giles, "iron is called the barometer of trade for similar reason. Business men have found that a rise or fall in the price of iron generally indicates a like change in a country's prosperity."

WHY PIG IRON MAKES THE BEST BAROMETER

How It Foretells Both Storms and Strange Creature That Is Said to Exist in Alaskan Waters.

"When I was in the store this afternoon after school," commented Arthur Giles as he and his father sat at the front porch.

While operating a fishery on Admiralty Island, Alaska, last summer, my attention and the attention of the fishing crew was almost daily attracted to a large marine creature that would appear in the main channel of Seymour Canal.

"This is the nature of the rorqual to make three blows at intervals of from two to three minutes each, and then sound deep and stay beneath the surface for thirty or forty minutes."

"What seemed most remarkable to me was that no matter which way the rorqual went, or how fast the usual speed is about fourteen knots."

"Now, what objections can you think of that would put wheat out of the question?" "Oh I see," replied Arthur, after a moment's hesitation.

"Now, none of these objections can be used against iron. It is one of the most generally used commodities. It is difficult to corner because many of the manufactures, which use large quantities of iron, own, or are interested in, iron mines."

THE WHALE FAMILY'S TERRIBLE ENEMY

DO WE LIVE LONGER THAN OUR ANCESTORS?

The Insurance Actuaries Doubtful Whether We Do.

The following statements rather doubt the generally received opinion that the life of man is longer than it was a hundred years ago:

"The old harvest apple tree—Haunt of boy and bird and bee—With its arms held wide to welcome all the breezes' and the sun's rays."

How the wind was soft and low, And the leaves swayed to and fro, With the sunshine sitting through them, And the shimmer and the shade.

On the grass below we'd weave And convince us of the truthness of the land of make-believe.

With its arms that waved a welcome every day to you and me! Happily it swings its ways, Wafting us a thousand echoes of the cherished years below.

People used to take plain cod liver oil for coughs, colds, throat and lung troubles after other remedies had failed.

years from 1870, it appears that there has been a well-defined decrease in the rate of deaths from typhoid fever, both in the North and South; a notable decrease in deaths from phthisis, accompanied, however, by an increase in the deaths from pneumonia and bronchitis, while the deaths from apoplexy and diseases of the heart and kidneys show a large increase in rate.

BOTH LEARNED SOMETHING
BY CHANNING POLLOCK.

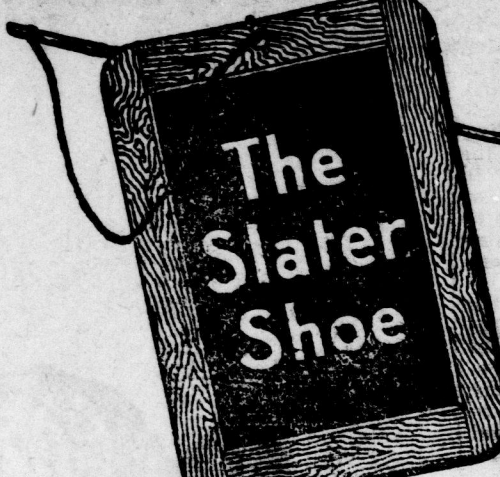

On the first night but one of their mutual vacation they sat on the porch of an ocean hotel and watched the sea climb over the sands at their feet. The last of the other loiterers had exchanged the view for the delights of dressing gown and slippers some ten minutes before, leaving to them the wide veranda and an argument began an hour earlier. A mile away a small steamer forged onward; its trail of smoke lay drowsily on the water like a black monster stretching itself for a long rest.

"Nonsense!" quoth the man. "You must have the strength of your convictions. Let's test the thing for the benefit of both." He took her hand in the enthusiasm of the moment.

ductiveness of capital will be; and the significant fact, closely correlated with the slight but general increase in the rate of interest now going on, that all Government obligations, with the exception of those of the United States, have fallen in price in the last six years. As to conclusions for the future, to quote first from the authors of the papers presented on this subject, Dr. Grossman, of Vienna, considered that interest will go no lower; Mr. Hankar, of the Belgium Savings Bank, showed that for Belgium a positive tendency to increase is noticeable; Mr. Burn of the Prudential Assurance Company, of London, argued that the general tendency in the rate of interest is to fall. Other speakers expressed opinions, that any present increase cannot be considered as permanent; that the rate will not be higher than at present; that there will be no further decrease; that the reaction against the excessive depression in the rate of interest brought on about the year 1896 by the extreme accumulation of cautious and timid capital has produced a reaction in the opposite direction, of which we are not yet able to see the limits, and it is quite conceivable that it may go on to a much greater extent than is generally believed; that there is no reason whatever to believe in the permanent and secular diminution of the rate of interest. Of course the bottom must be reached at some time, and many believed that the bottom was actually reached six years ago.

THE FUTURE RATE OF INTEREST DISCUSSED

By the Actuarial Society of America—Believed Bottom Has Been Touched.

The following concise opinion of the future rate of interest was read before the Actuarial Society of America: "Probably no subject before the congress attracted more attention, nor excited more earnest discussion, than that of the future rate of interest. Of importance to all investors, it has a peculiar significance, to life insurance companies. As pointed out by many of the speakers, on account of the large proportion of endowment policies, as well as other contracts involving large premiums and reserves, now on the books of the life companies, fluctuations in the rate of interest have more bearing upon life contracts than fluctuations in the rate of mortality. Many interesting facts and statements were brought out in the discussion of this subject, but the time at my disposal does not admit of more than the mere mention of the most pertinent and striking, namely, that the increase in gold production does not affect primarily the rate of interest; that modern facilities for the transfer of money tend to equalize the rate at any given date in all the financial centers; that the observed facts show that it is an utter fallacy to hold that the abundance of money or the progressive accumulation of wealth produces low rates of interest; that the controlling factor which determines the rate of interest depends upon the estimates formed in men's minds of what the future pro-

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children. The Kind You Have Always Bought Bears the Signature of J. C. Watson

This ailment is one of the most severe of skin diseases, and, besides being very obstinate and difficult to cure, is the cause of much distress, and, indeed, keen suffering on account of the dreadful itching and burning sensations.

Eczema or Salt Rheum.

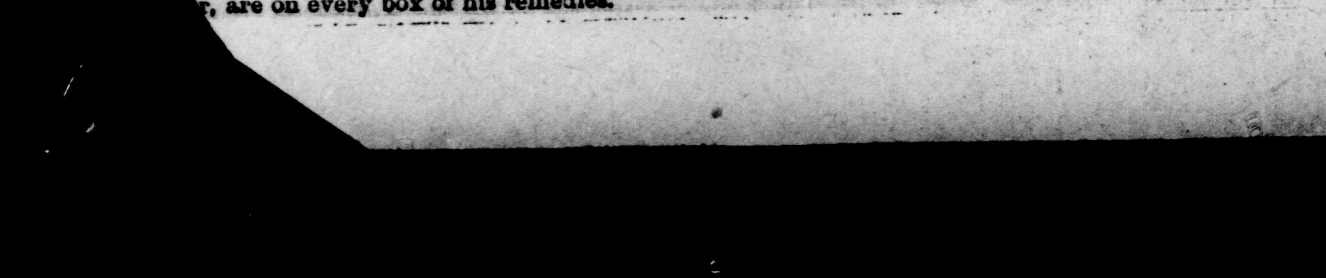

Eczema may develop on any part of the body, but is most likely to affect the scalp, face, ears and neck, the legs below the knees. In other cases it is scattered over the body, attacking several parts at the same time, and is likely to develop into psoriasis or chronic eczema, which seems to fasten itself upon the whole system.

Dr. Chase's Ointment is so pure and clean, so soothing and healing and leaves the skin so smooth and clear that it is a pleasure to use it. Though best known on account of its extraordinary control over the most torturing of itching skin diseases, it should ever be remembered that it will not injure the most delicate skin, but on the contrary is a food for the skin and a skin beautifier of unusual power.

A moment's consideration of the scores of uses to which this preparation can be put will convince you of its usefulness in the home, not for the old or young alone, but for every member of the family. In fact if the family medicine chest were to contain but one remedy it is doubtful if there could be found anything of greater usefulness than Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Mrs. Ann McDonald, Kingsville, Ont., states: "For about three years I was a great sufferer from eczema. At times the patches of raw, flaming flesh would extend from my waist to my neck and from the knees to the ankles. The itching almost drove me crazy, and though I tried all the local physicians they could not even relieve the suffering. The flesh would crack open, and I don't believe anyone ever suffered more than I did. I was told of Dr. Chase's Ointment, but did not believe that it could help me. After the fifth application of this preparation I began to feel the benefit of its soothing, healing effects and now attribute a cure to the persistent use of this wonderful remedy. It is truly worth its weight in gold, and never tire of recommending it to other sufferers."

Mr. G. M. McConnell, Engineer in Charge of the Foundry at Aurora, Ont., states: "I believe that Dr. Chase's Ointment is worth its weight in gold. For about thirty years I was troubled with eczema and could not obtain any cure. I was unfortunately as to have blood poison, and this developed into eczema, the most dreadful of skin diseases. I was so bad that I would get up at night and scratch myself until the flesh was raw and flaming. The torture I endured is almost beyond description and now I cannot say anything too good for Dr. Chase's Ointment. It has cured me and I recommend it because I know there is nothing so good for itching skin."

DR. JOHNSTON'S RESIGNATION ACCEPTED BY PRESBYTERY

Pastor of St. Andrew's Goes to Montreal—Feels Present Is Time for a Change.

The London Presbytery accepted the resignation of Rev. Dr. Johnston, at a special meeting yesterday afternoon. But it did so, despite an earnest and strenuous protest on the part of the congregation. Representatives of the sessions, congregation and board of managers addressed the presbytery in the hope that Rev. Dr. Johnston would withdraw his resignation, but the doctor declined, saying that while he would bow to the court's ruling, still his judgment told him that he ought to go.

Edward testimony was given to the worth of Dr. Johnston. The resolution which was finally passed, was moved by Rev. Alex Henderson, clerk of the presbytery, and seconded by Rev. J. Hoyle, of Lobo. It was as follows: "Resolved, that while recognizing the prospect of the removal of a zealous and talented minister from the bounds of the presbytery, yet in view of the conclusion to which Dr. Johnston has himself been led, having taken into consideration the claims of a call from a sister church, which is opening up to him a much wider field of labor than his present charge affords, and having duly considered in all its bearings the step he has taken, the presbytery feels shut up to consenting to the acceptance of the resignation and the dissolution of the present pastorate in doing so, the presbytery bears witness to the diligence, zeal and power with which Dr. Johnston has discharged the duties of the pastorate of St. Andrew's Church and rejoices in the prosperity in all departments which the congregation has enjoyed under his ministry, as has been witnessed by the commissioners, who have just been heard; bears witness further to his willingness and efficiency with which he discharges the duties committed to him from time to time by the presbytery; prays that he may be followed to the field of labor he has chosen; and commends in sympathy and affection the congregation of St. Andrew's to the pastoral care of the Chief Shepherd and Sovereign Head of the Church in the earnest prayer that in due time they may obtain a successor after God's own heart.

"The presbytery accepts the resignation and postpones the appointment of the date at which it should take effect and the appointment of the interim moderator till the December meeting of the presbytery."

PROTEST OFFERED. The moderator, Rev. Dr. McCrae, occupied the chair, and after explaining the object of the meeting he called on the clerk to read the resignation of Rev. Dr. Johnston. Mr. R. A. Little at once reported that the congregation meeting decided that the resignation was not in accordance with the wishes of the congregation and that a strong deputation was present to oppose the translation.

HIS MAJESTY A GOOD KING Most Popular English Monarch in Two Centuries.

HAS SHOWN TACT AND WISDOM Interesting Details of the Life and Duties of King Edward the Seventh.

London, Oct. 14.—Great Britain for two centuries has not had a more popular King than Edward VII. He has shown remarkable tact and ability in every respect, and although his mother was regarded with veneration by the masses of the people, it is doubtful whether she was more satisfactory as a sovereign than he has proved to be. His recent visit to Ireland has emphasized his popularity, for, notwithstanding the unrelenting hostility of the Irish leaders, he was compelled to admit that he is a charming gentleman, who knows what to do on every occasion, and his deep interest in the welfare and happiness of his subjects. Since his accession, particularly during the deep winter of the year, he has shown consideration in Parliament, he had several opportunities to display his ability and diplomacy, and has more than met the expectations of his warm admirers. No man realizes the seriousness of public responsibility more than he. Those who were under the impression that his advent as King would inaugurate an era of dissipation, extravagance and prodigality have been completely disappointed. His reign, for example, has not been less than $250,000,000, the King has shown a disposition to economy instead of extravagance. He has abolished several useless offices, has discharged many superfluous officials who have been attached to the royal household, has reduced the salaries of others, and has shown himself to be a business man who intends to run the Government on business principles. At the same time he has maintained the dignity of his office. The royal household has been kept up properly as becomes of a great empire, and at the same time without ostentation.

The civil list of Queen Victoria amounted to $285,000, in addition to which the Prince of Wales received $40,000, the Princess of Wales $30,000, and their children $30,000, making a total of $475,000, which is equivalent to $2,350,000. This, however, did not include the allowances to other members of the royal family. The present civil list under the King amounts to $700,000, to which has been added $25,000 as pensions to members of Queen Victoria's household, $30,000 to the Prince and Princess of Wales, $6,000 each to the King's three daughters, and $64,000 to other members of the royal family, which makes a total of $822,000, or about $3,900,000, against a total of $533,000 for similar purposes under Queen Victoria. In addition to this, $18,085 is appropriated by Parliament for the maintenance of the palaces and stables of the royal family. Buckingham Palace receives an allowance of $4,020 a year and $3,220 for the stables; Windsor Castle costs about $10,000 a year to maintain, with perhaps $1,500 spent on the grounds. Altogether, the palaces and parks and other buildings and grounds provided for the different members of the royal family of England cost the taxpayers about $750,000 a year to maintain in order and repair, which may be compared to the appropriation made by Congress for maintaining the President's house at Washington.

If a royal visitor comes to London the King is required to pay his expenses unless Parliament makes a special appropriation for that purpose, and when he visits another sovereign he is compelled to make many expensive presents, which are a great burden on his property. He is not permitted to make visits that he might otherwise enjoy. His two days' stay with the Emperor of Austria last month, for example, cost him not less than $5,000 in tips to the servants alone, and he had to pay all of his traveling expenses, which must be very Accident at Field Day Sports Casts Gloom Over School. German Paper Makes Its Debut—Huron College Notes.

The accident at our field sports, which resulted in the death of Master Edward Brodick, has cast a gloom over the whole university today, which it will take a long time to dispel. There is in the saddest manner of all as they move about the halls a silent testimony to the depths to which their sympathies have been stirred. Many are the expressions of sorrow for the bereaved parents. When lectures, then, were suspended on Friday, during the time of the funeral, all felt it a fitting expression of the sympathy which the students had connected with the sad occurrence. The funeral was private, Provost James, Principal Waller and Dr. Moorhouse attended as representatives of the various faculties of the institution.

F. E. Powell, '96, has returned from a visit to his home in Winnipeg. He made his debut as a speaker at the annual meeting of the students, and was an excellent secretary on that day. Miss M. Johnson, '96, has returned to the city, and will resume her studies at the university.

On Tuesday afternoon the Modern Language Club held its weekly meeting in "No. 6," but in the reception room. The society was favored with two interesting papers, one by Miss M. Johnson, which were highly appreciated. "Fortnight," the German paper, made its debut, never before published, and contained everything from a sermon to a joke. The editorials were of most interest to the students, as they reviewed the past outings at the university, and conjectured on events to come. The whole paper was successful, and the editor, Miss J. Rowat, and her assistant, Dr. Tamblin, are to be congratulated. The paper is a very good one, and which, if laughter is any sign, was enjoyed by all. The president proposed a number of toasts, which were ably responded to in German, though, of course, there was no champagne. Those responding were: "Das Weib, Miss Carlisle, 'Number Six,' Miss Hodge; 'Number Six,' Miss Rowat; 'The immense importance of not allowing of a doublet to be,' 'Neurachliche Gesellschaft,' Miss Holton; 'Armath Gessellschaft,' Miss Somerville; 'Unser Universitat,' Dr. Tamblin; 'Sport Tag,' Mr. Shafer; 'Der Herbst,' Mr. Grass. The meeting concluded with a game of 'Authors.'

Mature Shore spent a day last week at the Varsity. Volume II, No. 1, of the famous magazine, "The Atlantic," has been published. People are inquiring when the "Aeroplane" will meet.

HURON COLLEGE NOTES. A meeting of the missionary society was held on Tuesday evening at 6:45. The study of the new book, "Protestant Missions," was begun. H. W. Snell, '96, was the leader. Mr. Simpson, '91, was chosen leader for next week.

Rev. C. H. E. Owen, rector of Lucknow, addressed the students in College Chapel on Tuesday evening. Rev. S. G. A. Wicket, Mrs. Mesford, and Rev. H. A. Wright, E. A. of Clinton, visited the college on Thursday. Lectures in Divinity were suspended on Wednesday forenoon, as the principal was addressing the convention of the Anglican Young People's Association at Cronyn Hall.

Students will take duty on Sunday as follows: Tibsonburg, C. Simpson; Highgate, R. McGown; Sarala, H. W. Snell; Belmont, J. J. Somerville; Belmont, Stanley; Westminster, J. Horton and A. Barclay; Milverton, G. B. Cox.

The Fiscal Campaign.

London, Oct. 31.—E. W. Beckett, Conservative M. P. for Whitby, Yorkshire, addressing a large meeting, said that if Mr. Chamberlain meant that $2,500,000 was to make all the difference between union and the separation of the empire, they were taking a disproportionate view of the things which bound or separated empires. They were not going to render the colonies loyal by the paltry bribe of $2,500,000 if they were disposed to be disloyal without it. The English consumer would pay six pence to put one into the pockets of the colonies.

large, because a special train is always necessary, and special trains cost more money in Europe than in America. The King has several other sources of income. He receives a tribute at percentage for certain privileges from which practice we get the term "royalty," applied in the United States as well as in monarchies. As everybody knows, dividends received from certain investments or privileges are called "royalties" the world over. The King, by an ancient law, is entitled to every whale caught on the coasts of Great Britain and Ireland, and the King goes to Queen Alexandra in order to furnish whalebone for the corsets of the royal household. It is many a year, however, since they received anything from this source, but since the coronation the King has received several sturgeons, to which he is also entitled under the same law; they are always sent to him by the superintendent of the fish markets at Billingsgate. The fishermen who bring them in take a good deal of pride in sending every sturgeon they catch to their King. Under another law he receives annually two white doves and two white hares from the municipality of Windsor, with a horse, a halter, a curly comb, and a lance worth two shillings. He also receives a silver needle annually from his tailor, and a coat of gray from the Duke of Argyll. All these come under ancient grants and at one time had their meaning, but they are now observed for sentiment only.

His majesty is exempt from all taxes on his income and his lands; he is not required to pay the usual poor rates or school rates. He cannot be arrested for any crime except treason, and can only be tried by the House of Lords, nor can any of his property be levied upon except by a writ in execution for a Government debt. Curiously enough, however, he is compelled to pay 4s. as a license for every dog owned by the royal family, and although the Speaker of the House of Commons and the presiding officer of the House of Lords dare not cross the threshold of Windsor.

Water Flowed Out Through My Slippers From a Thousand Breaks of the Skin. Dr. Shoop's Restorative Cured Me Of Dropsy at Sixty-Six. This sick man got my book. He learned how to get well. You are not Well, get the book. You have but to Write. The book is free.

Read What He Wrote Me. The history of my case is this: Bright's Disease laid me on my back Oct. 12, 1902. Calling in my physician, I was told that I had a "dropsy." Then sent me to Atlantic City on Nov. 5, remaining five weeks, getting worse all the time. I called in another doctor there, and he prescribed, but I am sure he did me more harm than good. Returned to my home Dec. 10, 1902, and again my family doctor called me, and he prescribed, but I feel sure, with no benefit. He seemed alarmed at my condition, and, I think, made up his mind I would never recover. Neither did my family or friends.

Happily for me, about this time you must have appointed some of the "agents" in Wilmington (where I have lived for over 30 years) your agents for the sale of your Restorative. I read a testimonial of one you had cured. My physician had refused to give me any medicine whatever, although he came every day. I made up my mind I would start to use your Restorative, and I did so. From that time I have used 15 bottles and I feel I am cured absolutely.

Bright's Disease is a fatal one, rarely cured, and, if not treated promptly, leads to death. I read and statistics prove this same thing. There is no use to try to explain my condition or my sufferings, for most of them I had never heard of before. I had never heard of a dropsy seldom excelled in my case, hence the tension on the skin caused it to give way in thousands of places. And when I stood up for five minutes the water flowed out through my slippers and formed pools on the floor or carpets. I cannot describe my feelings, neither do I want to recall to my mind the terrible sufferings I experienced—that that be a thing of the past.

Now I watched my case carefully and at about the end of the sixth bottle I began to feel different. My swelling began to subside, and from that time till now I feel certain that I improved daily, and weekly, and today I am better in my general health than I have been for 25 years. I can eat everything that is set before me, asking no questions. I feel assured that my stomach and, in fact, my whole anatomy, both physical and nervous, has gone through an entire change, and, aside from the cure of this disease I had, my general health is much improved.

When I tell you that my Doctor told me some weeks since that he considered my case the most remarkable recovery he ever saw or heard of, and repeated the same to me again, I believe he meant it. I do certainly believe that having taken this medicine for 150 days or 15 bottles (and if I live till Aug. 3 I shall be 66 years old) I would not have been living now without its use.

I consider this medicine being found (as I mentioned before) as a direct and overruling providence of the Great God in whom I believe and to whose care I committed myself all through my illness. While I live I shall not cease to commend this medicine to the building up of impaired health in any person who will be patient and, as I did, persevere one's general health and good work has ended in restored health.

I could say a good deal more. You can use this letter as you choose, and to anyone who uses Dr. Shoop's Restorative, I am sure they will like me, be surprised at the result. This medicine will improve one's general health and make life, especially the nervous condition, more comfortable than I can explain it.

My pen is always ready to urge the use of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Yours truly, Wilmington, Del. James Knowles.

My Restorative a Month on Trial. When I say, "Take it a month on trial," that satisfies most people that Dr. Shoop's Restorative must be an unusual remedy. They can see that it would be ruinous to me if my prescription often failed. That's just the point. I do not often fail, so I take but little risk. Of course, I can't cure Cancer—no medicine can. But these incurable diseases are so rare that I can even then let them use it a month on trial. I cure many that believe their case incurable. Mr. Knowles thought chronic Bright's Disease was incurable, and so did his Doctor. Doctors everywhere shake their heads when called to a case like Mr. Knowles. If it is cancer and I fail, the sick one gives me the credit of being fair. They say to others, "try it. If it fails, Dr. Shoop will wear the expense, and their good will means much to me. Good will has meant more to me than all else since my prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—was perfected. I am consulting physician to thousands all over the world who have come to me by land or simply because some friend had them to write me someone that I had cured. In this manner my Restorative has found its way into most homes in America. It is kept there as a safeguard when kept in the home. A few doses will set things right again. These few doses—promptly taken—often prevent the chronic stage which is more difficult to treat. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a safeguard when kept in the home. Taken in time it would have saved Mr. Knowles all this suffering. How I Can Give a Month's Trial. It is because of my discovery. After 30 years in hospitals and at bedside I finally learned to treat the inside nerves. If now treat the nerves that give power and strength to the vital organs. Others—even specialists—treat the organs themselves. Not the nerves that control these organs. That is treating the effect—not the cause. This is my discovery. For years I searched for what I had found in this way my prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—was perfected. Without this inside nerve treatment, a medicine could not be offered on trial. How to Secure Trial Treatment. Simply write me. Send for the book you need to get your question in confidence that you might ask your home physician. Then I will arrange with a druggist near you to get you two bottles of Dr. Shoop's Restorative on trial. Take it a month at my risk. If it succeeds, the cost to you is $5. If it fails, the druggist will bill the cost to me. I want you to learn what I know about this prescription. I want you to learn to know—without delay. So I relieve you of all risk. If I fail the loss is mine, not yours. Write me now while you have it in mind. Simply state which Book I on Dyspepsia, Book 2 on the Heart, Book 3 on the Kidneys, Book 4 for Women, Book 5 for Men (scaled), Book 6 on Rheumatism. Mid cas s, but e h o, e, is often cared with one or two bottles. At druggist.

Castle or Buckingham Palace, unless they are invited, the official dogcatcher can go into the King's bedroom at any time he thinks it necessary to capture a royal dog, but even though he may be a thousand miles away he can be summoned into court at any time upon an order from a judge who may think his presence necessary to secure justice for any of his subjects. This is one of the noblest provisions of English law. While the King can do no wrong, he must exercise his time, his comforts and every other consideration upon appeal for justice from the humblest citizen of the British Empire.

CONVALESCENT HOSPITAL FOR SCARLET FEVER PATIENTS. Board of Health Will Try to Secure One—The Tent Idea Has Been Given Up Now.

The board of health met in special session this morning in the city hall to discuss matters connected with the epidemic of contagious diseases in the city, and also the action of the hospital trust in refusing to place tents for scarlet fever and diphtheria on the hospital grounds.

At the beginning of the discussion, Chairman Carrothers gave notice that he didn't like the manner in which the trust had treated the board of health, in that the board's communication had been merely referred back to them with a copy of a resolution, which had been sent to the council.

However, the other members of the board did not look upon the action of the trust as so very serious, and in fact, and the copy of the resolution to the council was read.

COST OF TENTS. In it Supt. Heard stated that the trust has no funds, and that the cost of equipping the tents would be $427, each, and the cost of maintenance, $52. During the last couple of weeks all scarlet fever and diphtheria patients who had sought admission to the hospital had been admitted, and were provided for their purchase, furnishings and maintenance.

Mayor Beck then suggested that in the meantime, until something was done, the medical health officer be authorized to investigate all cases in which the presence of scarlet fever or diphtheria in houses had caused a loss or hardship to poor people, and the doctor was empowered to furnish suton names with names of persons, food and any necessities which he deemed proper.

BOARD OF TRADE TO ASSIST MR. HYMAN RE SWITCHES

Committee Appointed to Wait Upon Railway Officials—Chamberlain's Policy Discussed.

Inter-switching for London was the more important of two important subjects discussed by the board of trade at its meeting last night. The other was Chamberlain's policy and the effect upon Canada.

President Minihnick stated that inter-switching negotiations had been progressing for some time, but that there appeared to be a hitch between the C. P. R. and the G. T. R. He had received a letter from Mr. C. S. Hyman, M. P., informing him of the condition of affairs, and he thought the board of trade should act with Mr. Hyman and endeavor by every means to secure the boon of inter-switching for London.

Grand Trunk was not very much in favor of the scheme, because in London mostly all the big shippers were located along the line of the G. T. R. and naturally that company did not feel like permitting any other company or companies to take away their business. The C. P. R. could not give as much in return to the Grand Trunk in London as would make it worth the latter's while to agree to the inter-switching. His own opinion was that both companies should build the connecting line of railway and operate it under fixed rates. He moved that a committee composed of Messrs. Gartschore, Rumball, Greer, Hunt and the mover be appointed to look into the matter and to secure inter-switching for London.

Mr. C. P. R. Hunt said that Mayor Beck was working for inter-switching. He thought the mayor should be approached, together with Mr. Hyman, and if he would not (Mr. Hunt) would not act upon the committee.

Ex-Mayor Rumball said inter-switching was a thing which should be worked for by everybody. Only the other day a Chicago manufacturer was in the city looking for a site, and first thing he asked Mr. Rumball was: "Have you inter-switching in London?" The situation was not as bad as some outside shippers would have you believe. Grand Trunk, London, and the board should do all in its power to bring the railway companies together.

President Minihnick moved that a committee be appointed to look into the matter, and to secure inter-switching for London. The board of trade decided to send a copy of the manufacturers' circular to all members of the board of trade.

There were present President J. P. Minihnick, Col. Gartschore, Mr. Carlick, F. G. Rumball, A. Greer, C. R. Hunt, James Mattinson, R. Blanford, A. H. Reddome, Col. A. M. Smith and J. L. A. Hunt.

PUPILS GET THEIR PRIZES VICTIMIZED HOUSEWIVES

A Pleasant Gathering at the Collegiate Institute. Story of a Woman and a Maple Syrup Scheme.

John Woods and Geo. Thompson Get Championship Medals. Worked the Same Old Game With Brown Sugar and Water.

The presentation of the prizes won at the annual field day sports took place at the Collegiate Institute yesterday afternoon. The pupils of the school would have been numerous enough to fill the upper assembly room, but many of their friends were present, and they made an excellent ragtime company.

Principal Radcliffe, who has ever shown an active interest in athletics among the pupils, occupied the chair, and he had on the program a number of invited guests. The board of education was represented by Messrs. Wm. Gamgee and John McLean, and the council by Mayor Beck and Mr. C. B. Edwards, city clerk, who prior to his appointment at the Collegiate Institute, Stratford, was also present.

The prizes for the various sports were as follows: For the 100-yard race, Geo. Thompson, of the Collegiate Institute, Stratford, was the winner, taking a term at the Normal School, Hamilton.

Mr. Edwards made a number of the presentations, and in doing so he spoke of the benefits of athletics to pupils, claiming that it was invariably found that students who were engaged in athletic sports were superior when it came to intellectual work.

Mr. McLean spoke along the same line, and in doing so he spoke of the benefits of athletics to pupils, claiming that it was invariably found that students who were engaged in athletic sports were superior when it came to intellectual work.

Mr. Thompson, junior champion, were presented by the mayor, who had donated the prizes for the juniors. Mr. Radcliffe giving the senior medal.

A number of the prizes were presented by Mr. Malcolm, Secretary McEltheran, and Mr. Nicholas Wilson, the veteran teacher, spoke briefly.

The presentation of the gold medal prizes for the juniors, and the silver leaving examination, was deferred until Christmas, as the winner, Fred A. Chapman, of Dundas street west, is taking a term at the Normal School, Hamilton.

WILL GO TO THE HOME. Old Thomas McClaggan had sentence suspended in the police court this morning on the charge of vagrancy. He has been in custody for several weeks, and has now expressed a willingness to go to the Aged Men's Home, and the police court has granted the authorities. Two intoxicated who have suffered a week's imprisonment each were discharged and that, completed the business of the police court.

MONDAY NIGHT'S CONCERT. The concert that will be given at the Auditorium Monday night by Mr. Cyril Dwight-Edwards and Mr. Thomas Martin will, it is anticipated, be the principal musical event of the local season, and the prospects are that it will be the most largely attended. The commanding position that it is acknowledged these gentlemen occupy in their respective lines leads to the pleasant anticipations regarding their concert. The programme they have prepared is one of the best ever given to each member of the highest artistic rendering. The advance sale indicates that a very large audience will be at the Auditorium Monday evening.

SHOT AN EDITOR.

The sports from the city and surrounding country do not all go to the same part by any means. Many go to Haliburton, where deer abound, and a number also go to the Muskoka district and farther north on the shores of Lake Huron.

From reports received they will find plenty of deer to shoot. Mr. Evans was at Huntsville, Haliburton, some time ago, and he saw deer in every direction. The same reports come from Muskoka and Parry Sound.

Deer stories will be in order in the course of two weeks or so.
