DEFER BUILDING OF COLEMAN WARD SCHOOL

Lowest Tender Was $164,000—Discontent Among High School Teachers Arouses Trustee Woodley to Some Straight Talk—Col. Ponton Criticizes Contract With School Architect.

Coleman Ward School will not be built for the present, so the Board of Education, decided last evening. The tenders for the erection of the building were starting, the lowest being $164,000, without furnishings and equipment. There were three bulk tenders, two on a commission basis and two tenders on part of the work.

Mr. F. S. Deacon, chairman of the Sites, Building and Repairs Committee, presented a recommendation that the City Council be requested to make a grant of $50,000 in addition to the $100,000 already voted for the school.

Mr. O'Flynn said the advance was enormous. "It seems to me better to defer building for a year. Things cannot be worse next year. This will strengthen our hands with the public. This would not prevent the school being built. Supposing we are a little crowded, but we could afford to be." The board should look at this very carefully.

Mr. H. McGinnis seconded the resolution.

Attack on "Agitator"

Mr. Woodley thought the High School staff could not be satisfied unless their full demands were satisfied. Their minds change every little while. "I believe there is an agitator somewhere. The School Management Committee is suspicious of who that man is. I tell you I'm not going to meet again to discuss the question of High School salaries. As far as I am concerned it is settled. I will not meet again to discuss any other item but the other thing. We should not lose our heads. We have enough taxes to pay. Most of the High School staff do not pay taxes and when they please pack up their duds and get out of town, leaving us to pay the taxes."

Mr. McGinnis said there had been too much secrecy in the board. "Don't be dictated to by the School Management Committee."

Mr. Elliott favored delay for a year. The bond market was not good today.

Mr. McGie thought the work should be deferred, but not necessarily for a year. So did Mr. Woodley.

Mr. W. R. McCreary was not in favor of going on with the work with the great increase in the cost of building. He was surprised at the size of the tenders. He moved that the matter be referred to the Sites Committee for further consideration.

Dr. O. A. Marshall found engineers and contractors believed that building would be more expensive next year, owing to the rush of work deferred this year.

Mr. Deacon said the work could be proceeded with by leaving off one unit. He did not think labor would go down.

The amendment lost and the resolution of Col. Ponton carried. No date was set for the work to begin.

Discontent at High School

A tornado of letters from teachers of the High and Public school teachers swept up to the Board of Education. All called for larger increases and expressed dissatisfaction with the action of the School Management Committee's action as to appointments and salaries.

The High School teachers are not satisfied with the action of the School Management Committee as to contracts relating to the month's notice. The Board decided to make no change.

The School Management Committee reported a decision to make the following changes in the High School salaries: A. E. Thrasher, $1,800 instead of $1,700; Mr. Wilson, $1,800 instead of $1,700; and A. A. Affleck, $2,000 instead of $1,900. But this was not considered satisfactory.

Mr. F. E. O'Flynn read the recommendation of the High School teachers, re salaries as compared with last year's salaries and the salaries offered this year by the board.

Mr. Sinclair moved that the matter of High School salaries be referred to the school management committee to report back to the board. If a quorum is not possible, the committee will have power to act. Personally he favored going further than had been.

Mr. H. McGinnis seconded the resolution.

Principal MacLaurin, also sent a communication in the matter of teachers' salaries.

East Belleville playgrounds committee asked for one hundred dollars grant. The grant was made.

Architect's Contract Unsatisfactory. A tempest arose over the contract signed with Architect Jarvis relative to the proposed Coleman ward school.

"Is it true, as rumored, that $3,000 was paid to the architect even before the contract was signed," asked Col. Ponton, when it was recommended by the Finance Committee to approve of the payment.

Chairman McGie said a special committee had been given power to draw up an agreement with the architect, Mr. Beaumont Jarvis.

Col. Ponton wanted to know why this action was taken without the board or the finance committee passing on this.

Mr. Elliott said there was one cheque of one thousand dollars issued by the sites committee. The architect asked for more and the chairman authorized the issue of a further cheque of $2,000, making a total of $3,000.

Mr. F. S. Deacon said the committee had followed the rules governing architects. Mr. Beaumont Jarvis was still due certain money, about $500. His total fees will be $5,000, but 30 per cent. is withheld until the school is built.

Col. Ponton thought it strange that 70 per cent. of the architect's fees should be handed over before the tender is let, not enough was withheld.

Mr. McCreary asked that the contract be laid before the board.

Mr. McGie thought the resolution of the board covered the signing of the contract.

Col. Ponton said that the committee was against the payment of the $2,000 until the work was completed.

Mr. Deacon said the procedure was perhaps not technically correct, but it should have been before the board.

Mr. McGie produced a copy of the agreement.

Mr. J. Elliott said the board was legally bound to pay this amount of $3,500 to Mr. Jarvis.

Not Businesslike

Mr. H. McGinnis urged that in future no monies be paid out without the authority of the board. The transaction was not quite businesslike.

Col. Ponton said the contract is not one such as the board should approve. The board should not pay $3,500 when it is likely impossible to build the school this year.

"We are not bound by any architects' association or teachers' association. We are not going to be dictated to by any architects or teachers," declared Col. Ponton with emphasis. "I do hope the school can be built next year."

Mr. Sinclair asked how much would be owing to the architect if the work did not go on.

Mr. Deacon said $3,500 or $500 besides what has been paid.

Mr. Sinclair could see no course but to endorse the action of the committee, although he thought the matter should have come before the board.

Col. Ponton attacked the contract as not a satisfactory one.

Mr. Jarvis said if the work did not go on no more than $3,500 would be his remuneration.

The board decided to approve of the payment of the cheques.

Will Sign Petition

The chairman was authorized to sign the petition for a sidewalk on the south side of Catherine St. between Isabelle and Octavia.

Mr. McGinnis asked that Miss Fleming be reinstated in Queen Victoria School instead of being placed in Grier St., but the board took no action.

Portia Never Had Case With All These Angles

Miss H. B. Palen Appears as Counsel in Division Court

When Portia comes to the Division Court there is even-handed justice among the people of that race with whom Portia had to deal.

In brief, Mrs. M. Lebo procured a Dayton SScale from Pearl Abbo, who had purchased it from Sam Fine at 1112 Bloor St. west Toronto. Sam's Toronto place of business is said to be 155 Queen West, but down at 609 St. Lawrence street, Montreal, he had signed an agreement promising to indemnify Pearl Abbo, her heirs and assigns and executors if the scale were not as represented.

Now it seemed that the International Business Machine Company seized the scale from Mrs. Lebo because of a lien of $57 and $12 costs. In consequence Mrs. Lebo sued Mr. Fine for $77. On the other hand, Mr. Fine held a chattel mortgage from Mrs. Lebo for $40.

Through this mass of modern business intricacies, beside which Shakespeare's plot is simplicity itself, Miss H. B. Palen, as counsel for Mrs. Lebo, progressed this morning in the Division Court before Judge Morrison.

Finally His Honor solved the difficulty.

"The scale is worth about $40," said Judge Morrison. "Let Mrs. Lebo discharge the chattel mortgage against Fine and keep the scale." Settled.

Wedding Bells

SKINNER—THOMPSON

At Bancroft this afternoon at two o'clock a pleasant event took place when Miss Isabella Mary Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Thompson of Montague Valley, was united in marriage to Mr. Arthur James Skinner of Belleville. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. M. C. Wilson at the Methodist parsonage. The bride wore blue tulle and georgette with hat to match. She was assisted by Miss Maud Musclow of Musclow, who was dressed in blue silk and wore a hat to match. Mr. John Sutherland of Musclow, did honors for the groom. After the ceremony the bride party repaired to the home of the bride's parents, Montague Valley, where a wedding dinner was spread before them. Between sixty and seventy-five guests attended the function. Mr. and Mrs. Skinner were the recipients of many beautiful gifts. They will, after a short honeymoon, take up their residence in Belleville on Catherine Street. The bride is well and favorably known in this city and the groom is a popular young barber in this city. The best wishes of hosts of friends are extended to the happy young couple.

TAXPAYERS DISCUSS 1920 ASSESSMENT

Sheriff Morrison Says Court of Revision Extended Time for Appeals In Order to be Fair to All—Public Works Should be Restricted, Suggests Mr. W. B. Deacon

The question of assessment and expenditures was taken up at an informal meeting in the City Council Chamber on Tuesday afternoon at four o'clock. Mayor Riggs had called a number of taxpayers together to discuss the situation. Mayor Riggs explained that the council was desirous of keeping the assessment in such a condition that the tax rate would be low, so that the city might not get a black eye as far as manufacturers and prospective industries are concerned.

Chairman Gives Views

Sheriff Morrison, Chairman of the Court of Revision, declared property should be assessed so that it would bring a six per cent investment.

City Assessor J. A. Kerr stated that no property in Belleville was over assessed.

Manager Arthur Jones, of Molson's Bank, said there was little or no money made in renting property today.

Mr. Morrison stated that the ownership in Belleville was not large. The court was allowing about ten per cent increase on the 1919 assessment.

Looks for Million Reduction

At the present rate of reductions, the assessor said he looked for a reduction of a million in the city's assessment. Five hundred parcels of land have changed hands. He contended that the increase in assessment of over 10 per cent was proper as the raise was for two years instead of one.

"Today the assessment is as far behind present values as the 1919 assessment is behind the 1920 assessment."

The assessor said he went to the registry office and had a complete record of local sales.

The Court of Revision was not working on equalization and the assessment was now getting into worse shape than before. People won't allow one to make a perfect assessment if that were possible.

"I do claim the 1920 assessment is better than that of a year ago," said Mr. Kerr.

Sheriff Morrison claimed the houses of Belleville were assessed beyond value. They should be assessed on a par with lands.

No Investment in Property

"Tell me one property," he asked, "that has been sold as an investment. Everybody wants a home and the price goes up. That's the reason for the big prices paid for property. Is any man with brains going to build houses today?"

Ex-Mayor H. F. Ketcheson said he was told that building costs would continue high.

"The opinion of many is just the opposite," declared J. J. B. Flint. Prices are apt to come down and some things have already declined. Should reduce all, Says Assessor

The assessor thought that as some had got large reductions the Court of Revision should go over the entire rolls and reduce everyone's assessment whether appeals are made or not. A large part of the taxpayers are appealing and those who do not should be similarly treated, where he had assessed over the ten

Late Sydney Twining

The funeral of the late Sydney Edward (Jack) Twining took place on Tuesday afternoon from the home of his parents, Bettes Street. Rev. Rural Dean Swayne officiating. There were many beautiful floral tributes to the memory of the deceased. The bearers were four boy friends: Lewis Dutton, Fred Symons, Alexander Wardhaugh and Charles Orrill. The burial was made in Belleville cemetery.

per cent increase, otherwise one man might be paying 45 mills and the other 35 mills.

Mr. Morrison said it seemed as if Mr. effort had been made to make a farce of the Court of Revision by having the rolls confirmed on short notice. That was not fair and for that reason time for appeal was extended.

Ex-Ald. W. B. Deacon told of his assessment being boosted sixty per cent. If others were getting reductions he did not like sitting still.

Mayor Riggs thought the court should have longer time to do their work. There should be an equalization commission.

Claims Increase Not Justified

Col. W. N. Ponton asked—"By what amount the 1920 assessment differed from the 1919 assessment?"

He was told $1,700,000 increase. Col. Ponton—"Would any man say this increase was justified? The black eye had already been given if there had not been a court of revision to check this assessment. The total assessment increase does shock the conscience."

Rate of Assessment in 1919

Mr. Kerr said that sales in 1919 showed that Belleville assessment was only $55 on the $100. So 25 per cent increase was justified. The actual increase averaged 26 per cent.

Col. Ponton claimed recent sales were abnormal. "Let us get on our feet. This is a transition year." The City Council was responsible for the rate and not the Court of Revision.

Mr. Burrows claimed Toronto and London assessments were lower than Belleville on residential parcels of property. People could not make six per cent revenue from their houses.

Col. Ponton—"We have to thank the assessor for marking it up. If the Court of Revision has found a moderate way out of the difficulty, they are to be thanked."

Mr. H. F. Ketcheson said tax rates could not be expected to stay low if the city is to be kept decent.

Time to Cut Out Expenditure

Mr. W. B. Deacon declared—"I think this is a year in which we should sit tight in spending money. I don't believe this is a year to build a school in Coleman Ward. East Bridge Street pavement should not go on even if the people want to pay for it for the annual charges on the city's share would be $3,600. The road is good for several years."

"I am told we owe the banks half a million dollars. July 1st is not yet reached."

The council collectively seem to have lost their heads in spending money this year.

Mr. Flint said the situation was serious.

Ald. Hanna pointed out the city's share of work yet to be undertaken this year: Sewers—$17,710.05; Walks—$14,096.67 and pavements, $76,110.78.

The meeting then adjourned. Those present were the Mayor, J. A. Kerr, Ald. Hanna, Ald. Doyle, Ex-Ald. G. N. Simmons, C. H. Vermilyea, H. F. Ketcheson, W. B

Captain Frank D. Graham, M.D., M.R.C.S., formerly of the medical staff of the Ontario Hospital at Brockville, and now an officer of the Royal Army Medical Corps, was in Brockville Thursday night visiting friends and on leave from England. He enlisted in British Columbia with the C.A.M.C. and overseas was sent to India with a mobile frontier force. While there he contracted malaria and was invalided to England, returning to Canada at the commencement of this month. Capt. Graham reports at Aldershot early in July.

In 1915 Prof. Scott was appointed acting professor at the university, supplying for members of the staff who had enlisted in overseas units on lecturing in railway and municipal engineering. One year he spent at Halifax with the Royal Canadian Engineers and on his return he was engaged by the university to develop a course at the college in highway engineering. This course was begun following the grant made by the Government a year ago of twenty million dollars for highway construction. The Government has failed to assist Queen's in financing such a course and the authorities have decided to drop the course.

Prof. Scott is going to Brockville shortly in connection with a road paving contract.

A new train running via Rome, Richland and Watertown to Clayton, N.Y., operating under the new summer timetable, effective June 27th, will move earlier and quicker service between Watertown, N.Y., and New York and the south, although designed primarily to meet the demands of the Thousand Island region. This train, with the New York-Clayton sleeper, will reach Watertown at 6.05 o'clock in the morning, leaving at 6.15 o'clock for Philadelphia and Thousand Islands. It will bring the Syracuse papers into Watertown forty minutes ahead of the present service.

Kingston. On hearing the police arrive she evidently tossed the valuables out of the window. The girl, 16 years old, came to Kingston three weeks ago intending to become a housemaid. Receiving employment in one of the most congenial houses in that city, she started to work and apparently was doing well. The temptation was too much for her however. She left quite suddenly early in the week taking with her a diamond ring and several other trinkets of jewelry. The police were notified and a search warrant was issued. No arrest was made as the family in which she worked felt that she has had her lesson.

Sir Lomer Gouin, Prime Minister of the Province of Quebec, accompanied by Lady Gouin, returned to Montreal from a trip to Europe. The Premier said that what was causing the greatest interest in Europe was the wealth of Canadian forests, and added that several syndicates with large capital, both in France and England, were coming to Quebec Province to secure forest lands. He said that he expected to see a large influx of technical explorers come out to that Province in the near future to look into its mineral resources, and later encourage immigration from France, Belgium and England. The Kingston police magistrate heard of a new drink at Friday morning's session. It is not a new drink to the public at large, but Friday was the first time that a tippler claimed that he got under the influence of liquor on it. Some person has said that there is nothing new under the sun, but from time to time the police court hears something new. We have all heard a lot about lemon extract, dandelion wine, port wine, Florida water, etc., but it remained for a poor unfortunate before the magistrate on Friday to put over the rhubarb wine. It is to be hoped that the drinkers will not take to it too heavily, as it will mean that the price of rhubarb will take a big jump on the market and then it will be a case of goodbye to the pie's mother makes.

In a communication to the Brockville R. & T. Mr. John L. Publow, former well known resident of Brockville, who has been a resident of Calgary, Alta., for some time, says the crop prospects in the southern part of that province are not looking any too rosy owing to hot winds and no rains, but in the northern portion conditions are much improved.

Strawberries sold in Kingston Friday at 45 cents a basket and at Malorytown, forty miles to the east, at 27 cents. Can they grow fruit cheaper in Leeds than in Frontenac?

The Kingston Automobile Club have had road signs prepared for the district north of Verona. Some of the County Councillors who were in Kingston last week from the northern part of the county have consented to assist in placing these signs and took them with them when the County Council session was over.

events. The commandant regrets very much that he has been obliged to give an order to shut the main gates at night owing to the extensive damage done by cars. During an social function at the college on the evening the gates will be open.

A good joke is going the rounds in Kingston, says the Whig, about a Kingston man who planted aspirin tablets in his garden the other night. Hubby spent a busy time getting the garden in shape for the planting. His good wife came out with a package of what she believed to be carrot seeds, but when the man, who was doing his best for increased production, investigated, he found that he had been dropping aspirin tablets in to the ground.

Wednesday afternoon a young man named A. Gilmour, a prisoner at Pictou jail on a charge of theft, made good his escape. He was allowed out to assist in cutting grass on the lawn when he took French leave. He wore a grey cap and dark trousers and wore a pair of running shoes.

Becham Trotter, Brandon, Man., a former resident of Pittsburg township has written a letter to the Brandon Sun, recalling events of other days. Speaking of the disappearance of old buildings, he writes that in a general store on the site many a tenderfoot, who thought of starting a chicken ranch asked if the eggs should be planted in hills or ditches and many a farmer started out to farm with a double-barrelled gun. He tells of a farmer in Brandon, offered 14c a bushel for his grain, "drove down to the river and backing up to the swift current shoveled his grain into the water."

An unusual form of excitement stirred the village of Portsmouth Thursday night. A patient from Mowat Hospital on crutches, who was taking a rest in Aberdeen Park was suddenly heard crying, "Catch that man" and hobbling after a man who was running through the park. The chase was taken up by the villagers within hearing distance, but the unknown man escaped into the penitentiary grounds. The returned soldier claimed that he recognized the fugitive to be a man who had stolen $50 from him at an earlier date.

A very dangerous practice seems to be spreading among the boys of the city of Kingston. It is that of stalling rides on the spare tires of automobiles, a habit which obviously might result in a serious accident. In New York City motorists have their tires guarded with spikes.

A practical committeeman, in presenting diplomas last June to a graduating class spoke as follows: "Girls, in presenting you these diplomas, it is by their significance you are led to allow your mother to do all the work, bake all the bread, sweep all the floors because you can read Latin or demonstrate a theorem in geometry, then has your school been a most unfortunate course, and in all the teachings you have ever received at my hands, I trust there has been no lesson that has weaned you from the dish pan. Boys, if from this graduation you go out into the world too nice to carry wood and swing the hogs if need be, then has our school failed in its purpose and sown the wrong seed."

Charles J. Foy, barrister, of Perth, received a message stating that his son, Leo, had fractured his ankle after winning the high jump at the field sports at Loyola College in Montreal. Up to the time of the accident he had won three medals, and had the accident not occurred would have won a championship cup for himself, a shield for his class, and also the junior championship for the college. Mr. Foy, who in his college days was one of the fastest amateur runners in Canada, is naturally proud of his offspring.

Judging by the figures compiled in Switzerland, the war at first increased the world demand for Swiss watches, but the coming of peace makes it necessary for the watch manufacturers to get together and plan with all the acumen at their disposal such ways and means as shall offset the determination of other countries to develop watch-making at home. Seemingly in danger of being brought to a standstill when war broke out in 1914, the Swiss watch industry actually exported more watches than ever in 1915, and in 1916 the total export of watches and movements reached nearly 18,000,000, with a total value of more than $40,000,000. Then the economic restrictions that were being put in force in various countries began to effect the Swiss watches exportations fell off, and Swiss watches accumulated; there were 2,000,000 or 3,000,000 more Swiss watches in the world than anybody knew what to do with. Even so, more and more people purchased Swiss watches, while from Russia the income of the Swiss watchmakers fell off from over 22,000,000 francs in 1917, to less than 2,000,000 francs in 1918. But things are happening in the countries that have thought so well of the Swiss watch that the watchmakers "view with alarm" in Switzerland, and are going to do their best to counteract. Watchmakers in England, France, the United States, and Japan are making a strenuous and promising effort to provide the home folk with all the watches they need, and the Swiss Chamber of Watch Manufacturers is ill-pleased.

The Inland Oil Company struck oil Friday afternoon at a depth of 270 feet about one hundred yards from where the former well was sunk on the John Bothroyd farm, Thamesville. The well struck Friday gives promise of being much better than the old well. It overflowed. A pump will be placed in position on Saturday morning. The oil well flowed from sixty to seventy barrels a day for several days. Drilling on the new well stopped when the big line was reached.

Three hundred and fifty thousand dollars has been set as the amount desired for the erection of a Student's Union at Queen's University Kingston, to commemorate the memory of the members of the university who served in the late war.

Such a building which is felt to be much needed at Queen's would act as a centre of all the social and religious activities of the students. It would contain, first of all, a room dedicated to the memory of service that the university had given during the great war, and especially to those who had died as a result of the struggle. There would be gathered into this room all the memorials which could be procured of the men who had fallen, and their would be erected also tablets giving the whole roll of honor. The Union would contain a dining hall to take the place of the present successful but rudimentary cafeteria, a debating hall, rooms for the Alma Mater Society, the staff of the Journal, the Y.M.C.A., and other agencies of student life. It is felt too, that a wing should be erected for the women students of the university. Towards the fund for this building the students have liberally subscribed $30,000 and it is expected their contributions will reach $40,000.

The splendid part played by Queen's in the great war is well known by the citizens of Kingston, the fine records made by its Engineers, its Field Ambulance, its General Hospital, its Batteries, the 253rd Battalion, and by the hundreds of men who enlisted in other units. The list of slain totals 179.

Some protection should be furnished by the town at the C.P.R. station at nights," remarked a Lindsey horticulturist Saturday morning when referring to the fact that small boys are in the habit of destroying flowers and breaking shrubs at the C. P. R.'s beautiful flower garden. Friday night several beds of pansies were missed and some shrubs broken. "The trouble usually takes place when the evening train comes in from Toronto," said the gentleman, "and I think the night constable should take an occasional stroll over there and settle the heads of some of these mischievous lads."

The large class room on the ground floor of the old medical building at Queen's is being fitted up as a biology laboratory. The work in biology has been carried on up to date in the new medical building but the quarters have become too small. The class last term numbered 87 and while the number of medical freshmen to be admitted next fall will likely be limited to 60 the class will be large for the present accommodation.

During the war great quantities of waste silk—"floss" from the outside of cocoons, not available for spinning—were purchased by the United States Government in China. The stuff was required for the making of bags to hold the smokeless powder charges of big army and navy guns. It is of utmost importance that when the powder charge of a big gun explodes the bag shall be instantaneously consumed. For the very large naval guns there may be half a dozen bags to a single charge, several hundred pounds being required. Every particle of the smokeless powder (which is as powerful as gun cotton) is instantly converted into gas. There must be no smoldering residue of the bag tissue left in the powder chamber of the gun, else it might get fire to the next charge, causing a disastrous explosion. This might easily happen

New Brunswick Lady Who Had Tried Other Medicines Claims She Found the Remedy She Was Looking For in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

St. Leolin, N.B., June 21 (Special)

Among the many women who claim they owe their health to Dodd's Kidney Pills, none is more enthusiastic than Madam Bruno D. Landry, a highly esteemed resident here.

"It is with great pleasure that I recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills," Madam Landry says. "I was ill for a long time, and nothing I took relieved me. I read often of the good Dodd's Kidney Pills did for others, but I had not much faith in them. At last, after having tried a lot of other medicines, I decided to give Dodd's Kidney Pills a trial. The result has brought me perfect health. If those who suffer from kidney diseases will use Dodd's Kidney Pills they will find them good and soon be convinced, as I have been, that they are the remedy for kidney disease."

Dodd's Kidney Pills are no faith cure. You don't have to believe in them to find in them the relief you are looking for. But if you ask your neighbors they will tell you out of their own experience of the work Dodd's Kidney Pills have done.

Feed! Feed! Cheese Board Uses Council Chamber

Mayor Riggs Explains Situation to Cheesemen—Saturday's Sales.

The Belleville Cheese Board occupied the city council chamber on Saturday for the regular meeting of the board. Mayor Riggs expressed his pleasure at seeing the board in the chamber, knowing that the members represented the best in the community. He voiced his regret at what had transpired in the council meeting on Monday when some aldermen spoke against the cheese board's being accommodated in the chamber. The mayor stated that it had been arranged to have the board meet there until the other room was ready or more suitable quarters were secured in the city building. "We want to work in harmony with the farmers," said the chief magistrate. "We are in sympathy with you and want you to deal here." (Applause.)

President Mitchell declared that every one appreciated Mayor Riggs' stand and his courtesy in opening the council chamber to the board. He read a letter from the Chamber of Commerce secretary, Mr. Fredericks, offering the use of their quarters for board meetings free of charge.

Mr. M. Sprague moved a vote of thanks to the Chamber of Commerce and the secretary, Mr. F. J. Knight to notify that body that the mayor and council were providing quarters in the city building. Mr. McMillan seconded the motion.

Mr. McCreary and Mr. M. Robertson, directors of the Chamber of Commerce brought greetings from that body. All realized the importance of the cheese industry. Mr. Robertson said he wanted the board to meet in Belleville.

Mr. W. S. Cook declared: "I have been coming to the cheese board for 40 or 43 years and I do not like to leave the city hall now."

Mr. Mitchell said he appreciated the offer of the Chamber of Commerce and felt in sympathy with their work to boost Belleville. He had yet to send his first dollar out of this city. In helping Belleville people help the surrounding country. "We have always been used well by the council."

Mr. George Nicholson said conditions were now satisfactory and the board should accept the mayor's invitation to use the council chamber until the other quarters are ready. The resolution of Mr. Sprague carried.

Mr. John Elliott said Hastings County Council had tendered the use of Shire Hall for the meetings. He was glad to see the city council open to the board. The public is all behind the cheese board, for the people feel that nothing can take the place of the farm.

On motion to Mr. G. Nicholson and Mr. S. Moore, a vote of thanks was passed to the county council for their offer.

Mayor Riggs told the board he had heard Premier Drury at Picton on Friday night and the farmers should be proud of him for he is the personification of integrity.

AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

Witness Fainted When it Happened

On Saturday night at nine o'clock an automobile accident occurred at the corner of Front and Bridge Streets. An autoist was driving west on Bridge Street and was turning just west of the west-side crossing, when two young ladies started to cross. They turned back and to avoid striking them the driver allowed his car to collide with the hydrant in front of Day's pool room. One of the girls, Miss Ivy Salt, of 102 West Bridge Street, claimed to have been struck and injured in the back but said she did not require medical attention. Her companion, Miss Doris Humphries, of 45 Henry Street, fainted at the time, alleged she was not struck and was taken home in the car. The automobile escaped with slight damage to the bumper rail and front axle.

Appropos of the Oswego-Belleville route for freight shipments to this city and interior points, the following decision of the Board of Railway Commissioners, under date of the sixth of May, this year, is not without interest:
"In the matter of application of A. C. Hie, of Eldorado officiating, E. Guss Porter, M. P., that the railway companies operating at Belleville, Ontario, be required to publish rates on coal from Belleville harbor, ex vessels from Oswego, in the State of New York, to mid-Ontario destinations, lower than the rates of the special local mileage tariffs lawfully in force to the same destinations: File 29652."
"The evidence in this application having been heard at Belleville, October 15th, 1919, in the presence of Council for the Grand Trunk Company, the Applicant appearing in person, the Commissioner having reported to the Board, and the said report having been adopted:
It is ordered that the application be, and it is hereby, refused."
(Signed) S. J. McLean,
Assistant Chief Commissioner,
Board of Railway Commissioners for Canada.
I might add that I am at the present time taking up with the Railway Board the matter of freight rates on certain commodities between Point Anne and this city. It is to be hoped that the matter of freight charges can be so adjusted that the proposed short haul across the Lake can be made practical after the commodities are landed here.

Obituary

MISS ANNIE B. EMMERTON
After many months of suffering and an illness extending over nearly five years with Bright's disease and other ailments, Miss Annie B. Emmerton passed away at the home of her sister, Mrs. S. J. Clarke, on Thursday evening, June 10th. She bore her great suffering with patience and fortitude.

Deceased was born in Bedfordshire, England, in 1857 and resided in that country until about 1909, when she came to Canada. She had resided in Marmora ever since. The late Miss Emmerton was of a very kindly and sympathetic disposition. In religion she was a Methodist and in early life she took a very active interest in church work. During recent years, owing to her time not being at her own disposal or ill health, she has not taken much part in church work, but she never lost her interest in the success of the church.

The late Miss Emmerton was one of a family of ten children, five of whom are still living. They are Mrs. S. J. Clarke, of Marmora, and Messrs Thos. and Fred Emmerton, who reside in England.

The funeral took place last Sunday morning, service being conducted in the Methodist church by Rev. W. P. Woodger, after which interment took place in Marmora cemetery—Marmora Herald.

Pension Medical Board Coming to Belleville

At G. W. V. A. Rooms.
Since the closing of the Kingston District of the Board of Pension Commissioners, they have inaugurated a new system of Travelling Medical Boards, who visit all the principal centres and examine the ex-members of the forces, in their own town, instead of bringing them to Toronto or Kingston. This serves two purposes, first that it saves a lot of expense to the country in bringing these men to the larger centres, and secondly that the men do not lose any time; away from their work and it enables men who wish to have their pension case reviewed to call on the board when they are sitting.

The travelling board for Belleville, consisting of two returned doctors, and a clerk (also returned man) will be in Belleville on July 15th and 16th, and August 25th and 27th and will hold their examinations at the club rooms of the Great War Veterans' Association, 224 Front Street.

All pensioners will receive due notification when to report at least two weeks in advance, however, should there be any ex-soldiers who are not on Pension, who would like to have their case looked into or any pensioner who would like to have their case reviewed they are requested to give in their names to the Secretary of the G. W. V. A. in order that he may send in their names to Toronto, so that the travelling board will have a chance to get their medical papers and in this way give entire satisfaction to the man being examined.

The Pension Commissioners would like it understood that at these examinations the man is told the extent of his disability and the amount of pension he is going to receive, so that he may have an opportunity of appealing his case, should he desire to do so.

This new system has already worked out most satisfactorily in Western and Northern Ontario.

Heirs-at-Law Want Court to Declare that Esther Thorne of Brighton Left No Will.
A peculiar case involving a father, mother and son, all deceased, will come before Mr. Justice Logie in the Supreme Court at Cobourg this week. The heirs-at-law of Esther Thorne, of Brighton township have entered suit against George A. Bennett, administrator of her estate to have the estate distributed among them, claiming that there was no will at the time of her death. Mr. Bennett claims that there was a will but that it was destroyed in a fire.

Deceased made her will in 1896, in which she devised her estate to her son, Albert Edward Thorne, and his heirs, subject to certain legacies, and appointed him executor of the estate. Thorne owned a farm on which a mortgage was held by his father. Difficulties arose between father and son over payments, and the father seized the son's chattels to satisfy said indebtedness. The mother, who possessed property worth $1,500, then made a will to secure the son something for himself and family. The son died first, however, and his mother, who in the meantime had obtained a considerable sum of money from her husband, paid off the mortgage, and gave to the widow and children a full discharge of the mortgage. The will she made is supposed to have been lost in a fire. Plaintiffs want it declared that there was no will existing at her death, the provisions of the will have been satisfied during her lifetime, and that the estate be administered as in cases of intestacy.

Steamer "Toronto" Released Last Night

Train From Belleville Took Passengers to Prescott in the Afternoon
The steamer "Toronto" of the Canada Steamship Lines, was released from the shoals at Point Frederick, just east of Kingston Harbor, early last evening, by the combined efforts of four powerful tugs, and the engines of the stranded steamer running full speed astern. The "Toronto" went aground at 5.30 in the morning as she was being taken out of the harbor by Capt. A. E. Booth. Continuous efforts by tugs throughout the day failed to move her.

A special G. T. R. train was made up in Belleville yesterday and took the "Toronto's" passengers to Prescott, where they boarded the Montreal boat and continued the journey. Passengers on the Montreal boat, who were to have proceeded west on the "Toronto," were sent through on the International Limited to their destinations.

The causes of the accident is said to have been the low water, a high wind and the vessel backing out of the harbor too far before turning. It is not thought that the "Toronto" will be much damaged, as the shoal on which she grounded is mostly mud formation.

It Rubs Pain Away.—There is no liniment so efficacious in overcoming pain as Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. The hand that rubs it in rubs the pain away and on this account there is no preparation that stands so high in Public esteem. There is no surer pain-killer procurable, as thousands can attest who have used it successfully in treating many ailments.

PALE AND WEAK WIVES AND MOTHERS

Can Regain Health and Strength Through Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Many women who had a rood color in their girlhood grow pale and colorless when they become wives and mothers. When the fading color in the cheeks and lips is accompanied by a loss of brightness in the eyes and an increasing heaviness in the step, the cause will be found in the state of the blood.

Many causes contribute to the condition of the blood known as anaemia. Overwork in the home, a lack of outdoor exercise, insufficient rest and sleep, improper diet—these are a few of them. The important thing is to restore the blood to normal, to build it up so that the color will return to cheeks and lips, brightness to the eyes and lightness to the step. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the great blood builder and nerve strengthener. They begin with the very first dose, and through a fair use make new blood that carries strength and health to every part of the body.

The appetite increases, digestion becomes more perfect and energy and ambition return. These are a few of them. Talk of the Town and of the Country

As a result of a motor car accident which occurred Monday afternoon about a mile west of Colborne, Fred Wilkins of the McLaughlin Accounting Department, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wilkins of North Oshawa, lies in the Cobourg Hospital with two ribs broken and suffering from other painful injuries.

Mr. Wilkins had arranged to make a visit to Ottawa and took the opportunity of motoring down with the Chevrolet dealer from Hull, Que., who came to Oshawa to get cars. The dealer was driving a model F. B. car, while two other drivers were reading 480 Models. One of the 480's was detained through a slight mishap and the other, being some distance ahead, the dealer was speeding to overtake it. There is a sharp curve in the road at what is known as "Pat Kelly's Corners," about a mile this side of Colborne and the driver of the car evidently did not see same in time to slow up to make the turn. The result was that the car landed in the ditch and turned turtle.

Mr. J. C. Clough one of Campbellford's highly respected citizens, is hale and hearty although he celebrated his 90th birthday seven months ago. Mr. Clough has lived a very active life and to see him moping about our streets one might easily place his age at sixty. Apart from a very slight defect in hearing he has retained all his faculties unimpaired. His step is still sprightly, his mind keen of perception and his nature has lost none of its cheerfulness or sociability.

The new Peterboro city directory just issued, and now being delivered throughout the city, credits Peterborough and the suburbs with a combined population of 29,100. This is a considerable increase over last year.

On Monday morning Mrs. Jas. Reid Marmora met with a very painful accident, and as a result is laid up with a badly sprained ankle. Miss Dora Reid, who has been in Toronto for some time, has returned home until her mother is able to be around again.

Mr. John Weese of Marmora, suffered a painful accident one evening last week which resulted in a fractured arm. With a number of others he was working out his horse on the fairgrounds, getting ready for the races on July 1st, when one of the reins broke and the horse ran off the track on to the rough ground along the side. In order to save himself Mr. Weese jumped off his sulky, but in doing so fell and fractured his arm. Following the accident Mr. Weese sold his horse to Mr. Wm. McCoy.

A horse belonging to Mr. Robt. Scott Marmora, had a lively run Thursday morning. If ran down Madoc street to Sweet's corner and then up Main street to the Pearce Company's, where it was caught. Fortunately no damage was done to horse or rig.

A public meeting was held in the Council Chamber at Marmora, on Monday evening to further consider the question of a Continuation School for Marmora. The attendance from the surrounding country indicated the interest which is being taken in the question, and the fact that interest is so great promises well for the success of the school which is to be established.

Mr. Mills, Inspector of Continuation Schools for Ontario, was present and gave much valuable information. He explained all the necessary steps in connection with the starting of the school and the basis on which the grants towards its maintenance are made.

On June 1st, 1920, there was a joyous gathering at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Jackson, Stirling, on the occasion of the celebration of their golden wedding. Mr. Jackson was united in marriage to Miss Almeta Hubbell at the Burnbrae Presbyterian manse June 1st, 1869, the late Rev. Dr. Nell being the officiating minister, thence this occasion was their fifty-first anniversary.

Two children (Mr. Elgin Jackson and Mrs. Chas. Dracup of Harold), four grandchildren and three great grandchildren (no grand daughter being absent) together with other friends and neighbors were present. Everything was informal. The young old couple were as usual most genial hosts. An address was presented graciously referring to a long and happy marriage and to the appreciation of the gathering there to do honor to the "fifty-one years ago" bride and groom. Miss Kathleen Jackman on behalf of those present presented them with a purse of gold, while Master Burton Morton presented Mrs. Jackman with a bouquet of carnations on behalf of the great grand children.

Mr. Jackman responded in a few choice words, being reminiscent, and interesting and was not abashed to express his thanks. After singing "For they are jolly good fellows" others spoke congratulatory words hoping that their lives might be spared to enjoy many more years of wedded life.

So ended an evening most pleasantly spent and will long be remembered by all. May Heaven continue to smile on them; that they may for years to come enjoy the fruition of a life well spent.

Plain living and high thinking is the ideal for the minister. We get the plain living, alright," declared Rev. Dr. F. H. Wallace, dean of Victoria College, in the course of his inspirational address to the Toronto Methodist Conference, Saturday. He declared that too many weak men were volunteering for the ministry, while many of the best fitted men were not hearing the call. "Spind men at the head are intolerable," declared Dr. Wallace. "Ministers must have an education. Exhortation alone will not do. There must be an appeal to the intelligence. Preachers should not be slaves to theories alone. There must be a training in practical psychology."

He told of a young minister, who declared from the pulpit: "Christ is divine, and so are you and so am I." The declaration, of course, caused a fuss in the church and it was hard to convince the people of that church that the young man was not taught that doctrine at Victoria.

The showers on Tuesday and Wednesday last week followed by the heavy rain Saturday night has been a wonderful benefit to the country, says the Marmora Herald. There has been a fine growth of all kinds of grain, roots and vegetables this week. Hay and pasture is also much improved, but the rain came a little too late for a big hay crop. If the weather is favorable for the next few weeks there may be an average crop.

The bringing into Guelph of cattle which are claimed to be tubercular and unfit for consumption has aroused the Guelph Board of Health to action. That this was being done was only discovered Tuesday when a number of apparently very healthy cattle, the majority of which were milk cows, were seen being driven into the city and in the direction of a certain slaughter-house. This fact was at once reported to the Board of Health, and no time was lost in taking prompt action, the Board being particularly desirous that the citizens' food and milk supply should be safe guarded in every possible way. The members of the Board paid a visit to the slaughter house and took with them a veterinary surgeon in order that he might inspect the carcasses as they were slaughtered.

On making inquiries the Board of Health officials found that these cattle were shipped from an Ontario Government institution at Whitney, where every possible effort is made to keep their herd of cattle absolutely free from infection of any kind. It is understood that some of these cattle, and also shipments that have been sent here previous to this one, went to Whitney from the Speedwell Hospital herd and were considered free from disease, but that on a re-test tubercular symptoms were discovered. There were 22 cattle in this lot and they arrived here on June 10th, and were kept until yesterday on a farm just outside the city. Many of them were giving large quantities of milk, and some of this milk is said to have been sent into the city, but was all pasteurized before being sold for consumption.

In an attempt to show his brother Vernon how far out he could go in the Oshawa creek on Thursday night around eight o'clock, William John Harold Wilson, the thirteen year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Christopher James Wilson of 151 College Ave., Oshawa, was drowned. The lad stepped into a deep hole, about 5 ft 6 in., and getting a mouthful of water evidently became confused and sank. He was able to swim a little. The fatality occurred at 8.10 p.m., but the body was not recovered by Mr. Horace Major, of the Base Line West, until 8.30 p.m. The unfortunate boy was in swimming in the creek just north of the G. T. R. bridge, accompanied by a younger brother Vernon.

Hanging from a telegraph wire and in danger any minute of falling to the ground was the experience of a six-year-old boy named McLean on Wellington St. Lindsay, Wednesday. The youth had climbed a tree and being unable to make the descent was obliged to get out on the telegraph wire. His precarious position was noticed by Messrs. Cecil Nugent, J. F. Ryley and Clifford Mulligan, who secured an extension ladder and brought the boy to terra firma. He was so badly frightened that he was unable to speak for some time. His rescuers were loudly cheered by those who witnessed the incident.

J. F. Wright, Canadian Geological Survey, Ottawa, and N. A. McIntosh, Queen's University, have gone to Brockville to make a detailed geological map of the Brockville area. The site of the area to be mapped is approximately 200 square miles and will extend from about one mile east of the town west to Athens of a mile or so beyond and from there south to the St. Lawrence river near the west end of Hill Island.

The purpose of this survey is to examine all mineral deposits in this area and make a detailed report upon them. To map all the rocks in this area and thus show their distribution and to write a report describing these rocks in detail. Over ten years ago the state of New York published a similar map and report of area south of the river.

Lindsay was visited by a man on Sunday who had reached the allotted span in life known at three score and ten, but who is still well preserved in health and was able to walk all the way from Tonawanda, N. Y., to that town, on his way to Donald, Ont., where he intends visiting some old acquaintances with whom he used to be associated in the lumber camps. The man has passed his 71st birthday. He gave the Chief his name and his destination. The officer could have had him placed in the "coop" and deported but refrained, gave him directions as to how to reach Donald, and sent him on his way rejoicing. During the course of conversation the aged man informed the Chief that he had not slept indoors in the last three years, not even in winter time, and it is the wholesome amount of fresh air which he has imbibed to which he attributes his good health and physical fitness to undertake long hikes. He has hopes of eclipsing the 100 mark in the matter of age.

The Court of Revision dealt with a large number of appeals from Blecker and Coleman Wards. In many cases 10 per cent in last year's assessment was the charge made. Murney Ward appellants come up tonight before the Court. The Court will likely sit all next week.

With the object of establishing an inland seaplane route between New York and the Thousand Islands, Lewis Virgil McKenna and George B. Post, New York, will start on an air voyage from Rouses Point to St. Lawrence on June 21st. They will follow the Hudson to Lake George, Lake Champlain, the Richelieu to St. Lawrence and thence to Alexandria Bay, where the boat will be used in passenger business during the summer.

A severe hail storm passed over the Pembroke district on Monday afternoon. Hail stones as big as walnuts fell, injuring garden plants and breaking some windows. Lightning accompanied the downpour. One barn and two cars owned by Abraham Shultz, were struck by lightning and caught fire, the loss amounting to several thousands of dollars. Mr. William Hine had the roof of a shed blown off and other damage estimated at $200. The severest center of the storm passed over the countryside south of Pembroke and over the island, where a house was struck with little damage however. The hail, which was of a phenomenal size, lasted for fifteen minutes.

At Alexandria Bay, N.Y., a government order was received affecting the custom house officials. Their business hours will now be from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. with double pay for Saturdays and holidays. Those requiring the services of the customs officer out of hours must pay at the rate of one half day's pay for every two hours or major portion thereof.

Andrew A. McFadden, of Inverary, reeve of the township of Storrington, met with a serious accident, late on Tuesday afternoon, when he was struck by lightning. He was burned on the back and feet and was partially paralyzed, but has had a wonderful recovery. Mr. McFadden attended the meeting of the county council in Kingston and was on his way home. He stopped at the home of a friend, Mr. Walker, and it was while sitting on the stairs that the lightning came down the stairs and he was struck. Mr. McFadden says he was severely shocked. The lightning seemed to strike him on the back first and go to the feet and it was on his back and feet that he was burned. The paralysis of the limbs that followed the shock passed gradually off, and he felt quite able to attend the meeting of the council in Kingston on Wednesday.

Miss Thekla Buell Naughton, Omaha, Neb., granddaughter of Mrs. G. S. Buell, Lynn, has been left $25,000 by her other grandmother, Mrs. Charlotte Wilhemina Karkach, Omaha. The estate of Mrs. Karkach, amounting to over $200,000, was divided equally among her sons and daughters and Miss Naughton.

Tony Holsky, a Russian Pole, who for several reasons, chief among which were charges of escaping from custody, the larceny of a suit of clothes and a violin, and having in his possession burglar's tools, proudly boasted that he could foil every lockmaker. Holsky was sent to Portmouth for two years, the only place, in Crown Attorney Corley's opinion, that could hold him.

Mrs. E. Peters, Colborne, mother of Pte. Arthur Peters, who was reported "missing," and later "presumed killed," overseas, has recently received a medal issued by the Canadian Government to the widows or mothers of soldiers who were killed on service. Mrs. Peters has also received her son's bronze star for 1914. Pte. Peters enlisted in the first week after the outbreak of the war and went overseas with the 2nd Canadian Battalion. At the time he was believed to have been killed, Pte. Peters was engaged as a despatch rider. A comrade reported the finding of his bicycle, but no further trace of Pte. Peters or of his equipment.

The town of Cobourg has been notified by the director of military trophies that a 77-millimetre German gun, about the same size as the Canadian 18-pounder 3-inch gun, has been awarded the town. The gun was captured by the 3rd Infantry Battalion.

A gift of strawberries and other small fruit is predicted. The canners at Hamilton seem so confident of it that they have deemed to make any contracts this year with growers, believing that they can get all they want on the open market at low prices. The shortage of sugar is another reason given by the canners for deciding against making contracts.

When Warden Maybee's excursion was returning from Rochester on Thursday morning, on the boat was a crowd of the senior pupils of a Rochester high school. The Junior pupils of the school were not in on the excursion, but decided on making their absence felt. When the boat was coming down the river an auto load of boys met it on the overhead bridge, and pelted the excursionists with rotten eggs. A number of ladies, as well as a few of the county councillors, were the victims of their sweet smelling missiles, and what was said of the donors would not look well in print, says the Cobourg Sentinel Star. The principal of the high school obtained the names of the perpetrators of the egg throwing episode, and they were "wired" to Rochester, with instructions to arrest them.

The inaugural convention of the Trent Waterway Development Association, in the Empress Hotel Peterboro Tuesday night, was marked by a general enthusiasm faith and confidence in the future of this all but complete water route from Lake Ontario to Georgian Bay. Not only were its advantages as a pleasure chain of lake and river waters connected by sections of canal fully recognized as almost of unexcelled scenic beauty and adaptability, but its commercial, industrial and agricultural developing possibilities were pronounced one of Canada's most valuable assets. While much publicity propaganda has been resorted to for the purpose of inducing Americans and Canadians to way, the ultimate end in view, declared most of the speakers Tuesday night was to in this way advertise the opportunities here offered for the investment of capital in industries, land and commerce.

A pick and shovel brigade of private detectives will begin a systematic search of the 100 acre estate of Enrico Caruso, East Hampton, N.Y. in a final effort to discover the hiding place of half a million dollars worth of jewels that were stolen from the tenor's home several days ago. The detectives plan to dig up every square yard of earth on the grounds they announced, being certain that the jewels are secreted within the estate. The guards were doubled last night as a result of threats made against members of the family and also to frustrate. It was said, any attempt that might be made to remove the jewels from their hiding place and carry them away. None of the employees are being permitted to leave the grounds.

S. Gorra, who has farmed for over thirty-five years near Shamrock, says that indications point to there being very few potato bugs this year. He bases his prophesy on the fact that the bugs did not borrow very deep for their winter hibernation, expecting lots of snow to keep them warm during the cold months. However, the snow did not come in the early winter, but plenty of severe cold did, and as a consequence Mr. Potato Bug was frozen up.

A George street merchant in Peterboro claims to have a couple of employees who run and tell him every time they do anything. To these and others of their kind, he dedicated the following lines:

The best jobs do not always go To him who pulls the longest bow - Who to the boss will daily run To tell him all the things he's done. Most bosses very fully know The kind of stuff these fellows throw.

Probably the most remarkable wood-worker in the world is a Japanese residing in Tokyo, who has carved a figure in wood so like himself that when the two are placed side by side it is said to be almost impossible to tell which lives and breathes and which does not. Every line, vein and wrinkle has been faithfully produced. The figure is composed of two thousand pieces of wood dove-tailed and jointed with such skill that no seams can be detected.

It has always been a wonderment why a town with the population less than three thousand should be able to do the large amount of business that is done in Alimonte. C. K. Crigg, assessor, who has completed a census of the town has found the explanation. He states that the average Alimonte family is unusually small, and consequently the number of wage-earners relative to population is great. The average Alimonte family will not be over four.

One of the most pleasant features of the recent session of the Legislature has been the manner in which all members acclaimed the fairness and ability of the Speaker. Hon. Nelson Parliament, member for Prince Edward. On the last session the House passed a resolution of thanks to each group got up in turn and in brief speeches expressed their appreciation of service rendered the House by Hon. Mr. Parliament.

Proprietor Drury expressed the thanks of the Government members. Hon. George S. Henry, acting Conservative leader, spoke for his group and W. E. N. Sinclair, in the absence of H. H. Dewart, spoke for the Liberals. All paid tribute to the manner in which the Speaker had handled the affairs of the House.

Hon. Mr. Parliament had a unique and entirely different task from previous speakers. Only about twenty of the members had ever been in a House of Parliament before. The others, including the members of cabinet, knew nothing of procedure. Mr. Speaker had almost to conduct a training school. Never once did his rulings give any grievance to the House and the conduct of the members under his guidance was at all times Parliamentary. In his social duties Hon. Nelson Parliament upheld the dignity and responsibilities of his high office. The responsibility of Mrs. Parliament from a severe illness was commented on in the House and the members expressed gratitude and thanks when she returned to her activities in Queen's Park.

Alex. Hamwell, arrested by a special officer in the G.T.R. yard last night on a vagrancy charge, was this morning given a chance by Magistrate Masson and walked out of police court free.

This morning Trainor wanted his liberty and was let go.

Will go to China as Missionary

Miss Marion Coon, former Belleville Teacher, Accepted for Service in Far East

Miss Marion Coon, who for a number of years was on the teaching staff of Belleville public schools, has been accepted by the Women's Missionary Society of the Methodist Church for service in Chinese Mission fields, and will leave in the fall to take up her new work.

While in Belleville Miss Coon was prominently identified, with Christian work among the young people of Belleville, as a member of the Epworth League and the Mission Circle, was a member of the choir and other organizations. She left Belleville four years ago and was appointed to the Ottawa public schools teaching staff, where she has been eminently successful.

Early this year Miss Coon was notified that she would be accepted to go to the W. M. S. and in this she was quite successful.

In Ottawa Miss Coon was one of the predominating figures in church work among the young people of the Dominion Methodist Church, the largest Methodist congregation in that city.

Last week the different organizations of the Church united to pay tribute to Miss Coon's worth and presented her with a purse of $200. A shower of personal equipment, which she was required to take with her, was given by Mrs. E. Campbell and Mrs. T. C. Lapp, formerly of Belleville, and other friends, after securing the list of requirements from the W. M. S., surprised Miss Coon by completing the list.

Miss Coon is a daughter of Rev. C. H. and Mrs. Coon of Lindsay, Mr. Coon is the newly elected president of the Bay of Quinte Conference. The best wishes of her numerous Belleville friends go with Miss Coon in her new field of exalted work.

Talk of the Town and of the Country

On Sunday morning at 2.30 o'clock a car driven by Mr. E. Delong, Dundas street, struck a horse and buggy on Dundas street, between Pinnacle and Front Street. Mr. Delong reported the matter to the police, who found that he had made an offer to settle but the offer was refused.

A plate of brass is reported stolen from the front of Lattimer's drug store during the night.

The County Treasurer, Kingston, paid $40 bounty to Andrew Buchanan for a wolf which Buchanan shot in the township of Dalhousie, where the animal had been killing sheep. The skin was sent to Toronto. It is the second wolf shot in Lanark in 30 years.

A boy named Jack Steward, aged seven years, wandered away from his home on Sunday afternoon and was gone some hours before located.

Mrs. Patrick, Station Street, telephoned the police on Sunday that a horse which had run away, was being taken care of with the buggy at her place. Later the owner secured the outfit.

The Senior Matriculation Examinations at Albert College were brought to a close on Saturday afternoon.

The work of grading and widening Hastings Street from Maxwell & Reynolds' store, south, Bancroft, has been completed and adds greatly to the appearance of the town. The hill was badly in need of repairs and for a considerable time caused motorists to use swear words, says The Bancroft Times.

In Saturday's issue the name of the winner of the Anglin Prize in Intermediate Singing—Miss Kathryn Sisson, was omitted from the Albert College Convocation report.

At the Stirling Cheese Board on Thursday last, 610 boxes were boarded. All were sold for 28 1/2 c. Bird got 200 boxes, Morton got 195 boxes, Cook & Son got 215 boxes. A resolution was passed changing the time of meeting from 4 to 2.30 p.m.

The Church Help Society of John Street Presbyterian Church entertained John St. choir on Friday evening in the church parlors.

The continuous rains since Thursday night will greatly benefit both grain and root crops around Belleville, particularly the hay crop. The previous period of dry weather retarded the hay growth to such an extent that it is feared that even with the heavy rains the crop of hay will be below average. Dry pastures, which have caused a slump in the milk supply, have freshened up and taken a new lease of life. The crop of strawberries has received a new impetus with the extra moisture, and the production will likely be extended beyond the time anticipated beside yielding better berries.

William Hunter Patterson and Stinson arrested a week ago and remanded for vagrancy, were this morning given a week in jail from last Monday and walked out free this morning from police court.

Grand Trunk Special Officer Harris came across four boys at Marysville yesterday. They had apparently broken away from an industrial school. He arrested them and took them on to Brockville lock-up.

Some time during Saturday night between the Brockville G.T.R. yards and what is known as "the deep cut," one mile east of the town 33 cases of whiskey were removed from a car of an east-bound freight train, and detectives have been unable to locate them. Owing to a stiff grade trains move slowly leaving Brockville for Montreal. The goods were, it is said, apparently lowered from the car by means of a rope. Apparently more than one man was implicated.

The first of the new Canadian one cent pieces were in circulation in Belleville over the week-end. They are considerably smaller in size than the old one-cent coin, and slightly larger than the U.S. coin of similar denomination. They are easily selected from the pocket without being confused for a ten-cent piece.

The new coins are noticeably lighter than the old fashioned cents. This is due to not only a reduction in size but to a fractional variation in the copper content in the alloy of which they are composed. On the face side of the coin, ap pears King George's head, above it the inscription, "Georgius V. Dei Gratia Rex Imperator." In the center of the reverse side appear the words, "One Cent," over which is the inscription, "Canada." At either side a small maple leaf and below the year, 1920.

Mr. and Mrs. George Graham, Mr. and Mrs. J. Bone, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Graham and Miss Grace Graham, are motoring down to Kingston from Belleville to attend the ball at the Royal Military College tonight. Mr. and Mrs. George Graham and Mr. and Mrs. J. Bone will be the guests of Major and Mrs. James Hamilton, Brook street, Kingston, while Mrs. Graham, Barrie street, will have Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Graham and Miss Grace Graham as her guests.

England soon will begin to produce in large quantities ammonia and nitric acid made with the aid of nitrogen from the air. A large factory for this production began during the war by the Government at Billingham-on-Tees, near Stockton, was completed recently. It will now be transferred to private interests for operation. It is the first factory erected in England for the production of ammonia by this process, which was invented by the Germans and has since been improved upon by the research chemists attached to the staff of the Ministry of Munitions.

The company which will take over the factory will reimburse the nation for the money already spent and will invest new capital. The whole transaction represents an investment of between $20,000,000 and $25,000,000.

The Cigar Factory at Port Hope, ceased operations Thursday evening, but as yet the reasons have not been made public. It will be unfortunate if the closing down is permanent, in view of the fact that about $1,200 of our citizens' money was expended in improvements to the building. The Council should get busy and ascertain the facts in connection with the closing, says the Guide.

The annual departmental examinations have begun again at the Bancroft Continuation School. This year there is the largest number of candidates ever prepared in the history of this school. For Model Entrance and the Lower School Examinations, eight candidates. For Normal Entrance and Matriculation, seven candidates. The High School Entrance Examinations will be held on the 28th, 29th and 30th. Fifty-six candidates have signified their intention of writing, this also is an exceptionally large number.

Mr. T. Tooms, M.P.P., Peterboro, received word from Deputy Minister of Fisheries in Ontario that 20,000 bass fry are to be placed by the Department in Clear Lake and a similar number in Stoney Lake. Anglers and cottagers will appreciate this news.

Francis Farrington, the owner of the Bible referred to in a recent letter from England as having been found on a battlefield in France, is a resident of Picton. He enlisted in 1917 and served in France, Belgium and Germany, returning safely to Canada. His relatives in Picton have written to have the Bible forwarded.

At Clayton, an eighteen-ton cable was loaded and will be taken to Alexandria Bay, where it will be stretched from the main shore to Wellesley Island for use of telephone subscribers in that locality. This is one step in the big plan of extension of telephone service under an organization that has just been completed. The Thousand Island Telephone Company Incorporated, has been formed to acquire control and operate under one management, the Thousand Island Telephone company of Clayton and the Alexandria Bay Telephone company, which companies have been serving the people of the river section.

The Ontario Department of Education has definitely decided upon the removal of the Faculty of Education from Kingston and according to information received by the Kingston Whig, official notification has been sent to the local staff informing them of the fact that the faculty has been dispensed with, and that the work that has been carried on during the past thirteen years will be done elsewhere.

Those affected by this order are Dr. H. T. J. Coleman, dean, and Prof. Macpherson, who were attached to Queen's University, but the local school inspector, the principal, and a number of the teachers at the Collegiate, as well as teachers at Victoria school, will lose the salaries that supplemented their regular salaries because of certain duties they performed for the faculty. This puts an end to the uncertainty and agitation that was carried on by many friends of the faculty for several years. During the recent session of the legislature no appropriation was made for carrying on the work in Kingston or Toronto. What other action is to be taken rests with Queen's University.

Towed by a large horse drawn truck the captured German field gun, which the Government has allotted to Queen's University, squeaked into the college grounds Friday afternoon. The gun, which was manufactured in 1917, is in fairly good condition and is short, it is said, but one bolt. The markings of the camouflage paint are still distinguishable. Across the field is painted in white letters, "Captured by the Second Canadian Division, 1918." The gun will be placed at present in front of the Theological Building, pointing out over the lake.

William Cronk who escaped from Napanee jail on Sunday, had before his arrest on a charge of bigamy leased Mrs. Beggs residence on Edmonstreet, Deseronto, next to J.E. North's tailor shop. His household effects, shipped from Enterprise, are being held in the freight sheds pending the appearance of some one to claim them.

Officials of the Craigmont Corundum Mines Bancroft, visited the scene of former day activities last week and have decided to rebuild the plant on a larger scale than heretofore. Our information tells us construction work will be commenced immediately and mining operations commenced as soon as machinery capable of handling the ore is installed. Craigmont boomed for a number of years, and while operating left thousands of dollars in the north country. Farmers always found a ready market for produce of nearly every description, and the news of the Company's return will be heralded with joy throughout the north.

Now 80 lb. rails have been laid on the C. N. R. from Trenton to Hillier and the roadbed newly ballasted and new ties laid. It is planned to put new rails on the Hillier-Picton part of the road and when this is done the road will be in shape to carry heavy engines which will mean a great improvement in the service on the Trenton-Picton line.

That the co-operative marketing of cheese as promoted by H. B. Cowan, of Peterboro, is not practicable, and if put into effect will seriously injure the cheese industry, and ultimately deprive the factories of the benefit of the competition met with among the buyers on the local boards as at present constituted, was the declaration of J. B. Wilson, Secretary of the Brockville board before Frontenac board yesterday. Mr. Wilson sells over 200 boxes of cheese weekly on the Brockville board. He showed that the scheme of co-operation as proposed by H. B. Cowan could not be successfully worked out and was bound to increase the costs of marketing, and in respect to wholesale purchasing of factory supplies and equipment, the farmer's clubs, that all patrons were members of already can purchase them organizing another company to do it. He warned factory men to beware of the fads now being advocated. The price fixing by the Government had injured the cheese business, but that was now passed; the condensers and milk powder factories would be only short-lived, and he predicted a splendid future if the farmers would only make full use of the local boards as they should, for it was there that they found the rivalry between the buyers that made the price.

Fire that broke out in the dry kilns of the Peterborough Canoe Co. shortly after 9 o'clock Thursday night, caused damage estimated Friday at $3,000 by Mr. W. A. Richardson, secretary-treasurer of the company. The loss he said was entirely covered by insurance. The kilns are situated at the south end of the plant, one above the other, with the boiler room in the cellar. The smoke stack runs up through the room, and although a wire netting surrounds it, Mr. Richardson said the fire was in all probability caused by some shavings or dirt working its way through against the hot stack. "It doesn't take much to start a fire, everything is so dry," he said.

Fire walls surround the kilns and this probably saved the entire building from destruction. The cedar and basswood strips after they are finished ready for putting on a canoe, are put in the dry kilns for a day or so to season. Steam coils below the floor heat the wood.

On Friday evening seven candidates were initiated into Belleville Canton No. 8, Patriarchs Militant.

The local chevaliers put on a big night's program.

While some portions of the country have had sufficient rain to ensure good crops, there are parts which have not. At the county council meeting in Kingston Thursday morning, Reeve Clark of Kingston township stated that in his municipality if the dry spell continued for three weeks longer, some of the farmers would have to get rid of part of their stock for the crops would be very light. In fact, if the dry spell continued for a longer period he doubted if some of farmers would be able to pay their taxes this year. Reeve Clark said that prices might be high, but he claimed the farmers were not any better off. If farming was such a profitable occupation he claimed that the farms would not be so depleted of help.

The Chisholm Wellage Co., having completed their contract on the provincial highway east of Deseronto shipped their men, teams and appliances to Lancaster, where Foreman John McKenzie will begin at once the erection of a bridge across a river. Clerk John Dunlop was left at Deseronto to take charge of the work of trimming up the road and finishing the company's business.

A most enjoyable dancing party was given at the charming home of Mrs. Brisco, Napanee, on Wednesday evening. Over a hundred guests from Napanee, Kingston, Belleville, and Picton, having been invited. Mrs. Brisco, Mr. Isaac Brisco and Mr. and Mrs. Johnston received, and the large rooms afforded a splendid space for the numerous guests. The Walters Orchestra furnished excellent music and was stationed in an alcove. A delicious buffet supper was served at midnight, and the dancing was continued until early in the morning.

According to the first draft of stations Rev. W. P. Woodger will again be pastor of Marmora circuit. The usual pastorate under the Methodist church is four years and there was considerable opposition by some members of the Conference to making any exceptions. However the people of Marmora generally, as well as the members of the Methodist churches on the circuit, will be pleased that Mr. Woodger is to return for another year at least.

Representatives of interested municipalities may be invited to a radial conference to be held in Peterboro, the object of which is to map out a route between that city and the lake-shore line of the Toronto & Eastern, which the Railway Committee of Peterboro are desirous should go north to run through their city and on east. Several routes have been suggested, one from Bowmanville to Newcastle and Port Hope, and onto the gravel road to Peterboro, apparently nearly duplicating the G. T. R. Then, it has been suggested to jump from Whitby across to Millbrook, going either north through Manvers and Cavan, or to the south, through Hope and Clarke townships. It is also suggested that a radical line be built from Cobourg to Campbellford, thus opening up an agricultural district not now served by any road.

When kerosene oil spilled from the spout of a can a man was carrying out of the grocery store of Howard K. Tooley, at Columbia, Ind., the man took a potato, from a basket and was about to stick it on the spout, but Mr. Tooley took it away and gave him a gumdrop instead. "See here," said he, potatoes at 12 1/2 cents a pound cost too much for stoppers."

At the closing exercises of the Bishop Strachan School, of Toronto, Lt.-Col. Panton of this city was the speaker of the day. The Globe in reporting his address said, "he gave the school a most optimistic inspiring and patriotic address."

About fifty young people took complete possession of the home of Mrs. Bunton, Bloomsbury avenue, Port Hope, on Thursday evening to pay tribute to the bride-to-be, Miss Letta Bunton, in the form of a miscellaneous shower. Miss Bunton is a sister of Mr. G. W. Bunton, of the High School staff here.

GILEAD

We had no church service at this appointment on Sunday. Our pastor is attending conference at Whitby. The Misses Nellie York and Muriel Hutchison visited on Friday with the former's sister, Mrs. Wm. Hodgen, Carmel. We greatly appreciate the lovely rains of late which help the gardens, grain, berries, etc., so much. We sincerely sympathize with Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Simmons in the loss they have sustained through the burning of their home and a goodly share of the contents on Thursday evening last. The regular meeting of the W. M. S. was held last Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Albert Laursen. A goodly number were present and a splendid report was given of the convention held at Peterboro. Healthy Children Are Happy Children

The well child is always a happy child—it is a baby's nature to be happy and contented. Mothers, if your little ones are cross and peevish and cry a great deal they are not well—they are in need of medicine—something that will set their bowels and stomach in order, for nine-tenths of all childhood ailments arise from a disordered state of the bowels and stomach. Such a medicine in Baby's Own Tablets. They are a mild but thorough laxative which regulate the bowels, sweeten the stomach, and thus drive out constipation, colic, indigestion; break up colds and simple fevers and make the baby healthy and happy. Concerning them, Mrs. Albert Hamel, Pierreville, Que., writes:—"Baby's Own Tablets are the best medicine I know of for little ones. They relieved my little girl from constipation when nothing else would and I can strongly recommend them to other mothers." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

IN MEMORIAM

Dedicated to the memory of the late Reverend A. B. Frederick, who died at Ivanhoe, May 15th. The angel of death has visited here and taken the one we loved so dear. This wonderful, patient man of God who tried to walk where the Saviour trod. The rich and poor were all the same. He loved them all in the Saviour's name; He labored for them with all his might. To bring to each one God's holy light. Though the Lord has taken the shepherd away, The flock that is left must not go astray. But rally together in brotherhood And do to each other as the Saviour would. Though we can't understand why this should be, We must look ahead to eternity. And find the Saviour's answer there To all who believe in faith and prayer. But let his labors be not in vain; Each do our best with heaven to gain. Loving and kind, patient and true, This great example he has left to you. Although he has gone to live with the Lord, And also to get heaven's reward, May we cherish his memory so dear, And hope to greet him over there. —A Friend.

Miss Lily Guess, daughter of the late Francis Guess, of Sydenham is no longer able to stand and walk with but little assistance, although she lay on her back, absolutely helpless, for twenty-one years.

Her total disability was caused by a fall from which she sustained injury that left her unable to walk, and during all these years she has been attended by devoted members of the family, deprived of all the pleasures of life.

There is something, too, of the miraculous about her sudden cure and a new spirit has seized her and her friends, who are devoutly grateful for the blessing that has come upon her.

That the United States Government is seeking the elimination of extreme and freak styles in woman's wearing apparel as a means of lowering the cost of clothing, was revealed by J. G. Weatherly, Washington, special assistant of A. Mitchell, attorney general, in conference at Cleveland, Ohio, with Morris A. Black, president of the Cleveland Garment Manufacturers' Association, and members of the association.

Mr. Weatherly, in direct charge of all fair price commissions in the country, said the discontinuance of extreme and freak styles would be as great a factor as any other in reducing the cost of women's garments. He is to place style standards before garment manufacturers in other parts of the country, and requested the co-operation of Cleveland manufacturers.

The town of Newmarket, Ontario, claims a unique distinction this year that of being the only large municipality in the province that deducted its tax rate. The announcement was made by the Clerk a few days ago, who explained that through the economical financing the 1920 rate would be 30 mills, while the 1919 rate was 37 mills. In virtually every other town in Ontario the tax rate has been increased this year by several mills. Trenton, it is reported, reduced the tax rate but boosted the assessment.

The annual camp meeting of the Kingston district of the Holiness Movement church, is being held at Yarker, commencing Sunday, June 20th, and continuing over the following Sunday. A duckling with four legs and four wings was the unique exhibit shown The Ontario this morning by Mr. Charles A. Hess, R. R. No. 5, Trenton. The bird was fully hatched but the hen that had been sitting on the eggs, left the nest and the egg containing this duckling has been thrown out and broken. Then it was shown that there was a fully hatched bird within, but of course it was dead. The one pair of legs are in the regular position, the others being forward beneath the usual pair of wings. Had the hen not left the nest, the bird would, doubtless, have lived long enough to show how it would utilize this double equipment.

The hot weather fails to wilt the spirits of Mr. Gordon Harris, of Toronto, who was in the city of Kingston Wednesday, on the way from Montreal to Toronto, walking the distance of some 350 miles, not as he informed The Standard, to beat the high cost of travelling but merely as recreation.

The people on both sides of the line talk the same language, worship the same, look alike, think very much alike, wear the same kind of clothes, grow the same products, cultivate the soil in the same way, plow the ground with the same crooked furrows and the same crooked lines mark the course of the harrows; the same weeds or worse show inefficient cultivation.

Is Ameliasburg alive as a township? Has anyone forgotten where Rednersville is? These questions are hardly to be regarded seriously in the light of modern events heretofore, for one of the most hopeful signs of progress is to be seen in the scheme at present working out for a big Sunday school picnic for all the schools of the township.

In an executive meeting at Centre Church, Tuesday evening, 15th inst., it was unanimously decided to cooperate in this manner, and upon invitation Rednersville was chosen as the place and July 1st as the date for this very worthy project. A committee of management of all the Sunday school superintendents and teachers are interested in arranging and preparing the grounds, which will be the fine grove, belonging to Mr. W. H. Redner, and many attractions are promised for the young people in the form of swings, teeters, merry-go-rounds, white seats, tables, etc., will be prepared for general entertainment.

The program committee, comprising the pastors of the township, Revs. Gall, Campbell and Sharpe, and the township Sunday school president, Mr. C. Wannamaker, will provide for about an hour of literary and musical program, immediately following the dinner hour. The popular Rednersville brass band have generously promised to assist, and there will be singing, reciting and short addresses.

A sports committee of Messrs. Post of Mountain View, Delong of Massasauga, Orvis of Rednersville, and Wannamaker of Salem, have in hand the shaping of a list of sports, races and tests of skill, for which about $40 of prizes are already promised.

Altogether Dominion Day of 1920 will be joyfully and truly kept as Canadians may gratefully do, in this favored part of our beloved land.

Another change we noticed in our trip from Madoc to East Aurora, New York, and westward as far as Dufferin county, is the sprinkling of the Holstein in nearly every herd of cattle. The idea seems to be rapidly gaining ground among dairymen that the Holstein is the best cow for the production of milk.

Mixed farming seems to prevail everywhere, and the thought occurred to us that this may be the explanation of the fact that farmers have not yet reached the stage of development when they standardize their products. In the hundreds of miles we travelled we do not remember seeing one herd of cattle, or of horses, one flock of sheep or of hens, that did not consist of many varieties. There are hundreds of farms in old Ontario that are not producing one pure-bred animal or one pure-bred fowl, and this notwithstanding the fact that agricultural colleges, fairs and farm journals are constantly advocating it.

In passing from Canada into the United States the expression heard in Canada a few years ago: "We want no truck nor trade with the United States" came to our mind so we set ourselves the task of discovering that line which is supposed to separate us from our neighbors to the south, but we failed to discover it. The people on both sides of the line talk the same language, worship the same, look alike, think very much alike, wear the same kind of clothes, grow the same products, cultivate the soil in the same way, plow the ground with the same crooked furrows and the same crooked lines mark the course of the harrows; the same weeds or worse show inefficient cultivation.

Couldn't the line, guess it is not there—think we are all brothers or at worst cousins. The man who sows the seed of hatred between us and them is a poor type of the genus homo.—Madoc Review.

THE MOIRA RIVER

Where the Moira stream meanders through the leafy daisies and dells, On its winding journey downward to the everlasting sea— There are groves of Sylvan beauty where my memory loves to dwell, And a thousand recollections come in rapture back to me.

Chorus: Oh the happy days we squandered— As with books and lines we wandered— To the fishing places up and down the stream— We were boys and life was splendid, But those happy days are ended— Save when, now and then, they come back in a dream.

Up at dawn and on the river, all aglow with life and joy, But alas they flew too quickly, man replaced the care-free boy, And I live in retrospection, days of happiness that were.

Returning home at eventide, when the day's delights were o'er, And the dear old mother's greeting, as she met me at the door, Gave the day's achievement meaning that was balm to boyish pride.

Faster not the spirit springing for a clutch at nature's heart, He but answers Nature calling to her children everywhere— Let him search the streams and mountains, he is of them, but a part, Nature holds sweet secrets for him, let him have his boyhood's share.

Dear old singing Moira river, I can hear its music now, As it sang in happy boyhood, half a century ago— Tears and sorrows have no meaning, though they scourge the aging brow, For the memory of boyhood keeps its treasures all aglow.

250 Cubic Feet per Second The High Falls is just twenty-two miles north-west of Perth. The Mississippi river is one of the largest tributaries of the Ottawa, and has many water powers, ranging as low as a head as it is economically feasible to develop. As there are several power plants in the province known as "High Falls," this particular one will be known as the "High Falls plant of the Rideau system," and is situated in the county of Lanark, on the boundary line between the townships of Sherbrooke and Dalhousie, at the head of a beautiful lake, known as Dalhousie Lake, the shores of which are dotted with handsome summer cottages, and in the waters of which bass and pickerel abound. It is almost eight miles from the nearest railway station on the K. and P.

High Falls Power Plant

FORMAL OPENING OF HYDRO POWER ON MISSISSIPPI Sites for Manufactories—The Surplus of the Electrical Energy is Available in Perth.

Perth, June 13—Away back in the last century the High Falls on the Mississippi river, which runs through the north-western portion of the county of Lanark and finally empties into the Ottawa, was noted only for its scenic beauty, and for the immense slide by which the millions of feet of pine and other lumber was shot from the waters above to the lower level, and finally distributed to the scores of saw mills along the streams and also of those on the Ottawa. The late Senator McLaren, of Perth, and the late Boyd Caldwell, of Lanark, were the timber kings of those days. Now all these conditions have changed, and instead of the rugged river drivers and the heaving and tossing logs, the waters have been harnessed and Perth, and the surrounding district are to be furnished with electrical energy under the Hydro-Electric system.

In 1818 Perth took the initiative in bringing before the Hydro Commission the possibilities of this latent water power, and to make a long story short, a few months later action was taken to develop the power. The work is now completed, eighteen months being required for the work, and the handsome powerhouse 130 by 90 feet, built of concrete, resembles an imposing marble hall, so glistening white is it against the surroundings.

There is being developed at this plant 3,000 h.p., and this is now the only electrical plant in Eastern Ontario where there is a surplus of power available, with the result that Perth is one of the few towns in the district where cheap and ready electrical energy for manufacturing purposes is obtainable.

The formal opening of the power plant took place on May 14. Hon. Adam Beck officiating at the function. There were present many of the prominent citizens from Perth, and the adjoining municipalities, and after the works had been declared

BELLEVILLE BONDS

Mr. R. J. Graham's letter in Saturday's issue directing attention to the laxity of the demand for City of Belleville bonds should cause us to do some serious thinking. Mr. Graham points out that while Belleville banks have deposits of five million dollars or more drawing only three per cent, interest the city has had to go begging to sell $70,000 in bonds that would realize the purchaser over six per cent.

It is well that the public should have the confidence in our banking institutions that such large local deposits would indicate. But is not Belleville deserving of equal confidence? And is not six per cent, a better return on money than three per cent.?

Our chartered banks are all sanely managed institutions, backed up by large capital and safeguarded by careful government inspection.

But it is no reflection on the solvency of our banks to say that funds invested in City of Belleville bonds are safer than funds on deposit in a chartered bank. And funds of a reasonable amount invested in a farm mortgage are safer than either.

Our banks are human institutions, managed by fallible human beings. The reinvestment of the funds entrusted to their charge by depositors is often highly speculative in its nature.

Within the past thirty years we cannot recall a single instance of an Ontario municipality passing into bankruptcy, which within that same period there have been failures, numerous in proportion to their numbers among Canadian chartered banks. Some of the failures have not only been disastrous to shareholders, but also to depositors.

Nevertheless we have no hesitation in saying that present-day banks are strong and reliable. They are as safe as we can expect any institutions to be that depend for their very existence on their ability to reinvest funds at a higher rate of interest than they pay depositors.

But, notwithstanding their high accretions of capital, there is no Canadian bank as secure as a mortgage of $2,000 placed on a ten-thousand dollar farm in the Township of Thurlow.

There is a similar margin of safety on funds invested in bonds of the City of Belleville. They represent tangible assets that have but small fluctuations in value.

We would inform Mr. Graham that the most probable reason why investors have not come forward is because of the systematic campaign that has been daily carried on the past three months to injure and destroy Belleville's standing and credit. Just when our city was ready to emerge from the doldrums and everything had fair for a period of unrivalled development, a flood of incendiary talk was unloosed and confidence, a delicate plant at best, was seriously undermined.

Belleville's bonds should present so attractive an offering that men with money should be fairly falling over one another to buy them. Instead of that we have the deplorable inactivity reported by Mr. Graham.

TAG DAYS

The regent of the Quinte Chapter of the Daughters of the Empire, in a letter to The Intelligencer in reference to the recent tag-day collection by that organization makes use of a couple of quotations from an editorial that appeared in The Ontario upon the method of raising money by tagging.

The writer of the letter apparently had the impression that The Ontario editorial reflected on an adverse way upon Quinte Chapter and the object of its appeal.

Nothing could be farther from our intention. We expressly stated, as a matter of fact, that "both were worthy of the fullest support." Having a knowledge of the noble, patriotic work carried on by that splendid organization rather by force and surprise than by persuasion during the period of the war and the self-sacrificing labors that have followed the conclusion of peace, it would surely be a gross piece of ingratitude to cast the slightest aspersion upon these tireless promoters of the public good.

And further be, it said that the Hospital, the Children's Shelter and the other institutions and charities for which appeal has been made are all doing magnificent work in their several spheres of operation. It would be an act of supreme folly for a public journal to be so unfair as to attack any institutions so well and capably managed and so deserving of public confidence.

We endeavored to make it as plain as human language could express it that the having of frequent tag-day appeals was undesirable. Our argument was against an excess of tag-days and not against that particular tag-day for which Mayor Riggs was fully justified in issuing a permit.

We still hold to the opinion that the effort to raise money by tagging should be resorted to on only extremely rare occasions and then only when the organization was properly deserving of support from the general public and no other method of raising money was available.

It is all very well to say that any person so small and mean as to begrudge the pittance necessary to secure a tag is unworthy of serious attention.

The aversion to wearing labels and tags is by no means confined to curmudgeons and tight wads.

There is about the tagging a tacit compulsion that arouses in many people an instinctive opposition and a sulky compliance instead of the willing and generous co-operation that might be secured were the appeal of a different nature.

Our Children's Shelter is a most excellent public institution in which we are all interested. Suppose, for the sake of argument, that the City Council were to grant to Capt. Ruston and his assistants the authority to hold a tag-day every Saturday, and carried out the permission by placing taggers every Saturday on all the street corners. How long would it be before the worthy captain and his workers would be voted a public nuisance, the Shelter consigned to the bow-wows and business effectively queered in the city? How long would it take to bring about just such results?

During the war we submitted to frequent tagging, because of the fact of war and the necessity for raising funds quickly and with as little effort as possible. But the war is ended and there are thousands of other ways to gather in money without resorting to methods that are likely to create a certain amount of unpopularity for the organization making the appeal.

THE GLOVED "TIGER"

Some vivid personal sketches of the leading figures at the Paris Peace Conference are given by Mr. J. M. Keynes, C. B., in his book entitled "The Economic Consequences of the Peace."

"How M. Clemenceau—"by far the most eminent" of the "Big Four," says the author—appeared in the Council Chamber is described as follows:

"The figure and bearing of Clemenceau are universally familiar. At the Council of Four he wore a square-tailed coat of very good, thick, black broadcloth, and on his hands, which were never uncovered, grey suede gloves. His boots were of thick leather, very good but of a country type, and sometimes fastened in front, curiously, by a buckle instead of laces. His seat in the room in the President's house, where the regular meetings of the Council of Four were held, was on an equine brocade chair in the middle of the semi-circle facing the fire-place, with Signor Orlando on his left, the President next, by the fire-place, and the Prime Minister opposite on the other side of the fire-place on his right.

He carried no papers and no portfolio, and was unattended by any personal secretary, though several French Ministers and officials, appropriate to the matter in hand, would be present round him. His walk, his hand, and his voice were not lacking in vigor, but he bore, nevertheless, especially after the attempt upon him, the aspect of a very old man conserving his strength for important occasions. He spoke seldom, leaving the initial statement of the French case to his Ministers or officials; he closed his eyes often, and sat back in his chair with an impassive face of parchment, his grey-gloved hands clasped in front of him. A short sentence, decisive or cynical, was generally sufficient, a question, an unqualified abandonment of his Ministers, whose face would not be saved, or a display of obstinacy tempered by a few words in a piquantly delivered English.

"But speech and passion were not lacking when they were wanted, and the sudden outburst of words, often followed by a fit of deep coughing from the chest, produced their impression rather by force and surprise than by persuasion. Silent and aloof on the outskirts—if anything which touched the security of France was forward—throned, in his grey gloves, on a brocade chair, dry in soul and empty in piece of ingratitude to cast the slightest aspersion upon these tireless promoters of the public good.

BODY AND MIND

Early in life the average man discovers that he has a complex nature, and that he has to deal with life in the best way he can—life with its variable circumstances, its sunshine and shadow, its obstacles, its temptations, its tribulations. He comes to the consciousness that he is no mere insensate log—driven hither and thither by the tides—but that he has within himself certain vital forces capable of response to the universe outside of him, and by which he can in some measure, direct his course. He finds that he has not only a body, like the animals, but that he has a mind superior to anything of the sort in the zoological world—a mind that is conscious of other minds around him; a mind whereby he can hold converse with the thoughts that animated the mighty dead. Sometimes he is disposed to think he has a soul—something that differs in its operations from that in him which he recognizes as his mental outfit. He has known opportunities of worship when this that he calls his soul has seemed to be conscious of the Divine. He has known times when the fleshy part of him was in the ascendant, and obstreperous material pleasures crowded the soul out of him.

Thinking of these things he may come, to the conclusion, with regard to his complex make-up, that the ideal which human nature should set before it is to keep every part of it in health and true balance. He soon finds out that this is the most difficult thing in the world. It is an endeavor which human nature has had before it for a great many centuries, and with regard to it there have been apparently more failures than successes. There are numerous advocates imploring attention to each department; the gospel of physical culture and the gospel of mental training are preached nearly as fervidly as the gospel of Christ. They are both worth listening to. It is very important to keep the body in health, and the modern teaching of exercise and fresh air if carried out in practice, will, given a fair constitution, make a man forget that he has a body.

No man, however, ever developed his mental faculties by mere bodily exercise. Football heroes are seldom the best scholars. Champion "strong men" are sometimes a bit weak in the head. The powers of reflection and judgment he intellectual faculties, can only be kept alert and strong by the proper exercise of natural gifts. Some people are more gifted than others, but the plodding student will usually surpass the brilliant idler.

When we come to the third part of the human trinity, and the hypothesis that a spark of the Divine animates the human clod, we come to the consideration of that which is very frequently neglected. There are multitudes, who, if their minds and bodies are well cared for, do not think it important to pay any attention to the culture of the soul. There are others who tell us that we have no souls at all, and that what we have taken for souls are the mere result of bodily processes. But the notion that every man has a soul is rather a persistent one, and the majority of people believe in it, at intervals perhaps, but sometimes with overpowering conviction, and there are still those who are not too proud or careless to avail themselves, on behalf of their souls' health, of those ordinances of religion which old-fashioned people call "the means of grace."

A MISUNDERSTOOD PHILOSOPHER Nietzsche, the apostle of the Superman idea is a mere name of ominous sound to the average reader. To a certain type of popular demagogue and platform speaker he is the horrible example of unorthodox reasoning and godless philosophy, which inspired and precipitated the campaign of Hunnish frightfulness launched by the Germans in the great war. Partly because Nietzschean students have been very few in number, and partly because those students have learned from their teacher to philosophically ignore the calumnies of an unthinking world, the actual fact that Nietzsche had little or nothing to do with the great war, or German "Kultur," has never been emphatically presented.

Ten years ago one lonely volume of Nietzsche lay on the shelf of the London Public Library, "Beyond Good and Evil." Not all of his books had been printed, either in German or English. The Scandinavians, who kept out of the great war entirely, undoubtedly had consumed more Nietzschean literature than any other race in Europe or the entire world. Augustus Strindberg, perhaps of all great writers, had come most under the influence of Nietzsche. Shaw and Vernon Lee in England showed traces of his influence and D'Annunzio and other Italian futurists betrayed the fact that they had caught some inspiration from the sage of Weimar, who went insane in 1899 and died in 1900. In France, Eugene Brieux was scorched with the dangerous flame of Nietzscheanism, and wrote "Damaged Goods," the forerunner of many plays now depicting the dangers of neglecting health and moral standards of life. In England, Nietzsche's influence affected most the labor movement, and encouraged the growth of the National Guilds movement. Syndicalism in France and America owes something to Nietzsche. But in Germany Nietzsche was mainly regarded as a dreamer, a poet and a madman. The Germans were by nature too stolid and corporeal to understand his poetic figures of speech and his incisive, biting language. Besides, his chief foible was a rather over-affected contempt for the Germans and a facetious desire to prove a Polish ancestry from the fact of his Slavic name.

What is Nietzscheanism? It is a curious blend of positivism drawn from Comte, aestheticism imbibed from Schopenhauer, classicism inspired by the Greek writers and the affected aristocracy and superiority of a great mind rebellious against the unhappy confines of a weak and constantly suffering body. A lonely boyhood, surrounded only by maiden aunts and other women relatives, developed in Nietzsche a peculiarly incisive and psychological porosity of reasoning. He estimated things and philosophies not by their superficial appearances, but by probing them with a lancet and exhibiting in clear view the minute samples taken from their heart or core. Somehow, one cannot read Nietzsche without glimpsing a peculiar and fecund truth in every paragraph. One cannot read a page without stopping to think and becoming lost in new lines of thought never followed before, but which seem so absurdly simple and cynically true, once someone else has pointed them out.

Against Ibsen, the emancipator of woman, Nietzsche enunciated flaming reiterations that woman's place was the home. Against Tolstol, the Christian anarchist, Nietzsche hurled relentless criticisms. The socialists he covered with contempt. The ponderous phrasings of Marx recoiled before the light, rapid-fire artillery of Nietzsche's dot and dash style of writing. Art he exalted as a counter-agent to what he termed "inhillistic" influences.

Nietzsche today is misunderstood, and perhaps he deserves to be misunderstood. He spoke in parable that the multitude might not laugh at his meaning. What Jesus meant when he said, "Cast not your pearls before swine," Nietzsche took eighteen volumes to say.

"Don't whisper," is the key note of the Nietzschean gospel. Be self-reliant; be hard with yourself. Expect not too much and you will not be too disappointed. Make yourself able to command what you want.

"Courage for psychological nakedness" is another catchword on which a wholesome phase of his doctrine hinges. Have courage to face facts, to look the truth in the face, whether it be beautiful or terrible. Preconceived ideas of what we would like the truth to be, necessarily mitigate against getting the real truth, as Nietzsche pointed out.

THE LITTLE CHURCH BACK HOME

When the big pipe organs swelling and the choir sings, You almost hear the swishing of the living angels' wings, And the congregation's musin' in the proneness for to sing— Sort of leanin', lifeless, waitin' for the preacher to begin In that holy hush it happens that I clean forget the place, And again I'm meek and lowly, 'fore the throne of savin' grace; The throne that wasn't nestlin' 'neath a spire or a dome, But the sinners sought their Saviour in that little church back home.

When we had protracted greetings 'twould have done you good to hear The congregation singing with a blend of voices clear, How the "Rock of Ages" towered like a sheltering sort of wall, And our souls soared up to glory since the "Rock" was cleft for all, Every face was wreathed with sweetness and we always had a smile For the stranger, saint or sinner in the pew across the aisle, For a diamond's often gathered from the commonest of loam, And we didn't mind the settin' in the little church back home.

The city's choir's voices rise in cadences so sweet As they sing about the river where the sainted ones shall meet, And the preacher's voice is pleading as he asks us, soft and low, To treat all men as brothers in this weary vale of woe, This city church is handsome and the congregation's large, The preacher's doing noble with his heaven-seeking charge The choir's swellin' anthems soar to heaven through the dome, But my old heart is sighin' for the little church back home.

OTHER EDITORS' OPINIONS

PROHIBITION AND THE WORKERS

The fear of revolution is responsible for a new wrinkle in propaganda. If you are opposed to a measure, just assert that it will bring on a revolution, and all other arguments will seem flat in comparison. Thus an English preacher, Rev. Dr. G. Campbell Morgan, pastor of Westminster Chapel, London, follows the lead of Gertrude Atherton, the novelist, and Samuel Gompers, the labor leader, and links the question of prohibition amiably with that of revolution. The Associated Press quotes Rev. Morgan as declaring: "Whenever a great country banishes strong drink it must prepare for a revolution. When a man stops drinking, he begins to think. All that happened in Russia in the revolutionary line has occurred since vodka was abolished. Whenever London goes dry her east end will arise."

While it is evidently ridiculous to attribute the Russian revolution to the abolition of strong drink, still there is more than a modicum of truth in this preacher's statement. It is true that the less drinking, the more thinking. Also, as the Appeal has many times pointed out, the sober workingman desires and demands a higher standard of everyday living than does the drinking workingman. With prohibition in full force, many hitherto heedless workmen will be apt to follow the advice given years ago by Eugene V. Debs to "buy less beer and more books."

EXTRAVAGANT LIVING

Several speakers at the National Progressive Party convention on Thursday criticized the extravagance which is in evidence on all sides and favored heavy taxation on those articles which come under the category of extravagant commodities. This is a healthy sign. An orgy of extravagance and waste has cursed this country for some time. Money has been recklessly expended on articles which could very easily have been dispensed with in the interests of thrift and economy. Money has been plentiful, but it has been circulated with a recklessness in the purchase of luxuries which has been responsible to a great extent for the high cost of living. People must have the most expensive articles, and the merchant, realizing the business trend, stocked his shelves with goods to meet the requirements of the frenzied customers. There was no thought of a slump, of a period of depression in the financial and industrial situation. The wild carnival of extravagance kept up with little thought of the morrow. Now the warning has been sent out by banking institutions to the municipalities, to the industrial concerns, to the merchants, to hasten slowly in the matter of expenditure. They are recognized barometers of the financial situation and their warning is being heeded. The slump is coming and those who plunged headlong into extravagant spending and living will have cause to regret that they were victims of this hysteria.—Lindsay Post.

DO YOU SMOKE?

A smoker himself, Observer has often wondered whether some men addicted to the use of tobacco ever considered other people when they are smoking on the streets or where crowds congregate. This was drawn particularly to my attention the other evening when a young man who was smoking a cigarette passed a couple of ladies on the street, and as he was doing so, omitted a cloud of smoke that almost completely enveloped the women in question. The young man's action was not intentional, but it could have been avoided with the exercise of ordinary care. The same thing often occurs in business offices where women are employed. Thoughtlessly, one or two men light cigarettes and soon the whole office will be filled with tobacco smoke. These are just two examples of the display of bad breeding, and thoughtlessness shown by many of our tobacco users. A real gentleman, someone has said, is one who is a gentleman even when he is drunk. A man who smokes should always remember to be a gentleman, and that involves consideration of the ladies.—Guelph Herald.

HERE'S A LETTER FROM NY DEC 1919

A Timely Warning

By Rev. W. Harris Wallace

And grieve not the Holy Spirit of God, whereby ye are sealed into the day of redemption.—Ephesians 4:30.

Paul has duties that we owe one another as followers of Christ, and as members of His body, the Church. We owe it to ourselves, to one another, and to Christ who redeemed us, to live the best life before one another and for one another. He warns against the sin of falsehood; it is our duty to always speak the truth. He warns against the sin of anger; "let not the sun go down upon your wrath." He warns against dishonesty; that our time be given to do good work, that we do good by helping in any need. He also warns against all foolish talking that does so much harm, but talk so as to edify, that it may give grace to them that hear. And the chief reason for this warning is given: "And grieve not the Holy Spirit of God, whereby ye are sealed into the day of redemption." We are to speak and act in view of the end of life, where the reckoning day comes and we must give an account of our stewardship. We are warned like the young man leaving home, when receiving this parting word: "See that you carry yourself so that your folks will be proud of you."

Our text suggests the Personality of the Holy Spirit.

The Spirit of God is no mere influence in the supernatural world, as is often thought. That idea is often given in speech and prayer by devout people. Neither is the Holy Spirit any mere element in the World of Nature, as wind and fire, or electricity, that mysterious power in the air. These are only symbols of the Spirit as the anointing oil in the Old Testament. The Holy Spirit, as revealed in the New Testament, is a Real Presence, a friend, an unspen guide and counsellor, as a companion who walks by our side. He is the Spirit of Christ called also the Spirit of Truth, as He reveals Christ and the Truth to every believing and loving heart. The Holy Spirit is Christ working in us to will and to do of His good pleasure Christ's work of love for us in three fold: past, present, future. In love He gave Himself to redeem us; in love He gave us His Holy Spirit to sanctify us; for the reward of His love in dying for us and His love in love in saving us. He will at His coming present us faultless before His presence with exceeding joy.

Hamburg, a stately work of John the apostle sitting working on a roll. Behind him is seen an angel guiding his pen as he writes all that he sees and hears in the Revelation Jesus gives him in the Isle of Patmos. The Holy Spirit is just as near us to help and guide in all our life work. We must trust and obey. The fact we learn in the New Testament Holy Spirit is gentle and sensitive. We read of the "Wrath of God," and the "Wrath of the Lamb," but never of the Holy Spirit. He is gentle and patient with the children of God, and knows all their weakness and deepest needs, and longs to bless them and impart to all the highest good. Have we this Spirit of Christ toward others? If we have not that is how we may grieve the Holy Spirit of God.

How We May Grieve the Spirit.

We can grieve the Spirit of God by the sin of falsehood; anger, dishonesty, and foolish speaking. It is power of the Holy Spirit without purity. We know that a sheet of thin paper can stop an electric current and a small quantity of dirt on the Trolley line will stop a street car. The Holy Spirit can be grieved by malice and unkindness. The story is related of the school of Pythagoras. He taught oratory, dialectics and disputations. All the scholars in the school would fly at each other, so to speak, and in hot dispute chase the hours of the day; but their habit was, when the shadows gathered and the school was done, to fall upon each other and with a kiss of peace and brotherhood to close the intellectual day. This is a good lesson not to close the day without making it right, if need, with our fellows, as we do with God.

The Christian conscience is the vehicle by which the Holy Spirit works His will. Conscience must be renewed and enlightened by fellowship with God and one another day by day. We must walk in the light as God reveals to us, to disobey is fatal. There is a well-known German picture representing a young man playing at chess with the Tempter of his soul. There he sits, intent upon the game; he sees only the moves of the pieces immediately before him; and he thinks he will still win the game. Opposite to him sits the Friend, exulting over an easy prey. Already pieces after piece has been taken; here a good deed gone, there a prayer removed; a few more successful moves on the Tempter's part, and the game is won—and the soul is lost. But there is yet another figure in the picture, which gives to the scene at once a deeper pathos and also a ray of hope. Behind the young man, unseen by him, unnoticed by the Tempter, stands the Guardian Angel of his soul. The wings are already spread for flight; the face is already turning away. It is a face not of danger, not of disappointment, not of despair, not of resistance, but of profound compassion and grief. I wonder if any of us are being tempted and yielding to the evil one? We may put it the positive way: "He that knoweth to do good, and doeth it not, to him it is sin." This is how we may grieve the Spirit of God.

Talk of the Town and of the Country

Mr. I. T. Chapman, Kirby, delivered sixteen head of cattle to dealer at Orono, swelling Isaac's bank account by nearly $2,500.

The Port Hope harbor Monday reminded citizens of the good old days when schooners laden with lumber and grain were tied up at that port. Business was so brisk Monday that vessels had to take their turn in tieing up to the dock for unloading operations.

George Allan Irvin, one of the youngest merchants of Cornwall, died Sunday morning at the General Hospital after an illness of a little over a week with typhoid pneumonia. Born at Windsor thirty-four years ago came to Cornwall, and it has since been his home with the exception of one year spent in Toronto in the employ of the Red Rose Tea Company. Eight years ago he entered into partnership with Thos. R. Dunkin in the grocery business. He was a member of Toronto Ramesses Temple of Mystic Shrine, and of Cornwall Lodge, A.F. & A.M.

A British flag, which Captain A. Cross packed away thirty-six years ago when the Silver Islet mine at Ft. William was closed, was again unfurled Monday over the shaft, indicating that the mine has been reopened. The Captain always had faith in the mine, and when he was forced to stop operations in 1884, he never to use it again except at the mine. His hopes have been realized since a Daluth syndicate recently took charge of the works.

The friends of Dr. Currie, Picton, are glad to know that his condition has so far improved as to enable him to leave the hospital. It is probable before his health will be sufficiently restored to enable him to resume his practice.

Mr. Henry Elliott Port Hope, shipped a car load of stock to Toronto on Saturday last. In the cargo were fifteen head of cattle which cost Mr. Elliott $1,542.50; eleven hogs cost $296.60; eleven calves and lambs costing $158.50. Cows have dropped one dollar per hundred since the shipment was made.

From Friday night to Monday morning, Oshawa had the pleasure of having as two of its visitors, two Presbyterian missionaries of Trinidad, B.W.I. The two reverend men were Rev. W. I. Green of Couva, who is home on furlough. He has been in the island many years and is a native of Prince Edward Island. The other visitor was Rev. Mr. Kemp of San Fernando, who has been in Canada since October. He is an old New Brunswick boy and has been eight years representing the Presbyterian Church in Canada, in Trinidad.

The investigation is proceeding at the Portsmouth penitentiary and officials are reported to be in a state of apprehension. In fact "nerves" best describes the situation there. The management is determined to leave no department neglected and it is likely that special auditors from the auditor general's office will go over the bookkeeping system, especially in the industrial department, with a view to improving the system that has been in use for many years. The quarry department is now providing material for talk, and some officials are said to be marked for retirement.

Dr. H. S. Reynolds, dentist, Picton, has sold his business to Dr. C. E. Wright, who lately returned from overseas. Dr. Wright has had an extensive experience in the profession.

Prince Edward County S. S. Convention

Albany is "on the map" from Friday, June 11, forward for no other reason than that it is a good centre for Sunday school conventions. What was claimed by many to have been the best and most largely attended of such gatherings in this county took place at that church upon the above date and was most successful in every way.

The people of Rednersville circuit with the pastor heartily in the lead spared no pains to make their part as guests memorable and with the splendid plant, including auditorium, basement, sheds and grounds the work was made much easier. Luncheon was served in the basement between the sessions so that no one might have to leave the convention atmosphere and the record of Prince Edward hospitality was well maintained.

There were three sessions, the morning comprising an address by the Cor. Pres., Mr. Clayton Burr, of Bloomfield and reports by the various superintendents of the several departments followed by an excellent address by Rev. T. A. Halpenny, B.A., Pres. of the Provincial Association. The afternoon was made profitable by a splendid review of the work by the Cor. Sec.-Treas., Mrs. W. R. Munro and an interesting paper upon C.S.E.T., efforts Trail Rangers and Tuxis Boys by Mr. E. Case of Picton. Rev. A. E. McCutcheon, of Bloomfield gave a masterly appeal on behalf of teacher training and Rev. Halpenny continued the line of reasoning in "The Teacher and Teaching." The evening addresses were "The S.S. A Man's Work Room," by Rev. J. J. Mellor, Northport and "Life's Saving Law" by Rev. Halpenny were unusually gripping and convincing while Rev. L. M. Sharpe, pastor of the convention in charge summarized and emphasized the thoughts of the convention in the direction of more faithful and general service on the part of all with the specializing by the leaders and the hearty sympathy that should be enlisted in this popular modern churchwork.

Music, both vocal and instrumental was given during all sessions, led by the gospel band, Victoria choir and Mr. W. Orvis and solos by Miss Keachie of Consoon, Miss Davidson of Rossmore and a duet by Mrs. J. F. Weese and Miss A. Brickman, of Victoria, chorus by a S.S. class and a piano solo by Mildred Mitts, of Albany.

The Rednersville brass band assisted much to make the remarkable success, an attendance of about five hundred being present for that session. Over 250 people sat down to the tables so well provided. The executive elected for next year has the same officers, Mr. C. W. Burr, Pres., Mrs. Munro, Sec.-Treas., and Mr. E. Case, Supt. of C.S.E.T. The next convention will be held at Picton.

Dr. Richard Jolliffe, of Winnipeg, professor of Greek and Latin in the University of Manitoba, has been appointed to the chair of Latin in Queen's University. This post has not been filled permanently since the death of Professor Codd in 1917.

Dr. Jolliffe is a native of Kingston, where his father was pastor of the Brock street Methodist church. He took a distinguished course in classics in the University of Toronto, followed, after an interval of high school teaching, by a postgraduate course in the University of Chicago, where he received his degree of Ph.D., his dissertation dealing with political methods in Rome. Dr. Jolliffe brings a reputation as a sound scholar and a vigorous teacher, and will undoubtedly prove a force in Ontario in retaining for the classics a distinctive field in university and school training.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Morden, Mrs. Drummond, Mrs. G. Fox, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Peterson, Misses Laura Ramsay, Mary Duffie and Helen Cook represented Bowerman's and Burr's at the county convention at Albany and think it the best S.S. convention held in this county to date. There were several splendid addresses given by Mr. E. Case, Picton, Rev. A. E. McCutcheon, Bloomfield, Rev. Mellor, Northport and Rev. Halpenny, Toronto and during the evening the brass band from Rednersville gave several selections which were much enjoyed. This band was only organized about a year ago and certainly do great credit to their leader, Mr. Ralph Stafford. Little Mildred Mitts delighted the audience with an instrumental selection on the piano and was so enthusiastically encored that she returned and played another selection. Not the least among the good things of that convention were the well laden tables in the basement where the visitors were entertained to dinner and tea.

Malle's Worm Powders prove their value. They do not cause any violent disturbances in the stomach, any pain or griping, but do their work quietly and painlessly, so that the destruction of the worms is imperceptible. Yet they are thorough, and from the first dose there is improvement in the condition of the sufferer and an entire cessation of manifestations of internal trouble.

Col. W. N. Ponton, K. C., appeared for Mr. J. E. Walmesley, who lodged a general appeal.

The appeal, he said, was made under the statute. It was a specific and general appeal against the 1920 assessment. For the City Solicitor to say the appeal is a nullity was a glittering generality. The greater includes the less.

Mr. Walmesley took this order on behalf of himself and the citizens in general. It is an appeal that everything be done correctly.

A great many relying on Mr. Walmesley's appeal did not appeal. Mr. Walmesley last evening tendered 48 names. Among the 480 appeals before the Court there must be palpable errors made by the assessor, but not intentionally.

Col. Ponton pointed out how the assessment had changed in the past year according to the City Assessor's figures, some properties being doubled in the value set upon them.

City Solicitor S. Masson, K. C., maintained that Mr. Walmesley's appeal was a nullity. His appeal was stated as follows: "I appeal against the assessment of the City of Belleville for the year 1920. Assessment too high." (Sgd.) J. E. Walmesley. His own address is not given nor is that of each assessed person. The result is the clerk could not notify every citizen.

The Assessment Act did not contemplate any such general appeal.

The assessor made his returns last year upon a fluctuating market. His only standard of values to selling prices and the cost of construction. The assessor was justified. The assessor had done his duty.

There must be evidence of palpable errors before the assessment can be opened up.

Concluding, Mr. Masson said the general appeal was irregular.

Col. Ponton said the whole spirit of the act should be taken. The city solicitor's solution was for every ratepayer not for the assessor. Mr. Masson said his duty was to defend the assessment.

Sheriff M. B. Morrison, chairman of the Board of Revision, declared as the assessment had to be settled by July 1st. The court did not undertake to decide on the legality of Mr. Walmesley's appeal.

"I must say I agree with the appeal of Mr. Walmesley. I saw an appeal of this kind worked out before. The case did not go as far as opening up the whole assessment as the council and court got together. There were 480 appeals in. Among these are doubtless palpable errors.

Instead of deciding on Mr. Walmesley's appeal, the matter could be arranged by extending the time for filing appeals. The resolution above was then read to the court and adopted. This the chairman thought would get over the question difficulty of going over every case of assessment by allowing the individual to appeal.

"In my opinion he got the boosting idea in his head," said the chairman, referring to City Assessor J. A. Kerr, who was detained out of town.

Mr. Morrison did not see why the assessment should be raised in some cases 50 per cent and argued against Mr. Masson's argument that sales were the criterion of value. Sheriff Morrison said selling prices were not standard. A price that would

Ten Days More For Appealing

Ten more days are now allowed property owners to protest against their assessment for the year 1920. A resolution to this effect was drafted and adopted by the Court of Revision last evening when dealing with appeals from Ketcheson and Baldwin wards.

The step comes as a direct result of Ex-Mayor J. E. Walmesley's general appeal on behalf of the entire assessed public and is a short way out of a difficulty.

City Solicitor Masson says the Court of Revision has no power to allow appeals now to be lodged.

The City Council Chamber was crowded with appellants representing all classes of citizens.

Following is the resolution adopted by the Court of Revision: "Moved by R. W. Adams, seconded by W. H. Panter, that whereas it has been made to appear to the Court of Revision that there are many palpable errors in the assessment roll of the City of Belleville for the year 1920, therefore be it resolved that pursuant to R. S. O. 1914, chap. 195, Section 9, sub section 19, we hereby extend the time for making complaints for 10 days from the 16th day of June 1920, and direct the Clerk to publish this notice in both the city papers during the next ten days.—Carried.

(Sgd.) M. B. Morrison, Chairman.

Eleventh Annual Convention Held at Wesley Church, Trenton—Also Call for Sensible Dress Among Women.

(Special Report by Mrs. (Rev.) W. P. Rogers.)

The eleventh Annual County Convention of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of Hastings, Lennox and Addington opened Tuesday morning in the Wesley Church, Trenton, Mrs. Gibson, Belleville, in the chair.

Mrs. Gibson in her opening address expressed the thought that temperance workers have greater battles to fight in the future than anything they have ever attempted in the past. In the absence of Miss Lucy Anderson, County Corresponding Secretary, her report was read by Mrs. Nathan Miller.

Total membership of county, 535. Total amount collected for all purposes $1,451.22.

Miss Maud Reeves, County Treasurer, presented her report. Total amount cash received $710.09. Total disbursements $608.67. This has been the best year financially in the history of the County Union. Increase over last year, $377.83.

Miss Hodgins, Silby, Supt. Citizenship Department, reports that our women are accepting the responsibilities of citizenship.

Mrs. W. B. Curry, Trenton, Anti-Narcotic Supt., reports peculiar conditions in the department. Suggestions were made that literature on this subject should be distributed broadcast to educate the public on the baneful influence of cigarettes especially.

Another suggestion was made to have essays written and read in the schools on these subjects, prizes being offered to stimulate the interest and activity of the children.

Miss Farley told of the flowers and fruit department as carried on by Belleville Y's. They sent out flowers and plants at Christmas time, also some Christmas baskets.

Miss Hatton, Superintendent of Law Enforcement, reported good work in Trenton Council, of whom much is expected in improving the moral standard of the town. She reports Napanee goal empty—one of the direct results of prohibition. Mrs. (Rev.) Rogers, Supt. Scientific Temperance, reported interest in her department on the increase. The local unions need to be educated on the importance of this work. Mrs. Lockwood, Supt. Temperance in the Sabbath Schools, emphasized the importance of this work among the young people.

Mrs. Dummodie, Evangelistic Superintendent, dwelt upon the necessity of devoting a half hour to devotional exercises at the beginning of each monthly meeting. We should pray as if everything depended upon us. Miss Gandier, Supt. of Loyalty Temperance Legion, deplored the crying need for more workers. Her prayer was that God would thrust forth more workers into the vineyard. As we go back to our unions let us each keep in mind the needs of the work.

The children in the schools are being organized. Surely in the counties of Hastings and Lennox and Addington there must be some consecrated women who can visit schools in the interest of this work. Japan is putting us to shame. She has a law by which no one under 21 dare touch intoxicants or narcotics. Mrs. Graham, Supt. of Moral Education Department, emphasized the influence of mothers and teachers in the moral uplift of the young. Mrs. Douglas, Supt. Parlor Meetings, reported work done in counties from a social point of view.

Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Bigelow Provincial Organizer W.C.T.U., spoke on the good which may be accomplished through the medium of mothers' meetings, especially in larger centres, among women who do not have many social privileges.

Mrs. Parks, county press reporter, gave a good report. The local papers have been used extensively as a means of spreading temperance information throughout the county.

Miss Farley spoke instructively on medal contests.

Mrs. (Rev.) Rogers, Napanee, gave a paper on "The Woman in the New Era." She traced the rise and fall of woman's influence from the time of the ancient Egyptians down to our own time. When the woman of the new era is searching for her rightful place she can go no further and no higher than the one, God-ordained—"Womanhood, the Motherhood of the World." A resolution was passed that this paper be published in the White Ribbon Tidings. Mrs. Bigelow, speaking of the work of the W.C.T.U. and its illustrious founder, Francis E. Willard, quoted from John Greenleaf Whittier:

"She knew the power of banded ill; But felt that love was stronger still; And organized for doing good." "The world's united womanhood."

More than any society ever formed the Woman's Christian Temperance Union is the exponent of what is best in this day civilization. It was born in prayer and cradled in mother-love. Its scope is the broadest, its aims are the kindest, its history is the most heroic. Its broad sympathies appeal to all good and true women who are willing to clasp hands in one common effort to protect their homes and loved ones from the ravages of strong drink. The W.C.T.U. was the sober second thought of the God-inspired women of crusade days, who discovered that their work was to have permanent results. The laws of the land must not legalize, empower nor protect the evil thing they sought to annihilate. This year because of the crisis that is upon us it was felt that we should institute a membership campaign with the thought that the education it involved might materially help to strengthen our cause.

We are told that now there are more women voters in Ontario than men voters. What a responsibility this places upon the womanhood of our province. God help them to measure up to it.

Thursday evening's session was of particular interest. Devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. W. G. Clarke who gave the W.C.T.U. encouragement in his remarks regarding conditions in this fair Dominion of ours and the marked improvement through the abolition of the bar.

Mrs. Bigelow then gave a thrilling talk on moral and spiritual reconstruction, beginning by reading from Joshua 7, and showing how God has always chastened nations for their disobedience to His laws. God controls the world now, as then, and the late awful war forced us to believe that the world had swung far away from God's plan. Not His wish to punish humanity. It is necessary to find our way back to God. We are proud of our patriotism and of being British subjects, and Canadian citizens. Our land is rich in resources of all kinds, but the making of a great nation depends not upon the resources of the land but upon the Christianity of its inhabitants. Character counts for everything that is best.

"He serves his country best who lives a pure life and doeth right deeds, and walks straight paths however others stray, and leaves his sons as uttermost bequest a stainless record that all men may read."

All evils would be corrected and controlled by adherence to the Golden Rule. "It is righteousness that exalteth a nation."

In the history of the world the great national calamities were caused by refusal to listen to repeated warning sent from God through His servants. The people of Nineveh were saved because they listened and repented of their sins. Strong drink has played a large part in the cause of evil things which befall God's people since the beginning of world. Belshazzar and Alexander the Great are examples of this fact in ancient history. Great nations have lost their greatness because of sin and intemperance. If now people will measure up to God's purpose Canada will become a very great country. Nations must reap what they sow. Our responsibilities are great to our own beloved Dominion and to the other countries. By our example in suppression of evil and by prayer as the greatest of help we must see that our country is free from strong drink, also that children are taught scientific and Scriptural temperance and the harm done by alcoholic poison.

The liquor habit is a colossal crime. It is the duty of every citizen to do his best to rid the land of this great blot upon civilization.

The following resolutions were passed:

1. In consideration of the alarming increase in the use of cigarettes, we respectfully urge an active and vigorous campaign through the L. T. L. Young People's Societies, Sunday Schools and day schools. It is easier to train the young aright than to correct habits already formed.

2. Recommended that the Unions provide themselves with medal contest books and the anti-cigarette speaker with a view to placing them in the hands of the temperance secretaries in Sunday schools and teachers in the day schools.

3. We as Christian Temperance women will hold ourselves in readiness to co-operate in any way necessary with the referendum workers in the referendum campaign.

4. We believe that it is possible to reach through public press people whom we could not influence in any other way, therefore we recommend that all Unions, through their local correspondents, give to the press as much information as possible concerning our work.

5. Resolved, that we ask all Unions to appoint Travellers' Aid superintendents to co-operate with the work of safeguarding our young people by keeping in touch with Dr. Sara Dretzler.

6. That we as a union of counties represented by the W.C.T.U. appeal to our government that a lecturer on scientific temperance be appointed to work in all our teacher training institutions so teachers may be better prepared as they go out to practice their profession to teach efficiently the all-important subject of scientific temperance and that a copy of this resolution be sent to Mr. Grant, Minister of Education.

7. Be it resolved, that, realizing the increasing of applications for divorce and the fact that the requirements for obtaining divorce are not the same for the woman as for the man, and that the sacredness of the marriage tie is being weakened by the facilities by which divorces are being obtained, we desire to put our selves on record as entering our protest against easy divorce and unfair requirements.

8. Be it resolved, that we affirm our uncompromising opposition to the present lax enforcement of the Ontario Temperance Act as to selling liquor. We feel the temperance forces must bestir themselves and demand the removal from office of all of those who hamper the thorough enforcement of the law and that we use our influence in every possible way to appoint those to office who are in sympathy with the enforcement of existing laws; also that we request our Provincial W.C.T.U. to memorialize the Dominion Government to prohibit the manufacture, importation and sale of all alcoholic beverages for beverage purposes throughout Canada.

9. Resolved, that we, the members of the Belleville Y.W.C.T.U., place ourselves on record as in hearty approval of the endeavor of W.C.T.U. to bring before women, especially mothers and those engaged in the training of the young, the necessity of inculcating a desire for a more modest, hygienic and moral style of dress than the prevailing fashions. Especially would we condemn the high heels and narrow toe of present styles of footwear which is responsible for so much ill-health among women of today and is becoming too common among our sex.

Resolved, that whereas our young people are sometimes compelled to blush with shame at the character of our moving pictures, we would urge our W.C.T.U. as a body to petition our Government for a more rigid enforcement of the censoring of our pictures so that they will elevate the morals of our young people rather than degrade them.

10. Whereas the use of liquor is being fostered and increased by prevalence of advertising through the mail and press, and whereas this is being extended to homes of earnest temperance advocates, resolved that we urge our provincial W.C.T.U. executive to memorialize the Federal Government to forbid the use of His Majesty's mail for this purpose.

Believing our papers should be for moral uplift we are resolved that we use our influence and support those refusing liquor advertising and that we voice our disapproval wherever possible to discourage the circulation of those giving space soliciting sales of liquor.

Realizing that recreation and amusement carried to excess becomes dissipation, and amusement and recreation that occupies the time six nights in the week unfits for the work of the day is dissipation.

British Columbia

Editor Ontario—

All citizens have reason to consider carefully the present position of this Dominion, when they learn that in taking over the Grand Trunk and the Grand Trunk Pacific, the Dominion has become the greatest railway proprietor in the world, especially considering, that not a single railway owned by the Dominion, is paying a profit, but is run at an enormous annual deficit. It was only by a narrow majority, that the Government carried the resolution to purchase the Grand Trunk and the Grand Trunk Pacific. Whether it was a wise policy to purchase them is not for me to say. Every person must form his opinion. Many wise men, think it a good deal, and they are all right. There are three great transcontinental railroads. Over one of these, The Grand Trunk Pacific, I travelled to Winnipeg, from Prince Rupert, an immense distance. From Winnipeg to St. Paul, and Minneapolis, thence to Chicago, thence to this City by Port Huron and Toronto. Leaving Vancouver by the splendid steamer "Prince George," you steam through the Straits of Georgia. The strait is very wide, the mainland upon one side, and the immense island of Vancouver (upon which is situated Victoria, the Capital of British Columbia) on the other side. This island is of immense extent. Many mines and great forests. Much of it remains unexplored. It is said, there are many wild and ferocious animals in the dense woods. Passing along, you enter Queen Charlotte Sound, named after the Queen of "George the Third." These islands are large, containing many lakes. The inhabitants are principally Indians. In Vancouver Island, are coal mines, of great value. The Dunsmoires have amassed millions from coal. One gentleman I met, has a soft coal mine worked with steam shovels. One ton on the car, costs him thirty cents. He receives $3.80 per ton. The coal bars are the lords of the earth. The central fire of this globe, has been tapped in many places. The interior of the earth, is one molten fiery mass. We live on the crust, which at some places is very thin particularly in Alaska, where a temperature of 212 degrees has been obtained at sixty feet. At one place in Italy, a large engine is run by steam, obtained from a shaft sunk in the earth, several thousand feet. At Bath, in England, a spring discharges hot water. The crust of the earth at that point, being very thin. When one considers immense quantities of coal areas, of various descriptions and millions of shafts sunk for coal oil, taken out of the earth immense caverns must exist, and at any moment, this crust may break. Let us hope it will not do so, in our time. Yellowstone Park is full of boiling springs. I caught a trout in a little stream, swung the line and fish, into a boiling spring, and boiled my trout. This is a fish story, but is true. Queen Charlotte Indians are expert in manufacturing from native grasses, most beautiful mats, hats, and garments. They procure dyes of different colors from plants. At nearly every house, is a totem pole. This pole is generally from twenty, to twenty-five feet long. It is placed near the entrance into the dwelling. The front of the pole is carved with human faces, designs. It is supposed to prevent the entrance into the houses of evil spirits. Much ingenuity is displayed in the carving. As the steamer glides along many salmon canneries are seen. Lofty mountains clothed with spruce, and other woods, rise from the water. Very few settlements along the shores. Occasionally a saw mill, surrounded by a few cottages. Sometimes a space has been cleared for a garden. Motor boats, hunting ducks, which are present in large numbers, gardens of small cleared spaces, where vegetables and grain are growing. Everywhere, enormous mountains, many snow-capped, clothed with spruce, pines, and several kinds of timber. British Columbia has enormous wealth in her timber lands, chiefly timber which can be converted into pulp. The evidence taken by the two Judges recently in British Columbia, shows that frauds of the grossest description have been practiced with reference to these lands. Millions of acres have been stolen from the people. One man swore, that he had received a deed of a vast quantity of timber lands, without paying anything for them. This man stated on oath, the value of the lands obtained, was six hundred and fifty thousand dollars, probably worth double that sum. We stopped for some time at Ocean Park where there is an enormous plant for making pulp. It is situated at the base of the mountain at the head of the bay. It employs one thousand people. All around is a dense wilderness. The works are extensive, having cost an enormous sum. A little church and school house surrounded by cottages, formed a pretty view from the water. Here these people lived, and seemed happy. The advent of the steamer was the excitement of the day. The same rugged scenery extends all the way to Prince Rupert. The appearance of this place from the water is dismal. From the cliff the rocks have been excavated to afford space for wharves, and streets. The town has nothing in any way remarkable. It must at some time, become a busy shipping place, and will probably grow rapidly from supplies of lumber, grain and etc. Some people said, it rained there constantly. Probably a canard. As you travelled, many ranges of snow capped mountains were seen. The Grand Trunk Pacific possesses vast quantities of timber of all kinds. I never saw finer pines. Along the river, are many very large saw mills, and piles of lumber. There are no large towns between Prince Rupert and Edmonton. The mountain ranges, and occasional beautiful rivers are the only scenic beauties. Emerging from the mountains you, travel over a splendid farming country. Edmonton has a fine river, excellent hotels, streets, and stores. Some Belleville people have made large sums from real estate in Edmonton; others hope to realize. I was delighted with a view of a splendid oil painting of large dimensions, exhibited in the Hudson Bay Company store. It represents Charles the Second, signing the Charter of the Company, two hundred and fifty years ago. This is their anniversary year. I met there Dr. Forin, an old Belleville boy. I need not describe the trip from Edmonton to Winnipeg, St. Paul, and Chicago. The distances were immense. The country mostly prairie land. The great attraction in Minneapolis is the fall of St. Anthony, giving such vast water power to the greatest flour mills in the world. Between St. Paul and Minneapolis, are the falls of Minnehaha, where lived Hiawatha, and his charming bride Minnehaha. Several large pulp companies are now extending their capital enormously. The reason they are doing so, is because they have discovered, that pulp to be manufactured into paper, can be made not only from spruce, but from poplar, and other kinds of trees. They have learned that nearly all trees of every description can be made into pulp, and while some cannot be made into paper, many articles of different kinds of great commercial value can be made. Hitherto, a lumberer chosing limits from the Government, cut down only the best timber, leaving vast quantities of various kinds, and exposing these to destruction by fire. Recently, the destruction from this cause in Quebec and New Brunswick has been terrible. Now apply these considerations to the Grand Trunk Pacific. Not only is there immense quantities of timber of the best quality along the line, through the wooded sections, but narrow gauge roads can be run from the main line, into sections of valuable timber. In the valleys among the mountains. Then if you consider, that nearly all classes of timber, can be manufactured into lumber, pulp, and many other articles, imagine what enormous wealth is possessed by the Grand Trunk Pacific? All this will in time, result in making Prince Rupert, a great shipping port, and if prudently managed by the Dominion Government, and kept out of the hands of speculators, will prove the greatest Dominion asset.

ANNUAL CONVOCATION AT ALBERT COLLEGE

Students Received Awards For Work During Past Year—Future Outlook Bright—The Prizewinners.

The annual convocation of Albert College was held last evening at the City Hall. The year just closing has been one of the most successful in the institution's history and hopes run high for the future of Albert when the new buildings are erected and occupied on the Trent Road.

The principal, Rev. Dr. Baker, presided over last evening's graduation exercises. With him on the platform were Miss Gardiner, lady principal, the members of the faculty and President Rev. T. W. Neal of the Toronto Conference, Rev. Dr. Scott, Rev. W. H. Wallace, Rev. A. S. Kerr, H. K. Denyes, M.P.P., W. B. Deacon and H. W. Ackerman.

Dr. Baker said it was the eighth closing he had attended. Albert was closing one of the most prosperous years in its history. Some members of the staff are leaving, Miss Copeland, of the Commercial Department, to be succeeded by Miss Jean Ramsay, a graduate of Queen's and of the Shaw school, Miss Laidley of the Collegiate Department, who is to be succeeded by Miss M. Parks, Miss Olive Russell is being added to the staff in science.

Prof. Staples, Prof. Blatchford, Prof. Hunt and Miss Tuttle read the results of the examinations in their departments. This was followed by the distribution of prizes and medals by Dr. Scott, Prof. Anglin, Rev. W. H. Wallace, Mr. H. W. Ackerman, H. K. Denyes, M.P.P. and Rev. A. S. Kerr.

Mr. Denyes referred to Albert's graduates' success in the great world. Rev. Dr. Scott pointed out the help association with the faculty and students of Albert College had been to him. Talent he said, is the capacity mainly for hard work. "When you need a friend, count me as one," said Dr. Scott.

Mr. W. B. Deacon, chairman of the building committee, pointed with optimism to the future new Albert College.

Rev. T. W. Neal, the new president of the Toronto conference, an old Albert College boy, was greeted with heartfelt welcome to the convocation. After acknowledging the welcome, he directed his remarks to the students. This age is waiting for those anxious to serve, he said. There is a place for those who have taken time to get ready for their life work. It may not make one rich in money but it will in ideals and experience.

The leaders of the Methodist church recognize Dr. Baker's great work in education, he stated and Albert College and the city were to be congratulated on having him. "There is no need for pessimism about the future. The church has not failed. We are here to make a life, not only a living. All work is spiritual. I cannot begin to think of my work in terms of eight hours per day. We need courage to work hard."

He pointed out extravagance of youth which wears fifteen to eighteen dollar boots and seven dollar silk shirts going to work. Today we need the courage to economize and serve. We cannot have things unless we create them. We need courage to walk with God.

Mr. Clifford Park read the prize essay on "Bolshevism," which was a very clever study of conditions in Russia. Miss Jessie Tuttle gave a very clever reading during the evening. Convocation closed with the National Anthem and the benediction. At the college later a social hour was spent by the students who are now about to leave for their homes. The proceedings at convocation were as follows:

County Council

District Representative A. D. McIntosh urged upon the County Council the importance of reforestation. He told how he had himself planted pine seedlings. Township after township would be better reforested with cedar, pine, maple, even Manitoba maple. Hundreds of acres would be better planted. He counsels took up the matter individually it would soon be drawn to the need. "I would like to see each township have, if only five acres, a reforestation plot—a demonstration wood plot. The land should be owned by the country or townships." He did not think anyone would hold up the county or townships for a plot of land.

Mr. McIntosh pointed out the great need of fence posts today. "I believe this question of reforestation a great issue." In his trips through the country he saw many excellent plots for reforestation. Every farm should have a plot of its own.

Value of Sweet Clover.
Mr. McIntosh said "if it were not for sweet clover this year dairy cattle would have in some districts very little picking." He cited the nature prejudice against it. Last year with experts he inspected soil between Stirling and Belleville. Sixteen farms were tested. Every six inches of soil from the surface down was examined. In only two cases of the sixteen was there sufficient free lime in the top six inches to warrant a crop of clover. Lower down there were lime salts, but only sweet clover or alfalfa can reach this and bring this to the surface.

Need of Fire Rangers
Mr. C. Rollins thought more fire rangers should be appointed for April, May and June. What is the use of reforestation if the trees are not protected. Mr. Rollins thought the council should take some action to see that trees are protected. The council should take action in petitioning the government for many more fire rangers.

Reeve Dr. Embury said reforestation would be successful if undertaken on a large scale. The action should come from the government. Whole areas should be reforested and an elaborate system.

Reeve J. L. Newton said seedlings had to be planted where they would grow.

Reeve Melkielejohn believed townships should take up the problems of reforestation and cited how sugar maples had grown on his property in twenty-five years.

Reeve Vanderwater declared care should be taken of the new forests.

Mr. Wiggins said the northern townships could not undertake the big burden of reforestation. Where 30,000 or 30,000 acres are barren, April and May are the danger months in the north.

Mr. W. J. Hill, of Madoc addressed County Council relative to grants to the fall farms. Mr. Hill pointed out the necessity of better prices. Other speakers were R. P. Coulter, Mr. Cowterford, Mr. Sabine, Mr. Sine and others spoke in favor of a grant of $200 to each fair association.

More Fire Rangers Needed
Mr. W. E. Wiggins moved, seconded by Mr. L. Melkielejohn, that this council memorialize the Provincial Government to take early action in appointing more fire rangers for the purpose of preserving the forest of the County of Hastings, particularly in the months of April and May against the ravages of fires that annually are destroying so much of the second growth of natural reforestation on the thousands of acres of land that are practically unfit for agricultural purposes and which, if protected, would soon be a very valuable asset to the county and the province of Ontario.

made for this sum in the estimates. Reeve Embury of Bancroft favored assistance towards education and good roads.

Reeve Walsh and Reeve Vanderwater both supported the grant as did Reeve Wood, the latter saying it would be a fitting tribute to the late Reeve E. T. Gray. The resolution carried.

A special grant of $200 to cut down Hewitt's Hill near Maynooth was not allowed.

The usual grant of $500 was given to Madoc Model School.

A grant of $150 was voted towards the entertainment of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers.

Reception to Premier Drury

Belleville Representatives Attend Function at Picton

Premier Drury was given last evening a welcome to Belleville by Mayor Riggs, members of the City Council, Manager Ernest P. Fredericks, of the Chamber of Commerce and directors of that organization.

He was met at the depot by prominent Prince Edward and Picton residents and left by motor for Picton at once, where he was tendered a public reception by about 700 people.

Mayor Riggs and Mr. Fredericks occupied seats on the platform. They in their addresses made reference to the bay bridge and sentiment to the bay bridge was strong in favor of a free bridge. It is expected that Premier Drury will be tendered a public reception in Belleville shortly and will address a public meeting.

Premier Drury spent the night in Belleville.

The Oak Lake Camp Meeting

Editor Ontario:
My attention was attracted to a notice in your paper of last evening, of a Camp Meeting to be conducted by the Rev. W. J. Hyde of Chicago at Oak Lake during July. May I say a word of appreciation of a scholar and a gentleman, and may be remembered by many in this district.

He has been one of the leaders in the great Forward Movement, ever vigilant for the souls of men, and the welfare of the church he has given his life to work. I have been advised by a western friend not to miss his meetings and trust we may all be greatly blessed.

Wedding Bells

WALLACE—SHERMAN
A very pretty wedding took place on Wednesday, June 18 at 8 p.m. in the Church of St. John the Divine, North Bay, Ont., when Lulu Opal, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Sherman was married to Frank Douglas Wallace, M. A., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wallace, Belleville, Ont., the Rev. C. W. Balfour officiating. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a gown of bride's pink georgette, heavily beaded, and pink and gold hat trimmed with French flowers, and carried a shower bouquet of white roses, sweet peas and orchids. Miss Laura Beath was the bridesmaid. Mr. Charles Wallace, brother of the groom, acted as best man, and the ushers were Mr. Geo. and Mr. Edgar Sherman, brothers of the bride. Miss Nina Wilson played the wedding march, and Miss Maude Sherman, sister of the bride, sang during the signing of the register. The church was prettily decorated with white and yellow marguerites, pink roses and ferns, as was also the home of the bride's parents, where lunch was served to the immediate relatives of the bride and bridegroom. Mr. and Mrs. Wallace left the same evening for St. John, N. B., Boston, Mass.; New York and other points. On their return they will reside at Westlake Apartments, North Bay, Ont.

Strawberries More Plentiful

Strawberries were somewhat more plentiful this morning and sold at 30c up to 33c per box. The rains of the past week have had a beneficial result on the crop generally and on none more so than on the strawberries.

Bay Conference Ordains Five Men

Quadrennial Term Adopted for Board of Examiners—Growth Reported

OSHAWA, June 20—The Bay of Quinte Methodist Conference ordination service was held this morning. Rev. R. Newton Powell of Toronto, preached, and the Presidents of the Conference conducted the ordination of five young men to the work of the ministry, namely: Lieut. Roy H. Rickard, B. A., B. D., J. F. Reed, B. A., Harold Frar, F. J. Horwood and J. C. Wickware.

Rev. M. W. Leigh, in his report for the Educational Committee yesterday, proposed that the Conference adopt the principle of quadrennial service and nominated the old board for re-election for 1920-21. Conference adopted the report.

The resolution for the reception of the young men was moved by Rev. J. U. Robins, and seconded by Rev. R. Archibald Deive, of Smithfield. The young men received into full connection are: F. J. Reed, B.A., Harold Frar, F. J. Harwood and E. O. Seymour.

Yesterday the ministers had a very busy session until 12.30 but tennis and baseball occupied the afternoon.

At the morning session, Rev. W. L. P. Boyce, Conference Statistician, reported Church membership 48,313 an increase of 876. The number of Methodist families in the Bay of Quinte area is 24,848. The increase in the general Missionary Fund is $2,260, but the Women's Missionary Society raised $37,918, an increase of $6,728. National Campaign subscriptions paid amounted to $168,458. The grand total of moneys raised during the year reached $327,563.

A spirited discussion on the contingent fund problem brought the conference face to face with the need of some strong measure to meet the requirements, but the order of the day necessitated an adjournment of the debate until Monday morning.

Wedding Bells

WALLACE—SHERMAN
A very pretty wedding took place on Wednesday, June 18 at 8 p.m. in the Church of St. John the Divine, North Bay, Ont., when Lulu Opal, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Sherman was married to Frank Douglas Wallace, M. A., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wallace, Belleville, Ont., the Rev. C. W. Balfour officiating. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a gown of bride's pink georgette, heavily beaded, and pink and gold hat trimmed with French flowers, and carried a shower bouquet of white roses, sweet peas and orchids. Miss Laura Beath was the bridesmaid. Mr. Charles Wallace, brother of the groom, acted as best man, and the ushers were Mr. Geo. and Mr. Edgar Sherman, brothers of the bride. Miss Nina Wilson played the wedding march, and Miss Maude Sherman, sister of the bride, sang during the signing of the register. The church was prettily decorated with white and yellow marguerites, pink roses and ferns, as was also the home of the bride's parents, where lunch was served to the immediate relatives of the bride and bridegroom. Mr. and Mrs. Wallace left the same evening for St. John, N. B., Boston, Mass.; New York and other points. On their return they will reside at Westlake Apartments, North Bay, Ont.

Editor Ontario:
My attention was attracted to a notice in your paper of last evening, of a Camp Meeting to be conducted by the Rev. W. J. Hyde of Chicago at Oak Lake during July. May I say a word of appreciation of a scholar and a gentleman, and may be remembered by many in this district.

He has been one of the leaders in the great Forward Movement, ever vigilant for the souls of men, and the welfare of the church he has given his life to work. I have been advised by a western friend not to miss his meetings and trust we may all be greatly blessed.

Say, I'll take you through St. Marie on the way back to the mill!"

They had reached the main road again; they went on a little way and then turned westward over a rough track through a burned-over district densely covered with brush and white stunted aspens. Soon another rig appeared before them, toting the hill. Life pulled in as it approached.

"Bonjour, Father Lucy," he called to the elderly priest, who sat inside. "This gentleman is Mr. Askew, the new owner of the Romy concession. He's old Mr. Askew's nephew."

The cure looked Hilary over, then he leaned forward and extended his hand, which Hilary grasped.

"I am pleased to meet you, Mr. Askew," he said. "I hope we shall become friends, like Mr. Lefe here, an' not quarrel so much."

"Ah, Father Lucy, you make me tired sometimes," said Lefe. "What in thunder's the use of praying for rain when the forests are burning, instead of getting busy and putting out the fire?"

"Mr. Lefe, there is many thing you do not understand," said the cure, patting the Yankee on the shoulder benevolently. "Mr. Lefe is fine fellow," he added to Hilary, "but he want to go too quick all the time."

It was evident to Hilary that the two were fast friends. Father Lucien clicked his tongue, took off his hat with a flourish, and resumed his journey.

"Father Lucy's a good sort," muttered Lefe, "but he makes me tired sometimes. Slew as the devil, Mr. Askew. And yet, now I come to think of it, he does get results in his own time. He ain't equal to cleaning up St. Marie, though."

After a pause he added: "Sometimes I've thought that Father Lucy had something up his sleeve about St. Marie after all."

An hour's drive brought them within sight of the village. St. Marie was almost a replica of St. Boniface, externally, with the same shacks, clustered about the brick offices of the company.

"Not much to see now," said Lefe. "But on pay night, it's herce, Mr. Askew. I guess this place is a real hell."

"Browdy, Connell, you mean?" "I didn't mean that, Mr. Askew. It's that, God knows; but what I meant by hell was a place where everybody's a law to himself with nothing to restrain him. A place where everybody does what he wants to do. That's my idea of hell, sir."

The road wound along the shore. Presently St. Boniface came into sight. "I think I'll go late the office, Connell," said Hilary.

"I guess you'll have to break it open, then," said Lefe. "Mr. Morris can't get in with him."

"When's he coming back?" "We were expecting him on the boat this afternoon."

Hilary considered for a moment. "I'll wait till tomorrow then," he said. "Hello, Monsieur Baptiste!"

The little sculler and timekeeper was hurrying toward the buggy. "Monsieur Askew," yesterday I did not know who you were. Excuse!"

"That's all right, Baptiste," answered Hilary. "Just remember that in remaining things here now, that's all. And, by the way, I want to order about trespassers and visitors to the mill. There's going to be nothing done here that we'll be afraid of people finding out. Got it?"

Jean-Marie Baptiste evidently had got it, for he looked somewhat terrified. He touched his hat and withdrew with a sort of shuffling bow.

"You certainly do have the knack of putting things across, Mr. Askew," said Lefe admiringly. "I guess you're ready to go back to the hotel. Wait. There's old Dupont, the captain of the lumber schooner. I guess you'll want to meet him."

"I suppose so," said Hilary. Dupont came toward the rig, accompanied by the timekeeper. The captain was a tall old man of about fifty years, with a gray beard, a weather-beaten face, and pale gray eyes that seemed to burn with some consuming fire. His look, as he turned out to Hilary, was so searching and so inscrutable, and so momentarily hostile, that Hilary felt uncomfortable. There was a history behind that penetrating stare—history and a hate.

But after a moment's examination of Hilary's face a grim smile came over the old man's eyes. Whatever the reason for his strange gaze, Dupont was satisfied. He stood by Lefe, and Jean-Baptiste translated.

"The captain says the schooner's full," he said. "He want to start for Quebec on tonight's tide."

"Tell him to speak to Mr. Askew here," answered Lefe. "Say that Mr. Askew's in charge."

The timekeeper translated back into the French. A smile flickered upon Dupont's face. He shook his head and answered:

"He says he's got to have Mr. Morris' orders," said Baptiste. Lefe turned to Hilary, who took up the conversation. "Ask him if he doesn't understand what I am here for," he suggested.

Dupont was impregnable in his position. He had lumber from both concessions, and Mr. Morris was in charge of both. What orders had been left with reference to his freight?

Lefe was pleased and surprised at the way Hilary took it. But Hilary had learned a good deal during that morning.

"That sounds reasonable," he said. "Give him Mr. Morris' orders, Connell, whatever they are." And, when the matter had been settled, he added: "You were dead right, Connell. We've got to settle with the big fellow first."

He dropped Lefe at the mill and drove slowly homeward across the bridge, shaking his head. There would probably be no trouble with Leblanc after he had shown that he was master. And Lefe would be a pillar of strength. Hilary had instinctive faith in the slow-speaking Yankee.

"I must get little Baptiste on our side, too," he said aloud, as his buggy topped the hill beyond the bridge; and then he became aware of Madeleine Romy upon her horse, at the end of the branch road, waiting for him to pass.

Hilary felt uncertain and awkward. Ought he to raise his hat to her? A glance at her face showed him that she was perfectly aware who he was. It showed him a firm chin, resolutely set, two angry blue eyes, and dimpled cheeks whose redness did not come from hard riding.

He decided to bow. But before he did so the buggy had passed, leaving her face averted, and Madeleine Romy drove down the hill. Hilary jerked his horse angrily, and the pony set off at a gallop for Monsieur Tremblay's stables. But before the final descent was reached Hilary was laughing. Somehow the girl's hostility seemed to add a zest to the game.

"I don't know that I'll be so very diplomatic with Brousseau after all," said Hilary, as he drew rein at the stable entrance.

CHAPTER III Hilary Talks Business. Hilary was smoking on the porch the next morning, formulating his plans, when he heard the bell on the side of the telephone box begin to ring clangorously. Then Monsieur Tremblay came out and made it clear to Hilary that he was wanted.

"It was Lefe Connell calling," said Mr. Askew. "He said, 'I'm phoning you from my boarding place. They came back yesterday afternoon; the boat was late; maybe you didn't know they were here.'"

"That's all right, Baptiste," answered Hilary. "Just remember that in remaining things here now, that's all. And, by the way, I want to order about trespassers and visitors to the mill. There's going to be nothing done here that we'll be afraid of people finding out. Got it?"

Jean-Marie Baptiste evidently had got it, for he looked somewhat terrified. He touched his hat and withdrew with a sort of shuffling bow.

"You certainly do have the knack of putting things across, Mr. Askew," said Lefe admiringly. "I guess you're ready to go back to the hotel. Wait. There's old Dupont, the captain of the lumber schooner. I guess you'll want to meet him."

"I suppose so," said Hilary. Dupont came toward the rig, accompanied by the timekeeper. His look, as he turned out to Hilary, was so searching and so inscrutable, and so momentarily hostile, that Hilary felt uncomfortable. There was a history behind that penetrating stare—history and a hate.

But after a moment's examination of Hilary's face a grim smile came over the old man's eyes. Whatever the reason for his strange gaze, Dupont was satisfied. He stood by Lefe, and Jean-Baptiste translated.

"The captain says the schooner's full," he said. "He want to start for Quebec on tonight's tide."

"Tell him to speak to Mr. Askew here," answered Lefe. "Say that Mr. Askew's in charge."

The timekeeper translated back into the French. A smile flickered upon Dupont's face. He shook his head and answered:

Lamarine that you intended to go to visit to Quebec, but that letter was written some days ago. You didn't see him?"

"Two days before Hilary would have jumped at the bait, would have shown his resentment of the lie, dedicated hostility, and given Morris his cue. Now he only smiled pleasantly.

"Yes, I saw him," he answered. "He tried to dissuade me from coming up here, but I wanted to see the property."

"If you had let me know," said Morris, "I could have made arrangements. You have come in the slackest time of the year. There is very little to show you. But I shall arrange to take you all over the concession. I suppose you'll be staying long enough to do some fishing, Mr. Askew? There are some fine trout lakes a few miles from the mill. We might make a day's trip of it."

His sentences were not continuous. There was a considerable pause after each, long enough to allow Hilary to reply. If Hilary's silences had aroused respect in the mind of Lamarine, they aroused positive fear in that of Morris.

Hilary came to the point. "I have come here to assume charge, Mr. Morris," he said. "Please let me see the map and books."

Morris wiped his forehead with a handkerchief which he took from his desk. "That's—that's a sudden decision, Mr. Askew," he said, trying to smile.

"My decisions are always sudden," Morris laid one finger upon the edge of the desk. "Of course I know nothing of your affairs or circumstances, Mr. Askew," he said, with a tone of aggravation, "but if you intend to take charge immediately, in this impulsive way, that means that I must step out. The concession is not a paying proposition, as you are probably aware, but your uncle was satisfied with my management."

"I have not expressed dissatisfaction yet," answered Hilary. "Please let me see the books."

"My suggestion," interrupted Morris, "is merely that you hold over your decision until we can go into the books together. Frankly, if I were you I should try to sell. It was my advice to your uncle, but he was a little obstinate about confessing to an error in judgment, Mr. Askew."

"Before I see the books," said Hilary, "I have a question to ask you. Are you not associated with the St. Marie company?"

Morris wiped his forehead again. He hated directness as much as Lamarine. "I certainly am," he said, "but—"

"Another question. How do you reconcile that with your duties as manager of my concession?"

"Now, my dear sir," protested Morris, raising his finger, "if that is your grievance, it is an unjustifiable one. There is nothing in my duties here incompatible with my having other interests. I think you will find that I have not neglected my obligations to your late uncle. As for the St. Marie company, the fact that it is adjacent makes it impossible for me to spare it time to it, so far as I can spare it from my duty here. The two companies are not in conflict, Mr. Askew. Quite the contrary. What helps one, helps the other."

"I see you have suspicions of my putting this in my interest. But how about their use of our mill?"

"At a sum, Mr. Askew, which makes quite a little showing on the credit side of our ledgers. We can't afford to throw away money, and our cuttings are not large enough to be worth the interference with the other."

"You mean the timber is bad?" "Damn bad," said Morris. "Gummy fir, Mr. Askew. What little spruce there is I've been holding to make a little in case we decide to sell."

"That sounds plausible," said Hilary, and then he shot his bolt. "Why does the St. Marie company wish to purchase this gummy fir of ours?" he asked.

Morris rose up, trembling with anger that was only half feigned. "I see you have suspicions of my good faith, Mr. Askew," he said indignantly. "That is the only possible interpretation I can put upon your question."

"If you will answer it, we can interpose it together later."

"I'm not prepared to answer it off-hand. Many companies would like to get our property. The St. Marie company may or may not have that intention. I should no more think of disclosing the St. Marie's plans to you than I should think of disclosing your plans to the St. Marie."

"May I have the books and map of the seigniorial limits and leased tracts, Mr. Morris?" asked Hilary.

"If you think my services are worthless I have no desire to retain my position here."

Hilary rose, crossed to Morris' desk, and tapped the roll top. "I suppose you do not refuse to produce them?" he asked.

Morris took a key from his waist-pocket pocket with fingers that could hardly find it. He inserted it after a moment's search, unlocked the lock, and threw the top up, revealing the books heaped together, as if they had just been under examination. "Go through them by all means, if you think you've been swindled," he cried. He flung another key on the desk. "This is the key to the office," he said. "The other desk contains my private papers."

"The map, Mr. Morris?" "The seigniorial is bounded on the west by the Rocky river. It is a straight concession of eighty-five thousand, five hundred odd arpents, with three sides approximately equal. If you want a map you'll have to go to the government. Lamarine has the legal documents."

"There must be a map," said Hilary quietly.

"It isn't drawn to scale. You'll find a rough plan of the leases among those papers." He moved toward the door, laid his hand on the handle, cleared his throat and looked back.

"I have only to say that my yearly contract expires on October first," he said. "If you wish to renew it I shall expect adequate notice."

Hilary looked up from the books. "You may regard it as terminating on October first, then," he answered. "If I wish to, renew it I shall let you know when I have looked into these."

"This time Morris' anger was quite unfeigned. You can accept my resignation now," he shouted. "Do you think I am the man to accept dismissal from the hands of a young American greenhorn like you? Why, I've thrown away thousands trying to develop this rotten proposition of your uncle's, out of friendship for him! And what do you think you're going to make out of the concession? You can't speak the language, you can't get along with the people, you know nothing of the Canadian lumber business. You'll be bankrupt inside of six months and glad to sell out for a song. That's all I have to say to you, except that I'll resign."

He jumped into the buggy and urged the horse through the disparting crowd. Without Lefe Connell he felt that his chance was almost a hopeless one.

He drove madly along the cliff and down the last descent. As he reached the stable the sky was being stretched to the wharf. Hilary stepped out and ran to the wharf. A few passengers were gathered about the little baggage office and others were standing before the gangway, waiting to embark. Among them was Lefe, with a carpet-bag. Hilary stopped and spoke to him just as he set foot upon the plank.

Lefe spun round and looked calmly at him. Hilary held to his arms.

"And if you say I'm discharged I'll sue you for libel in the Quebec courts."

ing and not discharged, and if you say I'm discharged I'll sue you for libel in the Quebec courts."

He opened the door, but Hilary was not to be turned. "One moment, Mr. Morris," he said.

Morris turned and looked at him uncertainly. He was ready to accept any extension of the olive branch.

"Take your cigars," said Hilary, opening the drawer and bringing out the box.

Mr. Morris turned purple, snorted, then snatched up the box and made his exit.

Apparently he wished to convey the impression of a furious quarrel with a less humiliating ending, for Hilary heard him shouting angrily outside. "Baptiste com' running up to him. 'Baptiste com' running up to him. There came, later, the confused sound of many voices in consultation. But Hilary turned his attention to the books.

The deficit for the half-year had been eight thousand dollars. That much Lamarine's papers had shown, and Hilary could find no fault with the statement. It was, of course, impossible to arrive at any discovery without experience of the practical working of the concession, and Hilary had realized that little was to be learned from a prolonged scrutiny. There was, however, a considerable expenditure for provisions at the St. Marie company's store, which he assumed to be the store as the property in view of an item on the credit side for the lease of a building. There, at any rate, Morris' dishonesty was manifest. Hilary closed the books. He would discharge no man for insouciance, but he felt that Morris was entitled to no more than his salary until October.

Having closed the desk, he looked about the office. A door led into the house built on the outside, evidently leading into the bedrooms. He decided to take over Morris' quarters for his personal use.

He had just returned into the office and put on his hat preparatory to leaving when there came a tap at the door. The frightened face of Jean-Marie Baptiste looked in.

"Monsieur Morris has raised his voice," said the sculler.

"How's that?" "Everybody is discharged—everybody works for the St. Boniface company. Only the St. Marie men stay. They're very angry. They say they could have got over on the south shore for winter, but now too late maybe."

"Go and tell the hands nobody is discharged—yet," answered Hilary. "Can't you get it through your head that I'm in charge here?"

"That's all right, Lefe," he said, "but you're going to sign on with me for a year from October first—just one year more. And you're going to sign as manager, at Morris' salary."

Lefe Connell looked at him as if it was all a dream. Lefe had been working at forty-five dollars a week since his arrival.

"Mr. Askew," he said, when he could steady his voice, "I guess I've been grateful. But when Morris told me I was discharged I naturally concluded that he'd bought you out. I'll stay, Mr. Askew, and I'll do all I can to help little timekeeper began narr a dozen explanations and finally gave up in despair.

"The way it's Monsieur Brousseau's orders," he explained. "You see, monsieur, we know now that the property is yours; but Monsieur Brousseau hires the mill hands."

"Tell them in future I shall hire the mill hands. Tell them it is my mill. This was met with blank incredulity. Evidently Brousseau's lease of mill rights had passed for ownership.

"Anyway, say that their jobs are good for the coming year," announced Hilary, and wondered whether he dared hope to make good on that statement. "Where's Lefe Connell?" he added.

"Lefe, he is discharged, too," answered Jean-Marie. "He go right away to catch the boat home, carrying his bag. See, Monsieur Askew?"

Hilary looked up. On the crest of the hill behind Rocky river, against the skyline, was a solitary figure, standing alone with a bag in his hand.

"The down boat to Quebec was almost due. Looking seaward, Hilary saw the white hull rounding the light-house point, and the black smoke from her funnels an inverted cone against the heavens. Suddenly Lefe would be homeward bound within a half hour, and no time was to be lost if he hoped to stop him."

He jumped into the buggy and urged the horse through the disparting crowd. Without Lefe Connell he felt that his chance was almost a hopeless one.

clean up this mess and put things on a paying foundation. I guess everyone's been cheating your uncle, Mr. Askew, from Morris and Brousseau and Leblanc down to Jean-Baptiste the sculler. I knew they were swindling you, and Brousseau telephoned me to keep you in the dark, and—I tried to do it."

"Never mind, Lefe. You and I will go over the books together and clean up."

"And I tell you this," went on Lefe. "Give fellows like Baptiste—Baptiste and me—an example of honest work, and you'll see they'll follow you and take a pride in the business. It's the big fellows we want to get."

Hilary held out his hand. "We'll shake on that," he said. "You accept the post, Lefe, and you won't make a break for home again?"

"Never again, so long as we're on the job together," Lefe answered.

Far off the steamship was pursuing her way toward Quebec. Hilary, watching her, was conscious of a zeal of living which his conversion of Lefe had not wholly explain. What he wondered, was the secret of his interest in St. Boniface?

CHAPTER IV. The First Encounter. Next morning Hilary drove slowly through his property. He noticed with approval a splendid growth of white spruce. It was a great timber country; Hilary had already come to that conclusion, and to this, that property worked and managed, the St. Boniface tract had the possibilities of considerable profits, personal ones, if he cut wisely and carefully.

After driving at a slow pace for half an hour he emerged into a little burned-over district, from which he could see for a good distance on every side of him. He stopped the pony and looked about him, trying to get his bearings.

"The road must run down to the gorge, where was the main way between the mill and the interior of the seignior, Hilary decided.

He drove on again. The track had been disused that season and was overgrown with creeping raspberry briars, which made progress difficult. Suddenly the undergrowth parted, and the road ran upward again, hard and firm, toward a bridge that spanned a wide creek tributary to Rocky river.

Now Hilary knew where he was. It was the creek which he had passed that morning when he drove out with Connell to inspect the seignior.

He was about to continue his way along the main road to the mill, but an impulse urged him to turn the horse about and seek the road that led to Leblanc's old concession. Presently he heard the sound of axes among the trees. He came up the clearing, to find the old camp still standing, and a great pile of newly hewn timber stacked up under the trees.

At Hilary's appearance two or three men looked up from the logs which they were sawing and whispered. They seemed to draw together. At that moment Hilary had a clearly defined impression of approaching trouble.

He got down from the buggy and fastened the horse to a tree. He approached a little group that had formed the nearest man.

"The man looked at and shrugged his shoulders. He glanced toward the camp. Hilary, looking that way, saw Black Pierre emerging from one of the huts. He went toward him, and the two men met face to face.

Still without reason to believe in Pierre's hostile intention, Hilary suddenly became aware that they were ranged by a circle of men, who gradually drew in toward them.

"Morning," said Hilary, nodding. "I know," answered Pierre, scowling. "Look for him if you want him. He's your man, ain't he?"

"He is, but you are not. What are you doing on my land? And these men—are they ours?"

"What you mean, your land?" demanded Pierre. "I work here for Monsieur Brousseau, with Monsieur Brousseau's men."

Hilary saw, out of the corner of his eye, that the ring was swiftly contracting. It struck him that Pierre and he were posted face to face, like prize-fighters. He tried to keep his temper and to remember Connell's counsel. Pierre thought he was afraid. He sneered openly.

"Last time I came here," said Hilary calmly, disregarding the other's truculence, "Monsieur Leblanc was in charge of this territory. Now I find you here in Leblanc's place. I have not hired you. Again I ask what you are doing here."

"I don't know what you mean," sneered Pierre, "an' I got no time to waste in damn foolishness. This here is the St. Marie limits, Monsieur Brousseau an' Monsieur Morris run the St. Marie limits. Leblanc be work for them last year. Now I got Leblanc's place."

"The St. Marie limits are on the other side of the Riviere Rocheuse," said Hilary.

"Holy Name, ain't I this side of Riviere Rocheuse? Didn't you cross him coming here?"

"That creek is not the Riviere Rocheuse, as you know very well, Pierre." Black Pierre thrust his face forward into Hilary's.

"Say, I got no time to waste wit' you," he snarled. "If you come to fight, say so."

"I'll give you five minutes to get off my land."

"You want to fight, eh? All right," growled the other, suddenly stripping off his short, open jacket.

Hilary had just time to fasten the top button of his coat before Pierre, with a bellow, charged him, his head down, his arms working like fan-blades, made short, vicious stabs at him; he was muscled—

not extend the elbow-joint with any force, but any of his short blows, delivered from a shoulder like a mutton joint, would have knocked a man senseless.

Hilary stepped aside as Pierre precipitated himself upon him, and gave him a short uppercut with the left. Pierre went reeling past him, tripped over a projecting trunk of a tree, and fell sprawling to the ground.

A second later he was up again, blowing at Hilary. Despite Hilary's ruses, which nearly blinded him, and covered his face with blood, he managed to get home two body deliveries which knocked the wind out of the American. Hilary was forced to give ground. He had boxed at college a good deal; that was several years before, but the memory instinctively came back to him. "It's foot-work wins," his teacher had told him. He stepped from side to side, guarding himself against Pierre's furious lunges dexterously, until the opportunity for a telling cross-counter with the right sent Pierre crashing backward.

He rose, spitting the blood out of his mouth, and rushed at Hilary again.

CHAMBER'S FIRST OUTING; TOUR THROUGH HASTINGS

Marmora Entertained Visitors—Inspection of Deloro Plant—Some Facts and Figures—Members of the Party.

Perfect weather, splendid roads, and a jolly party marked the first "get together" outing of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday. From every angle the affair was one of the most successful affairs of the kind that has ever been staged in the city and more than seventy members of the Chamber were on hand when the start was made from the Chamber of Commerce building at 10 a.m. Fifteen touring cars conveyed the party to Marmora by way of Stirling and the first leg of the trip was made in record time and with only one "cripple" reported. Bill Deacon's party suffered a blow-out just beyond Stirling and were a half an hour late in getting to Marmora but that was the only delay that occurred.

At Marmora the party was joined by Mr. S. E. Wright, manager, and Mr. F. A. Bapty, secretary-treasurer of the Deloro Smelting and Refining Co., and after all the party had been checked in the tourists were quite ready for the fine lunch that was served by the ladies of the Marmora Methodist Church. The editor of the Marmora Herald welcomed the visitors after which full justice was done to the bountiful meal of home cooked food served by the ladies. Immediately after lunch the party got under way for Deloro and upon arriving at this thriving village were invited into the community building where Mr. Wright explained some of the features of the plant that was to be visited and told some interesting things about the way in which the ore is handled. He answered a number of questions from the visitors and said, incidentally, that Deloro is the smallest incorporated town in Ontario. Arriving at the Deloro plant the party was made up into groups of ten and each group assigned to a guide who took his party through the huge plant and explained each department and process. Even those who had visited the plant before found many new features and the entire tour of inspection was most interesting and enlightening. The ore which is brought from the Cobalt district, is handled so that four distinct products are secured—silver, nickel, cobalt and arsenic. The visitors were shown how each of these products are wrung from the crude ore and the processes were a revelation to those fortunate enough to make the trip. At one stage of the trip the party was taken into a vault where a small pile of silver is piled in bars. It didn't look like much to the casual visitor but the pile was worth $54,000 and represented $1,000 a bar. They were tempting souvenirs but no one offered to distribute them to the visitors so they were left behind under the watchful eye of a stalwart guard.

The arsenic plant had a weird attraction and although the stock had been pretty well depleted because of heavy rush orders to help fight the grasshopper plague in the west there was still enough of the poison left to wipe out most of the residents of the Dominion if it was applied to that end.

After the inspection most of the visitors stayed to witness the ball game between Deloro and Tweed teams and a fine brand of ball was provided. The party from Belleville was of course, strong for the Deloro team and some high class rooting was provided by the men from this city.

During the afternoon a number of members who could not leave earlier in the day joined the party at Deloro so that over eighty were in the party at the finish. The return was made in a go-as-you-please manner, some coming back by way of Madoc and others taking the Stirling route but all agreed that it was the best trip ever and all are anxious for the big family picnic which is proposed to hold in a month or so at which families and friends of the members can take part in a good old fashioned basket party to one of the delightful spots in Prince Edward County.

Among those present on the trip were: Messrs W. B. Deacon, Mack Robertson, W. H. Deacon, Mack O'Flynn, W. R. McCreary, L. W. Marsh, E. P. Fredericks, P. F. Brockel, G. E. McKinnon, Major Pratt, I. L. Moore, G. F. Cois, H. J. Clarke, E. P. Frederick, A. L. Geen, Arthur Jones, Arthur McGie, A. P. Allen, Hugh Hall, C. M. Reid, R. J. Graham, W. A. Parker, Fred B. Smith, W. Blakelock, W. C. Springer, Wong Bros, Frank Lum, J. A. Cokers, Chas. Hanna, J. H. Demarsh, Chas. T. Dolan, J. C. Andrews, D. C. Ramsay, W. J. Yerex, C. J. Lewis, C. J. Peppin, J. W. Evans, R. D. Ponton, W. H. Gilbert, D. V. Sinclair, G. R. Sinclair.

Vast Iron Supplies

Hastings has vast supplies of iron. In the latter part of the last century, hematite, a form of iron, was mined a few miles north of Madoc. Today all that is left to show the industry is the winding road and the fenced-in reddish mine holes. Munk, in the vicinity of Sarnockburn and Rimpington, is now being mined, but not extensively, for the American firm which owns the mineral rights, have financially felt the cruel hand of the war. An iron mine near Bessemer, in Mayetownship, has been particularly successful, and one looks to see many branches of it throughout the northern townships.

As all other countries rich in minerals, Hastings has geological formations quite superior to those of any other county or province. There are splendid marble quarries in Madoc and Marmora, and throughout the northern part of the county great stores remain untouched. Lithographic stone, a fine homogeneous limestone, spreads extensively over the southern portion of the county.

This is but a brief outline of the minerals of the county, and briefer still, of the individual efforts that have been made to utilize the natural resources. Last April Mr. Peter Kirkgard, the well-known mining engineer, who has devoted much time and effort to Hastings County development, presented an excellent scheme whereby financial assistance might be secured. Mr. Kirkgard proposed the forming of a Hastings County Development Syndicate, with each landowner becoming a subscriber on the payment of one dollar for each hundred acres owned. In this way the co-operation of the citizens of the county might be secured.

Now I hear someone say, "Yes, but as the district has no coal and but poor shipping facilities how are they to get coal for a large industry?"

Hastings County has no need of coal. The rapids on the many streams and rivers are quite enough to serve the power. Already some steps have been taken for establishing a power plant for the Eldorado talc mine on the Moira River.

Mr. Kirkgard says: "If Hastings County minerals were located in one of the mining states of the Union it would soon become a busy hive, it would draw in millions of capital, employ thousands of men, produce vast quantities of valuable minerals of many kinds and bring prosperity to the whole community."

Canada has a task before her, tremendous in its plan, but enormous will be the results. From every little log house and every poor frame shack in Hastings County, and there are many of them, there goes a cry, "Help us! help us! help us; we can't develop alone." They must have help. The Government owes it to every disheartened farmer in the county to open up those minerals. The government owes it to every citizen of Canada.

So as the years roll on ought but chance can come in Hastings County, for Canada, so many years dormant, has awakened to her wealth. There will be in Hastings County the hum of industry and the comfort of prosperity. The appalling ignorance among the people will disappear, and Hastings County, instead of being a poverty-stricken barren land, will be a leading mining centre in Ontario.

Incorporation of Frankford

Deputation Appears Before County Council in Support of Petition.

A large deputation from the village of Frankford appeared before the County Council on Wednesday afternoon in regard to the incorporation of that village.

Dr. J. U. Simmons spoke in support of a petition for the incorporation of the village of Frankford. There had been nothing done of an underhand nature. Those managing Frankford are in favor of incorporation. The enumeration shows that the population is 330.

Mr. Miller, acting manager of the box factory industry stated that the concern was in hearty favor of incorporation. Mr. Ed. Turley spoke against incorporation. The working men of the village were opposed to incorporation as it meant increased taxation. The petition against incorporation was almost as largely signed as the petition for incorporation. "Give us an opportunity to vote on this matter."

Warden Sills thanked the deputation and stated the council would consider the matter and do what it considered was right.

Navy League's Request.

Judge Willis addressed the council in regard to the Navy League of Canada. This was an important work for Canada and was still doing work in this country. The Canadian merchant marine did much during the war. We have to depend greatly on our ships to open the markets of the world. The burden of carrying on the work must be assisted and county council and other municipalities assist in this work. He hoped the council would be generous in this matter to assist the men who take up sea-faring work.

Capt. Boal said he did not seek to beg charity. "We had 200,000 men in our merchant marine service and of this number 50,000 volunteered to do the work of mine sweeping. The men of the merchant marine saved not only the army but they saved the farmers through their heroism and patriotism. The men of the merchant marine did their duty nobly for $18 a month. They faced in 1917 and 1918 the mine field. They looked over 23 millions of people during the war. During the war 2197 ships were lost and 17,000 of the man power was lost, entailing 45,000 widows and orphans and 35,000 disabled. Of 3000 of our men who were captured only 500 were left, 1500 died of loathsome diseases spread by the Germans. The Government had given $50,000 and also gave county council the power to borrow the money if necessary, to make a grant." The Capt. grew eloquent in describing the part taken by the Canadian soldier in Flanders fields. He asked for a grant of $2,000 from the county to help widows and dependents of Canada.

Mr. J. Elliott said he was in hearty accord with the movement so ably outlined by Capt. Boal. The speaker in referring to the County of Hastings Patriotic Society stated that upwards of $110,000 had been expended in the county for patriotic purposes.

Warden Sills thanked the deputation and stated the council would consider in ways and means.

North Hastings Inspectorate

Mr. Chisholm from the department of education addressed the council relative to the council having School Inspector Colling of North Hastings confined to North Hastings alone and not to have a portion of Haliburton in his inspectorate. There are 50 teachers in the North Hastings inspectorate and Mr. Colling also had about the same number in Haliburton. On motion this matter was referred to the ways and means committee.

The council went into committee of the whole on ways and means, Mr. Naylor in the chair.

Mr. Vermilyea moved, seconded by Mr. McLaren that no action be taken on the Navy League matter—Carried.

An account of $340 of the compensation board was ordered to be paid.

A motion prevailed that the various municipalities bear the expense in erecting sign boards provided by the Canadian Motor League.

G. T. R. Defeats Cobourg Lineup

Three-One Score Result—A Snappy Game.

Cobourg and Belleville G.T.R. played snappy baseball in a Central Ontario League fixture at the fair grounds. The visitors scored their only run in the first innings and Belleville evened up in the second. The third innings gave Belleville two, making the score 3-1 in favor of the Trunks. The match was marked by remarkable freedom from errors. The Belleville boys did some excellent work. Meagher made a sensational and of a hot grounder on short. Sammy Symons was a feature of the game with his hits. G. Casey was another marvel at the bat. The G.T.R. battery worked in its good old style. H. Mills, Kelleher and Frank Goyer on the infield played snappy ball all through. The field also worked well. Cobourg lineup to the field was composed of excellent material. McDonald, the spherer welder made most of the Belleville batsmen fly up in the air. No empire arriving on the scene, Eddie Thomas of this city and Percy Hutton, of Cobourg acted as umpire and base umpire respectively.

The Line-up:

Army Nurse in Charge

Miss Stacey in Charge of Hamilton Hospital After Three Years' Service in France

Miss Stacey of Trenton, Ontario, and Miss E. M. Huston, of Peterboro, Ontario, arrived last Saturday to accept positions in the Hamilton hospital. They are graduates of the Belleville, Ontario, hospital, and Miss Stacey will have charge of the Hamilton hospital. She is well qualified for the place, having served three years in France with the Canadian Red Cross. For seven months she was at a clearing station, where first aid was administered to the wounded. During the last 18 months she was in the operating room at the first base hospital, where she was in charge of 75 graduate nurses.

Hamilton is fortunate in having the hospital in the hands of Miss Stacey. At present every room in that institution is occupied and the patients are receiving the best attention.—Ravall Republican, Hamilton, Montana.

The Oak Lake Camp Meeting

Apparently some people have a question in their minds as to whether the Methodist Camp meeting held at Oak Lake is to be held this year.

The proposed term for this year will begin on Sunday, July 25th and continue for three weeks.

The Programme Committee, the personnel of which remain the same, have secured Rev. W. J. Hyde, Pastor-Evangelist, of Chicago, as the leader of Evangelistic effort.

Rev. W. J. Hyde is the pastor of a Methodist Church in Chicago, at the corner of Kilpatrick and Wilson Avenue, and has had remarkable experience as an Evangelist sent out by the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Presentation to Miss E. Shorey

On Tuesday evening, June the fifteenth, some thirty members of Holloway Street Epworth League, gathered at the home of Miss Eva Shorey to show their appreciation of her services in the past, and to wish her all of the best that life holds, as she assumes the new duties which fall to her after this month.

The League, led by their president, Mr. Ewart Jones, arrived at Miss Shorey's home about eight o'clock and indulged in various games and pastimes until ten-thirty, when she was called to the front and made the recipient of a beautiful Pyrex pie server, set in a silver stand.

The presentation over, a dainty luncheon was partaken of, served by members of the League, after which the gathering broke up singing "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow."

The following address was read by the League's secretary Miss Frances May:

Dear Eva: We, your friends have gathered this evening, to show in some tangible way our appreciation of your services in the League for the long time you have been with us, and gratefully your friends gather tonight to honor your faithfulness and willingness to render your services whenever they were needed, and while we feel you have done your work with no other object in view save that of being found amongst us, faithfully serving, we, your friends, are conscious that we ought not to allow your labors to go by unacknowledged and unappreciated.

We ask your acceptance of this gift, and as you are about to enter into a new field of life, may you look upon these in memory of those who love you. We further hope you may have many years of prosperity and happiness and still feel you are one among us.

Signed on behalf of the League, E. Jones, President, F. May, Secretary.

Oddfellows Were Never Better Off

Independent Order is Holding Convention at London

LONDON, Ont., June 17.—The recommendations of nearly a score of committees were dealt with at the annual business session of the Grand Lodge of the Independent Order of Oddfellows for Ontario, which opened in the Masonic Temple this morning, and will be concluded tomorrow.

Dr. G. M. Hermlston, of Toronto, Grand Master, presided, and all the Grand Lodge Officers were present, and also the following: Past Grand Masters J. T. Hornbrook, of Toronto; J. A. Young, J. E. Farewell, O. L. Lewis, R. R. Brett, A. B. McBride, Jos. Powley, F. S. Evanson, P. T. Coupland, L. B. Cooper, S. C. Oarks, C. H. Mann and W. Cox.

The convention is notable by the number of representatives present from sister jurisdictions, Grand Lodges from New England and the Canadian Maritime on the extreme east, and Alberta in the west, being represented in most cases by their Grand Masters, and in some cases by two or more Grand Lodge officers. The attendance at opening was 1200.

A Veteran from Kitchener Among the veteran Oddfellows attending the convention is J. K. Master of Kitchener, who has been forty-eight years in the order, and is a Past Grand Master of Dominion Lodge, No. 48, London Ont. He was initiated into the order in January, 1872. He was Noble Grand of Dominion Lodge when the Oddfellows first occupied the London Loan building, while the Rebekah Assembly met at the Oddfellows Temple in 1878. Mr. Master left London in 1878, but retained his membership in Dominion Lodge, which thirteen years ago presented him with a veteran's jewel.

Order Never More Flourishing Reports of the State Auditor submitted today indicated that Oddfellowship was never in a healthier or more flourishing condition, both as to numbers and in fraternal spirit, in the jurisdiction of Ontario. The total number of initiations for 1919 was 5,828, exceeding the highest previous record by 1,137, and suspensions were 290 less than the average for the last preceding ten years, the net gain for the year being 5,538.

The following officers were elected by acclamation: Grand Master, H. G. Robertson, Barrie; Deputy Grand Master, W. J. Hamilton, Fort William; Grand Secretary, William Brooks, Toronto; Grand Representatives C. H. Mann, Hamilton and Rev. W. Cox, Toronto; Trustees of Home Board, R. R. Brett, Essex and F. S. Evanson, Kingston. The election of Grand Warden resulted in T. A. Sharp of Midland being appointed to this office, and for Grand Treasurer in the appointment of Dr. P. T. Copeland of St. Mary's.

Financing of Toronto Home If the evening there was an informal discussion on the question of financing the home of the order in Toronto. Definite decision in this matter will not be made until tomorrow morning, but it was felt by many of the delegates to-night that each Oddfellow ought to be taxed at least 50 cents per annum, and even as high as $2 or $5.

Bridge in Hungerford Requested by Residents—Marmora School.

Mr. L. E. Allen requested Hastings County Council for a grant towards the entertainment of the U.S. Institute of Chemical Engineers. Request was referred to ways and means.

Residents of Hungerford township petitioned council for the building of a bridge, which would mean a level run and avoiding steep hills. The proposed bridge is on the 12th concession, one and a half miles north of Twced across the Moira River.

Messrs. Clare, Newton and Dr. Kindred supported the petition for a bridge. Of course finances are tight. Dr. Kindred favored the building of a bridge possibly next year.

The residents are willing to contribute labor gratis. The cost of the bridge is estimated at $6,000. The question was referred.

A deputation waited upon council concerning a grant to Marmora Continuation School. Dr. Thompson suggested a grant of $3,000. The school will cost $9,000. Mr. Sabine explained that continuation work had been carried on for several years under great handicaps. The outlook for pupils was good.

Rev. Dr. Embury moved that the request be referred to ways and means.—Carried. In ways and means Mr. Ballard moved, seconded by Mr. Wiggins, that a special grant of one hundred dollars be given to the Beaver School.—Carried.

Expenditures on Highways

Provincial Highway From Madoc to Tudor Gets $80,000—Belleville to Tudor $15,000.

The Provincial Highway Committee's report as read by Reeve Burns, of Madoc, at the County Council dealt with inspection of roads and conditions in particular. The following expenditures were recommended:

From Madoc to Tudor boundary north, raised from $14,000 to $21,000, the greater part of which should be spent between the Hole in the Wall and Ormsby. From Peterborough boundary to Madoc Village we would recommend $800 over the appropriation in January to be given to Marmora Village.

From Madoc Village to Addington boundary that the appropriation be raised to equal that from Peterborough boundary to Madoc Village, namely $800 per mile. From Belleville to Tudor boundary, that the appropriation made in January of $12,000 be raised to $15,000.

Reeve Dr. Embury opposed the reduction of last year's expenditure on the northern provincial highway from $30,000 to $21,000 for this year. The county could afford the same amount of work. The northern ratepayers approve of the expenditure of $30,000 plus an increase of 25 per cent, or $7,500 on this highway which extends 55 miles. The report was referred to ways and means. In ways and means Mr. Wiggins claimed $7,000 would not make the road in good condition from Madoc to Tudor. The $14,000 voted in January had since been expended. He favored the total expenditure of $30,000 as last year, together with 25 per cent. increase in the appropriation. Reeve Clare thought this a time for reduction of expenditure as prices were at their height.

The report was adopted in ways and means with the amendment to spend $30,000 on the Madoc to Tudor part of the highway. Mr. McLaren asked if jollies and turnkey's salaries had been increased by the Finance Committee.

Mr. Naylor said the salaries had not increased, but increases had been given for caretaking for $180 each. Five thousand dollars worth of road machinery was purchased by a special committee. Mr. P. McLaren thought more machinery should be purchased such as wagons.

Automobile and Housing

Mr. Claude Sanagan Explains How Motor Solves Problem

"One of the greatest factors in a solution of the housing problem confronting practically every community in the country is bound to be the automobile," so stated Mr. Claude Sanagan, Advertising Manager of Willys-Overland, who passed through Belleville today.

"This scarcity of homes in cities and the continued increase in rentals is driving hundreds of families to the suburban areas where property can be purchased at moderate prices. It is forcing real estate operators who make a specialty of sub-division work to open additions farther and farther from the city."

"I understand the house problem in Belleville today is acute and I look forward to seeing the city extended, in an easterly and westerly direction as home seekers will undoubtedly go into the outside districts to build homes."

"The result of this is that more and more people are today finding the automobile a necessity and I can safely state that Overland dealers throughout Canada with whom I am in daily contact find this condition to be true. The new Overland car with Triplex Springs is playing an important part in solving this housing problem in every town throughout Canada. There is no reason why it should not help solve the problem in Belleville."

"Mr. Sanagan, who was a well known newspaper man before joining the Overland staff, spent a few hours inspecting the plant of the St. Charles Motor Bus Company, local Overland agents, and then proceeded on his way to New York and eastern cities in the interest of his firm."

Becomes Member of International Society

Mr. T. R. Barrett, who is connected with the F. P. Carney's Shoe Store, and who is personally known to many of our readers, has just become a member of the International Association of Practitioners, an organization incorporated and chartered under the laws of Illinois.

Mr. Barrett recently graduated from the American School of Practitioners, of Chicago, after having taken a thorough course in the anatomy of the human foot and leg, the disabilities and discomforts of which feet are subject and the most modern methods of relieving and correcting such defects by the use of scientific corrective appliances. He graduated with high honors and this has resulted in his being invited to become a member of the Practitioner's Association and in his acceptance of the invitation. He now wears a beautiful lapel button to indicate his membership and his Certificate of Membership may be seen displayed at the store.

This association is a very powerful one, consisting entirely of shoe men who have fitted themselves to give foot comfort to their patrons by a thorough course of education and training. This association is now running a series of full page advertisements in the principal magazines of national circulation for the purpose of acquainting the public with the services it may expect to obtain from practitioners in the shoe stores that employ such foot experts. Their ads point out that there are already thousands of such stores and that their number is increasing daily.

The hundreds of people in this community who have had their feet examined and corrected by Mr. Barrett will be glad to hear of this new recognition he has obtained.

Followed the Horses to Montreal

Three Boys Had to Drift for Themselves—Arrested Here P. C. White this morning at five-thirty o'clock saw three boys near the Standard Bank building and caught two of them, John Cameron, aged 17 and Wm. Palosky, aged 14, a Pole. He charged them with vagrancy; the other made his escape. The two had "beaten their way" from Montreal and were on the way home to Toronto. They had followed the horses to Montreal, according to their story and were not given any money for food by the horse-man who asked them to follow him. Magistrate Masson this morning took their plea of guilty and remanded them a week to allow an investigation into their records.
