"I wonder now," he said, whether you can write?"

I answered with some decision that I certainly could, at which I thought his face fell.

"Poetry, now?" he inquired.

"Whereas like?"

I replied that though I was able to write a capital hand, I had only once or twice aspired to original composition; at which he chuckled delightedly, then, fixing his eyes with a fascinating glare upon my face, he repeated in a high shrill voice the following lines:

"To Missus Penndragon, who's always so pleasant,
John Radd, of St. Gurlett's, brings this little present,
May her life be as sweet as best sugar can be,
And the only hot water be mixed wif her tea!"

"What do you think o' that?" he asked, anxiously.

father. Then I used to hear the old wagon go 'tum to tum' slawing the road, and the wares they came and kept time. Lord! to think o' the thousands of bootiful pomes I ha' made; they'd make a waltz; and I've got 'em all here in my head, thick as bees in a beehive, all a-buzzing-together, one stop a' other."

"Do you live at St. Gurlett's, Mr. Radd?"

"'Is, young master; I drives this here van three times a week to Falmouth and back."

"Then perhaps I'll be able to take down some of your poems for you. I am going to live there, too, you know!"

This idea pleased the drowsy giant immensely. He was about to expati-ate upon it, when a heavy rain-drop falling on his hand brought him back from the clouds.

"Lawd love the lad!" he exclaimed, "how we be a-lottering. Here, jump up, young master, we's got a good twelve mile afore us yet, and a black night prawning to come."

I took the hand which he extended to me, and which looked like a giant's paw, and sprang up to my seat beside him.

"Harry up, Martha," he said, "get on, old gal!" and the mare's slow walk broke into a trot, which caused the wagon to rattle and shake, and my teeth to clatter in my head.

The prospect still continued bleak, but it was now not quite so desolate. To the right and left of us still stretched the bleak moorland, but now it was broken up by green hillsides and belts of woodland. Here and there on the meadows were cattle grazing, while at intervals were white-washed cottages with little gardens running down to the roadside. From time to time we rounded some quiet bay and reached a glimpse of the sea. Presently, far ahead of us, I saw clustering houses, from the midst of which arose a church spire.

"What is that?" I asked.

"'That's that?" he replied without taking his eyes off the horse.

"That, young master, be Craigraddock. We'll stay there for a bit of summat to eat and drink, and to give the mare a rest."

When we entered the village of Craigraddock our appearance caused no little stir. John Radd was evidently well known—for as the lumbering wagon went rattling down the little street, shock-headed children came peeping out of the doorways, and here and there a peasant woman made her appearance, and nodded cheerfully to us as we went by. For each and all John Radd had a good-humored grin, which I thought broadened a little as the wagon was pulled up with a jerk before the door of the inn. Here, after some little trouble, we got something to eat, a few boiled eggs and some home-baked bread. When the horse had been rested, we started again on our journey.

The warm day was succeeded by a cold evening, and with the darkness had come rain. I was glad to follow John Radd's example, to wrap myself well in my overcoat, before I again took my seat behind the mare. We jolted on again, covering what seemed to me an interminable space. The darkness rapidly increased, the rain continued to fall, and worn out with fatigue, I fell into a fitful dose.

I was dimly conscious of the wagon rolling on, of John Radd making occasional disjointed remarks, rhythmical in character, to which he evidently expected no reply, and of certain stoppages, when John mysteriously disappeared, and returned refreshed and strengthened for his work.

At length, however, John Radd's voice aroused me indeed.

"Wawk up, young master," said he; "we'm gettin' pretty nigh your place."

I roused myself and looked about me, but there was nothing to be seen. Darkness encompassed us on every hand; the wind was sighing softly, making a sound like the distant murmur of the sea. Presently the wagon stopped. The carrier jumped down, and waited for me to do the same; then he gave a peculiar whistle as he went round to the back of the wagon to haul out my trunk.

The whistle had its effect. The produced another packet, which he this time handed to my cousin. She opened it, and found it contained a brightly colored shawl and a sheet of foolscap, on which some lines were penned. Knowing Mr Radd's weakness, Annie proceeded to read the lines:

"To Annie Penndragon, who charms all beholders,
John Radd, of St. Gurlett's, sends this for her shoulders;
That she'll always be happy, in sunshine and in flood,
'Tis the wish of her friend and admirer, J. Radd."

Having read the verses, Annie fell to volubly admiring them and the shawl; but Mr Radd, feeling the praise too much for him, gleefully took his departure. He paused at the door, however, to give me a last look, and to express a wish that we should become better acquainted.

The moment he was gone, attention was again concentrated upon me. My uncle discovered I was both wet and cold; while Annie said:

"Why don't you give him his supper, mother? I'm sure he must be hungry after that long ride wif Mr Radd."

Annie's suggestion was adopted, and we all sat down to supper. While I ate, I had leisure to look about me. The kitchen was large and homely in the extreme, with a clean stone-paved floor, from which hung fitches of bacon, bundles of tallow candles, and divers articles of attire. The table was great and broad, with seats within it, formed of polished black oak, and the fire burned on the open hearth. In one corner was a recess, with curtains, containing a bed, which I afterward discovered was to be mine for the night.

Very little was said or done that evening. If I was astonished at the sight of my relatives, they were equally so at the sight of me. A sort of constraint came upon us all. I was not sorry to find that they were very early people, and that at ten o'clock they retired, and left me to make myself as comfortable as I could in the press-bed in the kitchen. My head was aching, partly from fatigue and partly from excitement, and so sooner did I lay it upon the pillow than I fell into a sound sleep.

CHAPTER V.

I was awakened next morning by the sound of voices in the chamber, and, looking forth from my sleeping place, I saw my uncle, seated in his stained flannel clothes, devouring a substantial breakfast of tea and home-baked cakes of my aunt's making, waited on by little Annie, who, seen in the bright morning light, looked even cleaner and neater than she had looked the night before.

"Lawd love 'ee, little woman," my uncle was saying, "who put that sart o' sawnuss into your head! I warrant Tawm Penndrook, or some other gomeril, ha' been up here clacking to mother. Dawa't go dawa't the mine saw more? Why the mine's bread and butter, vittles and drink, to you and me!"

"I'm Penndrook says 'tain't safe, father," returned Annie; "and Tom ought to know, for he's worked there ever since he was born."

"He knows no more than this chunk o' bread, little woman. He's the idlest chaps o' the gang, Tawm is. There, dawa't you worrit. The Lawd's under the earth as well as above it, and 'll take care of father never feat!"

Unseen in my corner, I slept on my clothes; but, by the time I had done so, my uncle had left the cottage. Annie was still there, and she took me to a little bedroom upstairs, where I washed, and brushed my hair. Descending again to the quaint old kitchen, I found my aunt, just come from feeding the poultry. She gave me a kindly nod, then, sitting

Diamond Dyes

Far Ahead of all Others!

Practical Experience Has Demonstrated That They are the Easiest to Use.

It is the easiest matter in the world to dye with Diamond Dyes, as thousands of women know from practical experience: By using these simple home dye one can make old clothing look like new and save a great many dollars in the course of a year.

Do not accept imitations of the original Diamond Dyes from any dealer, no matter how strongly he may recommend them, for while he makes a larger profit on them they do not dye as much goods, nor do they equal the Diamond Dyes in fastness of color.

When poor dyes are used, both your money and labor are thrown away and the goods are spoiled forever. Use the Diamond Dyes only and get the best possible results. All reliable dealers can supply you with the Diamond Dyes.

THE ACADIAN.

WOLFVILLE, N. S., SEPT. 8, 1899.

Editorial Notes.

The weather has been decidedly cool this week with high winds. All too quickly the beautiful summer has passed and gone...

John T. Bulmer, who ran two elections as a prohibitionist candidate inumberland against Sir Charles Tupper and Mr. Dickey, says of the present ministers: They have run their flat defiance in the face of every man of the 278,487 who voted for prohibition...

News items of general interest are always gladly welcomed at our sanctum, and to its many valued correspondents the ACADIAN is indebted for not a few of the bright and newsy letters which appear in its columns from time to time. But in common with all papers we are frequently imposed on by correspondents who are anxious to write for us but never find anything of sufficient interest to note except that which refers to some venture in which they are financially interested...

Probably very few people know to what an extent meek thieving is being carried on in this community, and in fact throughout the county. New instances are continually coming to our attention, and they seem to be on the increase. So bold have the thieves become in some cases that houses have been entered in the day time or evening and articles stolen; and barns and out-buildings have frequently been visited. While numerous instances have been related, we believe many persons have lost property which has not been recovered that he had not said anything about his loss until he heard that his neighbors were also falling in the same manner. It is time some organized effort was put forth to apprehend the criminals and put down this species of crime. The application of the penalty provided by law in a few cases would have the tendency of discouraging this class of offenders, and teach a wholesome lesson to the light-fingered ones. In the past it has too frequently happened that even after the thieves have been detected, they have been allowed to go scot free because they were relatives or friends of someone in authority. What we need in this county is a greater respect for the law, not only among violators but administrators of it. We shall refer to this matter in another issue. In the meantime all cases of sneak thieving should be reported, and such vigorous action taken as will render it impossible for this annoying and pernicious vice to continue.

Palmer Re-captured.

George Palmer, the man who broke jail at Kentville some weeks ago while under sentence of seven years at Dorchester for assaulting and robbing Timothy Rockwell near Upper Dike Vill last spring, has been recaptured and again lodged in durance vile. The arrest was made at Windsor Tuesday morning. He had shipped as cook on a vessel loading plaster at that port for New York and intended leaving that day at noon. He was spotted by Policeman McDonald and Jellor Smith at about 8 o'clock in the morning on the government wharf. The former seized him by the hands from behind, while the latter searched him and took away a revolver. Word was sent to Kentville and Constable Ward, of that town, went to Windsor and returned with the prisoner. It is to be hoped that every precaution will be taken that he may not again regain his liberty.

Town Council Meeting.

The regular monthly meeting of the town council was held on Wednesday evening. The Mayor, Couns. Franklin DeWitt, Porter and Harvey, and the Recorder were present. A verbal report was received from the Committee on Streets with regard to the work done. Mr. Collins, caretaker of the water shed lands, presented a written statement of the condition of the property.

The following bills were read and ordered paid: Chas. Murphy $33.30 J. W. Selfridge 37.09 J. W. Selfridge 36.09 E. M. Dyer 50 Town Clerk (postage) 1.94 The clerk was instructed to advertise in the ACADIAN that all rates and taxes must be paid by October 1st, otherwise warrants will be issued to collect same.

The Educational Institutions.

The College has received recently, through the Hon. F. W. Borden, Minister of Militia, the gift of a handsome pair of brass cannon, one of which was made in 1800, the other in 1808. It is likely that these historic relics will be placed on the terrace in front of the College.

The Seminary is beginning its work auspiciously. The Rev. J. H. McDonald, the new principal, has been in town for a week past, getting the strings of administration in his hands, and the year promises well. There is already a fine attendance, and this will yet be increased.

The new vice-principal, Miss Johnson, of Providence, Rhode Island, arrived on Tuesday, and has entered upon her duties. Miss Johnson is a graduate of Brown University, also a Normal school graduate, and a teacher of experience and reputation. It is believed she will meet the demands of the new position with entire satisfaction.

Miss Maymie J. Ashtenau, of Boston, the new vocal teacher, also arrived on Tuesday. Miss Ashtenau is a distinguished pupil of Professor Heinrich, of Boston, and will prove a fine acquisition to the Seminary staff.

Principal Horace L. Brittan of the Academy is at his post, with hardly such encouraging prospects for students as in the case of the Seminary. There will, however, be a good attendance, and if what we hear of Mr. Brittan's ability and pluck is true, there is little doubt that another year the Academy will take an advanced position.

Mr. F. W. Fair, of Bridgetown, has been appointed teacher in Manual Training, and Mr. R. J. Colpitt, assistant teacher in the literary work.

Miss D'Przer in Wolfville.

A large audience greeted Miss Eva D'Przer in the Baptist church Tuesday evening. After opening exercises, consisting of music, scripture reading by the pastor, and prayer by Dr. Austin deBlois, the speaker of the evening was introduced by Rev. Mr. Hatch. Miss D'Przer wore the costume of a high caste woman of India. She has a sweet voice and, while a native of India, speaks excellent English, and her address throughout was instructive and very interesting. She spoke especially of the women of India—their condition and need of the elevating power of Christianity. In India, women cannot be attended by male physicians, and any violation of this law is followed by degradation and suffering for the offending female. Miss D'Przer is working under the auspices of the Dufferin Society to render aid to the women of India, which owes its existence to an American lady, Miss D'Przer was especially beloved. This one was seriously ill and when all native methods of healing had failed, the English physician of the town was called. He was not permitted to see his patient, but one of her hands was passed through a small opening in a screen. However, his treatment was successful, and the woman recovered. But she had broken a law of her people and must pay the penalty. She was divorced from her husband and could henceforth have no connection with home or family. This pathetic story came to Lord Dufferin, then stationed in India, and through him to Lady Dufferin, and the outcome was the society above mentioned.

Sixteen years ago Miss D'Przer was converted through the preaching of Mr. Sanford, and six or seven years ago began the study of medicine, seeing in this the best means of helping her people. She now has charge of a hospital in her native town, and gave some touching instances of her work. Her patients are many and their diseases varied, and while their physical sufferings are relieved she loses no opportunity to tell them of the Great Physician.

Miss D'Przer gave earnest expression of gratitude to the people of this country for their efforts to save India. She spoke of the small apparent results for all the money expended, but pleaded that the efforts would be continued a little longer. To the speaker there are very evident results of the noble lives and the many dollars spent in this work. In concluding, she referred to our beautiful climate and the beauties of our country as aids to Christianity. She spoke of the contrast between our Sabbath and Sunday in India, and of the trying life on an Indian Missionary field.

Anything of supreme importance in connection with a great paper has an undoubted interest for the public. One of the greatest events that is attracting widespread attention is the great improvement in the Family Herald and Weekly Star, Montreal. The paper has been enlarged to 192 columns a week. To think of such a paper for the price charged is enough to take one's breath away. The Family Herald and Weekly Star, with its circulation of one hundred and nineteen thousand a week, long ago carved out a place for itself away up above anything in the history of Canada. Now it has stepped up to a higher and more commanding eminence.

In an article prepared by Mr. Geo. Johnson, the Dominion Statistician, it is stated there are in the Dominion 113 daily, 6 tri-weekly, 57 semi-weekly, 3 bi-weekly, 789 weekly newspapers, and three that come out semi-occasionally. There are also semi-monthly and monthly publications, the total number of publications in Canada aggregating 1219, including the Atlantic Nigger and the Midnight Sun, of Yukon, the two most worthless of our newspapers.

New Minas Items.

The citizens of this community who engage in shad-fishing in the Basin have taken up their seines and returned home. The fishing is over for this year. They report a very prosperous season.

The first shipment of apples to England was made on Wednesday of this week. A number of New Minas orchardists sent their earliest crates.

A number of our people drove to Kentville on Monday evening to attend the musicale given by Miss Louise Cowan, vocalist, assisted by Mrs. (Dr.) Woodworth, pianist, and Miss Adelaide Jump, elocutionist. The entertainment was pronounced a success from an artistic standpoint, but financially it must have been a sad failure. Talent of such a high order certainly merited a larger audience.

Rev. Dr. deBlois, late president of Shurtleff College, State of Illinois, made a call at New Minas on Tuesday, in company with his mother. Dr. deBlois served the Baptist church here as pastor for a year, during his student days at Acadia.

Mrs. Jas. Chase, who was stricken with paralysis in May last, and has been quite helpless since, has decided to go to the hospital in Halifax for care and treatment.

Mr. Amos Griffin, one of our most enterprising citizens, has taken a trip of ten days or a fortnight.

Miss Jump, the popular elocutionist, who has been vacationing in New Minas, left on Tuesday for Boston.

Miss McLean at McGill.

While the professors and lecturers of McGill University will be responsible for the instructions to be given to the students of the Royal Victoria College, the authorities have thought wise to supplement the available university staff by the appointment of general tutors, who will reside in the Royal Victoria College, and have named Miss Annie McLean, M. A., Ph. D., to be resident tutor in philosophy and history, and Miss Susan E. Cameron, B. A., to be resident tutor in English. Miss McLean graduated M. A. in 1894 at Acadia College, Nova Scotia, and obtained the degree of Ph. D. at the University of Chicago, presenting as her thesis, A Study of the Acadian Element in Nova Scotia. Miss McLean has had experience in teaching partly as preceptor and instructor in Latin and affiliated to the University of Chicago, where she holds the whole internal management devolved upon her. For the last three years she has been engaged in graduate work in sociology and political science and research work in Canadian history and government. She has published several essays and papers bearing on history, and also of sociological and economic questions which have attracted much attention.—Montreal Witness.

Grand Fire.

The ladies of the Lower Horton Methodist church, purpose holding an 'Ice Cream Social' in the basement of the church next Wednesday, the 13th inst. If that day should prove stormy come on the first fine evening after. The good things provided on such occasions down here are always delicious and abundant. Admission, 10 cents; ice-cream and cake, 10 cents; cup of coffee and cake, 10 cents. Proceeds for church purposes.

There will be a Service of Song in the Methodist church next Sunday evening. The ladies of missionary society have it in charge. There will be readings, recitations, an address by the pastor, Rev. W. H. Langille on 'The Hindrance in the Mission Field,' and the choir, assisted by Miss Louise Moore, one of the sweet singers of Halifax, will fill the church with music. There will be a collection for missions. Come and enjoy and give your mite. Miss Moore is visiting her friend Miss Annie Patterson, of Hortonville.

The electric storm on the morning of Sept. 4th was very severe and lasted for several hours. Very strong winds prevailed Sept. 6th and 7th doing considerable damage to orchards, gardens, etc.

As the result of a boating accident in Halifax harbor on Monday afternoon seven lives were lost out of a party of thirty-five who had taken a trip to the city of the Marston, under the management of Robert Davidson, sexton of St. Paul's church, and another was the wife of Mr. Davidson's son. The other two were William Hamilton, of the city clerk's office, and John Hancock, checker at Furness, Whitley & Co. The sad event has cast a gloom over the capital.

THE ACADIAN.

WOLFVILLE, N. S., SEPT. 9, 1899.

Local and Provincial.

The Presbyterians at Hantsport are to have a tea meeting Sept. 21st, in aid of the church building fund.

Miss Richardson has returned and will resume her classes on the piano-forte Monday, September 11th.

Mr Ernest Caldwell has begun the erection of a residence for himself on the lot which he recently purchased on Central avenue.

The regular fall meeting of the proprietors of the Grand Fre Dyke will be held at Evangeline Hall, Lower Horton, to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The list of successful candidates at the provincial examination at Wolfville, was received too late for publication in this issue, but will appear next week.

One of the most terrific thunder storms, accompanied by torrents of rain, occurred on Monday morning. We have not heard of any damage being done.

Capt. Barbieri has moved this week into the store in Mr W. S. Wallace's new building. The new store is tastefully fitted up and presents a very nice appearance.

A party under the guidance of Mr G. V. Rand had an excursion and picnic yesterday at the source of the Wolfville water supply. The day was not very favorable but a good time was had.

It is said that Mr Charles H. Eaton, of Canard, was offered, and declined to accept, $3,000 for his apples by an Ontario speculator, one day last week. This probably cannot be beaten in Eastern Canada.

The schooners Wellman Hall and Mr. J. Soley arrived in port yesterday from New York. The former has a cargo of hard coal for the Wolfville Coal Co., while the latter's cargo consists of 6500 bushels of corn.

The Beaver took a very small number to Parraboe from Wolfville on Monday to attend the political picnic. The day was a hot one and the steamer did not get back until after 1 o'clock Tuesday morning.

To Let.—Furnished Rooms, very convenient for students. Apply to Mrs JOSEPH JONES.

The dynamo for the Electric Light Co. arrived last week and the light was on for the first time Saturday night. The re-appearance of the street lights was hailed with pleasure by all, as our town has presented a rather gloomy appearance at night since the destruction of the light station.

We understand that some people are of the opinion that the close season for partridge ends on 10th inst. This is not the fact. Not until after Sept. 15th, 1900, will it be lawful to shoot partridge. Violation of the law this season should be reported to the game society, when the guilty parties will be prosecuted.

Anyone wishing to use a scholarship in Acadia University, apply to Dr. FREEMAN, Bridgetown, N. S.

Mr G. V. Rand, our esteemed postmaster, brought into our sanctum on Tuesday a generous sample of a new specimen of small fruit he is growing in his garden—the "dew-berry" or trailing blackberry. It is a large, rich and delicious fruit, and while it resembles the ordinary blackberry, is a decided improvement on it. Mr Rand was the first to introduce the cultivation of the strawberry in this county, and he may be conferring such another boon in the "dew-berry."

September Wedding.

ORCZER—ABBOTT.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized in the Methodist church here on Wednesday last when at 10.30 o'clock, Bessie M. Abbott and Geo. A. Crozier, of Westville, were joined in matrimony by Rev. Mr. Donkin. The relatives and friends of the contracting couple attended in large numbers, and previous to the ceremony were entertained by music rendered by Mrs J. D. Chambers, who presided at the organ. The church had been very prettily decorated by young lady friends of Miss Abbott, and looked well, the decorations consisting principally of wild and potted plants and bunting. The bride, who was accompanied by her sister, Annie, was very prettily attired in white organza, with picture hat of white chiffon and tips, and both carried hand-some bouquets of white and pink carnations and roses. Mr D. P. McKenna, of the C. P. R. Tel. staff, Halifax, acted as best man. After the ceremony the happy couple were driven to the home of the bride where for a short time a reception was held, Mr and Mrs Crozier being the recipient of hearty congratulations from assembled friends. Amid a shower of rice and the booming of torpedos Mr and Mrs Crozier left by the Bluenose for Chester, where they will spend a short honeymoon before returning to Windsor where for the future they will reside. The presents were numerous and pretty, testifying to the high esteem in which the bride is held. The ACADIAN wishes the young couple every happiness.

We have in stock a quantity of Coke with which we shall be glad to supply customers in any quantity. Especially recommended for grates and furnaces. WOLFVILLE COAL & LUMBER CO.

The annual meeting of the Kings Co. B. Y. P. U. will be held at Lower Canard church on Tuesday, September 12th. There will be a business meeting in the afternoon and a rally in the evening at which original papers and special music will be presented. Every society of young people connected with a Baptist church, is requested to send one delegate for each 20 members or fraction thereof, and Baptist churches without such society are requested to send one delegate for each 50 members. A written report from every society or church without a society with the names of delegates should be forwarded not later than Monday, Sept. 11.

The Wolfville cricket team met with two defeats last week. On Thursday afternoon they met Canard and were defeated by eight wickets. Saturday afternoon they played with Kentville. In the first innings they scored 36 runs, and in the second 75 runs. Kentville made 84 runs in the first innings and in the second 10 runs for four wickets when the game was stopped so that the Kentville boys could catch the train, and the match was decided on the first innings in favor of Kentville.

There is to be a grand rally of Epworth Leaguers at Kentville on October 5, 4 and 5, at the annual Nova Scotian conference convention.

Evangeline Beach Notes. This week will about finish the season at the Beach. The attendance has been fairly good although the wet weather and consequent late harvest was a great drawback, keeping many back who would otherwise have attended. The total attendance during the season has been somewhere in the neighbourhood of 8000, while the bathers have amounted to about 700. Mrs McVicar, who has been occupying Point Pleasant, returned home on Saturday last. There are but two cottages occupied, and these will soon be vacated.
