CHAPTER XI.

A Prison Cell and a Fortune
I WILL accompany you to the lawyer said.
He followed the officer and his prisoner from the cell to the courtroom, where Loyd-Mostyn came shortly after.

The plan of the latter had been to have Devereux put under heavy bonds to keep the peace, believing him to be unable to find a bondsman, and so, forced to go to jail in default; but when he saw Lansing beside Devereux, he took the precaution to leave the courtroom as soon as his testimony had been taken.

He did not therefore know how quietly Devereux's discharge was obtained, but when the latter left the courtroom to seek the man who had put so horrible a cloud upon his life, Loyd-Mostyn had disappeared as though the earth had swallowed him.

"He has escaped me!" muttered Devereux, behind his teeth, his oath causing Lansing to shudder.
"Hush!" the latter whispered.
"Endure any anguish that God may send upon you before you stain your soul with murder. There is no course that hell could frame like to that."
The memory of it poisons every joy, it turns every loved face to that of the dead, it fills the wine cup with blood, every star of night is the eye of your accusing victim, the hidden tongue filling all the world with the

AFTER SUFFERING YEARS

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Fox Creek, N.B.—"I have always had pains in the loins and a weakness there, and often after my meals my food would distress me and cause soreness. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me much good. I am stronger, digestion is better, and I can walk with ambition. I have encouraged many mothers of families to take it, as it is the best remedy in the world. You can publish this in the papers."—Mrs. WILLIAM BOURQUE, Fox Creek, N.B., Canada.

"The above is only one of the thousands of grateful letters which are constantly being received by the Pinkham Medicine Company of Lynn, Mass., which prove beyond a doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, actually does cure these obstinate diseases of women after all other means have failed, and that every such suffering woman owes it to herself to at least give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial before submitting to an operation, or giving up hope of recovery."
Mrs. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health and her advice is free.

save his daughter's life—or her reason—he must remove her from the surroundings where her terrible grief had occurred.

The result of the conversation was that two weeks afterward Beaufort Park was locked and boarded up, only a few necessary servants remaining in their quarters.

The Duchess had seriously objected to a visit to their relatives in England, but consented to pass the winter in the south of Italy and Spain.

It was not until the following fall that they returned to America, but strangely enough, her repugnance to returning to the home that she had so dearly loved was so strongly marked that her parents decided, after consideration, to take a house in New York and remain through the gay season.

In contrast to their expectations, the proposal met with the Duchess approval. She was at that time, perhaps, even more beautiful than she had been in her early girlhood, a certain sadness of expression having mellowed a natural hauteur of her countenance.

She became at once the rage of New York, the story of her romantic marriage but adding piquancy to the atmosphere about her. Those of her set told it to each other again and again, taking care that no mention of it was ever made in her hearing.

Far from looking upon her as a success, she became the reigning fashionable queen, holding the reins of society gracefully.
"An American heiress deceived by an adventurous Englishman is common, but an English heiress deceived by an American adventurer is not to be despised from its very rarity," Donald Quintard had said, and Donald Quintard was an authority upon all matters social. "There is not a doubt of the genuineness of her family pretensions, and still less of her being the most famous beauty of the age. Her manner is the perfection of breeding. In a word, in spite of the romance, which is usually a sort of negative disgrace, Miss Beaufort is the most charming girl that I have seen in years."

CHAPTER X.

Face To Face Again.

HE change at Beaufort Park would have touched the heart of the least interested of the observers. The spirit of St. John Beaufort seemed utterly broken. He strove to rally for his daughter's sake, but it was a weary effort that sent a more poignant pain to her heart than the loudest lamentations could have done.

They were trying piteously to deceive each other, piteously because fruitless, Mrs. Beaufort being her daughter's single comfort. She rarely spoke of Devereux to the Duchess, but when she did it was in a manner that brought silent though grateful tears to the sad, sweet eyes.

Then the associations of the place became unendurable. There was scarcely a room in the house, scarcely a nook in the park, that did not whisper a reminiscence of him they were so desirous to forget, and, instead of time mellowing the sorrow and the humiliation, it but increased the distracting pain.

"You must take her away, dear," Mrs. Beaufort said to her husband one day, in a trembling voice, surreptitiously wiping away a tear with her handkerchief. "The memories clinging about Beaufort Park, much as you have loved it, are killing you both. Look at her now, standing there so motionless upon the terrace. We used to call her out butterfly, because she was rarely still for a moment at a time, fluttering so happily from one thing to another. She seemed then the very spirit of the sunshine. How different she is now! It breaks my heart to look at her. She has grown so pale, so thin. She tries to bear it bravely for your sake and mine, but Ailsie tells me there are nights when she sits all night long, looking through the window at the darkness, tearless and motionless. She has suffered terrible from the humiliation, but there is another thing that causes her more pain than all: she loves Devereux still! She is too proud to acknowledge it, but it is true. St. John, and Beaufort Park is only serving to keep alive those memories. She may rebel against it at first, but the kindest thing you could do would be to shut up the house for the present and take her away. Throw her in a whirl of gaiety, allow her to travel, don't give her time to brood. It she remains here she will die!"

The last sentence was uttered in a hollow undertone that showed how much Mrs. Beaufort believed what she said.
And it served her purpose. It started her husband out of his lethargy until he seemed to realize for the first time that if he really wished to

Nerves at High Tension

Slight extra strain means collapse—Restoration obtained by using DR. A.W. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD

The successful men and women are often of the high-strung nervous type—keen and active—but with too little reserve force.
A little extra worry and anxiety and snap goes the nervous system. Weeks and months are often required before energy and vigor are regained.
Rest helps, so does fresh air and exercise, but the blood must also be made rich and red by use of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food.

Mr. Wm. Branton, Victoria St., Stratford, Ont., writes:—My nervous system seemed all unstrung. I could not sleep, had no appetite, my digestion was poor and I had jerking of the limbs. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food helped me and I continued until I had taken twenty-four boxes. This treatment has made a radical change in my condition, built up the system and strengthening the nerves. He was invited everywhere, accepted, forced upon him, but, while treating women with the chivalrous respect of the olden time that unfortunately remains no more than a memory in this degenerate day, he seemed to have no word than courtesy demanded for the most beautiful or the most accomplished of them. They would have said that his heart was dead, but that his looks breathed of a living fire as deathless as immortality.

Quintard was giving a reception to introduce his eldest daughter, and having made a particular point of the coming of Edwin Chapman, the latter appeared, how reluctantly only he himself knew, about ten o'clock.
He made the strongest endeavour to conceal the bored expression of his countenance, but the effort was attended with failure. He was a man of distinguished appearance, singularly handsome, and magnificently proportioned, his hair a sort of golden brown, his complexion flawless as that of a woman, his beard worn pointed in the English fashion. He was quiet and refined of manner, well groomed and well bred, the half-dreamy gaze of his handsome eyes seeming to comprehend every item in his surroundings with but a single sweeping glance.

An instant after he had left his hostess and her charming daughter, he found himself in the centre of a group of fluttering women who were propounding to him questions that would, at least, have served to amuse a man of greater vanity than his.
"Mr. Chapman, do tell us the original of Virginia in that delightful book of yours, will you not?" asked Ethel Davis, one of the season's belles.
"Was she an Australian, or one of our own countrywomen? You see we do not inquire if the character were drawn from life, for it speaks for itself. Tell us who she is?"
The dreamy expression deepened. The moisture of tears seemed to spring for a moment to the lustrous eyes, but was quickly banished.
"Virginia was an ideal, Miss Davis," he answered ambiguously. "She is the love of my dreams?"
"I love all women, for the sake of one."
"Spare us the old chestnut of adding 'my mother,'" laughed Quintard linking his arm in that of the successful novelist, and leading him away.
"Now thank me," he continued, when they were out of earshot, "for rescuing you from that 'petticoat brigade.' If you could only have seen your face! Properly reproduced it would have made the fortune of an artist as a representation of 'boredom,' I say, look there! There is the young lady to make a fellow's heart flutter, particularly an artistic chap like yourself. Do you see her over there? Besides all that, she has a romantic history, which you must get her to relate to you some day. It would make a capital plot for one of your charming novels. Don't you see her? The tall girl—Why hang it, man, what is the matter?"

A heavy hand had fallen upon Charles Quintard's arm. He glanced up quickly and saw Chapman's face. It was cold and white as chiseled marble.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

The problem of how to go a way to the country to recuperate and yet stay at home to save your purse, recently solved by two young friends of mine in a rather interesting and suggestive way.

The young folks are a doctor and his wife. His wife was run-down and needed country air. But the doctor's purse was also run down.

It was one of the hardest cases he ever ran up against. But he rose to his level with an ingenuity that ought to bring him as many patients as he can take care of.

Although they live in the heart of the town, there is a section of high, wooded land about two miles from them. It is a very beautiful spot and people continually remark on the purity and freshness of the air on this little pine-studded hill.

Mindful of this fact, the doctor has driven his wife out there every morning before he went on his rounds all summer long.

He establishes her comfortably with book or sewing, a heap of pillows and a lunch, and then goes back to his work. Late in the afternoon he goes out and brings her home.

Has it really done her much good? Well, I just wish I could publish a before-and-after picture of her.

Why isn't that a good idea for anyone whose purse and health are simultaneously out of gear? Of course not everyone has a carriage or just such an ideal spot, but I don't believe there are many people who couldn't manage to get themselves daily transported to some healthy spot, at a fairly reasonable rate, if they really made the effort.

Some weeks ago I wrote a little talk on the golden rule of lost articles. That is the duty of everyone who finds any valuable article to do his best to get it back to his owner, just as he would like the person who finds his lost article to do for him.

I commented at the time on the lack of any system for dealing with lost articles in this country, and a traveller sends me this interesting item:

"Some time ago I lost a handbag and a few articles therein, in a London stage. Next morning I went to Scotland Yard, gave a description of my loss and in half a minute the bag and contents were before me. I paid ten per cent of the value, about 85 cents, of which 12 cents the police put into their orphan fund and the balance goes to the finder. Why not have the same system here?"

Why not, indeed? Isn't this a bit of constructive reform that your woman's club might well work to get introduced in this city?

Want to know how a few bits of colored paper and a few inches of wooden stick can sometimes take the place, and set free the time, of a human being?

In amusing a baby. Buy or make one of those little colored paper windmills. Stick it up in baby's carriage when you put him out of doors and you will be surprised how long he will be contented to watch its revolutions in the breeze. Instead of demanding that you amuse him.

When wiping silver take care to use a towel free from lint. Silver, like glassware, shows every particle of lint that touches it.

It is a wise plan to add cornmeal to gasoline used for cleaning anything badly spotted. The meal helps in rubbing out the spots.

When repairing a rent in a glove it is well to turn the article inside out and then sew it over and over with cotton, not with silk, thread.

When laying oilcloth or linoleum on floors, if the edge is well smeared with brewer's yeast it will keep its place and will not curl up.

The Ladies of St. John's May Now Have Beautiful Hair. McMurdo & Co. Has the Article and Guarantees it to Grow Hair, or Refund Your Money.

McMurdo & Co., backed up by the manufacturers of SALVIA, the Great Hair Grower, guarantees it to grow hair. SALVIA destroys Dandruff in ten days.

The roots of the hair are so nourished and fed that a new crop of hair springs up, to the amazement and delight of the user. The hair is made soft and fluffy. Like all American preparations SALVIA is definitely perfumed. It is hard to find an actress who does not use SALVIA continually.

Ladies of society and influence use no other. SALVIA is a non-sticky preparation, and is the ladies' favorite. A large, generous bottle, 50c. The Scotch Drug Co., St. Catharines, Canadian distributors.

SCOURGE OF EUROPE How Cholera Plagues Travel Across Continents. Cholera, the most dreaded of the plagues that occasionally find their way Westward from the crowded East, has its real home in Southern China and round the mouth of the Ganges. Every few years, however, it comes drifting slowly to Europe, moving steadily, it is said, at the rate at which an average walker travels.

Certainly, the path it prefers is along the ancient caravan routes through Afghanistan and Persia to Russia. An old tradition has it that this dreaded disease always follows in the footsteps of the Wandering Jew. Russia always suffers terribly when it comes. In the last visit—that of two years ago—there were 400 cases a day in St. Petersburg alone. The terrible havoc it works in Russia is largely due to the stupid-ed by shaking them over a fire in a corn popper.

If a teaspoonful of water is added to each egg used for dipping croquettes it will prevent the egg from becoming stringy.

Never leave foodstuffs of any kind in cardboard boxes, as they will not only gather moisture but will attract insects.

The careful housewife never throws away a bit of bacon fat. She uses it for frying fish or potatoes to good advantage.

Mince chicken, to which a generous amount of mayonnaise has been added, makes a delicious filling for a summer sandwich.

Nuts are excellent as a substitute for meat, but should be eaten at meal-time. They are more digestible with a little salt.

A paste made of emery powder and olive oil is excellent for polishing steel articles of any kind. Follow with a clean rag.

For dinner on a hot night try a mold of jellied chicken. It is not difficult to prepare, and will be found most appetizing.

When the germ is swallowed, the disease always shows itself within four days. The germs on infected clothing lose all power after twenty days. It was the famous Dr. Koch who discovered the real nature of the disease. He went to Egypt in 1882 when the plague was raging there; he discovered the bacillus, and brought it back in a bottle. A certain cur has not been found yet, though, under the latest treatment, only one in five dies, as against three in five twenty years ago. But medical science does know exactly how it spreads, and a every port in England there are keen eyes watching for the enemy.

It is a curious fact that birds, with out making any bacteriological examinations, are as quick to detect cholera as the most skillful medic man. It has often been noticed in India that birds at once desert an infected district. The first sign of the epidemic is dying in their return. The same thing was noticed in Ireland during the terrible year 1831.

The strangest beliefs have been held about cholera. Many ignorant people used to believe that the disease lay bottled-up in volcanoes, an came out when an eruption took place. Others thought it swept away on those who were unwise enough to sleep in beds with the head pointed due north.—Answers.

$17,000 in Bullion STOLEN FROM MAI LS. Vancouver, Sept. 20—It has just leaked out that a big mail robbery took place at White Pass, on the Yukon Railway, between White Horse and Skagway, on August 17, when the load-truck was substituted for gold bullion.

This following the theft of bullion between Fairbanks and Seattle seem to indicate an organized gang on the Yukon River route.

Post Office Inspector Greenleaf from Vancouver, and several other officers are working on the case. The missing gold is valued at $17,000, and although the robbery took place on American territory, it was a consignment from Dawson, and located from the Canadian mail.

City Council.

The regular weekly meeting of the Council opened at the Council Rooms last night at 7.30. The Mayor and all the Councillors, with the exception of Councillor Mullaly, were present.

After the adoption of the minutes, the Mayor, on behalf of the Committee appointed to deal with the matter, made an official report of the purchase of the Seaman's Home for a City Hall, the purchase price being $10,650. The building was at present held in trust by Mr. Conroy for the Council, until such time as the latter were in a position to take it over.

The Councillors expressed their approval of the matter, and congratulated the Mayor on the good bargain that had been made for the city. They were also glad to observe that this step had met with the approval of the general public.

The Council then settled down to a large programme, which it disposed of in a business-like manner and with unusual despatch. Sir E. P. Morris, in reply to a request from the Council for assistance from the District grant, to repair the South Side Road, wrote that on account of the heavy expenditure in connection with the destruction of wharves and roads in St. John's West District during the year, he was unable to find funds to help the Council in the proposed work, but promised to keep the matter in mind and render any assistance he could as soon as funds could be spared.

James Harris, Secretary Board of Works, requested the Council to repair lane east of Museum building, fatter will receive attention.

P. J. O'Reilly requested the Council's attention to broken sidewalk in front of his building on Water Street East. He also stated that gravel had been dumped in his yard, and requested removal of same. Matters will be attended to.

In the matter of fence around property on Duckworth St., the question of liability has not yet been decided on enquiry is still going on.

J. A. Paddon, Manager of Bank of Montreal, requested Council to repair sidewalk near Bank of Montreal Bldg. The Engineer had already given instructions and work was going on.

Steer Bros. complained of stench from Cove, and asked Council's attention. The matter involves the question of dredging, which is being considered by the Government and the Council.

E. A. Thomas and others asked for sewer to be laid in Barnes' Place. Granted.

Wyatt Bros. and Thos. McGrath applied for share of blacksmith work. Applicants will receive attention when next work is required.

The R. N. Co., in reply to request of Council, stated they would cover unused rails on Military Road and rear crossing at foot of Cochrane St.

Harvey & Co. complained of defect in hydrant on premises. The Engineer will attend to the matter.

Job Bros. & Co. called attention to condition of breast work in their Cove, pointing out that it needed repairs. Action deferred until next finance meeting. They also applied for insurance policy on Seaman's Home, to be taken with one of their Companies. Latter deferred.

Butler and MacDonald and Jonas Sarter, architects, asked to be employed to draft the plan for the alterations to Seaman's Home. Matter deferred for the present.

The tenders for oats were then read, and the contract awarded to Frank MacNamara, his tender, 59¢ cents per bushel, being the lowest.

The Sanitary Committee recommended some slight repairs to Sanitary tables, which are ordered to be done.

Peter Shortall and D. A. Ryan applied for permission to effect repairs to building. Granted.

In accordance with request of residents of Parade and Field Streets for water and sewerage, it was ordered that work commence immediately.

Councillor Martin again drew attention to houses not numbered, and the Road Inspectors were ordered to report on the number and locality of same for next meeting.

On motion of Councillors Channing and Ryan, it was decided to construct, in accordance with the original plan laid down by Engineer Hering, a storm sewer on Monkstown Road, as the present pipe is inadequate to take off surplus water during rain falls, and many people have suffered damage to their property.

With regard to W. O'D. Kelly's complaint of insufficient water on Howley Avenue an effort will be made to improve the pressure during the winter months.

The Mayor suggested an improvement in the present system of watering ships, by running a pipe line down to the wharves, instead of using long lengths of hose. The proposed alteration would mean a considerable saving of expense.

The Health Officer reported four new cases of scarlet fever and one of typhoid. The Engineer reported progress of work for the week, as follows: 300 feet of pipe laid and back filled, and 150 feet of additional trench opened on Freshwater Road, 100 feet of sewer finished and 50 feet additional stripped on Pleasant Street, where rock has been encountered. Lime St. completed.

After passing of pay rolls and bills, the meeting adjourned at 10 p.m.

"Honour to Whom Honour is Due."

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Mr. Editor.—In this morning's account in the "News" of the finding of the young man Dunn, near Fox Harbor, an injustice is done—apparently intentionally—to one of our foremost young merchants in Pleasanton, whose name is not mentioned at all in the matter. I refer to Mr. Frank Murphy through whose energy and zeal the search culminated so successfully. He was "on deck at the first gun and was there at the last," organizing, searching — and better still—supplying the sinews of war in the shape of "beef, biscuit and butter," without which the search could not have been conducted at all. This is no joke when you have 200 or 300 men to nourish. Give the due—his due. Yours truly, M. SINNOTT, Oct. 8th, 1910.

Cadets Entertained.

The Cadets of the warship Cornwall were entertained at Government House by His Excellency the Governor and Lady Williams last night; an enjoyable dance was held. Those invited were:— Mrs. Woolcombe, Mrs. John Harvey, Mrs. Munn, Mrs. Charles Harvey, Mrs. Mostyn, Mrs. Scanlon, Captain and Mrs. Goodridge, Miss Grace Goodridge, Miss Gladys Job, Miss Withers, Miss Marion Winter, Miss Mackay, Miss Woolcombe, Miss Oterbridge, Miss Fox, Miss LeMesurier, Miss Hubert, Miss Ruby Ayre, Miss O'Dwyer, Miss Warren, Miss Harvey, Miss White, Misses Hayward, Misses Ayre, Miss Rendell, Misses Purling, Misses Carter, Misses Goaling, Misses Pleasant, Miss Bishop, Misses Dundell, Miss Lilla Winter, Miss Johnston, Miss Marjorie Rennie, Misses Morris, Misses Berteau, Miss Morison, Miss E. More Whales Captured Passengers by the shore train last night say the Port Saunders, yesterday, again killed two whales in Conception Bay and towed them into the factory pier at Harbor Grace. One of them was a very large fish. Since Tuesday they have made their appearance in very large numbers in the Bay. Fishermen believe that the whales are after caplin in the deeper waters of the Bay, and that this accounts for their presence there in such large numbers.

A Neglected Cold May Cause Consumption.

Thousands of people die every year from the effects of this dreaded disease, which, if treated in its first stages with MATHIEU'S SYRUP of Tar and Cod Liver Oil and other medicinal extracts, will cure the diseased lungs and give strength to the patient. Sold everywhere.

PORT GREVILLE, C.B., Dec. 31, '00. Blacking & Mercantile Co.'s, Ltd. Dear Sirs.—Please ship by next express, if possible, 3 doz. Mathieu's Syrup. It is the best cough mixture on the market. Yours truly, W. STERLING.

CHURCH POINT, July 31, '08. Blacking & Mercantile Co.'s, Ltd., Amherst, N.S. Dear Sirs.—Nearly one year ago I had my first order of "Mathieu's Syrup" from you. It was not known in this country, and I gave samples to several families whom I knew would use it. After a few weeks I began to have a call for it, and trade has increased wonderfully since. I have not the least doubt but that it will soon be the best selling remedy for coughs, colds, etc., on the market. In my store here sales are good and our people ask for it. Several stores in this country now keep it in stock and report sales increasing. I have bought from you since August 19th, 1907, 4 Gross and have only 3 dozen on hand at this date, and which I am holding for retail trade in my store. Yours truly, LOUIS A. McLANSON.

A Poor Weak Woman

As she is termed, will endure bravely and patiently agonies which a strong man would give way under. The fact is women are more patient than they ought to be under such troubles. Every woman ought to know that she may obtain the most experienced medical advice free of charge and in absolute confidence and privacy by writing to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, R. V. Pierce, M. D., President, Buffalo, N. Y. Dr. Pierce has been chief consulting physician of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y., for many years and has had a wider practical experience in the treatment of women's diseases than any other physician in this country. His medicines are world-famous for their astonishing efficacy. The most perfect remedy ever devised for weak and delicate women is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. IT MAKES WEAK WOMEN STRONG. S.C.G. WOMEN WELL.

The many and varied symptoms of woman's peculiar ailments are fully set forth in Plain English in the People's Medical Adviser (128 pages), a newly revised and up-to-date Edition of which, cloth-bound, will be mailed free on receipt of 50 one-cent stamps to pay cost of mailing copy. Address as above.

Household Notes.

Ice cream served in half a cantaloupe is delicious for dessert. If bureau or pantry drawers stick, rub the edges with damp soap. Salt mixed with vinegar is excellent for cleaning copper vessels.

Almonds chopped fine and browned in sugar make delicious ice cream. Boiled starch is much improved by the addition of a little salt or gum arabic.

Rustic hanging baskets for the piazza are more practical than the zinc-lined ones. To test beef, press it down with the thumb. If it rises quickly, the meat is good.

Oil of lavender, sprinkled about in the bookshelves, will prevent books from mildewing. Potato parings, dried in the oven, are good to kindle fires as they light more easily than wood.

A pair of scissors is infinitely better for trimming off the rind from ham or bacon than a knife. Grease on the top of a hot stove can be quickly rubbed off by putting salt on the scrubbing brush.

To polish aluminum, make a mixture of borax, ammonia and water. Apply with a soft cloth. Tiny ends of candles should be kept to add to the starch on wash days. They will add to the gloss. When next making rice pudding flavor with lemon and cinnamon. It will be found exceedingly tasty. To beat the white of egg quickly add a bit of salt; in making mayonnaise, the salt should go in last.

To shrink new flannel, soak it for 24 hours in cold water. Hang it or the line without wringing too dry. If a piece of cheese is carefully wrapped in a cloth wrung out in vinegar it will neither dry nor gather mold.

When using sandpaper to remove old paint, try wetting it with benzine. The work will be accomplished sooner. Cold cereal, served with ripe berries, sugared and creamed, makes a nourishing luncheon dish for a hot day.

If fish is dipped in milk and then in flour or cracker crumbs it will brown quite as well as though first dipped in egg. Cream and butter should be eaten freely by those who do not eat much meat, as they furnish fats for the system. After almonds are blanched and buttered, they may easily be brown-

Random Remarks by Roderic Random.

What's Wrong With the World?

When the blue and violet flames of a cheery fire are delighting one with their fantastic gambols, and the crackling of the burning coal sends one on an excursion to the land of dreams, to ask one's self "What's wrong with the world?" seems incongruous indeed. Nevertheless, under such circumstances that question was forced upon me the other evening by the popular English journalist, G. K. Chesterton, in his recent book bearing the title embodied in the query. Iconoclasm, like criticism, is not at all a difficult piece of business; certainly the one is more fruitful than the other. Iconoclasm, too, like criticism confers no lasting benefit upon society. Carlyle wrote many volumes of words expository of defective systems; but never a line of structural suggestiveness, and we all know the limitation of Carlyle's influence upon society. The Edinburgh reviewers were great iconoclasts; but who remembers them to-day? Yet Keats and Byron—the builders—are still alive. Chesterton, in 292 pages, laughs like a trooper at the foibles of society's polity; but not a page devoted to a succedaneum for the polity exposed and condemned. We all enjoy our giggle at the man who slips on a banana skin—how few of us kick the skins out of the way!

Destroyers versus Builders.

Religion is a subject Roderic avoids discussing because it never profits either side; but he was reluctantly forced into it last week by a friend who argued thus: "When God made Adam and discovered that he was a failure, why didn't He destroy him and make another one?" The answer is quite obvious—because God does not destroy my friend, although he too is a failure. This method of argument seems to be the one adopted by the majority of mankind when discussing the pros and cons of existing conditions of society. A fool can tell you that the drainage system of St. John's is not as pleasant to the nostrils as the flowers in my neighbour's garden; but I have yet to meet the man who can suggest a method of transforming the drains into flowers. In like manner we have thousands in the city who advocate the abolition of the fog horn outside the Narrows; but no one will say by what other means we can warn the mariners in foggy weather. Every married man will advise a bachelor not to marry; but it is impossible, of course, for a married man to practice his preaching. Chesterton belongs to this great school of inconsistent men. Alas! how many of us are sitting on the same form.

An Observant Man.

Nevertheless, Chesterton is a very observant man, and I think his disciples (for he already has his numerous followers) are hopeful that someday he will present the world with a work that will be more than a criticism of things as they are. Everyone knows that he has a great brain and a good heart—a rare combination. The pavement of Fleet Street has never been patrolled by a healthier writer, including his prototype, Dr. Johnson; and the Protestant churches are fully appreciative of the new force that has come among them.

The Wildness of Domesticity.

Among his many observations in this interesting and humorous book are a few paragraphs on "The wildness of domesticity." In a city that in one respect is rather un-English, namely, its tendency to catalogue wives in one group, and husbands in another, his remarks should be interesting, and I quote them without comment:

"In the course of this crude study

we shall have to touch on what is called the problem of poverty, especially the dehumanised poverty of modern industrialism. But in this primary matter of the ideal, the difficulty is not the problem of poverty, but the problem of wealth. It is the special psychology of leisure and idleness that falsifies life. Some experience of modern movements of the sort called 'advance' has led me to the conviction that they generally repose upon some experience peculiar to the rich. It is so with that fallacy of free love of which I have already spoken; the idea of sexuality as a string of episodes. That implies a long holiday in which to get tired of one woman, and a motor car in which to wander looking for others; it also implies money for maintenance. An omnibus conductor has hardly time to love his own wife, let alone other people's wives. And the success with which nuptial estrangements are depicted in modern 'problem plays' is due to the fact that there is only one thing that a drama cannot depict—that is a hard day's work. I could give many other instances of this plutocratic assumption behind progressive fads. For instance, there is a plutocratic assumption behind the phrase 'Why should women be economically dependent upon men?' The answer is that among poor and practical she isn't; except in the sense in which he is dependent upon her. A hunter has to rear his cubs; there must be somebody to mend them; a fisher has to catch fish; there must be somebody to cook them. It is surely quite clear that this modern notion that a woman is a mere 'pretty clinging parasite,' a 'plaything,' etc., arose through the sombre contemplation of some rich banking family, in which the banker at least went to the city and pretended to do something, while the banker's wife went to the park and did not pretend to do anything at all. A poor man and his wife are a business partnership.

"But of all the modern notions generated by mere wealth the worst is this: the notion that domesticity is dull and tame. Inside the home (they say) is dead decorum and routine; outside is adventure and variety. This is indeed a rich man's opinion. The rich man knows that his own house moves on vast and soundless wheels of wealth; is run by regiments of servants, by a swift and silent ritual. On the other hand, every sort of vagabondage or romance is open to him in the streets outside. He has plenty of money and can afford to be a tramp. His wildest adventure will end in a restaurant, while the yokel's fondest adventures may end in a police court. If he smashes a window, he can pay for it; if he smashes a man, he can pension him. He can (like the millionaire in the story) buy an hotel to get a glass of gin. And because he, the luxurious man, dictates the tone of nearly all 'advanced' and 'progressive' thought, he will almost forgotten what a home really means to the overwhelming millions of mankind."

The Kind of Home Wanted.

"Now I take it, as I have said, this small human omnipotence, this possession of a definite cell or chamber of liberty, as the working model for the present enquiry. Where we can give every Englishman a free home of his own, or not, at least we should desire it; and he desires it. For the moment we speak of what he wants, not of what he expects to get. He wants, for instance, a separate house; he does not want a semi-detached house. He may be forced in the commercial race to share one wall with another man. Similarly he might be forced in a three-legged race to share one leg with another man; but it is not so that he pictures himself in his dreams of elegance and liberty. Again, he does not desire a flat. He can eat and sleep and praise God in a flat; he can eat and sleep and praise God in a railway train. But a railway train is not a house; because it is a house on wheels. And a flat is not a house; because it is a house on stilts. An idea of early contact and foundation, as well as an idea of separation and independence, is a part of this instructive picture. I take this one institution as a test. As every normal man desires a woman, and children born of a woman, every normal man desires a house of his own to put them into. He does not merely want a roof above him and a chair below him; he wants an objective and visible kingdom; a first at which he can cook what food he likes, a door he can open to what friend he chooses. This is the normal appetite of men."

A Book of Good Things.

In spite of what was said at the beginning of this article, I am justified in advising everyone to read "What's wrong with the world?" because it is packed with original thought, glows

EXCITING STORY OF THE REVOLUTION.

Murder of Republican Maddens Mob Who Incite Artillery to Mutiny—Infantry Shoot Down Officers in Cold Blood and Join Revolt—Royalists Caught Napping—Rebel Ships Shell Palace—Courtiers Panicky—Young King Plucky, But Seeks Safety in Flight—King at Gibraltar—Oport Joins Republic—Danger of Long Civil War Not Over.

Special to Evening Telegram.
LONDON, Oct. 7. A graphic account of the rising at Lisbon by an eye-witness, who has just reached the border says, that the Republican newspaper, Seculo, on Monday evening issued an inflammatory placard which stigmatised the murder of Dr. Bombarada as political assassination, and called upon the people to rise and put an end to the monarchial regime which permitted such foul deeds. The placard was publicly denounced by two priests. This aroused the anger of the crowd. The priests were fisted and stoned. This incident started a riot. The police in trying to quell it were attacked by Republicans armed with revolvers. Shots were fired, and in the skirmish many were wounded. The rioters dispersed but marched in a body later to the barracks of the First Artillery, known to be ardent partisans of the Republican Party. In response to the clamors of the mob, the Artillery Men Mutined. They made their officers prisoners, opened the magazine, and fired at the barracks with four field guns and all available arms and ammunition. They entrenched themselves in the commanding position on the heights of the Park Praca da Marques Pombal. They were supported by constantly re-arriving revolutionaries in the Avenida Da Libertada. The news of the rising was rapidly communicated to other disaffected centres in the city and then in accordance with a pre-arranged plan, the communication of the Capital with the outer world was cut. The infantry in barracks in the north east of the city soon followed the example of the artillery, the col-

Senor Fonseca, President elect of Brazil, all ignorant of the storm.
Chaos Reigned Among the Royalists. There was nobody capable or willing to assume command. Not until six o'clock Tuesday morning did a colonel of the general staff arrive in Lisbon to take charge of the operations. He journeyed from Cascaes in an automobile, lent to him by a British resident. In the meantime insurgent naval officers came ashore and took command of the rebel soldiers which they broke through the royalist lines and joined the rebels. There was considerable desultory firing during the night, but no plan of an offensive nature on the part of the Monarchists, who relying mistakenly on the fidelity of the troops, hoped to cove the rebels in the morning. Measures were taken, however, to ensure the safety of the King. Troops and guns were held in the streets bordering the palace. At 3 o'clock Tuesday morning a body of rebel troops with a mob of armed civilians tried to capture the palace.
The Royalists Moved Them Down With Machine Guns. Many mutineers were captured while the remainder fled in disorder. At sunrise the sailors in the marine barracks at Alcantara hoisted the Republican flag. They sent out detachments of sharpshooters to snipe the troops guarding the palace. This resulted in many casualties. At the same time three warships lying in the Bay hoisted the Republican flag. The crews cheered and firing a salute to the Capital was now like a city of the dead, no traffic was moving, and there was no sign of a living soul. The two Republican cruisers weighed anchor and steamed across the Bay within range of the Don Pedro, whose guns were silent. This scene was watched breathlessly by those on board the Brazilian battleship, San Paulo, and the other foreign vessels. The crews of the other rebel vessels cheered vociferously, while the crews sailed to begin the work of destruction. Bringing up on Alcantara, barracks they opened fire on the Palace at a range of 1,000 yards. They were free from interruption, because the marine barracks were already in the hands of the Republicans. The troops surrounding the palace could not or would not bring their guns to fire on the cruisers whose shells were carried away the flaxstaff flying the Royal Ensign, amid the cheers of the crowds. Other shots struck the upper wing of the palace, but many went wide and demolished houses on both sides of the palace, whence the occupants, foreseeing bombardment had already fled, otherwise there would have been a considerable loss of life. The Republican gunnery was not remarkable for accuracy. According to reports the King and his advisers were in a state bordering on panic. They remained when many of the King's entourage fled.
The King Conducted Himself Bravely and Coolly. He wanted to stay at all costs, urging that his flight would be the worst possible course. Finally he yielded to the imperative pleading of his friends and quitted the palace in an automobile and took the shelter of a smile. He still insisted that he would still remain at Lisbon, and offered to go into the thickest of the fighting. He was moved to do this, especially, as the rebels early Tuesday presented him with a bombastic ultimatum demanding his abdication before 6 o'clock. The King proved himself to be plucky. He bitterly resented such unheroic flight, but his life was in danger and his scruples were over-ruled. He found shelter near his palace.

And Later Left the Capital. On land fierce artillery fighting proceeded all day along in the Avenida Da Libertada, the handsomest thoroughfare in Lisbon. Between the Royalists at the south end, and the insurgents at the other end. The rebels mounted guns which enabled them to sweep the avenue and the tree-lined promenade, to direct their fire to the right and left. For the most part the Royalists had two large hospitals in the hotels, lowered themselves from the windows in the rear to the ground, and took refuge in stables, where they remained for two days subsisting on bread and fruit, and sleeping on straw. They included several Englishmen and one American. Night brought but a short truce. The Royalists took advantage of the darkness and drew still tighter their investing cordon, for in spite of the considerable losses Tuesday's firing favoured the Monarchists. At nightfall, Tuesday, both sides were hopeful and confident of the success. The Foreign Minister declared that the repression of the revolt was a question of only a few hours. Four Republican leaders, "now ministers," had headquarters in a chemist's shop. They were equally sanguine. They said, "We will win it not to-day then to-morrow."

Special Evening Telegram.
OPORTO, Oct. 7. The Republican Government has been definitely established here without a struggle. The populace with unanimity read the proclamation enthusiastically. The general commanding the local division of the troops obeyed the instructions of the Provisional Government.

PRESIDENT'S STATEMENT.
Lisbon, Oct. 7th.—The President of the Provisional Government has issued a statement, setting forth the purposes of the present government. He says that the maintenance of order is completely assured; there is a general adherence to the Govt. in the provinces; the enthusiasm of the public is unparalleled; the Provisional government has before it a great duty, involving much work; it has, in effect, a country to make over. Concerning our programme, I can say that we will endeavour to put in operation the programme of the Republican Party. This includes a policy of the decent recognition, both in local administration and in the Government, of the Republic. The financial budget is to be equalized in the general interests of the country, and will be made up with honesty and fairness, and the nation's wealth will be developed. All national alliances, now existing, will be respected, and friendly relations with all other States are desired. The freedom of the Press will be asserted, and all Star Chamber and opportunistic laws will be abolished. Public institutions will be completely secularized and relieved from religious control. Religious congregations will be suppressed. We shall establish a free and broad system of public instruction, both primary and advanced, under Government endowment. Reorganization of the Navy will be proceeded with. The Government has a profound respect for public opinion, and approaches its task with the high resolve to perform its duties with unflinching honesty.

MANUEL WELCOMED.
Gibraltar, Oct. 7th.—The Portuguese Royal Family remained to-day upon the Imperial yacht, from the mainmast of which flies a white burgee, with a green cross. Sir Archibald Hunter, British Governor-General of Gibraltar, accompanied by his official staff, boarded the yacht, and formally welcomed King Manuel to British shores.

BRITISH HOSPITALITY.
London, Oct. 7th.—The general expectation is that the Portuguese King Manuel, and the Queen Mother, will find permanent refuge in England. It is believed that the Royal Family will be offered quarters at Gibraltar, one of the official residence being placed at their disposal.

CIVIL WAR FEARED.
Vigo, Spain, Oct. 7th.—It is believed here that Civil War will break out in the North of Portugal, where the Republicans have few partisans.

JESUITS KILLED.
Paris, Oct. 7th.—A special despatch to the Journal says that a party of Portuguese revolutionists attacked the Jesuit convent at Campolita. Several Jesuits were killed. Despatches in the Paris newspapers tell of the proclaiming of the new Portuguese Republic in several cities throughout the Provinces. It is evident, however, that the Republicans have not been completely victorious; and that the resistance of the Monarchists has not yet been overcome at most points.

Truckmen Complain.

Some of the members of the Truckmen's Union complain that certain owners of mercantile firms are doing private job work on the streets also. This is a violation of the Truckmen's Union rules, and if not stopped will be brought before the Council.

Farewell Dinner to Mr. L. G. Chafe.

The fellow employees of Mr. L. G. Chafe, of the Royal Stores, Ltd., gave a farewell dinner to him last evening at Woods West End Restaurant, which proved one of the most successful held here for some time past. Mr. Chafe had completed almost his twentieth year with Messrs. Macpherson, and was a general favourite among the boys.

The toast list was short and very appropriate. In proposing the health of the Royal Stores, Mr. Chafe paid a high tribute to his employers whom he served for twenty years, and he felt the parting keenly. Mr. Salter, replying on behalf of the Stores, regretted the loss of his friend, Mr. Chafe, with whom he had worked side by side for thirteen years or more, and hoped he would continue to prosper in his new sphere.

A surprise greeted Mr. Chafe, when Mr. Salter, on behalf of the Royal Stores Management presented him with a handsome Morris Chair accompanied with a very pleasant note, as an appreciation for his valued services to the firm for twenty years. Another very pleasing duty the chairman announced he had to perform was to present an Address and a beautiful engraved Walking Stick to the Boys of the Store, his companions as a reminder of the many happy days spent together. Mr. Chafe very suitably responded in each case.

The Chair was occupied by Mr. J. W. Penny, who by the way, is getting an old hand at this sort of business, and knows his duties thoroughly. Songs and recitation were given by Messrs. P. K. MacLeod, F. Skelborne, J. E. Hiral, L. G. Chafe, and Ed. Harvey. The following is the Toast List:

"The King"—prop. The Chairman.
Song—Mr. Hiral.
"Our Guest"—prop. J. W. Penny; resp. L. G. Chafe.
Recitation—P. McLeod.
"The Royal Stores, Ltd."—prop. L. G. Chafe; resp. A. H. Salter.
Song—Mr. Frank A. Skelborne.
"Newfoundland"—prop. J. W. Penny; resp. Mr. N. Morris.
Recitation—Mr. Crocker.
"Our Chairman"—prop. W. Bindon; resp. The Chairman.
Song—Mr. L. G. Chafe.
"The Ladies"—prop. Mr. G. B. Tuff; resp. Mr. Ed. Harvey.

ANOTHER BLACKLISTER.—To-day a fisherman of Field Street was added to the black list and the police will notify the licensed houses. There are now 96 on the list.

Naval News Notes.

The Cruiser Niobe, which has been purchased by the Canadian Government from the Admiralty will be off this coast on Saturday next the 15th inst. and it is not at all unlikely, may call here. She is of far larger tonnage than the Cornwall, has four funnels and it will be remembered was here with the fleet which accompanied the Ophir, when their Majesties King George and Queen Mary, visited this city a few years ago.

The H. M. S. Brillante which is now 20 years in commission, will be leaving here one month hence, and after calling at Halifax will sail for Bermuda. It is possible that she may be superseded by a gunboat next season.

The H. M. S. Cornwall will sail on Monday for Prince Edwards Island, thence to Halifax and afterwards to Bermuda. She will then cross to Gibraltar and go up the Mediterranean, visiting Salonika, Smyrna, and ports in Greece and Turkey.

Supreme Court.

(Before Chief Justice.)
Thomas J. Foran vs. Michael L. Parrell et al.
This is an action for an account of the dealings of the defendants with certain timber areas in which the plaintiff was interested with the defendants, and the proceeds of the sale thereof and for the payment of the amount found to be due by said account. Mr. Kent, K.C., for plaintiff, the Attorney General for defendants.

Mr. Kent states that the parties have settled the action. The defendants agreed to pay $250 and costs to be taxed. The sum of $250 has been paid, but the costs have not yet been paid. He asks that an order be made accordingly. It is ordered accordingly.

STELLA MARIS RETURNING.—Mr. Piccott had a wire last evening from Capt. Wm. Winsor stating that the ship was at Battle Harbor on her way south, and that coming up the coast she would likely call at Quirpon. There she will take on board the crew of the scho. Welcome, which was dismissed in the recent rough weather, and bring them home.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir—I hope I have made it pretty clear that whatever pollution Windsor Lake may have suffered in the past could hardly arise from the leakage of any sewage matter into its waters from any houses or farms upon the shore. But I am not satisfied to rest my case upon the inherent improbability of the theories of my opponents; I propose to undertake the affirmative of the issue and to show not only how the pollution very likely might have occurred, but how it actually did occur. A variety of circumstances contributed to produce the condition of degeneration in which Professor Starkey found our water supply two years ago, and some of these circumstances have been in operation, with more or less activity, ever since the waters of Windsor Lake were first conducted into the town. Everyone who has ever been in the habit of visiting the Pond must have observed how very variable is the level of its waters at different seasons and in different years. This variability is, of course, chiefly attributable to the different degrees of moisture or dryness occurring in different seasons, but not wholly so. For some years previous to the dry year of 1908 operations in connection with the new system of water supply had been in progress, and one effect of these operations was, now to raise and now to lower the normal level of the water in the Lake. The consequence of this continued change of level is most obvious, particularly when it is remembered that no pains have ever been taken to clear the shore between low water and high water mark of vegetation. When the level of the Pond was raised, a considerable quantity of growing vegetation would necessarily be drowned; when the level fell this lifeless vegetable matter would naturally corrupt and decay. Some portion of it would have floated into the Pond with the rise of the water, there to decompose, while the remainder would undergo its first process of decomposition on the bank and be washed into the Pond gradually by succeeding showers of rain or by successive rises in the level of the water. All this would contribute organic matter in a state of complete or partial decay to the waters we drink. Some of it would dissolve rapidly and pass through the pipes, while the more solid particles would become water-logged, sink to the bottom and, as time went on, form a body of sediment liable under favourable conditions to putrefy further and found culture-beds for the propagation of mischievous germs. This is the more rapid stage of the process of pollution, but we must not fail to take account of the more gradual but not less important stage which has been in uninterrupted activity for fifty years and more. Leaves fall into the Pond, and the droppings of birds. These supplies of organic matter seem trivial when compared with the great volume of water into which they fall, but their accumulation in the course of a long series of years is very considerable, and their gradual decay and corruption provide a source of infection which needs only the arrival of the favourable opportunity to make it breed disease. As the Lake has practically only one outlet for its waters, namely through the water-pipes, the drift or current of the Lake must be almost uniformly in the one direction, that is towards the intake of the water supply system. The consequence of this is that the accumulation of sediment gradually, in the course of years, drift down the Lake towards the reservoir, and there, where the water is shallower, they form a bed of organic matter ready to putrefy and breed germs when the opportunity arises. This is no hypothesis or theory, it must be understood; it is demonstrable and demonstrated fact. Such an accumulation of vegetable and animal matter did occur, and it assumed such large dimensions that it began to fill up the very intake of the water system. And then, when everything was ready for the development of germs on a huge scale, along comes a season of quite unprecedented drought. The water falls lower and lower in the Pond, the mud-bank grows nearer and nearer to the surface, until at last the incumbent water becomes so shallow that every strong wind is able to stir up the mud, expose its particles to the action of the heat and the lifeless water, and soon we have a hot-bed for the culture of all the germs which Professor Starkey subsequently found there. If this were all, we still would have a sufficient explanation of the presence and activity of disease germs in our water, but there is much more than this. This accumulation of mud at the intake became so evident and so manifestly dangerous that the authorities determined, for the first time, so far as I can discover, in fifty years, to diminish the evil. It was, of course, the worst of all possible times to make a clearance of the festering mass of decaying and decayed matter, for any interference then only meant the scattering of the pollution further and exposing a larger body of matter to the process of infection. Still, it was decided that something must be done. And what was done? Hundreds of tons of this stinking, polluted matter were removed from the intake, removed in a net, dry, stagnant season when every circumstance favourable to the production and spread of bacteria was in active operation. Is it any wonder that bacteria were found in the water taken from the Lake under such conditions? It would be wonderful indeed if none were found. It is merely we cannot too gratefully appreciate that more, and more dangerous, bacteria did not breed and infect our whole water supply. Such a wholesale disturbance of this bed of fetid mud of course succeeded in disseminating the germs throughout the whole extent of the Pond, and the stagnant condition of the water, with no new influx from rains or springs to vivify the lifelessness produced from the drought, was wholly favourable to the spread of disease germs all over the Pond. And that is just what happened. But, as Professor Starkey was not informed of the prevailing drought, so he was not informed of this extraordinary removal and disturbance of the accumulated fifth of the Pond. Not knowing the abnormal circumstances existing, he was wholly justified in assuming that the condition of the water submitted to him was normal, and therefore it is that he made the report which I have been endeavouring to analyse. No man can be blamed for coming to a wrong decision if the facts have been inaccurately reported to him, and this is Professor Starkey's case. The true state of our affairs was withheld from him, and if his report does not fit the facts as we know them, it is no reproach to the man from whom the facts were concealed. If, then, this pollution did not come from sewage flowing into the Pond and if it did come from contamination within the borders of the Pond itself, how can any reserve around the Pond be any protection to the consumers of Windsor Lake water? Under such circumstances I think I am justified in declaring that the creation of this reserve does not in the least degree offer us any security from future pollution, and that the expense which is about to be incurred is when considered in relation to the general pollution of the town, wholly indefensible. I may add one circumstance to what I said in my last letter. I refrained from mentioning it at the time because I was not certain of its truth. I am certified of it now, and I therefore state it. The land on which the house stands where the typhoid patient died, the house which nevertheless did not infect the Pond with a single typhoid germ, is part of that property which the Council proposes to purchase and throw into the Reserve. Having proved that no infection can run into the Lake from that particular house, it is only to be expected of this Council that this is the house which should immediately be purchased in order to save the town from any danger of infection. This is another "vindication of the Council."

GLAD TIDINGS FROM NOVA SCOTIA.

SURE RELIEF FOR SUFFERING WOMEN IS FOUND IN DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.
Miss Kathleen Murphy, tells how she suffered and how easy and complete was her cure by the great Canadian Kidney Remedy.

Tangier Mines, Halifax Co. N. S.—(Special).—There is no longer any doubt that of the thousands of suffering women of Canada, nine out of every ten owe their troubles to Kidney Disease. For that reason it is glad tidings that Miss Kathleen Murphy of this place is sending out to her suffering sisters.
"My troubles started from a cold," says Miss Murphy in an interview. "I had pains in my head and back, and Rheumatism and Diabetes finally developed.
"When I started to take Dodd's Kidney Pills and they cleared out my Rheumatism, cured my Kidney Disease and brought back my health. I would not be without Dodd's Kidney Pills for I have given them a thorough test and found them to be all that is claimed for them."
The secret of health for women is to keep the kidneys strong and healthy. Healthy kidneys mean pure blood, abundant energy and a clear, healthy complexion. The one sure way to keep the kidneys healthy is to use Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Water For South Side.

The new reservoir for the South Side, built of concrete, was finished yesterday and is capable of holding 800 gallons of water. The work of constructing it was under the supervision of Inspector Bambrick, and an excellent job he and his men have made of it. The reservoir supplies a long-felt want. The water is taken from a sparkling spring situated on the hillside and brought through a 40 foot pipe to the reservoir, which is near the street, and is fitted with a proper tap for the convenience of the residents, who are delighted with it, as it saves them the labor of going up the hill for a supply for household use. The reservoir is covered to keep the water from contamination and a waste pipe is fitted to it to take off surplus water in case of an overflow. The Council is to be congratulated on this improvement on the South Side.

NEWFOUNDLAND.

United States and the Pulp Trade. St. John's, Sept. 21.—The Government of the United States has lost no time in opening up communication with Newfoundland, with a view to a reciprocal trade treaty. Almost before the text of the Hague award in the fishery dispute had arrived in the island, Mr. Pepper, the United States tariff expert, paid a visit here to discuss the matter with Sir Edward Morris. He made himself acquainted with full details of the pulp-making resources of Newfoundland before his departure. It is anticipated that in return for concessions in the United States tariff, the authorities at Washington will formulate proposals for the abrogation of the regulation compelling the pulp mills to manufacture their paper in this country, and allow the pulp to be exported to the States on a low tariff basis.

Export of Pulp. The restrictions here and in Canada on the export of the raw material for paper have been severely felt in the United States, and there is no doubt that the paper merchants there are putting strong pressure on the government in order to effect a relaxation.—Standard of Empire.

Big Ore Shipments.

The s.s. Hektor left Bell Island yesterday morning for Philadelphia taking 6,500 tons of ore. More is being sent to the Quaker City and also to German ports from Wabana than ever before, and taken all round the Wabana output this year, it is thought, will be the largest on record and greatly in excess of last year, which was the best in the history of the mine. The employment afforded at Bell Island is having the effect of greatly improving the condition of the people of several parts of Conception Bay and especially of those who live on the South Shore.

Could'nt Get Cargo.

The little English schooner, Young Fox arrived here last night from Comfort Bight, Labrador, where she could only get 400 qtls. of fish instead of the cargo which she went for. She was chartered by J. W. Hiscock, Brigus, to load at Labrador for Europe, but could not get sufficient fish to do so. She was 7 days on the run up, and had to shelter at Foggo out of the stormy weather which prevailed. She will finish her cargo here.

Itching Piles For 27 Yrs.

Despair of ever getting relief until cure came 3 years ago with use of DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT.
Mr. John Johnson, Cavley, Alta. writes: "Three years ago I was cured of blind, itching piles of twenty-seven years' standing by using Dr. Chase's Ointment. I used to think that death would be the only relief I could ever get from the terrible misery of piles. Dr. Chase's Ointment is worth sixty dollars a box instead of six cents. I am a different man since using it. I am farming all the time now and never miss a day. Words fail to express my gratitude for the cure this Ointment made for me. I cannot tell half as much about it as it deserves. Any one doubting this can write direct to me."
Do not accept an imitation or substitute in place of Dr. Chase's Ointment, for there has yet to be discovered a treatment which so promptly gives relief from itching and so thoroughly cures every form of piles. 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto. Write for a free copy of Dr. Chase's Recipes.

K-K-K-Komplikations.

With the international complications on his mind, the Foreign Secretary, completely worn out, tumbled into bed.
He was just dozing off, when the front door-bell pealed.
"A reporter, Sir," announced a footman. "Will you see him?"
"I suppose so!" sighed the Foreign Secretary. And, rising, he slipped on his dressing gown and slippers and descended to the library.
The reporter was a mere youth; but, though shivering with cold, the Foreign Secretary dictated two columns about the reasons for the compromise he had arrived at with a neighbouring Power. Then, satisfied that he had done his duty, he showed the youthful reporter to the door.
"G-g-good-night!" he said, with chattering teeth. "You might let me have half a d-d-dezen copies of the paper in the m-m-morning."
"Oh, this isn't for any paper!" said the reporter.
"What?" cried the Minister. "What the d-d-deuce is it for, then?"
"Why, you see," explained the youth, "I belong to the new School of Journalism, and this is a test interview."

Will Be No Holiday.

The Importers Association held a meeting at Bowring's office last night to discuss the question of keeping the stores closed on October 31st, the date of the Industrial Exhibition. They decided they would not do so.

PURITY FLOUR

And Its Keeping Qualities

SOME people find it necessary to buy a considerable quantity of flour at one time—sufficient to last for a long period. Naturally they are anxious to procure a flour of the kind best adapted to lengthy storage.

There are two important reasons why PURITY FLOUR possesses these qualities. One is that it is made entirely from Manitoba Hard Wheat. The other lies in the fact that the careful milling necessary to produce "Purity" absolutely excludes all low-grade particles of the wheat berry. It's the high grade Manitoba Hard Wheat Flour that keeps—stands longest storage. That's "Purity."

"Purity" flour may cost a little more, but is more than worth the difference. Try it. Watch results both for quality and yield.
