Make Your Own Cough Syrup and Save Money

Better than the ready-made kind. Easily prepared at home.

The finest cough syrup that money can buy—costing only about one-fifth as much as ready-made preparations—can easily be made up at home. The way it takes hold and conquers distressing coughs, throat and chest colds will really make you enthusiastic about it. Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth). Pour this into a 16-oz. bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Shake thoroughly and it is ready for use. The total cost is about 55 cents and gives you 16 ounces—a family supply—of a most effective pleasant tasting remedy. It keeps perfectly. It's truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating through every air passage of the throat and lungs—loosens and raises the phlegm, soothes and heals the inflamed or swollen throat membranes, and gradually but surely the annoying throat tickle and dreaded cough will disappear entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, spasmodic croup, whooping cough or bronchial asthma. Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

CHAPTER XXVI.

She does not speak, but her hands unclasp and clasp again nervously. He sighs, and passes his hand over his forehead. "Of course you know," he goes on; "it would be worse than affectation to pretend that you did not. But, Dulcie, don't think that I mean to worry you. I am going, that you should not be worried. I know that all the time I have been here I have worried and annoyed you, and I can't do more than go, can I?"

She is silent still; and waiting a moment, he goes on: "As I am going for good, it doesn't matter if I speak out; it is for the last time. I sha'n't worry you again, Dulcie. When I think of how I have persecuted you I feel ashamed of myself—I do, indeed, and I ask you to forgive me. But, Dulcie, when a man loves as I love you, he clings to hope when there is no hope left—not even the shadow of it; and I know that there is no hope left for me; your eyes told me so this evening. But, oh, Dulcie! I wish that it could have been otherwise; for—for—" the poor fellow's voice breaks—"I have loved and I do love you dearly, most dearly. I think I shall always love you until the power of loving has left me."

Dulcie does not speak, but her hands, tightly clasped, tremble. He puts the white hand, slim and white indeed, but firm and strong as steel, to his lips nervously.

"Don't ever doubt my love, Dulcie," he goes on. "I may have seemed light and foolish—as I am—but I have loved you as dearly and truly as a better man could do—as the best of them," he adds, with emphasis. "From the first I have always feared that I should lose you. I was never worthy of you, never worthy of a thought; but I could not help loving you for all that. And—and, Dulcie, though your love is not for me, and I shall never see you again, or if I do shall only meet you and be to you just what any other man is, I do wish that you may be happy—yes! though some one else may win and wear what I so long for, I wish you every happiness."

He stops for a moment, and if there are no tears in his eyes, Dulcie's are dim.

"And—and I think that is all," he says; then suddenly his voice breaks into a passionate prayer. "Ah, Dulcie, if you had but loved me, how happy I could have made you! Not a moment of my life but I would have spent in striving to make your life joyous and free from care. Oh, Dulcie, my darling!" and he kneels beside her with outstretched hands, "if you would but trust me! Believe me, that such love as mine must win the day! The coldest heart could not withstand it for long, much less your gentle, tender heart. Dulcie, if you would but trust me! See, I do not ask you to love me; only let me hope—only give me a chance. I know there's something in the past comes between us, but I am not afraid of that! I can face the past, if you will but give me hope in the future. Dulcie, trust me!" and in the intensity of his passionate entreaty he takes her hands in his.

"Trust me, Dulcie! trust yourself to my love!"

With a gesture, whose grace and abandon are inexpressible, she turns to him.

"I do—I will trust you!" she says. "I am not worthy of your love! I do not think any woman breathing is worthy of it. But if you will accept me, all unworthily—"

He is speechless for a moment, until the full sense of her meaning dawns upon him, then he clasps her in his arms.

"Dulcie! Is it true?"

Then he remembers himself, and bends his head humbly before her.

"Forgive me! I know what you mean; but it seems too good to be true! You will try and love me?"

"Try!" she echoes, trembling. "I will—yes, I will love you!"

"My darling!" he murmurs, but he does not venture to embrace her, scarcely to touch her, lest a touch should break the dream, and he should find himself outside Paradise again. "Dulcie—I—what can I say? Ah, if you knew what I feel!"

"Perhaps I do," she murmurs, a faint smile hovering about her lips, her eyes shyly raised to the handsome face, made beautiful by the passion that transfigures it.

"No, darling!" he says, almost solemnly. "That is impossible." "Not yet! But you will know, for if I live I will teach you to love me!" and he draws nearer to her. "Yes, Dulcie, if I live, I will teach you to forget the past, and live only for me!"

And, as he speaks, he bends his head, golden in the candle-light, and presses his lips to her hand.

"Something—is it pity or what?—moves her, and she bends over him until her lips touch his forehead. But even then he dare not kiss her lips.

Something within him, the innate nobleness of his nature, whispers, "Not yet!"

CHAPTER XVII.

As Dulcie bent forward and kissed the golden hair of her devoted lover, Lady Brookley opened the door gently, but, catching a glimpse of the pair, discreetly, and with a joyous and delighted countenance, withdrew again, closing the door with the greatest care.

CHAPTER LXXXXXIV.

"Everyone said She could not live!"

—she was so severely burned," said Mrs. Archie Bruhm of West Northfield, N.S., of her little daughter, whose clothes caught fire while she was playing at a board game.

"As soon as the accident occurred I spread Zam-Buk on cotton cloths and applied it to the burns. At first she suffered agonies, but soon Zam-Buk began to relieve her, and gradually it drew out all the pain and soreness. We persevered with the balm, and it completely healed the burns."

Although Zam-Buk is so splendid for such serious burns as this, it is just as necessary for the little burns which are of far more frequent occurrence—the burns sustained while ironing, opening the oven door, handling a stove fire, striking a match, or a scald from the kettle or boiling fat.

As soon as the injury is sustained smear on a little Zam-Buk. You will be amazed how quickly the pain disappears and healing begins. Every house-keeper should keep a box on hand for emergencies.

For cuts, bruises, sore lips, chapped hands and chilblains Zam-Buk is indispensable, and nothing can equal its healing power in cases of eczema, ringworm, scalp sores, ulcers, abscesses, bad legs, boils, pimples, old sores, blood-poisoning and piles. ITALIAN NEW LINE.

Italian Headquarters, Nov. 12.—The concentration of the Italian army is now virtually an accomplished fact, trenches and gun emplacements have been made ready and the whole vast organization is preparing for the battle which is not far off. The men are in good spirits, and a feeling of determination prevails in all ranks. The retirement of that part of the Italian forces in the Carnic district of Northern Venetia, has completed the Italian main force, which now presents a compact line extending about twenty miles along the new river defences to the sea. The Allies are represented on the new front by some British batteries from the Carso. The presence of Allied forces is regarded as of highest importance for its moral effect on the Italian troops.

HOLDING AUSTRIO-GERMANS.

Italian Headquarters in Northern Italy, Nov. 12 (By Associated Press).—The Italians are holding the Austro-German advance on the Piave line. Early reports from the front to-day were favorable. Heavy shelling is in progress along the new front.

A SINGLE FRONT.

PARIS, Nov. 12. A single front, a single army, a single nation, that is the programme requisite for future victory, said Premier Painleve at a luncheon to-day in honor of Lloyd George, the British Premier, who just returned from the Italian war zone, and Signor Baroni, the Italian Minister of Education. If after all the lesson of the war has taught us the Allies were not capable of that sacred international union, then in spite of their sacrifices they would not be worthy of victory.

IN NORTHERN ITALY.

Italian Headquarters in Northern Italy, Nov. 12.—Italians are entrenched back of the west bank of the Piave River, and the Austro-German main forces are now taking the place of the advanced guard on the east bank. The strip of water between the opposing lines is about a half mile, widening at some places to a mile. An observer just back from a tour along the line told our correspondent that the cannonade had been continuous. The Austrians are using five inch guns, not yet having brought up many of their heavy pieces. The enemy is turning his fire against the high Campanola and bell towers of the villages fringing the western bank to prevent the Italian artillery from using them as observation posts. The Italian artillery reply is spirited from the considerable number of guns they succeeded bringing back from the old front. The battle front has two main sections—the lower extends from Feltrino to the sea, and the upper from Feltrino westward. Vidor Bridge, where the last Italian rearguard crossed the Piave is half way down the lower sector. Near Feltrino the river turns into the mountains with the valley and railway on the west bank. The enemy is on the west bank in this mountain region and may attempt to come down the valley and along the railway. The Italians have no advantage, however, of defence at this point, but they have strongly entrenched themselves. The fight at Asiago was clearly a feeler to test the strength of the Italian line. Snow is falling in the upper regions and a severe cold spell prevails.

STREET FIGHTING IN PETROGRAD.

PETROGRAD, Nov. 12. Street fighting is proceeding constantly. The junkers loyal to the Kerensky Government regained possession of the telephone station this morning. The exact whereabouts of the Kerensky army, reported to be approaching to the city, is unknown at this hour 3 p.m.

BACK TO LONDON.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12. The announcement was made here to-day that Lord Northcliffe and Lord Reading, who spent some time in the United States on missions, had arrived in England. It was said that Lord Northcliffe had gone to attend the Allied Conference at London, and afterwards would return to this country to carry on his work here.

ANGER PRACTICALLY PAST.

Italian Headquarters, Nov. 12.—The enemy's operations on the north and east, in an attempt of encirclement of the Italian left wing, is practically past.

HOPES U.S. WILL PARTICIPATE.

LONDON, Nov. 12. Andrew Bonar Law said in the Commons to-day it was hoped the United States would participate in the deliberations of the Inter-Allied War Council which would meet at Versailles once a month or more oftener with a view to better co-ordination of military action.

CANADA'S VICTORY LOAN.

OTTAWA, Nov. 12. The first subscription to the victory loan received by the financial department, was received from the Duke of Devonshire. His subscription was sent direct to the department this morning. The amount was not given out. Reports received at the department show the loan was given a splendid start to-day in every part of the Dominion.

WITH THE CANADIANS.

Canadian Headquarters in France, Nov. 12. (By W. A. Wilson, Special Correspondent of the Canadian Press).—During an intense artillery fire last Saturday, two counter attacks were launched by the enemy against our line. The first was broken up by our artillery which swept the assembly area, inflicting heavy casualties, while the second attack, though further advanced was equally unsuccessful. The attacking forces being driven off with heavy losses by our artillery, machine gun and rifle fire. Since then the enemy has made no further infantry attempt against our lines. The prisoners captured pay tribute to our artillery fire of the 10th, the men of the third battalion, 114th regiment, reporting that their battalion suffered tremendous losses and were withdrawn from the line after experiencing twelve hours' shelling. Enemy aircraft have been unusually active dropping bombs on our forward and back areas, machine-gunning our troops in line and worrying carrying parties. Fights between our own and the enemy machines have been frequent, and despite the strongest of his air patrols, one of our machines after six ineffective attempts to cross the line in order to reconnoitre enemy positions, succeeded, despite repeated attacks. Increasing disorganization among the enemy forces is indicated in statements made by captured prisoners, while the decline in morale of officers is unquestioned. One officer states that when we attacked Saturday all the other officers of his battalion ran back to shelter some 300 yards behind the front line, leaving the warrant officers, N.C.O.'s and men to carry on. In another instance no less than eleven officers were captured in one day-out during our advance. With such conduct from those commanding them, N.C.O.'s and men have very little confidence in their officers, and growing discontent is reported among the rank and file. State-mustered prisoners lean to the conclusion that the whole fabric of the German arms is held together by little more than iron discipline. Reserve battalions in Germany are stated to be almost empty, picked men and experienced instructors having been sent to the Italian front and the remaining available men in draughts to the western front.

TROOPS AND MATERIALS ARRIVE IN TRENTINO.

PARIS, Nov. 12. A Havas despatch from Rome reports that a large number of troops and great quantities of war material continue to arrive in the Trentino and Tyrol.

NOTHING DOING.

LONDON, Nov. 12. Beyond the usual artillery activity on both sides of the battle area, there is nothing of special interest to report, says to-day's war office announcement.

OFFERING ADVICE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12. At the Conference here to-day members of the special mission of the British Munitions Ministry addressed representatives of local and district exemption boards and women interested in industrial questions. Sir Stephenson Kent and Capt. Cyril Asquith talked on conscription, congratulating this country for having adopted it at the outset and addressed the Board members as to handling the draft. They also explained the labor distribution and the agreement as practiced in Britain with satisfactory results. The women were addressed on industrial questions by Commissioners Balfie and Garrod.

IN PALESTINE.

British Headquarters in Egypt, via Reuter's Ottawa Agency, Nov. 12. Each day adds to the magnitude and importance of our success at this front. Each hour adds to the toll of our captures while our pursuit has already carried us nearly thirty miles north of Gaza. Indeed reports have been received showing that confusion and almost panic exists many miles in the rear of the present Turkish positions, but it would be unwise to speculate on these evidences of their security. The only place where the enemy showed stubbornness was at Herish, north of Wade-Hesi, where they delivered six determined counter attacks against the Scotch troops who were driven back slightly on the left, but recovered their trenches shortly afterwards. The Imperial Service Cavalry also had a sharp brush. After driving the enemy back at both hands the latter made a desperate effort to get away a long naval gun, but both the crew and team were shot down and the gun was captured, and twenty-two prisoners. The main body of the Turks retreated north, but smaller parties like a cover of partridge scattered in various directions. These are being gradually rounded up.

THE SITUATION IN PETROGRAD.

PETROGRAD, Sunday, Nov. 11. Military cadets or junkers, encouraged by the reported proximity to the capital of the forces of Premier Kerensky, made an ineffectual attempt to-day to regain control of the city. This resulted in almost constant street fighting in some quarters. The cadets surprised a small guard of Bolsheviks at the central telephone exchange and backed by armored motor cars forced the Bolsheviks to surrender. Until nearly dusk the Grand Novskas was the scene of a battle between Bolshevik troops and cadets to the number of about 100, who were firing from windows and supported by a machine gun in an armored car in the street in front of the building. The cadets surrendered when they had exhausted their ammunition. On Novsky Prospect the cadets with an armored car also tried to make a stand and precipitated another battle, in which most of them were killed or made prisoners. The cadets apparently were some of those who were defending the Winter Palace on Wednesday night, and who were allowed their liberty by the Bolshevik troops after the surrender of the Palace. In spite of the sporadic firing, crowds filled Novsky Prospect, rushing to cover when it became necessary, but otherwise going about as though nothing unusual were happening. All the streets leading into Novskal in the vicinity of the telephone station contained a crowd of curious people, who fled at every outburst of shooting, but returned to their posts of observation when lulls occurred. It is believed that there were many victims of the fighting in Novskal. From the windows of the Associated Press headquarters, situated half block distant, an officer was observed to fall in the street, apparently dead. An onlooker hiding in a doorway was struck by a glancing bullet and wounded in the arm. Ambulances were kept busy. New proclamations both by Bolsheviks and adherents of Kerensky, appeared at intervals throughout the day. They called on the people and troops to support this or that side, and attracted crowds wherever posted. It is reported that one of the proclamations, signed by Kerensky, and dated Gatchina, was dropped from an aeroplane.

ITALIANS CUT OFF.

BERLIN, Nov. 12. The Austro-German forces in northern Italy have cut off ten thousand retreating Italians in the Upper Piave Valley, the war office announced. The Italians are said to have surrendered.

HONOLULU IN MOURNING.

HONOLULU, Nov. 12. The Island territory was in mourning to-day over the death of former Queen Liliuokalani, the last of the native monarchs. The body will lie in state in Kawaiaho church until its removal next Sunday to the throne room of the palace where the funeral will take place. All traditional royal funeral observances are to be revived.

FEARS REALIZED.

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 12. A bloody encounter has taken place near Gatchina between soldiers from the front headed by Premier Kerensky and the Bolshevik forces from Petrograd, according to advices which have reached Ira Nelson Morris, American Minister, from reliable sources. The result of the battle was not reported to Mr. Morris.

CHAOS IN RUSSIA.

LONDON, Nov. 12. A Reuter despatch from Stockholm says that travellers arriving on the frontier from Russia report that the attempt of Nikolai Lenin to form a Cabinet in Petrograd failed, that the Foreign Office officials refused to accept Leon Trotsky as Foreign Minister, that in Moscow another government has been proclaimed and that it is feared there will be much bloodshed. In Finland, travellers are reported as saying the situation is desperate. Anarchy is on the increase and acts of violence and even murder committed on the streets by Maximists are a frequent occurrence.

The War.

Lloyd George can dismiss any qualms he feels about the brutality of his very frank statement—confession, it would be more just to call it. He should lavish his regrets, as he doubtless does, on the fact that he was not thus brutal months, even years, ago. It is a melancholy story, this which he tells of the Allies defeated and put off time after time by their own stupidity. Who could not tell in advance the dire consequences of Serbia's overwhelming? Yet the Allies allowed her to be overwhelmed, because it was nobody's business to go to her help! And so with Roumania next year. And so, as far as the Piave River, with Italy this. The manner in which the Allies have in each case followed Germany's moves, too late to foil them, reminds us forcibly of a passage in a speech of Demosthenes, in which he endeavours to lash the Athenians into action against Philip and shows the consequences of their irresolution. "You fight," he says, "as the barbarian boxer. Hit him in one place, there go his hands. Hit him in another place, there go his hands again. He follows your blows about and does everything but the right thing, which is to look you in the face." The Allies' strategy exactly. Lloyd George is quite open in his confession that these disasters have all been directly due to the absence of what is the very first requirement in any war, centrality and unity of direction and control. He does not go further and say what that absence has been due to. He does not say that the war might have been won before this if it had not been for the politicians. Yet he is certainly correct in his optimistic judgment, that out of this last misfortune in Italy has come a blessing that will outweigh it tremendously. There is unity of direction and of purpose at last, prevented for so long by stupidity and narrowness of vision and brought about by sheer force of necessity alone.

However, when the Allies have cried once more over their split milk, they can gather every encouragement from the situation that they face to-day. As Lloyd George has suggested, this unification of the great western powers on a single front is probably more than a compensation for the Italian set-back, while the position is greatly improved in that theatre. On the line of the Piave both sides now draw together for the titanic struggle that may outlast the winter. We are convinced that its results will far more than justify the great loss of men, guns and territory that the Italians have lost. This war will end when the enemy's man-power is exhausted and no sooner. On the plains of Venetia it will be exhausted many times more rapidly than in the Carso mountains and along the Isonzo. What that means is already apparent in several places. In Flanders Germany no longer dares to rely upon her wasted infantry. She is using her artillery instead, and only the magnitude of events elsewhere distracts attention from the critical nature of the struggle on the Passchendaele heights, where the Canadians are holding fast in an inferno to gain which mean eventually the expulsion of the Hun from Belgium. On the Russian front Germany has not men enough to do harm at a time when, if she had them, she could do what she liked. In Palestine the Turks are falling back routed and demoralised because they lack this time the stiffening of German reinforcements and discipline. These lessons, read aright, are most striking. They can be applied to the Italian case. We need not look for a great victory there, which can only be in the future anyhow; we need only ask for a great battle. The more furious, the more intense, the more bloody and costly that battle is, the worse it will be for Germany and the better for the Allies. As for Russia, matters are really turning out very well, if not the best possible. The Bolsheviks have declared and discovered themselves, the country sees what they are and whither they would bring it. When Kerensky has defeated them, as seems now certain, and removed the ringleaders finally from the scene (which he will be mad not to do), his power and authority should be greatly strengthened and the turning-point in Russia's fortunes perhaps reached. There is every reason for hope in the situation.

Chafe vs. Parker Case Settled Out of Court.

We understand that the case of Theophilus Chafe vs. Private John Parker has been settled out of court by mutual consent of both parties, Private Parker agreeing to pay Mr. Chafe the sum of five thousand dollars compensation for the loss of his wife and child, who were killed in the recent Goulds tragedy. We also learn the amount first offered was two thousand five hundred dollars, while the plaintiff was prepared to sue for twenty thousand.

Rumoured Highest Award may go to Some of "Ours." There seems to be a belief on the other side that one or two members of the Regiment are likely to receive the coveted Victoria Cross for heroism in the recent engagement in Flanders. A gentleman residing near Ayr, who takes a close interest in our boys, writes to that effect to a friend in St. John's, saying that it was rumoured there that a couple of the men who distinguished themselves on October 9th had been recommended for the distinction. Others have written to the same effect.

Here and There.

INDISPOSED.—Mr. Reginald Harvey, of the firm of A. Harvey & Co., is very ill at his home, suffering from muscular rheumatism.

DIPHTHERIA.—A new case of diphtheria was reported to the Health authorities to-day from Cabot Street. The patient was removed to hospital.

BOWING'S SHIPS.—The Portia left Burin at 7.30 a.m. to-day, going west. The Prospero left Wesleyville at 10.40 last night; due here to-night.

MAKING NEW OFFICE.—A new office is now in course of construction at the Magistrates' Court for Sergeant Oliphant. When completed it will enable this busy and painstaking official to conduct his business with more privacy than heretofore.

PLENTY OF FRESH CODFISH.—There was a goodly quantity of codfish caught on the local grounds to-day and the local market was well stocked though the demand exceeded the supply. Local fishermen are making excellent wages now and intend to continue operations up to Christmas if weather conditions permit.

ASSAULT CASE SETTLED.—The young man who was charged with assaulting his sister at Manuela's and brought to the city by Constable Humber, was arraigned before Judge Morris last evening. The sister returned lately from abroad and then a quarrel occurred between herself and brother over some property left by their parents. After the evidence for the plaintiff was heard, the case concluded, the defendant being put under $100 bonds to keep the peace.

See the busy city stop to watch the Band go down the street. Hear the bugle and the drum and the tramp of soldiers' feet. Does it not your best blood stir, you who are of Newfoundland, Call out to you, drop all else, follow the recruiting band? What does all else signify when the voice of honour calls. Gird yourselves like men, fear not, him who fears not, nought appals. In the days past you have said, I have never had a chance. Take it now whilst still you may, be a man 'mongst men in France. Every man is even now, every man has equal show. Take the title whilst it may serve, do not now your chance forego. It to fortune may not lead, but it leads to glorious fame. Choose ye, therefore, whilst you may, honour bright or endless shame. Would you after money grub, business, fish—do these enchant. Whilst worn out fighting for you in the trench your brethren pant. And with wearied voice exclaim: how long will they keep us here. How does the country stand the slackers and we o'er worked three year? Fishermen of Newfoundland would you see a brother drown. Or would you not jump in to save, before your eyes he should go down? And if a man should give his life to keep you and your sons free born. Are you, yourselves, of such poor stuff you would his dying wishes scorn? Listen, therefore, to the call from the trenches unto you. From those who stand there gamely and from those who have gone through. And hear the voices of the dead accusing speak to-day. To you who playing not the man in comfort home would stay. And in ignorance or selfishness make miserable excuse. How will you later on, my boy, stand to the just abuse. Of those who are your comrades who have gone to fight the Hun. And glory covered will return when the fighting is all done. Or will you take the chance that they go down before the foe. Because you were a slacker and to that you would not go? Would you give German dogs a chance your country to despoil. Your home, your family or sweetheart to torture or to sell? Contempt, contempt will fall on you so bitter and so deep. So bitter and so sharp that may it haunt you in your sleep. Contempt that may burn into you and sear you to your soul. If soul you have that it may touch that that may reach its goal. What else can you expect from those who fight for you to-day. Or from their folk who wondering watch you cravens home who stay. Or from the woman of your heart, the fairest in the land. But bitter, fierce, or deep contempt, to you from every hand.

The Right Spirit.

The letter below was written by Mr. West Miller, to his father, Mr. A. W. Miller. The writer was a telegraph operator at Canso, so that he had a good ground for exemption from military service. He had a better one in physical disability, which disqualified him when he offered himself. He succeeded in overcoming the defect, offered himself again and was accepted. If his example is a splendid one, the spirit of his letter cannot be too much admired. Let every eligible man ask himself the questions which he asks and see if he can answer them in the same way.

Hazel Hill, N.S., August 31st.
Dear Father,—I received your letters last night. I have thought over this thing long and long ago and see no alternative. That if I feel and my conscience tells me I ought to go, why that's all I can do. Of course I won't be accepted unless they consider me fit. The only way I can look at it as regards the Co., is, if I enlist and they take me why it's all right, but if I am sent back on the grounds of being an operator I will be satisfied and will get something to show for it before I do come back. I understand your remarks about some people making a pile out of this war, but that's no excuse for me to stay home. It's as much as we can do to answer for ourselves.
Last year when I was working overtime and putting a little money away, that same idea struck me. Here I was staying home and making money by those fellows going away, which I saw plain when I decided to enlist myself. I saw lots of things that I would be sacrificing by going away, but if I were to stay at home I would consider myself a coward. I thought of home and things I was looking forward to, and all the things that are in life after all when you come face to face with anything that is going to take them away.
Saw right away the sacrifice that the fellows that went away had made and then for any one to hide behind anything to cover it up could be nothing else but a coward. If I have tried before I knew then that there was hardly a chance of me being accepted, but now I am fit now is the time to show what my intentions are. Have not done any more than my share and could never overdo it. If at some time in your life you were in a bad way over something and made an urgent appeal on your friends and they all turned a deaf ear to you, would you not think it was a dirty low-down trick? Well, is this not the case? We are all friends when it comes to a time like this, and it's up to each one of us to cover them for every one that falls. I only feel it my duty and the bigger the sacrifice the more earnest the spirit is. If some fellows want to stay at home and make something out of it, that's got nothing to do with me. I can't answer for them but answer for myself. It is better for me to die of starvation than to stay at home under that pretence.

If I go I must be prepared to make the final sacrifice if need be, or else I might as well stay at home. That's why those people don't do it, I suppose. I myself think that the majority of the people don't realize the seriousness of the situation enough to make them buckle down. It was always thus. You take your own experience in politics and look at some in that; some went into it just for the grat while one or two were trying to do their country all the good they could by being there.
Why didn't you accept your pile at that time you had the chance? Others did it. Why didn't you? Your answer is mine now. You have it. Probably you are sorry now you did not take the chance and skip out.
If I ever get to the front, can only hope that I shall come through and benefit by it. Better see about my insurance, see what we have to do to fix it up. Will see the Dr. again and get it all fixed up.
Intend giving in my resignation in a day or two. Will give you more particulars about my things later.
I remain, your son,
WEST.

(BRONCHITIS) No Harm

Mr. Jos. Harris of Elder's Mills, Ontario writes:—"Some time ago I was stricken with very severe attacks of bronchitis. I could hardly breathe—in fact was in such a condition that the doctor there was practically hopeless of recovery. PEP was tried. I tried them and feel an improvement once I continued to use and in a short time my bronchitis was a thing of the past. PEPs are something different. Unlike ordinary mixtures, syrups, etc., do not attempt to cure the throat, chest, or lungs, but go directly to the stomach, stimulating the system, and to the lungs and bronchi, containing the warm, stimulating vapors of the forest, together with medicinal extracts. As soon as is placed in the mouth, health-giving fumes are and are breathed into the throat and bronchi, effect to the seat of the disease. For coughs, colds, hoarseness, sore throats, and all ailments of the throat and lungs, PEPs are the best cure. All the stores, 50 cents per bottle, paid for price, from Toronto, Winnipeg, etc."

NORTHLIFFE AND PARTY IN LONDON.

LONDON, To-day. Lord Northcliffe, Sir Charles Gordon, Lieut. Colonel Campbell Stuart and other members of the British War Mission to the United States have arrived here and will remain during the meetings of the Interallied Conference. Lord Northcliffe declined to make a statement until he had reported to the Premier. He expressed enthusiasm, however, with the rapid progress of the American aircraft construction.

KAISER IN ITALIAN THEATRE.

AMSTERDAM, To-day. The German Emperor arrived on Sunday at the Italian Theatre where he met Emperor Charles and King Ferdinand, according to a Gorizia despatch. He congratulated Emperor Charles on his escape from drowning. The German Emperor continued his journey along the front.

KERENSKY STILL COMMANDER OF ARMY.

LONDON, To-day. A despatch to the Exchange Telegraph from Petrograd dated Sunday says that Premier Kerensky had issued a proclamation saying he would remain Commander-in-Chief until a decision on the question had been reached by the Provisional Government.

GAS ATTACK AGAINST AMERICANS.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE—(By Associated Press)—The American infantrymen in the trenches and artillerymen in the gunpits have had their first real experience with gas shells. The Germans have let loose many during the past two days, making the use of gas masks necessary. Shrapnel has been ferociously used by both sides during the recent fight.

PLAIN WORDS FROM LLOYD GEORGE.

PARIS, To-day. Premier Lloyd George, alluding to the centralized direction of allied efforts, said: "Unfortunately we didn't have time to consult the United States or Russia before creating this Council. The Italian disaster necessitated action without delay to repair it. This made it indispensable to commence right now with powers whose forces may be employed on the Italian front, but in order to assure the complete success of this great experiment, which I believe is essential to the victory of our cause, it will be necessary that all our great allies be represented in the deliberations. I am persuaded we shall obtain the consent of these great countries and their cooperation in the work of the Interallied Council. Lloyd George developed at considerable length the reasons for not taking the step earlier. He referred to "timidities and susceptibilities" when it came to raising the question on any front not commanded by Generals taking part in the inter-allied consultation. The Allies had committed a great fault, he said, in not adequately assisting Serbia in holding her line, with the result that the Central Empire had broken the blockade and procured men and supplies from the east, without which Germany doubtless would have been unable to maintain the forces of her armies. Why was this unbelievable fault committed? asked the Premier. The reply is simple. It was because no one in particular was charged with guarding the Balkan Gate. The unique front had not become a reality. France and England were absorbed by other problems in other regions. Italy thought only of the Carso, Russia was mounting guard of a frontier of a thousand miles, and even without that she couldn't have passed through to have helped Serbia because Roumania was neutral. It is true that we sent troops to Saloniki to succour Serbia but, as always, they were sent too late. Half the men who fell in the vain effort to pierce the western front in September of that same year would have saved Serbia, saved the Balkans and completed the blockade of Germany. You may say this is an old story. I grant that. It was simply the first chapter of all the series that has continued to the present hour. Nineteen fifteen was the year of the Serbian tragedy; 1916 was the year of the Roumanian tragedy, which was a repetition of the Serbian story almost without change. This is unbelievable when you think of the consequences to the Allies of the Roumanian defeat. Opulent wheat fields and rich petroleum wells passed to the enemy and Germany was able to escape us through the harvest of 1917 the strength of the Central Powers was raised once more and the horrible war was prolonged. That wouldn't have happened had there existed some central authority charged with meditating upon the problem of war for the con-transformed into an observatory from which King Victor Emmanuel often gazed at the coast stretching towards the Istria Peninsula and longed for the city of Trieste.

OLD DEVICE BROUGHT UP TO DATE.

LONDON, To-day. The Admiralty has issued the following statement regarding the electrically controlled sea raiders which the Germans have been operating off Belgium, and several of which have been destroyed: The electrically controlled motor boats used on the Belgian coast are twin petrol engines partially closed in and travel at a high rate of speed. They carry a drum with 30 and 50 miles of insulated single core cable, through which the boat is controlled electrically. The fore part carries a considerable charge of high explosives, probably from 300 to 500 pounds in weight. The method of operating is to start the engine, after which the crew leave the boat. A seaplane, protected by a strong fighting patrol, then accompanies the vessel at a distance of from 5 to 10 miles and signals to the shore by light signals. These signals need only be starboard, port or steady. The boat is zig-zagged, while being steered into a ship and the charge exploded automatically. The device is a very old one. It is a boat similarly controlled was used in the H.M.S. Vernon torpedo experiment in ships as far back as 1875. The only new features in the German boat are the petrol engines and the wireless signals, neither of which existed then.

WAR REVIEW.

The Italian and Austro-German armies are in battle array along the Piave River from the hilly region in the north to the Adriatic Sea, the Italians on the west side and the enemy along the east bank. The main army of the Austrians and Germans have taken the place of the advance guard which has been scattered along the stream for several days, and already throughout the entire region the guns of both sides are engaged in duels. Thus far, however, the enemy is using only five inch guns, having been unable to bring his heavier pieces into action. The guns of the Italians consist in considerable numbers of those they were able to bring back with them during the retreat from the Isonzo front. The Italians are stoutly holding the line along the Piave and also in the region running west through the hilly country from the vicinity of Feltre. Several attempts were made by the enemy to pierce the northern front and to encircle the Italian left, but failed. The Berlin official statement asserts that out the upper Piave, the Italians have been cut off and were forced to surrender, and also that the Teutonic allies have pressed southwestward

NOT MUCH TO REPORT.

LONDON, To-day. A report from Field Marshal Haig to-night reads: "The hostile artillery has shown considerable activity to-day northwest of Ypres and in the neighborhood of Steenbeke. Our own artillery activity continues. There is nothing further to report."

AERIAL REPORT.

LONDON, To-day. An official statement on the aerial operations issued to-night reads: "In spite of the stormy weather a considerable amount of aerial work was carried out by our aeroplanes on Sunday in connection with our artillery. A few bombs were dropped during the day on hostile pillboxes and trenches, but the bad weather which continues made observation results difficult. A large number of rounds were fired from the machine guns on ground targets by our low flying aeroplanes. In one case a hostile battery was silenced. Air fighting was carried out under considerable difficulties owing to the low clouds. One hostile machine was destroyed and four others driven down out of control. None of our aeroplanes were damaged."

EXTRAORDINARY DOINGS IN RUSSIA.

LONDON, To-day. The Petrograd correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph Co. sends the following: "After heavy fighting at Moscow, in which there were 700 casualties, the parties came to terms on the basis of the creation of a Socialist Government, including the Bolsheviks. The Petrograd Railway Union sent an ultimatum to the Workmen and Soldiers' Delegates and the Safety of the Country Committee, demanding that they effect a conciliation by organizing all the democratic powers, otherwise the Union would call a general strike. The Bolsheviks agreed to this but the democratic groups were unwilling to negotiate with the Bolshevik until they entirely surrendered. Negotiations, however, were resumed and the Railway Union deferred the strike for 12 hours. The Bolsheviks have abandoned their offensive attitude and now consider themselves in the position of organizers of the

TURKS MUCH DEPRESSED.

LONDON, To-day. Reuters' correspondent on the Palestine front, telegraphing on Sunday says: "Although some of the officer prisoners show a sullen or truculent spirit, the majority of them are very depressed and say that all hope is gone. They are deeply incensed against Enver Pasha, the Turkish Minister of War, who they say sold the country to Germany. The Turkish losses since the beginning of the month are estimated at twelve thousand. It is impossible as yet to estimate the booty taken in the recent fighting, as every day sees fresh discoveries of dumps of stores, material and munitions."

Naval Wedding.

HIBBS-MILLER.
 There was a very pretty wedding at Portugal Cove last night when Rev. A. E. Legge united in the bonds of holy matrimony Miss Susana Miller, daughter of Mr. John Miller, to Royal Naval Reservist Jordan Hibbs. The bride, who was attired in a beautiful wedding gown, carried a magnificent bouquet of flowers and was given away by her brother Mr. Edward Miller. The bride was attended by Misses L. Churchill and Nellie Hammond, while the groom was supported by his brother Mr. Michael Hibbs and Mr. John Hussey. Following the ceremony a reception was held at their future home.

Frank Kelly Pleads Guilty.

The Grand Jury, after hearing the evidence of the Crown in the case of the King vs. Frank Kelly for embezzlement, brought in a true bill against the latter, who on being arraigned in the Supreme Court this morning pleaded guilty. He will come up for sentence at a later date. The prisoner for a number of years has had a bad record, but was very fortunate in escaping the long arm of the law, which sooner or later falls heavily on the shoulders of those who do shady things.

The Need of Optimism.

We commend to a number of eminent statesmen in Washington the story of the boy with the black eye who was consoled with by a tender-hearted lady. "You'd better go home," said the impudent youngster, "and look at your own boy. He's got two black eyes."
 The war has not "entered its gloomiest phase from the standpoint of the United States and the nations opposing Germany." Russia may be weary and Italy weaker than was supposed, but is not Germany much weaker, and is not Austria much weaker? Austria could not defend itself against the Servians. Italy has suffered a very serious reverse, but has done great things in the war. It will do more great things. It has a large army in good spirits and supported by the whole nation, and reinforcements are reaching it from its Allies, and there will be a change of news from the Italian front.
 Germany's allies have been of some territorial advantage to her, but that is all. She has had to send troops to save all of them from their enemies. If she has used Bulgarians and Turks against the Italians, it is evidence of the serious impairment of her man-power. She has been showing signs of distress for two years. She has been constantly yielding to the hammer blows of France and England for a year and a half. The only article of winter food that the Government deems it safe to distribute about is potatoes. Dr. Adele Phillips, an American physician, who lived in Berlin from 1906 to last June, has given in The Atlantic Monthly some information about the extremes of Berlin for food, and says that the Government has seen to it that conditions were not so bad in Berlin as in other cities, and she does not see how Germany is going to get through the approaching winter.

 Nor do German papers. The economic situation is very serious, and it has lasted until it is telling upon the spirit of the people. The morale of the army and navy is impaired. The political situation is very serious. Two Chancellors have not dared to avow or disavow the Imperial programme of conquest, and a third will succeed no better, because it is not possible for him to satisfy the people and his Imperial master. Economic, political and military conditions were until two weeks ago much worse in Austria than they are in Germany, and the victory over the Italians has not improved the economic situation, and therefore it cannot long help the political situation. The military situation is likely to become less favourable in a few weeks.
 Bulgaria and Turkey are supported by Germany; they could not keep the field otherwise, and they are doing almost nothing in return for German money, which is not real money, but only bills of exchange. Germany has for more than a year been inferior to the Allies on the Western Front, and in spite of robbing the cradle and the grave has been unable to change this situation, and its lines have given away on the Somme, east of Ypres, and are now being withdrawn on the Aisne. Shipbuilding is exceeding ship sinking, and if food supplies require special handling, they are unquestionably vastly better than those of Germany, Austria, Bulgaria and Turkey.
 Ever since we got into the war a lot of our eminent statesmen have been worrying lest we should not take a sufficiently sombre view of our undertaking. It is unnecessary, and may easily be injurious. It is a serious matter to quench hope. We do not underestimate the fighting capacity of Germany, or its power of endurance. But in spirit and martial resources Germany is far worse off than the Allies.—Philadelphia Record.

The Deadly Closed Window.

Chicago Journal: The closed window, whether in street car, railroad train, office or home, is a direct threat to all whom it bars from the fresh outside air. It is the cause of more "colds" than all the blizzards ever born in Medicine Hat. It is a general nuisance and an all round "bad actor."
 Low temperatures of themselves are not dangerous. Arctic explorers live among ice floes for years without a sniffle or a sneeze, and almost die of influenza caught in a closed cab when they come back to "civilization." We of the cities cannot have Arctic purity of air, but at least we can keep from breathing condensed germ cultures. Open the windows!

LEMONS WHITEN AND BEAUTIFY THE SKIN! MAKE CHEAP LOTION

The juice of two fresh lemons strained into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white makes a whole quart of the most remarkable lemon skin beautifier at about the cost one must pay for a small jar of the ordinary cold creams. Care should be taken to strain the lemon juice through a fine cloth so no lemon pulp gets in, then this lotion will keep fresh for months. Every woman knows that lemon juice is used to bleach and remove such blemishes as freckles, sallowness and tan and is the ideal skin softener, smoothen and beautifier.
 Just try it! Make up a quart of this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion and massage it daily into the face, neck, arms and hands. It should naturally help to whiten, soften, freshen and bring out the hidden roses and beauty of any skin. It is wonderful for rough, red hands.
 Your druggist will sell three ounces of orchard white at little cost, and any grocer will supply the lemons.

Shipping Notes.

Schooner James Douglas sailed yesterday for the banks on another fresh fishing trip after landing 120,000 lbs. for the National Fish Company.
 With 1,365 quintals of dry fish for H. R. Silver, limited, the schooner E. J. Reddy, Capt John Kilfoy, is here from Burin, Nfld., after a rough passage which lasted a week. She sought no harbor for shelter but had head winds to contend with. She was off Halifax Tuesday but the heavy blow that night prevented her from reaching port until twenty-four hours later. Captain Kilfoy expects to take a full general cargo to Margatow, Nfld., where the vessel is owned.
 Twenty-six days from Halifax to the Labrador coast and back is considered smart work for a sailing craft, taking into consideration that the vessel was obliged to call at various places along the coast to land freight and do the same thing in picking up her return freight. This is what Captain Johnson Zinck, of the schooner Annie E. Conrad, is to be credited with doing. Yesterday the Conrad arrived here with 2,000 quintals dry fish for Robin, Jones and Whitman, and it was just twenty-six days since she left Halifax with a full cargo of winter supplies for distribution at the firm's different fishing stations on the Labrador coast. The Annie E. Conrad, which is a production of O'Leary Brothers shipyard at LaHave, proved herself a clipper on the homeward voyage for she covered the distance from Harrington Harbor in seventy hours.—Halifax Mail, Nov. 9.

Recruiting on the West Coast.
 A number of soldiers under Corporal Renouf are now visiting St. George's District for the purpose of getting additional recruits for the Regiment.
 A meeting was held at St. George's on Oct. 29th. The object of the Recruiting Committee was plainly put before the audience by the different speakers who were: Magistrate MacDonnell, Rev. Patten, A. J. O'Reilly, Capt. S. Butt, Mr. Goff, J. A. Ryan, Principal of St. Joseph's Academy, Corporal Renouf and other members of the Regiment.
 A conspicuous feature of the meeting was the absence of young men. This St. George's may be proud of as the absent ones—or the most of them—are either in the Regiment or Naval Reserve.
 Corporal Renouf and his squad are making every effort to secure the required number of recruits.
 The squad of soldiers are visiting the various settlements in the District and so far have been very successful, according to the number of eligible men who are left.

President Wilson Addresses American Federation of Labour.

BUFFALO, N.Y., Nov. 12. President Wilson, in a forceful address here to-day before the American Federation of Labor, appealing to the workmen of the United States for co-operation in the conduct of the war, made it emphatically clear that he opposes peace until the war against Germany has been won. The President declared his heart was with the "feeling of the pacifist," but that "my mind had a contempt for them. I want peace but I know how to get it and they don't," he declared. Colonel House, head of the American Delegation to the Allies War Conference, the President said, had sent to take part in the Conference as to how the war was to be won, and he knows and I know that is the way to get peace if you want it for more than a few minutes. The 450 delegates to the conference and several thousand people who were admitted to the hall to hear the President speak, rose and applauded this declaration with a tremendous burst of cheers. Another demonstration of approval came when he said, "We must stand together night and day until this job is finished." The President, while developing his address to problems for the people of the United States, laid emphasis upon the broader phases of the world conflict in a way that seemed to indicate that his speech was possibly intended as a message to the people of Germany, Austria and Russia, as well as of the United States. He declared his belief that were it not for the pan-Germans, the spirit of freedom would find as fine a welcome in the hearts of the Germans as it can in any other heart. "Power," he said, "can't be used with concentrated force against free peoples if it is to be used by free people." Speaking probably of Austria, President Wilson referred to the intimations of anxiety for peace that had come "from one of the Central Powers," and said it meant "that the people in that central power know if the war ends as it stands they will in effect themselves be vassals of Germany, notwithstanding that they do not wish in their pride and proper spirit of nationality to be absorbed and dominated." Of Russia, he said he was amazed that some groups in that country could suppose that "any reform plans in the interest of the people can live in the presence of Germany, which is powerful enough to overthrow them by legitimate force." Fatuous as the dreamers of Russia were those persons in this country, he declared emphatically, "who supposed that the free industry and enterprise of the world can continue if the pan-German plan is achieved and German power fastened upon the world." The President directly asserted that Germany started the war, and said he would leave confirmation of this statement to the verdict of history. He referred to Germany's growth to a place in the sun and asked why she was not satisfied when she gained that position. In answer, he described the German Government's methods of controlling competition of its industries, and asserted that all the while there was lying behind its thought its dream for future political control, which would enable it in the long run to dominate labor and industry of the world. Wilson cited in this connection the Berlin to Bagdad railway, which he said was constructed to run a threat of force down the flank of industrial undertakings of half a dozen other countries, so that when German competition came in, it would not be resisted too far, because there was always the possibility of getting German armies in the heart of that country quicker than any other armies could get there. Summing it up he said that Germany is determined that political power of the world shall belong to her, but that never before had such ambitions been based upon so exact and precise and scientific a plan of domination. The President voiced in terms of eulogy his approval of the conduct of Samuel Gompers, President of American Federation of Labor, and the spirit of co-operation he had manifested in his relations with the administration. I like to lay my mind, he said, alongside a mind that knows how to pull in harness. Horses that kick over traces will have to be put in corral. The President's references to Gompers were loudly applauded. While we are fighting for freedom, the President asserted after these references, we must see among other things that labor is free. We must see to it that the instrumentalities by which conditions of labor are improved are not blocked and checked. Nobody has a right to stop the process of labor until all methods of conciliation and settlement have been exhausted. The President took occasion to denounce the mob spirit which he said is displaying itself here and there in this country. He declared that if our men have not self-control they are not capable of that great thing which we call a democratic government. A pledge of loyalty to the government was contained in the annual report of the executive council which was submitted to the Convention to-day. This report, according to the usual procedure, was referred to the committees named by Gompers, and its several sections will be taken up by the Convention as soon as it is reported back, to take in the summary of the report sent by mail. At the afternoon session Secretary Morris read a telegram from Frank J. Hayes, denying the report that Hayes or the mine workers intend to lead a fight against President Gompers and those who are leading this fight until militarism is wiped from the face of the earth. President Hayes' telegram was received by Governor Charles S. Whitman of New York, who also addressed the Convention. He declared as the fight that democracy may live, is the fight of labor, for labor and democracy are one. They can't survive one without the other. The American workmen, he said, are fighting for the workmen of the world, for it is not on the battlefields alone that this war is being fought, it is not only what the workman does, it isn't only the part he contributes, but it is his attitude of mind and his faith that constitutes an important part in his world's struggle.

Newfoundland Scotch Cured Herring.

Various reports of contracts and prices are seeping their way into the New York market from Newfoundland, but there is little concerning the fall fishery that has come to operators here. It is known, however, that contracts have been made for large quantities of Newfoundland herring this year by New York concerns, and it is known that prices have been $12.50 and up to $15 for the goods. There is a general discussion among this branch of the trade as to the future market for this salt herring commodity, but no predictions of what the opening prices will be have come from the merchants here. It is fair to assume, however, that the first lots in this market will command a high price, probably from $22 to $25 per barrel, according to the quality of the fish and the condition of the market at the time of arrival. If the jobbing trade is well supplied at the time (and this seems unlikely in view of the continued consumption demand) the prices will be lower; if there is a shortage it may be expected that prices will be high. Trading has been more or less slack during the past week, but there is a demand in evidence in many quarters. Some operators report that they are now practically clean up on their stocks of last fall's herring, but there is a fair quantity still in second hands in and about New York. Quotations have shown little change since last report: large fish's herring, from $22 to $24 per barrel and other sizes in proportion.—N. Y. Fishing Gazette, Nov. 3.

Fact Foretold in Fiction

When Authors' Brains Have Anticipated Inventors' Brains.

It is curious what a lot of things told long since in the guise of fiction, and adjudged wildly improbable, have a knack of "coming true," so to speak, as time rolls on.

Some years ago, for instance, there appeared in Pearson's Magazine a story entitled "The Derelict," from the pen of Mr. Cutcliffe Hyne.

It told how the redoubtable Captain Kettle, with five men to help him, saved a derelict ship in mid-Atlantic and brought her safely into port, though she was water-logged and the weather all through was atrocious. Landsmen liked that story. Only some seafarers objected that the thing could not be done. And yet the thing was done recently.

Mr. Robert Ferguson, a Scotch-American, with only two men to help him (in the story Captain Kettle had five, be it remembered), saved the Vigilant, and brought her safe into Cardiff after she had been abandoned in a sinking condition by her captain and crew. They staked their lives against the salvage money, and they won, sharing a matter of £5,000 between them.

The Submarine Blockade.

Zeppelins were forecasted by Jules Verne in "The Clipper of the Clouds," and by H. G. Wells in "The War in the Air."

"In the Angel of the Revolution," again, which old readers of Pearson's Weekly will remember as having appeared in our columns in serial form, many of the uses to which Zeppelins have been put during the present war were anticipated by the late Mr. George Griffith.

A score or more of novelists, beginning with Jules Verne in 1869, have forecasted the submarine. Indeed, this writer's description of the submersible boat in his story, "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea," might very well pass—allowing for certain exaggerations pardonable in a novelist—for one of the new German super-submarines.

Then there was Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's story, "Dancer," which told how a fleet of submarines blockaded Britain and torpedoed our food ships. This, we all know, is precisely what is happening at this present moment.

The Tanks were in like manner forecasted by H. G. Wells in "The Land Ironclads," first published some ten years ago. Jules Verne also used the same idea in a story entitled "The Steam House"; and in "The Begun's Fortune" this same talented French writer anticipated the use in warfare against his own country of shells filled with poison gas, similar to those being used by the Huns.

A Temple of Gold.

Years ago Mr. Max Pemberton wrote a book called "The Iron Pirate," quite a number of incidents in which are strongly suggestive of the career of the German commerce raid-

Battery School Concert

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—On Thursday, November 8th, a very pleasant evening was spent at the Battery Meth. School. At 8 p.m. the doors were opened and in less than half an hour the building was filled to its greatest capacity. The school was becomingly arranged for the occasion and a very nice tea was served, after which a most interesting programme, consisting of recitations, solos, duets, etc., was gone through. Miss Ivy Ross presided at the organ in her usual pleasing manner and Pte. F. G. Pelley acted as Chairman. The Highland Flung by little Miss Martin was an item deserving of comment; she was attired in a short, loose Paisley dress with wings, and cap to match. The little one looked bewitching and I've yet to see the Highland Flung danced better. At the close Miss Miller, Deaconess, proposed a vote of thanks to the ladies who were responsible for the tea; to Miss Pelley for the programme and to all who helped to make the entertainment such a splendid success; $22.00 of proceeds go to Cot Fund.

Thanking you for space I am,
ONE WHO WAS THERE.

Typhoid Fever.

A male resident of Brasils Square was reported to be suffering from typhoid fever yesterday and the Health Authorities had him removed to the Fever Hospital. This is the first case of typhoid to be reported within the city for a considerable time past.

SPECIAL TRAIN.—A special train with the Glenco's passengers reached the city from Placentia at 9:30 p.m. yesterday.

"It Appeals to Head and Heart"
Therefore, subscribe to the Victory Loan

Some Reasons Why You Should.

It appeals to head and heart.

We can give credit to Great Britain.

Canada is prosperous and able to help.

Our boys are over there.

And we want to bring them home victorious.

Why do great financial institutions like the Canada Life subscribe Millions of Dollars to the Victory Loan?

With us it means taking a patriotic stand which our many thousands of policyholders approve.

But there are other deciding factors.

Some Sound Reasoning

The one great outstanding reason, from a purely business standpoint, is this:

The financial stability of the whole world rests upon the cause of the Allies. It is, therefore, good business to strengthen that cause financially in order to uphold our institutions.

Our Government asks Canadians and Canadian Institutions to rally to its support by lending capital so that the business of the people may be carried on successfully and profitably.

In other words, the people's money is to be used to further the business of the people. At this time the supreme task, the principal business to be carried to success, is the winning of the war. We cannot refuse to supply the needed capital even if we would, as it would be equivalent to committing business suicide.

A Good Investment

Aside from these vital considerations, which in themselves are sufficient, we have laid before us by the Minister of Finance an investment that is absolutely safe, and which yields a high interest return.

Only a few years ago Government Bonds were sold at a yield rate of from 3 1/4 to 4%. These same Securities can now be purchased in the shape of a Victory War Loan Bond to yield 5 1/2% per annum or better. After the conclusion of the war, when business conditions again become normal, it is generally conceded that these Bonds can be sold at a substantial premium.

Knowing from long experience that an opportunity of this kind should be taken advantage of to the fullest possible extent, the Canada Life has applied every available dollar to the purchase of the present Victory Loan Bonds, having regard only to retaining sufficient funds for the regular conduct of their business, the payment of claims and maintenance of surplus.

Premiums Help to Purchase Bonds

The premiums from our Policyholders, which constitute a large portion of our revenue, are being applied in a large measure to assist us in purchasing these Government Bonds. These long-term high-class Securities we regard as the strongest and most profitable assets in our Balance Sheet.

ASK FOR PARTICULARS.—The Canada Life will be glad to put you in touch with a responsible Bond Salesman if desired.

Blond hair, unless shampooed very carefully, will darken with age. Egg shampoo is not good for light hair, for it contains sulphur, which will darken it rapidly. Oils also have a darkening effect on the hair and should not be used unless absolutely necessary. An excellent soap-jelly for blonde hair is made by shaving a cake of castile soap into a saucepan and dissolving it in a pint of boiling water. Keep the mixture warm until the soap has dissolved, then pour the liquid into a wide-mouth jar. When shampooing the hair, use half a teaspoon of bicarbonate of soda (common cooking soda) to each teaspoon of soap-jelly. If you find the soda too drying discontinue its use. Do not dry by artificial heat as it loses its sheen and texture. Rub the scalp briskly, but gently, with a warm towel to stimulate circulation, and then sit in the air and sunlight, separating the hair so that each portion receives its share of the sunbath. This manner of drying requires a much longer time, but the softness and luster of the hair will reward you for your patience. Brnnettes should use shampoo containing oils, soda, or the yolks of eggs. They are excellent for dark hair, stimulating growth and improving the lustre. Never forget to brush the hair well after a shampoo, for this will impart a gloss not to be had in any other way. Sun and air the scalp every chance you get, particularly if you are in the house a great deal.

Household Notes.

- Gelatine should never be cooked.
- Hot rye rolls are delicious for dinner.
- Save all pasteboard and light wood boxes.
- Apples cored before paring are less apt to break.
- Flour should always be measured after sifting once.
- Rye flour can be used for dredging meat and fish.
- A teaspoonful of salt will season 1 quart of material.
- Left-over vegetables can be used in salads and hashes.
- Mixed pickles are a good addition to potato salad.
- Black soy beans for soup should be soaked overnight.
- Four eggs to a quart of milk make good custard.
- Pies bake better in the bottom if they are on tin plates.
- Cottage cheese is a good dish to make out of skim milk.
- Cakes with molasses in them bake more quickly than others.
- Creamed carrots with peas make a nourishing dish for lunch.
- Rye porridge with rich milk is an excellent breakfast cereal.
- Apples can be stewed without sugar, and they are very good.
- Soy beans by themselves make a very palatable dish when baked.
- All superfluous fat should be trimmed from meat and fried out.
- A fruit pie will not boil over if the sugar is put under the fruit.
- Meringue should be put on puddings after they are slightly cool.
- Souffles made with eggs and cheese will take the place of meat.
- The actual food value of 1 quart of milk is equal to 3/4 pound of beef.

The economical housewife places a weekly limit on food expenditure. Oleomargarine can be used instead of butter in most recipes for cake. It is convenient to have a granite pan near the sink for washing vegetables. Rancid lard can be made fresh by frying, to a crisp, slices of raw potato. Always fill the cereal saucepan with water as soon as the cereal is served.
