A FAMOUS EXPORT APPLE SECTION

The Annapolis, Cornwallis and Gaspareaux Valleys of Nova Scotia--Something of the Chief Industry of that Section--Tree of Marvelous Age and Vitality--Talks With Growers and Resident Export Fuyers.

Probably no other integral apple producing section of the North American continent is better known to the export apple trade than is the Annapolis valley of Nova Scotia. Year in and year out this section figures conspicuously in apple shipments to the United Kingdom, competing with fruit shipped from New England, New York and the middle west. For the past decade average annual exports of apples from Nova Scotia have been 320,000 barrels, ranging from as low as 22,000 barrels in 1897-8 to as high as 615,000 barrels in 1903-4. For the past three years the crop has not proved a full one, yet exports have averaged around 330,000 barrels or slightly better.

THE IMPORTANT APPLE DISTRICTS

Nova Scotia apple production centres largely in, although not wholly confined to, the counties of Kings, producing district is embraced in a territory including Wolfville, Port William, Aylesford, Berwick, Windsor, Falkmouth and Kentville. Other important shipping towns are Annapolis, Bridgetown, Middleton, Kingsport, Horton and Hantsport, etc. From Middleton to Annapolis the variety shipped is largely Nonpareil. In the Wolfville district, farther north, Gravenstein is probably the leading type with Kings and Ribston Pippin second, and Baldwin's third.

During the winter water should always be warmed for dairy cattle. It pays for all kinds of live stock, but is especially desirable for cows producing milk. No cow can digest her food if she is compelled to drink ice water, a shrinkage of milk always results. There are many makes of tank heaters which can be utilized.

NOVA SCOTIA'S NEWEST TOWN.

"Nova Scotia's newest town, Lockeport, was incorporated in record time," said Mr. Frederick W. Sutherland of that place to the Chronicle. "From the time the first step was taken until the Mayor and Council were elected was only six weeks. About February 1st the first steps were taken. The election on the question of incorporation was held on February 19th. We got our act through and gazetted and on the 12th of March the first town election was held. Proportionately the vote on incorporation was also a record one being almost five to one in favor of it. The votes were 192 to 21 against."

GOOD PRICES REALIZED.

"For the past five years our growers have averaged, I should say, around $2 to 2.25 l. o. b. for their fruit. In 1904-5 the market was down and they got only $1.25 and $1.50. In 1905-6, which was a phenomenal season, as far as prices are concerned, many orchardists netted $2.50 to $3 for their fruit. "The average for some seasons past has been fairly remunerative; sufficiently so to encourage orchardists to put out new trees freely. As a result, the industry is steadily increasing. I should judge that the acreage devoted to new orchards has enlarged fully 25 per cent during the past five years. Some of the big growers from Wolfville, toward Kentville, are J. W. Bigelow, W. M. Black, Herbert Johnson, J. E. Smith, John G. Byrne and F. C. Johnson. Around Gaspareaux are J. L. Gartridge, E. Wentcot, Wilbur Duncan, John Caldwell, A. H. Westcott, M. G. Caldwell and F. Mitchell. Over Grand Pre way are Chief Justice Weatherby, George Brown, George Truhoe, George Shearer, and W. C. Hamilton."

of the big orchards of the valley. Howard Bligh & Sons have 5000 trees near Woodville. S. B. Chute, of Berwick, R. S. Eaton of Kentville and A. S. McDonald of Upper Dike are progressive orchardists. Mr. Bligh is shipping master at the port of Halifax, but finds his orchard a profitable adjunct to his other business. He exports considerable quantities of fruit, having washhouses throughout Hants, Kings and Annapolis counties. The writer visited Mr. Bligh at the latter's office in Halifax, and found him an optimistic over-optimist for the future of the apple export trade. "Our Nova Scotia fruit is well established in the London market," said he, "and no doubt larger crops than we have been enjoying in recent years could be sold in the United Kingdom, to good advantage. In my experience, Blenheim and Nonpareils are particularly desirable apples to send to the mother country. While the yield varies greatly from season to season, returns for a series of years loom up well. It is claimed that during the past five years, J. Elliot Smith of Wolfville has averaged gross returns of $319 per acre from his best trees. F. C. Johnson of Port Williams $362, A. C. Starr $213, George H. Starr of Port Williams $293, C. E. Sheppard of Upper Canada $225, F. H. Johnson of Bridgetown $223, R. J. Messenger of the same place $190 and E. J. Elliot of Clarence $304. Some of these have only small tracts, while others own large orchards. G. C. Miller of Middleton has secured an average 23 per cent on his investment during the past five years."

Some buyers claim the quality of the Nova Scotia crop is not up to the standard that it was once. A New York exporter is among these "knockers" and growers in the Annapolis valley take exception to his derogatory remarks. They say it is simply a case of sour grapes with the New York man, owing to the fact that in five years ago he made a good thing out of Nova Scotia apples, while the past few years he has been forced out of the competition, and as a result, feels sore.

However this may be, the writer board the same complaint, although not so pessimistically put, from several resident exporters. They did not extricate this state of affairs so much to any general slump in quality as to the unfavorable conditions that have confronted orchardists the past few years. In view of the fine reputation they have built up for themselves in London, it certainly behooves Nova Scotia apple farmers to leave no stone unturned to send abroad the best fruit possible. No doubt the present stringent fruit market regulations now enforced by the Canadian government will have much to do in causing choicer apples to be sent out of Nova Scotia in the years to come.

COWS NEED WARM WATER.

During the winter water should always be warmed for dairy cattle. It pays for all kinds of live stock, but is especially desirable for cows producing milk. No cow can digest her food if she is compelled to drink ice water, a shrinkage of milk always results. There are many makes of tank heaters which can be utilized.

AN INDEPENDENT EXPORTER.

"The writer had a long talk with R. J. Harris, a leading exporter at Wolfville, Mr. Harris gave me considerable attention as to the 'backing' years ago through his 'backing' steamship companies by sending apples aboard on a little barkentine called the Skinkola. Harris, and 90 cents to Liverpool. The all water freight from Halifax to Liverpool ranges 60 to 85 cents and it costs 12 to 13 cents to get our apples by rail to Halifax. The original cost of barrels is about 25 cents each for standard 96-quart containers. From 120 to 300 barrels can be loaded to the car, with the average about 160 barrels. Thus it takes 2500 cars to get our fair Nova Scotian crop of export apples to tide water."

BEVER FLOUR

NATURALLY PURE
Bever Flour needs no bleaching—no electrical treatment to purify it. Only carefully selected grain—the choicest grown in Canada—is used. Such wheat requires no elaborate purification. It is naturally pure. This is why Bever Flour, made of pure wheat, is so wholesome, some and nutritious.

FOOD IRON

You need Iron. Everybody does. The harder you work, the more you worry, the more Iron you require. But Crude Iron won't do. Iron Pills, Iron Tinctures, Iron Tonics are useless in nineteen cases out of twenty. You must have pre-digested Iron or your blood will not assimilate it.

furnishes the Iron you need in combination with Cod Liver Oil, and so intimately incorporated with the oil that the most delicate digestive organs cannot fail to assimilate it. The value of the combination cannot be overestimated. It builds up and fortifies the system against Coughs, Colds, Bronchial Affections and kindred troubles. If any of these diseases have already been contracted, or if the lungs are affected or threatened, FERROL cures by enabling nature to throw off the disease, not by "killing the germs," which is a physical impossibility. FERROL is an absolute specific for Croup and Bronchitis, and no household where there are children can afford to be without it.

FERROL is not a patent mystery. The formula is freely published. It is prescribed by the best Physicians. It is endorsed by the most eminent Medical Journals. It is used in prominent Hospitals, Sanitariums, etc.

Ordered that tenders be called for the collection of all town taxes. The assessment roll of the town as finally revised by the assessment court of appeal was laid before the council.

Whereupon it was resolved that the council authorize the levying and collection of a rate of one dollar and fifty cents on the hundred dollars of assessed value of the property and income assessed in the town required to defray the expenses of the town of Bridgetown for the current year, and also a rate of sixty-five cents on the hundred dollars of assessed value of the property and income assessed in the town of Annapolis and county of Annapolis assessment, rolls of the school section of Bridgetown and of all property outside the said school section liable to taxation for the support of the schools of the town of Bridgetown.

SUPREME COURT.

Among the cases argued in the Supreme Court at Halifax last week, are the following of local interest: Saunders vs. Gardner, plaintiff convicted of illegal sale, doing business without a license, before John Allen, magistrate of Liverpool. On appeal conviction quashed with costs. Messenger vs. Hicks, an action before Judge Townsend to recover damages for removal of line fence, judgment for plaintiff allowed. Appeal from judgment in favor of plaintiff was argued and judgment reserved. Lockett vs. Cress, action to recover money alleged to be due on promissory note made by defendant for goods obtained before her marriage, appeal from Judge Townsend's judgment in favor of defendant was argued and judgment reserved. Chesley vs. Estate Mrs. Ansley, action for money, alleged to be due plaintiff in wages for care and nursing of Mrs. Ansley and daughters, set aside by Judge of Probate. Appeal from judgment of Court of Probate argued and judgment reserved.

Destructive Floods in the Middle States.

Pittsburg, Penn., Mar. 15.—The worst flood in the history of Western Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Eastern Ohio is being experienced tonight. Within the last 36 hours fourteen deaths due to the flood, have occurred. At 7 o'clock the water reached a stage of 34 feet at Market Street. The water continues to rise about two-tenths of an inch an hour. At the head waters, the rivers are now stationary. The crest of the flood is expected to reach here about midnight, when 35 feet will probably be reached. This is 13 feet above the danger mark. Late this afternoon the 30 mile gorge at Parker, Pa., broke, and is moving towards the city. The immense gorge in the Charon River has also started down stream. Both gorges however are old and the ice is soft. On this account they are not expected to cause much damage here.

The whole lower downtown district of this city is under water and people are moving about in wagons and skiffs. Duquesne Way, Penn. Avenue and Liberty Street, running parallel with the Allegheny River, are submerged to a depth of several feet. Hundreds of business houses located in this district are flooded. The Gayety, Belasco, Alvin and Bijou, are surrounded by water. Water has destroyed or greatly damaged the power plants of all the four theatres. The guests in the Colonial, Duquesne annex and Anderson hotels are compelled to use shifts to and from the buildings.

Trolley service between Pittsburg and Allegheny was suspended early today and to-night thousands of people congregated at the Penna. Railroad Union Depot to board special trains for Allegheny and the suburbs. The damage is estimated at one million dollars. Much destruction is also being done to property throughout Western Penn. and West Virginia. At Conneville, Pa., the damage to the coke region is estimated at two million dollars. Over one hundred thousand persons are temporarily out of employment. The Westinghouse Works, employing thirty thousand are shut down, and the damage to machinery is estimated at fifty thousand dollars. All the mines along the Monongahla River are flooded and ten thousand miners are affected. The steel and iron mills are at a standstill and fully fifty thousand men are idle. All the railroads entering Pittsburg are hampered. Telegraph and telephone service is crippled.

Hundreds of people are marooned in Pittsburg, and the greatest evictions of the State of Ohio are experiencing the most disastrous floods that have occurred in several years. Dispatches from many cities and towns, representing a good part of the State, bring news of death, damage and privation. At Zanesville three persons were drowned today. The Muskingham River is rising at the rate of one and a half inches an hour and is near the highwater mark of 1898, when the most disastrous flood known in that section occurred. Mayor Deacon tonight swore in a large force of special policemen and gave orders to confiscate the boats of owners found charging excessive ferry rates in the flooded districts. Some people had been compelled to pay as high as $150 to be rescued from water bound residences. A heavy down-pour of rain continues at Coshocton where the Tuscarawas and Walhoning Rivers unite to form the Muskingham and both are rapidly rising. The crest of the flood is expected to arrive at Zanesville by noon tomorrow. In Springfield and vicinity more than one hundred thousand dollars damage has resulted and two hundred families have been made homeless by the rise of Mad River and its tributaries.

SOUTH WILLIAMSTON.
Ingram Bishop and daughter and W. A. Marshall and sister have resumed housekeeping again, after several week absence in Mass. and elsewhere. T. C. Bishop and wife attended the funeral of the late William Figgott, at Centerville, on Thursday last. Miss Edna Marshall, of Outram, is visiting at the home of her uncle, W. A. Marshall. Mrs. Perry Borden was called to Douglassville last week to see her mother, who is quite ill. Miss Gladys Charlton is attending school at Berwick, Harry Birhop at Middleton, Fred and Blanche Bishop and Emma FitzRandolph at Lawrencetown. Miss Lily Phinney has resigned her position as teacher in the school here and accepted a position with the Davidson Lumber Co. as bookkeeper, at Crossburn. E. C. Shaffer, Esq., and others, have done quite an extensive business logging the past winter. Nogger Bros. will do the sawing in the spring on the site recently vacated by P. S. Miss Maud FitzRandolph, who was absent in Mass. for several months, returned home a few weeks ago, her health somewhat impaired. We hope for a speedy recovery. Watson Bartland is making preparations to build a nice residence in the near future.

Here is a tangle. An old man of fifty and a young man of twenty-eight are both widowers. The young man has a stepdaughter thirty-eight years old that he marries to the older gentleman, and in return takes the old man's daughter for a wife. Now what relation are these four people to one another?

The Bridgetown Importing House

For Friday next, March 22, we will offer a Cash Sale of a lot more Dress Goods, worth 40c to 75c per yard for 25 cents. Also 10 yards of 40 inch grey cottons for $1.00. Regular price 12c per yard.

We will open our new Carpets, Rugs, Squares, Floor Oil Cloths and Curtains this week; and while we assert that without doubt, it will be found to be the choicest stock and best value Bridgetown has ever before had, we want customers, one and all, to call and see for themselves, in order that we may prove the truth of the above assertion. You will believe if you see, and you will save if you buy.

Our new stock of Ladies' Underwear, Blouses and Wash Suits will also be opened this week. All imported direct from The Allen Manufacturing Co., whose fits and workmanship excel. Customers who had their goods from us last season will testify of their excellence.

Our Dress Goods trade is doubling this season because of the great values our customers are finding in them.

Our store is being filled from corner to corner, from floor to ceiling, with a class and assortment of the most desirable goods for this season's demands. If you cannot walk or drive send us your orders by mail.

We have some goods left, which must make way for our new arrivals.

Do not overlook our Curtains, 3 1/2 yards long and 60 inches wide, at $1.00 cash per pair; worth $1.50.

Our past record is a proof to customers that they can rely upon the highest price the year round, that the market affords, for their butter and eggs at our store.

Performance follows promise in this store, just as sure as night follows day.

Head of Christian Science Church Under Control of Frye

New York, March 6.—Astonishing indeed is the story told by George W. Glover, son of Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy, and brought out by the launching of a suit to protect Mrs. Eddy's interests. He told it at his home in Lead City, S. D., to an interviewer sent by former Sen. W. E. Chandler. The following is an extract:

"In the year 1898 my affairs reached a crisis and I made up my mind to ask mother for financial assistance. I had never asked before. Without a word to my wife, who, dreading the evil power of Frye and his gang, would have opposed my going, I made the trip to Concord. My only confidant was my daughter Mary. I never do anything without consulting her."

"Well, when I reached Concord," he continued, after a pause, "I proceeded very quietly to study the situation, meanwhile keeping well out of sight. I knew that if Frye once got wind of my arrival he would bar the doors of Pleasant View against me. But he was off his guard, and, waiting my chance, I managed to slip my visit exactly right."

"Frye was out when I rang the door bell at Pleasant View, and I knew it. The door was opened by a maid-servant, a good-looking young woman who asked my business and my name."

MOTHER WELCOMES SON.

"A moment later I was with my mother, and she had given me a frightened welcome."

"There was little or no time for explanations. So in a few words I told my mother just what I wanted—the exact amount and precisely what I needed it for. I asked for a loan, not a gift, and offered her my patents on valuable mining properties as security."

"But she refused to take them. I had convinced her that the money asked for would be well spent; that it would go into the working of real mines of legitimate promise. Unhappily she took a pen and wrote an order upon her Concord banker. It was for an amount $500 less than I had asked."

"This order covers my entire cash balance today," said mother; "but my dear son, I will surely send you the balance by mail right away. I am glad to aid you."

"Frye was expected back at any moment and our time was short, but we made the most of it. With feverish eagerness mother questioned me about my mines, looked over the papers I had with me, and finally asked how much money would be required to erect the quartz mill, then so essential to my plans."

"I saw mother only for a moment with queer emphasis. 'That can and shall be arranged at once.'"

"A moment later Frye hurried into the room, started at sight of me, coldly pressed my hand with limp fingers, and ordered mother to get ready without further delay for her daily carriage ride."

"Under Frye's eye mother was a different woman. The animation of a moment before had vanished; the light of purpose faded from her eyes and she moved away without a word."

HER SECRETARY IN LIVERY.

"With the order for the money in my pocket there was no fear of Frye in my heart. So I lounged around the house and waited while mother took her drive. Frye accompanied her, dressed in the livery that masks his real power in the household."

"I saw mother only for a moment after her return from that ride—and Glover's face darkened at the memory."

"She was as white as a sheet and her hand trembled as it caught mine in a convulsive grip."

"Frye is angry, oh, so angry," she whispered. "He says that I shall not give you the money," she hurried on, "and he has quarrelled."

"You do not know the truth, George, but that man makes me account to him for every dollar—every penny."

"His last words to me as I left her that day were:

"Hurry to my banker with that order, my son. Lose no time."

"I had assumed that I followed her advice and got that money. I think the amount was $5,000, certainly not more."

OVERDRESSED AND ROUGED

AS IF FOR EXHIBITION.

New York, March 8.—Last October it was reported that Mrs. Eddy was dying of cancer, and that she was under the domination of Calvin A. Frye, who acts as her secretary and coachman, and that Mrs. Farnelia L. Leonard, of Brooklyn, impersonated the leader of the Christian Scientists before the public. It was stated that Mrs. Leonard, and not Mrs. Eddy, drove through the streets of Concord in a carriage with Frye on the box. It was also declared that Mrs. Eddy was visited daily by a Boston cancer specialist and that he was secretly treating her.

The New York Times sent a correspondent to Mrs. Eddy's home in Concord to investigate these assertions and interview her. With a small party of men, representing other newspapers he was permitted to enter Pleasant View under the guard of members of the house. H. Cornell Wilson, head of the publication department of the Christian Scientists, prepared a list of three brief questions, and would not permit of any others to be asked. These carefully prepared questions were decided on fully an hour before the reporters saw Mrs. Eddy.

After the newspaper men had awaited Mrs. Eddy for a long time, she suddenly appeared before them attired for her drive. The gown was costly. Her hat was beribboned and bore white plumes. So extravagantly overdressed was she that she would have attracted attention anywhere, and although her hands shook with palsy, she was so rosy that she appeared to have the complexion of a young girl. She appeared to be petulant, impatient and fussy, but entirely dependent on Frye, who in footman's livery, stood beside her while she answered the questions.

All those who surrounded her endeavored to keep the reporters at a distance, and when Mrs. Eddy had answered the prepared questions, in a low and somewhat indistinct voice she was immediately escorted to her carriage, and after the robes had been carefully tucked around her she was whisked away.

The impression gained by those who saw Mrs. Eddy, was that while she might be in perfect health, as a woman of her years could be, she was in her second childhood, and was entirely dependent on the stronger mind of the more youthful persons who formed her household.

SIR PERCY GIROUARD.

Character Sketch of the New High Commissioner of Northern Nigeria by J. Saxon Mills.

It was greatly interesting to read that Sir Percy Giouard had been appointed High Commissioner of Northern Nigeria, in succession to Sir Frederick Lugard, writes J. Saxon Mills. Of none of my friends in South Africa have I a livelier and more pleasant recollection than of this distinguished officer of engineers. I had gone once more to Johannesburg, just after the conclusion of peace. The journey had been perhaps a little more pleasant than during the war-time, but still very far from luxurious. Sir Percy Giouard's invitation, therefore, to return to Cape Town with him in his comfortable official saloon was extremely welcome. Sharing Sir Percy's hospitality were two other officers of the engineers, a Canadian and an Englishman, and elsewhere in the train there were two officers of the Cameron Highlanders, who had a standing invitation to meals in the saloon. As we were simply hooked on at the back of the train without any luggage, we had no room for it, and so the train ran for long distances without stopping, it was somewhat difficult to arrange meetings with our Highland friends.

The contrast between this species of traveling and what I had endured over thousands of miles during the war was indeed poignant. We actually had little paper table napkins, and what is even more surprising, a written menu. The sleeping accommodation was narrow but comfortable, and our supplies proved sufficient for the extensive demands made on them. I have the most delightful remembrance of the long, warm afternoons through which we sat smoking cigars in uninterrupted succession, and looking out to the far horizons "vide infra" karoo.

My companions had been through the entire campaign, and endless and excellent were the stories they had to tell. I remember particularly one of hearing about the engine-driver whose train was attacked, I think, near Middelburg. The stoker fell mortally wounded at his side, while the driver himself was shot through both arms by a bullet from the hand of a Boer. He stuck to his post, however, and chiefly by means of his teeth and head, he kept the engine for four or five miles safely into the station. This was one of the most heroic incidents of the war. Sir Percy Giouard tried to get the Victoria Cross for this man, but a medal was the only reward he received. One of my traveling friends had been in command of an armored train, and had many interesting experiences to relate. I have often been very thankful for the presence and support of these ever-looking appliances, but it was apparently too late to have to live in an armored train. Nothing could be done to save the Nanton dwell particularly on the sufferings from cold in the high veldt. He and his men, he said, had often been as dead and actually sick from the cold as if they had been in a heavy storm at sea. They were unable to find any cure for this singular effect of life in an armored train.

THE STRUGGLE WITH APPETITE.

(J. G. Woolley, in Nat. Advocate.) I shall never drink again, but one night in a New England town, and every ill, I met a stranger who pined me and gave me a quick, powerful drug out of a small vial and my pain was gone in a minute or two.

I should have gotten drunk that night, if I could. I thought of everything of my two years of clean life; for by my friend and brother, D. I. Moody, of the bright little home in New York; of Mary and the boys; I tried to pray, and my lips framed words to give to God, and he sent down a messenger, the forest fern of hell had me by the throat, and shouted, 'Drink, Drink, Drink!' I said, 'But Mary—' en to you the unshaken and unshakable confidence of her you love, I beseech you make a fight for the women who wait to-night until the saloon stews out their husbands and their sons, and sends them maddened, brutal, devilish, vomiting, stinking, to their arms.

And you, happy wives, whose hearts have never wavered nor had occasion to waver, and who, when your husbands fail to come on time, can go to bed without a fear and go to sleep with smiles upon your lips, and sleep the long night through too peacefully even to dream, by the mercy of God, that gives you that, I beseech you cast a vote the next time.

And you, who, when your husbands are brought out and you wonder where they all came from. The heavy winter clothing is thrown aside with many shreds of rags. Then a cold wave comes and people say that grip is epidemic. Colds at this season are more dangerous than in mid-winter, as there is much more danger.

DO NOT CROWD THE SEASON. The first warm days of spring bring with them a desire to get out and enjoy the exhilarating air and sunshine.

Children that have been housed up all winter are brought out and you wonder where they all came from. The heavy winter clothing is thrown aside with many shreds of rags.

I should have gotten drunk that night, if I could. I thought of everything of my two years of clean life; for by my friend and brother, D. I. THE "COMP" INTO MY PARLOR STORY

The invitation of the manufacturers of muddy, blotchy and adulterated package dyes to the ladies of Canada to use their poor colors for home coloring is as dangerous as the call of the spider to the fly.

Several years ago, at another time, after a long lecture tour in the west, I telegraphed to my wife in Boston: 'I will arrive home to-night at eleven.'

She stood in the middle of our room as pale and cold and motionless as a woman of snow, and I knew at a glance that the sweet, brave life was in torture.
