SAILORS DODGED 13000 THIRTEEN

Barque Low Wood Formerly of St. John Had Trouble to Get Crew When Thirteen Men Were Wanted--Superstitious Sailor-Women Would Not Take a Chance.

Boston, June 30--"Thirteen? Not for this sailor boy. Thirteen sailors on a dead man's chest, and you'd get a bottle of rum, may be all right in leather-bound novels, but it don't go for a filly-skipper sailor for this child of old Neptune. "Me in a crew of 13 men on a voyage to South America? Next year, no."

Capt. Rodenheiser bought her and rebuilt her into one of the smartest of the bark class around Boston Harbor. The new owner then had her loaded with 916.741 feet of lumber at Mystic wharf, and got out his clearing papers for the port of Buenos Ayres. His real troubles began right there. His bark had been towed down the harbor to a point opposite the New England docks, where she dropped anchor. The skipper was then looking for sailors to man the craft on the voyage. He acknowledged that this crew would be limited to 13, and although the pay was high and the grub was good, the men were the most stork their heads dismally.

HOW CANADIAN PRESS WOMEN SAY THE GREAT WEST OF PRESENT DAY

Another Graphic Story of a Wonderful Country --- Stories of Successful Settlers Who Soon Progressed From Penury to Opulence in the New Land.

ON BOARD THE C. P. R. GARD "WAKEFIELD," NEAR CALGARY. Without warning of their intended invasion, fifteen members of the Canadian Women's Press Club dropped in at the farm home of Mrs. W. M. Douglas, near the Experimental Farm at Indian Head, Sask., one morning last week and were greeted with the most cordial hospitality. Their purpose at the moment was to see the prairie home as well as to see the settlement which they had just visited. They were accompanied by a party of four, including a young man, a young woman, and a child. They were all dressed in the most comfortable and practical manner. They were all dressed in the most comfortable and practical manner.

For 70 miles out from Hanley in the Goose Lake District they are strung all along the trail prospecting and buying land. A peep at the maps in the Calgary Colonization Company's office, where a little capital and some small experience, for being "green Englishmen" who know absolutely nothing of farming, they needed the experience quite as much as the money. They have now a good house, 8 houses, 50 cattle, 30 pigs, lots of poultry and an additional half acre of land which they bought at $14 an acre and they do not owe a cent. Last year they put in $14,000. Not bad for "greenies," who are $14,000 a bushel that cut crop alone should net them $2,800.

But the success of Mr. and Mrs. Lane, who in 1902, came from London to buy a homestead near Calgary, bringing their children, $50 in cash, one team and such household furniture and remains of stock as a rented farm would afford, has been even more marked. They now own a comfortable six roomed house, two barns, 400 acres of land, 130 acres of which is in fall wheat, 30 acres of which are in alfalfa, 150 head of stock, 8 horses and 27 milch cows. Last year they made 1800 pounds of butter, which they sold at an average price of 22 cents a pound. They do not owe one penny and have twice returned $10,000 for their property.

CANADIAN GIRL WILL MARRY AT SEA

One of Windsor, Ontario's, Society Belles to Marry Man of Her Choice in Mid-ocean--The Story Reads Like one of Clark Russell's Tales--Plan is to Evade Legal Technicality.

NEW YORK, June 30--The World today says: On the British steamship Marival, of the Trinidad Trading and Shipment Company, sailing Monday from Brooklyn, will be performed on July 10, a marriage at sea. The bride, who is thus to enact in real life the role of Clark Russell's heroine in his novel of "A Marriage at Sea," is Miss Alice Whyte, of Windsor, Ont., a guest of friends in Mount Vernon.

Miss Whyte is to be married on the high seas to a man of her choice in mid-ocean. She is one of the young society belles of Windsor. Her father was a schoolmaster, Hall Cowan, who went to Port of Spain, Trinidad, where he became secretary of an oil company. When he had prospered and wished to marry his sweetheart he found he did not have time to make the trip to Windsor. So he wrote requesting Miss Whyte to come to Port of Spain for the wedding. But there was this obstacle: the marriage law of the British colony where Mr. Cowan lives requires a residence of two weeks before a license to wed can be made use of. Mr. Cowan solved the problem by the happy expedient of marriage at sea beyond the three mile limit, where the irksome colonial law is not operative.

CITY PEOPLE FLOCK TO SUMMER COTTAGES ON THE NOBLE ST. JOHN

Summer resorts along the river will soon be thronged with pleasure seekers, and now that the schools have closed, those who have been awaiting the beginning of the vacation season are making preparations to spend a few weeks in the country. As usual, though some have sought rural haunts very early in the season, but there are comparatively few in the number. It is quite probable that those who intend to spend the summer along the river will leave the city on or shortly after the holiday.

THE TIMES NEW REPORTER

THESE DEAD TREES. It is stated that a score of trees on Queen Square are dead. Many citizens make the assertion. They certainly present every evidence of lost vitality, and if they were in Mr. Hiram Hornbourn's back field they would be cut down as dead wood. The aldermen saw them the evening they visited Queen Square to receive the notice of the city. Mr. Silas Okum was helped to bury some forty odd them on the 9th of July. The aldermen were only there officially to see the cannon and be seen by the public. It will therefore be necessary for some patriotic citizen to send a communication to the board of works. The board of works will ask the director to report. The director will do so, and the board will make a recommendation to the council. The council will refer it back to the board with power to act. The board will instruct the director to make another report. If he reports that the trees are still dead--they will then be given another chance for their lives.

XXX.
MY YOUNG LORD SETTLES SCORES WITH TWO FOES AT ONCE.

Occupied in wrangling with the groans over the medals of our several sabbies, with the soldiers over politics and the armies, I awaited in a shady corner of the court the conclusion of formalities. I had just declared that King Henry would be in Paris within a week, and was on the point of getting my crown cracked for it, when, as if for the very purpose—the mark!—of rescuing me, entered from the street Lucas. He approached rapidly, eyes straight in front of him, breathing us no whit; but all the longers turned to stare at him. Even then he paid no heed, passing us without a glance. But the tall d'Avray bespoke him.

I abated somewhat of my draw to say, still airy: "Go ask M. de St. Quentin. He's here. He'll be so glad to see you."
"Here?"
"Certain. He's elected now with M. de Mayenne. They're thicker than brothers. Go see for yourself, M.—Lucas."
"Where is mademoiselle?"
"Safe. She's to marry the Comte de Mar tomorrow."
He stared at me for a moment, weighing whether this could be true; then without further parley he shot into the house.
"Is that true?" d'Avray demanded.
Their tongues loosened now, they flooded me with questions concerning mademoiselle, which I answered wearily as I could, heartily repenting me by this of having taken the trouble to go to the house. No good could come of it. He might even turn Mayenne from his bargain, upon all our triumph. I hardly heard what the soldiers said to me; I was almost nervous enough, wild enough, to dash upstairs after him. But that was no help. I stayed where I was, fevered with anxiety.

not walk free again. His Grace bids you tell M. de Mar he remembers Wednesday night, understand."
"And I remember Tuesday night in the council-room, Pierre." I was beginning, but he cut me short. "Even now that I was in favor, he risked no mention of his disobedience. He packed me off with d'Avray on the instant; I had no chance to ask him whether he suspected me yesterday. Sometimes I have thought he did, but I am bound to say he gave us no look to show it."
"D'Avray and I walked straight across Paris to the many-towered Bastille. It seemed a little way. Before the potent name of Mayenne bars flow open, a sentry on guard in the court led us into a small room all stone, floor, walls, ceiling, where sat at the table some high official, perhaps the governor of the prison himself. He was an old campaigner, grizzled and weather-beaten, his right sleeve hanging empty. An interesting figure, no doubt, but I paid him scant attention, for at his side stood Lucas.
"It came on M. de Mayenne's business," he was expatiating, vehement, yet civil. "I suppose he did not think it necessary to write the order, since you know me."
"The regulations, M. de Lorraine." The officer broke off to demand of our escort, "Well, what now?"
"I went straight up to him, not waiting permission, and held out my paper."
"A. order, if it please you, monsieur, for the Comte de Mar's release."

I dashed in past the officer, snatching my horse hand to kiss.
"It's true, monsieur! You're free! It's all settled with Mayenne. Monsieur has seen him; he sees you free. He said, in recognition of Wednesday night."
Incredulous joy flashed over his face, to give away to belief without a moment's delay.
"Now I know she's married."
"Nothing of the sort!" I fairly shouted at him, snatching up and down my errand. "She's to marry M. de Comte. She's at St. Denis with Monsieur. She's to marry you. It's all arranged, Mayenne consents—the king—everybody. It's all settled—she marries you."
Preposterous as it seemed, he could not disbelieve my fervor. He followed us out of the cell and through the fortress in a radiant daze. He half believed himself dreaming. I think, and favored to speak less freely. He walked lightly and gingerly, as if the slightest unvarying movement might break the spell. Not till we were actually in the open door of the court, face to face with freedom, did he rouse himself. With a joyous laugh, he turned to the keeper:
"M. de La Motte, you should employ me, instead of sitting down over reflections, like the Chevalier de Montaigne. You could give us a trenchant essay on the fragility of Man. Here are you both of the biggest men in Paris—a pile more imposing than the Louvre itself. Your hospitality is so eager that you do not care to entertain me, no lavish that you lodge me for nothing, would keep me without a murmur all the end of my life. Yet I desire that I am, depart without a thank you!"
"They don't leave in such cases that they can say well thank me, most of my guests," La Motte answered, with a dry smile. "You are a fortunate man, M. de Mar."
"M. de Comte, will you come quietly with me to the St. Denis gate?" d'Avray asked. "I must borrow a guard from M. de La Motte?"
M. de Lorraine's whole face was smiling; not his lips alone, but his eyes. Even his skin and hair seemed to have taken on a brighter look. He glanced at d'Avray in surprise at the abrupt question.
"I'll come like a lamb, M. le Mousquetaire."
We saluted La Motte and walked merrily out into the Place Basille. I think I never felt so glad as when I passed confidence the noble sally-port, the soldiers making no motion to hinder us, but all going as if we owned the place. It had its advantage, this making friends with Mayenne.

At the end of five minutes he came out of the house again, without a glance at us, went straight through the gate with the step and air of a man who knows well who is about. I was no easier in my mind though I saw him go.
Soon on his steps came a lackey to order M. de St. Quentin's horses and two musketeers to mount and ride with him.

Lucas's hand went out to snatch and crumple it; then his clenched fist dropped to his side. It seemed as if his eyes would blink the paper with their fire. "Just that—the requisition for M. de Mar's release," the officer told him, looking up from it. "All perfectly regular and in order. In five minutes, M. de Lorraine, the Comte de Mar shall be before you. You may have all the conversation you wish."
Lucas's face was as blank as the wall. "I am a soldier, and a soldier's orders must be obeyed," the officer went on to explain, evidently not caring to offend the general's nephew. "Without the written order I could not admit your brother of Guise. But now you can have all the conversation you desire with M. de Mar."
Lucas's face did not change, save to glow at the very name of his brother Guise. He said curtly, "No, I must get back to his Grace's," and, bowing, went from the door.
"What was he up to?" the keeper muttered in his beard. "That Lucas should be in one moment cured of his urgent need of seeing the Comte de Mar was too much for him, but no riddle to me. I know he had come to visit M. de Lorraine in his cell. It was his last chance, and he had missed it. I feared him no longer, for I believed in Mayenne's faith. My master once released, Lucas could not hurt him."
What was as much to the point, the officer had no doubt of Mayenne's good faith. He went with his paper under an inner room, where we caught sight, through the door, of big boots with a clerk or two behind them, and in a moment appeared again with a key.
"Since the young gentleman's a count, I'll do turnkey's office myself," he said, his grim old battlement of a face smiling.

"I dashed in past the officer, snatching my horse hand to kiss."
"It's true, monsieur! You're free! It's all settled with Mayenne. Monsieur has seen him; he sees you free. He said, in recognition of Wednesday night."

Pierre Came to My Elbow with an Open Paper by over the group of us, as if he expected somewhere to find help. At the same time he was not in the least thinking of us. He looked straight at me for a full minute before he spoke to my identity.
"You?"
"Yes, M. de Lorraine," I said, with all the respectfulness I could muster, which may not have been much. Considering our parting, I was ready for any violence. But after the first moment of astonishment he regarded me in a singularly back-lustre way, while he inquired without apparent resentment how I came there.
"With M. le Duc de St. Quentin," I grinned at him. "We and M. de Mayenne are friends now."
I could not repress him even to curiosity, it seemed. But he turned abruptly to the men with more life than he had yet shown.
"You've not told this fellow,"
"We understand your orders, monsieur," d'Avray answered, a bit huffed.
Now this was eminently the place for me to hold my tongue, but of course I could not.
"They had no need to tell me, M. de Lorraine. I know quite well what the trouble is. I know rather more about it than you do yourself."
He confronted me now with all the fire I could see.
"Wasn't mean you, whelp?"
"I mean mademoiselle. What else should I mean?"
"What do you know?"
"Everything."
"Her whereabouts?"
"Her whereabouts?"
He had his hand on his knife by this.

On reaching the door with the sags, I discovered I was not to be of the party; our second steed must carry gear of mademoiselle's and her handwoman, a hard-faced peasant, silent as stone. Though the men quizzed her, asking if she were glad to get the mistress again, whether she had known all this time the lady's whereabouts, she answered no single word, but busied herself with seeing the horse loaded to her noisily. Presently, in the guidance of Pierre, Monsieur appeared.
"You stay, Felix, and go to the Bastille for your master. Then you will wait at the St. Denis gate for Vigo, with horses."
"Is all right, Monsieur?" I had to ask, as I held his stirrup. "Is all right? Lucas?"
His face had a little clouded as he came down the stairs, and now it darkened more, but he answered:
"Quite right, Achilles. M. de Mayenne stands by his word. Lucas availed no thing."
He stood a moment frowning, then his countenance cleared up.
"My faith! I have enough to gladden me without fretting that Lucas is alive. Fare you well, Felix. You are like to reach St. Denis as soon as I. My score horse will not lag."
He sprang to the saddle with a smiling salute to his guardians, and the little train clattered off.
Pierre came to my elbow with an open paper—the order signed and sealed for M. de Mar's release.
"Here, my young cockered, you and d'Avray are to take this to the Bastille, and it will be strange if your master does

Lucas's hand went out to snatch and crumple it; then his clenched fist dropped to his side. It seemed as if his eyes would blink the paper with their fire. BLOOD, PURE, RICH, RED,
That's what makes health.
It's what gives vital strength and enduring nerves.
It's what gives the face, sparkling and vivacious, spirit are all the outcome of good blood supply.
The complexion is also true. Lack of blood tone means lack of those qualities that make life enjoyable.
No surer way exists of purifying and enriching the blood than to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills. By the gentle action on the bowels, kidneys and liver they filter every impurity from the system leaving it wholesome and able to do the work necessary for the maintenance of health.

BIG SHOW WILL BE HERE

Barnum & Bailey Coming With New Circus Acts and Sensational Thrillers.

The Barnum & Bailey Greatest Show on earth will exhibit in St. John July 20 and an arctic entertainment of more than unusual interest may be anticipated with confidence. The character of the performance is indicated by the comments of the press, which has been unanimous in declaring that all previous records of magnitude and novelty have been surpassed this year.
Among this season's most notable announcements are a new military spectacle, allegorically portraying the closing days of the Russo-Japanese war in Manchuria and the triumph of "Pecorey" three distinct sensations, in one of which an automobile, driven by a beautiful French woman, turns a complete somersault in mid-air; a great circus company of 500 European and American artists, who present the latest achievements in riding, acrobatic and aerial dancing; several troupes of remarkably trained horses; an exciting battle scene, presented by the central group of the three great herds of elephants; an entirely new hippodrome, with genuine Kentucky racing stock and jockeys of international reputation, and a largely augmented Zoo of rare wild beasts.
The standard set by the public for the Barnum & Bailey Circus," said a representative of the big show, "places a responsibility upon the management that is accepted with all the untiring effort and heavy expense that it involves. The public has learned to look to this big institution for all that is newest in the line of arctic entertainment, and in order to justify this expectation, an expensive staff of foreign agents, with offices in nearly all the leading capitals in the world, has to be maintained. The duty of these foreign agents is to keep in touch with every new development in the foreign circus world, to engage any and everything of a novel sensation worthy of importation and to make absolutely certain that the Barnum & Bailey circus shall be the first to introduce the big foreign acts to the American public."
The result of the show's foreign service is especially noticeable this year. More novel features than have ever before been seen in a single entertainment crowd each other in the programme, while, I am sure, this season's thrilling aerial automobile and bicycle acts will repeat in this city the startling sensation they have created in every other city where they have been presented. It may also be incidentally interesting to the local public to know that the comprehensive seating scheme originated by this show is still continued, and that everyone purchasing an admission ticket is entitled to a foot-rest seat.
Parades have been entirely eliminated by the Barnum & Bailey circus.

VAN HORNE NOW OWNS IT ALL
The Cuban Senate, last night, passed the Van Horne railway subsidy bill, appropriating $6,000 a kilometre for the construction of twelve branch railway lines, with feeders for the Van Horne system. Subsidies will be paid at a rate not exceeding $500 annually until all roads are completed.
There has been considerable opposition to the bill, but it was taken up and passed last evening in the absence of the strongest advocate of the amendment providing for public bidding.
President Palma has decided to approve the bill on the ground that the country owes a debt of gratitude to Sir William Van Horne for building the main line of the Cuban railway.
This measure gives the Van Horne people full control of the transportation situation in central and eastern Cuba.
At the annual meeting of the Acadia Coal & Coke Co., which was held here yesterday, the old board of directors were re-elected. Hon. H. R. Emmerson was chosen president; Wm. Hall, of Springfield, vice; A. H. P. Randolph, of Fredericton, treasurer; W. H. Treaman, St. John, secretary. The treasurer's report showed $10,000 cash on hand. The company's property consists of valuable coal areas in Ohio, and the owners are New Brunswick and Nova Scotia men. The directors are Hon. Mr. Emmerson, W. Hall, John W. Lewis, Joseph Allison, of St. John; Geo. R. Sangster, of Moncton; Dr. J. R. Inch, of Fredericton; and Mack Curry, of Amherst.

THE VIOLENT BREAK IN PRICES WEDNESDAY
Heavy Losses Throughout the List--The Big Bulls of Two Weeks Ago Have Turned Bears on the Market.

(Wall Street Journal, Thursday)
The stock market yesterday made a false start which deceived a few people into buying stocks for a rally. Such buyers were doomed to great disappointment for before the end of the first hour all the early gains had been lost. The early declines were due mainly to profit-taking and to selling for the account of people who were unwilling to comply with calls for further margins. The market then became dull and irregular until shortly after the noon hour when the bear party made another drive against the market which resulted in a sharp break. On the decline stop-loss orders were reached in volume and further heavy liquidation made its appearance. For a time the market was perfectly demoralized and new low points were reached by the leading stocks. In the last half hour of trading the market became dull and there were slight recoveries from the low point, but they were short-lived and the closing was at the lowest point of the day, with losses ranging from one to ten per cent. throughout the list. Trading again exceeded a million shares and the activity was well distributed throughout the day. News developments were rather mixed, but even the falling market gave rise to pessimism to the selling movement.

AN INCREASE IN GOLD PRODUCTION
It is Expected to Continue for the Next Two Years at Least.
The first indication that the advance in prices of commodities and in the wages of labor is affecting the production of gold will appear, says the Wall Street Journal, in reductions of dividends by gold mining companies. Thirteen Rand companies of South Africa have declared an aggregate of dividends for June of $16,122,000, comparing with $13,900,000 a year. Mining for gold on a large scale will not be continued long after the cost of production exceeds the price of the product, but the cost of production is not an element in the value of the metal as an actual or potential part of the world's money supply. In fact, a director of the United States mint, in an official report upon the production of the precious metals some years ago, expressed the opinion that the greater part of the gold then in use was money had cost more than its coinage value, if the loss in unsuccessful mining operations were taken into consideration. The dividends just declared by the South African mining companies and the successful operations in Alaska and Canada are a guarantee that there will be no curtailment in the production of gold next year, or at least no relaxation of efforts to increase the production of the precious metals. Gold will not buy as much of commodities as it would a few years ago and this is a stimulus to increase pro-

Losses to the stock exchange for the settlement in London were made by the banks at 4 per cent, or 1/2 per cent above the bank rate. This is a very reasonable rate for fourteen days extending over the period of the July dividend payments and the Paris settlement.
There is much disturbance by the new financing of the French government and the market is considerably affected by these issues. If much would be heard of this it were not for the underlying influence of the Russian situation. Russian bonds show no vigorous rallying power and it is to be expected that a substantial part of these issues, particularly the last loan, will be underwritten by the French government. The market is also considerably affected by the subscription to that is a matter easily arranged. The best and worst of the Paris settlement will be known by next Monday. If it is as bad as the market is now, the likelihood of another waters for European market in the coming months. This is at least the opinion of the market. The Russian situation does not become more acute and it may be said that the international bank conference will be the one uncertain market factor.

DROP HAS BEEN A SEVERE ONE
Some Stocks are Now at the Low Level of the Year.
Some Wall Street stocks are at the low level of the year, notably the U. S. Steel issue. Others, in spite of the recent recovery, are considerably below the recent level. Following shows Thursday's low prices, compared with the highest and lowest prices of the year, for the principal stocks.

IRON AND METAL TRADES
Large Orders for Finished Goods from the Steel Corporation this Month.
(The Iron Age)
The flow of orders in the finished trade continues very large. No better prospect can be furnished than the fact that during the first 22 days of the current month, the United States Steel Corporation booked orders at the rate of 37,000 tons per day. This compares with 18,000 tons per day during the corresponding period of 1905, thus showing practically double the quantity. The pressure from buyers abroad is particularly noticeable and foreign markets have been responding during the week American rail mills have booked 35,000 tons of steel rails, chiefly from Mexican and Japanese mills and negotiations are pending for further quantities with South America. There is some chance of this work being taken because it permits of winter rolling. There is no hope of accepting any of the large Canadian tonnage, part of which has just been placed with local works.

SHADOW OF RUSSIA IS ON THE MARKET
Russian Outlook One of the Most Disturbing Factors in Paris and Elsewhere.
It must be admitted, says the Wall Street Journal, that there are some formidable differences to face in the making-up prices fixed for the London settlement now in progress. American stocks have been equally nervous and it is not surprising to hear that the market is in a state of confusion. The Russian situation has also been a disturbing factor in Paris and elsewhere. The street railway yesterday initiated a fifteen minute service in their Carleton street, instead of a thirty minute service as previously given. The Carleton run now runs to Tilton's Corner instead of going to the bridge and transfer is made there from the park cars.
J. C. McKay of Spring street may receive a suit for damages against the city, which was filed last week. Very little interest was shown in the case.
John Rogers, charged by the Singer Manufacturing Company, was brought in and formally committed for trial. It is probable he will take advantage of the Speedy Trials Act. James Goldstein, a lad 19 years old, a native of London, was charged with the murder of a woman in Murray street, and striking Harry O'Donnell on the face, inflicting a bad cut. The case was adjourned until Tuesday morning.

THE PLAYGROUNDS. Before the next issue of this paper appears the supervised playground at the Centennial school will have been formally opened. It is with peculiar satisfaction the Times and Telegraph started this fund that has since grown to such large proportions.

A CONTRAST. Three deaths, one real accident and nearly a dozen heat prostrations were the direct results of the hot wave which struck Boston and New England yesterday. Medical had the availing distinction of being the hottest place in the metropolitan district yesterday.

SEEKERS AFTER TRUTH. The schoolmaster seems to be abroad. That is to say, he is not here, in St. John. But he is greatly needed. One afternoon, at City hall, yesterday afternoon, about half a dozen members of the city council stood up and asked for more time to consider the question of applying the compulsory school attendance law.

GET AFTER THE DOGS. One of the mysteries of civic economy in St. John is the fact that a city council casting about for new sources of revenue to meet an ever increasing expenditure is not permitted its eager gaze to fall on the most conspicuous and no doubt profitable source available.

THE WAGES OF SIN. The more one reads of the sordid and squalid details of the lives of the principals in the New York tragedy, the greater the shock to steady-going people who believe that high position should carry with it a sense of high responsibility.

THE IRISH PIPES. I heard the piper playing, The piper old and blind, And his secret saying, The voice of the summer wind. I heard clear waters falling, Leaping from stone to stone, The wood-dove crying and calling, Ever alone, alone. I heard the bells of the heather ring in the summer breeze, Soft stir of fur and feather And quiet hum of bees. The piper drew me yearning into the dim grey lands, Where there is no returning, Although I wring my hands. There to the piper's crooning "The Ballinmore American," All in a happy nooning, Of golden sun and rain. You piper, kind and hearty, Your pipes upon your knee, If I should tell my story, The things you piped for me. The folk would leave their selling, And bid their buying go, If I could tell my story, The things you let me know. -Katherine Tegen, in The Spectator.

IN LIGHTER VEIN. "THE DOMESTIC BAROMETER." (From the Baltimore Public Ledger). "Do you think it will rain before my-rain-ing?" "No, but I think it will storm when I get home." TOO MUCH SO. (From the Detroit Free Press). "Young Scadsky has a very promising career." "Yes, indeed. He's always promising, but he never pays." ONE IDEA. (From the Philadelphia Public Ledger). "Every woman has one fixed belief about her age, no matter what her age may be." "And that is?" "That she doesn't look it." SOUNDED THAT WAY. (From the Philadelphia Public Ledger). "Your goodness' sake. What's that noise?" "The girl next door is having her voice cultivated." "Apparently the process of cultivation has reached the harrowing season." NOT WHAT HE THOUGHT. (From the Milwaukee Sentinel). "Senator, I presume your maiden speech was received with acclamations of approval, was it not?" "I thought so at the time," replied Senator Badger, "but I afterward learned they were exclamations of disgust."

WANTING. (From the Milwaukee Sentinel). "What are you young Smithsons' doing so worried lately?" "It's her husband. Before they were married he used to say she was one in a million. After they were married he called her one in a thousand." "And now?" "He calls her one in a hundred." RIVALRY. (From the Chicago Tribune). Traveller (whose train has stopped for coal and water): "Why don't you people here annex that little town we passed through about a mile back?" Native (on the station platform): "Good! That's what we've been wanting to do, but they're trying to annex us now, and we'll fight 'em till the Panama canal's finished 'fore we'll let 'em do that!"

LATER NEWS. (From the Philadelphia Press). "Your wife" began the reporter, "and the man with whom she eloped have been located in New York. They were on their way to Europe, but they lost their money." "Well," said the man, quite unmoved. "Well—er—" stammered the reporter, "you thought you might want the news, and—" "That's not the news. The news is that I've just sent them enough money to see them through."

IMMIGRATION TO CANADA. It is now pretty well seen what the total immigration into this country for the present fiscal year will likely be. During the first ten months of the year the total was 117,865 arrivals, as compared with 92,309 for the same time last year. This total was made up as follows: During 1906, from continental Europe 23,739, from United States 43,237, and from the United Kingdom 20,829. In 1905 the arrivals from continental Europe totalled 23,637, from the United States 31,096, and from the United Kingdom 45,715. The total arrivals for the period show an increase of 18,176 over those of the same time last year.—Bradstreet's.

A MORE OR LESS TRUTHFUL TALE

About the Joys of Going to Seaside Park With the Crowd on a Holiday.

The Saturday half-holiday is now in evidence, and many people, attracted by the rapid (7) mode of transportation, furnished by the St. John Railway Company, travel to Seaside Park by way of recreation.

It matters not what part of the city you are coming from, it is always best to walk to the foot of King street, as you will not have to wait there more than an hour. Take any car first happens along, they all likely not to connect with the Douglas avenue line (don't forget to tell the conductor that you want a transfer for the park soon after you leave Paradise Row). When you arrive at the avenue you will have plenty of time to go into any of the stores around, and have a chat with a friend over the telephone, unless, quite by accident, the car you want happens to be there waiting. This, however, is unusual.

When, at last, the car does arrive, board it quickly. Cars, like the tide, wait for no man. After speeding over the ground for about ten minutes, the car will stop about five feet from the end of the line, but as soon as you have arisen, it will start again, and though you will probably fall into some young lady's arms and knock some elderly lady's bonnet all askew, don't mind that, just smile and blame these "bessy cars." Even cars have moods and go by fits and starts. After matters have been adjusted satisfactorily, not forgetting the bonus, jump off and run as fast as possible over the bridge.

When you get about ten feet from the car waiting at that end of the famous Park line, the conductor will nervously bang the gong, and joyfully tinkle the bell which orders that car on its way, leaving you in a terrible rage, an object of scorn and perhaps being bearing; for unless you have a wonderful amount of self-control, your temper asserts itself in a manner that is not to the credit of the delight of the youngsters, who endeavor to drown your various exclamations with shouts of laughter.

But you laughed too soon, if you did laugh. There you are seated so comfortably and waiting to reach your destination, when the pleasing voice of the conductor informs you that "This car goes City line!" Then suddenly his voice seems to change, and you wonder why his tones seem so harsh as he cries out, "This car goes City line!" There is nothing for you to do but get out and follow the way through a crowd of youngsters, shouting as always "Peas-out-five a bag," you will come to a first-class photograph studio and a splendid merry-go-round, and the pool parades speak for themselves. A photograph is always in operation there. Posing on a little rug, there is a tea-house, where you may have an ice-cream. A flight of steps leading down to the "show line" have lately been retained, as now anyone may descend with ease, without troubling their toes and being forced to make their descent with a rapidity rather disconcerting to the participant, and lacking both dignity and gracefulness. Keep up your courage, you don't know what you'll "dicker" at all. It's those everlasting boys yelling "Peas-out-five a bag" that is the worst. Passing either to the right or left, you can reach the beach by way of a wooden walk, and the camp, camp, camp of your heavy boots announces your arrival to those who are before you.

One thing you must remember is that two is company, three is not, four is too many, and five is not allowed. Be careful not to sit down any place where you are not wanted, or you'll get an "ear-full" and those shoes before you.

Now sit down some place far away from everybody and try to gather yourself together in order to face the return trip. It is the time for mid-night music once again, but don't get discouraged. You'll be in time for mid-night music as the car will likely run off the track; but you will be able to appreciate the restfulness and peacefulness of home when you get there. She will understand, I think, don't you? SAUNTERER.

NATURE'S BALMS TO BEAUTIFY THE SKIN

In the summer more than at any other season of the year a girl requires those little accessories to the toilet table and bath which keep one cool and preserve the delicacy of the complexion. In cities it is an easy matter to provide cucumber cream, almond and lemon lotions to whiten and soothe a skin irritated by sun and wind. But in the country this will not seem so easy. The wise girl will look to Nature for her healing and beautifying balms, and Nature never fails her. Here are some simple and effective balms, articles to be found anywhere:

Fresh cucumber peeling will soothe, whiten and soften the skin. Almond lozams, steeped into a tea, make an excellent lotion for the complexion, and help it also when taken as a tea. Raw tomatoes, rubbed over face, arms and neck, greatly beautify the skin, and nothing gives a livelier tint to the complexion than a rub with watermelon. Either the skin or inside of the rind. Tea made from steeping the leaves of orange trees help clear the complexion. The same happy results are obtained by drinking water in which orange blossoms have been boiled. If this decoction be had as a drug store, while any one can make the other in three minutes' time.

In this season of drought rain a girl need never be without rain water to wash face and hair in. It is extremely beneficial to both hair and skin. Once stored in a clean jar, it is good to clear the eyes and relieve irritation caused by sun, dust, and the glare of sand at the seashore. Nothing, however, is so good, so simple and so beautifying as Nature's remedy, handed down by lovely Spanish seamstresses for hundreds of years. To make this lotion, cut a small incision in the side of a grape vine, insert a tiny follow tube of wood or straw with a flat end in the incision, and have a vial just under the end of the tube. In the course of twenty-four hours a surprising quantity of sap will be found in the bottle, and this acts like a charm, externally and internally, upon inflamed eyes. The spring is the best season in which to secure the sap in quantity.

One can never have too many bath bags for the summer. Make a number of open-mouthed bags, and fill each with a mixture of cucumber, almond, and geranium oils, powdered, and, if the skin is stained, a little benzoin when the bag is put to use. Such a bag is wonderfully refreshing in the bath, and soothed and beautifies the skin. Lemon juice squeezed over it in the bath will relieve sunburn and help "ry an eye" in the evening.

Now that women wear bare arms to the elbow, thin-armed girls will be glad to learn that they may secure plump arms by rubbing olive oil well into the skin every night. It is absolutely necessary to get pure olive oil for the purpose, since any other kind will cause hair to grow upon the skin, and greasy nearly all cheap oils are made from cotton seed. They are wholesome to eat, but not good for the skin.

In getting lotions and creams for the toilet, keep as close to Nature's remedies as possible. They cannot harm the skin and are the best. For the reason, rice powder is safe and cooling, while prepared chalks dry and shrivel the skin in many cases, and many powder preparations contain chalk. Very beneficial to the skin is a bath of lavender water. It should be of good quality. It tones up the skin and helps to magically smooth away tired wrinkles from the face.

LEADING MUSICIANS ENDORSE New Scale Williams Piano

Professors of music, eminent composers, artists of the concert stage, speak in flattering terms of the pure, singing tone-sensitive touch—faultless mechanism—and elegant appearance of the New Scale Williams Piano. They are competent critics.

LABOR WORLD

John Burns, as president of the local government board in England, says that the government will take up the old age pension question when the report of the Poor Law Commission has been received. Personally, he is of opinion that it would be best, amended and improved, in inaugurating an old age pension scheme, to give everyone a pension of 5s. per week on reaching the age of 65, military, naval, civil, and municipal pensions to be excluded.

The International Typographical Union has announced the election of officers to serve for two years, as follows: President, James F. Lynch; first vice-president, John W. Hay; secretary-treasurer, J. M. Bramwood.

The French cabinet has announced that the government refuses to recognize the right of estate employees to strike.

A site for the proposed labor temple for Cleveland trade unionism has been purchased. The price that will eventually be paid is $18,000. It has not been decided just how much money will be expended.

Montreal journeymen bakers have practically secured all their domestic, including the request of the men for $15 a week, with $18 a week for foremen.

The tobacco workers are making a fight in an effort to replace with union made goods the large amount of non-union tobacco now on the market.

At a conference of delegates from the building trades, held at Sydney, Australia, recently, to discuss the workings of the New South Wales Arbitration Act, the feeling was that the act, in its present form, was not acceptable to organized labor, rather than work under the unamalgamated law, delegates were of opinion that a return to the old methods of industrial warfare was preferable.

Legislation has made possible in Lombardy, Italy, the application of rigid laws governing the employment of women and children in factory labor, in the protection of workmen in compulsory insurance and pensions, and in better housing for the working class. Women's hours for labor and the age at which children may be employed are definitely fixed.

The Seventeenth Mines' International Congress at its session in London, England, recently, adopted motions demanding the passage of laws totally prohibiting the employment of women in the mining industry, the employment of children under 14 years of age, and the employment of boys under the age of 16 years, in underground work. These motions were supported by the American delegates.

The Carpenters' Union of Spokane, Wash., intends to build a labor temple in the near future.

The International Typographical Union has obtained the eight-hour days in 45 cities and towns, and there are nearly 40,000 union men working in these places. About 4500 are still on strike.

The cotton manufacturers of Fall River, Mass., have granted the operators 14 per cent. increase in wages. About 35,000 hands are benefited. The new scale, which will take effect July 2nd, is practically the same as that prevailing previous to July 1, 1904. The change is expected ultimately to affect all cotton mill workers in this section.

The Australian Old-Age Pension Commission recommends paying $2.50 per week to every British white subject of the commonwealth who is 65 or 60 if permanently disabled. Exceptions are made of those who are worth $1,500 or more, or have $130 a year independent income. New Zealand and the States of New South Wales and Victoria have already such acts in force, with a total of 45,222 pensioners.

The membership of the 618 labor unions of Great Britain and Ireland in 1904 was 1,544,461.

Retail grocery clerks of East Liverpool, Ohio, will attempt to secure a 9 o'clock closing hour to take the place of the present 7 o'clock law.

The New York carpenters' strike and lock-out is ended.

An employees' association similar to those in Chicago and Cincinnati, is being organized in the city of Toledo, Ohio. The principal object of the association will be the promotion of the open shop and the protection of the employees in the event of strikes or lock-outs.

The Brotherhood of Railroad Freight and Baggage-men of America is the youngest of the railroad brotherhoods. It is also having a rapid growth and now numbers 106 divisions situated in different parts of the United States and Canada.

Philadelphia brewery workers have won a victory. A new three-year contract has just been signed which provides that the hours of labor of engineers and firemen are reduced from twelve to eight per day, without a cut in wages; brewers secure a reduction from ten to nine hours; the drivers receive $1 per week increase and an hour less per day, and other employees proportional benefits. About 1,800 men are benefited.

Despatches from Rome announce a general strike throughout Italy as now in force. It was organized by the Central Chamber of Labor at Milan, as a protest against the firing on strikers at the city of Turin.

The strike of the Cigar-makers' Union against the firm of Regensburg & Son, N. Y., has been settled. Six hundred men have returned to work, as the firm signed an agreement for one year granting union conditions.

The Cleveland molders and coenmakers received increases of wages after several weeks of negotiating. The minimum of the molders will be $3 for nine hours and the coenmakers will receive $2.75 for nine hours.

The latest union formation is the Marine Drivers' and Tender's Union, recently organized at Cleveland, O. Branches are to be established in other port cities on the lakes and the seaboard.

The mayor of Boston has notified the Electrical Workers' Union that the men employed in the fire alarm department will be put on an eight-hour basis.

The glass factories will probably run all summer, instead of closing down as usual, on account of the great demand for rebuilding San Francisco.

TRAVELLING COSTUMES ADMIRIED IN PARIS

PARIS, June 24. — Costumes de voyage are just now occupying the attention of many of the great makers.

With it all, Paris is full of inconsistencies in this all important matter. Visitors from the provinces, whose styles are renewed only every ten years, pass unremarked, while all the odd costumes of costume countries are accepted as a matter of course.

able taste—and, above everything, the slim figures necessary for this dress. A gentle tap at the Parisian here who gets fat, also, too soon, and once more a very amiable little sermon against the toilettes first worn by the stranger.

dull red or brown. For brown shoes 'chamois' and 'dust' are new shades. As to form for coats shown by this maker, models were countless. A species of half-fitting raglan with a cape—covering only the shoulder and back of the coat—was one exclusive design.

The vogue of all the silky, handsome blouses of the summer continues unabated, and gowns shown for first autumn use almost invariably display them.

Many costumes for Autumn brides are included among the travelling things, even of these showing skirts and long loose coats in pale brown, sage-gray or Venetian red cloth.

More charming inspiration is gained from Princess Kina's marriage, this important event giving rise to a tremendous revival in Spanish shawls and ornaments of all sorts.

KEEP CHILDREN WELL. Stomach and bowel troubles kill thousands of little ones during the hot weather.

SOFT GINGERBREAD. Put one-half cup of cream, either sweet or sour, into a mixing bowl, with 1 1/2 cups of molasses, one-quarter cup of butter, the same of lard and one well beaten egg.

POTATO SALAD. While warm chop freshly boiled new potatoes rather fine or so that no pieces are as large as a pea.

When the tantalizing flavors Of the Limes jump out the bowl, You can feel the joy just trickling Round the corners of your soul,

The Foundation of good bread is good wheat. There is a difference between the abilities of women as cooks—and there is a difference between the mills where "Five Roses" Flour is made and the ordinary mills, but unless the wheat is good neither the best cook nor the most up-to-date mill can insure the best bread.

It is admitted that the finest wheat in the world is grown in Manitoba. The soil is a deep, rich alluvial deposit, containing just the elements needed for wheat growing.

With the numerous elevators we have scattered throughout Manitoba and the Northwest, we are able to secure the pick of the harvest, and users of "Five Roses" Flour get the best flour that can be made from the best wheat in the world.

COUNCIL TAKES TIME ON COMPULSORY ACT

Consideration of Compulsory Education Law Deferred Until Next Wednesday - - Recorder Advises This as Safe Course, and Aldermen Agree On It.

No decision as to putting the law relating to compulsory education in force in St. John was made at the meeting of the common council yesterday afternoon. After some discussion, during which the majority of the aldermen admitted that they knew little as to the provisions of the act, it was decided to further consider the question on Wednesday next at the regular monthly meeting.

Ald. McGoldrick—"Ald. Hamm wants us to vote on something we know nothing about. We have a perfect right to read the act over first. The Telegraph comes out this morning that we should all stand up and be counted if we throw this out, and I suppose we are responsible citizens. We have had brains enough to run this city for a good many years and with considerable success, I think. We ought to each have a copy of the act and not vote on it today. Ald. Hamm says everyone is in favor of it. He knows nothing about it, any more than what he's heard on the street, as I have. We have a right to consider the matter, though, and I don't care what that is if it is a good act."

Ald. Bullock referred to the crowded condition of the present school buildings and the serious problem which confronted the trustees. Passing the resolution might mean a decision of the question of a new building. The measure was one which should have been adopted years ago. He saw no harm in adopting the resolution.

Miss Peters, in reply to the mayor, said she and Mr. Hatheway were present as members of the citizens' committee who had taken part in the movement in 1900. She would be much disappointed if the matter were postponed. The places in the province had adopted the act. She had no figures as to children who did not attend school, but the need of compulsory education was undoubtedly very great. If the act were put into force it could then be found out how much help would be required and what additional buildings might be necessary. She believed one trustee officer would be sufficient. There was, in her opinion, an objection to the police doing more than act as auxiliaries, and she thought a lady visitor to the parents would be capable of much better work. St. John was very much behind the times when it was seen that the act was in force in every country town and village.

Ald. Lewis said he would not vote for the scheme until he knew how many children the act would affect, until the extra buildings were ready, and the money which would be needed had been secured. Ald. Eckett said there could be no excuse for delay unless it was that five of the council were absent. It was unfortunate that so many of the aldermen should say they were not familiar with the act as it was clearly their duty to be up in all questions of the day. Compulsory education had been before the public for a long time, the press was full of it and delegations had interviewed the government on the question. Had not the aldermen read these things? The act in question was to be framed by the school trustees and consisted in nothing more than long discussion. The aldermen then referred to the working of a similar act in Halifax and gave the objects for which it was provided. It was framed, he said, to deal with boys who stayed away from school unknown to their parents, to give education to the children of drunks and vicious parents and also to provide for children whose parents were unable to provide them with books, clothing and other necessities. If the city, the aldermen concluded, had not proper accommodation it was clearly their duty to do so. St. John was as much bound in this respect as every little town and village in the province.

Ald. Tilley said no doubt every one is being in compulsory education but it was going to cost money. He could not vote for it for two or three months. It might come round in time. Ald. Pickett then moved and Ald. Bullock seconded the resolution that the act be referred to the next meeting to be made an amendment and was carried without being challenged. The tender of the Canadian Bank of Commerce for the new 4 per cent city loan of $721,000 at 97 1/2 was accepted. It was decided to continue to operate the North End electric light station for another month, from July 1 in order to give the railway company time to secure the new lights which had not yet been delivered.

Ald. Lockhart brought up the subject of the street railway not having their tracks in the south section of Carleton, and on motion it was decided to ask the recorder to ascertain the city's position in the matter. Ald. Lockhart contended that the work should be proceeded with regardless of Union street troubles. To help along so good a cause as the children's Playground Association fund, kindly acknowledge amount and oblige. "Yours respectfully, "A. D. SAWYER."

PLAYGROUND FUND $1,472.55 Montreal Business Men Send Generous Cheques to Aid Plan. The playground fund made another big jump yesterday, thanks to a generous sheet of cheques from kind friends of the good work. The total is now almost $1,500, and evidently it will soon exceed that pleasing figure. The following are some of the letters received from those sending subscriptions: "I wish to congratulate you in this movement, and hope that you will meet with every success for the benefit of this enterprise. "I remain, yours sincerely, "G. H. SIMPSON, "District Mgr. North American Life."

MONSTROUS STORIES ARE PRACTICALLY CONFIRMED

Anthony Comstock Investigated Awful Tales About Stanford White and Found Them True--Harry Thaw Will Plead That White Deserved to Die.

New York, June 29--The murder of Stanford White by Harry Thaw continues to occupy the public attention. Thaw has been held by the coroner's jury for the grand jury, has been indicted by the grand jury for murder in the first degree and has pleaded not guilty to the indictment. He will probably be tried in September.

FIRST PICTURE OF HARRY THAW TAKEN FOR ROGUE'S GALLERY.

To plead emotional insanity, that Thaw suffered from a passing fit of madness brought on by great provocation. The emotional insanity plea is a timely excuse for justification upon which Thaw's lawyers will rely before the jury. If, indeed, the jury accepts the view that Thaw was insane when he killed White and is sane now the young man will not even have to undergo the inconvenience of temporary incarceration in a mad house.

There is a great deal of activity on the part of White's friends who were members of the coterie that revolved about the lights of Madison Square Garden. All sorts of scandals are promised and more than a few prominent men are quaking in their shoes. Every influence has been brought to bear upon the newspapers to hush the talk about White's past life. It is argued that it is in terrible taste to attack a dead man, that Thaw is a worthless and dissipated young cut-throat and should be left alone to rot in jail. It is a sad case, however, that the only way to save their client is to show everything they can against White.

Thaw's wife, Evelyn Nesbit, undoubtedly will sell all her relatives and friends, and is expected to show that he pushed her right up to the night her husband killed him. A number of powerful influences that will be brought to bear will be sufficient to keep other names out of the scandal in a condition that they will not let Mr. Thaw and his newspapers can prevent it. The story is that Mrs. Nesbit was at one time interested in the beautiful Evelyn Nesbit. Mrs. Nesbit was a chorus girl once herself. It is said that Mrs. Thaw on the morning after the murder made a personal appeal to Mr. Nesbit and that he at once placed all his available forces at the disposal of her cause. Certainly Nesbit's New York papers have been indelible in publishing the most horrible stories about White. The Evening Journal today says editorially:

If one-tenth is true of that which is told, the body of Stanford White was not fit to be buried beside the time taken corpse of any convicted murderer in the murderer's graveyard on the hill above Sing Sing. If the stories told are true, every day of the dead man's life was an exercise against the community, against the safety of childhood. Either Stanford White is the most dreadfully maligned and slandered man in the world's whole history or his life was prolonged infinitely beyond its proper limits and the hand that destroyed him was as much a benefactor as a murderer.

WILL VISIT IRELAND Rev. Fr. O'Rourke, Newly Ordained Priest, Will Spend Lengthy Vacation in Erin. Rev. Father P. O'Rourke, who was ordained by Bishop O'Reilly at St. Lawrence College a couple of days ago, will arrive in the city this afternoon, and will celebrate his first mass in St. Peter's church Sunday morning at nine o'clock. Rev. Fr. O'Rourke will remain in the city about a week and during that time will be the guest of John McCarthy, St. James street. At the expiration of that time he will leave for Wicklow, Ireland, where his parents reside. The young priest came to this country from Ireland five years ago, and after a brief course at St. Joseph's University he went under the direction of Bishop O'Reilly to St. Lawrence College, where he completed his theological course.

WHEN WOMEN LOVE "When Women Love" suggests so much to the human mind that we cannot pass it by as the usual drama. How much it must convey to every intelligent person! It is a study of wife, mother, sweetheart. A poor girl, buffeted on the waves of adversity meets the man she loves, accused of crime, with an invalid mother and a younger sister to support, despite the temptations and pitfalls placed in her path by the mercenary schemers against her happiness, her belief is unshaken, her faith in the man she loves is true, and, in spite of all obstacles, love is triumphant and all ends well.

WEDDINGS

Payne-Nevis
A very quiet wedding was held this morning in Trinity church when Rev. Canon Richardson united in marriage Miss Minnie Vivian Nevis, daughter of Charles J. Nevis, and Stephen Andrew Payne, son of the late R. A. Payne.

The groom was attended by John R. Hecock, manager of the Dominion Express Co., and the bride was attended by Mrs. J. Nevis.

The bride was given away by her father. She wore a costume of navy blue broadcloth with French braid to match, and carried a bridal bouquet. The newly married couple left on the early train for Fredericton and returned on the 11:00 a. m. train. They received many beautiful presents including a Morris chair from the Dominion Express Co. party. The groom's present to the bride was a gold chain and locket.

Taylor-Bell
A quiet wedding took place this morning at six o'clock, at the home of Joseph Bell, 36 Hornum street, when his only daughter, Miss Edna C. Bell, was married to Robert Ernest Taylor, of the lumber survey staff of James Hally & Sons. The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. W. Nichols, curate of St. Luke's and the bride, who was unattended, wore a party blue travelling costume with hat of corresponding colors.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served and Mr. and Mrs. Taylor left by the Prince Rupert for a trip through Nova Scotia. On their return they will reside at their new home, Main street, North End.

The bride was the recipient of numerous wedding gifts, among them a dozen solid silver spoons from the firm and employees of James Hally & Sons and $100 in cash from her father.

Harris-Ferris
A happy event took place at 7 o'clock this morning at the Victoria street United Baptist parsonage when Alfred J. Harris and Miss Lillian Ferris, daughter of Samuel Ferris of Fredericton, in St. John County, were married by the pastor, Rev. David Long.

The happy couple left by the May Queen for a wedding trip and on their return will reside in the North End.

Neaves-Bolter
Miss Carrie Bolter and Joseph Neaves were married yesterday at 4:30 by Rev. Mr. Hutchinson at the United Baptist church parsonage, Douglas Ave. The happy couple leave for Fredericton at 5:30 today on their wedding trip.

Williams-Tingey
A nuptial event, which will be of interest to a large number of St. John people, takes place in Christ church Cambridge, Mass., at 3 o'clock this afternoon, when Miss Amy L. Tingey, daughter of Mrs. T. H. Tingey, of 89 Pitt street, St. John, will be married to Frank C. Williams, formerly of this city, but now a resident of New York.

The ceremony will be performed by the pastor, Rev. P. Evans, and the bride will be given away by her brother, T. H. Tingey, of Cambridge. The happy couple will reside in Brooklyn, N. Y.

A KIDNAPPING STORY
The twelve-year-old daughter of Frederick Jensen, of 18 Meadow street, tells that while she and the little son of Albert Harris, also of Meadow street, were in the vicinity of the bathhouse in Brookwood Park yesterday afternoon a man came along and dragged them both into the bushes. She managed to escape, and on arriving home reported the matter and the police were notified.

The park was searched, but neither the offender nor the boy could be found. About five o'clock the little Harris boy reached home and told a story similar to that of the little girl. The latter described the man as wearing dark clothing and a hard hat. She says that he had a light moustache. On being closely questioned the girl was somewhat confused and the police do not take much stock in the story.

ANOTHER POSITION
Gregory Brown, of this city, left by today's train to accept a position with a prominent lumbering concern on the north shore. This position was secured by him through the employment bureau of The Currie Business University, Ltd.

FIREMEN WILL MAKE FINE SHOW

They Will Have a Fine Turn-out at the Firemen's Parade at Fredericton Monday.

The preparations of the St. John firemen and salvage corps members for their part in the big tournament, have been completed. The two salvage corps wagons and the chief's team were sent up on the steamer Victoria this morning. The three teams have been handsomely decorated. No. 1 salvage wagon looked particularly handsome. The design is of an ellipse form rising from the four corners of the team, and surmounted by a palm, these being also a palm on each corner. The trimming is of moss, roses and chrysanthemums, and is arranged by a matched pair provided by Chief Butler of Fredericton. Two little girls, appropriately dressed, will ride on the wagon, Joseph Irvine designed and superintended the work.

No. 1 salvage wagon was nicely decorated with flowers and ribbons. The rear of the wagon was banked with flowers, the axles were entwined with evergreen and red, white and blue ribbons. On each side of the seat was a triangle of flowers and over the seat was a canopy also with floral decorations.

The men from the different companies will go up on Monday morning, accompanied by the City Coroner band.

Following are the sports entries from the firemen:

The first hose reel team will be composed of the following men: George Pollock, J. Campbell, J. McAndrews, W. Leary, J. Speight, J. Ingraham, E. Beck, J. Hamilton, G. Swanton, F. Haines.

The ladder team will be made up of J. McKay, F. Haines, R. Smith, F. Shannon, G. Lobbi, C. Swanton spare man.

S.S. HURON FOR ST. JOHN ROUTE

Former Clyde Liner Will Replace the Calvin Austin on Direct Boston Service.

(Boston Post)
With the resumption of direct service, Boston to St. John, of the International division, from Union wharf next Monday, a new steamship, the Huron, late of the Clyde line, joins the magnificent fleet of white liners already in the service between Boston and all points east, operated by the Eastern Steamship Company.

The Huron goes in commission as a companion steamer to the St. Croix, plying coastwise in place of the Calvin Austin, between Boston and St. John, touching at Portland, Eastport and Lubec.

As in the case of all the other steamers of the Eastern Steamship Company, this new recruit has every modern appliance for comfort, luxury and safety. The Huron is a propeller, and was built in Philadelphia in 1902.

It is 201 feet long, 43 feet breadth and 21 feet depth, with a gross tonnage of 2910 and 200 horsepower. There are 75 staterooms, each comfortable, commodious and well appointed, of two bunks each, beds, chairs, etc.

The dining room, a large and very attractive apartment, is situated on the second deck. The ship also has two social halls, one on the promenade deck and one on the saloon deck, besides a large smoking hall on the promenade deck.

W. C. T. U. PRICES
They Have Not Been Cut But Advanced 25 cents per Week

A statement was made in this morning's Telegram to the effect that restaurant keepers charge the W. C. T. U. coffee room with cutting prices.

Mrs. Dearborn, president of the W. C. T. U., and Mrs. S. D. Scott called at the Times office this morning to state that the club was utterly untrue, as instead of cutting prices they have increased them twenty-five cents per week.

With regard to the statement that "Ed. Ford's last night to interview the ladies in charge of the W. C. T. U. coffee room were unsuccessful," the ladies remark that they are quite ready to be interviewed on the subject at any time.
