Russia Desperately in Need of Ammunition

Situation Making Feeling of Anxiety in England—More Stirring Fighting in West and Germans Retake Ground in Violent Offensive

New York, July 5.—A Herald cable from London says:—Russia's desperate need of ammunition is shown by the continuous retreat of Grand Duke Nicholas' forces in Galicia and Southern Poland. To say that England is disturbed by the constant reports of German successes in the eastern theatre of the war is to put it mildly. British authorities are anxiously asking what can be done to stem the tide.

Two courses are open. On the one hand, it is proposed to begin a violent general offensive in the west in the hope of forcing a transfer of German troops from the east and thus relieving the pressure against the Russians. On the other hand, the more conservative military writers think that the time for this is not at hand, that the best aid England can lend her eastern ally, is to put into Russia every ounce of ammunition that can be spared without curtailing the necessary supply at the western front.

The Russian Retreat. Toronto, July 5.—A despatch to the Globe from Ostrow, Poland, sent by Stanley Washburn, who has been with one of the retreating Russian armies, says:—"Regarding the movement as a whole, suffice it to say that in the two weeks following the change of line, this one army inflicted upon the enemy a loss of nearly 30,000 killed, wounded, and prisoners. The Russian losses were comparatively trifling. French Report. Paris, July 5.—The French War Office reports:—"North of Arras, two attempts at attack on the part of the enemy, preceded by a violent bombardment were checked by us. One was directed particularly against our positions in front of Souchez. The Germans came out several times from their trenches, armed with grenades and bombs, but were compelled them to withdraw, leaving many dead. The other took place at the abutment but it was at once stopped by our fire.

Yesterday afternoon and in the evening, the Germans assumed the offensive along a front of about three miles stretching from Fey-en-Haye to the Meuse. To the east of Haye-en-Haye, as well as in the western section of the front of Lezere, along a front of about two thirds of a mile, they were successful, after a very violent bombardment, in gaining a footing in their lines. In the rest of the front, they were unable to move beyond the line. Further to the east on a line running from Croix-Des-Carmes to the village of Riepten, the Meuse, a German attack resulted in complete failure, and the enemy suffered very heavy losses. Berlin Denies It. London, July 5.—The Russian report regarding the destruction of a vessel of the Deutschland class is denied in Berlin. It also denies that the mine layer Albatross lowered the German flag before running ashore on Swedish territory. The Russians are said to have fired fifteen hundred shells at the Albatross, of which only twenty-five were hits. An eyewitness of the naval battle asserts that nearly the entire stern of a Russian warship was shot away. TALLY'S FIGHT. Rome, July 5.—Several attacks by Austrians on Saturday were repulsed. The Italians captured 300 prisoners, two field guns, and munitions. According to prisoners, the Austrian losses, especially from artillery fire, have been serious in the last few days. Food for the Swiss. Rome, via Paris, July 5.—The Tribune announces a satisfactory conclusion of the negotiations between Italy and Switzerland regarding provisioning the latter country. Its neutral state has been having difficulty in getting food supplies. It is said assurances have been given that all the necessities have been taken care of. Supplies from nations in the quadruple entente will be consumed solely in Switzerland.

RECRUITING. Recruits are not offering themselves to any appreciable extent in the 80th Battalion, from St. John. Only one man, Gordon P. Anderson, was sent on Saturday from here, to Sussex. A few applied for places with the battalion here today. MONTREAL THIS WEEK. Allan Linn Stellan and Pretorian are with reported due at Montreal on Wednesday. HEAVIER TRAVEL. The steamer Governor Dingley reached port this morning from Boston with 271 passengers. PHEASANT WEATHER BULLETIN. Issued by authority of the Department of Marine and Fisheries, R. F. Stewart, director of meteorological service.

Synopsis.—A fairly pronounced disturbance accompanied by showers and moderate westerly gale is passing northwesterly across the Great Lakes. The weather has been mostly fair in Quebec and the maritime provinces, and also in western provinces.

Shower. Maritime—Mostly fair today, followed on Tuesday by increasing southwest and west wind with showers and many localities.

MORGAN TODAY OUT OF DANGER

Doctors So Notified Family This Morning ASSAILANT VERY WEAK

Condition of Holt is Described as Serious—Planned to Hold Mrs. Morgan and Children Hostages or Kill Them

Glen Cove, L. I., July 5.—J. P. Morgan, who was shot twice by Frank Holt, last Saturday night, is out of danger. His physicians so notified his family this morning. Mr. Morgan's pulse was normal, his temperature was normal, and he passed a restful night. Holt, the assassin, on the other hand, was so weak today that when his keepers went to his cell to arouse him, he could not sit up in his couch. Unless his condition improves rapidly, and there seems no reason to expect so radical a change, it will be impossible for him to be taken into court for examination next Wednesday.

All plans to submit Holt to a further questioning today were abandoned because of his serious condition. Holt, the assassin, on the other hand, was so weak today that when his keepers went to his cell to arouse him, he could not sit up in his couch. Unless his condition improves rapidly, and there seems no reason to expect so radical a change, it will be impossible for him to be taken into court for examination next Wednesday.

MIGHT HAVE KILLED THE CHILDREN. New York, July 5.—Efforts were made here at Glen Cove, L. I., and in several other cities, today, to clear up the mystery surrounding the identity of Frank Holt who attempted to assassinate J. P. Morgan. One of the important questions was raised by the police of Cambridge, Mass., regarding the possible identification of Holt as Erich Muenster, a former Harvard instructor, who disappeared from that city after the death of his wife, from alleged poisoning in 1906. Statements made by Holt, Muenster and men who know him as a student in Chicago, comparing descriptions of Muenster with their recollection of Muenster, were read with interest by the detectives on the case. Photographs of Muenster were compared with those of Holt.

Until late last night Holt was questioned by police officials from New York and Washington. Major Pullman superintendent of the Washington police, endeavored to locate the room that Holt occupied while in Washington, before the exploding bomb in the capitol but was unable to do so. In the course of his examination Holt admitted that he had not received such a request. Mr. Morgan's condition, according to the doctors, is not so favorable, and the physicians attending him stated that the bullet did not penetrate Mr. Morgan's abdomen.

DETAILS OF DROWNING OF ST. JOHN MAN IN STATES RECEIVED James L. Higgins and Frank C. Farrington Lost in Meadow Pond, Middleton

A copy of the Evening News of Salem, Mass., received by the Masses McMann, to German street, gives details concerning the drowning of their cousin, James L. Higgins of Peabody, Mass., last week. Mr. Higgins, who was also a cousin of Miss B. Higgins of Charlotte street, was drowned by the capsizing of a boat while he was fishing in Meadow Pond, Middleton, with Frank G. Farrington, of Danvers, Mass., who was also drowned, and Harry M. Fenham, of Lynn, Mass., who was saved after a trying experience.

From the information given in the News article, Farrington kept moving around in the boat from which the three men were fishing, and it was presumably through this that the little craft capsized. Fenham succeeded in righting it, and all three got back into it, but, through fear or excitement, they upset it again. Higgins sank at once and was not seen again. Farrington caught hold of the boat and clung on for some time while Fenham swam ashore to regain his feet. Fenham then returned to try to aid Farrington, and the latter grabbed him in what was almost a death grip. Fenham had to struggle to free himself and the other man sank to his death.

Fenham succeeded in swimming ashore, but landed exhausted after his struggle for life. The bodies of his two companions were later recovered. Mr. Higgins was unmarried, was twenty-two years of age, and is survived by two brothers and two sisters. He left here a few years ago.

The steamer had been interned since August, and the war munitions were found hidden under merchandise.

THE HAPPY DAYS FOR THE KIDDIES

Playgrounds Opened Today—Eager Children Early on Hand

How much happiness and solid enjoyment can be packed into a comparatively small space was shown at the Allison playgrounds this morning when they were opened for the season. The children of the entire southern section of the city have been looking forward to the opening of the Allison playgrounds, and they were on hand in full strength.

From the tiny toddlers to good sized boys and girls all kinds and conditions of children were represented and they certainly were enjoying themselves. The Allison playgrounds, which require more space, are equipped with all the modern playground devices; big swings for the older boys, little chair swings for the younger boys, see-saws, slides, and piles and merry-go-rounds propelled by the steady legs of the passengers. The only drawback is that there is not room enough for the crowd and still leave any room for the games which require more space.

One of the most interesting features of the Allison playgrounds is the spirit of helpfulness shown towards the smaller children by the big boys, the clubs who look as if they might ordinarily be dodging the cops and getting into all the mischief of the neighborhood. The youngsters on all of the apparatus, setting little squabbles about who had the right to use the apparatus, and the older boys are generally trying to make things go smoothly.

The grounds are in charge of Mrs. S. C. Matthews, Miss Elizabeth Matthews, as assistant supervisor. The Carleton playgrounds were opened today for the season. Miss Vera Carmichael is the supervisor, and Miss Beale Carmichael is the assistant.

A large number of children ranging in age from five to fifteen years, assembled at the Centennial and Aberdeen playgrounds this morning for the opening of the various games and sports. There was no set programme as men were engaged to entertain the apparatus for the afternoon. The Centennial playgrounds, under the direction of Superintendent C. D. Howard. The work at the Centennial playgrounds is supervised by Miss Catherine Scammell as assistant.

Prior to the opening of the various grounds this morning the supervisors met in Centennial school where they received instructions from Superintendent Howard, after which they were assigned to the various playgrounds. Some of the little ones look forward with pleasure for the opening of the grounds was evidenced on Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock, and the Aberdeen making inquiries regarding the opening day.

Alexandra. The opening in Alexandra playground was not in readiness this morning, but was expected to be ready today. Miss Edith H. Cochrane is supervisor of the playground with Miss Margaret Maxwell, assistant.

Fairville. Fairville Playground was opened this morning in spite of fog and dampness with an excellent attendance, 176 children being counted at 10:30 o'clock, and that was before the sun came out. Later the number was considerably increased, and this afternoon a record was looked for.

Miss Maida Baskin, the supervisor, and Miss Hennessey, assistant, were busy among the enthusiastic youngsters, when members of the committee called at the grounds. Some of the kiddies, in their anxiety to have a chance at the swings, shots, teeters, etc., were actually on hand and waiting patiently from 7:30, and when the staff arrived they found young Lancaster eager for play. Owing to a slight mistake to the steps of the slide, it was not in use during the morning, but repairs have been made.

The best of order prevailed, and judging by the happy faces and delighted expressions from the boys and girls, the playground is likely to prove fully as successful this season as last. All that is required now is for a few financially able who remember their own childhood days to come forward with a contribution to make the Fairville playground this year better than ever. Among the welcome gifts would be a few tennis balls to play baseball with, as the school windows nearby prevent the use of the archery kind of ball.

ARCHBISHOP HAD ANOTHER RELAPSE Rochester, N. Y., July 5.—Archbishop Quigley, who has been seriously ill, had another relapse and the doctors say his condition is very grave.

A LETTER TO MAYOR FROM LT. COL. MASSIE

Is Grateful For Automobile Supplied by Generous St. John Citizen—A Long War

A letter expressing his deep appreciation of the public-spirited gift of an automobile for his corps has been received from the commanding officer, Lieutenant Colonel Massie, by Mayor Prink. It will be remembered that when a fund was being collected for field kitchens for the local overseas corps it was pointed out that this equipment was provided by the British War Office while a pressing need, in the case of the car and of his hearty appreciation of the gift.

The car has proved of the greatest service to the corps, enabling him to go from place to place to which his duties call him, to visit the various units and to supervise the work of the corps. In addition to the car he has also been able to keep up with the work without any delay in the case of the corps. The unit is doing good work; the men are all in good condition and health and are applying themselves with a will. The weather, generally, has been good, the rations are of excellent quality and ample quantity.

Colonel Massie speaks of the second divisional ammunition train being in camp at Orléans, under Lieutenant Colonel Massie. Speaking of the war situation he says that he is glad to notice the efforts which are being made at home to recruit more men as every indication points to a long war. In addition to the need of men, they are hearing much of the need of ammunition for the big guns.

Captain Haywood is the officer in command of the 28th Battalion. The news of the honor conferred upon him has been received with pleasure by his friends.

FEARS WAVE OF MOB INSANITY

New York, July 5.—Dr. Britton D. Evans, directing head of the New Jersey state hospital for the insane at Morris Plains, yesterday expressed the opinion that a "wave of contagious mob insanity" brought on by the war in Europe, may break out in this country. The attempted assassination of J. P. Morgan, he said, was the first indication that worry and intense hatred engendered by the death struggle abroad, are "lighting up latent mental warps," which may result in the spread of dangerous forms of mental abnormality.

Dr. Evans continued: "It seems to me that Holt was in a state of mind markedly noticeable in many of the hundreds who daily gather about the war bulletin boards in the larger cities of the country."

SAYS THAT CANADA IS NOT DOING ALL SHE SHOULD

Rev. J. J. McCaskill Before Rotary Club—All Accomplished so Far Might Have Been Done by One Province—"Let Us Get Into This Thing Seriously"

Rev. J. James McCaskill addressed the Rotary Club this afternoon on Canada's part in the war. He said in part:—

For nearly a twelvemonth Canada has been listlessly and indifferently waging a war against the two central empires of Europe—most formidable antagonists. Instead of exerting to the full her great strength and power, she has fought during that time like a giant with one arm tied and the other bandaged. She has been asleep and all she has accomplished has been but the uneasy stirring in her slumber. If Roumania came into the fight tomorrow she would have half a million men in shining armor in her front line of battle on the day following. In the most liberal estimate Canada has accomplished less than one-tenth of that in a year. Roumania is an obscure nation in the Balkans with a population of about six millions; Canada is a free country in America with a population about one-third greater.

Let us get into this thing seriously. All that has been accomplished so far in the whole country might well have been done by one province. For weeks in this conflict, strengthened, purified and inspired. This can be accomplished only by great and mighty and united endeavor. As there are men here who are endeavoring to fill one regiment, I have indignantly failed to accompany them. Let us talk no longer of what we have done at Ypres or of our showing at Valenciennes last September. He like the foolish boasting of Hubert, in one of Scott's tales, of the bow his grand-father drew at Hastings. Great things are going on.

CONFERENCE OVER GERMAN PRISONERS IN AMHERST

(Amherst News)

General Otter accompanied by Major Oulton, Meyer Douglas and E. N. Rhodes, M. P., held a conference in Amherst this week with regard to the employment of the German prisoners on road work and on public property that would not interfere with local labor. J. L. Rankin, M. P., and R. S. Carter, M. P., also arrived and the matter was further discussed with them.

While final arrangements have not as yet been made we understand that there is a possibility of German labor being employed on the Dickey Park, the Hospital grounds, and some of the outlying streets of the town. This is work that would not in the ordinary course of events be reached in the next ten years by the town of Amherst. The prisoners are paid a nominal wage by the Imperial government which is charged to Germany and the final adjustment will be made after the war. A number of them may also be employed on the Experimental Farm, and if the Local Government so desires the labor can also be utilized on the roads in Cumberland. The town authorities, the local government or the Dominion government will not be asked to pay anything except perhaps to furnish the implements of labor. They will not be put at any labor that will in any way interfere with local labor, for instance, at the Experimental Farm they may be employed in clearing land from stumps and underbrush, work that would not otherwise be done.

BOSTON DOCTOR TELLS OF VICTIMS OF THE GERMAN POISON GAS

How intensely the English soldiers suffer who have been "gassed" by the Germans, is described by an eyewitness, Dr. Charles S. Butler, 297 Newbury street, Boston, who recently saw several victims at the Casino Hospital, Boulogne. He writes:

"At the Casino Hospital in Boulogne, when I visited it in May, some gas cases had died; many other cases had improved enough to permit their evacuation to England; but others were still under treatment. The colonel, medical officer in charge, explained to me the early difficulties in devising treatment for them; as well as the suffering of the men, during the week after being 'gassed'. He said the mortality on the field of battle, in the trenches, had been over ten per cent., that those severe cases surviving long enough to be removed by stretcher bearers, were blue or black in the face, gasping for breath, and continually and painfully coughing from the poisonous gas irritation, and that if the stretchers were so lifted that the heads of the patients were lower than their legs and body, then the lung secretion poured in a stream from the patients' mouths.

"When I passed through this hospital, delightfully situated on high ground overlooking the sea, the large, well-ventilated wards were a pleasure to enter; the wounded were cheerful and under good care of the English nursing sisters. We soon came to a bed almost entirely unoccupied, where we saw a man propped up, breathing in short, shallow, difficult breaths, as if the next would be his last. He, the medical officer said was a mild case. His face slightly blue, his frequent cough and anxious expression made clear how he suffered. In reply to my question, he whispered with great difficulty that he was better today, but had much pain all around his chest, with every breath. Another soldier, a youth of eighteen years, showed worse effects, although 'gassed' six days before. His face was a dusky hue, his breathing, or better his gasping, was interrupted by painful coughing in a whisper he asked the doctor for something for greater relief.

"The medical officer said that these cases, seen that day, were, by comparison, mild; that many cases when first received from the front, were agonizing to watch; that no method of treatment could do more than partially relieve the acute suffering, and that not one of these 'gassed' soldiers had a scratch or wound on his skin. The one thought of the men seemed to be that they had not had a fair chance to fight their enemy.

"The treatment of the gas poisoning is varied in different hospitals. At the 'Casino' at Boulogne, the patients have been kept in enclosed cages or under canvas and given oxygen and moist steam with menthol vapor. In severe cases the poison gases have probably destroyed the delicate lung tissues, and little can be done for permanent cure."

MORE ARMY BOOTS MADE IN CANADA

Montreal, July 2—Ames Holden McCormick Limited, report that their factories are busy on orders for the Canadian soldiers. These orders are a portion of those recently placed with various Canadian manufacturers by the War Purchasing Commission at Ottawa. Canadian troops now being outfitted.

This company has submitted a new pattern of army boot to the government. The boot has been approved and adopted as being the most suitable in point of fitting, comfort, and wearing qualities for the requirements of our Canadian soldiers. The boot in question is made of tan calf skin with double soles and Goodyear Welt sewn, and a steel plate on the heel.

It is expected that further orders will be placed at an early date, not only for the soldiers now being trained in Canada, but also for Canadians at the front who are requiring more boots and who, it is understood, much prefer the Canadian boot for comfort and service. Such appreciation of the part of our authorities will be much appreciated by Canadian labor.

PARTED FRIENDS

There's no use in weeping,
There's no use in weeping to part;
There's such a thing as keeping
A remembrance in one's heart.

There's such a thing as dwelling
On the thoughts ourselves have nursed,
And with scorn and courage selling
The world to do its worst.

In the evening when we're sitting
By the fire, perchance, alone,
Then shall heart with warm heart
Meeting
Give responsive tone for tone.

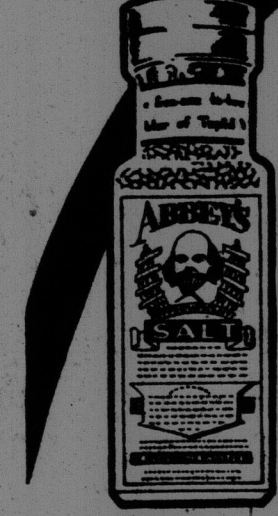

So there's no use in weeping,
Bear a cheerful spirit still;
Never doubt that fate is keeping
Future good for present ill.

CANADA'S WEAK POINT.

The people of Canada are becoming more and more restless as a result of the apparent inability of the government at Ottawa to face the situation brought about by the war.

DEVELOP THE PEOPLE.

Dr. C. C. James, C. M. G., in a recent article in the Toronto News, replying to a question as to the chief thing to do for Canada when the war is over, makes the development of the people the prime object.

It is good news that aeroplanes are to be assembled in Toronto for the use of the Allies. There is much to be hoped for from powerful squadrons of aircraft, in a war in which progress must be made trench by trench, and in which explosives play so great a part.

If the man who tried to kill Mr. J. P. Morgan was not a German he was a German sympathiser, but happily his aim was bad. Mr. Morgan, as Britain's financial agent in the United States, is naturally the object of German hatred.

The week does not begin cheerfully, so far as war news is concerned. If the Russian wings are holding firm the Russian front is being pressed back, and the Germans and Austrians have massed enormous armies, superior in artillery strength, along the eastern front.

The Canadian Pacific Company will set financially in Canada for the British government, just as J. P. Morgan & Company do in the United States, and war munitions will also be made in C. P. R. shops.

What is the explanation of the announcement made in an Ottawa despatch to the Standard that "so far as the future can be forecasted in connection with Canadian railways, it may be expected that before the year is out the government will be compelled to take over almost the entire railway system of the country, except the portion owned by one great corporation?"

GERMANS PLAN MAINE BASE?

Washington Hears That Submarines Will Utilize Island Off Coast

The New York Times prints the following Washington dispatch: Information has reached Washington that there is a strong probability of the German admiralty launching a submarine campaign from a secret base on this side of the Atlantic in an effort to halt the procession of munition-laden ships from the United States to British and French ports.

The information that has now reached Washington, and which came to the correspondent of the New York Times from a very reliable source, indicates the probability of the German admiralty making a secret base on one of the islands off the New England coast at a point from which German submarines might make sallies to attack munition freighters going from New York and Boston to England and France.

The establishment of such a base on the American coast would constitute a flagrant violation of neutrality; but the correspondent's informant insisted that the report had come in so definite a fashion that it could not be ignored. It is known that the possibility of such action by Germany has been brought to the attention of officials who are giving the matter very serious consideration.

It is by no means an impossibility for the latest models of German submarines to cross the Atlantic. It is now known that the largest and newest of them have a cruising radius of not less than 5,000 miles.

Once a German submarine base has been secretly established, it would be a comparatively easy matter to provision the base with supplies from American ports in craft not known to be in the employment of the German government.

Stearns routes to that coast, and that this fact could be fully appreciated only by studying a globe and drawing great circle sailing routes from New York and Boston to England and the Channel.

W. A. CHURCH PRESIDENT

At the annual meeting of the Westfield Outing Association, held in their hall at the resort on Saturday evening, reports presented showed encouragement, and prospects for the coming season were regarded as auspicious for a successful year. The dancing pavilion will be opened on Saturday evening next. The tennis courts are already in operation. Various sports are planned for the summer months. The election of officers resulted as follows: W. A. Church, president; Ronald Macchum, vice-president; Leslie Peters, secretary-treasurer; and John Keefe, F. L. Peters, F. N. Robertson, F. A. Dykeman, F. C. Spencer, Dr. W. F. Connell, D. W. Ledington, W. H. C. McKay and Roy McKendrick, members of executive.

HOW TO PURIFY POLITICS. (Toronto Globe.)

If the people of Canada really want to purify politics they can do it. At the foundation of the rottenness now being revealed from time to time through out the country—at Fredericton, at Ottawa, at Winnipeg—and of much that is deplorable at other points which never may be revealed, are to be found the promoters, manufacturers, and contractors who are prepared to provide campaign funds for both parties in return for railway bonuses, contracts for supplies at excessive prices, or tariff favors which are often a more certain source of wealth than either. It is difficult to say how the vicious business began; whether the men who carry the bag for the parties made the first advance or were tempted by the voluntary subscriptions of contractors and concessionaires to shut their eyes to the looting of the public till. The blab truth is that political organization in Canada has become fearfully expensive, that many electors expect to get a big haul at election time, and that the bulk of the money to maintain the machinery of the parties comes not from the rank and file, but from men who have received financial favors in the past or expect them in the future.

Until recently the politicians have manipulated pith without being deflected. What they did was for the party. For their own profit they would have scored to take full of a contractor who in turn was permitted to rob the Treasury. Men who spent money which had been doubtfully obtained upon their political campaigns lived and died personally poor and honest. They may have been "receivers" of stolen property, but they did not convert it to their own use. There have been signs of late that some of the men in our politics are becoming personally corrupt, and that a considerable part of the money now secured from exporters and contractors is diverted to the pockets of men in public life instead of being used "honestly" in carrying the electorate or in carrying on the legitimate work of party organization which becomes more expensive every year. Were the Canadian public to become numerous, Canadian public life would soon be a byword and a reproach all over the world. The time has come to make an end not only of the sort of corruption that involves the purchase of votes at from $5 to $20 on election day, but of the far more dangerous corruption which says the honor and the financial honesty of the people's elected representatives.

Corruption could be stamped out in Canada by strictly limiting the amount which might be spent on an election by any parliamentary candidate, the sum being graded according to the sort of constituency contested; subscriptions to all party funds, local or general, to be prohibited under affidavit of the candidate and his agent; and to the accuracy of the list, together with a statement as to how the moneys were spent. No outside organization or individual be permitted to spend money or provide facilities for election work except through the regular fund of the candidate supported by such organization or individual. A lawyer of the highest standing to be appointed by parliament and to hold office until removed by a joint vote of both houses, and authorized to investigate all charges of corrupt practices and prosecute in every case in which the evidence warrants action. Imprisonment to be the only penalty for giving or taking a bribe. Constituents in which the giving or taking of bribes are shown to be prevalent to be disfranchised for a full term of parliament. This provision, if rigorously enforced, would make decent citizens active agents in the stamping out of corruption, for no honest man cares to be deprived of his citizenship because of the misconduct of the dishonest minority about him. And finally, no corporation or individual receiving a subsidy from or having a contract to perform work or service for the government to be permitted to subscribe to election funds on penalty of imprisonment of the officers of the corporation or the individuals benefiting from such contracts to any material extent.

Ten years' rigorous enforcement of the proposals outlined above would make decent citizens active agents in the stamping out of corruption, for no honest man cares to be deprived of his citizenship because of the misconduct of the dishonest minority about him. And finally, no corporation or individual receiving a subsidy from or having a contract to perform work or service for the government to be permitted to subscribe to election funds on penalty of imprisonment of the officers of the corporation or the individuals benefiting from such contracts to any material extent.

Lloyd George and the Shells. (From Lloyd George's Speech at Cardiff, June 11.) I do not want to talk about compulsory powers—it is an unpleasant topic. There is no harm in your telling those—not yourselves, because I know that would not be necessary—but, should you know anyone who is likely to be a shirker, it is just as well you should remind them of the existence of the Defence of the Realm Act. (Laughter.) I would rather they did it voluntarily. It is a much finer thing to do—much finer. It has a moral value in the struggle. I want these gentlemen to realize what it means. This country has never waged war like this before. Not only is it the biggest war that the country has ever seen; it is a war which is going to come home more to every household in Britain than any war we have ever been engaged in. We have millions of men who are coming forward to tender their lives. There is not a household in the land which has not in one form or another made its contribution and taken its risk. In the little place where I live—it is a very small town, I do not know that we ever turned out a soldier there before, I cannot recall—there is hardly a family there now which has not got its soldier either at the front or waiting for the summons to go there. (Cheers.) What is true of that little town is true of every village and town, great and small, throughout the land. Some one was telling me today, "Everybody I meet nowadays is either a soldier or is the parent or brother of a soldier."

Just see what that means. When this war is over it will be something that will be talked about in every family and on every hearthstone till this generation passes away. Every man and every woman will have their toll of sacrifice. There will be many with their toll of heroism. It will be talked about, it will be a topic of conversation, and just as you hear these days of those who got works—how it will fare with them. They could say: "When the summons came to us to do what we could to support our troops at the front, we never flinched. We turned our works at once to the purpose of producing every article that our machinery could possibly yield. It will be a matter of pride and boast, and of legitimate pride and boast, as long as they live, that they so behaved." (Cheers.) Yes, but just you think of the others when the talk goes round of what happened, when somebody says to them, "When the government asked you to do your best to support our soldiers, what did you do?" "I should like to know whether he could say: 'I refused. I was not going to upset my works. I was not going to lose my business. I was not going to damage my trade.' I defy any man to say that in the years to come without a blush on his face. (Cheers.)

"Iron Tears Down Pluto's Cheek." (New York Herald.) German papers are regaling their readers with the story that the Kaiser, on visiting the western battlefield, knelt before a large group of dead Germans and wept, exclaiming: "I have not killed this!"—Copenhagen despatch.

"Truthful as well as tearful. 'This'—the slaughter of German soldiers—was not what the Kaiser 'willed.' What he willed was that German soldiers should ride roughshod over peaceful Belgium and peace-loving France, slaughtering ruthlessly the sons of mothers because, forsooth, they did not speak in German tongue; combatants fighting bravely to protect their own beloved fatherland, or epicureanists—mattered not so long as they stood in the way of the invader. It was this that he willed when he induced the other Kaiser, and in his delirium to force war upon little Serbia; it was this that he willed when he deliberately plunged Europe into war for the glory of the Day."

Another Day will come, a day of reckoning, when he and his Prussian militarism must account to the German people for the death and devastation so needlessly brought upon them. If the Kaiser has more tears to shed, he should prepare to shed them then.

Mr. Bryan's Position. (New York Post.) Mr. Bryan's denial that he gave the Austrian Ambassador, and through him Berlin, the impression that the President's demands on Germany were not seriously meant, is one of those details which unwittingly admit the basis of the charge. No one supposes that Secretary of State committed himself, much less this government, in the imprudent way alleged. But he did have an informal conversation with Dr. Dumba. And it is clear that from it the Austrian Ambassador got the idea that the Washington government would not be averse to applying Mr. Bryan's notions to the Lusitania case. In fact, it was stated at the time of the German reply that Berlin thought it had done a clever thing in proposing a long investigation of the affair. It would be very awkward, it was said, for Mr. Bryan to decline the suggestion. Of course, this may have been only what is called, though not in diplomacy, "taking a chance." And it is reasonable to infer that it was based upon Mr. Bryan's free talk with the Austrian Ambassador. What probably occurred was nothing like an official undertaking by the secretary, but a little peace oration by him which Dr. Dumba misunderstood, or to which he assigned more importance than it really had. No matter exactly what passed in the interview, we have another cause of relief at the change in the department of state. That is no place for an impulsive and effusive man who mistakes an ambassador for a public meeting.

We Know About It in St. John. (Toronto Star.) At 9 o'clock Monday morning a dredge at the Hamlet began screaming to a tug at the Don to come on over and haul somewhere else. The man on the dredge had reason to suppose that at that hour of the night the man on the tug was asleep, so he met his whistle screech loud and long so that he would be sure to wake him up. Six miles of crowded city lay between the dredge and the tug, and in all directions it is safe to say that that screeching whistle disturbed an area in which a population of 300,000 persons were asleep—the extra one person being the engineer on the tug. Could anything better illustrate the disregard that is too often shown for the rights of the community than this wild screeching in the night for so long a cause? Why did they not telephone? Or order a taxi and send a messenger? Because it was easier to pull a whistle and keep on pulling it, regardless of the fact that the slumber of a whole city was being disturbed. There should be a prosecution in this case.

CRIMES FOR WHICH SOLDIERS ARE SHOT. There are more than a dozen offences for which a soldier may be sentenced to death while on active service. The first on the list of death offences applies to a commanding officer, and reads: "Shamefully delivering up a garrison in his command of troops, without due necessity—punishment, death." A soldier can be shot for throwing away his rifle or sword in the presence of the enemy, or for cowardice, or for leaving his commanding officer in order to plunder. If he forces his way past a sentry on active service he may be sentenced to death, or for assaulting anyone bringing up provisions for the troops. Soldiers are expressly forbidden while on active service to commit any offence against a resident of the country in which he is fighting, under pain of death; nor may he break into any house in search of plunder, or discharge his rifle intentionally to create a false alarm on the march. A soldier while acting as sentry who is found sleeping at his post may be shot. Any man causing or joining in a mutiny is liable to be shot. Desertion or attempt at desertion while on active service is naturally a death offence.

War Profiteers. (Jane Addams, Interview in Christian Science Monitor.) I have felt since I have been so near to these warring nations, and in the warring nations, that there is something very splendid and something very sad in the awakening of national conscience which a war produces. The individual rises above himself, the marches, and unity among countrymen, he scarcely knows for the moment whether he is acting for others when the talk goes round of what happened, when somebody says to them, "When the government asked you to do your best to support our soldiers, what did you do?" "I should like to know whether he could say: 'I refused. I was not going to upset my works. I was not going to lose my business. I was not going to damage my trade.' I defy any man to say that in the years to come without a blush on his face. (Cheers.)

It Cannot Be. For if we have not sinned against the night, Nor made an idol of the sword, as they, The powers of darkness set in fierce array. Shall not our master? The sword shall smite. Its proud idolaters, and all their might Shall wither, and their glory pass away. No more shall lawless force be throned as God. The troubled nations of the earth no more Shall humbly wait upon a despot's nod, And when the sacred cause for which they bled Is surely established, we will turn and Liberate to the uncompiling dead. —F. E. Matland, in London Times.

THIRD UNIVERSITIES COMPANY IS BEING RAISED IN CANADA. Will Be Organized and Trained in Montreal—The Men and the Qualifications. The Canadian militia department has authorized the organization of a third universities company for overseas service, similar to the first and second universities companies, which are joining the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry. The company will be organized and trained in Montreal by Captain A. S. Eve of the McGill Contingent C.O.T.C., and will proceed overseas when up to strength. The first universities company, under Captain Barclay, is already overseas. The second universities company, under Captain G. C. McDonald and Captain P. Molson, now over-strength, was raised and equipped in seven weeks, and will proceed overseas soon. Recruiting for the third company has already been started and applications from all parts of Canada are being received. The company will be composed of graduates and undergraduates of universities (or their friends) and men of that type. Only men who are physically and medically fit will be accepted. Conditions of service and rate of pay will be the same as in the other units of the Canadian expeditionary force. A married man must obtain his wife's consent; a man under twenty-one years his parent's consent before enlisting. These are reported as the last words of Charles Frohman as he faced death on the sinking Lusitania side by side with Alfred Vandenberg, G. L. P. Vernon and Miss Rita Jolivet, the latter being the only one of the four to survive. Mr. Vandenberg had been busy gathering children and getting them into life boats, together with the women. His act was to give his own life to a woman. Mr. Frohman, a prominent theatrical manager, who was often called the "Napoleon of the Stage," was lame and so unable to do service to those about him. But his calm in danger and faith in immortality will forever remain one of the luminous memories of that awful disaster, as he stood hand in hand with his three friends who had decided to die together, and looked out upon the sea with untroubled spirit. His words, speaking of death as "the most beautiful adventure," reminded one of Dr. Grenfell's Harvard lecture on "The Adventure of Life," in which he tells how he came to find that spiritual adventure was by "far the largest to add to the glory and beauty of life." Frohman's simple words, uttered with a smile just before the Lusitania went to the bottom, "Why fear death? It is the most beautiful adventure that life gives us," are suggestive, too, of a conversation between Chancellor Day and the late Borden P. Browne, at a railway station. When the chancellor asked the philosopher if he ever had a doubt of the "ecstatic personal immortality of the soul," Professor Browne answered: "I have not a doubt. But for the grief it would bring to my dear wife, and the sorrow that would come to my friends, if I knew that I were to die tonight, I would go bounding into the adventures of the future life as a boy goes bounding out from school for his vacation." A hundred and one years ago this month, Bishop Thomas Coke died at sea. When warned before leaving England that he might not stand the rigors of the voyage to India, he said: "It is of little consequence whether we take our flight to glory from the land of our nativity, from the trackless ocean, or from the shore of Ceylon." Faith in immortality is not less in our day than in his, but greater. It is a growing belief in all avenues of life, and it sometimes sounds the "one clear call" where it is, to say the least, not the most expected. The Lusitania is numbered among the most awful sea tragedies of the opening twentieth century, but Charles Frohman's words survive and will shine on luminously through the years: "Why fear death? It is the most beautiful adventure that life gives us."—The Christian Advocate.

Layer on Layer Here is something every motorist should know. Goodyear Laminated Tubes are not built of one thick piece of rubber. In a single piece of thick rubber flaws may be hidden. And the flaws may go clear through.

Goodyear Laminated Tubes are made of many thin layers—each of pure rubber—vulcanized together in one solid, extra-heavy tube. In these thin sheets any tiny flaw shows up and we correct it at once.

GORMAN, NOT LEVINE

The mystery about "James Levine," whose picture was in Saturday's Times, has been solved. That was the picture of Louis Gorman, son of Mrs. James Gorman, 80 Broad street, and he has neither been killed nor wounded thus far, although in hospital for a short time on account of illness.

Mrs. Neirin, whose husband's picture appeared with the other in the Times on Saturday received a letter from her husband, to the effect that the photograph was of himself and James Levine, and that he was wounded and Levine killed. The statement was not true, for the second figure in the picture was Louis Gorman, and he is alive and well, although he had been in battle and took part in severe fighting.

SURPRISED WOMEN SHOULD KEEP MEN FROM THE WAR

Sergeant A. Ellis of St. John Writes of Germans' Treatment of The Women and Children

"I am surprised to hear that the women are keeping the men back," writes Sergeant A. Ellis, who left St. John at the outbreak of war and has been in France ever since. "If such women only could have been on the American road in last October to have seen how helpless women and innocent little children were given along like so many straws; women with newly born babes in wheelbarrows; poor old white haired women who could hardly drag one foot after the other. All night long this sad procession went on; there must have been thousands of these poor souls. If the Germans can treat in this manner people against whom they have nothing, how would they treat the women of the British Empire?"

"I wrote you the day we finished up that gruesome little job at Neuve Chapelle, which I can assure you was rather hot. Now we have just come out of another day's bout at Passchendaele. Our losses were heavy but not nearly so heavy as the Germans'. Our artillery, assisted by the artillery of the first Canadian division, did terrible execution. I shall never forget the awful din as, hour after hour, they sent shells over our heads into the German positions. I felt as though my nerves were being rubbed with sand-paper and now the French have started a bombardment which promises to be heavier than ours."

"I have quite a pile of souvenirs, but I cannot get them away. I picked up a nice helmet last Thursday but as it contained half of the former owner's head, I threw it away again."

The letter was sent to Sergeant Ellis' former pastor here, Rev. R. J. Haughton.

A SOLDIER'S COMPLAINT

Private William Oliver of the 58th Battalion called at the Times office this morning to tell the following story.—He enlisted with the 62nd on Dec. 7. On March 14 he went with the detachment that was sent to St. Croix on guard duty. On May 29 he joined the Medical Corps of the 63th and went to Sussex. There he remained until last week, when he was told he had not passed the medical examination owing to defective sight, although he had been passed by the doctor before going to Sussex. He came to St. John on last Tuesday, and was told that he would get his money and discharge here. He has not received a cent since May 29, and is still waiting. He has a mother in England to support, and he says he could have passed and gone with either the 26th Battalion or the Railway Construction Corps, and feels that he has a grievance.

POLICE COURT.

In the police court this morning Andrew Arsenault was arraigned for preliminary hearing on charges of drunkenness, and assaulting Mrs. Ralph Dobson in her home in Brunswick street on last Saturday morning. The complainant testified that the defendant came to her house three times on Saturday morning and once took hold of her. The prisoner was then remanded, after being arraigned that he was liable to five years in Dorchester.

Archie Patterson was remanded on a charge of drunkenness and interfering with girls in Brunswick street on Saturday night. He was warned that he was liable to nine months in jail.

One man arrested on a drunkenness charge was fined $8 or two months in jail.

CHISHOLM-JOHNSTON

(Portland, Me., Press, June 29)

A very active wedding was solemnized on Monday morning at eight o'clock in St. Dominic's church, when Miss Margaret Eva Johnston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Johnston of St. John, N. B., became the wife of Alexander Chisholm. The bride was prettily gowned in king's blue taffeta and a white picture hat with ostrich trimmings. Her art bouquet was of white roses. Miss Sarah Chisholm of Peabody, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid and was moodily dressed in a white net over blue silk with powder hat and carried Jack roses. The best man was Timothy Dwyer of Peabody. A nuptial mass was celebrated by Rev. Father Clark and at the conclusion of the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of Mrs. Bartley Peeney of Clark street, to which the intimates of the family were bidden. Beautiful presents were received and at noon, the young people left for a motor trip to Peabody and Niagara Falls, the bride traveling in a Palm beach suit and on the return they are to reside at Fulmouth Foreside, where they have leased a bungalow for the summer. The bride's gift from the groom was a purse of gold and the attendant's gift was a diamond pendant, the best man having from the groom a gold knife. Mr. Chisholm is golf instructor at the Country Club and the bride has been lingerie buyer at the Porteous, Mitchell & Braun store. Among the out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Howe and son Leo of Somerville and Mr. and Mrs. George Harding, also of Somerville.

How, Where, When?

James Zohian, the advertising expert, recently made this interesting comment that answers an old question:

"Where, when and how much ought a retail dealer to advertise? The answer is simple: He ought to advertise where he has a store. He ought to advertise when he is in a position to supply the demand eventually created by his advertising."

"He ought to advertise as much as his business, stock of goods and margin of profit warrant."

And the medium he should use?
