ALBERT LIME

By the Car Load at all STATIONS on the AL-BERT and INTERCOLONIAL RAILWAYS.

This Lime differs from all other Brands in the market—having peculiar cement qualities, which hardens it like stone, and makes it imprevious to the action of water. It requires no cement to m-prove it, and is the CHEAPEST in the market for all purposes.

For Agricultural purposes it can be furnished by the car load in bulk, CHEAP, and is the best as well as the cheapest fertilizer known.

She handed him a card upon which was printed G. B. Branson. He said. 'It may be best for me not to call a Physician. Could I not come upor some pretended business of a kind in which he takes an interest?" 'He has houses to rent on Brandy wine street,' she said, after a pause-'to rent and to sell.' 'Very good,' rejoined the doctor, 'that will serve me. Now, Miss Branson, you must not be surprised if 1 cut up some queer antics. He laughed as he said that. 'Watch me closely for a clew to what I would have you do or 'I think I understand,' she simply said. 'Good evening, sir.'

The next morning Doctor Paul Vent nor took from a drawer a strong horse shoe magnet. He rubbed steadily upon the blades of his pocket-knife with one of the poles of the magnet, thoroughly electrifying it. He purchased a paper of very line needles at an adjoining store, then set out for the residence of

He found the latter to be a man well advanced in life, intelligent and genial so genial, in fact, that the doctor wondered at there being so much of the suspectful in his nature. The doctor the houses on Brandwine street, in which Mr. Branson earnestly joined, and vividly explained points in the speculation Sir, could I trouble you for a drink of water?' the doctor suddenly asked 'Certainly,' replied the other, 'Kate

He was addressing his daughter, who had called upon the doctor the evening before, and she was seated in one of the bay windows. She put aside her book, left the room, and returned with a glass of water, which the doctor accepted with a bow. He raised the glass to his lips, and then a well-feigned look of astonishment crossed his face. He ejected some of the water, plucked at his moustache, then strode to the window, where

'Oh, he does, ch' i frowned the doctor. Well, it is no fancy.'

'Dar's no needles in the water,' declared the man.

'We'll see,' said the doctor, as he thrust his magnetized knife-blade into the glass. 'What are these, pray i' in dicating a number of dangling needles.'

'Dey is needles, sah, sure as you lively he exclaimed. 'Doy must jist been in the cooler. I didn't put 'em in, I swear I didn't, sah!'

'Your services end here with to-day!' the doctor sternly said. 'If there is any money due you, Mr. Branson will pay it.'

Mr. Branson and the doctor conversed for an hour upon various topics. The old gentleman was wonderfully pleased with him, and cordial in his invitation to him to call again.

Miss Branson accompanied the doctor to the door.

'Your father is cured,' he said.

'Do you think soi' she asked, he handsome eyes on his face. 'We will wait a week. That was an admirable ruse. Take this, please; it is simply remembrance.

A roll of something was placed in his hand.

'Thank you,' he gratefully said.
