The Macdonalds Object to the Campbells Marching Through Glencoe.

Justin McCarthy Issues a Stirring Manifesto Against Healey.

Towards Mr. Blake.

Plot Against the Czar's Life-Opposition to the World's Fair at Paris Increasing.

EMPEROR WILLIAM ON SOCIAL-ISM.

London, Sept. 3.-A dispatch to the Daily News from Berlin comments on the Emperor's onslaught on Socialists in his speech at the State dinner. Never before, says the dispatch, was the Emperor so energetic. He plainly appealed to the army as the final arbiter in the struggle against Socialism.

PLOT AGAINST THE CZAR'S LIFE. London, Sept. 3.-The Chronicle publises a Vienna dispatch saying that adices received in that city from St. Petersburg are to the effect that the Russian police have discovered a widespread plot against the life of the Czar and other members of the Imperial family. Some of the leaders were quietly arrested. Bombs, arms and revolutionary pamphlets have been seized by by the police of Moscow.

WILLIAM SCORES THE SOCIALISTS Berlin, Sept. 3.-Last evening the Emperor gave a state dinner in the White Hall of the royal castle. His Majesty toasted the Guards, saying that he did so with a joyful heart. "The whole people inflamed with enthusiasm," he addeed, "provided a frame for today's review. The reason for their enthusiasm was the remembrance of the great Emperor now dead. The tattered trophies around us tell of events of 25 years since of the great hour and the great day when the German empire rose again and bravely fought, with the courage of despair, the valiant French army. The Germans fought for their lands, their hearths and future unity. Let one untied burst of and let our task, especially the younger of us, be to maintain what the Emperor founded. Yet in the sublime and noble joy of these celebrations a note has been struck which truly has no place there. A rabble unworthy to bear the name of Germans have dared to revile the German people, have dared to drag in the dust the sacred Lerson of their late honored Emperor. May the whole people find strength to repel those monstrous attacks. If not, I now call on you to resist this treasonable band and to wage a war which will free us from such elements.'

London, Sept. 3.-Justin McCarthy, M.P., leader of the Home Rule party, has issued a manifesto denouncing the nomination of a Healevite candidate for Parliment in Kerry, in opposition to the McCarthyite candidate, which is causing a sensation in the House of Commons. Mr. McCarthy says that the course of the Healevites is an act of treason, and that the revolt forces issues, whether it be maintained or not. The manifesto was issued without consultation with other members of the Home Rule party or with the consultative committee. It is thought that Mr. John Dillon and T. P. O'Connor alone were consulted by Mr. Mc-Carthy. The Pall Mall Gazette asserts that one of the most respected members of the Irish Home Rule party, who has not been mixed up with any of the party's personal disputes, says that it looks like a final breaking up of the

against the celebration of Sedan day.

The text of McCarthy's appeal, which is issued in the form of a manifesto, says: "Messrs. Arthur O'Connor and Florence O'Driscoll were dispatched to America to induce our friends there to cease subscribing to the party's funds. They might have succeeded if Mr. Blake had not exposed the plot and defeated it. This is why he was singled out for a calumnious attack by the enemies of the party. The failure of this attempt did not end the campaign, for in the face of Mr.Emmett's warning that discussion in the press on the platform of questions already decided within the council of the party meant a cessation of subscriptions such questions constantly reopened. Hence subscriptions from America and Australia ceased. In Ireland the campaign to bankrupt and destroy the movement has been as active and almost as suc-

In an interview Mr. Timothy Healey said he believed that T. P. O'Connor and John Dillon wrote the manifesto and that Mr. McCarthy was not responsible for anything it contained.

OPPOSED TO THE WORLD'S FAIR. London, Sept. 3 .- The opposition to the World's Exhibition at Paris in 1900 is increasing in France outside of Paris and is obtaining a strong foothold in the capital itself. The Decentralization League has induced the General Council of Meurthe-et-Moselle and that of Rhone to adopt resolutions against the show. It has pointed out that during the five years which it would take to prepare, France would lose freedom of action in her foreign policy. Everything would have to be sacrificed to the success of the sathering.

These protests came very late. It is true that Parliament has not vet voted the credits which the Government will apply for, and it might theoretically refuse to do so; but all the plans are ready and engagements have been entered into, so that it would be almost impossible for the Government and Chambers not to go on.

FRESH TURKISH OUTRAGES. London, Sept. 3.-The Duke of Westminster, who is vice-chairman of the English committee formed for the relief of the Armenians from outrages at the hands of the Turks, received today full reports showing the inhumanity of the Turkish officials at Sassoun, who have put every possible obstacle in the way of the distribution of food, It makes the weak strong.

clothing, medicines, and other forms of relief among the starving Armenians.
The reports received by the duke assert that many Armenians are dying each day because of the systematic cruelties practiced by the Turkish officials in the respects mentioned. Urgent representations have been forwarded to Lord Salisbury of the need of the immediate application of a large measure of relief, and alleging that the Turkish officils complained of are acting in accordance with the policy of the Porte, which has in view the extermination of the remaining Armenian fugitives.

A UNIONIST ELECTED. London, Sept. 3.—At the election for member of Parliament in St. Stephen's Green, Dublin, Kenny (Unionist) received 3,325 votes against 2,893 votes for Mahoney (Parnellite). The majority of Mr. Kenny, The Secret of Healey's Bitterness at the election in 1893 was but 15; at this election it is 432.

THE ROTHSCHILD PLOT. Paris, Sept. 3.—It is reported that the police have discovered an important clue to the perpetrator of the attempt on the life of Baron Alfonse de Rothschild on Aug. 24. The attempt, which was made by sending a letter containing explosives through the mails to the banking house of Baron de Rothschild, resulted in the serious injury to the baron's confidential clerk, M. Zadko

EUROPE'S PEACE MENACED. London, Aug. 3.—In a leader the Globe expresses the opinion that the German celebrations endanger the peace of Europe. The tone of the Berlin papers, says the Globe, has been offensive, and such as to needlessly wound the feelings of the French people. The Emperor, the Globe further says, has allowed himself on more than one occasion recently to use language which is at least capable of being misunderstood. While the Globe does not believe that the Emperor desires war, his utterances, it is said, are assuredly not such as further peace.

ANGRY CLANSMEN. London, Sept. 3.—Sir Archibald Campbell has arrived at Inverary, Scotland, to complete arrangemets for the march of his band of pipers through Glencoe. Sir Archibald denies the report that his expedition is for the purpose of celebrating the anniversary of the massacre of the MacDonald Clan by the Campbells in 1692, but says that his pipers will merely traverse Glencoe en route from Inverary to a Gaelic concert which is to be held at Oban. The MacDonald Clansmen are not satisfied with Sir Archibald's explanation, but maintain a turbulent attitude, and mutterings of anger are to be heard among the people of the Important Evidence. apolis Ind were new developments in the Holmes case today. Albert Schiffing, an expert instrument maker of this city, met Holmes on Oct. 3, 1894. Holmes called at his place of business, No. 30 Virginia avenue, that day, with two cases of instruments. One contained two knives and a saw. The knives were inches in length; one had a white handle and the other a black one. They were very sharp-pointed at the ends and the blades bore a few dark spots. The saw was of very fine make and fifteen inches in length. The other case was much smaller and contained, according to Mr. Schiffling's recollection, eight knives of various sizes and shapes. Holmes wanted the knives sharpened, saying that he would return for them the next day. With him on this occasion was the boy Howard Pietzel and a strange man with a beard. Holmes did not return the next day as he had promised, but called on Oct. 8 and secured the instruments. On the last visit Howard Pietzel was again with Holmes, but the strange man was not. Holmes seemed to be in a hurry. paid for the work, and left at once. Those knives were doubtless used to dismember young Pietzel before his body was burned in the Irvington house.

NAVIGATING THE AIR

Successful Test of the Cooley Air Ship. Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 3.—Two tests of the Cooley air ship were made today in this city, the second one being successful. Mr. Cooley, after drawing all the ropes tight, gave the signal and the ship shot up with surprising rapidity. A strong west wind was blowing at the time, and the pet and pride of the inventor in a moment sailed across the meadow to a tree and entangled one of its ropes in it. This caused the ship to shift its position so that it no longer faced the wind and it made a dive to the earth amid the laments of 1,000 spectators. When Mr. Cooley reached the ship he found it to all appearances a complete wreck. In his second attempt he was more successful. It darted into the air at a height of 200 feet and slowly settled again to the earth without damage.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY.

A Pond Mills correspondent says: George Gartley threshed 9,000 bushels of peas, wheat, barley and oats the previous week. This is one of Mr. Gartley's largest week's threshing. This averages 1,500 bushels a day. Mr. Gartley's outfit is Abell's Advance separator and White's traction engine.

James Adair's threshing machine stood in the barn at the time and fell a victim to the conflagration. The fire occurred while the threshers were having their supper. Mr. Demaray's loss will be heavy, as his insurance on barn and contents is only about $900. Mr. Adair had no insurance on his separator. The barn of Edward McInroy caught fire in several places while Mr. Demaray's was in flames, and it, too, would have been destroyed but for the owner's Celebrated in London by Monster Procession,

In Which Organized Workmen of All Callings Participated.

A General Good Time Held in Queen's Park.

Mayor Little on Civic Problems and the Workers' Interest in Them.

Thousands of People on the Grounds Both Afternoon and Evening-Plenty of Amusement - Races, Frize Winners, Committee and Judges.

Four times the workmen of the city of London have observed Labor Day and celebrated it with a procession and sports, and each celebration appears to be more successful than the preceding one, whilst the annual trades' outing noticeably grows in public favor. Although there have been numerous processions through the streets to the park this summer none drew as large a crowd of spectators as did the mighty column of labor yesterday, and the crowd in the park gave the people a foretaste of the coming Western Fair gatherings. King street is getting the lion's share of processions since the Dundas street pavement has been torn up and the changing of the street railway system has been going on, and it is admirably suited for the purposes as long as the residents do not object to the crowd on the lawns.

The procession left the Market Square in the neighborhood of 1 o'clock in the order detailed below. The column was headed by Mr. Fred Evans' splendid aggregation of talent-the Musical Society Band-and it amply sustained its reputation in the proud position of first place. The committee were not niggardly in the employment of bands, and hat of the First Hussars and the Seventh occupied positions in the line in the order named. As a result, the ears of thousands along the line of march were regaled with the best of music. "The oldest working tinner in Canada." was emblazoned on a scroll that marked a carriage in which sat Mr. Wm. Jarman and his wife. Mr. Jarman is over 80, and works at his trade every day.

The typos wore white peaked caps with a black band-becoming and neat. The barbers were dressed in the usual white starched jackets and wore gray caps. Several carried baseball bats but none were on strike. Both white and colored barbers were in line. No other attempt was made at distinctive

In the matter of trade exemplification, Hyman's tannery exhibit was probably the best. In fact, it was the only attempt, and the process of tanning hides could be seen in progress on the float. There were three wagons in the display-the first a four-in-hand float with a prettily arranged bark house decorated with evergreens, the second the trade exhibit, and the third a wagon load of tanbark. A couple of pack mules laden with hides and led by boys completed the turnout.

The most comical feature of the par ade was the Darktown Fire Brigade A horse on the shady side of twenty drew an old shack of a hose reel, the wheels of which were over six feet in diameter, and lavishly decorated with sunflowers. The "colored" firemen were dressed in blue trousers and red blouses. Old firemen's helmets, several drums and kazoos, completed the outfit. The little colored boys who were the "family." on a furniture float had a arge cake on the table when the proession left the square. At Wellington street the caked was "out of sight" and the boys looked pleased. Besides the three bands, two pipers— Donald McGregor and Art Bright—added variety to the musical programme. The Church Lads' Brigade, of Al Saints' Chapel, made a very creditable showing under Capt. Hogg.

Chief Roe and Assistant Chief Mc-Murchie rode in front of the fire brigade wagons in a carriage. The wagons were decorated with flowers, for which the firemen are indebted to Mr. Geo Rennie, chief gardener at the asylum, and to Mr. Gall, assistant. John Purdom's display of fancy carpenter work was most creditable. It was surmounted by a model of the new MAYOR LITTLE. Mayor Little opened the proceedings at the park by addressing the crowd on the stands from a carriage in the ring. 'Ladies and gentlemen," said he, have very much pleasure in congratulating the men of the labor unions of London and their friends upon this magnificent demonstration. I am glad that the citizens of London have shown their kindly feeling by turning out in such large numbers at what is preeminently the workingmen's picnic. The workingman don't get many holidays, except when, unfortunately, work is scarce, and I often think that it is a pity that some arrangement could not be made that on public and legal holidays their pay should go on as usual. (Applause.) At present, as I understand it, the pay stops as soon as the work ceases. It is not so with public officials, or employes in offices or warehouses, and it would be a grand thing if those who bear the heavy burdens of life could enjoy themselves on occasions of this kind without the thought that the weekly wage-often none too large at best-must be cut down because of a few hours spent in recreation with their families. I confess the question is a most difficult one, especially with transient workers, but where employment is more or less of a permanent nature surely some solution can be found. "Since I became mayor of the city have had occasion to come in contact with the officers of your council, and while I presume, like all other institutions, it may have its imperfec-tions, I am satisfied that it is doing a good work. During the severe weather of last winter many families were assisted by it, and I can bear testimony to the careful and systematic manner in which the work was performed. Close inquiries were made, and every effort put forth to avoid the encouragement of professional pauperism. I am glad that the Trades and Labor Council has taken up this work. "One of the features of this age is the large number of societies which have been organized for mutual assistance and the relief of the needy and distressed. Last Friday evening in the City Hall I had the honor of presiding at a meeting of one of these societies, and I was more than gratified at the brotherly feeling and enthusiasm manifested there. "Before concluding, I desire on behalf of my colleagues of the City Council, as well as on my own behalf, to thank you for your kind invitation here today. The council of 1895 have in my opinion tried to do their duty. They have been economical and at the same time progressive, and while not making any claim to be called the friends of the workingmen, the interests of the laboring class have not been overlooked. If you examine the pav-ing contract with the Barber Company, of which so much has been heard, you will find that the clause protecting home labor is one of the strongest ever placed in a contract in the city of Lon-(Applause.) Opening of the Eleventh Annual Conference in the City Hall.

Address of Welcome by Mayor J. W. Little.

And the Reply of President P. J. Jobin, Quebec.

Delegates Accept an Invitation to Visit Springbank.

Report of the Executive Committee on Proposed Change of Constitution-Names of Delegates Present-Executive Committee's Report Dealing With Legislation.

The Canadian Trade Congress met in eleventh annual conference in the City Hall this morning. It is eight years since the congress met in London last, and visitors who were here then declare that the city has wonderfully improved since that time. It was understood that the meeting should begin at 9:30, and Mayor Little, who had been invited to open the congress by an address of welcome, was present sharp on time. He waited until nearly 10, and then had to leave to keep another engagement. The delegates arrived at 10 o'clock, which hour, owing to a misunderstanding, they had been led to expect to be the time for commencement. The officers then decided to await the re-arrival of the mayor, who came in shortly after 11. ADDRESSES OF WELCOME.

Mr. Walter Toll, president of the local Trades and Labor Council, then took the chair, and called upon the mayor to make the opening address. "I don't propose to inflict a speech upon you," said the latter. "I simply wish to welcome you to the city of London on behalf of the council and the citizens. We are very glad to have you with us. We have many times had larger conventions meeting here, but I don't know that we have often had a convention which represents a larger constituency than you do. (Applause.) We are sorry that the city does not present its usual attractive appearance when you are here, but I hope you will take all the muss that you see about the streets as an evidence of progress, and the next time you come back we hope to have things in better shape. I trust you will have a very pleasant time here, and I am sure that your deliberations will be such as will benefit those you represent. In this new country of ours it is very hard to distinguish between the employer and the employed. The employe of today is the employer of tomorrow. Their interests are the same, and the employer who has any common sense must regard the interests of his men as identical with those of himself. (Applause.) If he does not he will certainly come to grief. I have been an employe, I have been an employer, and it certainly has been my experience that if men are treated well they will reciprocate and treat their employers well."

plause.) The mayor then extended an invitation to the delegates to visit Springbank this afternoon and inspect the waterworks, "In some cities," said the mayor, "where there are conventions, all the delegates have to drink something else, because water is so bad. (Laughter.) Now I want to tell you that there is no such excuse as that in London." (Applause.)

said Mr. Jobin, "on behalf of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada I desire to tender to his worship Mayor Little, of the city of London, Ontario, and to the citizens through him, our most hearty and sincere thanks for the very cordial reception which he has tendered to the representatives of organized labor from the different provinces of the Dominion. It is eight years, if I mistake not, since the congress previously met in this city. London has progressed rapidly during those eight years, and I have no doubt if it continues to have at its head such chief magistrates as Mayor Little that it will progress rather more rapidly during the next eight years. (Applause.) In labor matters probably it owes to its Trades and Labor Council the progress that has been made. When the last congress met here it was not as great numerically as the present one, and while we have had at times a larger attendance than that of today, still I think I can say with truth that we have the cream of the labor movement with us. "We feel very grateful to your chief magistrate for the kind invitation to visit Springbank. So far as that water supply is concerned, I have no hesitation in saying that this body counts among its members a good many warm temperance advocates. They possibly do not take the platform and declaim in favor of total prohibition, but they are probably just about as sincere as those who do. Workingmen are nothing if not sincere, and they no doubt will give the citizens of London a practical example of temperance. (Applause.)

The invitation to visit Springbank was subsequently accepted, and the president named John Tweed, Toronto; J. T. Marks, London, and H. Laforce Langevin, Quebec, as a credential committee, after which the meeting adjourned to meet at 2 o'clock. The following delegates were pres-

AFTERNOON SESSION. President Johin again occupied the chair when the meeting convened. The following reports were presented for consideration:

EXEGUTIVE COMMITTEE REPORT. To the Delegates of the Eleventh Annual Session of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada:

Your executive committee present the following reports: At the last session the question of reorganization was reto your committee, and herewith is presented a short as a groundwork for action by the congress. As it was impossible for your committee to meet, it has not been deemed advisable to go more fully into details by correspondence, and we would submit the whole question to the delegates, with the sincere hope that something will be done to at once proceed to organize the immense number of unorganized workmen in the Dominion

Your committee have to report its inability to further federal legislation in any manner at the last session of the Dominion Parliament. However, a large amount of correspondence passed between your committee and various members of the Government and House of Commons.

The following bills in the interest of the working classes were introduced at the last session of Parliament, but unfortunately none of them ever reached a third reading. Your committee trust that the result will be different at some future session. An act by Mr. Lepine, M. P. for Montreal East, providing for an eight-hour day on all Government works and works under contract for the Government. An act by Mr. Coatsworth, M. P. for East Toronto, providing for the registration and protection of union labels. An act to amend the Railway Act, by Mr. Maclean, M. P. for East York, providing for a rate of 2 cents per mile on all railways.

An act to prevent the importation of alien labor under contract into Canada, by Mr. Taylor, M. P. for South Leeds.

An act respecting the sale of railway return tickets, by Mr. McLennan, M.P. for Glengarry. An act to facilitate voting by employes at elections to the House Comomns, by Mr. Rider, M.P for Stan-An act respecting the liability of the Government and public companies for labor used in the construction of public works, by Mr. McLennan, M. P. for Glengarry.

An act to provide for greater security for passengers and employes on railways, by Mr. Casey, M. P. for West Elgin.

During the session Sir Charles H. Tupper, Minister of Justice, introduced several amendments to the criminal code, among them the following: Every one is guilty of an indictable offense and liable to six months' imprisonment who, by means of any false ticket, or order, or any other or orded, fraudulently and unlawfully obtains or attempts to obtain, any passage of any carriage, tramway, railway, street railway, or any steam or other vessel." This amendment was brought to the notice of the Toronto Trades and Labor Council and the city council of Toronto, and both bodies at once took action, with the view of having the clause withdrawn; your com-mittee are pleased to note that they were successful. The amendment was first introduced in the interest of the Toronto Street Railway, and would, if passed into law, be to the benefit of all street car lines in the Dominion. Your committed cannot see any reason for making the common law of the country a collecting agency for street rail. way companies or any other corporation. A number of trades and labor councils, individuals and labor papers were heartly thanked for their support.

All of which was respectfully submitted. P. J. Jobin, chairman; Alex. R. Macdonald, H. Laforce Langevin, Napoleon Page, Wm. Darlington, Edward A. Connell, John Armstrong, David A. Carey; George W. Dower, secretary.

Your committee forwarded a printed list of resolutions adopted at the last session of the congress to the members of the Legislature.

On Dec. 17, 1894, a deputation of your executive board and the Central Trades and Labor Council of Quebec procured an interview with the Provincial Cabinet. The reception was courteous, but the Ministers non-committal, giving as answers on some resolutions of funds," "too early or too late," to establish what we asked for.

One important bill to our local bodies was introduced and passed in the Legislature. It was Bill No. 131, entitled "Law Relating to the Incorporation of Benevolent, National, Trades Unions and Labor Associations," but we are sorry to say that too many of those "anti-labor mummies" are still living and sitting in the legislative council, as he got our bill rejected by one vote. We must admit that this state of affairs will remain so until the labor ballot removes those men and replaces them by workingmen as represent atives. Your committee is delighted to consider the great headway organized labor has made during the past year in (Continued on page 6.

Mrs. Kate Green, of St. Thomas, on Saturday had her household goods put on board the steamer Stewart at Port Stanley. She intended leaving that night for Cleveland. A writ of attachment was issued against the goods. and Bailiff Thornton went to Port to seize the stuff. The boat mate objected and hustled the bailiff off the steamer on the ground that it was an American bottom and a Canadian had no right to seize anything on board. On the advice of the United States consul the seizure was permitted, and Mrs. Green

The perfect husband should be a] busy man, and one whose day is very full. Men are not happy without plenty of work; and a man who has no outlet for his energy elsewhere bestows it on his household with generally unfavorable results. Small household concerns are not a man's business, and nothing is more irritating than the perpetual interference of a theorist, in the small matters of life. The fin-de-stecle daughter of England, speaking of a happy household, described it as being one where "papa and mamma see so little of each other," and the girl's jest was a true observation. In plenty of Occupation is the real secret of happiness, but the woman must be content to take the smaller share in the wider and more engrossing life of the man she lives with. In the wider lives that women now live it appears as if little of the hardships and inequalities of which they complained have survived, and in the generous acceptance of that new position by men lies the fundamental reason for the happiness which we believe exists in England in as great a measure as anywhere. Men have accepted the new role of woman with her greater emancipation, and have shown very little jealousy of her increasing power. It may be that the lives of men are in these days more occupied than formerly, and that they have not the time nor opportunity to curtail the freedom of their "better halves;" for undoubtedly, on the surface the majority of men are kind, if not "ideal husbands," if we may judge by the large liberty which married women enjoy. Many of the unhappy lives we come across are caused by the weaknesses and foolishness of women. The new life of freedom bestowed on women will, we believe, in time clear some of the rocks and pitfalls out of the married state. In enlarging the interests and sympathies of women, they become much more capable of appreciating the wider and broader lines of their husband's career, and more able to be a help and adviser to him.-Lady Jeune.

There are more people in the shipping ousiness than you might think; their kindness and courtesy are never for home consumption, but always for export-for use outside the home only. Don't let yours be of that sort: "Company manners" are the worst of all manners. Be at home what you would be abroad, and when you are abroad you will feel quite at home. But with these hints I must stop-only asking you once again to remember the poor children who get no holiday.

One of the healthiest vegetables, if not the healthiest, is the onion; yet, strange to say, but few people use it as liberally as they should. Boiled onions, used frequently in a family of children, will ward off many of the diseases to which the little ones are subject. The principal objection to the promiscuous use of this vegetable is that the odor exhaled after eating it is so offensive. A cup of strong coffee taken immediately after eating is claimed to be excellent in counteracting this effect. Although for a day or so after eating onions the breath may have a disagreeable odor, yet after this time it will be much sweeter

In the preparation of summer gowns one sometimes forgets to provide for a wrap. Some people depend upon their spring capes to serve hem for the few cool days of summer. This is perhaps wise for the young woman who is comnelled to deny herself a few coveted garments. But the girl of unlimited means should know that it is possible for her to

A MARINE CAPE. look more fetching in a wrap which is made with that in view, than in the most attractive dress.

One of the wealthy young ladies whose hobby is yachting, has evidently discovered the above mentioned truth, for she appears on every possible occasion in a most startling cape, with a hood, in which she can nestle her pretty head until very little is visible, but her two bright eyes. It is beautifully planned to protect her hair from the sea breezes without disarranging it by too close contact. It is made much larger than the and is wired at the edge so as to stand away from the face. A ruche sewed inside the hood softens the effect around the face. The cape is full and has a ruche around the edge. When made of some dark material this is a remarkably well-adapted cape for yachting or even for ocean voyaging. A similar wrap may be made of light colored material and used for an opera cloak. The same young woman who goes yachting in her stone gray marine cape, with its pale-blue lining, wears a lavender one of the same cut to the hops at the hotel, and looks bewitching in both.

Trying is Yellow.

Yellow is a color that is becoming to most women, blonde or brunettes, but the paler shades that border on straw color are very trying, particularly if the complexion has lost its freshness. To obviate this, the clever modiste insists on knots of black and a black hat, and presto! the gown and its wearer are in

A gown that is a veritable "dream' is of pale yellow mousseline de soie, made with full plain skirt over a lining of silk. The waist has a shirred front, with bands of lace insertion between the rows of shirmoment intently, "the very fust thing | ring. Two rosettes of pale yellow are placed on a line with the sleeves, and from them hang to the bottom of the skirt two flounces of broad applique lace, so arranged that it takes of itself the shape of a jabot. The gown is very striking, but would be almost too colorless were it not worn with a large black hat trimmed with feathers. The hat is of very fine leghorn, the brim curved in and out, and trimmed with a fall of black lace. These falls of laces on the hat brims must not be attempted by amateur milliners, and only the most expensive lace looks well. In this case both milliner's art and handsome lace are used, and the result is most satisfactory.

A pale yellow batiste, with knots of black velvet, and black cockade hat, trimmed with yellow flowers, make a smart outfit for a garden party and an exceedingly becoming one as well.

When silk gowns are worn this summer they will be of the taffeta and stiff silks, and very much trimmed with lace. Crepons will have a rest for a few weeks. but in the lighter colors will not be banished entirely, and sensible individuals will always have in order to wear some dark gown. At the memorable Sloane-Burden wedding the greater number of the guests attired themselves in the muslins and light fabrics declared "the thing" this summer, and the one or two women who wore dark heavy gowns, comparatively dark and heavy, looked infinitely better and more suitably clad.

Let the Children Sleep. One of the great mistakes of parents and those who have charge of children is that they are likely to allow the little ones too little sleep. With one excuse and another the youngsters are up later at night than they should be, and, as they must be off to school betimes in the morning, and there may be duties to perform, they are called long before they have finished their morning nap. Children, as a rule, ought to sleep ten or eleven hours, and to do this they must be put to bed early enough at night. so that they may get this amount of uninterrupted rest. But it is a difficult thing to give the chidren the amount of sleep they require, because there is almost always something going on in the evening that interests them-someone comes in, there is a new paper or book, or something is being talked of that they like to hear They plead and entreat to stay up just a little longer and with a spirit of indulgence the parents yield. Of course this means but one thing-too little repose and curtailing of the hours of rest that nature imperatively demands. It is no wonder that children are nervous, fretful, and difficult to get along with. The nerves, inherited from dyspeptic parents, are keenly alive to every sound; and their tempers, none the best, or they would not be the children of their parents, are irritated by being called out of bed when they so much want to sleep. During the earlier years of children, whatever else may be done, there should be ample provision for long and undisturbed sleep. It means health and strength in later years, clear heads, good dispositions, and well-regulated menta lity.

"I may also mention the street railway agreement, in which the labor clause was materially strengthened, even after it left the hands of the committee appointed by yourselves to deal with it. I therefore ask you, gentlemen, to judge the council rather by their actions than their words. The true friends of the workingmen are the men who deal liberally with their employes -(applause)-rather than those who are ready to promise to turn the world upside down for the benefit of the men and to make any sacrifice so long as it costs them nothing personally. We have tried to do our duty, gentlemen, and I am glad that the workingmen, instead of taking things for granted, investigated for themselves."

In a few concluding sentences the mayor thanked the crowd for the patient hearing given him and expressed the wish that the affair would be most enjoyable.

IN THE RING. The crowd in the grounds must have numbered between 8,000 and 10,000, and it included men, women and children all sizes, ages, colors and creeds. When the procession had passed into the park the crush was something amazing. The entrances were taxed for a time, and the over-eager small boy who couldn't wait till he got to a gate, scrambled over the fence. Every person seemed to be making for the ticket offices, and the four men who handled the pasteboards necessary to get into the stands had all they could comfortably do to keep up with the de-And while every stand was packed, there was a large crowd scat-

When Mayor Little had concluded his address a programme of races and sports was gotten under way, and the different events were run off with a promptness decidedly creditable to the management. There was a little of eventhing and that enough to retain inerything, and just enough to retain interest. At one time the proceedings somewhat resembled Caledonian games -for there was high jumping, long jumping, running hop, step and jump, and putting the shot; again, there was dancing on the platform in front of the stands, and then there was a tug-of-war and a two-mile bicycle

The attendance at the evening performance was considerably smalller than the afternoon, but equally as good a time was had. The Orients furnished a better programme, meluding comic songs, dancing, aerobatic feats, juggling, etc. The Darktown Fire Brigade and Zulu Football Slashers were on deck. In the Irish jig competition Wm. Morkin won first prize, Jakey Butts was second, and Robert Rowan third. Hugh Galbraith won the Scotch reel, Annie Patton being second, and Florence Small third. LABOR DAY ELSEWHERE

Successful Demonstrations Held in Every Part of the Country

Dispatches from the principal cities and towns in Canada and the United States show that the day was generally and successfully observed.

Toronto-The Labor Day demonstration Monday was the most successful ever held in Toronto. Quebec-About 40 trades unions took part in the parade. Hon. Wilfrid Laurier spoke at night in Jacques Cartier Hall on "Organized Labor and the Dignity of Work.' Boston-Over 9,000 men participated in the demonstration.

New York-Parades and picnics were the order of the day. In the garment-workers' parade 2,000 girls marched. Buffalo-The number of men in the labor parade was 15 000. Ottawa-The labor procession here was a failure, both in regard to the number who yards; Millman, Feely and Short, 300 took part and its being representative of the stration ranks among the most successful yet held in the metropolis.

Chicago-Dissension marked the celebration of Labor Day in Chicago, and the two rival organizations of labor marched in separate parade. This was the result of the long pending dispute between the Labor Congress and the Trade and Labor Assembly. The honors of the day rested with the Labor Congress. Twelve divisions, numbering 25,000 men, assembled on the lake front. Chatham-Labor Day was generally observed as a holiday. Large crowds arrived to enjoy the programme of sports, etc., prepared by the firemen of this city. A lacrosse match between Chatham and Windsor for a handsome cup, resulted in favor of Chatham by three goals to one. This was followed by a baseball match between Marine City and Chatham. The latter was defeated 31 to 10. In the afternoon the firemen's tournament took place on the fair grounds, and included a hose reel race, in which Thamesville secured first, St. Marys second, and Ingersoll third prize. Highland dances, tug-of-war, foot and horse races and a baby show concluded the afternoon entertainment. In the evening a grand ball was given in the drill shed. The weather was cautiful throughout the day.

THE LABOR CONGRESS. We cordially welcome the delegates to the annual meeting of the Canadian Trades and Labor Congress. Our visitors will find London a pleasant place of abode, and they will be charmed with its surroundings. We can assure them that a very large proportion of the citizens of London are vitally interested in their deliberations, and sympathize with every legitimate effort made to improve the conditions under which the great mass of the people earn their deaily bread. Those of the delegates who were in the city on Labor Day must have been convinced of that fact, for no other holiday, in all the eight of the year which are legal, has been observed with greater unanimity. The day was honored by people of every rank and condition of life and without regard to sex. Few people, therefore, will fail to sympathize with the aims of the Congress, for the overwhelming proportion of us are toilers. It is in the best interests of us all that no man or woman should be compelled to work for less than a living wage, or to toil in drudgery all the hours of the day that can be spared from sleep. Every man and woman should be given time for mental and moral improve ment. It is highly undesirable that any man, or body of men, should be enabled by law to illegitimately profit at the expense of the real producers. For these reasons, the deliberations and findings of this body of men, representatives of a large section of the workers of the country, possess more than a passing interest. The "Advertiser" will keep its many readers fully apprised of them.

REVOLUTION IN STREET TRAVEL The Toronto Telegram points out that one result of the bicycle and the trolley is to change the business habits of the people. Once the sidewalks were crowded and the pavement comparatively empty, but now the sidewalk is the roomiest part of the roadway. Sidewalks which were once thronged by people going on foot have been deserted for the roadways, where the people go on wheels of all kinds. Stores which depended for trade upon the attractiveness of their shop windows to people passing on foot cannot catch the eyes of thousands who now whirl past in electric cars or on bicycles. This change is radical, permanent and Good business stands have lost trade because people with money to spend are carried past stores which they used to enter because they saw something they liked in the windows. The advertising columns of the family newspaper, our contemporary explains, are now the shop window which the merchant can use to bring what he has to sell before the eye of the purchasing public. In London, up till now, we have had the bicycle side of this picture presented to a limited extent. When we have the trolley and the asphalt pavement in our business centers, the advice of our shrewd Toronto contemporary will apply to London as well as to its rival city. Happily it is a change for which enterprising merchants have already an effective remedy, as our columns testify.

HONESTY PAYS.

The United States consul at Belfast, Ireland, sends to his Government information that is of peculiar interest to Canadian agriculturists and fruitgrowers. He says:

"The charge is made that American ham is too heavy and the meat too is also at a discount, it being asserted that it is tampered with on both sides of the Atlantic. Merchants at Belfast bitterly complain of the alleged deception of American shippers of apples, and the Canadian apples are accordingly growing in popularity."

This statement emphasizes the necessity for carefulness and honesty in shipping to the British markets. Indeed, the farmer and dealer who scrupulously adheres to the rule that his products are what he represents them to be will command the market, either at home or abroad, and get top prices for it. We have already shown that Canadian ham is in great favor in Britain, because it is neither too at strive to feed and to market their pigs in a condition that will warrant this designation in the future, and there will be almost unlimited demand for their products at a price in advance of that obtainable for heavy, fat pork. As to apples, we know that again and again Canadian fruit has been brought into disrepute through some unscrupulous packer of apples sending forward scrub stock as first-class goods. It seems that Canadians have learned a lesson from past disaster resulting from thus imposing on old world dealers, and the sharp Yankee, who, last year, had to come to Canada for a large quantity of his apples, is now finding out how quickly all are punished for the misdeeds of a few. Our fruit-growers and dealers should be even more careful to send their best products to the British markets, bearing in mind that any attempt to represent second-class fruit as the best will bring disaster to the trade all along the line.

West Huron has been practically unrepresented in Parliament for some time, and if Parliament meets in January, or before it, surely the electors will have an opportunity to choose a representative.

In old London a severe epidemic of smallpox is alarming the civic authorities, the more so because cold weather is approaching, and it is much more difficult to handle the epidemic when the houses are closed and ventilation and cleanliness are not so easy to obtain. The Lancet, in discussing this matter, explains the prevalence of the malady by stating that at no time within the present generation has there been in England such gross and criminal carelessness in enforcing obedience to the vaccination laws as within the last six years. This, in turn, is due to the fact, that a royal commission, appointed in 1889 to investigate the whole subject of vaccination, has done its work with such amazing deliberation that even now it is not ready to make a report. Public opinion being divided on the effect of vaccination, the Boards of Guardians have been very lax in performing their duty. This experience reminds us of Montreal in 1885. London should take warning by the experience of the Canadian city. So far vaccination is the only known preventive of smallpox, and we doubt if the royal commission will report differently.

A recent traveler asserts that he found the best roads in Europe. The principle followed in their building is, first, a proper foundation, made hard by drainage. Then there is placed a layer of broken stone, and the top surface is usually made of small stones, which are watered and rolled by immense stone rollers, until the surface is as solid as a rock and smooth as possible. The improvement in the machines for making roads has advanced and is still advancing. The roads of all Europe are so extremely good and are so well built that there is not a country which a bicycle rider cannot tour in its entirety, no matter how wet or how dry and warm the weather may be. The engineers of Europe consider asphaltum the best material for building streets, and this is used very extensively both in Paris and in Lon-Wood pavements have also been very extensively used, but several prominent physicians hold that wood pavements catch and hold the germs of disease, and that they should be done

Woman's suffrage makes steady progress in Great Britain, and the right of woman to some say in the making of the laws which she, in common with man, must obey, is likely to be conceded ere long. The British National Society for Woman Suffrage has made a list of the members of Parliament who have announced themselves as favorable to the cause. The list comprises 222 men. Among them are included such men as the two Balfours. Sir John Gorst, Justin McCarthy, Sir Stafford Northcote, Mr. Courtney, Sir F. Lockwood, Sir John Lubbock, Sir A. K. Rollit, Mr. George Wyndham, and many others almost as well known. A bill extending the suffrage will doubtless be offered, as it has been at every session since 1867, when John Stuart Mill championed it, and the chance for its passage seems excellent at this distance. The bill introduced by Sir A. K. Rollit in the 1892 Parliament was read a second time and only defeated by a small majority. If A. J. Balfour does not go back on his former protestations, the measure to be introduced in this Parliament will pass the House of Commons, for in that body the word of the Government leader on a matter of this kind is law. But if the bill does pass the House it will still have to run the gauntlet of the House of Lords, and past experiences lead us to believe that the reactionary privileged chamber will not soon consent to its becoming law.

BASEBALL. EVENED UP. At Athletic Park yesterday morning the nine from Galt evened up for Saturday afternoon's bad defeat hy battter, fielding better, and winning from the Alerts by a score of 14 to 11. The game was somewhat uninteresting throughout, owing to loose playing on the part of the home team, and the one-sided nature of the contest in the first half. Moore, of Hamilton, made his first appearance in an Alert uni-form, but proved a great disappointment. Even though London did knock him out of the box recently it was looked upon as an off-day, and better results were expected from him. Galt handled him much as they pleased at times, making 18 hits off his delivery. He was supported by the other member of the Hamilton battery, Baker, who did very well, both at and behind the bat. Burnett was in the box for Galt, and escaped much better than Moore. Galt, after retiring the Alerts with a goose egg, went in for their half of the first inning with vigor. Lyons, Cockman, Humphrey, Jones and Ripley scored by good stick work, assisted by a couple of errors, and the outlook for the Alerts was a very dark blue. The shade deepened in their second, when Galt made two more on a very scratch hit of Lyons' (which the umpire failed to pass upon until the batter had almost reached his base), a drive of Mc-Donald's to center field, and very clumsy playing of Dunn at second, which allowed both men to score. Galt's fourth was good for two more, and in the fifth they had the Alerts un-strung, and the scoring of the first inning was repeated. Ripley led off with a hit to left, and went to third on Spalding's hit to center. Handley and Burnett died very easily, but Lyons got a base on balls, Cockman made a hit, and McDonald went to short, but Quinn neither threw to Burton nor tried to cut the runner at the plate. Humphrey was good for a three-bag-ger, but failed to score himself, as

Jones flew out. "Billy" Hynd was the hero of the game, as far as the Alerts were concerned. In the fifth he walked up to the plate, found Burnett easily, and landed the ball over the right fielder and the bicycle track. He made a clean circle of the bags, and, of course, was cheered. Baker, the Alerts' 1896 catcher, made three clean two-base hits On one he tried to take third, but was nipped by Jones. Moore did nothing

THE SECOND GAME. Alerts placed their stand-by, Bert Sheere, in the box in the afternoon, and, al-though he was hit hard, the hits were scattered. There was a large crowd of people in attendance, and it saw a veritable slugging match from beginning to end. Although the Alerts did not hit the Galt pitchers as freely as, the Galts did Sheere, their hits were always opportune. The fielding on both sides was rather loose, but the game was interesting on account of the evenness of the score, and the heavy batting. Among the loose fielding that marked the game several brilliant plays stood out in bold relief, including four double plays. The Alerts made four three-base hits, and two two-base hits. Baker, of Hamilton, who played shortstop for the Alerts, proved an excellent batsman, and his only fielding chance, which was a difficult one, was accepted in good style. Owing to the sun being in the fielders' faces, the left fielders had a hard position to play. Score: ALERTS.

This is the third time that Lamplighter has been sold. As a 3-year-old he was sold to Pierre Lorillard for $30,000, and at the breaking up of the Pancocas sta-bles he was bought by Walbaum for $20,000. THE WEEEL.

The correspondent of the Chicago Herald, who recently visited this city with the crack wheelmen, says that with but one or two exceptions the tracks in Canada compare favorably with any in the States. Of the London track he says: "Throughout the country, notably at London, the tracks are new, and built upon good lines." BICYCLE TWELVE FEET LONG. From one of the bicycle factories at Coventry, England, comes the "Torpedo," the latest thing in cycle conpedo," the latest thing in cycle construction. The machine was ridden in the Coventry Cycling Club's recent fancy dress procession to Packington Park. It is twelve feet long, three times the length of the ordinary bicycle, and is easily run at the rate of ten or twelve miles an hour. It is not built for speed and cannot be operated much

THE WEATHER TO-DAY. Fine and warm.

MANY

MANTLES

Are already to hand for the autumn trade. Our costume and mantle department has many attractions, in fact we believe it never presented so many pleasing fashions so early in the season. Thirty cases are already to hand and opened up. It will be very nice for the ladies to come and see them, even supposing they don't want to buy. We won't object. Spend a whole afternoon in our stores looking around and it won't cost you anything. Buy a big parcel of very choice goods and it will cost you but little more.

GOODS.

Our Dress Goods Department is receiving day by day new additions of imported goods. City customers are invited to inspect what we consider to be the choicest materials for fall wear brought to London. Outof-town customers writing for samples will be as promptly attended to as those living in the city. We pay express charges on parcels of $5 and upwards. Both city and outside customers should bear in mind that all articles bought from us not proving perfectly satisfactory we will refund money. We have confidence in the merit of our goods. BOOTS

This is a growing department with us. The ladies are realizing that we can and do sell che per than those who devote all their attention to the shoe business. We are not under so great expense, because we have so many other departments in our big establishment. We keep the very choicest makes and have a great variety to choose [Note-Be sure you get into the right store. You can tell ours by the absence of goods strewn around the front.

of speed in the stretch. Sanger took the second heat, winning almost as he pleased. Johnson led to the head of the stretch, where he stopped as if in trouble, and was passed by both Sanger and Tyler. Johnson won the final heat in one of the most exciting fin-ishes ever seen on the track. Tyler was second, six lengths in front of Sanger. No time given.

LAURIER'S TOUR.

B: illiant Reception Tendered the Popular Leader in Charlevoix.

Quebec, Sept. 3.—Over 2,000 electors of Charlevoix attended the great public meeting addressed by Mr. Laurier at Les Eboulements, and never, in the history of the constituency, it is said, was such a sense of enthusiasm witnessed. The mayor of the parish, Mr. Clement, presided, and a large number of the principal inhabitants occupi-ed the stand with the Liberal leader, who was introduced by the local member, Mr. Morin, and by Senctor Pelletier. Then followed the presentation of an address of welcome to Mr. Laurier, who, in rising to reply, was received with a perfect hurricane of cheers and who spoke in most eloquent and vigorious style for nearly an hour, going over the whole range of political questions of the hour. The Hon. F. Langelier and Messrs. Choquette, M.P., Dechene, M.P.P., Perrault, and Angers also delivered stirring addresses. The meeting only ended at seven p. m., and at eight o'clock the whole vil age was illuminated in honor of the Liberal chieftain.

Cod-liver Oil is useful beyond any praise it has ever won, and yet few are willing or can take it in its natural state. Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil is not offensive; it is almost palatable.

Trilby's Foot.

The step 'twixt the sublime and the ridiculous is quickly made. Surely literature presents no more grotesque idealization than Trilby's foot, and the numerous worshippers that have, figuratively speaking, bent knees and kissed the big toe of the foot when reason once more comes to their rescue will feel as if the production of the genus Ass were perennial. By the way, did you notice when reading Trilby how highly it commended Putnam's Corn Extractor, which renders impossible the discordant excrescence, corns. exclusively to the causes for the great increase of what are known as female complaints during the past ten years, and to remedies for the same. Many cases have been investigated, and among others that of Mrs. Reany, of Ashland, Wis., who was cured of this form of trouble by the use of a kidney medicine known as Dodd's Kidney Pills, which originated in Canada, but has now become widely known and used throughout the Western States. This and other similar cases go to show that these troubles are largely due to the kidneys, and that the above mentioned remedy is likely to have a great effect in lessening the number of victims to this form of complaint,

-The regular meeting of the Board of Education will be held tonight. About the most important question coming up for consideration is the establishment or non-establishment of commercial forms. A few days ago the board decided, as a test of public feeling, to advertise the proposal, and invited all students who would like the benefits accruing from a commercial course satisfactory. Principal Graham received between 25 and 30 answers, and Mr. R. M. lows: FELL THIRTY-FIVE FEET.

Wm. J. Irwin, a tinsmith employed by Wm. Stevely & Son, Richmond street, had an experience the other day which he will not soon forget. He was engaged in putting metallic shingles on the roof of the main ouiling at the fair grounds, when he missed his footing and fell to the ground, a distance of 35 feet. Irwin struck heavily and his fellow-workmen expected to find him badly injured. They were pleasantly surprised to find him suffering only from a general shaking up and a few scratches on the face. Irwin has recovered his nerve and is at work again.

SLAPPED HER FACE.

Mrs. Margaret Kenny Got Even With Her Neighbor.

Alex. Harvey Fined $20 for Breaking the Fire Bylaw-Stephen Penfold's Case.

Mrs. Margaret Kenny, of Thames street, didn't beat about the bush this morning when Police Magistrate Parke asked her if she had slapped Mrs. Ann Stephens in the

"Yes, I did," was Mrs. Kenny's answer, 'because she hit my little boy."

Mrs. Kenny and Mrs. Stephens are neighbors, but do not seem to have agreed very well. Their children quarrel, too, and recently Mrs. Stephens hit the little Kenny boy on the face for something he had done. She was promptly paid back in her own coin by Mr. Kenny. The latter was bound over in $100 to keep the peace for a year, and then Mrs. Stephens got an opportunity to explain that she had been told to correct Mrs. Kenny's boy.
"But I could not do that myself," said

Mrs. Kenny, and the parties filed out. Alex. Harvey, contractor, was fined $20 for erecting an addition to the Mechanics' Institute, which was not fire-proof and infringed on the fire limits bylaw. The plans were originally shown to City Engineer Graydon, who refused a building permit. Mr. Harvey next went to the council, when he was referred to No. 3 committee, the members of which thought the building would be all right, and up it went. Mr. Harvey claimed he had done the very best he could under the circumstances. A second charge-that of erecting a frame shed in rear of the institute-was withdrawn,

Mr. Harvey consenting to brick it up. S. F. Penfeld, charged with the theft of a gold watch from his wife, Jessie Penfold, will appear tomorrow. The parties have neen separated for some time. A niece of Penfold's is also wanted, but the police cannot find her. The accused's counsel promised to have her in court for the trial.

Wm. Pring and James Patton, disorderlies, was discharged. Daniel Wade, breach of the bylaw was fined $1. The case of Nelson Granger, Hill street, charged with non-payment of Sidney Rogers' wages, was

All of which was respectfully submitted. Wm. Darlington, Napoleon. Page, H. Laforce Langevin, secretary. REPORT OF ONTARIO BOARD. The executive board for the Province of Ontario submitted the following: Since the last meeting of the congress Rose Publishing Company, Toronto, has the Ontario board of conciliation and ganized labor is represented on the said board by Mr. A. F. Jury. The Ontario Factories' Act having been amended in the direction of providing for the appointment of a fe-male inspector, the position was of-fered to and accepted by Miss Mar-garet Carlyle, of Toronto. Organized labor advocated the appointment of a lady directly connected with our organizations, but without avail.

We would draw the attention of delegates to the fact that under the amendment to the act respecting the protection of persons employed in places of business other than factories, it is compulsory for municipal councils to appoint two inspectors (one of whom shall be a female). It would be well for the local trade councils to take steps to have the appointments made. At the 1895 session of the Ontario Legislature several bills of importance to working people became law and in connection with which it is but simple justice to record that Toronto Trades and Labor Council, through its legislative committee, rendered much valuable assistance both in interviewing the Government and before several committees of the House. legislative committee of the Trades and Labor Council was ever on the alert, not only in promoting wise and necessary legislation of the character indicated, but in opposing-often successfully-legislation sought of a reactionary or detrimental trend. The following are among the new laws of last ression, viz.: The Law Courts' Act, an Act Respecting Electric Railways, by which the hours of workingmen on such railroads was limited to ten hours a day. An act to make further provision respecting factories, the Landlord and Tenant Act, 1895; an act for the further protection of persons employed in places of business other than factories, an act to amend the City Manhood Suffrage Registration Act, the Assesment Amendment Act.

All of which was respectfully submitted. Edward A. Connell, John Armstrong and David A. Carey. At 3:30 the delegates left on the steamer Thames for Springbank, accompanied by several members of the

The basis of representation shall be as follows: Trades unions, local assemblies of the Knights of Labor and federal unions shall be allowed one delegate for each 100 members or under, and one for each additional 100 or majority fraction thereof; trades councils, central labor unions, national trades unions and district assemblies the Knights of Labor and the Patns of Industry, three delegates each. Two or more trades unions or local assemblies of the Knights of Labor, whose aggregate membership does not exceed 150, may unite to send one delegate. No proxy representation will be allowed, and all delegates must be members of the bodies they represent at least six months prior to and at time of election, but nothing in this clause shall be construed to prevent unions or assemblies from combining to send one representative who is a member of one of such unions or assemblies. "The per capita of the congress shall be met by a per capita as follows: Trades and labor councils, district as-semblies of the Knights of Labor and the Patrons of Industry, 12 cents per year: trades unions and local assemblies of the Knights of Labor. 8 cents per year, and unions chartered direct by the congress and not having to pay to an international or national head, 16 cents per year.

"Your committee are strongly of the opinion that some means must be taken to organize the large number of workingmen at present unorganized in the Dominion, and wishing to guard the interests of all national or international unions and the order of the Knights of Labor, would recommend that steps be taken to this end.

140 FEET HIGH.

The Chimney for the New Street Railway Power House.

Tallest in the City-Will Require Two Kundred Thousand Brick-Other Electric Railway Notes,

The chimney for the new power house now being constructed by the street railway company at the head of Bathurst street will tower above all the buildings in the city. It will be 140 feet in height, or 15 feet higher than the chimney at the London Electric Company's works on York street. The foundation is 25 feet square, and the chimney at the base 13 feet square. The structure will be circular in shape, with a flue 6 feet 6 inches in diameter. Two hundred thousand white brick will be used in its construction, at a cost of $2,500. The power house will contain the greatest power-producing machinery of its size in the west. Six massive boilers, capable of developing 200 horse power each, or 1,200 in all, will be located in the easterly 90 feet of the building, fronting on Thames street, and adjoining the G. T. R tracks. Coal will be received direct from the railway and taken in hand cars to the furnaces. The whole building is 110x60 feet, and is devoted to boiler and engine and dynamo rooms entirely, except for the west end, where will be a complete witch-A basement will be provided board.

for storage purposes The building itself will be a neat structure, with foundation of stone and walls of white brick. The ends face east and west, and there are also doors in the south side facing Bathurst street. A large elevator runs along the center of the roof.

The company is paying all attention to the Dundas street line, and large gangs of men are kept going day and night. The south track has been torn up to the Fair grounds, and the rails and ties of the electric line are laid almost to that point. The wiring contractors—the Hogue brothers-are stringing the power wires from the electric company's power house to the Dundas street line. The trolley wires on Dundas street are net placed permanently, owing to the lack of hangers.

New York, Sept. 3.—Over 2,500 crowded the picturesque grounds of the Staten Islam Cricket Club yesterday to witness the international cricket match between the Oxford-Cambridge representatives and the All New York team. New York made 112 in its first inning, and when the day's play was finished the Britishers had made 198 for four wickets. The day was perfect for the cricket games this morning. Druce, who had 101 runs to his credit when the stumps were drawn last evening, took his place at the lower wicket, and R. A. Studd handled the willow in defense of the upper wicket. Studd, after making 31 in as many minutes, was caught by Cobb in the slips off Kelly's bowling. Score, 248 for five wickets. F. W. Mulligan was next to the bat, and sent the ball over the ladies' club house for 6. Druce sent a hard drive to the off, which McNutt caught neatly, and the batsman was loudly cheered as he returned to the club house after a well played inning of 121. Score, 255 for six wickets.

The Secret Out.

But he was a strong man and did not allow this mood to hold him long. Soon, very soon, he was able to go upstairs; and once at her door, his professional coolness came to his aid, subduing not only all appearances of emo-tion, but emotion itself, so that he en-tered calm and collected. Immobility had returned to Genevieve. She lay quiet, but her countenance had changed. Its look had deepened, and sweetened inexpressibly, as if in straying near to life again, she had strayed near to love. A profound impression was made upon him by this. Kneeling by her side, he gazed long and fixedly in her face. Could guilt lie beyond such peace? Could a secret love for the man who was not her husband, lend such light as this to her dreams? It was not in nature. But was any of it in nature? Was not the whole dreadful story from his first knowledge of her till now, a hideous distortion? His wife, this suspected criminal! His wife, this woman who within an hour of marrying him had loved another man, and was only prevented by that man's indifference to her from practicing upon himself the most unwarrantable of frauds? He stifled, as he looked at her, and did not know whether to lean forward and embrace her in a passion of tears or to turn his back upon her with horror and fly her presence and her memory forever. The helplessness in which she lay was his only anchor. The wife might be forsaken, not the patient. He must remain at her side till health returned; and remain calm, careful and affectionate, lest the faint spark of life should perish in its socket. No flying now, no weighing of facts for or against her guilt, no lengthened broodings, even, over that insensate passion for another man which had led to all this evil, and which was, in spite of his brave defense of her, before the police, aye, in spite of his growing regard for that man himself, the secret worm that was gnawing at his vitals and undermining his courage. No; all this must be abandoned. He must only look at her as at a human being requiring his care; and in this way he might get through the dreadful hours and reach that point when he could drop his mask and be to all eyes the wretched man he really was. But the word from the police-for he never doubted that he would re-ceive one—when would it come, and what would it bring? Was it even now on its way, and was it to be his fate to watch for the return of life to one under actual arrest? He felt he could not bear that. He would have to rely on the strength of some one else for a duty demanding so much nerve and self-control. Rising to his feet, he stumbled from the side of the bed. He would watch her from the other end of the room.

Tick, tick, tick, tick! It was the linguage of the clock on the mantel, counting out moments that held no ope. Tick. tick, tick, tick! for 60 minminutes more. Then—

"A gentleman to see you, sir!" How he got down stairs he never knew, but he found himself below, welcoming—Mr. Gretorex. The servant who had annunced him was new in the family. Of course this was a person who could not be ignored; but with what words he met him, talked to him, and finally bowed him out of the house, had no recollection an instant after they were uttered. All he remembered was that his reputed father-in-law looked a little puzzled as he went out. Then, before Dr. Cameron could close the front door, came a flutter of skirts up the stairs, and a bouquet of flowers as thrust into he hand, and sof then inine voices were asking how dear Mrs. Cameron was treey, ir the milst of which he felt a cold shiver seize him, and turning, saw standing in the hall behind him, just as if he had always stood thre, Mr Gryce. He answered the ladies, he made his best brw, and with the bot quet in his hand, stepped back into

The other stared into his hat, which he held in his hand, but made no direct

"The inspector is very busy this morning," he announced; "can you come down to police headquarters? There are a few words he would like to say to you."

'He has only to command," returned the doctor; but he went as to his execu-

He had expected to be confronted with Molesworth, but on the contrary he found the inspector quite alone.
"Ah, Cameron," remarked that gen-tleman, as he entered "so you had a taste of the storm where you were. Remarkable experience, wasn't it?" Then without further delay observed, "And so you could make nothing out of Molesworth? Well, I am not surprised; you went at it probably in the wrong way."

"There is no doubt about that," Dr. Cameron returned; "I do not pretend to be a detective, and could only show

"I know." interrupted the inspector, "What I meant was that you probably expected him to tell you whether Genevieve Gretorex gave to Mildred Farley the poison which she Now, that is a question he could not answer. But what he could have told you was—"
"What?" The doctor spoke tremulously, for the inspector had a strange look on his face. The latter hesitated; he had evidently purposed saying something vital, but thought better of it at present and produced some papers from his desk

"Dr. Cameron," he began, glancing at these papers as he talked, "do you remember, in our last interview, urginstead. ing various arguments in proof that Genevieve Gretorex could not in reason have committed the crime imputed to

Dr. Cameron bowed his head. "Well, Mr. Gryce made a note of these, and of some other things you said at the time, and I would be obliged to you if you would glance them over to refresh your mind and prepare yourself for something I am going to say."

"But-"
"I know you are suffering, and that it will be kindness to you to cut short your suspense, but—the words are not many; read them, Dr. Cameron, read them, them." And he thrust the paper into the doctor's hand. But though the latter looked at it with great earnestness, he evidently received no impression from the words before him, and the inspector seeing this, took the paper away again, saying:

"You shall see it later; it will perhaps be better for me now to tell you that from the facts and arguments you adduced at our last meeting, we have come to the concusion that Genevieve Gretorex was not accountable for the death that took place in her room. That she neither gave poison nor profited by its use; that she was a victim, and that the woman you married— He stopped, eyed the doctor, who was trembling like an aspen and glowing like a being suddenly lifted out of hell into heaven. "You never got that from any arguments I used," cried the doctor. "You have seen Molesworth and he—"

But the inspector interposed, gravely: 'Yes, we have seen Molesworth, but he added little to the knowledge we had. No, no, it was your admissions that proved to us that Genevieve Gretorex is innocent. And yet—" he went on, checking the doctor's joy with a sudden look, "we cannot offer you our congratulations, for with this conviction comes the painful alternative that she is only so because it was not the substitute and prototype of your be-trothed bride, that perished in that hour, but the bride herself, and that the woman you call your wife, and who now lies under the surveillance of the police, is not the elegant and fastidious heiress of Mr. Gretorex, but— Bear up, Cameron, there is hope for you in all this—the able, ardent, and aspiring Mildred Farley."

CHAPTER XXXIX. The blow had fallen; it had been long delayed, but it had come at last, and for a moment Dr. Cameron looked orushed.

Then he recovered himself and said, though somewhat faintly: "This is surmise on your part; you have no proof that such is the fact?" "No actual proof, no; but plenty of what you might call circumstantial. The fact that Mrs. Cameron has not been known to write a word since her marriage, is one." The doctor gave a gasp of dismay. Though he had never thought of it in that light, it was undoubtedly true that she had avoided every opportunity for showing her handwriting. Yet he said: "She has had the rheumatism. She—"

"She has had anything that would serve as an excuse for suppressing such tokens of the stupendous fraud she was practicing as would have been afforded by the not-to-be-concealed difference between her handwriting and that of the lady she was personating. But we will not press the matter now. Hear your own words and see If you can explain by any other theory, the facts which you have yourself observed in reference to this matter." And the inspector, taking up the paper he had before handed to the doctor, observed: The main argument used by you in defence of Genevieve Gretorex's innocence when you thought Genevieve Gretorex your wife, is the fact that sufficient time did not elapse after the death of the other, for that inter-change of clothing necessitated by the situation. These are your words:

"To undress an inanimate body down to the last detail and then to put upon it again article after article of her own clothing, Why, she had not the time, not if she worked with lightning fingers and unerring touch. "When we think of the length of time usually spent by women upon such matters, and recall the fact that in the appearance of neither were there any signs of hurry or neglect, we can draw but one conclusion." (To be Continued.)

A Love That Lasts for Aye and is All-

Graphic Discourse by the Famous Brooklyn Preacher.

New York, Sept. 2 .- For his sermon yesterday forenoon, Rev. Dr. Talmage selects a topic which must prove full of inspiration to Christians everywhere. The title of his discourse is: "The Chieftain," and the text: "The chiefest among ten thousand." Canticles v., 10.

The most conspicious character of history steps out upon the platform.
The finger which, diamonded with light, pointed down to him from the Bethlehem sky, was only a ratification of the finger of prophecy, the finger of genealogy, the finger of events—all five fingers pointing in one direction. Christ is the overtopping finger of all

What does that scripture mean which says of Christ, "He that cometh from above is above all." It means that after you have piled up Alpine and Himalayan altitudes, the glory of Christ would have to spread its wings and descend a thousand leagues to touch these summits. Pelion, a high mountain of Thessaly; Ossa, a high mountain, and Olympus, a high mountain; but mythology tells us that when giants warred against the gods, they piled up these three mountains, and from the top of them proposed to scale the heavens; but the height was not great enough, and there was a complete failure. And after all the giants—Isaiah and Paul, prophetic and apostolic giants; Raphael and Michael Angelo, artistic giants; cherubim and seraphim and archangel, celestial seraphim and archangel, celestial giants—have failed to climb to the top of Christ's glory, they might as well unite in the words of Paul, and cry out, "Above all!" "Above all!" But Solomon, in my text, prefers to call Christ "The Chieftain," and so today

First, Christ must be first in our preaching. There is nothing in all the opulent realm of Anglo-Saxonism, of all the word treasures that we inherited from the Latin and the Greek and the Indo-European, but we have a right to marshal it in religious dis-cussion. Christ sets the example. His illustrations were from the grass, the lowers, the barn-yard fowl, the crystals of salt, as well as from the seas and the stars; and we do not propose in our Sunday school teaching and our pulpit address to be put on the limits. I know that there is a great deal said in our day against words, as though they were nothing. They may be misused, but they have an imperial power. They are the bridge between soul and soul, between Almighty God and the human race. Shakespeare employed 15,000 different kept the faith, henceforth there is laid Shakespeare employed 13,000 different words for which the Lord, the righteous Judge, employed 8,000 different words for poetic purposes; Rufus Choate employed 11,000 different words for legal purposes; but the most of us have less than a thousand words that we can manage, and that makes us so stupid. When we come to set forth the love of Christ we are going to take the tenderest phraseology wherever we find it. And if it has never need used in that direction before all the more shall we use it. When we come to speak of the glory of Christ the Conqueror, we are going to draw our similes from triumphial arch and oratorio, and everything grand and stu-The French navy have 18 pendous. flags by which they give signals, but those 18 flags they can put into 66.000 different combinations. And I have to tell you that these standards of the cross may be lifted into combinations infinite and varietie everlasting.

Brighter than the light, fresher than he fountain, deeper than the seas are all these Gospel themes. Song has no melody, flowers no sweetness, sunset sky no color compared with these glorious themes. These harvests of grace spring up quicker than we can sickle them. Kindling pulpits with their fire, and producing revolutions with their power, lighting up dying beds Kindling pulpits with with their glory, they are the sweetest thought for the poet, and they are the most thrilling illustration for the orator, and they offer the most intense scene for the artist, and they are to the embassador of the sky all enthusiasm. Complete pardon for direst guilt. Sweetest comfort for ghastliest agony. Brightest hope for grimest death. Grandest resurrection for darkest sepulchre. Oh, what a Gospel to preach! Can it be that you are so desperately egotistical that you feel yourself in first-rate spiritual trim, and that from the root of the hair to the tip of the toe you are scarless and immaculate? What you need is a looking-glass, and here it is in the Bible. Poor and wretched and miserable and blind and naked from the crown of the head to the sole of the foot, full of wounds and putrifying sores. No health in us. And then take the fact that Christ gathered up all the notes against us and paid them and then offered us the receipt! And how much we need him in our sorrows We are independent of circumstances if we have his grace. Why, he made Paul sing in the dungeon. And under lyptic trumpets.

that grace St. John from desolate Patmos heard the blast of the apoca-Again I remark that Christ is chief in dying allevations. I have not anp sympathy with the morbidity abroad about our demise. The Emperor of Constantinople arranged that on the day of his coronation the stone mason should come and consult him about the tombstone that after a while he would need. And there are men who are monomanical on the subject of the departure from this life by death, and the more they think of it the less they are prepared to go. This is an unmanliness not worthy of you, and not worthy of me.

Saladin, the greatest conqueror of his day, while dying, ordered that the tunic he had on him be carried after his death on his spear at the head of his army, and that then the soldier, ever and anon, should stop and say: "Behold all that is left of Saladin, the Emperor and the conqueror, of all the wealth he accumulated, nothing did he retain but this shroud." I have no sympathy with such behavior, or such absurd demonstrations, or with much that we hear uttered in regard to departure from this life to the next. There is a common-sensical idea on this subject that you need to considerthere are only two styles of departure. A thousand feet underground, by light of torch, toiling in a miner's shaft. a ledge of rock may fall upon us, and we may die a miner's death. Far out at sea, falling from the slippery ratlings, and broken on the halliards, we may die a sailor's death. On mission of mercy in hospital, amid broken bones and reeking leprosies, and rag-ing fevers, we may die a philanthrop-ist's death. On the field of battle, serving God and our country, slugs through the heart, the gun carriage may run over us, and we may die a patriot's death. But, after all, there are only two styles of departurethe death of the righteous and the death of the wicked-and we all want to die the former. God grant that when that hour comes you may be at home. You want the hand of your kindred in your hand. You want your children to surround you. You want the light on your pillow from eyes that have long reflected your love. You want your room still. You do not want any curious strangers standing around watching you. You want your kindred from afar to hear your last prover. I think that is the your last prayer. I think that is the wish of all of us. But is that all? Can earthly friends hold us up when the billows of death come up to the girdle? Can human voice charm open heaven's gate? Can human hand pilot us through the narrows of death into heaven's harbor? Can any earthly friendship shield us from the arrows of death and in the hours when Satan shall practice upon us his infernal archery? No, no, no, no! Alas! poor soul, if that is all. Better die in the wilderness, far from tree shadow and from fountain, alone, vultures circling through the air waiting for our body, unknown to men, and to have no burial. If only Christ could say through our solitudes: "I will never leave thee, I will never forsake thee." From that pillow of stone a ladder would soar heavenward, angels coming and going; and across the solitude and the barrenness would come the sweet notes of heavenly minstrelsy.

Gordon Hall, far from home, dying in the door of a heathen temple, said: "Glory to thee, O God!" What did dying Wilberforce say to his wife a "Come and sit beside me and let me talk of heaven. I never knew what happiness was until I found Christ.' What did dying Hannah Moore say To go to heaven, think what that is To go to Christ, who died that I might live! Oh, glorious grave! Oh, what a glorious thing it is to die! Oh, the love of Christ! the love of Christ!"
What did Mr. Toplady, the great hymn-maker, say in his last hour? "Who can measure the depths of the third heaven? Oh, the sunshine that fills my soul! I shall soon be gone, for surely no one can live in this world after such glories as God has manifested to my soul."

What did the dying Janeway say "I can as easily die as close my eyes or turn my head in sleep. Before a few hours have passed I shall stand on Mount Zion with the one hundred and forty and four thousand and with the just men and perfect, and we shall ascribe riches, and honor, and glory and majesty, and dominion unto God and the Lamb!" Dr. Taylor, condemned to burn at the stake, on his way thither broke away from the guardsmen, and went bounding and leaping toward the fire, glad to go to Jesus and to die for him. Sir Charles Hare, in his last moments, had such rapturous vision that he cried: "Upward, upward, upward!" And so great was the peace of one of Christ's disciples, that he put his finger upon the pulse of his wrist and counted it and observed it; and so great was his placidity that after a while he said: "Stopped," and his life had ended here to begin in heaven. But grander than that was the testimony of the worn-out first missionary, when, in the Mamertine dungeon, he cried: "I am now ready to be offered; I have fought the good fight, I have finished my course, I have will give me in that day, and not to me only, but to all them that love his me only, but to all them that love his appearing!" Do you not see that Christ is chief in dying alleviations?

So, also, Christ is chief in heaven.

Stand on some high hill of heaven, and in all the radiant sweep the most glorious object will be Jesus. Myriads gazing on the scars of his suffering in silence first, afterward breaking forth into acclamation. And after each one has recited his peculiar de-liverances and peculiar mercies, recited them as by solo, all the voices will come together in a great chorus, which will make the arches echo and re-echo with the eternal reverberation of triumph.

Edward I. was so anxious to go to the Holy Land that when he was about to expire he bequeathed $600,000 to have his heart, after his decease, taken to the Holy Land in Asia Minor, and his request was complied with. But there are hundreds today whose hearts are already in the Holy Land of heaven. Where your treasures are, there are your hearts also. Quaint John Bunyan caught a glimpse of that place, and in his quaint way he said: "And I heard in my dream, and lo! the bells of the city rang again for joy; and as they opened the gates to let in the men I looked in after them, and lo! the city shone like the sun, and there were streets of gold, and men walked on them, harps in their hands, to sing shut up the gates, which when I had seen I wished myself among them!"

A "Wildcat" Engine Smashes into

a Loaded Train,

Telescoping the Car-Ten Killed and Many Injured.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 3. -An appalling railroad accident occurred at 3:40 this afternoon near the Woodlawn station of the Sea Beach Railroad. While train No. 3, drawing seventeen cars, which were crowded almost to suffocation by excursionists, was standing at the Woodlawn Station, a "wildcat" engine came thundering along the tracks and crashed into the rear car, telescoping it. The car was full of passengers most of whom came from New York. Many of the people saw the engine coming and jumped from the train and thus saved their lives. A colored porter on the platform who saw the engine coming without fireman or engineer, yelled to the passengers to make their escape.

Engine No. 61, the wildcat, smashed the rear car into kindling wood, burying men, women and children beneath. There was a mad rush of people from the train. The groans of the injured filled the air and the snorting and puffing of the imprisoned engine made a deafening noise. For some time the scene was a regular pandemonium. Scarcely half a dozen people kept their heads or were able to render assistance to the injured. Patrolman Kelly was on duty at the station and turned in several ambulance calls and five ambulances from the surrounding hospitals promptly responded. In the meantime the woodwork of the wrecked carriage caught fire and was soon in a blaze. Four cars were completely destroyed before the train hands were able to uncouple them. As soon as the coupling was detached the engine drew the other cars out of danger. By this time all the passengers had disembarked and there was the wildest kind of excitement. It was thought that at least ten persons were killed outright. Four cars were telescoped by the force of the collision. A list of in-

There is much said about the growing habit of intemperance among women; perhaps more than the facts would warrant. If this habit exists it is owing to the fact that women are often forced to perform domestic and social duties under great physical suf-fering, and by partaking of liquors for temporary relief or a little protraction of strength, the habit becomes a necessity. If all ladies who suffer with the complaints peculiar to their sex would take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, they would find nature's restorative, and the evil results of pernicious drugs and liquors would be avoided. For all cases of nervous and general debility, sleeplessness, spasms, periodical pains, suppressions and irregularties, it is the only medicine so certain in curative action that it can be guaranteed to benefit or cure or money re-

Dr. Williamson performed the wedding ceremony for Joseph Hinton and Miss Elizabeth Soper, both of London, in the presence of the near relatives of the bride and groom. A delightful tea was partaken of after the ceremony, and the happy couple left on he evening train for London. May prosperity and joy attend them."

-A horse attached to a buggy containing two ladies, each holding two babies, ran away at Victoria Park on Wellington street last night. It belonged to Perkins' livery, and when Dundas street was reached, instead of attempting to cross the street car tracks there, it turned east toward the stable. The buggy grazed a telephone pole on the corner, and turned on its side, the horse also falling. Before getting away the latter was captured, and the ladies and little ones were assisted out of their predicament.

-Mr Nichol, a farmer of Westminster, left his horse in front of Gilmore's, on Wellington street, on Saturday. The flapping of the awning startled the animal and it proceeded at a break-neck pace till it reached Simcoe street, thence to Clarence, where it jumped into the boulevard of Mrs. Major, overturning the buggy and spilling the groceries. The horse then smashed through the boulevard and proceeded up Clarence street, but was stopped a block further up.
