BUSINESS MEN PLEASED WITH BRITTAIN SURVEY

Say Its Value to City Will Depend On the Way Council Receives It.

CITY SHOULD ACT

Citizens Deplore Possibility of Report Being Used as a "Political Football."

The Brittain report, if accepted by the council, will prove or inestimable value to the city, local businessmen interviewed on the subject declared this morning.

Whether or not Londoners receive full value for money expended in this connection, however, depends entirely on the attitude of the mayor and aldermen. They are inclined to believe that the council should follow the recommendations of Dr. Horace Brittain and his staff to the letter. but if a "political football" is made of the document a large part of its worth will be dissipated.

Members of the chamber of commerce who subscribed to the chamber's fund for defraying one-half of the expense of the report expressed the opinion that their investment was a good one. The cost, which will satisfaction with the Brittain report, amount to $5,500, is considered by no but does not agree today with all the means excessive, and one citizen thought the city would get many times that sum in value received. Object to "Premature Criticism."

A. E. Silverwood, A. J. Mitchell, lajor T. J. Murphy, Lieut.-Col. Walter J. Brown and others deplored the possibility of city aldermen attempt-ing to make capital of the report by indulging in unnecessary orticisms

The "Green" Means Speed And Here Is Proof of It

Every night for the last four months, two green and two pink, newspapers have been appearing on London streets between 5 and 6:30, giving baseball scores, race results and late

The two green editions are The Advertiser. The two pink editions are the Free Press.

And both colors represent a daily battle against time, which the man on the street rarely realizes—a battle for speed in which every second counts.

Below are two tables, in which The Advertiser may perhaps be pardoned for taking a certain amount of pride.

The first table gives the showing made by the green and pink First Extras during June, July, August and September.
The second table is a similar record of the Late Extras—The Advertiser "Sporting Green" and the Free Press "Baseball

The tables show in each case the time the edition reached the street, the number of race results it gave, the total number of baseball innings it carried and the number of London innings. These figures show that not only has The Advertiser green been on the street every night for the last four months several minutes ahead of the pink, but that it has consistently carried

The Advertiser's First Extra has beaten the Free Press pink an average of 10 1-2 minutes, and has given one more race, 7 1-2 more innings, and an extra London inning.

The Advertiser's Sporting Green has beaten the Free Press final edition by an average of 81/4 minutes, and has given one more race and four more innings.

FATHER GIVES BLOOD TO SAVE BABY'S LIFE

Quick Action by Transfusion Prevents Infant Child From Dynig.

Readiness of a father to give blood to save the life of his infant son un-doubtedly saved the little child of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Stevens from death yesterday.

Early yesterday morning a practical nurse working with the Stevens family discovered that the 3-weeks-old infant of Mr. and Mrs. Stevens was unconscious. His skin had turned blue and the nurse becoming unconscious. His skin had turned blue, and the nurse, becoming alarmed, notified the parents. They immediately secured medical assist-ance.

The family doctor, after seeing the child, held a consultation with other medical men, and the belief was expressed that the baby was suffering from a cerebral hemorrhage. Only a transfusion of blood would save the infant's life, and Mr. Stevens readily offered as much of his own as was necessary. Ten cee-cees were transfused from father to child Friday afternoon, and the baby is now said to be progressing favorably. to be progressing favorably.

"There is a good chance for it's recovery," one of the doctors attending the infant stated.

PLEASED PUPILS

Canadian Press Despatch.

Montreal, Oct. 13.—With very little ceremony and a scarcely noticeable motion the special train bearing Lord Renfrew to Quebec, pulled away from the Windsor station this morning at 7:45 o'clock the last event in the most interesting visit of the heir to the British throne. While there were a number of friends and admirers at the station anxious to get a peep at him before he left, few were rewarded with success. The prince retired late after a very busy day and was asleep when the train statred to move. He arrived at Quebec around one o'clock and after a special luncheon at the Garrison Club or the Chateau Frontenac, boards the Empress of France, which sails today.

Very good, but very far from the mark. There is a feeling that straight collegiate and technical courses may in future be more or less combined, and if that is to be the case London wants to know before building is started.

Our correspondent is wrong when he seeks to lay at the door of the local board of education the whole blame for increased costs. Whether all the increase is needed or not is not the question; the point is that the great bulk of it is outside the hands of the trustees. They simply manage a system that is laid out for

Using Unusual Words.

Some speakers use unusual words, and by so doing they may provoke

As an illustration-Philip Brown commissioner of conciliation of the U. S. department of labor, spoke at a recent meeting in Toronto on "The Negro Migrant." In a very short space he made use of the following words:

Palladium, hegira, metamorphosis and sagas.

By a peculiar turn he proceeded for a long time after that opening paragraph without making use of a single word that was outside the range of average reading or conversation

Palladium, meaning a form of pro tection, is not very far removed from common use; one hears it now and then, but it has hardly broken through as a popular word. "Hegira" is one that would puzzle most of his hearers, unless they had read at some time of the flight of Mohammed from Mecca te Medina in 662 A.D. "Metamorphosis" is too hard to pronounce, and it will never be a common word; no harm is done by leaving the dust on it, for a speaker can use "change" or "transforma tion," say them much easier, and his audience have his idea at once. Sagas" is another that is rarely used. It conveys the idea of the narratives telling of the heroism of the ancient Scandinavians. A person would have to be somewhat of a scholar to recognize the word.

These addresses, containing such words, perhaps serve their purpose competition for the best home-made mother was chief instrusemented. It is a good thing if a bread at Chesley Fair, and adds that combination hard to beat.

man says "I wonder what that means," and proceeds to look it up; the majority of people, unfortunately, pass it by and perhaps mutter something about "highorow."

The old and successful speaker, who studies his audience in advance will reach sparingly into the realm of exceptional words. The result is that he can get his message straight never left with any blanks in the procession while the speaker floats off into a language that he alone fully understands.

Prof. Reynolds, head of the O. A. C., was in London addressing the defence entered the plea of insanity Kiwanis Club. The members liked the way he said things better than the things he said, for it is a fact that the Guelph man does not tell city men they are the salt of the were present to show that he was earth. His business is agriculture. and it is the case of the farmer that he handles.

If one were to sift things down to final analysis it would be found that Prof. Reynolds believes that the working and trading conditions has been swung so far from an even make themselves more selfcontained; that they must buy less and to a greater degree revert to so confuses the issue that the ends will perhaps be to hurt town and community to keep them going by

In other words, in carrying out his end of the bargain he had to almost duplicate the drain on his energy and resources

Nor does he stop there-he takes hay, beef, potatoes, pork, wheat, oats, or anything else that represents the power of the farmer to buy. Oats-A seed drill is used to plant the crop. In 1914 a farmer could trade 166 bushels for the machine; in 1921 it took 416 bushels. Wheat-A binder is used to har

Pork-A plow is used to turn over the ground to grow feed. In 1914 he took to town 744 pounds of pork for a gang plow; in 1921 he had to part with 1,200 pounds.

Potatoes-In 1914 the farmer tied up 39 bags and he had a cultivator; p 39 bags and he had a cultivator; n 1921 he had to part with 136 bags. Beef—In 1914 700 pounds of beef doesn't realize the langth of the rom the farm enabled the farmer in 1921 he had to part with 136 bags.

Having established his ground, Prof. Reynolds says the farmer cannot keep on trading on this basis, and stay in business. Therefore he must pull more within his own shell, grow his own living, and in this way retain more of his labor effort in the way of cash return. Prof. Reynolds admits that he is open to be shown a better way out, and is also willing to own up that he is advancing a rather drastic doctrine. He believes, though, that the present situation in Ontario farming warrants the action, so that it may be demonstrated that farming is our basic industry. His theory has at

TO THE EDITOR.

A WOMAN'S VIEW.

of The Advertiser Sir,-I have been waiting to hear the women pipe up on the union question, which they have a perfec right to do, as they have financed quite a bit of the missions, also church property.

This thought came up as I read Mr. E. Scott's letter, of Montreal, re Dr. Gandier and union in your paper of Sept. 26. I was very glad to know that he or any other has backbone enough to stand up against the feathered flock of Toronto, only he had better look to his laurels, or he will be ousted out in the celd who were the instigators of the whole business and driving it to a finish. Well, the lashing that woman got as the doctor set out to expound water or sounded, very like that reply. There were some oh, and oh, my; but the poor women were frightened stiff at the majesty of the dignitary, and were dispersed at the end of the meeting completely daunted, although he was the only man there. Any one would understand that he has union on the brain. It almost appears as though it would be useless who were the instigators of the whole to go hence, as he will be still at it over there trying to unite Heaven and Hades, and be sure to get it, which means we will be no better off than on earth, fighting the flesh and the devil.

Now, then, would it not be just as well to let them have union—property and all—if they think they can get it, which they cannot until the Christ Himself consummates it. If women would only spunk up, we could legislate in parliament so that church property would be taxed into the ground, then it would be folly-

A new and better church will be the outcome, for so many are leaving on account of union; those who are wealthy as well. Some I know in Toronto, who have given $500 and $1,000 to church, missions, university and college, etc., at different times MERE WOMAN.

Ingersoll, Oct. 12. — Rev. Donald MacIntyre, pastor of the Baptist Church here, addressed the Kiwanis Club, at their noon-hour luncheon today, taking for his subject, "The Meaning of Democrady." Mr. Mac-Intyre said that eleven million died in uniform during the Great War. As many more died from pestilence and want as a result of the war. One-third of the earth's wealth had been expended upon it, and yet it was felt that liberty was worth the price. Liberty, equality and fraternity were the three great principles of democ-

Hamilton, Oct. 12.—Decoration under difficulties might explain the situation at the Grand Opera House here, where mornings and night nours after the evening performances are finished finds the popular old theatre turned over to the painters and decorators. Manager R. S. Roddick is having the interior of the theatre completely redecorated and painted. To do this without interfering with the daily business means that the workmen start work in the early morning, work until noon then give the theatre over to the matinee and evening performances, and then start again shortly after the evening crowds have left. The Grand has cujoyed good patronage this season, the policy of splitting the week between Columbia burlesque and road shows, the same policy in affect in its sister house, the Grand Opera House in London, having proved decidedly popular.

Mr. Moore says that to him comedy and comedy-drama require much more effort than straight drama. A demonstrative audience, he has no-ticed, is appreciative of good comedy acting. On the other hand, acting in drama may be mediocre, yet if the story is strong the audience will appear satisfied.

The theme is a powerful one—the right of a wife to have something to say regarding her husband's busi-ness activities—to assure a certain income for the family, instead of taking chances on speculation. Leatrice Joy and Robert Edeson are featured with Mr. Moore in this superb production.

Can a Young Girl Go With a Fast Set Without Becoming Contaminated? Popularity at Seventy-The Girl Who Cannot Convince Her Sweetheart of Her Love.

Dear Miss Dix—Will you please advise me about what kind of boy and girl company I should keep to be respected? Should I go with girls that are talked about? I am just a poor, ignorant, little country girl in her early teens, and I will thank you so much judge people by their associates. When you see a boy member of a tough gang you won't be far wrong if you set him down as a hoodlum; and when you behold a girl running with a fast set.

This is why it is so important for a young girl, in choosing her associates, to pick out the right kind. They tag her, and what they are every one believes her to be.

If you go with boys and girls whose conduct is a scandal in the community, be sure your name will be rolled over the tongues of the gossips along with your friends. You will not escape, though you may have been is discreet as Caesar's wife, and are as innocent and pure as the Snow Maiden. You will be known by the company you keep.

And you cannot touch pitch without becoming defiled, Esther. You cannot walk a muddy road and keep your skirts clean. You cannot associate with fast girls and boys without becoming sporty yourself. We all unconsciously take on the attributes of those about We acquire the accent, the tastes and habits of those with

You may be shocked at first at a smutty story, but if the people with whom you live are given to that form of wit, you soon cease to blush and get to telling broad jokes yourself. You may be horrified at the liberties girls let boys take with them, but if all the girls do it, you actually come to think that your first reaction against it was prudery, and not maidenly modesty, and you can see no harm in a kiss yourself.

So, little Esther, choose your friends very wisely and carefully. Select the nice, sweet, wholesome young girls who are not talked about, and the fine, clean boys for your friends and playmates. You will be glad, not ashamed, to be classed with them, and judged by them. And you will get and tea was served in the freshlyonly good out of their company.

Here's a good rule to use in picking out your associates: Never go with a boy whose conduct or conversation makes you blush. Never go with a girl whose conduct you have to make apologies or for whom you have to make excuses to other people. DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix-Why is age looked upon as a disgrace? Why are we ashamed of being old, and lie about our age? Why does no one—not even old people themselves—like to have old people about? Why are old ple made to feel that they are looked upon as burdens, and regarded as bores, and why does every one who has to talk to an old person look as if he or she were going through a martyrdom? Don't tell me that these things are not true, because I know better. I am an old man, but I am not senile. Nevertheless, I can perceive that younger people avoid my society as if I were the Ancient Mariner, and I can but admit that I, in my turn, escape that of my elders if I can. Yet urely, by all the laws of reason, age that has seen so much, and experienced so much, and learned so much, should be more interesting that callow

So I ask you again, why is age a badge of shame instead of being

I do not agree with my correspondent that the public generally regards age as a disgrace. Personally, we all want to keep young because youth is the beauty time, and the joy time of life, but we look upon the old age of others with a certain reverence and respect, and a great tenderness.

When you come down to brass tacks, popularity rests upon personality with both age and youth alike. Whether we like to have an individual around, and enjoy talking to such a one depends upon the congeniality of the man or woman, not his or her age.

The real reason that old people, as a class, are not more sought after socially is that so many old people permit themselves to be-

They tell over the same stories a thousand times, and spend hours recounting their exploits in the Civil War, or what they did when their first babics cut their teeth. Or they whine and complain about their gout,

Or they become mere incarnate selfishness and tyranny and rule every one about them with a rod of iron. Or they hold forth perpetually on the decadence of modern life, and dismally prophesy that the world is going to the dogs, and opine that every day, in every way, everybody and every thing is worse and worse. Or they have the advice complex, and try to force everybody about them to live according to their way of thinking

We don't avoid the egotistic, the garrulous, the pessimistic, the buttinskis because they are seventy. We fight just as shy of them when they are seventeen. It isn't the age, it's what the individual has to give us. And when we find an old man or woman who has kept sweet, and gentle, and broad-minded, and interested in others more than in themselves, we enjoy them even more than we do youth, because they are rarer, and have a mellower flavor.

There is a great art in growing old gracefully, and wise are those who begin in middle age to study it.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix-How can I convince my sweetheart that I love him? I tell him so over and over again. I have given up all other men for him, and never go anywhere except with him, yet still he doubts my affection for him. Do you think the fact that I am a few years older than he makes him feel this way?

Go to it, lady. In the classic language of the street, your beau is "stringing" you. There's never any trouble in convincing a man that you love him. He thinks you do, because you couldn't help it

Did you ever hear of a middle-aged man lying awake at night worrying over keeping his wife's affection, or dieting to maintain a boyish figure like the one she fell in love with? No, my child, it's women who wonder if men really, truly, love them, and mean all they say when they swear vows of eternal devotion. It never even crosses a man's mind that a woman isn't Truthful Jane when she tells him he is It with her for keeps

Either your sweetheart is just teasing you, in order to have you say it over to him again when you tell him that you love him, or will be wise to put the soft pedal on your sweet talk for a while, and let him do a little of the lovemaking. Man's appetite for candy

As for the age question, that depends on the individual man's taste. Some like women who will mother them. Others prefer flappers. But, generally speaking, it is a mistake for the man not to be older because age quicker in looks than men do, and every woman is born spirit-lder than any man ever gets to be. OUR English master-makers have scored another triumph. From an inimitable Old Country recipe and by the aid of the most modern English baking equipment they have produced one of the most delightful wafers ever offered the Canadian table.

The "Quest" is Weston's latest English Biscuit creation—a delectable short-bread wafer, thin, crisp and oven-fresh, stamped with a reproduction of Shackleton's famous

We do not believe we have ever produced a more delicious biscuit or one that will prove more popular.

We wrote Lady Shackleton

Telling her of our idea of making a biscuit with a reproduction of the "Quest" and named after it. She graciously replied: "I am sure Sir Earnest would have been interested in your idea of making a biscuit reproducing the "Quest" and named after it. I send you my best wishes for its success."

The Late Sir Ernest

On receiving the biscuits, Lady Shackleton wrote: "The biscuits were delicious and the design quite unique.'

Women's Christian Association To Hold Annual Meeting Tuesday.

The splendid work which is being carried on by the Women's Christian Association of the city in maintaining the Victoria Home for Incuring the Victoria Home for Incurables and the Aged People's Home, will be brought out in detail in the annual reports of the association which are to be presented at the adjourned annual meeting on Tuesday. This meeting will be held at the Wellington street Y. W. C.A. at 3:30 o'clock, and the members of the association are extending an invitation to all interested by the work to be present. They issue a special invitation to women who might care to become members of the organization. The election of officers will also be an important feature of this meeting.

That the patients at the homes apeciate what is being done for them shown by the fact that one of em, who died recently, left some money to the home, and with it the committee has purchased a plane for the Victoria Home. Another donation recently received was $5 from Miss Bray of the Ontario Hospital.

Mothers and Their Children

I believe it makes children selfish to feel that mother is always at their beck and call; that her time is theirs, while father's time is his, as is the case in so many homes. I have therefore trained my children to observe as sacred mother's daily "hour off." I take one hour every afternoon from my many household duties for myself, to read books that rest my mind, or challenge ideas, or to read books on "the business of being a mother," just as any business man reads his journals. The children understand that I am to be disturbed only for something extremely important, and they actually take pride in "standing guard" when I am in my room. It increases their respect for me as an individual, and keeps me from falling into a rut on my "job." (Copyright, 1923, Associated Editors)

Associated Press Despatch.

Associated Press Despatch.

Casey Stengel—"Casey the immortal"—smashed the New York Glants to victory with a home-run drive this afternoon for the second time in three days of record-breaking world's series strife with the Yankees.

Lashed into the right field bleachers of the Yankee Stadium in the seventh inning, Stengel's blow broke up a tense, thrilling hurling duel between Art Nehf, southpaw star of the Giants, and "Sad Sam" Jones of the Yanks, and gave the world's champions their solitary, but sufficient, margin in a brilliant 1 to 0 triumph.

The greatest throng that ever paid its way into a baseball arena—65,000 frenzied fans, who were massed in the gigantic inclosure—while 30,000 more swirled about the entrances outside, saw Stengel deliver the blow that gave John McGraw and his warriors a two to one game in the most stirring baseball frenzied fans, who were massed in the gigantic inclosure—while 30,000 more swirled about the entrances outside, saw Stengel deliver the blow that gave John McGraw and his warriors a two to one game in the most stirring baseball drama of all time.

All world's series ecords for attendance and gate receipts were shattered by that vast gathering in baseball's greatest amphitheatre. The actual paid attendance was 62,430, besides 30,000 more who did not go through the turnstiles, while the total receipts were $201,072, putting the three-game figures beyond $500,000, and prætically assuring for 1932 the first million-dollar champlonship in history.

The paid attendance broke the former record of 60,331 established during a double-header at the Stadium late in the regular season, while the gathering as a whole has but one superior in size, that of approximately 70,000 that witnessed the dedication of the big structure last spring.

Into Glory's Hall Again.

For a day Stengel had stepped out of the limelight while Babe Ruth rose to the pinnacle of fame with two circuit clouts that swept the Yankees to victory in the second game of the third successive title struggle between these Gotham rivals. But today, "Old Casey," bow-legged but lion-hearted, knew again the call to glory that was birs when his ninth-inning home run gave the Giants their first triumphand and again he answered its summons.

Perhaps the setting today was not as dramatic as in the first game, but that mattered not to Casey, for the result was just as effective, and gave to the veteran a record that has no equal in world's series annals—the feat of winning two games with home runs in a single championship. Its nearest approach is the mark of "Home Run' Baker, who won two games for the old Athletics with circuit blows, but in separate series—1911 and 1913.

And so, stripping to its essentials and so, stripping to its essentials. Stengel, two vibtories.

In the event he is unable to go in, I will switch Ruth to first base, where he finished today's game, and probably use Harvey Hendrick or Elmer Smith in right. I may send in 'Hinkey' Haines, who took the Babe's regular post for the last few innings this afternoon."

Stengel, Sam's Jinx.

For eight innings Jones, here of a nohit performance this season, baffled the Glants, save Stengel, with a marvelous change of pace and superb control, yielding but four scattered hits, while Nehf was being found for six. Except for Stengel, but one Giant got as far inning, when Huggins directed his last desperate but futile attack.

Joe Bush, victim of Stengel's homer in the first game, held the Glants hitless in the ninth.

Facing the first real crisis of the series, John McGraw played his ace, Nehf, and the nervy little southpaw came through with flying colors. His work was but slightly less effective than that of Jones. Three times he faced serious threats by the Yankees, and on each occasion he rose to the emergency and turned back his foe, In only one inning, the fifth, did the Yankees gather more than one hit off Nehf. He issued three passes, two of them purposely to beat Ruth, and each time the strategy, annopular though it was to the crowd that wanted to see the Babe "bust tem," was vindicated.

kept him out of the game for ten days prior to the series. After a delay in which his ankle was bandaged, and he limped from the field, Schang sent Ward to second with a sharp single to left.

Scott caught one of Nehr's curves for a wicked smash down the third base line. Groh dived, somehow clutched the ball and then lunged forward. Fielder and runner reached the bag simultaneously, it seemed, but Groh was there first by just the fraction of a second necessary to make the put out and end the inning.

Ruth's only hit, a single to centre, went to waste in the first inning, while two bingles by the Yankees counted for naught in the fifth. Ward opened the latter inning with a hit to-left. He was forced by Schang, who advanced a bag on Scott's infield single, but a Giant double-play again nipped the rally, Jones hitting to Frisch, who completed the two-ply killing by way of Bancroft and Kelly.

Crucial Affairs in Big Four, Inter-Collegiate and O. R. F. U. This Afternoon.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, Oct. 12.—Argonauts of Toronto meet the Montreal A. A. A. team here tomorrow in the interprovincial rugby schedule, while Ottawa Senators and Hamilton Tigers clash in the capital, in the other half of the Big Four program. In the intercollegiate, Toronto Varsity plays McGill at Montreal. The Ontario Rugby Football Union fixture is Parkdale Canoe Club against Hamilton Rowing Club in Hamilton.

Tigers and Argonauts are tied for first place in the Big Four with one win and one tie game each. Montreal has a win and a loss and Ottawa two losses. Argonauts are banking on winning from the Winged Wheelers tomorrow, and if Tigers can beat the Senators in Ottawa the western teams of the interprovincial will likely fight it out for the championship, with Tigers having the edge, in that the tie game they played with Argos was in Toronto and the return will be played on the Bengals' home ground. However, Tigers have not been very successful in beating Ottawa at home, and it is quite possible they will fail to do it tomorrow. Montreal's team gave the Tigers a good fight at Hamilton last Saturday, and also upset the dope, as they show steady improvement.

Queen's College team, the Dominion champions, piled up a score against McGill last Saturday, but sport writers agree that McGill had much more of the play than the score would indicate. Varsity didn't make much of a showing against the Old Boys last Saturday, but have greatly improved during the week, so that tomorrow's fixture in the intercollegiate is expected to prove a battle worthy of many historic encounters between the Blue and White and Red and White.

Ruth Claims Snyder Interferes With Batter

Special to The Advertiser.

Yankee Stadium, Oct. 12.—I see bad blood in the air if the Giants can't win bat as the last in the air if the Giants can't win bat as the last in the series of the tracking of the last in the last in the manner of the last in the last in the manner of the last in the series of the true can be last in the last inning; and it wasn't any accident, We've been up against those kind of catching, and it wasn't any accident, We've been up against the great world's cham's plons. It's pretry tough on a ball club that has led the National League in batting to fall down at bat as they have so far in this series, but when their catchers have to join up with their pitchers to stop our batters it's high time the umpires would interfere.

Wednesday and Thursday it was the same. Dugan. Pipp and Witt have all kicked because of this kind of catching. Not only this series, but wen a last year's series. That was the catchers start the truck stuff, and if the batter is sitting pretty they try to put him in a hole by methods that I don't think they'd stand for on a sand lot.

Maybe that's some of your "mind or matter," but I'll say this much, I was in the pattern of the trouble. When they get as Yankee batter in the hole the Giant tatthers start the trick stuff, and if the batter is sitting pretty they try to put him in a hole by methods that I don't think they'd stand for on a sand lot.

Maybe that's some of your "mind or matter," but I'll say this much, I would be a sand or think they'd stand for on a sand lot.

Maybe that's some of your "mind or the benefit of Miller Huggins' ball club, but hat has a case of Stengel's smash, only one Giant batter reached second base and on't think he has won all his wonderful pennant fights by such shady tactics, and I don't think the has won all his wonderful pennant fights by such shady tactics, and I don't think the has won all his wonderful pennant fights by such shady tactics, and I don't think the has won all his wonderful pennant fights by such shady tactics, and Parade, Big Cheer Section. Riot of Varsity Colors, Provide Rah, Rah. Touch.

Western opens the intercollegiate ugby season this afternoon at Tecumseh Park with St. Mikes, always considered one of the best coached and tricklest one of the best coached and trucklest grid squads playing in the intermediate series. Usually lighter than the other teams, the Irishmen make up for lack of poundage with trick line plays that achieve just as much as brawn. They'll be afther bringing up the same half-back line as they had last season, and the Western U, squad will have to step lively and be on the lookout for anything and from the most unlikely quarters.

One thing, Western has trained faithfully. Not a man on the team but can go the full distance without faitering. The squad last year started the season with a lot of casualties. The toughening process this year has been softened up a little bit with the result that Western is suffering from only two casualties.

a little bit with the result that Western is suffering from only two casualties. Mowrey, who played some great hockey here last winter, has a bad leg, and Jackson, one of the linesmen, suffered a broken thumb which puts him on the sidelines.

The "rah! rah!" atmosphere will be supplied by a well organized cheer section and the dominating purple and white colors of the Western U. A sunshiny day with a hint of frost in the air, the Varsity spirit displayed in the cheering of the co-eds and their baritone escorts and a game in process supplies something that ordinary rugby games lack.

Veteran Spitballer Displays Old Cunning in First American League Victory of Series.

GETS GOOD SUPPORT

Chicago, Oct. 12.-Urban Faber, star spitball artist, and hero of the 1917 spitball artist, and here of the 191. world's series, hurled the American League team to its first victory over the National Leaguers in the city series here today. Faber downed the Cubs, 4 to 2, being afforded fine support and displaying the old cunning which marked him as the leading pitcher of the league in former years.

at a total cost not to exceed $500,000?"

This is the wording of the ballot the voters will have placed before them December 3, if the recommendation of the special city hall committee, which met at the city hall last night, is adopted by the city council Monday night.

By a vote of 3 to 3, which is regarded as a negative-vote, the committee decided not to recommend that the council on Monday be asked to pass a bylaw authorizing the mayor and the city clerk to contract an agreement with Stuart Pavey, winner of the city hall plans competition, authorizing him to prepare plans and specifications and call for tenders.

Mayor George Wanter mand the selection.

Mayor George Wenige moved that the committee recommend the council pass the bylaw.

Ald. P. J. Watt moved an amendment to the effect that whereas the time necessary for the preparing of plans and specifications would take up to and after December 3, the election date, the whole bylaw be deferred until after that date.

Vote for Amendment.

Aldermen P. J. Watt, Ernest Shaw and Ed. Hayden voted for the amendment.

"I don't care whether I get back or not, I'm not going to back up," declared Ald. Drake in announcing he was going to vote for the motion. Ald. Watt objected to the wording of the recent resolution of the council that the architect be instructed to go ahead. He thought the wording had been changed. He was shown it was right. However, he considered it wrong anyway.

Ald. Watt declared it had been decided the Ontario Association of Architects was to send two judges. Instead, he said, a list of six had been sent, from which to choose two. He voiced his objection to any member of the council giving instructions to the judges.

There is a report that the contractors seek further assistance for their cost of re-roofing, but no official request of that nature has come before the commission.

Other business of a routine nature was transacted, and several accounts were placed in the hands of the commission's solicitor to press for immediate payment.

Mayor Wenige asked how would take to call for tenders. Pavey stated, "One month."

The mayor wanted to know if excavating could be arranged.

Pavey agreed it could be done by day labor. "It might save a little time and money," he agreed.

Lord Curzon's Wishes Regarding Discussions Likely To Be Observed.

Canadian Press Cable. By GEORGE HAMBLETON.

London, Oct. 12 .- The coming week will see the imperial conference at grips with its vital problem of the defence of the empire. When the conference meets again on Monday afternoon Lord Curzon will reply to the observation of the premiers of the dominions on the British foreign policy and the Marquis of Salisbury, lord president of the council, will open a general discussion on em-open a general discussion on empire defence.

From present indications it is not at all likely that any extended report of the discussion on the foreign policy will be made public. Curzon is understood to be opposed to it and in British circles the point of view is still stressed that the conference is in the nature of an empire cabinet with cabinet regulations regarding secrecy. It remains yet for the conference to determine what its attisecrecy. It remains yet for the conference to determine what its attitude shall be respecting publicity in connection with the defence debate. There is a wide feeling, especially among the dominions' representatives, that the proceeding of the conference should be made known as fully as possible.

Eggs went up another 3c, the present price ranging from 45c to 50c, with the bul kof the sales at 45c.

Butter remained unchanged and found an easy sale for prints at 42c.

Potatoes remained stationary at $1.25 per bag, although a few growers endeavored to beat up the price a few cents.

Grapes continue to appear and were offered this morning at 50c per 6-quart basket. The quality was excellent and sales were rapid.

Cabbages, cauliflowers and green stuff were a very large offering, and herbs have made their first appearance, in anticipation of the Thaaksgiving season. One grower had a load of small melons, but these were frost-ripened, and the quality was so poor that sales were hard to make.

The general variety and the great quantities of every concelyable line of produce was the outstanding feature of the market. Remarks made by both growers and shoppers point ot the fact that quality is becoming the selling argument of the London market, and produce which could have been sold readily during the war years finds no place on the market today.

> Take advantage now of the Jarvis Partial Payment Plan to buy Ontario Bonds

Hundreds of investors adopted this plan of purchase on the recent Dominion of Canada Loan. We are extending the same generous Partial Payment privileges to those who wish to buy the new Bonds of the Province of Ontario.

The advantage of our Partial Payment is, that besides providing the incentive to save, it practically compels one to save and prevents the dissipation of money on unnecessary things. Furthermore, it enables a person to buy and pay for a greater amount of Bonds than it would be possible to buy if one paid, cash down.

For example, you may have $500 in ready money, and be inclined to buy only one $500 Bond, whereas on our Partial Payment Plan you could easily buy a $1000 Bond by paying $500 down and paying approximately $50 a month for nine months, or you could invest $1500 by paying $500 down and remitting the balance in ten monthly instalments of approximately $100 each.

Price: 98 and accrued interest yielding 5.14%.

The Jarvis Partial Payment Plan is the most practical and successful means of assisting a person to acquire good Bonds. Send us your order now. Of course we shall welcome orders to buy outright for cash just as much as we solicit orders on our Partial Payment Plan.

Solicitors for the Executors herein. SALE OF VALUABLE PROPERTY IN THE CITY OF LONDON

Sealed tenders will be received up to and including December 1, 1923, for the following property in part or en bloc, known as the Walper House, being all and singular that certain parcel or tract of land and premises situate, lying and being part of Lot Number Five on the north side of Carling Street in the City of London in the County of Middlesex and Province of Ontario, commencing at the southwest angle of the said Lot, thence along the north side of Carling Street, eightyseven feet to Talbot Street, thence along the west side of Talbot Street one hundred and forty-three feet seven inches, thence west parallel to Carling Street eighty-seven feet, thence south along the west boundary of said Lot Number Five, one hundred and forty-three feet seven inches to the place of beginning. Together with a right-of-way for all lawful purposes, in, to, over and upon a lane twelve feet wide and immediately adjoining the lands hereby conveyed on the north and running the full width of said Lot Five from Talbot Street. The said lands having a frontage of eighty-seven feet and a depth of one hundred and forty-three feet and seven inches.

This property is located in the heart of the business section and would be an ideal location for automobile showrooms, warehouses or manufacturing purposes. The building is constructed throughout of the best materials, stone foundation and brick. There are also on the land large solid brick barns which could be converted into a real garage. PIMPLES ON Small and Formed Sore Eruptions. Skin Sore and Red. Cuticura Heals. at 4:30 p.m.

The west half of lot 3, concession 9, Lobo Township, about 100 acres, on Sarnia Gravel Road, near Poplar Hill. Soil good clay loam, good buildings, abundant water. A splendid farm in an excellent locality. Possession at once for fail work.

"Pimples broke out on the back of my head and neck. At first the pimples were small and then ran into each other and fan into each other and formed sore eruptions about the size of a ten cent plece. The skin was sore and red and itched a great deal, causing me to scratch. "I had the trouble about six months before I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and after using three cakes of Soap and three boxes of Ointment I was healed." (Sizeped) L. A. Macdonaid.

I Was Greatly Benefited by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Sydenbam, Ont. — "I took your medicine before my baby was born, and it was a great help to me as I was very poorly until I had started to take it. I just felt as though I was tired out all the time and would have weak, faint spells. My nerves would bother me until I could get little rest, night or day. I was told by a friend to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I only took a few One 10-20 Titan Tractor with P. O. plows and disc harrows and a number of dairy cows, lot 10, part 11, West Williams, Wednesday, Oct. 17, 1923, at 1 o'clock sharp. T. V. Ridley, auct.; James D. McRae, prop. In the estate of Stephen Grant, late of the City of London, in the County of Middlesex, gentleman, deceased.

NOTICE is hereby given pursuant to revised statutes of Ontario, 1914, Chapter 121, and amending acts, that all persons having claims against the estate of the deceased, who died on or about the Eleventh day of June, A.D., 1923, are required to send by post prepaid, or deliver to the undersigned on or hefore the 30th day of October, AD. 1923, their names, addresses and descriptions, with full particulars of their claims, duly verified, and the nature of the security, if any, held by them.

AND FURTHER take notice that immediately after the 30th day of October, A.D. 1923, the executors will proceed to distribute the estate among the parties entitled thereto, having regard only to claims of which they shall then have notice.

DATED this 28th day of September. to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I only took a few bottles and it helped me wonderfully. I would recommend it to any woman. I am doing what I can to recommend this good medicine. I will lend that little book you sent me to any one I can help. You can with the greatest of pleasure use my name in regard to the Vegetable Compound if it will help others take it."—Mrs. HARYY MILLIGAN, Sydenham, Ontario.

It is remarkable how many cases

It is remarkable how many cas It is remarkable how many cases have been reported similar to this one. Many women are poorly at such times and get into a weakened, rundown condition, when it is essential to the mother, as well as the child, that her strength be kept up.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is an excellent tonic for the mother at this time. It is prepared from medicinal roots and herbs, and does not contain any harmful drugs. It may be taken in safety by the nursing mother.

Twenty-One Years of Progress. The name, R. H. and J. Dowler, Limited, is synonymous with prog-ress, successful modern merchandising in its finest application. The growth of the company has been almost phenomenal. From a small store just east of the Home Bank building opened in 1902, the busi-ness has developed to a chain with nowerful, ever-growing links in London, St. Thomas, Windsor, Sar-nia and Walkerville. The latest link was added to the chain in Walkerville on Sept. 15 of this year, and al-ready the store has an established clientele. The opening of the new store was a matter of processity the store was a matter of necessity, the trade that the company enjoys in the border cities having increased to such dimensions that the big, new establishment in Oulette avenue, Windsor, opened in 1922, could ne longer take care of it. Just what the future will produce in respect to the Dowler Chain is not known, but it is a safe bet that the chain will not be shortened.

The first Windsor store was opened in 1917, the Sarnia store following in 1918, eight years after the birth of the firm in St. Thomas, the London store was opened, and since then it has been enlarged and spreaded. has been enlarged and renovated, being completely remodeled in 1920, in keeping with the business policy of the firm.

Two Optimistic Irishmen, Two Optimistic Irishmen.

From Guelph they came, the brains of the Dowler business, Robert H. and Jonathan Dowler, two young Irishmen, with a vision. Limited means were more than offset by enthusiasm, their well-grounded optimism. They possessed the faculty of looking ahead and seeing what tomorrow held, and from the outset they designed their store to appeal to all classes of trade and to the to all classes of trade and to the young men in particular. That same policy obtains today. Dowler stores, wherever they are established, are recognized as the young men's sho, ping centers.

The old Dowler store in St. Thomas was two doors west of Hiawaths, street, occupying the present site of the Metropolitan Store. A. L. Garland's drygoods store stood where the Home Bank building is now located, while Hamilton & Stott's plumbing establishment was located where Diana Sweets store stands. East of that was Adcock's mill and adjoining that was a lane leading to the mill. The Dowler brothers quickly realized that this was one of the most desirable business quarters in the city, and soon negotiations were under way for the purchase of all the property west of the William Dundas store, with the exception of the Home Bank site. The deal was consummated, and the building of the new store started. In 1907 it was completed, directly on the site of the old mill, while where the old mill lane was, the store building now occupied by Maxwell's, Limited was erected. The Dowler store was outstanding its class from the outset and has remained the same ever since. In 1912, ever-increasing business ne cessitated the building of an addition and the store was extended about 40 feet. In 1915, the mezzanine office floor, the first in the city, and the Lampson cable cash carrier system, were installed. In 1917, the old flat display windows were replaced by the display windows were replaced by the attractive vestibule windows with marble bases and tiled flooring. Similar changes were made almost simultaneously in the other Dowler stores. The store fronts enjoy the reputation of being among the smart-est in the Dominion. In no retail esablishment can one find fixtures that are more up-to-date than those in the Dowler stores. Modernity is the keynote of Dowler Service. Selective Buying System.

R. H. and J. Dowler have perfected what is declared to be one of the best buying systems on the continent. Theirs is the selective buying system. The old system of having a SUBJECT OF THE LESSON-SETMON FOR SUIDARY. OCT. 14.

To-day we are mailing to our more than ten-thousand-threehundred shareholders dividend cheques in payment of the 158th quarterly dividend.

Thrifty investors from all parts of the Dominion, from Great Britain and the United States, have entrusted to us their savings. They differ as widely in occupation and in wealth as do the users of telephone service. Their money has gone to buy the telephones, wires, cables, switchboards and buildings with which our great system is being continually extended to new users.

Just as our thirteen thousand employees must be paid a reasonable wage for their labor, so our ten-thousand three-hundred shareholders should receive a fair return on their investment if service is to be continually extended to new applicants! Indeed, the necessary extension of new facilities to growing communities is made possible just in the degree that this return to shareholders is assured.

And each new telephone installed adds to the value of the service to all

Harky, Penitant, Comes To Terry for Her Forgiveness:

Teresa Desmond (Terry), Juliet's innocent half-sister, whom the Doll sent to masquerade as herself.
Miles is madly in love with Terry and is eager to divorce his wife, Betty Sheridan, who is infatuated with

Paul di Salvano, a handsome Italian. Salvano has now deserted Betty young heiress, traveling in Europe with her father. Betty, learning of Paul's desertion is not anxious to lose her husband also, and goes to Algiers, where Miles' yacht is lying. Eustace Nazlo, a wealthy Greek, long in love with Terry, has almost succeeded in persuading the girl that her only course is to marry him. Miles and Terry are enjoying a brief sojourn at Bousaada with Miles' servant, Mrs. Harkness, as chaperone, Miles is preparing to rejoin his wife Terry prepares to give up Miles for his own sake.

CHAPTER LXXX.

HARKY MAKES AMENDS.

"My dear, are you in bed?" asked.

Harky's voice outside.

Terry sighed with relief. She'd feared that Nazio had come back!

Still, she did not want to see Mrs.

Harkness.
Not — not yet," she hesitat-"Do let me come in. I have some-bo let me come in. I have something very particular to say," the old woman pleaded. "I know, you must be tired. But I won't stay long. Seems as if I couldn't wait till the morning!" be tired. But I won't stay long. Seems as if I couldn't wait till the morning!"

Terry opened the door, and the stout, respectable figure came in. Some quality in the old voice had told her that Mrs. Harkness was keeping down strong emotion, and as the light fell upon her face, the girl saw tears.

I though he's married to someone ease, maybe."

"But—" Terry faltered—"then I'm one of those had ones! I would live with Miles without being married, if he couldn't get a divorce. I've just told him so. I told him I'd rather live so, than that he should try and brine his wife—it seemed so horrible to do that.

JEFF, I was Tall Spivis and he meighan many seems as if I couldn't wait till the maybe."

MUTT AND JEFF

struggled up from her breast.

She searched nervously for her handkerchief, and not finding it, flicked tears away with her fingers.

"Why do you speak to me so?" Terry asked, sharply. "You make me afraid!"

"Indeed, I wasn't meanin' to do that," sputtered the woman, her brogue very strong, as it always became when she was in the throes of emotion.

I could be praying for him and loving him.
"No one need know, as they would if we were married. Nobody could say he had done wrong to his wife, and married a girl—a bad girl—like me—or my sister, Julia."

"My good Lord, is Juliet Divine your sister?" the old woman gurgled. Tomorrow's Installment Terry is Relieved.

Miles Sheridan has just learned that the girl with whom he has been taking a yacht trip, under the impression that she was

Juliet Divine, the Million Dollar Doll, a beautiful show-gizl, is, in reality, Teresa Desmond (Terry), Juliet's innocent half-sister, whom the Doll sent to masquerade as herself.

Miles heridan has just bowled me over, that's what's the matter! To think of the cruel injustice I've been doin' ye in my heart all this time, and you as innocent as a babe unborn! Can 'ye ever forgive me, darlin' child?"

"He told you —" Terry faltered.
"Why, I did hear Mr. Nazlo call you 'Miss Desmond,' but it made no impression whatever on me mind. Mr. Miles has been explainin' how, not only are ye not Miss Juliet Divine, only are ye not Miss Juliet Divine, but not anything like what I've been takin' ye for-what you never once seemed to be at all!"

seemed to be at all!"

The girl caught her by the sleeve.
"What did you take me for?" she cried. "Do tell me! You must. That's the one thing I've been needing to know all along. I need to know now, more than ever before, oh, far more!
I can't be myself, till I do know."

Mrs. Harkness was embarrassed.
The tears dried on her hot cheeks.
"Why my dear you must under-

"Why, my dear, you must understand what I mean," she hedged.
"You must understand that—that—"
"What? I tell you I don't underwhat: I ten you I don't understand. I know so little. It isn't many months since I was in school—with the nuns. Sometimes it's seemed lately as if I knew nothing at all, worth knowing. But you see, I'm "Not 18?" the old woman gasped.

"Why, you're a baby! 'And it's a baby you look—if I'd ever let meself belave me own eyes. But that's what I didn't do, and Mr. Miles didn't do it either. He—"

"You haven't told me yet what you took me for."

Mrs. Harkness looked trapped. "I suppose ye know there are bad women in the world?"
"There must be lots."
"But it's a special kind of badness I'm meanin!" The kind of badness where a woman will live with a ness where a woman will live with a man she's not married to, and even though he's married to someone else, she shrank back a little, hands over her heart. "Oh, what is it?" she faltered. "No more bad news? I can't live through any more tonight."

"You won't have to, my child; you won't have to," Harky choked. A sob struggled up from her breast.

She shrank back a little, hands that.

"I thought, if he had me to love him—because he said he wanted me so much, and wouldn't give me up—he could hide me from people who would talk, and do him harm. He could see me sometimes, and always I could be praying for him and loving him.

The Bob Whites Have Another Exciting Experience With the Hunter.

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

The Bob Whites, being once more united, thought their fright was over for that morning. Were they not on Farmer Brown's land? Bob White had said that on Farmer Brown's land there was nothing to fear from hunters with terrible guns. So none of them gave another thought to that hunter who had found them over in the wheat field next to Farmer Brown's land. One of them was feeling very ill, for shot from that terrible gun had torn his back. Another had lost a few feathers. Mrs. Bob White was mothering and trying to comfort the one with the torn back. Bob himself was counting ing to comfort the one with the torn back. Bob himself was counting bills to make sure that every one was self, and for his children. And he didn't know what to make of it. He was tempted to tell those young Bob Whites to fly at once, but he was afraid to. He suspected that that hunter was already near enough to shoot with the terrible gun. He decided the best thing to do was to keep quiet and wait.

Nearer sounded those footsteps. Nearer still. It was dreadful. Still nearer. And then suddenly, way off in the distance, they heard a shout. The sound of those footsteps ceased. Once more came the shout. It seemed to be nearer. Then they heard the footsteps again, but this time they were going away, and going away fast. They heard the hunter call sharply to the dog. They saw the dog regretfully turn away. They didn't know what to make of it. Had they been where they could look across the fields, they would have seen Farmar Brown's Boy running in their direction, and they would have seen that hunter running for the fence, to get off of Farmer Brown's land. Bob White had been right, after all. On that land they were safe.
