

POSTAL STRIKE COVERS ALL CANADA TONIGHT

Glendale Youths Freed On Disorderly Conduct Charge

COMPLETE POSTAL TIE-UP IS ORDERED FOR FIVE O'CLOCK THIS AFTERNOON; 126 LONDON EMPLOYEES DISCHARGED

General Walkout in All Branches of Service Ordered For This Afternoon.

CABINET'S DECISION

All Men Who Did Not Return to Work This Morning Are Discharged.

SITUATION SERIOUS

Canadian Press Despatch.
Ottawa, June 19.—Definite word
that the strike of postal employees would go into effect throughout the Dominion at 5 p.m. today was received at the headquarters of the postal clerks here at noon today.

ALL CALLED OUT.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, June 19.—Official directions were sent out this afternoon by Gordon R. Jackson, president of the Railway Mail Clerks' Association, to district unions all over Canada, calling the strike of mail clerks at 5 p.m.
today, or when the runs of the men
on duty at that hour are completed.

ORDER RESCINDED.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Ottawa, June 19.—R. E. Hall, Dominion secretary of the Postal Clerks' Association, who returned to Ottawa
during the morning, stated that the Dominion executive committee of the Postal Employees' Federation last night
rescinded the order to defer the strike for 24 hours, so that the strike will now on as from 5 p.m. Wednesday.

COMPLETE TIE-UP.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, June 19.—With the ranks of striking postal employees reinforced this morning by hundreds of men from within Ontario and Quebec cities and with the expected further acquisitions of strikers in Western Canada and in the railway mail service, the general postal tie-up this afternoon has reached considerably more serious proportions. At the moment there seems little hope of preventing a complete tie-up all over the Dominion by tonight.

Already practically the entire postal services of Quebec and Ontario are disorganized. Little attention is paid by the men to the ultimatum of the acting postmaster-general, that employees on strike at 10 a.m. this morning would be read out of the mail service. Many men presented themselves for employment in reply to the local advertisements of postmasters for temporary employees,
but few had the qualifications necessary for the vacant positions.

The legislative of the postal federation is in session this afternoon to formulate new proposals to be submitted to the government if the men approve at a later meeting.

Reply is awaited.
The last word from the government is that it is still awaiting a reply to its proposals for the strike.
The cabinet council is in session
this afternoon.

The letter carriers, clerks and postal porters, chauffeurs and transfer agents in Toronto, who went on strike at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon when word from Ottawa deferring the strike for 24 hours failed to arrive prior to the hour set for the calling of the cessation of work,
held a mass meeting this morning,
when they were addressed by prominent officials of the Federation of Mail Services, Thomas L. Church,
M.P. (North Toronto), W. J. McPherson, president of one of the railroad brotherhoods, and James Simpson, a prominent local labor leader. The situation was reviewed by the various speakers and the decision unanimously arrived at by the members of the three branches now out was to deal with any reasonable proposition advanced by the government,
but that the other made yesterday was not acceptable. Strike leaders state that they feel it is the government's place to submit some offer
that will be acceptable.

Railway Clerks to Quit.
The railway mail clerks, the fourth branch of the federation, will continue at work until 5 o'clock, at which time, according to G. R. Jackson, the president, they have instructions to cease work.

E. V. Browning, president of the letter carriers, stated that practically all the members of that body in Ontario and Quebec were on strike, and that the west would follow tonight. W. Brown, president of the porters and transfer agents, announced that he had received word
from Hamilton, London and Montreal that the members of his organization in that city had followed Toronto's example, and that Ottawa and the maritime provinces would also be out at 5 p.m. today. At 2 o'clock no reports had been received from Western Canada.

A meeting of the executive of the federation is now in session and will be followed by another mass meeting during the afternoon. Approximately 1,600 men are out in Toronto.

Postmaster Outlines Mail Situation In City

With postal service in London badly tied up this morning, Postmaster Thomas Duncan issued emergency instructions to users of the mails.

There is no carrier delivery today, nor are there any collections from postal boxes.

Citizens seeking delivery of mail addressed to street numbers may call at the money-order office, two doors south of the general postoffice.
Mail addressed "general delivery" will be delivered at the general delivery wicket at the general postoffice.

No money orders or postal notes are being issued. No registered mail, special delivery packages or letters, C.O.D. or ordinary parcels for the post are being accepted for delivery. First-class mail, letters only, is being accepted at the general postoffice for delivery to postoffices throughout the country. Letters for the post must be delivered at the central office.

All that is being carried on mail trains are first-class mail (letters) and newspapers. The public is requested to limit letters to communications of importance.

Postmaster Duncan asks that business firms bundle letters together with stamped corners in order, so that handling may be facilitated.

Postmaster Duncan Issues
Notice Calling For Men
To Fill Positions.

STRIKERS ARE FIRM

State None of Workers Ready To Resume Their Duties.

SESSION IS HELD

One hundred and twenty-six postal employees of London abandoned their jobs at noon today as a result of the general strike order, and Postmaster Thomas Duncan authoritatively ordered their positions filled.

According to government orders strikers are discharged. Orders were issued this morning to have all positions filled.

A few minutes after 12 o'clock noon
today, with no sign of the strikers returning to duty, meetings of postal clerks immediately took action. New men were wanted at once and a salary of $85 a month is offered each man.
Preference is being given to men who have passed civil service examinations.

All morning long there was a stream of applicants for "strike"
jobs at the postmaster's private office. In fact, Mr. Duncan retired to the deputy postmaster's office in order to receive the applicants. There were men of all ages and types, many with pleas of hardship and distress. This afternoon a start was made at hiring men to fill the vacant positions at the post office.

Refuse To Give In.
Weary by their all night vigils at the railway depots, around the post office and at strike headquarters, pickets and executives of the postal workers' unions here, stuck to their guns at noon duty meetings. Press committees were reported to be 100 per cent
in favor of a holdout for concessions
from the government. Press committees stated that none of the men were ready to return to work.

Difficultly was experienced by the strikers in getting more than modest instructions through from Dominion headquarters, and telegrams were anxiously awaited all through the night and this morning.
Ready to walk out at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, postal men here received telegraph information signed
"Hall," and dated at Toronto, that a 24-hour holdout has been given the work-out. Accordingly the night shifts went on duty and remained at work until 11:30, when further advice came.

Signed by three leading Dominion executives, cancellation of the postponement was made by wire at midnight. The 5 o'clock telegram was declared false, and has not yet been explained. Confusion resulted in all parts of the Dominion, some unions succeeding in getting out and others remaining on duty.

Walkout Instantaneous.
In London the word was doubted and when the official wire came at midnight the walkout was instantan-
master Duncan was called on the telephone and one of the workers remained at the postoffice until the chief clerk arrived and took charge.

The strikers were cheerful and far from being disconcerted or disorganized by the second order. In fact, there appeared to be nothing but hope and optimism amongst the ranks of the night staff.

Acting Postal Superintendent May,
Postmaster Duncan, Assistant Postmaster Skinner and another one of two department heads went into conference at 2 o'clock this morning,
when plans were made for handling the situation. Instructions to users of the mails were issued, and the last result is the defeat of the defence minister, Colonel Menzies.

THOMAS DUNCAN,
postmaster for London, who today
stated that all postal workers refusing to resume work at noon were discharged. Mr. Duncan then issued an order calling for men to fill the positions.

HERTZOG WILL FORM CABINET

Nationalist Labor Coalition Wins South African Elections by Good Majority.

Associated Press Despatch.
Cape Town, S. A., June 19.—With ten districts still to be heard from,
the returns from the general elections in the Union of South Africa show a majority of 22 for the Nationalist-Labor coalition against the government of General Smuts, and the formation of a ministry under General J. M. B. Hertzog, the Nationalist leader, is regarded as a certainty.

The districts that have reported give the Nationalists 55 seats, the South African party (Smuts) 51,
Labor 18, and Independent 1.
Minister of Finance Burton was defeated in the Ladysmith division.
The press as a whole in its editorial comment is congratulating the victorious parties and expressing the hope that all will join in helping the new government and work for the advancement and development of the union.

Jack Clifford Secures Decree
From Former Actress.

Associated Press Despatch.
New York, June 19.—Evelyn Nesbit, former wife of Harry K. Thaw, today was divorced by her second husband, an actor and dancer known on the stage as Jack Clifford. The decree, awarded to Vergil James Montani from Florence Montague
was signed by Supreme Court Justice Wagner who heard the divorce testimony two weeks ago.

FALL OF SMUTS MINISTRY NOW CALLED CERTAIN

Associated Press Despatch.
Cape Town, S. A., June 19.—The fall of the ministry headed by General Smuts is everywhere regarded as certain, in consequence of Tuesday's parliamentary elections, in which the slim government majority was wiped out and the succession of a Nationalist-Labor ministry under General
J. M. B. Hertzog is taken for granted.
Twenty-one districts were still unheard from this morning. If these are won by the same parties as the last election the Nationalist-Labor pact will have a parliamentary majority of twenty-two. Among the latest results is the defeat of the defence minister, Colonel Menzies.

LEW AUSTIN ELECTS TO BE TRIED BY JUDGE

Man Charged With Robbing
Mount Forest Bank
Enters Plea.

MANY WITNESSES

Hearing Before Judge Spotton
of Guelph To Consume Three Days.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Guelph, June 19.—Lewis Austin, who has been confined in the jail
here for some months since his extradition from Little Rock, Ark., on a charge of robbing the Royal Bank at Mount Forest, Ont., on Dec. 15, 1922, appeared for trial before County Judge Spotton this morning. The prisoner elected to be tried without a jury. Fifteen witnesses have been summoned for the crown, and there will be a few for the defence. The amount stolen from the Royal Bank was $37,500, a portion of which has been recovered since.

The trial of the alleged bank band-
it will consume two or three days.
Only three witnesses were examined this morning, only one of whom,
Marjorie Fowle of the robbed bank,
was cross-examined. All the evidence heard was merely to identify the bonds as having been removed from the Mount Forest bank. Mr.
Middleboro, K. C. M. P., of Owen Sound, is prosecuting for the crown, and Mr. Nichol Jeffrey K. C., is defending Austin.

GENERAL HERTZOG,
Nationalist leader in South Africa,

succeed that of General Jan Smuts,
whose government was defeated in yesterday's elections.

CUT BY RAZOR BLADE, BOY CONFINED TO HOME

Edward Cowie, who cut his foot on a razor blade last week when walking across the C. N. R. tracks at Bathurst street, is still confined to his home, 273 1/2 Wellington street.
The blade cut through his shoe and inflicted a wound that required several stitches to close.

He was in company with several other boys when the mishap occurred.
The wound is not serious, but he had to be taken home in an automobile, and Dr. Nelson George was called.

RESOLUTION IS FRIENDLY, MACDONALD DECLARES

Associated Press Despatch.
London, June 19.—Premier Macdonald, questioned in the House of Commons yesterday concerning the resolution of the British Labor party passed Tuesday, which profoundly detested the kidnapping of the Italian deputy, Signor Matteotti, and expressed sympathy to the Socialist party of Italy, argued that the resolution could not be offensive to a friendly foreign power. The resolution, far from being a censure upon the Italian premier, said Mr. Macdonald, only focused the Premier Mussolini's own statements and the political movements in Italy since the crime against Matteotti was committed.

Canadian Press Despatch.
St. John's, Nfld., June 19.—The Canadian Pacific liner, Metagama, collided with the Italian steamer,

during a dense fog yesterday. The Metagama's stockhold is reported full of water and the Camus was badly damaged. Both ships are heading for this port.

The steamship Metagama of the Canadian Pacific lines left Belfast
on the 13th and was due in Quebec
on Saturday. There were no passengers from London listed for the return passage.

TWO CLAIM MEASURE IS 'PLUMBERS' BYLAW'

London's Butcher Alderman
Has Determined Views On Subject.

London's two butcher aldermen,
John Anderson and Harry Bottrill, both have the same opinion of the city plumbing bylaw. "It's not a plumbing bylaw at all, it's just a plumbers' bylaw." That's what it is they argue together in a determined reply. Both of them have had experiences more or less painful from
a financial point of view with the bylaw and they both regard it as a means of holding up the public.
"It's not the fault of the inspector," said Alderman Bottrill, "it's the bylaw itself that is wrong and

periences more or less painful from

ported on his return from the scene.
The battle, which began at midnight, terminated shortly after dawn.

NUMBER THAT WENT DOWN WITH SHIP UNCERTAIN

Associated Press Despatch.
Christiania, June 19.—It is impossible to determine whether more than seventeen persons perished in the sinking of the Norwegian steamer Hakon Jarl after collision with the Kong Harald in the Westfjord Monday, according to Captain Petersen
of the lost vessel, who has just arrived here. Several passengers embarked just before the Hakon Jarl left Bodo, he said today, and all her passengers were lost making it impossible to check up the passenger list.

EVIDENCE IN MOTOR CASE NOT SUFFICIENT

Magistrate Hawkshaw Dismisses Four Boys Charged With Bothering Motorist.

STYLED "KID'S TRICK"

Stopped Car on Side of Road
and Had Lights Out.

Four youthful residents of Glendale, Ward E. Osborne, Lawrence
Dale, Frank Johnston and Stanley
Porter, were all discharged in county magistrate's court this morning by Magistrate Hawkshaw on charges of disorderly conduct near Glendale
last Friday night, laid by Wm. Mercer, 12 Byron avenue west.
The court room was filled to overflowing by farmers from the vicinity of Glendale, who one and all expressed indignation at the extreme publicity given the young men in one of the London papers last Saturday afternoon.

After hearing the evidence in the case, Crown Attorney Albert M. Judd, who prosecuted the affair, summed
the matter up as "a kid's trick."
"There is not much evidence to show that anything serious took place," declared Magistrate Hawk-shaw, when asked by J. M. McEvoy, K.C., defence counsel, to discharge
the boys owing to insufficient evidence.

There should be a warning issued about these petting parties on the road with lights out, etc., submitted
Mr. McEvoy. "They will have to be stopped soon by other than boys."

William Mercer in his evidence stated he was a teamster employed by the C. N. R. On the night of Friday, the 13th, he had driven a friend of his, Miss Smith, to Spring-bank, and later they took a little motor trip through Westminster Township. They drove along Sharkey's sideroad, turned to the right and stopped on the next road. Four young men drove up and asked him
if he wanted any help and he replied,
"No, thank you."

They backed up their car, came up behind me and stopped their motor," said Mercer. "One came up, took out a book and pencil and took
the number of my car, and said,
"You're the fifth we've got tonight."
I said, "You're not worrying me," and he replied, "You're not worrying us."

Followed in Motor.
Mercer said two of the boys were on the spare tire and two on the fender. They said they were going to give him a shove, but instead of that they pulled back on the car. Finally he got his car started and the boys followed in their motor with the lights off. Witness drove as far as the Wellington road and turned back.
He came to a car stopped in the middle of the road and found another motorist talking to the same boys.
He asked the man if the boys were bothering him and received an offhumorous reply. He took the number of the boys' car for the second time to make sure of it. All three cars then drove to the garage on the second concession and the Lamp and Highway.

Mercer said he could not recognize the boys in court as being the ones who had talked to him on the road.
"You stopped your motor on the grass, a nice, cool, quiet spot, eh?"

OFFICIAL AT STATION HANDLES MAIL ALONE

Acting Superintendent May Unloads Trains While Strikers Watch.

Vacating positions that many of them had held for years, night workers at the postoffice here found midnight "zero hour" and their thoughts were not of abandoned
duties.

Only the handful of officials, not included in the posties' unions, were left in charge of the situation and the outlook was black. There were stacks of mail ready to go out on early morning trains and truckloads
to be returned from the depots.

W. J. May, acting district postal superintendent was one of those who went into the breach with his sleeves rolled up and the perspiration on his brow. At 3:40 this morning he was at the C. N. R. depot trucking loads of mail bags along the station platform.

Assisted only by a hurriedly-sought chauffeur the official prepared the outgoing mails. When No. 9 steamed in from the east it was Supt. May who, unassisted, tossed the mail bags into a baggage car. And it was he who loaded the bags of mail from the east onto a truck and wheeled the load to a waiting auto
truck on Richmond street.

Usually a whole squad of porters carry on during early hours of the morning at the depot. This morning they and other postal workers stood with arms folded or hands in their pockets, calmly watching their superintendent "go through the mill."

"It's a case of every man for himself," was Mr. May's only comment.

Lawyer Claims Russell Scott Pleaded Guilty To Murder Under Misapprehension

ATTEMPT MADE TO SAVE SCOTT

Lawyer For Former Toronto Broker Pleads For New Trial.

ASSUMES BLAME

Associated Press Despatch. Chicago, June 19.—Next Saturday morning Russell Scott, former Toronto broker, who pleaded guilty to the charge of murdering Joseph Maurer, 20-year-old drug clerk here, will hear judgment from Judge William Lindsay as to whether he will be permitted to withdraw the plea of guilty and thus evade, temporarily at least, the pronouncement of the death sentence which the judge has said he will impose. Walter Stanton, counsel for the defence, is making another frantic effort to have withdrawn the plea of guilty which he advised his client to make, in the hope of obtaining a lighter sentence than might be expected on conviction after trial.

So earnest was the counsel of the defence in his plea for a new trial for his client that he was willing to sacrifice somewhat his reputation as a barrister.

"It was my fault," he petitioned the court. "I advised this boy to plead guilty against his own will. He didn't know that he was waiving the right to a jury trial at the time. It was all over his protest, and these authorities have cited show that when there has been any misapprehension between client and counsel regarding the plea that it can be legitimately withdrawn."

R. Harper Loses Final To Harley

Miss Miller Defeats Mrs. Harley in Ladies' Singles.

The feature game of the day in the London Tennis Club finals was the match of the men's singles between Harper and Harley. This was one of the best games played here this year.

Harper had his opponent 4-2 in the final set at one time and it looked as if he were going to win the match.

But Harley by playing his usual steady game, finally evened up the score. The match from then on was very close, every point being fought.

COCKSHUTT COMING ON DOMINION DAY

Canadian Club, G.W.V.A. and Other Societies Are Behind Celebration.

CHILDREN'S CHORUS

Plans made by the Canadian Club for the Dominion Day celebration include a visit to this city of His Honor Lieut.-Governor Harry Cockshutt. The Canadian Club arrangements, together with those of the G. W. V. A. and other patriotic organizations, promise one of the most interesting and successful celebrations yet held in the city.

Among those who are working for the complete success of the day are, in addition to the two mentioned, the Daughters of the Empire, the Mothers' Clubs, the Catholic Women's Canadian Club, Girls' Canadian Club, Chamber of Commerce, Girl Guides, Mothers' Units and the local brass bands.

One feature to be especially stressed this year is the awakening in children of patriotic interest. For their sake, the full meaning of Canada's natal anniversary will be demonstrated to as great an extent as possible. The complete historical significance of Confederation will be set forth in public addresses throughout the day.

The lieutenant-governor will speak in the morning at a public demonstration in Victoria Park. The celebration will also include music by local brass bands, massed singing by school children, and the firing of salutes by members of the permanent corps of the R. C. R. The R. C. R. Band will also be present to contribute.

The public celebration will be completed by a most sharp on Dominion Day. All ex-service men of the C. E. F. or Imperials, and veterans of other wars are asked to join with the G. W. V. A. in properly observing the occasion. Special requests are also being made for a large quota of ex-officers of the C. E. F. to be in attendance on this day. Medals will be worn but not the military uniform.

Ex-service men are asked to fall in to form the while at The Dug-out in the city hall, by 10:30 sharp. The march will proceed from Dundas street to Richmond, and thence to Dufferin avenue and the park.

SUMMERHOLM OPENED BY Y.W.C.A. ON JULY 1

New Awnings and Veranda Chairs Will Brighten Up Port Stanley Cottage.

A splendid season for Summerholm, the Y. W. C. A. cottage at Port Stanley, is promised. Funds raised by the late Mrs. W. Manning's class at the First Methodist Church amounting to $125, and a bequest of $250 from Miss McBride have enabled the committee to make many improvements in the building, such as placing new foundations under the house and introducing awnings, comfortable veranda chairs and a swing hammock on the porch, as well as a tent for dressing.

Mr. Moore, vice-chairman of the Summerholm committee, has succeeded to the chairmanship since the death of Mrs. Manning, who worked energetically for years in the interests of this institution.

Summerholm will be opened for the first time during the week-end preceding July 1, when by Mrs. Manning's class and the Polyannas of the Y. W. C. A., led by Miss Jean Waugh, will spend the week-end there.

From then on Summerholm will be ready to take boarders, and girls from the city, tired after a year's strenuous work in business office and factory, may find here a new health by the lakeside. Miss J. Moore will be the first hostess.

SHORT BUT SUFFICIENT. Scant ceremony was wasted on the lone drunk who appeared in police court this morning. "Stand up," said the court. "You are charged with being drunk. What have you to say for yourself?"

"Guilty," replied the offender. "Ten dollars and costs," came back from the bench, and it was all over.

SOVIET STRENGTH DWINDLES FAST

Zinovieff Tells Internationale No Reason To Feel Discouraged.

SPEAKS WITH CANDOR

Associated Press Despatch. Moscow, June 19.—In a speech, remarkable for its candor, M. Zinovieff, chairman of the fifth congress of the Third Internationale, yesterday told 500 delegates of that organization that there was no reason to feel discouraged over the fact that the Communist Internationale has failed to obtain victory in the majority of western countries or that social revolution has not been developed with the rapidity anticipated in the early days of the Russian revolution.

Most of the delegates had before them statistics from their own countries respecting the status of the party. It was shown that with the exception of Russia, where the Communist party has increased from 480,000 members to 600,000, the strength of the organization in most of the foreign countries has increased. For instance, it is shown that the membership of the party in the United States dropped from 2,000 to 5,000, while in Great Britain it decreased from 10,000 to 3,000; in France from 120,000 to 100,000, and in Germany from 300,000 to 250,000.

We were mistaken in our judgment regarding the speed of the world revolution," said Zinovieff, "and where we should have been calculating on months."

The presidium elected today include Leon Trotsky, M. Stalin, Clara Zetkin and William Dunn.

TWO MANY MEETINGS, MAYOR WENIGE AGREES

Concurs With Views of Ald. Drake—Petty Politics Scored.

Mayor Wenige agrees with Alderman Gordon Drake that there are too many meetings of the various city hall committees and that much of the time when these committees are in session is wasted.

"When the plumbing bylaw was discussed the other evening, the most sensible suggestion that I heard came from Mr. Parsons, who thought that everyone interested from the various organizations at the meeting should get copies of the bylaw, note their objections and forward them to the board of health for consideration at a joint meeting. But the committee did not see it that way. It was pretty much a matter of playing politics with every clause as it came up, and I suppose it will be the same with the market bylaw."

"We have enough meetings to run a city of a million population. It wouldn't be so bad if all the meetings were business sessions and devoted entirely to straight business, but politics in one form or another takes up most of the time that is due the citizens from their representatives."

He explained that he thought the age for boys was 16 and for girls 18. He was assessed the minimum fine of $5 and costs, and instructed not to drive a car again until he procured a license as required by the statutes.

HOSE STALL REMOVED. Another of the old horse stalls at the fire hall has been removed. The operation took place this morning. No casualties were reported.

Only One Loaf of Brown Eaten To 20 White Loaves Is Figure of City Bakers

Only One Loaf of Brown Eaten To 20 White Loaves Is Figure of City Bakers

House Is Cleared With Chlorine

Palate To Blame

Baker States Most Persons Used to White Dislike Change.

Brown or whole wheat bread appears so steadily on restaurant tables, and its virtues are so staunchly maintained in poster and printed advertising, that the public nowadays believes the consumption of brown and white to be about fifty-fifty.

But according to reliable information from local bakeries, the actual consumption of brown bread is about one loaf to twenty of white bread.

And the fault lies with the palate! The fat years of white bread have made people so accustomed to this luxury that they would be highly rebellious at having to endure lean years of brown bread. Yet local bakers say that brown bread is vastly more nourishing and could be used as a steady diet quite satisfactorily in the place of white bread.

"You have to please the palate," one baker maintained.

Tasty for Change. "People have become so used to the fine white bread that they find the coarser brown bread tasty as a change or for special occasions, but they won't take it as a steady diet. If they were willing to do so, we might have less need for Dr. Banting's insulin. The consumption of so much white bread and potatoes is directly responsible for many cases of diabetes. There is as much, and even more, nourishment in the brown bread as in the white, but we can't get people to take it steadily."

"Our sales in brown bread during the past year have increased as a matter of fact, but we have been featuring it especially, and with certain people it has become a fad. They eat it for a week or so for health's sake, but they soon tire of it, and return to the white bread. It is almost impossible to tire of good white bread, and this doesn't seem to be the case with brown bread."

The head of one firm, which covers a large territory in the city, stated that except in the cases of people who take it occasionally, their output of brown bread had increased very little in the past few years.

"Brown bread isn't the steady seller that it would be if people properly appreciated its good qualities, and could accustom themselves to it. It has all the properties of the whole wheat, and since all the bran and shorts are ground up with it, the percentage of starch is very much less than in white bread. Whole-some, while wheat bread is an accurate slogan, but people don't fall for it."

BOY VICTIM IS NOW EXPECTED TO RECOVER

SPRINGBANK SCENE OF MANY PICNICS

R. J. Young and Company Have Large Turnout For Annual Outing.

FAMILY REUNION

Over one thousand people journeyed to Springbank yesterday as members of picnics. There were picnics from many of the business and social organizations of the city. Among these were R. J. Young & Co., King-mills, Limited, Garner-Dean, Reunion, King Street Methodist choir, A Class of the Technical School, Cowan's Hardware, Limited, and First Methodist Church Young People's Society.

R. J. Young & Co. had the largest number of picnickers at the park. They had an interesting program of sports, including two baseball games. The married men defeated the single men 21-11, much to the delight of their wives. The drygoods women defeated the milliners by the score of 13-2.

Results of the races: Wheelbarrow race, Miss Dameress and W. Jameson; back-to-back race, Miss Karr and Miss Dameress; rolling balloon, Fred Tambling, C. Smith; balloon-blowing contest, Miss Karr, Miss Webb; small boys' race, Jimmy Ross, James Stevenson; fat men's race, H. T. Jeffries, Fred Tambling; 50-yard dash, Jack Steel, Y. Richardson.

Family Reunion. The reunion of the Garner-Dean family was held for the sixth consecutive year yesterday at the city's popular playground. Many who attended came from the United States. This reunion is held every year and is supplemented by a picnic at Flint, Mich. This year the Flint picnic will be held on August 9.

The reunion was in charge of President Charles Garner of Thamesford. The managing committee consisted of P. Kerr of Aylmer, J. P. L. Ince of Stratford, Tom Ritchie of London, and John Near of Flint.

There was a varied sports program after supper, which included a camel race, backward race, hand and foot race, shampoo contest, and a suck-a-bottle contest.

During supper the members were entertained by Eldon Garner of Flint, who gave an imitation of a hummingbird, accompanying a gramophone.

REASON SITE IS CHOSEN FOR NEW LAMBETH SCHOOL

The site of the new continuation school at Lambeth has been chosen as the A. E. Reason property, consisting of three acres on the Talbot road.

The ratepayers of the village voted on the question of a site some time ago, and decided in favor of the Reason site in preference to the Rutledge site. It is expected that building operations on the new structure will be begun in the very near future. The building is to cost in the neighborhood of $15,000.

FACULTY OF COMMERCE IS LIKELY FOR WESTERN

Although no definite steps have yet been taken toward its formation, a faculty of commerce is a strong probability for the near future in connection with the University of Western Ontario.

Classes in commerce and business economics carried on last year under Professor Morrow were eminently successful and it has already been suggested that a permanent department for business training would be of great value to the university.

The interest taken in the special courses would indicate a strong demand for specialized training of this sort.

Volunteer Constables Sworn To Rid Township of "Petting Parties"

FARMERS TO ACT IN WESTMINSTER

Township Council Takes Drastic Steps To Stamp Out Petting Parties.

VOLUNTEER "COPS"

Following a public meeting at Glendale last night, where district farmers told of the disgraceful actions carried on by "petting parties" from the city, Westminster Township council has decided to act in the matter, and will appoint at least three volunteer township constables, who will patrol the roads and keep them free of as many "lights out" autos as possible.

Alex. Scott, Robert Trowse and Philip Lawson all volunteered to walk the roads free of charge, providing they were given the proper authority to bring cases before the court.

Deputy Reeve Boier stated today that the matter would be taken up immediately, probably this afternoon, and that the constables would be able to go to work tonight if they cared to.

It is pointed out, however, that cars have just as much right to park along a road in the country as in the city, provided the lights are on and that the highway traffic act is complied with.

Of course, if the occupants of a car are acting in a disorderly manner, it is another matter entirely, and they may be summoned to court on such charges as the constables may see fit to lay before the magistrate.

High Constable Wharton is working 18 hours a day, he states, to prevent the county of the "petting fests," but cannot patrol the entire county by himself. He states that conditions such as exist on the majority of side roads around London prevail around Lucan, Parkhill, Stratford and other county towns.

"There seems to be a general wave of 'petting parties' throughout the whole countryside," said the high constable in discussing the matter. "As I stated before, I am out to clean the county of such stuff, and I am doing the best I can. I am out every night till 3 and 4 o'clock in the morning. Some nights I catch three and four parties and report them to the magistrate."

County constables under the present system do not receive any remuneration unless there is a conviction and a fine is paid. Therefore, they do not feel like patrolling a night's sleep simply to patrol the road and then not make a "capture."

It may be, however, if conditions fail to improve, that the township will swear in volunteer constables, such as Westminster, who will do the work for nothing in an effort to stamp out what is rapidly becoming a dangerous evil in the opinion of the farmers.

COURT WARNS AGAINST TESTING CARS ON ROAD

Henry Field, Local Garage Man, Fined $10 for Reckless Driving.

Henry D. Field, night service man at a local garage, appeared in court this morning before Magistrate Graydon to answer to a charge of speeding and reckless driving in a sedan on Dundas street at 2 o'clock Monday morning.

Constables W. Pope and W. Snell stated that Field was driving east on Dundas street "at a rapid rate of speed," one said between 35 and 40 miles per hour, while the other put it at well over 30 or 35 miles an hour. Both officers stated that the defendant had admitted to them that "he was going between 27 and 28 miles per hour when he crossed Colborne street" at which corner he narrowly missed crashing into a coupe.

The excuse given by Field for his fast driving was that "he wished to find a knock in the rear axle." He further admitted that "if he had hit the car crossing from Colborne street he would have made a mess of it."

Field's own story was that a Toronto man had come into the garage about 1:30 a.m. asking that he attend to some trouble in the rear wheel and axle. After failing to locate the trouble on jacking up the wheel at the garage he took it out on Dundas street and was driving along with his head out the left door listening to the action of the wheel. Thus it was, he explained, the fact of nearly hitting the other car; not that he was going fast, but that he was looking to the rear instead to the front.

He stated that he crossed the Colborne street intersection at between three and four miles an hour. "I may have been going a little faster," he said, "but I didn't cross Colborne street at the rate of 27 or 28 miles an hour. At 3:30 I saw Constable Pope myself travelling between 25 and 40 miles an hour."

"Better lay an information against him," advised Chief Birrell.

Characterizing it as a dangerous practice to test cars on the streets and an illegal practice, which is persisted in was liable to a fine of $200 or imprisonment. Magistrate Graydon fined Field $20 and costs.

DARING $2,000,000 ROBBERY SOLVED, OFFICIALS STATE

Eight of Alleged Train Bandits Caught—Quartet Being Sought.

ONE CONFESSES

Member of Egan's Rats Gang Said To Have Been the Real Ringleader.

Associate Press Despatch.

Chicago, June 19.—One of the most daring train robberies ever perpetrated, the hold-up of a Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul mail train near Chicago the night of June 12 by eight bandits, who obtained $2,075,000 in securities, has been solved. Postal officials announced last night. Eight of the alleged train robbers are in custody, postoffice officials claimed, one has confessed complicity, part of the loot has been recovered and a nation-wide search for the quartet still at large is in progress, with prospects of their arrest within a short time.

Max Greenburg, said to be a member of Egan's Rats, St. Louis gangsters, planned the robbery at East St. Louis, according to police officers, and had the assistance of Carlo and Ernest Fontana, Chicago gunmen, who are believed to be implicated in the $80,000 mail robbery at Harvey, Ill., in March, and the $25,000 robbery at Indiana Harbor, six weeks ago. Carlo Fontana was arrested yesterday. His brother is being sought.

Fontana brothers, besides the two robbers, postal inspectors said, they are: Willie Newton, Willis Newton and Joe Newton, alias Johnny Newton. All three of the brothers are in custody.

An official statement placed the loot obtained by the robbers at $2,000,000 in securities and $75,000 in cash. A little more than $20,000 in cash has been recovered.

STOREKEEPER CLAIMS OFFICER WAS PEEKING

Julius Schure Freed With a Warning on Lord's Day Act Charge.

The apparent good intentions of Julius Schure, who runs a general store at 216 Horton street, saved him from a fine in police court this morning for a violation of the Lord's Day Act in selling ice cream on Sunday.

Carried away from the store by a customer, Schure was seen by a police officer, F. Tomblin and Constable Ritchie, who took him to the station. A little boy about three years old about 10:10 p.m. last Sunday, and in a few minutes came out again, the boy eating an ice cream cone. The man and Schure both testified that he, Schure, had said that the boy was to stay in the store while he was gone. The man said that while he was talking to a lady the boy had run out on the street. At Schure's request he had run after him, but since it was raining and the cone so nearly finished he had not returned to the store.

The officers stated that the man was carrying the child, and that the cone was not more than half finished. Chief Birrell informed the court that complaints were coming in all the time concerning Schure's Sunday business, and that he was selling everything and anything that he could.

He had been fined once for selling liquor and once also for selling ice cream on Sunday, he was taken away from the store to be eaten.

Schure, in turn, took exception to the keyhole and he admitted to the Sunday. Magistrate Graydon warned Schure that he was caught selling ice cream on Sunday illegally or he would be taken away at any time he would be given the maximum penalty for the offence.

He was going between 27 and 28 miles per hour when he crossed Colborne street" at which corner he narrowly missed crashing into a coupe.

SMUTS DEFEAT IS REGRETTED

Prominent Political Figure in South Africa Expected To Remain.

Associated Press Despatch.

London, June 19.—Newspapers of all shades of political opinion today frankly express their regret at the defeat of General Jan Christian Smuts in the elections for the House of Assembly of the Union of South Africa. No one suggests, however, that his defeat will mark his disappearance from the political life of the dominion.

The Daily News (Liberal) thinks that Premier Smuts has been beaten on issues which have hardly any relevance at all to matters of great international importance. The defeat was on old local controversies, it says, in which his own conduct was by no means above criticism.

LONDON LABOR BACKS WALKOUT

Civil Service Commission To Blame, Declares Ald. Frank McKay.

Alderman Frank McKay, London's labor representative, entirely in sympathy with the demands of the striking postal employees and lays the blame for the present impasse squarely on the shoulders of the civil service commission.

"This commission," he said, "is one that is in my opinion, so much unnecessary official deadweight and an extra overhead expense at Ottawa, is the very thing the taxpayers are trying to cut out of our national life. The men forming the commission are, I believe, drawing a salary of around $10,000, which at the rate of pay that the government is offering would take care of nearly ten of the men who are now on the street."

"If the postal employees could have got in direct touch with government officials there would never, in my opinion, have been need for this commission. The government thinks that by passing the buck of responsibility to a commission they are fooling the public, they are much mistaken."

"As for the men who are now on the street, they have waited with the greatest patience through a most trying time in which the commission has been switching around so much that no one could tell just exactly what they intended doing. At a time when the united chambers of commerce all over the country and the various business and social clubs were petitioning the government to reduce the national overhead expenses, all the Ottawa establishment is doing is to keep the postal employees' wages, and at the same time raise the salaries of some of the men who are at the head of things. The position that Ottawa took was absolutely unreasonable."

"I believe that the present strike will be a success and that the postal employees will get what they are asking for."

The London Trades and Labor Council is solidly behind the men, and I know that it will do all it can to further their cause."

Snapshots Of A Child Picking Up.

KING STREET CHOIR HOLDS FINE FROLIC

Rev. W. R. McIntosh and G. England Honored Before Holiday.

One of the most enjoyable affairs held yesterday afternoon at Springbank Park was the picnic given by King Street Presbyterian Church choir. Over seventy guests were present, and a special feature of the event was the presentation of steamers to Rev. W. R. McIntosh and George England who are leaving shortly for England. Farewell addresses were read by Thomas Ames, president of the choir, and Miss Ella Moore made the presentation to Rev. Mr. McIntosh, and Fred Christian presented the gift to Mr. England.

Miss Kathleen Moore, who has acted as organist in the past, and a half, was also remembered with a gift, receiving a pretty boudoir lamp from Miss Ella Darling.

An excellent program of sports has been arranged in charge of Mr. Leckie. The results of the sports are as follows: Mystery lady contest, Mildred Skinner; lady's backward race, Mildred Skinner; 200 yd. dash, Ella Moore; men's 100 yd. dash, George Brewster; clothes-line race, Hannah Warren and Walter Skinner; ladies' ball throwing, Stella Darling; 100 yd. dash, Mildred Skinner; 200 yd. dash, George Brewster; the time being 13 seconds. A picnic supper was enjoyed, and Miss Ella Darling acted as convener of the refreshments.

TWO KITCHENER BOYS WALKING TO 'FRISCO

W. Doff and W. Roff Reach City Today—Side Bet of $500.

W. Doff and W. Roff, two Kitchener youths, passed through London on the first lap of a walking tour to San Francisco. Both the travellers, who are in their early twenties, are clad in khaki shirts and trousers, with knee-high boots, and are carrying a knapsack with "On the Way to San Francisco" in red letters on the back. This extraordinary burst of energy is the result of a bet made with some friends in Kitchener for $500 that they could not walk to the city by the Golden Gate, earning their food and lodgings on the way and get back by Feb. 1, 1925.

The two hikers have not the least doubt that they will do the trip in good style and get the $500. Last night they put up a vaudeville performance at St. Mary's and got enough coin to keep them going for a bit. They dropped into the office of the city clerk this morning to get his signature to prove that they had actually passed through the city. They leave tonight for Chatham and the Western Ontario cities on their westward trek.

BATHING AT LAKESIDE BEGINS IN EARNEST

PICNIC IS HELD BY STORE STAFF

Employees of Smallman & Ingram Journey To Port Stanley.

HAVE IDEAL DAY

The distinction of having the first wholly successful picnic at Port Stanley this year goes to the firm of Smallman & Ingram. They were inspired in their choice of a day, since the weather was ideal. The breeze-swept Invererie Heights were at their disposal for the afternoon, and the firm employees had the added distinction of introducing many novel races and sports for other picnickers to follow.

The roped inclosure attracted not only those officially in attendance at the picnic, but a number of onlookers as well, so original and amusing were many of the races. During one period of the afternoon, Invererie Heights suggested the starting point of a 19th century prairie voyage. "Covered wagons" were gathered together in an intriguing manner, later learned to be the foundation of one of the most successful races. Other sports were equally up to date.

Big Parade.

The picnic started officially in London at 1 o'clock, when the employees paraded from the store to the L. & P. S. Station, preceded by the W. G. R. Band. Sports were in progress until 5 o'clock, when supper was served on the heights. The evening was given over to the plentiful enjoyment provided along the board walk.

Generally arranged by the Employees' Benefit Association, the picnic was made a splendid success by the efficiency of a small committee to look after the various departments. The general picnic committee included:

The starters were Messrs. G. Ingram, C. E. Speiran and Bilborough, and the judges were Messrs. W. M. Arthur, S. Chudwick and S. J. Draper. Sports were divided in four sections with the following committees in charge: No. 1 committee, M. B. Wickens, P. Hancock, B. Graves, G. Loughlin; No. 2 committee, P. Speer, H. K. Ingram, S. Woolway, M. Graham; No. 3 committee, J. Percy, K. Butler, A. Percy, T. Hamford; No. 4 committee, B. Wherry, H. Haring, B. Vouker, J. Pendergast; convener, M. Ingram; committee for prizes, Miss C. Wrigley, Miss G. Vandermolen, Miss E. Bowman, Miss M. Wilkinson.

Novel Sport Program.

The race results were as follows: Boys and girls, 7 and under, prizes for all. Girls, 7-10 years, N. Ingram, Mary Haring, P. Davenport; boys, 7-10 years, L. Fry, Jack Norman, J. Case; skipping race, girls, 10-14 years, M. Parsons, Constance Onley, P. Davenport; clothesline race, 10-14 years, Ronald Boast, Ralph Speiran, Ed. Onley; loop race, Doris Shute, Thelma Bamford, Kate race, Mr. Onley, Mr. Davenport; leap-year race, Miss F. Miller and Mr. G. Ingram; Betty Pattison and Mr. Chadwick; walking race, Miss S. Phillips, Doris Shute; Blue Monday race, Mrs. Slingerland, Mrs. Fry; coat race, L. Stephens, Betty Pattison; arm chair race, Miss H. Onley, Mrs. Butler, B. Freeman; soda biscuit race, Evelyn Pittaway, C. Wilcox; three-legged race, A. Bingham and B. Freeman; covers race, Mrs. M. A. Percy and Mrs. L. Stephens; Mr. H. Clark and T. Pace; costume race, G. Ingram and Ken. Ingram; chariot race, Frieda Miller, Corrie Inglekin, Mr. Kirkwood; tug-of-war, Captain Doherty's team; boot and shoe race, Mr. Jones and Mr. Davis; Andy Gump race, Jerry Louchlin and Doris Shute; drawing contest, L. FRAUDS ALLEGED IN SALE OF CHAIRS

Two Men Arrested in Dallas On Warrants Charging False Pretences.

Special to The Advertiser.

Sarnia, June 18.—Virgil O. Rosser and Charles Goddard, American citizens, are under arrest at Dallas, Texas, on Sarnia warrants charging false pretences and fraud, according to word received by Crown Attorney F. W. Wilson today. The two cleaned up $40,000 in Sarnia and are said to have absorbed $100,000 in Canadian money from various centers, including Fort William, Saskatoon and North Battleford, Sask., by a scheme which authorities claim was one of the nearest swindles ever practiced here.

The two came to Sarnia in the summer of 1922 to establish selling agencies for duplex chairs, supposed to be patented. Agents were allotted territory on paying $2,250 each, the men explaining that the North American Bent Chair Company at Owen Sound, which was manufacturing the articles for Canadian territory, required payment of $2 for each of a thousand chairs allotted to agents for the year, to guarantee them against the purchasing of stock of materials required. It is alleged that the Owen Sound company received none of this money, and further that the chairs were not covered by patents as claimed and that any one could order a similar chair from the manufacturers at the same price at which they were sold to agents. It is claimed that the scheme had all the essentials of a bonafide agency proposition, except honesty, even bank references being found satisfactory, on the surface. The attorney-general's department had Detective W. H. Stringer investigate when complaints were made.

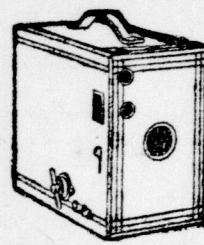

The two men are now fighting extradition to Sarnia.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

What Kind of Wife Will That Girl Make Who Has Always Been Babied?—The Husband Who Would Rather Be a Good Sport Than a Good Provider—Shall They Wait Till He Can Give Her Every Wish?

Dear Miss Dix—I am in love with a girl whose people make a regular baby out of her. Mother has to hold her hand everywhere she goes, so to speak. She can't go out of the house without a chaperone, and when I take her out I have to bring her home before dark. She is never allowed any liberty, nor to decide anything for herself. And she obeys just as if she was three years old instead of a grown girl.

This makes me wonder what sort of a wife she will make. I want a wife who has lots of pep and ambition, the push-and-pull kind, who will help me to get on and make something of myself. I don't want a wife who is satisfied with anything, who is slow and easy going, who has the habit of letting someone else do all the planning.

Do you think that after this girl is married she will buck up and have some backbone and initiative? Is it just her misfortune that she is handicapped by too strict, old-fashioned parents?

JOHN.

Answer: I would like to shake hands with you, John. You are a man after my own heart, because I am like you. I never have been able to see what there was so attractive to men in that Patient Griselda stuff. I should think that the meek wife, who had no mind of her own whatever, and who let everybody else do her thinking for her, and tell her where to get on, and where to get off would bore her husband to tears.

My ideal woman is like yours—a peppy lady, who is full of ginger, who is alive to her finger tips, who is electric and simply seething with energy. She is the kind of a woman who is a go-getter and who is always right behind her husband, pushing him along, making a place for him and the children.

That is the type of wife who is a real helpmate. "She took the chances I wouldn't and I followed your mother blind," says the dying old captain in Kipling's poem, telling his son how he piled up his millions.

But, of course, on the other hand, you must bear in mind that the ambitious, determined, independent woman isn't nearly such a soothing companion to live with as the meek, little mouse who has been under mother's thumb all of her life. The girl who has had her spirit thoroughly broken, who is accustomed to giving in and to deferring to other people's wishes, probably will think that you are an oracle and never dream of such a thing as disputing your august authority. So there may be consolations in the situation after all.

And, of course, after marriage she may change. There are few women as much afraid of their husbands as they are of their mothers.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I have been married a little over a year, and am just beginning to understand my husband. He has expensive tastes and little money. He will go out with the bunch and have a good time tonight, even if he has to go hungry tomorrow.

For example, I needed some shoes and his crowd wanted us to go to a house with them, and he asked me which I would rather do, have the shoes or be a good sport, and he was quite disgusted with me when I said I would rather have the shoes. He wastes all of our money on good times, so that we have none for the comforts of life. Otherwise, he is kind and of loving disposition, but I can't live on love and being a good sport alone. What shall I do?

INEZ.

Answer:

The most difficult task that any wife ever undertakes is to sew up the holes in a wasteful husband's pocket. Why any man, who has intelligence enough to be out of the home for the incurably feeble-minded, can want to blow in his money for food and drink for a grasping, grasping crowd of ne'er-do-wells, for that is the way the bunch always sits up, nobody knows. But there are plenty of men who do and who are just like your husband, Inez.

They will spend a week's or a month's salary on a couple of hours' spree. They will invite a crowd for dinner, and owe the grocer. They will buy drinks for rounders, while the baby needs milk. They are willing for their families to starve, if only they can be called "good sports" in public.

A wife can do nothing toward getting ahead when she has a husband of this sort. She cannot stem the tide of his wastefulness. What she saves through months of pinching economies, he will throw away in five minutes. And the worst of it is that if she tries to restrain him too much she alienates him from her. He will not stand for her continual thrift campaign.

The only thing you can do is to save your own money, and by tact and diplomacy try to make him see that the good sport is always a bad ender, who finishes his days in the poorhouse.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—A man loves a girl, but will not marry her because he does not earn enough to keep her in comfort. He says he will not marry her until he makes enough to satisfy her slightest wish and make her so happy and contented that the memory of her married life will always be beautiful.

But the girl says that she would be happy just to have him, and her memories would be just as beautiful even if she had to work hard and deny herself everything that is conducive to ease and pleasure. Which is right, the man or the girl?

NINETEEN.

Answer:

The man is right not to be willing to marry until he is able to support his wife in comfort, but he is wrong if he waits to marry until he can satisfy her every wish. That is an impossibility, anyway. No one is ever satisfied.

The girl is right in thinking that luxury is not essential to happiness in marriage. The woman whose husband gives her love, and tenderness, and sympathy, and understanding, can be satisfied and happy with very little else.

SANATORIUM AID ELECTS OFFICERS

Mrs. John Stevely Again Heads Organization To Assist Tubercular Families.

The annual meeting of the Women's Aid Society was held at the residence of Mrs. William F. Grosvenor street. The president, Mrs. John Stevely, received a warm welcome from the members after her absence from the city. Mrs. B. C. McCann, secretary, read the annual report, showing that the work of caring for tubercular patients in their homes was being carried on efficiently.

A serious handicap to the work was the impossibility of providing proper houses. Many families had to occupy quarters so small that it was impossible to separate the sick from the well. In many instances conditions were reported as extremely bad, landlords refusing to do the necessary repairs, which left the houses not even weather-proof.

The annual report from the nurses showed that 500 patients had received attention during the year over 5,000 visits had been paid, and 70 families received Christmas cheer.

A special feature of the work was the instruction given whereby the patient was taught how to care for herself and also to prevent the spread of infection to those about her. Every home was fumigated after the patient had been removed. In this way the health of the public was safeguarded. Mrs. A. B. Greer, treasurer, gave a detailed report of the year's expenditure, showing that the largest amounts had been spent on milk and groceries.

Officers for the year are as follows: President, Mrs. John Stevely; first vice-president, Mrs. B. C. McCann; second vice-president, Mrs. C. H. Ziegler; secretary, Mrs. Frank Jewell; treasurer, Mrs. A. B. Greer.

ALMA COLLEGE HOLDS GRADUATES' BANQUET

Interesting Program of Toasts Marks Social Event in St. Thomas.

A charming affair of last evening was the banquet given by the undergraduates of Alma College, St. Thomas, in honor of the graduating class and the staff. Special guests of honor were Rev. Robert Hicks and Mrs. Hicks and Dr. James H. Coyne and Mrs. Coyne. A number of clever toasts were given and Miss Dorothy Brake of Peru acted as toast mistress.

The toast to the graduates was proposed by Miss Kathleen Haig and responded to by Miss Marian McKillop, to the faculty by Miss Mildred Wickha, replied to by Miss Zeigler, dean of residence, and Dr. Stanley Oliver. Miss Eula Mabey proposed the toast to the undergraduates, to which Miss Mildred Waldoek replied. The toast to the Alma Daughters was given by Miss Minota Welch and was replied to by Mrs. J. E. Curran, president of the St. Thomas branch. Miss Frances Crich proposed the toast to the school, which was replied to by Dr. P. S. Dobson, with impromptu speeches by Dr. J. H. Coyne, Rev. Robert Hicks, and Miss Ida Alderson of Toronto.

The class history was cleverly presented by Miss Madeline Bouché and Miss Kathleen McMurtry gave the class legacy, followed by the prophecy by Miss Florence Floggett. Miss Frances Whitcomb read the class poem, and the program was closed by the singing of the class song, with Miss Dorcas Roe acting as accompanist.

Mrs. Hummer Bewilders Peter Rabbit by Asking Him For Some Spiderwebs

By THORNTON W. BURGESS. "Good morning, Peter Rabbit," squeaked a small voice so close to one of Peter's long ears that it made him jump with startled surprise. He was over on the edge of the Old Orchard at the time.

"Good—good morning," he stammered, looking all around and blinking his eyes as he vainly tried to discover who had spoken to him. "Have you seen any cobwebs this morning, Peter?" squeaked the little voice, and again it seemed to be right in his ear.

"What are cobwebs?" asked Peter, continuing to look around him with a foolish expression on his face.

"Spiderwebs," was the prompt reply squeaked in his other ear. "Oh, those things," said Peter. "No, I haven't seen any. I'm not interested in spiderwebs. Who are you, and where are you and why can't I see you?"

"How can you expect to see me if you don't look at me?" was the prompt reply. "Why don't you look up instead of looking all around in the wrong places?"

Peter promptly looked up. Even then he might not have seen the tiny speaker had she not lifted one wing to smooth the feathers on her head. Of course you have guessed who it was. It was Mrs. Hummer. She was sitting on a twig not far above Peter. When she had squeaked in his ears she had darted down for that purpose and then back again.

"Oh, so it is you," exclaimed Peter. "I didn't know who it was talking to me. What under the sun do you want of spiderwebs, Mrs. Hummer?" "I need them for my nest," said

CHAPTER XIX.

Paris.

At a large house in the center of Paris a garden party was taking place. The mansion stood remote and aloof from its plebeian neighbors, with shallow stone steps leading down into the screened pleasure. On one of the stone seats a girl sat, a young man beside her. He had eyes for nothing but his companion, but her gaze was fixed on a mass of blue jewels that edged the border and on "So it's true then, 'Ice Maiden,' that you turn us down at the rate of two a day?" he asked.

Hastily she turned away from him, to be pounced upon almost immediately by another of his sex, and then to be swallowed up by the crowd that surged in and out of the house, up and down the steps, around and among the scattered chairs and tables.

Two months before Mrs. Green had brought the girl to Paris. Before a month had passed she and her charge were the most sought-after people in the most exclusive and aristocratic society of the city. The girl, who had been blind until she was 21, when she suddenly inherited both sight and money.

All sorts of romantic tales were afloat about the young and beautiful heiress—how some man met her quite by chance, how he had fallen in love about all alone in a little hamlet in the distant Maritime Alps, with a diamond necklace worth millions of francs about her neck; how he had declared she could be cured, and had taken her to a specialist; how he had sold her necklace for a fabulous sum, and then disappeared.

Tired of the men who dozed her steps presently she went into the house. However, she was not left long in peace.

Within a few minutes the door opening made her look round. On seeing who the intruder was she got up quickly. It was Basilio.

He came to her side, looking at her in a hungry, hopeless manner.

"At least it's you I want, not your money," he remarked presently. "I know that," she answered quietly.

"Won't you let that stand in my favor?" he asked, despair and passion in his voice. "I want to tell you, if I have me, you could wipe your feet on me for the rest of your life, and I'd reckon myself the luckiest man alive."

The passion in his voice and eyes made her move from him with a shudder. "Oh, yes," he went on in a wild, distraught manner, "you're going to run away from me now, as you've always done since our first meeting. But before you go I want to tell you one thing. I know when I'm beat. I know when I'm done. And I'm starting back to Rio tomorrow."

A look of relief crossed Desirée's face, and Basilio was quick to see it. "Good riddance!" said he, continuing to mutter. "You can tell me more than you've done already."

His hand went to his pocket. He drew out a check representing in francs $50,000 and handed it to the round, unformed hand Desirée de Mailly.

He drew a match from his pocket, and striking it, set fire to the check. "It's not your pity I want, but you," he started, in a wild, impassioned manner.

She ran toward the garden where Mrs. Green was sitting alone. "I'm sick and tired of this endless whirl of silly society," Desirée exclaimed. "All these shallow men want is my money; they don't want me."

Mrs. Green was silent. "Basilio is perhaps the only one that isn't after my fortune," Desirée went on, "but he's impossible, and he's just promised to leave me for good. I'm glad of that anyway."

Speculatively Mrs. Green watched her, wondering if Desirée were regretting having refused John Wilson now life had shown her the world's lack of sincerity.

Mrs. Green was sitting up in bed, her boudoir cap askew on her head, a breakfast tray on a little table beside her. She was in her hand as she read it a look of dismay came to her face.

"Well, I never did!" she exclaimed, when the pages were finished. "What is it, mamma? What has happened now?" Desirée asked.

"The girl took the letter and read it through slowly."

It was from Mr. Green, and was an arrangement for a picnic to be held on Tuesday afternoon next on the lawn of Mrs. Peters' home. Sherwood avenue were made last evening of the Ryerson Mothers' Club executive held yesterday afternoon.

The members of the club will be present at the exhibition of pupils' work to be held in the Ryerson School on Friday afternoon and evening, when the manual training and domestic science departments will have their handiwork on display.

"Spiderwebs," was the prompt reply squeaked in his other ear. "Oh, those things," said Peter. "No, I haven't seen any. I'm not interested in spiderwebs. Who are you, and where are you and why can't I see you?"

"How can you expect to see me if you don't look at me?" was the prompt reply. "Why don't you look up instead of looking all around in the wrong places?"

Peter promptly looked up. Even then he might not have seen the tiny speaker had she not lifted one wing to smooth the feathers on her head. Of course you have guessed who it was. It was Mrs. Hummer. "What under the sun can she want of cobwebs?" muttered Peter. "I wonder if she was joking when she said that she must have them to finish her nest. She must have been joking."

The next story: "How Mrs. Hummer Shingles Her Home."

mentioned in his letter to Desirée.

Luck was with Wilson. At the broken iron gates leading into the Domaine de Mailly his carriage overtook Juliette.

On seeing the occupant of the carriage she threw up her hands. "It's the English monsieur himself!" she cried.

At once Wilson was out of the carriage and laying his campaign of deceit before her. She agreed to his plan.

She told him Desirée had gone with her governess into the distant town to meet the train. Then she drove with him to the chateau, showed him his room, and leaving him to wash and tidy himself, went off to let Pierre into the secret.

He came downstairs and was given something to eat and when his hunger was appeased he sat on, planning to himself how the mansion could best be modernized, whilst still retaining its old features, when the sound of wheels coming up the drive sent his mind to other matters, and made his throat swell with a choking, excited sensation.

He knew who would be coming—Desirée, whose eyes would rest on him for the first time full of sight. But, thank God! she would be thinking him his cousin.

He heard the carriage halt. A few moments later there was the sound of light little feet entering the hall beyond.

When she came in Wilson stood dazzled by the vision of grace and beauty confronting him, knowing exactly how much he had lost by doing the "right thing."

Like a man stunned Wilson took her hand into his.

"I should have done so, countless," he lied, "had I known you were coming to the station to meet me."

At his voice Desirée started, and a quiver ran through the hand she was just drawing from his relaxed grip.

Because Desirée had never seen him, it did not follow that she would not recognize him. He reckoned without the years of blindness that lay behind her—years that had taught her to recognize people by voice and touch and step.

To compose herself, Desirée turned from him and went to one of the long windows to let in the light, who was scratching frantically at the glass panels.

As Wilson watched her go, again he lied, "I don't know you, but I know you're coming to the station to meet me."

But for it he would be a rich man still, standing on a pile of gold that raised him to something approaching her level, not what he was now her paid servant.

If only there had been no railway strike! If only the Gilberts had turned up in time to have got that accursed necklace! Then—

There would have been happy days for the girl, safe in the knowledge that he stood between her and a marriage she loathed.

And one evening, when he came to her bedside to kiss her good-night, she would put her weak arms about his neck, refusing to let him go, dressing against him with innocent desire.

Wilson came back to earth again. Desirée had not clung to him. He had been fool enough to touch that accursed "necklace of tears." He had done the right thing by her all along the line, and in reward was a crop of bitterness, not a harvest of love.

Juliette had looked after me very well indeed," he said, surprised to find his heart beating so fast. "She has seen after all my creature comforts, even to feeding me," he

For perhaps an hour longer Wilson mused. He thought of Desirée, of feeling too much like a skeleton at the feast he took himself and his gnawing misery back home.

There he had been, a letter awaiting him in the round, unformed hand he knew now—the second of the sort he had seen.

In the mountains, and it ran: "My Dear Friend—As perhaps you know, Mrs. Green has left Paris for England, and I have come back here to the peace and quiet of the country."

"But I wish I had someone here with me who really knew how to look after the place. I want to start a home for blind babies."

"I would like to have an Englishman here, as steward on my estate, because I have learned to trust your nation. He need not necessarily be a farmer, but a man who knows how to deal with the world and men and money—things I have not learned to do, that I sometimes feel I never shall learn, having so many years of darkness and ignorance before me."

"Always, your most grateful friend, 'DESIRÉE DE MAILLY'."

"P.S.—Miss Ryder, my governess and companion, says that in a case like this, every must be mentioned. You will perhaps know what to offer. Would £1,000 a year be enough?—D. de M."

There and then he sat down and wrote a letter to Desirée.

He regretted he was too busy to come himself, he said, but was sending his cousin, Edward Wilson, a most reliable man, one she could depend on in every way. Three hundred pounds a year would be ample salary. She could expect the new steward in about a week's time. He would let her know the exact day and train later on.

At a week later Wilson was driving in a hired carriage along the narrow road leading to the old chateau. As Wilson drove along he was realizing that one deception invariably begets another. Also, it had dawned on him that by hook or crook he must have an interview with Desirée and Juliette before seeing the girl for the first time since he had been blind.

To attain this end he left Paris by an earlier train than the one he had intended to take.

But Mrs. Hummer wasn't joking. She darted all about through the Old Orchard looking everywhere for cobwebs. She had learned to trust your nation. He need not necessarily be a farmer, but a man who knows how to deal with the world and men and money—things I have not learned to do, that I sometimes feel I never shall learn, having so many years of darkness and ignorance before me."

finished, glancing at the diminished heap of sandwiches on the table.

"I'm so glad," Desirée said shyly, still avoiding his gaze. "I shouldn't like to think of you being neglected in any way."

"It's you who are being neglected, countless, not me. I'm sure you must need something after your long, hot, dusty drive down to Nice and back."

For a moment soft blue eyes met steady brown ones.

Yes, this must be the same man—John Wilson, not Edward. There was no mistake. There could not be two men so kind and thoughtful, with the same firm, pleasant voices, the same strong, careful hands.

But why had he come back as a servant to his slave, this man she would call "master?"

THURSDAY, JUNE 19, 1924.

Eleven Weeks Head Start.

Attorney-General Nickle has given instructions that a warrant be issued for the arrest of Charles Matthews, former assistant treasurer of the Province of Ontario.

The speed with which the search for Matthews is being officially launched is remarkable considering the fact that he has been a wanted and necessary witness ever since the 28th of March.

The public were given to understand that the probe into irregularities at Toronto was going to be full and complete. There was to be prosecution where it was found necessary, and it was to be of such a thorough character that the confidence of the public would be restored in all branches of the provincial government.

The public had every reason to expect that there was going to be a thorough house-cleaning, and that the attorney-general and provincial police were going through to the extreme limit.

It is almost three months since Matthews became implicated. He was considered so important a witness that provincial police were sent to shadow him. This shadowing business was an impressive performance, particularly so when Mr. Matthews made his escape by walking in one door of a building and coming out of another.

And there the affair ended until it was announced, almost three months after, that a warrant had been issued for the arrest of Matthews, and circulars giving a description have been sent all over the continent.

The circular says that he "is likely to show nervous disposition when spoken to by an officer." Surely not. He knows by experience that all that is necessary is that he should walk in the front door and come out through the back and emerge a free man.

Were it not for the serious nature of the charge against Matthews, and the extent to which public confidence has been damaged by the incident, the action of the attorney-general in allowing a lapse of almost three months before issuing a warrant for Matthews' arrest would take its place as very good burlesque.

There is a very candid explanation due the public, and it should come from the attorney-general or the provincial police, preferably the former.

Deflection In the Progressive Party.

Events at Ottawa show that there is division in the Progressive party. It may not be considered a serious matter because only seven members are so far prominently identified with the movement, but it is sufficient to mark the lines and give the reasons for the deflection.

Six of the members who state they are not satisfied with the leadership of Robert Forke come from Alberta, the seventh being Agnes McPhail of Southeast Grey. There may be others who hold similar views, but they have not publicly declared themselves.

The complaint of the group of seven is that the Progressive movement must be kept free from all others—it must remain and function as a purely farm representation, and must be more drastic in its demands.

The Progressive party came into existence because the farming community resented the treatment accorded to it by the Borden government. It came back stronger than ever in the election of 1921. Its purpose at Ottawa was, and is, to look after the interests of the people who sent its members there. If they can serve this purpose best by independent action, and by staying aloof from other parties, they have a perfect right to pursue such a course. If, on the other hand, they find another party there that is serious in its plans to encourage agriculture and make it possible for it to regain its proper standing in the Dominion, then the Progressives find the way open to support that party, and by so doing serve the end for which they were sent to Ottawa.

The legislation introduced by the King government has reduced theory to action as far as the desires of the farming community are concerned. The government has done the things that the farming community of Canada wanted to see done. It has given definite leadership and brought in legislation that is certain to be should they seek to stand aloof as the representative. Faced with that situation, should the Progressives take an attitude of opposition—tatives of one vocation when dealing with a government that seeks to work for all the interests of Canada, the farming section included?

The deflection of seven members of the Progressive party, who seek to keep themselves free from contamination, is not particularly impressive. They can wander alone, as did Ishmael, but where will it lead them? The only way in which legislation can become effective is by a majority vote of the House, and having a few members in a group is not going to place that group in a position where the views of its members have much chance of finding their way to the enacted laws of the federal parliament.

The Position of Judge Warner.

Judge Warner's services as chief of the juvenile court in London have been made possible through the generosity of the members of Cronyn Memorial Church.

Judge Warner found that there were serious inroads made on his time by the court work that he could not properly attend to his church duties, and for that reason it was necessary that an assistant be secured at Cronyn Memorial Church.

The church assistant is being paid by the parishioners of Judge Warner's church, and it is a situation that ought not to exist.

The juvenile court in London works so quietly and with such little publicity that it was possible for this situation to exist and the people of the city know little or nothing about it.

But the city council has known of it for some time, and should take action quickly to put the matter right.

Judge Warner is not asking for a salary. He is prepared to make a very valuable contribution to the city by placing his services at the disposal of the juvenile court. But he does ask that his congregation be relieved of having to pay the cost of his assistant, made necessary by his attendance on juvenile court work.

It is a reasonable request, so reasonable that the wonder is that it was necessary for him to have to bring it to the attention of the city council.

It is in the interests of juvenile court work that his services should be retained. He has the peculiar qualifications for a very important position. The people of London appreciate the work he is doing, and they look to the city council to give voice to their appreciation by relieving the parishioners of Cronyn Memorial Church from the financial burden which they have carried without protest.

No Driving In Victoria Park.

The public utilities commission appealed to the police commission to allow driving in Victoria Park. The question was raised last year, and driving there was prohibited.

We do not agree with the request of the commissioners to permit driving in Victoria Park. It is a beautiful, quiet spot in the heart of the city. It is a wonderful place for people to go for a rest, for mothers to take their children and for the public to enjoy the very excellent floral cultivation carried on there.

It should be so kept, and the element of safety added by keeping out the cars. It is not working a hardship on motorists to ask them not to drive through Victoria Park.

Let it be kept as a quiet, beautiful spot where there is no danger from the driving of motor vehicles.

A Great Canadian Artist.

The art critics of the world have discovered a great artist by the exhibition of Canadian paintings at Wembley and other art galleries. Critics of such papers as the London Times have looked upon the water colors of Charles Collins, a British Columbia artist who paints mountains as he sees them in all their varying moods.

They have returned to look again and again, and their final pronouncement goes to such limits as mentioning the names of Turner and Whistler and Collings in the same sentence. That is high honor indeed to be paid to an artist from a land which at the opening of the exhibition was referred to as "austere."

What is the success of Collings' work? Apparently that he has decided to paint his native mountains as they are rather than to improve upon them. Living in these great high hills, watching them as they pierce the clouds or are in turn obliterated by them, seeing them in the gray mists of the morning, watching their snow-capped peaks defy the rays of the summer sun—the man's soul has breathed the air of mountains as they are. Armed with this vision he has placed it on canvas and sent it to the art critics of the world. They have looked at it, weighed the fact that it was the product of a Canadian artist rapping at the door of fame, and they have pronounced it good.

Few higher honors could be given to any painter than to have it said that he was worthy to rank with Turner or Whistler, world artists whose names will live as long as time permits the preservation of their treasured handiwork.

Buying Less and Selling More.

The total trade of Canada, as reflected in imports and exports, showed an increase for May, 1924, of $17,243,871 over May of 1923.

Canada imported less in May of this year than the same month last year, but she exported more.

Imports decreased $12,017,936—that is, Canada bought that much less abroad in May of 1924 than in May of 1923.

In the same month she increased her exports—her sales, or her income—by $29,236,161.

It may be only the showing of a single month, but it is a good one. It shows that business conditions are better, and that trade is on the way up.

CRIME AND YOUTH.

There is little doubt that a great part of crime is caused by youth.

Some minds never grow up.

There is a large portion of the crime of the country that is committed by the young. This is easily explained, as the characteristics of young-mindedness are adventure, recklessness and thoughtlessness, which are also the characteristics of the criminal mind.

No one can read the life story of the bobbed-haired bandit, as she gives it herself, nor any one of a dozen others, without seeing that crime is the natural result of a misstep or wronged youth.

The ultimate cure for crime, therefore, lies in our schoolhouses and in the proper environment that we throw about the young.

There is hardly a family that does not contain a black sheep, which is usually some member over-supplied with the "wild" success, and under-supplied with moral inhibitions.

The result may be easily foreseen. With the development of life there comes a development of the desires and less and less of the will power which is to keep them in control. The result is crime.

No one can wish to have all of the youth of any country prigs, to have the moral inhibitions so strengthened as to leave no avenue open to the spirit of adventure. But a certain balance is necessary, and the unbalanced mind rebels against the conventions and the restraints which society places upon all of us.

Obedience the law is in itself little different than obeying the conventions, keeping the rules of the game, and those who succeed in the long run are those who can operate "within the law." To step outside of these conventions is to bring upon us the wrath of that community in which we live. It behooves everyone of us to be, to a certain degree, mob-minded.

Just what that degree may be is for the youth himself to determine.

There never has been any method for keeping youth in check nor any other criterion than the youth himself.

Every moral problem is, in the end, a problem of eugenics, of getting babies well born, and equipping them sufficiently to live in that community where they are destined.

Disturbin' the Peace

Just when the world was settlin' down to have a spell of rest and quiet, the folks in Mexico have gone and started on a brand new riot.

The man the British had down there, why Oregon he likes him not, but still he doesn't care to go and have him crated up and shot.

So Mr. Oregon he goes and sez unto the delegate, "You better get your things packed up and flee from out the garden gate."

But Mr. Cummins he says nit, "I'll stay just up here. I'm sittin' now, and if you shoot a hole in me you'll be in for one handsome row."

So Mr. Oregon he goes and locks this man up in a coop, he feeds him on dried cactus leaves and one small dish of native soup.

So there's one rumrump away down there for some one to pour oil upon, this Cummins shakin' up his fist defyin' Mr. Oregon.

And then the Yankees and the Japs is writin' notes across the sea, a-tryin' for to word the things as notes between two powers should be.

'Tis all because two months ago the Yanks they got a great big slab, they got ten pots of yellow paint and started forthwith in to dab, and write big signs to stick about on posts in every port they own, that hereafter Japs what's comin' in will have to turn and go back home.

Of course the Japs they liked it not, they write a note to Uncle Sam, a-tellin' him they'd lay for him, they were het up, yes to a man.

So there's another rumrump there for some good soul to straighten out, before the gunboats of these lands decide to stage a shootin' bout.

There's always some one risin' up when we think things is runnin' smooth, they're sure to rock the boat a spell and shove the throttle from its groove.

Let's pen a line unto the day when folks walk justly, thus and thus, without a soul to heave a brick and start in growin' some new fuss—ARK.

The Postal Trouble

(From the Brantford Expositor.)

In a matter of this kind, if there is reasonable ground to believe that the civil service commission has not been sufficiently generous in its adjustment of recognized grievances, the government would be fully justified in bringing the matter before parliament.

The civil service commission was appointed to maintain the integrity and independence of the civil servants of Canada, but it was not intended that it should be unchangeable in its attitude, arbitrary in its methods, or defiant of public opinion.

If its attitude projects a strike in the postal service, and disorganizes the business of Canada, it will bring the issue of the commission to a crisis.

The public opinion of Canada demands a fair hearing of the grievances of the postal employees, and anything that will not stand the test of this tribunal will have to be set right. It is just as well for all parties concerned to recognize this at the beginning of the struggle.

Encourage Your Employees To Cycle To Work

IT will pay you to encourage your employees to ride bicycles.

A smooth, brisk ride to work in the fresh air is much more healthful than hanging on to a strap in a packed street car.

The cyclist makes better time. He has no long waits on street corners. He is not held up by vexatious delays. His bicycle brings him on time—smilingly fit for work. The car fare he saves will pay for his bicycle.

There are more people riding bicycles today than for many years.

If there are not a large number of bicycle riders among your employees it is probably due to lack of proper and convenient parking accommodation.

Many, many more employees would cycle to work, but for one drawback—the lack of suitable, convenient shelters in which to park their bicycles.

It is very discouraging to have to leave wheels in odd corners, or piled in a heap somewhere in the yard, where they get scratched up, covered with dust and soaked with rain.

You have a place to park your car. Why not provide your employees with a handy parking station for their bicycles and encourage them to cycle to work?

It takes comparatively little space or expense. A neat bicycle shed and racks to accommodate from 50 to 200 bicycles can be erected in a small space for very little money, or wall hangers can be installed in an unused portion of a building for a trifling outlay.

The nearest C.C.M. dealer or any carpenter will be pleased to give you a rough estimate of the cost of a bicycle shelter—or we will be glad to have you write us. We can furnish specifications of a standard size shelter that can easily be altered or enlarged to any size desired.

PUTS HEALTH AND VIM INTO WOMEN

So Says Mrs. MacPherson of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Brantford, Ont.,—“I was always tired and the least exertion would put me out for a day or two. I had a pressing pain on the top of my head, pain in the nape of my neck, and when I stooped over I could not get up without help, because of pain in my back. I did not sleep well and was nervous at the least noise. I keep house, but I was such a wreck that I could not sweep the floor nor wash the dishes without lying down afterwards. A friend living near me told me what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for her so I began to take it. With the first bottle I felt brighter and got so I could wash dishes and sweep without having to lie down. Later I became regular again in my monthly terms. I have taken ten bottles all told and am now all better. I can truly say that your wonderful medicine cannot be beaten for putting health and vim into a woman.”

ACID STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Sufferers From Indigestion or Stomach Trouble. CUT THIS OUT.

“Stomach trouble, dyspepsia, indigestion, sourness, gas, heartburn, food fermentation, etc., are caused nine times in ten by chronic acid stomach,” says a well-known authority.

Burning hydrochloric acid develops in the stomach at an alarming rate. The acid irritates and inflames the delicate stomach lining and often leads to gastritis accompanied by dangerous stomach ulcers. Don't dose an acid stomach with pepsin or artificial digestants that only give temporary relief from pain by driving the sour, fermenting food out of the stomach into the intestines.

Instead, neutralize or sweeten your acid stomach after meals with a little hot water and Bismarck Magnesia and not only will the pain vanish but your meals will digest naturally. There is nothing better than Bismarck Magnesia to sweeten and settle an acid stomach. It soaks up the harmful excess acid much as a sponge or blotting paper might and your stomach acts and feels fine in just a few minutes. Bismarck Magnesia can be obtained from any reliable druggist in either powder or tablet form. It is safe, reliable, easy and pleasant to use, is not a laxative and is not at all expensive.—ADVT.

DEFEAT OF RESOLUTION KILLS PREFERENCE PLAN

Two-Day Debate Is Closed in British Commons On Report of Conference.

PARTY LINES DOWN

Former Premier Baldwin Speaks in Favor of Preference Within Empire.

Associated Press Despatch.
London, June 18.—Following a two days' debate on the question of adopting the preference resolutions endorsed by the empire economic conference last October, the House of Commons tonight took a vote on the first four conference resolutions relating to preferences in the British markets on dried fruits, tobacco, wine and sugar, and defeated all four by a narrow majority.

Leader Baldwin of the Conservative party, who has championed the resolutions, agreed that no purpose could be served by voting on the remainder of the conference program. The vote was 278 to 272.

There was no party lineup of any kind in the vote, the premier having previously announced that the government accepted no responsibility for the resolutions, but submitted them to the free vote of the House.

An analysis of the Commons division list shows that five Labor members voted for the resolutions and against the government's policy, namely: Haden Guest, Major Church, Frank Rose, James Sexton and Richard Wallhead. Fifteen Liberals also voted with the Conservatives for the resolutions, including General Seely and two members of the former Lloyd George cabinet, Sir Edward Grey and Sir William Sutherland. Many Labor members were absent. Lloyd George was paired in favor of all four resolutions.

Former Premier Stanley Baldwin, who opened the debate tonight, spoke nearly an hour, but hardly obtained a firm grip on the attention of the House. His initial argument was that the present state of Europe rendered it imperative for Great Britain to seek extended trade with the Dominions, which could be effected by the existing system almost imperceptibly.

Mr. Baldwin made only a passing reference to Canada, declaring “We have gained far more from what she has given us than she has gained by anything we have done for her.”

Mr. Baldwin's speech throughout seemed hampered by the conviction that the vote later in the evening would be hostile to his resolution to adopt the conference program.

FOUR CHICAGO MAIL BANDITS ARRESTED

Apprehension of Other Quartet Has Been Ordered by Police.

Associated Press Despatch.
Chicago, June 18.—Four bandits, who held up the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul mail train last Thursday night, north of Chicago, and robbed the mails of $2,075,000, are under arrest, and four others have been ordered apprehended.

The loot consisted of $2,000,000 in securities and $75,000 in currency, they announced.

The men under arrest are Willis, Joe (or Johnny) and Willie Newton, the latter wounded by fellow bandits by mistake, and hitherto known under the name of J. H. Wayne, and Carlo Fontano of Chicago. The brothers are said to be East St. Louis men.

Confessions have been obtained from several of the men under arrest, the police say.

The board will sit about July 15.

Pain May Be Eliminated From Dentists' Offices

Canadian Press Despatch.
Ottawa, June 18.—The fact that within four months after the discovery of anaesthesia, Canadian chemists were providing anaesthetics for the use of the medical profession, was referred to by Dr. W. L. Muir of Halifax, in the course of his presidential address at the fourth annual meeting of the Canadian Society of Anaesthetists here today.

Dr. Muir deplored the fact that since then, Canadian-made anaesthetics were almost impossible to obtain. Unfortunately, he said, other supplies from the United States and abroad were not of uniform purity and he pleaded for joint action on the part of the federal department of health and the society in a survey of the purity of anaesthetics for public protection in the marketing of such vital drugs and for the manufacture of purified anaesthetics by Canadian chemists.

Dr. S. H. McCaughey, Ottawa, reported that the pain in the smaller dental operations was no longer necessary, and that patients could be relieved of all dread of the dental chair by doing this work under nitrous-oxide-oxygen anaesthesia, a condition in which the patient remained conscious and could co-operate with the dentist, but was entirely free from any sensation of pain.

Blaind, who in June of 1922 rescued little Walton High from certain death beneath the wheels of a locomotive.

The presentation was made on the courthouse lawn in the presence of the school children by Mr. Robb, who eloquently paid tribute to the bravery of Miss Blaind.

St. Thomas, June 18.—In an unpretentious confectionery shop in East Talbot street, of which B. Sumner is proprietor, is found one of the most complete collections of curios to be found outside of the museum at Toronto. So many are the souvenirs that although tacked on all the walls, quartered in large glass cases and shelved in cupboards, accommodation is still lacking and hundreds have been stored in boxes and drawers away from the observing eye.

The first item of interest on entering the store is several large harbor scenes, while at the bottom of the picture is a shelf of water and with wooden models of sailing vessels intact. Three large models of full-rigged and schooner-rigged merchant vessels are on the shelves behind the counter. These ships belong to the fleet of the early freight boats, which carried their own guns as protection against the pirates. The vessels are complete, with sailors aloft in the rigging. A perfect model of one of the North Sea fishing fleet occupies a less important place. These models were built by Mr. Sumner himself and measure about four feet long.

Three glass cases attract attention. The first contains Indian relics, the chiefs club with decorative heads, stone tomahawks, Indian clubs, pipes of peace, which give indications of being much used, hundreds of arrow heads from all parts of North America. The second contains Indian wampums, head-dresses of the warriors, one decorated with fiery red feathers said to come from a bird which has one feather of its kind only. The third case has a leopard's tail from Embu country in South America; the leopard was feared in its native district as a man-killer, and its death had been sought many times, its last victim being a small boy of the village. From South America also comes the many decorative mud-dresses of the Indians, a Shavakoo Indian necklace made of beads and teeth and brought to this country by Dr. Crawford.

War Souvenirs.

There are several cases of war souvenirs, some of the late war and one of the Boer war. In the case containing the Boer war trophies is a tag with this inscription on it: “Show the stuff that is in you. Join today.”

In a miscellaneous case is found a number of buttons from the royal robes of Charles II., a bear's claw, snake's rattle, an old-fashioned turkey used in the days of the pulling team, which in these days would seem to belong to the chamber of horrors; a piece of Jumbo's ear, and many minute baskets made of hair.

From the Victorian times come the many highly ornamental snuff-boxes, also a cut glass cardholder, some mounted on silver base. A memento more or less new to Mr. Sumner's personal life is a piece of walnut taken from the seat of the lifeboat of the ill-fated Bessemer. A relative of Mr. Sumner met his death the same night in the boat. One of the most beautiful collections of agates is to be found in the shop, the stones being very highly grained and colored. Some petrified wood is on exhibit from Arizona. Colorado also many tomponies and opals, as well as other wonderful stones.

Hanging on the wall, along with some hundred varieties of guns, is a shield and sword, and exact reproduction of the harness used by the knights “when chivalry was in flower.” The rifles include old time sporting guns, flint locks, Martini-Henry, and others, up to the modern implements. Many of the guns are exceptionally long, with a large bore. The powder horns are hung profusely from the cases. Over 200 different kinds of pistols are shown—the large duelling pistols, army pistols, pepper-box pistols, knuckleduster pistols, and several of the old brass ones used in the days of the stage coach.

One of the most interesting souvenirs, and one which Mr. Sumner prizes most highly, is a picture of a coast scene, with two brigades spanning gulleys lined with trees. At the top of the scene is a castle with sentinels posted on the turrets. The whole picture is made from cinders collected from the disastrous fire in Chicago in 1870. The coloring is exquisite, even to the colored jackets of the sentinels on duty and the trees and sky. Pieces of clay pipes can be distinguished in the picture amongst the material which constructs the sketch.

An interesting collection is exhibited from China, consisting of a flea catcher, violin, chop sticks, sun dial, peanut oil lamp, beaded shoes, and quaint padlock.

There are bayonets from all parts of the world, Japanese swords, made from the finest steel, and from the mental stocks, a long silver knife from Persia, Turkish scimitars, knives from all countries, a saw bayonet, a Cruz-Bollo bayonet, issued to the American troops at the time of the Boxer rebellion, and many others.

Old Sun Dial.

A unique relic is a Scottish sun dial, dating back to 1705, bearing the inscription “Ye Tyme Is Swift.” Many candle lanterns, sticks, molds for making candles, grease lamps, scales, an old-fashioned clock, built in a castle effect, tin lantern, with holes punched from the inside to give out the light. A South African club of a chief, Eskimo walrus spear and bone club, a battered bugle from the Philippine war, the bill of a saw-fish, gruesome in its appearance, the Indian rajah club, beautifully inlaid with silver between the long pointed spikes, the frogrot, or head axe of the Philippines, two war clubs from New Zealand, a sword made of shark's teeth and used by the South Sea Islanders, and a large number of bows and arrows.

From Borneo comes a handsome bow, a quiver of poisoned arrows, which, even at this time, would be deadly, which are protected through a metal blow pipe, also a poisoned knife, carried by the South African women in their hair. Mr. Sumner has hundreds of interesting articles stored away out of sight through lack of exhibiting room. He informed The Advertiser that he has many visitors from England and the States who have inspected his collection.

Remember! Some Cities Use Daylight Saving!

Some cities are using Daylight Saving Time.

In calling Toronto by Long Distance, you are likely to find, if you call around 12 o'clock noon, that your friend has gone to lunch. It is 1 o'clock with him. When he returns at 2 (by his own watch) and learns that London has been calling, he will possibly try to reach you at once!

But it will be only one o'clock here and quite likely YOU are then at lunch.

Thus, at least two hours are often lost from the short business day.

The same difficulty is often encountered toward the close of the day.

We suggest that in making appointments for Long Distance calls you keep in mind the variations in time used.

Tecumsehs Shut Out Rapids 1-0 In First But Weaken To Lose Second 7-2

Local Club Completes Stay At Home With Flint Series

Tecumseh Rejuvenated Devoremen in First, But Lose Second.

HAINES IS VICTIM

Defeated, Although Permitting Only Five Hits by Indians.

The Londoners will complete their stay at home with a series against the league leading Tecumsehs, starting tonight. The Londoners look for a close game, as a flying start in preparation for the task, when they blanked Josh Devore's rejuvenated team in the first game of yesterday's double-header, but when the Tecumsehs blew fields off the mound in the first inning of the abbreviated contest, under a short shower of four hits, the writing was already on the score-board. It was a 7-2 after the home owners had lacerated Pete Harris' offerings for two successive triples in the fifth, and made way for young Indians' right-handed debut on the local lot.

Tuesday, young Englishman, pitching a three-hit game, lost to Grand Rapids, but yesterday Hinkley Haines, former Londoner, was the victim of only a slightly less reversal of the fate which overtook the local rookie, as he allowed but five hits in his team's first game, making nine of the delivery of Delman. Despite the figures, Delman was not outplayed, four hits in the duo the pair staged, as far as scoring chances between the two were concerned, for Haines issued four walks.

Both Hurlers Good.

Both pitchers worked in superb form. Delman had wonderful control after he got his arm loosened up, and while Haines was a little off there he had a sharper break to his throwing than walks and an error that lost Haines his game. With the bases full in the sixth, Delman won his own game with a chopped hit toward third, which batted Naleway scoring. With the bases still loaded, Lee Walsh, left-handed, around first was right in the correct spot for Baker's smashing liner to stick in right field, Haines' sacrifice bunt, steps to the bag for a double play unassisted, this making twice he has concluded such a performance. Haines pitched during the series.

In four innings with men on bases, Haines retired Londoners for the second time on slow rollers. Delman, in four innings, supported himself with a few hits, but on two occasions dazzling plays saved him. In the second, Gehring made a one-hand leap, and in the third, Haines' sacrifice bunt, steps to the bag for a double play unassisted, this making twice he has concluded such a performance. Haines pitched during the series.

Threat Cut Short. No less a person than Josh Devore himself stepped into the affray in the ninth, and the ex-Giant dropped a single into right, Haines' sacrifice bunt, steps to the bag for a double play unassisted, this making twice he has concluded such a performance. Haines pitched during the series.

In the second, Harris hit Baldy, and Brown lashed a single through Sandquist. Payne, after a long time, hit the job on the sacks, but his hit into the outfield was pared down to a double, and only a walk by Sandquist followed first on an easy bounce, followed by an action against the Tecumsehs, and before the echoes had died away, Kopschaw repeated with another to the same spot, and over the fence, Haines on his way to rub fields down from Bay City. The young right-hander struck out Mohnhey as a start. He walked Baldy, and on the third, an attempted double play, Kopschaw was nipped out at the plate.

Only Four Hits.

Brown doubled past third, and Payne's single made the big run the big out. Mohnhey allowed the locals but four scattered hits, but walked several, and had two errors behind him that offered opportunities to the Londoners, and a handicap for him. In the third, he walked Baker and Gehring in succession, with one error, and walked himself out, but essaying the identical stunt in the fifth, was nipped for a run, Sandquist doubled, scoring the second, and Haines had been killed off at third on a choice. In the seventh, Baker started off a rally in the face of the Tecumsehs, and scored on the second of three infield outs, with which Mohnhey retired the Londoners.

Local Fans See Golf Home Runs

Ken Marsh by driving five golf balls soaring over the Tecumseh Park fence yesterday afternoon in the intermission between the double-header baseball game, gave baseball fans an opportunity of seeing golf driving in perfect execution and at its easiest and hardest. Without taking even the trouble to make a tee he drove the first three in an arc from left field to center, and then his last two were aimed at the turreted jail and appeared to be well on their way there, as the crowd last glimpsed the little white balls against the green background on the other side of the river.

The fans appreciated the exhibition, and for once golf and baseball were brought into direct contact and contrast. Mr. Marsh was importuned to give the exhibition as a result of the discussion which arose over Chief Nason's homers over the left field wall.

Chief Nason's longest hit registered 462 feet. Babe Ruth's longest recorded swat is 450 feet.

DUSTY, HAPPY, TOURING, LISTOWELITES VISIT CITY

Jolly Visitors Entertained
Royally by Civic Officials
At Springbank.

ANNUAL OUTING

Party, Two Hundred and Forty-Seven Strong, Arrives At Noon.

The town of Listowel probably received more advertising yesterday than for many months past. The name of Listowel and the Listowel Chamber of Commerce cut a lustrous pathway over county roads of Perth, Huron and Middlesex counties. Officials in Brussels, Hensall, Seaford, Exeter, Lucan and London welcomed 247 members of the Listowel Chamber of Commerce, who were on their annual motor outing. The one-day tour was a great success to the Listowelites. It was a social event, an advertising venture and an educational scheme all crowded into one big day.

Leaving Listowel early in the day the commerce chamber members were driven in 57 automobiles to the first stop, Brussels, from there to Hensall and then to Seaford. Leaving Seaford they made good time to Exeter and Lucan, and the party came on to London, where the longest visit of any during the day was made. London was the scene of a public meeting, and the visitors were entertained at luncheon at Springbank Park by the chamber of commerce and the city. After leaving London, about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the Perth county enthusiasts left for St. Marys and Stratford before returning to their homes.

Arrive At Noon.

Dusty, happy and noisy, the visitors arrived in London during the noon hour. They were met at the city limits by Mayor George Wenke and T. W. McFarland, public utilities commissioner and vice-president of the chamber of commerce, as well as Assistant Secretary Penny of the chamber of commerce. They were escorted by way of Tabbot street through the heart of the city and out to Springbank Park, where a luncheon was provided. This was the tribute of the city and the chamber of commerce to the visitors, and it was greatly enjoyed.

There was no formality to this part of the program, except for sev-

For 15 Years Was Troubled With Eczema

There is no other remedy like Burdock Blood Bitters that can possibly give such relief to all sufferers from eczema, salt rheum and all other diseases of the blood for the reason that this old and well tried remedy goes right to the seat of the trouble and completely and permanently drives these diseases out of the system by cleansing the blood and making it pure and rich.

Mr. F. W. H. Schultz, Pembroke, Ont., writes: "Having been troubled with eczema for fifteen years, during which time I tried everything I could think of, including doctors, but without getting anything to do me much good, I finally decided to take Burdock Blood Bitters, and I was certainly surprised to find that two weeks after I had started to take it I was relieved of my trouble. That was nine months ago, and I have not had a sign of it since. I surely wish to thank you for this wonderful medicine and strongly recommend it to anyone suffering from the same trouble as I had."

INVADE EXETER.

Special to The Advertiser.
Exeter, June 18.—The Listowel Board of Trade, some 250 strong, invaded Exeter this forenoon and were extended an official welcome by Reeve Saunders. There was a large turnout of local citizens to join in the welcome. Several of the visitors spoke briefly during the half hour the party was in town. Several selections were rendered by the Listowel band. The party toured in about 50 autos and enjoyed a sight-seeing trip around town.

HALF-HOUR IN LUCAN.

Special to The Advertiser.
Lucan, June 18.—The Listowel Chamber of Commerce, 247 strong, headed by President M. R. Hay, waited here for 30 minutes on their way to London. The 52 cars carrying the party were drawn up on Main street, where a welcome was tendered to the visitors by the rev. A. G. A. St. Marys, representing Lucan. The assembled throng of visitors and villagers were entertained with a few selections by the Listowel 20-piece brass band.

THEN ST. MARYS.

Special to The Advertiser.
St. Marys, June 18.—The Listowel Chamber of Commerce annual hike passed through here today about 5:30, one hour and fifteen minutes, composed of 57 cars and over 250 people. After two splendid selections by the Listowel Citizens' Band on the market square, Mayor C. E. Richardson of St. Marys extended an official welcome. Ex-Mayor Watson of Listowel replied, outlining the advantages of Listowel in point of good roads, education, factory sites, etc.

President Hay headed the visiting chamber of commerce. The visitors were treated to St. Marys-made ice cream by the local council, leaving for Stratford about 6 o'clock.

ATWOOD.

Special to The Advertiser.
Atwood, June 18.—Listowel Board of Trade members reached here about 10 o'clock tonight and were extended a warm welcome. George Lochhead spoke on behalf of Atwood and President Hay replied for the visitors. Band music and community singing featured the gathering on the public square, which was attended by a large number of local citizens.

STRATFORD.

Special to The Advertiser.
Stratford, June 18.—Some 250 motorists, representing the Listowel Chamber of Commerce, arrived in the city about 7 o'clock tonight on their return hike from London. They were given a royal welcome and provided with a fine repast at Knox Church by the Ladies' Aid Society. A. W. Fisher, president of the chamber of commerce, welcomed the guests. He mentioned that the road between Stratford and Listowel was very bad, and recommended that the chambers of commerce have a conference about the betterment of the thoroughfare. Dr. E. Ellis of Listowel accepted the welcome. He felt that the people did not know their neighbors well enough, and that such a meeting would do much to foster a more neighborly spirit. President Hay of Listowel thanked the ladies for their fine repast. The Listowel Town Band played. The trip as far as Stratford was attended by only three minor mishaps, caused by too sudden stopping in the line.

TRAVELLERS ASK HOME BANK AID

Toronto Association Petitions
Government To Reimburse Depositors.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Ottawa, June 18.—Another petition for the reimbursement of Home Bank depositors came to the Commons' banking and commerce committee this morning. It came from the Commercial Travellers' Association at Toronto. Chairman Vien stated that he had added the names of A. F. Healy of Essex and H. E. Spencer of Battle River, to the sub-committee on the McKewen report on the Home Bank. This sub-committee held a private sitting this morning and "reporter progress."

W. F. McLean (Conservative, South York) gave notice that he would move for calling a representative of the Ontario government savings bank to appear before the committee. The committee then took up the proposals of Hon. J. A. Robb, acting minister of finance, for government inspection of banks. The minister's original proposal provided that the inspectors general should have had "training and experience in the business of banking."

DIES OF INJURIES.

Canadian Press Despatch.
St. Catharines, June 18.—Franklin Preitz, aged 10, of Vineland, died in the Welland Hospital during the night from injuries received at Ball's Falls Sunday when a large stone dropped upon his head from a height of some 20 feet. The skull was trepanned, but the boy was unable to rally. An inquest will be held.

ALLEGES BANKERS SPENT $1,000,000

H. H. Higginbotham Declares
Body Opposing Measures
To Protect Depositors.

PRODUCES AGENDA

The charge that the Canadian Bankers' Association expended nearly $1,000,000 for legal aid at Ottawa to prevent the amendment in the manner that would afford depositors needed protection in the revision of the bank act in 1923, was the sensational feature of an address delivered at the meeting of Home Bank depositors at the local Moose hall last night by H. H. Higginbotham of Calgary, member of the central executive of the Home Bank depositors.

The outstanding feature of the speech was his production of what he claimed is the official private agenda of a meeting of the Canadian Bankers' Association held July 9, 1923. He stated that the authenticity of the agenda was verified by men present at the session as members. It showed, he alleged, that Sir Thomas White, minister of finance, for legal services on behalf of the bank association during the revision of 1923 had been paid $20,000, plus an additional $500 for legal fee and $500 for his disbursements.

Other expenditures provided for at the meeting, according to Mr. Higginbotham's document, were: $20,835 to Amie Geoffrion, K.C., Montreal; $21,170 to H. J. Symington, K.C., of Winnipeg, and $9,550 to other unnamed legal counsel in Ottawa.

Authorship Unknown.

There was also an item of $7,841, covering the cost of printing and distributing a 58-page pamphlet, entitled "Banks and Bankers," which was sent to all M.P.s.

Its authorship, said Mr. Higginbotham, was never known, but the agenda shows that Sir Thomas White, for its preparation, was voted an honorarium of $10,000, at the meeting on July 9. These items, totaling $55,140, were all expended in connection with the 1923 revision of the bank act, he said.

He stated that the agenda indicated that the bankers' association had paid the act of the Ontario Legislature of 1923, covering the assignment of the book debts. For its preparation, Wallace Nesbitt, K.C., was shown as receiving $500; Ogier, Hankin and Harcourt, $1,000; he asserted.

Mr. Higginbotham charged that at least two members of the banking committee of the House of Commons, namely Messrs. Herbert Marler of Montreal and R. B. Hanson of New Brunswick, were very active at every sitting of the committee on behalf of the banks, and that they were in constant consultation at Ottawa with the representatives of the bankers' association.

He charged the bankers' association with spending lavishly from the funds of the quasi public institutions to defeat a proper expression of the people's will through their elective representatives, who were expected by their constituents to secure adequate amendments to the bank act for the protection of depositors.

He announced that the private agenda from which he read contained an explanatory note to the effect that "after the revision of 1923 an assessment was made on all banks to meet expenses in connection with the revision on the basis of relative assets."

Mr. Higginbotham alleged further that the Canadian Bankers' Association is at present employing highly-paid lawyers at Ottawa to bring every influence to bear against the admission of amendments to the bank act to protect depositors. He stated that Secretary Ross of the association had admitted that the association had engaged Col. Thompson of Ottawa, Amie Geoffrion, K.C., of Montreal, and Messrs. Daly and Laurier of Ottawa. He added that there were also many others.

TORONTO POSTIES WILL NOT MEET NEW OFFER

Government's Latest Wage Readjustment Plan Has No Effect On Strike.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, June 18.—Toronto postal employees will not consider the Dominion government's new offer to re-adjust the pay schedules. It was announced late tonight by Frank S. K., executive member of the postal mail clerks, and Albert Hull, president of the lettercarriers, who had been deputized to act as mouthpieces for the strikers. They said that there would be a general postal strike throughout Canada tomorrow.

Thieves Visited Doctor's Office

Special to The Advertiser.
Chatham, June 18.—City police are seeking thieves, who, during the night, raided the office of Dr. Fred W. Hall, and are believed to have stolen a quantity of drugs. The dispensary was ransacked. In an effort to determine what drugs are missing an inventory is being made.

FOUR ARE INJURED AS GAS EXPLODES

Short Circuit in Electric Manhole Causes Panic At Toronto.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, June 18.—Short circuit of wires in a Toronto hydro-electric manhole at Yonge and Richmond streets this afternoon caused an explosion of accumulated gas that lifted a manhole cover 60 feet in the air and injured four persons.

Four big windows in a nearby hat store were shattered, and a young lady clerk inside was thrown from her chair. Customers rushed out through a shower of glass.

The streets were crowded with motor cars and pedestrians at the time, and a momentary panic prevailed in the vicinity, as the cause, for the moment, was not known, and the possibility of a repetition was feared.

Mrs. Viola Lenville, aged 38, was taken to St. Michael's Hospital with painful burns about the limbs and feet. She was taken home later. W. J. McLaren, aged 25, was cut about the hand as he was passing along the street. He too went to the hospital, but went home after receiving medical attention. William A. Faure and Archibald Johnston were burned about the hands, and their clothing was slightly burned. The damage is estimated at $1,500.

VASE AND CHAIR PRESENTED.

Special to The Advertiser.
St. Marys, June 18.—Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Sgariglia, nee Miss Florence Switzer, were agreeably surprised on Friday evening, when about thirty of their St. Marys friends presented Mrs. Sgariglia with a cut glass vase filled with a beautiful bouquet of flowers, and Mr. Sgariglia with an upholstered wicker rocking chair.

WANT AD TIPS

Your Biggest Talking Point

In the language of salesmen, a "talking point" is an argument for an offered article which carries great weight with the public. Accordingly, the salesman uses it over and over when selling customers. A "talking point" in a Want Ad is much the same. It is an argument of sure appeal to possible buyers. With it sales are made with the least difficulty.

Writing a Want Ad, it is a good plan for you to go still farther—mentally decide what is your biggest "talking point." Feature it in the head-line, or in the first words of your message.

Price "talking points" help sell countless things for Want Ad users every day. Among these is the bargain price, including the reason why the advertiser offers such ("forced sale," "special offer," "walk upstairs, and save the difference," etc.) Easy terms are a price "talking point." So also is the possibility of the thing offered—real estate, for example—increasing in value, as there is the suggestion therein that the present price represents an unusually good buy.

Service and quality "talking points" are powerful, too. Some of these are unusual quality, unusual range of selection, quick delivery, the number of an advertiser's satisfied customers, some special point of superiority—as a view, in the case of a home; the handsome lines of a purebred dog—a money-back guarantee, a free trial.

What it is, connected with your thing or service, which will most quickly bring inquiries—that is your biggest "talking point." Decide what this is. Then feature it in your Want Ad.

ROTARIANS DELAY
EXPANSION MOVE

Hesitate To Permit More
Than One Club To
a City.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, June 18.—The International
Rotary Convention in session here debated today the question of permitting the smaller cities to have more than one Rotary Club, but after a lengthy discussion the issue was left
for the future to decide. Already
there is a clause in the constitution
which states that cities with a population of a million or over may establish two clubs within their limits
with proper provision made to prevent overlapping.

Lamb, of the State of Washington,
who strongly urged the change. If Rotary was to expand along its natural lines and exercise the influence that was expected of it,
"We have a unique club with
people knocking at our doors to get
in," he declared, "so why should we
step down to that stage where we
would no longer be unique."

Speaking on the duties of presidents of clubs, Frederick E. Matson,
of Indianapolis, advised local clubs
to form another Rotary Club in Chicago. "We have a unique club with
people knocking at our doors to get
in," he declared, "so why should we
step down to that stage where we
would no longer be unique."

One of the leading opponents of the change was Charles Newton, of Chicago, who declared that, owing to
the multiplication of clubs, two other
organizations have lost the prestige
that they once enjoyed in that city.
It would, he declared, be a calamity
to form another Rotary Club in Chicago. "We have a unique club with
people knocking at our doors to get
in," he declared, "so why should we
step down to that stage where we
would no longer be unique."

The most practical of khaki
middies, or the flimsiest of voile
frocks; undergarments that are
cool and comfortable and
sturdily built; and for dresses
and rompers there are wash fabrics of pretty patterns and fade-
less colors.

For their more frivolous
moments there are all kinds of
out-of-door toys—sand pails and
shovels, bats and balls, scooters
and garden sets, for

"The time has come," the gardener said,
"To talk of garden things!"

AT WRANGEL ISLE SALE

British Claim Rests Upon Occupation of Allan
Crawford.

By HENRY SOMERVILLE.
Special Cable to The London Advertiser
by a Staff Correspondent. Copyright.

LONDON, June 18.—The report that Vilhjalmur Stefansson has sold his interests in Wrangel Island to an American citizen who will finance an expedition to that district this summer, has aroused no interest in England. The sovereignty is not affected,
as the British claim rests upon the fact of the occupation by Allan
Crawford.

An American citizen can, of course,
hold private property rights in the British island. There is not the smallest likelihood that the United States will make a Canadian claim to Wrangel, as Stefansson himself repeatedly pointed out that the States
have no use for the island.

The claim has been made by Russia, but it is not being talked about
because both Moscow and Downing Street have more pressing business
and cannot justify their demands.

1924, to June 14, have been $103,395,-
611, being a decrease of $937,667.30,

SMUTS IS CHEERFUL,
ALTHOUGH BEATEN

Cape Town, S.A. June 18.—Premier
Smuts, in a message today thanking
his campaign committee after the returns showed his defeat in Pretoria
West, says: "Be of good cheer. From
the wider viewpoints which shape
the national policy our failure may yet prove a blessing in disguise. My faith in the future remains as strong
as ever, although the immediate out-
look before the country is gloomy
enough. In that faith we hold on unflinchingly."

EIGHT MEMBERS
DESERT R. FORKE

Dissatisfied Progressives Bolt
Party Ranks in Protest Against Policy.

THREE FROM ONTARIO

By a Staff Reporter.

Ottawa, June 18.—Parliament has now a real occupational group in the Commons. It consists of eight members in the persons of Messrs. Garland, Cote, Gardner, Spencer and Kennedy, all from Ontario, and Messrs.
MacPhail, all from Ontario.

These members were elected as Progressives, but have now broken
from the leadership of Robert Forke
and have laid down the principle that the best sort of co-operation is for persons of like opinion to work together. They are of the opinion that too many of the ideals of the Progressive party are being sacrificed to the desire to help the government along, and are apparently of the opinion that the entire Progressive platform should be placed on the books immediately. They have sent a letter to Mr. Forke setting forth their views, which letter was discussed in a caucus, at which it was not present. A subcommittee of caucus was appointed to draft a reply, which will be forthcoming at the earliest possible date.

Generally speaking the defection
has created relief rather than dismay among the moderate members of the party left under Mr. Forke's responsible leadership. From the government standpoint it is felt that the absence from the Progressive ranks of the radical elements contained in the new party will hasten the day when Liberals and Progressives will be united in reality.

masters was held.

Tonight the officers of the Grand Lodge, representing the various districts, were tendered a fraternal reception by local officers and members and a civic welcome by Mayor William Stephens in person.

The Rebekah assembly in convention at the city hall nominated officers for 1925-26 as follows: President,

ham; wardens, Mrs. Pickel of Leamington, Mrs. Booth of Toronto, Mrs.

Niagara Falls, Mrs. Scratch of Kingsville, Mrs. Mylison of Kingston, Mrs.
Hilden of Toronto, Miss Stewart of

of Lindsay, Mrs. Naylor of Toronto, Miss Payden of Ottawa, Mrs. Thomas
of Goderich, Miss Sidore of Toronto,
Mrs. Feildorf of Blenheim, Miss Way
of Toronto, Mrs. Jeanne of Cobalt.

The report of the auditors shows a balance on hand of $10,900.93.

The patriarchs militant held a canton drill competition at Exhibition Park in the afternoon, prior to which the cantons and members of the order, headed by a band, paraded the main streets of the city.

Canton No. 7, Toronto, under command of Captain D. T. Gibbs, was awarded the first prize of $100, second prize going to a canton from Windsor under Captain W. N. Clements, grand patriarch. The judges were:
Lieut.-Col. T. G. Anderson, Hamilton;
Captain W. S. Cosby, London, and Major W. H. Jones, Toronto.

Tonight the decoration of Chivalry
for ladies was conferred by departmental commanders of Ontario, with Canton Hamilton, No. 4, acting as ceremonial host. The award was followed by a grand march and grand ball at the armories.

MILBURN'S

Heart and Nerve Pills

Miss Bertha Charette, Regina,

trouble lately, with what I thought was heart trouble, and after an unusual exertion I always felt sick.
My doctor advised a complete rest and change, but this I was unable to take.

I became interested in Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, so started taking them. I have now taken three boxes and am so much improved I can go about my daily work without feeling any after ill effects, and have not had any weak or dizzy spells for some time. Your medicine has done me good, and I will gladly recommend Milburn's Heart and Nerve

ROTARIANS DELAY
EXPANSION MOVE

Than One Club To
a City.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, June 18.—The International
Rotary Convention in session here debated today the question of permitting the smaller cities to have more than one Rotary Club, but after a
lengthy discussion the issue was left
for the future to decide. Already
there is a clause in the constitution
which states that cities with a population of a million or over may estab-
lish two clubs within their limits
with proper provision made to prevent overlapping.

point was introduced by Frank
Lamb, of the State of Washington,
who strongly urged the change. If Rotary was to expand along its natural lines and exercise the influence that was expected of it,
"We have a unique club with
people knocking at our doors to get
in," he declared, "so why should we
step down to that stage where we
would no longer be unique."

Speaking on the duties of presidents of clubs, Frederick E. Matson,
of Indianapolis, advised local clubs
to form another Rotary Club in Chicago. "We have a unique club with
people knocking at our doors to get
in," he declared, "so why should we
step down to that stage where we
would no longer be unique."

One of the leading opponents of the
change was Charles Newton, of Chicago, who declared that, owing to
the multiplication of clubs, two other
organizations have lost the prestige
that they once enjoyed in that city.
It would, he declared, be a calamity
to form another Rotary Club in Chicago. "We have a unique club with
people knocking at our doors to get
in," he declared, "so why should we
step down to that stage where we
would no longer be unique."

The most practical of khaki
middies, or the flimsiest of voile
frocks; undergarments that are
cool and comfortable and
sturdily built; and for dresses
and rompers there are wash fabrics of pretty patterns and fade-
less colors.

For their more frivolous
moments there are all kinds of
out-of-door toys—sand pails and
shovels, bats and balls, scooters
and garden sets, for

"The time has come," the gardener said,
"To talk of garden things!"

AT WRANGEL ISLE SALE

British Claim Rests Upon Occupation of Allan
Crawford.

By HENRY SOMERVILLE.
Special Cable to The London Advertiser
by a Staff Correspondent. Copyright.

LONDON, June 18.—The report that Vilhjalmur Stefansson has sold his
interests in Wrangel Island to an American citizen who will finance an
expedition to that district this summer, has aroused no interest in England. The sovereignty is not affected,
as the British claim rests upon the
Crawford.

An American citizen can, of course,
hold private property rights in the British island. There is not the smallest likelihood that the United States will make a Canadian claim to Wrangel, as Stefansson himself repeatedly pointed out that the States
have no use for the island.

The claim has been made by Russia, but it is not being talked about
because both Moscow and Downing Street have more pressing business
and cannot justify their demands.

crease of $255,601.74, as compared with the corresponding week of 1923.
The gross earnings of the Canadian National Railways from January 1,
1924, to June 14, have been $103,395,- 611, being a decrease of $937,667.30,
as compared with the corresponding period of 1923.

SMUTS IS CHEERFUL,
ALTHOUGH BEATEN

Cape Town, S.A. June 18.—Premier
Smuts, in a message today thanking
his campaign committee after the returns showed his defeat in Pretoria
West, says: "Be of good cheer. From
the wider viewpoints which shape
the national policy our failure may
yet prove a blessing in disguise. My
faith in the future remains as strong
as ever, although the immediate out-
look before the country is gloomy
enough. In that faith we hold on un-
flinchingly."
