CZAR STILL IN CONTROL

New Constitution Leaves Final Authority With Him.

Critics Claim the Creation of Cabinet Ministers is Along the Lines of the Old Bureaucratic Regime—Big Issues Not For Assembly—Situation Clearing, Although Slaughter Occurred at Odessa and Warsaw.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 3.—The Imperial decree creating the Cabinet Minister under the Imperial Manifesto to grating a constitution to Russia, was gazetted yesterday morning and has already aroused criticism as the machinery is extremely complicated and smacks of the old fashioned bureaucratic regime.

While the Cabinet has no authority to decide matters within the competency of the legislative bodies, no measure of "general importance" can be introduced into the chambers without the sanction of the Cabinet. Another provision requires that when the Cabinet is unanimous the Premier must go to the Emperor and receive instructions. This would seem to make the final authority go back to his Majesty. Moreover, all questions affecting the Imperial court and domains, the army and navy and foreign affairs are specifically excluded from the competency of the Cabinet without direct Imperial authority.

Premier Responsible. Nothing is said in the decree about the Premier of Ministers being responsible to the national Assembly or responding to interpellations, but care is taken to consolidate the power in the hands of the Premier, or as is termed, president of the Cabinet, and especially to prevent an individual Minister from going to the Emperor with a report without previously submitting it to the Premier. Should the latter not approve of the report he has the privilege of being present when the Minister presents it to his Majesty and stating his objections. This provision is designed to put an end to the practice of one Minister undermining another, which has been one of the most vicious features of the old regime and the cause of untold confusion.

A Terrible Picture. At Rostov-on-Don, the whole town is in the hands of rioters who are plundering by wholesale. Firing is frequent in the streets. Fifteen persons have been killed and many injured. At Minak, doctors of the Jewish Hospital worked all night on the wounded brought in from the railroad station, where the troops fired volleys at the demonstrators. Funerals are being conveyed in wagons. Already fifty-four persons have been interred in the Jewish Cemetery. At Kieff, during the demonstrations within the municipality, five persons were killed and forty-five injured, six of them seriously. At Orel, anti-Jewish riots have broken out and many people killed or injured. At Tashkend, Russia, Turkistan, peaceful celebrations of the issuing of the Imperial manifesto granting Russia a constitution, were dispersed by troops yesterday. Cossacks and Red Guard troops have been sent. The anti-government demonstrations ended in widespread rioting. A mob burned Government property, barricaded the streets and threw bombs at the troops. There were many victims. At Sebastopol six persons were killed and many wounded. The Black Sea Squadron Vice-Admiral Birleff's pennant flying, arrived there from the Turkish coast.

Prospects Brighter. The prospects of the court, quieting down for the present at least, are much brighter to-day. While the revolutionary spirit is abroad, the masses of the reds seem to realize that they have reached the end of their tether, and they are afraid to push matters to the point of failure. The leaders of the railroad men have not yet formally surrendered, but trains are already running on the Moscow and other lines, and the backbone of the strike seems to be broken.

The council of the workmen's delegates decided to suspend the political strike at noon to-day, but on the condition that it be resumed if their demands were not granted.

Fighting in Warsaw. Warsaw, Nov. 3.—It now appears that thirty persons were killed and over a hundred were wounded during the fighting during the course of yesterday at several points, the infantry firing on the cavalry charging the crowds. Three persons were killed and forty-two wounded. Swords and the butts of rifles were freely employed in the dispersal of demonstrators.

Martial Law at Odessa. London, Nov. 3.—A despatch to a news agent from Odessa says that martial law was declared there yesterday afternoon.

Casualties 5,000. The casualties Wednesday, according to The Standard's correspondent, are believed to have amounted to 5,000 killed and wounded. In the Jewish quarters bodies still strewn the streets and sidewalks. Jewish women and children are strangled and hacked to pieces in the streets where the mobs gained the upper hand.

The troops wreaked terrible vengeance on the residents of three houses, from the balconies of which shots were fired by unknown persons upon the soldiers. They immediately stormed the houses and with unheard of barbarity massacred all the inhabitants. The massacre of Jews continues.

He only employs his passion who can make no use of his reason.

STOLE CROSS

Midnight Miscreants Enter Catholic Cemetery at Bothwell and Commit Depredations

Further depredations in connection with the Bothwell Roman Catholic cemetery are attracting the attention of the authorities. This case has occasioned much interest. In view of the fact that for 12 or 13 miles there was no Catholic burying ground, the church recently purchased a plot of land just outside the town limits. The project met with pronounced opposition from neighboring residents, who appealed to the Provincial Board of Health. This body, however, gave decision in favor of the church and several burials have taken place.

The other night miscreants entered the new cemetery, tipped over a couple of monuments and carried away a cross from another grave.

ALEX. WILLIS ACQUITTED.

Judge Anglin Directed the Jury to Refuse to Convict—Affecting Scene in Court.

St. Thomas, Ont., Nov. 3.—The examination of one witness yesterday concluded the case for the Crown in the Rodney murder case. Counsel for the prisoner, Willis, Mr. St. Clair Leitch of Dutton, submitted to his lordship that there was absolutely no case to go to the jury and that the evidence was fully speculative and circumstantial.

The prosecuting attorney, Mr. Staunton, urged that the evidence adduced warranted the case going to the jury, but his lordship thought otherwise. In his mind there was nothing to connect the prisoner with the crime and he took the responsibility upon himself of directing the jury to find the prisoner not guilty. In dismissing the prisoner his lordship admonished him that this should be a lesson to him not to linger about hotels and to cease his drinking habits.

The prisoner showed considerable emotion on receiving his discharge and was warmly congratulated by many friends. His meeting with his wife and family in the corridor was most affecting.

Willis has been stripped of practically all he possessed in conducting his defence. Accompanied by his wife and family he returned to the neglected little farm in Alborough, which is now no longer his. The meaning of the mystery of who killed Eliza Lowry is still unsolved.

DE MARCO GUILTY.

Jury Finds He Murdered John Hoban on September 4.

Toronto, Nov. 3.—After deliberating for four hours, the jury in the Criminal Assizes last evening brought in a verdict, finding Charles De Marco guilty of murdering John Hoban. The affair occurred at Edward and Chestnut streets on Sept. 4, when Hoban was stabbed in the stomach. He died three days later.

The verdict caused some surprise, and J. M. Godfrey, prisoner's counsel, announced his intention of appealing the case on four different grounds. The main objection, which is one submitted by him at the conclusion of Crown Prosecutor DuVernet's case, is that there was not sufficient evidence for Justice MacMahon to allow the case to go to the jury.

The evidence is the same as presented at the coroner's investigation. The evidence was purely circumstantial.

Passing Raised Bills. Kingston, Nov. 3.—Another case of passing raised money was reported yesterday. At Haffner's grocery, an Italian gave an American $2 note which had been raised to $10. He got away. Last week the same party worked off a similar bill in a second-hand store.

TREASURER $8,000 SHORT.

Allegation on Which P. D. Hamel of Montreal is Arrested.

Montreal, Nov. 3.—Yesterday afternoon High Constable Cinq Mars arrested Philip P. D. Hamel, of Blue Bonnets, charged with having stolen within the past three years sums of money aggregating $8,000 from the Order of Railway Telegraphers. Hamel was assistant treasurer of division No. 7.

It is alleged that in September last he resigned the position of treasurer and declined to send in the books and records connected with the position from the beginning of 1892. It is charged that the stolen money was the property of division No. 7, which covers the whole of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Hamel, arraigned yesterday afternoon before Judge Lafontaine, pleaded not guilty.

Fired Twice at Pullman Porter. Brandon, Nov. 3.—W. V. Lapraik, a well-known bookmaker and follower of the western turf, had an altercation with the porter on a Pullman car at the C. P. R. depot and suddenly drew a revolver. The porter closed with him and Lapraik fired twice at him, but without injuring him. The negro then overpowered him and took his weapon. The police interfered at this juncture and arrested Lapraik. It is believed he was irresponsible owing to drink and domestic trouble.

FOR KEHOE'S EVIDENCE

Kingston Election Case Adjourned Till 27th November.

Judge Street Anxious to Hear Explanations From "The Source" of Much of Money Spent—The Gildersleeve Charge Dismissed, the Judges Disagreeing—Evidence Found of Treating—Five Charges Made Good.

Kingston, Nov. 3.—Kehoe, Montgomery and other important witnesses, were absent from the election petition trial yesterday, and John McIntyre, K. C., filed an affidavit to that effect, which he subsequently wished to withdraw, but Justice Street emphatically remarked that nothing of the kind must be done. The case would be adjourned until Monday, the 27th inst., at 9.30.

Kehoe, said his lordship, was a man to whom a considerable sum of money had been traced, and it was not unreasonable to suppose that he could afford some particulars about it.

"In the face of what you have sworn," said the judge to the counsel, it is your duty to get Kehoe, Montgomery and others here before the 27th. Let us know if you cannot do it."

A number of charges stand over. Certain numbers attended to include Kehoe were pronounced as proved, these being regarding the hiring of cabs from Joseph and Daniel Eves. Another charge—No. 145—was not proceeded with.

Speaking of charge No. 147, Justice Street expressed the opinion that Augustus Thompson had the intention of hiring his horse to Gildersleeve and thought he would be paid, and also that Gildersleeve was aware of the purpose for which Thompson requested the $10, but paid the sum in the form of a loan. He was unable to permit such fellows to believe the money could be disbursed under such conditions.

Justice Teetzel dissented from this view. While there was serious suspicion about the bona fide character of the loan, a sense of obligation must have led Gildersleeve to compensate Thompson when he presented himself. Bearing in mind results which to Gildersleeve must be very serious, he hesitated to find him guilty of corrupt practice. The charge was dismissed.

As for charge 22, the charge of giving money was not established. The court found that there was evidence of giving refreshment on treating under section 163 of the act. To embrace the finding the charge against Halliday must be amended.

Five charges have already been made good, and it is the belief that the evidence already adduced will make the election void.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT

Stanley, the sixteen-year-old son of Horace Black, of the 5th concession, Raleigh, met with a very painful accident yesterday afternoon about 3.30.

Stanley was clearing the stocks away from a corn shredder and, reaching his right hand a little too far, got it caught in the cog-wheels of the machine. Mr. Black quickly drove to town, arriving at the office of Dr. Rathford at four o'clock. The fingers are so badly crushed that it will be necessary to amputate the first three at the second joint.

STYLE—QUALITY—PRICE

STYLE is no more than tinsel without quality to perpetuate it.

QUALITY is essential, but at any but a fair price it is not economical.

PRICE is a splendid test but must have both style and quality to warrant it.

We have studied these problems for years—they're our daily business and we flatter ourselves that we have accomplished much in each of them. Our styles are new and correct—many of them exclusive with us. Our quality is kept rigidly to the highest standard. Our price is the lowest that can consistently be made.

INELIGIBLE FOR CITIZENSHIP.

In eastern American cities they naturalize aliens in great batches for voting purposes. Usually the making of a citizen is merely a matter of form. If the alien forswear allegiance to his native land and swear allegiance to the United States, that is all that is required. In Seattle, however, there is a judge who is apparently more conscientious—or maybe more curious—or perhaps prejudiced more particularly against Canadians. He seems to look with suspicion upon Canadians who are ambitious to become American citizens, and he subjects them to rigid cross-examination in order to discover whether or not they are worthy of the privilege which they seek. Recently a Canadian named McKean came before this judge as an applicant for naturalization papers. The account of what followed we borrow from the Victoria Times. "The judge was inquisitive, inquiring whether the applicant would be willing to bear arms for the United States provided the republic were engaged in war with Great Britain. Being a man of peace as well as a man of principle, Mr. McKean said he would be very loath to point a gun in anger against the people of the land of his birth, and frankly admitted that in case of a misunderstanding, without special regard to its cause or the rights of the contestants, his sympathies would be with the British. The judge took the responsibility of refusing the request of Mr. McKean, advising him on account of his scrupulousity to remain a Canadian and to look to the British to protect him in his person and property."

If all aliens applying for naturalization in the United States, were submitted to as rigid an examination as McKean war, and if they were as straightforward and conscientious in their answers as he was, and if the judge were as scrupulous as was the Seattle judge in this case, the number of foreign-born naturalized residents of the United States would be several millions less than it is. The man who, in becoming the citizen or subject of another power, loses all natural affection for the country of his birth and its people, is not likely to be the best sort of citizen of his adopted country. To make such an unnatural stilling of natural affection a condition of citizenship is exceedingly stupid.

THAMESVILLE

OLD AGE.

Old age as it comes in the orderly process of Nature is a beautiful and majestic thing. The very shadow of old age which threatens it, makes it the more prized. It stands for experience, knowledge, wisdom and counsel. That is old age as it should be. But old age as it so often is means nothing but a second childhood of mind and body. What makes the difference? Very largely the care of the stomach. In youth and the full strength of manhood it does not seem to matter how we treat the stomach. We abuse it, overwork it, injure it. We don't suffer from it much. But when age comes the stomach is worn out. It can't prepare and distribute the needed nourishment to the body, and the body, un-nourished, falls into senile decay. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a wonderful medicine for old people whose stomachs are weak, and whose digestions are poor. It strengthens the effects are felt by mind as well as body. It takes the sting from old age, and makes old people strong.

RICHMOND.

Stella Kaufman is seriously ill with typhoid fever. The farmers in this vicinity are getting along nicely with their sugar beets. The beets are a good sample, some is said to weigh as high as 11 pounds.

The anniversary services at New St. Andrew's on October 22nd were largely attended both morning and evening. The services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Heir, of Botany. The following Tuesday a tea meeting was held in the hall. A large crowd assembled, which enjoyed the good things that the tables were weighed with. After the tea was served a good program was rendered in the church. The sum of $92 was realized.

To Tell a Horse's Age.

The age of a horse cannot always be told by looking at its teeth. After the eighth year the horse has no more new teeth, so that this method is useless for a horse which is more than eight years old. As soon as the set of teeth is complete, however, a wrinkle begins to appear on the edge of the lower eyelid, and another wrinkle is added each year, so that to get at the age of a horse more than eight years old you must count the teeth plus the wrinkles.

THE NEW MILLINERY.

Decided Crowns and Outrigger Plumes
Galore—Small Turbans.

Autumn millinery creations show very decided crowns and rather broad, flaring brims. The fancy for wearing the hat well forward, tipped over the brow, remains popular, and when the hair is properly arranged—high at the back so as to support the hat without the addition of a cachepigne—the effect is smart and generally becoming.

For wear with the tailor costume and walking dress the small turban severely trimmed will be good style, but the large hat will be the correct mode for occasions when very dressy toilets are displayed.

A conspicuous note in the autumn models is the lavish use of plumes. The new shapes require some softening, and no other trimming gives this effect like the graceful ostrich feather, which, by the way, has this season taken all kinds of twists and turns. An effective arrangement is to have the plumes round and roll over on the hat.

The Walking Hat Again.

There is a suggestion of the long ago favorite walking hat in a new model of glossy black beaver felt. A soft drapery of black silk encircles the high crown and directly in front is placed a square buckle of dull silver studded with brilliant. Falling over the left side and back are two black ostrich plumes, the tips resting on the hair.

This smart hat is a charming accompaniment to the tailor costume. An effective note may be achieved by using plumes in the deep American Beauty shade instead of those of black, and an equally modish arrangement is to have the hat of white beaver with black trimmings.

Fashionable Colors.

All shades of brown are fashionable, but the newest hue is termed les feuilles mortes, or dead leaves. When lighted up with a touch of red, blue or green it suggests rich autumn foliage.

Gray, too, is much in evidence and in many odd combinations. One hat of dark purple felt bent into artistic shape had a huge red rose with a bit of foliage adjusted against the crown near the front, while two other roses of the same size and color were arranged at the back against the flaring brim. This model was intended to accompany a dressy gown of purple cloth in which the note of red was repeated in the embroidered trimmings.

Tucked Taffeta Hats.

Tucked and corded taffeta is used to fashion some of the smartest street hats of the season. The tricorn and French styles are the shapes in highest favor. Wings, quills and ribbon are the trimmings employed. A hat of unusual style is made of dark red taffeta, cross tucked and over a tricorn shape. A soft fold of the silk encircles the crown, and at the left side, against the flaring brim, there are two large dark red wings that are tipped with black.

New Veil Pins.

A fad in jewelry which has already become very popular is veil pins, says an exchange. Now that the veils are so much more elaborate it is necessary to pin them on to the brim of the hat very carefully. To do this becomingly three of these new veil pins should be used, one on each side of the hat and one in the back to hold the ends together.

They are made like the old fashioned belt pins—a gold or silver bar, with a stone in the center. A very pretty set of these veil pins was given as a birthday present not long since and was very much admired. The pins were made of dull gold, with three good sized amethysts set in each pin, and when worn with a violet hat and violet lace and chiffon veil they were most effective. The pins will be found a great aid to neatness.

Variety in Sweaters.

Sweaters are now so universally worn that they require as much description as a waist. The days when one sweater differed from another only in the knitted stitch are past and gone, and a modern sweater shows nearly as many variations as the modish blouse, remarks a fashion exchange. A girl may possess a sweater in any desired neck outline or length, untrimmed or leather trimmed and exhibiting long or short sleeves. There comes the Norfolk sweater, made like a jacket with a V neck, the sailor one fitted in the back and showing the usual accessories, the bolero, collarless and ending just below the waist line, and the ordinary blouse form with a square neck, standing collar and wristlets of contrasting color.

BECOMING FAMOUS

This appears in the correspondence column of the "Canadian Teacher" for November:

Answer to J. H. W.:—Mr. J. W. Plewes, Model School, Chatham, has had much experience and great success with school fairs. He would, we feel sure, give you valuable assistance with your proposed school fair if you wrote him regarding the matter.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT

The little daughter of John Smith, King street west, met with a serious accident yesterday after four o'clock. She was returning home from school and while crossing the road near St. Joseph's church, she stepped down by a passing horse. The animal stepped on her leg and fortunately her school bag came between the horse's hoof and her leg. The shoe, however, pierced the bag and severely lacerated her leg. No bones were broken. Those who saw the accident pronounce a very narrow escape from serious injury and probable death. She will be laid up for some days.

AUTHORITATIVE STATEMENT

In reference to the statements being made on the street to the effect that a lady or ladies, prominent socially and musically, were found in the Lacroix resort raided last Sunday night, the authorities are in a position to state positively that such stories are absolutely untrue. That while it is true a woman was found in the resort, she was not in any sense of the word prominent, either socially or musically.

Search for Physician in Vain.

Boston, Nov. 3.—The finding late Wednesday in the office of a back bay loan company of the solitary diamond ring given Susan R. Geary by her mother last Christmas was the last thing needed to settle any doubt that might remain as to the identity of the suit case victim. The ring was pawned Sept. 11 by a young man. A search for a south end physician suspected in the case was conducted during the night, but without result.

Exploration Casks Turn Up.

Philadelphia, Nov. 3.—At a meeting of the Geographical Society of Philadelphia, the president, Henry G. Bryant, the explorer, made the announcement that two of the fifty Bryant-Melville casks, which were sent adrift several years ago in the Polar Sea, have turned up. The position of one cask proves the existence of a current from Behring Strait around Circumpolar Basin to the Atlantic Ocean.

Cuff Buttons.

"Your cuff buttons are not properly worn," said a jeweler to one of his customers. "What's the matter with them?" "Haven't I got them in my cuff?" "Yes," replied the jeweler, "but you are like a great many other people; you are not a close observer. You have the little gold piece at one end of each link placed so that in one cuff it is toward your body and in the other away from you. The small end of the link should in every case be toward you. Yet nine men out of ten pay no attention to this detail. The careful dresser never has the small end of a link button on the far side of the cuff."

Any person desiring good house with all modern conveniences, heated by good furnace, would do well to call on W. E. Rispin, 115 King St., who has two houses to rent in Bayview side Terrace. He also has good flat, consisting of four rooms and bath room, heated by steam, and separate rooms suitable for offices, to rent in his office building, at 115 King St.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

Thursday, Nov. 2. Will probably stand as a record day on the old City Cattle Market. Within 48 hours, dating from Wednesday morning, not less than 150 cars of stock, consigned from all parts of the province and Western Manitoba, were received here. The market was a demoralized condition, with confusion of mind undisputed. A moderate estimate of the stock from all sources in pens and on rail at the opening of the market yesterday would be 150 cars. By 7 P.M. and 8 P.M. the offerings were 2088 cattle, 1898 hogs, 2158 sheep and 77 calves.

Export cattle—Of really good export quality there were no deliveries, nor was there any demand. The nearest approach to export trade was in a lot of big rough steers, too heavy for distillery feeding, by reason of their size, and not properly finished on the grass. This class, said Mr. Wilson of Market, when at hand, were practically unsalable. A few good short-kept feeders suitable for the export trade, were sold at from $3.85 to $4 per cwt.

Butchers' Cattle—For really good butchers' cattle it is questionable if there was any falling off in prices from Tuesday's quotations, but the medium and inferior qualities showed a sharp decline in values, ranging from 20c to 30c per cwt. Choice butchers' heifers and steers sold at from $2.50 to $4 per cwt; medium butchers', from $2.15 to $3.50; butchers' cows, at from $2 to $2.50; export bulls, a few of them at from $3.50 to $4; distillery bulls, weighing from 1100 to 1300 lbs., from $2.40 to $2.75; and steers, from $1.25 to $2.25.

Feeders and Stockers—Good feeders and stockers, notwithstanding the heavy receipts, at practically unchanged figures. Harry Murby bought some 500 feeders and stockers at these prices: Best feeders, 1000 to 1150 lbs., at $3.70 to $3.90 per cwt.; medium feeders, 1000 to 1000 lbs., at $3.50; best feeders, 850 to 1000 lbs., at $3.25; medium feeders, 850 to 1000 lbs., at $3 to $3.25; best yearling steers, 600 to 800 lbs., at $3 to $3.25; good stock steers, 700 to 850 lbs., at $2.50 to $2.80; medium stock heifers, 700 to 850 lbs., at $2.40 to $2.65; common stock steers, 700 to 1000 lbs., at $2.40 to $2.75; common light stockers, 600 to 850 lbs., at $2 to $2.25.

Milk Cows—Good milkers were in demand and sold at from $35 to $55 each. The Montreal market affords a fine opening for really good stock.

Veal Calves—The run of calves, 77, was a moderate one. Wesley Dunn took 50 of them at an average of $7 each, or from 3c to 5 1/2c per lb.

Sheep and Lambs—The market for sheep and lambs yesterday was nominally unchanged, with the exception of export ewes, which sold from $4 to $4.50 per cwt., as against $4 to $4.25 on Tuesday. Wesley Dunn bought 1200 lambs and 350 sheep, for which he paid from $4 to $4.50 for export, $3 to $3.50 for butchers and $2.25 to $3.50 for lambs. Mr. Dunn reports the market slow, with everything sold.

Mr. Harris reports the market unchanged, with total receipts at 1898. Selects are quoted at $5.25; lights and fats, at $3.75, and good quality hogs at $4.75. At P. Kennedy's quotations are for select, $5.50 and lights and fats at $5.30, with a further decline of 10c next week.

EAST BUFFALO CATTLE MARKET.

East Buffalo, Nov. 2.—Cattle—Receipts, 150 head; fair demand for good; dull on common; prices unchanged.

Veal—Receipts, 200 head; slow and 25c lower, $5.50 to $5.75.

Hogs—Receipts, 5100 head; fairly active and strong; heavy and mixed, $3.20 to $3.25; Yorkers and pigs, $3.10 to $3.20; roughs, $2.85 to $3.15; stags, $2.25 to $4; dairies and grassers, $2 to $3.10.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 5000 head; sheep active and steady; lambs dull and 10c lower; lambs, $5.75 to $7.25; yearlings, $5 to $6.25; wethers, $5.50 to $5.75; ewes, $5.25 to $5.50; sheep, mixed, $2.50 to $5.75; Canada lambs, $6.75 to $6.80.

NEW YORK LIVE STOCK.

New York, Nov. 2.—Beef—Receipts, 172; nothing doing; feeling steady.

Cattle—Receipts, 300; veals slow and easier; grassers lower; veals, $4 to $5.50; grassers, $2.50 to $3; no sales of westerns. Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 312; sheep dull and weak; lambs slow and 10c to 15c off; sheep, $3.50 to $5.50; culls, $2.50 to $3.10; lambs, $5.50 to $7.25; culls, $4.50 to $5.50; Canada lambs, $6.25 to $6.75.

Hogs—Receipts, 3851; no sales reported; nominal quotations for grade and Pennsylvania hogs, $5.50 to $5.60.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

Chicago, Nov. 2.—Cattle—Receipts, 11,000; market for best, others weak. Steers, $2 to $6.30; stockers and feeders, $3.25 to $4; cows and canners, $1.50 to $4; bulls, $2.25 to $7; heifers, $2.50 to $3.80; calves, $2.25 to $7.

Hogs—Receipts, 22,000; market steady to 1c higher; shipping and selected, $5.10 to $5.25; mixed and heavy packing, $4.90 to $5.05; light, $1.00 to $5.12 1/2; pigs and roughs, $4 to $4.30.

A HAMILTON SENSATION

A Bank of Hamilton Manager Arrested For Embezzlement.

Defalcations May Reach $70,000 and Have Been Going on For Years—T. Hillhouse Brown, Son of Aged Postmaster, Long Evaded Discovery Even Though Books Were Inspected at Periodical Dates.

Hamilton, Nov. 3.—The arrest yesterday of T. Hillhouse Brown, manager of the Bank of Hamilton branch at the corner of King and Wellington streets, on a charge of embezzlement came as a terrible surprise and shock to this city. The amount of the defalcation is not yet officially announced—bank officials say that they do not yet know themselves—but it is understood that, so far as discovered, it is in the neighborhood of $70,000, and may go considerably higher. The defalcations have extended over a great many years, and the method of abstraction, which was altogether through the savings department, was skillfully concealed from the inspectors by the temporary closing of the accounts. What individual losses are is not yet vouchsafed, but yesterday it was said, in one account alone some $2,500 has been taken.

Under Surveillance Ten Days. While the police last night said that Mr. Brown has been under surveillance for the last ten days, while an inspection of the books was in progress, it was not until the meeting of the bank directors at 12 o'clock yesterday that his arrest was decided upon. Surprise is expressed that his wealthy connections did not come forward to his rescue, but it is said little or no effort in that line was made. Brown is reticent, even to his closest friends.

A Nervous Wreck.

The prisoner is a nervous wreck. When placed under arrest by Inspector McMahon, he broke down, and appeared to be unstrung. "What shall I do? What do you want me to do?" he kept asking. He was walked to the cells at No. 3 police station, where he remained until 5 o'clock last evening. A cab was called then, and Detective Campbell drove him to the jail, where more comfortable lodgings were to be had. J. W. Nesbitt, K. C., and George S. Lynch-Staunton, K. C., have been retained to defend the prisoner. He will not come up at the police court Friday morning. It is said that matters have been arranged so that he will escape that ordeal, and that the preliminary examination will be waived.

The Specific Charge.

The specific charge, which the warrant was made out dates back to July 7, 1903, and reads, "That Thomas Hillhouse Brown, being a manager of the Bank of Hamilton, did falsify and make false entry in a certain book belonging to the bank, to wit, a certain credit entry of $5,100 in a deposit ledger."

Thomas Hobson, of Lees, Hobson & Stephens, solicitors of the bank, was present when the arrest was made.

The bank has not yet issued the following statement for publication:

"The Bank of Hamilton is sorry to say that systematic defalcations have been made at its East End branch by T. Hillhouse Brown, who has been its agent since its opening. The embezzlement has been going on for several years, and has been cleverly concealed. The loss to the bank, which will be readily provided for out of surplus current profits, is a small matter in comparison with the regret which is felt over the gross breach of trust by an officer so well and favorably known, and hitherto so highly respected."

Cannot State Amount Yet.

Manager Turnbull later said that examination of the books is going forward at the present time, and it is impossible to get an idea as to how deeply Brown's peculations had gone. As the inspection went on fresh discoveries of missing securities were being made. However, said Mr. Turnbull, an amount which represented the maximum of possible defalcations. He declined to say what this amount was or to give any idea as to whether $70,000, mentioned in one report, was likely to prove above or below the mark of the actual sum total of embezzlement.

System Was Skillful.

It required a measure of skill and boldness to so adjust the bank figures as to cover up the evidence of fraudulent appropriation. When reference was made to the success with which Brown had kept his true state of affairs, despite the regulation inspection of the books, Mr. Turnbull referred to a recent expression of opinion credited to Senator Fairbank, to the effect that no system of inspection, however minute and searching, could preclude the possibility of successful deception. "After all we must depend upon the integrity of our men," was the conclusion drawn by Mr. Turnbull.

"Some of the funds may be recovered," he suggested.

"A portion has been," he replied, but did not care to give details.

Crises For Life Insurance. Looking for a sinkhole for the thousands which have been embezzled it is not stock speculation but the payment of life insurance premiums that is given. It is said to have been a hobby with him. He was in receipt of a salary of $2,500 a year. He is known to have carried $20,000 worth of insurance, and there are some who place the amount at $40,000, and on this amount the premiums would be about $1,500. In addition to this drain, his friends say that he has been unfortunate in speculation.

Aged Father Prostrated. Mr. Brown is about 40 years of age, son of Brown, a postmaster of Hamilton, and unmarried. He moved in the most exclusive social circles in the city.

The prisoner's aged father is prostrated. The family name has hitherto stood for everything that was honorable and upright. The father has friends in all classes of the community, and the sincerest sympathy is expressed on all hands for him.

Mr. Brown was in receipt of a salary of $2,500 a year. The arrest has placed some of the bank directors in a painful position, as the prisoner's related to some of them.

NOBODY IS EXEMPT

A New Preparation Which Everyone Will Need Sooner or Later.

Almost everybody's digestion is disordered more or less, and the commonest thing they do for it is to take some one of the many so-called blood purifiers, which, in many cases, are merely strong cathartics. Such things are not needed. If the organs are in a clogged condition, they need only a little help and they will right themselves. Cathartics irritate the sensitive linings of the stomach and bowels and often do more harm than good.

Purging is not what is needed. The thing to do is to put the food in condition to be readily digested and assimilated. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets do this perfectly. They partly digest what is eaten and give the stomach just the help it needs. They stimulate the secretion and excretion of the digestive fluids and relieve the congested condition of the glands and membranes. They put the whole digestive system in condition to do its work. When that is done you need take no more tablets, unless you eat what does not agree with you. Then take one or two tablets—give them needed help, and you will have no trouble.

It's a common-sense medicine and a common-sense treatment, and it will cure every time. Not only cure the disease but cure the cause. Goes about it in a perfectly sensible and scientific way.

We have testimonials enough to fill a book, but we don't publish many of them. However—Mrs. E. M. Faith, of Byrd's Creek, Wis., says: "I have taken all the Tablets I got of you and they have done their work for me. I feel like a different person altogether. I don't doubt if I had not got them I should have been at rest by this time."

H. E. Willard, Oskaw, Ia., says: "Mr. White, of Canton, was telling me of your Dyspepsia Tablets curing him of Dyspepsia, from which he suffered for eight years. As I am a sufferer myself I wish you to send me a package by return mail."

Phil Brooks, Detroit, Mich., says: "Your Dyspepsia cure has worked wonders in my case. I suffered for years from Dyspepsia, but am now entirely cured and enjoy life as I never have before. I gladly recommend them."

It will cost 50¢ to find out just how much Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will help you. Try them—that's the best way to decide.

THE MARK OF QUALITY.

An Irishman's Reason.
Sheridan Le Fanu once asked an Irishman what was the English of "Carrigtohill."

"I never heard any English or Irish name upon it, only 'Carrigtohill' alone," was the reply.
"I know," said Le Fanu, "it has no other name, but I want to know the meaning of the name."

"Well, now, your honor," he replied, "I never heard any meaning for it only 'Carrigtohill' alone."
"I know 'carrig' means a dock," persisted Le Fanu, "but what does 'tohill' mean?"

"Well, now, your honor, it's what I can't tell you why it's called 'Carrigtohill,' unless it's because Mr. Coppinger lives below there in Barry's court."

Big Tailed Sheep.
A species of sheep in the east, common in Syria, is so incumbered by the weight of its tail that the shepherds fix a piece of thin board to the under part, where it is not covered with thick wool, to prevent it from being torn by the bushes, etc. Some have small wheels affixed to facilitate the draggings of these boards after them. The tail of a common sheep of this sort usually weighs fifteen pounds or upward, while that of a larger species, after being well fattened, will weigh fifty pounds.

The Heartiest Meal.
Let your heartiest meal be at night or whenever your work for the day is over. Fruits, toasts, soft boiled eggs and oatmeal make a good breakfast. When the intermission between hours of labor is short no heavy food should be taken into the stomach. Hundreds of people who eat heartily and return to work immediately afterward have dyspepsia.

THE REALM OF UNREALITY

By HARRY PRESTON

Copyright, 1905, by R. B. Shelton

Allen strode across the grounds in the mellow warmth of that early summer afternoon and sought his favorite retreat—a rustic seat in the shadow of the beeches near the northern wall. He opened a magazine he had borrowed from the superintendent's office and strove to interest himself in the pages, but the articles seemed to be composed of meaningless jumbles of words, and the illustrations seemed distorted and unreal. He dropped the magazine with a sigh and closed his eyes. He was very tired.

He was afraid, too, that Thompson would come along and worry him about the codicils of that will. Thompson had been dead these five years, and, moreover, those codicils had been fixed to his satisfaction long before his demise, but Thompson seemed totally indifferent to the trouble he was causing. Instead of staying peacefully in his grave he came roving along at any old hour of the day or night asking most absurd questions and making all sorts of annoying suggestions.

Allen had spoken to the superintendent about Thompson that very afternoon. He had said pointedly that if he were to stay here they must keep Thompson out. The superintendent had been very kind. He had assured Allen the matter would be attended to. He bade him worry over it no more. And then the superintendent had looked at him pityingly. Allen was keen enough to recognize the pity in that glance.

It was strange that they should pity him; everything was strange. Nothing had been real since that day in the courthouse when he was conducting the state's case against the election repeaters—when the walls had caved in so suddenly and he had felt the strange tingling sensations in his toes and finger tips and some one had put his arms about him just as the blackness had come on.

They told him—the doctors and the nurses—that this place, where he had awakened, was a private sanitarium; that he was overworked and must rest. He strove vainly to grasp the meaning of it all. He wouldn't mind staying here if they only would contrive to keep Thompson decently in his grave. If they did—if they only did—How tired he was!

"Ah," he said, "I thought it would come."

Allen nodded somnolently. His chin sank to his chest and he slept. When he opened his eyes he was aware some one was standing near him. He half suspected it was Thompson on another of his obnoxious visits, but a second glance assured him it was not. It was a woman—a young and pretty woman—and she was smiling pleasantly. Allen jumped to his feet and lifted his hat.

"Good afternoon," he said gravely. "Good afternoon," she returned. "You've been enjoying a nap, haven't you?"

"I may have been dozing," he admitted. He looked at her for a moment in troubled abstraction. "You haven't any codicils you want put in your will?" she asked anxiously.

"Dear no," she laughed. "You see," he explained, "everything of late is very unreal. I presume you, too, are unreal, but if you haven't any will to be fixed I shall be very glad of your company."

She laughed again, and her laugh was good to hear. Its infection set Allen smiling.

"Won't you sit down?" he asked, motioning her to the seat.

She caught up the magazine from the ground. "Can't I read to you?" she asked.

"If you would be so good," said he. "I tried to read myself, but somehow I couldn't seem to grasp the thread of things. I hope Thompson won't come poking around," he added.

"Thompson has been forbidden the grounds," she said reassuringly, and, opening the magazine, she began to read in a sweet, low voice that soothed Allen wonderfully. She read until sunset, and Allen, to his infinite joy, found he could grasp the meaning of all she read.

After that they met at the beeches every pleasant afternoon. She always brought a book or a magazine, and Allen, seated on the ground before her, found his interest in life returning. Moreover, Thompson had ceased to trouble him. He began to feel that some time in the future matters would adjust themselves properly. As to the present, he was content to sit at her feet and listen to her full, rich voice.

One afternoon when the reading was ended for the day and the sun made long shadows of the trees Allen rose and stood looking at her thoughtfully.

"You see," he said, "I don't know whether you are real or only a phantom like Thompson, and so I may speak freely. If you are real, I love you. If you are unreal—well, then I want to stay here like this for the rest of my days."

The girl flushed scarlet. She dropped the book and fled across the grounds. Allen stood watching her flight with a puzzled frown.

"Suppose she is just another phantom like Thompson—suppose she is!" he muttered, and the bare thought of such a possibility made him sick at heart.

It came like a flash. Allen was walking toward the beeches one sunny afternoon when something seemed to snap inside his skull. He stopped in his tracks and stood for a moment dazed and trembling. Then a great joy welled up in him. The numbing fog had fallen from his mind. Everything was perfectly clear now. It was all over; he was a well man again. He could take up his life where he had dropped it.

He made his way to the beeches and sat down, but as he did so a sudden fear tightened his throat. How about this girl, who had come to mean so much to him? Was she a reality, or had she been only an image of his tired brain? Suppose the latter were the case!

He heard voices and lifted his eyes. Across the lawn the superintendent was approaching, and with him was the girl. Allen leaped to his feet and ran forward.

"Thank God," he cried beside himself with joy. The superintendent looked at him narrowly for a moment and then seized his hand.

"Ah," he said, "I thought it would come. You may well thank God, Mr. Allen. This was a narrow escape from permanent trouble."

He turned to the girl beside him. "Oh, by the way, Mr. Allen, this is my daughter."

Allen laughed happily as he saw the girl's face crimson.

"It was because of her I thanked God," said he quietly.

A Poetic Family.
One day Mr. Tait's premises were invaded by a family consisting of father, mother, son and two daughters, bearing a ponderous manuscript volume of poems, "all written by ourselves," as the mother said in a joyous key. The title was "A Poem For Every Day in the Year and Two For Sundays," by Mr. and Mrs. Mullingar and their son and daughters. Mr. Tait was non-plussed, and the mother seemed inclined to sit down and await his decision.

However, a visitor opportunely arriving, they said they would call again. They did so, but the publisher was "not at home," and they were turned over to Mr. Bertram, who assured Mrs. Mullingar, with his best air of wisdom, that poetry never paid.

"And yet," said the lady in a reproachful tone, "Sir Walter Scott made thousands of pounds by his poems."

"Yes, and so did Byron and Moore," chimed in one of the daughters, with a severe look, "and other poets too. Look at Rogers!"

In vain was Mrs. Mullingar assured that these were exceptional circumstances. She was confident their book would sell. Mr. Bertram at last got out of the scrape by suggesting that, as Mr. Tait was unwilling to publish books of poetry, they should try Blackwood. He does not say whether Blackwood was duly grateful or whether he published the book, but as it has never been heard of it is very probable he did not.—Chambers' Journal.

In and Out.
Although Foote undoubtedly enjoyed his reputation as the greatest wit of his day, he was quick to recognize and appreciate wit in others.

On one occasion when passing by the king's bench his attention was attracted by a barber's shop, the owner of which, not being able to pay for new glass in several panes which had been broken before his occupancy, had substituted paper ones for them. Over the shop door was written this inscription:

Here lives Jeremy Wright. Shaves as well as any man in England. Almost, Not quite.

Foote, after laughing well over the sign, became convinced that the owner must be an eccentric but not a stupid person. He determined to satisfy his curiosity immediately, so, putting his head through one of the paper panes, he inquired:

"Is Jeremy Wright at home, pray?" "No, sir," came the reply, as the barber instantly thrust his head but through another of the paper panes; "no, sir. He has just popped out."

"Good!" exclaimed the delighted Foote, and he left the barber richer by a guinea, without his having exercised his vocation of shaving upon the noted wit, who hurried off, laughing, to tell the story.

Slight Misunderstanding.
"Let me see," said the minister who was filling out the marriage certificate and had forgotten the date, "this is the seventh, is it not?"

"No, sir," snapped the bride, with some show of indignation. "This is only my third, if any one should ask you!"—Detroit Tribune.

Nervous Women

Their Sufferings Are Usually Due to Uterine Disorders Perhaps Unsuspected

A MEDICINE THAT CURES

Can we dispute the well-known fact that Canadian women are nervous? How often do we hear the expression, "I am so nervous, it seems as if I should fly!" or, "Don't speak to me." Little things annoy you and make you irritable; you can't sleep, you are unable to quietly and calmly perform your daily tasks or care for your children.

The relation of the nerves and generative organs in women is so close that nine-tenths of the nervous prostration, nervous debility, the blues, sleeplessness and nervous irritability arise from some derangement of the organism which makes her a woman.

Fits of depression or restlessness and irritability. Spirits easily affected, so that one minute she laughs, the next minute weeps. Pain in the ovaries and between the shoulders. Loss of voice; nervous dyspepsia. A tendency to cry at the least provocation. All this points to nervous prostration.

Nothing will relieve this distressing condition and prevent months of prostration and suffering so surely as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Miss Leah Stowell, of 177 Wellington St., Kingston, Ont., writes: Dear Mrs. Pinkham—

"Your medicine is indeed a Godsend to suffering women, and I only wish that they all knew what it can do for them and there would be no need of their dragging out miserable lives in agony. I suffered for years with bearing-down pains, extreme nervousness and excruciating headaches, but a few bottles of your Vegetable Compound made life look new and promising to me. I am light and happy and I do not know what sickness is, and I have enjoyed the best of health now for over four years. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has sent sunshine into thousands of homes and hearts."

Will not the volumes of letters from women made strong by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound convince all women of its virtues? Surely you cannot wish to remain sick and weak and discouraged, exhausted each day, when you can be as easily cured as other women.

Superstition of Devonshire.
Devonshire is known to the world for its superstitious usages, which defy all efforts to uproot them. To name only one example, when a person dies all the relatives must touch the body or they will be haunted by the ghost of the dead forever after. A superstition not so local in its observance is that of beginning no task on a Friday.

The writer recently encountered a girl who, receiving notice to change from one room to another on Friday, insisted upon doing it on Thursday instead.

But the most curious instance of superstition—and this, too, is met with much nearer home than Devon—is surely that which prescribes that when, say, a domestic servant has broken a piece of crockery she is bound by fate to break two other pieces. So far is this idea carried that the writer knows a case where flowerpots are kept for the special purpose of being broken to appease the fates.—London Chronicle.

It doesn't take a man long to find out that he is short.

More Terrible Than War!

More terrible than war, famine or pestilence is that silent destroyer, that hydra-headed monster, Consumption, that annually sweeps away more of earth's inhabitants than any other single disease known to the human race.

"It is only a cold, a trifling cough," say the careless, as the irritation upon the delicate mucous membrane causes them to hack away with an irritating tickling of the throat. When the irritation settles on the mucous surface of the throat, a cough is the result.

To prevent Bronchitis or Consumption of the Lungs, do not neglect a cough however slight as the irritation spreading throughout the delicate lining of the sensitive air passages soon leads to fatal results. If on the first appearance of a cough or cold you would take a few doses of you would save yourself a great deal of unnecessary suffering. Every man considers himself the author of his prosperity, but bad luck has to stand for his mistakes.

A man usually thinks that there is nothing like his first baby, and it is the opinion of his suffering friends that there oughtn't to be.

To many a man matrimony brings a nice sense of discrimination in selecting beefsteaks and excuses.

It is not necessary to be a linguist in order to travel. Money talks any language.

A really soothing and comfortable kind of person to have about you is one who can think what he is told to.

It takes great good judgment to determine when you will be called a meddler and when glorified as a savior when you are concerned with other people's affairs.

When a man signs a note under the impression that it is a patent medicine testimonial, it is one of the signs that do not fail.

It seems to me I really ought to get more time to sleep. Indeed, this oft recurring thought has given me trouble deep. I get to bed at three o'clock. What more could any man want? My own game I don't want to block; I do the best I can.

I'm bothered, too, by low finance; I do not have enough of coin to let me take a chance; I have to run a bluff. A hundred every day or so Can't carry out my plan. I'd really like to have a show; I do the best I can.

If I had time I'm sure I could do a golden harvest reap. But dash it, if I worked I would then get no time to sleep! With going, racing, yachting, too, I keep well in the van. What more can any fellow do? I do the best I can.

It doesn't take a man with brains To spill his chance in life. A wise man doesn't take the pains— He leaves it to his wife. So I endeavor to keep loose. Such is my subtle plan. To circumvent the marriage noose I do the best I can.

"CANADIAN" RUBBERS

"The mark of quality" on "Canadian" Rubbers means the highest rubber excellence. "Canadian" Rubbers have the quality that alone stands the changeable Canadian climate.

THE MARK OF QUALITY.

An Irishman's Reason.
Sheridan Le Fanu once asked an Irishman what was the English of "Carrigtuohil".
"I never heard any English or Irish name upon it, only 'Carrigtuohil' alone," was the reply.
"I know," said Le Fanu, "it has no other name, but I want to know the meaning of the name."
"Well, now, your honor," he replied, "I never heard any meaning for it only 'Carrigtuohil' alone."
"I know 'carrig' means a dock," persisted Le Fanu, "but what does 'tuohil' mean?"
"Well, now, your honor, it's what I can't tell you why it's called 'Carrigtuohil', unless it's because Mr. Coppinger lives below there in Barry's court."

Big Tailed Sheep.
A species of sheep in the east, common in Syria, is so incumbered by the weight of its tail that the shepherds fix a piece of thin board to the under part, where it is not covered with thick wool, to prevent it from being torn by the bushes, etc. Some have small wheels affixed to facilitate the draggings of these boards after them. The tail of a common sheep of this sort usually weighs fifteen pounds or upward, while that of a larger species, after being well fattened, will weigh fifty pounds.

The Heartiest Meal.
Let your heartiest meal be at night or whenever your work for the day is over. Fruits, toasts, soft boiled eggs and oatmeal make a good breakfast. When the intermission between hours of labor is short no heavy food should be taken into the stomach. Hundreds of people who eat heartily and return to work immediately afterward have dyspepsia.

Were Black on Thad Stevens.
It is related that Judge Jere Black once said of Thad Stevens that "he was one of the brightest men ever born and could say the smartest things, but that, as far as being under any sense of obligation to his Creator for superior mental endowments, his mind was a howling wilderness."

Every possessor of light is debtor to those who sit in the dark.

THE T. H. TAYLOR CO'Y

THE REALM OF UNREALITY

By HARRY PRESTON

Copyright, 1905, by R. B. Shelton

Allen strode across the grounds in the mellow warmth of that early summer afternoon and sought his favorite retreat—a rustic seat in the shadow of the beeches near the northern wall. He opened a magazine he had borrowed from the superintendent's office and strove to interest himself in the pages, but the articles seemed to be composed of meaningless jumbles of words, and the illustrations seemed distorted and unreal. He dropped the magazine with a sigh and closed his eyes. He was very, very tired.

He was afraid, too, that Thompson would come along and worry him about the codicils of that will. Thompson had been dead these five years, and, moreover, those codicils had been fixed to his satisfaction long before his demise, but Thompson seemed totally indifferent to the trouble he was causing. Instead of staying peacefully in his grave he came poking along at any old hour of the day or night asking most absurd questions and making all sorts of annoying suggestions.

Allen had spoken to the superintendent about Thompson that day if he were to stay here they must keep Thompson out. The superintendent had been very kind. He had assured Allen the matter would be attended to. He had been real since that day in the courthouse when he was conducting the state's case against the election repeaters—when the walls had caved in so suddenly and he had felt the strange, tingling sensations in his toes and finger tips and some one had put his arms about him just as the blackness had come on.

They told him—the doctors and the nurses—that this place, where he had awakened, was a private sanitarium; that he was overworked and must rest. He strove vainly to grasp the meaning of it all. He wouldn't mind staying here if they only would contrive to keep Thompson decently in his grave. If they did—if they only did—How tired he was!

Allen nodded solemnly. His chin sank to his chest and he slept.

When he opened his eyes he was aware some one was standing near him. He half suspected it was Thompson on another of his obnoxious visits, but a second glance assured him it was not. It was a woman—a young and pretty woman—and she was smiling pleasantly. Allen jumped to his feet and lifted his hat.

"Good afternoon," he said gravely. "Good afternoon," she returned. "You've been enjoying a nap, haven't you?"

"I may have been dozing," he admitted. He looked at her for a moment in troubled abstraction. "You haven't any codicils you want put in your will?" he asked anxiously.

"Dear, no," she laughed. Allen looked relieved.

"You see," he explained, "everything of late is very unreal. I presume you, too, are unreal, but if you haven't any will to be fixed I shall be very glad of your company."

She laughed again, and her laugh was good to hear. Its infection set Allen smiling.

"Won't you sit down?" he asked, motioning her to the seat.

She caught up the magazine from the ground. "Can't I read to you?" she asked.

"If you would be so good," said he. "I tried to read myself, but somehow I couldn't seem to grasp the thread of things. I hope Thompson won't come poking around," he added.

"Thompson has been forbidden the grounds," she said reassuringly, and, opening the magazine, she began to read in a sweet, low voice that soothed Allen wonderfully. She read until sunset, and Allen, to his infinite joy, found he could grasp the meaning of all she read.

After that they met at the beeches every pleasant afternoon. She always brought a book or a magazine, and

Allen, seated on the ground before her, found his interest in life returning. Moreover, Thompson had ceased to trouble him. He began to feel that some time in the future matters would adjust themselves properly. As to the present, he was content to sit at her feet and listen to her full, rich voice.

One afternoon when the reading was ended for the day and the sun made long shadows of the trees Allen rose and stood looking at her thoughtfully.

"You see," he said, "I don't know whether you are real or only a phantom like Thompson, and so I may speak freely. If you are real, I love you. If you are unreal—well, then I want to stay here like this for the rest of my days."

The girl flushed scarlet. She dropped the book and fled across the grounds. Allen stood watching her flight with a puzzled frown.

"Suppose she is just another phantom like Thompson—suppose she is!" he muttered, and the bare thought of such a possibility made him sick at heart.

It came like a flash. Allen was walking toward the beeches one sunny afternoon when something seemed to snap inside his skull. He stopped in his tracks and stood for a moment dazed and trembling. Then a great joy welling up in him. The numbing fog had fallen from his mind. Everything was perfectly clear now. It was all over; he was a well man again. He could take up his life where he had dropped it.

He made his way to the beeches and sat down, but as he did so a sudden fear tightened his throat. How about this girl, who had come to mean so much to him? Was she a reality, or had she been only an image of his food brain? Suppose the latter were the case!

He heard voices and lifted his eyes. Across the lawn the superintendent was approaching, and with him was the girl. Allen leaped to his feet and ran forward.

"Thank God," he cried beside himself with joy.

The superintendent looked at him narrowly for a moment and then seized his hand.

"Ah," he said, "I thought it would come. You may well thank God, Mr. Allen. It was a narrow escape from permanent trouble."

He turned to the girl beside him. "Oh, by the way, Mr. Allen, this is my daughter."

Allen laughed happily as he saw the girl's face crimson.

"It was because of her I thanked God," said he quietly.

A Poetic Family.
One day Mr. Tait's premises were invaded by a family consisting of father, mother, son and two daughters, bearing a ponderous manuscript volume of poems, "all written by ourselves," as the mother said in a joyous key. The title was "A Poem For Every Day in the Year and Two For Sundays," by Mr. and Mrs. Mullingar and their son and daughters. Mr. Tait was non-plussed, and the mother seemed inclined to sit down and await his decision.

However, a visitor opportunely arriving, they said they would call again. They did so, but the publisher was "not at home," and they were turned over to Mr. Bertram, who assured Mrs. Mullingar, with his best air of wisdom, that poetry never paid.

"And yet," said the lady in a reproachful tone, "Sir Walter Scott made thousands of pounds by his poems."

"Yes, and so did Byron and Moore," chimed in one of the daughters, with a severe look, "and other poets too. Look at Rogers!"

In vain was Mrs. Mullingar assured that these were exceptional circumstances. She was confident their book would sell. Mr. Bertram at last got out of the scrape by suggesting that, as Mr. Tait was unwilling to publish books of poetry, they should try Blackwood. He does not say whether Blackwood did or not, but whether he published the book, but as it has never been heard of it is very probable he did not.—Chambers' Journal.

In and Out.
Although Foote undoubtedly enjoyed his reputation as the greatest wit of his day, he was quick to recognize and appreciate wit in others.

On one occasion when passing by the king's bench his attention was attracted by a barber's shop, the owner of which, not being able to pay for new glass in several panes which had been broken before his occupancy, had substituted paper ones for them. Over the shop door was written this inscription:

Here lives Jeremy Wright. Shaves as well as any man in England, and is not quite.

Foote, after laughing well over the sign, became convinced that the owner must be an eccentric but not a stupid person. He determined to satisfy his curiosity immediately, so, putting his head through one of the paper panes, he inquired:

"Is Jeremy Wright at home, pray?"

"No, sir," came the reply, as the barber instantly thrust his head out through another of the paper panes; "no, sir. He has just popped out."

"Good!" exclaimed the delighted Foote, and he left the barber richer by a guinea without his having exercised his vocation of shaving upon the noted wit, who hurried off, laughing, to tell the story.

Slight Misunderstanding.
"Let me see," said the minister who was filling out the marriage certificate and had forgotten the date, "this is the seventh, is it not?"

"No, sir," snapped the bride, with some show of indignation. "This is only my third, if any one should ask you!"—Detroit Tribune.

Nervous Women

Their Sufferings Are Usually Due to Uterine Disorders Perhaps Unsuspected

A MEDICINE THAT CURES

Can we dispute the well-known fact that Canadian women are nervous?

How often do we hear the expression, "I am so nervous, it seems as if I should fly; or, 'Don't speak to me.' Little things annoy you and make you irritable; you can't sleep. You are unable to quietly and calmly perform your daily tasks or care for your children."

The relation of the nerves and generative organs in women is so close that nine-tenths of the nervous prostration, nervous debility, the blues, sleeplessness and nervous irritability arise from some derangement of the organism which makes her a woman.

Fits of depression or restlessness and irritability. Spirits easily affected, so that one minute she laughs, the next minute weeps. Pain in the ovaries and between the shoulders. Loss of voice; nervous dyspepsia. A tendency to cry at the least provocation. All this points to nervous prostration.

Nothing will relieve this distressing condition and prevent months of prostration and suffering so surely as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Miss Leah Stowell, of 177 Wellington St., Kingston, Ont., writes: Dear Mrs. Pinkham:

"Your medicine is indeed a Godsend to suffering women, and I only wish that they all knew what it can do for them and there would be no need of their dragging out miserable lives in agony. I suffered for years with bearing-down pains, extreme nervousness and excruciating headaches, but a few bottles of your Vegetable Compound made life look new and promising to me. I am light and happy and I do not know what sickness is, and I have enjoyed the best of health now for over four years. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has sent sunshine into thousands of homes and hearts."

Will not the volumes of letters from women made strong by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound convince all women of its virtues? Surely you cannot wish to remain sick and weak and discouraged, exhausted each day, when you can be as easily cured as other women.

Superstition of Devonshire.
Devonshire is known to the world for its superstitious usages, which defy all efforts to uproot them. To name only one example, when a person dies all the relatives must touch the body or they will be haunted by the ghost of the dead forever after. A superstition not so local in its observance is that of beginning no task on a Friday.

The writer recently encountered a girl who, receiving notice to change from one room to another on Friday, insisted upon doing it on Thursday instead.

But the most curious instance of superstition—and this, too, is met with much nearer home than Devon—is surely that which prescribes that when, say, a domestic servant has broken a piece of crockery she is bound by fate to break two other pieces. So far is this idea carried that the writer knows a case where flowerpots are kept for the special purpose of being broken to appease the fates.—London Chronicle.

It doesn't take a man long to find out that he is short.

More Terrible Than War!

More terrible than war, famine or pestilence is that awful destroyer, that hydra-headed monster, Consumption, that annually sweeps away more of earth's inhabitants than any other single disease known to the human race.

"It is only a cold, a trifling cough," say the careless, as the irritation upon the delicate mucous membrane causes them to hack away with an irritating tickling of the throat. When the irritation settles on the sensitive air passages soon leads to fatal results. If on the first appearance of a cough or cold you would take a few doses of

WHEN ALL HOPE WAS ABANDONED

Elzear Cote Found in Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets a Speedy and Permanent Cure for his Stomach Troubles.

"I have suffered for four years from stomach trouble. I consulted three doctors and they told me that I had Dyspepsia and no remedy would cure me." So says Elzear Cote, of St. Rodolphe de Clifton, Que. But Mr. Cote found a remedy that those doctors did not know. It was Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets and it cured him. He says:

"Then I quit the doctors and started to take Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. After the first box I had no more trouble. It is now two years since I took them and I am still well. I do all my own work. I am never tired. That's why I recommend all who have stomach troubles to use Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets."

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets digest the food themselves. This gives the overworked stomach a chance to rest and it naturally comes back to its normal healthy condition.

SHOOTING CROCODILES.

Shooting crocodiles in India is a little like shooting mud turtles. A hunter describes the sport: "We suddenly came on our first crocodile about a mile from camp, asleep on the bank, with its mouth open, not more than twenty yards from us. It started to get away, but I fired two shots as quickly as I could get them off, the first into its mouth and the second into its neck as it turned its head. That stopped it effectively, and it never got into the water. The next day we found another crocodile, and my friend got it just above the shoulder. It was not enough to stop it, but we both fired as it was getting into the water, and one bullet hit it in front of the quarters. They sometimes come up again when wounded, so we waited about twenty minutes, and then looking about I saw it lying on its back at the bottom of the stream. It looked dead enough, so we got hold of the end of the tail and pulled it ashore. We gave it two more shots, one in the neck and the other in the middle of the back, and it then still had vitality enough to bite a paddle in two, though the legs were paralyzed and it could not move."

SELL YOUR GOLD FOR $1!

You surely won't stop at a dollar bill to cure that horrid, sniffling cold? Go to any drugist and get "Catarrhoxone" and your cold will be a thing of the past. There is almost withery in the swift way Catarrhoxone kills colds. But when you consider the penetrating, healing and antiseptic qualities of Catarrhoxone, perhaps it's not so wonderful. Certainly there is no remedy half so prompt for colds and catarrh as Catarrhoxone. Refuse a substitute and insist on having only "Catarrhoxone."

Where Bird Seeds Come From. What we call "canary seed" is the seed of a kind of grass, and all of it used in this country is imported from Europe.

Although the plant that produces the rape seed supplied to canaries is grown in the United States to some extent for fodder, all of this kind of seed required for the feeding of cage birds is imported.

Rape seed comes mainly from Abyssinia and India, where the plant that produces it is cultivated for oil and also used as a condiment.

Hemp seed, likewise fed to cage birds, is produced quite largely in Missouri and adjacent states.

NO POISON IN CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY.

From Napier, New Zealand, Herald: Two years ago the Pharmacy Board of New South Wales, Australia, had an analysis made of all the cough medicines that were sold in that market. Out of the entire list they found only one that they declared was entirely free from all poisons. This exception was Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, made by the Chamberlain Medicine Company, Des Moines, Iowa, U. S. A. The absence of all narcotics makes this remedy the safest and best that can be had; and it is with a feeling of security that any mother can give it to her little ones. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is especially recommended by its makers for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough. When taken in time it prevents pneumonia. This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

The Pensioners of Europe.

A traveler who has toured Europe with his wife at $4 a day for the two declares that the pensioners are the base of his cheap travel. In every continental city visited they easily found delightful pensions at $1.20 a day each. The pensioners have not the style and display of the hotels, but they have all the comfort and the service fees are fewer and smaller. Breakfast includes bread and coffee, nothing more. Luncheon and dinner are course meals, very much alike. Some one in the house always speaks English.

SORE THROAT AND COUGHS.

A simple, effective and safe remedy for all throat irritations is found in Chamberlain's Cough Tablets. They combine the germicidal values of Cresole with the soothing properties of slippery elm and licorice.

SIMPLE LIFE.

The Delights of a Dust Proof House. Bric-a-brac in Cabinets.

Not a single piece of upholstered furniture have we in our new house except a large couch in our sitting room; many cushions and pillows supplying softness to the hardwood chairs and divans, that are handsome in the styles of today. The many pieces of bric-a-brac with which our old home was cluttered were of value and great beauty, but I had vowed to dispose of all but a few vases and bronzes, for their care was a weariness to myself and too much of a responsibility to ask a maid to undertake. What to do with them was a serious question. They represented much love and kindly thought, as well as intrinsic worth. The suggestion of a friend helped me greatly, and now two glass front cabinets hold these treasures, one standing in the reception hall, the other in the library, where visiting friends may see their gifts of the past still treasured. Twice each year the doors are opened and each article dusted, no oftener dusting being necessary. Each room has from two to several good pictures on the walls, and books are everywhere.

A Tidy Way of Living.

We have lived in this tidy way, says a Good Housekeeping writer, for two years, and each day of the time we have liked it more and more. The expense of the hardwood furniture, with the many cushions and pillows, was much less than the cost of upholstery would have been, and the work saved cannot be estimated. On the walls of the new house all the paper has a hard, smooth finish that can be wiped free of dust.

Kitchen, pantry, back halls, bathroom and lavatories have walls and ceiling painted and varnished, a cloth on a broom keeping them free from dust. Once each year they are washed—this in the late fall—to remove insect spots and eggs that may have been deposited there. Clothes closets are papered, slides and ceiling, with a plain glossed paper that will hold clean and intact many years.

SCHOOLGIRL'S DRESS.

Bodice and Skirt Arrangement of Next and Becoming Fashion.

At this season of the year both heat and cold are to be more or less taken into consideration in dress, and especially when it is juvenile garb that is concerned. However, as extra wraps are easily added, moderate weight is to be preferred for gowns, for which reason cashmere, fine serge and tweeds are better than heavy chevrons and freezes. A neat coat and skirt of one of the latter stuffs make a nice walking suit, but there is always entailed the waist to complete this, and the blouse, where the schoolgirl is concerned, is an extremely dubious proposition. It should always be neat and fresh in appearance, but is it? Experienced in many cases favors the claims of a permanently allied bodice and skirt.

A frock after the style of the one shown in the accompanying group is eminently well fitted to meet schoolroom exigencies, and it has been especially designed for red or brown cashmere, worn with a patent leather belt, while the vest might now be a lingerie affair and later on of fine cream cloth or flannel.

Grape Juice.

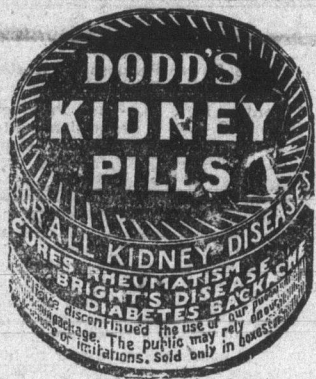

For grape juice strip and pick over your grapes, washing and draining carefully. Crush them and set to simmer in a porcelain kettle. Use no water. When cooked sufficiently to yield all their juices, strain and press the pulp, then measure your liquid and stir in a teaspoon of sugar to every gallon of the juice. Bring this barely to a boil, quickly strain again and pour into wine bottles while very hot, sealing at once. Keep in cool place, and you are ready for many emergencies of the next season.—Table Talk.

A Wrinkle With Eggsplants.

A French wrinkle is to cut small eggplants in two, score the cut sides, season with salt and pepper, baste with oil and broil until soft. They are dished with the concave side up, covered with a tomato sauce, to which a small fried onion and a clove of garlic have been added, and sprinkled with shredded anchovies, minced parsley and a very little lemon juice. This may be Americanized by being basted with butter instead of oil and omitting the garlic.

Wedgwood Fashionable.

Wedgwood china, since being selected for the White House set, has enjoyed a special vogue among fashionable folk, and the fascinating Greek figures, with their swirling draperies and graceful curves, are given decided preference, although medallion ornamentations come in as close rivals.

SOCIAL SPONGING

The Extent to Which It Is Carried in London.

There is probably no city in the world where there is so much social sponging done as in London. At their big functions hosts and hostesses have frequently not the remotest acquaintance with many of the people who attend them and whose cheek is only exceeded by their voracity. "I have one particular case in memory," says a writer in the Boston Herald, "where a woman brought fifty of a millionaire. It was at the house of a millionaire, the Hon. Gila Vivian, in Eaton square. On the same occasion nearly every one else brought herself, her family and all her friends. It was a never to be forgotten gathering. Many people never succeeded in getting beyond the hall door. An excellent supper had been provided for about three or four hundred, but there must have been a thousand present. About 1 a. m. people were sitting about in the bedrooms eating sandwiches and drinking claret or champagne. In fact, anything they could grab from the supper table—and the story went that they got so hungry and riotous that they invaded the wine cellar and the larder."

French Origin of "Save the King." The British national anthem is of French origin. The Petite Republique asserts that the words of "God Save the King" are a literal translation of a hymn in honor of Louis XIV., chanted by the young girls in residence at the convent of St. Cyr.

The French words of this hymn were: Grand Dieu, sauvez le roi! Grand Dieu, vengez le roi! Vive le roi! Que tousjours glorieux, Louis victorieux, Vole ses ennemis, Toujours soumis.

The music of this chant was copied during his visit to France by Handel, who on his return to England dedicated it to George I.

AUTUMN LUNCHEON.

Flowers For the Table—Pleasing Color Effects in the Menu.

A slight check on the too lavish use of some flowers for the table at social functions lies in the fact that few odors stimulate the appetite as do the nasturtium and carnation, and many people find the perfume of some disagreeable while partaking of food.

The delicate perfume of the golden-rod and purple aster and their rich colors, which blend so beautifully with their surroundings, make them very desirable for decoration. Tall, slender vases filled with the plummy goldenrod set in flat dishes in which asters are placed make lovely center and end pieces. Buttonhole bouquets of goldenrod tied with lavender ribbon laid at every plate, alternating with asters tied with yellow, serve as souvenirs. Only clear glass and plain china should be used and a very little delicate feathery green. The color scheme can be carried out in the preparation of the menu in a very pleasing manner as follows:

Salmon Loafs.—This is cooled in a round mold and served on a chop plate garnished with blanched celery tops.

Potato Sticks.—Large potatoes are cut into long square strips and fried in deep fat.

Biscuits and Honey.—The yolk of eggs added to the milk used in mixing the baking powder biscuits gives them a golden color. Place them on a lavender tissue paper dolly and serve the honey on a lavender plate if convenient.

Stuffed Eggs.—These are wrapped in yellow, white and lavender tissue papers, the ends of which are crimped and fringed like those of motto candles.

Sponge Bricks.—Cut a sponge or yellow cake, baked in a shallow pan, into bricks about two inches wide and four inches long. Frost on the top and sides with lavender frosting and become it sets press into it blanched almonds, forming a daisy, with a center of yellow frosting, or if preferred cup cakes, frosted with daisies arranged on the tops, can be used.

Other items are cheese, grapes, purple and white; yellow peaches and cream, ambrosia colored with grape or huckleberry juice and served in tall goblets, with a slice of lemon in each glass; ice cream, lavender and yellow; served in sherbet glasses on paper dollies; coffee.—Table Talk.

How to Fill Pillows.

Any one who has tried to fill new ticking cases with feathers knows that the task is no easy matter. They fly here and there, stick to clothes, hair and carpets and nearly drive the worker frantic. But housekeepers of the good old days had a way of managing them which is well worth passing on to their grandchildren, as the New Idea Magazine tells. The new cases were sewed firmly all around except for a space of ten inches in the middle of one of the narrow ends. The case from which the feathers were to be taken was then ripped open for the same distance in the center of one of the ends, and the sides of the slit were stitched to the sides of the opening in the new case. This joined the two cases closely, leaving an opening between, through which the feathers were easily pushed by squeezing the outside of the case containing them. When the latter is empty rip the cases apart, collect the few that may still cling to the sides or corners of the old one, put them into the new pillow, sew up the slit, and the troublesome task is completed.

Roll 'Em Ups.

These little spicy rolls of fish are a German conceit and very tempting, particularly when served for breakfast with French fried potatoes and crisp radishes. To prepare select plump salt herring, remove the backbone and divide lengthwise into fillets and soak for six hours in cold water. Drain and on each piece lay three peppercorns, a tiny piece of bay leaf, a bit of lemon peel, two or three cloves and half a teaspoonful of chopped onion. Roll up, tie with thread or fasten with tiny skewers and place in a crock. Heat sufficient vinegar to cover the fish and pour over it. Repeat this process for three mornings, when the roll 'em ups will be ready to serve. If the vinegar is very sharp dilute with water to the amount of a third.

Tomato Bouillon.

Tomato bouillon is very appetizing. To one can of tomatoes add one quart of water and five onions. Let it boil until the juice is out of the onions. Strain and season with pepper and salt, dashing it with tabasco.

The New Grape Cup.

Grapes are now served in cups which are purposely made for such service. Shaved ice is placed in and about the

CHINA URGED BY JAPAN.

Seeks New Constitution to Include Best That Is.

New York, Nov. 3.—Yu Chuan Chang, a member of the Chinese commission which is to draft a constitution for the Chinese Empire, arrived here yesterday from Hamburg. He is a secretary of the branch of this commission, which will study the constitution of the United States. Other sections will investigate simultaneously the constitutions of foreign countries. Yu Chuan Chang said yesterday:

"When these special ambassadors have finished their work and submitted the draft of the constitution for China to the Emperor, China will step out of the ranks of absolute monarchies and enter that of constitutional empires."

"The Chinese constitution will embrace all of the best features of the constitutions of Great Britain, America, Spain, France, Germany and Austria. The travels of the special embassy will be ended in about eight months, after which the envoys will draw up a constitution."

Mr. Chang added that this departure from ancient custom was due to the gradual spread of Japanese influence over the Empire since the recent war. He said that Japan had urged China to modernize her laws and government, and thus form a strong alliance of the yellow races in the Far East.

Baron Komura to Peking. Tokyo, Nov. 3.—It is reported here that Baron Komura, the Foreign Minister, accompanied by H. W. Denison, the foreign adviser of the Japanese Government, will go to Peking as special envoy of Japan.

STEAMER MYLES IS SAFE.

Sought Shelter in Portage Entry Canal During the Storm.

Detroit, Nov. 3.—A despatch says the Canadian steamer Myles, which passed Sault Ste. Marie last Saturday, passed up the Portage Entry Canal (Lake Superior) yesterday, having been in shelter there for several days. There was a good deal of alarm felt for the missing boat.

Another Kaliyuga Victim. Port Elgin, Nov. 3.—The body of a man from the wrecked schooner Kaliyuga was found on the breakwater here yesterday. The man would be about 45 years of age, 5 feet 7 inches tall, with a dark moustache, and had in his pocket a five-dollar bill and silver dollar, both American money. It was evident death was caused by exposure and not drowning.

Accidents in Canal. Port Dalhousie, Nov. 3.—The steamer Plummer, in passing through the canal, broke the tips of two of her blades of her wheel, yesterday. When passing by lock 12 the steamer Turret Cape, in entering lock 3, struck the gate and broke one of the adjusting screws, which detained her several hours.

ADVISES MONARCHY.

Proclamation Issued to Norwegians—In Their Best Interests.

Christiania, Nov. 3.—The Government yesterday issued a proclamation recommending the people to vote at the forthcoming referendum for a monarchical form of government, based on the British and Italian constitutions. The proclamation further points out that the best friends of Norway in Europe declare that the country's relations with the foreign powers can be the better secured by the retention of the monarchy.

The Radicals and Socialists also issued a proclamation recommending a republic.

Another proclamation was issued by 130 prominent Liberals, asking the people under the circumstances to support the proposition of the Government.

Many men get the idea they know a great deal through women's flattery.

A man don't mind being bossed by his wife, but he wants it done when they are alone.

PREMIER WHITNEY ASSURES.

Hears the Power Requests of Eastern Counties Deputation.

Toronto, Nov. 3.—The Provincial Government met a deputation yesterday asking that the power to be generated at Healey Falls, on the Trent River, north of Campbellford, by a syndicate promoted by J. A. Culverwell, be restricted for use within the counties. It was one of the largest yet received by the Government, numbering over thirty, and were introduced by J. J. Preston, M. P. P.

Premier Whitney remarked it was a "very unusual request," causing a precedent that would not work out very well. "If every county asked to have its power restricted within itself, where would it leave us?" remarked the Premier. "We would have a check-board system. The great question of electric power is coming to the front, so that no question is entitled to more consideration by the Government as trustees of the people."

Mr. Whitney assured the deputation they need fear no other applicant. The question would be given the consideration so important a question deserved.

VENEZUELA SHUTS DOWN CANAL.

No Service For a Day—More Provocation For France.

Paris, Nov. 3.—Advices received by the Foreign Office here say that the Venezuelan Government suspended the despatch of cable despatches to the United States, France and Great Britain for some time. The American and British Ministers at Caracas have protested, but the French charge d'affaires has not protested, owing to the interruption of diplomatic relations between France and Venezuela.

The officials here understand that the American Minister voiced the protest of France. The suspension occurred Tuesday or the day before, and lasted a day. The ground for the suspension was that the Venezuelan Government had not received a reply to a cable message sent to an agent abroad.

The Tariff Commissioners.

Ottawa, Nov. 3.—The Cabinet met yesterday afternoon and as it was the first meeting since the return to the capital of the three tariff commissioners, the tariff question loomed largest in the discussion. It was decided to continue the enquiry. The next place of meeting will be Montreal. It is, however, quite generally understood that while the commissioners will prosecute their investigations, no revision of the tariff will be discussed in Parliament during the coming session.

Military Court of Inquiry.

Quebec, Nov. 3.—A military court of inquiry is sitting at the Brigade Office here and many military men are giving evidence.

The court is composed of Col. Gordon, Kingston, president; Lieut.-Col. Scott, St. Hyacinthe, and Major Ostell, Montreal.

It is understood there is something wrong, or not quite clear, with the pay lists of the recent infantry camp, at St. Joseph de Levis.
