Ladies' and Misses' Coats

$4.98 each

To clean up the balance of our stock of ladies' and misses' coats, we have made a very deep cut in the price. There are 27 of them and the regular prices were from $8.50 to $13.00 each. Every garment is this season's buying, and thoroughly up-to-date in every respect. We don't want to carry any over to next season and in order to make short work of what is left, we've marked them at $4.98, at this price we lose money on every garment, but it gives you an opportunity to make a big saving by buying here. They'll not last long at the price, so would advise you to be on hand early to secure the choice. You'll see them in the window, and a glance will convince you that every one is a "BIG BARGAIN".

YEAR WAS SUCCESSFUL

The Annual Meeting Of The West Kent Agricultural Society

THE OFFICERS ELECTED

The annual meeting of the West Kent Agricultural Society was held in Harrison Hall on Wednesday, Feb.

J. Dowling, the First Vice-President, was, owing to illness, unable to attend, and in his absence the chair was occupied by S. Stone, the Second Vice-President.

The Treasurer's statement for the

The Treasurer's statement for the past year was carefully gone over and the accounts were found to be in a very satisfactory condition.

The society's receipts for the year were $4,029.40; their expenditures, including $200 paid on the mortgage, was $3,065.72, thus leaving them a balance on hand of $963.68. The society has published a financial statement in full of all the prizes, etc., awarded at the fair last year. This statement can be had by applying for it from the Secretary, A. H. White.

Mr. White, when interviewed yesterday, was quite pleased with the progress the society had made during the past year, and stated that this year's Fall Fair would excell any of former years.

of former years. A good board of directors has been appointed and they are all willing to do their utmost to make the ensuing year a success. The following are the officers and board of directors for 1907:

THE MARKET CLOCK

Ald. Potter had a few things to say

Ald. Potter had a few things to say to The Planet in reference to an item which appeared in this journal relative to the market bell question.

"The matter was referred to the Property committee all right," said Ald. Potter, "and we have met and decided upon a recommendation. All we want now is a special meeting of the Council to ratify our action.

"The committee is of the opinion that a striking bell should be installed. It will mean a cost of about $300 more, but this amount includes the cost of fitting up the tower to receive the bell. The total cost of the whole outfit will be about $600. The committee thought it best to have the striker, as then the clock would be of use to everyone in the city, while otherwise it would only be useful to the people who happened to be on King street. The old bell will be used for the striker."

Mr. A. Sheldrick, the King street merchant tailor, is one of the many who think natural gas should be given a trial, and that the citizens should not he deprived of its use any longer than possible. I don't think Chatham is any better than other cities which are using natural gas unpurified, and what has proved satisfactory in other cities and towns should also prove satisfactory in Chatham,' said Mr. Sheldrick, while in conversation with a Planet reporter.

"Would you be willing to use it for illuminating purposes without its being first purified?" he was asked. I would be willing to take chances for a trial, atleast," he replied. Think that the gas ought to be the people who happened to be on King street. The old bell will be used for the striker."

Thriving Place-Great Loss

As the blaze was among the cartinges, powders, paints, turpentines, tvarnishes and other inflammable materials it was dangerous to enter the building and the firemen confined their attention to flooding the cellar with water.

For some time it appeared as if the fire was under control, but of a sudden the flames shot out from different parts of the block (and, fanned by the high winds, made it almost impossible to stay them.

The firemen, who were putting up a brave fight, now confined their attention to stopping the flames at the Wilson block, which adjoins, and were successful in doing so, for about 8 o'clock the front and side walls fell in, and shortly after the furnace chimney followed, which gave the fire fighters a chance to get at the seat of the blaze. Government Is Now Asking For Tenders For Work At Rondeau

MR. BOWYER'S FINE WORK

The Government is now asking for tenders for a new Government dock at Rondeau Park—a convenience for which the residents of this popular summer resort have been looking forward for years.

The proposed dock will be a fine, permanent structure, with an earth approach, obtained by use of a dredge, with outer stone curbs. It, will be a splendid work, and will be a great benefit to the many residents of this county, who yearly spend the summer months at this resort.

This dock has been secured at the cost of considerable energy spent by Mr. P. H. Bowyer, M. P. P. for East Kent, in his efforts to induce the Government to take up this maintain.

East Kent, in his efforts to induce the Government to take up this matter. This is a matter in which Mr. Bowyer has worked unceasingly ever since his election, and it is to his oredit that he did not give up for a moment, but stayed with his scheme until the Government could put him off with promises no longer. Government Park is one of ithe finest summer resort in Canada, and the only thing which kept it back during recent years was the fact that there was no dock suitable for landing boats. This difficulty is now happily overcome, thanks to the

Mrs. Mills sued her husband in Detroit, Mich., her home, some time ago, for divorce, and demanded possession of the child. He sued her later on and asked for the child and testimony before a Federal Commissioner is being taken in the case here to-day. Mr. Mills has also started an action against Millard Sticklather, of this place, for $160,000 for alleged alienation of Mrs. Mills affections.

Mrs. Mills will, it is stated, mention the names of New York society women in connection with that of her husband when her suit against him comes up. Mrs. Mills spent some time here last summer, and detectives were constantly watching her. Some of them played society swells and got in exclusive families and clubs, while others mixed with the servants.

Mr. and Mrs. Mills are well known in this city, having visited Chatham several times in their yacht "Cny-thia."

DRESDEN ROBBERY

Later Accounts Of Daring Burglary Giving Details-No Clue Yet Found

Entrance to the building had been secured through the side window, and with the formidable tools with which the burglars were equipped they evidently had little difficulty in getting into the building the product of the publication.

in getting into the building.

The explosion was evidently a muffled one—that is, the safe door was allowed to fall on something like a blanket. The noise that was heard by those who live in the vicinity was not more than a slight one, and consider ng the fact that no further explosions followed it is (not to be wandered at that no one was

It is estimated that there were several hundred dollars in money in the safe, as the savings bank depart-ment, postal note office, and money the sare, as the savings bank department, postal note office, and money order service were all conducted by Mr. Watson. There was a large stock of stamps on hand, the value of which will likely run into several hundred dellars. On a rough estimate it was stated this morning that the loss would at any rate reach $1,200.

There is not a resident of Dresden who can remember having seen any suspicious characters around the town yesterday. There were quite a number of visitors, but no one's attention was attracted to them. The chief of police remembers having seen an one loitering (about. And so the theory is that the burglars, and it is believed by footprints seen that there were at least three of them, came in on a Pere Marquette train and departed in the same way. It is almost certain that same way. It is almost certain that they went away in this manner at any rate, for a rifted mail bag was found lying close to the tracks when a search was made this morning. Another fact which would go to show that the men did not either drive in or out, is that no fresh buggy tracks could be discovered in front of the post office or in the vicinity of that building.

Police in all prits of the countey have been notified of the robbery, and there is a strong possibility that the provincial police will be called in. same way. It is almost certain that

The Dresden post office handles money orders and postal notes, and also conducts a branch of the post office savings bank. In addition to these sources of revenue, the proceeds of which would be placed in the safe, perhaps for several days together, there was the business done in stamps, which of itself may be found to amount to a large sum.

AN INDEPENDENT OPINION.

The Bobcaygeon independent, or of the very few really independent newspapers in Canada, and possessed of marked ability and good common sense, does not like the fish situation in this country, and says:

"Canada possesses in its great fisheries a source of cheap food that has long been neglected by the governing powers, and in many cases has serious destruction been permitted.

Ontario has been well favored, but the fisheries of Lakes Ontario and Erie, and of late years Nipissing, been almost destroyed by wan tonness. Tons of fish have been taken at spawning seasons and allowed to rot on the shores, It is late in the day, but not too late, to establish such a control of these fisheries as will in time restore them to serviceable use and provide for our people a cheap and healthy (food, In Ontario we have been to busy with rotten politics that we have allowed our wide-awake southern neighbor to actually come in and earry off everything that is not spiked down. Our fish, our forest products, our mines, everything goes, while we sit around the corner groceries calling each other names over Gritism and Toryism, and blathering like a cage full of Darwinian missing links. Ontario has a great fresh water area for the production of fish, and an immense store of salt water fish in the northwest should be preserved and developed for its own use and benefit. Fortunately; the Fish Protective Association bas awakened the Whitney Government to the position, and it does look now as if this question is to receive the attention that it demands."

SUBJECT OF FUNERALS.

The Chatham Ministeraial Association have emphatically disapproved of several doubtful practices, among which are Sunday funerals and display and expense in flowers, caskets etc. The most notable, perhaps, of their pronouncements, as touching the sensibilities of the bereaved everywhere, is this: "We would strongly urge that the practice of exposing the corpse to view at the close of the funeral service be abolished."

Happily the tendency of the day

Happity the tendency of the day is toward simplicity in funerals, although much yet remains to be done by way of reform. It needs courage to dety public opinion in market pertaining to funerals.

THE MEN IN IT.

Governor of Jamaica, Sir Alexander Swettenham, and Rear-Admiral Davis of the American Navy.

Six Alexander Swettenham, Gover-nor of Jamaica, and Rear-Admiral Davis of the American navy, have fur-nished much copy for the newspapers during the past week or two. With-out going into the merits of the controversy, it may be well to glance at the two men, their works and their

The data furnished about Sir Alexander Swettenham is from the pen of a former sub-editor of The London Daily Chronicle, and afterwards editor of The Argosy of Georgetown, Demarara, when Sir Alexander was governor of that colony and had a personal acquaintance with him. The

SIR ALEXANDER SWETTENHAM.

Settlements, with his brother, Sir Frank Athelstane Swettenham, as governor-in-chief, the Straits Settle-sketch was written and published in a New York paper, before the trouble. Sixty-one years old, with the physical energy and vigor of a man of thirty; six feet tall, muscular, commanding, imperious; a ruddy face; steel-gray eyes, keen as a hawk's. There you have Sir James Alexander Swettenham, governor and command-er-in-chief of the Island of Jamaica and its dependencies, and the man upon whom the burden of the present situation in that island has fal-len. This man has been a fighter all his life. He served his apprentice-ship to the British colonial civil ser-when, some 14 years ago, he became Colonial Secretary of the Strataments were a burden, financially and in every other sense, to the British Government. The country was undeveloped; the natives were unhappy and discontented; commerce was a negligible quantity, and gloom in the minds of the people and the Govern ment alike. The Swettenhams changed all that.

It was often difficult and dangerous with The Malays are the reserve of over the Malays are the reverse of lamblike, and their prejudices and their ways alike extensive and peculiar. But the cool, unyielding spirit of the Colonial Secretary first astounded them, and later compelled their unwilling admiration. When he left the Straits Settlements to become government of the control of the co the Straits Settlements to become gov-ernor of British Guiana the country was being rapidly developed, trade was flourishing, and the colony not only showed a handsome yearly sur-plus, but made itself unique by con-tributing, alone among all the colon-ies of the British Empire, to the re-venue of the grown ies of the British Empire, to the revenue of the crown.

In British Guiana he met a task worthy of his powers. The negroes, who constitute the great bulk of the population, were incensed against the planters for importing coolie labor. They were disinclined to comply with the requirements of the education code; they were determined to make trouble. Alexander Swettenham put a ston to all that. He condemned them trouble. Alexander Swettennam put a stop to all that. He condemned them for their inertia, shamed them with flery words of scorn for their lack of self-respect, and taught them how they might make themselves a power in the land. And they learned.

land. And they learned.

He was never a respector of persons. One day a big gun went to Government House to argue with him about a certain measure he was engaged in drafting for the consideration of the local Legislature.

"It you do it that way, you will hurt us," he said.

"And who are you that you should

REAR ADMIRAL DAVIS. not be hurt if the masses of the peo-ple will benefit?" thundered the governor. "Go away, sir; go away, and mark me, I am governor here, and I govern for the people, not for selfish minorities!"

When the news of the Martinique cataclysm reached British Guians, the Legislature was not sitting, and its members were scattered all over the hundred thousand square miles of the colony. Swettenham did not hesitate an instant. He chartered a ninorities! steamer lying in port, bought the en-tire cargo of an American flour boat, despatched it with a letter of credit on the colony for $10,000 to the suffering people of Fort de France-and then summoned the Legislature. The native element in the Legislature, ever sticklers for procedure, condemned his action as illegal without their previous corsent, and threat-ened to refuse to ratify it or to auth-orize payment. "Very well, gentle-men, as you will. But I will not break faith with these poor sufferers in Martinique and St. Vincent. I will pay it myself, and I am confident that it will be placed to my credit in their gratitude. And, gentlemen, I have no intention of altering my decision. It will be from the people decision. It will be 'from the people of British Guiana,' all the same!" The native element abandoned its op-position, and the bill was paid.

As a protector of the common peo-ple Swettenham has had no equal in the records of West Indian governor-while thus guarding the rights of the common people, he was not unmindful of the future of the colony. The gold fields were almost inaccessible. It was solely due to his energy, his initiative, and his broad and liberal relief towards American invessed to the colony.

his initiative, and his broad and liberal policy towards American investors that a large company of New York capitalists was formed and is now operating the largest and finest equipped gold mine in the three Guianas.

"Jimmy" was feared by the common people, but they all believed in him, and they all respected him. They learned to know that his "No" meant no, and that his "Yes" was as reliable as a Bank of England note.

In Jamaica, which he has governed for three years, Sir Alexander has reorganized the financial resources of the island, purged the local civil service of idlers, improved the educational system, and wakened the people up.

Rear-Admiral Charles H. Davis of the American squadron which has de-parted from Jamaica owing to a de-mand from Governor Swettenham to mand from Governor Swettenam to recall to their ships the American bluejackets who were landed for po-lice duty, commands the first squad-ron of the North Atlantic fleet under "Fighting Bob" Evans. Admiral Davis was the American member of the North Sea commission which inquired into the shooting of British fishermen by the Russian fleet on the Dogger banks during the Russo-Japanese war panks during the Russo-Japanese war in 1904. He entered the navy in 1861 as a cadet at Annapolis. He is noted for his scientific attainments, and was selected for the North Sea assignment because of his thorough acquaintance with international and maritime law.

ROBUST DOUGH ROLLERS.

Work In a Ple Enctory Is Scale of Athletics. To properly describe the processes of baking pumpkin pies would require one skilled in the technicalities of the art. This is the way it looks to a mere man: First, the coarse yellow rind is removed, and then the pumpkin is cut open and the seeds taken out, after which the two halves are thoroughly washed. Then a husky lad takes a sort of cleaver and cuts the pumpkin into large pieces, which are fed into a steam chopping machine and reduced to small fragments. These are placed in a huge copper boiler capable of holding perhaps twenty-five gallons. After the boiling has been completed a pasty mixture of eggs, milk, sugar, cinnamor and other spices and condiments is added and well stirred in, and then the yellow mass is ready to be filled into the skeleton pies. The crust is prepared in another department, where the dough is mixed, rolled and placed in the pans ready to receive the filling. If any one thinks that piemaking is ar. easy and effeminate employment he should visit a pie bakery and inspect the muscles developed on the arms of expert pie crust mixers and rollers. They would be creditable to a trained athlete and would put many a mill worker and blacksmith to the blush. Finally the pies are placed on racks and shoved into huge ovens that resemble nothing else so much as the

The Organs of Sight of the Spider and the Snail.

The next time you catch a spider try to find the eight shiny little eyes at the anterior end, some above and some put under the edge of what we may imagine to be its forehead. To examine these parts to the best advantage hold the spider in tweezers, or it may be better to use a spider killed by being dropped into a bottle of diluted alcohol. These eight eyes vary in arrangement and in relative size in various species of spiders-in some they may be arranged in two rows, in other in three; some may be very small and others large and prominent, and so on-but there they are, rather poor eyes, near-sighted, looking in several directions at once, and the spider, which can never shut any of them, is sure to see everything that approaches unless it is asleep, in which case the sight is dead. For some purposes it may be convenient to have eyes that roll up and disappear at the approach of danger. And these are exactly what the snail has, situated at the end of two long and sensitive palpi, or feelers. When all is quiet their owner extends these organs and you can see at their tips small round knobs upon which the eyes are placed. But if you touch one of the palpi or even jar the snail a little the eyes begin to back into these feelers as the tip of a glove finger may be turned in, and they no longer see any danger that may be lurking at hand.

Dangers of the Revenue Service. The officers of the internal revenue service make little fuss over their accomplishments. The world scarcely hears of them unless they have had a desperate hand to hand fight with mountain desperadoes which has re-sulted in the death of several of their number. But day after day and night after night they go about their work calmly, quietly, in constant danger of death from a shot from some ambush-ed moonshiner or blockader. Yet these men are an absolute necessity for the safeguarding of the country's interests, and they deserve much credit for their hard task, scarcely appreciated by the great mass of the people.—David A. Gates in Metropolitan Magazine.

"Messages," said a telegraph operator, "always slide over the wires bet-ter on Monday than on any other day. The wires, you see, have profited by their Sunday rest. It is a fact that inanimate as well as animate things get tired and need a vacation occasionally. You know how true this is of razors, of automobiles, of locomotives, and it is just as true of telegraph wires. A wire after its Sunday rest gives a quicker, a sion. It is like a piano that has just

The Thumb.
The radical difference between the hand of man and of the monkey lies in the thumb. In the human hand the thumb has the "opposing power," which means that the thumb can be made to touch the tip of each or any of the other fingers on the same hand. The monkey's thumb is nonopposable.

"Say," queried old Wedderly, "why don't you get married?"

"Because," replied young Singleton,
"I'm too poor." "Huh!" rejoined the old man. "When I was your age I was so poor I had to

"I should say so! Everyone who tries it says there's nothing like St. George's."

"I know-but wouldn't you rather get a Baking-Powder you are sure is good?"

"St. George's is really less expensive—it goes farther and does better work - and never wastes flour in failures."

"No, indeed! There's not an atom of adulteration in St. George's Baking Powder and the Cream of Tartar is 100% pure."

"Never! It makes the biscuits deliciously light."

"Yes, yes! Just try St. George's on my recommendation-if they're not good, I'll eat them all myself—at one sitting."

"Yes—the manufacturers guarantee it and I guarantee it too."

"Certainly! Money back, if it's not just as I say it is."

N. H. Stevens has received a very pleasant letter from J. C. Hunter, of Belfast, Ireland. Mr. Hunter will be remembered by many of the Chatham people as one of the members of the British Bowling Association, which visited here last summer. In this letter Mr. Hunter states that he never forgets the pleasant visit he had while in Chatham, and writes that the delightful tour by them to Canada is still a very pleasant theme to dwell upon and will long continue such, and with most of the visitors will remain while life lasts, a very happy recollection. Mr. Hunter states that the great kindness shown him while in this city, the delightful sail on the River Thames to the lake, and the exceptional attractions on board the steamer will not be forgotten. Mr. Stevens here says that Mr. Hunter is a widower, which may have something to do with the attractions on the steamer.

Mr. List had a miraculous escape from instant death. It seems that he did not see the train backing down, until on the track, and just as it struck the wagon he jumped and clutched to the bridle of the horse. He was dragged down the track some distance, but with the exception of having his shoulder jammed slightly was not seriously injured.

Fortunately, Mr. Sherman had in his hand a large clasp knife with which he had been cutting the bands on the fodder. With great presence of mind he reached up and drove the knife into the animal's neck. This caused the brute to retreat a few paces, when Mr. Sherman sprang up and seizing a pitchfork attacked him vigorously and finally succeeded in driving him away. in driving him away.

The big revolver—it must have been a 38-calibre at least—did not appear to be in good working order. While the 'trainman was getting the pistol ready, the contents of two of the chambers were accidentally fired. One of the bullets whizzed through the crowd, but, fortunately, struck no one. # AT LIBERTY

This morning at about 11.40 o'clock. The Trial To a Temporary Death of Mrs. Bolton Brings Stop

New York, Feb. 15.—Another tragic chapter in the story of the Thaw-White case was written yesterday, when grim death stepped in to halt the famous trial in its fourth week.

The wife of Juror No. 11, Mrs. Joseph B. Belton, passed away yesterday afternoon, soon after her husband had reached her bedside. He had been summoned from the court-room, where the trial had been in progress for less than 15 minutes.

The formal announcement of Mrs. Bolton's death was made in court shortly after 2 p. m., the hour set for the afternoon session, and Justice Fitzgerald immediately ordered an adjournment of the case until Monday. The court also ordered, with the consent of counsel, that the other 11 jurors be given their liberty and no longer held together.

He admonished them to be guided by their honor and their oath and not to read the newspapers or discuss the Thaw case with anybody.

In adjourning till Monday Justice Fitzgerald expressed the hope that the trial might then proceed.

TAKE A LEAP IN THE DARK

The Lemieux Labor Bill Comes In For Some Severe Criticism

THE HOUSE OF COMMONS

Ottawa, Feb. 15.—After some seven hours of debate the House of Commons gave a second reading to the bill of Mr. Lemieux, for preventing and settling strikes and lockouts, and now entitled "The Industrial Disputes Investigation Act."

Armand Lavergne, although supporting the bill, pointed out that by section 63 an employe was forbidden to strike in order to prevent the "open shop," but Hance Logan (Liberal, Cumberland, N.S.) intimated that this section would be withdrawn.

R. L. Borden found much to commend in the bill, but regretted that the Government had not accepted his resolution for a select committee to investigate the relations of capital and labor. The bill will no doubt be amended to some extent in committee.

Mr. Lemieux appealed to both sides tee.

Mr. Lemieux appealed to both sides of the House to consider the measure free from any partisan prejudice. In his opinion the passage of this bill would be the most important act ever accomplished by the present Government. Fifty years ago there were no special questions in Canada. Canada was now face to face with the labor question.

During 1906 there had occurred 158 strikes, affecting 26,014 workmen.

Taking the past six years of Canada, the records showed 715 strikes, affecting 26,000 working records and caus-

Taking the past six years of Canada, the records showed 715 strikes, affecting 142,000 working people and causing them to lose 2,652,460 working days. Beyond the material losses occasioned by labor difficulties there were other and more serious losses, including, deaths, wounds, imprisonment, lawlessness and civil strife.

This bill, Mr. Lemieux explained, (a) prohibits strikes and lockouts pending an investigation; (b) provides machinery to carry out that end; (c) relates to all public utilities. He admitted that the award could not be enforced except by public opinion. He considered compulsory arbitration as out of the question in a country like Canada. It would mean driving our employers and employes alike to the United States. He closed with an eloquent plea for industrial peace.

A Leap In the Dark.

R. L. Borden said it was the act.

eloquent plea for industrial peace.

A Leap In the Dark.

R. L. Borden said it was the act drafted by Sir John A. Macdonald, which permitted laboring men to strike without rendering themselves liable to prosecution. The bill was antagonized by the Liberal party. The Toronto Globe in a long editorial announcing that the labor agitation in Canada was entirely without reason.

Of the more than 700 strikes during the past six versus Canada was entirely without reason.

Of the more than 700 strikes during the past six years, only thirty-seven were settled by the Department of Labor. The important thing in labor difficulties was to get the employer and employes together. In what way could it be better brought about than to have an enquiry by a select committee which would assemble the views and aspirations of capital and labor alike?

He was not an advocate of the New Zealand plan of compulsory arbitration. He admitted that the bill contained some excellent features; but why was the Government bent upon taking this leap in the dark? Surely all learning upon this topic was not bound and circumscribed by the files of The Labor Gazette. No one under this act could apply for governmental interference until he was prepared to make an affidavit that a strike or lockout had been ordered, or was about to be ordered by some authority competent to order the same. Did this not postpone the good offices of the Government until the parties themselves were embroiled in quarrels and had passed the point where meditation could be accepted?

The Speaker announced that he had issued his warrant for writ for the bye-elections to fill the vacancies caused by the death of Charlemagne Laurier and the promotions of Mr. Bruneau and Hon. John Costigan.

ZAM-BUK WILL CURE

he Skin in Wi

Suppose you were to carry a piece of hard bright steel about for a few days. Take it with you into your hot room—out again into a ten-below-zero breeze! Here in moist warm air. There in keen biting wind. How long would it remain bright and smooth? You skin is subject to all these changes. Can you wonder that without attention it becomes rough, red and sore, with cracks and chapped places, and sometimes exzemous blotches? Do you expect more from it than from steel? Don't neglect your skin! Zam-Buk is a skin food. It neals cracks and chapped places; it cures exzema, it closes cuts and ulcers, it prevents blood poison—all by virtue of rich herbal saps and juices of which it is composed, You can't beat nature. Zam-Buk is nature's balm of healing to ailing, cold-bitten or diseased skins. Healing, soothing, and antisentic at the same time. #### BAD LEG FOR A YEAR.

Cured in a Few Weeks.

Mrs. Geo. C. Taylor of Goodwood (Ont.), says:—"My little boy eight years old had a bad leg. It was all broken out and very painful. The sores were deep and seemed of a chronic sature. We tried all sorts of ointments and salves, but they groved of no avail. Then we took the little fellow to a dector and he was under treatment for a long time, but the sores did not close. He was bad for over a year. A trial box of Zambuk did him more good than anything we had ever applied. So we got him some more and Zam-Buk has now healed up every sore. You may guess therefore that I recommend it highly."

CURED BABY'S ECZEMA.

Mrs. George Frafu, of Ruseom, says:—"Zam-Buk is highly suitable for children's deligate skins. It cured my baby of eczema which had spread over the little one's face. I had tried various preparations in vain, so I know Zam-Buk is very much superior to ordinary ointments and salves."

SEVERE BURNS HEALED.

Mr. Alf. J. Clark, of London (Ont.), whose photo we give, was cured of burns so deep that the blood ran from them, by Zam-Buk. He says: —"My little girl, too, knows how good it is. She burned her hands on the stove, but in a few hours Zam-Buk eased the pain and healed the burns. We always keep it in the house."

IN FERTILE ANTICOSTI.

Island In the Gulf of St. Lawrence Being Transformed Into Homes of Peace and Plenty.

Peace and Plenty.

Nestling in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, off the east coast of Quebec, of which province it is a part; lies the fertile island of Anticosti. The island is interesting because so little is generally known of it; and because so many wrong impressions have gone abroad with reference to it.

When, in December, 1895, H. Menier, the French chocolate king, purchased the island, many wild rumors were set afloat with regard to the alleged purposes for which it had been acquired, says a writer in the Montreal Standard. The most sensational of these was that a Canadian Monte Carlo was to be established there, and that the new proprietor of the elongathat the new proprietor of the elonga-ted piece of territory would have unted piece of territory would have undisputed sway over it, politically and otherwise, even greater than that enjoyed by Prince Monaco over his world-famed domain. The keen imagination of many American writers was responsible for much circumstantial detail that was published in the United States, and, as stories lose nothing by repeating, some very extrawagant flights of fancy were indulged in. But what has happened since that time, and what is still happening, is in keeping with the onward march of industrial progress which the whole of Canada is making.

Until a comparatively few years ago what was known of Anticosti from the days of Champlain may be said to have been traditional rather than historical, for the very few references to it in the old records and manuscripts are practically valueless to the historical

Prior to the first treaty of Paris the St. Lawrence and all its Islands had been taken over by the victorious English. But, owing to many complaints being made of depredations and outrages being committed by the New Englanders on the Island of Anticosti, the Magdalen Islands and on the Labrador coast, it became necessary to do something for the protection of the inhabitants.

the most convenient government to control the territory referred to and consequently Anticosti, the Magdalen Islands, and the Labrador coast were, on February 10, 1763, annexed to Newfoundland. Sir Hugh Palliser was governor of Newfoundland at the time, and did his best under the existing circumstances, but Anticosti had no harbor, was almost wholly uninhabited, and very little visited.

Later, complaints came from the American, Nova Scotian and Canadian colonists against the strict fishing regulations of Sir Hugh Palliser, and so, by the Quebec Act of 1774, Anticosti was returned to Canada.

Traders and Eskimos continued to visit Anticosti on account of the valuable salmon fisheries, but still the island was practically without inhabitants. Then, during a hundred years, portions of the island were acquired by private individuals until it bad practically all been absorbed. In 1883 there were a good many heirs, and in order to secure their individual shares they had the island sold by the share order to secure their individual shares they had the island sold by the sherspring.

Gradually the Island of Anticosti, for ages standing out of the waters of the Gulf in its primeral state of wild and rugged grandeur, is now being transformed into a land of homes and plenty. Thousands of acres of land have been cleared, and the soil is proved of excellent quality; roads and houses have been built and sawmills and lobster and salmon canning fac-tories are in full operation. Canadian history proper is repeating itself or the gulf island.

A breakwater pearly a mile long has been constructed, and lighthouses, of value alike to island and general navigation, have gone up at Ellis Bay. Twenty miles from Fox Bay is the valuable water power of Vanreal. Here it is proposed to establish a pulp mill, for the island is thickly wooded with pulp weed as well as with large spruce. There are more than a million and a half acres of this valuable timber land.

The Island's Capital.

The Island's Capital.

Ellis Bay is what may be termed the island's capital. It is here that a very handsome villa has been erected for Mr. Menier, and along the road which runs from this port to English Bay the lands have been cleared, farms established, and the husbandman is contributing his labor towards the general prosperity. Fifteen families from the Old Country took up farms during the summer just past, and others will follow as soon as the land is cleared.

The winter population of the island land is cleared.

The winter population of the island is about 500, but hundreds come from the mainland each summer to take up the work in the various lines of industry, and the number is ever increasing. The cod, lobster and salmon catches during the year are said to have been very good.

And so the development of the great Dominion goes on, and island, hill and prairie land are all contributing slike to our too-long delayed prosperty.

the Crimea, but nobody could be found to carry out the sentence of the court martial. It was announced that £20 and a free discharge would be granted to the man undertaking the task. At last a man did volunteer. He was a newcomer to the army. On the night prior to the date fixed for the execution they locked up the hangman in-a stable to keep him safe. In the morning the party at the gallows waited, but there was no hangman. He had gone mad during the night or else he was new simulating madness. The officer n command turned to one of his captains with, "Captain, you will have the goodness to hang the prisoner!" The captain changed countenance, but he pulled himself together and appealed to the sergeants with, "Which of you will hang this man?" And to spare his captain one of the men volunteered. If work has to be done the only way to escape will paralysis is to launch oneself upon the task, realizing that if it is difficult it is not likely to grow easier and that some sort of a beginning must be made. "Keep the facul-ty of effort alive in you by a little gratuitous exercise every day," writes a canny psychologist in his chapter on "Habit." This gratuitous exercise it is that trains the will to rule life and destiny; it is the one great secret of success. Postponing of disagreeable duties means laxness invading the will, a certain slackening of all the mental nature, an invasion of a paralytic tend-ency. If the will failed to obey at a given moment yesterday it is vastly less likely to obey today, whereas a daily habit of forceful inhibiting or commanding makes for that most de-sirable of all endowments, "a completely fashioned will."

The first nails were undoubtedly the iff.

Formed Joint Stock Company.

It was purchased by a Mr. Stockwell, who formed a joint stock company, which was called "The Governor and Company of the Island of Anticosti." This, however, did not help matters so far as the development of the island was concerned. Up to this time no attempt was made to develop it, and although the new company predicted many improvements it accomplished practically nothing, and in 1888 the company went into liquidation.

The liquidator, a Mr. Kendrick, sent out a representative from year to year to farm out such fishing rights as went with the ownership of the island, but this brought in but scant revenue. In 1895 a Mr. Despecher obtained an option on the island offered it for sale to Mr. Menier, and in December of that year, upon the favorable report of Mr. Dujardin-Baumetz, an expert, the deed was passed. Mr. Menier took possession the following spring. sharp teeth of various animals. Then it is believed pointed fragments of flint

ORANGE BLOSSOMS Pretty Story About the Dainty Bridal Flower.

The orange blossom is so typical of weddings that few ever stop to wonder why it has attained its position as the bridal flower.

The custom of wearing orange blossoms on the wedding day originated in Spain. The story goes that an African potentate once gave a Spanish king a magnificent orange tree fragrant blossoms were the admiration of all who were permitted to see them. In vain many people begged for a sprig of the lovely plant, and most persistent of all was a foreign ambas sador, who wished to send a cutting to his own country.

It so happened that the head gardener, who had charge of the orange tree, possessed a charming daughter who was courted by a young artisan. The girl, however, lacked a dowry, se there seemed no prospect of their mar-riage taking place. One day her father accidentally broke off a spray of orange blossom from the precious tree and gave it to his daughter, who placed the creamy flowers in her hair, where they attracted the attention of the ambassador. He promised to give the young girl a sum sufficient for her dowry if she would give him the spray, and, needless to add, she willingly did so. She was soon afterward married, and in remembrance of the luck brought by the orange blossom she se cretly broke off another piece, which she wore on her wedding day, an example followed by brides of our own and most foreign countries.

ART IN THE HOME.

A Fad For Jacobean Effects In House

Furnishing.
Period rooms are a fad of the moment, and the Jacobean effect, a style closely resembling the Elizabethan period, is very much approved of by dec-orators. Much skill was devoted to the construction of chimney fronts and doorways during the Jacobean period, and many of them are most elaborately treated with architectural moldings. Paneled walls and oak beamed ceilings were also features of the time, and in the early examples both paneling and furniture were inlaid with holly and sycamore. The style is very suitable for a dining room and hall and can be adapted to the modern house more eas ily than many of the other styles. For instance, a very handsome dining room can be made by having the walls pan-eled with oak in which a black and yellow inlay is introduced with a ceilng in plaster with enriched ribs of a bold design of fruits, etc. The carring of the furniture should be in low relief and peculiarly characteristic of the period, while the hangings are of rich embroidered silk and of a color in harmony with the woodwork. Needless to say, original Jacobean pieces are extremely rare, as they have been bought up by collectors and found places in museums, etc., but faithful copies are always to be had lacking nothing be yond the historical association of the originals.

Denim Draperies.

Inexpensive hangings for a room that is done in blue would be very pretty if made of the ordinary blue denim. This is a little lighter in shade on the under side, and figures cut out and appliqued with this side up are most effective. A border of fieur-de-lis is lovely; so also is the leaf of a horse chestnut tree slightly conventionalized or any other simple figure. In applying these use an irregular

Save the Wishbones.

Wishbones made up as penwipers, with faces of sealing wax, the features being formed while the wax is soft, are very useful for favors or prizes for games, and the following little jingle may go with them:

Once I was a wishbone
And grew upon a hen;
Now I am a little slave
And made to wipe your pen.

I have said that Boston loves relice The relics which it loves best are the relics of England's discomfiture. The stately portraits of Copley are of small account compared to the memorials of what was nothing else than a civil war. Faneull hall, the Covent Garden of Boston, presented to the city by Pe-ter Faneuil some thirty years before the birth of "liberty," is now but an emblem of revolt. The Old South meeting place is endeared to the citizens of Boston as "the sanctuary of freedom." A vast monument, erected a mere quar-ter of a century ago, commemorates the "Boston massacre." Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Decidedly women are an imitative class. From her earliest age the small girl apes the doings of her elders and, had she her own way, would be a miniature epitome of fashion. Such entertainments as she is permitted to witness in her mother's drawing room she imitates, with dolls and nurses for company, in the nursery. In her school days she invariably "forms" herself on some special friend whom she elects as a model of feminine perfection. And at a certain stage of their lives girls are as much alike as peas in a pod. As they mature and develop they may perhaps show some signs of individuality, but in all the main issues of life they continue to be more imitative than was chosen yesterday by the Liberal convention to contest the L'Assomption seat vacated by the death of Charlemagne Laurier, who was Sir Wilfrid's half-brother. There were two other candidates, but they retired in Dr. Laurier's favor.

That all the need of the Newfoundland fisheries has not been met by the work of Dr. Grenfell, wide as that work is, is shown by the following paragraph from The Newfoundland Western Star: "The number of cases of sickness this year among the fishermen in Bay of Islands, and the death of one of their number, forcibly backs up our contention that a qualified medical man should be stationed among the fishing fleet during the herring season, and for the erection and maintenance of a hospital in this bay. The Health Officer has made several efforts to have the latter accomplished, but so far his efforts the Newfoundland's Medical Needs. several efforts to have the latter accomplished, but so far his efforts have been without avail. During the fall herring fishery, when so many lives are being endangered, the services of a doctor among the fishing fleet would be of inestimable benefit; and we earnestly hope that before another fishing season opens, the necessity for such a medical appointment and the erection of a hospital in Bay of Islands will be so forcibly impressed upon the Government that these requests will no longer be withheld."

Oldest Tree in the World.

What is supposed to be the oldest tree in the world is still standing in Ceylon. Its age is given as about 2.200 years. About 300 B.C. there was brought to Ceylon a branch of the tree under which the Buddha Gautama sat when he attained Buddahood. The tree, which now has the distinction of being the oldest in the world, is the growth of that branch. Greatly revered by the pilgrims, it has a temple erected in its honor. Through centuries it has been respected and spared by all. During its lifetime most of the world's history has been made. It was already old when Christ brought His message to the world.

Two Kinds of Corn That Once Grew In Georgia

TUDGE JOHN M. DOOLY of Georgia was noted for his wit and the ability of always having a better story ready than any "whopper" he might be told by a friend. The year 1818 was an exceptionally dry season in Georgia, and corn did not mature at all in many portions of the state.
"I have got the corn, Judge Dooly, that will stand this drought or any other one," said Austin Edwards one day while they were discussing the poor crops. "I got it from a Tennes-see cattleman and planted a piece of it in my garden. It came up in about a week, and every stalk had six large ears, and hanging to the tassel was a nice little gourd full of shelled corn. It beats the Dutch, judge. Did you ever hear of anything like that?"

The judge listened with great gravity and when he had finished said:
"Why, Mr. Austin, that isn't a shade to the corn made by Tom Haynes of Hancock county. I was at court there last week and stayed with Tom. He had just finished gathering in a piece of low swamm land which he cleared of low swamp land which he cleared last year. Do you know it never rained on that piece of land at all, and Tom didn't expect there was going to be any corn, so he turned his hogs in to eat up the dry stalks. The hogs did not come back as usual the next morning, so he went to look after them.
What was his surprise to find one of them with a large ear of corn in her mouth. He could not imagine where it came from, but on examination found that she had rooted it up from the foot of a dried cornstalk. He looked at other cornstalks and found that on the roots of all of them there were from five to ten large ears of corn. Then he had his field dug up and gathered the

HAD EATEN ANGEL CAKE

Shaw Aged 12 Edna Toronto Found Dead In Bed

POTAMINE POISONING

Toronto, Feb. 15.—Poisoned by angel cake is the alleged cause of the death under pathetic circumstances of 12-year-old Edna Shaw, daughter of Emanuel Shaw at 107 Spadina avenue yesterday morning.

Edna, with her sister Eva, aged 18, retired on Thursday night about 10.30, after spending a night at the rink. Before going to bed each partook of some angel cake and tarts, which were on the dining-room table. Both were in the best of health and spirits.

Yesterday morning about ten min-utes after seven Mrs. Shaw went to the girls' room on the second floor to call them for work. She was hor-rified to find both girls apparently

Her screams brought her 13-year-old son, and Dr. McCormack was immedi-ately summoned. Edna was dead, ately summoned. Edna was dead, but Eva was only unconscious.
Other physicians were talled, and the older girl was given treatment with success, consciousness returning about 5 o'clock in the afternoon. Coroner Graham will hold an inquest.

LOST IN THE WILDS

Surgeon Flood, R. N. W. M. P., Went to His Fate In Awful Storm-Pitiful Finding of His Dead Body.

Winnipeg, Feb. 15.—Further details Winnipeg, Feb. 15.—Further details of the tragic death of Surgeon Flood, R.N.W.M.P., at Fort Churchill, where he was frozen to death in the great storm of November 29, have been learned from W. Beech, the courier who brought the first tidings to civilization. According to Beech's story:—Dr. Flood, Major Moodie and Engineer Thibadeau, who had been surveying the harbor and dock reserve for the Federal Government at Fort Churchill, left home on November 28 surveying the harbor and dock reserve for the Federal Government at Fort Churchill, left home on November 28 for the purpose of exploring for timber. When they left the weather was fair and everything looked favorable for them. They had prepared a camp up country and proceeded to that, but when they arrived they found that they had dropped their grub box on the way and were without food. Laughingly the fact was noticed by Dr. Flood and it was noticed by Dr. Flood and it was thought that it was not far awav. With a light heart the doctor said that he would go back for it, and he jocularly treated Major Moodie's offer of assistance. He took the dogs back and as he disappeared over the snow the last of him was seen until his dead body was found by a mournful search party three dars later.

The search party found that he had seen until his dead body was found by a mournful search party three days later.

The search party found that he had guided the dogs and when they instinctively turned towards the camp he turned their heads away and went further into the wilds as the faithful leader took the train in the direction indicated by his driver.

When the body was found it was a pitiful sight. Flood lay in the snow and his faithful leader lay alongaide of him, also frozen stiff. Faithful to the last, the dog had tried to keep his master's body warm and had perished. The responsibility of a leader of a dog train is felt by that animal, and when Flood dropped in his tracks the other dogs bit themselves free of the harness and each other and sought safety, while the leader lay down beside his master and with him died in the snow.

The storm was the worst that Mr.
Beech has ever seen and he spent 25 years in Winnipeg. The thermometer fell to 25 below and the wind blew at the rate of 60 miles an hour. The damp atmosphere along the coast of the bay makes 25 below extremely cold and much worse than 40 below in Winnipeg.

The body of Flood was buried at the barracks at Churchill and his is the first grave and the first death in the history of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police in the Hudson Bay district.

Dr. Flood was 30 years of age, and went north from Quebec, where he was born. A brother is now resident in Winnipeg.
