

ENIGMA.
It formed like the globe, and 'tis placed in the center,
It commands every tongue, every mouth it will enter,
It is always in fashion—the first to be sold,
It departs not from home, yet it wanders abroad,
It grows for each nation in every soil,
It is found too of labor—the partner of toil,
It appears in all seasons—belongs to all nations,
It has many connections and widely relations,
It provides for the ocean—'tis raised on the shore,
It leads every object—it enriches our store,
It attends all our actions—directs every course,
It turns all our wishes into true and certain joys,
It is seen in the morning—gets brighter in noon,
It is hid in the sea, 'tis in the moon,
It is shown in the rainbow, 'tis in the dew,
It will follow our footsteps wherever we go,
It is obtained in the palace—'tis in the cot,
It is found in our bosoms—'tis in our lot,
It rules in accounts when we balance our coffee,
It begs every order, 'tis in our office,
It will join any count proud to make an oration,
It is part of our nation, and also our hope,
It does honor to God—'tis a prop to the Pope,
It will creep through each window, and half every door,
It drowns the rich, but it binds to the poor,
It aids all our knowledge—'tis our mortality too,
It leads double service for lover to woo,
It is taught with our lessons in all we receive,
It is mixed with our pleasures in all we believe,
It assists to make joy—'tis added in the foe,
It dwells in the regions above and below,
It is present in us and is absent in earth,
It is never in battle or on earth,
It leagues with the coward as well as the bold,
It combats with the young and endures the old,
It combats all points, yet it stands in the wrong,
It is courteous to those who are robust and strong,
It elicits the doctor, the parson, the patron,
It favors the butcher, the widow and man,
It is kept from the father, bestowed on the mother,
It drowns every sister, and counts every brother,
It forms a companion in forming a quarrel,
It is found in each count and college and farm,
It prevails in a flood and ceases in the wind,
It was no'er caught in evil, but always in good,
It runs with ambition, joins pupils at school,
It is hunted with caution through the bosom of a fool,
It was partial to Solomon, monarch of song,
It is melody sweet to the musical throng,
It is marked at the goal or the course of glory,
It will mingle its voice and meet us each victory,
It is known through the land as the third of our sorrow,
It may sleep in the night but it wakes in the morn,
It is not from our notice and most in each story,
It has merits so various they ne'er can be told,
It will stand by the pilot that weathers the storm,
It is useful in commerce in many a year,
It is shut from our notice and most in each story,
It is only in two it presumes to appear,
It clothes us with raiment—supplies us with food,
It is hoped this enigma is well understood.

Varieties.
NEVER DESPAIR.
"Where there is a will, there is a way" and, as no one attempts an impossibility, and as no one makes an strenuous effort, until he has the hope of success, the "will" that makes the "way" must be made out of faith in the resources which are placed at our disposal. There must not merely be religious faith, but there must be political faith, commercial faith and faith in ourselves and our talents and capabilities. Despair is the opposite of faith, and under its influence, not only is effort impossible, but life is intolerable. All that is necessary to raise the masses to give them faith. Let the probability of their success become an article of faith, and, along with it, also, let there be the impression that they may, can, must, might, could, and should, help themselves, and those auxiliaries will soon set them to work out their domestic, intellectual, civil, political, and religious salvation. What a strange thing it is, that the people should imagine that they can do nothing, when they have the great fact before them, that they do almost every thing that is done in the world. Monarchs do not rest nor spin. Priests, doctors, lords, equines, bishops, and priests, do not build, nor plant, plough nor deliver; ladies do not spin, weave, cook, nor wash, in these days; nearly all the valuable labour that is performed is done by the hands of the poor. The greatest blessing the British empire is a monument erected by the agency of the masses, and attests the almost infinite power of the people. And we might say the same, if we referred to the pyramids or other records of the glory of antiquity; for history, both ancient and modern, has knowledge of calculation, and yet the rudiments that enable us to effect these important things are to be found in a very narrow compass.

CONSCIOUSNESS OF TRUTH.—No disorders have employed so many quacks as those that have no cure, and no sciences have exercised so many quills as those that have no certainty. Truth lies in a small compass; and, if a well has been assigned her for a habitation, it is as appropriate from its narrowness, as its depth. Hence it happens that those sciences that are capable of being demonstrated, or that are reducible to the severity of calculation, are never voluminous; for clearness is intimately connected with precision, as the lightning, which is the brightest thing, is also the most brief; but, precisely in proportion as certainty vanishes, verbosity abounds. To foretell an eclipse, a man must understand astronomy; or to find out an unknown quantity by a known, he must have knowledge of calculation; and yet the rudiments that enable us to effect these important things are to be found in a very narrow compass.

THE FISHERMAN'S COMPLIMENT.—An endorsement of wind took a parrot from the hand of the owner, and a lively Irishman, dropping his hat of bricks, caught the parrot. "Faith, ma'am," said he, "if you were as strong as you are handsome, it would not have got away from you." "Which shall I thank you for first, the service or the compliment?" asked the lady, smiling. "T'roth, ma'am," said Pat, again touching the place where originally stood the brim of what was once a beaver, "that look of your beautiful eyes thanked me for both."

STOUT DIFFERENCE.—The servant of a Prussian officer, one day met a covey, who inquired of him how he got along with his fiery master. "Oh, excellently," answered the servant, "as long as I am very friendly to him, every morning we toast each other's toast; it is only difference in, he takes his off to be hasty, and I keep mine on."

AN EYE TO BUSINESS.—We are often entertained, says a journal, by the tone of sentiment adopted in advertising a death. There is frequently a fatuous amount of puff and despondency. We will give a specimen of a "death"—"Died, on the 11th ult., at the shop in Fleet street, Mr. Ed. Jones, much respected by all who knew and dealt with him. As a man he was amiable, as a father upright and moderate—His virtues were beyond all price, and his better half were only twenty-four shillings each. He left a widow to deplore his loss, and a large stock to be sold cheap for the benefit of his family. He was succeeded in the other world in the prime of life, and just as he had concluded an extensive purchase of full, which he got so very cheap, that the widow can supply him at a more reasonable charge than any other house in London." His domestic family will carry on his business with punctuality.

We were much amused by an incident related the other day:—A gentleman who had been absent for a considerable time, and who, during his absence, had raised a pretty lucrative crop of milliners, monstaches, &c., visited a relative, whose child—a sickly little girl of five or six years—was very fond of the little girl made no demonstration towards saluting him with a kiss, as was usual. "Why, child," said the mother, "don't you give uncle P— a kiss?" "Why, ma, returned the little girl, with the most perfect simplicity, "I don't see any place!"

It is stated that thirteen thousand eggs are kept in London, confined in cellars and sheds in various parts of the city.

THE ROAD TO HEALTH!
HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.
CURE OF A DISORDERED LIVER AND BAD DIGESTION
Copy of a Letter from Mr. R. W. Kirkus, Chemist, 7 Front Street, Liverpool, dated 6th June, 1851.
To Professor HOLLOWAY:
SIR—Your Pills and Ointment have stood the highest on my list of Proprietary Medicines for some years. A customer, to whom I can refer for any particulars, desires me to let you know the particulars of her case. She has been troubled for years with a disordered liver, and bad digestion. On the last occasion, however, the violence of the attack was so alarming, and the inflammation set in so severely, that I was obliged to take them, and although she used only three Boxes, she is now in the enjoyment of perfect health. I could have sent you any more cases, but I think, from the severity of the attack, and the speedy cure, I think, speaks much in favor of your extraordinary Pills. (Signed) R. W. KIRKUS.

AN EXTRAORDINARY CURE OF RHEUMATIC FEVER, IN VAN DIEMEN'S LAND.

A friend prevailed upon her to try Holloway's celebrated Pills, which she commenced to do, and in an incredibly short space of time they effected a perfect cure.

SIR—I desire to bear testimony to the good effects of Holloway's Pills. For some years I suffered severely from a pain and tightness in the stomach, which was accompanied by a shortness of breath, and prevented me from walking about. I am 84 years of age, and notwithstanding my advanced state of life, these Pills have so relieved me, that I am now enabled to take them, and although she used only three Boxes, she is now in the enjoyment of perfect health. I could have sent you any more cases, but I think, from the severity of the attack, and the speedy cure, I think, speaks much in favor of your extraordinary Pills.
