Our Roman Letter.
(From our Correspondent.)
A ROMAN WINTER—NUMEROUS ENGLISH VISITORS—THE COLOSSEUM—THE SCALA SANCTA—THE JANICULUM—ROME'S ENVIRONS.

To the Editor of the Herald:

DEAR SIR,—Four months ago I wrote you from the Pincian Hill. It was then the beautiful season of autumn—beautiful in P. E. Island, and beautiful still in Italy. Though the autumn in these two countries has much in common, the succeeding season, however, has very little similarity. Here it is hard to tell exactly when the winter begins, or when it ends—hard, at least for one to whose senses the climate of Canada have served as a proof of its arrival, and the damp gray earth as a sign of its departure. In Canada we hear so much about the heat of the summer, the summer that is the result of the Campagna, "mad dogs and funerals," that we imagine heat the only element against which we need protect ourselves; but after passing a winter here we are apt to be undecided. We find that there is a species of cold equally as intolerable as the frost that plays such havoc on ears and noses in Canada. Furthermore, those who have experienced what it is to battle with snow and ice, and the piercing winds, will understand the piercing cold of retreating to the protection of well-warmed apartments. I do not wish to teach my fellow-countrymen vicious habits; but they all know that the louder the wind howls without, and the more violently Jack Frost wields his icy mail, the more comfortably can they recline before the red-checked coal stoves, as from judges' speeches and parliamentary debates, draw material for the next political contest. If you have not courage and strength enough to close uppers and all kinds of Shoe Finishing, Lasts, etc., for the Shoe Trade kept constantly on hand.

CORRESPONDENCE.

WE DO NOT HOLD ourselves responsible for the opinions expressed by our correspondents.

SOMETHING ROTTEN IN THE STATE OF DENMARK. To the Editor of the Herald: Mr. Ersson, -Yesterday, the 9th inst., I telephoned from Eton to Mr. Peter Murphy, of Murray River, to meet me the following day at Mr. James Daley's, Irish Mountague. I sent the message for Murphy to meet me at 10 o'clock on the same night, when Dr. McIntosh sent him a special message, to meet me at Mountague Bridge.

Presuming that it is customary to forward written messages when a man pays for news, and this being a verbal one, Mr. Murphy did not feel satisfied, and thereupon made further enquiries this morning from McIntosh's messenger as to when he was to meet me, and he was distinctly told "this morning at Mountague Bridge." This morning Mr. Murphy drove to Mountague Bridge, a distance of eleven miles, and during his absence I arrived at Mountague Bridge to return home. Meaning time I had paid twenty-five cents for message from Eton and twenty cents for message to Mountague Bridge; had to walk from Eton, a distance of twenty miles, and Mr. Murphy had to drive on these had to walk from Mountague Bridge, a distance of twenty-two miles, lose the whole day (for which I will have to pay him) and home dark.

Now, Mr. Editor, if after a man pays for his telephone messages he is to be inconvenienced, mis-guided and misled with false verbal messages through the bungling and neglect of officials, (whether intentional or not) the sooner the public is made aware of it the better.

It is in accordance with the rules of the Telephone Co. to forward written messages when paid for. It is the rule to send the messages verbally by any irresponsible person? In the latter, it is certainly a very bad way of sending either public or private messages, and play help the man who, like me, had important and expected messages to send and depended on the telephone.

By kindly answering the above question and giving insertion to this letter in your paper, you will, Mr. Editor, confer a favor on Yours respectfully, JOHN W. HIGGINS, Charlottetown, April 10, 1889.

BOOK NOTICES. We received, some time ago, from the office of the Toronto Catholic Weekly Review, "The Life of Father Louis Bell, O.S.A." It is written by one of his superiors in the pastorate of St. Mary's, Toronto, and is a deserving tribute to the memory of Father Louis, a truly saintly Capuchin who crossed the Atlantic in order to devote himself to the salvation of souls, with what success we are told by Bishop Walsh, of London, in his introduction.

The writer of this introduction was his immediate successor as Rector of St. Mary's Parish, Toronto, and he can never forget the esteem, veneration and love entertained for him by the faithful of that parish. Indeed, he was regarded by them as a saint, and his words, his characteristics and the example of his holy life were preserved to them as memories too sacred and precious to be forgotten.

"St. Basil Hymn Book" is the title of a new prayer book compiled by the directors of St. Michael's College, Toronto. Besides the usual Daily Prayers, Prayers at Mass, Vespers, etc., the book contains a selection of over two hundred hymns. The hymns are truly beautiful, being as they are from such authors as Newman, Faber, etc. This is a marvellously cheap book for its cost, only 25 cents in cloth.

The compiler informs us in the preface that a companion volume, containing the music of the Vespers and hymns appearing in the present, is already in course of publication.

MIRAMICHI FISH SHIPMENTS. Says the Chatham World: The following table shows how important an industry our winter fishery is. From Dec. 1, 1888, to April 1, 1889, there were sent from Chatham 125 carloads of smelt, containing 2,500,000 lbs. gross, or 2,000,000 lbs. net. The shippers paid the fishermen for these fish 800,000. We also sent 21 carloads, or 5,425 tons, of tomcods, valued at $5,225; and 29 carloads, or 2,000 lbs. of smelt, worth $1,000, or 100 tons. Total value, $89,425. There were about 700 small nets and 100 larger nets employed. 1,000 men and boys in all. The fishermen got, therefore, an average of $80.45 each for about three months work.
