Ruled BY Destiny!

CHAPTER X. THE STRANGER'S TRAP.

"I am a stranger to your ladyship, and my name would not enlighten you as to my identity. Just now, you called me by Lord Norman's name. Let me be known, for the present, as an individual who happens to bear a strong resemblance to his lordship. Your ladyship will be surprised to hear that I have been seeking for an opportunity to speak to you for some days past."

Lady Blanche was surprised, and for the life of her she could not keep her astonishment from showing itself in her face.

"I have watched, followed you night and day for days past, ever since I first saw you leaving the Duchess of Cliefden's party a week ago. I, too, have been an eye-witness of the love-passion between Lord Norman and Miss Carlisle, and I am as desirous of spoiling his lordship's felicity as you can be."

"Why?" demanded Lady Blanche, her breath coming fast. The quiet, self-assured manner, the easy, self-reliant voice were telling upon her, impressing her strongly and strangely.

He smiled.

"To answer that question would be to go into too long a story for the place and time, my lady," he said. "Let it go, if you please, that I am willing to bask in Lord Norman's happiness for reasons of my own. Listen to me, Lady Blanche! This young girl comes between you and the man you love. I offer to separate them; to remove the obstacle! Will you accept my offer?"

"You cannot do it," she said, in a low, quivering voice. "You do not know him."

"Do not? I know him well enough to count upon him for his assistance," he said. "Yes or no, my lady. Put aside the reluctance you feel to accepting the help of a stranger, who appears in this unexpected—romantic—if you will—fashion, and await yourself of my services."

Lady Blanche was silent for a moment.

The music had ceased, the sound of laughter and many light-hearted voices came confusedly through the silence. She fancied she could hear Lord Bruce's deep voice, as he bent over Floris; fancied she could see her eyes alight with the new passion of love. Her heart beat wildly; her brain whirled; she put up her hand to her white brow, with a gesture of desperate resolve, and turned upon the man almost fiercely:

"Do what you promise, and claim what reward you will!" she breathed. He let his arms fall to his side, as if he had anticipated the result, and his manner changed instantly from the cool, impassibility it had hitherto displayed, to an acute alertness.

"Your ladyship has decided wisely. As to reward—Yes. I shall claim it when the time comes."

Lady Blanche made her way back to the ballroom, and found her father yawning himself awake in one of the ante-rooms. When she declared that she was ready to go, the poor old earl quite brightened up with gratitude.

"Really! And the ball half over! 'Pon my word, you are growing sensible, Blanche. Lord! how I hate these affairs! If I had known what I should have to go through taking charge of you, Blanche, I should have married again, I should indeed!"

"Perhaps it would have been better if you had," she murmured, sadly, as she sank into a corner of the carriage. Perhaps if her mother had lived, or some woman had taken her dead mother's place, she, Blanche, would not have fallen into the trap set for her by this stranger.

"Where is Bruce all the evening?" asked Lord Seymour, with an awful gasp. "He hasn't been near me, and he usually comes and have a chat."

"I do not know. Do not speak to me of Bruce!" she said, bitterly.

The old man laughed.

"You and Bruce have quarreled again! Never mind, you will make it up to-morrow, as usual."

A bitter smile crossed her white face.

"Yes," she said, almost to herself; "we shall make it up again."

CHAPTER XI. GLAD TIDINGS.

HOW time fled! Whether the band played square dances or round, whether she was on her head or her heels for the remainder of that wonderful night, Floris did not know.

She only knew that Bruce, her sweetheart—how pretty a word it is, though fashion has decreed it out of date—was continually at her side, whispering passionate love in her ears, pressing her hand, even venturing to kiss her hair when he could do so unobserved.

He would have danced all the remaining dances with her, if she would have allowed him, setting at defiance the fury of her engaged partners; but Floris insisted upon his going off and doing his duty elsewhere, and it was half with amusement, half weight, that she watched him going through the business of a waltz with some other young lady, with his eyes straying, wistfully, hungrily toward herself.

At last Lady Betty grew tired, not however, before the ball was nearly over, and at the end of a waltz—during which Floris had been responding with "Yeses" and "Noes" to her partner's observations, without knowing in the least what he was talking about—she found herself, touched upon the arm by Lady Betty's fan, all the worse for wear by this time.

"I think we'll go now, my dear," she said, then she looked at Floris' face, radiant—say rather, softly glowing—with happiness, with a stare of astonishment. "By the way, how many times have you danced with Lord Norman?"

A crimson flush flooded Floris' face and she bent down to arrange her cloak.

"Oh, not many, Lady Pendleton," she replied.

"Oh, not many!" echoed Lady Betty, with a laugh. "Why, I have seen you dancing with him four times! No wonder Blanche went so early."

A spasm of pain ran through Floris' heart, but she fought against it. What did it matter, this coupling of his name with Lady Blanche's, while she, Floris, was his chosen love, his future wife? All the same, Lady Betty's bantering speech hurt her.

At the moment, however, she heard a voice at her elbow that dispelled all pain.

"Here you are!" he said. "Going? So am I. Come on, Betty. Miss Carlisle, let me put that cloak closer around your neck," and his fingers strayed to her ear, and he pressed it caressingly.

"Look here, Betty, I'm fearfully hungry," he said, as they reached the hall, and footmen were calling for Lady Pendleton's carriage. "Too hungry for grilled bones, which is all I should get at the club. Let me come home with you?"

"Will you?" exclaimed Lady Betty, delightedly. "But I'm afraid there won't be much to eat, Bruce."

"I don't care! I'll take my chance. I am hungry enough to eat anything—Miss Carlisle even!" and he pressed Floris' arm.

"That would be carrying your attentions a little too far, Bruce," said Lady Betty, mischievously. "Can you squeeze yourself in the brougham, do you think?"

"If I could unscrew my legs," he said, laughing. "I'll get up beside John," and he put them in, and climbed on the box.

The supper was laid in a few very minutes in the breakfast room, that being, as Lady Betty remarked, the costliest room in the house, and Lord Norman, with a lady on each arm, led them in.

"Edward has gone to bed!" cried Lady Betty. "His speech was a great success."

"Here's the premiership to him!" exclaimed Lord Norman, raising his champagne glass, his eyes alight with happiness as they rested on Floris' downcast face. "I wish everybody joy and success to-night," he added. "Betty, this is an admirable fowl, let me give you a wing. Flo—Miss Carlisle," with mock ceremony, "can I assist you to some more galantine? Betty, I think I shall stipulate for the future that you give us supper in this cosy little room after every outing."

"I shall be delighted, Bruce, if you will undertake to be always in this humor. What is the matter with you to-night? You are like a boy. You remind me of Bertie. By the way, where did he vanish to? Bruce, do you think you really ought to have any more champagne?" with mock gravity.

"I don't know. I am not so sure that I ought," he retorted. "Champagne to a man in my frame of mind, Betty, is like oil on fire."

"What is the matter with you?" demanded Lady Betty, staring at his handsome face, more joyous than she had seen it since he was a boy home for the holidays.

"Shall I tell you?" he said. "Shall I tell her, Miss Carlisle?" and he leaned across and smiled into Floris' eyes, which drooped instantly.

"Why do you ask her?" demanded Lady Betty. "How can it possibly concern her?"

He leaned back in his chair and laughed, not loudly, but with pure, unrestrained, mirthful happiness.

"No, of course not! How can I concern her, eh, Miss Carlisle?"

"I think I will go now," said Floris, rising.

He rose, too, and stood beside her, detaching her with a light yet firm grasp.

"Not yet, Floris!"

"Floris!" exclaimed Lady Betty, startled.

"Yes, Floris!" he said; "no longer Miss Carlisle to me. Betty, Floris has promised to be my wife; that is what makes me in such good spirits to-night. My wife, do you hear?"

Lady Betty gasped and stared.

"Not a word of congratulation!" went on Lord Bruce, enjoying her amazement. "Cannot you find a word my dear Betty? Or, perhaps, you disapprove? I forgot that Miss Carlisle is under your charge. I ought to have asked your permission and your blessing. Pardon me. It is not too late. Floris, will you kneel to her in orthodox fashion?" and he put his arm around her waist and drew her to him.

Lady Betty rose, pushing back her chair, and found her voice at last.

"Bruce, is this true?" she exclaimed, delightedly.

"Does it look like acting?" he demanded. "Floris, she cannot believe it. She cannot understand what I have done to deserve so much happiness."

My Limbs Would Twitch

And Waken Me—Unable to Rest or Sleep, I Walked the Floor in Nervous State—When Specialists Failed I Found a Cure.

This is the kind of cure that has set Windsor people thinking and talking about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. The action of this food cure is so radically different to the usual treatments for the nerves that everybody wants to try it. Gradually and certainly it nourished the starved nerves back to health and vigor and the benefits obtained are both thorough and lasting.

Mrs. M. Smithson, 27 Arthur street, Windsor, Ont., writes: "I was suffering from nervous breakdown, which was caused by a shock when fire broke out in the adjoining house. My nerves were in such a state that, after going to bed I could not get my nerves quieted down sufficiently to go to sleep. I used to get up and walk around the room, or go downstairs. Even when I would be dropping off to sleep my limbs would twitch and waken me. I used to have cold, nervous, night sweats, sometimes would become unconscious and lie that way for quite a little while. I was always cold and it seemed impossible for me to get warm or keep warm. When on the street I would see two or three objects at once, and did not want any person to speak to me or bother me. Any little noise irritated and annoyed me very much. I had consulted specialists and tried many remedies during this time, but could not gain relief. At last I tried Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and before long could see that this treatment was proving of benefit. I am now feeling so much better that I can go out on the street without any difficulty, can go across the river and go about the same as usual. I sleep well at night, and am feeling more like myself every day. I am pleased to be able to write you to tell you how much good the Nerve Food has done me. It has strengthened and built up my whole system. I am recommending it to everybody I find suffering from nervousness of any kind. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, a full treatment of 6 boxes for $2.75, at all dealers, or Edmanston, Gates & Co., Limited, Toronto. Do not be talked into accepting a substitute. Imitations only disappoint."

LONDON AND THE AMERICAN SOLDIERS.

During the war Londoners have had several bursts of enthusiasm. These have generally been in connection with the arrival in this country of overseas soldiers. The Canadians were cordially welcomed and so also were the South Africans and the Australians each in turn. The experience in every case was much the same. First a few scattered soldiers in these categories were seen about the streets and gazed at curiously and diffidently, and then came some sort of demonstration when the great crowd showed as much enthusiasm as a London crowd perhaps ever does in war matters. Then when branch after branch of these overseas soldiers went into the fighting line and stories of their bravery and fine fighting qualities became current still more enthusiasm was evoked. Now after a long period of heralding we have the coming of the United States soldier, the Sammy. London has been looking for him for a long time and some of the earlier boys went right through to the fighting line without passing through the British Metropolis. Of late, however, they have been seen about the streets looking at first to the Londoner's untutored eye very like the other overseas soldiers but picked out at last by the "U.S." in their tunic collars. Last Saturday was the occasion of a special review of these boys, who proceeded by a march through some of London's chief thoroughfares to Buckingham Palace. Great crowds turned out and the spirit of goodwill, amity and unity seemed stronger than ever.

QUEEN ALEXANDRA'S SISTER CAPTURED!

According to a report from Berlin the ex-Czar's mother, the Empress Dagmar, Queen Alexandra's sister, is a prisoner in German hands. This unfortunate lady is in her seventy-first year, and has had a lifetime of tragic experiences. Two months ago she was in such destitution that she applied to the Revolutionary Council for assistance. Her movements since her son's deposition have been unknown to the world at large. For many years she held aloof from the Russian Court, where she once held sway, but it is believed that immediately prior to the Czar's abdication she often sent him unheeded warnings of the coming perils in store for him.

unrpassed by any section of the community. Especially gratifying, too, was the announcement of official activity regarding the future of our youthful dye industry. The importation of foreign dyestuffs is to be controlled by a system of licenses for ten years after the war, and by State loans. State contributions to factory extension, and State grants to research work dye manufacturers are to be encouraged to manufacture the special dyes which for various reasons the firm of British Dyes Limited has not been able to develop. Another matter which interested the House of Commons was coal. Both for household and industrial purposes coal rations are to be reduced. In order to prevent evasion by the processes of substitution which appear to be becoming popular among some people in London, the new rationing scheme will make provision for the rationing of gas and electricity.

DOGS.
 The interdepartmental committee that has been deciding the fate of our dogs has now, I hear, presented its scheme for the consideration of the War Cabinet. If it is carried into effect it will relieve the anxieties of the great majority of dog owners—those who keep one pet dog. The possession of one dog will not be interfered with by way of prohibition or further taxation, and there will be enough dog biscuits to keep it fed. The committee is coming down drastically on keepers of more than one dog. They will have to take out a license at much heavier rates for two or more dogs.
 This supertax, while it will not be so heavy as was proposed last year, will be sufficiently so to discourage all but well-to-do people from indulging in wholesale dog-keeping. A compromise has been effected on the question of breeding. There will be no general prohibition of breeding. The breeding of pedigree strains will continue under license, and, with regard to the general dog population, a reduction of numbers will be attained by requiring a license to be taken out for puppies within a few weeks of their birth instead of at 6 months old as at present.

LORD COURTNEY.
 The measure of the public loss by the death of Lord Courtney can be gauged by this—that every politician of whatever party, would agree that he would have been an ideal member of an ideal Second Chamber. It is curious to recall now that he was expected to become the editor of the London "Times," on which he was chief leader writer. Delane in 1875 had to contradict a prevailing rumor that Mr. Courtney was succeeding him. Delane certainly looked on him as the safest man to control the paper in his absence. His epigram on Mr. Courtney was, "After he has written for three hours, argued for three more, and walked for another three, Courtney can sometimes bring himself down to the level of the average man." Another Conservative observer likened him to "an extraordinarily intelligent artisan in a mood of rapt inspiration." That view had something in it, yet Lord Courtney was the best-dressed man in the House of Lords. He was always dressed like a gentleman of the early Victorian period. A high, square-crowned hat, with a flat brim, a blue coat, buff waistcoat, and light coloured trousers completed a costume that recalled an old miniature. He was born in the year of the Reform Bill, and this buff waistcoat, which he constantly wore, took the mind back to the days of Fox and the Whigs. We lose one of the most picturesque figures as well as one of the rarest in Parliament.
 He lived to see the complete triumph of women's suffrage and the certainty of proportional representation—intwo causes he had most at heart.

LADIES AND LUXURY.
 The House of Commons Committee to decide upon what articles shall bear the new luxury duty have availed themselves of the unprecedented power specially conferred on them by the House of co-opting seven ladies as members. These are Miss Beatrice Chamberlain, Miss M. Craig, the Hon.
 Mrs. Frederick Guest, Mrs. H. B. Irving, Miss Violet Markham, Mrs.
 Vaughan Nash and Lady St. Helier.
 Very various phases of feminine activity are thus represented. Mrs.
 Guest and Mrs. Nash come in from the political world, the former being the wife of the chief Liberal Ministerial Whip and the latter of the chairman of the Development Commission, who had previously been private secretary to two Prime Ministers.
 —Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman and Mr. Asquith. Mrs. H. B. Irving knows thoroughly the theatrical side of the luxury problem from the days when, as Miss Dorothea Baird, she was the original Haymarket Theatre exponent of Trilby; while Lady St.
 Helier—the Lady Jeanie of an earlier time—has an experience of forty years as a well-known West End of London hostess at one side of the social scale and an indefatigable helper of the East End poor at the other.
 There should be no lack of practical suggestion from a committee broadened and strengthened like this.

MALE PRIVILEGE USURPED.
 I heard to-day of a young married woman who quarrelled with her husband and in a temper went off to join the Army—that is to say, to enlist in the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps.

THE HOUSE OF COMMONS AT WORK.
 Everybody in this country is delighted to hear that at last something is to be done in the way of honouring the heroes of our mercantile marine.
 Officers and men who have experienced the horrors of submarine warfare, and there are few who have not, and who have bravely put to sea again (and again there are few who have not), are to be awarded badges which will speak for themselves. Furthermore, sympathetic consideration is being given to a scheme of pensions and allowances for widows and dependents of seafarers who have lost their lives through enemy action. These developments appealed to the House of Commons as a long-deferred practical acknowledgment of loyal service.

 In regard to skin diseases, medical authorities are now agreed on this.
 Don't imprison the disease germs in your skin by the use of greasy salves, and thus encourage them to multiply. A true cure of all eczematious diseases can be brought about only by using the healing agents in the form of a liquid.
WASH THE GERMS OUT.
 The D. D. Prescription is a new skin discovery which is becoming famous throughout Newfoundland and Canada. It is a simple wash, compounded as a scientific antiseptic remedy for Eczema, Bad Leg, Ulcers, Sores, Pimples and all skin eruptions.
 This wash penetrates to the disease germs and destroys them, then soothes and heals the skin as nothing else has ever done.
 Don't delay—this wash will cure.

An Issue to Face.

No rational person questions the rights of labor to organize itself into corporate bodies for the purpose of preventing exploitation of workers and to conserve their individual, as well as collective, interests. This right though long disputed and combated by employers and capitalists, is now recognized, and so long as no breach of the peace occurs during the progress of a strike, there is no law to be invoked by those affected. It is however an indisputable fact that preceding a strike negotiations take place regarding the points, or rights of principles involved. Sometimes these are adjusted amicably; sometimes not. In the latter case the inevitable happens and a strike is called. There are times when under certain conditions, strikes are or may be justified. Under other conditions, particularly in war time, strikes, unless under great provocation, have no justification. Whenever innocent people are obliged to suffer because of a refusal of labor to work, injury ensues, and reproach is brought upon the body responsible for the action of calling its members out. In this city to-day we are faced with a very grave situation. As everybody knows Newfoundland is absolutely dependent on the outside world for almost everything the people eat or wear. Our principal fuel supply, our salt, flour, sugar, barrelled meats, molasses, and a hundred other necessities have to be imported from abroad. With the tonnage problem so acute, consequent upon the dearth of ships available for freight carriage, it becomes a paramount necessity that this country avail of every bit of tonnage that it possesses for the carriage of our products to market and the bringing back of the commodities which are so essential to our needs. Nothing should be left undone to bring about these desiderata. We are more dependent on our neighbours on the continent for our very existence than perhaps any other country in the world could be and to-day this dependence has become more intensified. It is, therefore, criminal to allow anything which interferes with, or prevents, the bringing and carrying of our purchases and sales. A tie up in our much depleted merchant fleet at the present juncture is not at all desirable. Nor is there any grounds upon which justification can be set up for such an occurrence. The people of Newfoundland, the people of this city, the people of the smallest outpost and remotest fishing settlement, must not be allowed to suffer because of imaginary grievances on the part of a handful of men. Neither must shipping be delayed, which eventually will mean that there will be a shortage of supplies at the time when they are most needed. The exemplary patience of our people will soon cease to become a virtue, and unless matters now requiring settlement are adjusted, the swift wrath of an aroused population will fall. We cannot afford to fritter away the valuable time, which is quickly passing, in fruitless negotiations and conferences. Some person, either the Government, or an employer, with the courage of his convictions, must be bold enough to "bell the cat" and penalize any and every attempt to interfere with the marine business of this Dominion. The motto of the United States is "Work or fight." Its application in St. John's to-day is very necessary.

to the British Empire, and make one great Anglo Saxon Federation. That they stand no nonsense where our Uncle Samuel lives is shown by the fact that sentence of imprisonment for life, subsequently reduced to twenty-five years in prison, was imposed on forty-five conscientious objectors who refused to wear an American uniform, in Texas a few days ago. The sentence was imposed by a Military Court. The men even refused to serve in non-combat units. This is a clear case of "Work, fight or go to jail."

The sad news comes from Sydney, N. S. W., that Pansy, the pet cat of Miss Daphne Davidson, daughter of the State Governor, Sir Walter Davidson, has died of a broken heart, in consequence of its exile to Fiji. The services of the best cat doctors were availing and the dear feline passed away, lamented by all who knew it. An item containing this announcement appeared in a Sydney paper, and is a strong evidence of the sense of humor possessed by our cousins "under the line."

A Personal Matter. Apart from the fact that it is the patriotic duty of all, to respond to this appeal for funds, the high interest rate of 6 1/2 per cent. makes the investment a most attractive one. In normal times Newfoundland Bonds have been widely bought up by the English and American investing public at 3 1/2 and 4 p.c. interest rates. But with the issue of this big VICTORY LOAN our people will have an opportunity of placing their money in an ABSOLUTE-LY SAFE AND SOUND INVESTMENT, bringing them a phenomenal interest percentage, which has only been made possible by the extraordinary conditions brought about through the War. This is a personal matter to each one of us. Every man, every woman who can afford to purchase a VICTORY BOND is in DUTY BOUND to do so. We owe it to the men who are fighting our battles on the fields of France and in the British Navy. They have sacrificed their comforts to endure hardships for our sake. They are risking their lives that we at home may live in safety. We must prove ourselves worthy of the sacrifices they have made, and are making. We must measure up to the standard which they have set for us. It is in this spirit that the Loan must be taken up, and we have confidence enough in the people of Newfoundland to be assured that they will not fail in their duty in this respect.

The Governor Will Speak. AT THE COMMEMORATION CEREMONIES. Yesterday afternoon Mr. John Fenelon, Mr. Harold Mitchell and Capt. L. C. Murphy a deputation from the Soldiers' Association, met His Excellency the Governor at Government House, where plans for the commemoration of July 1st were discussed. His Excellency has given the use of the Government House grounds for the afternoon, when the children and brothers and sisters of our serving soldiers will be given tea and a band concert. A mammoth parade of all the brigades and patriotic organizations is planned for the morning, when the Governor will address the gathering on the Parade Grounds. The evening will probably be given over to a fitting ceremonial for the soldiers now in training, there being band selections and inspiring addresses to stimulate the men and point out the splendid example of those who went into action at the opening of the Somme offensive. It is hoped that there will be a memorial service in the different churches on Sunday, and that the occasion of July 1st will be marked by the realization of the magnificent conduct of the Regiment and a determination to live up to the high standard of all the troops that took part in the event.

Banker Injured at Cape Broyle. A man named Lake, one of the crew of a Nova Scotia banker, now at Cape Broyle, was seriously injured yesterday afternoon when he was hit in the thigh by a big rock that was set rolling down a cliff by a number of his shipmates. It appears that Lake was standing on the beach close to the water's edge, and that his chums wanted to play a trick on him for the purpose of a lark, set a big stone rolling down the steep incline with the evident intention of it landing in the water nearby. Lake, unfortunately stood right in the track of the stone and not seeing it approach received the full force of the blow. He was picked up in an unconscious condition and conveyed to a house near by. This morning he was brought to the city by train and taken to the General Hospital in the ambulance. The vessel to which he belonged is commanded by Capt. Deal. The practice of "rolling rocks" for pastime has accounted for many persons being injured in that locality, and about ten or twelve years ago a man named Napoleon Whynot, a banker, was instantly killed by being carried down the cliff by a large boulder that he succeeded in starting.

Look forward to a charming Entertainment to be given at Canon Wood Hall during the first week in July. Watch for the date and book early.—11

MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES DIPHTHERIA.

Notes and Comments. Most of the experience a man gets comes too late in life to be of any benefit to him. It is generally found that lots of the people who are so keen on abolishing established rulers, are equally keen on becoming bosses themselves. From London, England, comes the intelligence that King George has promised to attend the fourth of July baseball game between the United States Army and Navy teams at Chelsea. It will be the first occasion on which a King of England has helped to celebrate Independence Day.

It was George III. who lost the American Colonies. Will it be George V. who will bring the United States back

The War Week By Week.

By Observer.

Another week of intense fighting has seen the beginning and end of another distinct stage of the great campaign of 1918—a peculiarity which has marked more than one of the weeks past. The battle of the Aisne was begun and, if not ended, at least brought to a standstill in about seven days. Last week, after the lull that followed, the Germans made their unsuccessful attempt to pierce the Noyon and Montdidier line, and had to acknowledge defeat between the Monday and Saturday. And now, during this week past, an ambitious effort by Austria to repeat against Italy the success which she had achieved in the Balkans, was frustrated. We should not let that very brevity, however, blind us to the magnitude of the effort and the corresponding importance of its failure. For failure it has certainly been, a failure which, from its mere moral effect is likely to spell the same result to the further offensive attempts the enemy is compelled to make. There was always a serious danger from this great wing of the battle-line from the Atlantic to the Adriatic. No one has questioned the serious consequences which would flow from a breaking through in any force by the Austrians into the Venetian plains; we have merely to consider the matter in terms of manpower alone, realising the necessity the Allies would then be under of re-inforcing Italy, to appreciate this. But that danger may now be said to be almost entirely averted. The Austrians are clearly quite incapable of repeating the new German method of attacking over a very wide front, and if they now revert to the strategy of concentrated attacks they will meet by similar defensive methods, with the consciousness of past defeat operating strongly against them, a resistance which will be more than sufficient to ensure their success. On the wing of the line, in the mountain region about Asiago, the Austrians had no progress to make. The fighting centres in the high Montello plateau, where the Italians, after a brief reverse, have restricted their lines and are assuming the aggressive. Further east, where the Pieve flows into the Venetian plain, the Austrians have here still forced the crossing of the river; but their failure elsewhere and a sudden rising of the stream threaten to turn this more than a chance that a great part of the troops that have been acrossed will be cut off. This is especially true of the position at the famous Zenson loop and near Venice, where the Italians claim to have already placed for a counter attack that might turn the Austrian wing. In a word, as long as the Austrians fail to secure the mountain passes in the west, progress elsewhere will be slow and even dangerous to them. No less gratifying, though less important, than the Italian victory has been the thorough beating administered to a considerable attack by the Crown Prince's army against Rheims, where again the brevity and finality of the fighting disguises the extent of the enemy's designs. These were evidently to take Rheims, if possible, or to continue further the flanking movement of the whole coalition, with the intention of a renewal of the German attack in France or Flanders. The former, read in conjunction with the failure of the Austrian drive, may soon develop into a factor of the first importance: her allies are Germany's fatal weakness, and the connecting link of the whole coalition, Austria may, in spite of increasing German control (itself the best evidence of that weakness) snap suddenly and unexpectedly. There is no need to speculate upon it, but merely to gather encouragement from the economic and military advantages which it offers them to have sooner or later a fatal effect upon their military operations. As to the approaching offensive, it seems clear that Ludendorff has not as yet finished finding weak places in the Franco-British line, and will soon drive again—let us hope finally—into the points where victory can be availed him anything; i.e. from Amiens north to the sea. Flanders seems to be generally agreed upon as the theatre of the coming events, and the past fourteen days. But one thing must be borne in mind. It has, I think, been too readily assumed that the German strategy consists solely in urging a defensive war. There is not much room for retreat, and retreat is always unavoidable when the enemy's line is left entirely to an enemy who reckons nothing of lives lost if his object be attained. Sooner or later the Allies will have to make a great counter-drive; but it is by no means certain that later is a wiser policy than sooner. To an amateur mind, at any rate, the lines and what is going on in the limited counter-offensive; it helps to rectify dangerous sallies and, what is more important, distracts the enemy's attention. And this latter is precisely what the Allies want, since it would occasion further delay and the need of more reinforcements. It is therefore reasonable to expect an Allied offensive, if not at once, and in the course of the next few days, at any rate as soon as that attack has spent its first fury. Time, however, will shortly reveal which is as well as the enemy's plan, and we can put every trust in his soundness.

Y. W. C. A. One of the most important meetings held in the city for a long time was convened last evening in the Grenfell Hall. It was under the distinguished patronage of His Excellency the Governor and Miss Harris, both of whose names have been mentioned in our columns. His Excellency and Miss Harris have expressed their hearty sympathy and promised their active support should the movement materialize. The Chairman was Rev. Canon Bolt, who is in complete harmony with the Y. W. C. A. and who has had some experience in his workings in Canada and the United States. Quite a large and representative audience gathered, and Miss E. Frances Jones, the National Secretary of the Canadian Y. W. C. A., gave a most interesting address from a very broad standpoint. She spoke of the endeavours that have been put forth in a great many ways to bring about a closer union between the Y. W. C. A. of Canada and the Y. W. C. A. of the United States. She stated that the Y. W. C. A. aims to develop the girl physically, intellectually, religiously and socially. Her broad principles underlying the Association are such as will take in every nationality and every Christian race. It aims to place safeguards around the young girls of the cities, to give them good housing, to see that they are working under favourable conditions and in every way to fit them for their place in the world of life. Especially does the Association endeavour to make connections in the Industrial World such as they should be, for here we find the great body of the people. One important branch is the Travellers' Aid Work, that is, meeting girls coming from other countries to Canada and seeing that they are taken care of in a safe way on their journey. The need of such work is shown by the fact that last year 1,000 girls were lost to their destinations. The community spirit and the application of the Golden Rule are the real basis of the work of the Organization. Such will take one above the petty differences that exist and will tend to the good of all classes. The forces of evil are organized to-day as never before, and steps are needed to have a purer womanhood assist in the reconstruction of the world when peace follows this Great War. After Miss Jones' address a general discussion ensued, which was taken part in by Miss Benedict, Rev. Drs. Bond and Curtis, Rev. Dicks, Mr. Macpherson and Mr. W. H. Jones. A resolution for the appointment of a Committee to take the matter into consideration and to determine whether a Branch of the Y. W. C. A. should be established here was proposed, Canon Bolt, (Capt.) Clayton, seconded by Mr. Spry and carried. The following Committee was appointed: Miss Benedict, Revs. Dr. Bond, Canon Dicks, Canon Bolt, (Capt.) Clayton,

A Mysterious Horse Deal.

By Observer.

A farmer residing outside the city has a red pony in his possession which came to him under peculiar circumstances. The facts are as follows: The present owner of the pony was met a few weeks ago on New Gower Street by a man who asked him if he would like to buy a horse. Not being over anxious to purchase, he said no, but as the owner offered to sell at an unusually low figure he consented to take the horse even as a gift. The farmer did not take much stock, took him to Alexander Street where the horse was grading and on examining the beast found that it was alive with vermin and half starved. He declined to take the horse even as a gift. The "dealer" however, being anxious to get it off his hands gave the farmer one dollar to take it to a certain farm where it would be used for food. Consenting to the bargain he started homeward with his prize, but when about half way along the road the animal collapsed. Leaving it where it fell, he returned the next morning to cart it away, but found that it had recovered. It is now at the farm where the dealer's attention is progressing favorably. We understand the police are busy on the matter and that the shady horse trader will soon be made known.

Market Notes.

Codfish.—It is estimated that stocks in stores to-day are about 63,000 tons. The foreign markets are good, and exports are practically clear. Prospects of high opening prices for new cure were never better. Cod Oil.—There is little doing now in oil transactions, as about all the product has been exported, and values seem to have fallen off. Common is being quoted at $29 per ton, and refined at $2.50 per gallon. Offerings for new oil of this year's make will probably grow stronger as the season advances.

Herring.—Northern holders of Scotch pack are shipping to market large quantities of these herrings without touching St. John's. The price is said to be $18 on the spot. At New York the dull season has commenced and consequently sales will be at a minimum. There is a good demand for split herring here at $7.50 for No. 1.

Lobsters.—Reports coming in from the South and West Coasts, indicate that the fishery, so far, is fairly good, but that there are fewer packers this year, owing to prices being low. It is not possible at the moment to say just what opening prices will be made. Our only market being the United States, there is evidence that a fair price may be paid later on.

Provisions.—Quite a run is being made on "White" Flour remaining in stock. Prices of Five Roses and similar grades range from $14.50 to $14.75 and may advance to $15.00. The War Standard grade is offering at $13.80. Pork is becoming somewhat easier as holders abroad are now anxious to unload. The ruling prices to-day are Hambutt, $48 to $48.50; Spare Ribs, $37; whole beef, Beef is about as cheap as it is going to be this season. The imports to date are 5,000 barrels short compared with last year. Sugar is being quoted at $9.50 to $9.75, with an improvement anticipated next month. The molasses situation remains unchanged. Fancy and Grocery are quoted at the maximum price of 95 cents the gallon, puncheon lots.

She says that I shouldn't say that women have the same right as men to say I told you so, because men don't like women who do that sort of thing, and if my women readers try to do it they will antagonize their husbands. "And surely," she concludes, "domestic harmony is worth more than always insisting on your rights."

Men Prefer Harmony to Justice. That, too depends, (as I said about the matter of saying 'I told you so') on the point of view. Men never have any doubt that domestic harmony is much better than justice, and therefore they expect their wives to give up asking for justice and be satisfied with a harmony produced by the use of tact on their (the woman's) part.

Women on the other hand sometimes have doubts about the supreme value of that particular kind of harmony. Men Always Believe in The Use of Tact—By Women.

It isn't because they don't know that they can keep peace by giving up their points of view, by never disputing their husband's opinions, by making their pleasures his, and using tact forever and always. They know that. And many of them would be willing to do that as far as the selfishness required goes.

But if they did it they couldn't have a thorough respect for the man who would have no more sense of justice than to accept such acquiescence. And they do wish they could have that respect. They do hate never to be free of a lurking sense of resentment and injustice.

And so they sometimes do say things that are absolutely against the best.

code of 'How to keep your husband's love.' And quite often they lose that love because men can always get other women who will use tact.

Nothing For Themselves. And so they gain nothing, — for themselves.

Any more than most of the people who make some sacrifice for the sake of a principle gain anything for themselves.

And yet, since the world began, people have made such sacrifices. Queen isn't it? (And now I am afraid lest I shall truly read astray and encourage them to confound the desire to have their own way with the desire to defend a principle of justice. It is so terribly hard to tell the two apart when they get mixed up in ones mind.)

Amusement, like everything else in this world, has two sides. It can work for good or for bad. It can lift up or it can hold back. True amusement is any innocent pleasure which employs in a healthy way, the imagination, the heart, the brain, the affections of a child, so that something flows out of him in thought and action.

A thousand expensive toys will not give a child one-tenth of the joy that will be his if he is able to first create in his brain and then make with his hand some faulty little object, which will be to him, because of the gift of self, dearer almost than his life.

Inertia, once overcome by love, begins to throw out little feelers of growth and almost immediately the selfish child, before whom everything must be exploited, becomes a child of independent growth, willing and ready to give of himself that the world may be, through his sweetness and effort, a better, happier place.

DOING THE THING TO-DAY.

Half the people in this old world never arrive at the goal they have in mind because they are just a wee bit lazy. You and I may think this could never be said of us, yet I am almost of the opinion that there is not one of us that has not a secret of a little streak of laziness. We are no doubt energetic about the big things, and the world sees us squaring our shoulders cheerfully at burdens which might well cause the faint-hearted to quail, but wait until we are confronted with a tedious little task which doesn't at all fit in with our inclinations or our mood, and it is quite a different story.

Many women long to possess beauty but they are careless about little things because they dread to spend the time doing things that are not always delectable.

If you find it is too much bother to spend five minutes each morning on your deep breathing exercises, if you find that too much precious time is wasted in massaging away the wrinkles of the day with a good cream, or that you must exert too much energy to give your tresses their brushing every night, how can you expect to have straight shoulders, well developed throats, clear complexions, and glorious hair.

Perhaps your danger lies in persuading yourself that you are going to put that cream on but not to-night. Maybe the next morning you decide that your hair can wait a while, and you miss this opportunity for the brushing, and so it goes.

Beauty can only be attained and kept by constant care and hard work. Of course if one is a natural beauty one need not try so hard, but the average woman has no more beauty than she cares to possess, and few of us can afford to lose a mite of it.

If you are going to get that new suit of clothes, get it now, as with new shipments of goods prices are going to soar. We have a splendid stock to select from, and you can rely on a good fit in any style you wish to have it made. SPURRELL THE Tailor, 365 Water St.—June 7, 1918.

Everyday Etiquette.

"Recently I called on a neighbor and she was not at home. Should I call on her again before she comes to see me?" asked John. "It is not necessary for you to call again because your neighbor was not at home, you have fulfilled your obligations and it is her turn to call on you," answered his uncle.

It is the best Liniment you can use for RHEUMATISM, LUMBAGO, NEURALGIA and all ACHES and PAINS. Owing to the cost of Bottles and ingredients used in the manufacturing of this Liniment, we have had to advance the price a little, but the bottle still remains the same size.

DR. P. STAFFORD & SON, St. John's, Nfld.

THE RISING COST.

They've raised the cost of rubber tires until I roundly swear, by all the green grasses of my sires, that it is most unfair. I'm told by Jinks, the gifted gen, who runs the rubber store, "The price has risen fifteen per cent., and soon will rise some more." Up goes the price of motor oil, it's doubled in a year, and I am pawing up the soil and beefing like a steer. I go to buy the inner tube I've needed since July, and find some wretched mechanic has sent the price sky high. When punk mechanics fix my boat—and it needs fixing still—they strike a most discordant note when they announce their bill. "The price of gas," the dealer cries, "for sacking gives no grounds, but it is shortly bound to rise, by well known leaps and bounds." My feet are seamed with ghastly scars, put there by thorns and stones, for I have cut out motor cars—they cost too many bones. O'er hill and dale I push my limbs because I can't afford to blow myself for plugs and rims, for fabric tires or cord. I walk the long streets of the town, I climb the schoolhouse hill, and now and then I sit me down, and cuss old Kaiser Bill. Because he played at being Mars and thought the world his meat, I've had to cut out motor cars, and travel on my feet. Because he sprung a martial note with bullets and with horns, I've had to soak my handsome coat and exercise my corns.

YOUR GREAT ADVANTAGE.—Hundreds of millions of dollars have been subscribed in other countries to War Loans carrying only 4, 4 1/2, 5 and 5 1/4 per cent interest. The Newfoundland Victory Loan pays 6 1/2 per cent, a phenomenal rate for Government securities. Surely you cannot fail to grasp this exceptional opportunity to reap an unusual interest rate, and at the same time help your country, your sailors and soldiers, and our common Empire.

Losses to Day

Italians and Allies Little Fighting concentrating

WAR SUMMARY. The barrier the Italians and their Allies have raised along the great battle area from the Asiago Plateau to the sea remains insuperable to the Austrians. The operations by which the enemy had hoped to press his way from the mountain peaks in the Alps and across the Piave River to the Plains of Venetia, thus far have met with almost signal failure. Where the enemy was able in the mountains to press back slightly the Allied defenders of the front in the first day of their offensive, the ground has been regained; where he crossed the Piave and apparently was threatening the plains with invasion, he now is being sorely harassed at every point by the Italians. The battle is not a stalemate. In the mountains the Italians, British and French troops seemingly have the upper hand. Along the Piave from the Montello Plateau to the mouth of the river east of Venice the Italians, notwithstanding vicious thrusts by the enemy here and there, apparently are gaining the upper hand. Little fighting of moment is in progress with the invaders meeting resistance upon which they had not counted, and being steadily pressed back toward the west bank of the now turbulent river, which has swept away many of their pontoon bridges in the centre of the line, leaving them in a rather precarious predicament. Freshets have forced the river well out of the banks, and the question of sending Austrian reinforcements to the west side or conveying food and military supplies to the men already on the border of the plains has become critical. Hoping to alleviate the situation the Austrians have again delivered attacks on the Montello Plateau, the keystone to the plains, but like the previous thrust they met with repulse.

Italians and Allies Gain the Upperhand. Little Fighting on Western Front. Concentrating for New Offensive.

WAR SUMMARY.

The barrier the Italians and their allies have raised along the great battle area from the Asiago Plateau to the sea remains insuperable to the Austrians. The operations by which the enemy had hoped to press his way from the mountain peaks in the Alps and across the Piave River to the Plains of Venetia, thus far have met with almost signal failure. Where the enemy was able in the mountains to press back slightly the Allied defenders of the front in the first day of their offensive, the ground has been regained; where he crossed the Piave and apparently was threatening the plains with invasion, he now is being severely harassed at every point by the Italians. The battle is not a stalemate. In the mountains the Italians, British and French troops seemingly have the upper hand. Along the Piave from the Montello Plateau to the mouth of the river east of Venice the Italians, notwithstanding vicious attacks by the enemy here and there, apparently are gaining the upper hand. Little fighting of moment is in progress with the invaders meeting resistance upon which they had not counted, and being steadily pressed back toward the west bank of the now turbulent river, which has swept away many of their pontoon bridges in the centre of the line, leaving them in a rather precarious predicament. Freshly the banks, and the question of sending Austrian reinforcements to the west side or conveying food and military supplies to the men already on the border of the plains has become critical. Hoping to alleviate the situation the Austrians have again delivered attacks on the Montello Plateau, the keystone to the plains, but like the previous thrust they met with repulse.

Between the Treviso railway bridge and the Zenson loop the Italians have pressed back the enemy closer towards the Piave, while at Losson near the Fossata canal the enemy attacks were repulsed. Further down the stream a short distance from where it empties into the Adriatic Sea, the Italians in a daring assault north of Cortellazzo, pierced the enemy front, took 200 men prisoners, and firmly held their ground against a counter attack. In the violent air fighting that is in progress all along the front American aviators have joined the Allied airmen and are performing daring feats. Among the enterprises carried out by them has been the bombing of pontoon bridges thrown by the enemy across the Piave. Empty stomachs continue to play an important role both with the Austro-Hungarian armies and the people inside the Dual Monarchy. Prisoners taken by the Italians are not infrequently ill-fed. Troublesome times prevail in cities and towns in the empire and kingdom because of the lack of food. The people, even officials, are declared to be at their wits' end in endeavors to alleviate the situation. The Hungarian Premier is said to have told Parliament that the kingdom has only one-fourth the food necessary to maintain the people in health, and that it would be hard to hold out until the new harvest is gathered. Except for the Italian theatre, little fighting is in progress. Southwest of Solsonas near Faveroles and a little further south near Havivnes, the French, in more of their daily attacks, have bettered their positions and taken prisoners from the Germans. In the regions of Arras and Albert the British also have made gains and repulsed German attacks near Merris on the Flanders front. The German official statement records the repulse of an American attack northwest of Chateau Thierry in the Marne sector, and says the Americans suffered heavy losses. This probably refers to the fighting of Thursday in the Belleau Wood, where the Americans advanced their lines more than half a mile, after the enemy had refused to accept the gaze of battle.

AUSTRIAN LOSSES.

PARIS, June 21. The Austrian losses in their offensive on the Italian front, exceed 120,000 men, according to a despatch to La Liberte from Rome, quoting the correspondent of the Courriere d'Italia.

ITALIANS CONTINUE OFFENSIVE.

ROME, June 21. Italian forces yesterday continued their offensive on the Piave in the region of Fargaro and Zenson and gained further ground from the Austrians, the Italian war office announced today. Austro-Hungarian pressure continued strongly on the Montello yesterday, the war office states, but everywhere the invaders were repulsed. The Austro-Hungarians launched five heavy attacks on the Italians west of Piave, but were exhausted by their exceptionally heavy losses. The attackers were forced to retire in face of Italian resistance.

GOOD DAY FOR ITALIANS.

ROME, June 21. The efforts of the Austrians to widen the northeastern salient on the Montello Plateau, the keystone of the Piave front toward the west, have failed, Premier Orlando informed Parliament last night. The enemy's losses during the day were enormous, the Premier added. The Italians took several hundred prisoners. Toward the south, the Premier stated, the enemy again succeeded in crossing the Monte Bell Sugana railway at several points near the Niverna station, but was promptly stopped. On the Lower Piave the Italians gained more ground.

SECOND EFFORT DUE.

ITALIAN ARMY HEADQUARTERS, June 20. (By the Associated Press.)—The second phase of the Austrian offensive featured by attacks to the right and left of Valstagna, along the Brenta River and in the mountains, should logically begin soon, now that the first effort has failed. It is felt that the Austrians do not renew their efforts to penetrate to the plains through the Brenta region and taking Monte Grappa, it would be an acknowledgment of defeat and their inability to carry out the ambitious plan launched a week ago. The situation, however, is still regarded as most serious, and all preparations have been made to meet any new offensive. Along the Piave the Italian positions are virtually unchanged. The Austrians are fighting well, according to the Italians, but the latter are outclassing them.

AIR OPERATIONS.

LONDON, June 21. The official statement of airplane operations issued to-day says: On the 20th inst. low clouds and rain greatly hampered flying operations. One enemy machine was brought down and one of ours is missing.

TRANSPORT FIGHT SUBMARINE.

AN ATLANTIC PORT, June 21. An American troop transport, formerly a German liner, which returned this week from a French port, was subjected to a shell fire attack from a German submarine, two days out from the port of departure, it became known to-day. The transport escaped by superior speed, although a running battle lasting more than an hour took place, in which more than 100 shots were fired by the two ships. The sub, appeared to have one gun that outranged any carried by the transport, and from this gun there were counted 35 shots, none of which, however, hit the American ship. The sub didn't venture close enough to use a torpedo and finally gave up the pursuit.

GERMAN OFFICIAL.

BERLIN, June 21. Attacks by American troops northwest of Chateau Thierry and by French troops southwest of Noyon were repulsed by the Germans, according to the official statement issued to-day. Both the French and Americans suffered heavy casualties, and some prisoners were taken by the Germans, says the statement.

AMERICANS STRAIGHTEN LINE.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE. (By the Associated Press.)—The American forces northwest of Chateau Thierry this morning further straightened their line by a series of small, but brilliantly executed attacks on the north side of Belleau Wood.

AGREE TO A CONFERENCE.

WASHINGTON, June 21. Word reached the State Department to-day from the Spanish Ambassador at Berlin, that the German Government has agreed in principle to a conference with representatives of the U.S.A., to discuss the treatment, welfare and exchange of prisoners.

EXCHANGE OF PRISONERS FORBIDDEN.

MOSCOW, June 21. (By the Associated Press.)—Because of a disagreement with Germany concerning the exchanging of war prisoners, the Russian War Prisoner College has issued an order to stop immediately the repatriation of all Germans between the ages of 16 and 45 years who are fit for military service.

ANOTHER BIG BATTLE PENDING.

ITALIAN HEADQUARTERS IN NORTHERN ITALY, June 20. (By the Associated Press.)—It is considered only a question of a brief lapse of time before the Austrians will begin another offensive. It is said that this time they probably will concentrate their efforts instead of scattering them as they did a week ago, when they followed the German plan of attack to make a big general offensive over a long line before revealing their point of attack. It is thought that the plan was even dictated by General Ludendorff, the German Commander, who didn't realize that the Austrians were too weak to make such an attack, lacking as they did not only artillery, but general officers and officers of lower grade. The reported presence of Emperor Charles on the Italian front is considered one of the signs leading to the belief that the Austrians will feel the necessity of renewing their attack.

BRITISH CASUALTIES.

LONDON, June 21. British casualties reported during the week ended today aggregated 36,630. The losses were divided as follows: Killed or died of wounds, officers 235, men 4,247; wounded or missing, officers 1,414, men 30,724. It is several weeks since the British Army has been engaged in any prolonged SUNLIGHT SOAP.

£1,000 Guarantee of Purity on every Bar.

THE "Sunlight" Guarantee of Purity was never more justified than it is to-day, because it enables us to insure the wives of our gallant soldiers and sailors against the drudgery and worry of household cleaning.

Sunlight Soap saves rubbing—saves scrubbing—saves the clothes. That portion of a wife's allowance which must be devoted to the cleaning of the home is, therefore, absolutely safeguarded when spent on Sunlight Soap.

SUNLIGHT SOAP is made for the housewife's profit for only thereby can the makers hope to profit by Sunlight Soap.

ed fighting on a large scale, although British divisions were involved in the German attack which began the offensive of May 27th, on the Alsne front. The bulk of the casualties now being reported, which still are running between 30,000 and 40,000 weekly, evidently represent accumulations of names from intensive operations in which the British were engaged during the heavy German attacks of this spring on the British front.

SINN FEINER ELECTED.

LONDON, June 21. Arthur Griffiths, the Sinn Fein leader, who was recently arrested in the Sinn Fein round-up in Ireland, has been elected on the House of Commons from East Cavan. He defeated the Nationalist candidate, David Channon, by a vote of 2,793 to 2,581.

GRAIN FOR VIENNA.

AMSTERDAM, June 21. There has been some alleviation of the food situation in Austria, according to a Vienna despatch to the Dutch newspapers. This announced the arrival of a thousand cars of grain at the Austrian capital.

HOUSE PASSES BILL.

WASHINGTON, June 21.

Without a dissenting vote the House to-day passed and sent to the Senate the Alien Anarchist Deportation Bill, authorizing immediate deportation of aliens subscribing in whole or part to the tenets of anarchism.

SCOTCH TROOPS PENETRATE GERMAN TRENCHES.

LONDON, June 21. (Official.)—In last night's raids north of the Scarpe, Scotch troops penetrated the German trenches inflicting heavy casualties on the garrison and capturing some prisoners. A number of dugouts and many machine guns were blown up and destroyed. Nothing of special interest occurred to-day.

The Practical Economy of Good Paint

Good paint is never an expense, but a saving. By its use you save your buildings from a steady deterioration in value. Economy in painting demands the use of Quality Paint—Martin-Senour "100% Pure" Paint—the paint that protects and preserves. The use of cheap materials is a waste of money—a waste of time.

MARTIN-SENOUR
"100% PURE" PAINT

wears longest, covers the greatest surface (900 sq. feet per gallon) and because of its even texture, takes least time and is easiest to apply. It is absolutely guaranteed—"100% Pure" White Lead, Zinc Oxide and highest quality Linseed Oil. It is admittedly the most economical paint on the market.

Take no chances. Make your investments secure by applying on your buildings, inside and out, protecting coats of Martin-Senour "100% Pure" Paint.

Write for "Farmer's Color Set" and "Town and Country Homes". Just what you'll need in planning your painting. Mailed free.

Animals as Sentinels.

A wounded soldier, asked what had surprised him most in the battle zone, told of finding a robin's nest in an empty shell case.

As a rule birds are the finest sentinels among the lower down folk. They become aware of approaching aircraft long before man hears anything. Early in the war, parrots were kept at the Eiffel Tower as sentinels, but they grew accustomed to the sound of enemy planes and were no longer of use. Pheasants always show restless and chatter noisily if Zeppelins are approaching, even when they are far away, so far that man can hear no sound.

What is perhaps stranger is the fact that such ordinary creatures as pigs should sight a balloon when it is coming over. The "blister" makes no sound, yet, should one appear against the sky miles from a farmyard, the farmer will be made aware of the fact by the curious antics of his pigs and the clucking of his hens.

Toy dogs are always susceptible to the presence of danger, and many a pet shows uneasiness, before a raid. Cats, too, show fear of gun-fire and seem to know when danger threatens.

Dogs, birds, and horses are very sensitive to sound. Watch the birds during a daylight raid, listen to the dogs, and visit the stable where the horse restively stamps up and down. But that all animals can accustom themselves to sounds that cause fear is proved by our cavalry horses, dogs that accompany their masters into the firing line, and the robins nest in the empty shell case.

Why "Tanks"?

The story of the origin of the name "Tank" is an interesting one.

A certain Mr. Thomas Tank Burrell was the manager of a well-known Norfolk firm of engineers, still known as Messrs. Burrell and Sons, of Thorpe. Although the manager's name was similar to that of his employers in sound, he was not a relative.

Tank was the maiden name of his mother, and Mr. Burrell was called "Tank" for brevity by his friends.

An ingenious mechanical expert, his employers soon realized his value by making him manager of the Thetford Engineering Works. He was always devising some new improvement in agricultural and marine machinery.

At the Royal Agricultural Show at Derby in 1881 Messrs. Burrell showed what was described as a "most novel engine," a ten-horse power traction-engine with a Landore steel boiler. It was said to be a curious type of compound engine, very simple, "with a new steam steering-gear which was the invention of Mr. Thomas Tank Burrell manager to Messrs. Burrell and Sons." The gear was stated to be well adapted for steering ships and for large marine engines, to which it has since been widely applied.

Realizing the difficulties these traction engines experienced in getting over ploughed fields and uneven ground, says a writer in "Strand Magazine" Mr. Tank Burrell conceived the idea of "pattens" for the wheels, and also the springs which are so much in use in all the better classes of traction-engines.

The famous caterpillar wheels are the outcome of this invention, and have now led to the ultimate construction of the Tanks as engines of war. Mr. Burrell's ingenuity surprised his fellow-workers in the factory and they, in their admiration of his capacity and originality, gave these engines, with their "pattened" wheels, the name of Tanks, in compliment to their manager. Unfortunately, the clever expert's career was but a short one. Constantly overworking himself, the strain proved too great, and one day, while at his office-desk, he fell down dead, the result of heart-trouble.

Diana Reaches Battle Harbor.

WINTER CONDITIONS IN THE STRAITS.
(Western Star.)

The s.s. Diana, Capt. Edward English, reached Battle Harbor on her last trip to the Straits of Belle Isle, and got back to Curling at half-past eight o'clock Monday evening. It was foggy when the ship was at Battle Harbor, and one could not see far, but residents said the ice had moved off a couple of days previous. In shore, however, the weather remained much the appearance of winter. Whiteley's crew had the first sign of cod on Thursday. Fishermen generally, however, were only preparing to set their fishing gear and up to the arrival of the Diana in the Straits little or no effort had been made for cod. There was no sign of cod at Flower's Cove, but from Point Riche southward prospects were good. Current Island people only set their fishing gear last week. In St. John's Bay there was a good sign of cod with Jigger, while hook-and-line men were doing a little at some places. Similar conditions prevailed at Port Saunders. Grant's men at Blanc Sablon are suffering from a severe illness. About sixty of them were down with it when the Diana was there. It is thought to be a bad type of influenza.

With the Rod.

(Western Star.)

There is a good sign of salmon in Fische's River.

Francis Young caught two salmon weighing 5 and 6 lbs., respectively, at the lower part of Fische's River. Chatter Shears, of Robinson's, caught five salmon weighing respectively, 5, 6, 7, 8 and 10 lbs., at Red Cliff Pool.

On Saturday P. Anthony, W. K. Buckley and A. H. Munn visited Fische's from Robinson's and landed 60 very fine seat trout.

Walter Young, of Fische's, caught the first salmon on that river this season. It weighed between 7 and 8 pounds. On Saturday he landed another weighing 12 pounds.

The first foreign sportsman to arrive at Fische's River this season was J. L. France, of Philadelphia. On Monday he caught four salmon, on Tuesday 3 and on Friday one, from Red Cliff and Bridge Pools.

The King at the Nore.

Chats With Workers.

The King a few days ago visited the naval establishments at the Nore. His Majesty, who was in naval uniform, first made a tour of Sheerness Dockyard. In the course of this he went into practically every shop and talked with several employees, both men and women.

He also saw a number of warships of different kinds being refitted for further service. Among these was the battered hull of a little drifter which had withstood an attack by enemy craft and a submarine that had done a great deal of adventurous patrol work in German waters.

While inspecting the officers and men of the trawler patrol the King noticed among them an Australian named Jack Langford, whom he had seen 15 years ago in charge of a troop of Australian natives who gave an exhibition before His Majesty in the use of their native weapons. The King chatted with him for some time.

Among those presented was a naval commander, who voluntarily returned to service after having retired. The King said to him, "I think it is splendid of you to come back in this way after having so well earned your leisure."

37 Years on the Footplate.

After leaving Sheerness for Chatham the King took luncheon in the royal train—a strictly rationed meal supplied from a luncheon basket. Before the train restarted his Majesty sent for William Waters, the driver, and complimented him on his excellent service. Waters has been in the railway company's service for 44 years—37 of these as a driver, and has driven many royal trains. Of his four sons, all of whom joined the Army, two have been killed and a third is missing.

The King inspected Chatham Dockyard, where he also talked with a number of the workers in the shops. He reviewed the officers and men of the local naval depot, and among those presented to him was Engineer-Commander Andrews, who was in the Kent during the Falkland Islands battle.

Before leaving the yard his Majesty shook hands with a number of ex-soldiers discharged through wounds and now working in the establishment. A review of a rifle training battalion and an informal inspection of Royal Marines brought the official program to a close.

The King returned to the train for London through gaily decorated streets filled with crowds of cheering people.—Daily Mail.

SUNK BY COLLISION.
 WASHINGTON, June 21.—Sinking of the American steamer in collision with the Ameri-

AMERICAN DIVISION HONORED.
 WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, June 21. (By the Associated Press.)—American troops forming the Rainbow Division, on the completion of a hundred days' consecutive service on the front line in Lorraine, to-day received a document which will be kept by them as a valued souvenir of the war. It is a citation by the French General testifying to the good work of the division. The citation renders homage to "the fine military qualities which the division has continually exhibited, and to the services it has rendered in this sector," and adds, "The spirit, method and discipline shown by the officers and men proved they can at the first call take a glorious place in the line of battle."

Vive La France.

There's yet a river to cross
 Ere the Germans can reach their goal;
 And Death with a strong French sword stands guard,
 And Death demands 'hill toll.
 Thy streets O Paris! as conquerors
 Thy toes shall never tread;
 But they, as helpless captives,
 Stroll through those streets be led.
 Thy wounds, Brave France! are many;
 And thou hast suffered long;
 But O thy dauntless spirit!
 Thy courage sublimely strong!
 In this thy day of trial
 Well dost thou stand the test;
 Thou, for thy great endurance,
 Shalt be supremely blest!
 By all that's high and holy;
 By all that's strong and pure;
 The dastard foe shall be o'erthrown;
 Thy triumph hour is sure!
 They strive through utter ruthlessness
 To hold mankind in thrall;
 Their mighty dream will simply serve
 To emphasize their fall.
 Brave France! in this dark hour
 Firm at thy side we stand;
 In friendship everlasting
 We proudly clasp thy hand!
 To-day with thee we suffer,
 But 'twill not be for long;
 Soon we with all our allies
 Will sing the victor's song!

O France! arrayed in splendour,
 Through ages yet to be,
 Thou shalt forth rich blessings
 Upon humanity.
 "Vive la France!" the cry resounds
 Throughout each Allied nation;
 It voices fervent gratitude,
 And lofty admiration!

 At a largely attended meeting of the N.I.W.A. last night the matter of a delegate was discussed, several of those present expressing their views. It was finally decided that President Bennett, who has been acting for some time retain the position till the end of the year and be paid $25 per week. He will still continue in the office of President. The case of Wm. Harvey, who was recently discharged from the Sanitary Staff was dealt with. A letter from him to the Municipal Council and the Council's reply, was read and it was decided to deal further with the matter at a special meeting of the Executive next week.

An Admirer of Mr. W. J. Walsh.

Dear Sir.—I am proud to be able to pay a small measure of praise to W. J. Walsh, Esq., M.H.A., in relation to the promotion which I learned through your widely circulated journal he has received. I notice that he is appointed Vice-President of the Insurance Companies Association, an honour which I know he will uphold with ability, with dignity and tact. Though sprung from the fishing class, yet "Bilby" Walsh has within him the talent that makes the man. He is a credit to his native place, Placentia, and I with hundreds of others, feel pleased to know of the honor conferred upon him. Hoping that he may live long to hold the position and that he may meet with success, as I believe he will, owing to his ability and energy, I remain,

Died at Jensen Camp.

Private Fudge, who had been a patient at the Jensen Camp for a short time, passed away this morning. We understand that Private Fudge, who belonged to Hermitage Bay, only enlisted last February. Shortly after he joined the Regiment he suffered from measles and pneumonia and was only admitted to Jensen Camp on May 22, at which time he was suffering from advanced tuberculosis. Since his admission to the Camp he has been occupying what is known as the Rest Ward which is used to isolate the more serious cases from the others. During his presence at the Camp everything that could be done to help him was carried out, and it is to be regretted that the efforts of the doctor and the staff were unavailing.

While it might be regretted that only three teams have decided to try their luck in this season's football series, the lovers of the game will however, receive good value for their money, as never before in the history of the League were teams reported to be so evenly matched as the C. E. I., Star and B. I. S.
 The league is determined to make every effort possible to make this season surpass all previous efforts and while there will be a fair sprinkling of young blood in the forward division of each team, the defence positions will be looked after by the old fellows.
 Special features for the opening night are being arranged which will be announced later. Three rounds will be played, the opening round being as follows:—
 C. E. I. vs. B. I. S.
 Star vs. C. E. I.
 B. I. S. vs. Star.
