protective duty on canned salmon would do little or nothing towards helping the packers who do look abroad for a market. It does appear singular to see the free trade organ of this province becoming more protectionist than the most zealous of the protectionists...

THE MEMBERS OF THE BOARD OF TRADE who support the present Government are not only the most zealous of the protectionists, but they are also the most zealous of the free traders...

FRIDAY, JULY 12, 1889. EDITORIAL COMMENTS. The representative of the Shah in Washington is, it is said, disgusted with America and Americans. The presumption of the newspaper men of the United States astonishes his high mightness, and the weakness of the Government excites his contempt and indignation.

CONDENSED DESPATCHES. In the late march made at Winnipeg on Tuesday, the Winnipeg defeated the Plains Creeks 4 to 1. The Governor-General will not return from Caspacia for a couple of weeks. He is looked for to visit British Columbia in September. St. John, N.B., is going to celebrate the centenary of the New Brunswick line of the C.P.R. with a ten days' fest.

The U.S. Pension Department. WASHINGTON, July 10.—Much interest has developed over the rumors that serious trouble has arisen between Pension Commissioner Tanager and Secretary Noble, and that the resignation of the former is not improbable. These rumors have been kept for analysis. It is learned that for some time previous to the fight he had taken medicine from Philadelphia. Dr. Dougherty, of Philadelphia, was treating him. The doctor says it was for a "boil." Mike Lester says he knew nothing about it until the end of June. There seems to be no doubt that Mitchell knew it.

VOLUNTEERS.

Every one must admit that there is no sign of the million being near. The time of universal peace, when men will convert their swords into ploughshares and their big guns into steam engines is, at all appearances, very far off.

This is not a time when the men of any nation can afford to live as if they believed that peace is to last forever. It is a time rather when every intelligent man should qualify himself to become an active defender of his country and of its institutions.

Even if the services of this generation of volunteers are not required in the better field, this will be all the better for the subjects themselves for even a short time to military discipline. They will get a lesson in obedience which will stand them in good stead in almost any position in which they may be placed.

Then will the men under military instruction duty is paramount. Duty must be done. Everything must give way to duty. The habit of placing duty first is one which the soldier in whatever capacity he serves must learn.

The physical exercise which forms a large part of military instruction is to be despised. To get rid of slothful habits and to be able to carry out all the duties which are required of him is the better for them.

to be a little too conceited than to be wanting in self-respect.

From every point of view, the volunteer movement ought to be lauded. It may sound smart to sneer at the volunteers for "playing at soldiers," but when there is danger from a foreign foe or from civil disturbance, the volunteers are regarded by even the scornful in a very different light than when they march through the streets on a holiday.

An "ext-act officer" of the Salvation Army has written a book which professes to give the reader a glimpse of the inner working of that peculiar organization. The glimpse "behind the scenes" does not reveal what some who read the title of the book expect to see.

It is cheering to see that this writer, who has been behind the scenes, has nothing to say against the rank and file of the army. He makes no mention of the good intentions and of devotion to their work, which they carry on under difficulties and with very little encouragement from Headquarters.

Our object, the writer says, "has not been to disparage the word of the religious teaching put forth by the army, and we honor to the fullest extent any and every man who gives his hands to the work of the army."

It is not surprising that the writer should be so complimentary to the army, for he is a member of it. He is a member of the 10th Battalion, and he speaks of the army as if he were a member of it.

THE FIRST FRUITS

The anti-Jesuit agitation in Ontario is producing its fruit in Quebec. The anti-Jesuit meeting in Toronto has been succeeded by a pro-Jesuit meeting in Quebec city.

It was, he continued, "a great and glorious event, a triumph for the national cause. But of what benefit would this triumph be to the common danger? If they were to triumph they must be united at all times and on all occasions.

He continued to exhort his hearers for the sake of their race and their religion which had been attacked to stand together, to allow no party jealousies, to unite in the most important questions to keep them united.

"The French-Canadians," he said, "are a generous people. They were willing to tolerate all wrongs and wrongs, but now they are protesting their eyes to-day. The agitation which was now conducted in Ontario is intended to declare boldly to a lawless and dangerous aggression."

It can easily be seen from this speech that the first result of the Ontario anti-Jesuit agitation, it will be to unite all French-Canadian into a solid party on the basis, not of politics, but of race and religion.

It is possible to derive a practical scheme composed of such men who are able to do the work. If they, after due deliberation, fail to find a workable plan of union, it is reasonable to suppose that in the present condition of the Empire confederation is impracticable.

public policy, but of religious belief and profession. This will bring to the front a number of men who will have nothing to recommend them to the constituents but what they desire to be considered as in the cause of religion.

But whatever may be our destiny, Canadians have reason to be devoutly thankful that their condition is such that they can speculate in comfort and with easy minds on the future of their country.

A STARTLING DOCTRINE.

The Toronto Empire very properly directs attention to the new constitutional doctrine which is being evolved out of the discussion of the Jentis' Estates Act.

SIR CHARLES ON IMPERIAL FEDERATION.

Sir Charles Tupper spoke on Imperial Confederation in London a few days ago. He is evidently not an enthusiastic imperial federationist and he did not attempt to lead his hearers to believe that Canadians, as a people, are pining for closer relations with the Mother Country.

Great Britain can look with pride on the growth of her dependencies. The policy which she pursues towards them is having the best results. Everywhere they are prospering, growing in strength and importance, and everywhere they are enthusiastically loyal.

Perhaps the best way to give the scheme of Imperial Federation a practical shape, to take it out of the region of theory in which it has been floating above the heads of the people and out of sight of most of them, is the plan suggested by Sir Charles Tupper.

It is possible to derive a practical scheme composed of such men who are able to do the work. If they, after due deliberation, fail to find a workable plan of union, it is reasonable to suppose that in the present condition of the Empire confederation is impracticable.

It is possible to derive a practical scheme composed of such men who are able to do the work. If they, after due deliberation, fail to find a workable plan of union, it is reasonable to suppose that in the present condition of the Empire confederation is impracticable.

FOREST PRESERVATION.

In one of the very useful and well-written tracts, issued by the Pennsylvania Forestry Association, every farmer and owner of woodland is told that the time has come when forest management for timber is a more valuable year by year, as it grows scarcer in the country at large.

This is true not only of Pennsylvania, alone, but of every part of the continent of America. It was at one time—and that not so very long ago—supposed that the forests of North America were inexhaustible.

THE CONGO RAILWAY.

The railway is a great civilizer. When a country is inhabited by railways the people who inhabit it are no longer isolated. They must, whether they like it or not, associate with men of other lands, whose habits, whose language and whose opinions differ from their own.

The philosopher who takes an interest in Africa sees that, and they have set on foot the Congo Railway enterprise. This road is to penetrate Africa from the west, and will bring the native tribes of a vast region in continuous contact with western civilization.

OUR DEFENCES.

The Toronto Mail endeavors to allay the fears of our neighbors across the line by the following remarks on the harbor defences of British Columbia: "A Russian war vessel has just paid a flying visit to Vancouver. The circumstances suggest once more the remembrance of the attack on the British Columbia coast by the Russian fleet in 1885."

HEALTH PRESERVATION.

The efficacy of sanitary regulations has been very conspicuous in the army. Discipline prevails. Orders must be obeyed and regulations carried out. An experiment has been made in the army of the efficacy of sanitary regulations in the army of the British Empire.
