THE TOWN COUNCIL

An emergency meeting of the town council was held on Thursday evening. The subject was the four of opening work Councilors Barlow and Calder. The bill of the Bridgetown Electric Light and Power Company for $157.30 was read. Before dealing with it Coun. De Witt asked to have the minutes of the last meeting read, and this was done. The electric light bill was then ordered to be paid.

The Mayor said the object of the meeting was to talk over the appointment of an inspector. Last Monday night the clerk had been instructed to telephone Mr. Mulhall, and he did so. Mr. Mulhall had agreed to come the next day, but in the meantime Coun. Longmire had seen Mr. Craig and engaged him at the rate of $5.00 for six hours service, the town to pay the expenses. Coun. Longmire verified these remarks by saying that the rate fixed was $5 for every six hours. The mayor thought the amount was an exorbitant one as Mr. Crowe could put in six hours a day if he saw fit. Coun. De Witt said he had not had much to say on the subject. He was sorry he was not here last Monday night. The Mayor said he was at a horse race in Sussex. He had put in three half days last week in the town of the town and went to Sussex where he sold a horse. If the water committee was not going to be allowed to handle the water they had better drop it. The present stage had been reached through his efforts, in fact, the plan they were working on—the Whitman plan—was his. The Mayor—But the town paid for it. Coun. De Witt—Well, I got nothing for my time. As regards the inspector he made all the arrangements with Mr. Crowe except as regards wages. The Mayor—Mr. Crowe told me you had made no arrangements. But, we certainly couldn't pay that man for inspecting his own work—that would be silly. Coun. Longmire said Mr. Crowe had told him if there was one dissenting voice he would not act. He said there was a good deal of kicking—and he knew it—about the terms he had made. Mr. Decker said Mr. Crowe had been inspecting the last two days. Today he got there at 3 o'clock and left at 4.75 would not take more than ten days to do the whole. Coun. De Witt—How much would it cost to get a man from outside? The Mayor—Don't know. As the council had agreed to ask Mr. Mulhall and he had not come down. He has not been down and I presume was requested not to. Coun. Longmire—Certainly! After I had engaged Mr. Crowe, the clerk notified Mr. Mulhall. Coun. De Witt—The way I understand it is that Coun. Longmire has made a contract with Mr. Crowe and he has accepted it. The way I look at it is if the town wants to get a man from outside, Mr. Crowe will have to go. But under the circumstances he is at work and will see the job put through and it will cost no more to keep him than it would to get another.

Coun. Freeman—I don't think Mr. Mulhall would come. The Mayor—Well, that was never found out. The matter was taken out of the hands of the council and the contract given to Mr. Crowe. Coun. De Witt—There is one thing I am sorry about and that is that we didn't get Mulhall's figures. Judging from his last bill they would have been higher. Suppose we tell Mr. Crowe we don't want him any longer, what are we going to do next? Send for Mr. Mulhall? He moved that the Mayor's Coun. Longmire made with Mr. Crowe be agreed to. Coun. Freeman seconded the motion. On the question being called, only two voices were heard in assent, Councilors Chute and Longmire did not vote. The council then adjourned.

Halifax, August 15.—The sixth annual convention of the union of Canadian municipalities commenced yesterday at the city hall. A meeting of the executive was held at 11 o'clock, regular work starting at two in the afternoon. Liverpool, August 15.—The trial of the election petition against Hon. W. S. Fielding commenced at Liverpool yesterday before Chief Justice Wigham and Mr. Justice Russell. Attorney General Drysdale occupied the forenoon in an argument to the effect that the court had no jurisdiction, following the same line as that in which the Halifax election petition was dismissed and which was on the ground that the date for trial had been beyond the legal time. J. J. Riecke replied in the afternoon. Court reserved decision till today. St. John, August 15.—Chas. Myers, a small boy received a nasty knife wound between the ribs on the right side of his body yesterday. The knife was in the hands of Frank Cullen, aged nine, and there are conflicting stories including questions over a dog and cat. Dr. Bishop said the wound was serious but thinks he will recover. Ottawa, August 14.—Attorney General Lamont, of Saskatchewan, is said to be a candidate for the seat on the Supreme Court bench, vacated by Judge Sedgewick's death.

CHILD FATALLY BURNED Waverly, Mass., August 8.—A accident occurred at the home of A. F. Young, Agassie avenue, this evening, resulting in the death of his little three year old son, by the falling of a bracket lamp. The door was shaken down by the shutting of a door, and at once burst into flames. Mrs. Young and the little boy were in the room. Mr. Young was in the room above when he heard the cry of alarm and running down found his wife and child wrapped in flames. Throwing a wrap around his wife he caught his child to save it, but it already was fatally burned. Drs. Clarke and Daniel were immediately summoned and the little one carried to Waltham Hospital where everything that could be done to save it but death came to relieve its sufferings in a few hours. Both Mr. and Mrs. Young are badly burned, their arms and hands being in a serious condition, but everything is being done for both by the attending physicians, and also by Mr. and Mrs. F. V. Young, who at the present are with them. Mr. Young holds an important position in the firm of Smith & Lovitt, Albany street, Boston, where he has been employed for some years. (Mr. Young is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Young of this town, and his many friends have learned of the sad accident with deep regret.—News Editor, Monitor.)

THE SUPREME COURT JUDGEMENTS

Mr. Justice Russell delivered judgments Monday as follows: Covert vs. Lewis—This is an action for an injunction on the part of the plaintiff, a barber, to restrain the defendant, a barber, from doing business in Bridgetown or within five miles of it. Following is the judgment of Mr. Justice Russell: "The least that can be said against the plaintiff is that he has a doubtful case on the interpretation of the contract as applied to the facts. Balance of convenience must be given on the results of an injunction on such circumstances. If the defendant be restrained it may mean the loss of his livelihood. If he be not restrained the worst that can happen to the plaintiff is the loss of such customers as would be attracted by the personal merits of the defendant, by the charm of his conversation during the examination of his work, or the relief secured as the case may be and the preference of patronage may determine. The application for the restraining order must be refused. The costs may be reserved and can probably be best dealt with by the trial judge."

The defendant Lewis contracted with the plaintiff, Covert, that he would not "engage in the business of a barber" in Bridgetown, nor within five miles thereof without the written consent of the plaintiff Covert. Mr. Lewis lately hired as a workman in the new barber shop on Granville street, and Mr. Covert brought an action to restrain him from working in Bridgetown. Mr. Lewis contended that his agreement with Mr. Covert only precluded him from setting up a rival barber shop, but that it did not prevent him from working as a journeyman for any one who might open a shop in Bridgetown, and this would seem to be the view taken by Judge Russell before whom the matter was argued in chambers at Halifax last week. E. L. Miller for plaintiff, and Jean Levin for defendant.

OBITUARY

HATTIE E. WILSON.

At Clarence, August 9th, of pernicious anemia, Hattie E. Wilson, aged 31, beloved wife of A. J. Wilson. At the early age of fifteen years our sister was converted and baptized into the fellowship of the Clarence Baptist church, by the Rev. R. B. Kinley. In her early death, after fifteen weeks of weary painful suffering, borne with uncomplaining fortitude and Christian resignation to the divine will, the church, the Sabbath school, the Aid Society and the Division have sustained a heavy loss. She was deeply interested in all that related to the Redeemer's kingdom and a willing worker for the master. Our sister was the daughter of George H. Jackson, of Clarence, youngest but one, of a family of eight-four sisters and three brothers survive, are left to mourn her early death, but their loss is her eternal gain. For her death had no terrors for weeks she was watching, waiting, anxious to hear the Master's call, "Child, come home!" On Friday 9th, the funeral services were held at the home conducted by the pastor, Rev. H. H. Saunders, assisted by R. B. Kinley. The very large attendance and the cabinet ladies with beautiful flowers were tokens of the esteem of her many friends.—Cum.

Safety for Children

Liquid medicines advertised to cure stomach and bowel disorders and summer complaints contain opiates and are dangerous. When a mother gives Baby's Own Tablets to her little ones she has the guarantee of a government analyst that this medicine does not contain one particle of opiate or harmful drug. The prudent mother will appreciate that in Baby's Own Tablets there is absolute safety. An occasional dose to the well child will keep it well—and they promptly cure the minor ailments of childhood when they come unexpectedly. Mrs. G. Hamilton, St. Adolphe, Que., says: "I have used Baby's Own Tablets for colds and bowel troubles and find them safe and speedy in their cure." Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. Keep the Tablets in the house.

After the animal had been securely fastened with chains, his mouth was prised open and a quantity of cocaine applied to deaden the pain. When this was done a hole was bored through the tooth and an iron bar inserted. Then a rope was twisted around the bar and four horses attached to drag it out.

THE FARM

MACHINERY ON THE DAIRY FARM

The success of the milking machine completes the cycle of labor-saving apparatus on the dairy farm. One may now sow the land with a riding sulky plow drawn by horses or a traction motor, rework it with a riding harrow, put in the corn seed with a riding planter, do much of the cultivating with a machine upon which the driver, drawn by horses, and cut the silage corn with a horse harvester. The bundles or stalks must be lifted by hand upon the load-down wagon, hauled to the silo, and then conveyed to a gasoline engine. This cuts stalks and ears into pieces say a quarter of an inch long, which are conveyed up into the silo by an automobile carrier.

Hay is harvested, cut, harvested and hauled by machinery. Then for feeding, the hay is shoveled into a tank that runs upon an overhead track in front of the cows, and a suitable tray is brought from the hay to the cow stable by an adaptation of the horse fork. The milking machine has done away with the drudgery of that operation. The machine is called by power, and milk cans and pails are sterilized with a steam jet after being perfectly cleaned by the improved washing powder in the water.

The leading used for the cows is run through a power cutter which is fitted in and absorbs all the urine, the cow's droppings and soaked bedding are shoveled into a tank or carrier that is lowered to the floor while being filled, then rises to the track above, runs direct to the manure spreader, into which the contents are automatically dumped. Horses haul the spreader to the field and the manure is at once applied.

the solution 14 pounds of resin, one-half pint of fish oil and enough water to make three gallons. Use about one-half pint on each cow two or three times a week until the hair becomes coated with resin. This may be applied with a brush or also as a spray.

Of all the methods of fighting flies, the first would seem to be the best, as it furnishes more of coolness than the other forms of shade, gives the most perfect of the three forms of protection from flies and makes it easily practicable to give the cows any pleasurable food, which is necessary during much of the grazing season.

The chief objection to it is the labor involved in removing the droppings, but this is largely offset by the increased value of the manure, as compared with having it deposited in the pastures, where much waste follows. Gentle summer rains do not harm cows or milk while in the pastures. They may prove profitable to them. It is difficult with violent rains. Even though not cold they are in some degree harmful.

Summer Diarrhea in Children

During the hot weather of the summer months the first unnatural looseness of a child's bowels should have immediate attention, not to check the disease before it becomes serious. All that is necessary is a few drops of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy followed by a dose of castor oil to cleanse the system. Rev. W. O. Stoddard, Pastor of the First M. E. Church, Little Falls, Minn., writes: "We have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for several years, and find it a very valuable remedy, especially for summer disorders in children." using 250 pounds per acre of ammoniated fertilizer (with a low percentage of potash), in the hills. As soon as the size of the young cabbages will allow, they should be thinned to one plant in a hill, filling in any vacant space by transplanting, remembering that the smaller the plants are at this operation the better they will transplant establish their individuality.

CABBAGE DELIGHTS IN CULTIVATION.

The cabbage is a vegetable that must have plenty of cultivation, everyday tillage would do it no harm, and if good culture is given, a yield of 18 to 20 tons of cut cabbage from an acre can be raised under the above treatment and with good climatic conditions. By the sowing method of storage the heads are cut close leaving the roots in the ground, so that some of the unused fertilizer is removed and much value in the stumps and bottom leaves returned to the soil. The second year in the rotation, the land is planted to potatoes, using one ton of fertilizer to the acre, half or more broadcasted. The potato needs the mineral elements, especially potash, and a fertilizer containing seven to ten per cent of this should be used. Early planting is justifiable, as our plan is to harvest early. One advantage in using fertilizers is that no weed seeds are sown, as is often the case in using stable or yard manure.

This treatment should produce 200 to 400 bushels potatoes, varying in climatic and soil conditions. The crop should be dug as early as practicable, and if dug by machine, the soil gets practically smooth, after which the land is covered with straw, or hay, or more broadcasted. The potato needs the mineral elements, especially potash, and a fertilizer containing seven to ten per cent of this should be used. Early planting is justifiable, as our plan is to harvest early. One advantage in using fertilizers is that no weed seeds are sown, as is often the case in using stable or yard manure.

PICKING AND MARKETING PEACHES.

Picking and packing are matters which require the personal attention of the grower. These cannot be trusted to hired labor without strict oversight. The peach should be picked and packed as carefully as an orange; should never be poured from a basket to a basket, but should be handled in the hands, should be carefully assorted by grades, and put up for market with an eye to attractiveness. It is not strictly proper, however, to put red netting over green fruit. There is just the right time to pick for market, and this is something to be learned by experience. A day too early, and the peaches are green; a day too late and they are over ripe and will be soft and bruised and unsalable before they reach the consumer. No fruit requires greater expedition and better judgment in picking and marketing.

On some accounts it is highly desirable that the fruit be transported by water if the distance is not great and the journey can be made rapidly; otherwise, it must go in cars and the extra jar must be compensated for by rapid delivery and sale. Of course when peaches are shipped from the grove, the distance is not great and the journey can be made rapidly; otherwise, it must go in cars and the extra jar must be compensated for by rapid delivery and sale. ### ONE METHOD OF CANNING FRUIT.

Provide plenty of jars and if new they should be sterilized by putting cans and covers in cold water with a small quantity of borax and letting it come to a boil. New rubbers every year will insure less leakage. Place the fruit in jars, fill with water and sealed bottom up on a paper, then if any water comes out discard those jars. Cut the mucilage edges from unsealed envelopes to label your fruit. Here is a list of recipes for fruit: To 1 qt. red raspberries add 1 lb sugar and 1 pt. water. To 1 qt. blueberries add 1 lb sugar and 1 pt. water. To 1 qt. blackberries add 1 lb sugar and 1 pt. water. To 1 qt. plums add 1 lb sugar and 1 pt. water. Raspberries should be boiled until the seeds are cooked, blueberries and blackberries until the fruit appears to be red, then instantly remove from the stove. Remove cans from hot water, instantly wrap with hot towel, place in a box or upon a paper, and seal all over with place in cellar or refrigerator.

PROTECTION FOR COWS IN SUMMER.

In summer, cows require protection from the following influences: 1. From the sun's rays when these are so warm as to produce discomfort; 2. From flies in the fly season; and 3. From rain storms, cold, prolonged and severe. Neglecting to furnish any one of these will seriously lessen milk yields.

Absolute protection from flies during the fly season is not practicable without successive outlay of material used in spraying the animals, or in the labor involved in applying them, or in the cost. Nevertheless, very much may be done with profit to promote their comfort during such seasons.

Three methods of protection are adopted. First, they are kept in stables during the day. These are thoroughly ventilated, and yet are kept so dark that flies do not care to stay, much less to work in them. Second, they are sprayed with some preparation offensive to the flies, either through its odor, or its sticky character. This must be done with sufficient frequency to accomplish the purpose. Third, they are covered with blankets, light, coarse and cheap, and these are kept in place by elastic bands.

The Kansas station recommends the following spray: Dissolve two cakes of laundry soap in water and mix with

Pandora Range

Managed Like an Engine.
 One-third of a housekeeper's life is spent in her kitchen. One-half the labor of housekeeping is at the cook stove. Your range adds double or triple the cooking slavery of housekeeping. A poor range adds worry as well as work, and worry multiplies the housekeeper's care.
 Get a range that reduces the work and eliminates the worry. The Pandora Range is as easily and accurately managed as an engine—it responds to the touch as quickly and certainly as the huge engine obeys the hand of the engineer.
 The Pandora Range saves worry, and because worry kills, it prolongs life. Sold by enterprising dealers everywhere. Write for booklet.

 WEDNESDAY, AUG 15, 1906.

Leaving home is to many a young man his making or his ruin. As to which it proves to be, depends largely on the kind of training he has received while at home, and the kind of stuff he is made of. To the young man of good parts, moral stamina, grit and common sense, nothing is a greater developer in the right direction than his getting away from home. Once out among strangers, the thoughtful care of loving parents is all gone, and he must rely upon himself. Of the comforts thrust upon him hitherto by the loved ones at home, he is now deprived. Circumstances now compel him to think and provide for himself. Brought into competition with others, he must now struggle to keep his place in the race of life, unassisted by friends. This, to the young man of good parts, is the school of experience which develops energy, tact, self-reliance, and, in a word,

New Waist Evolved From Summer Styles

One outcome of summer styles has been the creating of a new little waist, neither so severe as to relegate it to shirtwaist ranks, nor a typical blouse—which is inevitably made of figured material—any one of the sheer pretty batistes or limes of the novelty stuffs made of silk and linen combined in odd, interesting ways.

First of all, the new waists came to wear with linen suits, but they proved so satisfactory a solution of the problem of getting something different that they promise to be even more successful with cloth suits this fall.

The figure, or strip, or flower with which the material is decorated is the same shade or color as the suit itself, some of the pretty brown suits which have been so popular all summer boasting attractive shirts of white, with odd stripes and prim little bows of the same brown—and other lighter shades.

Most of them are untripped except for tucks, although a few have a little embroidery or lace insertion applied in some simple fashion. The prettiest of them all, though, are those made with a narrow frill of the material set on each side of the front, which, by the way, may be a plain box pleat, such as we've finished the fronts of shirtwaists with ever since shirtwaists have existed, or bands of tucks, or of tucks and insertion, as different from the old time frilled waists as anything could be, but as interesting in its difference.

Long sleeves are upon all of them—the style demands it, in some subtle but determined way, but never a one of them has the stiff cuff that goes so well with shirtwaist styles. Instead they are simply tucked, and left without linings, are worn, some of them—on those waists which have the frill running down the front—made into turn-back cuffs, and edged with a narrow frill.

These frills, by the way, are at their quaintest if the collar form is used for their larding.

Then the ruffles take on a prim little crimping which expresses their better than anything else could.

Plenty of yoke styles are used to make them by-yokes that run directly across the shoulders and are left plain, except for the very narrow insertion, or an effective beading, which joins the yoke to the rest of the waist.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY
 Take LAXATIVE BROMO Quinine Tablets. Druggists refund money if it fails to cure. E. W. GROVE'S signature is on each box, 25c.

The Old Method and the New
 A common nail is an excellent illustration of the difference between old and new methods. Formerly the nail was cut into strips and then forged into shape with hammers, and an expert took about one and one-half minutes for each nail. Today they are made of steel, and are lighter and stronger. Strips are cut with steam shears and fed into automatic nail machines. One man tends three machines, each machine dropping a nail every second.

May Island, Great Britain, now possesses a hogarth which can be beard eighteen miles. Several similar ones are to be installed in neighboring lighthouses to safeguard the ships entering the Firth of Forth.

Professor Cerbotani, a Frenchman, is said to have perfected an apparatus which will transmit by wire all the peculiarities of a man's handwriting or drawing, enabling him to sign checks one thousand miles away, or write a legal document or draw a picture. But one wire is needed, and the machinery is quite simple. The device is a clock movement controlling a wire, and one rod makes a circular movement, while another makes direct perpendicular and horizontal strokes.

TOE FOR A FINGER.
 On the hand of a man who had lost a middle finger by accident, Professor von Eitelberg of Vienna, has successfully grafted one of the man's toes, which, it is thought, he will shortly be able to use as a finger.

Professor Clasen of Aix-la-Chapelle has brought out a process of making alcohol from seaweed. The cellulose is treated with gaseous sulphuric acid, and glucose formed, and is converted into alcohol by fermentation. A ton of seaweed yields about fifty gallons of crude alcohol, or twenty-five gallons of absolute alcohol. It is expected, however, that in time thirty gallons or more will be obtained.

Clocks are now being made which speak the hours instead of striking them through an ingenious application of the photograph. They are arranged to call out in various degrees of modulation, some loud enough to rouse the soundest sleeper.

GLASS FOR BRICKS.
 The making of glass bricks for buildings as well as paving has become a recognized European industry. As usual, the Germans have carried the invention further than anybody else. In Hamburg glass walls are erected where light is needed, yet where, by police regulations, walls must be both windowless and fireproof. Three firms make such bricks in eastern Germany. These bricks are translucent, admitting light, but permitting no view of the interior. A new death-dealing instrument has been invented, a Lithuanian gentleman

WHAT Fruit-a-lives ARE

Fruit-a-lives are the marvels of modern medicine. They have accomplished more actual cures—less more good to more people—than any other medicine ever introduced in Canada for the time they have been on sale.

Fruit-a-lives are fruit juices. They are nature's cure for:

- CONSTIPATION
- BILIOUSNESS
- BAD STOMACH
- DYSPEPSIA
- HEADACHES
- IMPURE BLOOD
- SKIN DISEASES
- KIDNEY TROUBLES
- RHEUMATISM
- LAXATED HEART

Fruit-a-lives are the juices of apples, oranges, figs and peaches. Their juices are concentrated—and by a secret process, the juices are combined in a palatable form. This concentrated juice is much more active medicinally than fresh juices—yet so perfect in the union that Fruit-a-lives act on the system as if they were in truth a natural fruit. Medicinally stronger than any other known fruit.

To this combination of fruit juices, tonics and internal antiseptics are added, and the whole made into tablets.

These are Fruit-a-lives—sold everywhere for 50c a box or 6 boxes for $2.50.

FRUIT-A-LIVES LIMITED - OTTAWA.

Theodor Trott, has contrived a gun, worked by electricity, which will fire from four thousand to twelve thousand shots a minute. The range of this new weapon is three miles, and its destructive power, if all claims on its behalf are genuine, should put in the shade such trivial toys as magazine rifles. The gun only requires one man to work it.

The Ratcliff Rotherhithe tunnel, now being built under the Thames, will take five years to construct. Its length will be 682 feet, with an external diameter of thirty feet, which will allow a carriage-way of sixteen feet and two footways, 9 feet 5 inches wide. When it is finished there will be three tunnels under the Thames at London.

In porous glass, which is made in France, the holes are so small that neither dust nor draught can enter, and yet the ventilation is said to be excellent.

According to a German publication, Sweden is planning to use electricity every ounce of water now going to waste over her falls and in her rivers. Engineers are in the hills making surveys, and capital is getting ready for the call that is sure to come. To represent the whole face of the planet, the same may be said of Norway, where the waters have shorter distances to run, but are often of tremendous volume. In Sweden, the power will be put to work in all manner of mills in Norway in the timber-iron and copper.

MAP OF THE WORLD.
 Geographers, representing the principal nations are at work upon a map of the entire earth on a scale of one to 1,000,000, and Professor Penck, the German geographer, reports that 69 sheets of 407 squares have been completed. A distance of one mile will be represented by a space about one-sixteenth of an inch long. There are, of course, many maps of small areas on a much larger scale than this, but to represent the whole face of the known world on this scale is an undertaking of vast interest.

One of the Berlin papers tells of a new device for catching barrages. A German inventor places a microphone in a metal box perfectly water-tight, and plunges it into the sea in order to ascertain if the fish are passing that way. A wire connects the submerged microphone (which greatly increases the volume of sound) to an ordinary receiver, with which one listens to what is going on in the depths of the sea. Excellent results have been obtained in the North Sea by the invention for signalling the passing of the herring shoals.

The Roman Catholic Council to discuss the new situation created in France by the recent law separating church and state calls attention to the relative numerical importance of the principal forms of religion followed by humanity. According to the latest estimates, the total population of the world at the present day is 1,600,150,000. Of this total rather more than one-third, exactly 563,000,000, profess Christianity—Catholics, 350,000,000 and Protestants, 215,000,000. Mohammed has 222,000,000 followers; Buddha, 107,000,000. Of the remaining population of China 283,000,000 practise the cult of ancestor. The Brahmins in the world number 225,000,000, and the Jews by 9,000,000. The Parsees, who play such an important role in India, are but 150,000 all told. So far as most numbers go, the Roman Catholics are thus seen to be far ahead of any other denomination.

SPECIAL NEWS

The population of greater London is 6,581,000.

In May, 1880, the site of the city of Vancouver, B. C., was a dense forest and now the population of the city is 45,000.

Over fifty thousand settlers from the United States came into Canada last year, and over a hundred and eighty-five thousand from all quarters.

Douglas Speight, of Digby, found a cannon ball recently while digging a drain. It is an old-fashioned six-pounder. The whole outside shell came off a short time after exposure to the air.

A sad accident occurred at Belliveau Cove on Tuesday. A little boy, the son of Henry Thibault, fell off a load of hay and broke his neck, dying immediately. The child was only four years of age. Both father and mother were away at the time of the accident.

Forty-one hundred provincialists left St. John on Tuesday of last week for the harvest fields of the west. The station was crowded all day and six special trains were required to carry the crowd. Large numbers were from Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island.

Ottawa was visited by a terrific electrical storm on Saturday evening. Sparks were snapped off like pine stems, and in some cases went crashing through plate glass windows. A house was burned and electric wires put out of business. Our capital never had such a storm.

The Digby Courier says: "Mr. C. E. Armstrong has reduced 8500 cash for his two-year-old colt sired by Capt. L. D. Weston's well known stallion Kingborough. The offer was made by a New York gentleman. We understand that Mr. Armstrong will not consider an offer of any amount below $10,000."

Amherst has now under construction buildings of brick and stone valued at $250,000. They number ten, and consist of three factories, three mercantile buildings, one church, one bank, one telephone exchange and one residence. There are a number of other buildings of wood in course of erection and buildings matters are quite brisk.

In persons glass, which is made in France, the holes are so small that neither dust nor draught can enter, and yet the ventilation is said to be excellent.

The construction trains of the Halifax and South Western Railway are now running as far west from Halifax as Port Clyde. From Yarmouth the road is in operation to Barrington. There is now but some half dozen miles or so of a connecting link to be put in. In this short stretch, though, there are two large bridges to be put in—one across the Clyde River and the other across the Barrington River. The finishing of the road now appears to be a matter of early reality.

Guaranteed When You Use
Diamond Dyes

Each year thousands of letters come from all parts of this vast Dominion telling of victories and successes with Diamond Dyes in the home.

The marvellous and immense sales of Diamond Dyes in Canada have induced adventurers and speculators (who know nothing about the chemistry of colors) to go into the putting up of packages of dyes. Such dyes are adulterated and crude, the colors are muddy and blotchy, bringing ruin to the materials you try to dye.

DIAMOND DYES, the choice of wise women, are the kind used when bright full fast and brilliant colors are wanted. No disappointments possible when you use Diamond Dyes.

DIAMOND DYES are sold by all leading druggists and dealers. Refuse to accept substitutes when you ask for Diamond Dyes. Send for Wells & Richardson Co., Limited, Montreal, P. Q., for New Direction Book and Diamond Dye Cook Book. Sent free to any address.

The people of the United States should take to heart the warning of ex-President White of Cornell University, that "while the number of murders is rapidly increasing, procedure against the murderers is becoming more and more ineffective" and is tending to become a "farce."

The Boston Transcript says: "It appears that Maine is still in need of further measures to protect her big game. The State cannot hold her own much longer as a hunting ground unless some steps are taken to limit the season. For the last few years about twenty-five thousand deer have been killed annually and five hundred moose."

Make Hay While the Sun Shines

There is a lesson in the work of the thrifty farmer. He knows that the bright sunshine may last but a day and he prepares for the showers which are so liable to follow. So it should be with every household. Dysentery, diarrhoea and cholera morbus may attack some member of the home without warning. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which is the best known medicine for these ailments, should always be kept at hand, as immediate treatment is necessary, and delay may prove fatal. LOCAL AND SPECIAL

J. A. Macdonald will preach next Sabbath morning in the Presbyterian church.

The Monitor has received from Sydney Foster, a ripe tomato which is a "curker" considering the early date.

Otto Burill has sold his trucking business to Elias Hasey and leaves next week to take up his residence in Maine.

The Y. M. C. A. are arranging an excursion to Digby by the steamer Granville on Labor day, Sept. 3rd. Don't miss it.

The Reuben Hume property was sold under foreclosure last Saturday and was purchased by Norman E. Chute for $900.

In the supreme court chambers, before Justice Russell, last Tuesday, the case of Covert vs. Lewis, for a restraining order, came up. Judgment was reserved.

"Standy" Cochrane, son of Wm. Cochrane, lost the end of the first finger of his right hand last week by having it caught between two cog wheels on one of the Monitor job presses.

The Yarmouth Times came to hand last week considerably enlarged and improved. It is now a nine column folio and looks very well indeed with new heading type, etc. The Times is one of our best exchanges, and the Monitor notes this evidence of prosperity with pleasure.

The day after last week's Monitor was issued the town workmen cleared the streets between the bridge and the railway track of the growth of weeds which had disfigured it for some time. The Grand Central hotel has recently installed two line "silent salesmen" for their cigar and tobacco business.

Mrs. Sell Bent, an aged resident of Mochelle, died there Monday morning aged 87 years. She had lived in Mochelle for seventy years and was the oldest inhabitant of that place. She is survived by one son, William, of the Halifax and Southwestern railway, and one daughter, Mrs. Reuben Dodge, of Belleisle.

The Digby Courier had a "nasty little thing" at Bridgetown last week, when it said that the excursionists brought here by the steamer George L., could not get dinners. The Courier knows that Bridgetown has two of the best hotels in the Valley, besides a number of boarding houses, but, unless notified they are not prepared to serve dinner after three o'clock in the afternoon. The passengers on the steamer asserted that the captain had informed them he had telephoned ahead, but when asked point blank by one of the hotel keepers, he denied he had done so. A number of passengers however, said he had not sticking to the truth. Digby has long had a reputation of being "hogish" where summer tourists are concerned, and it looks as if even masters of excursion boats are "persuaded" to cause other places to appear at a great disadvantage in the effort to help Digby beat the tourist still more.

The pictures of the recent calamity in San Francisco to be seen at the Opera house August 18th and 19th are sure to prove of interest to local theatre goers. No doubt there are many residents of Bridgetown who have been in San Francisco, have relatives or friends there and to these the pictures should prove of greater interest. They are accurate and vividly tell the tale of the calamity as no pen could describe it. Miles Bros., of San Francisco and New York, who made the pictures, lost a studio valued at $50,000 in the disaster, but the cameras were saved and put to work in the hands of skilled operators at once. The film was despatched to New York by special messengers and that the pictures should prove of greater interest. HYMENEAL BENT-HAINES.

A quiet wedding took place at the home of Wm. H. and Miss Edna Marshall, South Williamston, on Wednesday August 8th, when Miss Minnie Bent, of Middleton, was united in marriage to Laurence Haines, of Lynn, Mass. The bride was becomingly attired in a travelling suit of blue broadcloth with hat to match. She is a young lady that is well known, having taught school for several years in various parts of the province and is held in high esteem. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. M. W. Brown at 12 o'clock noon, in the presence of a few immediate friends. After a wedding luncheon was served, the happy couple were driven to Lawrencetown station where they took the east bound express for Kentville and Wolfville for a few days after which they will return to Lynn, their future home where the groom holds a good position. Economize the gas by cooking more than one thing at a time in the oven. For instance, when muffins are baking for breakfast, rice or apples for dinner can be baked underneath if covered with a asbestos lid, first covering the food with a clean white paper.

White tissue paper is invaluable to the traveler, as it will wipe away the greasy look on the face better than soap and water.

A clean firebrick is more satisfactory as an iron stand than the ordinary piece of flange cast iron, which not only admits the air to the bottom of the iron, but conducts the heat from it. Bring a non-conductor of heat, the brick retains the heat in the smoothing iron.

Common alum melted in a iron spoon is said to be a strong cement for "jotting glass, crockery" or metal.

When flannel garments must be dried indoors by all means keep them away from the fire, or they will inevitably shrink. Hang them in a warm room, but never near the fire.

Remember that a lamp if burned with only a little oil in it generates a gas which is highly poisonous. If necessary, as in a sick room, to have a little light, put the lamp in a hall or another room, rather than turn it down.

A secret worth knowing is how to tint faces, chiffons, silk or crocheted buttons, feathers, shippers, gloves, etc. to a given shade. The materials required are oil paints in tubes and benzine. The benzine is placed in a porcelain bowl and the paint is dissolved in it. The work has to be done quickly and of course in a dark room. Mix the paint to the required shade in a saucer, comparing it with the goods until the right color. When the benzine tint is reached mix with the benzine in it before the mixture falls to the bottom. A hairpin comes in handy to hold the edge of the goods. Shake out quickly and hang up to dry. It is well to make a few experiments with the various dyes, as the process is really not at all formal.

The following way to rebait a roset of lead is given by "Eumecius": Mangle the roset with a hot iron, to all appearance and flavor, a first service, unless it has been mangled by the marks of a carving knife. Wipe the roset in a cloth, butted paper and put it in the oven. Let it stay until it is thoroughly heated, but do not allow it to cook. Reheat the roset and serve the meat in a hot gravy boat.

TROUBLES ESCAPED BY DEATH

I am a pretty old fellow now, retired from business, and have little to do but meditate over the past and speculate as to the future. I have about made up my mind that there is a future life, an interesting kind for every human soul, after it shall have thrown aside the trammels of the flesh and escaped into a realm of genuine liberty for the exercise of its powers; which, alas! it is miserably unable to find on this earth. This faith is perhaps more the offspring of a profound instinct than the product of any process of logical reasoning; nevertheless, it seems to grow stronger as I approach the time when I shall be summoned to join "the ranks of the great majority."

My thoughts on the subject run more to reflections over the evils we shall certainly be rid of, such as the severe and for the bodily pains, the most part distasteful labor merely to make a living, the dominance of men and petty ambitions for the attainment of social or political honors, and the mind pursued by the floating sensual pleasures, which are pretty sure to turn into scorching ashes in our hands as soon as we get hold of them. Of course, it can easily be seen that all these pains and perplexities of our present life are entirely associated with the possession of our bodies, and must disappear when body and soul part. Certainly we shall not have to worry about being reduced to hunger and nakedness, about being turned out of house and home. We shall not have to walk the floor at night because we cannot pay a note due in the morning, or be plunged into deep distress because we cannot settle our doctor's bill or meet our pew rent. If anything is sure it is this, that religion will be entirely free in the next world, for the most learned doctor of divinity will know no more about spiritual life than the most innocent little cherub, perhaps, indeed, not as much.

We shall have no dread of earthquakes, volcanic eruptions, tornadoes or simoons. We shall not be seized by cholera, or marasmus, or the scorching of Tom Lawson and the yellow journals. We shall be entirely free from the fear of burglars and footpads, or even the "botcheration" of the six gods. We shall not be high-strung, or of our wife by the approach of an epidemic of smallpox, cholera, malignant grip or typhoid fever; and we shall not have our stomachs turned by the thought of microbes in milk or things in the canned beef. We shall not need any more life insurance and shall be free from the wiles and greed of that breed of able financiers. The pranks of the bulls and bears, and of the manipulators of the cotton market, which make so many lives feverish and unwholesome, will be altogether a thing of the past. We shall not be afraid as we are now to open our paper in the morning, for fear of learning that a great man has been assassinated, or an overworked friend has blown out his brains, or worse still, that our grandpapa, for whom we had a deep affection, has here if there was some in this. The ravings of professional politicians will have disappeared entirely, for there will be nothing to rave about; neither the intrigues of foreign empires, the villainy of the emperors, the dealings of the monopolists, or the sly wickedness of the idle rich. I suppose there will be no money in the next world, and, lo! what a lot of trouble and sin we would get rid of here if there was some in this.

If we reflect for a moment can we not perceive that nearly everything which we call evil is entirely connected with the needs and fissions of our bodies? Murder, theft, licentiousness and insane greed are solely the out- come of our physical environment; and are not the destructive emotions of anger, hatred, jealousy and absurd pride and clear offspring of diseased bodily conditions? Let us once be entirely freed from their fell clutch and it is not reasonable to suppose that the course of our emancipated spirits would be very different from what it is in this feverish existence? We can, of course, have no conception of what a disembodied spirit is like; but of this we may be sure, that its individuality will have an entirely different expression from what it had when mangled in an imperfect body. I have often wondered how theologians could carve their flocks so badly by depicting the fancied material tortures their unenlightened souls would have to undergo when they passed into an "improved spiritual world." What reason is there to believe that physical pain can at all affect a disembodied spirit? For anything we know a liberated soul might find in a furnace of material flame a most delightful and congenial abode. A fish cannot live a minute out of water, but we see how an infinitely superior being can have an existence of delight in an atmosphere which would be speedily death to the lower creature. Of this I am perfectly sure, that when we once escape from our present physical organism, then all the pains and ills, all the passions and crimes, which are the direct outcome of our bodily conditions will disappear also. There will be no more hunger or thirst or wretched slavery to keep body and soul together, but a realm of freedom wherein to develop the highest attributes of our being. I have no conception of what may be the joys and employments of a disembodied spirit, but am perfectly content to rest in the eloquent prediction of St. Paul: "That eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither hath it entered into the heart of man to conceive, the things which God has prepared for them who love Him."

HOT, TIRED, THIRSTY? I think of you when I see you will cool and refresh you.

Stripes For the Early Fall

That stripes of every sort—wide or narrow, indistinct or startlingly definite—are to be a marked feature of early fall fashions, is growing more and more evident every hour.

As early as last summer, stripes appeared tentatively in Paris, an occasional gown trimmed with bands of striped silk—one particularly striking costume of white serge, trimmed with bands of white and scarlet. Yet, instead of being extreme, it was simply striking.

But checks had everything so completely their own way that it was only an occasional gown that dared be radical enough to display stripes.

Now, every sort of stuff has come out into striped and a variety is set to them that nobody ever dreamed possible before.

For the most part, the striped stuffs shown so far have been single stripes, offset of black upon white or color, although color combinations are very good indeed.

Like polka dots, there's all the difference in the world in style between stripes of varying widths. One color may make the stripe of a certain size utterly lack style, while, in another color, that width stripe is eloquent of the very quality the other lacks. A dozen stripe combination of black and white may be side by side—perhaps out of all of them only one will boast the elusive, significant feature.

Every sort of costume and every sort of material shows stripes. Whole suits and gowns are made of striped stuffs, the stripes emphasized or modified, depending upon which they need by the plain material combined with them.

One exquisite gown of green—the softest shade of it—was trimmed with silk of green and white, the green serge radically unlike the green of the foundation, in that it was so strong a shade as to be almost violet. Yet so perfectly did the shades blend, that the soft green was strengthened by the bright and the bright at once set off and subdued by the other.

Even the jackets to tailor suits have stripes introduced in the form of tiny vestes, or of bands that edge the trim little coat collars and the turn-back cuffs.

In some of the sheer novelty materials—those of a single shade—the stripe effect is got in the weave (very much on the principle of the shadow check) so popular a year or so ago) by odd shiftings of threads, weaving them with almost law-like openness here, grouping them into solid bands there. Made up over silk—white or a lighter shade—it usually should emphasize the transparency of the cloth; the stripes seem definite, yet where the folds fall together they are completely lost.

Ever watched a man as he takes a chair? He'll move it—every time—even if it's only an inch. He wouldn't sit in it just where it was for the world. Watch him next time and see if he doesn't move it. A woman will seat herself without touching the chair—a woman is more philosophical anyhow.

Men are queer creatures, as every one knows, comments a writer in The Philadelphia Press. A man will always stir his coffee before drinking it. This is very foolish—he should taste it first to see if it needs stirring.

For men open their personal correspondence without looking at the postmarks to see the time of posting. Women, on the other hand, tear open the envelope at once; they are in too much of a hurry to waste a v. time.

When a man puts on his hat he almost always looks inside it first. What he expects to see remains a mystery, but he looks for it all the same.

He subjects the point of his pen to the same careful scrutiny before commencing to write a letter. A woman starts right off—she has pen in the nib and straightaway begins to scribble as if her life depended on it.

It is the man who reads with his back to the light, holding his book in one hand. Heron lies wisdom. A woman reads her book on the table and leans both elbows thereon. But the foolishness of the man's act lies in the fact that he is seeking comfort and seldom takes this position because it is the most scientific one. Of course, he finds it isn't comfortable—his arm aches after the first ten minutes, whereupon he puts his book down and remarks he is going out.

It is the man who lets out the secrets—not by telling them, but by ill-timed silences. He does worse—by refusing to gratify the curiosity of his questioners he invariably causes them to jump to conclusions much more damaging than the truth of the matter.
