WANTED, A HOSPITAL

A community is no richer than its spiritual and philanthropic institutions. A town may be reeking in gold, its factory chimneys may reach to the sky. The citizens may live in mansions. Its pavements may be of gold, and its business blocks of polished marble. Its banks may be loaded down with the wealth of its citizens. Luxury may be rampant, and poverty unknown, but if it has not churches and schools and hospitals it is a poor place, nevertheless. We have in Edmundston good churches. We have a convent that is the pride of Catholics and Protestants alike. We have a school in the course of erection that will be unequalled in the province. We have a great business here. Our citizens are well to do; our business men are men of worth, and are respected all over the province, our Board of Trade, our brass band, our fraternal organizations are institutions to be proud of. But nevertheless Edmundston is poor, for Edmundston does not have a hospital.

No town is rich, or prosperous, or far visioned which does not care with-in its own borders for its sick and its injured. How long will it be before Edmundston is too proud to send its sick, and its maimed to other institutions?

WHY NOT A HOSPITAL FOR EDMUNDSTON?

"COOK YOUR OWN," SAYS SCREEN STAR

Gareth Hughes Tells of How He Faced Hard Times—"Washed His Own," Too

"When bachelors decide to retrench the first thing they do is 'roll their own,'" says Gareth Hughes, star of "The Hunch," which will be seen at the Star Theatre Friday 1-8th.

"I used to start that way myself, but the slight decrease in my cigarette bill really didn't matter. What did matter was when I decided to 'cook my own' and 'wash my own.' Food bills were my biggest expense, and eating around in restaurants, I found I was squandering in advance all I could ever hope to make once I got an engagement. I started with cooking my own breakfast. Two four-minute eggs and a cup of coffee used to start the day right. Then one night for dinner I practiced with a steak. I took up cooking in a serious way, and even now, just for the fun of it, whenever I have time I'm keen for cooking my own.

"But washing my own is a different matter. Still it was something that I went in for when I was up against it. And what with cooking my own, washing my own, rolling my own, shining my own and shaving my own, I found I found that my bank account began to be a reality instead of a far off dream. 'I'd do it again, too, the first time my bank account was in danger,' he added.

In "The Hunch," Mr. Hughes appears as a Wall Street broker. The story is by Percival White. It is produced by George D. Baker for S.L. (Arthur Sawyer and Herbert Lubin) for Metro release. The photographer is R. J. Bergquist. The art director is E. J. Shulter.

REPORT ON CROPS IN NEW BRUNSWICK

A semi-monthly crop report for the period week ended August 5, issued by the Provincial Department of Agriculture follows:

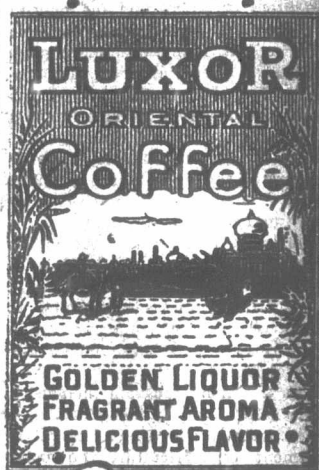

"Haying on the uplands is finished and the gathering of island and marsh hay is progressing satisfactorily. Showery weather has retarded rapid progress in gathering hay in the southern part of the province. The crop is even better than was at first predicted and will be twice as much as last year. The acreage of clover being saved for seed is small; most of the area of last year's seeding down to clover having produced only slightly this year.

"The barley crop is ripening, though oats are yet green. Indications point to a good yield of oats in all parts of the province with the exception of the Carleton and Bathurst districts. Roto crops are exceptionally promising in appearance and the acreage is considerably greater than last year.

"Potatoes are making rapid growth, although the number of misseas in many fields is as high as 15 per cent.

"Pastures are falling and the milk supply in consequence is not too abundant. Sowing crops are being fed quite generally. Creamery butter is 36 to 38 cents per pound."

A House With a History

FEW Canadians are aware that among the landmarks of United States history that stand on Canadian soil is the house in which John Brown, of American civil war fame, hatched the conspiracy that led to his being hanged and that helped to precipitate the great struggle between the North and South. The house stands at Chatham, Ontario, within a stone's throw of the C.P.R. station, and in plain view of those who pass through. According to local tradition the house was one of the more imposing residences of the town when, 60 years ago, John Brown and his friends met in one of its rooms to arrange his anti-slavery crusade.

To-day somewhat diminished from its original imposing proportion the building houses the towerman who is on duty at the immediately adjacent street crossing.

Sixty years and more ago, says the "Galt Reporter," the present structure was a four-tenement building, and one of the "show places" in the older portion of Chatham. Between 25 and 30 years ago, when the C.P.R. was run through Chatham, half of the building was torn down. Still later, the remaining two tenements were converted into a single residence; and as such the building survives to-day.

Chatham in the two decades preceding the Civil War, was one of the northern terminals of the celebrated "underground-railway" organized by American abolitionists to facilitate the escape of negro slaves to Canada. Large numbers of the escaped slaves settled in Windsor, Chatham, and various points in Essex and Kent counties, and several townships were laid out at that time as model negro communities.

These townships are still shown on old maps, but the communities themselves unlike Topsy, never "grewed," for, if they attained any proportion a have, with one or two exceptions, long since dwindled into insignificance, with the departure of the greater portion of the colored population.

In the latter 50's, however, Southwestern Ontario contained a large negro element, and many of the escaped slaves had established themselves in business and were ambitious, well-educated and well-to-do. So when "Ossawatimie" Brown, nursing his daring scheme of freeing the slaves at a single stroke, looked about for support, he turned naturally to the negro settlements in Southwestern Ontario for funds and helpers.

The exact date of the conference at which the date was planned is not preserved in the local tradition. It seems probable that John Brown visited Chatham on several occasions in connection with his work for the slaves. The conference, probably took place late in 1858, or early in 1859.

The Chatham structure is often carelessly referred to as "the Holden house." The owner, however, was a colored man named Eli Holden. Holden was present at the meeting held by John Brown. So was Isaac Holden, another prominent colored man. Both were big men, physically, and leaders in the colored community. E. C. Cooper and a little man named Harris, with several others, took part in the conference.

To what extent Brown secured support, financial and otherwise, is not known. The details of the meeting were, naturally, kept secret at the time; and what little the public ultimately knew came out, most of it, after the raid.

It was on Oct. 17, 1859, that the Chatham conference bore fruit in the startling raid on Harper's Ferry, in Northern Virginia, where Brown, with several of his sons and a number of other white men, seized the national armory and issued a proclamation calling upon the slaves to rise in insurrection against their master. The raid in a few hours spread consternation, not merely throughout Virginia, but throughout the United States. Lt. Col. Robert E. Lee, however, arrived with a detachment of marines, the armory was recaptured; and Brown and a few of his companions were taken prisoners. Brown was hanged at Charleston, Virginia, Dec. 2, 1859.

A few months later, Abraham Lincoln, at his Cooper Institute speech at New York, referred to Brown's raid in the following words:

"John Brown's effort was peculiar. It was not a slave insurrection. It was an attempt by white men to get up a revolt among the slaves, in which the slaves refused to participate. In fact, it was so absurd that the slaves, with all their ignorance, saw plainly enough it could not succeed."

Within a little more than a year of that speech, and within two years of the raid, Lincoln was in the White House, and the Southern States were seceding. However thinking men might condemn his folly, the Northern States generally regarded Brown as a martyr, and "John Brown's body lies a-mouldering in the grave, but his soul goes marching on," became the battle song of the soldiers who were destined, a few years later, to compel the surrender at Appomattox of Brown's conqueror.

Engines and Cars await Grain Rush

Preparations upon a monumental scale for the marketward movement of Western Canada's 1922 grain crop have been made by the Canadian National Railways. Hundreds of giant locomotives and tens of thousands of freight cars have been put through the Railway's shops at Winnipeg and made fit and ready for the greatest traction effort of the year—and of many years.

This mobilization of equipment has been in progress since the beginning of the year, with the result that Canadian National Railways are now fully prepared, waiting, and even eager to get to the business of hauling grain. If all the engines ready for service were placed end to end, they would stretch out for a distance of more than ten miles; while if all the cars prepared since the first of the year for the movement of grain were placed end to end, they would stretch out approximately 350 miles.

The history of the preparation starts with the desire on the part of the Management to ease the unemployment situation last Winter, and at the same time accomplish some useful purpose. The Management conceived the idea of putting into the maximum of efficiency all of the bad-order equipment on western lines. Full staffs of men were set to work in the two great shops and yards, and ailing locomotives and freight cars headed in for treatment.

The locomotives ready to move the crop have an average length of 65 feet. Some conception of the enormous power represented in these iron steeds may be gleaned from the statement of fact that assuming them to be equal to the Mikado, capable of drawing 4,540 tons; the hauling capacity of these locomotives would be 121,520,339 bushels of wheat at the same time. In other words, the motive-power prepared by the Canadian National for moving the crop, is equal to the task of hauling about one-third of the total crop of Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba at once.

McLAUGHLIN ANNOUNCES 15 NEW MODELS FOR 1923

New Series More Beautiful and More Complete Than Ever and Representing Greater Value for the Motor Buyer's Dollar

Unusual interest is attached to the McLaughlin-Buick announcement for 1923 because it reveals the prevailing tendency of Canadian automobile manufacturers. Two new closed models have been added to the line—a Master Six Five Passenger Touring Sedan and a Master Four Five Passenger Touring Sedan. These two models together with Master Six Sport Touring and the Master Six Sport Roadster which we put on the market recently make the McLaughlin Buick line a most complete line of Canadian built motor cars.

Six new models constitute the Master Four Series, in Roadsters, Touring Cars, Coupes, Sedans, and Touring Sedans; while the Master Six Series comprise nine models, in Roadster, Sport Roadster, Five and Seven Passenger Touring, Sport Touring, Coupes, Sedans and Touring Sedans. In grace of line and finish, in completeness of equipment, and in mechanical efficiency, the 1923 Models of Canada's Standard Car surpass all previous products turned out by the McLaughlin Motor Car Co., Ltd., and set a new high standard for Canadian built cars of quality.

Notwithstanding the fact that many writers on automobile topics have been predicting an increase in prices, McLaughlin Buick cars for 1923 in spite of many improvements and added equipments will sell for considerably less than the corresponding 1922 models. The new prices just announced have been made possible due to the export business taken on in recent months and anticipated heavier domestic production, enabling the manufacturer to spread his overhead expense over a much greater production, effecting savings in the cost of the product.

A glance at the Beautiful Master Six Models reveals some desirable features which will enhance the value to the owner. The cars are lower. The passengers sit lower. One piece crown fenders of very handsome design are used. A double bar plated bumper, together with the drum type head lamps, the attractively designed radiator filler cap, and the nickel beading around the radiator core on all Sixes, except 54 and 55, present a most attractive front view of the new series. There is also a nickel beading on the cowl.

The six Master Four models are also most attractive, single bar nickel plated bumper is standard. The bodies and tops have been entirely redesigned. The lengthened hood and the crown fenders add greatly to the appearance of the Master Four. Drum type head lamps and parking lights on cowl are a new feature. There are many improvements and mechanical changes which will place the McLaughlin-Buick Master Four even higher in the estimation of motorists who want an efficient beautiful car at an economical price.

WILLIAM F. COGSWELL

William F. Cogswell of Fort Fairfield, who last week died, suddenly while returning from a trip to Miramichi was born in Pembroke, Jan. 9, 1855, the eldest son of the late Elihu Cogswell and Margaret Robinson. He married Mary Orser of Wakefield on May 26, 1881. Three sons were born of this union, the eldest dying when only three or four years old. The others, Ola R. and George W., are well known Fort Fairfield citizens.

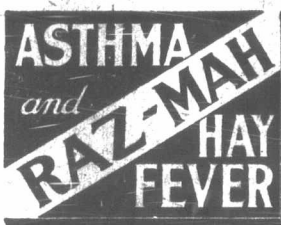

Mr. Cogswell went to Fort Fairfield about 40 years ago and has ever been a prominent and useful citizen.

Mr. Cogswell leaves four sisters—Mrs. William Steeves of Woodstock, Mrs. Richard Nixon of Lower Brighton, Miss Emma, Lower Brighton, and Mrs. Clyde Watson of Woodstock; also two brothers—Howard P. of Fort Fairfield and Herbert of Lowell.

Mr. Cogswell was for most of his life a devoted member of the Reformed Baptist church. His earnest testimonies and his truly splendid tenor voice, which was always heard at the religious meetings he attended and which gave such great pleasure to all hearers, will indeed be missed from the meetings in which he used to play so prominent a part.

WHY BABIES CRY

It's often hard to find the trouble—it may be teeth—it may be stomach—but oh! so often it is just a chafed irritated skin on which poor Soap has been used.

The remedy for this is so simple! Hours of suffering—night after night of disturbance—have been avoided by mothers, who have insisted on—Baby's Own Soap. Of course it costs a little more, a very little more, however—than what is often bought and used—but four generations of Canadian Mothers are there to vouch for its purity, for the soothing healing effect on Baby's delicate skin, for the lovely pure flower fragrance it leaves when Baby fresh and clean is taken from his bath.

Don't you think, Madam, it's worth paying the 10c a cake, a little less if you buy a box (5 cakes) which your dealer asks for Baby's Own Soap. Adv.

WANTED, A HOSPITAL

Under the above English title the following unsigned article appeared in French in the last issue of Le Madawaska. We give a translation in order that we may answer it:

"For a few weeks the Observer has been making a campaign for a hospital in Edmundston. In their number of the 3rd instant they appear with the title 'Wanted, a Hospital.' They say, 'Imagine if possible what must be the worry and anxiety of a husband of a wife, or of children when they don't know the details of a serious illness and the patient is a hundred or five hundred miles away. His parish priest or his minister cannot visit the patient who must therefore receive all spiritual consolations from the hands of a stranger.'"

"In all its articles on this question the Observer mentions hospitals far away where our sick and injured have to go. They purposely or accidentally ignore that a few miles from Edmundston there is a modern hospital where patients receive the best of treatment and care, where the most serious operations are performed with the best results. Statistics as to the results compare favorably with those of any hospital at a hundred or five hundred miles away. Hundreds of patients are treated every year; numerous operations are performed. The care and devotion to the sick by the Nuns is without any equal. Their practical experience thus acquired in taking care of the patients is well worth the diploma given after a few years of theoretical study.

"We have occasion of meeting persons who had been treated at those hospitals by graduated nurses who later on had to go to the hospital at St. Basile for further treatment. It is interesting to hear them talk about the good care at every moment, day in and day out, given by the nuns who do not receive salaries and who have left every worldly thing behind them, but to look forward to their reward in heaven only. Again it is interesting to hear these patients compare the treatment received at St. Basile to those received from paid graduated nurses who hurry through their work to rest or to go out on the streets. Without doubt there are nurses who are competent, devoted to their work, and we know some, but unfortunately there are others. On the other hand, who has ever seen nuns who were not devoted to their duty?"

There is nothing surprising in the campaign of our English brother who does not think of our hospital at St. Basile. In fact nothing is more natural. How do you expect strangers, ignoring the mentality, language and religion of nine-tenths of the population of Edmundston and its surroundings, how do you expect those people just arrived here improvising themselves reformers, occupying themselves of our own interests? In a day they will be trying to change our habits and morals. What do they care for an institution as serviceable as the Hotel Dieu of St. Basile, where the poor and the rich are received and treated with the same care, where the orphans are kept and educated, keeping them away from misery and starvation? What do they care if that institution gradually fades and then entirely closes? They haven't seen nor can they understand the work done there, consequently they do not appreciate. A good number of Protestants on the other hand, living among us for a long time, know and appreciate the good work of the Nuns who open their doors to all, regardless of religion or nationality, and those Protestants would not take part in anything that would stop the good work done there. But they should go further; they should make those new comers understand that they are not expressing the public sentiments in trying to stop patients from patronizing the St. Basile Hospital. And our French Catholic population, when will they see where their interests are? when will they see that ignorance alone accounts for that admiration that a certain number have for all that isn't French and Catholic?"

"That a small group of English Protestants do not understand the advantages for us to support our institutions is easily understood, but ignorance alone can explain the readiness of some French Catholics to help any movement like the above.

"We would come on this subject again."

The Answer of the Editor of The Observer to The Above:

1st. In the first article appearing in the Observer entitled "Our Greatest Need", emphasizing the need of a hospital in Edmundston, which appeared in the Observer, issue of June 30, page four the editor did not ignore the Hotel Dieu of St. Basile and said "We have a hospital at St. Basile and a great many people are taken there." Evidently the writer of the article in the Madawaska should peruse the Observer more carefully before he begins to criticise.

2nd. The editor has never visited the Hospital in St. Basile, but he knows of the most valuable work that is done there and appreciates it, and furthermore, is ready any time the collectors of the St. Basile Hospital are making their canvass, to give an annual contribution as large as he with his small means is able to afford. He knows from first-hand knowledge of like institutions spread all over the United States and Canada; he appreciates the sacrifice and the devotion of the good nuns, and he believes every fair-minded protestant does the same.

3rd. The editor is not a bigot, a fanatic, and does not crave the name of a reformer. His little boy is enjoying the privilege of the teaching of the Sisters in the Grey Nun Convent in Edmundston, which is ample proof of that statement.

4th. Least of all does he wish in any way to injure the institution in St. Basile, and furthermore that question does not enter into the discussion.

5th. He is at an entire loss to understand why the writer should cast a needless slur upon the graduate nurses of any hospital.

6th. The Edmundston Observer is a newspaper, not Protestant, or Catholic or Jewish—but an organ of news, treating impartially all the news all the time. It will never raise the cry of religion, or of nationality, but believes that a mission of a weekly newspaper is to bind all nationalities into one under the freedom and democracy of the British flag.

7th. No mention was made as to whether the proposed hospital should be a religious or a secular institution. Nine-tenths of the people of Edmundston are Catholics. If the people feel they would rather have a religious and Catholic hospital, open to receive the patients of any or no religion, and free for all doctors to attend their patients, it would surely be unseemly of the one-tenth of the population to object.

8th. Nevertheless, Edmundston needs a hospital, needs it in the worst way. The Hotel Dieu is too far away, and the people are going, as has been stated, Catholics and Protestants, one hundred and five hundred miles away, for treatment. The town of Edmundston is too big to depend on St. Basile, or any other place near or far. The needs of the hour, the needs of the place, the complexity of modern life, the call of humanity demands that Edmundston shall have a hospital of her own, within her borders, for her own needs, supported by her own people. And this is recognized by Catholics and Protestants, French and English, and the old resident, and also by the stranger, or newcomer within our gates. And unlike the article appearing in the Madawaska the writer appends his signature—

JOHN HARDWICK

POLICE COURT NEWS

An assault and battery case came before Police Magistrate Michaud on Saturday last when Thérèse Pelletier of St. Basile was charged with assaulting Germain Ringuette. The case was postponed to come up again next Saturday.

The five cases previously reported in our columns of men operating boilers without a license as required under the Factory Act has been postponed to come up again on August 30.

E. C. Stagard of Portland, Maine, on Saturday evening when driving an automobile on Victoria Street kept to the right side of the road, forgetting that the New Brunswick law requires that the driver shall keep his machine to the left. The result was that our American friend ran into the automobile of Willie Fournier damaging it to the extent of $9. He promptly paid the cost of the damage, and being warned that he was liable to further trouble and seizure of his car, operating it on the Canadian side without a permit, beat a hasty retreat to his own side of the line.

CARLETON OBSERVER

HARTLAND, N. B., AUG. 17, 1922.

THANKS TO SUBSCRIBERS

If the times are "hard" the condition is not noticeable among subscribers of The Observer. Commencing August 1 subscription accounts were mailed to nearly 1000 and up to Aug. 15 a majority of the subscribers had remitted, paying in advance and taking the benefit of the $1.50 rate. The proportion of those who paid is quite up to the average for that year of plenty, 1920. This shows that the people of Carleton, Victoria and Madawaska, while forced to economize on many things, are not going to go without their favorite local paper. There have been a number who have asked for extension of time, which in most cases has been granted. One man paid eleven years; others have paid up for several years arrearage and in advance for another year. Very few indeed—not more than about 1½ per cent—have paid up and had their subscription cancelled. There are still others—quite a large number—who have paid no attention to the notices sent them, have ignored the opportunity to get the account settled at 25 per cent discount, and who will directly be called upon to pay in full.

The Observer is characterized by two things. One is that it pays its bills; the other is that it collects its bills. Sometimes the collections are long-delayed, but in the end WE GET THE MONEY.

To those subscribers who have promptly paid up, and especially those who in doing so have written or otherwise expressed words of praise, encouragement and commendation—and some helpful criticism—The Observer extends its most sincere thanks.

THE MANAGER

SUCCESSFUL POTATO GROWING

In another column of this issue will be found a report of a meeting of potato growers and shippers held last week at Fredericton and addressed by a number of experts from the United States and Canada.

The American visitors apparently made a discovery, which should not only prove of value to American potato growers but to those of New Brunswick as well. This discovery is that New Brunswick is capable of producing the finest type of seed potatoes in America; that the soil and climate will together yield a potato of all the qualities desired for seed for the growers of the southern half of the continent. The United States—from North Arrostook to Texas—can produce the world's supply of table stock, but to get the best crops they must plant seed that is grown as far north as potatoes can grow, and near the sea. Replantings of southern grown seed produce a very light and inferior crop, and nowhere on the continent is seed found that equals the New Brunswick-grown potato.

Herein is the great opportunity for our growers. Every farmer should specialize in seed stock of the highest type of development, and it is within the power of every farmer to produce just such stock. Of course there must be rigid inspection both in the field and in marketing, and only the stock marketed that has passed the most extreme test. There must be no trace of disease of any kind, and the potatoes must come from fully matured and full hills. If this business is followed up New Brunswick growers may feel assured of a steady market every year, and no tariff wall is high enough to prevent their entry into other countries. The price of such stock will always be higher, frequently many times higher, than that paid for table stock, and New Brunswick farmers will, by kindness of Dame Nature, have a monopoly of the trade. For they will be able to produce from their soil something the remainder of the continent needs and cannot be secured elsewhere—except possibly from Prince Edward Island.

The production of such seed potatoes as are required calls for far more than the ordinary care and it means intensive cultivation of small acreage rather than plunging into great acreage, producing mediocre grade of mongrel type.

The Observer will not here attempt to instruct old potato growers just how to produce stock for the best prices, but it gladly points out the opportunity which seems the only hope for our farmers whose hearts and minds have been set upon making good money out of potatoes.

The high tariff on table stock and the great acreage of the United States absolutely shuts the New Brunswick grower from that market, while Ontario and the whole Canadian west no longer needs our table stock. For the first time in the history of New Brunswick potato-growing on an extensive scale, digging starts with absolutely no market in sight. The only thing, apparently, to do is to let the tubers grow and mature and look forward to what the Cuban market may offer. From a most careful survey of the 1922 crop, as reported from all parts of America, the acreage is greater than it has ever been, the yield, more or less problematical as yet, promises abundance, and the working man's dollars are scarcer today than they have been for years. Very gladly would this paper predict high prices for potatoes if the indications warranted such a prediction. But they simply do not.

This disheartening news concerns table stock only. The farmer who by care and patience can prepare a carload of perfect seed stock, altogether free from disease, should get a very good price for them before next planting time; he might secure as high as $4 a cwt. But he cannot bluff expert potato growers of the States by shipping inferior stock of uncertain type. To do so would be disastrous, and would blast the only hope that is left of cashing in big on the potato industry.

Let the slogan of New Brunswick potato growers next year be "Pure Seed Stock."

BLUE RUIN

The Observer feels a depression in the agricultural markets just as keenly as the farmers do. Everybody in business in this part of the world suffers when the farmer suffers. It is not with any degree of pleasure, therefore, that the editor indites an article proclaiming low prices in view, and there are those—mostly business men—who will denounce him for throwing a scare into their customers. But the only way to deal with hard facts is to meet them bravely, to go out and meet them coming, and to deal with them accordingly. The farmer who looks forward to high potato prices up to the moment he reads this issue of The Observer, and then loses hope, is a farmer that has been forewarned. Far better that he should know real conditions today than that he should go on joy-riding and nursing false hopes. Next week, or in a few weeks, he will know in another way the truth of The Observer's prediction, and "forewarned is forearmed."

There are many local farmers who have the idea that if they can conceal from the world the fact that they and their immediate neighbors have a big crop that they can control the prices of the world's markets. This is not a joke, but an actual fact. A year ago The Observer told the truth about the potato yield by saying it was a big yield, and some farmers feel even today that this innocent paper "spilled the beans" and by divulging the fact of a good crop caused the great American market to fall flat. If any of our farmers will go out and lay a copper cent on his largest potato field he will cover relatively as large an area as all the potato fields of New Brunswick compared with the remainder of America.

There is a good chance of high prices for strictly high-grade seed potatoes; the outlook for hay prices is not good. All agricultural products will sell at lower prices this year than at any time since the war. The farmer, more than any one else, needs a general reduction in the price of the goods he has to buy.

In spite of all the blue ruin herein predicted, we have only to go back in memory so few years that the youngest wage-earner of today can recall when the farmers went to town in wagons, and he was indeed a farmer of class if he drove a rubber-tired wagon. Are the times hard? Think of your living conditions fifteen, ten years ago. It would be hard to go back to those times, would it not? Well, you won't have to this year, or next. Times are still better than they used to be.

A. E. Nash, superintendent of the Maritime division of the Bank of Montreal, was here one day last week on business connected with the local branch. These shippers are the largest exporters to the Cuban and will purchase for that market as soon as potatoes are fully matured so that they can stand the long sea voyage.

LUMBERING ON THE ST. JOHN RIVER, PAST AND PRESENT

We have in St. John several branches or agencies of British Timber houses, well equipped with lighters, who buy the timber on the mill wharves as cut, load the lighters and deliver it alongside the vessel. They also purchase large quantities that come in on cars and by small schooners from outports. These are first put in the steamers and the city mill yards are used for the sorting up of the cargoes. City-cut deals are better manufactured than the country deals and usually command a better price. It has been said that mixed cargo of this kind is sold by the shippers as city cut, which is hardly fair to the manufacturers.

There has been a great change in the size of the lumber shipped in my time—thirty years. The specification then called for ten P. C. seven inches and ninety P. C. nine and eleven inches. Today the usual specification is 50 P. C. seven and eight inches, and fifty P. C. nine and eleven inches.

The net profit to the manufacturer is dependent very largely upon the freight rate, which has fluctuated a great deal. The British market does not require as long average length as the American. On the whole it has been the most profitable for a good many years, as it is not subject to the sudden fluctuations the American market has. The mill owners shipping to the American market usually ship their lumber in schooners consigned to some reliable commission house. In the American market the fluctuations have been very marked. A cargo might be loaded when there was a good market, and before it reached its destination the market might be flat, a fair wind and the arrival of a fleet of lumber laden vessels being sufficient to demoralize it. In recent years the shipments from St. John have been decreasing, and so has the fleet of schooners.

I do not think there will be any great increase in shipments to this market from St. John because our own domestic consumption is getting greater all the time, and we have a new market in Upper Canada that is growing.

I might give a short Biographical sketch of many lumbermen of the past whose names are familiar to whole length of the river, who have done much pioneer work in opening up the province, and whose operations have given employment to thousands of men when it was badly needed, but space will not permit. I must however mention the fact that Glasier Bros., John and Stephen, were in their time the largest operators and the first to go above Grand Falls for pine timber. In more recent years we had the late W. H. Murray, who cut more logs on the river than any other individual or firm. His total cutting must have amounted to well over a billion superficial feet. No man on the river was better known, none more unassuming, approachable or kindly.

Nor did any have the general knowledge of the business he had. The Log Driving Company, the Boom Company, the freighters, the manufacturers, and the exporters all looked to him as the leader and for information to guide them in the conduct of their business. In conclusion I would like to draw the attention to a few historical facts in connection with lumbering in New Brunswick. The first record of lumber cut in New Brunswick was in 1700, when masts were cut for the French navy. In 1723 the British Government passed an act prohibiting the cutting or destroying of white pine trees 12 inches and upwards in diameter on government lands, and in 1829 the same law was applied to granted lands. A little later, so great was the anxiety of the British Government to preserve the pine, that all pine trees suitable for masts were reserved to the Crown and the surveyors or deputies were ordered to seize all pine timber found in the possession of any person, even if it were cut on his own lands. The fear was that masts and spars suitable for the navy might become ex-hausted. The Dreadnaughts and Cruisers of today were not even dreamed of then.

There is a record of a lumber contract between Franklin White and Hazen of Margerville, and Franklin and Peabody of St. John, dated 1781, in which Franklin White and Hazen agree to deliver in St. John by first spring freshet, the masts, yards, etc. mentioned in the contract.

THE DISEASES OF CHILDREN

CONVULSIONS

(Article 2)

Convulsions or fits are perhaps the most startling of all the illnesses which may come to children.

Nothing so much alarms the parents as the occurrence of fits in a previously healthy child but there is really little cause for this alarm in the ordinary case, for it is a rare thing for a child to die in convulsions. However fits are to be taken seriously in that the cause of them is frequently a serious illness just beginning.

Some of the causes of convulsions are as follows:

1. The onset of infectious fevers as scarlet, measles, pneumonia and influenza.
2. Injuries. A bad fall may cause a convulsion and be followed by a high fever which may go on to pneumonia.
3. Severe irritation in the stomach with formation of gas from indigestible food. It is common in summer time after feeding a child such things as bananas, apples and sausages.
4. Extreme irritation in the intestines which may be due to neglected constipation, to worms or to foreign bodies swallowed by the child. Steak and cabbage given to a child of one year old may even cause death from the violent irritation.
5. Pain either very severe or prolonged and any continuous irritation as may attend teething.
6. Rickets with the deficiency of Calcium in the bones is a predisposing cause in the majority of cases.
7. Poisons and toxins, overdoses of medicine by mistake, also in acute kidney disease, poisons of internal origin fill the blood and may cause convulsions—if the urine has been scanty for some time previously this possible cause is to be looked for.
8. Diseases of the nervous system either inflammatory or meningitis or in the obscure condition known as Epilepsy. When the cause is in the nerves the convulsions are apt to recur frequently, and in the case of meningitis it leads to death. Epilepsy is a rare cause of fits. A list of occasional causes are tonsillitis, foreign bodies in the nose and ear, severe fright or very sudden changes in temperature.

SYMPTOMS OF CONVULSIONS—In some cases it may be noted that the child is very restless and irritable and begins to twitch around the mouth, limbs and eyelids, but usually the fit comes on suddenly. The usual beginning is with a very pale face which soon spreads all over the body, the head is thrown back, the hands clenched. There may be froth at the lips, and in all true convulsions there is loss of consciousness. Breathing is feeble, the pulse is weak and irregular, forehead shows cold sweat, the face becomes blue, and there is often rattling in the throat. The attack passes off from a minute to 20 or even 30 minutes, leaving the child stupid. There is danger of the attack recurring soon again.

TREATMENT—First put the child in a hot bath with cold wet cloth over its head—test the water for heat with the bare elbow, keep in bath until recovery. Give a good dose of castor oil as soon as possible. Also give a hot injection of soapy water into the rectum, using from a teaspoonful to a pint according to age.

The more strictly medical treatment is to quiet the child with chloral, either by mouth or rectum, or the use of chloroform on some cotton wool held over the nose to quickly break up the convulsion. Better than all is the judicious and careful use of morphine by hypodermic injection the dosage being from 1/48 to 1/24 grain in most cases.

This usually gives quiet rest until the irritation causing the convulsion has in some degree passed away or been removed. The outlook in rare cases of epilepsy or meningitis, as most other cases the child outgrows the tendency at the age of 5 or 6 years or even long before that. It is not usual for a child to have a convulsion or two and never have another at any time of its life.

AUTO COLLISION

On Sunday evening on returning home after an automobile trip Reid Richards of this town was run into by an American car and the car badly damaged. Mr. Richards took the number of the car and telegraphed to Augusta to find out to whom it belonged and the answer came that the license was taken out by Joe Violet of Van Buren. Mr. Richards who had stopped on the left hand side was run into by this car, the springs being broken and other damages of a serious character done. The accident occurred about four or five miles from Edmundston on the St. Basil Road. The case will likely be taken to the courts for adjustment.

Railway News

Nakusp, B.C.—As an indication of the increased industrial activity of the lumber mills of Nakusp, the Nakusp Lumber Company find their yarding room so limited that they have cleared about four acres of land near the first mile post along the C. P. R., where a spur will be built and the lumber hauled up in cars and allowed to dry before being shipped to outside points.

Invermere, B.C.—Amongst the many splendid summer publications of the C. P. R. are two of especial interest to this part. The first one deals with "Bungalow Camps," and makes very generous mention of the beautiful Lake Windermere. Camp adjoining this place. The other one is a publication given over exclusively to describing the local "Camp." This is a seventeen-page folder, most beautifully illustrated with reproductions of photographs of local scenes. The letter press is by Mr. Frederic Niven.

The gist of the matter is descriptive of the various trails and automobile roads throughout the Windermere district.

Chatham, Ontario.—Wholesale summoning of boys and men who frequently use the C. P. R. tracks as a place for walks, was indicated in County Police court recently, with the swearing out of a number of informations by a C. P. R. detective who conducted an investigation. It is alleged that the defendants trespassed on the C. P. R. tracks, a short distance from the City in Harwich township.

Informations have also been laid against seven boys under the age of sixteen years.

Montreal.—Edward J. Richel is appointed city passenger agent for the Canadian Pacific at Chicago, succeeding Alfred R. Dean, who has resigned to enter other business.

Mr. Richel joined the service on June 16, 1920, as clerk in the passenger department, Canadian Pacific Steamships, Chicago. Promotions following were: October 1, 1920, chief clerk; January 21, 1921, passenger agent; June 1, 1921, traveling passenger agent; June 1, 1922, city passenger agent.

William B. Bicknell is appointed travelling passenger agent, succeeding Edward J. Richel. Mr. Bicknell joined the Canadian Pacific as clerk in the steamships passenger department Chicago on March 13, 1922.

St. Andrews-by-the-Sea, N.B.—The Canadian Manufacturers' Convention for 1922 is now a thing of the past, and to the almost 200 delegates and others who have been here a week, attending the sessions, it will be a pleasant memory. So much of a success has been this year's convention that it can be said, without violating any confidences, that the most influential members of the association are anxious to hold future conventions under similar conditions.

The Casino of the Algonquin Hotel provided an excellent meeting place, and the records show more discussion than at any four conventions in the past, while there has been more fraternizing by the delegates who got to know one another to a greater degree than ever before. During the Convention days delegates played golf on the beautiful links overlooking the sea and indulged in swimming in Katy's Cove.

Calgary, Alta.—After covering six hundred miles in the south-east portion of Alberta, at the end of June, J. M. Cameron, general superintendent of the Alberta Division of the Canadian Pacific Railway, declares that crop conditions there, generally speaking, are very satisfactory.

Mr. Cameron stated that farmers had been taught an object lesson by grasshoppers. Where these insects had been active had been on stubble in crops. From the amount of summer fallowing that was now going on, farmers had realized that stubbling-in was a poor gamble and left a breeding place for the hoppers. The hoppers, he said, were now practically under control in the south. Cutworms had done little or no damage on account of the frequent showers.

"I have been much pleased with my visit," said Mr. Cameron. "There is now quite an optimistic feeling among farmers and business men in the south country."

Elkhorn, Man.—Forty years ago Mr. Jas. Rodgers commenced working for the Canadian Pacific Railway Company as a section man, and in about five years, through his ability to give the best he could and also because of his sterling integrity, was promoted to foremanship, holding this position until 20 years ago, when he desired a change of employment, and was transferred to the pumping station staff. For a while he worked at Fleming and Virden to his new capacity and eventually assumed charge of the Elkhorn pumping station, on the retirement of Mr. R. Travis, another old time railroad man who is still with us, as hale and hearty as ever.

A record such as Mr. Rodgers holds is decidedly unique. He is the second senior pumpman in the division, and his regularity and strict attention to his calling have won for him the deep respect of the Company, which places high value on the services of men of such capability. He has stood the rigors of an exacting position in a manner that must reflect great credit.

MODELED ON HUMAN FRAME

Efficiency Experts Have Taken That as Copy for the Rules They Advocate.

The human frame is 100 per cent efficient according to the latest dictum of efficiency experts promulgated before the American Society of Industrial Engineers in Philadelphia, says the New York Evening Sun. Some of the laity have been suspecting that for years, but the promoters of new methods of top speed plant production are so sure of it now that they are modeling organization plans with physicians as their advisers.

Most of the layouts prepared for the industrial organizations look formidable to the average man. What with their pendant brackets and connecting curves the structure of a thousand man plants gives pause even to the modern executive.

It is shown that the schemes which have worked the best are after all as old as the human race, for they are simply arrangements such as may be seen in every man's makeup.

The brain, for instance, as explained by C. E. Kneppel, who has the chair of factory management at New York university, in his address to his fellow industrial experts, is the same as the executive head or the director of a plant or corporation. The five senses which keep mankind in his bearings correspond to the control of the factory, that is to superintendents and foremen.

The medulla oblongata corresponds to labor, and the small brain or cerebellum which looks after the automatic functions of the body and keeps the arms and legs and trunk active, is translated in terms of production, the relations of the chart for the manufactory and those of the perfectly interacting machinery of the heart and brain and muscles are regarded as virtually the same.

His Version.

The seventh grade children were discussing the ways to bring down the cost of clothing. The teacher had told them about Irvin Cobb's desire to have trousers abbreviated into knickerbockers or "pants" as Irvin termed it. They all agreed that this would certainly be a saving of material and then little Jacob suggested a further abbreviation. "You might leave out of them most of the pockets," he said. "There ain't nothing to carry in them now since the country's gone dry."—Indianapolis News.

BANFF Indian Day—always the third Monday and Tuesday in July, was this year the most successful of its kind ever held in the thirty-two years since its inauguration. An atmosphere of festivity prevailed the two days the tribe of six hundred Stoney Indians were at Banff, the centre of that most beautiful part of the Canadian Pacific Rockies.

No place in the world could have a more perfect setting for an event such as this, and what could be more picturesque than the Tachanoga Indians "people of the woods," in their native costumes amid these Great Hills. There is a dignity and poise to these people of the woods—calm, strong faces with character written in every line and seam of their countenances.

The parade started at nine thirty, and circled around the main street twice before going to the Banff Springs Hotel. The streets en route to the hotel were thronged with residents and tourists, and the steps of the hotel and court were densely packed with onlookers, for the distribution of prizes for the best native costumes took place here. The Governor General and Lady Byng, who were on their way west over the C. P. R., were among those who viewed the proceedings. Lady Margaret Bosworth, sister of Baron Byng, presented the prizes won.

The parade was most spectacular, and combined with the sports it was well worth travelling hundreds of miles to see. The chiefs rode at the head of the procession and looked picturesque in their costumes of buckskin and bead work, and gay head-pieces of feathers and ermine. Not only were the natives decked out in their gala attire, but the horses also, shared in the pomp and splendour. Their trappings were made of buckskin, with patterns worked in beads, the colour and designs of feathers and ermine. A few horses were decorated with symmetrical designs of various colours. The higher the rank of their rider the more beautiful and costly the trappings.

The sports were held in the encampment grounds on one side of which the Indians had erected their picturesque wigwams. The grand stand was packed and thousands were present, and never in the history of Banff was this event so well attended. Cars were lined up in all directions, and hundreds of tourists, and many residents were on horse-back, which added to the varied scene.

The sports consisted of races of various kinds; two mile, one mile and half mile dash. There was wrestling on horseback, bow and arrow contest, pitching tepee and a hucking contest. Three money prizes were given for each race. The Governor General, Lady Byng and party attended, and later left for Lake Louise. The cowboy race was the most spectacular. There was a pole at each end of the course, which the horses had to go around, and as they appeared to get there almost simultaneously, it was a wild jumble of horses and riders apparently on top of one another.

The setting for this scene was perfect. Hills well timbered with dark spruce and pine, and behind them the mountains in a dull grey haze—due to the distant forest fires. Against this setting the tepees stood, white with the top a cinnamon brown, smoked from camp fires within. Many were of brilliant colors, beautifying the encampment grounds still further. The excitement of the afternoon over the Indian families returned to their own quarters, and the little playing on the green grass in front of their tepees. Some of the men and women reclined on skins or blankets in the cool of the early evening. Squaws went to the brook for water, others came from the woods with armfuls of faggots, and soon fires were started for supper, and their flames leapt into the air, adding more color to this already brilliant scene.

The Indian Day Committee are to be congratulated on giving Canada this annual event, which is so typical of primal days, and the beauty of which is in keeping with these great hills which were theirs till the white man came. Many of the officials of the day were Indian Chiefs, who very efficiently did their share toward making Indian Day the success it undoubtedly proved to be.

COULD HARDLY STAND AT TIMES

Hips, Back and Legs Would Have That Tired Ache

Everett, Washington.—"For several years I have had trouble with the lowest part of my back and my hips and my legs would ache with that tired ache. I could hardly stand on my feet at times. I was always able to do my work although I did not feel good. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised and having heard several praise it I decided to try it. I feel first-rate at the present time. I keep it in the house right along. I always recommend it to others who are sick and ailing."—Mrs. J. M. SIMMONS, 4032 High St., Everett, Washington.

To do any kind of work, or to play for that matter, is next to impossible if you are suffering from some form of female trouble. It may cause your back or your legs to ache, it may make you nervous and irritable. You may be able to keep up and around, but you do not feel good.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a medicine for women. It is especially adapted to relieve the cause of the trouble and then these annoying pains, aches and "no good" feelings disappear.

It has done this for many, many women; why not give it a fair trial—now.

and become the seventh New England state. The idea has taken hold of the populace "hard" and the leaders of the movement are thoroughly sincere.

Aroostook is the northeastern part of Maine and with its 6,408 square miles constitutes about a third of the state's area. Since 1900 the state has grown more than 30 per cent in valuation. It is one of the most important agricultural areas in the country and the leading potato section of the world.

The long distance to the state capital, Augusta, is one of the arguments set forth.

Before the days of the Ashburton treaty a large slice of Aroostook was in New Brunswick. More than one hundred years ago the line was shifted.
