FRANCHISE BILL DROPPED BY THE BRITISH CABINET DUE TO SPEAKER'S RULING

Grey's Amendment to Eliminate "Male" From the Measure Meant New Bill and Asquith Decided to Withdraw.

PROMISES ANOTHER FRANCHISE BILL IN LIFE OF LIBERAL GOVERNMENT

Thousands of London Mounted and Foot Police Are Gathered Around the House of Commons to Prevent Suffragette Riots.

London, Jan. 27.—The British Cabinettoday decided to drop the Franchise Bill in deference to the speaker's ruling that the form and substance of the measure would be so materially altered if the amendment granting the vote to women were adopted that it ought to be presented in the shape of a new bill.

After the Speaker's ruling it was only a question whether the cabinet would announce its capitulation before or after the vote had been taken or Sir Edward Grey's amendment to the franchise bill, calling for the omission of the word "male," and thus practically introducing adult suffrage. THE HAPPY DISPATCH.

The suffragettes loudly clamored for the immediate withdrawal of the bill because they were satisfied that the vote would have been against the amendment extending the franchise to women. After several anxious cabinet meetings the Government also adopted this view, and Premier Asquith, in the House of Commons, this afternoon gave the franchise bill the happy

If the women's amendments were carried except Sir Edward Grey's amendment, the franchise bill would become substantially a new bill, and would have to be withdrawn. Premier Asquith announced that the cabinet had decided that it would be useless to prolong the discussion under the circumstances. and it had, therefore, resolved to drop the bill. The Government, he added, would at his own time and within its dife, proceed with bills dealing with would at his own time and plural voting.

Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst and her sister militants have decided to hold a meeting tonight to settle their course of action.

The great display of police effectually dampened any prospective outbreaks on the open space fronting the House of Parliament. The crowds, including imposing parades of women carrying sandwich boards advertising the views of the rival organizations for and against woman suffrage, were swept back from Parliament Square to the adjoining streets, and human barriers of putting down the main. sturdy policemen effectively barred all the approaches to the House of

Mrs. Pankhurst stated after the Government decision had become known that women could not accept for a moment the suggestion of a private member's bill. She added:

"Our duty, unless we are told that we are to have a Government measure giving equal voting rights to men and women, or that the so-called sunragist ministers have resigned, is immediately to resume militancy."

Sent Baby By Mail

Batavia, Ohio, Jan. 25.-Vernon O. Lyttle, mail carrier on rural route No. 5, is the first to accept and deliver a live baby under parcel post conditions. The postage was 15 cents, and the parcel was insured for $50. The baby, a boy weighing 10% pounds, just within the 11-pound weight limit of the parcel post law, is the child of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Beagle, of Glen Este. The package was well wrapped and ready for mailing when the carrier got it today. Its meas-urements reached 71 inches, also within the law, which makes 72 inches the limit.

Mr. Lyttle delivered the parcel at the address on the card attached, that of the child's grandmother, Mrs. Louis Beagle, who lives about a mile from its home.

> New York, Jan. 26 .- A young po iceman was killed and fourteen passengers were injured at 3:21 o'clock yesterday afternoon in a rear-end col lision, between southbound trains on the Third avenue elevated railroad be-

Only three of those hurt were sent to a hospital after the smash. Two cars burned, but the dead body and the injured victims had been taken out before the flames enveloped them. The dead man is John M. Gleason, 23, single, patrolman attached to Macdougal street station, 341 East One Hundred and Thirty-third street. The minute that the smash came here was a short circuiting of wires, and blue flames wiggled their way through the floors of the cars and spluttered from the wrecked controller box, etting fire to the woodwork.

The rammed train, a five-car South Ferry local, had been halted by a flagman standing guard over men making track repairs. The colliding train, a seven-car City Hall local, bumped hard enough to jam the rear car of the first train several feet inside the first car of the second.

It was generally agreed after the ac-cident that had the second train been Chatham, Jan. 25.—The boosting of hitting up speed the flimsy cars would a have been torn apart and there would well-attended meeting of representa-tives from all over the district here to-the two cars that stood the brunt of the ramming, splintered, ripped and

A CANNED GOODS CASE

Judgment That Is of Interest to Londoners.

In the issue of Bradstreet's publish. ed today the judgment of a case that is of importance to retail dealers who andle canned goods was discussed. The case in question, Hill against Rice, Lewis & Son, Limited, was caused by the sale of an unopened box of cartridges, one of which was defective, to the plaintiff. As a result of the defective eartridge being fired, Hill was permanently injured, and sought to recover damages from the defendants. At the time of the action the defendants' solicitor made a motion to non-suit the plaintiff, but Judge Denton, who presided, reserved judgment until this week, when he dismissed the action. The judge stated that as the defendants had not opened the package they had no greater means of knowing that e contents were defective than the laintiff, and so were not guilty of any negligence.

LONDON, MONDAY, JAN. 27.

WHY LONDON LOST IT.

President Chamberlin, of the Grand Trunk, discussing the local railway situation, says that "the whole question of grades was before the city of London some years ago, but for some reason they turned down the proposition, and since then nothing has been done."

The reason for the collapse of the negotiations between the city and the Grand Trunk was accidentally disclosed by Hon, Adam Beck at a meeting at the east end hall in the recent municipal campaign.

In an unguarded moment he confessed that he had lobbied the council against the company's plans.

The company offered to give London the great boon of track elevation -or grade separation as the railwaymen prefer to call it-for practically nothing. All the company asked was the assumption by the city of land damages, which would have amounted to a few thousand dollars at the worst, and would probably not have materialized at all. Today the city would be compelled to pay hundreds of thousands of dollars for the same work, the railway commission having laid down the rule that municipalities and railway companies must share the cost of track elevation in almost equal proportions. The new station project was coupled with grade separation, as the building would have to be adapted to elevated tracks.

The late Mr. Hays expressed his surprise at London's refusal of such an offer. Citizens were also in the dark as to the council's motives at the time. But Mr. Beck has turned on the light. He tells us that while dining with Grand Trunk officials at Montreal he learned from them that the company was deceiving the city, and only wanted to raise the tracks in the west end to conform with the reduction of the grade between London Whereupon he says he came back and advised the counch to have nothing to do with the Grank Trunk and its plans

This is the "reason" which President Chamberlin speaks of. It is the reason why London today has not elevated tracks and a new station.

THE LATE COL. MATHESON.

There will be many personal regret for Colonel Matheson. Not a grandstand member of his cabinet, he was : careful plodder on the beaten road. A natural diffidence kept him back, and Canadian Conservatives, though the part of their force consisted of rebesides, the task of Provincial Treas urer was made easy by the excellent financial state of Ontario. All that Col. Matheson had to do was to follow the trail blazed by his predecessors. This he did with common sense. The growth of the province's wealth made his work all the simpler.

In his language towards opponents the colonel was always kindly and courteous. He was well liked by all members of the Legislature, never the object of attack. Along the cool, sequestered vale, so far as a cabinet position permits, he kept the noiseless tenor

SETBACK TO WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

The franchise bill, dropped by the Asquith Government, would have added five million men to the voters' lists in the United Kingdom and abolished plural voting. About half a million wotes at the last general election were cast by pluralists, overwhelmingly Conservative. For some time yet this anomaly of bygone ages must continue in British elections to the advantage of the party of class privilege.

A cabinet hopelessly split over the women's suffrage issue had to compromise between a Government measure, which passed three times in succession within two years by the Commons would override the Lords' veto, and allowing facilities for a merely private bill, which even though similarly passed by the Commons could still be vetoed by the Upper House. The compromise was to allow an amendment to their franchise bill and incorporate it if carried. Woman suffrage as a part of the Government's franchise bill would have gone into law before sources of New Ontario. Sir Redmond Roblin's virulent at tack on the Rev. C. W. Gordon (Ralph Conner) was an unknightly perform-ance. And still worse (in the eyes of he politician), it was a blunder.

DEAN SWIFT WAS THE FIRST HOME RULER

[By Special Arrangement With the Winnipeg Telegram.]

The passing of the home rule bill by the British House of Commons brings to a temporary cessation, at least, two hundred years of agitation on the part of the sons of Erin for concessions from the Imperial Parliament. Redmond, Parnell and Daniel O'Conneil will always be remembered as important figures in this protracted strife. But I want to go further back in history to-He came in and laid down some sus- day to remind my readers that the first champion of home rule was Jonathan Swift. In 1744 Swift's golden period as a political pamphleteer in London "Can't take this money," said the came to an end with the fall of the Tory min'stry. Swift was born in Ireland, but he hated to be called an Irishman. "A man," he said, "was not a horse because he was born in a sta-"That's the way it was with the po- ble," Such insulting epigrams as this justly earned for him a hostile recep tion when he in 1714 went to Dublin to become Dean of St. Patrick's Cathe dral. He was so unpopular that he was mobbed in the streets. By the irony of fate, however, he was destined to become Ireland's great champion.

ministry of Walpole tried to foist copper coinage upon Ireland, called the contractor who had secured the privilege of making a fortune out of from unhappy Ireland. Swift wrote celebrated Drapier letters in opposition o the tyranny of the English Governnent in imposing a new coinage upon Ireland without the consent of the Irish Parliament. Swift's real cause of complaint was not so much the copper coinage as the fact that English politicians and monopolists could foist any measure they pleased on Ireland P. M. Judd Does All He Can without its consent. Swift was the first successful Irish agitator for home rule, not home rule as T. P. O'Connor would understand it, for Swift regarded the Roman Catholic population as of no account. He wanted self-government for the English settled in Ireland, But in spite of this limitation to his appeal or freedom, the common people, the Roman Catholic masses, rallied to his Animal Was Driven to Death by Men the uncrowned king of Ireland.

In the Drapler Letters, Swift anticiated the later arguments of Edmund Burke in the famous contention that 'All government without the consent of the governed is slavery." By his flery tracts, Swift not only forced the Walpole administration to withdraw the coinage, but he became the founder of that the remainder of the fines be paid irish home rule sentiment. Swift was to live for 21 years after the publication of the Drapier Letters. During this period we can trace the gradual approach of the madness which ne feared all his days. In 1731 he wrote "Verses on the Death of Dr. Swift." On each birthday after the death of Stella (the woman whom truly loved but never married), read the 13th chapter of Job, in which Job cursed the day on which he was his life Swift was mad. Removal Sale

Clearance of All Winter

ODAY begins the third week of our big Removal Sale (the winter goods clearance). Considering weather conditions, this sale has been very successful. Why? Because we have the goods at the right prices. Not only have we many lines of winter goods marked at very low prices to clear them out, but many other bargains are also being offered. Our assortment of winter goods is not as great now as at the beginning of this sale, but it is still large, and you can obtain many lines of goods which you need now at special prices at this store. Many of our new spring goods are now in stock.

Millinery

HIS is the time of year when millinery prices are at their lowest ebb. Our Moving Sale has brought our prices lower than ever, and you can purchase here these days many lines of Trimmings, Shapes and Ready-to-Wear Hats at a very small fraction of ordinary prices. See the two lots of Trimmed Winter Hats clearing at each.. $1.00 and $2.25

Sweater Coats

The prices at which our Children's and Ladies' All-Wool Sweater Coats are marked for this clearance sale are remarkably low. We wish to clear these all out this season, so the prices have gone down. See these on the second floor.

Toques, Scaris, Etc.

We have many odd lines in Children's Toques, Scarfs, Gaiters, and Mittens, which must be cleared out. These are just what the little ones need for the cold weather. You will find the prices exceptionally low.

NOT A VACANT SEAT IN MEMORIAL CHURCH

Eloquent Sermon Preached by Rev. Mr. Norwood, the Rector.

At the Cronyn Memorial Church or Sunday evening, Rev. R. W. Norwood, the rector, delivered an eloquent sermon on the healing of the man suffering from palsy at Peter's house in Capernaum. There was not a vacant seat in the church, the preacher's remarks being followed with the deepest atten-

The text was taken from Mark' Gospel, ii., 4. In vivid terms, Mr. Nor wood described the home of St. Peter with its verandah, and courtyard thronged with people eager to hear the word of the Master. In the select seats were the scribes, the critics of the day who had come to hear this unusua Man, this great Teacher, who had acted so differently from other men, who actually did allow His disciples to pluck ears of corn on the Sabbath Day, a holy day for thousands of years, and husk them. The four men with the wide gateway, because of the press, but they did reach him by going up another way, and laid the sick man

In Various Ways. Jesus would teach you and me that there are other ways to come to Him than the ordinary orthodox waq," de clared Mr. Norwood. "I do not want i thought for one minute that I find faul with those who do come in the usual way, but I do want to say that men have come, and are coming to Jesus in varied ways. Martin Luther could not come the wide way, but took his John Wesley could not come to Jesus through the accepted way, but chose his own method. Huxley, one of the saintliest men of history, doubter as he was, could not come to Christ as other men came, but he sought Him by another way and found Him. Christ Himself taught the same lesson, afterwards when he said, "Other sheep have I that are not of this fold," The preacher who imagines that his is the only way to reach Christ is wrong, and blocking up the gateway for souls to reach the Master. The advocates of church union are feeling the same that Jesus cannot be limited to any four walls, that he cannot be confined This may be hindrances; and they are to many a soul, but Jesus would teach where, and under any conditions."

Broadness of Spirit.
Mr. Norwood urged broadness of spirit and outlook in dealing with men. All could not see eye to eye on the question of doctrine, but they could understand the deeds of the Master. with the soil. WHAT IS LONDON'S

Rev. H. A. Graham Says It Is Neglect of God and His Word.

"What you would call 'London's leadliest sin' depends entirely upon your viewpoint," was the statement of Rev. H. A. Graham, of Centennial Methodist Church, last evening, when he preached upon that subject "Temperance people would no doubt say class the social vice as the most deadly, while others would say that the stand that some parents take in regard to their children was of the most importance. SUNDAY IN LONDON CHURCHES REV. J. G. INKSTER'S FAREWELL SERMON

Pastor of the First Presbyterian Church Spoke for Last Time in Pulpit on Sunday.

LEAVES WITH REGRET

But a Wider Field Opens Before Him in the Canadian West - His Work in London. Rev. J. G. Inkster's closing sermon

n the First Presbyterian Church of Sunday evening was a most masterly effort, and was featured by the whole couled earnestness in which the retiring pastor emphasized his remarks. The impression created was a deep one, and it was with a touch of keen regret that the separation with Mr. Inkster had come

Mr. Inkster based his remarks on the 13th and 14th verses of the 3rd chapter of St. Paul's Epistle to the Philippians, where the apostle admits calling of God in Jesus Christ.

Forgetting the Past.

"Most of us are failing in life because the attempt too many things." said Mr. akster. "Prior to his conversion, the Inkster. "Prior to his conversion, the Apostle Paul engaged himself at several occupations, but was a success at none. Later in life he devoted all his energies to advance the Kingdom of Heaven.

"Paul said that as soon as things began "Paul said that as soon as things begon hinder him he would cast them from m," continued the preacher. "There are many things that hindered Paul bete he could advance the Kingdom of d, and he has mentioned five of them this chapter. These things Paul left land him."

The preacher stated that the first of these was circumcision. This was a link of connection with the Jewish Church. Formerly Paul had been an ardent member of this church, but he was forced to leave his connection bobind. The second was the national history of his race and family traditions. The third and fourth things which Paul must forget were his education and enthusiasm in his former work. The last was his self-righteousness. It also stood betwith him and heaven. These qualities in people were not wrong, Mr. Inkster explained, but they were harmful in the end, whereas people who possessed them became so engrossed that a desire to reach heaven, was entirely obliterated from their minds, was entirely obliterated from their minds. was entirely obliterated from their minds. The speaker said that he knew men who were so taken up with their work that the thought of salvation was entirely second to them. Such people placed the empha-

In the evening, Rev. Mr. Boyd spoke on the subject, "How God Forgives Men," and referred to Acts xiii., 38-39, as his text. These two verses were extracts from Paul's sermon in the synagogue in Antioch, and Mr. Boyd incidentally reviewed the character of Paul after he had been forgiven. The speaker also pointed out how much the world would have lost if Paul had not attended church that day in the strange city. Forgiveness, according to the speaker last evening, was a very real experience, and that it als: was a reconciling experience. The time to seek forgiveness was the present and upon no account should it be

The minister contended that there were attributes which men should strive after, and which would ultimately lead them to the goal of desire. One of these was to have Christ with you in all you do, claiming him as your especial friend and advisor. Mr. Inkster pleaded with his auditone to forget those things which did not lead to heaven, and strive after those of a higher nature.

FRIEDMAN WANTS A MILLION FOR HIS CONSUMPTION CURE

Berlin, Jan. 26.-Dr. Franz Friedman wants a million dollars for the American rights to his tuberculosis serum cure. That was the statement last night. German physicians strongly condemn what they call his non-ethical attitude. They go so far as to say that he is more concerned in the monetary than the humanitarian aspect of his discovery.

Dr. Friedman has so far failed to earry out his promise of submitting a culture to the Government. He has made various excuses for not doing this, but he denies that any mercenary motives are behind his action. He admits that he is awaiting a reply from New York. It is becoming painfully evdent that the doctor is more interested in the financial returns of his discovery than in the benefits which might accrue to the human race.

Washington, Jan. 26,-Chairman Adam son, of the House commerce committee in a formal statement yesterday, predicted that one of President-elect Wilson's first requests upon the incoming Congress woud be for a repeal of the free passage provision in the Panama Canal act applying to American ships.

CONSTIPATION Can Be Cured.

You cannot expect to be well if you allow your bowels to become clogged What is necessary is to have a free mo tion of them every day, and to keep them in this condition all the time if you wish to be strong and healthy. If you don't keep them open the system will become clogged up with poisonous matter and produce constipation, headache, dy spepsia, bad blood, etc.

Keep the bowels in good condition by using Burdock Blood Bitters; the remedy that has built up an unrivalled reputation, during the past thirty-six years, as a cure for all troubles arising from a constipated condition of the bowels.

Mrs. Thomas Calder, East Lower Fort Garry, writes: - "I am writing you to let you know what Burdock Blood Bitters has done for me. SUDDEN DEATH OF LT.-COL. MATHESON AT HOME IN PERTH Provincial Treasurer Succumbs to an Attack of Heart Failure.

PASSES AWAY WHILE READING IN LIBRARY

Member of House for 19 Years and Had a Distinguished Military and Parliamentary Career.

Toronto, Jan. 27.-Lieut.-Col. Hon A. J. Matheson, provincial treasurer of Ontario, is dead. The end came to the aged legislator late on Saturday night at his home in Perth, and came as he wished it to come—suddenly. A year ago he suffered an attack of the heart trouble that eventually caused his death, and his desk in the House was with the sum of the Enterprise, Mr. T. S. Harvey, visited friends here this week. Ten years ago he had charge of the local paper here, and since that time has been engaged in practicing law in California. Several tramps loitering about town were promptly installed in the new lock-in death, and his desk in the House was acant during the greater part of the session. For a time it was feared he would never return. Since then his health has never been good, but he has kept to his work.

All last week the treasurer attended to his duties, and only left for ed to his duties, and only left for home on Saturday morning. He ap-mome on Saturday morning. He appeared then as well as usual.

Died While Reading.

Dispatches received from Perth indicate that the veteran treasurer had but scant warning that his life's journey was about over. As was his custom, he spent the evening at the Perth Club, and about 10 o'clock started for his residence on Gore street. An hour later he was dead, the end coming as he sat reading in his library.

The Cabinet meets today, when the matter will probably be discussed. Hon. Mr. Lucas for Budget.

The death for the provincial treasured will mean an added burden of legislative work to his colleagues at this time, and, although no intimation has been given as to the course to be pursued, Hon. I. B. Lucas will, it is expected, be called upon to fill the gap and present to th House the annual financial budget. Hon Mr. Lucas had that duty thrust upon him with short notice last session when the provincial treasurer was taken ill, and acquitted himself splendidly. Whether he will succeed to the vacant portfolio to advise any one troubled with dyspepsis is a matter that has not been even approached by the Prime Minister. He is, however, a particularly able member of the Cabinet, and has shown himself capable of assuming more important duties than those that have been intrusthim as minister without portfolio.

The champion father of this continent was David Wilson, who died at Madison, Ind., many years ago. He was the father of 47 children. He was married several times. The world's record is held by Feodor Wassillev, a Russian peasant. His first wife pre-sented him with 16 sets of twins, seven sets of triplets and four sets of quadruplets, making 69 in all. Then she died. The second Mrs. Wassiliev added two sets of triplets and six pairs of twins. That made a grand total of 87 children.

SPLENDID PAPERS AT MAPLETON MEETING

M. L. Holmes Is New President of South Dorchester Sunday Schools.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Mapleton, Jan. 27.—The annual convention of the South Dorchester Sunday School Association, held at the Crossley School Association, held at the Crossley and Hunter Church, was largely attended. The afternoon session opened with an excellent address by the township prosident, Mr. Miles Holmes, and was followed by a practical talk on Sunday school work by the county secretary, Miss Olive Norton, of Orwell.

The reports of the different departments were given, and proved very encouraging. Miss Bertha Laine, of Toronio, superintendent of the elementary grade divisions of the O.S. S. A., also gave an interesting paper on "Elementary

AMUSEMENTS

A Splendid Troupe. The Anitas, a concert troupe composed five ladies, appeared at the Y. M. C. A Auditorium on Saturday night, and ren-dered a most excellent evening's enter-tainment with songs, dances, recitations and instrumental music. Each member is an artist in her line, and the instru-mental solos on violin, cornet, flute and mental solos on violin, cornet, flute and piano were accorded hearty applause by the large-sized audience.

A unique number was "Wynken, Blynken and Nod," in which the ladies appeared in Dutch costume, including wooden shoes. A medley composed of southern airs, and two selections, "The Broken-Hearted Sparrow" and "The Mag-Broken-Hearted Sparrow" and "The Mag-pie and the Parrot," were all exceptionally well rendered.

"Way Down East."
"Way Down East." comes to the Grand
Wednesday evening for one night only.
William A. Brady promises an elaborate revival of this ever-popular and successful play. The big snowstorm effect in the third act is one of the greatest bits of stage realism ever attempted, and is car-ried out in such a manner as to make one almost shiver in the belief that a real storm is raging. The play will be presented here with the same notable cast and production that Mr. Brady has accustomed the public to expect. Seat sale opened today. They played to capacity all last week at Toronto, and in fact they had to put on a special matinee Friday.

"The Travelling Salesman."

"The Travelling Salesman" is underlined for Friday and Saturday next. After its long run in New York, Chicago and Boston, this plece was greeted throughout the country as the comedy success of the past decade, and not even "The Chorus Lady," which is by the same author, seemed so popular. The cast this year has been changed but slightly from last season, and is better in some respects than the original. Shep Camp will assume the part of the breezy Blake; Grace Ryan will play Beth Elliott, Harriet Sheldon will portray Mrs. Babbitt, while the rest of the characters will be portrayed by Ed Romine, Arthur Carleton, Miss J. F. Boyer, Charles Ross, Thomas Ward. Lou Miller, and others. "The Travelling Salesman."
