WANT AD HOROSCOPE

June 30. It is of the utmost importance that persons of this birth date should study read, and cultivate their minds, dwell on the high ideals of life and strive to conquer their restless nature. When these people are strong and courageous they are exceedingly powerful, but when they are weak, they are keenly from self-inflicted doubts and fears and always seem to be worrying. It is useless to argue with this personality because it only becomes stubborn and silent. Their feelings are easily hurt and they do not quickly forget a wrong or a criticism. November and February, people make good mates for those born in this nativity. It would be well to watch for Want Ads offering for sale musical instruments, automobiles and all means of transportation. Metal workers will find it to their advantage to study the Want Ads.

MARRIED BUT NOT LEGALLY

Another Quebec Marriage, But This Time it Was in Methodist Church.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

MONTREAL, Que., June 30.—That two young people were not married in accordance with the laws of the Methodist denomination to which the husband belonged, or the laws of the Anglican Church, to which the wife was attached, is one of the arguments being used in the courts here to dissolve the marriage of Edgar Gentry Thompson and Maud Baker.

The two were married by Rev. A. E. Runnels, Methodist minister at Prescott, Ont., on September 14, 1913.

The plaintiffs further allege as grounds for dissolution that their consent was not secured, and that the young couple went from Quebec to Ontario to be married for the sole purpose of dispensing with their consent.

The laws of the Methodist and Anglican churches, it is further contended, require the publication of banns.

It is also claimed by plaintiff that the young people obtained a marriage license through fraud, both representing that they attained their majority, while as a matter of fact, the young man was eighteen years old at the time whilst the young woman was 20.

After the marriage the newly wedded couple kept the matter a secret, and it was only towards the middle of the following month that the plaintiffs say they learned of the union.

In the course of his evidence, the husband said he thought his wife had been married before. He married Mary Baker at Mr. Runnels's house. His wife only lived with him for two months.

VIVAT, CANADA!

To-morrow the Dominion of Canada will celebrate its forty-sixth birthday. Few people now living can recall the strenuous travail which preceded that event, but such was the case nevertheless.

There used to be scattered Provinces, acting in a more or less independent way, and the task of reconciling the many vast differences was of herculean proportions. However, leading men of both sides of politics joined in the grand effort, and finally the much-to-be-desired union seemed to be complete; but Nova Scotia remained obdurate to an alarming extent. Then it was that Sir Charles Tupper—now the only surviving Father of Confederation—literally took his political life in his hands and succeeded in bringing N. S. into line.

Without doubt Sir Charles was one of the foremost factors in the creation of the Dominion as at present constituted, just as he was a foremost champion of the completion of the Canadian Pacific Railway, when many others had commenced to lose hope.

There was some friction at first after the completion of union, but that soon wore away and Johnny Canuck started on the marvellous career which has ended in the present glorious consummation with an unlimited future prospect.

It is not too much to say that Canada is to-day the most-talked-of land in the world. In fact, in Britain and on the continent, papers are constantly relating her grand resources and future greatness, and a steady tide of new citizens has commenced, not alone from across the seas, but from the United States itself.

And well should it thus be so. We have a magnificent heritage—none to equal it anywhere—with boundless agricultural tracts, and forests, and mineral wealth, and fishery wealth, and industrial development, and for the most part blue skies, and all the rest of it.

This will be our century without the slightest shadow or peradventure of any doubt.

A WELCOME EXTENSION

The welcome news has been flashed to Ottawa that H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught has accepted an extension of time of one year in his office as Governor-General.

He hopes to return here during the autumn and to be accompanied by the Duchess, whose health has latterly greatly improved.

This will be good news to Canadians generally. A few papers here and there at first questioning the advisability of having royalty at Rideau Hall, on the ground that such an event would lead to too much flunkysm, but the critics were soon silenced by the actual outcome, and one of them, the Toronto Star, recently admitted that such criticism had not in any sense been implemented.

The truth is that there is a whole-souled democracy about the members of the British royal family, which while it does not abate the dignity attaching to monarchical institutions, nevertheless serves to win cordial respect and affection.

Speaking of His Royal Highness from the mere standpoint of publicity, the fact that Canada was selected as an overseas dominion worthy of the acceptance of its highest office by the only surviving son of Queen Victoria, was an incident in itself serving to bring this country still more prominently into the limelight.

Apart from that phase of the matter altogether, the Duke, the Duchess and Princess Patricia have endeared themselves to all by their great personal tact and charm.

THE ORIGIN OF PEERAGES

There is a quite general idea that most peers are descended from a long line of ancestors as such, but that is not generally the case. The oldest continued title of Duke is that of Norfolk, created in 1483.

Most of the other titles are quite modern, and, as an English magazine has recently pointed out, the way to them was inaugurated by men of what the world terms obscurity.

Edward Osborne was an apprentice, who jumped from Old London Bridge to save his master's daughter from drowning. Then he married her, acquiring big estates and influence, and it was a son of his who, by court influence and intrigue, became the first Duke of Leeds.

William Ward, another London apprentice, when his time was through started business as a dealer in precious stones, and finally became court jeweler, amassing great wealth. Lord Dudley, the last of the Suttons, became hard up, and tried to borrow $50,000 from Ward. The latter said that he had a son named Humble and his lordship a granddaughter. If a match was arranged he would be satisfied with that security. Thus it was that the Wards and the Suttons became united, and that Humble's direct male descendant is now the Earl of Dudley.

David Cecil, the first of the Salisbury's, was a middle-class water bailiff, and left an estate of $100, but his son Richard was a page and afterwards groom of the robes to Henry VIII, and he made such good use of his chances that he secured huge grants of land and a title for his eldest son. The Marquis of Salisbury is the head of the Cecil house.

The head of the house of Cavendish, of which the Duke of Devonshire is now chief, was an obscure landowner in Suffolk. He had the good fortune to obtain an appointment as Treasurer of the Chamber to the King, and obtained lands from which the Cavendishes have since derived enormous wealth.

The founder of Lord Carrington's family was John Smith, a draper at Nottingham; the Earl of Spencer's forbears used to breed sheep in Warwickshire, and so the list might be continued.

Then, of course, we have from Canada Lord Strathcona, whose Scotch father was a struggling tradesman in a small way of business as a saddler, and Lord Mountstephen, whose father was a small carpenter in the little Banffshire place called Dufftown.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

June is continuing to make matters so hot that the idea is commencing to gain ground that she must be a sufferer.

Anybody capable of bestowing a good cold stare ought to be highly popular these days.

The United States last year exported $143,999,000 worth of wheat and flour. And yet this is the land which the foolish reciprocity advocates argued offered a big market for Canadian wheat and flour.

It is said that Liberal ex-Ministers have their ears to the ground. Is that because some of them are long enough?

Galt Reporter. The Courier describes the Brant county roads as "awful." This is a true bill, if we are to judge by the roads leading into Galt from Paris. Brant county is rich enough to equip itself with creditable highways. It is to be hoped the late trip, during which object-lessons in good roads were received, will result in the neighboring county adopting systematic plans for the improvement of its highways. Not that Waterloo county is a shining example, but it is better than the average—and promises to do better.

It is a sad blow to the grand scheme of knitting the Empire closer together with battleships and cruisers. It was a mad program at best. Canada need never fear foreign aggression, because even if the British navy is engaged elsewhere, the navy of the United States can always be relied upon to defend her against a foe having designs on her splendid territory.—New York Herald.

Much obliged, old chap. Canadians in the past have taken care of themselves and can again, and as for a navy, why Johnny Canuck will have those three dreadnoughts in John Bull's fighting line, and don't you make any mistake about that fact.

WORK OF PARISH IS RE-ARRANGED

Announcement Made Yesterday by Ven. Archdeacon Young.

The Ven. Archdeacon Young after the induction of Rev. Mr. Latimer at Trinity last evening visited St. Luke's church and on behalf of the Bishop of the diocese told the people of the provision which had been made for the work of the church in that section of the city. There was a good congregation at St. Luke's last night, the acting rector, Rev. H. A. Wright, conducting the service. The archdeacon said that some 35 years ago he was rector of St. Jude's and he was pleased to note the progress that had been made since then. The rector and congregation of St. Jude's were to be congratulated on the work which they had done. They had planted Trinity in Eagle Place and it had become a self-sustaining parish. They had also been instrumental in the building of St. Luke's and before long it too would become independent and self-sustaining. In the meantime a liberal grant has been made from the Mission Fund and that together with the assistance which the people of the parish will give makes it possible for the bishop to appoint a clergyman to have charge of the work among them. St. Luke's and Echo Place are set apart as a separate mission and the bishop is appointing a clergyman who will take charge very shortly—in a few weeks, at the most. This is good news to the congregation of St. Luke's and they will loyally support their clergyman when he comes and unite with him in the work of the church.

A Montreal View of Mr. W. F. Cockshutt's Speech

WAGES AND LIVING

Mr. Cockshutt, M. P., is being criticized because of a statement made by him to the effect that many working-men lived in "affluence" on $450 a year. He has corrected the declaration by saying that he should have used the word comfort instead of affluence. He has not checked the flow of censure, however. Without defining "comfort" which may have a different meaning with every varying social grade, the fact remains that a great number—perhaps a majority—of the men whose work with their hands is doing much to make the country prosperous do live and maintain homes and raise families, and raise them in fair decency also, on the yearly wage mentioned, or less. The census returns lately issued give particulars of the number of workers employed in the industrial establishments of Canada in 1910. There are two classifications, those who work on salary and those who receive daily or weekly wage. The former are as a rule the most highly qualified in the matters of capacity and skill. They numbered 44,000, and received altogether as compensation in the year $43,779,000, or less on the average than a thousand dollars a year. When the men who earn and receive salaries of $2,000 a year and upwards have their share taken out of the total, it will be noted that able workers must be at or below the $800 a year level. In the case of workers for wages, whose number is given as 471,000, the reported yearly earnings were $197,228,000, or barely $420 a year. In this classification, of course, men women and children are included. Some skilled craftsmen get quite double the average rate, however, and even allowing for the small pay some of the operators receive, the average man must maintain himself on a yearly wage quite as low as that mentioned by Mr. Cockshutt. In this matter also Canada is not notably different from its nearest neighbor. The bulletin of the census of 1910, giving particulars of the manufacturing industries of the United States in 1909, prepared on the same lines as those of the Canadian bureau, gives the number of employees as 6,615,000, and their wages as $3,427,038,000, which works out at the average rate of about $515 a year. Considering the highly developed state of the steel and machinery and some other industries in United States, in which large numbers of highly-paid artisans are engaged, the difference between the two countries might have been greater. In the United States, where some classes of workers receive the highest rates of pay in the world, it is plain that the wages of many industrious men do not exceed $450 a year. The records of the railways may be invoked in the same sense. Railway workers are of a high grade of intelligence. They are required to be sober and attentive to their duty, and lose generally but a small amount of time a year. Some classes of railway men are highly paid and raise the average of the whole to a large figure. There were in the service of the railways of Canada in 1912 according to the returns to the Department of Railways and Canals, 155,900 workers; over 89,000 of them received on the average less than $2 a day. In the case of the railways of the United States, according to the Bureau of Railway News Statistics, in the same year a 1,690,000 railway employees $47,500 received on the average less than $2 a day, and in one classification of track workers the average pay of 347,000 men averaged only $1.50 a day. It is to be inferred that most of the men in the divisions noted as their work not more than $450 a year, year in and year out. In Montreal, where the Trades and Labor Council, operating through the City Hall and the municipal departments, has been influential in raising the rates for unskilled labor to a figure equal to or greater than rules in New York, the $2.15-a-day men in a year earn more on the average than $450. A recent bulletin of the Ontario Bureau of Industries contains a complaint that wages of farm laborers are so high that the area put under crop is being affected, and good men are asking, and apparently getting for the summer season at least, between $30 and $40 a month. Even with men in the more highly-paid trades, some of whom earn $4 and $5 a day, there is often lost time that greatly reduces the annual income of the wage worker. The prosperity of the country about which so much is said has its base on the earnings of these men and their fellows. Their moderate savings, often the product of hard, self-denial, through the post office alone, amounted in 1911-12 to $11,054,000, and were on an average less than $50 each. The special savings banks in this and other cities and towns, have in considerable proportion the names of such earners as are referred to on their books. It is well to draw attention to such facts from time to time. If they were also remembered as they should be, tax levying and tax spending legislators might be less free with their appropriations which are too often wasteful of public money. Meantime, as a matter of fact, and without regard to what might be or what should be, the $450 a year income is what tens of thousands of workers live and raise families upon.

Laid at Rest

Very Impressive Funeral of the Late M. H. Robertson Today

The remains of Milton H. Robertson were laid to rest this afternoon in the quaint old cemetery at Faringdon church, amid bowed heads and general heartfelt sympathy for the bereaved family of a large concourse of sincere and devout Christian friends of the deceased.

The obsequies were attended by leading Brantford citizens of all walks of life and prominent business men. Many admiring friends who had learned to love the late Mr. Robertson in church and social life, joined in the tribute of respect to the departed one.

The eulogy of Rev. Mr. Rose was particularly impressive, his address being as follows: "In the permissive and inscrutable yet wise providence of God, another family circle is broken here, and another soul has found the House not made with hands. Jesus said long years ago that He would give the crown of life to those who were faithful unto death. The one who has left us could say on the day of his departure as did Paul: 'I have fought the good fight. I have finished my course. I have kept the faith; henceforth there is laid up for me the crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous judge shall give me at that day; and not only to me, but also to all them that love his appearing.'"

"To-day this tenanted body, the precious abode of a noble soul, tells us that the spirit has returned unto God who gave it. For him truly the stormy sea has been safely passed and the Harbor of peace entered; for him the burden of sleepless nights and frustrated hopes has no more hold or place; for him there is now immortal youth and the beatific vision of Christ and fellowship with the saints. If there is now a single note of sadness in his song, it is because of the sorrow of those who miss him here, or because there are those for whom he longed who are yet unprepared for all the bliss which awaits the death of the children of God."

"His life was one of exceptional constancy, sweetness and beauty. It was like some rare flower that has to be sought to be found, but that sweetness and purities and makes glad all those who come within the circle of its influence. The fragrance of his spirit, the atmosphere of his presence, is here to-day, and will abide till we meet him in the future with the Master. In his going he has bequeathed to all his loved ones and friends the legacy of a precious and deathless memory."

"If he could have planned this service he would have instructed me to speak a word to the living concerning the importance of being ready for such a day as this. He would have chosen a text like this: 'Be ye also ready, for in such an hour as ye think not the Son of Man cometh.' (Matt. 24:44) His desire in this particular I will now endeavor to carry out in a brief yet clear statement of the preparation which is necessary."

"We are prepared for that day by truly believing on the Lord Jesus Christ; by most genuinely repenting of our sins; by taking up the cross of public confession of Christ; by the such a confession of Christ of our sins and by separation from every wicked thing and consecration to the work assigned by Christ. If to-day you do thus believe and thus repent and thus confess Christ and thus turn away from all that is contrary to the spirit and teaching of Christ, I can most confidently assure you of the authority of His Word that you are ready for both life and death. To-day if you hear His voice harden not your hearts."

"In concluding this brief and simple service, let me commend you all to God; to His grace and unflinching goodness, and urge you who are 'Risen with Christ to set your affections upon things which are above, where Christ is seated upon the right hand of God' for 'when Christ, who is our life, shall be manifested, then shall ye also be manifested with him in glory.'"

A Grass Fire Sunday afternoon the central fire department were called out to extinguish a grass fire back of the Ontario School for the Blind. The fire was dangerously near the stables. Chemicals and brooms were used. It is thought the blaze originated from some one throwing a cigar or cigaret in the dry grass, as many people cross the grounds.

Will Stop It Six young men, who jumped into the river yesterday, without going to the trouble of securing proper bathing apparel, will appear in the police court this week as a result of summonses, sought by Constable Fred Kerr.

THE "WINDOW-DRAPERY" GOWN A NEW WHIM

There is more than a little suggestion of a luxuriously draped window in this dinner gown for week-end wear. A lambrequin arrangement of brocade in shades of American Beige rose is draped over a frock of filmy lace frills, and the rounded cut of the drapery, and its trimming of massive silk tassels increases the suggestion of a handsome lambrequin falling over lace curtains. A draped girdle of the tunic material rises over a simple bodice of the lace, a cabouchon brooch set with rubies holding the high sash at the point of the décolletage—an effect very smart just now.

ON THE RETURN TRIP WITH THE WOMEN'S PRESS CLUB

REGINA, June 25—Vancouver, recent years since the sub-division craze has been before the country, had to be left behind at last. However, as we were headed to tear ourselves away, some of our party going to spend several days at Victoria—others on to Seattle, and back by the "Crown Nest Pass"—a few to the mountain resorts again for more explorations—but our little cotem of party leaving for Winnipeg. One missed the Oriental and little "Jap" porters which greeted you at every turn in British Columbia. However, our colored porters took very good care of us in the Pullmans as we journeyed eastward. The mountains not quite so much of a novelty perhaps as on our outward journey, and every minute possible spent out on the rear platform of the observation car, breathing in that glorious and invigorating mountain air. We drew in and out of half a dozen rain falls—the white clouds almost closing us in—but everything looked so fresh and lovely after the rain. Rainbows of glorious colors following and touching the sun-clad peaks.

Short stops were made at Field, Glacier, Lagan, Banff—then on and back to Calgary, which we reached in a pouring rain also. A half hour at this point then on again to Medicine Hat, a live looking little city, now enjoying a great "boom" they told us, owing to the wonderful natural gas resources, and American oil men also locating there very rapidly. Moosejaw in the wee small hours of the morning—and now Regina where we are to remain until the "Imperial Limited" comes along at 6:50 p. m. when we go on through without pause to Winnipeg. This city, while not large, has many fine buildings, substantial looking banks, on every corner—beautiful, collegiate institute, good hotels, and splendid parliament buildings, which while guests of the Canadian Club, we are to visit later in the day together with other places of interest.

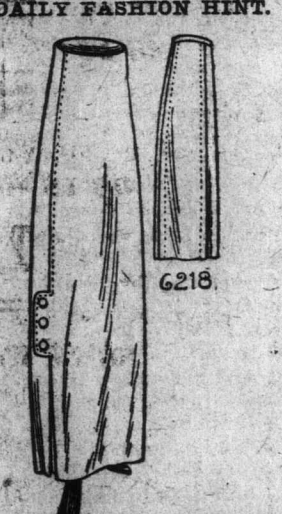

Fortunately we are prepared for all kinds of weather, and it is just as well, for it is a very weepy sky above us, "in regret for our departure," the western hostess tactfully tells us. Rain coats are pretty sure to be needed again before the day is out, and Regina mat sticks closer than a brother.

One should not draw comparisons, but to us Edmonton and Vancouver stand out as the choicest localities along the line—as either of these cities to settle would be ideal, and those who were fortunate enough to take possession in the "early days," now reap their reward. The Pioneer tells wonderful stories—and best of all they are really true. In the lower section of the skirt is of the net while the embroidery tunic was of the embroidery reaching below the knees and opening at the left side. A girde of pompadour silk with sash ends completed the costume.

A cotton crepe, has a waist in jumper effect, with the cuffs, and fancy low collar finished with fagoting, a touch of handwork which adds an air of distinction to numerous summer gowns. The skirt is tucked around the hips and has a deep insertion of heavy lace around the bottom. The under portion of the waist showing vest and sleeves is of the lace. A Nett eye velvet ribbon girde with long ends encircles the waist.

DAILY FASHION HINT.

Lady's Four Gore Skirt. This is a good model for part of a costume or for use with separate waists. It may have the normal waist or the high style of finish. It has four gores, with a tab extension at the knee in front and a wide panel effect in the back. It is here that the closing is placed. Serge, cheviot, satin, silk, linen, sponge and the like may be used for a skirt of this design.

The skirt pattern, No. 6218, is cut in sizes 22 to 30 inches waist measure. Medium size requires 4½ yards of 38 inch material. Width of skirt at lower edge 2½ yards.

This pattern can be obtained by sending 10 cents to the office of this paper.

Eight days must be allowed on receipt of pattern.

Can Brantford stop St. Thomas? The fans will know by Wednesday night when a four game series is concluded here.

Peterboro has just taken three out of four from Guelph, while Hamilton has copied the series from London. Ottawa was expected to beat Berlin but they have to fight hard for the rest of the games. The league surely looks a funny one.

Manager Kane says his club will have to fight hard for every game that they win from now on. The race is getting so close that no club is easy to beat. Kane believes that the Red Sox will climb although he expects a hard battle each time.

There will be a double header at the Park to-morrow, Dominion Day. St. Thomas will fill both morning and afternoon engagements. On Wednesday the game will be called at three o'clock to allow both the Saints and Red Sox to get away east.

Brantford has 14 players but the club is within the salary limit. As there are still out for new players, there may be releases this week. The release of Tesch, has already been announced in this column. It was premature, for which we apologize to Tesch. But if it happens to be let out, we hope he lands a berth elsewhere to good advantage. It is our opinion that he doesn't fit in exceedingly well with the Red Sox. At that there are others whose measured pants are not good, but they may improve.

The work of Spillane on Saturday, for a youngster breaking into good company, favorably impressed everybody. He did not get a safe hit, but

The fans will know by Wednesday night when a four game series is concluded here.

Peterboro has just taken three out of four from Guelph, while Hamilton has topped the series from London. Ottawa was expected to beat Berlin but they have to fight hard for the rest of the games. The league surely looks a funny one.

Manager Kane says his club will have to fight hard for every game that they win from now on. The race is getting so close that no club is easy to beat. Kane believes that the Red Sox will climb although he expects a hard battle each time.

The release of Tesch has already been announced in this column. It was premature, for which we apologize to Tesch. But if he happens to be let out, we hope he lands a berth elsewhere to good advantage. It is our opinion that he doesn't fit in exceedingly well with the Red Sox. At that there are others whose measurements are not good, but they may improve.

The work of Spillane on Saturday, for a youngster breaking into good company, favorably impressed everybody. He did not get a safe hit, but he stepped into the old pill as if he meant business. He fielded his position faultlessly and pulled off one beautiful catch. There have been so many first minute guesses about alleged Red Sox stars this year that we hesitate to pass judgment on this boy. It would not surprise the fans, however, if he developed into a rattling good man.

No alibis are being presented in this column to-day, but it is necessary to record the loss of the fourth straight eleven innings game by Brantford this year. The description of how it happened depends upon the individual fans' view point. However, let it be said that had Brantford been around the top of the league on Saturday and had lost the battle, not one fan in a thousand would have kicked. As the Red Sox position on the Canadian League ladder of fame and fourteen was six teams ahead and only one behind, the loss of the game hurt, as any game would. The string attached to the loss was further emphasized by the fact that the game was gambled in the ninth and lost in the eleventh. At that there were scores of fans good enough to speak out and say that with baseball played as it was on Saturday, win or lose, there was no kick coming. These fans may be martyrs to the cause but they are good sports.

Luck, which played a great part in a ball game, deserted Brantford and favored St. Thomas just at a time when the turn of the tide came. It took eleven innings to decide the game, and the large crowd which was in attendance, got the worth of their money even if the Sox did come out second best. There was no room left for a knock from the most chronic kicker, and any person who attended the game on Saturday and is not satisfied with the value he was given for his money, should quit going to games.

It was baseball from start to finish. The weather was ideal for ball, and the players on both teams were full of life and vigor, and some veritable feats were executed. Buster made a throw from second to first, on a long throw from centre field, was one of the features of the game. Buster made perfect throw to third in time for Spillane to retire the runner.

After the first innings, it could be seen that it would be a pitcher's battle and a strenuous game. Brantford scored their only run in the fourth when Kane singled to right and went to second from where he scored on a single. Amby sprinted around third and got to the plate, thus giving the Red Sox their only run.

With the team playing magnificent ball and the pitchers fighting like Trojans, the one looked a whole lot, and just enough to win. The Ninth But alas, the luck in baseball asserted itself in the ninth and favored St. Thomas, and the visitors tied up the score. Craven, the first man up, walked, and was sacrificed to second by Kustus. Wright came along with all that was required, a beautiful single, and Craven crossed the plate.

reception when he trotted home. Billy Bradshaw and Lill opposed one another in this game, and Bradshaw lost, though he held Ottawa to four hits. Lill also pitched cleverly. The double win puts Ottawa ahead of Hamilton and London, and right next to Guelph. The Senators played great ball in both games. Rogers gets a suit of clothes, a gold watch, and enough cigars to last him all Summer for his four-pillow swat.

Summary: Double play, Wright, Ort, and Forgue. Struck out—Gero 8, Clements 8. Bases on balls—Gero 5, Clements 2. Hit by pitcher—Gero 2 (Kopp, Craven). Stolen bases—Wagner, Powers, Forgue. Sacrifices—Burrill, Gero 3; Craven, Kustus, Wright. Left on bases—Brantford 5, St. Thomas 6. Time, 2:10. Umpire, Halligan.

WAS AN EVEN BREAK. Hamilton and London Divided a Double-Header. LONDON, Ont., June 30.—Honors were shared by London and Hamilton in a double bill played at Tecumseh Park Saturday afternoon, the visitors annexing the initial struggle by 4 to 2, while the Tecumseh's copped the second 1 to nothing. Heck twirled a hitless, runless game in the second session, which, however, went only seven rounds. His exhibition was splendid, while that of his opponent on the mound, Doherty, was almost equally as good. Thirty-two batters had gone to the plate in the game before a hit was made. Heck himself driving out the introductory single. Crickenger had previously gone to the paths on an error and moved upon the pitchers' single. Linnborn scored him on a two-base wallop, and the game was won. Donohue pitched the first game for Hamilton, and his efforts were chiefly responsible for the victory of the visitors.

Decrease in Lead Poisoning. Mr. Ellis Griffith, M. P., Under-Secretary for the Home Department, in opening an exhibition of plant at Stoke-on-Trent, said that during the past few years the reported cases of lead poisoning in the pottery trade had declined from 400 to 100.

OTTAWA WON BOTH GAMES. Defeated Berlin in Both Ends of a Double Header. OTTAWA, June 30.—The fast climbing senators took both ends of Saturday's double-header from the Berlin team in the Canadian Baseball League. They won the first half of the matinee by 2 to 1, after a duel between Bramble and Renfer, in which the Ottawa man had the better. Ottawa scored one run in the fourth, and another in the sixth. Berlin rallied, and Renfer's wildness in the seventh forced in the only run that Berlin got. The Dutchmen tried bases in the seventh and eighth, but the holding behind Renfer was so tight that Ottawa held them down.

The second game was even more sensational, Ottawa winning by 1 to 0. The only run of the match was scored by Lefty Rogers on a home run in the fourth frame. The ball landed far beyond the outfielders' heads, and Rogers received a great

SAINTS WALLOPED RED SOX IN AN UNSAINTLY FASHION

But it Was a Great Game and it Required 11 Innings to Accomplish the Trick—For Ten Innings Brantford Played Championship Ball Then Blew Up.

Brantford lost one of the best games played here this season to St. Thomas on Saturday afternoon by the small margin of 3 to 1. It was a hard game to lose, as the locals were ahead 1-0 up to the end of the 8th, and a win looked good for the Brants. In the ninth, the fortunes of war rested on St. Thomas, as they tied up the score and afterwards won out the game. Gero pitched grand ball for the Sox, and his opponent of the Saints did likewise. It was a beautiful pitcher's battle, and although the Saint twirler came out on top, still he did not have anything on Gero. Brantford's downfall can be attributed to three things: slight misjudgment on the bases; errors at the crucial stage, and not being able to hit in the pinches.

LONDON, Ont., June 30.—Honors were shared by London and Hamilton in a double bill played at Tecumseh Park Saturday afternoon, the visitors annexing the initial struggle by 4 to 2, while the Tecumseh's copped the second 1 to nothing. Heck twirled a hitless, runless game in the second session, which, however, went only seven rounds. His exhibition was splendid, while that of his opponent on the mound, Doherty, was almost equally as good. Thirty-two batters had gone to the plate in the game before a hit was made. Heck himself driving out the introductory single. Crickenger had previously gone to the paths on an error and moved upon the pitchers' single. Linnborn scored him on a two-base wallop, and the game was won. Donohue pitched the first game for Hamilton, and his efforts were chiefly responsible for the victory of the visitors.

Decrease in Lead Poisoning. Mr. Ellis Griffith, M. P., Under-Secretary for the Home Department, in opening an exhibition of plant at Stoke-on-Trent, said that during the past few years the reported cases of lead poisoning in the pottery trade had declined from 400 to 100.

OTTAWA WON BOTH GAMES. Defeated Berlin in Both Ends of a Double Header. OTTAWA, June 30.—The fast climbing senators took both ends of Saturday's double-header from the Berlin team in the Canadian Baseball League. They won the first half of the matinee by 2 to 1, after a duel between Bramble and Renfer, in which the Ottawa man had the better. Ottawa scored one run in the fourth, and another in the sixth. Berlin rallied, and Renfer's wildness in the seventh forced in the only run that Berlin got. The Dutchmen tried bases in the seventh and eighth, but the holding behind Renfer was so tight that Ottawa held them down.

The second game was even more sensational, Ottawa winning by 1 to 0. The only run of the match was scored by Lefty Rogers on a home run in the fourth frame. The ball landed far beyond the outfielders' heads, and Rogers received a great

SEWED UP THE GAME IN SIXTH INNING

St. Louis Got to Hendrix of Pirates and Drove Him Out of Box.

ST. LEWIS, June 30.—After Hendrix, for Pittsburgh, was almost unhittable for five innings, the Cardinals in the sixth drove him from the box, scoring four runs and winning yesterday's game by the score of 4 to 3. In only two innings was Harmon, for St. Louis, in danger, but in those sessions the visitors batted in three runs.

CINCINNATI, June 30.—The Reds won the closing game of the series from Chicago yesterday afternoon. The locals hit Pierce hard in the second and third innings, but the Cubs did likewise to Ames in the fourth and made the score three to three. But the Rhinelanders again fell upon the Cub twirler in the fifth and knock him out of the box by the healthy means of four hits, three of which were screaming triples. One run was gotten off Ritchie, who succeeded him in the inning, and another in the seventh. The Cubs got another off Ames in the fifth. The Red twirler was taken out of the game on account of the heat, and Brown, who took his place, was rapped for two runs in the sixth, but pitched airtight ball thereafter, not allowing a hit for the last three innings.

Notes of the Crease

A good game was played between Brantford St. George and Grace Church teams, the church men winning by a narrow margin of 16 runs. Some really fine batting was seen by the many visitors present. C. Smith played a nice innings, being top scorer with 32 runs. Joe Richardson added a useful dozen, though lucky through the kindness of a friend it is said. W. West, the well known old time football player, surprised his many friends with a well played 13. For the St. George team Winyard was high man with 30 runs. He played perfect cricket, his hitting was clean, well placed. F. Stewart was feeling at home with the bowling but not getting good hold of one, was caught after hitting 11 runs. Several good bats from the St. George team were unable to play. A noticeable absentee being H. S. Leach. Don't lose it now, St. George, three wins and 1 loss is not so bad. Nothing like competition for raising keen enthusiasm. Every club in the league is now in the running. Many who saw the game said it was the best this season. Scores:

FOOTBALL RESULTS

Saturday's Results

S. O. E. 3, Brant Dragons 2.
Y. M. C. A. 6, St. Andrews 0.
Tutela 1, Cocksbutts United 1.

In the football league on Saturday the S. O. E. team, after a desperate hard fight, won from the Brant Dragons by the narrow margin of one goal, 3-2. It was a strenuous game and a great victory for the Englishmen. The S. O. E. team got away to a bad start this season but are playing better ball now. The Y. M. C. A. eleven swamped the young St. Andrew's team 6-0. The Y. M. C. A. had an easy time of it on Saturday. Cocksbutts United and the Tutela team had the toughest argument of the day, the score being a tie. Each team scored one goal and try as they could neither team could gain any advantage over the other.

Y. M. C. A. and St. Andrew's met in a league game at Agricultural Park Saturday and ended as expected, a win for the "Y." The gym boys lined up with three reserves, all of whom will prove handy men before the season is over. The game started with a lot of midfield play, then the Y. M. C. A. broke away and Poynter scored on a pass from right. The Saints then woke up and did a lot of attacking, but the "Y" defense was steady and did not exert themselves and the forwards again broke away and J. Holland scored. The play began again with a lot of slow midfield play, until the whistle went for half time, the score standing 2-2. Saints 0. The second half was all Y. M. C. A., the feature of which was the scoring of four goals by J. Holland, which was made possible by the unselfish passing of Poynter and Hamilton, the final score being Y. M. C. A. 6, St. Andrew's 0. The Y. M. C. A. lined up as follows:—Tigwell, goal; Mason and W. Holland, backs; Clark, Vipont and Palmer, half backs; Stone, Hamilton and J. Holland, Poynter and Fisher, forwards.

Notes

That goal scoring cup is not doing the "Y" forwards much harm. The gym, boys will look as different proposition to the Duffs on Tuesday.

Rogers at centre half for the Duffs may be a hoodoo for the "Y" but Roberts will more than balance things up.

Looks like J. Holland for that goal getting trophy.

Duffs Notes

The following players will represent the Dufferin Rifles in their league game against the Y. M. C. A. on Tuesday, July 1st, at Agricultural Park, kick off 6.15 p.m. Goal

Knowles; backs, D. Cook, Richardson; half backs, Harris, Rogers, Biggs; forwards, Coale, Humphries, Phillips, Mercer (capt.), Hutchinson; reserves, Bingham, W. Cook, R. Ferec, Mr. C. South.

This game has been the chief topic of conversation during the week among football enthusiasts and a great game is anticipated between a team who delight in exploiting the finer points of the game and ones who have built up a reputation of no mean kind by the soundness rather than the brilliance of their methods.

Both teams are in the fortunate position to place a strong team on the field.

Both teams are particularly desirous of winning the game, so the crowd is sure of seeing a fast game and followers of the game should not miss it on any account.

Sibcoe Game

The Sibcoe team meet the S. O. E. to-morrow, July 1st at Tutela Park, kick off at 2.30 p.m. sharp. S. O. E. team: Goal, W. Holmes; backs, H. Arthur, and J. Keighley; half backs, H. Sleeth, E. Clark and Brooks; forwards, W. Budd, L. Mears, W. Smith, J. Stewart and A. Johnson.

FEUD BETWEEN LAJOIE AND BIRMINGHAM WILL NOT CULMINATE

CLEVELAND, June 28.—The announcement of Manager Birmingham of the Cleveland American League club, that he intended to bench Napoleon Lajoie, second baseman of the team, has precipitated a feud between Lajoie and Birmingham, which threatens the success of the club. President Charles W. Somers said here today, Birmingham in a statement giving his side of the trouble declares that he only benched Lajoie temporarily, because his broken hand caused him to slump in his work. He says he intended putting the Frenchman back in the game as soon as he returned to form. In 53 games this season Lajoie has batted .327 and fielded .965.

President Somers, Saturday morning talked with Manager Birmingham over the long distance telephone. Afterward he announced that the trouble in no way menaces Birmingham's position as manager, and that he will continue to direct the team as he sees fit. Lajoie will continue with the team as player, he said. He added that he understood that the second baseman reconsidered previous declarations he has made saying he would do as directed by Birmingham.

How He Saved Them

Reference being made at a recent banquet to the wonderful inventions of children to escape paternal punishment, Gov. Marshall was reminded of little Jimmy and his new skates.

The skates, the governor said, were given Jimmy at Christmas, but on account of the unsafe condition of the ice he was told not to attempt to try them. The pressure, however, soon became too great for the youngster, and hiding the skates in his coat one morning he hustled for the pond. A half hour later he returned dripping wet.

"Where in the world have you been?" exclaimed mother of catching sight of her saturated child. "Didn't I tell you not to try those skates until the ice was safe?"

"Don't whip me, mamma," exclaimed Jimmy. "I just saved three men."

Mrs. Bowser had a book in her hands, Mr. Bowser the evening paper, and the family cat lay on the hearth rug and purred and chuckled and decided that she had a soft snap for the winter.

Without, cold winds blew and snowflakes fell, within were warmth and cheer and contentment. By and by Mr. Bowser felt the influence, and he looked up from his paper and said: "Well, now, but this is home! What reasonable man could ask for more than this?"

"Yes, it is cozy," answered Mrs. Bowser. "How a man can leave a fireside like this to hang out at a club is more than I can make out. If all men had homes like this there would be nothing but happiness in married life. Why can't all wives be like you?"

Mrs. Bowser took the alarm at once. Every wife knows that her husband is dangerous when too good. She started to say something about a neighbor's child being sick, but he interrupted her with: "Yes, I suppose so, but it is probably owing to the mother's carelessness. I

It would have been sweet music to your ears to hear the boys shouting, 'Old bowlegged Bowser' after me on the street."

"I wish you'd be reasonable," said Mrs. Bowser as she tossed the trousers on the lounge. "One minute you praise me and everything is all right, and the next—"

"Never!" he interrupted as he kicked at the cat. "I have never praised you and don't mean to. There will be no theater and no card parties. A wife who'll conspire against her husband ought to be sent to state prison. I take my trousers to a tailor to be pressed. You speak down after me and tell me to scrub the creases so that I will be an object of ridicule. Why don't you poison my coffee? Why don't you murder me in my sleep?"

"She passed him and went upstairs, and the cat held her breath and realized that a crisis was at hand. Mr. Bowser glared about him for a moment as he made ready to break loose, and then with a yell he seized the offending trousers and with a mighty wrench he tore the back seam up and laid a leg in either hand. There was nothing alive in the room except the cat. He jumped for her with a leg swinging about his head, and Mrs. Bowser heard a meow, a crash and a fall. He had struck a chair and fallen over it and plowed along the carpet with his nose, while the cat had escaped. An appalling shriek followed, and it was a full quarter of an hour before she heard a hoarse voice whispering: "I don't wonder that husbands are driven to drink! I only wonder that they don't become murderers as well as drunkards!"

Heartless Wretch. "Where are you going at this time of day?" we asked. "I've got to go to the train to meet my wife's oldest sister, who's coming to make a visit," he answered, not very enthusiastically.

"Can't she come to your house with you?" we queried. "Why you live only two blocks from the station."

"Yes, that's what my wife said. But I'd rather meet her. You see, if I meet her in public I won't have to kiss her."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

ARE YOUR JOINTS LAME? Haven't you a weak spot, a place where cold and inflammation always settles? Whether it is in the neck, side, joints or limbs—the cure is simple—a good rub with Nervilleine and then apply Nervilleine Porous Plaster. These great rubefacients invariably cure strain, swelling, weakness and muscular pain. There is no mystery about this. Nervilleine is the most penetrating liniment known—consequently it gets where the trouble really is. Nervilleine Porous Plasters are great healers and draw out congestion. Be sure you get the genuine, substitutes can't do the work.

By KATHARINE GREEN

Copyright, 1900, by Katharine Green "Though I had been congratulated enough up to that minute, I was seized by a sudden panic at the prospect of meeting face to face one whose hands were perhaps dripping with the blood of his victim. To confront him there and then might mean death to me, and I did not want to die, but to live, for I am young, strong, and not without a prospect of happiness before me. So I sprang back, and, seeing no other place of concealment in the whole bar room, crouched down in the shadow of the man you call Philomeno. For one, two minutes, I knelt there in a state of mortal terror, while the feet descended, paused, started to enter the room where I was, hesitated, turned and finally left the house."

"Miss Page, wait, wait," put in the coroner. "You saw him. You can tell who this man was."

The eagerness of this appeal seemed to excite her. A slight color appeared in her cheeks and she took a step forward, but before the words for which they so anxiously waited could leave her lips, she gave a start and drew back with an ejaculation which left a more or less sinister echo in the ears of all who heard it.

Frederick had just shown himself at the top of the staircase. "Good morning, gentlemen," said he, advancing into their midst with an air

"What is wrong with them?" he repeated as his neck began to grow red. "If you were the sort of wife you ought to be you'd know what was wrong with them! You'd have known it hours ago and brought that tailor to book, instead of assisting him in his chicanery."

"But what is it?" "Can't your own eyes tell you? Look along these creases. Do they follow a straight line or do they wobble and crook?"

"They seem to be straight," replied Mrs. Bowser after squinting. "But they are not, and I believe you have known it for hours! See there! These creases are at least three inches out of true at the bottom, and what will be the effect when I put the trousers on? I will look to be a bowlegged man, of course, and of course that was the plot. By thunder, woman, but things have come to a pretty pass!"

"Mr. Bowser, how silly you are!"

"For one, two minutes I knelt there in a state of mortal terror!"

whose unexpected manliness disguised his inward agitation. "The few words I have just heard Miss Page say are of so important a nature I find it impossible not to join you."

Amabel, upon whose lips a faint complacent smile had appeared as he stepped by her, glanced up at these words with secret astonishment at the indifference they showed and then dropped her eyes to his hands with an intent gaze which seemed to affect him unpleasantly, for he thrust them immediately behind him, though he did not lower his head or lose his air of determination.

"Is my presence here undesirable?" he inquired with a glance toward his father.

Sweetwater looked as if he thought it was, but he did not presume to say anything, and the others being too interested in the developments of Miss Page's story to waste any time on lesser matters, Frederick remained, grudgingly to Miss Page's evident satisfaction.

"Did you see this man's face?" Mr. Courtney now broke in in urgent inquiry.

Her answer came slowly after another long look in Frederick's direction. "No, I did not dare to make the effort. I was obliged to creep too close to the door. I simply heard his footsteps."

"See now," muttered Sweetwater, but in so low a tone she did not hear him. "She condemns herself. There isn't a woman living who would fall to look up under these circumstances even at the risk of her life."

Knapp seemed to agree with him, but Mr. Courtney, following his one idea, pressed his former question, saying: "Was it an old man's step?"

"It was not an agile one. "And you did not catch the least glimpse of the man's face or figure?" "Not a glimpse."

"So you are in no position to identify him?" "If by any chance I should hear those same footsteps coming down a flight of stairs, I think I should be able to recognize them," she allowed in the sweetest tones of her command.

"She knows it is too late for her to hear those of the two dead Zebels," growled the man from Boston. "We are no nearer the solution of this mystery than we were in the beginning," remarked the coroner. "Gentlemen, I have not yet finished my story," Amabel sweetly intimated. "Perhaps what I have yet to tell may give you some clue as to who this man was."

SHEPPARD & SON

JEWELLERS 452 COLBORNE STREET Issuer of MARRIAGE LICENSES.

Brilliant Failure And Her Very Short Stay In School

With chin uplifted and lips firmly compressed, Margaret advanced to meet fate.

For in this particular instance was represented by Margaret's father, a self-opinionated, self-made man with a grievance. Margaret resented fully that she was a factor in the grievance. Her three sisters constituted the remaining factors.

John Leckie felt that he had been played a scummy trick when, having proved that he could surmount obstacles before which the average man fell back dismayed and could rise from nameless, penniless obscurity to a position of power, he not popularly among men and affairs, nature had sent his daughters instead of sons. His wife had died of very shame for having failed so singularly to fulfill her duty in this respect.

The eldest daughter had tried to expiate her mother's offenses by, esteeming her father's wishes as book-keepers. Today she ranked as the right hand man. She wore mannish clothes, too, and talked shop with her father from soap to coffee and was tremendously bored when her sisters proposed entering a few dollars at dinner.

The second daughter had chosen art and had opened a small studio in a western city. Anything, in her estimation, was preferable to being told whenever she met her father that if she had been a man she might have built iron bridges instead of air castles in art.

One thing John Leckie had done—he had given them the best educational advantages money could buy, and then he had said, "Now go out and do things."

Margaret, fresh from the trip abroad, which Leckie considered the essential finishing touch of a girl's education, knew that she would be expected to "do things." Her father had given her time to unpack her trunks, to call on her few relatives and the intimate family friends and to recover her equilibrium, so to speak. Now, when he sent her to join him in the library, she knew what his question would be. Nor was her surprise incorrect.

John Leckie leaned back in his upholstered leather chair and stared frankly at the tall, slender girl, who from some unknown and far distant ancestor had inherited a grace almost patrician.

"Sit down, Margaret. I've spent a good many thousand dollars on your education. What do you expect to do with it?"

"I think I shall take charge of the house," she said calmly, without quaking with fright.

"Take charge of the house?" echoed her father harshly. "I pay Mrs. Jenkins to do that."

"And the whole house looks as if it were handled by a hiredling," replied Margaret, meeting his angry gaze without flinching. "Bought! How! The words are stamped all over the place. We have no home life, no home atmosphere, and I want to make things more pleasant, more like some of the homes in which I have visited. I think that is my forte."

A deep purple flush mounted to Leckie's forehead and his fist came down on the table with a ringing thump.

"So, after all the money I've spent on you, after all the plans I've made for my girls to take a place in the world as good as their father made for himself, now here no bigger ambition than to mend socks and bake pies. That will add to the luster of our family name, won't it?"

Margaret bit her lip. Leckie had spoken as if the name had been handed down through ten generations instead of one.

"Now, see here! That rag doesn't go. You're going to do something! Think of your sister Harriet!"

Margaret did think, and then she almost shuddered. She remembered Harriet's untidy room, some cigarette stubs she had seen lying on the upholstered brass tray. Harriet had said she'd leave the long day in the office she simply had to smoke to quiet her nerves.

"Harriet is a credit to her father. Men down street call her a wonder. And you want me to mend socks! Good heavens! Say, do you think you'll sell goods? I'll start you in a millinery shop—a lot of society women are going in for that sort of thing—or a tea room, if you like. But you've got to do something."

Margaret rose and half timidly laid her arm around her father's thick neck. "Father, dear, I'd so much rather just make tea for you and your few friends. Perhaps we might have more friends."

He hung aside the encircling arm.

"Now, see here, you're not going to sit back on your haunches and do nothing just because I have money. You've got to make a name for yourself at something." He was brutal now in his disappointment. "If you can't do anything else you can teach. I know a man; helped him out of a tight place about three months ago; name is Graydon. He lives somewhere out in Waverchester county and is on the school board. He has pull enough to get you a job at teaching out there, and you can try your hand at that. If you can't earn five hundred a year giving out some of the education that I paid about five thousand a year for, you're a disgrace to the family. I'll see Graydon in the morning. School must open out there in a week or so."

He bent over his desk as if the subject were closed. Margaret paused in the doorway. Her face was very white. Her eyes burned and shined in the gloom of the parlor doorway.

"I'll do what you say, of course, father, but I warn you in advance that I will be a failure. I was not meant for a school teacher."

IS PRESIDENT HUERTA'S POWER WANING?

GENERAL VICTORIANO HUERTA

before a storm there is a calm. These are the conditions in Mexico. Mexico is quiet now, but in the opinion of persons acquainted with her internal affairs trouble is breaking. New men are preparing to rise to power and the power of old men is waning. This is the case of General Victoriano Huerta, who seems to have reached the sunset of his career.

Her father dug back his big head and stared at her.

"Perhaps you think you were born to play a lady, but I will fool you. You don't come from that sort of stock."

And so it happened that Margaret Leckie was placed in charge of district school No. 16. The one redeeming feature of her new position was the long way to and from the depot for she committed daily rather than take board on the small village around which homes of millionaires were clustered. These long walks steadied her nerves for the labor of teaching the unkempt and insolent children of gardeners, coachmen and truck raisers who fell to the lot of school No. 16. She had spoken the truth when she said that she would fall. The power to organize and discipline children in numbers is not given to all, not even to the woman who by the magic talisman of maternal love may develop into a model mother in her own household. To the problems of undisciplined youth and unclean persons and unbroken minds she gave the best energies at her command, but she worked with the sense of failure forever dogging her footsteps.

She was not surprised, therefore, when one particularly dull and lowering afternoon Mr. Graydon's motorcar drew up at the schoolhouse. It was to be an investigation by a committee of one. She had felt it coming ever since Billy Dehob had put red pepper on the stove and school had been dismissed for the afternoon. She rose, very straight and girlish and big eyed, as Homer Graydon opened the door. It was his first visit to the school, and she was surprised to find a clean cut, youngish looking man instead of the side whiskered, portly personage she had somehow pictured this arbiter of her money earning fate to be.

On his feet, dressed before he referred to the Billy Dehob matter, and Homer Graydon had taken measure of the woman before the matter came up for discussion. By this time Margaret was herself once more, and she did not strive to dodge the issue.

"There is no use talking about the matter, Mr. Graydon. I was not put out for a school teacher. I know my limitations, but my father refuses to recognize them. There is only one thing I want to do, and he will not permit that."

She never knew how it happened, but before Homer Graydon left that schoolhouse he knew what her simple ambition encompassed, and he knew just how she would attain them.

The lowering clouds had lifted suddenly. The autumnal colorines of the trees shone in the sunlight, and his own best interests in moments in the gray twilight of his career. He was taking the unsuccessful school teacher to the depot to be retrained from telling her then and there what she had brought into his money grabbing life.

The next day she was at the school, slight, trim, only in novels and magazine stories. Homer Graydon says he knows better. John Leckie first said it was sheer laziness on Margaret's part, but sometimes when he goes to the Graydon home and looks from the rear seat of the motorcar to the white face of the master he wonders if it pays only "to do" things—when you're a woman.

WHAT IS BEING TALKED ABOUT BY THE NATIONS OF EUROPE

Buckingham Palace's New Facade Is To Be "Aged"

King George and Queen Mary Dislike Appearance of Brand New Building and Stone Work Will Be Made to Look Slightly Weather Worn.

LITTLE PRINCE JOHN GLAD HE IS NOT A GIRL

(Special Dispatch.) London, June 28. The little Prince takes an intelligent interest in the masonry, and a few days ago, when walking with his nurse in the Green Park, in a fit of enthusiasm he shouted at the pitch of his voice, "Votes for Women!"

The Prince of Wales is getting a fine reputation at Magdalen. Some time ago he was often hunting, when he slipped and fell on a sharp stone, cutting his knee. The wound bled profusely. He pulled out a handkerchief, bound it round the wound and was off again like a shot.

Undergraduates sit in the dining room of their college in the order that they take up their abode in the house. The Prince has his place on the bench in a decidedly pleasant position for these warm evenings; but it must have been far from agreeable during the spring and winter, for it is close by the door, and the draught is perceptible even in summer.

It is a subject of remark how many children of prominent society women are appearing nowadays in the Park without hats or bonnets of any description; and another thing to be noticed with regard to the children is the simplicity of the materials used for the little garments. Many society mothers dress their children in white embroidery frocks, such as their grandmothers made in bygone days, and the year round, the only difference being the addition of a coat in cold weather, but still with the little heads unprotected in any way.

Mrs. Winston Churchill is largely responsible for the "bareheaded" fashion, she is considered quite an authority upon the clothing and upbringing of children.

ATHLETIC GIRL THE MOST MORAL

(Special Dispatch.) London, June 28.

BOTH gymnasium instructors and physicians in London are interested in what Dr. Dudley A. Sargent, director of athletics at Harvard University, has been saying regarding the morals of the modern athletic girl.

Dr. Sargent is reported as having said: "The social evils are the result of life's forces being turned into wrong channels. The eternal longing to externalize oneself—that is, to find an outlet for the emotions—is an inherent one in human nature. The basic impulse may find natural healthy expression in athletics, or it may find some sinister form."

Mr. Stempel, of Stempel's Gymnasium, in Albany street, Regent's Park, on reading this, said he was a firm believer in the efficacy of athletics from the moral standpoint.

"My personal experience," he said, "is that girls who go in for athletics have a far higher moral standard than girls who do not. Primarily, of course, the health is very greatly improved by athletics, and a girl gets into such a good healthy condition that there is not the likelihood of her giving way to her emotions."

"I am heart and soul with athletics," he is heard to say, "but I believe that if they are taken moderately and not overdone. Athletics offer the girl who is burdened into womanhood the opportunity to acquire not only a sound, healthy body, but a moral and mental equipoise which I believe can be acquired in no other way."

"I certainly believe that the athletic girl is less liable to succumb to temptation than her sister who does not go in for athletics. Woman is more emotional than man, and with her sex attraction is apt to be more blind. It is certain that the athletic tendencies are less liable to go astray. This is because they find in athletics a safe outlet for the emotions. It would seem to be nature's own scheme for preserving the moral balance."

"The sports girl will also be a good friend to the nation, warding off the onslaughts of disease."

Interesting Exhibits in Art Galleries of London

Water Colors and Oil Sketches of Mlle. Mercier, at Walker's, Have Attracted Attention of Queen Alexandra and Princess Victoria—Mrs. Richard Speaight Showing Miniatures.

FOREIGN PAINTINGS AT THE FINE ARTS SOCIETY

(Special Dispatch.) London, June 28.

QUEEN Alexandra and Princess Victoria have been showing deep interest in the work of Mlle. Ruth Mercier, Sociétaire de la Société Nationale des Beaux Arts, who is now exhibiting water colors and oil sketches at Walker's gallery, No. 118 New Bond street.

Her large water colors of "Pink Roses," "Wreath of White Roses" and "Roses and Violets" give a remarkable impression of power and freedom. The flowers are beautifully arranged but without any appearance of conventional design and are painted with a broad, flowing touch that preserves their freshness and suggests their fragrance.

The best of her landscapes are those in which flowers in sunlight take a principal part, such as "Springtime Near Cannes," "Ameubons in the Fields" and "Cannes in Summer."

Mrs. Richard Speaight, who has been a regular exhibitor at the Royal Academy since 1888 and at the Paris Salon since 1898, is holding a very attractive exhibition of about a hundred miniatures at Messrs. Speaight's galleries, No. 15 New Bond street, which is attracting society. Many of the miniatures, which cover a period of ten or twelve years, have been lent by their owners. They include portraits of several members of the royal family. The work of Mrs. Speaight is charming and full of character.

"Her Majesty the Queen" is painted three-quarter length, in a mauve evening dress, with a collar of pearls. It is an excellent likeness. Other royal portraits are those of "H. R. H. Prince George of Wales," in a white sailor suit; "H. S. H. Prince Rupert of Teck," and "H. S. H. Princess Mary of Teck."

All her portraits of children are particularly happy, such as "The Viscount Wenderover, Son of the Marquis of Lincolnshire," in a scarlet coat on a balcony; "Penrhyn, Son of L. Godfrey Turner, Esq.," a three-quarter length in cricketer's flannels and a blue belt matching the eyes; "A Young Briton," barefooted, with his hand in his knickerbocker pockets, and "H. R. H. Prince Wilhelm of Prussia," in a white suit, curled up in a big wooden chair. The late Dowager Marchioness of Ormonde is an excellent study of an elderly lady.

At the galleries of the Fine Art Society, No. 148 New Bond street, there is an exhibition of Spanish, Italian and other pictures by Mr. Wilfred G. von Glehn and of portrait drawings by Mrs. Jane Emmet von Glehn. The former are very good examples of the bold, direct painting, particularly of sunlit subjects, that our association with Mr. John Sargent.

Force of illusion seems to be his aim, and it is well achieved in such pictures as "A Spanish Farm-Granada," with figures in shade under a pergola hung with purple grapes; "Girls Spinning Outside a Court-Granada," "Spanish Gold," an untidy courtyard with brilliant sunlight striking through yellow leaves upon the white wall of a building, and "In the Loggia," with women and girls gossiping in the shade.

Mrs. Von Glehn's portrait drawings are mostly in crayon. They are good likenesses, Mr. Gerald du Maurier, Mr. Percy Grainger, the pianist; Lady Richmond and the Viscountess Acheson being among the most successful.

Early Reference to Hospice Dogs

BARRY V.

Writer in 1544 Pays Tribute to Barry, Who Saved More Than Forty Lives.

(Special Dispatch.) London, June 28.

IN relation to the dogs which made the Hospice of St. Bernard famous, and more especially with reference to the great Barry, the English weekly, Our Dogs, publishes the following:—

"The following passage, of the year 1814, contains the first allusion to the little legs of spirits along the dogs' necks with which we are so familiar in Lindber's 'Alpine Mastiffs' and other early pictures.—The dogs of St. Bernard which are employed to find travellers lost in the snow possess a wonderful sagacity—an instinct truly astonishing. Not only do they seek bodies buried deeply beneath an avalanche, but they will seize them by their garments, and, without injury to the unfortunate sufferers, drag them to the convent, or assist them to walk, and loosen the little bottles of wine which they always bear tied round their necks for such purposes.' (Alpine Sketches compiled in a Short Tour Through Parts of Savoy, Switzerland and Germany during the summer of 1814. By a member of the University of Oxford, 8vo., 1814, p. 274.)

LONG TERMS OF SERVICE.

(Special Dispatch.) London, June 28.

HERE'S a record for laborers with long years of service that any cousin across the Atlantic would probably have difficulty matching. Prizes were offered by the Huntingdonshire Agricultural Society with these results:—

In a class where age was unlimited, first honors were awarded to John Isky, aged sixty-nine, with an intermittent service of fifty-four years in Lord de Rains's family; second being William Wilson, seventy-one, with fifty-three years' service with Mr. W. Braven, of Leighton; and third to Edward Hayden, eighty-two, for forty-nine years with Mr. Thomas C. Ashcroft, of Foston. The first prize was under forty-five years of age was awarded to Wallace Uffindell, thirty-five years with Mr. Edwin Norman, and second to John Pyswell, thirty-nine, for twenty-nine years on the farm of Mr. H. Crumfield, of Buckden.

Misapplied Philosophy.

Washington Star—"Mike," said Fido, King Pete, "what would you do if you was rich?"

"I'd lead a life of ease," replied Mean, deriding Mike.

"No, you wouldn't. You'd be a tight polo or golf or tennis player, or you'd be a millionaire. A life of ease ain't worth a cent, but work in disgrace."

HOME OFFICE COMMITTEE RECOMMENDS IMPORTANT CHANGES IN JURY SYSTEM

(Special Dispatch.) London, June 28.

THE Home Office Departmental Committee's report recommending many important amendments in the law and practice governing the jury system is creating a lot of discussion.

The majority of the committee desired to retain the existing division of juries into special and common, with, however, important changes in the qualifications in both cases. The minority recommended the abolition of the special jury, holding that it is "a class institution which is very obnoxious to the working classes."

The retention of the special jury on the ground that their reform proposals will meet the most important objections to that tribunal was defeated by the majority. The majority believed that under these proposals special juries will be used much less frequently, that the suggested revision of qualifications will ensure a far wider choice of jurors and that the adoption of some uniform and purely mechanical system of selection will tend to secure impartiality.

The recommendations of the majority are directed to extending the jury list, while providing against the infliction of hardship on individuals. It is proposed that those liable to serve should include directors of public companies, occupiers of flats, and husbands of women who are rated.

Other important changes recommended are:—

That the age of exemption from service should be raised from sixty to sixty-five; that jurymen should not be summoned more than once in three years; that in the event of the default of a member of a jury the case should proceed with only eleven jurymen; and that the State should provide the out-of-pocket expenses of jurors.

The majority report was much struck by the paper opinion that clearly prevails in certain quarters with respect to the capacity of the modern special jury. "There appears to be a widespread feeling," said the special jury panel usually includes an undue proportion of the victualers; in consequence no doubt of the higher rateable value assigned to licensed premises as compared with that of other property, and it would also seem the title qualifications of 'banker, merchant or esquire' have now become so meaningless as to warrant in the bestowal of the rank of special juror on a variety of small tradesmen and others, for whom it is hardly probable that it was originally intended."

In the opinion of the minority, four reforms of the jury system are urgently needed.—The abolition of the special jury; the basing of the jury list in the Parliamentary register; the appointment of a permanent official—not a solicitor in private practice—as a summoner of all juries, and the selection of jurors from the jury list by some automatic system.

"The special jury is a class institution which is very obnoxious to the working classes," says the report. "Its retention is hardly defended by any one except for commercial cases, and these are now largely tried by judges alone. It is, in our opinion, opposed to the whole idea of the jury system, namely, trial by a body representing the public, and opposed also to the general democratic tendencies of the times. One class of jury, drawn indiscriminately from a list including all classes, would, in our view, be as competent a jury as could be empanelled, both in intelligence and representative character, and it would have the supreme virtue of being free from all suspicion of class bias, and, as already stated, civil and criminal juries would be selected from the same register."

"Our chairman, Lord Mersey, has authorized us to say that by the strongest feeling in the profession in favor of its retention he would have supported the suggestion that the special jury should be abolished."

Except on the points mentioned the minority endorse the majority's conclusions.

The London police costs just under £15,000,000 a year. The income, according to statistics just issued, was a little over £12,500,000 more. Of this London ratepayers bear the burden. The contribution from the rates exceeding £7,000,000. Parliament granting only £500,000 toward national services rendered by the metropolitan police.

It is possible for any one to live a policeman, and the secret to which members of this force are borrowed for private purposes is indicated by the receipt of £3,700 from private companies, institutions and private individuals who during the year "rented" policemen. Thus the policing of Windsor Castle brought in a revenue of £2,100, while policemen sent to St. James' Palace earned £1,500. The British Museum had to pay £2,750. The policemen in the House of Parliament cost £60,000. Other of these semi-private police forces are maintained at Kensington Palace, £2,300; King Gardens, £1,500; National Gallery, £2,200; Post Office, £15,000; Tower of London, £1,155; the Mint, £10,000; and War Office military stations, £25,000.

There are more than twenty thousand members of the force, which includes a chief constable, thirty-three superintendents, 1,000 sergeants and 17,000 constables.

Loss of Dogs Blow to Abdul Hamid

LEDIN

The Kindlier Side of the Deposed Sultan is Revealed by a Noted Veterinary.

(Special Dispatch.) London, June 28.

ABDUL HAMID was a "lovable man" in the opinion of Dr. Heinrich Schaefer, an Austrian and noted veterinary surgeon who for eighteen years was in almost daily association with him. The deposed Sultan's love of animals, especially of dogs, made a deep impression on Dr. Schaefer, and in an interview with our correspondent pays the following tribute to the erstwhile ruler of Turkey:—

"You will admit that a dog knows a good man. Well, Abdul Hamid's dogs never knew anything about the Armenian massacres, and they would have eaten up Mr. Gladstone if they had had a chance. I never have seen such mutual affection. They knew when he was coming, and when Abdul Hamid got tired of all the sycophancy and insincere flattery of his courtiers and flunkys he would go down to the kennels with me. There he knew he was loved for himself and that it was not because he was the Sultan that those dogs wagged their tails."

"When a European sovereign wanted anything out of Abdul Hamid he sent him a dog. Emperor William, I believe, used to sit up nights thinking what next he could find to send to Constantinople when that Bagdad Railway concession was hanging fire. To offset the Kaiser's gift there would come a gift from London. His favorite collie Crisp was given to him by Queen Victoria, and Ledin was his last present from King Edward. The dogs were all named, and Abdul Hamid knew every one of them."

"It was a sad day for me when they came up there and made the Sultan abdicate, but it was a sadder day for his animals. And, do you know, our street dogs would never have been sent to that island if the Young Turks had not overthrown Abdul Hamid? Had they suggested such a thing to him he would have sent them there instead. It would have been better for the country."

"I believe you are not interviewing me for my political opinions. You want to know what became of those animals. Most of the domestic animals except the cats—how the present Sultan hates cats—were preserved. The wild animals died or were stolen. The rascals at the Sultan's side, the best of the dogs and other animals, I nearly lost my life up there when they had an auction sale."

"Did Abdul Hamid take many of his animals to Salonica with him? Why did not you ask me if he took any? The worst cruelty of the Young Turks was to deprive him of his dogs. Members of his family managed to smuggle some to him, but they were killed. When he came back last autumn to Beylerbey I tried to get into communication with him and to find out if he had with him any of those dogs who were like my own children. I failed. But one day I was summoned to the palace of his daughter, Nalé Sultana, at Ortakoy, which is just opposite Beylerbey, and there I found one of my pets. It had been sent across for me to treat. Then I learned that Abdul Hamid had, of all his animals, only this one dog, one cat and two oxen. If they are trying to punish him the Young Turks have found the right way."

SEARCHERS FOR POET LAUREATE NOT KEEN

(Special Dispatch.) London, June 28.

THE death of Mr. Alfred Austin has left the poet laureateship vacant, and literary London is in search of a bard to fill the place occupied not only by Wordsworth and Tennyson, but by some of the hardest singers and hoarsest nightingales England has known. Several names are mentioned, among them vigorous though not mute Miltons who enjoy purely suburban reputations.

There is a strong party in favor of a lyric named Davies, another in favor of one named Newbolt and another for Mr. Maurice Hewlett. Mr. Stephen Phillips is excluded because of his indiscretions and Mr. William Watson because of his indiscretions. Mr. Rudyard Kipling will accept such withered and derided laurels.

Real lovers of poetry sincerely hope that the poet will not be filled at all, so that he may be spared the vexation of being forced to read on royal birthdays some metre and worse matter.
