No Sign of Dropsy And No "Key-Turns" In Taking "FRUIT-A-LIVES"

MATTIE WARREN Port Robinson, Ont., July 8th, 1915. "We have used 'Fruit-a-lives' in our house for over three years and have always found them a good medicine. Our little girl, Mattie, was troubled with Kidney Disease. The Doctor said she was threatened with Dropsy, Her limbs and body were all swollen, and we began to think she could not live. Finally, we decided to try 'Fruit-a-lives'. She began to show improvement at once, and had given her a few tablets. In a short time, the swelling had all gone down and her flesh began to look more natural. Now she is the healthiest one in the family and has no signs of the old ailment. We can not say too much for 'Fruit-a-lives' and would never be without them."

Mechanical Phase of Dentistry New Course Provided for Disabled Soldiers

Dental mechanics is one of the little known trades in which returned men are manifesting an interest when they return to Canada incapacitated for their former occupations. The vocational trainers of the Military Hospitals Commission have been called upon to make provision for their re-education courses.

The work requires mechanical skill and a fine eye for detail and holds, through its demands for fine work and ingenuity, an unusual interest for the able man who has been incapacitated for heavier work.

In France a school of dental mechanics has been established for disabled soldiers by Dr. Quintero of Lyons, and a large class of veterans is under instruction, but the Military Hospitals Commission has made arrangements for Canadian men to take the work in established schools here. The work pays well and a skillful man can become an efficient workman in eight months.

The course has been granted to several soldiers one a Montreal man who before he enlisted was a very successful salesman, drawing a good salary. He suffers now from an injured hip and cannot walk without pain. He must have work at which he can sit.

Enquiry into his past showed that his father had been an inventor and that he too inherited a certain ingenuity with mechanical things. He had demonstrated this in helping the dental officer on active service, and so an eight months' course was granted him by the government. His progress in the first month gives promise of great success.

MacBride For Mayor

In response to a petition signed by over 1200 electors, I felt that it was my duty as a citizen to enter the contest for Mayor. I have lived in Brantford over eighteen years, and have always taken an active part in every move for progress.

THE COAL QUESTION.

I do not intend to enter into a prolonged discussion on this matter. The evidence is abundant to prove that our Committee could have secured all the coal required by our citizens, had we not been continually blocked by certain dealers and their Aldermanic friends. These dealers can slander me all they wish. The evidence is on the file and in the Minute Book at the City Hall, and they cannot get around it. The fact of the matter is that they were more interested in "profits" than in giving service to the people. They had arranged to buy coal at the mine for about $4.40 per standard ton, and while they could have got plenty at about $5.30 per ton, they kept waiting for deliveries on the $4.40 basis until it was late in the season. They have "humbugged" the citizens since last March. They would not buy it themselves in the open market and they prevented the City buying it. We have right here a good example of the "dog in the manger" fable.

If elected, I will prove to the citizens that we CAN get all the coal we require, and will see that no such shortage as the present is allowed to occur again.

I will also get some "action" on that Gas question. The others have all "fondled" it without result. I will either get pure gas, or tell the people the actual facts of the matter.

During my term as Alderman I have never shirked my responsibility and have taken an active part in all matters coming before the Board. It is impossible to please every person—but even those with whom I was obliged to differ on some questions, will concede that they 'always knew where to find me'—and that I took an open, honest, above-board position on all matters.

I do not claim to be possessed of extraordinary ability—neither have I an unkind word for any of my opponents.

If you feel that my services and experience will be to the advantage of the city, I shall appreciate your vote and influence.

Sincerely
M. M. MacBRIDE.

By Courier Leased Wire

Washington, Jan. 4.—President Wilson today before congress, assembled in joint session, his recommendations for carrying out government operation of railroads. Bills to carry out the President's ideas already have been prepared under the supervision of the Department of Justice and were immediately introduced with plans for prompt consideration in both House and Senate.

To guarantee proper returns to the roads during the period of government operation, the President recommended that Congress provide compensation at the rate of the same net operating income as the roads have received for the three preceding financial years. To provide for proper maintenance of the roads and their return to owners in the same order as the government takes them over, the President recommended legislation to authorize their upkeep and betterment during the period of federal operation. Legislation to this effect is all contained in the administration bills which would appropriate a $500,000,000 fund for government operation.

Only by government operation, the president told congress, could the unity necessary to the country be obtained and he added that existing organizations of the railroads should be disturbed as little as possible. The President laid special stress on the guarantees to the roads and their stockholders. He spoke in full as follows:

"Gentlemen of the Congress: I have asked the privilege of addressing you in order to report that on the 28th of December last, during the recess of congress, acting through the Secretary of War and under the authority conferred on me by the act of Congress approved August 29, 1916, I took possession and assumed control of the railway lines of the country and the systems of water transportation under their control. This step seemed to be imperatively necessary in the interest of the public welfare, in the presence of the great tasks of war with which we are now dealing. As our experience develops difficulties and makes it clear what they are, I have deemed it my duty to remove these difficulties wherever I have the legal power to do so. To assume control of the vast and varied systems of the country is, I realize a very great responsibility, but to fail to do so in the existing circumstances would have been a much greater. I assumed the less responsibility rather than the weightier. I am speaking in the mind of all thoughtful Americans, when I say that it is our duty to do everything that it is necessary to do to secure the complete mobilization of the whole resources of America by as rapid and effective a means as can be found. Transportation supplies all the arteries of mobilization. Unless it be under a single and unified direction, the whole process of the nation's action is embarrassed.

"It was in the true spirit of America, and it was right, that we should first try to effect the necessary unification under the voluntary action of those who were in charge of the great railway properties, and we did try it. The directors of the railways responded to the necessary and generous. The group of railway executives who were charged with the task of actual co-ordination and general direction performed their difficult duties with patriotic zeal and marked ability, as was to have been expected, and did, I believe, everything that it was possible for them to do in the circumstances. If I have taken the task out of their hands, it has not been because of any dereliction or failure on their part, but only because there were some things which the Government can do and private management cannot. We shall continue to value most highly the advice and assistance of these gentlemen and I am sure we shall not find them withholding it.

"It had become unmistakably plain that only under government administration can the entire equipment of the several systems of transportation be fully and unreservedly thrown into a common service without injurious discrimination against particular properties. Only under government administration can absolutely unrestricted and unembarrassed common use be made of all tracks, terminals, terminal facilities and equipment of every kind. Only under that authority can new terminals be constructed and developed without regard to the requirement or limitations of particular roads. But under government administration all these things will be possible—not instantaneously, but as fast as practical difficulties, which cannot be merely conjured away, give way before the new management.

"The common administration will be carried out with as little disturbance of the present operating organizations and personnel of the railways as possible. Nothing will be altered or disturbed which it is not necessary to disturb. We are serving the public interest and safeguarding the public safety, but we are also respectful of the interests of those by whom the great properties are owned and glad to avail ourselves of the experience and trained ability of those who have been managing them. It is necessary that the transportation of troops and of war materials of food and fuel, and of everything that is necessary for the full mobilization of the energies and resources of the country, should be first considered, but it is clearly in the public interest also that the ordinary activities and the normal industrial and commercial life of the country should be interfered with and displaced as little as possible, and the public may rest assured that the interest and service of the private shipper will be as carefully served and safeguarded as it is possible to serve and safeguard it in the present extraordinary circumstances.

"While the present authority of the executive suffices for all purposes of administration and while, of course, all private interests must for the present give way to the public necessity it is, I am sure you will agree with me, right and necessary that the owners and creditors of the railways, the holders of their stock and bonds, should receive from the Government an unqualified guarantee that their properties will be maintained throughout the period of federal control in as good repair and as complete equipment as at present. Ordinary investments will receive under federal management such compensation as is equitable and just alike to their owners and to the general public. I would suggest that the several railways should be justly and fairly protected and that the large financial operations every year necessary in connection with the maintenance, operation and development of the roads, should during the period of the war be wisely related to the financial operations of the Government. Our first duty is, of course, to conserve the common interest and the common safety and to make

AT THE BRANT

MONDAY, TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY

MARKETS

Another advance has been recorded in the price of laundry soaps to the extent of 60¢ per case. This makes the second advance within the past three weeks. Owing to the shortage of fats and oils there is a strong market for this class of soap. One refiner has again reduced the price of sugar 30¢ per hundred. Starches and cornstarch have declined 1¢ per pound. Corn syrup is also down in price.

Package rolled oats have not yet advanced in price, but a steady upward tendency in bulk rolled oats. Manufacturers of package rolled oats will not accept contracts on the present price basis as they assert that they would be losing money if they did. Only immediate needs in package oats are being met at the present time. Further advances were recorded in bulk rolled oats and oatmeal. Cornmeal made a big advance due to a chain of circumstances, namely, poor quality of corn, limited supplies of corn available and lack of transportation to bring the grain forward once it is secured in the United States markets. Hominy grits and pearl hominy also made slight advances during the week. No announcement has been made with respect to higher prices on flour. One milling concern advanced the price of Ontario flour during the week.

Other advances recorded during the week include those on sal soda and cleanser. Creamery butter was in strong market during the week and advances were recorded in this commodity. Good supplies of margarine from the United States are now coming into the market but its presence as yet has had no weakening effect on creamery butter, although it has affected the price of dairy butter toward lower levels. There was a firmer tendency in a number of provision lines. Some of the fish show an upward tendency. Fish consumption is reported to be on the increase. Now that stock-taking is about completed wholesalers are looking forward with confidence to the new year's business.—Canadian Grocer.

certain that nothing stands in the way of the successful prosecution of the great war for liberty and justice, but it is an obligation of public conscience and of public honor that the private interests we disturb should be kept safe from unjust injury and it is of the utmost consequence to the Government itself that all great financial operations should be stabilized and coordinated with the financial operations of the Government. No borrowings should run athwart the borrowings of the federal treasury and no fundamental interests and values should be unnecessarily impaired. In the hands of many thousands of small investors in the country, as well as in national banks, in insurance companies, in savings banks, in trust companies, in financial agencies of every kind railway securities, the sum total of which runs up to some ten or eleven thousand millions, constitute a vital part of the structure of credit and the unquestioned solidity of that structure must be maintained.

MURDERED BY MANIAC

By Courier Leased Wire
Montreal, O. Jan. 4.—Dr. Chas. Rauschkolb, 56 years old, was found murdered in his office early to-day. Henry Lions, 30, declared by police to be violently insane, was arrested in the physician's office immediately after sounds of fighting were heard and confessed. A police statement says that he killed the physician because Dr. Rauschkolb had been treating him and "had him under his influence." The victim had been choked, beaten over the head with a chair and a large glass bottle, part of which were used to cut the physician's throat. When Lions was taken into custody, he was cutting his wrists with a piece of glass.

LEAGUE'S FATE IN BALANCE

Montreal, Jan. 3.—The fate of the new National Hockey League is again hanging in the balance. Officials of some of the clubs admit that they have received letters from the Wanderer directors demanding that certain promises be lived up to, that were made when the new league was formed.

Although these letters contain no threat, it might be very possible that unless these promises are made good at once, Wanderers might withdraw from the league.

NO WAR CLAIMS

By Courier Leased Wire.
New York, Jan. 3.—No "war clause" whereby the owners would be relieved of their contractual obligations in the event the national ensign is not struck, is contained in the contracts sent to players reserved by the New York National League club. It was learned today. The officials of the club believe, according to Secretary John B. Fiedler, that the interests of the club owners are adequately protected by the present ten day clause.

Before Judge Reynolds at Brantford, George Mason, proprietor of the Prescott Journal, charged with vilifying and knowingly publishing false news in regard to the M.E.A. was acquitted.

THE SITUATION.

It is announced that there is a disposition in London to view the position of affairs in Russia with a good deal more optimism. The Muscovites, whose new-found liberty went to their heads, have lately been tossing about on such a series of cross currents that neither the outside world nor they themselves could make out where they were at. However, the blatant attitude of the Huns in connection with peace terms has served to give them a jolt which it is to be hoped will serve to shake a little common sense into them and make them realize the dark nature of the abyss upon the edge of which they have been standing, with the Hohenzollern outfit only too anxious to give them a push over. A despatch from Petrograd now announces that they are again turning to thoughts of war, and that from the armies at the front there have come assurances that the men are again ready to fight. It is to be most devoutly hoped that the awakening will have practical results for the fact that the enemy has lately been so free to move men and munitions from the Eastern front is a very serious one indeed. On the Western front the Germans continue numerous raiding tactics, and there is still the talk of the launching of a tremendous offensive as soon as the weather makes such a thing practicable. Gen. Haig announces a slight advance of the British line south of Lens. This is where the Canadians are again fighting. The Military Service Act continues to work very smoothly and those who have come under its operation are responding with cheerful spirit and in a manly way. They deserve thoroughly well of all of us.

ON YOUR KNEES.

To-morrow, (Sunday) by request of the King, will be observed as a special day of prayer throughout the Empire on behalf of the success of the righteous cause of the Allies in the present great struggle. To those who believe in the power of intercession before the throne of the Almighty, and thank God practically all do in their heart of hearts, the summons is one which will meet with a hearty and ready response. Let each one, in all reverence get down upon their knees.

LABOR AND THE WAR.

The unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor in the States have promptly agreed to co-operate with the plan of Washington to assign working forces of the country to the jobs where the Government most needs them. In fact, thousands of skilled workmen there have already enrolled themselves on a reserve list, whose members are pledged to do willing industrial service, and conscription of labor, once talked of, is now regarded as having been rendered entirely unnecessary because of the splendid voluntary response. In like spirit, Samuel Gompers, the grand old man of labor across the border, and president of the American Federation, in a New Year's message issued to his following, strongly emphasized the obligations which rested upon all of them in connection with the war and dwelt upon the importance of seeing to it that the spirit and methods of democracy were retained at home while the country was fighting to help establish them on the European battlefield. "War means victory for our cause or danger to the very existence of our nation. With our nation at stake, individuals cannot interpose opposition to the war—a war declared by the will of the nation's representatives. Under the exigencies of war, opposition to the war declared by constituted authority becomes treason. The fighting and the concrete issues of the war are so far removed from the people of our country that not all of our citizens have a full understanding of the issues involved. An understanding of the principles of autocratic force, which the central powers desire to substitute for the real principles of freedom, makes clear to all citizens of this republic the effect of our possible defeat upon their own lives and activities."

In the Old Land the industrial classes have also given cordial cooperation in men and work and in Canada likewise they are thoroughly well represented in both respects. It is true that in the recent electoral contest in this Dominion there were quite a few labor candidates in opposition to the Union Government, but even in labor centres they failed of success, mainly because their co-workers felt that the big and vital issues at stake made opposition inopportune. As the final outcome of the hostilities in which they have borne so large a part, there can be no question that industrial conditions will have to be re-arranged to the great benefit of all classes of workers.

ST. PAUL'S AVENUE BY-LAW AND FOOD AND FUEL REFERENDUM

On Monday next the people of this city will be called upon to vote upon the two above mentioned measures. The sub-way under the Grand Trunk tracks at St. Paul's Ave. is something which all thinking people must realize as a necessity. The street, for many reasons, should never have been closed in the first place. Some people entertain the idea that it was part and parcel of the city securing the Grand Trunk main line, but that is not the case—the short-sighted sanction to the railway took place after the main line issue had been settled. As it is, nothing remains but a most dangerous crossing for foot passengers, and vehicular traffic has to use roundabout methods in order to get to the Terrace Hill district, while a most important highway into the city from a large country section is also blocked. Another menacing feature is that a direct route to the general hospital, in case of fire, is absolutely cut off, and that also is a matter which should deeply concern all citizens. The amount asked is $40,000—the sum decided upon by the Dominion Railway Board as the city's share—and the proposed expenditure is not to take place until after the war. Property holders should most decidedly vote for this measure. The food and fuel enactment will be decided by the voice of all the voters. The question to be answered is as follows:—"Are you in favor of the Municipality entering into the purchase and sale of fuel in cases of emergency?" The proposal is in the nature of a safeguard, and if adopted, would enable the municipality to enter on either of those things on behalf of the general advantage. The Courier believes that the answer in the affirmative should and will be emphatic.

THE COAL SHORTAGE.

Lack of fuel this winter has been most intensely felt. It is not a local condition, but one which obtains all over this continent. In this regard a lot of flapdoodle has been uttered as to what this, that, or the other man could do if he only had the chance. Anybody would imagine from such talk that coal could be turned on in the same way as a waterworks supply and that somebody had smashed the tap with a monkey wrench. As we all know, coal is not a fluid commodity, and it is bulky to mine and bulky to transport, generally over long hauls. The main trouble has been lack of transportation, chiefly owing to the congestion of U. S. railways in connection with the handling of war produce and munitions for the warring nations. Under state control it is hoped to remedy this congestion. The fact should be borne in mind that our neighbors have been suffering as much and in some cases more than ourselves, and in the New England States for instance they have been tearing down fences in order to keep stoves and furnaces going. The remedy cannot come through any one man anywhere. The only relief it will be possible to achieve is by the co-ordinated effort of the United States and Canadian authorities and plans to this end are now under way.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

If Bowby should win on Monday, he might as well take the Mayor's chair home with him and make it a permanent feature of the chimney corner.

The modern rendition is "King Coal was a chary old soul."

The National Party in Australia has resolved by a vote of 63 to 2, to ask Premier Hughes to retain the leadership. He is the man for the job, all right.

The fact that potatoes are of such importance as to warrant the Ontario government in taking legislative action to make the eyes of the tubers take on that haughty stare.

The authorities in the States are going to stop rice throwing at weddings in order to conserve the supply. This is a hard knock for the thrifty brides who would otherwise save the grains for the first pudding.

The edict has gone forth that in the interests of economy, less cloth is to be used in the making of men's clothes. If they become reduced in a like ratio with those of the fair sex, it will be easier than ever to scrape a scant acquaintance.

Until the facts are known, it would be premature to make detailed comment upon the circumstance that the name of Col. Harry Cockshutt did not officially go before the soldiers overseas, if the outcome leads to his losing the seat, there should certainly be another election.

To the Editor

Dear Sir—Perhaps an explanation is due the public in reference to the suggested platform of the Citizenship Committee of the local Council of Women, regarding the request that a Protestant should be appointed to fill the vacancy on the Library staff. The committee had been informed that there was already one Catholic employed, but if such is not the case the clause in question will doubtless not meet with the approval of the Local Council of Women. The women of the committee are broad-minded enough and liberal enough to realize that all classes of the community have an interest in our Public Library, but as a Catholic young lady had formerly filled the position they thought that "turn about is fair play." Referring to our second clause some married women are now on the municipal list, but by no means all, and those who are not on the list will have to pay for their own homes or tenants with their husbands, or on claim of income earned by keeping house. Trusting you will kindly insert above explanation, signed on behalf of the executive of the Citizenship Committee. F. I. BALLACHEY, Secretary.

A PROTEST.

Dear Sir—May I trespass on your time to say a few words with regard to the Woman's League? That any class of people should band themselves together, presumably for the benefit of the city, and then discriminate for or against any religion, is a shock to their neighbors and how at liberty Catholics pay their taxes the same as others, they also contribute to all general charities, without having a say in the distribution, they also have peaceably asked you. When Christ was asked which was the greater of the commandments, he said "First thou shalt love the Lord thy God with thy whole heart, and with all thy mind." The second is like to this, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." When asked "Who is my neighbor?" He replied, "A man-kind of every description without any distinction of persons." This is the Catholic religion. Will someone kindly explain why should we be crushed or debared from anything? A CATHOLIC WOMAN.

AN ALLEGED BOAST

Dear Sir—In reply to the comment of the Editor of the Expositor in the city news, I wish to say that an investigation into the assessment department of this city. As the assessors have done all in their power to keep me out of the field of aldermen for Ward 4 for $3,300 means of padding and bungling, the assessment roll I wish to see to the Editor of the Expositor and the rate-payers of our city that my assessment should be $2,300 on Number 12 Queen street, which, through the assessors bungling, was only on the assessment roll for $3,150. Then I should have been assessed for $3,200 on No. 127 Chatham St., my name has been left off entirely, and also on the last assessment rolls for my name should have appeared for other property in Ward 4 for $3,300 but was omitted; some more bungling, or was it done on purpose? I have been informed that one of the city assessors boasted that he would keep me out of the field in Ward 4; surely it looks as if it had been done on purpose. Owing to these errors, I was forced to make a special declaration to the city solicitor as to my qualifications as called for in the statutes for the finish, and will guarantee to the electors that if I am elected, the assessment department of Brantford will receive a waking up. Thanking you for this space, I remain, Yours respectfully, J. T. SLOAN.

MR. BOLWBY ON THE COAL QUESTION If the city last summer were to go into an emergency supply it would require money to do so. The only way the city could procure money for that purpose was to submit a money by-law to the property owners to procure the money. Such a by-law was passed by the council on the 1st day of October, 1917, and submitted to the people as soon as it legally could be, all property owners having the right to vote thereon. The by-law was defeated. Thus the matter ended. The public will be able to judge Mr. Ald. MacBride at his true worth and how much truth there is behind his statements. I have not sought to make this question a stalking horse for this election. As to the five cent charge on each order of coal and the chiming up of two pair of stairs. This never had any sympathy from me, as I was not present at the council when the matter was passed on. The last year's council for business came to an end on the 31st December, 1917, and the 1st day of January, 1918, is a holiday. On the 2nd I got busy and the 5 cent order was at once abolished. Also the going up of two flights of stairs and the chiming up of coal are now procurable at the old power house, a comfortable place with no stairs to climb. J. W. BOWLEY, Mayor.

Charges of misconduct, fraud and violation of departmental regulations against Daniel J. Kearney, preventive officers of the Department of Inland Revenue, Montreal, will be inquired into.

THE KING'S PROCLAMATION

THE CALL TO PRAYER

"The world-wide struggle for the triumph of right and liberty is entering upon its last and most difficult phase. The enemy is striving by desperate assault and subtle intrigue to perpetuate the wrongs already committed and stem the tide of free civilization. We have yet to complete the great task to which, more than three years ago, we dedicated ourselves.

"At such a time I would call upon you to devote a special day to prayer that we may have the clear-sightedness and strength necessary to the victory of our cause.

"This victory will be gained only if we steadfastly remember the responsibility which rests upon us, and in a spirit of reverent obedience ask the blessing of Almighty God upon our endeavors. With hearts grateful for the Divine guidance which has led us so far towards our goal, let us seek to be enlightened in our understanding and fortified in our courage in facing the sacrifice we may yet have to make before our work is done.

"I therefore hereby appoint January 6, the first Sunday of the year, to be set aside as a special day of prayer and thanksgiving in all the churches throughout my Dominions, and require that this proclamation be read at the services held on that day."

MY FINAL STATEMENT
 I can only emphasize my request for your vote and help. My qualifications and record are familiar to you, and I trust you will favor me with the high honor of Mayor. If elected I will give active attention to the many serious questions every Canadian city must face.

ALD. JONES FOR MAYOR
GAS QUESTION
 I dealt with the history of this question fairly and dispassionately in my letter of Thursday. Regret that Ald. Dowling should see fit to make an unfair statement about me, namely, that I was absent from many Council meetings. My attendance at Council meetings was above the average, missing only two meetings in the year, unavoidably. I note that Ald. Dowling does not deny that no report from his gas committee was ever submitted to Council. Gas can be purified, all that is required is action to compel it.
VICTORY FOR THE PEOPLE
 I took up with Ald. Bragg, Chairman of Buildings and Grounds Committee the urgent necessity of a ground floor office for fuel distribution and am delighted to learn that he has secured one. I am also pleased that my efforts for the abolition of the tax on coal orders have been successful.
 If elected Mayor I will continue to fight in the interests of the people.
ADVOCATE:
 1. A real fight for pure gas.
 2. Active co-operation between the City Council and other bodies in a sustained campaign for new industries.
 3. Attention and "follow up" in the prosecution of civic movements.
 Born in Brantford with twelve years of municipal experience to my credit, I feel that I can fairly ask the suffrage of my fellow citizens. Polling day Monday, 9 to 5.

J. W. BOWLBY FOR MAYOR
 Your vote and influence is respectfully solicited for J. W. Bowlby as Mayor for 1918. I flatter myself that I can be of service in the many pending serious questions to be determined the ensuing year:
First—The unsettled dispute with the G.T.R. over the St. Pauls Subway.
Secondly—Providing the way for the construction of the Street Railway around Terrace Hill which was first promoted by me years ago and not yet accomplished.
Thirdly—The extension of Clarence street over the canal to the Cockshutt Road as an easy and direct entrance to the city to and from Eagle Place.
Fourthly—Obtaining from the Dominion Government an Order in Council prohibiting the export of at least 50,000 horse power of electric energy now exported to the United States and so urgently needed in Brantford by our factories and elsewhere in Ontario.
And Fifthly—Because there is scarcely an elector who would discharge a faithful servant willing to serve another year to employ an untried man in his place. After what service I have performed it would have been a graceful act to have elected me just once by acclamation.
 Trusting the electors will vote in what they think will be in the highest interest of our beloved Brantford.
J. W. BOWLBY.

To The Electors of the City of Brantford!

As a candidate for the office of Municipal Railway Commissioner, I should like to correct an impression that has gone abroad to some slight extent, that I am opposed to continuing the present service of the Municipal Railway to Paris. For the benefit of those who may have been led to believe this, I wish to say that I am not opposed to the Paris line in any way, as I believe it can be made a profitable section of the Municipal system and should not be disposed of. It is also a source of great convenience to the public at large.

I am also strongly in favor of making the different extensions required to round out and complete our present system just as soon as the Government will release the necessary materials and the money can be produced. My firm impression is that nothing adds more to the welfare of a city, or does more to further its progress than an adequate and up-to-date car service. And if elected, I shall do my utmost to help accomplish this object with the least possible delay, and trust that my experience in railway building may be of service to the people of Brantford.

With best wishes to all for a prosperous New Year, I remain, Respectfully yours

A LITTLE BIT OLD FASHIONED

May Robson, who will be seen at the Grand in her latest melodramatic farce, Friday, Jan. 11, in "A Little Bit Old-Fashioned" is a woman of many-sided talent. Her skill as a comedienne has won columns of praise from the representative critics from coast to coast. Her position in the world of comedy is unquestionably that of the very first rank. She is unequalled in her particular characterization, and she has brought more joy to the theatre-going public than any other star of to-day. Possessed of a radiant personality, sweet voice and gracious presence, she can, by her rare art, convulse her audience with mirth or move them to tears at will. Her delineation of the character of Mrs. John Gordon-Smith in "A Little Bit Old-Fashioned" is conceded by critics to be a flawless performance. She makes the role so human and lovable that it assures an evening of rare entertainment.

THE GRAND

The usual hoodoo of a small audience was right at Manager Whitaker's elbow at the Grand last night, when the problematic play, "Which One Shall I Marry," was presented before an audience which filled perhaps a quarter of the house. "Which One Shall I Marry," is indeed that. It deals with the problem of a young girl, courted by two suitors, and under the guidance of a mysterious stranger, Good Advice, the girl is enabled to peer into the future and to see what her life would be as the wife of each man, before finally making her choice. The production is somewhat reminiscent in style of "Everywoman"

MACBRIDE FOR MAYOR

Most people appreciate a man who has the "courage of his convictions." Were it not for the fact that men differ on many matters, progress would be a dead issue. "Rest is Rust," as Elbert Hubbard used to say. While the Aldermen who composed last year's Council had occasion to differ on many matters I believe the record shows a particularly active year. Personally it has been my lot to be "in the thick" of most of the debates. I have had to "cross swords" with the Mayor and most of the Aldermen on different occasions. While I believe in fighting hard for what, to my judgment is right, I always accord my opponents the same privilege. We certainly would be a decadent race if we could not see "two sides to a question."

I have not an unkind word for any man who differed with me on any question, and believe all will at least give me credit for taking an open and above board stand on all matters. As one of my former opponents puts it, "You always knew where MacBride stood anyway."

In this campaign for the Mayoralty there are four of us who were members of last year's Board. Three have avoided personalities, but for some reason Ald. Jones persists in "throwing mud." In my case he actually questions my right to be a candidate. Well I have lived in Brantford eighteen years and consented to run in response to a petition containing over 1200 names. Has he as good a reason for running? While I have not always agreed with either of my other opponents, I believe they have just as good a right to run as Ald. Jones. They at least were always to be found in their places at the Council when any matters of contention were to be discussed. The records will show that Ald. Jones was "conveniently" absent on many occasions. It was the joke of the Council, and every member will tell you how he 'side-stepped."

Personally I have attended every meeting.

On the Coal question he "straddled the fence." He remained out of the Council on the night of the big debate. Then when he found we had won our first point he was "all for us." Actually came around to our meetings and started to speak in favor, but when the coal dealers began to oppose it he became very non-committal, and at the next Council meeting he turned right over against us.

Then when the Board of Works Committee brought in its report, Ald. Jones was again absent from his seat. Every other Alderman was there, and clearly expressed himself. Not one other man shirked his responsibility. For myself, when the matter first came up, I stated that I had been out of the city and had not had a chance to read the evidence, but at the meeting, when the report was brought up to vote on, I said most emphatically "If the evidence is true, the report should be adopted. If there is any doubt every man is entitled to a square deal." I also said I thought the chief trouble of the department rested with City Engineer Jones—and I still think so. This is the second time we have had a like trouble in the department and it is time to look higher up, or we will probably have more of it. He makes a great fuss about placing radical tickets on sale at convenient places throughout the city. He is no more entitled to credit for this than the man in the moon. Ald Wiley is the man responsible. He moved for it in the Council in last May and on two or three occasions had to chase up the Railway Committee to get action.

Again, when the Food and Fuel Committee came back from the Galt conference we specially asked Ald. Jones and his Committee to co-operate on the matter of deepening Port Dover Harbor. This was his Committee's work, and while we had taken the matter up at Galt, we courteously handed it over to him. Did he do anything? We all remember how every city interested was re-represented—and every person wondered why Brantford was not "on the job." The fact of the matter is that he has sat in Council all year and has never done one single thing to justify his election. Ask any Alderman who sat at the Board. They all know it to be a fact.

My record as an alderman is before you. Present at every meeting. Took an active part on all questions. Never shirked my responsibility.

to carry out the plans for relieving the coal shortage.

P.S. So far as Ald. Jones reference to my nomination in Ward 4 by Capt. Cornelius is concerned, it must be very evident that it is absolutely ridiculous.

So far as I am concerned I have always taken the position that the returned soldiers should be left to exercise their franchise as they saw fit and I have never (and never will) be a party to any scheme tending to exploit our soldiers for election purposes.

Can Ald. Jones say as much?

and similar successes, and while lacking some of the quaint fantasy and spectacular splendor of "Everywoman" it delves deeper into the practical problems of life, both in mansion and a cottage.

REFUSE PASSPORTS
By Courier Leased Wire.
Petrograd, Tuesday, Jan. 1.—Replying to the Russian protest, the German foreign minister, Dr. von Kuehmann, has confirmed Germany's refusal to issue passports to Hugo Haase, George Ledebour and Carl Kaatsky, socialists, who desired to go to Stockholm to attend an official peace conference. Dr. von Kuehmann stated this refusal should not be interpreted as an act in opposition to the movement for peace. The German Government believed, he said, that the progress of peace negotiations might be hindered by an unofficial conference held simultaneously with the official negotiations.

Campaign for Increased Hog Production—Restaurant
Keepers Fined For Not Observing Food Restrictions

Production of Hogs
As a result of co-operation between the Food Controller and the Federal Department of Agriculture, the farmers throughout the Dominion have been informed of the necessity of increasing the production of hogs in Canada, and campaigns have been launched in every province under the direction of the Provincial Department of Agriculture.

Steps have been taken by the Food Controller to conserve breeding stock, as part of the campaign for increased production of food animals.

A committee is engaged in the preparation of a report in regard to licensing of the sale of cereal foods in smaller packages than 20 pounds weight.

Restaurant Keepers Fined Prosecutions have been instituted in a number of cases against restaurant keepers who have failed to comply with the requirements of the Order in Council restricting the use of head and bacon, and requiring that substitutes for white bread be provided in all public eating places. Action is pending in other cases.

Regulation of the price of Western winter-caught fish has been considered by the Food Controller, and a plan prepared. Joint action by the authorities of the United States and Canada is contemplated in order to make it effective.

"Either the stay-at-homes must save so that the soldiers may get their vital needs, or the soldiers must go short so that the stay-at-homes may fatten. You cannot have it both ways and must take your choice," says Lord Northcliffe.

Mr. J. R. Bruce, agent of the Royal Bank of Canada in New York, has been appointed by the Food Controller to represent Canada's interests before the International Sugar Commission which is now sitting at 111 Wall street, New York city.

Food Controller's Duty
Speaking recently in Ottawa, Ven.
Archdeacon Cody of Toronto said that there appeared to be a widespread misunderstanding with regard to the functions of the Food Controller, whose primary duty was not to determine the price of foodstuffs but to see to it that there was a sufficient supply for export.

Hotels Effect Saving Cards have been issued from the Food Controller's office to about 50 of the leading hotels and restaurants throughout Canada with blanks to be filled in, showing the saving effect of the white flour, head and bacon regulations, which went into effect last September. In the case of bacon, incomplete returns show a saving of 39 per cent. over September, 1917, and of 41 per cent. over October, 1917.

Vegetable committee of the Food

vited to visit the United States.

"IT KEPT ME ON PAYROLL," HE SAYS

Cochrane Was on Verge of Quitting Job When He Began Taking Tanlac

"Tanlac has kept me on the payroll, and that's one of my reasons for thinking it the best medicine in the world." William Cochrane who made this statement, was born and reared in Toronto, and has a wide acquaintance. He resides at 429 Erie Terrace and holds a good position with the Dominion Express Company.

"I have never been much on medicines," Mr. Cochrane continued, "but Tanlac is one I can certainly back up. I have never spent money to better advantage in my life than I did when I bought it. A year ago or more I began to notice a tired feeling that I couldn't shake off. Even after coming home at night and lying down it clung to me. Finally I got to where my work would completely exhaust me, and I would come home so tired, and worn-out I could hardly move. All day at my work I felt 'all in,' had no strength and energy and never felt like doing anything. I was advised to stop off and rest up for three or four weeks, but I kept pegging along, thinking
I would get better. Nothing helped me however, and I kept getting weaker all the time."

"I kept reading testimonials of so many who had been helped by Tanlac that I became convinced it was good, so I decided to try it, and I honestly believed it had saved me from a general breakdown. I have no doubt if it hadn't been for Tanlac, I would have been completed in a short while longer to give up my job at least for a while, 'or I tell you I was just about past going when I first began taking it."

Well, six bottles have relieved my completely of that exhausted, half-dead feeling and my general health is better than it has been in over two years. The medicine built me up and put me on my feet, with strength and energy to do my work with all ease. I am now on the job regular every day, feeling fine, and when I hear a man complaining of feeling bad, the first thing I think of is to tell him to try Tanlac.

Tanlac is sold in Brantford at Robert Drug Store, in Paris by

PAINT CANADA'S GLORY.
Sir Edmund Walker, chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Na-here at the time of the monument's erection, the following Canadian artists:

Maurice Cullen, R.C.A., and Char-

Montreal; J. W. Beatty, R.C.A., and G. H. Varley, both of Toronto, are ready to proceed to the front in three weeks to take their part in the important work of commemorating the Canadian army's achievement in France and Flanders, it only needs now to be explained to the public why the machinery is being set in motion to have Canadian artists adequately represented at the front,

Through illness, which confined me to my house,
I find myself unable to stand for Alderman for 1918, as through an error
my nomination was omitted.

I now thank my supporters for the year just closed and wish to state further:

When I entered the council in 1917, my acquaintance with Alderman Dowling was very slight, but I gradually came to the decision that Ald.
Dowling was a most clean-cut and impartial representative of the people and I have used a great deal of pressure on him to run as Mayor—knowing no one who is better qualified or more concerned for our city's welfare.

I particularly ask my supporters in Ward 3 to give their support to Ald.
Dowling for Mayor, as nothing will please me better than to learn of his election.

Acclamations for Majority of Municipal Officers
Through County

(From Our Own Correspondent.)
Simcoe, Jan. 5.—Norfolk municipal elections have simmered down to acclamations in all localities, except townships of Windham and North Walsingham and a partial contest in Simcoe.

Experience here goes to show that any attempt to force an acclamation of the voters to a free expression of the voice of the people results in increasing instead of decreasing election expenditures.

Rev. Lawrence has dropped out for the time being in Charlotteville. The veteran Malcolm Mc-Dowell is again in the running in North Walsingham.

Wm. Walker is still reeve of Dover. The 1917 Council is returned in Woodhouse.

K. M. Dick of Middleton has been given another year.
Sin of Omission.

Another sin of the 1917 Council in Simcoe might be considered by some as the failure of that body to hold a plebiscite on the vexed question of "dogs running at large" in conjunction with Monday's election.

It is the duty of every citizen voter to mark the municipal ballot on Monday. We have been given no opportunity to size up the candidates on the rostrum, there has been no public meeting for the pronouncment of a policy for the conduct of public business. It is a case with many of "ask some one who knows." Find out where the candidates stand on the question of street maintenance, efficiency of fire protection, intras in the hospital question, for interest precedes realization and no doubt the town will shortly receive a nucleus for a hospital fund. Do a little delving in the meantime and get out early to the polls, which open at 9 p.m. and close at 5 p.m. The vote on Monday should be a record of the choice of the people rather than a measure of the opportunists of the candidates.

Teachers at a Premium.
At the regular meeting of the Board of Education held last night, the secretary reported that no reply had been received to the advertisement for a commercial and art teacher in the High School. It was thought that possibly assistance might be secured from the staff of one of the schools reported closed down for lack of fuel.

There was read a letter from Miss Goodland, now in California, tending her resignation after 17 years of service, as it was impossible for her to leave her mother in the latter's critical physical condition.

Mathematical Master Has Exemption
The Secretary reported that Mr.
Butcher's exemption from military service till the end of the academic year had been cut short, to terminate at Easter, that he had attended the sitting of the court and had, after being well mauled, been required to send up the management committee for an interview.

The chairman of the committee added that his party got a real clubbing and were asked to explain why they had not been advertising for months for a teacher, as they had no right to presume that any exemption would be granted. Under the circumstances the chairman, Mr.
Innes thought they had done well to get three months.

The question of habitual lateness of the High school and habitual failure to begin the term on the opening day of school and stick out to term to the close, were up for discussion and Principal Christie had the best of the argument, when he maintained that lack of parental firmness and discipline were the cause of it all.

The public school report for December showed a roll of 626, with an average attendance of 550.

Miss Allan of Jarvis, is the new teacher in Miss Porter's form at the public school.

Fuel Expensive But We Have It.
The finance committee's report indicates an abnormal expenditure for heating the school buildings. For the users of more than 100,000 cu. ft.
have not been given the usual discount, which was formerly allowed.

The gas pressure was weak yesterday, we understand partly owing to the continued severity of the weather and partly owing to a leak in the main close to town.

WHAT HAPPENED WHEN CHARLES SCHWAB SAW LORD KITCHENER

A Moving Picture of the Historic Meeting Which Has Had Such Momentous Consequences for British Military Efficiency and American Industry.

One of the first acts of Lord Kitchener after being placed in charge of the British military campaign against Germany was to send a call for Charles M. Schwab, the Bethlehem steel master wired "coming" and literally rushed for a steamer.

Of the meeting of these two world figures and of what transpired on that momentous occasion, the first authentic details which have reached the public ear, he refers to the fact that these two were not unknown to each other, that the S.O.S. from K. of K. there, came as no surprise to the steel king, and continues in his graphic style:

So quietly and quickly did Mr. Schwab betake himself, the messengers that not one reporter ferreted out the fact. Nor, during all the tragic events which marked the mammoth liner's voyage was the presence of America's greatest steel king disclosed, until the morning of the British Grand Fleet, came aboard of the north coast of Ireland to take Mr. Schwab off and escort him to his famous flagship, the Iron Duke.

But with the characteristic presence of mind, Mr. Schwab ran for his camera and took a snapshot of the Audacious at the moment she was partly submerged, a picture which is destined to prove as historic as any taken during the entire war.

The Audacious had either struck a mine or had been torpedoed amidst her engines had been knocked out of commission and all attempts to tow her to shallow water—she was about twenty-five miles from land—proved futile, as no hawser from either the Olympic or the Audacious could withstand the strain of the 30,000-ton battleship. The rescue successfully completed, the Olympic steamed into Lough Swilly, on the north coast of Ireland.

At nightfall the passengers on board the liner saw a tremendous flash out at sea, heard an unearthly wail—and knew the Audacious had blown up.

Lord Kitchener meanwhile was moving heaven and earth to have Schwab brought to London without a moment's delay. Strict orders had been given that no one be allowed to leave the Olympic and, as a matter of fact, the liner lay isolated in Lough Swilly from October 27 to November 2. So anxious was Kitchener to see Schwab, however, that he had the admiral of the British Grand Fleet himself go alongside the Olympic and take Mr. Schwab off. Sir John Jellicoe and Mr. Schwab needed no introductions, for when Jellicoe was only a captain the discerning eyes of the steel master had spotted him as a coming man and he had become very friendly with him. Jellicoe rushed Schwab part of the voyage and then Admiral Fisher took charge of the completion of the journey. Schwab was the only person permitted to go to a hotel—he was forbidden to take even his manservant with him.

At six o'clock in the evening Mr. Schwab reached London. Without taking time to go to a hotel he sped direct to the War Office. Word had been passed to the confidential attendants that the great American steel master and armour maker was coming, and the moment he appeared, doors were opened for him as if by magic by hundreds of manufacturers and others, all anxious to get the ear of the mighty Kitchener or some other personage in authority. Kitchener was ready for him. He rose and greeted Mr. Schwab very cordially but very briefly. Then he motioned to the only other chair in his office—apart from this chair, the one occupied by Kitchener and a large flat-topped desk. There was nothing in the whole, vast room in the way of furniture except an army bed, the only bed which Kitchener's body knew night after night during those terrible days, for the war lord worked literally night and day and had no time to leave his office for sleep. It was just after the annihilation of a great part of Britain's little army at the Battle of Mons and the subsequent retreat.

Kitchener wore none of the insignia, none of the decorations of a Field Marshal, none of the many orders or honors conferred upon him by a grateful empire, not even a suggestion of gold braid. He wore a khaki suit so plain and undistinguished that he could have been taken for a private in the ranks, a private who had been on active service and had not had frequent opportunity to furnish up his uniform—Kitchener evidently had slept in his clothes.

Kitchener's countenance and deportment suggested that of Atlas bent under the weight of the world. His eyes, usually so bright and sharp and penetrating, looked tired and heavy. His demeanor was tragically grave. He appeared to be physically bowed down by the re-heightened danger of disaster? "Excuse me," said Kitchener, picking up the receiver with a jerk. Schwab sat in silence.

"Yes, Yes," Kitchener began sharply. Then his voice softened. He listened attentively for a moment or two, asked several questions, gave instructions and then hung up the receiver.

"That," he said by way of apology to Mr. Schwab, "was a call from Belgium." The officer was under fire while he was talking with me. He was speaking direct from the battlefield."

The war lord made a gesture, dismissing that subject, and looked squarely at Mr. Schwab for an answer to the request that he put his signature, to an agreement not to part with control of Bethlehem Steel.

It was $100,000,000 for Bethlehem; Signs Pledge.

Control of Bethlehem had been valued by certain other interests—Not British—as being worth to them $100,000,000. This sum was offered Schwab for his Bethlehem holdings. Here he was being asked to sign a solemn compact to refuse to sign a solemn compact to refuse $100,000,000 or any other number of millions of dollars, without any monetary compensation. Did Schwab hesitate to cast aside the $100,000,000? Not for a moment.

He assured Kitchener he would sign such an agreement—and sign it he did.

Under the Atlantic Ocean on the night of that epochal interview between the greatest steel manufacturer of the world and the mightiest importance to Mr. Schwab's right hand executives, messages that were to make industrial history in America. Within 24 hours the Bethlehem Steel Company's plants began to buzz and hum as never before. Gigantic preparations were at once begun for the production of the engines of war on a scale that neither the United States nor Germany had ever before expanded and expand until Bethlehem's output was to dwarf that of Germany's munition making idol, Krupp's.

The next day and the next and the next Kitchener and Schwab again were closeted in secret session, in sessions, upon the outcome of which the fate of Britain and her allies in no small measure depended. Kitchener took Schwab into his innermost confidence. He kept nothing back. Some of the facts he disclosed could not be confided even to Mr. Schwab's chief executive, and to this day have never been revealed to a soul but Schwab and Kitchener.

Some of the facts he disclosed could not be confided even to Mr. Schwab's chief executive, and to this day have never been revealed to a soul but Schwab and Kitchener.

It must suffice to say that the need for feverish haste was so urgent that Mr. Schwab took the first boat back to the United States in order to speed up production without counting cost. The miracle Schwab then did and has since wrought constitute a chapter without parallel in the whole history of the world war.

Not only was every contract entered into with Kitchener filled and filled successfully ahead of scheduled time, but instead of furnishing a million shells in ten months, Schwab's plants were developed so extraordinarily that by and by the output reached a million shells every month.

Within two years from the day Kitchener and Schwab had their first memorable conference the Bethlehem works had supplied Britain with $100,000,000 worth of war material, an achievement never matched by any other industrial plant.

One of Mr. Schwab's most cherished possessions, one which he would not exchange for millions of dollars, is a letter from Kitchener in which he conveys to the steel master, the thanks and gratitude of the British Empire for the services he had rendered it at the most critical period in its history, and begs that this expression of gratitude be conveyed by Mr. Schwab, not merely to his executive associates, but to the thousands of workers whose hands had produced the materials which had contributed so invaluable to preserve civilization.

DEAD OF STARVATION.
By Courier Leased Wire
Regina, Jan. 4.—Peter J. Johnson, housepainter, was found dead in his shack, south of Weymouth, Sask., yesterday. The body was in a terrible emaciated condition, and it is believed the man died of starvation.

LIEUT.-COL. W. A. COLLINS, Toronto's oldest militia veteran, who although a veteran of Ridgeway, still held post in No. 2 Military District, immediately before his death on Sunday last.

responsibility pressing upon his shoulders.

Without loss of a moment, Kitchener got down to business. "How many shells could Schwab supply—a million?"

Yes, Schwab could turn out a million.

How long would it take—how quickly could they be shipped?

Ten months.

Good. How about guns?

Yes, Schwab could supply guns in quick order.

Good. What else could Schwab provide?

Schwab told him.

What about prices? asked Mr. Schwab.

Quick delivery was more important than any quotation of price. Get the stuff under way and he would get his price, Schwab was told.

It was war time and was not his company entitled to a war profit, suggested Mr. Schwab.

Certainly.

It was to be a long, titanic struggle, Kitchener confided. He counted upon it lasting five years. (A prophecy to be fulfilled?) He realized very fully that Schwab's was the only huge free ordinance plant in the world, and he was anxious to have Mr. Schwab's pledge that control of Bethlehem would not be sold as long as contracts were being filled for the British.

Would Mr. Schwab sign an agreement to that effect?

"Buz-z-z," went the telephone on Kitchener's desk.

A look of annoyance flashed across his countenance. Who had dared to interrupt him in the midst of so vital and so pressing a conference when every moment's delay

1-2 teaspoons salt
Sift the flour, salt and soda. Add the molasses and the milk. Pour into well greased moulds and steam about three hours.

2-3 cups rye flour
2 cups milk and water, or water
1 cake compressed yeast
2 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons fat
2 teaspoons salt
Soften the yeast in part of the liquid. Combine all the ingredients, and mix into a dough. Knead and let rise to double its bulk. Knead again. Put into the pan, and when double its bulk bake about 3-4 of an hour. This recipe makes two loaves.
- Baked Beans—
Pick over the beans, cover with cold water and soak overnight. In morning, drain, cover with fresh water; heat slowly (keeping water below boiling-point), and cook until skins burst. Drain beans, throwing out the water. Put into a bean pot a few pieces of salt pork cut into cubes. Cover with the beans, and add 1 tablespoon of salt, 1 tablespoon of molasses, 3 tablespoons of sugar. For every quart of dry beans used, add 1 cup of boiling water to cover. Cover the bean pot, put it in the oven and bake slowly six or eight hours, or cook in a fireless cooker. Some prefer to add a little mustard.

Everyone Should Drink Hot Water in the Morning

Wash away all the stomach, liver, and bowel poisons before breakfast.

To feel your best day in and day out, to feel clean inside; no sour bile to coat your tongue and sicken your breath or dull your head; no constipation, bilious attacks, sick headache, colds, rheumatism or gassy, acid stomach, you must bathe on the inside like you bathe outside. This is vastly more important because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do, says a well-known physician.

To keep these poisons and toxins well flushed from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, drink before breakfast each day, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate and a pinch of salt. This will cleanse, purify and freshen the entire alimentary tract, before putting more food into the stomach.

Get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from your pharmacist. It is inexpensive and almost tasteless. Drink phosphated hot water every morning to rid your system of these vile poisons and toxins; also to prevent their formation.

As soon and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and purifying, so limestone phosphate, and hot water before breakfast, act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels.

ONTARIO LIBERALS TO SELECT LEADER

Wm. Proudfoot or Hartley Dewart Likely to Head Opposition

By Courier Leased Wire
Toronto, Jan. 3.—Owing to delay in the arrival of trains, the meeting which was to have been held in the offices of the General Reform Association to choose a leader for the Liberal Opposition in the Ontario Legislature in succession to Hon. N. W. Rowell, did not take place at 10 a. m., as had been arranged, but will take place later in the day. It is understood that Liberal members of the Legislature will meet first after which the candidates nominated in the various ridings will confer with them, and a decision will be arrived at. The meeting is being held at the call of James Bowman, M. P. P., and the names of William Proudfoot, K. C., M. P. P., for Centre Euron, and Hartley Dewart, K. C., M. P. P., for Centre Toronto, are mentioned as the most likely aspirants for the honor of this leadership. It is understood that about 21 of the candidates will be present at the meeting.

IRON AND STEEL

By Courier Leased Wire
New York, Jan. 3.—The Iron Age says today: "The expected announcement by the president that iron and steel prices would remain in effect for three months longer, was made on December 28. With it came the promise, agreed to at a meeting of steel manufacturers and the War Industries Board, held the same day, that on contracts made in the next three months, prices would be revised on deliveries after April 1 to conform with any changes that might become effective on that date. Iron producers at Cleveland are emphatic in objecting to this action taken as to the revision of contracts. Representing an industry in which contracts have always been made running twelve months ahead, they are opposed to making a sales subject to a possible reduction in prices. Big iron orders far out of range with the one price of 1917 and the ore trade argues that for it, an advance is in order now, rather than a possible reduction."

BRITISH OFFICIAL

London, Jan. 4.—Local fighting took place yesterday afternoon on the Cambrai front, in the neighborhood of the Canal du Nord, without producing any material change in the situation. The war office reports that there was some slight activity during the night south of Lens. There was some hostile artillery activity during the night in the Bullecourt sector and also in the Ypres sector.

CUBS MAY CROWD GIANTS FOR FLAG

Purchase of Alexander and Killifer Makes Chicago a Big Contender in Next Pennant Race—Phillie Fans Sore on Baker for Selling Battery

Unexpected events in the National League during the past few weeks have put an entirely different aspect on the pennant race in President Toner's organization for next summer. The sale of the league's best battery, Alexander and Killifer, by the Phillies to the Chicago Cubs, absolutely eliminates the Philadelphia club as a pennant contender. It was Alexander and his string of thirty victories which placed the Phillies second in the scramble for the flag last summer.

Alexander ranks with Mathewson as the greatest pitcher the National League has ever known. These two are the only twirlers in the history of major league baseball who have won thirty games for three successive seasons. Alexander pitched more than a third of the games won by the Philadelphia club last season. He won thirty games and the Phillies finished the season with eighty-seven games won. From all appearances Alexander was as good as ever last season. Certainly a record such as he made gives no indication that the great pitcher is through by any means.

The acquisition of Alexander and Killifer makes the Cubs a dangerous contender in next season's pennant race. Matty's Cincinnati Reds would have been considered if he had been able to strengthen his infield, but with Kopf and Rath en-and Killifer, and President Baker finds himself very unpopular in that city just now. With this crack battery gone, Manager Pat Moran will have a hard time making much of an impression in the league next season. The players he got from the Cubs, Pitcher Prendergast and Catcher Dilhoefer, are not little-class players, and will be of little use to him.

Both Ludrus and Cravath have slowed up considerably, and already Baker is planning to have George Whitcomb play first. Baker is anxious to stay out on the Pacific Coast, where he may be able to land a berth as manager of one of the coast clubs, so it is not at all certain that the heavy battery will be with the club either. With Ludrus and Cravath both gone, the batting strength of the Phillies will be greatly weakened, and this, on the top of the loss of Alexander and Killifer, will put the Phillies in a sorry plight.

Baker Shrewd.

Baker is considered one of the shrewdest business men in the game. No club has spent less for new players than the Phillies; and yet Baker has landed a pennant once and a high in the race, and he has been in command. His action in inviting the disavow of Philadelphia fans in selling his greatest attraction in Alexander is taken as an indication that Baker sees hard times in baseball next season. If the season promised to come up to last season it is very doubtful if Baker would think of parting with his best battery.

Baker has been preaching optimism in baseball, but nevertheless he was the one who proposed a new war-time clause in the players' contracts. Also Baker did not attend the joint club meeting in Chicago because it is believed that he already has made up his mind just what his retrenchment policies are going to be in Philadelphia. Mr. Baker joined with President Toner in condemning President Ban Johnson of the American League for suggesting that the Government exempt ball players from the draft. This is another reason why Baker stayed away, for he will have no part in any action of that kind.

Baseball men are fearful that President Baker's action in selling Alexander will establish a precedent in the game which may result here next season in the disposal of baseball stars by the weaker clubs to the more prosperous clubs which can afford to make big investments. No one ever dreamed that Baker would risk disaster in Philadelphia fans by selling Alexander.

Two-year-old Clark Griffith has been offered a king's ransom for Walter Johnson, but the Washington club did not see to risk the displeasure of the Washington fans by parting with its greatest attraction. The club may have, for the past few seasons made offers from time to time to Washington for Johnson, and now that Philadelphia has broken the ice by ignoring the wishes of the home fans, Washington may do the same thing. The game in the capital for the past few years has not been profitable, and much influence has been brought to bear on President Johnson to move the Washington club to another city, but the American League head insists on keeping the club in Washington, as he believes that it gives his league added prestige in having a club at the national capital.

Monopoly of Players.

If any more of the club owners begin to take radical retrenchment measures such as President Baker has done there is a great danger that the prosperous clubs of both leagues may be able to get a monopoly on all the best baseball talent and leave the weaker clubs in such a position that the pennant races would become so one-sided as to kill all interest in the championship season.

For example, if Weeghman should be able to get Hornsby from St. Louis or Groh from Cincinnati, the interest which these two clubs would have in the race would be reduced and during the whole season the interest would be centered only on New York and Chicago. It would be much the same in the American League, if the Yankees should get Sisler, Pratt, and Lavan from the Browns, it is pretty certain that St. Louis fans would be so displeased that the patronage of the club would suffer.

MISS LAURA HUGHES, Daughter of Dr. James L. Hughes, Toronto, whose marriage to Dr. Ernest Hughes, of Chicago, took place Saturday.

had, and the possibility of Fred Tenney being lost through the draft. Matty's chances have somewhat dwindled. The Cubs, with a number of veteran players, appear like the best club to give the Giants a battle.

Cubs Have Veterans.
With a catcher like Killifer, the work of the other Chicago pitchers should show improvement, and Manager Fred Mitchell expects that both Jim Vaughan and Phil Douglas will show great improvement next year. Chicago has a club of veterans who will escape the draft. Larry Doyle should have a good season, according to reports. He has entirely recovered from the injury he had last summer, the broken leg causing him little trouble now. As a season was over, not even waiting to see the world's series. He is playing golf this winter, and expects to be as good as ever next year. Fred Morike is another veteran who should get an important figure in Cub affairs next summer.

Cubs Still After Players.
Weeghman is not through strengthening his team, by any means. He means to land an infielder and an outfielder. He is after Rogers Hornsby of St. Louis. Hornsby is at odds with President Branch Rickey of the Cards over his contract. The sensational young shortstop demands a three year contract at $10,000 a year, but the St. Louis management is willing to give him only a one-year contract, and the amount offered is quite a bit below the price he demands. Chicago has one of the most promising of the younger infielders in Pete Kilguff, but, of course, there is a danger of this youth being lost in the draft.

Philadelphia fans are not at all pleased with the sale of Alexander

KATINKA

Fresh from a year's triumph on Broadway, where it eclipsed even "The Fleety," "High Jinks" and "You're in Love" the previous successes of its authors, Otto Harbach and Rudolf Friml, "Katinka" comes to the Grand on Tuesday, Jan. 8.

"Katinka" is a little bit different in plan from any musical play that has ever gone before. It is a musical comedy of compelling lilt and sweetness of the style introduced into America by the American Viennese operettas, but of a standard of excellence that has never been reached. The tunefulness of this music gives it a universal appeal, while its technique makes it agreeable to the trained ear of the most carping connoisseur.

The plot of "Katinka" is so arranged as to carry the personages through three scenes of widely varying picturesqueness. The story opens in Russia, just before the present war; then jumps to Persia, possible of pursuit in the present state of those beleaguered localities.

The spectator is called upon to follow the fortunes of the pretty little Russian, Katinka, who is in love with the handsome Ivan, but is tricked into marrying the rough old Boris. But Ivan is not of the sort to give up his sweetheart so easily. He learns that Boris already has a wife living, and he interrupts the wedding festivities, and with the aid of an American friend, Hopper, carries off Katinka, who, on the journey, poses as Hopper's wife.

They go to Persia in search of Mrs. Boris Number One, who is supposed to have taken refuge in the Pasha's harem to escape from Boris, who is no more popular with her than with Katinka. Affairs are becoming exciting, Katinka herself all but falling into the power of the Pasha, when to cap the climax, the real Mrs. Hopper turns up.

The delicacy of Katinka's position can be appreciated. With the real Mrs. Boris and the real Mrs. Hopper in town, she feels like the heroine of a Hoyt farce.

At this critical moment, it develops that Mrs. Boris's first husband was the real Mrs. Hopper, and the real Mrs. Hopper follows. Mrs. Boris is located; the villain Boris is looted; Katinka is at liberty to become Mrs. Ivan and Mrs. Hopper is made to listen to and be convinced by reason.

The plot, it will be seen, gives excellent opportunities for handsome stage settings, by Arthur Hammerstein, producer of "The Fleety," "High Jinks" and "You're in Love." The lavish gaiety of a semi-oriental Russian palace; the picturesque Oriental architecture of a Persian city street, and the splendid glitter of a Paris music hall present as is rarely encountered even in these days of luxurious stage settings.

In the musical score one hit follows another in rapid succession, with the frequency recurring "Rachy Coo" as the number that lives in the memory as the audience files out of the theatre and down the street humming and whistling. It has a catchy lilt that hangs forever in the memory. Other notable musical numbers are "Your Photo," "Katinka," "I Want to Marry a Male Quartette." A gaily sewed chorus that can sing and dance is a notable feature of the show.

The cast includes Howard Langford, Eye Lynn, Marquita Dwight, Clara Palmer, Dixie Blair, Eleanor Vincent, Peggy Bates, Nicholas Kavoc, Bernard Gorcey, William Schuster, John Roberts, Daniel J. Sullivan and S. Paul Veron.

THE SECRET GAME

Apparently the Japanese take pictures far more seriously than do Americans; at least that would be the assumption from Sessue Hayakawa's statement that his performance in "The Cheat," a former Paramount picture which rendered the mount picture which was extremely popular with American playgoers, made him unpopular with some of his countrymen.

This fact was developed recently

AT THE REX

SESSUE HAYAKAWA in "The Secret Game"

THURSDAY, FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

when Sessue Hayakawa asked Director William C. De Mille what the nature of his role would be in "The Secret Game," which is his latest Paramount picture.

"A Japanese spy," answered Mr. De Mille.

"Nothing doing!" said the Japanese firmly. "I can't afford to take another chance of making myself unpopular with my countrymen as I did with some of them when I played in 'The Cheat.'"

"But," explained the other, "you are supposed to be working for the American government this time."

"Fine!" exclaimed Hayakawa. "That makes it all right."

Those who have noted Japanese spectators at a picture show say they watch with the closest attention, drinking in every detail and are apparently much impressed, not only by the story but by the individual actors. Naturally their interest in the work of one of their countrymen would be intense and so it is probable that they accepted the role of Hayakawa in the former production as actual, in some instances at any rate.

Hayakawa, who pursued part of his studies at the University of Chicago and admires the people in the land of his adoption, still holds a strong regard for his own country and countrymen. The thought of offending them is abhorrent to him and he is always extremely cautious in assuring himself that he will not be called upon to do anything on the screen that might reflect upon the dignity or honor of his nation or its citizens.

"The Secret Game," which is a very stirring story written by clever Marion Fairfax will be shown at the Rex Theatre on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday.

This is most apparent in the murder scene of the third act, the flashing of one character to the other affecting the intensity of the situation. The general impression made by the photo play is excellent; but it also shows that there is room for improvement in moving picture technique when transferring a stage melodrama into a screen play. The spoken drama is able to dismiss many necessary minor points with a word of explanation and hurry on to the big movements; while the screen pauses to visualize incidents that help to clarify the story, at the expense of the dramatic action. Of all forms of fiction, pure melodrama is the most difficult of assimilation by the screen as the art is practiced at the present time.

The merits of the version of "Within the Law," edited by Violet Mallory, and directed by William P. S. Taylor, are sufficient to afford most persons a liberal amount of enjoyment. The story in itself is full of appeal, and has been put together by its author with unusual skill. It will be followed, with interest throughout the entire eight reels. There is shown in the production a desire to keep it at a high standard. The mountings are correct, and the cast has been carefully selected. Alice Joyce is the Mary Turner. Failure to always get under the skin of the character deprives her impersonation of the woman who feels deeply and suffers accordingly. Great strength of will was required to change her from the simple young girl of the earlier scenes to the woman who left the prison, armed and ready to fight falsehood and trickery with its own weapons. These qualities are not indicated by the actress.

Harry Gregory, as Joe Ferguson, is such a likeable chap that it is hard to reconcile him with his police record. He carries out his conception consistently, however, and is effective at all times. Adelle DeGarde as Agnes, the girl who is sent to one of the best performances in the picture. In a character, easy to over-play she strikes just the right note, and her amusing umbrality is always without offense. Eugene O'Rourke as Inspector Burke is another faultless character study. Anders Randolph, Bernard Stoppel, Billie Billings, Joe Donahue, Bernard Randall, Bernard Seigel, Robert Gaillard and Miss Bence are especially good.

This picture will be seen at the Brant the first of next week.

"THE MANX-MAN" The release of "The Manx-Man" through Gwynn's distributing chain helps to bound to arouse something of the sensation caused by the publication of the famous Hall Caine novel more than a decade ago. At that time interest was evenly divided between the tense story of the Hall Caine and the picturesque life of the Isle of Man which he sketched. Both elements are developed vividly and pictorially in "The Manx-Man" film.

For six generations the eldest son of the Christian family of Baltham, Isle of Man, had held the office of Deemster.

The sixth member of the Christian family to hold the honored position was popularly known as Iron Christian, and his eldest son was named Philip. For her I have fought in bull fights and battled with lance and sword in "Carmen" and "The Woman" respectively. Later in life I was the straight, raven locks, with whom I made "The Golden Fetter" and "The Squaw Man's Son"—and a great deal of fun we had at it, too. Mine this is one of the best "fellows" I know.

But it was not to last, for another fair haired "sweetheart" next appeared, this being Myrtle Stedman of the liquid voice and melting eyes (I read that about her somewhere). We did two rather tragic pictures entitled "The Prison Without Walls" and "The World Apart." Came next sunny Kathya Williams with whom I did "Big Timber" and a patriotic film entitled "The Thing We Love." Others are Dorothea Abril and Ann Little, not to mention Mae Marsh, whose battling southern sweetheart I was in "The Birth of a Nation."

Strange to say, however, the real sweetheart, she to whom I still send violet rays, is a pronounced brunette. She does not crinkle her nose when she laughs, moreover, and her hair is perfectly straight. Dorothy Davenport, who is looking over my shoulder while I'm writing this in our home at Hollywood, California, near the Paramount studios, says she will probably sue me for libel.—for, she insists, it does curl—on rainy days, at least, around her ears.

"WITHIN THE LAW" Reviewed by Edward Weitzel All things considered, the screen version of Barry Veiller's melodrama "Within the Law," produced by the Vitagraph, is a creditable piece of work. Some portions lose considerable of the force of the original from not having the same amount of

LOYD GEORGE OF GREAT BRITAIN

The Adoption of the in-Law One of the Career That Has British Premier

(By T. P. O'Connor.) The following contribution to the history of Great Britain Prime Minister, appears in the Weekly News from the pen of T. P. O'Connor, the distinguished orator.

One of the least known of the career of the Prime Minister that his destinies were largely by an incident which nearly a century before he was to be quite exact the official place, I believe, in 1799, when it was a little while in Scotland.

The Baptist community small place was divided by a question whether or not there should be a professional or, as the Quakers hiring ministry, or a minister was unpaid. The dispute, both sides the most brilliant leaders. It spread to Wales, things do, and the dispute perpetuated and symbolized the fact that there is a distinction of the Baptists who cling to the unprofessional—if I may say so—type of minister.

In Wales this particular known as the Disciples of the United States where the number is much larger, they are known as the Campbell, the President of the States who died under the madman named Guiteau.

When at the age of 44, the of Mr. Lloyd George, who many wanderings, by much by partial failure in life, fell into a slight cold, the prodigious for the two young already born and for the old the came after his death. Georges had been children of for many generations, with successes and failures of life; and Mr. Lloyd George was practically the first to see the country for the purpose of the pursuit of letters the life of the towns; and he turned broken on the wheel stuffy rooms of schools, and had sought to get back health in his country life he had left behind the experiment too late. A slight cold was sufficient to break down the frame.

Of his father, Mr. Lloyd probably remember little or nothing, but he has some recollection of life as a baby began in the home as well as the loss of it. For—the story is well told—and his sister tells the tale, the strange men who came away the household goods scattered in the auction that ended their father's death.
