In Life's Brief Days.

In these brief days we know each from his soul their lesson contemplating surely, we learn, as on our way we go,
There is no time for halting,
No swift the hours from dawn to twilight's eke,
Of tender comradeship so great the need,
Oh, but the loss of any hour goes by Darkened with hate, when love for love stood pleading!

In these brief days we know
Each holds his soul, for fate's whims compelling, Surely it is in this guide we should go,
Loving our kind, not hating,
Loving the living, walking out the end
To cry that we have let these live so lonely—
Oh, but the play of life we read,
If, for love's sake, love means reproaching only!

The Storm-Sermon.

Young Rev. Sylvanus H. Randall looked out of the window from the breakfast table, and a frown peered out of his eyes, preparatory to occupying the outside of his forehead.

'Another rainy Sunday morning,' he groaned, 'and we shall probably have some twenty or thirty hearers in a church building that will hold five hundred. Here is the fifth rainy Sabbath for a month'—(which was true for the month in which our story opens, was one of those that contain five of 'God's good days'.)

'Maybe it will clear up yet, Syl,' chirped his pretty little wife, eating daintily one of the two eggs which they felt they could afford for breakfast. For they were poor, and their salary consisted of three figures—two of which were ciphers and the other not so very much larger. 'Maybe a good Providence will temper the wind to a shorn pastor and his wife.'

'No, Bess,' replied the young divine.
'Providence never stops the rain at the season of the year, when it begins as it did this morning. I was up watching it. I wanted a good audience today, and a good collection that would help us along with our church expenses, for they are awfully behind.
It's discouraging to a fellow who feels as if he were good enough for a large city church, to be dropping away in this little old town.'

Madame Bess, who, although pretty, was also sensible and pious, laid down her egg spoon and went around to where her husband was sitting.
She considered him a genius, as many a wife does a husband, whether justly or not; and she held that there are times when penitence need 'taking up and setting down' again, as she sometimes expressed it. She knelt by him and playfully took one of his ears between her white thumb and finger.
'Look here young man,' she said, in a loud but firm little voice of her own,
'of course you and I both know that you're as good as anybody that walks up and down a pulpit stair. And I don't think so because I'm your wife, because I said so before we were married—before I even fell in love with you. But don't you know that you are just as much work here in the sight of God as you can in the city?'

'Somebody—I forgot his name, but God knows it, you may be sure—spent a long time getting one who was converted; and that boy was Moffat, the great African missionary. Did you ever reflect that one of Jesus' greatest sermons was preached to an audience of just one—the woman of Samaria? Do you?'

'And so she ran on for five minutes, and preached quite a little sermon herself.

'You have done me good, Bess,' exclaimed the young clergyman, 'I seem to see my way clearer. I had been tempted to give them 'any old thing' for a sermon this morning; but the few that are there will get the best there is in the laboratory, now, I tell you!'

'When the time came for going to church, the windows of heaven, to use an expression of the young wife, were not open to their full capacity, but had evidently had the frames taken out, for the rain flowed rather than fell. Poor Bess! her windows had been under banks of snow and beds of daisies these many years; and often have pelting rains crushed the earthy roof above her head without awakening her. But she lived long enough to give this brainy, high-strung clergyman many a lesson in religious common sense.

This morning he insisted that he should go alone, for she was not to brave the storm; but she demurely declared that she wouldn't miss the greatest sermon of the year for anything, put on her old 'waterproof', and sat in the usual place.

There were just twenty-three persons present, counting in the pastor, the pastor's wife and the sexton. The latter, having held his office fifteen years on five years' pay, considered that he had the right to grow a little,
when he chose; and made the consolatory remark, when the young clergyman made entered, that they might as well shut up shop as 'done with it, on such a day as that.'

But the twenty-two persons that listened forgot all about their surroundings, before he was half way through. The above-mentioned sexton, who was plump as well as cynical, Missard's Liniment Cures Colds,
etc.

What's in McClure's.

A striking feature of the August McClure's—one that will be widely discussed—is an essay on 'Prohibition and Social Psychology,' by Prof.
Richard C. Cabot, an eminent physician of Boston, analyzes one hundred 'Christian Science Cures,' declaring that Christian Science treatment does not cure organic diseases.
The 'Reminiscences of Carl Schurz' continue, with an intensely interesting account of two interviews between the author and Bismarck, in 1867; and Ellen Terry, in her memoirs, tells of her last years with Henry Irving. In fiction there are a half-dozen stories, everyone of which possesses exceptionally fine qualities. The 'Forerunner' series continues, with 'A Story of Hate,' by Gertrude Hall; 'Patsy Moran, the Book, and Its Covers,' by A. S. Hoffman; 'His Need of Miss Simons,' another Eekiel story, by Lucy Pratt;
'The King of the Baboons,' by Percival Gibbon; 'The Forerunner Colleague,' by Margaret Wilson; 'The Moving Finger Writes,' by Marie Belloc Lowndes.

Baby's Great Danger During Hot Weather.

More little lives are lost during the hot weather than at any other time of the year, diarrhoea, dysentery, cholera, infantum and stomach troubles commonly without warning, and when a mother is not at hand to give promptly the short delay too frequently means that the child has passed beyond aid.
During the hot weather, months Baby's Own Tablets should be kept in every home where there are small children. An occasional dose of the Tablets will prevent stomach and bowel troubles. Or if the trouble this medicine will bring the child

The Hen and the Doorknob.

Once upon a time there was a fool-hen who sat on a china doorknob for three weeks expecting to get a family.
The only thing she did get was experience.

The advertising field is full of 'china doorknob propositions'—examples of merchants who expect good newspapers to hatch money out of bad egg business, or who put sound nest eggs under the wrong 'advertising hen.'

There are three principles to follow in an advertising campaign: First of all, find a business that will stand advertising; secondly, find the newspaper that will make the advertising pay; thirdly, give the newspaper time to pay.

You can't start in to breed dollars in less time than it takes to hatch them any more than you can pull a hen off the nest before she has had chance to incubate. In both cases you simply waste what has been invested.
If you stop too soon you will get a rotten egg instead of a chicken.

Advertise something out of which you may reasonably expect returns, and when you have found what to advertise take care that you place your copy in a newspaper that can turn the trick. Don't delude yourself with a china doorknob, and don't confuse a 'rooster newspaper,' which spends its time cock-a-looming, for a 'hen-newspaper' that is too busy hatching out dollars to start about crowing.

Vacation for the Farmer.

If we consider not the worker but work, then a man's need for a vacation is measured by the laboriousness of his duties, the time and exertion which he expends upon them, and the lack of cheering and recreating influences in his surroundings. The farmer's life, though one of independence and immunity from temptation, is also one of long hours and drudgery.
Though the farmer breathes purer air and gazes daily upon clearer skies than many of his brother mortals, he must leave home to become fully a ware of it. Though perhaps he looks upon that part of the handiwork of God which is less polished by the finger marks of men, he sees also rather too little of the work of both God and man. He needs a vacation not only for the purpose of rest and diversion, but also to increase his confidence and augment his knowledge.

Destruction of the City of St. Pierre.

MAGNIFICENT FIREWORKS DISPLAY
FOR THE EXHIBITION AT HALIFAX.

The earlier dates for the Provincial Exhibition at Halifax, Eastern Canada's greatest event, will this year show better opportunities for the enjoyment of the amusement features of the great Fair than hitherto; though the same remark applies with equal force to all the departments, Live Stock, Agriculture, Manufactures, Education, etc.

The Commission have made a contract for a magnificent pyrotechnical show for the Grand Stand. This great display will culminate with a representation of the destruction of St.
Pierre and the terrible engulfing of the beautiful West Indian City, when Mount Pelée burst forth. This piece of realism will be presented every night during the Fair, and the weather conditions in early September should be everything to make it pleasant for spectators.

The applications for space in the Manufacturers Building are greater than ever and a fine display of Nova Scotia's industrial life is assured. The dates for the closing of entries in the other departments are practically as late as in former years though the Exhibition will open on September 2nd.

Rosy Cheeks.

The Ambition of Every Woman.

Hollow cheeks with dark lines, sallow complexion—how a woman hates them.

But rosy cheeks, clear skin, bright eyes—give them to a woman and she is happy.

In the blood is found the first sign of trouble.

It grows thin and watery, its color fades, and increasing pallor and sal-lowness gives the outward evidence of the change within.

Soon the nerves weaken, the heart easily tires and palpitates, strength declines.

Delicate mechanisms of the womanly functions is interfered with,
and pleasures, activities and even duties are loaded down with the burden of declining health.

Why is it that women neglect their first warnings?

Usually she waits till she is ready to drop—often then it's too late.

These conditions are easily checked, easily cured at the beginning,—but even when long established Ferro-zone will remove the cause and cure the trouble.

Ferrozone's action aids the three principal functions of the body—digestion, assimilation, elimination.

By strengthening digestion it forms an abundance of rich, red blood—this gives good color.

By perfecting assimilation, Ferro-zone supplies nutrition—this gives strength, vim, stability.

Bleedings are assured because Ferro-zone quickens the action of the liver, kidneys and bowels—this guarantees the maintenance of vigorous health.

Ferrozone puts you on the right road—the one that leads to health.

Not a man, woman or child needing blood, vigor, endurance—not a person who is weak, nervous or sickly, not a person in ill-health who won't receive immediate help from Ferrozone.

As a tonic and restorative, as a health-bringer and body-builder, Ferrozone is unrivalled. It cures because it feeds and nourishes, because it contains the elements that build up strength. Try it yourself—sold everywhere in box, bottles.

THE ACADIAN.

WOLFVILLE, N. S., JULY 31, 1908.

The Shad Fishery.

A very important meeting is to be held in this town on Wednesday of next week, when the commission appointed by the Dominion government to investigate the shad fisheries of the upper waters of the Bay of Fundy will hold a sitting here. The meeting will be held in Temperance Hall at 10 a. m. The commission is instructed to obtain the fullest information on the history, growth and decline of the shad fishery; period of its best condition and causes of depletion; methods of taking shad, kinds of fishing gear, etc.; dates of arrival of shad in different localities; habits and food of these fish; spawning grounds and methods of artificial breeding; obstructions in rivers, enemies, etc.; curing methods and the marketing of the fish; recommendations for the preservation, restoration and improvement of the shad fishery. Persons having information or possessing records or accounts of catches and sale of shad, etc., bearing upon these points are invited to attend the meeting, at which every facility will be given to offer testimony. A similar meeting will be held at Canby on Tuesday and at Scott's Bay on Monday, and meetings are also to be held at other points in the province.

Our attention has been called to this matter through an advertisement which appeared in a newspaper published in another part of the province. THE ACADIAN has received officially no information, and not being a blind supporter of the government of course does not receive any government advertising. As a public journal, however, it is pleased to give the free use of its columns to the publication of this information which is certainly important to the people of this county.

Twenty-five years ago the shad fishing industry was an important item in the yearly income of the people of this county. A large number of men were engaged in it and the profit amounted to thousands of dollars each year. During recent years, however, this industry has become almost a total failure, and the loss of it has become quite a serious one to many of our people. Many theories have been advanced to explain the departure of the shad from our waters, and if the commission is able to solve the difficulty it will prove a great boon to our people.

Sunday Schools in North America.

From reports of the 12th triennial Sunday-school Convention held at Louisville, Ky., June 18-23, 1908, we gather the following facts:

There are 170,028 Sunday Schools with 1,594,674 officers and teachers, 15,000,000 scholars more than three years ago.

The total Sunday School enrollment of North America (15,110,472 members) is nearly 1,000,000 more than reported at last convention (1905).

9,758 Teachers' Meeting is an advance of about 1,200 over former reports.

551,000 enrolled in home department.

49,000 Cradle Rolls, with enrollment 441,000, about three times the number reported at Toronto.

80,000 are now engaged in studying Teacher Training courses.

45 Associations report 903,028 converts and additions to the church, 116 General Secretaries and Specialists are devoting their whole time to the work; 56 are working on part time.

The Canadian Magazine for August is light and summery, being composed mostly of illustrated travel and cutting articles and short stories. In fiction it is particularly strong, the feature being a complete novelette by the popular writer Alice and Claude Askew, entitled 'Elizabeth's Lover'. Besides the novelette there are capital short stories by N. deBertrand Lugin, H. A. Cody, Gower Glynn and Bradford K. Daniels. The leading article deals with the Indian tribes of Labrador, and is well illustrated. The author is Clifford H. Easton, who accompanied the late Leonard Hubbard to that frozen region of the North, and therefore had excellent opportunity to study the native tribes. Other illustrated articles are 'Encouraging Native Handicrafts' by Katherine Reid, 'A Poser of Renown' by E. H. Benson, being an account of poaching on salmon fishing preserves in New Brunswick, and 'The Crab Fishery' by Honessdale Dale. All through the number is most reasonable.

From the returns completed by Lloyd's Register for Shipping, it appears that excluding warships, there were 386 vessels of 799,177 tons gross under construction in the United Kingdom at the close of the quarter ended June 30, 1908, as compared with 564 vessels of 1,250,318 tons at the same period last year. Of these 386 vessels, 349 were steamships and 37 are sailing ships. The tonnage now under construction is 48,000 less than that which was in hand at the end of last quarter. The decline in British shipyards is greater than for many years past, and there is no sign of improvement visible.

Work For the Young Men.

No response of a favorable nature has been given to the urgent appeal recently issued for the formation of Young Liberal associations to draw young men into politics under the leadership of the Ottawa Ministers. This is significant. It means that the young men of Canada, the owners and rulers of the country in the not distant future, are not satisfied with conditions which now prevail. Twelve years ago Young Liberal associations were very numerous, and very useful to the party as then constituted. But at that time Liberalism meant something. It promised reforms. It professed to be honest. It claimed as its leaders respectable men. It had something to fight for.

To-day the situation has changed. The programme which once attracted young men has been wiped from the slate. It is in vain that a search is made for Liberal ideas. The great doctrine of provincial rights has been suppressed in order that attacks may be made upon the provinces. The proposal to reform the Senate has been abandoned. Seats in that House are wanted for men who can buy them either by rendering partisan service or by paying cash. The reform of the public service is rescinded. Offices are needed as rewards for members of Parliament who vote as required without the restraining influence of conscience. Railway subsidies, once condemned, are continued in an aggravated form. They are the raw materials for campaign funds. Patronage, the purchase of supplies without contract, and from party friends, has not been abolished. It is the inspiration to political service of the baser kind. The public expenditure has not been reduced, nor has it been kept well in hand. The domination of the grafter is so powerful that financial reform is out of the question. Freedom for the electors, formerly a Liberal principle, is now denied. The doctrines of Byron Lott and of Shibley, and the methods of Hyman, are tolerated, if not applauded. The personnel of the Administration has not been improved. Sir Frederick Borden lends it its moral tone, and Emerson and Sifton are threatening to return. This is a state of affairs differing widely from that prevailing twenty years ago. It means that Liberalism, as once known, has disappeared, and that its place is usurped by a system of crookedness and graft. If the young men refuse to rally to the support of this immorality, who can blame them? If they resist the invitation to enlist in behalf of grafters, of improper politicians and of corrupt and played-out ministers, are they not amply justified? Why should any young man exert himself in the interests of the politicians who are enjoying "rake-offs"? Why should any independent man work for the supremacy of millionaire Sifton, or for the return to the Cabinet of Emerson and Hyman? But the attitude of the young men, although it negates political wrong, does not go far enough.

The young men of to-day are to be the rulers of to-morrow. They will bear the burdens now being imposed. They will suffer from the misgovernment, and from the rogues practised at this moment. Neutral they ought not to be. As, in days not very distant, the young men sprang to arms to defend their country from the invader who threatened the property of loyal citizens, so to-day the young men of spirit should join in the campaign to set aside once and for all the Ottawa system which takes from the hard earnings of the people millions every year for distribution among politicians, who give nothing in return. As in the field of battle they struggled for the right of British men to participate in the Government which taxed them, so in the civil arena they may well declare for the liberty of the Canadian citizen to cast his own ballot and to have a voice in the affairs of his own land. There is work right now, for the young men of Canada, and we cannot doubt that the great majority of them will gladly perform it.

Wonderful Fireworks.

ST. JOHN'S EXHIBITION MANAGEMENT HAS SECURED BRILLIANT ATTRACTIONS IN THIS LINE.

The display of fireworks at the St. John's Exhibition, September 12-19 promises to be magnificent. The executive has spared no pains or expense to get the best that could be had, and this popular feature of expositions will be more attractive than ever this fall in St. John.

Among the spectacular scenes to be shown in the heavens during the exhibition will be the eruption of Mount Vesuvius which will be a mammoth firework picture, delineated in colored lancework. At the beginning smoke is seen to be issuing from the mountain top. This is followed by spurts of flame and as small eruptions gathers force a ruddy glow is cast over the scene. Molten lava is thrown out. Clouds of sparks ascend high in the air. Great masses of light fire descend from the sky and at the end the air is filled with burning material of many kinds. This is accompanied by tremendous reports. The whole makes one of the most successful of the wonderful Pyro-Kinetic series that has been given of late years.

After a year's illness, Mrs. Rebecca Fitch, aged 80, near widow of the late James Fitch, of New Minas, Kings Co., passed away on Friday, July 24th, at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. E. C. Church, Falmouth, with whom she had made her home the past six years. The deceased lady had been confined to her bed for over a year, and all her suffering was borne with the greatest Christian resignation. Mrs. Fitch was much beloved by a large circle of friends. Her immediate death was due to inflammatory rheumatism.

The deceased lady was a daughter of the late Theodore Harding Ford, and besides her daughter, Mrs. E. C. Church, she leaves one son, Theodore H. Fitch, who resides in California.

A funeral service was held at the home of Mrs. Church on Sunday morning previous to taking the remains to New Minas for interment. Rev. J. C. Spurr, Falmouth, conducted the service.—Hants Journal.

Learning Military Ways.

Frederick soldiers, returning from Quebec by the Gibson train, Saturday evening, commanded a basket containing eight dozen eggs, and devoured the lot. The eggs were the property of a traveller for a Fredericton wholesale house, who made an unsuccessful effort to collect pay for them. The soldier boys said that they were without food since leaving Quebec Friday night, and took the eggs to appease their hunger.—St. John Times.

Vice-Admiral Bogromsky, who commanded the Russian fleet that was annihilated by the Japanese in the battle of the Sea of Japan in May, 1904, is not dead as some of the press reports asserted. He is living to have read all the uncompromising things that his obituary notices contained. Foo-shi Bogromsky, his is a case where the old proverb of 'Nothing but good comes of the dead' did not apply. There had to be a recipient and he is it.

The Olympic Marathon race in London on Friday was won by Hayes, who although described as an Irish American, is thought to be a native of Ottawa, Ontario. The Italian came near winning, and fell prostrate within a few feet of the finish. Tom Longstaff dropped out in the sixth mile.

Wedding.

A very pretty home wedding took place on Tuesday evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Lamb, when their daughter, Frances E., was united in marriage to James A. MacInnis of Wolfville. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. E. Dotkin in the presence of a goodly number of guests, after which a dainty lunch was served. The bride received a number of useful and beautiful presents among which was a gold watch and chain from the groom. On Wednesday morning the happy couple left Parrsboro for their future home in Wolfville followed by the best wishes of their numerous friends. [The above is copied from the Parrsboro Leader of last week. THE ACADIAN tenders best wishes.]

To lay carpets without pounding thumbs, squashing fingers, using profane language, skinning your knees and getting rheumatism and lame back and that tired feeling—hire the job done.

Soothing and Healing. As a means of soothing the inflammation and loosing the raw sores of eczema and salt rheum it is difficult to imagine anything so wonderfully effective as Dr. Chase's Ointment. Relief from the distressing itching comes almost immediately, the scales fall and gradually a new, healthy skin is formed. There is no treatment so effective in curing children.

I reckon you ain't much like your ma,' said the old-fashioned woman as they met on the street corner.

Oh, yes I am,' protested the over-dressed young lady. 'Ma's at home picking up quilt and I'm out making a spread.'

Whooping Cough Cured. Mrs. Henry M. Edmonds, Allis Park, Ind., writes: 'We think a great deal of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Licorice and Turpentine as a cure for whooping cough. My children were very bad with this annoying disease. This medicine relieved attacks of whooping cough, and a complete cure. This treatment is also of great value in curing croup, bronchitis and severe chest colds.'

'Ah!' exclaimed the good old soul, observing how cheerfully the laborer whistled as he toiled, 'you're contented at least. I'm glad to see your work is not beneath you.'

'Quit yer kiddin', lady,' replied the laborer; 'I'm diggin' a trench.'

Olden—Persevere, my boy, persevere! There's only one way to accomplish your purpose, and that is, 'Stick to it.'

Youngman—But suppose your purpose is to remove a sheet of fly paper that you've sat down upon unthinkingly?

'You say you were in the bar at the time of the assault referred to in the complaint?' asked the lawyer.

'I was, sir.'

'Did you take cognizance of the barman at the time?'

'I don't know what he called it but I took what the rest did.'

'Health Coffee' is really the closest Coffee Imitation ever produced. This clever Coffee Substitute was recently produced by Dr. Shoop of Racine, Wis. Not a grain of real coffee in it either. Dr. Shoop's Health Coffee is made from pure toasted grains, with malt, nuts, etc. Really it would fool an expert who might drink it for coffee. No. 20 or 30 minutes tedious boiling. 'Made in a minute' says the doctor. Sold by T. L. Harvey.

'Really-er-' stammered the gossip, who had been caught redhanded, 'I'm afraid you overheard what I said about you. Perhaps-er- I was a bit too severe.'

'O, no!' replied the other woman; 'you weren't nearly so severe as you would have been if you knew what I think of you.'

She—Yes, indeed! My father is the self-made man. Why, he went in an office boy at $12 per month, and in less than eight years he owned the store.

He—That's good! But I couldn't do that in the store I'm working in now.

She—How's that?

He—Oh! we have cash registers.

Sentence Sermons.

Truth needs no authority other than its own. He is good natured whose nature it is to do good.

He does nothing extraordinary who despises the ordinary. The soul always is looking up to the man who tries to lift them up.

Faith in God without friendship with man is like poetry without print. Nothing worries some folks more than to find trouble taking a little nap.

It is a good thing to watch the man who is over nice about indifferent things. We never are ready to be lifted up until we have been thrown down a few times.

You are not looked to heaven simply because you are versed in the heavenly book. The soulfulness of your virtue does not depend on the volume of sound you can make.

The first step toward cleaning up your neighbor's back yard is taking a hoe to your own.

There is something wrong with a man's prayers when they never choke his conscience.

It is better to give your friends a little lift now than to put a lot of love all over their tombstones.

'Some men never hear the bugle call of heaven because they are so occupied with listening for the trumpet of fame.'

Pity This Poor Girl. Growing fast—yes, into weakness, but without strength. Tired of course she is—pale and thin too. She doesn't eat enough and digests far too little. This condition is so common, but how seldom noticed even by fond parents. Give her Ferruzone—then watch her appetite improve—see her cheeks and lips grow ruddy—watch her spirits rise. This gain is simply the result of eating and digesting enough, and thereby nourishing food, brain and nerves. To a woman Ferruzone restores strength. She has lost—to a girl it brings strength perhaps she never knew. You'll try Ferruzone, 50c. at all dealers.

The encouragement given to amateur sport by the recent Y. M. C. A. relay race in the United States is worthy of note. The Montreal Gazette says: 'In 119 hours 22 minutes a large number of young men, under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A., in relays, have carried a message from New York to Chicago, about a thousand miles. The time is between six and seven times that of the fast trains between the two cities, and is a fair proof of what human legs do when there is a will to impel them. There was neither prize nor trophy in connection with the achievement, those who took part in it seeking only to see what, with their comrades' help, they could accomplish. Their sport was of the healthiest kind.'

Does Your Side Ache? With the first symptoms appear, rub with Nervine, rub it in deeply. It penetrates to the muscles and chords that are sore—takes away stiffness—removes all strain and inflammation. If the condition is chronic, put a Nervine-Porous Plaster on the affected spot. This draws out any virus or neuralgic irritation, restores the tissue to their wonted healthiness, permanently cures any weakness or tendency to pain. Nervine Plasters absorb all the deleterious secretions through the relaxed pores and when used along with Nervine itself, every muscular pain or ache must go.

The yearly cost of feed for the average dairy cow is about $30. Unless the income from the sale of her milk exceeds this amount, the cow is clearly not paying her way. The only satisfactory method of determining this question is by weighing the milk and testing the per cent. of butterfat it contains by the Babcock test. A cow that does not pay takes up just as much room as the profitable one. Sell the poor cow for beef.

Pain will depart in exactly 20 minutes if one of Dr. Shoop's Pink Pain Tablets is taken. Pain anywhere, Remember Pain always means congestion, blood pressure—nothing else. Over 35 Years. In 1872 there was a great deal of diarrhoea, dysentery and cholera infantum. It was at this time that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy was first brought into use. It proved more successful than any other remedy or treatment, and has for thirty-five years maintained that record. From a small beginning its sale and use has extended to every part of the United States and to many foreign countries. Nine druggists out of ten will recommend it when their opinion is asked, although they have other medicines that pay them a greater profit. It can always be depended upon, even in the most severe and dangerous cases. For sale by Rand's Drug Store.

To Secure Concerted Efforts.

A Missouri farmer, who had dragged his road faithfully for five years in the vain hope of persuading his neighbors nearer town to do likewise, began to reason that his example was ineffective because applied at the wrong end of the line. So he went to the farmer just outside the corporation limits and persuaded him to commence, then, proceeding along the highway, he induced thirty-five men to sign a written agreement to drag the road along their farms at least ten times during the season, and to keep the ditches and culverts open. This meant five miles of dragged road.

The signatures of the men were not hard to obtain. All were alive to the value of concerted effort. When a man was approached with the statement that arrangements had been made to have the road dragged from town to his line, it he would only do his part, he had to come down.

Some Thoughts and Findings on Alcohol. Sir Benjamin W. Richardson, the eminent English physician and surgeon, has left this testimony on record: 'I am recording a matter of personal history when I say that I, for one, had once thought of alcohol except as a food. I thought it gave additional strength. I thought it enabled us to endure mental and bodily fatigue. I thought it cheered the heart, and lifted up the mind into greater activity. I learned step by step, that the true action of alcohol is to create paralysis of nervous power.'

A young business man of splendid capacities, whose views on the temperance question were those generally held by so-called moderate drinkers, when told by his uncle, a wise and spirit merchant, that he had planned to retire from business, and desired to make arrangements with his nephew that he might carry on this well-paying concern, decided before accepting the offer to examine some temperance literature bearing upon the alcohol question given him by a friend. At our request he tells what he learned concerning alcohol.

I thought (and thousands are under the same impression to-day) that alcohol gave energy and strength. I thought every robust, healthy-looking moderate drinker was a proof of the strength giving properties of alcohol.

I thought the Bible commanded the use of alcoholic drinks because it spoke of wise cheering the heart of man.

I thought it was not right to abstain from alcoholic liquors simply because they were taken to excess by many persons.

I thought it was only the drunkard who should become an abstainer, he could not drink moderately, and that he was to be despised as a most ignorant and worthless creature.

I thought the immense traffic in alcoholic liquors must be beneficial to the trade of the country.

I have learned that the secret of the delusion is in its power to paralyze the delicate sense of nerves for strength. Experience showed that athletes, explorers in cold regions or workers in the hot sun have proved the advantage of abstinence.

I have learned that, thanks to his constitution, he is healthy in spite of, and not on account of, the alcohol, and that insurance companies have proved abstainers' lives to be longer and healthier.

I have learned that our alcoholic drinks cannot be reckoned God's good creatures. The grain, grapes, etc., are good, but the drinks are man's concoctions, and he does not hesitate to destroy the nutriment in obtaining strong spirit.

I have learned that the wines of Scripture times were very different to the alcoholic liquors of to-day; distillation was unknown, and there was not the craving for drink then, nor the necessity for total abstinence.

I have learned that it is only because that men should abstain for the sake of their tempted brethren; for the sake of trying to make the land—so blighted by drink—a little brighter.

I have learned that others should abstain that the drunkard might follow their example. I also have learned that in those days there are men and women educated as well as ignorant, with whom drunkenness is a disease, in many cases inherited. They cannot even sip an intoxicant without plotting themselves in the most terrible peril. Nature's abstinence is their only safeguard.

I have learned that an incredibly small number of hands is required for the manufacture and sale of drink as compared to that needed to produce the same amount of value in other employments; and of course, a much larger quantity of other manufactured goods would be required if it were not for the very large expenditure on alcohol.

In face of these facts and as a result of my investigations I could not accept my uncle's offer. —National Advocate.

A Pandora's Box. The following is taken from a judgment of the Supreme Court of the State of Kansas. 'Probably no greater source of crime and sorrow has ever existed than social drinking saloons. Social drinking is the evil of evils. It has probably caused more drunkenness and has made more drunkards than all other causes combined, and then all other causes combined, are all kinds of crime and sorrow. It is a Pandora's box, sending forth innumerable ills and woes, shame and disgrace, indigestion, poverty, and want; wretched happiness; domestic broils and bickering engendered; social ties sundered; homes made desolate; families scattered; heart-rendering partings; sin, crime and untold sorrow; not even hope left, but every-thing lost; an everlasting farewell to all true happiness and to all the nobler aspirations rightfully belonging to every true and virtuous human being.'
