BULK OF N. S. APPLES SHIPPED TO ENGLAND

1,673,442 Barrels of Apples Grown in this Province Last Year

That the Province of Quebec is the largest Canadian market for Nova Scotia apples, and that London still takes more of the Nova Scotia product than any other part in the world are facts disclosed in a detailed statement of the distribution of the 1924 crop, just compiled by S. H. Vroom, District Fruit and Vegetable Inspector for the Dominion Government.

The overseas market is shown to be the backbone of the apple-growing industry, approximately two-thirds of the last crop having been shipped abroad, almost entirely to British ports. The statement is:

ELECTRIC COMMISSION MEETS

J. C. Mitchell Appointed Superintendent of Electrical System

There was a meeting of the Electric Commission on Thursday evening last, at which all the members were present. These meetings, which are supposed to be held monthly, have been rather infrequent of late and the representative of THE ACADIAN in some way failed to connect.

The payment of bills is always an important item of business and the following were passed for payment at the Thursday evening meeting:

Canadian General Electric Co. 25.00

Graham Patriquin (metre reading) 8.23

Wallace Bartheau (metre reading) 7.00

Applications for the position of Superintendent of the Electric distribution system were read from: Allister Sangster, $1440; N. J. McDonald, $1248; Ora M. Haines, $1820; and J. C. Mitchell, who made two offers, one of $1400 for all work required, and one of $700 for the supervision of all work, reading metres, repairing service connections and transient breakages where not more than one man is necessary. When extra assistance is necessary this is to be paid for by the commission. Mr. Mitchell's second offer was accepted and on motion he was appointed.

The secretary was notified to inform the telephone authorities to discontinue the phone paid for by the town at the residence of the late superintendent.

The $5,000, sent by the Red International and Russian Miners Union, to the Miners of Cape Breton, have been accepted by A. A. McKay, District 26, Secy.-Treas. of the United Mine Workers.

TO COMPLETE PUGSLEY'S WORK

TOWN COUNCIL HAS LENGTHY SESSION

Vacancy Caused by Resignation of Coun. Mitchell to be filled by Election on May 28th.

The regular monthly meeting of the Council last evening was an unusually lengthy session and attended by much interesting discussion. Mayor Chambers was in the chair and all the Council members were present.

The chairman of the regular standing committees each presented a report of the expenditures made by the various departments during the past month.

Coun. Macpherson presented the financial report for April showing the receipts to have been $1553.32 and the expenditures $3250.67. At the end of last month the bank overdraft was $14,330.73. Town Clerk Ford reported that since May 1st, $3600 had been collected on account of this year's taxes.

The Clerk was instructed to write the County Home and poor authorities of the county to see if arrangements can be made for the accommodation there of certain cases chargeable to the town.

Concerning certain cases referred to at a former meeting to the Poor Committee it was reported that the committee had not been able to present any suggestions for the solution of the problem facing them because of living conditions existing in the town.

Applications were received from H. K. Whidden and C. C. Hancock for permission to erect gasoline tanks in front of their respective business places on Main street, and on motion such permission was given, subject to the rules of the Board of Fire Insurance Underwriters.

The resignation of Coun. J. C. Mitchell from his seat in the Council to accept the position of Supt. of the Electric System was read and accepted and the seat was declared vacant. It was decided that an election to fill the vacancy be held on May 28th with nomination one week earlier.

The Health Officer reported on case requiring sewer connection on Highland avenue, and recommended that the sewer be extended in that part of the town. No action was taken.

Considerable discussion took place regarding licenses to be charged those who are not retapayers who desire to do business in the town, and the following scale of fees was passed:

Selling meat or fish, $10.00 per month.

Plumbers, $25.00 per year.

Selling Clothing, $25.00 per week.

All others that come within the meaning of Section 7 and 8 of Chap 16 of the by-laws will be charged $10.00 per week.

The Clerk was authorized to purchase for the town a "Miller Tapping Machine" for tapping water-pipes under pressure. He was also instructed to place $5000 liability insurance of the steam roller with some good company.

On the motion of Coun. Porter, seconded by Coun. Mitchell, it was decided that "water-rates be reduced one-half to residents on Highland avenue on account of poor service outside the water district."

INTERESTING ENTERTAINMENT BY GIRL GUIDES

On Friday evening, May 1st, a large audience gathered in the Memorial Gymnasium to witness a very interesting display presented by the Wolfville Company of Girl Guides, fifty-five in number.

The program opened with roll-call, prayers and colour salute, after which a knot-tying contest, in which the six patrols participated, was carried on.

An exhibition of signalling drill was given in a very proficient manner, followed by country dancing.

At this point, the horse-shoe formation was taken and Mrs. McCallum Grant, Prov. Com. for N.S., enrolled Miss Kathryn Fraser, captain of the newly formed Company in Gaspareau.

Proficiency badges won by the Guides during the past year were then presented by Mrs. Grant, who heartily congratulated the Guides both on their appearance and on the efficient way in which they carried on their activities.

The Bobolinks, under the leadership of Maie deWitt, were then presented with the patrol shield, this patrol having won the greatest number of points during the last three months.

A sing-sing followed, around a very realistic camp-fire, and the program was brought to a close with the Camp-Fire Ceremony giving the Ten Lights of the Law.

After the singing of Taps, the audience was invited to inspect an exhibition of work done by the Guides who had won their naturalist, needlewoman, and military badges.

Trans-Atlantic passengers by air-ships are to be charged by weight, the rate from London to New York will be about one pound sterling for each pound that the passenger weighs.

GAME SANCTUARIES RECOMMENDED

By Representative Gathering of Western Nova Scotia Sportsman

An important and representative gathering of those interested in the preservation of game in Nova Scotia was held at Annapolis Royal on Friday afternoon last. The meeting was opened by Dr. Leslie Eaton, of this town, and Dr. W. B. Moore, of Kentville, an ardent sportsman, was appointed to the chair, with Mr. A. G. Guest, of Wolfville, acting as secretary.

A cordial welcome to the town was given by Mayor Hawkesworth, after which the chairman explained the object of the meeting as being for the purpose of discussing the establishment of sanctuaries in the interests of the preservation of game.

J. A. Knight, Commissioner of Forests and Game, gave an address and told of the changes that had been made during the past twenty years, and gave statistics as to the number of moose killed. While opposed to a close season for moose he felt that the time had come when further protection is needed, and thought the most practical method would be the establishment of game sanctuaries.

The following resolution was moved by Mr. R. W. Tufts, seconded by Rev. A. W. L. Smith, and passed unanimously: "Whereas, owing to the increased efficiency of firearms, and the growing number of those who hunt, it is advisable to give greater protection to the wild life of the Province, be it therefore resolved that this convention approve of the setting apart of game sanctuaries by the Parliament of Nova Scotia, and that copies of this resolution be forwarded to the Provincial Government and the members of the House of Assembly from the counties of Western Nova Scotia."

Rev. Mr. Smith spoke of game sanctuaries as a means of attracting tourists to our province, and Mr. Tufts and others presented various methods of prohibition, such as proper policing and other vital matters.

A very large number of those in attendance enrolled their names, those from this vicinity being: A. G. Guest, Dr. Leslie Eaton, H. D'Almeida, R. W. Tufts, J. H. Baltzer, Rev. D. B. Hemmeon, E. R. Redden, J. Elliot Smith, of Wolfville, and Charles O'Leary, of White Rock.

On the motion of Dr. Leslie Eaton it was decided that a committee consisting of two representatives from each county in Western Nova Scotia be appointed to look into the whole matter of game sanctuaries—their number, locality, size, etc., and report its findings at a convention of sportsmen and others interested at a date to be fixed later.

The committee to appoint representatives was composed of Fred Graham, R. W. Tufts and C. H. Allen, who named the following: Shelburne, James Power, Jack Bell; Lunenburg, J. Coffill, W. E. S. Langille; Cushing, Phil H. Moore; Digby, T. W. Lynch, E. Sullivan; Kings, Leslie Fair, Rev. D. B. Hemmeon; Yarmouth, Alan Patterson, C. C. Burrell; Annapolis, F. C. Whitman, A. D. Thomas.

G. D. Blackadar spoke of the location of sanctuaries and the financial part of the question. R. W. Tufts gave a short address on the diseases of grouse, and also on the Migratory Birds Act. C. Allen, C. C. Burrell, F. Graham, Alan Patterson, G. Blackadar and others took part in this discussion, and Dr. Hallatt moved a resolution that something be done to restrict dogs running through the woods, which was seconded by O. Balcom, and passed.

It was moved by Mr. Blackadar, and seconded by Mr. Tufts, that a message of thanks be conveyed to the Mayor and Town for their hospitable reception, and after deciding that the committees report at the Guides Association in August, if no other place or date is set, the meeting adjourned.

DEATH OF FORMER WOLFVILLE LADY

Word has been received of the death in Winnipeg of Miss E. Grace Bishop, daughter of Esty B. Bishop, at the age of forty-two years.

Miss Bishop had recovered from an attack of "flu" and returned to her duties as druggist in the T. Eaton Co. Winnipeg store, but falling ill again with pneumonia she was removed to Victoria General Hospital, Winnipeg, on April 16th, and died there on April 24th. Her brother, Morley, who had come from Strassburg, Sask., was with her at the end. The funeral service was held on Monday 27th from the First Baptist church, Rev. Charles McNay officiating. In his address, which was a fine tribute to Miss Bishop's life and influence, he referred to her as a member of "the old home church" (Wolfville Baptist) and spoke of her great unselfishness.

She was never so happy as when helping some one who was ill or in trouble.

Miss Bishop went from Wolfville to the West with her parents in 1905. She graduated from Manitoba College of Pharmacy in 1911, and since that time has been almost continuously in the employ of the T. Eaton Co., as druggist in charge of the poisons.

She is survived by two brothers, Walter and Morley, of Strassburg, Sask., both of whom were present at the funeral. The floral tributes were beautiful, including a large wreath from the drug staff and an anchor from the T. Eaton Company.

A number of uncles, aunts and cousins, in Wolfville and Greenwich, have been saddened by her death.

A granite column, 10 feet high, erected at Zebrugge to commemorate the most daring and heroic episode of the Great War, has been presented to Great Britain by the Belgians. The site of this column has been handed over to Britain forever.

Editorial

Our pulpits are our work clothes. Each of us live some kind of a sermon every day.

BUSINESS METHODS NEEDED IN PUBLIC AFFAIRS

NO MATTER who is responsible for the suggestion that Nova Scotia should at last be given a "business government", the proposition certainly sounds inviting. Given the same careful supervision that the average business concern receives, the problems which face this sea-girt province would soon vanish and its affairs generally "blossom as the rose". Only when the people of this country shall have learned to demand strict business methods in the conduct of their municipal, provincial and federal affairs may we expect to enjoy better conditions in our public life.

The idea that apparently prevails in too many cases that the "government" is some fairy god-mother possessed of unlimited wealth and that every citizen is justified in endeavouring to get all that he can out of it without giving any measure of compensation is responsible for a great deal of the mismanagement which prevails in connection with the administration of all our public affairs. Politicians win favor by lavish and unwarranted expenditures and the people generally, many of whom find it necessary to weigh carefully every item of their personal and family expenses, are willing to overlook the grossest forms of extravagance, if they or their friends are in consequence to participate in a little easy money.

We are confident that no level-headed business-man would permit his own affairs, or the affairs of any corporation in which he is interested, to be carried on in the manner in which the public affairs of the country are today conducted. It is indeed time that Nova Scotia had the advantage of a "business government", and the near approach of a general election makes the present a most favorable time for insisting that it be given. THE ACADIAN holds no brief for any particular political party, and is ready and willing to support any that is able to convince us that it is working for the public interest and the up-building of Nova Scotia.

LIGHTS MAKE TOWN ATTRACTIVE

ONE of the things referred to at the recent Board of Trade meeting by speakers who spent the past winter in Florida and gave their impressions of that country, was the prodigality displayed at winter resorts there in the amount of electric current used for lighting purposes as compared with the rigid economy in that commodity exhibited here. They claimed that the expenditure was a good one inasmuch as it created a favorable impression by making the southern towns attractive and easy to get about in, and that they were oppressed by the dark and dreary aspect which greeted them on their return home.

The matter is one well deserving of the attention of Wolfville people. The development that has been made in the past few years has worked a wonderful opportunity for a more general use of electric energy here, and we are certainly not reaping the advantage which we might in consequence. If the store fronts on Main street were lighted every evening as they might be, and residents were induced to keep their verandah lights burning, the appearance of the town would be greatly improved, and there is little doubt but that if reasonable concessions were made such a service might be procured.

For nearly six months we have been looking for the promised improvement in our street lighting system which has never come. It is to be hoped that by College closing time, and surely before the summer visitors begin to arrive, something may be done to provide necessary lighting facilities.

MOTHER'S DAY

MOTHER'S DAY, which we observe on Sunday next, is a fitting memorial to those who by their unselfish devotion and sacrifice have placed humanity under a heavy debt of obligation. The civilized world has progressed through the remarkable efforts of great men and women, who almost without exception have attributed their success to the start given them at their mother's knees. The world may acclaim and place its laurels, but mothers neither heed the acclaim nor glory in the wreaths as much as they do in the health and happiness of those dear to them who have been honored.

The widespread and spontaneous approbation given to the observance of Mother's Day is meaningful and deep-rooted. It is an idea that has won popularity because it appeals to everything that is worthiest in us. Arousing a thoughtfulness that we have allowed too long to lie dormant, it kindles recollections of childhood that are pleasant to remember. It recalls infinite obligations lavished without thought for repayment. The slight gifts which we can make in return on Mother's Day are slight indeed.

Yet it is worth while to have such a day, and the best use that we can make of it is to have the observance remind us that in the year stretching between it and the second Sunday of May next year we can do more than we have done to make a mother happier.

Mothers, thy sons and daughters bow down before thee. You give all, you endure all, you accomplish all. Your love is beyond all greatness.

POTENTIAL ASSETS

EVERY boy and girl in Wolfville and vicinity is a potential asset to the community in which they reside. The right development of this asset implies better schools, wholesome amusement, promising industrial and professional opportunity, and the environment which recognizes the developing power of youth and gives it a real chance. When you allow one of these young people to leave you may have lost a budding Howe—"a future great".

Do your part in making your community a better place for them to live and thrive in. Spend your money at home, where your dollar continues to do a hundred cents worth of work for the interest of boys and girls of Wolfville and the district round about—and incidentally to give you far greater returns both directly and indirectly than you could otherwise obtain for it.

"Individuals, industries and communities all thrive where there is team work, while the lack of it throws everything out of gear. Co-operation makes folks shake hands rather than fists and smile rather than frown. Progress follows co-operation."

WOULD NOT ALLOW DIVORCEES TO RE-MARRY

Thomas Vien, M.P. for Lotbiniere, has given notice in the House of Commons that he will move for an amendment to the divorce bill, that "in no case where a divorce is granted by an act of parliament or by the decision of any court in Canada shall either of the divorced parties have the right to remarry."

GREAT BRITAIN HAS RETURNED TO GOLD STANDARD

LONDON, April 28.—Great Britain has returned to the gold standard. This announcement was made by Winston Churchill, Chancellor of the Exchequer, in what is considered the most important budget statement of modern times. The restoration of the gold standard, dating from today, is put into effect by a special license to the Bank of England to export bullion, which will operate, pending formal lapsing on December 31 next of the 1920 Act prohibiting the export of gold bullion.

Chancellor Churchill faced a crowded House, his audience befitting the great occasion and including no less than eight former Chancellors. Apart from its leading feature, the return to gold, the budget was of vast importance, for it contained something for all classes—six pence off the income tax on earned incomes under 1,000 pounds for the middle-classes, alleviation in the super-tax for the wealthy, and a big scheme of contributory insurance for the working classes, which next year will give the widows of insured men ten shillings weekly for life, with five shillings weekly for the eldest child and three shillings for each other child under the age of fourteen, and also eventually old age pensions payable at 65 years, instead of 70 as now, and without any test as to means.

MOTHER

Lo! these are her hands, dear Mother of Love.

And I kiss them—see!
Wrinkled and worn, and weary with toil,
And yet, to me,
White and fair and sweet as the dawn,
Her two dear hands.

And lo! her eyes, dear Mother of Love,
That have watched and wept;
And through blind darkness and starless night
Long vigil kept,
While I slept in her arms or dreamed by her side,
Her dear, sweet eyes.

And lo! her hair, dear Mother of Love,
I treasure each strand;
White as the "snow," and softer than down,
Do you understand
This gray for me, these the years
Of pain?
Her beautiful hair.

O, Mother of Love, I bow at thy feet,
For thy soul so fair
Has bidden me pause at the end of day
And salute thee there;
Only to show my love thro' my tears,
And whisper a prayer.

A pear tree brought from England by Governor John Endicott, of the Massachusetts Bay Colony, in 1630, is said to be still bearing fruit on the spot it was planted at Danversport, Mass.

THE VILLAGE BLACKSMITH (1925 MODEL)

Under an ad for gasoline
The village smithy stands;
He's agent for the Jinx machine;
And several other brands.
He hasn't shod a horse for years,
For fear he'd soil his hands.

He wears a gold watch on his wrist,
A pearl pin in his tie,
His links are made of amethyst,
The finest he could buy.
There's not a thing the smithy wears
That doesn't please his eye.

Week in, week out, from morn till night,
He sees the autos come
With brakes that don't work right
And axles on the bum.
With gas, repairs, and grease and oil,
He makes a tidy sum.

He has a staff of skillful men
That number twenty-four
Who toil from six a.m. till ten
And sometimes even more.
The smithy never does a stroke—
He thinks that work's a bore.

The children coming home from school
Look in at the open door,
And laugh to see some city fool
Set up an awful roar
When called to pay some whooping bill
The smith has sealed him for.

He goes on Sunday to the Kirk
His mind quite free from cares,
Because his men are hard at work
With punctures and repairs.
And if the weather's fine and warm
The smith says grateful prayers.

Oiling—refilling—repairing,
Onward through life he goes,
And never once despairing.
So long as his income grows;
Each night the thought of someone dining Augments his sweet repose.

On Wednesday evening, April 29th, a large enthusiastic crowd of basketball fans enjoyed two good games at the local gymnasium, when Kentville played both the home team and Windsor. The first game was exceedingly clean and fast, in which Hantsport won from Kentville by a score of 28-11, it being their seventh consecutive win.

Then with very little time to recuperate, Kentville defeated Windsor by 24-9. This game was very interesting and "slightly rough".

DIARY OF SIMEON MICHENER

July 20th, 1850. Here we are ashore yet, and I suppose will be for a while. After I got well of my sprained ankle, I was taken sick, but am now getting better. It is very lonesome to be sick when one is far away from their friends and among strangers, at least I find it so. I hope I shall soon be able to go to work again, and then I shall feel more contented.

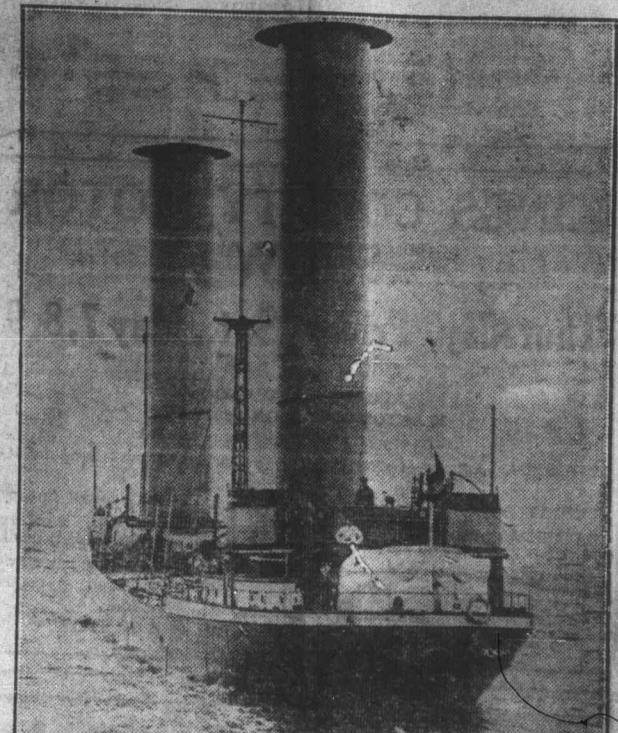

Aug. 25th. It has now been upwards of a month since I wrote any, and as I have neglected it I will now write some. I am at Grand River, Michigan, on board the schooner "John Lilly", waiting for a fair wind to Chicago. Curry and I shipped on board of her last month, on the 24th ult., and worked six days, when he was taken sick again and obliged to go on shore. We then went for a load of wood to a place on the lake shores, 20 miles north of Milwaukee; on returning found Curry still sick. We then came over here and took a load of plank for roads, to Southport; the Capt. stopping at Grand River, sick. Returning, could not find the place and had quite a cruise around the lake for five or six days. I feel lonesome today and would like to be at home, but I came up here to see some of the country and am determined to do so if possible, although it has been unfortunate for us in getting sick, but I hope to have better luck the rest of the season. Michigan, along the lake shore, is barren and sandy, but they say the interior is very fertile and that the crops this year are very abundant.

The end.
The next word that came was that Simeon was dead.

NEW TITLE FOR JERRY

Duke—What do you mean?

FAMOUS ROTOR SHIP MAKES SUCCESSFUL TRIP

The Flettner Rotor Ship "Buchan" which left Danzig recently, and arrived at Grangemouth, Scotland, twelve days later with a cargo of timber, is shown proceeding up the Firth of Forth. This novel ship weathered heavy seas which proved a good test for her capabilities. The Rotor ship is a new departure in ocean navigation. It puts to practical use a principle discovered many years ago that wind has a greater propelling force when acting on a moving surface. The large funnels are revolved by small electric motors, plus the action of the wind gives the boat its motive power. The vessel is steered by stopping one of the funnels from revolving. A very small crew can operate this boat compared with the crew necessary on the average steamboat or sailing vessel.

POTATO BREAD

The following recipes for potato bread have been so made as to use a large amount of potato as compared with flour. Excellent bread can be made with less potato. In making recipes it should be remembered that a pound of mashed potato contains about 1 1/2 cupsful of water and starch and other substances about equivalent for the purpose, to those in 1 cupful of wheat flour.

STRAIGHT-DOWN METHOD
Four 1-pound Loaves
3 pounds boiled and peeled potatoes (equivalent to about 3 1/2 pounds water and 3 cups flour).
2 1/2 pounds bread flour.
1 1/2 level tablespoons salt.
3 level tablespoons sugar.
1 cake compressed yeast.

Sponge Method
Four 1-pound Loaves
3 pounds boiled and peeled potatoes (equivalent to about 3 1/2 pounds water and 3 cups flour).
2 1/2 pounds bread flour.
3 level tablespoons salt.
2 cakes compressed yeast.
4 tablespoons water.

Clean thoroughly and boil, without paring, 12 potatoes of medium size, allowing them to become very soft. Pour off the water, peel and mash the potatoes while hot, being careful to leave no lumps. Take 3/4 pounds, or 5 solidly packed half-pint cupfuls of mashed potato, and when at the temperature of lukewarm water add to it the yeast, rubbed smooth with 3 tablespoonfuls of lukewarm water. Rinse the cup in which the yeast was mixed with another tablespoonful of water and add to the potato. Next add the salt, the sugar, and about 4 ounces of the flour, or 1 scant half pint of sifted flour. Mix thoroughly with the hand, but do not add any more water at this stage. Let this mixture rise until it has become very light, which should take about two hours if the sponge is at a temperature of about 86° F. To this well-risen sponge, which will now be found to be very soft, add the remainder of the flour, kneading thoroughly until a smooth and elastic dough has been formed. The dough must be very stiff, since the boiled potato contains a large amount of water, which causes the dough to soften as it ferments. Therefore add no more water to the dough unless it is absolutely necessary. Set back to rise until it has trebled in volume, which will require another hour or two. Divide the dough into four parts, mold them separately, and place in to it the salt, 4 ounces of flour (or 1 scant half-pint cupful), and the yeast, rubbed smooth with water, reserving 1 spoonful to rinse the cup. In the morning add the remainder of the potato, the sugar, and the rest of the flour. Knead thoroughly until a smooth and very stiff dough is formed. Set away at 80 to 86° F. for about two hours, or until the dough has trebled in volume. Make into 4 loaves and proceed as in the straight-dough method.

Personal Mention

Mrs. C. G. Newcombe, who has been spending the winter in the United States, returned home last Friday.

Mr. Cecil Thompson was in town Saturday evening on his way to Yarmouth, having been transferred to the Bank of Montreal there from the Halifax branch.

At the annual meeting of the Provincial Chapter, I.O.D.E., held at Halifax on Tuesday, Mrs. J. E. Smith and Mrs. H. W. Phinney, of Wolfville, were appointed members of the Council.

Miss McElheny, who has been a resident of Wolfville for the past four years, left last week for Halifax, having resigned her position here. During her residence in Wolfville she made many warm friends who regret exceedingly her departure from our town.

Mr. F. C. Gilliat, of the local Entomological staff, motored to Annapolis Royal last week and returned on Friday with Mrs. Gilliat and their children, Hortense and Courtney. They will occupy an apartment at the home of Mrs. C. Elderkin for the summer.

Mrs. R. D. G. Harris has rented her apartment to Mr. R. H. Flewelling and family, who recently came to Wolfville from Sydney, and with her daughter has taken an apartment at Evangeline Cottage for the month of May. They intend moving to Boston next month.

Mrs. Wheaton, of Sackville, N.B., is a visitor at the home of her son, Mr. A. M. Wheaton, Summer street. She is on her way home from Boston and vicinity, where she spent the past year visiting relatives and friends, and will spend a few weeks here before continuing her journey.

It was with a great deal of regret that the many friends of Mr. R. G. Hughes, the popular accountant of The Royal Bank, learned of his transfer to Truro, but they congratulate him, however on his well deserved promotion to the accountantship of that important branch. Mr. Hughes left for Truro on Monday afternoon, and before he left was presented with a set of military brushes by his fellow members on the staff of the local branch. His place has been taken by Mr. P. T. Chapman, of the St. Stephen N.B. branch.

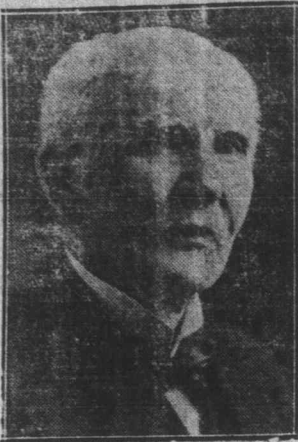

Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Crawley are visiting in Winnipeg, where their son Sidney and their daughter Dorothy—Mrs. Michols—are residing. Mr. Crawley has been allowed two months leave of absence from his duties at the post office and expects to be away during that time. Many Wolfville friends will join THE CADIAN in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Crawley a pleasant visit and a safe return.

Miss Ferne Woodman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Woodman, of Wolfville, has completed a six months post-graduate course in Occupational Therapy at Walter Reed General Hospital, Army Medical Centre, Washington, D.C. On completion of this course Miss Woodman was appointed on the staff of teachers. When permanent buildings are completed at Walter Reed Hospital, they will form the finest institution of the kind in the world.

At the National Academy of Sciences, meeting at Washington, D.C., Monday and Tuesday, April 27 and 28, one of the papers was presented by Mr. Karl E. Mason, (B.A. Acadia 1921) of Wolfville, son of Rev. E. S. and Mrs. Mason. Mr. Mason is completing his course of study this spring for the degree of Ph.D. at Yale. During his four years at Yale, he has been holding an Assistantship valued at about one thousand dollars. He is to be engaged during the coming summer in a study, with one of the Yale Professors, of one of the problems in connection with tuberculosis.

One of the students of this year's graduating class in Newton Theological Institute is Mr. Merle H. Mason, (B.A. Acadia, 1922), son of the Superintendent of United Baptist Home Missions, Rev. E. S. Mason and Mrs. Mason, of Wolfville, N.S. The Newton Institute has recently awarded Mr. Mason a scholarship valued at about four hundred dollars or more. This will enable him to take a year of further study in a British University, perhaps in Edinburgh. This award is considered a mark of appreciation of the superior class of work done by him in his course at Newton. His friends will congratulate him on the distinction and will wish for him a very delightful year of study in the Old Country.

We have a good assortment of Mother's Day Cards at 10 and 15 cents. THE ACADIAN Store. The familiar whistle of the S.S. Prince Albert was heard on Monday, when she made her first trip from Parrsboro this season. Rev. Noble Crandall, who has been spending the winter at Pittsburg, Pa., with his daughter, has our thanks for a recent copy of the Sunday edition of the Pittsburg Gazette Times. Mr. A. M. Wheaton returned on Monday afternoon from a brief visit to Montreal, where he had gone to consult a specialist regarding his physical condition. His many friends are glad to know that no serious condition was reported by the doctor whom he consulted and who is recognized as the best authority in his department on the continent.

THE MISSION TO LEPERS

The Rev. H. N. Konkle, Canadian Secretary of the Mission to Lepers, gave a very interesting and instructive description of the work of this body at a meeting in St. Andrew's church school room on Wednesday afternoon. The Mission is fifty years old. Its object is to provide for the spiritual, mental and physical care of lepers and to assist in bringing about the extinction of leprosy. There are but nineteen known cases of leprosy in Canada. These are cared for by the state. It is estimated that in Japan there are 40,000. In China there are 500,000 and a million and in India about the same number. There are at least 1,000,000 lepers in the world. They need shelter, food, clothing and medical treatment. A very important part of the work of the mission is to rescue the untainted children of the lepers and bring them up in clean surroundings. The mission works at 95 stations in thirteen countries. In its own 46 asylums and 27 aided asylums there are 7,700 lepers and 600 untainted children. The mission is providing teaching at 22 other asylums where there are over 9,000 lepers. Mr. Konkle will make another visit to Wolfville, when it is hoped he will be able to meet many more people, make a wider appeal and obtain more help for this great international and inter-denominational work.

GASPEREAU PLAYERS AT HANTS-PORT

HANTS-PORT, May 6.—Under the auspices of the GasperEAU Women's Institute a play entitled, "Aaron Slick of Pumpkin Crick" was presented in Empire Theatre last night to a fairly good sized audience. Every number of the programme brought forth rounds of applause, and each part was well taken.

MRS. JAMES ARNOLD

The death occurred at her home at Amherst, last Thursday night, of Mrs. James Arnold, aged 73 years. She was a daughter of the late Samuel H. Bishop of Wolfville, and was married to Mr. Arnold fifty years ago last September. Besides her husband, she is survived by two daughters, Mrs. George Sutherland of Dorchester, Mass., and Mrs. W. B. Carty, of Amherst, and two sons, Archie in Vancouver, and James in Los Angeles. A sister, Mrs. E. D. Manning, resides in Greenwich.

INTERCOLLEGIATE TRACK MEET

FREDERICTON, May 5.—Acadia University has accepted an invitation to participate in an intercollegiate track and field meet here with University of New Brunswick on Monday, May 18. JACK PICKFORD HAS FILMLAND'S FUNNIEST

Three Celebrated Screen Comedians Support Star in "The Hill Billy" Jack Pickford used three of the funniest men of filmland in his latest photoplay, "The Hill Billy", which comes to the Orpheum Theatre next Wednesday and Thursday. Two of the comedians are of the old school, having been starred in their own rights for several years by various motion picture companies in Hollywood. Billy Franney, who has been starred by Universal, Fox, Triangle, Mack Sennett, and at one time had his own producing unit, plays one of the leading comic roles in Jack's most recent Allied Producers and Distributors Corporation release.

Harry Todd, another well known comedian, who a few years ago was starred by the Broncho-Billy Comedy Company, enacts one of the funny roles in the Kentucky mountain picture. Snitz Edwards, who plays the part of the cub reporter, potary public and justice of the peace, has played with nearly every big star of the day. He is also working in Douglas Fairbanks' new picture, "The Thief of Bagdad". "The Hill Billy" is an original tale of the by-gones in the Kentucky mountains, written by the young star, his famous sister, Mary Pickford, and Marion Jackson, the writer. George Hill directed the picture.

The Canadian dollar was quoted at a premium in New York this week.

"What do we do for, I wonder?" asked Piccolo later, as they sat by a roaring fire and devoured flapjacks and scones and spilled hot tea. "There's no worth in it."

"No, that is so," agreed Angus. "We do it for the fun of the thing."

Piccolo raised his head and stared. "Ay, man, we do," said Angus. "Every one of us is in touch with the general in our searching for our earthly Colombos and Eldorados. You know that thing of Edgar Allen Poe's: 'Over the mountains of the moon, Beyond the valley of the shadow, Side boldly ride, the Shade replied, If ye seek for El Dorado.'"

He sighed and stretched and drew off his shoes, and took out the insoles all very carefully, like an old maid, and hung them on forked twigs to dry before the fire.

"Grand to have dry feet," he said. "We are getting along fine. Get your feet warm and it is wonderful how it improves the whole man. Here's a splendid shelter for us. It is more cosy than anybody who has not done the job of this would imagine. Just a bit of a hill against the wind and a screen of trees; and he suddenly broke again into verse:

'Confide ye eye in Providence,
For Providence is kind,
And bear ye a life's changes with a calm and tranquil mind.
Though penned and hemmed on every side,
Ha'e faith and ye'll win through,
For lika blade o' grass keeps its ain drap o' dew.'

is the phrasing of that too Scottish for the sentiment to reach you? It's a real bit of sentiment, Pic."

"I understand it all right," said Piccolo. "It's fine and dandy. Your Rabby Burns wrote it, I suppose?"

"You may well be excused for supposing so," said Angus, "when there are mounted Scotsmen who would suppose the same. Ay, ay. Even in the face of a avalanche of rock slide, and many a previous thing, I cannot make myself believe that by and large, as the sailor bodies say, it is not a good world, a grand world; it is all most mysterious, but splendid and wonderful at base. Ay, gadding! We'll know the meaning of it all some day."

Piccolo did not seem to understand. He sat staring at Angus as though he thought him a little bit "queer."

Socks and insoles dry again, Angus put them on—and in—and went along the timber edge to survey the land before them. He returned to report:

"We're facing south now, Piccolo. We're easy over the ridge of the mountain runs down to the main lake. I doubt we have another spur to circumvent before we get on to a creek running down to the West Arm."

"And more of these places to cross?" asked Piccolo, not as one fearful, Angus thought, but as one desirous to know the worst so as to be ready to face it.

"Maybe we'd better to work down to 'Maybe we'd better,' said Angus, "to lose the time that it would take entirely to circumvent them; maybe we'd better to work down to the bottom of each, and even break through the timber. Now that we have no pack-trail, and only can pack a limited supply of grub, time is the essence of the contract; but by the same token we could get through the dense timber better easier than with a horse."

"We'd better take time," agreed Piccolo. "Going along right over the tops here, we might do your Jack and Jill game and both feed the coyotes down there. What's that?"

His eyes, staring towards the place to north where they had crossed the slopes, focussed on two black dots moving under the cornice.

"Goat?" queried Angus, and then told himself: "No, man! Goat would be white."

He unblinded out his binocular glasses and focussed them.

"They seem to have known better than us what it was like on the tops here, Pic," he said. "They both have woolly caps on like Arctic explorers. Try your eyes on that. You'll have to re-focus, for your eyes will be stronger than mine. See what you can make of this Nansen and Stefansson outfit."

Piccolo took the glasses.

"Why!" he exclaimed. "It is the man Hawke in front and—it's that man in brown who moved to him with the knife and fork." He kept the glasses upon them. "They've come to the end of the cornice," he reported.

"What have they stopped for?" asked Angus.

"I guess they've come to where we did that toboggan on our packs and they can't see any more 'ice steps.'"

"No, to be sure they won't see any steps! That snow-slide would cover up the last at the other side, and, at this side, even the marks of where we kicked along."

"I guess they think we got under the avalanche," said Piccolo. "They can't have seen our smoke or they wouldn't have come so close on our heels."

"They may think they can intimidate us in the midst of these solitudes up here into telling just where we are going."

Suddenly Piccolo leapt to his feet and gasped.

"Look! Look!" he cried.

Another hanging cornice, of frozen snow topped; and, as the snow slides from a roof, so from the long acres of the sloping shelf above, the snow at once slid. The broken cornice crashed on the two dots of men up there and the avalanche followed.

"One of them's engulfed!" ejaculated Angus.

"No. That's his pack!" shrieked Piccolo. "He let it go. There, he's gone now. Oh, Oh, he's covered!"

The snow ran, crisp and dry, in layers, like flat waves, down the slope. They overstepped, one upon the other; they rushed forward and down. It was, to those two up there, like having their feet knocked from them by a ton weight, sliding raft. The snow shot down, fanning to north of the knoll that Piccolo and Angus had reached. Trees were rent and crashed. There was a rumble of large boulders. Then the very powdery snow followed, billowing and puffing over the slope.

And then nothing—just the serene ridges, tooth-edges of rocks showing through the snow, pinnacles too abrupt to hold snow in the sun rays.

Suddenly Angus, gazing heavily across that scene again so quiescent, exclaimed: "There was a third one! They brought another man with them. Look yonder!"

Piccolo looked at him to see the direction of his eyes, and turned the glasses to the place.

"Gosh!" he said. "He's lost his nerve, that one. He's seen it all. He's seen what they got up against. He's sitting down."

"Let me see," said Angus, and took the glasses that Piccolo, still staring at the lone man across the slide, surrendered to him with a sidewise motion of his arm.

The truth was that Angus's sight was keener than Piccolo's, despite his age. He decreased the strength of the focusing, and peered.

"Give me your shoulder to lean on, elbow on, Pic," said he. "My blood beats so that I get off the mark."

Piccolo stood before him, and Angus steadied an elbow on the young man's shoulder as he gazed.

"Ay, you man is either hit by some bit of rock or ice, or is overcome by nothing but his feelings. That's all right—he's rising. He's looking up at the eaves again. He's stopped. He's turned back. There, he's gone from sight. And now," he turned round, "do you know our duty, Pic?"

"No."

"To see if we can get these two out. We must work down to the bottom of the slide and see if they got under it, or if they were sent sliding away on the surface of it. Now mind, we'll not kill ourselves doing this. But we will do our best. After all, men are men, in the high mountains or in the deep seas. We have no snow-shoes and we cannot go in soft snow. I was whelmed once in but twelve feet of snow and fought in it, to climb up, like a squirrel on a wheel. But we must see if they were shot down on the surface, and are lying injured at the foot. We'll take a blanket rope to hold between us, so that the one of us testing the way ahead can be pulled out by the other if he gets in over-deep snow."

The whole butt-end of the slide they could see in one glance as they turned the hill below. It must have taken them a couple of hours to make a quarter of a mile round the edge of that deep snow. They had to feel every step at some places. At others they worked themselves along by grabbing the branches of the trees, the top branches, that would be high above reach when the snows were all melted.

Intent upon their progress, step by step, they did not, for some time, look ahead. A whistle attracted them simultaneously, and there was a man on snow-shoes dragging what seemed at first glance like a sleigh along the lower flare of the slide. He signed to them to stay where they were, raising his hand and throwing the palm forward toward them.

"He'll do it on snow-shoes," observed Angus. "Where are the glasses? I have got them again. Man, Piccolo, it's the Kokanee policeman!"

The policeman came to their side of the avalanche, his snow-shoes sinking to a foot where the snow was still powdery, at others with but a silt of snow between the meshes.

"I couldn't search him out there, on the snow," were his first words. "He's a member of a gang of crooks, and it would mean a whole lot to me if he had any papers on him—letters—anything. I want to know more about them in the worst way."

"There was another man," said Angus. The policeman shook his head. "We must work down to the bottom of the slide and see if they got under it, or if they were sent sliding away on the surface of it. Now mind, we'll not kill ourselves doing this. But we will do our best. After all, men are men, in the high mountains or in the deep seas. We have no snow-shoes and we cannot go in soft snow. "What's wrong?" asked the policeman. "Something wrong with your partner?"

"Oh, it's just the altitude affecting him," said Angus, casually.

The policeman went on with his search, culling, as well as a pathetic pipe and a knife, to be used no more, a sheaf of letters in a wallet.

"Well," he said, rising from his knees, "these two fellows were after you all right. That man Hawke we had our eye on. Anything crooked: a poker joint; a bootlegging outfit—anything crooked for Hawke. You spoke to MacBride at the compressor on the way up, and when he saw Hawke and this man going on to the mine he phoned me, thought I'd like to know. I asked him why, and he said he had a hunch. So had I then. I remembered your partner, waltzing round this fellow, and I knew they had that between them, whatever else. Hawke made me think there must be more. What was the trouble?"

"You'd better come over to our camp and I'll tell you all I know," answered Angus.

"Maybe these letters I have will help to tell something too," said the squarely built policeman with the humorous and grim mouth, and the face like smoky ivory.

those tears burning and bitter. When I grew very tall and self-sufficient, again she hid her tears and prayed that I might be spared the harvest of folly. Those tears are now pearls in my crown of manhood. Only God and mother know what those pearls cost them. But I am certain the only tears she would have me shed now are tears of joy for such a mother to love and honor this Mother's Day.

My Mother's Smile was my first glimpse of heaven. If the heaven I experience along the way and find at the end of the journey has in it as little censure and as much mercy, as little regret and as much joy, as little despair and as much hope, as I found in her smile, she will be heaven indeed. Nothing I can ever do can fully repay the love shed abroad in my life unless I walk the way she taught me and meet her at heaven's gate wearing the smile she brought me. I am resolved to begin now and wear it and try to be worthy of her and it this Mother's Day.—Rev. Claude Allen McKay, D.D., Springfield, Mass., U.S.A.

PORT WILLIAMS AND VICINITY

Miss Hazel Dodge, of the Academy staff, spent the week end with her cousin, Mrs. A. N. Coulstan.

Miss Mildred Logan, of Halifax, is visiting her aunts Mrs. A. K. Gates. Miss Irene Gates has returned home from Boston, where she spent a most enjoyable two weeks, visiting relatives and friends.

The ordinance of baptism was received by two candidates (young ladies) on Sunday evening in the United Baptist church.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fales and son Lee, of Kentville, were the guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Coulstan.

Mrs. Leverett Meister, of Church Street, is reported as being on the sick list.

The funeral of the deceased, Mrs. Donald Chase, was held from her late residence, Belcher Street, on Friday last at 2 o'clock, the Rev. Dr. Hemmeon in charge of the service. Dr. Patterson of Acadia University offered prayer. The music consisted of a violin solo by Mrs. W. H. Thompson, with piano accompaniment by Mrs. J. D. Chambers. "In the Garden," a favorite hymn of the deceased. The gifts of flowers were very beautiful. The Girl Guides were in attendance from Wolfville as well as Port Williams. Mrs. Chase being very much interested in this work. She will be greatly missed from the community.

Mr. Robert Keddy and wife have moved into the Wm. Norton house, now the property of Mr. A. K. Gates.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. MacKenzie moved to Wolfville on Wednesday, May 6th, and are occupying the house belonging to Mr. Herbert Stairs.

The Women's Auxiliary of St. John's church met on Tuesday, May 5th, for their regular monthly meeting in Parish Hall, Church Street.

The new baptistry which was placed in the United Baptist church of Port Williams, about one year ago, was presented by the Harris family, in memory of their father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Judson Harris, whose home was on Belcher Street, the place now owned and occupied by Mr. Ralph and the Misses Peryle and Susie Lingley. Four daughters of the Harris family are now residing near each other in California, and they are the ones who have contributed most to this memorial. The plate bearing the memorial inscription arrived recently and has been put in place on the baptistry. Mr. and Mrs. Judson Harris were one of the leading families who became interested in the building of the Baptist church in this place.

Mrs. Frank Saloom, Jr., who has been very ill with quinsy, is able to be around again as usual.

An Operetta, entitled "The Wishing Well", will be presented to the public on Friday evening, May 8th, at 8 o'clock, in Temperance Hall. It represents a "Romance of Old Ireland" given as a musical comedy, and the cast is wholly of local talent. Admission 25c.

Mrs. S. L. Gates is confined to her home with a serious attack of bronchitis.

Mrs. Harry Neary spent Sunday with her cousins at North Corner, Canning. She was accompanied by her cousin, Miss North, who was Mrs. Neary's guest the past week.

The service at the church here, Sunday afternoon, with the children's choir, was enjoyed by those present, also the pastor's sermon.

A number from here attended the service at Baptist church, Port Williams, Sunday evening, one of the candidates, baptized at that service being one of our own girls.

Considerable interest seemed to be manifested in our last week's puzzle contest, and nine solutions were sent in from Wolfville, Avonport and Port Williams. However, only three solutions were correct. First place goes to Miss Laura Boates, and second to Reg. Northover. Will these please tell us to whom they would like to have us send THE ACADIAN for six and three months respectively. The other correct solution was sent in by Miss Gladys Kinné.

This week we are going to give our readers in Greenwich a chance, and this week's puzzle contest will be open only to them.

Exports of Canadian butter to Germany during the past few months have shown a large increase, and heavy shipments are still going forward.

cover the season well, and be of good to very good quality, if such trees are available.

Early Summer—Two of the hardiest and best early summer apples are Tetofsky and Yellow Transparent. Tetofsky is the better in quality for eating, but is rather small and bears only every other year. The Yellow Transparent is the best for the home garden. Crimson Beauty, a highly coloured variety and hardy, is very early but is inferior in quality.

Summer—The principal summer apple for commerce is the Duchess of Oldenburgh, and this is a very reliable sort for home use as well, but the quality is not good enough for a dessert apple. For the home garden the Melba, originated at the Experimental Farm, Ottawa, will, it is believed, soon take the place of the Duchess. The Lowland Raspberry is a Russian variety of good quality. In some parts of the Maritime Provinces, Williams Favorite does well and it is good in quality.

Autumn—The Wealthy is the outstanding autumn variety for the home garden, as it comes into bearing early, the trees bear heavily and the fruit is good both for eating and cooking.

Early Winter—The Fameuse and McIntosh are the two most desirable varieties for home use of this season, and if only one is planted it should be the McIntosh. Where it will succeed, the Cox Orange Pippin is an excellent sort for home use, but this is not suitable for the colder sections. Grimes Golden is also a good one.

Winter—Where they will succeed, some of the best winter apples for the home garden are Tompkins King, Northern Spy, and Delicious, but the last variety, on account of its mild flavour, is not very suitable for cooking. For the colder sections there are no good hardy late keeping apples to compare in quality with the above, but Bethel, Scott Winter and Golden Russet all keep well and are among the hardiest.

The crop report issued by the Bank of Montreal under date of April 30th, has the following to say concerning conditions in the Maritime Provinces:

Conditions in the Maritime Provinces generally are favourable, the season is about two weeks earlier than last year but the ground is cold and seeding has not yet started. This year's potato acreage will probably be 25% less than last year. Apple trees have wintered well.

FACTS ABOUT TEA SERIES—No. 6

Appearance of Tea No Guide

The only way to test tea is to taste it. Many people have the idea that a finely rolled and tippy tea is superior in flavour to a large rough leaf. In reality this is not of necessity the case. The altitude at which the tea plant grows determines the amount of essential oil and alkaloid theine in the leaf. The essential oil gives tea its flavour; the theine contributes the stimulating value. The only way to insure always receiving a uniform quality is to insist upon a skilfully blended and scientifically sealed tea like "SALADA" whose reliability, goodness and delicious flavour have become a household word.
